The images appearing here are the best quality possible, considering the condition and legibility of the original copy and in keeping with the filming contract specifications.

Original copies in printed paper covers are filmed beginning with the front cover and ending on the last page with a printed or illustrated impression, or the back cover when appropriate. All other original copies are filmed beginning on the first page with a printed or illustrated impression, and ending on the last page with a printed or illustrated impression.

The last recorded frame on each microfiche shall contain the symbol  $\rightarrow$  (meaning "CONTINUED"), or the symbol  $\nabla$  (meaning "END"), whichever applies.

Maps, plates, charts, etc., may be filmed at different reduction ratios. Those too large to be entirely included in one exposure are filmed beginning in the upper left hand corner, left to right and top to bottom, as many frames as required. The following diagrams illustrate the method:

Les images suivantes ont été reproduites avec le plus grand soin, compte tenu de la condition et de la netteté de l'exemplaire filmé, et en conformité avec les conditions du contrat de filmage.

Les exemplaires originaux dont la couverture en papier est imprimée sont filmés en commençant par le premier plat et en terminant soit par la dernière page qui comporte une empreinte d'impression ou d'illustration, soit par le second plat, selon le cas. Tous les autres exemplaires originaux sont filmés en commençant par la première page qui comporte une empreinte d'impression ou d'illustration et en terminant par la dernière page qui comporte une telle empreinte.

Un des symboles suivants apparaît sur la dernière image de chaque microfiche, selon le cas: le symbole  $\rightarrow$  signifie "A SUIVRE", le symbole  $\nabla$  signifie "FIN".

Les cartes, planches, tableaux, etc., peuvent être filmés à des taux de réduction différents. Lorsque le document est trop grand pour être reproduit en un seul cliché, il est filmé à partir de l'angle supérieur gauche, de gauche à droite, et de haut en bas, en prenant le nombre d'images nécessaire. # LABOR DAY

BY EDWARD WILLIAMS

"Man is man through all gradations,
Little reck it where he stands,
How divided into nations,
Scattered over many lands;
Man is man by form and feature,
Man by vice and virtue too,
Man in all one common nature
Speaks and binds us brothers true."

THE dawn of Labor's National Holiday will be welcomed by the toiling masses of our vast Dominion. Labor Day marks a new epoch in the history of the industrial classes, for, till the end of time, once each year they will rest from toil and in countless thousands celebrate the progress of their industrial emancipation.

All broad-minded men will concede that it was fit and proper that Labor should have one day each year proclaimed free from all restraint, and assemble to carry on the work taught by the poor Carpenter, "Do unto others even as you would they should do unto you."

That Parliament has made Labor Day a national holiday is a tardy recognition of those noble beings who in the past, through vituperation and calumny, suffered persecution for defending the rights and liberties of men, and who claimed that the Trades Union was destined to develop the highest of manhood in the march of civilization, and as feudalism showed barbarism, so education and enlightenment would slowly but successfully bring about the freedom of thought and action which asserts the equality of rights before

Trades unionism is not a visionary theory, to be spoken of contemptuously as an "ism." It is a fact, founded on principles of justice, law and truth. It is cosmopolite in tenet rather than dogmatic, and regards the interests of mankind, rather than of its own class or kind. It is open to the world, regardless of sex, color, nationality or political affiliation. In its organization it is as lawful and holy as the church. It takes no private road; it seeks to guard the interests of the weak and helpless. It is not a secret oath-bound cabal, its councils being private only in the sense which is proper in conducting the affairs of a firm or corporation. The trades union typifies in the fullest and broadest sense the brotherhood of man.

Early in the seventies thinking men were seriously studying the necessity of a movement for the betterment of their condition. This culminated in an agitation known as the "Nine-Hour Movement." Hamilton, being a manufacturing centre, played an important role and naturally supplied its quota of enthusiastic supporters. Many of these men will be honorably remembered for their self-sacrifice and devotion to the cause of labor and social reform. To them must be attributed, to a great extent, the success of the present Trades and Labor Council.

In 1883, under the auspices of District Council, No. 62, K. of L., the old Central Labor Union was formed. Though crude in many particulars, it was instrumental in facilitating municipal and legislative reforms. From time to time it made a creditable effort to secure direct labor representation, both in the Ontario Legislature and Dominion Parliament.

Hamilton Labor Day Demonstration, Sept. 6, 1897

1888 the Central Labor Union had practically ceased to exist, and the present Trades and Labor Council was formed, with William Derby, president; William McAndrew, vice-president, and D. R. Gibson, secretary. At the present time the Council is composed of representatives from nearly all the labor organizations of the city, and was at no time in its history better equipped for carrying out its useful purpose.

That there may be no cause for misunderstanding on the part of anyone as to the ground upon which Hamilton Trades and Labor Council has ever stood, and upon which it still stands, and so that the principles governing its work and mission may be kept prominently before the public eye as opportunity offers, both in justice to organized labor in Hamilton and as a medium of propaganda, the "Preamble" to and "Declaration of Principles" in the Constitution of that body is reproduced here, and are as follows:

PREAMBLE.

In order to better protect the workers, artisans and laborers in the struggle now going on in the civilized world between the oppressor and the oppressed, between the capitalist and the laborer, which grows in intensity from year to year, and will work disastrous results to the toilers if they are not combined for mutual protection and benefit;

It therefore behooves the representatives of the Trades and Labor Unions of this city in Council assembled to adopt such principles among the mechanics and laborers as will permanently unite them to secure the recognition of the rights to which they are justly entitled.

We therefore declare ourselves in favor of the formation of a central body embracing every Trade and Labor Organization in the city organized under the trades union system, to be known as the Trades and Labor Council of Hamilton. Its work should be to bring all trades together in closer unity for the better protection of our interests as workmen and for the wider extension of the principles of trade unionism, so that all organized bodies of labor may make common cause, and that none may suffer for want of that practical and pecuniary assistance which isolated and detached, we cannot secure, and which united and consolidated, we are the more likely to obtain. It is the most natural and assimilative form of bringing the trade and labor unions together, at the same time preserving the industrial autonomy and distinctive character of each trade and labor union, and without doing violence to their respective constitutions or traditions, blends them all in one harmonious whole—a federation of labor.

With such a body we should look to the organization of the unorganized working people in our city. Isolated labor in conflict with consolidated capital, in many cases has been driven to the wall, and defeated for a time, until thoroughly and permanently organized. A systematic propaganda can be inaugurated that would strengthen and enliven all the unions by the distribution of trade union literature and creating a public demand for union goods and union labels, a reduction of the hours of labor so that the toilers may participate in the benefits of labor-saving machinery.

To rescue our trades and other callings from the condition into which they have fallen; to raise ourselves to that position in society to which we, as workmen, are justly entitled; to place ourselves on a foundation sufficiently strong to protect us from further encroachments; and to elevate the moral, social and intellectual condition of the workmen, is a work of necessity of which has been fully demonstrated. We believe unity of action can be best accomplished by an organization composed of delegates elected by the various Trades and Labor organizations; and therefore,

Resolved, That we, representatives of the various Trades and Labor organizations in Hamilton, in order to form a central organization for the benefit of all laboring men, do adopt the following

DECLARATION OF PRINCIPLES:

1. While opposed to entering any political party as a body, we declare it to be our duty to use our influence with the law-making powers to secure the following objects: The adoption of proper laws regulating the hours constituting a day's work; reforms in prison labor so as to prevent the product of convict labor coming into competition with honest industry; and such other laws as may be beneficial.
2. We declare it the duty of every workingman to use his utmost endeavors to secure the amelioration of the condition of the laboring classes generally, and to accomplish this we believe that a central organization should exist, whereby all branches of labor may form allies to any particular one that may be oppressed.
3. We hereby pledge ourselves to assist each other in securing fair wages by honorable means, and we shall withdraw and use our influence to have others withdraw all patronage from any unfair employer, let his calling be what it may.
4. We declare that all existing beneficial labor laws should be rigidly enforced, and we pledge ourselves to take such measures as will secure their enforcement.
5. We are in favor of arbitration whenever differences exist between employers and employed.

6. We favor productive and distributive co-operation and the self-employment of labor, as only complete independence can be obtained when the laborer is no longer dependent on other individuals for the right to work; and especially do we recommend that whenever trades strike for the accomplishment of any just purpose, if the funds of the organization will allow it, the resistance, instead of being passive, should become active and aggressive, by using the funds productively instead of unproductively.

7. That we favor day labor in preference to contracts on all works of a public character.

8. We favor the ownership and operation by municipalities or by the provincial and national governments of all natural monopolies, such as electric light works, street railways, the postal, telephone and telegraph systems, steam and electric railways, etc.

UNION LABELS

BY JOHN N. ROBERT

The Union Label and its great possible influence as a factor in the pending solution of social problems is a new proposition only to that portion of the community not connected with workingmen's trade organizations. For seventeen years the union printer, hatter, iron molder, shoemaker and building trade workmen have been familiar with the blue label placed upon cigars by the union cigar makers, as a token of clean shop surroundings and good wages. During twelve years these organized workers have found hidden in their hats the fraternal message to them from the fair factory of their brother hatter. Six years of agitation by the Typographical Union has secured recognition from other craftsmen of the one safe channel through which their money may flow back to the pockets of well paid printers.

The organized workers know the value of this means of mutual assistance, and they know that its logical development will commend it to a large and growing class of consumers outside of labor unions who are now taking a friendly interest in the subject. They therefore aim to enlist and hold the cooperation of all classes in extending this improved line of social reform work, and they appeal to the general public for support on these grounds:

That, while primarily the extension of the label makes the union strong, it is this very strength that begets the friendly conference between employer and employed, which averts the strike and preserves the peace. The history of our stronger unions proves this.

That the label is the boycott's substitute. It puts good will in place of savagery. Instead of tearing down the bad man's trade, it builds the good one's up. The fair employer, asked about his help, is proud to say: "My men and I are on good terms. See the label on our work."

That a consolidation of union label interests, besides giving added power to each affiliating union, has the approval of public opinion because all is harmony there—the label league has no disputes; no quarrels between organizations under this banner; no conflicting grievances to waste the time and patience of the delegates; no sympathetic strikes to threaten civic order.

That the label condemns tenement and sweatshop production for the benefit of the worker and the sanitary world.

That the label never tempts "Christian civilization" to assist the factory tyrant in the soulless system which is crushing out the young life blood of our race. It would keep the child at school, run the mill with adult labor and enshrine the workman's home.

That the label largely solves the convict labor problem, when the state adopts this emblem as the mark by which her people may readily distinguish public work done under just conditions. Montana has just enacted a law that requires the union label upon official printing for all the state departments. A statute like this in New York would have prevented the prison competition which now menaces the joint interests of employer and employed in the printing trade. Utica (N. Y.,) forbids the use in public works of any iron molding that does not bear the Molders' Union trade mark of fair production.

TRADES AND LABOR CONGRESS OF CANADA

The Trades and Labor Congress of Canada will hold its thirtieth annual session in the Court House, Hamilton, Ont., commencing Monday, September 13th, at 9 a. m. There will be a large representation present from every province of the Dominion, and matters of great importance to every working-man in Canada will be taken up. The Congress stands in the same relation to organized labor of Canada as the American Federation of Labor does to that of the United States, and has been instrumental in effecting many reforms in the laws affecting the wage-earners of Canada, besides affording an opportunity at its annual sessions for an expression of the best thoughts of the leading spirits in the ranks of labor in this country. The coming session is expected to be unusually interesting, and a full representation is assured. Following is a list of the officers for 1896-97:

DAVID A. CAREY, of Toronto, President.

RALPH SMITH, of Nanaimo, B. C., Vice-President.
