ROMANIA ON THE FENCE IS LATEST WORD

Its Intervention Depends on the "Strategic Situation" in the Balkans.

By Special Wire to the Courier.
Milan, Italy, Nov. 7.—Via Paris, Nov. 8.—There is no longer any probability of a ministerial crisis in Roumania, says the Bucharest correspondent of The Chronicle. The interventionists in Roumania, he asserts, agree with the government that military action must depend on the strategic situation in the Balkans.
Majority of the people of the nation believe that inasmuch as Roumania is virtually surrounded by fighting forces, her entry into a war would mean the useless sacrifice of a reserve of men upon which the Entente might count when the sea route, the only sure road for military supplies, again is opened.
One of the chiefs of the interventionists is credited with having said that everything indicates, Roumania's military aid will decide the Balkan war and that this help will be offered at the most propitious moment.
Paris, Nov. 8.—Premier Briand of Roumania, desirous of obtaining the views of members of parliament on the international situation before the opening of the coming session is holding individual conferences with them, says a Havas despatch from Bucharest. All the members seen thus far by the prime minister, it is reported, have agreed with him that the government is following the wisest course in maintaining neutrality, for the present at least.

Hun Cruiser is Torpedoed

By Special Wire to the Courier.
Berlin, Nov. 8, via London.—The small German cruiser Undine, has been torpedoed and sunk by a submarine off the Swedish coast, it was officially announced.
The Undine was a protected cruiser of 2,672 tons displacement, 328 feet long and 15.8 feet deep. Her armament consisted of ten 4.1-inch guns and two 18-inch torpedo tubes.
"The small cruiser Undine," says the official announcement, "was sunk by two torpedoes from a submarine on the afternoon of November 7, while patrolling the south Swedish coast. Nearly the entire crew was saved."

THREE TO CONDUCT WAR

By Special Wire to the Courier.
New York, Nov. 8.—A news agency despatch from London published here today, says:
England has adopted a new policy for conducting the war, according to the Evening News, and a council of three will hereafter have complete control of operations. They are:
"Premier Asquith, acting temporarily as Minister of War."
"First Lord of Admiralty Balfour."
"Minister of Munitions, Lloyd George."
Foreign Minister Sir Edward Grey, it is stated, will sit with this triumvirate whenever British foreign policies are involved.

AMERICAN FEDERATION OF LABOR OPENS CONVENTION

uel Gompers Called Meeting to Order This Morning at San Francisco—Delegates Present From Canada and England.

By Special Wire to the Courier.
San Francisco, Nov. 8.—Hundreds of delegates representing more than 2,000,000 organized laboring men of the United States were here today at the opening session of the thirty-fifth annual convention of the American Federation of Labor, which is to continue for two weeks. Samuel Gompers, president of the organization, opened the convention. In addition to the regular delegates, several delegates from Canada, Great Britain and possibly Japan expect to participate in the deliberations of the convention.
The opening session today was held in the California building at the Panama-Pacific Exposition, where official recognition of the organization was accorded by exposition officials.
The business to be transacted today was limited, including only the report of the committee on credentials, the appointment of various committees and the submission in preliminary form of the reports of the officers and members of the executive council.
The day's program included addresses of welcome by Governor Johnson and Mayor Rolph, of San Francisco.
Presentation of the annual report of the executive council featured the opening day of the 35th annual convention of the American Federation of Labor, which opened today for a two weeks session. President Samuel Gompers presented the report which pronounced the year past the most momentous in the history of organized labor and one of extraordinary stress for the labor movement, testing as it had its very existence.
Describing the effects of the war upon organized labor, and American customs and institutions, the report deals at length with attempts by interests of belligerent European nations to interfere with the peaceful pursuit of American industries. High tribute was paid the workmen of the nation through whose patriotism, the report says, these plans have perished and the movements so far have been futile.
"The efforts to use the workmen of our country have been of two kinds," the report says, "one to get through them the endorsement of the foreign policy to place an embargo upon so-called munitions of war, the other has been to stir up industrial conflicts and disputes and thus interfere with the actual process of production so that products to be sent abroad may be stopped. Foreign agencies have been trying to corruptly reach some of the organizations of the workers but they have not succeeded."
The holding of a world's labor congress at the same time and place that peace delegates meet when the war is ended, is recommended in the report as "necessary in order to infuse the spirit of humanity and democracy into this political conference."
Attention is also called in the report to the work of the United States commission on industrial relations, Chairman Walsh and the Labor representatives Messrs. O'Connell, Lennon and Garretson, are praised for their "judgment and determination

WITH CROWDS, CHEERS, WHISTLES AND BELLS, CITY WELCOMED THE EIGHTY-FOURTH BATTALION TO-DAY

Came Up This Morning by G. T. R. Special, and Detained at Alford Junction, Marching Via Cainsville and Col- borne Street to Market Square Where Mayor and Aldermen Gave Reception—Immense Crowds Lined the Route of March From Cainsville In.

Brantford city turned out today and gave to the 84th Battalion a magnificent reception. The crowds all along the route of march was tremendous in size, practically the whole place stopping work for the time being to see the men come in.
Crowds were also in from the country.
It was not until 9 o'clock this morning that word was received here as to the exact time of arrival. The word was then sent on that the battalion was coming up via G. T. R., detaining at Alford Junction, and then marching to Cainsville and up the centre of the city by way of Colborne street.
No sooner had this news been posted by bulletin service, than from all over the city people began to gather along the route of march. The schools were dismissed, and the children added their numbers to the already large crowd. All the way from Cainsville to the market square, the sides of the road were black with people. Flags and banners were out in abundance, and everywhere signs of the patriotic fervor which has been manifested in so many ways during this war were again shown.
The men came up by G. T. R., detaining at Alford Junction. The rest in Hamilton, coupled with ideal weather, made them look wonderfully fit. They swung along in fine shape to Cainsville. They were in full marching order, and all happy as kings.
Meanwhile the Mayor, aldermen, W. F. Cockshutt, M.P., J. H. Fisher, M.P., W. S. Brewster and J. H. Ham, M.P., in motor cars ran out as far as Cainsville to meet the soldiers. They met Col. Stewart, to whom they gave a hearty welcome, while the word ran down the line and cheer after cheer rose from the ranks. This reception over, the motor cars arranged themselves at the head of the line and all came into the city together.
It was a wonderful sight for the soldiers to see the dense crowds watching their arrival, and it was no less wonderful for the people to see the soldiers. Brantford has sent away hundreds of her sons, and the sight of khaki clad men about the streets is no strange view. But the men coming in were different. They were fresh from months of camp life, they were fully armed, and they were in heavy marching equipment. For the first time in this war, this city caught a sight of soldiers practically armed and equipped as they are when they enter the trenches.
Another reason existed for making the entrance a memorable one. Nearly all the soldiers who were marching during the last few weeks, belong to the 84th. People gathered along the curb side, watched with extraordinary interest to catch sight of brother or father or son or friend.
On the soldier's side was the interest no less keen, and the sound of happy greetings arose, all the way to the market square.
The procession was headed by all the local overseas force, with the Dufferin Rifles Band. Following them came the 84th. The whole route of march was decorated with flags while the men themselves had little flags on their hats, in their belts and on their guns.
The crowd, particularly from the G. T. R. tracks to George street, was immense. Thousands upon thousands of people gathered in the small space and as the 84th came past they broke into repeated cheering. The route was to Market and thence into the square. Just as the men reached Dalhousie street, as if at a pre-arranged signal, the fire bell rang, factory whistles and bells clanged out their welcome, and from the crowd came renewed and enthusiastic buzzes. The effect was magnificent. It was as if the whole city had become one swelling roar of sound to show its approval of the visitors.
The men were lined up on the Market Square and then a few words of welcome were uttered by Mayor Spence. The Mayor stated that as Mayor of Brantford, he had welcome to the officers and soldiers; their record had been good and he was sure the city would never regret the coming of the men, or the men themselves would never be sorry they had come. "The city is at your disposal," he said.
Mr. W. F. Cockshutt, M.P., made a brief speech of welcome also. "Your coming will be an inspiration to the formation of the Brant battalion. Young men on the side lines, fall in line and join your brothers in the 84th." Mr. Cockshutt's address was received with great cheering.
Mr. J. H. Fisher, M.P., also gave a short address of welcome. He said he would give them greeting for the part of Brant County not mentioned by Mayor Spence and Mr. Cockshutt. "Come up to Paris and we'll show you the best time, the prettiest town and the prettiest girls you ever saw," concluded Mr. Fisher, amid tremendous cheering.
Col. Stewart called upon the men to give three cheers for the city, which was done with vigor. They then marched to the armories and put aside their equipment and then returned by companies to the dining hall for dinner.
The officers were entertained at dinner by the city.
The motor cars preceding the parade, carried among others, Mayor Spence, Col. Leonard, Aldermen Cuff, Bragg, Pitcher and Dowling, Mr. W. F. Cockshutt, M.P., Lieut. Ashton Cockshutt, Mr. Brewster, Mr. J. H. Fisher, M.P.

HUNS REGRET WHITLOCK'S DEPARTURE

By Special Wire to the Courier.
Washington, Nov. 8.—Secretary of State Lansing announced today that the German military authorities in Belgium had expressed to American Minister Brand Whitlock their regrets that published reports should have made it appear he was leaving Belgium as a result of objections from the German Government.
Mr. Whitlock was assured that the German authorities regretted his departure.
Secretary Lansing added that no official communication of any sort had passed between the Berlin and Washington Governments, respecting Mr. Whitlock's status. Mr. Whitlock will sail from Amsterdam on Wednesday of this week for a vacation due to ill-health.

NINE HUNDRED IRISHMEN REFUSED SAILING FROM LIVERPOOL DOCKYARD

By Special Wire to the Courier.
London, Nov. 8.—Referring to the refusal of the Cunard Company to permit 900 Irishmen of military age to sail from Liverpool on Saturday, The Manchester Guardian says:
"For a country whose population has been halved by misgovernment while England's has doubled, the response of Ireland to the call to the colors has been creditable. Many men who on Saturday were taunted at Liverpool must have had relatives at the front."
"Of 600,000 men of military age said to be left in Ireland, fully two thirds are engaged in agriculture from which enlistment has been discontinued; and when allowance is made for munitions workers and the unfit, the recruitable margin is not great."
The Guardian says that "for a sadly long time" the Irish have had to seek a livelihood in America, and adds that it cannot be expected that in this time of depression the movement will be stopped fully.

Ships Sunk in Mediterranean

London, Nov. 8, 4.30 p.m.—The British armed merchantman Tara, was attacked and sunk in the eastern Mediterranean by two German submarines, on Friday last, according to an announcement made this afternoon by the official press bureau. The text of the announcement follows:
"On the 6th instant His Majesty's armed boarding steamer Tara, Capt. Rupert Watkinson Williams, was attacked by two enemy submarines in the eastern Mediterranean and sunk. Thirty-four of the crew are reported missing."

SNOW IN WINNIPEG.

By Special Wire to the Courier.
Winnipeg, Nov. 8.—Snow fell last night in Winnipeg and most of Manitoba and the ground here is covered two inches deep. This morning with snow falling, the storm in this city tied up public utilities. Street car service was disturbed during the busy hours, the water works and the electric systems are cut off and many telephones are out of business. Telegraph wires west of Winnipeg are not working. There was snow also in parts of Saskatchewan.

MUST CONSIDER QUESTIONS ON PRACTICAL BASIS OF WAR

Attitude of London Press on American Note is That Great Britain is Engaged in a Life and Death Struggle and Winning is the Thing.

By Special Wire to the Courier.
London, Nov. 8.—The attitude taken by the London morning newspapers in commenting on the American note is generally that although the points raised in the note are all open to argument Great Britain's position is that she is engaged in a life and death struggle, and therefore has to consider all questions on the practical basis of winning the war; that such a world war is bound to carry some inconvenience to neutrals, but that as far as is possible she will contend with doing everything in her power to win the war, she is careful to do as little as possible to injure the interests of neutrals.
It is also contended that neutrals, having failed to act when the Germans contravened in the law by sinking neutral ships and ships with neutral passengers it was necessary for Great Britain to take some action.
"The Daily Mail" says:
"Our people are so engrossed with the war that it is doubtful whether they have yet clearly realized the intricacy and delicacy of the problem which has arisen in this connection between Great Britain and the United States."
"These problems are attracting a great deal of attention, and we gather, causing some feeling in the United States. Very much more is likely to be heard from them during the next few weeks."
After quoting the American arguments, The Daily Mail says:
"From this it is a very strong one—is that the orders-in-council were in reply to Germany's repudiation of all international law. The power which wickedly torpedoed neutral ships and ships with neutral passengers, and which sowed the sea with mines showed complete indifference for those neutral rights of which the United States declares itself the unhesitating champion. We waited for the neutrals to act, and as they did not act we acted ourselves in the interests of humanity. The doctrines that we applied are in essence, those laid down by the United States courts in the civil war. They are applied to the new condition of modern warfare, but their adaptation does not simply contravention of principles. If in the civil war the United States ships generally searched vessels at sea, there then were no torpedoes, no submarines, and no mines spread broadcast on the open water."
"Conceding that Great Britain observed the blockade in the civil war, of which Professor Soley said: 'The principle is not a new one though a novel application has been made of it to meet a novel combination of circumstances,' and John Thos. Scarle, the confederate historian said: 'There was no effective blockade of any confederate port and yet England respected the blockade which produced such distress at home, rather than aid to the confederacy, whose corner stone was slavery.' The Daily Mail concludes:
"The Americans are a just people. We should ask them to think over these words and at the same time to consider whether our submarine blockade recently instituted in the

Major Moraht Names the Allied "Surprises"

By Special Wire to the Courier.
Berlin, Nov. 8.—(By Sayville wireless)—The statement of Premier Asquith in his recent speech in the House of Commons, that the war had brought surprises to all, elicited today the following comment from Major Moraht, the military critic:
"The 'surprises' were the German

By Fall of Nish

Bulgarian Forces and Austro-Germans Are Now Solidly United.

By Special Wire to the Courier.
London, Nov. 8.—The fall of Nish has united solidly the main Bulgarian forces and the Austro-German armies advancing from the north. Hitherto their communications consisted merely of tentative reaching out of the Bulgarians and their allies now hold considerably more than half of Serbia and command the Nish railway, which has been one of the chief objectives of their campaign. From Nish the Bulgarian line now runs north in a slight curve, enclosing the Morava river to Krivir, where it turns the main Austro-German forces. From that point the invaders lie turns at a right angle and runs due west across the broadest part of Serbia.
The rough semi-circle made by this line is still contracting, and as it does so, according to German reports, is taking a heavy toll of Serbian prisoners.
In southern Serbia the fortunes of war are less auspicious for the invaders. There the Bulgarians apparently have received a severe check from the Serbians, assisted by French and British troops.
No official confirmation has been received however, of a decisive defeat of the Bulgarians, who are attempting to advance into Mace-Monia through Babuna Pass. South of Strumitza, the French are fighting on Bulgarian soil.
The crisis occasioned by the resignation of the Greek cabinet has been temporarily, and if the chamber of deputies accepts the new Skouloudis ministry the present status may be continued indefinitely with no change in the announced policy of Greece now reiterated, of benevolent neutrality.
On the eastern front severe but indecisive fighting continues before Eiga and Dvinsk. The offensive movement of the Russians in Galicia, along the Stripa has been halted for the present, and the long battle in that region has ended. There are no new developments of importance on the other fronts.

NEW YORK COMMENTS ON LATEST NOTE

Reflects Exactly American Sentiment and Describes American Purpose.

By Special Wire to the Courier.
New York, Nov. 8.—The New York morning papers comment editorially on the American note to Great Britain as follows:
The Sun—"The note in the moderation of its tone, its logical progress and its marshalling of evidence throughout the European war, American sentiment and describes accurately American purpose. We stand upon the law and demand that Great Britain shall obey that law; and in this the administration only expresses the will of the American people."
The World—"On such a showing of outrage as is here made, the terms of the American protest which are lawyer-like throughout, must be regarded as exceedingly temperate. To gain a military advantage more or less important, Great Britain has become a grievous offender against the opportunity of state on Saturday by the neutral of the earth, it has not killed Americans; it has killed American rights. It has done more than seize American property. It has seized the opportunity this wantonly gained to extend its own trade. * * * If even a gleam of sense can penetrate Downing street, the British Government must soon perceive that unless it changes its methods its own accounts will have something to do presently."

The Herald—"Not by a policy of expediency, Mr. Lansing urges, but by the established rules of international conduct should the relations between the two governments be governed. The European war, existing before the outbreak of the present world conflict the government of the United States rests its right of neutral commerce it will bring to bear the full strength of its diplomacy. For fullest reparation for the damage done to American commerce it will insist with its full strength."
The New Yorker Staats Zeitung—"A very clear, able argument, free from all sentimentality, business-like, convincing. But it does not contain the slightest hint as to what our government intends to do should Great Britain say in answer—"We are of a different opinion," and then proceed without further ado to continue the practices, called illegal and unwarranted "to which the United States can no longer submit." We shall have to exercise patience and wait to see whether England will descend to "instruct its officers" to cease the lawless methods heretofore practiced. Probably we shall be able to submit a bill for damages after war, and that seems to be the only purpose of these diplomatic writing exercises."

FAREWELL SERVICE BY THE REV. MR. LESTER

Yesterday Morning Members of His Church Presented Him With Wrist Watch and Purse—Large Crowd Saw Him Off Last Night to Join Ashton's Brigade.

Mr. Lester had the pleasure of receiving and administering the holy rites of the Anglican Church to two new members. This he assured the congregation, coming on the last Sunday of his sojourn in their midst, gave him great pleasure indeed, and was very inspiring.

At the conclusion of this impressive ceremony, which is always a source of great satisfaction to any minister, Mr. Lester gave a brief but touching address to the congregation, basing his remarks on the 12th verse of the 6th chapter of the 1st Epistle of St. Paul to Timothy. "We must fight the good fight of faith."

Mr. Lester, while expressing great regret at the necessity of his leaving, said he believed that it was his duty to go to the front, that it would be a shame if he, having received the offer of the position of chaplain of the 3rd brigade, refused the opportunity of ministering and giving words of counsel to the men, many of whom were going out to face death.

Mr. Lester said he didn't know where he could have found a more loyal band of workers than those he had been associated with at St. Luke's church, and he believed it was due to their efforts, the loyal and generous help of the congregation, for the remarkable advancement made by the church in the past two years.

Mr. Lester spoke very highly of the many who had already gone from his church to fight for liberty and freedom, and only feared that he was not capable enough to fulfil his mission; to minister the last rites to those who lay bleeding and dying on the battlefield. He knew there would be harrowing scenes, and had been praying for strength to stand them. He asked all the members of his congregation to meet together as often as possible to pray for the British cause, to pray for the safety of loved ones, and also to pray that the necessary grace might be given to him to do his duty. If, said the pastor, we could only realize the danger our friends are in, we as real Christian people would be only too glad to hold private prayer. We need to pray, and although the outcome rests in the hands of God, let us pray with all our hearts that His will be done.

Mr. Lester said he hoped it would not be long, when, by the grace of God, he might be privileged to return, that the allies might be crowned with victory, and they then might together, loyally and lovingly, as in the past, take up the good work. It is, said Mr. Lester, a case where we must fight the good fight of faith. All sorts of things arise, things we know we ought to do, but yet we lag behind. Let us not be shirkers, but take home to ourselves the necessity of fighting the good fight of faith.

Mr. Lester was assisted at the service by the Rev. Mr. Stout, who will have charge of the services for a few Sundays.

At the conclusion of the service, Mr.

ST. ANDREW'S REMEMBERS THE SOLDIERS

At Close of Last Night's Service Church Members Receive Presents.

Last night, after the service at St. Andrew's church, Rev. J. W. Gordon presented soldier members of the congregation, who have enlisted, with razor sets on behalf of the church. Mr. Gordon made a very fine address to the men, telling them that they were going to pay back the Germans for deeds done to the Belgians, for the murder of Miss Cavell, but most of all for the horrible massacre of Armenians by the Turks. Men going to the front were doing a noble duty. After the presentation, the choir sang in splendid form the anthem, "Soldiers of Christ, Arise."

Celebrated Anniversary of Reformation

St. Matthew's Lutheran Church Commemorates 398th Birthday of Luther's Revolt.

Before one of the largest audiences in the history of the church, a congregation that taxed St. Matthew's Lutheran church to its capacity, it celebrated the 398th anniversary of the Protestant Reformation. Rev. Prof. Preston A. Laury, Dean of the New Seminary at Waterloo, was the speaker for the evening, and a powerful and forceful sermon, brought out some of the events that led up to the Reformation, and showing the religious freedom that resulted from the same. The speaker told his audience to place faith in none but Christ, not in the traditions of men, not in the human laws of the church and the world, but only in Jesus Christ. He also told the people, that in this awful crisis, through which they were passing, they were to do everything possible for their country, and above all to be absolutely loyal to king and government, for they were not to be abiding by the teachings of the Lutheran church.

Prof. Laury made a special appeal to the members of the congregation and the Lutherans of Brantford, to support the acting pastor, Mr. F. W. Otterbein, who was making great personal sacrifices of time and money to foster Lutheranism in this city, and to take some of the burden off his shoulders.

Mr. Otterbein, spoke in support of Home Missions, especially for our great Canadian Northwest and a large offering resulted. As the large crowd passed out many pleasing and congratulatory remarks were heard and it proved that Lutheranism in Brantford is not doing so badly.

From time to time, some of the noted men of the Lutheran church will be brought here, of which due announcement will be made in the newspapers.

The Local Commissioner, Rev. C. V. Lester, on behalf of the Boy Scouts of the district, begs to thank Mr. Frank Cockshutt for the use of 257 Colborne street as headquarters.

Messrs J. M. Young & Co., for donating the blinds for the office, and Aid. W. J. Bragg for his generous and timely gift of a gas heater. In the recent efforts on behalf of the British Red Cross, the Scouts did excellent work, putting up posters and selling tags. In the latter work, Grace Church troop was the most successful. Individually, Vincent Cutmore of the same troop headed the list, though Carl Hedderley, Bell View troop, ran him a close race. The following badges have been awarded, some having qualified months ago, others during the last week: and class, Lloyd McCutcheon, Jack Partridge, R. Allen, W. Spring, all, C. Chilo, M. Elliott, Cyclist, L. McHutchison, J. Partridge, Gardener, C. Child, W. Springall. The following badges have been granted as scoutmasters. Rev. S. E. McKegney, Messrs H. J. Todd and R. R. Jarvis; as assistant scout masters: Messrs R. A. Henwood, H. Guenther, R. Ritchey, and F. Box. Mr. J. Harradine has been appointed by the commissioner, to act as scout master of St. Luke's troop, and will be assisted by Mr. Harry Guenther. St. Andrew's troop is again definitely connected with Trinity church, and is numerically stronger than ever. Grace Church troop is gaining an excellent reputation for itself, thanks to the rigorous discipline maintained by Asst. Scoutmaster R. A. Henwood. Bell View troop, though living at a distance, is forward in every patriotic endeavor. St. John's troop is steadily increasing in strength.

After nine months hunt, the former town clerk of Haverstraw, N.Y., has been arrested for embezzlement; Wm. B. Cleary was acquitted once of murder of his son-in-law. Dr. J. Corwin Mabey went shooting pheasants with Rev. Dr. T. Travis at Montclair, N. J.; it cost them $400 for shooting two.

GAS, HEARTBURN INDIGESTION OR A SICK STOMACH

Time! Pape's Diapessin will digest anything you eat and overcome a sour, gassy or out-of-order stomach within five minutes.

If your meals don't fit comfortably or what you eat lies like a lump of lead in your stomach, or if you have heartburn, that is a sign of indigestion. Get from your pharmacist a fifty-cent case of Pape's Diapessin and take a dose just as soon as you can. There will be no sour risings, no belching of undigested food mixed with acid, no stomach gas or heartburn, fullness or heavy feeling in the stomach, nausea, debilitating headaches, dizziness or intestinal griping. This will all go, and, besides, there will be no sour food left over in the stomach to poison your breath with nauseous odors.

Pape's Diapessin is a certain cure for out-of-order stomachs, because it takes hold of your food and digests it just the same as if your stomach wasn't there. Relief in five minutes from all stomach misery is waiting for you at any drug store. These large fifty-cent cases contain enough "Pape's Diapessin" to keep the entire family free from stomach disorders and indigestion for many months. It belongs in your home.

After nine months hunt, the former town clerk of Haverstraw, N.Y., has been arrested for embezzlement; Wm. B. Cleary was acquitted once of murder of his son-in-law. Dr. J. Corwin Mabey went shooting pheasants with Rev. Dr. T. Travis at Montclair, N. J.; it cost them $400 for shooting two.

BIRTH OF A NATION

Scores a Notable Success at Grand Opera House—Production All Should See.

The justly famous "Birth of a Nation" pictures attracted two large and highly pleased audiences at the Grand Opera House on Saturday afternoon and Saturday night. They are by far the most notable achievement yet recorded in connection with the movies, and have throughout the States and Canada deservedly been presented to bumper houses.

The scenes open with the depiction of a happy Southern home and its members, and then the leaving of three of the sons to battle against North in the devastating civil war. Many engagements are depicted with remarkable vividness, including Sherman's march to the sea, and so intense is the presentation that the on-lookers become carried away with the feeling that they are looking at the actual scenes. Lincoln is the one figure of the period to be limned prominently on the remarkable canvas. His tall, gaunt figure, is shown just as pictures have handed it down, amid scenes of executive activity, and in one pathetic incident, when the Southern mother successfully pleads for the life of her boy sentenced to be hanged for alleged espionage. The restoration of peaceful scenes in the South affords a pleasing contrast to the arduous struggle, and then comes the assassination of Lincoln—the best friend of the beaten Southerners, whom he would have no harsh measures adopted. The Ford theatre in Philadelphia is reproduced to the life with a play in progress in the presence of a brilliant audience. Then comes the entrance of the president with his wife and party, the "receptors rising en masse as the distinguished visitors occupy a front box. Next the firing of the fatal shot by James Wilkes Booth, an actor, and the uproar of the crowd, with women swooning.

Following the war, there came the trouble in the South over the voting of the colored people, and the Ku Klux society was formed among the whites, the adherents disguising themselves and their horses in white, and going on their missions with covered faces. The tragic incidents of this period are also presented. At the close pictures are given of the educational institutions now in vogue for the colored folk, colored troops on parade, and so on.

The entire presentation is of such continued and thrilling interest that the spectators become literally lost as to place and time consumed. The completeness of the production is greatly enhanced by the work of a magnificent symphony orchestra of thirty pieces, which accompanies the presentation. Their program in itself constitutes a musical treat seldom heard.

The presentation is here for three more days, Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, with another matinee on the last named date. Without doubt, the attraction is one which every one should see.

Obituary

There passed peacefully away at her home in Cainsville on Monday, Nov. 8th, Mrs. H. Westbrook, beloved wife of William Duncan, aged 71 years. The late Mrs. Duncan was a daughter of James and Lavine Westbrook, born at Langford, and a granddaughter of Major John Westbrook, belonging to one of the oldest pioneer families of Brant County and her passing will be mourned by a large circle of relatives and friends. She leaves to mourn her loss besides her husband, two daughters, Miss M. E. Duncan, Supt. of Isolation Hospital, Port William and Mrs. Arthur J. McCann, and four grand children and one brother, Mr. Truman Westbrook of Langford. The funeral will take place from the home of her son-in-law, Mr. A. McCann, Cainsville, and full arrangements have not been completed.

Our Opening Day proved a Big Success and our Special Reduced Prices will be continued all present week.

WAR MANIAC WHOSE BLOOD HAS BEEN LET
 Such is Germany, According to Correspondent—Her Huge Casualty List.

New York, Nov. 8.—Germany's enormous losses in the fighting—chiefly on the Russian front—toward the close of September, losses since doubled, if not trebled, by the offensive on the western front and in the campaign against Serbia, are the subject of comment in a letter published yesterday from Horace Green, special correspondent of the evening Post written from Berlin on Oct. 3. Mr. Green writes:

"To-day Germany is like a feverish patient to whom the leech has been applied—the war maniac whose blood has been drained, worked for some time trying to get the proper figures of this blood-letting.

"I found the answer on the walls and corridors and written in the files of the War Office just around the corner from the Neue Willmetstrasse. Here the casualty lists have been compiled up to Oct. 2. By the newspapers, which are not much more than official bulletins, there is little said about the extent of the losses, and the War Office neither calculates nor encourages their calculation. In fact, copying and republishing the lists in German papers is strictly forbidden. But for the names of friends and relatives the names of individual dead, wounded, and missing are systematically and honestly posted each day during severe fighting.

"The German casualties for the single week ended Oct. 1, were 61,955. In other words 61,955 German citizens or more than 8,850 a day, have been killed, wounded or taken prisoner during the last seven days of Russian warfare. Since it takes a week or more to compile the reports from the front these figures can have no connection with the great fight of this week along the western front, where, during the renewed English-French offensive it is said that the losses were three times greater than any similar period of the war.

"The seven days from Sept. 23 to 30, inclusive, were not above the average of the past two months. I took the figures because they were the latest and the most easily available. On each column were 120 names, thus: Johann Schmidt, Carl Broediger, Rudolph Haenker; and after each name, 'slightly wounded (severely wounded missing, dead)'. In Sept. 30 there were seventy-two columns of names, making a total of 8,640 losses. On Sept. 29, there were sixty columns, giving 7,200 names; and the losses for the other days of the week, from Sept. 28, 9,000; Sept. 27, 8,625; Sept. 26, no list posted; Sept. 25, 7,080; Sept. 24, 8,810; Sept. 23, 8,700.

"By far the greatest losses were sustained by the Prussians. It is reported that the Prussians alone have lost more than 2,000,000 men up to this date. In all cases the losses for the other days of the week, figures were grouped separately. In certain instances companies and even entire regiments were wiped out. A random example is the Third Company of the Sixty-third Prussian Infantry, which lost 246 men. A company's war footing is 250. Of these 34 were 'erfallen' (killed outright), 43 severely wounded, the remainder slightly wounded. Not a man was captured.

CANUCKS HAVE HAD A WEEK OF HEAVY RAIN
 Report From the Front Shows Several Officers and Men Have Earned Medals.

Ottawa, Nov. 8.—Major-Gen. Sir Sam Hughes last night received the following despatch from the Canadian general representative in France: Canadian General Headquarters in France, Nov. 7.—The period from Oct. 30 to Nov. 5 has been marked by a series of heavy rains. Creeks and streams have swollen into small rivers and low-lying grass has been converted into swamp. The wet weather and conditions generally have resulted in a week almost devoid of unusual incident.

"At times the enemy artillery has shelled certain sections of our area more or less vigorously, but in most instances prompt retaliation by our artillery has silenced the hostile fire. On Oct. 29 a shell from our artillery exploded a bomb depot in the German front trench.

"All reports indicate that the enemy working parties have been particularly busy repairing damage to their trenches caused by the heavy rains, and are bailing out the water.

"On several occasions hostile working parties have been dispersed by our fire. A few enemy troops have ventured out at night to repair the German wire entanglements, but in the majority of instances our patrols succeeded in locating them and driving them back to their trenches.

"On Nov. 4 an enemy aeroplane was brought to earth between the opposing front line trenches. Pursued and attacked by three British airmen while flying over our area and heavily shelled by our anti-aircraft guns, the German machine suddenly capsized, and turning over three times in the air crashed to the ground.

"Lieut. A. W. North, of the 28th Western Canada battalion, has been awarded the Military Cross for gallantry on the occasion of the explosion of a German mine on Oct. 8th, and Pte. B. Crompton, of the 28th battalion, has been awarded the Distinguished Conduct Medal in connection with the same affair.

"Sergt. C. Ryer, of the 26th N.W. Brunswick battalion, has been awarded the Distinguished Conduct Medal for bringing in a wounded man under heavy fire on Oct. 13th.

"Lieut. J. G. Anderson, of the 5th Western Canadian battalion, has been awarded the Military Cross for useful and daring reconnaissances.

BREAK A CHILD'S COLDS BY GIVING SYRUP OF FIGS

When your child suffers from a cold don't wait; give the little stomach, liver and bowels a gentle, thorough cleansing at once. When croup, fever, hiccups, listless, pale, doesn't sleep, eat or act naturally; if breath is bad, stomach sour, give a teaspoonful of "California Syrup of Figs," and in a few hours all the clogged-up, constipated waste, sour bile and undigested food, will gently move out of the bowels, and you have a well, playful child again.

If your child coughs, snuffles and has caught cold or is feverish or has a sore throat give a good dose of California Syrup of Figs to evacuate the bowels no difference what other treatment is given.

Sick children needn't be coaxed to take this harmless "fruit laxative." Millions of mothers keep it handy because they know its action on a child's stomach, liver and bowels is prompt and sure. They also know a little given to-day saves a sick child to-morrow.

Ask your druggist for a 50 cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," which contains directions for babies, children of all ages, and for grown-ups plainly on the bottle. Beware of counterfeiters sold here. Get the genuine, made by "California Fig Syrup Company."

$6.75 to $7.00; roughs, $6.15 to $6.25; stags, $5.00 to $5.75.
 Sheep and lambs—Receipts 10,000 head; active and steady; lambs, $6.00 to $9.50; yearlings, $5.00 to $7.40; wethers, $6.25 to $6.50; cows, $3.00 to $5.75; sheep mixed, $5.75 to $6.00.

KRUSEVAC TAKEN BY THE TEUTONS
 German Report Shows That Troops Are Fifty Miles Northwest of Nish.

Paris, Nov. 8.—French troops have occupied Kosjak and Babuna heights, which command Pletvar Pass through the British contingent in the right wing and are expected to effect a junction soon with the Serbian army occupying the northern slope of the Babuna range, says a Monastir despatch to the Morning Post.

THE DANUBE OPEN.
 London, Nov. 8.—A despatch to the Times from Bucharest says: "According to news from Sofia, the French offensive against the Bulgarians is proceeding surely but slowly because of the difficulties of the terrain in the sector northeast of Strumitza. Kachaly and Metelisy were occupied on the 5th, and the opening of the Danube causes great satisfaction to the Roumanian agricultural interests, which have suffered heavily since the war began, owing to the detention of this and last year's harvest in consequence of the closing of the Dardanelles."

OFFENSIVE PROCEEDING.
 Salonki, Nov. 7, via London, Nov. 8.—The French offensive against the Bulgarians is proceeding surely but slowly because of the difficulties of the terrain in the sector northeast of Strumitza. Kachaly and Metelisy were occupied on the 5th, and the opening of the Danube causes great satisfaction to the Roumanian agricultural interests, which have suffered heavily since the war began, owing to the detention of this and last year's harvest in consequence of the closing of the Dardanelles."

HUN SUB IN AEGEAN
 Tokyo, Nov. 8.—The Japanese steamer Yasumi Maru was on its way to Salonki when it was sunk by a German submarine near Gibraltar on Wednesday. It had been chartered by the British Government.

Berlin, Nov. 8.—The Serbian town of Krusevac on the railroad about 50 miles northwest of Nish, has been occupied by German troops, according to to-day's official statement given out by army headquarters staff.

TORONTO HAS LOST VETERAN CITIZEN

T. R. Whiteside, Former M.P.P., Succumbs to Attack of Typhoid Fever.

Toronto, Nov. 8.—Thomas R. Whiteside, former member for East Toronto in the Legislature, passed away at his home, 99 Oriole Road, early yesterday morning, after an illness of several weeks, death being due to typhoid pneumonia.

The late Mr. Whiteside was one of Toronto's pioneer citizens, having been born in the city over 71 years ago. At the time of the Fenian Raid he joined the Queen's Own Rifles, and saw service against the Fenians at Ridgeway. Mr. Whiteside took an active interest in politics and education. He served upon the Toronto public school board for 16 years, representing old St. Andrew's Ward. In 1908 he was the choice of the Conservatives of East Toronto for "B" seat and won handsily at that election. In 1911 he was re-elected and represented the riding until dissolution preceding the election of 1914, when he retired from public life.

Deceased was an Anglican, a member of All Saints' church and a Past Master of King William L.O.L., No. 140. He is survived by two sons and four daughters, Garnet N. and H. P. Whiteside, of Toronto; Mrs. S. W. Kelly, Buffalo; Mrs. J. A. Johnson, Mrs. A. E. Wilson and Miss Margaret Whiteside of Toronto.

NEW SHIPPING SCHEME NOT VERY POPULAR

Morning Post Denounces It as "Plan Devised Without Thought or Inquiry."

PROPER REMEDY IS TO RESTRICT IMPORTS

Its Ethics is Unsound, as It Calls Upon Owners to Repudiate Contracts.

London, Nov. 8.—The government's new shipping scheme, of which the most important points are the prohibition of the carriage of cargoes by British ships between foreign countries, and a provision for the government requisitioning of ships to carry food stuffs to Great Britain, is denounced by the Morning Post as "a plan devised without thought or inquiry—a policy which may disorganize the whole overseas carrying trade." As to requisitioning ships for the carrying wheat, the Morning Post says:

"If the government requires ships to turn to the service of one trade, they diminish the ships available for all other trades, and so create a shortage there which will be immediately reflected in high freights and prices—individual ship-owners may be penalized, but ship owners as a class will get back in one direction more than they lose in another."

Concerning the proposition to forbid trading between foreign ports, the Morning Post continues:

"The proposal is not merely ineffectual but fantastic, for the carrying trade between ports is essential to the economic working of the shipping industry. The inevitable result moreover, would be to divert all foreign ships now engaged in trade with the United Kingdom ports to foreign trade, inasmuch as a desperate shortage in that latter trade would push those freight rates up enormously and nearly a third of our overseas trade is carried by other than British ships. The only proper remedy for the shortage in tonnage, the Morning Post declares, can only be found in the restriction of British imports. It suggests that if ammunition and food stuffs are given preference importation might be forbidden of tobacco, wool or other commodity, of which the stocks in Great Britain are ample. Otherwise," continues the newspaper, "the ill-considered steps now being taken will lead inevitably to the hopeless task of the government managing the entire British mercantile marine—a task which the government is at pains now to disavow and which would certainly lead to reduction by half of the efficiency of this shipping industry."

In the opinion of the Morning Post however, the gravest objection of all to the project is that the new regulations really do enjoin all British owners to obtain power to repudiate all contracts entered into by them for the carriage of goods if called upon to do so by the government. Such a step, the newspaper says, would paralyze the overseas trade.

CANADIAN FORCES NOW AT THE FRONT

Details Reach Ottawa Concerning Composition of New Corps.

Ottawa, Nov. 7.—Additional details have reached Ottawa regarding the composition of the Canadian forces at the front and in training in England. The new Canadian army corps is composed of the first and second divisions which are complete in themselves, and the corps troops, which consist of Lord Strathcona's Horse, the Royal Canadian Dragoons, two brigades of Canadian Mounted Rifles, the Royal Canadian Horse Artillery, the Royal Canadian Regiment of Infantry, the 42nd Montreal battalion, and the 49th Edmonton battalion. Gen. Alderson, as already announced, commands the corps. Among those attached to his staff is Major C. H. L. Beatty, D.S.G., a brother of Admiral Sir David Beatty.

Included in the Canadian training division in England are the troops of the Cavalry depot, the reserve brigade of field artillery, the Eaton Machine Gun Brigade, Canadian Engineers training depot, four brigades of infantry, the army service corps training depot, various hospital and Canadian Army Medical Corps units, army veterinary units, ordnance corps units, a postal detachment and other small but important details.

The cavalry depot is in command of Lieut.-Col. R. W. Paterson, 34th Fort Garry Horse. Lieut.-Col. E. W. Rathbun, 9th Canadian Field Artillery Brigade is in command of the 6th reserve brigade of field artillery which forms the Canadian Artillery depot of the training division. The Canadian Engineers training depot is in command of Lieut.-Col. J. J. H. Houlston, Halifax, N.S.

For their more effective administration and training the reserve infantry battalions of the Canadian training division have been organized into four

THE WHOLE BODY NEEDS PURE BLOOD

The bones, the muscles, and all the organs of the body depend for their strength and tone and healthy action on pure blood.

If the blood is very impure, the bones become diseased; the muscles become enfeebled, the skin loses its elasticity, and there is inability to perform the usual amount of labor. The skin loses its clearness, and pimples, blotches and other eruptions appear.

Hood's Sarsaparilla makes pure blood. It is positively unequalled in the treatment of scrofula and other humors, catarrh, rheumatism, dyspepsia, loss of appetite, that tired feeling. Be sure to get Hood's and get it today. All druggists.

DECORATIONS FOR WOMEN

Honorable Orders Within Their Reach in Various Countries.

It is common complaint among women that, whatever heroic deeds they may perform in war or peace time, they cannot win a memento such as that bestowed on the male sex for signal acts of valor. This, however, is scarcely correct. There is, for instance, the Imperial Service Order, founded by the late King Edward to commemorate his coronation, for bestowal upon women for very conspicuous bravery. This is one of the most coveted and honorable decorations that a woman can wear.

The order of the Royal Red Cross which was founded, on St. George's day, 1893, is another decoration reserved for women only. It is given for merit and valor displayed in nursing, particularly army and navy nursing, and consists of a red and blue ribbon—colors significant of the fighting services—with a scarlet cross inscribed, "Faith, Hope and Charity." The Order of St. John of Jerusalem—a little Maltese cross, bearing the words "For services in the cause of humanity," attached to a black ribbon—can also be won by women.

Another order is the greatly coveted Order of Merit, which is bestowed upon men and women who have gained distinction in literature, art, science or any of the peaceful, as distinguished from the fighting, services. But up to the present it has only been conferred upon one woman—the incomparable Florence Nightingale.

Queen Victoria was responsible for the institution of the first English decoration for women—the Royal Order of Victoria and Albert, founded in memory of the prince consort, and consisting of a medal bearing portraits of the royal pair surmounted by a white ribbon. This order is reserved, as a rule, for ladies of European royal houses. The Imperial Order of the Crown of India was also founded by Queen Victoria and is usually bestowed on ladies who have been vicereine of India. Lady Randolph Churchill is one of the holders of this, the most difficult of all orders to obtain.

The French Cross of the Legion of Honor has been bestowed on the greatest number of women. There is only one Russian decoration for women—the Order of St. Catherine; while there are two Spanish decorations including that of St. Maria of Spain an order similar to British Order of the Royal Red Cross, conferred for distinguished services in nursing.

Queen Victoria received it some years ago in recognition of her practical interest in nursing work.

The Ribbon and Star of the Order of the Shekfat (Order of Compassion) is a Turkish decoration which can be won by women. Turkish women seldom receive it, but Lady Con- an Doyle received it some years ago, as did Mrs. Goelet of New York.

Perhaps the most coveted of all orders for women is certainly so far as Roman Catholics are concerned, is the Golden Rose, which is bestowed upon pious daughters of the church by the Pope. — Philadelphia Public Ledger.

French After the Grafters

Prosecuting and Fining Different Parties Who Work Hand in Hand With Contractors.

Marseille, France, Nov. 8.—A vigorous campaign undertaken by the French Government to punish persons who have profited unduly from needs of the nation, is well under way. A supply corps officer named Parent and his soldier clerk have been sentenced by a court martial to five years in prison and fines of 1,500 francs ($300) for accepting commissions from contractors on purchases of supplies amounting to more than 6,000,000 francs ($1,200,000).

Jean Bussere, a tent manufacturer, who obtained orders for 1,500,000 francs ($300,000) worth of goods by the payment of commissions, has been sentenced to ten years imprisonment and a heavy fine. Three other business men convicted on similar charges have been sentenced to prison.

By Special Wire to the Courier.

Constantinople, via London, Nov. 8.—The following statement is issued by the Turkish War Office—

"Near Anafarta we bombarded a torpedo boat and a transport of the enemy. Several hits were observed. The transport fled enveloped in smoke.

"On Saturday, one of the enemy's aeroplanes damaged by our shell fire fell into the sea near Kutschak Te-mikil.

"Near Ari Burnu there were artillery combats and vigorous bomb throwing.

"Near Seddul Bahr the enemy's artillery preparation, vainly attempted to advance against our center.

"On the left wing the enemy fired 1,300 shells unsuccessfully."

Leaves Sofia.

By Special Wire to the Courier.

Amsterdam, Nov. 6, via London, Nov. 7.—A telegram from Sofia, Bulgaria, dated Nov. 6, states that A. A. Savinsky, Russian Minister to Bulgaria, who, owing to illness, remained at Sofia after the entente ministers left, has completely recovered. The despatch adds that M. Savinsky is to leave Sofia Sunday morning in a royal train which King Ferdinand has placed at his disposal.

HOW APPENDICITIS CAN BE PREVENTED.

Brantford people should know that a few doses of simple buckthorn bark, glycerine, etc., as mixed in Adler-ika, often relieve or prevent appendicitis. This simple mixture removes such surprising foul matter that ONE SPOONFUL relieves most ANY CASE constipation, sour stomach or gas. A short treatment helps chronic stomach trouble. Adler-ika has easiest and most thorough action of anything we ever sold. M. H. Robertson, Limited.

Business is booming!

Toronto, Ont.

Merchants everywhere tell our 800 salesmen that business is booming.

Farmers have had a record crop, at big prices, with big demand at home and abroad.

Stocks of manufactured material are short, and labor is in great demand.

Exports largely exceed imports.

Factories are busy, a great many working overtime.

More freight cars are needed, and steamers are taxed to capacity.

Canada has, in proportion to population, greater exportable surplus of wheat this year than any other country in the world.

Millions of dollars are passing over the merchants' counters.

The people who spend this money want the best service.

They demand it in all kinds of stores, from the smallest to the largest.

They get it in stores which use our up-to-date Cash Registers, which quicken service, stop mistakes, satisfy customers, and increase profits.

Over a million merchants have proved our Cash Registers to be a business necessity.

Last month the N. C. R. in Canada had the largest sales of any month in the past seventeen.

"THE GODDESS"

UNIQUE SERIAL STORY

BY GOUVERNEUR MORRIS

SYNOPSIS OF PREVIOUS CHAPTERS.

After the tragic death of John Amesbury, his prostrated wife, one of America's greatest beauties, dies. At her death, Prof. Stilliter, an agent of the interests, kidnaps the beautiful three-year-old baby girl and brings her up in a paradise where she sees no man, but thinks she is taught by angels, who instruct her for her mission to reform the world. At the age of eighteen she is suddenly thrust into the world, where agents of the interests are ready to pretend to find her. The one to feel the loss of the little Amesbury girl most, after she had been spirited away by the interests, was Tommy. In a few days, however, he found himself living amid luxurious surroundings as the adopted son of Mr. Barclay, who has planned to have Tommy marry into wealth. But Tommy's lack of interest in Barclay's business affairs changes matters. Barclay meets with success in breaking up the match he had really planned. Turned down by the girl, Tommy goes to the Adirondacks to forget the affair. While there he meets by accident, Celestia.

Not until he had finished his pipe did Old Man Smells-good give any signs of what had been going on in his head. When he rose to his feet, he said simply, "Me find um soon, and started off in the direction of the lake.

Fifteen minutes later he knelt suddenly and appeared to bury his long hooked nose in the ground. He rose after a moment's sniffing and said: "Me got um sure." Then he ordered one of the guides to remain behind with the dogs.

And then he went forward, pretending to follow a trail, pointing to marks, which the other couldn't see for the simple fact that they didn't exist, listening, pretending to hear sounds that couldn't be heard, sniffing, kneeling, and poking his long nose into the ground.

He led them to the shores of the lake and pointed quietly across at the island. Even Stilliter could see a pale column of bluish smoke coming from among the trees.

"Bimby, swim over," said Old Man Smells-good, "for two dollars. Fetch dug-out. Better wait till dark." And they waited till dark. Then Old Man Smells-good, having been definitely promised the other couldn't see for the simple fact that they didn't exist, listening, pretending to hear sounds that couldn't be heard, sniffing, kneeling, and poking his long nose into the ground.

Meanwhile with Tommy and Celestia all had gone well. Tommy's old camp was less dilapidated than he expected. A few balsam boughs had made the rotten roof sound above and sweet beneath. Celestia had had a long rest and then she had followed Tommy along the shores of the island while he fished. Finally Tommy's long casts were rewarded. He hooked a fine trout and began to draw him strongly towards the beach.

In her excitement and eagerness to help, Celestia ran into the shallow water, stepped in a deep hole, and, falling forward, was for the moment, completely submerged.

Laughing and scolding, Tommy pulled her out and literally ran her back to the fire. Steam was so rising from her wet, clinging robe, but since the fire could only warm one side of her at a time, and since the chill of the evening had begun to set in, she shivered and now and then her teeth knocked together.

He went into the little hut and brought out the buffalo robe which he had left there. It was very much the worse for wear, but huge and warm.

"Now," he said, "you go into the hut and take that off and put this on."

He dried her theatrical white dress and made shift to iron it to a smooth hot stone, and watched her from the corner of his eye and thought how charming she looked, even in that bulky, clumsy buffalo robe.

After supper they sat for a long time by the shore and watched the stars grow brighter and brighter, and as the moon began to rise, dimmer and dimmer. They were happy at being together, spoke in low tones, and Tommy answered many questions about the affairs of the earth.

"But then, of course," said Celestia "you are wicked."

"I!" exclaimed Tommy. "I like that! What do you know about it?"

"Of course, if you are not a man—"

"But I am," said Tommy. "Is that why I'm wicked?"

"There couldn't be a better reason. If you are a man you are wicked, sinful, greedy, and covetous of what belongs to other people."

"That's only a judgment of men in general that has been handed to you all ready-made. But use your own judgment, not somebody else's. Since you've known me have I done into one of Tommy's and leaned against him and laid her head on his shoulder. It was as if she had been a little child. Tommy was deeply moved and touched, and at the same time the close physical contact began to trouble him, to frighten him. He spoke and it seemed as if with his voice he was trying to lift a weight.

"Your poor baby," he said, "You're dead-tired. It's bedtime."

He rose, a little roughly, and helped her to her feet.

When they reached the little hut, Tommy said—

"Now, you turn in there and make yourself comfy. Good night."

"Good night," she said, and went into the hut.

In his hiding-place close at hand, no word or motion had been lost on Professor Stilliter. Write with reluctance and antipathy, but strongly resolved, he rose on one knee, cocked his Winchester, and aimed at the small of Tommy's back.

"I'm wicked?" said Celestia, "but that makes it all the worse. It smacks so of hypocrisy."

Tommy laughed aloud, thinking that she was joking. But he ceased instantly when he saw that she was not.

"Celestia," he said, "don't for a minute think that I'm pretending to be good. But wickedness is different. If I were wicked it wouldn't be safe for you to be with me. But as things are, you'd be safe as long as you wanted to be safe, and afterward, probably. In my opinion, very few men—even murderers and wife-beaters—are at this moment the better part they are just unintelligent."

"Exactly," said Celestia, "and there is nothing more wicked than that."

It was more in talking about happiness, said Tommy. "Suppose we forget the world. Now you are not going to New York to work yourself to the bone for other people. You're just going to stay on with me in the good, clean woods, and be worked for and made much of. We'll just go on and on through the woods, camping at night by pretty lakes and brooks—"

He looked her very earnestly in the eyes and sang in a clear, quiet voice, with a kind of the gallant tenderness, those great lines of Stevenson's, beginning:

"I will make you brooches and toys for your delight,
Of bird song at morning and star shines at night;
And I will build a palace fit for you and me
Of green days in forests and blue days at a sea."

"What is that," said Celestia, when he had finished.

"That," said Tommy, "Why, don't you think it's a sort of hymn?"

After that they were silent for a little.

Then Tommy said, "Are you warm. Are you comfortable?"

She nodded.

"Then, very softly—"

"Celestia," he said, "are you happy?"

"I don't know," she said, "Can you be happy when it isn't right for you to be happy? It isn't right for one to be happy, because other people aren't."

"I am," said Tommy. "At this moment the sufferings of others don't get me. You see, I have to be shown, suppose at this moment the entire population of China, having eaten immoderately of contaminated rice, was dying of fits. I wouldn't care. I should still be even now, Celestia, if you stayed long enough in the woods, don't you think maybe you'd forget all about heaven and your mission to earth, and be content to be happy?"

Listless! Once in my life I was really happy. I was a little boy; she was a little girl. If she'd grown up she would have looked like you. Perhaps that's why I'm so happy to be with you. She and I were always happy when we were together, looking forward to being together. Then one day she went away, Celestia. She went to heaven, they told me. And for a long time I was terribly unhappy."

"But you ought to have been happy."

He shook his head.

"If I could have gone with her, perhaps."

"But in heaven she is blissful always."

"But I haven't been. When some one you love is so unhappy, tell me this: Why am I perfectly happy? I'm not good. I'm not sensible. I've never done anything noble or self-sacrificing. And, yet, I behold me; happy as the day is long."

"And, I'm happy, too," said Celestia smiling.

"You're happy," he said, "because you feel perfectly sure that you are going to make everybody else happy. But that's not why I'm happy. I'm happy because I'd rather be right here than anywhere else; because I've had a good supper after plenty of exercise, because the night smells of balsam, because the moon is shining, and because I've got a delightful companion."

"All these things make me happy, too," said Celestia, "but they couldn't keep me happy for long."

"No?" said Tommy, somewhat chagrined. "If these things are enough, why want more?"

"Why?" said Celestia, "after a while I'd get thinking about people who haven't delightful companions, and for whom the moon isn't shining; I couldn't rest then until I'd gone to them and tried to make their lives easier and their hearts stronger, (and here she laughed softly) their heads fuller of sense."

"It would be the opposite with me," said Tommy; "the longer we stayed here, the less I'd get thinking about other people and the more I'd get thinking about us. Every mortal man, I suppose, has his conception of heaven; (he pulled luxuriously at this pipe), and this is mine."

After awhile Celestia became sleepy, and then she slipped her hand against one of Tommy's and leaned against him and laid her head on his shoulder. It was as if she had been a little child. Tommy was deeply moved and touched, and at the same time the close physical contact began to trouble him, to frighten him. He spoke and it seemed as if with his voice he was trying to lift a weight.

GERMAN VIOLATION OF LAWS OF WAR
"Germany's Violation of the Laws of War, 1914-15," is the English title of the official volume issued by the French Ministry of Foreign Affairs. The most important part of this work (says the London Nation) is the issues in facsimile and translation on opposite pages, German prisoners, prisoners or dead on the field of battle, whose authenticity it is impossible to question. Some such text-moments have already been published in pamphlets and otherwise; this book provides a further supply. It is mainly interesting as revealing how some officers and men were regarding this orgy of bloodshed and infamy. The troops are undisciplined. Desire for blood and lust and booty are the dominant passions. The army is reeling and swinging onward through Belgium in these hot August days, pushed forward by the multitudes behind, accompanied in its march by a pillar of cloud by day and a pillar of fire by night, the light and the smoke of burning villages and towns. It is accompanied also by continual manifestations of terrorism implicitly obeyed. Firing has been proceeding from that town—it must be burned to the ground. Resistance has arisen in another village from which hostages have been taken—those hostages must be immediately shot. There is a rumor of a woman—let us call her Ann—who has been taken in the store of loot, the honor of women, and even of children, be given up to the tender mercies of the soldiery.

We are back in our old stand—35 Port St. with a complete line of fresh and cured meats. Give us a trial. J. CAMMELL, Phone 275 Bell.

SHOE REPAIRING
HAVING PURCHASED THE shoe repairing business recently conducted by J. J. Curtis, I am prepared to do the repairing of all kinds of your patronage solicited. Satisfaction guaranteed. A. JOHNSON, cor. Erie and Eagle Aves.

NOTICE
The complete aimlessness of so much of the murders becomes evident in the evidence. "We were ordered to shoot the women," says one Westphalian prisoner. "When the mother was dead, the major gave the order to shoot the child, so that the child should not be left alone in the world," which was accordingly done. Some are quite scandalized at the looting, others at the drunkenness; others more religiously believe that all these things will bring down upon them the wrath of God. "At Leffe nineteen civilians shot. Women begging for mercy as we marched to war," says the Daiter about a hundred men or more were huddled together and shot. A horrible Sunday. "We arrive at the village of Batten. The whole village will be wiped out. Women and children and old men stand at the end of the village weeping and holding up their hands. A dreadful moment for me, and my eyes fill up with tears."

GERMAN VIOLATION OF LAWS OF WAR
"Germany's Violation of the Laws of War, 1914-15," is the English title of the official volume issued by the French Ministry of Foreign Affairs. The most important part of this work (says the London Nation) is the issues in facsimile and translation on opposite pages, German prisoners, prisoners or dead on the field of battle, whose authenticity it is impossible to question. Some such text-moments have already been published in pamphlets and otherwise; this book provides a further supply. It is mainly interesting as revealing how some officers and men were regarding this orgy of bloodshed and infamy. The troops are undisciplined. Desire for blood and lust and booty are the dominant passions. The army is reeling and swinging onward through Belgium in these hot August days, pushed forward by the multitudes behind, accompanied in its march by a pillar of cloud by day and a pillar of fire by night, the light and the smoke of burning villages and towns. It is accompanied also by continual manifestations of terrorism implicitly obeyed. Firing has been proceeding from that town—it must be burned to the ground. Resistance has arisen in another village from which hostages have been taken—those hostages must be immediately shot. There is a rumor of a woman—let us call her Ann—who has been taken in the store of loot, the honor of women, and even of children, be given up to the tender mercies of the soldiery.

Notice!
We are back in our old stand—35 Port St. with a complete line of fresh and cured meats. Give us a trial. J. CAMMELL, Phone 275 Bell.

SHOE REPAIRING
HAVING PURCHASED THE shoe repairing business recently conducted by J. J. Curtis, I am prepared to do the repairing of all kinds of your patronage solicited. Satisfaction guaranteed. A. JOHNSON, cor. Erie and Eagle Aves.

NOTICE
The complete aimlessness of so much of the murders becomes evident in the evidence. "We were ordered to shoot the women," says one Westphalian prisoner. "When the mother was dead, the major gave the order to shoot the child, so that the child should not be left alone in the world," which was accordingly done. Some are quite scandalized at the looting, others at the drunkenness; others more religiously believe that all these things will bring down upon them the wrath of God.
