SALISBURY EXPLAINS. London, June 26 .- In the House of Lords today, Lord Salisbury, in reply to some remarks by Lord Rosebery, said that the only policy the Government could now announce was that of aissolution. He hoped, therefore, that the House of Commons would be in a position to dissolve on Monday or Tuesday at the latest. Lord Salisbury explained the circumstances under which he sent to the Right Hon. H. Campbell-Bannerman, Secretary of State for War, for the seals of that office, and the course he had pursued was taken solely with the idea of suiting Mr. Bannerman's convenience, and saving him annoyance. REDMOND'S RANT. London, June 27.-John Redmond Parnellite, member of the House of Commons for Waterford city, has issued a manifesto, in which he argues that the Parnellite prophecies made at the time of the split in the Irish Parliamentary party have been fulfilled to the letter. He attacks the anti-Parnellites for resting on their oars when the House of Lords rejected the Home Rule Bill, and for allowing the Liberals to launch the Newcastle programme. The Parnellites, like Mr. Glad stone, wished to apepal to the country but the anti-Parnellites went with the Liberal intriguers. Mr. Gladstone re signed, and since then there has been no Irish question before Parliament Mr. Redmond declares, that the Irish must return to Mr. Parnells' policy and have a national party absolutely independent of any of the English parties. Lennoxville, June 28.—A horrible tragedy took place here yesterday. J. H. Hull, a carriage maker and wood stripper of this village, had his throat cut presumably by Mark Sherman, a harness maker of Martinville. Sherman has been backwards and forwards here lately and stayed here last night. Mrs. Hull said she advised Sherman to take a rest up stairs and he replied that he could not go up unless Hull did. Shortly afterwards she heard a scream, and holding his hand to his throat. He said: "Send for the doctor; send for the

And Terrifles the Neighborhood, According to Veracious Residents.

Traverse City, Mich., June 28.-Residents near Traverse Beach, a resort three miles from here were greatly alarmed yesterday morning at the appearance of what looked like a monster sea serpent. It was discovered by the children of Mrs. Whiting. The monster first appeared 100 feet from shore. It raised its head from the water about six feet, showing a flowing mane and huge flappers on the neck and long hair on the back. Mrs. Whiting went to the shore and examined it thoroughly through a glass. It gamboled about for an hour, but its entire length could not be seen. Frank Durfee fired his shotgun at the creature without perceptible effeet. Several shots followed, and finally the serpent, after rearing its great hairy head into the air and flapping its wings, disappeared, creating a wide disturb-ance in the water. Some who saw the object declare that it was 60 feet long and that its jaws extended a foot, with long fangs on the upper and lower jaws. All the witnesses are well known and reliable MONSTROUS SNAKE KILLED. Middletown, Ohio, June 28.-The big snake that has been exciting, and at the same time terrorizing, the inhabitants of the village of La Sourdsville for the past week, was killed early this morning. The terrible experience of Mo dus Fisher caused the wildest excitement, and the posse that organized and went in pursuit of the monster accomplished its work in good style, and today all that remains of his snakeship is in the hands of a taxidermist, preparatory to being stuffed for exhibition.

An immense fire was built at one end of the passage, a liberal portion of sulphur thrown into the plaze and the desired end attained. The smoke had hardly entered the cave when a loud rumbling noise was heard from within. A breaking of bushes, a crackling of twigs, a sluggish swash, as of a clumsy body moving in water, and the monster came from his den. His hideous head had hardly protruded from the water and bushes when three bullets, following close upon each other, from a rifle in the hands of Earney Klipp, dispatched him. The monstrous reptile is of the anaconda species, and is nearly twenty feet long. It is said to have escaped from a circus when it exhibited here a few years ago.

HIS HEART ON THE RIGHT SIDE.

Herbert Place's Heart, Lungs. Liver, and Spleen All Reversed.

New York, June 28.—Herbert Place, a negro 27 years old, walked into Bellevue Hospital yesterday and said he would like to be examined, as his heart was on the wrong side of his body. The clerks were increculous, but the doctors found that not only was his heart on the right side, but that his right lung was on the left side, the left lung on the right side, the liver on the left side, and the spleen on the right side. Place is married, and lives at 1,422 Douglass street, Brooklyn. He has no childhen. He is of medium height, strongly built, and has never been seriously ill for a day in his life His mother, three brothers and a sister are living, and there is nothing unusual about the vital organs of any of them. Last fall his wife urged him to have his life insured, and he underwent a medical examination. The insurance doctor discovered the misplacement of his vital organs and refused to pass

"Herbert was setting up the ninepins in the bowling alley of the Avon Club at Bedford avenue and Halsey street. He told a crowd of men that his heart was on the right side. I would not believe it and finally I made a bet of $13 with a gentleman present that Herbert was using his hat for a telephone. Well there was a doctor there, and after Herbert stripped he examined him, and declared that I had lost my money."

LONDON CONSERVATORY OF MUSIC Closing Exercises in the Grand Opera

House. The London Conservatory of Music, which has now been in existence for four years, has attained a position strong in the confidence of the public, not alone of this city, but of Western Ontario, from all parts of which students are drawn. An average attendance for the year of 250 students must be as gratifying as it is complimentary to the manager and conductor, Mr. W. Caven Barron.

The annual closing exercises, which have come to be looked forward to with increasing interest, took place last night in the Opera House before a crowded house. That is to say, the first of the two nights. The second programme will be given tonight, also in the Opera House, and will be mostly a new programme. The following was the programme of last night, as arranged on the printed sneet: Chorus-Voices of the Wood......Rubinstein-Watson ed sheet:

Dost Thou Know That Sweet Land (Mignon)......Miss B. McLean.

The foregoing programme was followed by a physical culture drill in which the following took part: Misses Ena Bucke, Florence Simon, Vida Millar, Lizzie Angus, Agathe Proudfoot, Ray Simon, Hattie Fox, Eina Kordes, Irene Proudfoot, Edna Leonard, Libbie Pitcher, Evelyn Johnson, Bessie Kordes, Isabel Love, Florence Magee, Kate McKerricher. The finally finale was a clever little comedietta, "The Mouse Trap," from the pen of the well-known American nevelist, W. D. Howells, with the following dramatis personae

The choruses were good, especially the second; the solo singing showed careful training; the recitations were meritorious; the quartette, mandolins and guitars, reminded of softly-sailing gondolas on summer seas; Miss Lillywhite was in good voice; little Miss Ray Simon danced the solemn minuet with charming grace. Albany, N. Y., June 27.—Private Secetary Cole this morning, under instructions from Gov. Morton, informed Mrs. Annie Buchanan that the governor must decline to hear any further apfor clemency in behalf of Dr. Buchanan, now under sentence of death in Sing Sing prison.

Dr. Buchanan will likely be electrocuted at 11 o'clock next Monday morning, invitations for that hour having been sent out for the fourth time. The Attorney-General has assured the warden that the doctor may be legally electrocuted at that time, but the doctor's counsel claim the contrary.

A Good Story.

A story is going the rounds at the expense of one of the best known men of this place. We shall not mention his name, but you know him. Of rather determined mien, he has of late beer showing signs of mental agitation. He wears a full beard, but a few days since, his wife, much to her alarm found him sharpening a razor. thought his mind was unhinged, and went into hysterics. Explanations followed, and it was found that life had for him still some charm. He intended to use the razor upon painful corns. A friend who had used Putnam's Corn Extractor with success advised its use, with the following results: Man quire happy, wife ditto, razor sent away. Use Putnam's Corn Extractor.

Resident Manager,

A very characteristic and delightful note is that given in a recent Century from Mr. Holmes to J. T. Fields, thanking Mr. Fields for the gift of a barometer. The gift was so much appreciated that it was wanted by the sunny autocrat for his study and by Mrs. Holmes for the parlor, a difference of opinion which prompted him to impart to his friend the following quaint dialogue-imaginary, no doubt, in the indications of bad weather, for weather in the Holmes household is well known to have been perennially fair and fine. I have observed some extraordinary movements of the index of the baro-meter during the discussion that ensued, wrote the doctor, after mention-ing the domestic difference, which you may be intersted to see my notes of: Barometer

Mrs. H.—My dear, we shall of course keep this beautiful barometer in the parlor.

Dr. H.—Why, no, my dear, the study is the place. Mrs. H.—I'm sure it ought to go in the parlor. It's too handsome for your old Change

Fair

Dr. H.-I shall keep it in the study. Mrs. H.—I don't think that's fair. Rain Dr. H.-I'm sorry. Can't Very dry

Mrs. H.—It's —Itoo —Itoo Much rain ba-a-ad. Dr. H.—(Music omitted)— 'Mid pleasures and pagala-a-c-es Set fair Mrs. H.-I will have it!

You horrid-You see what a wonderful instrument this is that you have given me. But, my dear Mr. Fields, while I watch its changes it will be a constant memorial of unchanging friendship; and while the dark hand of fate is traversing the whole range of mortal vicissitudes, the golden index of the kind affections shall stand always at Set Fair. Yours ever, O. W. HOLMES.

Cultured people are people who know how to look at you without seeing you. "What broke up the meeting?" inquired a sympathizer. "What broke up the meeting?" echoed the fiery Anarchist orator fiercely. "It was broken up, sir, by an idiot in the audience who started round with a hat to take up a collection to pay for the dynamite.' An excellent suggestion was that contained in the remark of a little 10year-old girl from the country, who had been visiting a summer friend in her city home.

"Did you have a good time?" asked the child's mother when the girl came back from her week's visit. "Beautiful!" replied the little traveler. with great enthusiasm; "why, they were so polite they made me feel just as if I was the one that was at home, and they were visiting. I had a beautiful time!"

The cheap white silk parasols, with white enameled sticks and handles, cost rather less than $1 now, are useful, inasmuch as they can be trimmed at home and made very handsome. A clever girl bought two of them. The first she painted with tiny sprays of forget-me-nots, in a scattered design, and on the edge she sewed a plaited ruffle of pale blue mousseline de soie (left over from a ball gown), and tied a bow of pale blue and white ribbon on the handle. The second offe she covered entirely with plaited ruffles of white organdie, trimmed with a narrow lace edging, and overlapping each other. A white satin bow on the handle completed this charming parasol. A few yards of ecru lace, four inches wide, and some ribbon of the same color for bows, has made another of these white parasols take on a rich and expensive air, and by utilizing lace, chiffon, or other pretty bits of trimming on hand, one can have a parasol to match every toilet at comparatively little cost,-

"Do you think women will ever successfully fill the pulpit " "I see no reason why she should not. It ought to be easy, with the sleeves she wears. She can certainly fill the pews."

-Exchange.

Jones was absent-minded, and as he was about to sail for the continent with his wife and family a friend came down to see him off and make sure all was right. The friend was rate; it was within twenty minutes of sailing time, but he found Jones smiling and happy. "Hello, Jones!" he cried. "All right?"

"Yes," nodded Jones, "trunks, tickets, letter of credit, steamer chair—everything. Flatter myself that all is right this time." "That's good," was the answer.
"Where's Mrs. Jones and the family?
Have to tell them adieu and hurry

denly, "I think they're waiting at home for me." Scatter campher gum where mice

"Jove!" cried Jones, sitting down sud-abound and see them scatter. Customer-I like that umbrella stand, but I don't think it is worth $3. Salesman—Why, madam, the very first umbrella that is left in it may be worth more than that.-Puck.

TRADE IN CANADA.

Pointers from Dun & Co.'s Weekly Statement.

The Usual Summer Quietness With a Somewhat Brighter Outlook for the Future.

Toronto, June 27.-R. G. Dun & Co.'s weekly statement of trade in Canada says Montreal advices indicate that the trade movement is assuming a quieter, seasonable shape, more particularly in heavy goods, such as metals, paints, oils, etc. Sugars, too, are dull, but there are indications that the large stocks laid in just prior to the rise are getting low, and refiners and jobbers expect more activity shortly. In gen-eral groceries there is a fairly steady distribution. Drygoods retailers in the city report satisfactory business for several weeks past, and July and Aug-ust payments are being anticipated in some cases. Travelers also report country drygoods stocks as moving off very fairly, and some of them report an inclination on the part of some of Ladies' Belts their customers to buy the bulk of their fall goods earlier this year than for several years past, due partly to the expectation of a better state of the expectation of a better state of trade and partly to the belief that higher values prevail. Cheese has improved belief proved half a cent since last week, an advance which does not seem war-ranted by the state of the English market. Butter remains dull and weak. The crop prospects in Quebec Province are generally favorable. There is no particular activity in any department of trade at Toronto just now. The holiday season has begun. There is a large afflux of citizens to summer resorts, and travel appears to be more general and travel appears to be more general than usual. Prospects are considered satisfactory for a large volume of trade the coming autumn. The hay crop is poor west of Toronto, but the yield will likely be large in the east. A good yield of coarse grains is expected in Ontario, but wheat will not be a large group and probably smaller than last crop, and probably smaller than last year. Advices from Manitoba are very cheering, and the largest crop of wheat ever harvested seems to be expected. There is a slight depression in prices of export cattle, owing to large supplies arriving in Great Britain. Wheat at Ontario points is a trifle firmer at 86c to 87c, but a majority of holders are asking 90c. The wool market is very firm, with a shipment of about 250,000 pounds of fleece in the United States. Better demand is noted for cheese, with sales at Ontario creameries at slightly

The failures for the week were 22, as against 35 for the same week of higher prices.

GUARDS HIS WIFE'S GRAVE. A Promise Made Fifteen Years Ago Faithfully Kept.

Cincinnati, June 27.—"If you die I will sleep by the side of your grave all the rest of my life." This remarkable vow was made fifteen years ago to his sick wife by Edwin L. Morrison, at that time chief clerk of the Pennsylvania freight department, and a protege of Ralph Peters, the superintendent of the Miami division of the Pennsylvania road. For twelve days after his wife's death Morrison's grief was too great to allow him to fulfill his vow. He lived at Camp Denison, and when the stupor left him he built a rude hut in the Miamiville, O., cemetery. To the sexton, who protested at first, Morrison said he was receiving $35 a month to watch the grave. Time went by, and the man still sat in his hut gazing at the grave. At last the keeper of the cemetery learned his story. Now, Edwin L. Morrison, once the handsome railroad man, is old, wrinkled and haggard, but still sits in his rude hut by the side of the grave of the woman he loved so well. For fifteen years he has kept up this solemn

Morrison's history is full of tender pathos. An example of true devotion, he is familiarly known by every child in the village, and few persons visit the sequestered little town of Miamiville who fail to hear the sad story of Ed. Morrison. In rain or shine, summer or winter, he lingers around the little spot of green turf. He seldom talks long of his wife now. A small Bible is in his hut. It contains the names and dates of the birth of several boys and girls of his name, but most prominent upon this page of record are the words: "Mary L. Morrison, died April 24, 1880," written with lead pencil in a very irregular, trembling

Day after day for years he has spent in the gloom of this old graveyard. No strife of outer world mars his calm and peaceful existence. His friends have attempted to prevail upon him to return to Cincinnati, but he refuses.

THE IRON AND STEEL BOOM. Cleveland, Ohio, June 27.—The Iron Trade Review says today: The advance in iron and steel is gaining in momentum every week, and while there is no concealment of the fear that things may be moving too rapidly for the health of the trade, everybody seems to be seriously trying to hold the market down. With their product engaged from 60 days to six months ahead, and inquiries and orders stead-Call and see our Embroideries. HE KNEW HIM.

Not long ago an officer of the London School Board was crossing Covent Gar-den market at a late hour, when he found a little fellow making his bed for the night in a fruit basket. "Would for the night in a fruit basket. "Would you not like to go to school and be well cared for?" asked the official. "No," replied the urchin. "But do you know that I am one of the people who are authorized to take up little boys whom I find as I find you and take them to school?" "I knows you are, old chap, if you find them in the streets; but this if you find them in the streets; but this here is not a street. It is private prop-erty; and if you interferes with my liberty the Duke of Bedford will be down upon you. I know the hact as well as you."—Scottish-American.

GRATIFYING INTELLIGENCE. Word Rece lved of the Complete Reco ery of Mrs. John Dowly.

Owen Sound. June 24.-Word has been received here of the complete restora-tion to health of Mrs. John Dowly, wife of a former well known and esteemed resident of the town. The intelligence has been very gladly received, as Mrs. Dowly has many friends here who are well aware of the lamentable condi-tion of her health during the past six or seven years. Her illness has been found to result from a severe kidney complaint, and she has been restored to health by a judicious use of Dodd's Kidney Pills, a remedy which is now well known to most of the residents in this locality, as having previously effected some very remarkable cures.

THURSDAY. For the first time the citizens saw the battalions "down town" this after-noon—the Thirty-second, Twenty-sev-enth, Twenty-second and Twenty-ninth marching from the heights to Adelaide street, and thence through a portion of Queen's avenue, the beautiful foliage of which the men appreciated. It was walking under a canopy of leaves which walking under a canopy of leaves which afforded grateful shelter. There is no such thing as a tree on Carling's Heights. The men returned by dusty roads, which proved very disagreeable. The Twenty-first, Essex, had some good practice at the range, but it was intermined by an untimely accident. A interrupted by an untimely accident. A spent bullet pierced the boards which protect the markers, and struck Marker Richard Campbell on the head near the top. Had it hit him a little lower down the result might have bene fatal. His wounds were dressed, and though very painful he pluckily refused to retire to the hospital. The butts were then pronounced unfit for use, and the battalion returned to the barracks. They will go to the ranges again to-morrow. In the meantime the butts have been repaired. many think the targets are too low for the safety of the markers.

An immense crowd visited the heights to-day. A number of privates were stopped on the streets to-night by special con-stables and reprimanded for smoking, which is only allowed on the grounds.

There were about 15 prostrations from the heat today, but no serious cases are reported. Major Denison is laying for the man who put a cut representing Marks, the Lawyer, on a trick donkey in a local contemporary and labeled it "Major Denison Riding Adjutant Reeves' Wild Charger."

The First Hussars can boast of more veterans than any of the other battalions. Perhaps the most distinguished is Troop Sergeant-Major Kavanagh, of "D" Company, Kingsville. He was trooper in the old Seventh "Death or Glory" Lancers, who achieved distinction in the Zulu war. Kavanagh was in the charge at Ulundi, and was one of the advance guard that found the body of the Prince Imperial of France. At the review in Aldershott, Eng., last year, he took the first prize in tent pegging. He has not been in Canada leng. The veteran is very modest and battle of Tel-el-Kebir. Orderly Room Sergeant Jacobs (London), of the First Hussars, was in the Indian mutiny, and a member of the old Sixtieth Regiment. He has had a king military experience.

A good story is told at the expense of a police sergeant of the R. R. C. I. He saw a fire burning in the lines of the First Hussars after nours Wednesday night, and gruffly ordered Paymaster Hobbs and other officials to put it They referred him to the D. A. G., Col. Smith. He complained to the col-onel, but returned shortly and announced that he would permit the fire to burn. It appears that the D. A. G. ordered the fire, the night being damp. Until the afternoon parade is over no non-com. or private is allowed to leave the camp without a pass from the commanding officer.

It is said that some of the cavalrymen carry needles in order to prick the blisters on their feet. ARE MINISTERS IRRESPONSIBLE? When the remedial order was issued It was understood by the Spectator that that order was simply the transmission to the Legislature of Manitoba of the decision of the British Privy Council; that that ended the matter so far as the Government was concerned; and that if the question came up in the House all members, including Ministers, were to vote as they saw fit.—Hamilton

If this was the understanding of the Spectator, it certainly was not the understanding of the Ministers at Ot-One section of them went down into Antigonish, N. S., and another went into Vercheres, Que., where byeelections were fought, and in each of those constituencies the electors were told that the remedial order was not what the Spectator says it understood the demand on Manitoba to be. It was asserted that it was a mandate, and that the Dominion Government would compel Manitoba to carry it out, whether that Province consented or refused to obey it. Only when it was found that the electors would not accept the "remedial order" as an atonement for their many shortcomings was there any doubts expressed as to the meaning of the remedial order, to get away from which the Ministers are now so anxious. Whether a mandate, or only a document to temporarily mislead the constituencies where bye-elections had to be fought, it is now admitted that the remedial order was a costly blunder. which cannot be got away from by claiming that Ministers should be irresponsible, and that they should have united policy.

DANGERS OF EUROPE.

The name of General Turr has perhaps never been printed five times in the newspapers of America, and yet he is a man of some position in Europe and has on some questions very sensible He is a Hungarian, and the promoter of the Corinth Canal, and to a Greek paper he has been telling what he thinks on European military expenditure. Of Bismarck, he says Germany and the Hohenzollerns owe him much. His courage has been crowned with success. He has used and misused in their turn all political parties, all nations, all statesmen, and even all sovereigns. But his achievements have cost Europe more than $250,000,000,000. even if account is taken of only the last 25 years of peace, organized by him with a view to guarantee the interests of Germany. Yet with all this squandering of resources to maintain a state of armed terrorism, no ruler has had the courage to go to war. The armies, the fortifications, the fleets, the arms, still exist as a formidable mass; and a six months' war would cost at least $6,000,000,000. "When a million of men shall have been massacred in the frightful collision of peoples and races, each man killed will cost $31,000. That is what Bismarck will have cost Europe." And all this while, in the opinion of General Turr, Europe is in peril of an invasion from Asia, whence all the great invasions of the world's history have come.

THE GALLOWS.

Some one suggests that in order to keep down the craving after the sight of a murderer hanging the Government should provide a central place to which all criminals should be taken for execution. Why should there be such anxlety on the part of men to see a murderer meet his doom? Why should any one desire to witness so saddening a erectacle? That the craving exists in every comunity we know. On one occasion when a scoundrel was lashed in the jail sard of this city, the sheriff was deluged with letters from reputable citizens, earnestly pressing for passes to enter the jail and witness the revolting spectacle. To combat this spirit, it is not necessary to drag a criminal from one end of the Province to another. It is only for the authorities to enforce the law by keeping out every spectator whose vocation does not call him to be in attendance. There is no need for a change in the law making executions private, and if a jail yard is sufficiently open to enable the curious to overlook the gallows, then the murderer can expiate his crime wholly within the jail building. The gallows should be retained as a terror to evil doers, not as a spectacular entertainment for the morbid.

FREE TODAY.

The city public schools close for the holidays today, and during the two hothad anything to do with the rearing school of children will object to the summer re-knows how exacting is the task. How much more difficult and nerve-trying is the work of the teacher with 40 or 50 urchins, of all sorts and conditions of home training and mental and moral development, under her training? After many days of daily striving to bend the twig in the way that is best suited to its proper growth, and under the pressure of necessary examinations undertaken at a season of the year when listlessness even in grown persons is an excusable fault, the annual holiday must indeed be welcome to the jaded teacher.

Let no one grudge this useful public servant the relaxation that comes from a well-earned change. It is profitable for both teacher and pupil.

POINTS.

Lord Salisbury goes to the bat. But will he score?

Ten years ago the trade of Canada with Australia was $502,000. Last year, with bonused steamships, it only amounted to $322,000. The high tax policy is a failure all round.

The price of wheat has gone down a good many cents per bushel since the "scarcity boom" ran it up from the misrable price which it has brought for years past. But it is of small moment, as not one farmer in one hundred has wheat to sell. The average farmer was compelled to market his crop last fall when prices ruled low.

Lord Beaconsfield called Lord Salisbury "a great master of gibes and Lord Rosebery is only 48. If he could realize his desire to be a member of the popular chamber, instead of the hereditary chamber of privileged ones, he might have a long and successful political career. Mr. Gladstone had reachthe Prime Minister's seat.

United States journals are getting ready to claim that Mr. Chamberlain's preferment to a place in the Salisbury Ministry is owing to the fact that he has an American wife. But some people hold that Chamberlain's political Lacksliding dates from this alleged favorable matrimonial venture.

The British Conservatives were anxious to have the Liberals dissolve the House, rather than place upon the new Administration the responsibility of obtaining the supplies needed to carry on the Government pending an appeal to the electors. Salisbury is not inclined to show his hand too extensively. The Liberals have taken the best means to make him show it.

Now that pastoral vacations are clergymen of high character, undoubted patriotism, and acknowledged oraterical ability, would have no objections to clearing the expenses of a European trip by delivering lectures on "Canada" in various parts of Great Britain. One hundred dollars a lecture would be acceptable.

ECHOES OF THE ASSEMBLY.

London gave the commissioners to the General Assembly a very hearty welcome. SHAKESPEARE AS A PROPHET. More and more of "Afric's desert sands" and of "Afric's burning shore" are turning out to be well-watered pasture lands, as the adventurers who explore them take the place of the rhymsters who formerly put them in verse. From Lake Ngami the trekkers have sent back word that the lands beyond the Kalahari are magnificent, healthy, fertile and abundantly supplied with water, and are more attractive than those of the Transvaal or the Orange Free State. Often, indeed, was Shakespeare right, and even when he touched upon Africa. How could he foreshadow the explorations and the discoveries of rich gold mines that have been made there within the past few years? With prophetic wit he must have been endowed when he put into the mouth of the boastful Pistol these words:

"A foutra for the world! * * * I speak of Africa and golden joys." ation has not materially changed during the week. The crisis is just as real, but opinion having been freely to do. The reply of Manitoba to the remedial order has not been received, and, of course, until the official document is received it cannot be laid before the Cabinet, so that the decision must be delayed until the document arrives. As everyone knows, the Government have been discussing their course, and are being drawn either way by the different parties, the Ministerialists from Quebec and from Ontario. Disaster threatens them either way, if they do anything, and safety does not lie even in inaction.

The amount remaining unpaid, exclusive of interest, is $33,625. The correspondence had been placed in the hands of the Minister of Justice, but it was only fair to state on Mr. Ogilvie's behalf that he entered an objection to the payment of money on account of a question con-nected with the general distribution of the receipts.

to watch closely the estimates for public works, something wholly neglected by them in Sir Hector Langevin's time. When, therefore, the item was called of $20,000 for the Halifax drill shed, Sir Richard Cartwright wanted to know why such a small vote was taken when the total expenditure was He suspected that there was a political object to keep this work dangling over several elections. It was Messrs. Davies and Gibson, Mr. Lister not a business-like proposition, and on the stand, and the examination of so. royal manner, was a daisy. Everything went off in fine style. The lawn was tastefully decorated with Chinese lanterns, etc., and presented a very pretty appearance. There was also a piano on the lawn, from which issued the strains of sweet music. After the boys had got outside of all the ice cream, strawberries, watermelon, etc., the following programme was rendered in capital style by the several performers: PART I.

Graham, Mrs. McDonald, Misses Tye, Belton, Law, Smyth, Booke and O'Keefe. The run started from the Club House at 7:30, about 75 wheels being in line, they proceeded for a short run up Dundas street to Adelaide street, to Queen's avenue to the Victoria Park, back to Wellington street, thence to "Elmourst" were they were joined by about 25 members of the St. Thomas Club, who wheeled over on purpose to enjoy the hospitality of "The Two Johns." The boys will always remember "The Two John Run" as a record breaker and the most enjoyable evening of the season. At the conclusion of the programme three ringing cheers were given for "The Two Johns," the boys singing "They Are Daisies Now," after which cheers were given for the ladies and the singers. The party then started for home in excellent goodboys accompanied the St. Thomas boys as "smart Alec" in a buggy, who had the impudence to hit one of the riders across the face with his whip when he was passing,

The Mayor of Hull Convicted of Boodling -Disqualified and Fined.

Ottawa, June 27.—This forenoon Judge Malhoit delivered judgment in the charges of boodling against Mayor Aubry, of Hull, disqualifying him for seven years and sentencing him to pay a fine of $983 and all costs of the court which alone will exceed $2,000. The charges against Mayor Aubrey

1. Having received two promissory notes of $500 each in settlement of a claim in favor of Jos. Bourque, contractor, for the court house and jail for $31,569 as extras on that building. 2. Having received moneys from Mr.

T. Viau, contractor for his (the mayor's) influence in having a claim of extras passed in the city council on the Gatineau bridge. 3. Receiving money from the same party for influence in having a fran-chise passed by the council to the Hull Electric Railway Company, of which Mr. Viau is a chief promoter.

Judge Malhoit found Mayor Aubry guilty on the first charge, but the evidence on the other two charges was not sufficient to convict. The disqualification of Mayor Aubry will necessitate a new elction in Hull.

There is not in Europe a more magnificent burial place than the Mausoleum in the park of Hamilton Palace, Scotland, where the late Duke of Hamilton has been interred. It was built about 60 years ago by the late duke's grandfather (Duke Alexander, the son-in-law of Beckford) at a cost of £150,000, and Italian artists and workmen were principally employed. It is a square building, surmounted by a round tower and stone cupola, with bronze gates, which are copied from those of the Baptistry at Florence. The floor of the chapel is a beautiful and costly Mosiac, composed of white, yellow and black mar-ble, jasper, and red and green porphyry. The mausoleum is about 110 feet in di-enue of $15,000, could not get a public building. The Government refused to erect a postoffice or any other public building in the city of Woodstock, the center of the great cheese industry of Ontario, because it was situated in the constituency represented by the Liberal whip. There were many other thriving large towns for which no pub-He buildings could be provided.

There was another item of $15,000 for a new public building at Rimouski which was justified on the ground that visitors from abroad got their first letters there. Mr. McMullen said that Rimouski got this expenditure because it was represented by Sir Adolphe Caron. Mr. Bowers put in a claim for a pubhim to be satisfied with the fine wharf built there.

Mr. Laurier took occasion to denounce a job in the town of St. Lin, where a building was rented for the postoffice at $300 a year which had never before been rented for more than $36 a year. The total revenue received was only $780 a year. Mr. Oulmet was surprised at Mr. Laurier finding fault with the renting of the building, as St. Lin was the Liberal leader's birthplace.

"Yes,it is," retorted Mr. Laurier, "and for that reason I don't want the stigma of a job attached to it." The vote passed.

On a vote of $26,000 for a juvenile re-fermatory at Alexandria, Mr. Ouimet Angel said it would cost about $100,000. Mr. McMullen suggested that Rideau Hall be utilized for a reformatory, and onehalf of this $100,000 be used to provide another residence for the Governor-General. The item was adopted.

On the vote for wharves and breakwaters in Nova Scotia, Mr. McIsaac made a strong plea for some very necessary expenditures. The House adjourned at midnight.

THE FRENCH TREATY. A return of correspondence concerning the French treaty was laid on the table of the House today. In an order in council dated Aug. 4, 1894, attention is drawn to the fact that exception had been taken to the ratification of the treaty with France on the ground that if prohibition were carried, the admission of French wines under the treaty would be an obligation of the Government so long as the treaty was in force Attention is further called to the fact that the provisions of the treaty make it subject to termination after twelve months' notice. Commenting upon this fact, it is mentioned that the understanding has always been that where Great Britain has given her assent to a treaty on behalf of a colony she wil not hesitate to give the necessary notice to terminate it at the instance of the colony interested. It is, however reinted out that from a circumstance which has taken place in recent years they, the committee of the Privy Council. cannot feel assured that the practice referred to will be followed, in sup port of which contention it is shown that Canada consented that Great Britain should enter the Berne Copyright Convention on her behalf in 1886, expressly relying on Great Britain giving notice of her withdrawal from the whenever her Government should desire such notice to be given. Canada had been persistent for up-wards of five years in endeavoring to have notice of her withdrawal given, but the Canadian Government had no assurances that their wishes had been acceded to. The order in council concludes with this remark. "While matters remain in this condition, your Excellency's advisers would be open to severe censure should they recommend the issue of a proclamation bringing the French treaty into force, even if it should be ratified in France."

On the 29th of September, 1894, Lord Ripon, in acknowledging the receipt of a copy of the foregoing order in coun cil, assures the Canadian Government that notice to terminate the French treaty will be given by her Majesty's Government if at any time the Government of Canada should desire it. Again, on Nov. 30, Lord Ripon cabled that assent was given to the French treaty on the distinct understanding that the reduction of duty granted to France would be extended to nations entitled to the benefit of the most favored nation clause in Canada, and to the rest of the British dominions, and insisted give satisfactory assurances on this point before issuing its proclamation. The Minister of Trade and Commerce calls attention to the address by her Majesty which passed both Houses here in 1891, pressing upon the Imperial Government the abrogation of certain treaties with Belgium and the German Zollverein, which appeal had not resulted to the satisfaction of the Dominion. The Minister ventures the hope that the prayers of this address may be soon granted, and that the Dominion may be freed from the operation of these treaties, intimating at the same time, that the policy of the Gov-ernment of Canada was to concede to A powers entitled to the "most favored nation" treatment the same privileges that the Dominion Government would as will be enjoyed by France under the French treaty. T. R. Mayberry, formerly reeve of West Oxford, received the unanimous vote of the meeting, and accepted the states that he deems it important that before notice is given under the Canastatute bringing the French treaty into force, that a clear under-standing should be had with the Imperial Government upon the question of imperial legislation to remove ob-stacles which might exist to the power of the self-governing dependencies of the empire entering into agreements of commercial reciprocity with each

March 22,1895, Lord Ripon cabled Lord Aberdeen that a colony was not a third nower. In view of this interpretation the Minister of Trade and Commerce reported to the council that there was no further reason why the agreement should not be ratified by proclamation, and in accordance with this recommendation his Excellency was advised to communicate this desire to the Secretary of State for the Colonies that 'the treaty might be ratified. On April 18, the High Commissioner cabled that immediate ratification of the French treaty was very important! to the British Columbia wool trade. The Colonial Office advised the passage of a short act immediately extending similar duties to other countries.

On April 4, Lord Ripon writes that while there is every confidence felt in the intentions of the Dominion Government, the Government of Great Britain would not be justified in leaving anything open, and they are reluctantly compelled therefore to postpone the exchange of ratifications with France until legislation has been actually passed by the Dominion Pa Hament extending the benefits of the convention to all nations entitled under treaty to the "most favored nation" treatment from anada and the rest of her Majesty's [Note—Troin leaving London at 2:30 p.m. only runs to St. Thomas, except Wednesdays and Saturdays. Canada and the rest of her Majesty's the French Government have expressed some irritation at the delay which has already occurred, and expesses the hope that no time will be lost in obtaining the necessary legislation.

NOTES.

It was decided today that the House would not sit on Monday—Dominion Mr. Foster stated that on Monday he will move that Wednesday shall from this out be made Government day.

Mr. Martin will inquire of the Government on Monday whether an appoint-ment has been made to fill the vacancy in the office of the Lieutenant-Governor of Manitoba, and, if not, now soon the Government intends filling the vacancy. Also, has any promise been made to the present incumbent that he will be reappointed, or is it intended that Hon. J. C. Patterson shall take the position, and, if so, when?

Mr. MacLean, of York, gives notice of an amendment to the act incorporating the International Radial Railway Company by adding a clause that the passsenger rate over this road shall not exceed 2 cents per mile.

To the committee on banking and lic building in Digby on the same ground, as it was the resort for many American visitors. Mr. Ouimet told National was passed, but the different clauses are to be thresned out. This is a Montreal insurance scheme, to which there is much opposition.

The special committee on the bill amending the criminal code made considerable progress today and adopted a most important amendment taken from Mr. Edgar's bill, making it a criminal offense for any officer or contractor of a railway company to give any sum of money for election purposes in either Dominion or Provincial elections.

A WORD IN SEASON. Won't you tell us of your plan, Fair July? Is it overcoats or fans,

Our feelings will be wounded, Fair July! Better give us heat oppressing, Though it bothers us in dressing, Than to go and keep us guessing,

THE CHURCH TROUBLE.

A meeting of the Queen's Avenue Methodist officials was held yesterday to discuss the present aspect of the pastoral trouble. A letter was received from the conference committee expressing regret that the board had not seen fit to agree with the committee's arrangement. The trustees passed a resolution confirming their previous decision, not to accept Mr. Cunningham, whom, it is now settled, will go to the Hamilton road. It was intended that Rev. George Daniels should preach his first sermon Sunday, but as the officials thought this might compromise them as regards Mr. Cunningham, he will not officiate. The conference committee may be convened any day to revoke its decision. THE DORCHESTER PHENOMENA.

The story that frequent showers of stones have occurred in a bush on the farm of Mr. John Strathdee, lot 15, con. 2, Dorchester township, has created considerable interest in the community, and the spot is daily visited by scores. The first shower fell on Friday afternoon last, and they have occurred at intervals since then, as chronicled by 'Advertiser" correspondents. stones are said to range in size from an ordinary pebble to five pounds in weight, and of a flinty nature; and possibly stranger still is the story that a shower of pine knots of all sizes has also fallen. But the truth of the stories is vouched for by Mr. Strathdee and other men in the neighborhood, of eminent respectability.

Mr. James H. Bowman, the wellknown scientific authority, was seen by an "Advertiser" reporter in regard to the mystery. "What do you think of it?" was

JAMES RYAN'S CASE. Old James Ryan, of 761 Colborne street, was in the police court again this morning, and his trial on a charge of criminally assaulting 14-year-old Jennie Cameron, was proceeded with. The nesday evening she was sent to Ryan's house on a message, and he claims that after inquiring for Mrs. Ryan she was dragged into the house and subjected to the assault. The girl's testimony was taken by Police Magistrate Parke, and

Mrs. Robert McCurdy, of Dundas street east, was charged with selling liquor without a license. No case was made out. George Campbell, against whom a similar charge was preferred, failed to appear, and a warrant was issued for his arrest. Robert Corcoran and Patrick Quinn were fined $1 or three days for allowing horses to run at large. John P. Ducin and Albert Smith, who didn't belong to the city, but were here "looking for work," were escorted out of town. John Burns and five days each for disorderly conduct. One drunk was discharged.

ORGANIZATION OF FARMERS A FEATURE OF THE DAY.

James Rogers Speaks Earnestly.

The development of Farmers' Institutes and other means of education on successful practical farming has proven beyond a doubt that the present-day farmer requires to be a student of his work. The most successful ones are not as a rule those who do the greatest amount of manual labor, but they are found ranking first as prize-winners on all agricultural products. James Rog-ers, a resident of Tilsonburg, Oxford county, Ont., for 45 years, has taken numerous first prizes during the year. A successful, reliable man, his statement will be of interest to many: "I have suffered for seven or eight years with Itching Piles; the torture and agony I cannot here find words to describe. Night after night was kept awake with the painful itching. I tried all the physicians and every known remedy all to no account not even relief. In talking over my curious trouble with Mr. Charles Thomson, our wellknown druggist, he recommended Chase's Ointment. To my wonder and surprise I got relief from the second application. I firmly believe one box is sufficient to cure any case of Itching Piles, no matter of how long duration. I would not be without it for ten times senior I: Class A, junior grade—David is cost. In volunteering this testimony and my consent for the manufacturers of Chase's Ointment to use it as they wish, it is that like sufferers may know they can be cured."

The Secret Out.

CHAPTER VI.

Mr. Gryce had observed that he was getting old. He never felt older than he did that night when, after the discovery of the mistake he had made, he turned humiliated from the presence of Mrs. Gretorex and the man whom he had caused to suffer such a succession of serious and wholly unnecessary emo-

He was unused to making mistakes. He had always been so wary, so exact, so sure of his premises, that he could look back upon few cases where his con-clusions had been really at fault, and on none before where the outcome of his efforts left him in what some of his Young and possibly envious rivals might call a ridiculous position.

"It is a new sensation," he muttered, as he passed down the elegant staircase on his way out. "Well, a new sensation is something. I have heard some men say they would give a good deal to experience one. But as for me, give me the old ones. They are certainly more satisfactory." And with a bitter smile he prepared to thread his way through the brilliant throng that circulated between the staircase and the side door by which he had entered and by which he was expecting to go out. But before he had worked his way half through, he paused, stepped aside and took up his station against the wall a position that gave him a good view of the scene, without attracting too much attention to himself. "Since I am at a swell wedding I might as well see the bride," he continued to himself, turning his gaze however in any other direction than that by which she was expected to descend. "If she looks more like her photograph than the other girl does, well and good, I am an old fool, and it is about time for me to take down my sign and shut up shop. But if on the contrary, she looks less like it; if her expression varies or she is fairer or larger than one would suppose from the picture they gave me, then I can lay the fault on the photographer and regain some portion at least of my self-esteem." And unmindful of the curious glances that now and then found him out, he retained his place through the weary minutes of waiting that now ensued, amusing himself as usual in gathering together such odds and ends of talk as floated by him and stowing them away in the storehouse of his brain, which already held so many secets even of some of those who passed gay apparel without a thought that the grave, quiet, rather benignant looking man who was so occupied with the device on Mr.Gretorex's great hall-clock, was he who held in his keeping their fortune and possibly their good name. At length, with a sigh of relief that ran through those vast parlors, the strains of the Wedding March were heard, and Mr. Gryce, whose interest in the afore-mentioned device now became absolutely absorbing, shifted his portly figure a step or so, while the throng at his side pressed back and a path was made for Mr. and Mrs. Gretorex, and then, after what seemed a long and unnecessary interval, for the bride and groom, who, contrary to the usual arrangement, descended together. They passed near, very near that great hall clock, so near that the bride's veil brushed the homely habiliments of the man who stood there; but she did not notice this nor to all appearance did he, for his eyes never left the clock, though a careful observer might have perceived that his lips pressed closer together after she went by and that he did not wait for her to pass over the threshold of the parlor door before taking his departure. But no one thought of him. All eyes were on the bride, and little did anyone think, least of all she whom it most concerned, that the faint, half-suppressed click that they had just heard denoted the withdrawal of one whose powers of observation were more to be dreaded than were those of the whole vast crowd he had left behind him. If she had-but our interest is not at present with the bride, pale and troubled as she is, but with the man who but a short time ago entered the house with feeling of almost beneficent concern for its inmates, only to leave it now, with a sore and humiliated heart. For in the one glimpse he caught of the bride—and he saw her, though he did not appear to do so-he had dis-cerned nothing to relieve his dissatisfaction with himself. If the other girl was like the picture, this pale, haughty, self-contained woman was the picture There was no mistaking this, much as his pride would have been gratified to have found it otherwise. Details that were lacking in the other girl's countenance were here, and an expression that made him acknowledge to himself that he would henceforth trust no man's eyes, not even his own, in this delicate matter of identification, the least shade of a look making sometimes all the difference between one person and another. He went out of the house feeling as I have said very old, and he even was conscious of a twinge of rheumatism as he stepped down the icy steps and prepared take his way round the house to the street. For this reason, perhaps, and also because the walk was more or less slippery, he went very slowly, so that was just at the corner of the house when that startling scream was heard, which as we know so seriously disturbed the minds of those who were witnessing the ceremony. A muffled cry it was, and to those outside sounded as if it came from the upper story of the house. But when the detective paused he saw nothing, and being in a very indifferent mood, went on his way, remembering the occurrence only as a sort of lugubrious echo to the rather melancholy thoughts in which he had been at that moment indulging.

His course was towards the city. He took it direct, getting on the elevated train at One Hundred and Twenty-fifth street, and getting off again at Twentythird. Why Twenty-third? Was it not late enough for him to go home? He evidently did not think so. Without hesitation and with a certain determination of manner, he went immediately to the C— Hotel. Let us follow him. "Well, I suppose the wedding has

These were his words to the clerk, who was still at his desk in the office. The clerk looked at him and laughed. "No," was his quick rejoinder, "it didn't. The bride absconded." "What's that?" Mr. Gryce's tone was quite sharp. His face resumed its old expression.

"She ran off; didn't wait for the clergyman; afraid to risk herself with such a glum-looking customer as Moles-

"In a few minutes, I should say; for you had not been gone more than half an hour when the expectant bridegroom came with the Rev. Mr. Pease at his heels, and she was not here then nor had been for some little time.'

"Who saw her go out?" "The hall boy. "No one else?"

"I think not."

"Didn't she leave any word behind

"Yes, a note; it was lying on the table in her room. Molesworth got it." "The door then was open?" "It was unlocked."

"Curious. There seems to be some difficulty in the way of wedlock tonight. I bave just come from a wedding and the bride was three quarters of an hour or more late. But Molesworth, as you call him—how did he take it?"
"That's hard telling; he looked grim enough, but then he was none too cheerful looking before. Anything but a bridegroom in appearance at any time. But then, it was rather hard lines for 'Twould make any man angry; Mr. Pease on hand and no bride. I declare, I felt cheap myself; and the chambermaid I believe shed tears, grieving over the loss of the good fee she expected, I suppose.

"Yes, it's quite thrilling, quite romantic," quoth Mr. Gryce, enthusiastically. Then in quieter tones, remarked: "You were all in the room, then?"

Acting on this advice, I procured the medicine, and less than a half-bottle cured me; I certainly believe it saved my life. MRS. BUELL'S SERMON, Preached at Her Husband's Funcral-A Sad Story With an Obvious Moral.

Holly, Mich., June 27 .- The funeral of Le Grand Buell took place at the M. E. Church here Tuesday morning, and the sermon was preached by the widow of the deceased, Mrs. Clara Buell, a well known evangelist. The church was crowded when Mrs. Buell walked up the aisle in front of the pallbearers, who were carrying the coffin, and after a prayer by the pastor of the church she began her sermon. She said

"My dear friends, you will realize, as I do, that I am not standing here of my own individual strength, but by the help of God. Were it not for his gracious help, I would never be able to face this ordeal. But, friends, there is a great responsibility to be performed. one from which, with God's help, I cannot shrink. I promised my dear husband, whose body liese here cold in death before you, if I outlived him, I would preach his funeral sermon and point out the lesson of his life. I am simply fulfilling that promise. How it rains me you will never know." Mrs. Buell then told the story of her husbands' life. He was a very preco-cious boy, completing his high school education in Holly by the time he had reached 13. Then he went to Lansing to study music. Before he was 14 the war broke out, and he enlisted in the Seventh Michigan Cavalry as a bugler. He soon became the pet of the officers. Then came a step that nearly troved his ruin. The officers used to give him champagne to drink. The taste for all other liquors was soon developed. The young boy went from bad to worse. It was simply one round of debauches. Gradually his mind became impaired, and he left the ranks, a mere boy, but almost a wreck. The taste, once acquired, remained with him the rest of his life. He swore off at different per icds, only to yield again to temptation. But at the same time he was trying to be a Christian. 'I implore you, I entreat you, young men, old men, yes, boys of the coming generation," she exclaimed, "to suppress the traffic. Fathers, sons, brothers. I pray of you, save your dearest relatives from the awful curse. Put a stop to it, I beseech you." Mrs. Buell then described her hushand's death, and at the end of the narrative sank exhausted into a chair. The pastor added a few words to what she had said, and then, after a hymn, the

SECOND TRIAL OF THE TWINS.

The Crown's New Evidence-Prepara tions Already Being Made for the Trial in September Next.

Toronto, June 27 .- Deputy Attorney-General Cartwright stated yesterday that the Hyams twins will undoubtedly be placed on trial again in September on the charge of murdering Willie Wells, but whether the evidence as to the attempt to insure the life of Mrs. Harry Hyams for $200,000 will be inoduced is still a matter of doubt. Mr. Osler was granted a reserve case on the point on the last occasion by Judge Street, but owing to the case having terminated in a mis-trial an application for the admission of the evidence would not be valid. However, a different judge will try the case next time, and, as the decision of non-admission was merely made by a circuit judge, and has not been verified by the full court, the testimony excluded in April may be admitted by the trial judge in September. In the possible event of the non-admission of the evidence and the acquittal of either prisoner application can then be made by the to the higher courts for a third trial on this ground.

The police claim to be in possession of some startling new evidence, and confidently state that they will convict their men at the next trial.

ALD. O'MEARA'S SCHEME. The Board of Works had no routine business to transact at its regular meeting last night, when Ald. Wm. Heaman (chairman), E. Parnell, A. Callahan, S. O'Meara and John Heaman, Secretary Bell, Engineer Graydon and Street Commissioner Owens were present. In a chat on the street paving question, Ald. O'Meara stated that as portions of Dundas and Richmond were to be paved with asphalt, he considered it would be wise for the council to call the water commissioners' attention to the fact, and request them to lay mains in the affected thoroughfares which, though not necessary now. would be required before the pavement was worn out. He thought that before many years elapsed, new mains would be required solely to furnish the manufactories, railways, and business sections of the city. The population would be greatly increased, and he thought a new reservoir would have to be constructed at Springbank. His idea was to have mains laid at the intersections of Ridout, Talbot, Clarence and Wellington with Dundas street, and York, King and Queen's avenue with Richmond street. These could be laid and plugged merely the width of the street named, and would prevent the tearing up of the paved ways when the time for extending the water mains came. Ald. Parnell thought the proposition was very reasonable, and then Ald. O'Meara moved that the council's attention be called to the matter. It car-700 feet of pipe.
