T. EATON CO LIMITED

DEFENDS REPORT ON THE RAILWAYS

Sir Harry Drayton Addresses Canadian Club on Commission's Finding

SITUATION IS SERIOUS

Speaker Calls Upon Public-Spirited Citizens to Give it Consideration

After Sir Harry Drayton, speaking before the Canadian Club yesterday, had pleaded for a careful study of the minority report of the Dominion Railway Commission, he launched out into a defence of the majority report presented recently at Ottawa by himself and Mr. A. C. Howarth.

Outlining the situation which faced the country with regard to its railway system, Sir Harry said that it was safe to regard the country's commitments to the systems as a billion dollars. Toronto was no mean city. Its citizens did not regard the assessment as too low.

And that is not all, said Sir Harry. Much more, he said, must be granted. Will there be a change, or will the country's money be applied as in the past? Yes, it would take more money, or shall we co-ordinate the present systems to the best of our possibilities to prevent wasteful duplication both in the east and in the west? (Applause.)

It is a practical issue with which we are confronted. The decision rests with the people. Read both reports; Mr. Smith's as sympathetically as that by myself and Mr. A. C. Howarth. We have done our best. We have said what we think. Mr. Smith has done the same. I plead for a fair consideration and nothing else.

The whole interest is that the right thing should be done after full consideration, not the easy thing or the popular thing. And one thing is sure: that all party and political bias be dropped in considering this question. (Applause.)

We have a common danger, a common necessity for common action. The one question is how can the country's business best be carried on, how can its transportation needs be best served, how can the country's money best be administered?

Commissioners' Qualifications. Sir Harry then spoke of the qualifications of the members of the commission. He said that the members of the commission were of the highest quality.

Speaking of Mr. A. C. Howarth's qualifications, Sir Harry said that while he was accused of being entirely competent and theoretical the executive council of the railway systems of the United States had retained him as their accredited representative to appear before the congressional committee at Washington.

Mr. A. C. Howarth was regarded as the head of the underground system which controlled the transportation of the metropolis both above and below ground. "When such a man tells you that his own system of private ownership of railways is a failure in Canada, it is a good thing to listen to him."

Mr. A. C. Howarth defended the commission in leaving alone the C.P.R. system. In doing so they had laid themselves open to criticism both from public and private ownership, he said. His main line of argument was that the C.P.R. had not failed in its obligations to the people, and since public ownership was not a complete and well balanced road with little need of development, the C.P.R. was leaving it alone they were not mortgaging the future, and this could not be said of the other roads, which both needed more equipment. The C.P.R. had great financial strength, and its nationalization in this time of crisis would not add to the nation's borrowing power. Besides, since the company was giving good service, there was no need to run the risk of possible mistakes in inaugurating public ownership.

"It is a good thing to walk before you run. It is a good thing to make experiments where they can't hurt, and that is exactly what we are doing," said Sir Harry.

C.P.R. Would Give Competition. No railway could stand still. The C.P.R. must go ahead to keep up with public requirements. It might as well do so from its liquid assets, he said. It would be a good thing to have yardstick of some sort to measure the accomplishment of publicly-owned roads. It would be a good thing to have competition. The C.P.R. would give these. Sir Harry denied that it would be unfair to the government to place it in competition with the C.P.R. If public ownership could stand competition why go into it? Equally he denied the other argument also advanced, that public competition would be unfair to the C.P.R. that is, if it were run with fairness and decency, as Sir Adam Beck ran the hydro.

The G.T.R. was at the end of its tether. "You own the C.P.R. already. Why not acknowledge it? You are in the position of the mortgagee when the mortgagee says he can't pay and does not see any prospect of paying. You have had the railway washed on you." (Laughter.) It was absurd to talk of taking over the unprofitable end of the system, the G.T.R., leaving the profitable end with the private owners. The two systems were comple-

CITY HALL NOTES

The board of control yesterday discussed the increase in salaries to public employees overseas, but did not make any decision. It will decide the matter next week.

Works Commissioner Harris has notified Ald. Donald MacGregor that the work of completing the pavement on Lansdowne avenue at the College street intersection will start next week. Ald. MacGregor has been urging the work for considerable time.

Mayor Church states that there is a wide difference between the capital and maintenance cost of the Technical School cost $2,448,611 and the city hall $2,844,902. The interest and sinking charges on the former are $168,689, and on the latter $118,183. The total maintenance charges of the Technical School are $222,102, and on the city hall $184,685.

Remittances For Soldier Men at the Front

Those desiring to send small remittances to their relatives or friends in the trenches in France, can obtain French paper money for that purpose at the office of Messrs. A. F. Webster & Son, at Yonge street. The money can also be secured for those in England.

PROPERTY COMMITTEE HOLDS LIVELY SESSION

Trustee Hamby Objects to Items in Accounts Presented by Building Superintendent

Objection to some items in the accounts presented by Superintendent of Buildings Bishop was raised by Trustee F. P. Hamby at yesterday's meeting of the property committee of the board of education. One was for $698.10 to R. Paterson for "common room at Assiniboia street school." It was described as an "unfortunate expenditure," and caused by the freezing of the steam radiator system. "The pipes blew the whole plant out," said Trustee Hamby. The item was referred back for a detailed statement.

Another item was for F. Armstrong, Co. "writing at McMurrich school, 4105, and extras, $111.81." It was also referred back for details. F. Paul, representing John Stark Co., appeared, requesting permission to rent 50 feet frontage of the board's vacant land on East Bloor street, opposite St. Paul's Church, for the purpose of erecting a gasoline station. A rental of $50 a month was offered. The matter was referred to a special committee to report.

The matter was referred to a special committee to report. The committee from the Toronto and District Council of Carpenters was read protesting against the rate of 50 cents per hour paid to carpenters. It was suggested that the union rate of 55 cents be paid. The matter was referred to the superintendent of buildings for a report.

An echo of the recent controversy concerning the two painting inspectors, John Stewart and C. H. Brund, was heard when a report from Superintendent Bishop was read. It stated that John Stewart has resigned and that C. H. Brund had been notified that his services as foreman painter will not be required after June 30.

"Passed," said Chairman F. B. Edmunds immediately, when Trustees McMurrich and Hamby and Mrs. Courtice asked for further information. Trustee Miles Vokes stated that it was interfering with the heads of departments, who have the power to engage or discharge those under them, but it was afterwards proved that the bylaw distinctly states that the property committee has power to act following a lengthy discussion, Superintendent Bishop's report was upheld.

JOHN NESS TO SERVE BALANCE OF SENTENCE

Is Refused New Trial on Charge of Interrupting Recruiting Meeting

John Ness, convicted in police court for alleged disturbance at a street recruiting meeting held by Samuel Boal for the Queen's Own Battalion, must serve the remainder of his thirty days sentence imposed by Judge Macpherson, magistrate, who has served only two days of his sentence, was refused a new trial by Judge Macpherson in general sessions yesterday afternoon.

That he had been imprisoned in Belfast in 1911 for the stand he took in behalf of Ulster was a disclosure admitted by Mr. Boal under cross-examination by J. G. O'Donoghue, attorney for Ness. Mr. Boal further said that evidence upon which he was imprisoned was using language which was likely to cause a breach of the peace.

The recorder added that in Ireland it was considered an honor to be imprisoned for a principle, and cited Redmond's incarceration to emphasize his statement. In repeating the testimony offered in the police court hearing, Mr. Boal especially marked the alleged statement of Ness: "I don't care who wins the war, British nor German." After dismissing Ness' appeal, the judge also refused to reduce the sentence.

GUILTY OF FRAUD

Guilty of obtaining money from sympathetic admirers by posing as a returned soldier Amos W. Field was sentenced to three months at the jail farm yesterday morning in the police court. Field was at one time an officer's servant and pleaded with Magistrate Denison to allow him to enlist, but the magistrate said criminals were not wanted in the army.

BRANT FARMERS APPEAR NOT TO WANT HELP

Employment Agent Cites Case of Inability of Men to Secure Work

Special to The Toronto World. Brantford, May 10.—That there are men in the city willing to go out and work on the farms, but that the farmers do not appear to be at all anxious to get help, was the claim made by a prominent alderman this morning. His authority was an employment agent who cited the case of six men who were desirous of going back to the land, but the farmers did not appear to want them. It is further claimed that appearances point to the fact that the farmers in Brant county are holding up enough potatoes to supply the whole demand here. It is thought that when the city's order arrives there will be a slump in the potato market. That western potatoes are not suitable for seed in Ontario is the view of the O.A.C., who has written to the municipal authorities here. "Western potatoes are uncertain in their results."

SEEDING AT BRANDON

Brandon, Man., May 10.—Unless adverse weather conditions intervene, the wheat crop in this district will be sown by the end of this week. It is estimated that 90 per cent. is already in the ground. There will be slightly increased average over last year, and conditions are somewhat similar. There is moisture and frost on the west side, opposite the Rosedale golf links, and adjoins the northern city limits. Applications for farm labor are still coming in to the War Production Club in large numbers, and yesterday two Dominion Bank clerks left for a farm to work for the season. Another notable application was from one concern, where 23 employees offered their services for three months. They are all experienced in farm work and each has been on a different farm. This is the class of men that the farmers want, and the War Production Club, as well as the provincial farm labor bureau, are anxious to receive applications from them.

School children are also adding to the greater production movement, and the War Production Club their first collection of seed potatoes. The club is expecting sufficient potatoes from the city to distribute to all their Toronto applicants. The first lot, E. F. Trimble, secretary, announced, will be sent to a farmer in the vicinity of Upper Canada College. As their farm products are going to hospitals and charitable institutions, they are regarded as the first seeds.

Yesterday Rev. J. A. Miller, head of the Ontario farm labor bureau, received a letter from a farmer in Man. who had been in the army and had been discharged at once, and he concludes, "If I don't get one at once I will have acres and acres of land will not be sown to anything."

"This letter alone," said Rev. Miller, "should induce as a patriotic necessity every experienced man to consider the interest of Canada in this work, which it is hoped will be shortly largely extended. Mrs. Hawkins of Hamilton spoke of the remarkable success which had attended C.W.C.A. work in Hamilton, which for several months past had been shipped from C.W.C.A. in England 5000 pairs of socks, and from two to three thousand pairs of socks, and in May had sent $10,000. The secretary stated that in the last four months nearly 50,000 pairs of socks had been shipped thru the warehouse in Toronto to the C.W.C.A. The C.W.C.A. in London, Ont., has shipped very large quantities of socks, 60,000 having been sent since January. Mr. Colmer cables that he has made arrangements thru the high commissioner of South Africa to reach these men thru the South Africa gifts and comforts organization, and suggests that $500 should be sent for this purpose. As some of the men thru the high commissioner of South Africa there should be no difficulty in raising this sum. Contributions should be sent to the C.W.C.A., 56 Church street, Toronto.

PREMIER HEARST ON CONSTITUTION

Describes Machinery of the Provincial Government, at Convocation Hall.

That no country has a constitution better suited to its needs than Canada has under the British North American Act was the declaration of Premier Sir William Hearst in an address on "The Machinery of Provincial Government" before approximately 150 persons in Convocation Hall last night. The premier's address was the last of a series of lectures on "World's Citizenship" given in Convocation Hall under the auspices of the University of Toronto.

"Fifty years have proven the worth of the British North American Act," the premier said. "I doubt if any country ever produced a constitution more adapted to its needs than the British North American Act is adapted to the needs and conditions of Canada. The machinery of government under the provisions of this constitution is ample for all requirements."

Premier Hearst prefaced his address by reviewing the legislative history of Canada, giving a discussing various clauses of the British North American Act and showing that the legislature has power to alter the constitution, except insofar as the governor-general's office is concerned. He compared the American constitution with the act, showing the extent of state sovereignty and declaring that Australia's constitution was more similar to the American constitution than that of Canada. He showed how the fundamental principles of the two constitutions differed. He spoke of the powers conferred in the governor-general, how he and the lieutenant-governors were appointed; the authority, duty and personnel of the Dominion Parliament and the provincial legislatures. He discussed the jurisdiction of the privy council and the Dominion Judiciary Council.

After reviewing the Dominion and provincial authority, the premier told how different municipal bodies are formed and the duties which are carried out. The municipal institutions of the province, particularly Ontario, had been a success, he said. This was due, he declared, to the comprehensiveness of the powers of councils, the freedom of action, the responsibility of aldermen to the people, and the common honesty of the councilmen. He said there had been a general tendency to extend the power of the councils, and paid a tribute to the faithful and efficient service of councilmen generally. He expressed the belief that the day of the defaulting alderman in Canada was over.

FRIDAY MORNING, MAY 11.

Sir Henry Drayton's Address.

Sir Henry Drayton's address to the Canadian Club yesterday was very frankly a public ownership appeal and a plea for the adoption of that principle in the nationalization of Canadian railways. He was fortunate in having Sir Adam Beck beside him to confirm his statement of the fundamental principles necessary to the success of public ownership—fairness in bookkeeping, honesty in returns and proper observance of the underlying principle, no service below cost. The other condition that Sir Henry laid down was non-partisan operation, and this proved to be a very popular sentiment with the large and representative audience. Sir Henry was forceful in his remarks, and his eloquent appearance altogether belied his assertion that it was the first public address he had made. A series of such addresses through the country would assure the adoption of the report on nationalization with little dissent. Sir Henry was remarkably eloquent in stating the case, and handled the objections with a good deal of humor. The speech, which lasted about an hour, was highly practical, and based on facts and figures rather than on sentiment, which is always the start. It was a concrete problem to be approached in a concrete manner. It was a novel and practical way of conveying to his hearers the sum of money already invested in the bankrupt railways by the country—$242,451,437.

"It sounds an awful lot of money—almost it does to me," he remarked, with a droll glance at some of the millionaires. At the current rates of assessment on land and buildings it would just take the value of two Toronto to equal this sum of the country's commitments to the railways in the past. Later on he pointed out that nationalization was the logical result of existing conditions. With 197 millions plus invested in the G.T.P. there was no option. You own the railway already. You are in the position of a mortgagee when the mortgagee can't pay. He frankly says he can't. The railway is wretched on you. You've got it. This effective rally aroused much laughter. The question then was whether it could be made useful and valuable by including the Grand Trunk. "Are you going to take the end with which you can do nothing and return the G.T.R. their investment or will you make an equitable arrangement with the G.T.R.," he questioned.

Exclusive of the Transcontinental, the Intercolonial and the Prince Edward Island railways, 716 millions had gone to private railway corporations from the country. Much more was required, not a change of policy or would there be a change of policy or would the country's money be applied as in the past? Sir Henry thought that to state the question gave the answer, but he admitted that some disagreed. Later in his address he clinched the point, in dealing with the C.N.R. That railway obtained a great deal of money, not all by direct grants from the country, like the C.P.R., but chiefly indirectly by guarantees. The sum thus invested was $298,253,263. This is a sum $120,000,000 in excess of the country's investment in the National Transcontinental, the Intercolonial and the Prince Edward Island railways. "You own it," Sir Henry remarked, the country having invested $120,000,000 more in it than in the railways it already owns. Yet the C.N.R. investors themselves reported that they required $54,000,000 for three years to put it in proper order, or $86,000,000 for a five years program. Similarly the G.T.R. required $51,000,000. All of these figures are obtained from the railway officials themselves.

The future predicted for public ownership did not come well from corporation critics who had got these railways into their present condition by private operation, was one of the points Sir Henry expounded. He would ask that Mr. Smith's report be read as sympathetically as he would have read the report prepared by Mr. Acworth and himself. All he pleaded for, in the interests of the country, was a fair consideration. Applause greeted his statement that all party and political bias should be dropped in considering the matter. The question was not whether the Liberal or the Conservative party had done wrong here or there, but having a common danger, how could the country's interests best be conserved and the country's money best administered.

Some had held that only railway men were competent to pass on the subject, and that Mr. Acworth and Mr. Henry were mere students and theorists. The only railway man on the commission said: "Go on; pay the railway companies." Mr. Acworth said himself: "It was said, did not know and could not find out. Mr. Smith,

CONCLUDE EVIDENCE AT TRIAL OF RAILWAYMEN

Case Concerning Death of Lt. Col. Macdonald Will Be Finished Today. With the conclusion of testimony and arguments by counsel submitted in the case of Engineer John Ross and Signalman Patrick Hickey of the Grand Trunk Railway Company yesterday afternoon in general sessions, Judge Cotevorth announced that he would instruct the jury this morning. Hickey was the last witness who testified for the defence on the charge of criminal negligence in causing the death of Lt.-Col. William C. Macdonald in the union station Sunday night, May 21, during yesterday afternoon's session of court. He denied responsibility for the accident, and sought to show that the circumstances eliminated him from blame.

T. C. Robinette, acting for Ross, argued that both men bore good reputations and acted in accordance with past experience on the night of the accident. W. K. Murphy, counsel for Hickey, argued that the militia department should provide suitable apparatus under which relatives could bid farewell to soldiers without endangering their lives. Crown Attorney Green, in concluding his argument on each railway company's responsibility, stated that the C.N.R. should have operated his locomotive at a lower rate of speed in backing thru the station.

Canadian Merchants Benefit By American Board's Proposals

Surplus box cars may be delivered to connecting lines if necessary for the handling of the goods in the case of gondolas and hopper cars they are to be home routed in the most expedient manner. All complaints, appeals and special traffic conditions are to be brought before this body for final settlement.

YORK COUNTY CLAIMS DAMAGES FROM CITY

Says Expropriation of Metropolitan Will Work Injury, for Which Toronto Must Pay. Officials of the County of York yesterday filed a claim with the city for compensation of the injury which they stated would be sustained by their municipality thru the expropriation of the Metropolitan Railway within the city limits. No amount of compensation is named. The claim states that under certain agreements which the county has with the city, certain privileges and franchise rights inure to the county's benefit in respect to that portion of Yonge street affected by the expropriation. It holds that as the county made certain agreements with the city regarding the line now in the city, but then in the county, the county has still the full privileges conferred by the agreements, even to a re-demand that the matter be referred to the Ontario Railway Board for decision, as recent legislation gave the board authority to settle all claims in connection with the expropriation.

SCANDINAVIAN VIRTUOSO GIVES VIOLIN RECITAL

Rudolf Larsen Heard in Brilliant and Difficult Program. The hall of the Toronto Conservatory of Music was crowded to capacity last evening by a Scandinavian virtuoso, Rudolf Larsen, gave a violin recital, accompanied at the piano by Miss Olga Petrovsky. The recital was a fine exhibition of technique, and one that ranks the musician as a finished and accomplished master of his instrument. His program included the difficult concerto in D major of Tschakowsky, in which the allegro vivacissimo movement was particularly noteworthy. The program was also distinguished by the playing of the harmonics and double stopping being particularly striking. The other pieces were Vieuxtemps Ballade et Polonaise, Saint-Saens' Havanaise, the "Napoléon" by Szymanowski, Zephyr, by Hubay, and two selections by Percy Grainger.

AMERICAN BACK FROM FRONT Got Advance From Commission

An evening paper, which for some years has exhibited an almost unerring fondness for Mayor Lamm, yesterday described the mayor's generous action in lending out of his own pocket $50 to a returned soldier who desired to visit his home in Virginia. The incident was described with a richness of detail that led to the real human interest instead of the old international system. The mayor was quoted as getting off a fine line of heroics about what was due the American who had given his right arm for the British Empire. The story was a good one, but the soldier says, and his evidence seems trustworthy, that the mayor did not give him $50, but a temporary help given this returned man it is surely the soldier's aid commission, which at once provided the money asked for.

STAR.

Florence Everett, Lenore Luther, Bessie Crandall and a chorus of twenty girls will offer all of the latest songs and dances at the Star Theatre all next week. The Merry Maidens is the name of the company. Matt Cobb and Irving Gear are the funmakers, while James X. Francis and Lou White render plenty of assistance.

HART HOUSE USED FOR RE-EDUCATION

Splendid University Building Available for Work of Hospital Commission.

Thru the kindness of the trustees of the Massey estate, Hart House is to be made available for work of the military hospitals commission. With this building the commission is enabled to undertake on a large scale the very important work of re-educating the men suffering from physical and mental disabilities.

R. A. Bort, of the department of psychology, University of Toronto, has been carrying on some of this work on a small scale in the psychology laboratory in the main building of the university. He and his three helpers will transfer their activities to Hart House, and work under the direction of the military hospitals' commission and the Army Medical Corps.

Hart House will be used in conjunction with the orthopaedic hospital at North Toronto. The surgical phase of the crippled soldier's treatment will be carried on at North Toronto and the re-educational phase at Hart House. The commission will arrange transportation facilities for moving men from building to building as may be found necessary.

Hart House was originally designed as a gift from the Massey estate to the University of Toronto for the use of the entire male student body. It was intended as a social centre, where the informal education of the student would be carried on, the intention being to present the building completed in the month of March, 1916, and the building has been used for military purposes ever since. The school of music is their control.

GERMAN OFFICER ADMITS DEFEAT

Chance of Our Victory is Not There," Says Candid Captive.

CANADIANS ARE GRIM

"Splendid Spirit" is Dogged Determination to Fight to Victory.

C. A. P. Cable From Thomas Champion London, May 10.—The Canadians have no captive officer of the Prussian Guard who candidly admits that Germany has now no chance of winning a victory; so I learned during a Sunday trip through the Canadian lines from which I have just returned. He was a highly intelligent and well-disposed to talk quite freely concerning the campaign, tho, like all other prisoners, he refused to discuss the position of the German forces. This position, he does not appreciate the signal, tho, he is especially interested because he was the first German officer taken in a night raid on No Man's Land when opposing patrols met each other. He was captured with the Canadians developed as their speciality during the long winter months. When this was pointed out to him, the captive obviously did not like it being brought against an officer that the Canadians had never met in any of his own class in No Man's Land at night. "Well," he said, "all I can say is that if the Canadians have not met us in No Man's Land before them," He must have been aware that this statement was utterly contrary to the established facts.

Germany Cannot Win. He readily expressed it as his personal opinion that his countrymen are doomed to bitter disappointment over the final result of the submarine campaign. He did not hesitate either to express the opinion that America had entered the field.

"Asked if he thought there was any possible chance of Germany winning the war," he replied, "When I look at things as they are not merely in the field, but over the whole world, they steadily lead me to believe that Germany is over—I must admit that the chance of our victory is not there. Nevertheless, he said, he had received the allied news that the Rhine is still in German hands. This, by the way, was not the first time the Prussian officer had received news from the field. He had spent several years of his life at Red Deer, Alberta.

Germany Disciplined. During my stay at the "four in France" I visited every division and spent a considerable time with the railway construction corps and had received the privilege of visiting the Canadian cavalry brigade, which, owing to its operations as part of the Imperial force, has served in the Canadian newspapers. Personally, I am not fond of talking about the "splendid spirit" of the Canadian troops. It seems rather patronizing. Moreover, it does not appear to be the best way to describe the atmosphere surrounding our men in the fighting line. I would rather say that the Canadian soldier is a man of high character and high discipline. They lack nothing in material of every kind, and all is well with them. These things are obvious even to the rawest civilian.

Grimly Determined. That much-talked-of "splendid spirit" really resolves itself into a grim determination to strive and to suffer, to take success and to resist, as being in the highest degree, a business of never seeing anybody who is not clad in trowels, dusty, muddy, and so on.

"Bill, look at the civvy," shouted one man to a comrade as I happened to pass a small cluster of dugouts.

He about brought all men in that quarter to stare at a phenomenon. Boche Not Done For. And when you talk with these chaps there is a higher about their hardships or about it being a much longer business than they bargained for. They have given up. They will often give a laugh to the soldier at the bearing of the folk at home, who imagine the "Boche" is a monster, and who, they know better on that point, and they have no opportunity to read newspapers, which record other matters and which show how the stars in their courses are fighting against the German Kaiser.

FIGHTING FLUCTUATES AROUND BULLECOURT

Germans Report Allied Pressure Against Avion Village.

Berlin, via London, May 10.—A fluctuating fight for the possession of Bullecourt, and the farm to the east of it, is reported by the Germans. The artillery fire in the Arvas sector is reported on the 10th.

"In the Arvas district artillery fighting continues west of Lens," the statement continued, "Avion was yesterday the scene of the enemy's fruitless operations."

"Between Soissons and Rheims the fighting was generally limited," the statement continued, "to the farm to the east of Cornilly, the French repeated their attacks several times, being repulsed in bitter hand-to-hand fighting and by counter-attacks."

"On the Maesenois front in the Cerna salient, massed Italian, French and Russian attacks on the front of 15 kilometers (nearly ten miles), were repulsed with heavy losses."

The announcement says (as French and British reports were brought down yesterday on the western front.

BUDGET DEBATE DRAGS INTO MORNING MILK

Loggie Makes Plea for Coalition Government to Raise Adequate Forces — Incident at Blondin Recruiting Meeting Draws Out Display of Partisanship.

By a Staff Reporter. Ottawa, Friday, May 11.—The budget debate closed early this morning, when the House of Commons, after a vote of 51, defeated an amendment offered by J. G. Turritt of Assiniboia calling upon the government to take up the issue of the budget by appropriate legislation.

Just before the house adjourned, Sir George Foster announced the visit of Mr. Vincent, who will address the house at 12 o'clock Saturday noon. Sir Wilfrid Laurier added a few words of appreciation for the visit of Mr. Vincent, without disposing of several amendments to the budget which will be offered by members of the opposition.

By a Staff Reporter. Ottawa, Friday, May 11.—At an early hour this morning the house was still in the throes of the budget debate, with the understanding that a vote should be reached before adjourning. The debate was resumed this afternoon by Hon. T. W. Crothers, minister of labor, who defended his amendments to the budget and intimated that some members of the opposition were more anxious to win seats on the treasury benches than to win the budget. He was followed by Mr. Loggie, Liberal member for Northumberland, N. B., who pleaded for a coalition government that would bring together the expedient force of 500,000 by conscription, if necessary.

Speeches were also contributed to the debate by Mr. Maclellan, Liberal member for Bagot, and Dr. Paquet, Conservative member for Lislet, who discussed the amendments. The Liberals who have been criticizing the budget as not imposing enough taxation were somewhat disconcerted by the speeches by Crothers and Mr. Charlot (Nortok). These gentlemen declared that the war tax on business profits was too high and was keeping industrial output of the country. Mr. McCrea also criticized the government for fixing the price of newspaper paper.

Trivialities, Says Crothers. Resuming the budget debate adjourned on Tuesday, Hon. T. W. Crothers, minister of labor, criticized the opposition members for talking entirely too much on trivial topics. They wasted the energies of the House in discussing motions and thousands of questions, nearly all of them of no importance at all when compared with the supreme duty of winning the war. Anybody who would not get out of the house could not but suspect, however mistakenly, that many honorable members were more anxious to win seats on the treasury benches than they were to win the war. (Applause.)

Mr. Crothers defended the record of the departments of labor, its usefulness, he said, was impaired by vulgar sneers and false accusations from Liberal members of the opposition. He reviewed in detail his record as minister and pointed with pride to the fact that there were very few unemployed in the provinces of Ontario, Alberta and the United States.

One could hardly expect the Dominion minister of labor, he said, to investigate the price of necessities, but he had investigated the price of coal and other commodities, and had broken up trusts in the southern division of Australia or the United States.

RAIL AND VESSEL RATES DISCUSSED

Question of Railway Commission's Control of Lake Freight Stands Over.

ROSEDALE AGGRIEVED But City Cannot Prevent Whistles Blowing and Bells Ringing.

By a Staff Reporter. Ottawa, May 10.—The special committee of the house of commons, which has under consideration the revision of the railway act, today considered a number of subjects presented by A. C. McMaster, K. C., representing the Toronto Board of Trade. One related to the provisions of the act in respect to the power of a municipality to forbid the blowing of whistles and ringing of bells on locomotives between certain hours. W. F. Maclean (South York) took the position that municipalities should not be empowered to override the orders of the railway commission. The clause, which will be re-drafted, will make any municipal bylaw on the subject inoperative unless and until it is implemented by an order of the Dominion Board of Railway Commissioners.

Mr. McMaster opposed the provision of the bill which places the rates of vessels engaged in inland navigation under the control of the railway commission, and Mr. Sinclair (Guyrout) pointed out that the clause as drafted would give the railway commission jurisdiction over the rates of all vessels plying between Canadian ports even tho an ocean voyage was involved, as, for example, vessels sailing from the Panama Canal between Halifax and Vancouver.

W. F. Maclean thought the clause should stand over for further consideration, as it was opposed not only by the Toronto Board of Trade, but also by the chamber of commerce of Montreal.

This was agreed to, and the commission then heard an argument from Frank Hawkins, secretary of the Canadian Lumbermen's Association, against the proposed method of advancing freight rates upon the application of the railway companies without due notice to shippers. The commission, he said, had a new tariff on the board, which went into effect automatically within 30 days. Then it was up to the shippers to have their objections registered with the board, he said. The companies ought to be compelled to prove the necessity for higher rates.

Mr. Maclellan (S. Toronto) thought it made little difference who had the burden of proof. The commission, he thought, would require some explanation of the necessity for higher rates in any event before they permitted the higher rates to stand in cases where shippers protested.

Expropriation of Lands. One abuse which the revision of the Railway Act may correct is the practice of expropriating lands without taking any action thereon. There is at present no time limit, and the title to real estate may be clouded for an indefinite period. The committee this morning decided to draft a clause which would require the railway companies to decide within one year whether they would take the land and pay for it or abandon all claim to the land.

Rosedale's Grievance. Some members of the committee were anxious to know whether the bill ringling and whistle blowing on locomotives, and were told that it was very lively in Rosedale, where it affected the value of a great deal of residential property. Calvin Lawrence, representing the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, said the comfort of a few wealthy families in Rosedale was less important than the comfort of the public. He pointed out that the rules of a railway company when approved by the Dominion Railway Commission had the force of law, and that the commission had the power to order a railway company to be dissolved by law, therefore, to whistle and ring bells when they failed to do so he disobeyed the law. On the other hand, if he obeyed the law he might, as the law now stands, be punished for not obeying a city bylaw. Several engineers, had, as a matter of fact, been arrested and fined in the police court for blowing whistles and ringing a bell when crossing a highway between certain hours.

SCANDAL IN C.N.R. DEAL, SAYS HON. JOHN OLIVER

British Columbia's Minister of Railways Hints at Sensational Revelations.

Vancouver, B. C., May 10.—Last evening in the legislature, Hon. John Oliver, minister of railways, made an attack on the Canadian Northern. He complained that since he had come into office he had been met with nothing but evasion from Sir William Mackenzie and said that when the C. N. R. deal with the province was fully probed there would be found as serious a scandal as had lately developed regarding the Pacific Great Eastern.

In connection with the Cowper inquiry, counsel for Attorney General Macdonald said that evidence would be called to account for the disposal of the $15,000 received from Mr. Mackenzie, brother of Sir William.

FOUR DESTROYERS DRIVE OFF ELEVEN

Commodore Tyrwhitt Intrepidly Attacks and Rout's German Flotilla.

FLY TO ZEEBRUGGE Enemy Destroyers Suffar From Gunfire—One British Sailor Wounded.

London, May 10.—The following admiralty statement was issued this afternoon: "A scouting force consisting of eight British destroyers, under the command of Commodore Tyrwhitt, while cruising between the Dutch and English coasts this morning sighted a force of eleven German destroyers about 4 o'clock mean time on a parallel course and to the southward. The British force was ordered to attack, and on opening fire the enemy at once made off at full speed to the southward under cover of a dense smoke screen. The chase continued for one hour and twenty minutes, and the enemy was engaged at long range, but our force was unable to overtake them.

"Four British destroyers chased the eleven German destroyers to within range of the guns of the batteries at Zeebrugge.

"Our casualties were one man slightly wounded. The enemy's destroyers were seen to be hit by our fire."

The late Col. Tyrwhitt, whose widow, Mrs. Emma Tyrwhitt, lives at 54 Admiral road, and Commodore Tyrwhitt, were cousins. The commodore's father was a professor at the University of London, and the late Colonel Tyrwhitt made his home with him when in England. Commodore Tyrwhitt has never been in Canada.

RUSSIANS WAKING UP; REPULSE GERMANS

Enemy Conducts Immense Artillery Fire in Lake District.

Petrograd, May 10, via London.—"Russo-Galician front: In the region of Lake Mladzil and near Smorgon the enemy conducted an intense artillery fire."

"In the wooded Carpathians west of Mount Kapul, enemy infantry in strength of two companies made an attack after artillery preparation and the explosion of mines and bombs. Being met at our wire entanglements by rifle and machine gun fire, the enemy retreated to his trenches. In other sectors rifle firing, scouting and aeroplanes occurred."

"Sub-Lieut. Navrotsky brought down a German airplane east of Brzezany. The machine was undamaged. Its occupants were made prisoner."
