CHAPTER XXXII.

The sky cleared at last, and Lady Iris was able to start for home. When she rose to go she placed some silver in the old woman's hand.

"No, I do not want it," said Esther. "You keep it, Isabel Hyde. You cannot tell my dear, whether you may want it or not. He seems all right, and everything seems safe; but no one can ever tell what will happen. Ah, but I was forgetting! Where is the baby, Isabel Hyde?"

"Never mind the baby, granny," said the girl soothingly; and then turning to Lady Iris, she added, "There is nothing she keeps on about so long as the baby."

"Where is it?" continued the old woman. "Did you come back for it? You said you would. Is it safe—the little fair head—is it quite safe?"

"Yes, it is safe," replied Lady Iris. "Good by, Esther. I shall come again soon."

"Good-by, pretty Isabel Hyde!" said the old nurse.

During the walk home, Lady Iris thought a great deal about Esther Rowson—so much so that at dinner-time she looked up suddenly at her father and said—

"Papa, did you ever hear of any one named Isabel Hyde?"

She smiled as she asked the question, remembering all that old Esther had said; but the smile died quickly when she saw her father's face. It expressed such horror and amazement; it was deathly pale and apparently full of fear.

He dropped his knife and fork and uttered a low terrible cry. She sprung from her seat and ran to him.

"Oh, papa, what is it?"

It was a few minutes before he recovered himself, and then he moaned—

"A spasm—a pain right through my heart, Iris."

The butler hastened to give him some brandy, and his daughter lavished loving attentions on him. The color slowly returned to his face, but he breathed with difficulty. Lady Iris was alarmed.

"I have never seen you like this, papa," she cried.

"I shall be better, Iris, in a few minutes. Open the window, Stokes, and let me rest awhile."

He eagerly drank the brandy that the butler brought for him, but his hands trembled so that he could hardly hold the glass. They left him for a few minutes by the open window, his head lying back on the chair and his eyes closed. When he returned to the dinner-table, he tried hard to converse as usual, apologizing for having started his daughter; but she saw that he could eat nothing—plate after plate was carried away untouched. Yet in her own mind she never connected her father's sudden illness with the question she had asked.

She talked to him about his health, and declared that he must see a doctor; a spasm in the region of the heart was, she considered, a dangerous thing, and he must have advice about it. Then she thought of nurse Esther and Isabel Hyde.

"Papa," she said, "just as you were taken ill, I was asking you if you had ever known any one called Isabel Hyde."

Again the deadly pallor might have told her that there was something wrong; but she did not think of it. He was ill, and it was natural that he should change color.

"Yes, I know the name," he said slowly.

"Tell me about her, papa. Did she die? Is there some romance connected with her? Did some great lord love her?"

Great dross stood upon his forehead as he turned to look at her.

"Why, what makes you ask all this, Iris? What have you heard? What do you mean?"

Then she told him of her adventure in the morning, and his face grew whiter as he listened. In a thick hoarse voice he cried—

"But I told you, Iris, not to go and see Esther Rowson."

"I had no choice; I should have been drenched in that deluge of rain if I had not entered her cottage. I knew you would not mind in the circumstances. I was half frightened though while I was there."

"What did she say to you?" asked the earl; and the question seemed to be put unwillingly.

"It was a singular reception," answered the girl; "yet there was something very pathetic about it. I should say that this Isabel Hyde was some friend the poor childish old woman had in her youth. The moment she saw me she cried out, 'Isabel Hyde came back again! Anne, run out and tell all the neighbors that Isabel Hyde has come back!'"

A little cry escaped from the earl, which she thought was of wonder at her story.

"The strangest thing of all, papa, was that she had some horrible idea that she had 'laid me out,' as she called it. She touched my dress and stroked it, saying that the dress she left me in was white and full of stiff folds. She asked me who woke me—and that question really startled me; she seemed to think that I had been dead, and that some one brought me to life again."

The earl tried to smile, but his lips were rigid and cold. Lady Iris went on—

"It caused me to feel quite uncomfortable, papa. She said she had brushed back my hair and folded my hands. There was one thing which touched me. Still thinking that I was Isabel Hyde, she told me about some lover who had filled the hands of the dead girl with flowers; and Esther said that he cried out that when she awoke the girl would know who had placed them there."

"What strange fancies!" said the earl in a hasty voice.

"I cannot remember all," continued Lady Iris; but there was something about a little baby with fair hair. She wished to know what I had done with it. The granddaughter, a nice clean tidy girl, told me that when once she began to speak of the lady there was no stopping her. She must have had some great trouble in her life, poor old Esther! But, papa, you did not tell me who she was—this Isabel Hyde."

"I cannot tell you. There was some one of that name who lived once at Fenton Woods, but I can say nothing of her."

"You did not know her then, papa? Esther has so aroused my curiosity about her that I must make some inquiries. 'Isabel Hyde' it is a very pretty name, and, if she has lived here at all, some one must remember something about her."

Lady Iris was startled by the voice in which her father cried out—

"You must not make inquiries, Iris!"

"Must not!" she repeated, surprised at his hard tones.

"No, you must not, remember, I have forbidden it," he went on excitedly. "I did not want you to come to Fenton Woods, and you came. I did not want you to see Esther, and you saw her. I did not want you to make inquiries. This time you must obey me, and it will be unpleasant for you if you do not."

He forgot that he was speaking to one whose wits were as keen as his own. In a moment she saw that, whatever was the mystery between old Esther and Isabel Hyde, she herself was chiefly concerned in it.

Finding that the subject was disagreeable to her father, she began speaking of a great avalanche that had just fallen in Switzerland, and killed a number of people. But the earl did not recover himself. He listened for some time to his daughter's animated conversation, and then said that he did not feel very well; he should go to his study and smoke a cigar there; so he bade her good-night, and left her to her thoughts.

They were very puzzled and anxious ones. It seemed to her as if something was about to happen. There had evidently been some special reason why her father would never take her to Fenton Woods. Many times she had asked him to do so, and he had always returned an evasive answer until he saw that she was ill, and knew that it would be good for her to have change of air.

She believed that the reason was in some way connected with herself. Moreover, he would not let her visit Esther; and that too she believed, had to do with herself.

Banker was Artist at Eluding Bores.

QUICKLY DISPOSED OF UNCLE LUKE AN ALL-DAY CALLER.

The ability to welcome a tiresome visitor with a handshake and at the same time to "shake" him gracefully is an art possessed by few. One man in Kansas City, a banker, is said to be a past master at this. This is Uncle Luke, a man with a man's face with such cordial good feeling that the man leaves convinced he doesn't need the money anyway.

Some time ago the banker was at his desk, from which he had a view of the entire floor of the bank. Nothing escaped him, and he realized instantly what the day would mean for him if the tall, angular figure approaching ever reached the chair beside the banker's desk.

"Hello, Uncle Luke," shouted the banker, extending a hand across the marble railing to grasp that of the visitor. "How's everybody up at Valley Falls?"

"All right," replied Uncle Luke, sliding along the rail in an effort to get around to that empty chair. "How's your folks, Willie?"

The banker knew if Uncle Luke ever reached that chair he would park there all day, sitting on his third dorsal vertebra with his crossed legs taking up as much space as a lawn mower. He had to think fast, for Uncle Luke was making progress. Suddenly the banker saw a man enter the lobby. It was Tom Brady, employed there as floor man. He called loudly: "Tom, come over here!"

"Uncle Luke," he went on, "I want you to meet an old friend of mine, Tom Brady. You never get down to Kansas City very often, and I want Tom to take you out and show you this town. You've never seen it, and Tom Brady's the very man to show it to you."

"But Willie," insisted the man from Valley Falls, "I wanted to just sit and have a nice long talk with you."

"You'll never have a better opportunity to see this town," the banker replied, with a nod which Brady understood. "Now Tom, you take Uncle Luke out and show him everything." Tom and Uncle Luke departed. It was learned later that Uncle Luke saw Kansas City from the roof of the Commerce building. He was given a ride over into Kansas on a street car, and saw the packing houses, from a car; he dined at a cafeteria and in the afternoon was taken out to Swope Park and went through the zoo. Tom put Uncle Luke on the first train for Valley Falls after that.

Uncle Luke was delighted. He had "seen Kansas City." It cost Brady about $2.80 to entertain Uncle Luke at the banker's expense, but the banker felt that he had saved at least $280 worth of time. And Uncle Luke still remained his friend. Isn't that an art?—Kansas City Star.

Thousands of people are suffering from earthquakes and tremors. People are being killed and property is being destroyed. The residents of the city are being forced to evacuate their homes. The streets are filled with the homeless. The authorities are doing their best to provide relief, but the situation is dire. The people are suffering and need help. The government should take action to provide relief for the victims of these disasters.

Thousands Dead and in Distress.

Chile Suffers Catastrophe From Earthquake -- Country Rocked From End to End -- Huge Tidal Waves Indicate Tremendous Ocean Disturbance -- People Are Panic Stricken.

ROCKED FROM END TO END
SANTIAGO, Chile, Nov. 12. With the partial re-establishment of communications, it is estimated that at least one thousand are dead and many thousands in distress following the Chile earthquake disaster yesterday. The earthquake rocked Chile from end to end and was accompanied by a tremendous tidal wave. The Provinces of Antofagasta, Iquique and Coquimbo suffered most. Valparaiso was virtually destroyed. Throughout Coquimbo, hundreds of houses were levelled and the residents fled to the hills. It is said today that five hundred were killed at Valparaiso and surrounding districts. Valparaiso was virtually destroyed. The movement of the sea is described as phenomenal and the evidence of a terrific disturbance is the bed of the Pacific. Several of the ocean swept outward and back in the shape of a great wave. Violent effects of the tidal waves were felt from Antofagasta on the north to Valdivia on the South. In many places more than twelve hundred people were swept on the rocks and at a score of small ports the wharves and quays were destroyed.

merchandise scattered through the streets.

QUAKE LASTED NEARLY FOUR HOURS.
SANTIAGO, Nov. 12. The total duration of yesterday's earthquake was three hours and forty minutes. The Meteorological Institution says the shock coincides with the largest sun spot of years over the Central Meridian of the sun. It had been a day of abnormal heat.

ALLIES HOLD FAST.
CONSTANTINOPLE, Nov. 12. Constantinople may be likened to a vast powder magazine which the British are striving, in the face of growing difficulties, to keep from igniting. The Angora Government continues to press its demands for the evacuation of the Allied military and naval forces, but there are no indications that the Allies intend to yield. The Allies are fully conscious that their withdrawal would imperil the lives of the whole Christian population in the capital and Asia Minor.

BRITISH ELECTION FORECASTS.
LONDON, Nov. 12. That the Conservatives will elect more members than any other party is not questioned in any political headquarters in London. Lord Beaverbrook's Daily Express, which backs Bonar Law strongly, gives him a majority of forty, the Asquith Liberals and Labor each one hundred and twenty seats, and the Georgian Liberals not more than thirty-five. If the crowds and cheers could be depended on to mean votes for Lloyd George, his cause might be expected to be swept back into power on a wave of popular enthusiasm.

FIRE AT NAPLES.
LONDON, Nov. 12. A fire which started at the port of Naples yesterday, when blazing naphtha, spread over the harbor, caused ten million lire damage, according to the Naples correspondent of the Central News. The correspondent reported the fire still raging and that many warships were enveloped. Two gunboats were destroyed, four torpedo boats were on fire, two destroyers in danger, and one cruiser and one destroyer had been sunk. Staffani, the semi-official bureau, reported from Naples, however, that accounts of the harbor fire were greatly exaggerated.

WARSHIPS DAMAGED.
LONDON, Nov. 12. The Italian cruiser Marsala was destroyed in the fires which started in the port of Naples yesterday, according to Staffani's official bureau. The gunboat Rosco sustained important damage and the flotilla leader Aquila minor damage.

MRS. DR. SCOTT DIES SUDDENLY.
MONTREAL, Nov. 12. Mrs. Walter Scott, wife of Dr. Walter Scott, Grand Falls, Newfoundland, died suddenly to-day here. She was on a visit to her father-in-law, 81 St. Mark Street.

LAUSANNE CONFERENCE POSTPONED.
PARIS, Nov. 12. The official opening of the Lausanne Peace Conference has been postponed from Nov. 13th to the 20, at the request of the British Government.

FORKE SUCCEEDS CREELE.
WINNIPEG, Nov. 12. Robert Forke, M.P., for Brandon, late to-day was chosen chairman of a committee, consisting of two members from Ontario and one from each Province which has Progressive members which will co-ordinate the efforts of the Progressive members in Parliament. In effect Forke becomes House leader.

AN ENORMOUS FIRE.
HOUSTON, Texas, Nov. 12. More than one million barrels of oil were doomed early tonight and indications were that a similar amount probably would be consumed in a spectacular fire sweeping the Gulf Production Company Tank Farm at Humble. Lightning was the cause.

CALIFORNIA GOES DRY.
SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 11. California, the leading wine grape growing State in the Union, with the hope of competing with champagne production in France, and wines of the Rhine, has gone dry after ten years voting down prohibition measures. A majority of 28,821 in favor of making the eighteenth amendment the statute law of California was recorded last night, with only a few scattering precincts to be heard from.

C. C. Parade.

ATTEND ST. PATRICK'S CHURCH.
The Catholic Cadet Corps headed by the Battalion Band held a Church Parade yesterday attending last mass at St. Patrick's Church, Riverhead. The Brigade was in charge of Major O'Grady and proceeded to the Church, via LeMarchant Road, a route march through the city being held after the service. On returning to Headquarters the lads were addressed by Major O'Grady. The Corps presented a splendid appearance yesterday in their new uniforms. The lads are becoming proficient in manoeuvres and rapidly increasing in number, it will not be long before the Brigade will be up to its former strength. The next parade is to-morrow night when all ranks parade for drill.

Canadian Sapper, now in port, sent to the scene.

Shooting Accident at Blackhead.

MAN HAS NARROW ESCAPE.
While Mr. James Cook of Blackhead was proceeding to his home on Saturday afternoon about 5.30, some unknown person using firearm in the vicinity fired several shots across the man's face, one hitting him in the nose and one in the ear. Luckily, the holder of the weapon must have been a good distance away, as the lead which lodged in the victims face barely made flesh wounds, the pellets having been all but spent. Cook immediately returned to town and reported the circumstance. Whether the shooting was intentional or accidental is not known, but the matter will be investigated fully.

C.L.B. Cadets.

CELEBRATE ANNIVERSARY
 Monday, November 13th, was St. Andrew's Day and the thirty-first anniversary of the founding of the C.L.B. in London, England. The late Colonel W. M. Gee, M.C., of the late Battalion of the New Army, was the first to organize the C.L.B. in London. The C.L.B. was organized overseas by Serjt. Blackler, assisted by the Rev. J. Thompson, Curate of the Cathedral. Annually the Brigade is carefully arranged, a committee in the Methodist College Hall, St. John's, holds the Brigade meetings on the service of Holy Communion at the Cathedral at eleven o'clock, and the service for Divine blessings is held at three p.m. a thanksgiving service is held. All ranks included in the Old Comrades, Girl Guides of the C.L.B., and the Bugle Band, and the number of 498 paraded at the opening of this most extraordinary event will testify to the genuineness of our offerings.

Ships go "Dry" in Mid Atlantic.

COMEDIES OF PROHIBITION LAW AT SEA—MOCK FUNERAL.

In order to check rum-running, as the remunerative trade done in smuggling drink into the United States is known, efforts are being made to enforce the application of prohibition laws to all ships plying to and from ports in that country, giving rise to international complications and to some ludicrous results. Shipping companies threaten to test the legality of the claim of the American Government to jurisdiction over ships of other countries, and there is talk, too, that if it is upheld, ships now using New York, will be diverted to a Canadian port adjacent to American territory, and that that will in future become the terminal port on the other side of the Atlantic. The U.S. Federal Judge Hazel has upheld the practice of seizing foreign vessels engaged in liquor traffic, even when beyond the three-mile limit, and held that the seizure of the British registered schooner Henry L. Marshall was justified.

Great Britain, has, however, declined the United States' proposal for mutual search or seizure of vessels outside the three-mile limit, in order to check rum-running. The British note is understood to contend that the proposal would set a precedent infringing the doctrine of freedom of the seas.

"COME TO MERRIE ENGLAND."

Liners owned by the United States Shipping Board have all gone "dry," even in mid-ocean. This was due to wireless instructions received from New York, and as a consequence on both ships there are many protests from passengers. The captains, however, insisted on carrying out the orders, and all the bars were closed. These passengers, however, who had secured supplies in their private apartments, were able to dispense hospitality.

Many travellers have resented the interference with their liberty; others have made the best of what they describe as a bad job. One chorus shouted at Plymouth by arrivals from the other side of the Atlantic ran:—
 Four-and-twenty Yankee boys,
 Feeling very dry,
 Came to Merrie England,
 To get a case of rye.
 When the case was opened,
 Those Yanks began to sing,
 "To blenk with Mister Volsted, God Save the King."

Visitors from the shore were greatly amused; but as the travellers landed just on the closing hour there was little time for them to rejoice before they were hurried away to London.

JOHN BARLEYCORN BURIED.

On board the S.S. America the passengers indulged in a burlesque funeral, and a few of those who landed at Plymouth had a printed souvenir, which read as follows:—
 Oct. 9, 1922.—At 10.30 p.m., this date, "John Barleycorn" was ruthlessly murdered on board this vessel. May the result of his death be visited upon the perpetrators of this heinous crime.
 "John Barleycorn" was buried with all solemnity. An effigy was prepared, and in due course, with an empty bottle under each arm, was committed to the deep.
 Previously the effigy had been paraded all over the ship, the ship's band playing appropriate music.
 There was funeral dirges, the Dead March in "Saul," and then the final plunge into the ocean.—Lloyd's Weekly.

He Can Do Twice As Much Work Says Barley.

"There isn't a healthier man in this town to-day than I am and it's all due to Tanlac," is the unqualified statement made by Robert Barley, an expert gardener, living at 70 Charles St., Halifax, N.S.
 "Before I took this medicine my stomach was all wrong and my appetite gone, but whether I ate anything or not I suffered from indigestion and gas just the same. I was in pain all during the night and got up mornings feeling tired, miserable and all in. My feet would ache and burn so bad I could hardly stand on them and I was knocked out all over."
 "The first improvement I noticed when I got Tanlac was that my appetite picked right up and my food set better in my stomach. When my first bottle of Tanlac was gone I got another and kept on improving. My feet caused me more trouble than anything else, but I noticed as my indigestion went away and I got to feeling stronger my feet bothered me less, too. All my troubles are gone now and I am like a new man. I eat anything, sleep like a log and feel strong enough to do two day's work in one. Tanlac is certainly great."
 Tanlac is sold by all good druggists.

United Fishermen's Movement Spreading.

Executive Committee to Meet Government.

Message to Hon. W. F. Coaker and His Reply--Comment Thereon.

The Executive Committee of the United Fishermen, accompanied by their counsel, Mr. Morris, K.C., will meet the Committee of Council (the Government) this afternoon at 4 o'clock. The chief object of the meeting, will be the presentation of a memorial, asking co-operation by the Government in the creation of a Fish Trust with powers to sell fish now held by fishermen, to make advances thereon to the extent of current prices, and to sell and ship the fish for the benefit of the present owners, paying them the net profits. The Government is asked to be asked to guarantee the price so far as the same cannot be secured as the usual commercial value. Memorials referring to taxation, especially the export tax on fish, and to fish marketing, will also be presented, but it is understood, will not be discussed (except perhaps the export fish tax), as the main object of the meeting is the matter of the Fish Trust. On Saturday afternoon the following message was sent to Hon. W. F. Coaker.

and as senior member for Bonavista Bay where our movement began, you are especially urged by us to be present, and to support our movement.

JESSE WINSOR,
Chairman of Committee."

MR. COAKER'S REPLY.
The following message was received Saturday night from Mr. Coaker:—

Fort Union, Nov. 11.
To Capt. Jesse Winsor.

"Government will give necessary consideration your proposal. What they decide will likely meet my approval. There may be something workable develop from this proposal. Sorry I cannot go to St. John's. Just arrived here from there. Will have hands full convening week preparing for Convention, and getting cargo ready for "Kriton." We have now all our dealers fish in and have satisfied them re prices."

W. F. COAKER.

FERTINENT QUERY.
Does the first sentence above mean that the Government will decide as Coaker approves, or that Coaker will approve as they decide? Will he order or obey? If something workable might result from the proposal, why does he not come here to help make it so? Oh, he's preparing for the Convention, and for the sailing of the S.S. "Kriton;" that is, he's preparing to talk instead of being here to do, and he is engaged as a merchant in buying fish instead of as a Canada Jack in selling fish. He has, in truth, "turned his coat." The price of fish is no longer what Coaker makes it, but what the fishermen make it without his aid, in face of his opposition. Mr. Coaker was here on Friday, and left by special train precisely at the hour when the United Fishermen's meeting opened. Why didn't he attend?

November 11, 1922.
Hon. W. F. Coaker, Port Union.
By their consent, the Government will receive United Fishermen's Committee on Monday next, at four p.m., to receive and consider memorial asking Government to appoint one person to act with another appointed as a Fish Trust to acquire, store and sell locally or foreign fish now held by fishermen, to advance current prices in fish when received, and to pay net profits after realization to fishermen in proportion to quantity and quality of fish sold. The Trust to borrow money on warehouse receipts and shipping documents and upon Government guarantee of amount security. Your presence as Minister of Marine and Fisheries is urgently requested by all.

The Climax.

(Twilight Sun.)
In other columns, we give recollections passed by the United Fishermen from Bonavista Bay. Viewing the subject from any angle we only come to one conclusion, that retrenchment is the only cure to bring back a healthy condition and a reduction in duties will encourage the suppliers to supply more freely whereby there can be accommodated to a larger degree, the many who depend on someone to keep moving in gaining a decent wage and be in a position to save a little to enlarge their interests. No one wants unrest and disturbances when the earnings of the people are kept back by fraud and they have a loose cog in the machinery which had better be made to run smoothly before the result of dissatisfaction. If the people clamour and all seem to favor reduction and backing of needless obligations for relief, why not an early settlement be made so as to avoid trouble. Merchants, as a rule, are very patient, enduring and self-sacrificing. Patience does not satisfy the needs of the people, although they have waited so long for promises to be fulfilled.

Believing the destitute does not have the earning power of the dollar to those who might be granted a few dollars to buy a few necessities. Takes away the earnings of the people in taxes and giving back in relief does not satisfy the merchants who have been drawn through negligence on the part of the rulers.
The young are to be kept in the country and prosperity again be a possibility a clearing of the tangled web, or no one will stay here, but how well they like their native land.
A good fishery should come next and a chance to be given the people to flourish the country, relieve industry and encourage trade and commerce, then the less burdens laid upon a government, the better.
We have an expenditure of nearly ten million dollars, which is equal to the revenue collected, and when more are not on loans out of the benefit of municipalities, which is the case of the 260,000 people, they are able to live comfortably, and the help of new industries. And the high percentage of body politic inhabits and more. Topsy turvy is, it seems, the cause of neglect, while fire or six hundred men from Downing Street made this country's affairs with the teeth the outlay as at present.

Malays and Burmans Friendly to Lone Traveller.

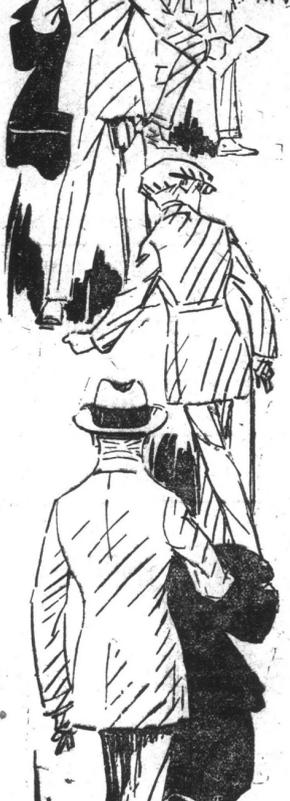

RANGOON, (Associated Press).—Charles W. Blythe, an Englishman who is journeying on foot from Singapore to Calais, France and London, recently arrived in Rangoon and is now on his way to Calcutta. He intends to pursue his way through northern India, Baluchistan and Persia to Salt-Lah, whence he will follow the Euphrates to its source and make his way through Asia Minor and Europe. He hopes to arrive in England by the end of 1923. Mr. Blythe, who has already covered 2,100 miles of his trip, thinks that his last 200 miles in Siam constituted as difficult a country as he shall ever encounter. He carries no firearms or weapons of any kind, and has not yet had need of any. His pack weighs from 20 to 40 pounds and consists of clothing, food, maps, notebooks and simple camp utensils. Malays and Burmans, the traveler says, are the most friendly people he has encountered so far. The Siamese he ranks last, although none of them have been definitely unfriendly.

SOME ADVENTURES DESCRIBED.
Describing some of the adventures he has had since leaving Singapore last May, Mr. Blythe says, in part: "I wished to traverse Siam with all possible speed. From Kuen Nung my troubles commenced. Roads in the interior of Siam are nonexistent. Even cartrroads are termed by courtesy. For two days I travelled by earth paths, sleeping in farmers' houses, until I reached Patalung, which is a railway town not far from the coast. The place being infested with mosquitoes, I requested the station master to allow me to sleep in the waiting-room which request he granted. Leaving Patalung I entered the jungle again, although farms and villages were frequent. All this time I was guiding myself northward by the sun, every day or two looking across to the railroad in order to keep the direction. There was but little fear of losing my way as the mountains ran parallel to the sea, leaving between a strip of plain, varying from ten to 40 miles in width. The large villages are located between the coast and the railway."
THE ELEMENTS INTERVENED.
"It was remarkable that I encountered no wild animals and very few snakes, which sometimes I killed and sometimes avoided. The natives were generally friendly enough, although our intercourse was limited owing to my defective Siamese vocabulary. Some 40 miles north of Chumphon, I was very puzzled to account for the fact that large expanses of the hillsides were cleared and used as grazing for cattle, as I had not credited the Siamese with sufficient energy to clear large areas of hill jungle. It was told that some 60 years ago a terrific tempest swept across the isthmus of Kra and destroyed all the vegetation. From Prechnap Kirikan the country became Siamese of the picture books—pagodas perched on seemingly inaccessible crags, natives clad in brilliant-colored clothing; quaint ox-carts; priests and monks and monasteries; herds of vicious-looking water buffaloes; and rice fields everywhere. I entered Bangkok July 23, exactly two months after leaving Singapore. Bangkok, like most large towns of the East, is a curious mixture of West and East, the old and the new. Palatial smiling, winding lanes lead from spacious boulevards. Pagodas stand a crowd's throw from churches."

MANSIVE WALLS OF CITY.
"The old walls of Bangkok are a fine example of the fortifications as understood by the Oriental nations. Miles in length, averaging 30 feet in height by some 20 in thickness and built of massive blocks of granite, they present a fine spectacle. The government houses are built of stone and are imposing structures. About half a dozen of the far-famed white stupas are housed there. The tramway service in Bangkok is the most comfortable of all I have tested in Asia. At Ban Dara, my northern most limit in Siam, I turned southwest and arrived in a relatively large town named Sawankalele. While talking with the schoolmaster he jokingly remarked that I was a spy. The local chief of police immediately became enamored with the idea, and I spent an uncomfortable 30 minutes relieving his doubts."

Cancer is not Inherited.

New York, Nov. 12.—According to a statement issued by the American Society for the Control of Cancer, this disease is not thought to be inherited in the human race; nor is it a blood disease, or contagious.
"A patient with cancer is no more dangerous to those around him than a patient with a broken arm," says the statement. "Just when and how a cancer starts no one knows accurately, but a great deal is known about its progress after it has started. It spreads from the site of its beginning and destroys the healthy tissues of the body as it goes. It sends forth living cells which start other cancers in other parts of the body. It gradually reduces its victim to such a condition that nothing whatever can be done for him."
"If cancer is taken in its early stages the patient has plenty of chances for a cure. The best of these chances are at the very start, before the lump, the pre-cancerous wart, ulcer or bruise has become genuine cancer, but there are still good chances even after it has become a cancer, if the disease is taken before the cancer begins to spread. After spreading has begun the patient's outlook is dark as the odds slowly mount up against him until they are a hundred to one. At the start the odds in favor of the patient are fully as great."

SIDE TALKS.

By Ruth Cameron.

What the City Gives Free.

If you had to bring up a family of children on so scant an income that there would be none left over for pleasures and the child had to find his own way in which place do you think he would have a better chance, in the city or the country?

Which is the luckier—the poor child in the city or in the country? Maybe you think they are neither with the children of the well-to-do perhaps they are not. (You notice I say perhaps). But if you compare them with the children of the well-to-do perhaps of other lands, or of any other age, they are.

What the City Gives Free.

Imagine yourself a child with no money furnished you for amusement but with a will to be happy, and a big city at your disposal. Couldn't you have a pretty good time? In any large city the shop windows are in themselves a free display of things beautiful and interesting; and the child with no immediate hope of possession can enjoy their contents without the envy and discontent an older person would feel. Then there are playgrounds, parks, zoos, free concerts, parades of the circus, lodge or distinguished visitor variety, libraries with perfectly unlimited stores of pleasure between the cloth covers of their tens of thousands of volumes. In the winter, if it is a northern city there are skating places kept clean by the city, very likely there are toboggan coasts, too. In the summer there are probably free baths and tennis courts in some park or playground.

How, you may ask, is the child to get the equipment for these pleasures if his family cannot give him any money. Again the city is ready to help him. No child who is willing to make the effort to earn money lacks for the opportunity in a big, free spending American city. The money children are paid for their time to-day is something astonishing to us who remember the penny and nickel tips of our childhood.

What the Country Gives Free.

And now, how about the child in the country? What does he have for free pleasures? Well, he too, probably has a library in the nearest town, excellent very likely though small. He doesn't have parades but he has town fair day and the Church picnic and the country fair, if it's near enough, and some kind of community Fourth of July celebration. And then he has the infinite possibilities of field and wood and steam at his command. In the summer he may swim or go berrying or fishing. In winter in the north there is skating and coasting and shooting and trapping and ice fishing. So, too, need not lack for pocket money if he has the least ambition: I know two boys, who not only have plenty of pocket money but bank a goodly sum every winter from their trapping.

A Girl Can Have Almost as Much.

I discover that I have unconsciously done something that I didn't mean to do. My child is not just a child, he's a boy. Well, after all that's not strange for I think they have the best time of anyone in the world. But thanks be to the change in attitude toward the sexes, most of the pleasures I have enumerated above could be a girl's too, in these days.

Giant Pine Tree of Japan is Dead.

In Japan a tree may have a personality, it may be an object of respect; it may even become an object of worship, or a shrine. Of such was the Karasaki Pine, one of Japan's most famous trees, on the shores of Lake Biwa, not far from Kyoto, and associated with the life of the people for more than 1000 years. It had come to be regarded in the light of a national treasure, since it was a link between Japan's early civilization and the proud Japan of world-power fame. It has recently been pronounced officially dead, says a Tokio letter to the Montreal Star.

The Karasaki Pine was so remarkable for the contour of its branches, that some fantastic spirit seemed to dwell within it. It had made a stout growth of trunk to a height of 30 feet. Thence it sent out a great circular sweep of branches that stretched outward and swayed downward, covering in its prime an area of three acres. There were 380 of these, in girth as thick as an ordinary pine, the heaviest propped up with poles or supported by piles of stones, leaving just enough room for one to stand beneath.

According to tradition, it once flourished in the palace garden of an Emperor. Other accounts say that it was on the estate of one of the priestly families that had a close connection with the Buddhist monastery of Hieiizan, the mountain that towers above Lake Biwa. Just beside the Karasaki Pine there is a little shrine sacred to the memory of a lady of this ancient priestly family, but she had become so misty that most visitors to the Karasaki Pine worshipped the venerable tree, taking it as a symbol of longevity and prosperity.

So for 500 years this pine has been known throughout Japan; travellers have gone out of their way for one sight of it. In the dreams of 500 years ago, in fiction and travel sketches, there is frequent mention of it, and many a poet has taken it as his inspiration. Each summer a festival was held in honor of the tree and thousands of lanterns were hung from its branches, the people of the towns and villages round the lake coming to enjoy a day and night of pleasure. For hundreds of years it has afforded the youths and maidens of this lake country a meeting place.

Beetles That Bore.

THE TAPPING OF THE "DEATH WATCH" BEETLE IS REALLY HIS LOVE SONG TO A MATE.

It is a startling discovery that Death Watch beetles are perpetually tapping out the doom of many a venerable beam and rafter, as well as pieces of priceless old furniture in the most historic buildings to be found in the Old Country.

Several buildings of which the metropolis is justly proud have become so suspect as to be earmarked for careful, expert inspection. It is feared that when this inspection takes place the ravages of these destructive pests will be found to be, unfortunately, all too serious in character. The "Death Watch" beetle is the "bad boy" of a family of what are known as "furniture beetles," all of which are intent on more or less ruthless warfare against any choice bit of old oak or chestnut which falls in their way.

Why the "Death Watch" Why such a gruesome name—a name which almost makes one conjure up in one's mind an insect displaying some such markings as a skull and crossbones? But, of course, there is nothing of that kind about this particular beetle, which, in fact, is almost as harmless and innocent a looking insect as can be found.

DESTROYING THE DESTROYERS. The fact that there is connected with the insect a superstitious belief that its tapping by a sick bed in the stillness of the night presages death in the house.

It is certainly a premonition of death to the timbers and furniture of very old houses and other buildings. Nothing is often suspected until the wood is found to be a mere shell and the interior reduced to powder. The tissue of the wood has been eaten by the death beetle or one of its equally destructive relatives.

It that they are mostly drilled by the beetles themselves in making their exit.

The best means of destroying the grub in the wood have often been the subject of discussion. A host of "destructors" have been recommended at various times, but paraffin oil or turpentine seems to be the most favored.

Many years ago a famous dean advised the application of a kettle of boiling water. This, however, is felt to threaten as much danger to the furniture, at least, as to the beetle or grub itself.

"The Woman God Changed."

One of the most powerful photographs shown in a long time, in "The Woman God Changed" which is the principal attraction at the Nickel Theatre to-night.

Anna Janssen, a dancing girl, listens to the vows of love of Alastair De Vries and gives up everything for his sake. When he discards her for another woman, Anna kills him. The police department learn that she has gone to Tahiti, and send a detective after her. This man, Thomas McCarthy, has never regarded women with much favor. He finds Anna is leading her old immortal life in the Southern Pacific, and arrests her, without any feelings of sentiment. The ship upon which they sail for the United States sinks at sea, and only the detective and his prisoner are saved, being cast on a deserted island. They remain on the island for over three years, each day making it harder for the detective to think of taking Anna back to stand trial. When a ship is sighted he refuses to light a signal fire, but Anna does it herself. The man she loves must do his duty before everything else! On the stand McCarthy tells just what has taken place. The jury is obliged to bring in a verdict of guilty, but the judge sentences Anna to the care of her husband for the rest of her life.

Mother and Her Baby Are Relieved of Eczema

Mrs. Peter A. Palmer, Salt Burn, Sask., writes: "Dr. Chase's Ointment has completely relieved me of eczema and piles. I also used this Ointment for my baby, who broke out in eczema. A few applications were all that was necessary in her case. Dr. Chase's Ointment has been worth a hundred dollars to me—before using it I had spent a great deal more than that in unsuccessful treatment from doctors. We have also used Dr. Chase's other medicines, the Nerve Food having restored my health after suffering from severe nerve trouble when a girl."

The Truth About SUNLIGHT SOAP

SUNLIGHT SOAP is guaranteed PURE UNADULTERATED SOAP.

Five thousand dollars (1000 pounds) will be paid to anyone proving this statement to be untrue. You will find this guarantee on every Sunlight Soap wrapper.

Ordinary so-called cheap soap does not average more than 70 per cent. REAL SOAP to the bar or pound, the remaining 30 per cent. consists of water and fillers.

When you buy SUNLIGHT SOAP at 15 cents, you get 15 cents worth of REAL PURE SOAP, without any adulterants or injurious chemicals or fillers.

So-called cheap soap sells in 8 ounce bars for 10 cents and in 4 ounce bars for 5 cents. SUNLIGHT SOAP at 15 cents for 12 ounces costs only 10 cents for 8 ounces and 5 cents for 4 ounces.

Consequently SUNLIGHT SOAP costs no more than the so-called cheap soaps; but because SUNLIGHT is REAL PURE SOAP, it costs less than adulterated soap.

When you buy SUNLIGHT SOAP you get 15 cents worth of Soap, but when you buy inferior soap at the same cost, you get less than 11 cents worth of soap.

Therefore when you buy an 8 ounce bar of inferior soap for 10 cents, you really get only 7 cents worth of REAL SOAP. You throw away 3 cents.

In addition to actually wasting money when you buy adulterated soap, you lose several dollars through the damage done to your clothing by injurious soap.

It pays to use Sunlight Soap. Every intelligent woman knows that SUNLIGHT SOAP is purest and best, and cheapest in the long run.

If you do not need a large 15 cent bar of SUNLIGHT SOAP buy a half bar. SUNLIGHT is so pure that it will not injure even a baby's tender skin.

Tell your wash woman to use SUNLIGHT SOAP; if necessary, supply her with a half bar. Don't destroy your expensive clothing with injurious soap.

Missionary Meetings at Harbor Grace.

St. Paul's Annual Missionary Meeting was held last evening in St. Paul's Hall, according to a news item in Harbor Grace Standard of Friday, Nov. 10. The Rev. Canon Jeeves, Rector of the Cathedral, St. John's, and Rev. H. V. Whitehouse, of Carbonear, were the speakers. The Rev. J. Brinton, of the Cathedral, St. John's, and the Revs. W. E. R. Cracknell and W. R. J. Higgett were introduced by lantern slides and was a most interesting one, dealing with the life and work of the early Church and Christians up to the time of St. Augustine. A large audience was present and all greatly enjoyed the address.

Shareholder Makes Amends.

Dear Sir.—Will you of your goodness grant me sufficient space in your to-day's issue to express my regret to "Newfoundlander" for having used the word mongrel in connection with his letter. I was not aware of my use of that expression until I saw it in cold type. Upon reflection and after consideration, I beg to withdraw the adjective. One should always remember the amenities of correct correspondence, no matter upon what subject written, and I wholeheartedly and unreservedly withdraw this opprobrious epithet. At the same time I do not take back or apologise for any other criticism attempted on the subject, and will be only too pleased to assist other shareholders in this concern to read a profit in their investments.

Yours truly,
Nov. 13, 1922. SHAREHOLDER.

Cancer is an Old Disease

THE RECORDS SHOWS IT EXISTED 1600 YEARS B.C.

New York, Nov. 13.—Cancer is almost the oldest disease of mankind, according to a statement issued here by the American Society for the Control of Cancer. Descriptions of conditions now known to be cancer, are found among the fragmentary records of ancient India and Persia. It was known to the Egyptians before the time of Moses and is distinctly mentioned in the Papyrus Ebers 1500 B.C. Herodotus tells us that Democedes cured Atossa, daughter of Darius, King of Persia, of a cancer of the breast, 520 B.C., while Daniel was a captive in Babylon.

Hippocrates accumulated a vast quantity of information on the subject. He was the first to use the cautery, a hot piece of metal, on the skin cancer, 450 B.C. Leonides of Alexandria, 180 B.C., first describes retraction of the nipple in cancer of the breast, and using a scalpel and cautery performed an operation almost as extensive as the one perfected by Dr. Halstead only 20 years ago.

Galen, the great Surgeon and Physiologist, who died A.D. 200, wrote extensively on the subject. His writings were still in use as late as the time of Queen Elizabeth, and with

JOB'S STORES, Ltd.

Little exception there was no advance in our knowledge of cancer pathology throughout the Byzantine and Renaissance periods. During the Dark Ages, cancer was looked upon as an evidence of Divine Wrath, for the ban of the church on medical as well as on her scientific investigation prevented anything in the nature of research. As a result of this belief, a great wave of faith cure and quackery spread over Europe, which reached its height during and immediately following the reign of Queen Elizabeth, in every effort to ascertain the nature or cause of cancer was made.

Firemen Called Out.

BLAZE AT E. D. SPURRELL'S TAILOR SHOP.
The West End and Central Fire Companies were called out at 12:40 yesterday morning to the tailor shop of E. D. Spurrell, Water St., where a fire was in progress near the main counter. The blaze was first noticed by Constables Pitcher and Pike who were doing early morning duty. By their promptness in sounding the general alarm a conflagration of serious proportions was averted. When the fire companies arrived there was quite a blaze in the shop, while huge volumes of smoke poured out through the main entrance, which made it difficult for the firefighters to get at the source of the flames. A couple of good streams of water, however, were soon brought to play on the burning store, and after some twenty minutes the blaze was subdued. The damage caused the store and stock was extensive. The stock is covered by insurance, $1000.00 each with the companies represented by Bishop & Sons and Bowring Bros. Ltd. How the fire originated is not known, as everything was in order when Mr. Auckentech left the store the previous evening. Mr. E. D. Spurrell is at present in Alberta.

"Behold My Wife!" One of the Finest Films of the Year.

SIR GILBERT PARKER STORY
PICTURIZED BY GEO. MELFORD WITH ALL-STAR CAST.

Hailed by the critics and motion picture public as one of the finest productions of the current season, George Melford's "Behold My Wife!" is coming to the Majestic Theatre, commencing to-morrow. The story was adapted from Sir Gilbert Parker's novel of the Canadian Northwest, "The Translation of a Savage."

The central characters are the aristocratic son of an English family and the simple Indian girl whom he encounters in Canada while he is on business for the Hudson's Bay Company. Receiving word from his fiancée back in England that she has broken with him because of his family's objection to their marriage, the youth, in a fit of rage, marries the Indian girl and sends her back to England as his wife to disgrace his blue-blooded status. However, dramatic events work a transformation in both the young Englishman and his bride and the ending is a happy one. "Behold My Wife" has been filmed against a back-ground of snow-capped mountain peaks, bleak Canadian trading posts, and luxurious English country homes. The action is interpreted by a distinguished cast including Mabel Julienne Scott, Elliott Dexter, Milton Sills, and Ann Forrest. Frank Condon adapted the story to the screen. It is a paramount picture.

St. Andrew's Church.

IMPRESSIVE SERVICES YES-TERDAY.
The services held in St. Andrew's church yesterday were both impressive and inspiring. The Rev. Robert J. Power, M.A., occupied the pulpit at the morning and evening services, large congregations being present at both. In the evening the minister continued his sermons on "Intimate Talks on Home Relationship," "Husbands and Fathers," which was listened to with rapt attention by the entire congregation. The discourse, which was very ably delivered by the Rev. gentleman will be continued next Sunday, when the sermon will be "To Mothers." The singing by the choir was all that could be desired. The anthems "God is Love," "Hearken Unto Me, My People," were splendid renditions. Mr. D. McIntosh sang a solo "Seek Ye The Lord," at the evening service.

It's Early to Talk of Christmas.

But there are so many good things to be said about Richard Hudnut's Perfumes and Toilet Goods as Christmas gifts, that we must begin early in order to tell everything.

Perfume has always been closely associated with the true spirit of Christmas. Most ladies of refinement love good Perfume, and Hudnut's Perfume is good. It has that lasting, refreshing, unobtrusive odor, which means so much to people of culture.

Hudnut's Perfumes are artistically packaged for the Christmas Season, and you will surely find in the assortment an odor that will appeal as a Christmas gift. You show good taste when you select Hudnut's.

Workmen at Bermuda. MEN COMFORTABLY HOUSED.

Letters brought by Saturday's express brought the first news of the laboring parties who left here some time ago for Bermuda. The men arrived on Oct. 31st and were met at the docks by Rev. Dr. Saint, Rev. Canon Mariott (who spent years in Newfoundland) members of the Salvation Army, and Hon. J. P. Hand and given an almost royal reception. The men report their quarters as very comfortable and the food excellent. Mr. Frank Mahoney, who left here with the Schem's party, in writing to a friend here says that Hon. J. P. Hand besides supplying the men with smokes, writing material, etc., is taking a great interest in their welfare and they speak in glowing terms of his conduct. For the present they are being employed at Tucker's Town, a few miles from the capital, Hamilton, where a new clubhouse is being erected at the golf course. Work at the new hotel which will cost in the vicinity of $2,000,000.00 is starting immediately. As soon as the necessary excavation is finished it is likely that Major Butler of the Employment Bureau will be engaging masons, etc., and any tradesman desirous of securing employment there should register their names with him.

"Early in my business career I made it a rigid rule to invest a third of my net yearly income in Life Insurance.
