HOME CIRCLE COLUMN

Pleasant Evening Reveries dedicated to tired Mothers as they join the Home Circle at Evening Tide.

TRAINING THE OTHER WOMAN'S CHILD.

They all sat round in friendly chat
Discussing mostly this and that,
And a hat.

Until a neighbor's wilyward lad
Was seen to act in ways quite bad:
O, 'Twas said!

One thought she knew what must be done
With every child beneath the sun—
She had none.

And ere her yarn had been quite spun,
But thus and so she thought she'd do—
She had two.

The third was not to sure she knew,
But thus and so she thought she'd do—
She had two.

The next one added, "Let me see:
These things work out differently,"
She had three.

The fifth drew on her wisdom store
And said, "I'd have to think it over."
She had four.

And then one sighed, "I don't contrive:
Fixed rules for boys, they're too alive,"
She had five.

"I know it leaves one in a fix,
This straightening of crooked sticks,"
She had six.

And one declared, "There's no rule given,
But do your best and trust to heaven,"
—ALICE CROWELL HOFFMAN.

GOOD WORDS FOR GIRLS.

Your mother is your best friend.
Have nothing to do with girls who snub their parents.

Tell the pleasantest things you know
when at meals.

Do not expect your brother to be as decent as a girl.

Exercise, and never try to look as if you were delicate in health.

Introduce every new acquaintance to your mother as soon as possible.

Don't think it necessary to get married.
There is plenty of room for old maids, and they are often happier than wives.

Enjoy the pleasures provided for you
by your parents to the fullest extent.
They will like that as a reward, better than any other.

Most fathers are inclined to over indulge their daughters. Make it impossible for your father to spoil you by fairly returning his devotion and affection.

Plants and flowers are forms of beauty
which can be made to serve the home and its ideals as nothing else can. And no home, however poor and meager the furnishings, need be without them. A little thought and care can work wonders with even the humblest surroundings.

When passing through the crowded terment districts on cars, note the effort made to cultivate flowers and vines in boxes on roofs and in ugly back yards. Watch for the geraniums abloom in tin cans. The youthful years are the important years. The child who lives day after day with flowers and plants for companions will establish mental and moral habits that make for stability and soundness of character but recognition of this fact is slow to become existent.

DOLLARS AND DUCKS.

William E. Jones, in his most excellent paper, the Frankford (Mo.) Chronicle, says it is well for young men to know that dollars are like ducks—one follows another—and though they may waddle along slowly and with some effort they will eventually get there.

We have young men in this town
who are just starting out on the road
of life, but where that road will lead to
is for them to say.

They are earning a few dollars now and as time progresses their earning capacity will increase. If the early accumulations are thrown to the birds
it is more than likely that in later life
the buzzards will roost on the graves of their ambition.

But if their first dollars are carefully laid away in a well sewed pocket, and this lesson of thrift and frugality is fostered and encouraged, then in time the bank will become the depository of their earnings and accumulations and eventually wealth and the eagle will soar over the heads of successful men.

Those who waste to-day will squander
tomorrow, and to-morrow is the agent of the devil and the prime minister of hell.

Keep an eye on the young men of our town, but keep both eyes on those who spend wisely but not foolishly, who are full of life and ginger, but never carry it to excess, whose eyes are fixed upon the eagle and not upon the buzzard.

Like the waddling duck, they may advance slowly, but they will get there in time.

There are a few books that defy the passing of time to dull their popularity.
Among these is Bunyan's Pilgrim's Progress. It has been among the best sellers for two centuries. This could not be true if this wonderful allegory did not touch the inner life of the people to-day as well as in days gone
by. The Slough of Despond, the Doubting Castle, and The Giant Despair, are living realities in many lives
to-day and that is why the popularity of the old book never wanes.

Woman's World

A Prima Donna Gives Her
Home For War Sufferers.

MME. MELBA.

After sixteen months of personal service to war victims Mme. Melba recently gave the use of her apartment in Paris for an army hospital.

The gift of the hospital came as a surprise, topping the singer's systematic economies in dress, food and personal comforts.

"See my tight skirt," she said, pointing to a much worn serge. "I have bought neither gowns, hats nor blouses since the war began. I can't afford new garments until every suffering man, woman and child has food and shelter."

"This war was declared without consulting women, but our jobs as women seem to be well laid out for us, and where there is a will there's a way. I have lost all my men folk in this war,
either by shot or insanity."

Mme. Melba said her apartment at 61 Avenue Henri Martin has large, airy rooms, with solarium and roof garden, and will accommodate 200 beds. Equipment for each bed will cost $25.

Mme. Melba has pledged even the maintenance of the majority of these.
In memory of Arnold Quiller of the Grenadier guards, who fell at the Dardanelles.

TRAYS FOR EVERY USE.

A Variety of These Useful Articles For Every Household.

One of the most interesting details of the modern china closet is the tray.
Trays for muffins, for sweets and services for tea and after dinner coffee are as popular as the breakfast tray. Whether or not the present status of breakfast as a movable feast is the result of the hectic existence mankind leads today it is hard to say.

If this meal is to be served in bed a delightful individual tray would be one with folding legs. Such a tray naturally contains only service for one. A variety of designs, however, may be found in this style of tray with individual sets of china suited to every purpose.

For the member of the family who wishes only a cup of black coffee or tea with a dash of cream perhaps a small tray containing three pieces of silver to which is added the cup is a convenient service.

The after dinner coffee set has its own tray and is easily carried into the drawing room or library. At the country house, where all sorts of impromptu meals are served in the garden, the pantry must be supplied with trays of every description—black or white painted ones to accord with old furniture and quaint cottons, glass covered chintz ones set in wicker; even perfectly plain white enameled trays may be used. The housekeeper's soul will delight in the variety and beauty of this practical adjunct to housekeeping, and her only difficulty will be in selecting.

Eggplant Straws.

Cut into one-fourth inch slices an unpeeled eggplant. Salt each slice and press them for an hour or so under a heavy weight. Now cut the slices into equal lengths, about a fourth of an inch wide, discarding the skin; dry in a cloth and roll them in a mixture of equal parts of fine cornmeal and flour;
season with pepper, salt and a slight dash of nutmeg. Drop a few at a time into salad oil (hot) and fry them until they are a delicate brown. Dry on a soft paper as you would French fried potatoes and serve at once while they are crisp and tender.

Attractive Blotters.

Guest room blotters are covered with stiff chintz covers, the blotter leaves inside being held in place by narrow, satin ribbons. The chintz is the same as that used in the hangings of the room. On the outside cover of the blotter a picture, clipped from a magazine or Sunday paper, is pasted, and the entire cover is shellacked. These blotters are very handy for guest room use and may be renewed cheaply and often enough to keep them fresh and inviting in appearance.

Advice.

First Senior—I'm going to marry a poor girl and settle down. Second Senior—Better marry a rich girl and settle up.—Yale Record.

Queen of Holland Is

Having an Anxious

Time Staying Neutral

THE noise and glamor of war quite drown out such a mild and peaceful thing
as a birthday party or the anniversary of a little girl's accession to one of the most honored thrones in Europe.

We can remember when Queen Wilhelmina, of Holland, was just a little girl, a child monarch the same as the King of Spain. No one thought when the little girl Queen of Holland took her place at the head of the house of Orange that in her lifetime Holland would see all Europe about her embroiled in war.

But here we are at the 25th anniversary of the accession of Queen Wilhelmina, and, unhappy Holland with the sound of cannon ringing in her ears just over her borders and with her line fences not any too secure, had no heart to give the Queen the proper celebration which such an event would call for in normal times, even if the Queen would have permitted.

As for Wilhelmina, in these troubled times she would not consent to a public observance of the event. She would not allow her subjects to spend any money on festivities in her honor, stipulating that the appro-

QUEEN OF HOLLAND AND THE

prison made by the State for this occasion should be donated to the fund for the war sufferers in Holland.

The newspapers, in noting this kindly act of charity, brought to the minds of people in other countries
the first remembrance that the young Queen had actually passed a quarter of a century upon the throne.
She will be 36 next August, and was a very plump and dimpled little girl of ten when her father, King William III., died and she became Queen. She was under the guardianship of her mother until she reached the age of 18; since that time she has been very much of a sovereign.

The anniversary day was celebrated by the Queen simply and quietly with her husband, Prince Henry, their little daughter, Princess Juliana, and her mother, Dowager Queen Emma. The dowager Queen is a very lovely and capable lady who administered affairs of State very ably during her regency.
Moreover, she was a very wise mother, training her daughter to reign
with humility and wisdom.

And it is well that Dowager Queen
Emma did so, for Wilhelmina's position is not as easy one these days, at the head of a nation of 6,000,000 people crowded into an area of 12, 000 square miles, less than the States of Massachusetts and Connecticut put together, with about half a million Belgian refugees and 2,000 interned British soldiers and sailors as unwanted guests.

The Belgians are former near neighbors who were seldom congenial friends, differing in religion and habits and divided, moreover, from the Dutch by commercial and political jealousies. The British are the defenders of Antwerp, who fled across the border in time to avoid internment in Belgium, and who should be more contented to remain quietly in the Netherlands than they are. In addition every belligerent country has sent into neutral Holland numerous men and women whose object it is to persuade the Queen and her Government to abandon neutrality in favor of one side or the other.

The Queen's hope is that she may be among the negotiators of the peace which must eventually come and that she may thus have the opportunity of placing Holland upon a higher plane of international importance. Her country was the first to recognize the flag of the American colonists, but on that account Holland's delegate to the conference at Paris was not allowed a seat at the council table.

So you can see that being a Queen is not all beer and skittles; the royal couch is not always soft, and often —very often—the queenly head of Wilhelmina has found that uneasy rests the crown, even of the mon-

CHILDREN'S POTATO WAR PLOT FUND.

In the spring of 1915 the Ontario Department of Agriculture offered to supply children taking part in the Rural School Fairs with sufficient potatoes to plant a plot 1 x 2 rods if they would agree to dispose of the crop and co-tribute the money to some patriotic cause.
Applications were received through the District Representatives and the children showed great interest in the work, so much so that the prospects in the early part of the season were that between ten and fifteen bushels of potatoes would be produced. Unfortunately, however, the season proved to be very unfavorable for the potato crop and greatly reduced the yields. In many cases the potatoes suffered to severely from rot that they were not worth digging. However, thirty-four counties taking part in the work reported sales from over 2,500 children's plots and the Department has received up to date $1,843.18. In order to create special interest in this work the children's Potato War Plots were inspected and prizes given for the best kept plots.
A medal was also given to the boy or girl in each County producing the greatest yield of marketable potatoes from his or her plot. Before deciding upon the disposition of the money received from the children, the officers of the Canadian Red Cross Society were consulted, with the result that a Mc-Laughlin Motor Ambulance was purchased and formally presented to the Red Cross by the Hon. James S. Duff.

Remarkable Teaching Record.

A remarkable record as teacher stands to the credit of Miss Harriet N. Winchell, who recently died at the age of 70 years. She began teaching in the Chicago public schools when 19 years old, and had been in continuous service since. What a record of service and results is embodied in the statement that it is estimated that 70,000 children received their early instruction under her direct supervision.

The crisis in Sweden has passed, the Government refusing to be forced into war through German machinations.

DISTRICT NEWS.

APPLETON.

Miss Fowler arrived on Monday morning from England to visit her sister, Miss A. Fowler. Mr. G. Glossop, of Ottawa, spent the week-end with Mr. and Mrs. P. E. Mr. W. H. Boyle, of Renfrew, spent the week-end at his home here. Mrs. S. E. Spinks, of Carleton Place, spent the week-end with Mrs. A. Auty. Mrs. Lorne Fumerton spent the past few days in Ottawa. Rev. A. D. Fraser was called to Fort Covington, Que., last Tuesday, owing to the illness of his mother. He returned home on Saturday morning. Mr. George Ashman was the representative at the district meeting of the Methodist church, which was held at Perth last Tuesday and Wednesday. Ptes. A. Auty, J. Forbes, M. Gilbert and G. James left on Saturday with the 130 Battalion from Perth.

LANARK.

From the Era. Mr. and Mrs. Parnell P. Galvin, of Carleton Place, spent Sunday here with the latter's sister, Mrs. Frank Woods. Mr. Geo. Easton has sold his farm on the 4th line Dalhousie to Mr. Pollock McDougall and intends leaving shortly for the west. Dr. Donald Fee, Sharbot Lake, has been appointed to the Royal Army Medical Corps and will leave in the near future for the front. Lieut. Kenneth Conn left for Toronto last week, to join the 234th Battalion, with which he has received an appointment. He is located at Ravena Barracks, West Toronto. Messrs. Ben. Willis and Wm. Ferguson have purchased Mr. Geo. Peppers' horse ferry; also the Brockville Atlas car, with which they will continue the service between here and Perth. They took possession to-day. Mr. David Rintoul sold his house on Owen street last week to Mr. Adam McFarlane and intends moving to Myers Cave shortly. On Tuesday evening, May 9th, Mr. John James of Hopetown, passed away to his reward. He had been in poor health for some time but walked around until the last hour, when he lay down and passed peacefully away. His death was due to heart failure. Deceased was born in Ramsay, his age being 82 years, 8 months and 2 days.

ALMONTE.

From the Gazette. Mr. Robt. Little, of Carleton Place, is visiting at the parental home in town. Mr. Harold Jamieson's condition has improved somewhat during the week, but he is still in a serious condition. While digging in his garden last week Mr. Geo. Thompson turned up an Indian's stone skinning knife, in a remarkably good condition. Mr. Robt. Deachman, of Carleton Place, conducted the services in the Methodist church on Sunday morning, during Rev. Mr. Stevens' absence in Montreal. Rev. Mr. Merrilees of Blakeney took the evening service. Mrs. Helen Sinclair met with an accident on Tuesday that might easily have ended fatally. She stepped on the covering of a well, and the boards gave way and she fell through. She grasped the covering and held on until her cries brought a neighbor to her assistance, and helped her out. She was severely bruised, and was taken to the hospital for treatment. In the well there was water to the depth of about thirteen feet, and had she fallen in she would in all probability have been drowned. Mr. and Mrs. D. Sutherland, of Carleton Place, are on a visit to Mr. and Mrs. W. Kellough and Mrs. W. S. Moir. Twenty-six members of Mississippi Lodge A.F. & A.M., went to Carleton Place on Friday evening last to fraternize with the C.P. brethren. Besides those from Almonte there were visitors also from Richmond, Lanark and other points. The Almonte officers conferred the third degree upon a waiting brother, the work being highly complimented. After the business was concluded the visitors were entertained by the local brethren, and a most enjoyable social hour was spent. The following is taken from a New Westminster paper: "A quiet but pretty wedding was solemnized on Monday morning at 7:30 in Holy Trinity Cathedral, when Capt. the Rev. Canon D'Esmu, joined in marriage Miss Effie Lenore Warwick, only daughter of Mr. C. Warwick, and Mr. Allen Hamilton Wylie, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Wylie, of Almonte, Ont.

PROGRESS CONTINUES.

Russian Armies Keeping Up Their March on Mosul.

LONDON, May 22.—The Russians are continuing their march toward Mosul (ancient Nineveh), according to Sunday night's Petrograd official report.

A Constantinople correspondent says that Field Marshal Liman von Sanders is assembling a strong force of Turkish troops at Sivas, in Asiatic Turkey, to oppose the advance of the Russians. The Turks are equipped abundantly with artillery.

The correspondent also says that Turkey has called out recruits of the ages of 17 and 18.

The Russian occupation of Sakiz and their advance upon the village of Ban is of extreme importance, and establishes a direct line of communication between the two Russian groups which are operating against the Turkish Mesopotamian army.

"Four thousand German troops are expected at Bagdad in June," says The Times' Bucharest correspondent. "Twelve thousand Austrians already are there. The Turks are weakening the defence of Constantinople, sending all possible reinforcements to Asia Minor and concentrating a large force at Marash, three days' march north-east of Alexandretta (on the Mediterranean in Northern Syria), where they fear an attempted landing by Entente allies."

Although little has been known regarding the military operations in this immediate district, which lies between Lake Urmiah and Khankhan, on the Persian border north-east of Bagdad, Kurdish bands, supported by Turkish regulars, have been for a long time attempting to make inroads into Persia, and, by cutting off from each other the Russian armies advancing toward the Mesopotamian border, make their progress impossible.

It is apparent that in these efforts they had been so successful as to capture the Persian towns of Sakiz and Ban, but, as officially announced, the Russians recently ousted them from the positions, and the danger created by this wedge into the Russian line has been removed.

Ban is near the Turkish border, and along a 200-mile front the Russian armies are now drawn up close to the Mesopotamian frontier. Military experts believe that further progress for the Russians should be considerably facilitated by this straightening out of the Russian line and the establishment of direct communication, which not only makes further Kurdish inroads impossible, but lightens the difficult task of provisioning, which delayed the Russian progress in Asia Minor.

COSSACKS JOIN BRITISH.

Body of Russian Cavalry Reinforce Lake in Mesopotamia.

LONDON, May 22.—The first news of the operations on the Tigris since the fall of Kut-el-Amara, sent Sunday by Lieut.-General Sir Percy Lake, commander of the British forces in Mesopotamia, although it shows that the Turks are still holding the Sannayat position on the left bank of the Tigris, where the British check made it impossible to carry out the relief of General Townshend, brings the welcome but astonishing intelligence that a body of Russian cavalry, after an adventurous ride, has succeeded in joining General Goringe's forces on the south bank of the Tigris.

How this important junction was effected is still unknown, and the story will be awaited with intense interest. The supposition is that this detachment came from the Russian army which is threatening Khankhan, but it still remains a puzzle when and how the Russians succeeded in crossing the river.

Their sudden appearance with General Goringe has also raised the question whether the Russians have already cut the Bagdad railway at Mosul. In any case the unexpected appearance of this body of cavalry is as great a surprise as was the first landing of the Russian troops at Mesopotamia, and is another instance of the swift and stealthy movement of the Russian forces in Asia Minor.

An official communication issued Sunday night concerning the situation along the Tigris follows: "General Lake reports that on the 19th the enemy vacated the Bethaies-sa advanced position on the right bank of the Tigris. General Goringe, following up the enemy, attacked and carried the Dujaila road. The enemy is still holding the Sannayat position on the left bank of the river.

"A force of Russian cavalry has joined General Goringe after a bold and adventurous ride."

PEACE IS IMPOSSIBLE.

President Wilson is Told of Determination of Allies.

WASHINGTON, May 22.—"The die is cast. Germany must fight on to the bitter end and cannot escape retribution by useless appeals to neutrals for peace."

This is the answer of the Entente Allies to the steadily increasing peace talk which has reached official circles here from Berlin. The Allies' position, it is explained, has been made perfectly clear to President Wilson.

Both the President and Secretary of State Lansing have been informed confidentially from sources close to the Entente capitals that peace proposals now were out of the question. The time is not ripe, it is explained, and the time will not be ripe until Germany's military dominance has been completely broken.

The Entente Allies have translated Germany's peace pleas into the meaning that the Imperial Government now sees the handwriting on the wall, and is taking measures far in advance in an effort to end the war. This Government also has received official reports from its own agents tending to show that Germany is beginning to feel the effects of the "drag" much more deeply than is generally known.

PORT SAID IS RAIDED

Teutons Make Several Attacks With Aeroplanes.

Key to Suez Canal Suffers Slightly From Shelling—Bombs Are Also Dropped by Aviators at Dunkirk and Belfort—Allied Air Squadrons Bring Down Several of the Enemy Birdmen in Duels.

LONDON, May 22.—An attack on Port Said, the northernmost point on the Suez Canal, by two Turkish aeroplanes resulted in the death of two and the wounding of 13 civilians and five soldiers, is announced in a statement received by the War Office Sunday night from the British headquarters at Cairo. The official report reads:

"Two army aeroplanes dropped 16 bombs on Port Said Sunday morning, mostly on the Arab quarter. Two civilians were killed and 13 were injured severely. Five soldiers were wounded. The aeroplanes were driven away by anti-aircraft guns."

German aeroplanes carried out since Saturday two bombardments in the region of Dunkirk. About 20 shells were dropped Saturday evening, killing four persons and wounding 15. Sunday another enemy squadron dropped about a hundred bombs in the outskirts of Dunkirk. Two soldiers and a child were killed and 20 persons were wounded.

Allied aeroplanes pursued the enemy machines and succeeded in bringing down two at the moment they were about to enter their own lines.

Immediately after the first bombardment 53 French, British, and Belgian aeroplanes flew over the German cantonnements at Wyvege and Ghistel, on which 250 shells were dropped.

German aeroplanes Sunday dropped 15 bombs on Belfort, but the material damage was insignificant.

Saturday in an aerial fight off Neuport a Belgian aeroplane brought down a German machine, which fell into the sea.

On Saturday the British aeroplanes again had several successful encounters. An aviatik fell on fire into some trees in the enemy's lines, one of the occupants falling out. Another fell in flames into the German lines after an encounter with a British scout. A third crashed to earth in the British lines near Mari-court. Sunday a fourth machine landed undamaged in the British lines, and the pilot and observer were made prisoner. The British lost one machine.

The weather again being favorable for flying there was much activity in the air. A raid was made by enemy aviators in the region of Baccarat, Epinal, and Vesoul. The material damage was insignificant. Four persons were wounded slightly.

French aviators Saturday night threw numerous bombs on military establishments at Thionville, Etain, and Spincourt, and on the camps in the vicinity of Azannes and Damvillers. The railway station at Lumes was bombarded, causing the rapid flight of trains and a large fire in the railway buildings.

In an aerial engagement between four French aeroplanes and three Fokkers, over Bezanze forest, one of the enemy machines was brought down and another Fokker, being attacked, was compelled to descend to earth behind the German lines while under the fire of the French batteries, which destroyed it.

GREECE URGED TO JOIN.

She Must Aid Entente or Go Bankrupt, Says Venizelos.

ATHENS, May 22.—Former Premier Venizelos has contributed an article to The Athens Herald, in which he points out what he considers the mistakes made by the Greek Government. He condemns the "blustering methods" of Premier Skouloudis, and states that the army which, he says, has worn out uniforms and boots, as well as part of the equipment furnished at the mobilization, could not take the field within less than two months, and then only if the Entente powers undertook to furnish the necessary equipment. The task of feeding the army, he says, is becoming daily more problematical. The former Premier hints that Greece is on the verge of bankruptcy, and says: "While there is only one road to salvation, it is precisely that which we will not follow."

The article makes a strong bid for closer relations between Greece and the Allies "before it is too late."

French Minister Recalled?

BERLIN, May 21.—A Bucharest despatch to the Overseas News Agency says that Camille Blondel, French Minister to Roumania, is to be recalled at his own request.

Roumania recently concluded commercial treaties with the Central powers. There has been no evidence of friction between France and Roumania, which has been represented as sympathizing with the Entente Allies. Russia, however, is reported to view with suspicion the new treaties to which Roumania is a party, believing they may be of a political nature.

Dillon Deplores Revolt.

LONDON, May 22.—John Dillon, member of the House of Commons for East Mayo, has sent the following message to Judge John P. McGorty of the Irish Fellowship Club, Chicago:

"The Irish insurrection has inflicted serious injury to the Irish cause. All hope of securing home rule in the near future depends more than ever on the union of the Irish race throughout the world, and especially on the support of the Irish in America."

Premier Asquith returned to London from Ireland, after a five-days' conference on the political situation there. It is expected that he will speak in the House of Commons Tuesday.

J. A. Hutcheson K.C., of Brockville has been appointed by the Government as counsel to assist Sir Charles Davidson Commissioner on war Purchases, in succession to Capt. John Thompson, resigned.

Premier Skououdis Has Given a Million Dollars
to the Greek Treasury

GREECE is in an unenviable position financially. She was none too well off before the war began, but she is worse now. The long Balkan wars sent her to London to borrow money again and again, and so long as peace resigned she was able to get it. When the war broke out, however, London financiers had other fish to fry, so Greece could only effect loans upon pledges of loyalty to the cause of the Entente Allies. This restriction has probably done more than anything else to keep the pro-German Greeks from going to Berlin to sell their support. A short time ago when the mobilization of the Greek forces caused a heavy drain on the treasury the country was faced with an urgent need for cash. It could have been secured in London or Paris only as a result of further concessions. Rather than permit this, private Greek citizens with Teutonic leanings came forward with money. Chief among them was Premier Skououdis, who made his nation a gift of one million dollars. Premier Skououdis is the leader of the neutrals in Greece. The pro-German is Gounaris. At the time when the fighting between the two was at its fiercest Skououdis was accepted as a compromise premier. He is a banker by profession, and a very wealthy man.

Japanese at Salonica.

Two Japanese officers, one the naval attaché at the Japanese Embassy in London, arrived in Salonica recently and at once went to visit the French front. They expressed to me their astonishment at the work accomplished by the Allies.

They said: "Any German offensive is impossible because of the enormous transport difficulties and the movement to break down the defence. The Allies, on the contrary, have every means of replenishing their stores, which are already enormous."

The bad spirit prevailing between the German and Bulgarian soldiers is beginning to have an effect on the relations between the two countries. At Uskub the animosity is such that the two forces there have separated. The Germans occupy the right bank of the Vardar, the Bulgars the left. Bulgarian sentries are said to have been given orders to shoot any Germans that attempt to cross the bridge. German officers cannot cross the bridge any longer unless accompanied by a Bulgarian officer.

The Queen and the Cross.

Wearers of the Victoria Cross, says The London Chronicle, would not have been known as "V.C.s" if Queen Victoria's personal view had prevailed. Agreeing that they should be allowed "to bear some distinctive mark after their name," her Majesty represented to Lord Pamure that "V.C. would not do. K.G. means a Knight of the Garter, C.B. a Companion of the Bath, M.P. a Member of Parliament, M.D. a Doctor of Medicine, etc., etc., in all cases designating a person. No one could be called a Victoria Cross. V.C., moreover, means Vice-Chancellor at present. D.V.C. (decorated with the Victoria Cross) or B.V.C. (Bearer of the Victoria Cross) might do. The Queen thinks the last the best." Her Majesty, however, was persuaded, and our heroes are not confounded with Vice-Councillors any more than Privy Councillors with police constables.

Irish Knight's Example.

Sir James O'Donoghue has brought his recruiting labors in the West of Ireland to a climax by enlisting as a private in the 10th Battalion Royal Dublin Fusiliers. Galway, with its pronounced Nationalist traditions, has been a difficult region for Sir James' activities, but his leadership in local affairs as chairman of the Galway Urban District Council and his general popularity have enabled him to add many men to the colors.

Joffre's Birthday.

General Joffre recently celebrated his sixty-fourth birthday. The hero of the French army, who speaks only when there is something to say, and prefers work above everything else, has something of the magnetic influence over his men that Napoleon had; they would follow him anywhere. "Our Joffre says," is sufficient for them.

FOR sheer joy of living, for the most complete emancipation from the bondage of civilized life, give me the tented life in the Canadian Pacific Rockies.

Only a bit of cotton between one and the stars, only a spread of balsam between you and mother earth. But the world is yours, the wonder-world of mountains, of glaciers, of glittering snow fields, of singing brooks and roaring rivers, of valleys brilliant with flowers, of sleeping lakes of ever-changing colors.

With a guide, a pack and a saddle pony, a supply of food and a tent or two, we leave Banff or Field and face the alluring trail and the untrodden vales. Miles and years behind are cities and streets and trains and creditors and sky scrapers and even war. After hours of trail journeying, over as many kinds of paths as you can count on fingers and toes, the first camp is struck and none too soon, for the tenderfoot who hasn't been in the saddle for some years. Bill chooses an ideal spot as if by instinct—a clean bit of forest, a high and dry level area, a near-by stream, a pasture run for the ponies and firewood for the burning pile.

Then one enters upon the tented life and a rare life it is. How tiny the little tent in the world of hills, but it is home for the time. No sooner is it pegged down than Bill has by magic started a roaring fire going and set free the most delicious of odors for the epicurean feast that soon follows. A fallen tree serves as a mahogany table, a stump or two as upholstered chairs and what more would you have? We actually can get along without finger bowls or napkins. Could a cannibal be greedier than we are, as the bacon and the bread and the prunes disappear and the black old tea pot never runs dry. Then the camp fire! What witchery in the erratic flames with which the mountain winds are playing, what thrills of physical well-being as we fire-worship. Men purr like well-fed cats and are unashamed. Then the camp fire symposium: the tales, true and less true, the singing, classic and otherwise, and such good fellowship as is rare!

So to bed. Three in a row. The centre sleeper in his sleeping bag looks like a stuffed giant, the rest of us are content with the warm Hudson's Bay blankets of ample folds. No, we didn't sleep much the first night, but the change of life and environment had been too sudden, but as well wait for the other nights. Oblivion waits on the campers until the morning wash in the ice-cold stream makes a complete awakening. And what a day it is, rarer than any pretty day in June in the other part of the world where men crowd together. Trails and paths invite exploration on every hand, mountain slopes say, come over and climb us for the panorama we will reveal. Wild life is revealed at times, for it is the haunt of big and small game—bear, mountain goat and sheep, porcupine, marmot, ptarmigan, eagle. The ear is thrilled with the songs of singing streams and tumbling cascades and reverberating avalanches. Truly it is a marvel world, and the fleeting life therein, in a little tent, makes one of the happiest experiences of life and one of its happiest memories.

RECIPROCITY FOR MOTORISTS.

Arrangements With Border States Nearly Completed.

Reciprocity in motor licenses between Ontario and the border States is at last assured. An order-in-Council has been passed authorizing Hon. F. G. Macdormand, Minister of Public Works and Highways, to enter into an agreement for the interchange of automobile traffic between Ontario and the States of New York and Michigan. The idea is that the interchange will permit the free use of Ontario highways to motor vehicles from New York and Michigan for a period of twenty-one days. The date on which this arrangement will become operative is to be announced shortly.

During 1915 there were 6,000 automobiles from the United States entering Ontario which paid an average fee of $8.00, making a total revenue of $48,000. In 1914 the fee was only $4.00 and the number of American cars entering the Province was believed to be larger than in 1915. This year the average license is $12.00, and it is estimated that the number of motorists who would be willing to pay this fee would be small and eliminate much of the tourist traffic.

What the amount disbursed by automobile tourists in the Province in any year is cannot be more than estimated. But taking figures supplied by hotel managers on the line from Buffalo to Detroit it is stated that $20.00 per car per day and $5.00 for each passenger would not cover the money spent. If this is so it is obvious what a large revenue is available to the tradesmen along the line of motor traffic.

Turned Over to Hydro.

Following the announcement recently made of the purchase by the Ontario Government of the interests of the Seymour Power Co. for the benefit of the municipalities in the Midlands district of the Province, Hon. G. Howard Ferguson, Minister of Lands, Forests, and Mines, who conducted the negotiations, states that an order-in-Council has been passed turning over the control, administration, and management of these plants to the Hydro-Electric Power Commission. This transfer includes all the subsidiary companies of the Seymour Power Co., and the Hydro-Electric Power Commission will, as rapidly as possible, reorganize the operation of these plants and make the situation in the Trent Valley district conform to the condition of the municipalities in Western Ontario utilizing the benefits of this cheap power scheme of the Government.

Lord Derby has had to engage another secretary. Since he became the most popular man in England—or at any rate the most trusted one—he has paid the usual penalty. Specimens of patent medicines arrive by the sackful, and everyone who has an axe to grind wants Lord Derby's help in grinding it.

SIXTH EPISODE

The Railroad Monopoly
By JAMES OPPENHEIM.
Author of "The Beloved" and
"Songs For the New Age"

TOM LARNIGAN'S victory over the textile trust and the tragic defeat of the plans Ayres had made for his destruction encouraged him vastly, but not more than did the discovery that he was not, after all, friendless and alone in his fight.

Ben Travers, his old friend of the Alaskan mining camps, had come back into his life, and Ben had millions and the will, as well as the power, to help Tom. Harry Stevens, too, the young newspaper man who had enlisted in Bruce's war against the grafters, had sought Tom out and promised his aid.

Tom gripped the hands of his friends in turn after he and Ben Travers discussed the latest warning to drop investigating the railroad monopoly.

"Well, I can't make you quit," he said, "and I don't mind saying that I am mighty glad because I can't. There are no two men I would rather have with me in a fight, and it looks as though we have a real fight ahead of us now. Bruce seems to think that we ought to look into the railroad monopoly—that Charles Rockford has created."

Stevens nodded.

"I'll drop down to Wall street and see what I can find on the financial end. I know that any reporter on the street would do anything I asked him. Then you and Ben can follow up Rockford personally. Have you looked into his movements at all?"

"Yes," said Tom. "He's going to Boston from New Hartford this afternoon, just his private car and an engine. If I could only get on that special!"

"Good!" echoed Ben. "I'll go with you!"

Tom scouted around now, afraid to ask questions too openly, until he found out which engineer was to be in charge of President Rockford's special that afternoon on the run to Boston. He left Ben to watch him and went to call on Rockford. As he expected, he was unable to see the head of the railroad. But he managed to drop a note addressed to Rockford and containing a warning that he had better mend his ways. He told Ben of this.

"That will prepare him," he said. "He'll know who I am when he sees me."

"I've been talking a little with our man," said Ben. "I think we can land him all right. He says he'd rather work in a glue factory than here. He seems to be sore on the whole works, from Rockford down."

And Tom, when he in turn talked to the engineer, found that Ben had not exaggerated. He listened to the man's complaints for a time and then decided to make a proposition to him.

"Look here," he said. "I can show you I know how to run an engine, and my friend here knows all about firing. It's worth $500 to me to be in your cab this afternoon when that special goes out. How about it?"

The engineer agreed.

Somehow it did not occur to either of them to distrust the engineer or to suspect him. And yet, no sooner were they out of sight than he made his way as fast as he could to President Rockford's office, told of the bribe and of what he had done.

Stanford Stone was with Rockford when the engineer made his report.

He leaned over and spoke confidentially to Rockford, who grew a little white as he listened, but nodded finally.

"All right," he said, "I'll do it. I'll stay back here, but they'll think I'm aboard—well, it will serve them right! You can trust Dunn!"

"I think so," said Stone grimly. "He knows he must make good this time or get into trouble. He's fallen down hard twice lately. Why, even yesterday he was to send two men to Lyndham, with a woman, to get something on this Tom Larnigan. His two men have disappeared, and they never took the woman at all. They didn't wait for her, but went off with some other woman—on a joy ride, I suppose!"

Neither Stone nor Rockford, of course, knew the truth as to this, which was that Dorothy Maxwell, learning of the plot, had taken the place of the woman who was to betray Tom, nor that the two thugs with whom she had gone had become suspicious and tied her, hand and foot, in the bottom of the car while they went into a roadhouse to acquire courage for the task before them. Yet, even at that moment, Dorothy was in flight from the two thugs.

They had not meant to stay long in the roadhouse, but one drink had suggested another, and their resistance hadn't been strong. As a result, Dorothy had been able to loosen her bonds and get out of the car. She rode off in the car just as the two thugs emerged, and as soon as they recovered from their astonishment they gave chase, stealing a motorcycle that had been standing by the car.

Dorothy had a good start; but, unhappily, the gasoline tank of the car was almost empty, and she soon saw that she was sure to be overhauled and again made a prisoner. Her experience with them made her dread this and led her to be willing to take any risk to avoid the fate she felt was in store for her at their hands.

And so at a turn in the road she abandoned the car and fled down toward the water, which was near by, as the road at this point wound in and out near the sound. At a small dock a motorboat was lying. It seemed to be empty, and Dorothy sprang aboard and got the boat going just as her pursuers tore down to the water's edge. She felt that in the boat she was safe and that she would be able to explain her desperate need to its owner. But, to her consternation, she heard sounds within the tiny cabin, and the next moment the owner emerged.

"Kitty!" cried Dorothy. "Kitty Rockford!"

It was not a man, but a girl of Dorothy's own age, who owned the boat. And Kitty Rockford was her best friend. Chance had leaned heavily in Dorothy's direction at last! There were exclamations of amazement from both of them, and explanations followed.

"I'd never have dared!" cried Kitty. "Dorothy, you're the bravest girl I ever knew! But you're safe now. We'll go right home, and I'll have them send you to New York in a special train."

"Come on," he said to Ben. "This is as good a time as any for our little talk with President Rockford."

But in the private car when they went back they found not Rockford, but the two girls—two astonished girls, moreover.

"Are we all alone on this train? I've been ringing and ringing, and there seems to be no porter," said Kitty indignantly.

But Dorothy at that moment recognized Tom Larnigan.

"So you're safe!" she cried. "I was so afraid they had hurt you, as they did Bruce!"

And then there were explanations. Tom seized upon the main fact.

"I believe this was a trap!" he cried. "Get off the train while Travers and I look to see if anything is wrong."

Kitty resented what seemed to be a reflection on her father, but there was something compelling about Tom, and she obeyed. And then while Tom and Ben looked for evidences of a plot Dorothy explained many things to Kitty until she was interrupted by a hoarse cry of triumph.

"Got you this time, missy!" cried one of the thugs from whom her timely meeting with Kitty had enabled her to escape.

The two thugs had been obliged to walk the ties and had come just at this moment. But they reckoned without Tom and Ben. They heard Dorothy's scream, and the next instant they appeared and attacked the two thugs. The surprise helped Dorothy's rescuers, and the fight that followed was brief. Soon all the thugs wanted was to escape, and one of them wriggled free and sprang to the engine. He called to the other, and they went off in the engine. But they did not go far, for Dunn was waiting. He did his work well. The special crashed through the open draw, and the thugs met the fate they deserved.

Even as the crash of the wreck sounded in their ears another engine appeared. From it sprang Rockford, whose relief when he saw Kitty knew no bounds. He turned in a moment to Tom Larnigan.

"I can help you, and I will!" he said earnestly. "I have sworn to reform myself, and I will work with you to compel others to do so."

not far from New Hartford Dunn was to be stationed, with instructions to open the draw and dash the special to destruction in the rocky stream below.

Tom and Ben suspected nothing. They were delighted when they found that the engineer and his fireman were ready to let them take their places in return for the $500 Tom had offered.

The engineer led the way to an obscure spot and changed clothes with Tom, while his fireman gave up his own working togs to Ben. Just five minutes before the special was scheduled to pull out Tom and Ben took their places in the cab of the engine, waiting for the signal to pull out. And just before that signal was given Kitty Rockford and Dorothy dashed up.

"That's dad's car," she said. "Where is that special going?" she asked the nearest official, who smiled at her.

"Boston, Miss Kitty," he said.

"Good!" cried Kitty. "Come on, Dorothy. It's just what we want."

There was no reason for stopping her. None of the station officials knew anything of Rockford's devilish plan. And so Kitty and Dorothy climbed aboard, and a moment later the signal to start was given. Rockford and Stone, sitting in Rockford's office, chuckled as they saw it pull out.

But five minutes later Rockford's chuckling was stopped abruptly, for a note that Kitty had hastily scribbled was brought to him. It informed him that his daughter was on the train that was doomed by his own act. As he read it he had turned a ghastly color, and he slumped forward in his chair for a moment. Then he turned furiously on Stone.

"This is your doing, you murderer!" he cried.

He flung the note at Stone.

"I'll try to save them!" he cried.

"But whatever happens I'm done with you! I'll have no more dealings with you or any of the grafters who are in with you! I'll be an honest man again!"

He flew to send orders stopping the special and ordered out another special to follow. But he had no hope. There was no way, he was sure, of stopping the doomed train. The only chance was for Dunn to fail, and that chance, as Rockford knew only too well, was of the slightest. Dunn was not the sort to fail when success depended upon his own efforts and when he knew, as he did now, the price of failure.

What Rockford, however, had not allowed for was that Tom Larnigan had a plan of his own. And very soon after the special had pulled out and while it was still a mile from the bridge where Dunn waited Tom stopped the train.

"Come on," he said to Ben. "This is as good a time as any for our little talk with President Rockford."

But in the private car when they went back they found not Rockford, but the two girls—two astonished girls, moreover.

SUNDAY SCHOOL.

Lesson IX.—Second Quarter, For May 28, 1916.

THE INTERNATIONAL SERIES.

Text of the Lesson, Acts xv, 1-35. Memory Verses, 32, 33—Golden Text, Gal. v, 1—Commentary Prepared by Rev. D. M. Stearns.

This lesson tells of a lot of trouble which certain people caused by teaching that faith in Jesus Christ was not enough to save any one unless they were also circumcised. These people are spoken of as "Pharisees who believed" (verses 1, 5). The Lord Jesus did not believe in all who said that they believed in Him, for He knew all men (John II, 23-25). Any one who does not see a full salvation in the finished work of the Lord Jesus for all who receive Him, apart from any works of ours, does not understand God's way of saving people and cannot be a true believer. Ever since the devil taught Cain that the best he could do or bring was sufficient without any sacrifice or shedding of blood he has continued so to teach, or else that the blood of Christ is not sufficient without some works of ours, as a Sunday school superintendent once told me that he could not know that he was saved till he had done his part. From the day that the devil lied to Eve and made God a liar he has been on the same line to the present time. The argument in Rom. iv is full and clear—that salvation is wholly apart from any works of ours and that Abraham was a righteous man before God, apart from circumcision, and the teaching is the same in all the epistles. Yet the false teachers continue to this day.

We might think that the testimony of Paul and Barnabas as to what they had seen the Lord do in the way of saving uncircumcised gentiles would silence these disturbers at Antioch, but the devil is very persistent and can make a lot of trouble, and the Antioch believers decided to refer the matter to the apostles and elders at Jerusalem by sending Paul and Barnabas as their committee. See how along the way as they journeyed they caused great joy unto the brethren as they declared all things that God had done with them (verses 3, 4), and thus this seemingly unnecessary journey was made to glorify God. Rom. viii, 28, is always helpful.

When they appeared before the council at Jerusalem there was much disputing there also, so it would seem that the false teachers had not all left the city. When Peter found his opportunity he told, or reminded them, how God had sent His Spirit upon the uncircumcised company gathered in the home of Cornelius (verses 6-11; Acts x, 34-48). Then Paul and Barnabas declared what they had seen along similar lines in their missionary tour, telling of the wonders and miracles God had wrought among the gentiles by them (verse 12). We may imagine how profound the silence was as the council listened to the record of what we have been recently studying in chapters xiii and xiv. Then James, who seemed to be presiding at the council, summed up the matter and gave the decision that the believers among the gentiles must not be troubled about circumcision or anything unnecessary for them, but prove, by a life separated from all idolatry, that they were true followers of Jesus Christ. This was indorsed by the apostles and elders and by the whole church and sent by Paul and Barnabas and two of the chief men among the brethren, Judas and Silas, to the believing gentiles in Antioch, Syria and Cilicia (verses 22, 23).

Notice in verse 28 that the Holy Spirit was really the presiding one at the council and led them to their right decision and thus brought joy and comfort to the brethren at Antioch (verse 31). I am often impressed with the fact that the Spirit seems to make so little of a voyage or a journey, as to the time occupied or the incidents by the way or the places visited or passed through. Note in verse 30 they were dismissed from Jerusalem and came to Antioch, and so it is always, as a rule, no matter how long the voyage or the journey. Time and distance and many things that get much attention here seem not to be noticed in heaven whence the angels come and return as a flash of lightning and where 1,000 years are but as yesterday when it is past or as a watch in the night (Ezek. i, 14; Ps. xc, 4). The speech of James gives a most concise summary of the purpose of God in this present age and in the age to come.

Now, God is gathering out from all nations a people for His name. His church, the called out ones, the body and bride of Christ, who shall reign with Him when He sets up His kingdom on the earth. His church being completed and caught up to Him in the air, He will return with them to restore to Israel all that the prophets have foretold and to occupy the throne of David; then shall all nations be won to Christ through Israel, who shall be the first righteous nation upon earth, for Israel shall blossom and bud and fill the face of the earth with fruit. From the beginning God saw clearly His eternal purpose which He has purposed in Christ Jesus, our Lord, and which He will in due time accomplish (verses 13 to 18; Eph. iii, 11; Isa. lx, 1, 3).

"I can help you, and I will!" said Rockford earnestly.

A "Fast" Train.

"Speaking of railroads," said the truthful man, "the ultimate word, in my experience, was a certain 'limited' on which I traveled last summer. At a point where we were making our greatest speed a man stood at the side of the track with a moving picture machine. I leaned out of the window and called to him, 'How are you getting on?'"

"He stopped turning the crank and spoke with an expression of deep disgust: 'It don't seem to be no use,' he said. 'Hold your head still, please. I want to get a time exposure.'—Ev. erybody's."

Past Help.

The man with the old clock under his arm laid it on the jeweler's showcase. "I wish you'd see what is the matter with this," he said.

The jeweler removed the dial, screwed his eyeglass into place and inspected the works of the ancient timepiece. "Nothing is the matter with it now. Its sufferings are over."

"Well, how much do I owe you?" asked the man.

"Nothing," answered the jeweler. "This isn't a professional treatment. This is a coroner's inquest."

Working Out a Garden's Salvation.

Looking backward, I note the transition from reading books about gardens to doing work in one of them and how it gradually came to pass that I read less and only of standard substantialities that might be termed principles, because I found that I must work out my own garden salvation and work it out, if not with fear and trembling, certainly with a humble mind and a humble disposition.—From "My Growing Garden," by J. ADDRESS AND PRESENTATION.

On Thursday evening, May 18th, the officers and members of L.O.B.A. Mississippi Lodge 123 waited upon Sergt. Herb. Eastwood at his mother's home and presented him with a magnificent wrist watch and the following address:

Carleton Place, May 18, 1916.

SERG. HERBERT EASTWOOD.

Dear Friend,—It is with feelings of deep regret we meet to-night to bid you "Farewell" and "God Speed" on your journey from us and this your home town. Still we cannot but feel pride in your unselfishness and heroism in answering the call of your Empire, and enlisting to serve your King and country and right. We are reminded so often of the inscription on the South African monument, "Take up the sword of justice now," and it is in the holy cause of justice that so many young men like yourself throughout Canada are challenged to take up the sword of justice. They do not love war, they revolt at it; but justice was violated when Germany invaded Belgium and sinned against every other law-abiding nation. There was nothing for Britain to do but take up the challenge. Britain's lead was Canada's excuse. In going away from us we shall miss you, Oh so much; miss your cheery willingness to be of service in all our doings. But we are proud of your friendship and your great courage to leave so much that is dear and makes life worth while, and take your stand in defence of right. We wish you, dear friend, to take with you this wrist watch as a slight token of our appreciation and a remembrance from the Ladies' Orange Association, your dear mother's particular friends, and you may feel assured we shall do all we can to cheer and comfort her, also your father and your own family. We shall feel that our special duty. We hope and pray you may be spared to return to them and to us in the near future. Until we all we can say is, "God Be With You Till We Meet Again."

Signed on behalf of

THE LADIES' ORANGE ASSOCIATION.

After a very suitable address from the Sergt. the guests adjourned to the dining-room, where a sumptuous dinner was served. Several prominent men of the town were present, including friends from outlying towns. After several toasts were tendered the guests adjourned to the drawing-room, where a social hour was spent, and every one left with feelings that they had enjoyed themselves and had spent a pleasant evening.

Correctly Written.

Jobs was given a census blank to fill in, and under the heading, "Age of father if living," he wrote "105," while under the heading "Age of mother if living," he wrote "102."
"Look here," exclaimed the clerk when Jobs submitted the blank, "isn't there some mistake about this?"
"No, sir," was the positive response of the other. "Every bit of it is correct."
"Do you mean to tell me," demanded the amazed clerk, "that your parents are 105 and 102 years old?"
"I hadn't got no parents," answered Jobs, "but they would have been that old if living."

PERTH DISTRICT METHODISTS

The Perth District Meeting of the Methodist church held its sessions in Asbury church, Perth, last Tuesday and Wednesday. Delegates were present from Smiths Falls, Merrickville, Easton's Corners, Kemptville, Oxford Mills, Carleton Place, Almonte, Pakenham, Ashton, Lanark, Jasper, Lombardy and Maberly.

A public meeting was held in the church Tuesday evening and a good program provided. Rev. Mr. Cummings of Smiths Falls, chairman of the district presided. An anthem was rendered by the choir and a duet by Miss Clara Reid and Mr. Hazell. Rev. Mr. Webster of Kemptville, led in prayer. Addresses were given by Rev. W. G. Henderson, of Carleton Place, and Rev. W. H. Stevens of Almonte. The program concluded with the singing of "God Bless our Native Land" and the National Anthem.

Rev. W. H. Stevens, of Almonte gave a most interesting talk on "The Church as regarded the War."
"The attitude of the church after the War" was the subject of the address given by Rev. W. G. Henderson, a former pastor of Asbury church. Mr. Henderson has lost none of his old-time vigor and he was listened to with great pleasure by many of his old friends. He believed that prayer would be a strong factor in bringing the great struggle to a successful issue for the Allies. Prayer and the sword must be united forces. One thing of importance that will have to be met after the war will be the great number of men—probably 4,000,000 which will be let loose as it were, upon the commercial world. Places will have to be found for them, and the Christian church can aid in this work.

The speaker was not sure but that the Kaiser was deserving of a vote of thanks inasmuch as his declaration of war against Britain consolidated the Empire at a time when there were many serious dissensions within its bounds. He particularly commended Australia for her preparedness, and the grand service she has rendered the Mother country.

Mr. Henderson felt he never preached a better gospel sermon in his life than when he urged his young men to enlist. After the war many of the sharp lines of class distinction will have disappeared and temperance reform will have made tremendous strides throughout the world. Mr. Henderson concluded his address with a poem entitled "Peace."

Wednesday morning's session was spent in review of the reports of the various churches which show a gratifying condition. The district reports an increase in membership and also in contributions to missions, the total amount being $4,237.

A delegation of the local W.M.S., headed by Mrs. Lester was received.

Beware Mad Dogs.

The Provincial Board of Health is sending out its annual warning regarding the danger from rabies-infected dogs. The circular gives painters upon how to detect rabies, and advises that where a person has been bitten the dog be chained up for ten days. In that time if the dog has rabies it will either be worse or will die. At the end of ten days, or before if the dog dies, the head should be sent to the Provincial Laboratory, Queen's Park, where an examination of the brain will be made. Where rabies is found to exist prompt steps will be taken to see that the person bitten is given proper treatment. Killing the dog before the disease has a chance to develop is not advisable, since it cannot be determined definitely then whether the animal is infected or not.

Why the Engine Declined to Purrr.

Kingston Standard.—The sweetest things are not always the best. Such can be testified to by a well known local young man who last Sunday took the opportunity to tune up his motor boat preparatory to the 1916 debut. Arming himself with all the necessary implements, including a can of alleged lubricating oil, which had been rusticated in his cellar, he started for the boat house. Arriving there, he injected copious quantities of the alleged oil into the mechanism of the motor.

"Something's wrong with this oil," purred the young man after it had failed to do its work.
After over a thought and deliberation, he decided to taste the stuff. A few gurgles of the throat and the mystery was solved. It was neither Standard nor Imperial, but maple syrup.
As a result of using the syrup the young man was forced to stick around all afternoon before he was able to clear the engine of the favorite Canadian throat wash. In the meantime there was much kicking and growling and garbling of words.

LITTLE WORRIES IN THE HOME

It is These that Bring Wrinkles
and Make Women Look Prematurely Old.

Almost every woman at the head of a home meets daily many little worries in her household affairs. They may be too small to notice an hour afterwards, but it is these same constant little worries that affect the blood and nerves and make women look prematurely old. Their effect may be noticed in sick or nervous headaches, fickle appetite, pain in the back or side, sallow complexion and the coming of wrinkles, which every woman dreads. To those thus afflicted Dr. Williams' Pink Pills offer a speedy and certain cure; a restoration of color to the cheeks, brightness to the eye, a hearty appetite and a sense of freedom from weariness.

Among the thousands of Canadian women who have found new health through Dr. Williams' Pink Pills is Mrs. N. Worrall, Broughdale, Ont., who says:—"After the birth of my second child I was so weak and run down that I was unable to do anything. The doctor said I had scarcely any blood in my body. I could not walk half a block without being completely exhausted and all the treatment of the doctor did not seem to help me. I called in another doctor, but no better results. My feet and legs became frightfully swollen, I suffered with severe pains in my back and sides. I would be all day dragging around at my household work, and I was beginning to give up all hope of recovery. I had been urged to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, but like many women, thought they could not help me when doctors had failed to do so, but after much urging I decided to try them. To my surprise in a few weeks I found myself getting better. I then gladly continued their use and found myself constantly growing stronger, and eventually able to do my house work without fatigue. I strongly advise every weak woman to give Dr. Williams' Pink Pills a fair trial."

You can get these Pills through any medicine dealer or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.
