THE WET SPRING

Crops Suitable for Late Sowing in Ontario and Quebec.

In some parts of Ontario the continued wet weather that has characterized this season up to the present has prevented the sowing of some of the usual crops at the usual time and has had a tendency to discourage the farmer. Such however should not be the feeling since the possibilities of producing crops on land not yet sown are practically as good as ever, provided the weather improves a bit and the right crops be sown in the right way and properly looked after.

Among crops sure of proving satisfactory even at this late date are barley for grain, peas and oats for forage, buckwheat, millet, hungarian grass, corn for forage or ensilage, swedes, white or flat turnips and rape. Barley would likely do well even yet on fairly well drained land. Sow about 2 bushels per acre.

Peas and oats sown 3 bushels oats and 1 bushel peas per acre to be cut green for hay may be expected to give profitable returns if sown anywhere before June 25.

Millet and hungarian grass have wonderful possibilities as forage producers and even for seed for poultry or swine if sown before July 10. Buckwheat may be sown up to July 10 with certainty of profitable returns on almost any kind of land where water does not stand.

Corn for forage. Early or Flint varieties (Longfellow, Compton's Early, etc.) should be chosen. Sow thinly up to June 25.

Swedes thrive in such a season as we are having and may be expected to give good returns if sown anywhere before the end of June.

Flat turnips or white turnips while not so satisfactory as swedes for most purposes do well if sown as late as the end of July and are most excellent cattle feed, being particularly suitable for dairy cows. They do not keep as well as swedes.

Rape for pasturage is of great value for swine, sheep or beef cattle.

With late seeding most thorough preparation of seed bed is absolutely necessary if success is to be hoped for. If land has to be ploughed turn a shallow furrow and in case land is grassy it will be much better to plough again even if already ploughed last fall or early this spring. After ploughing roll disc two or three times and harrow before seeding. After seeding roll again if surface is very dry.

In any case get the seed in well and what is quite as important in the case of hood crops above mentioned see to it that they are kept absolutely free from weeds for the next two months. Neglect in this important detail means failure when crops are sown late.

If a choice of crops is possible sow corn, buckwheat, turnips and hungarian grass on the lighter soils, that is, clays, clay loams, peaty or mucky soils, etc. But any one of these crops will do quite well on almost any kind of land.

A Song for the Trenches.

Peter McArthur, in the Globe, writes a chatty letter to Canadians in the trenches, with a concluding line that is ditty, remarking that "the only merit of this jingle is that it is easy to write, and you can add to it all you like. Here it is—

There's a land away off west
That is better than the best,
That's Canada.
It has oceans on its shores,
It's as big as all outdoors,
Is Canada.
There are mountains capped with snow
That go up five miles or so.
The lakes are all young oceans
And are full of sea-sock motions,
Is Canada.
There are miles and miles of wheat,
All the Empire needs to eat,
Is Canada.
There are girls whose loving lives
Paralyze you with their blisses,
Is Canada.
And we're going, when we're done
With winning the Hun,
Back to Canada.

"War is Hell."

Perhaps we will yet realize that "WAR IS HELL." The world stirring events of the past week are doing much to hasten us to that conclusion.

We will some day realize that the great demon of greed, which is the underlying cause of this terrible and devastating war has been gaining a foothold in our own country that threatens us with disaster.

If the boon of freedom is to be our happy portion the Canadian Autocracy of greed must be destroyed. The next political battle in Canada will probably be between the financial Kaisers of the country and a tax-burdened people struggling for the liberty to enjoy the fruits of their labor.

The curse of Canada is the fact that the people tolerate a privileged class which is robbing the people, and that the people can cry in vain for redress.

Politicians who are unable or unwilling to stand up for the rights of the people will not be able to command the votes of the electors when we fully realize that "WAR IS HELL."—Forest Free Press.

A DINNER IN JAPAN

Troubles of a Hungry Man Not to the Manner Born.

SQUATTING AT THE TABLE.

It Tried the Patience and the Muscles of the Stranger in a Strange Land, but From an Epicurean Standpoint the Worst Was Yet to Come.

Describing an amusing experience in Japan, Homer Croy in Leslie's Weekly tells how, after arriving by train in an interior town, in his efforts to find a hotel, he tried to break into a bank. Realizing his mistake, he finally, by use of the sign language, was directed to a real hotel, where, after removing his shoes, he entered. Then:

What interested me most was something to eat, and opening my mouth to its fullest I pointed in. They motioned me to follow upstairs, but I held back, showing that I wanted the dining room, not the bedroom. Seeing a door, which I thought must be the dining room, I pushed it open, but it was the kitchen; so, thinking that they knew more about things than I did, I let them lead me upstairs. When the girl pushed back the sliding doors my heart crawled down another step, for there was only one piece of furniture in the room, a seat that looked like a two legged milk stool covered with carpet. There wasn't a single chair in the room and no place to hang my hat or coat, nothing except a bare room with a heavy matting on the floor and one of my toes brazenly peeping through my stocking.

I started to sit down on the milk stool, but it squirted out from under me, while the servant girl made no effort to hide her laughter. Dropping down on the floor, she showed me how to use the milk stool by sitting on the floor and leaning one arm on it, like a picture before Pompeii.

She took my hat and coat, and I wondered where it was going to hang them, for there wasn't a single nail or hook in the room. Carrying them over to the wall, she pushed back a small sliding door and placed them on a shelf and brought me back a kimono. She motioned for me to get into it and started down the hall. I got out of my clothes and was just slipping into the kimono when I heard her coming. I called to her to stop, but she did not understand, so I wrapped the kimono around me the best way I could and tried to keep it together, for there were no buttons on it.

On the floor she placed a table and on it a pot of tea. The table was just barely a foot high, and there was no milk of sugar for the tea, for these things spoil tea to a Japanese. Then she came with a plate of fish, a bowl of rice and a little square box with a bamboo tube in it and a bowl. In the bowl was a glow of charcoal. Soon I puzzled out that this was for lighting cigarettes and the bamboo for dropping the butts into. The first thing a Japanese thinks of is tea, and the next is cigarettes.

I started to draw up to the table, but I could not find a place for my knees. They wouldn't let me get near enough the table to carry out my designs on the fish. Seeing my trouble, the girl dropped down to show me how. She turned her feet back, with her toes pointing straight behind her, and sat down, her face in one direction and her toes in another. It looked easy, but it brought me up with a short breath. No European can sit in such an attitude.

Putting one leg under the table, with one bare knee glistening on the side, I bent over the table to proceed with the eating, but here I ran up against a snag. All I had to eat with was chopsticks. Waving them through my fingers, I tried to break off a piece from the slab of fish, but it wouldn't break. I turned it over, hoping to spring it, but with my wabbling sticks could only grease the plate. Openly the girl laughed. It was better than a picture show to her. She showed me how it should be done—by lifting the whole fish with the sticks and taking bites as if it were a piece of bread.

The next dish was something that puzzled me. In a round wooden dish about the size of the bowl that used to come in a package of oatmeal were white squares of meat in hot water. I worked out a piece and ate it and asked her through signs what it was. She threw out enough for a paragraph, but that did not bring me light. I asked her again, and away she went and came back with a book and, coming up close, pointed to the picture of a horse! I had been eating horse meat. Something in me began to sink, leaving me weak and limp. Although she brought me two or three more things to eat, I waved them aside. My appetite for the time had been appeased.

John Muir's Great Wealth. John Muir, who has left a rich legacy to his countrymen, like so many thousands of writers and American idealists, was poor. He was a close friend of Mr. E. H. Harriman, the multimillionaire railroad king. One day Mr. Muir surprised his wealthy friend by saying, "Harriman, you know I am a richer man than you are?"

"Yes?" said Harriman, with a question in his tone.

"Because," continued Muir, "I have all the money I want, and you haven't."—From "American Ideals," by Clayton Sedgwick Cooper.

CANADIAN LOSSES SMALL IN RECENT COUNTER-ATTACK

Germans Had Planned to Renew Assault Same Day, but Were Forestalled

A despatch from London says: The correspondent of the Morning Post, describing the successful counter-attack of the Canadians at Zillebeke, says the night was wet, cold and disagreeable. The men were in high spirits. The enemy seemed to be taken by surprise, and were completely overwhelmed. Two machine guns were captured. Prisoners state that the Germans had planned a further attack there very morning. The Canadians found a great quantity of stores they had left ten days previously intact.

Phillip Gibbs writes: It was a great point of pride with the Canadians to recapture the lost ground themselves. Their losses were not heavy in the counter-attack. In the astonishing piece of work the Canadian guns played no small part. A great orchestra of the heavier and field batteries played an annihilating devil's tattoo upon the Germans. The attack was complete success. The men were surprised, as they expected greater trouble. The enemy's shell-fire was heavy, but the Canadians got through under cover of our guns. The men advanced two in open order downwards and southwards into their old positions. Our continual bombardment prevented the enemy consolidating the positions they had captured. The attack, directed from the southern end of Sanctuary Wood to Mount Sorel, was most important because the high ground in the northern part of Hooge is still in the enemy's hands.

CZERNOWITZ CAPTURED AFTER DESPERATE BATTLES

Russians Enter Bukovina's Capital Following a Series of Hard Fights

London, June 18.—After hard fighting in the suburbs and on the River Pruth, where the Austrians fought desperately with a view to gaining time for the evacuation of Czernowitz by their army and the removal of military stores from the city, General Lechnitzky has finally entered the capital of Bukovina. The capture is an important one, as it entails the command of several important railway lines. The city had been untenable for several days because of the tremendous Russian bombardment, which compelled the flight of the civil inhabitants and evacuation of the place by the Austrian forces. It is expected that further details of the capture will show that both sides suffered sanguinary losses.

The recapture of Czernowitz by the Russians comes at a dramatic moment, it happening only a few days after the Austrians, with imposing ceremony, had unveiled in the city hall a double-headed Austrian eagle such as the Russians had removed during occupation of the city last year.

Russian headquarters announce the capture of Czernowitz in the usual laconic terms. It gives no description of the desperate fighting known to have occurred for the crossings of the Pruth River after the Austrians blew up the bridges, but adds the interesting fact that the Austrians are being pursued into the Carpathians, which is the only alternative to being driven into Roumania, where they would be interned.

The Russian official account makes the interesting revelation that German reinforcements have already been brought from the French front to the assistance of the hard-pressed Austrians.

KING VISITS KING'S SECOND SON GRAND FLEET ENGAGED IN BATTLE

Admiral Jellicoe and His Men Congratulated on Jutland Battle. Prince Was on His Ship as Sub-Lieutenant in North Sea Fight.

London, June 18.—An official communication issued this evening gives an account of a recent visit by King George to the Grand Fleet and an address by the monarch to the representatives of the units of the fleet on parade. In his address King George said: "Admiral Jellicoe and Officers and Men of the Grand Fleet: You waited nearly two years with most exemplary patience for the opportunity of meeting and engaging the enemy's fleet. I can well understand how trying was this period and how great your relief when you knew on May 31 that the enemy had been sighted. The unfavorable weather conditions and approaching darkness prevented that complete result which you all expected. But you did all possible in the circumstances. You drew the enemy into his bows and inflicted on him very severe losses. You added another page to the glorious traditions of the British navy. You could not do more. For your splendid work I thank you."

London, June 18.—The London Daily Mirror reports that King George's second son, took part as sub-Lieutenant in his ship in the recent naval battle off Jutland. The Prince is twenty years old. He joined the Royal Navy as midshipman in 1915, and has proved a keen sailor. In September, 1914, he underwent an operation for appendicitis, and his slow recovery caused him great disappointment, for he was most anxious to resume his naval duties. He recently rejoined his ship, and on May 15 he was promoted from acting sub-Lieutenant to sub-Lieutenant.

WILL PREVENT COLLISIONS IN DARKNESS OR FOG.

A despatch from London says: Announcement was made on Wednesday that William Marconi will bring out shortly a new device which should put an end to danger of collisions between ships in darkness or fog. It is described as a simple contrivance, easily installed, which will be operated from the bridge of a ship.

SIX KILLED, ELEVEN HURT IN LIVERPOOL HOTEL FIRE

A despatch from Liverpool says: Six persons were killed and eleven injured in a fire which broke out Sunday morning in the Imperial Hotel, a well-known commercial hotel. The upper floors of the building were destroyed.

NEW KIND OF SHELL EXPLAINS SUCCESS OF RUSSIAN OFFENSIVE

Reports Differ as to Whether It is a Jap Invention or Product of Russian Scientists.

A despatch from London says: A new kind of shell, said by some correspondents to be a Japanese invention, while others assert it is the product of Russian scientists, is generally given the chief credit for the success of the new Russian offensive in despatches from Petrograd. Incredible quantities of this new weapon are being used by General Brussiloff, and its effect is said to surpass everything witnessed in the war thus far. "Of course, nothing can be said about the nature of this shell," says the Morning Post's correspondent at Petrograd, who asserts it is the product of the co-operative research of the Russian universities. "In fighting, hitherto, the capture of positions has been gradual process, but on the present occasion it is rapid beyond belief, the destruction and capture of men coming like a lightning stroke, leaving the staff officers, whose station is from five to fifteen miles behind the firing line, with no hopes of repairing the initial mischief, and they simply fled. The astounding quantity of booty of every kind is likewise evidence of this."

It is a deeply-rooted conviction that ours is the best and must be maintained in its accustomed leadership which gives a stimulus to every effort of this institution. When the E. Mayhew & Co. started out to describe and retain business in Glencoe and vicinity one policy guided all their ambition, and that was to satisfy each and every customer. The regular monthly meeting of the Women's Institute will be held Thursday, 29th June, at the home of Mrs. John Innes, Appin. All members and those interested in patriotic or Red Cross work are requested (as a matter of duty) to be present that afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. Arrangements have also been made for the summer meeting of the W. I. to be held here 3rd July.—J. A. Macraut, secretary.

A pleasant surprise was arranged for one of the local boys in khaki, Harold McAlpine, Friend numbering about twenty-five met at the residence of his father, D. E. McAlpine, to have a social evening. At the opportune time he was called to the floor and presented with an aluminum wrist watch. He thanked the donors for the kindly expression, and hoped to live many years to enjoy their gift.

Anniversary services were held in North Eglinton Presbyterian church on Sunday, June 11, conducted by Rev. G. Lloyd, of Chalmers church. A delightful day brought large crowds afternoon and evening, the church capacity being unable to accommodate the people assembled. The services of Mr. Lloyd were much appreciated. On Monday evening the church's annual garden party was held on the church grounds, and it was the first "ideal" garden party summer evening of the season. An excellent program was given by Toronto entertainers.

McAlpine took the opportunity of selling an autograph quilt at 10 cents a ticket, each ticket bearing a number. Miss Lizzie Down bought the lucky ticket. From the sale of tickets the ladies realized $80, the gate receipts amounting to $135.

R. and left for a trip East.

This a MARVELLOUS THING.—When the cures effected by Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil are considered, the speedy and permanent relief it has brought to the suffering wherever it has been used, it must be regarded as a marvelous thing that so potent a medicine should result from the six simple ingredients which enter its composition. A trial will convince the most skeptical of its healing virtues.
