Municipalities Sharply Divided On Natural Gas Issue

MINISTER WILL CALL MEMBERS FROM DISTRICT

Half of People Want Department To Refrain From Rate Fixing.

MANY FAIL TO REPLY

Toronto, April 24.—Replies received to the questionnaires sent out to the municipalities of Western Ontario to get an expression of opinion as to the best way of dealing with the natural gas question show a sharp division, with representatives of about half the consumers wanting the government to control the rates either by a tribunal or gas referee, and the other half wanting the old franchises to stand and the provincial department of mines keep out of rate fixing altogether, although the majority of these want the department to still exercise physical control, namely fixing what proportion of the gas shall be used for industrial purposes and what proportion for domestic purposes.

The questionnaires were sent out following a conference at Queen's Park a few weeks ago as a result of many complaints concerning the natural gas act as it worked out with George E. Henderson as gas referee. The questionnaires were sent to over 300 municipal clerks. Since the replies have shown such a clear-cut difference of opinion, Hon. Harry Mills, minister of mines, has decided to hold a conference, probably tomorrow, of all the members of the legislature from the districts interested in natural gas to endeavor to reach a decision as to what action to take.

Municipal officials representing 74,378 consumers, sent in replies to the question. Municipalities comprising about 10,000 consumers failed to reply.

Four cities, eleven towns, twenty townships, and eight villages, comprising 32,410 consumers, asked for a tribunal instead of a gas referee, but otherwise leave the act as it is now with government control of rates and exercising physical control. One city, three townships, one town and four villages or 3,448 consumers, wanted the act left just as it is at present with a referee. This makes a total of 35,858 that want government control of rates, but divided as to whether it be controlled by a tribunal of three or by a referee.

Three cities, 13 townships, three towns, two villages, or 33,815 consumers were opposed to the government fixing the rates, but favored physical control.

The great majority of these consumers were represented by Hamilton, which is shown as having 21,500 gas consumers, although many of them use artificial gas instead of natural gas, and therefore it is urged that their full voting strength does not give a fair idea of the views of Western Ontario natural gas consumers.

Two townships and one town, or 2,279 consumers, wanted the act repealed altogether while nine townships and three villages, or 2,426 consumers, wanted tribunals, only in cases where there were no franchises.

This makes a total opposed to the mines department fixing rates of 36,094 consumers. The larger municipalities which failed to send in replies were the city of Welland, Leamington, Dundas, Simcoe and Port Colborne.

Gives Life Blood In Vain Effort To Save Pal's Wife

Spirit of Ypres Lives.

WHILE THOUSANDS of his war companions in all parts of the Dominion were celebrating, Sunday afternoon, the seventh anniversary of the battle of Ypres, where a tremendous sacrifice was made for their country, Sydney Hampton, a returned soldier, of Arundell street, proved that the great unselfish spirit still lived when, beside a still form on a white cot in Victoria Hospital he gave his life blood in a vain attempt to save the life of the wife of his dearest pal.

One week ago Mrs. Maurice Edwards, 99 Wellington street, 23 years old, and mother of two wee babes, was stricken with an acute and mysterious illness. For six days doctors battled to save her life, then almost without hope they announced Sunday at noon that the only chance of life was in an immediate blood transfusion.

Her husband, weary from many sleepless nights, immediately bared his arm, but a test hurriedly taken proved that his blood did not correspond closely enough with that of the

TRUSTEES SPEND SCHOOL'S SITE MONEY TWICE

SALE WAS NOT MADE

Money Now Must Be Used Against Debentures Issued For Ryerson.

Members of the board of education who have been planning a field day in school site buying with the proceeds of the sale of the Richmond street north school and grounds are going to be doomed to disappointment.

The fact of the matter is that the money has already been spent twice, and it will hardly stand stretching into a third deal. In fact, City Treasurer James Bell says that the board of education cannot spend it again.

The money was originally spent on the purchase of the school and site on Richmond street, next to the Aged People's Home. The funds were the proceeds of 30-year debentures which yet have a few years to run.

Back in 1915 the proposal was presented to erect the large Ryerson School at Waterloo and Victoria streets. It was then decided to sell the Richmond Street School and use the proceeds towards the cost of the Ryerson School, $213,000 in all.

The city treasurer is looking into the full details of the deal, getting the papers ready to show the board that back in 1915 the proceeds from the sale of the Richmond street school, though the school is not yet sold, went to meet a part of the cost of the Ryerson school.

As this money, not yet received, was spent back in 1915, it cannot be spent againt in 1922, when it is actually received.

DEATH IS ECHO OF CONFEDERATION

Ottawa, April 24.—At the age of 78 years Miss Harriett Elizabeth Wicksteed, eldest daughter of the late G. W. Wicksteed, first law clerk in the House of Commons, died on Saturday at her home here after a short illness. Miss Wicksteed had been associated with her father in the House of Commons in the early days of confederation. She came to Ottawa in 1869 and had resided here ever since. She was born in Kingston.

ATTACK JAP MAIL TRAIN.

Tokio, April 24.—Chita government troops blew up the railway about 35 miles beyond Nikolsk, in the Siberian Coast district, on April 22, it was announced in a Japanese afficial statement today. A Japanese mail train was attacked and three of the troopers engaged were killed.

Why Russo-German Pact Perils Peace of Europe

This map shows Russia and Germany, which have entered into an economic treaty. Direct land communication between these countries, which was possible along a long frontier before the war, is prevented by the states set up by the treaty of Versailles. How long will these states be able to withstand the Russo-German interests? Especially Poland? How long will Russia and Germany be content to trade over the long water route, which ice closes part of the year. At the left is Rathenau, the German, and at the right is Tchitcherin, the Russian, who negotiated this treaty.

LONDON, England, April 24.—Theis a stupid blunder on the part of German-Bolshevist treaty does not change materially the long-established relationships between Germany and the Bolsheviki.

What makes the new German-Bolshevist treaty of interest to Canada is the circumstance under which it was concluded. It is an alliance between Bolshevist Russia and Germany in order to force certain things at the Genoa conference. The Bolshevist regime needs credits without which it cannot continue. Germany wants reduction in reparations.

The German-Bolshevist treaty is a threat that if the Allied countries will not agree to help Russia and Germany, the latter will get along without them and, perhaps, against them.

From this point of view, the treaty

MAN KILLED IN AUTO COLLISION

Buffalo, April 24.—An automobile carrying a sightseeing party from Niagara Falls to Buffalo collided with an automobile bus on the river road early today. One man was killed and three were injured.

Michael Zitzler, Buffalo, died a few minutes after the accident. William H. Meyers, candy manufacturer; Charles Kaiser, coal dealer, both of Buffalo, and Carlton Bartlet of Brooklyn were injured.

Meyers was placed under arrest at a hospital because he refused to give the sheriff information about the accident.

will not get capital without security, confidence and peace, internal as well as external."

The behavior of the Bolshevist delegation at Genoa does not inspire confidence and does not promise the establishment of internal peace in Russia and external peace between Russia under the Bolshevist regime and the western civilization.

Those who were skeptical from the very beginning of the idea of bringing fire and water peacefully together, have received through the German-Bolshevist treaty additional proof that peaceful co-operation between Bolshevism and democratic civilization cannot be established.

Society Women Take Henna Baths To Get Olive-Tinted Skin

LONDON, April 24.—A henna bath cult is forming among London's more ultra society women who deem olive-colored skin something worth acquiring.

The craze is said to be of French origin. Baths, strongly tinctured with henna dye, are taken monthly and impart a delicate tint, which looks well with the evening dresses of Oriental shades and design now popular here.

Immersing is declared to be easier than treating, owing to the fact that considerable portion of the body is exposed by modern evening gowns.

CAN SEND CASH TO SEA BY WIRELESS

New York, Aril 24.—The Farmers' Loan and Trust Company today announced that arrangements had been made with the London Joint City and Midland Bank, Limited, so that wireless payments may be made at any time to passengers en route on board the Cunard liners Mauretania, Aquitania and Berengaria. This is believed to make an innovation in banking methods on transatlantic ships.

FIVE INJURED IN INDIANAPOLIS FIRE

Indianapolis, Ind., April 24.—Five firemen were injured, none seriously, and damage estimated at $200,000 done, when fire partly destroyed the Pearson Piano Company's salesroom, in the heart of the downtown section here last night.

POINCARE ASKS DELEGATES TO KEEP PROMISES

Declares His Country Will See Treaty of Versailles Executed.

HOPES FOR AID OF ALLIES

"We Shall Defend in Full Independence, the French Cause," He Adds.

Bar Le Duc, April 24.—Premier Poincare announced in a speech here today that if the French delegation at Genoa could not go ahead with its work under the agreed conditions, France would regretfully have to cease participation in the conference.

France will, if necessary, undertake alone to see that the Treaty of Versailles is executed if the Germans default in their reparations payments, Poincare continued.

The 31st of May, when Germany must either accept the conditions laid down by the reparations commission or default in its payment, is an important date for France, said the premier. It is France's duty, he added, "in full independence," to assume the duty of maintaining the integrity of the treaty.

All we have ever asked and all we ask today is the execution of the treaty," said M. Poincare, "and that we must have and shall have. The peace of Europe depends upon it. Our future and our national prosperity depend upon it.

"It is not by precipitate action or by decisions without reflection that we will obtain it. It is by persevering and methodical action. But it must be done."

The premier declared he ardently hoped for the co-operation of the Allies in case Germany defaulted, "but, according to the terms of the treaty," he added, "each may in case of need take, respectively, such measures as are deemed necessary, and we shall not suffer it that our unfortunate country succumb under the burden of reparations, alongside of a Germany that does not consent to make the necessary effort to discharge her debts.

"We shall defend, in full independence, the French cause, and we shall not abandon any arms the treaty gives us."

WOULD BRING ON WAR.

Genoa, April 24.—The French delegation announced today that it was willing to subscribe to the proposed pact under which the various nations could agree to abstain from aggression, provided it was backed by proper guarantees considered especially necessary in view of the Russo-German treaty.

Telegraphing to the London Times Henry Wickham Steed says the allied note to the Germans was adopted unanimously by the representatives of the ten powers present at the meeting, after the insertion by H. Barthou, the French representative of the ante-penultimate clause reserving the right of the allies to declare null and void any claims in the Russo-German treaty declared as contrary to existing treaties, and the final sentence that the incident might now be regarded as closed.

After recounting Mr. Lloyd George's utterances of Saturday, to the effect that he was getting tired of crises and that if they continued he would be forced to explain who was responsible for them, Mr. Steed said.

"Conversing with some of the delegates, Mr. Lloyd George declared that if France broke up the conference she would bring on a European war, in which England would take no part; France would end by being crushed. He was determined to show where the blame lay. It was pointed out by him that this was a catastrophic policy, and if England, France and the Little Entente and Italy held together they were strong

Special to London Advertiser.

NEW YORK, April 24.—This started out with a unique premeditation to be an interview with Viscount Astor. Not with Lady Astor at all. It was to be a talk with an Obscure Husband.

"Extraordinary! Why, it isn't done," Lord Astor was saying, trying to recover from his surprise. "You must want to see my wife—"

"The idea!" said Lady Astor. "I don't outshine him. I can't. He's a big man, and don't you forget it. Oh, I know, he's tied hand and foot in the House of Lords—but he has done big work. He doesn't get enough credit. He'd like to be back in the House of Commons with me."

LORD ASTOR BREAKS IN.

Lord Astor, tall, lithe and athletic-looking, broke in and succeeded in getting Lady Astor to stop talking about him. She laughed and left. Then it became his interview.

"Overshadowed by my wife? Indeed, I'm not," he said. "We work too much together to have that happen."

He pulled at his wisp of brown mustache and showed his even teeth in a smile. "Yes, she gets more publicity—but it'd be rotten to be jealous of one's wife, wouldn't it? Especially since I encouraged her to go into politics. Of course, I did—she wouldn't have, you know, if I hadn't."

Lord Astor, who is 43 and isn't at all the solemn person you might think a peer of the realm would be, strides about as he talks and speaks in short, jerky sentences. He acts—well, snappy.

HE'S HER PROTECTOR.

"I'm her protector. I protect her from all sorts of visitors." He looked tremendously severe. "By jove, it's a real job."

"Oh, it does," he said, "but it's extraordinary the way she's able to have a home life and keep in touch with the children and do her public work, too. Children? Six, you know—from three years up.

"And I'll tell you one thing—she sees more of her children than a lot of society women who haven't a thing to do!

THEY LIVE BY SCHEDULE.

"We do it by schedule, the only way. At times we cut off from public work—and take a holiday at home."

Lord Astor said Lady Astor is eager to retire from politics, and would if it were not that it would look like running away.

"She gets from 500 to 1,000 letters a week," he said. "Oh, yes, more than I get. She'd like to get away from it. If I could get back into the House of Commons—where I'd like to be—she'd give up her seat from Plymouth to me. But she won't leave yet—she has things she wants to get done."

"MERE FIGUREHEAD."

Lord Astor, who as the Hon. Waldorf Astor was a member of Commons before his wife was elected three years ago, succeeded to his title upon the death several years ago of his father, William Waldorf Astor, the American who became a British subject in 1899 and was created a baron in 1916 and viscount in 1917.

"I'm a mere figurehead in the House of Lords," he said, with a rueful smile, "I tried to get out. I'm still trying—but there's not much hope. The House of Lords needs reforming; fewer members for one thing. Imagine 600 members with 100 or so who've never taken their seats, and a usual attendance of 30 or 40."

Lord Astor thinks more women will attain Parliament at the next election in Great Britain.

"Not all women succeed in office after they get in," he grinned, "but lots of men are dismal failures, too. Neglected husbands should ponder that."

Ban Virginia Pearson As Sunday Speaker For "Good of Church"

NASSAU, N. H., April 24.—Virginia Pearson, motion picture star, who was to have spoken at the First Baptist Church last night, was prevented at the last minute by the deacons. They instructed the pastor to announce that the ban was for "the good of the church."

A crowd that filled the auditorium for the first time in its history had appeared to hear Miss Pearson tell of "efforts to raise the moral standard of the stage." She said afterwards that she was invited to speak by the pastor, adding that the action of the deacons was "apparently the work of people who think that actors and actresses are damned forever."

ASK REVISION OF SENIORITY

Trainmen Hopeful New Government Will Redress Situation.

Dozens of Grand Trunk conductors and brakemen are vastly cheered by the continued re-assuring reports from the capital that members of the Liberal government, notably Premier MacKenzie King himself, and the Hon. W. C. Kennedy, minister of railways, intend to listen to their appeals for a complete re-adjustment of "seniority rights."

This question was broached in the House of Commons, at the last session, and local officials have been recently notified again that the matter is under close consideration and developments are anticipated in a few days.

The trainmen's grievance dates back to the memorable Grand Trunk strike in 1910. When the strike was concluded, the men state, several hundred new men retained positions throughout the system, while the strikers, despite years of service, lost their "seniority," and were relegated to inferior positions on the list.

It appears that the late federal administration promised from time to time to listen to the appeal of the older employees for a restoration of rights but nothing seemingly transpired. The men now pin their hopes upon the recent remarks by Premier King that the question would be re-opened and every consideration shown the men in their claims.

"The men feel that Kennedy, the minister of railways, will do everything he can for us," commented a Stratford trainmen Monday. "We believe him to be fair and we are looking for some redress from the King cabinet."

Changes of this nature would affect, it is roughly estimated, probably 175 men in the immediate London district.

GRAND TRUNK BLDG. MAY HOUSE CANADIAN OFFICES

Larkin Reported Considering Fine Structure As English Home of Representatives.

London, April 24.—(Canadian Press Cable).—Hon. P. C. Larkin, Canadian high commissioner, informs the Canadian Press correspondent that there is "absolutely nothing definite arranged yet" concerning the proposed new Canadian offices here.

It may be added unofficially that some time ago, it was announced, with a certain amount of authority, that the new high commissioner might consider the former Grand Trunk offices in Cockspur street suitable for his purpose, especially as they are now under the control of the government, and it is therefore possible that this fine building may be selected by him.

There are a number of private tenants in the building, consisting mostly of London representatives of Canadian newspapers. The building was commandeered by the British government as the administrative offices for the tank corps during the war.

COAL STRIKE HEAD ATTENDS PARLEY

New York, April 24.—The anthracite coal miners' committee here in conference with the operators on the new wage scale will be reinforced by the prsence of John Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers. They go into direct conference again tomorrow with the owners' committee.

Lewis is expected to act as adviser when the operators' concrete wage basis is submitted. His presence will transfer to New York the temporary headquarters of the bituminous coal strike. Anthracite miners here for wage conference insist that they will not accept a wage reduction, and say that the Lewis "fight to the finish" tactics will be of great value in getting the operators down to a brass tack discussion.

A GREAT FASCINATION

Henry Ward Beecher, the eminent American divine, is said to have carried in his pocketbook a number of unset diamonds. Upon these he would feast his eyes, simply because of his love of the beautiful. This fascination of diamonds is universal, especially Blue White Perfect Diamonds sold by John A. Nash, My Jeweler, 182 Dundas street, "where you will eventually buy." zxv

CLERGYMAN MUST LEAVE CHEYENNE

Cheyenne, Wyoming, April 24. — Declaring that he had been compelled to seek refuge in the home of District Judge John A. Arnold to escape a mob that he said was determined to run him out of twon because of his reform activities, the Rev. George Chambers Richmond, recently unfrocked clergyman of Evanston, Wyoming, appealed to the United States attorney yesterday for protection.

Recently, it is said, the minister had demanded that Prosecuting Attorney, Abe Crawford, of Unita county, be removed from office for alleged neglect of law enforcement. According to advices from Evanton, the mob Richmond complained of was a mass meeting of citizens held to discuss the minister's utterances concerning the town and its citizens. A committee, it is said, informed Richmond that he must leave town.

STRIKE OIL IN VERA CRUZ.

Vera Cruz, April 24.—Oil has been struck near San Cristobal, in the southern part of the state, where gas was recently reported discovered, says a dispatch received here. Many persons are leaving for the region in the belief that an extensive field is about to be developed.

Name Omitted From List On Ballot

IN A ballot which appeared in the Boys' Own Tiser on Saturday afternoon, one name was omitted from the list, that of Harley Wilson. This was entirely unintentional on the part of the boys who look after the getting out of this snappy little paper. The full list of candidates is as follows: Mayor—Claude Gunther, Jack Hutchinson. City Clerk—Walter Skinner, Harold Todd. Board of Control—Harvey Adair, Philip Burton, Jack Buckner, Allan Brown, Stanley Gemmell, Ralph Heddon, Wilfred McLaren, Walter Richards, Charles Smith, Harley Wilson.

RAIL CLERK UNION TO HEAR GENERAL ORGANIZER SPEAK

Local Brotherhood Expects Conference Over Agreement When Parley With Shop Crafts Ends.

W. J. McPherson of Toronto, general organizer for the Canadian Brotherhood of Railway Employees, will be a speaker at the regular meeting of the local members of that organization Monday night. The members will gather at 8 o'clock in their customary meeting place in the Imperial Bank Building, King and Richmond streets.

While the C. B. of R. E. expects that the Grand Trunk Railroad will move for a change in its wage and working agreements with the clerks and stationmen, no definite notification as to a conference upon the same has been forthcoming locally as yet. It is anticipated, however, that once the present conference in progress in Montreal between the company and the federated shops crafts unions is concluded, one will be called at which the C. B. of R. E. is represented.

The C. B. of R. E. is a national organization under the leadership of A. R. Mosher of Ottawa, and includes in its membership clerks, stationmen, etc. In certain centers, however, are lodges of the Brotherhood of Railway and Steamship Clerks, a rival organization, with international membership and affiliated with the American Federation of Labor. One of the latter bodies is already established in London, most of the members being C. P. R. freight house employees.

Catawissa, Pa., April 24.—Clover, said to be the oldest horse that ever lived, is to be exhibited at the fashion and beauty bazaar to be held in Madison Square Garden, New York, from May 8 to 13, his owner, Dr. U. Myers, said today. Dr. Myers says "Clover" is 51 years old, and his statements are borne out by prominent veterinarians who recently examined the famous old animal.

The horse was bred in Kentucky and has been owned by Dr. Myers for 35 years. For five years he was on the race track, and was said to have had a record of 2:17.

THINK WRECKAGE THAT OF LAMPDEN

Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., April 23.—The Canadian steamer Valcartier, downbound, tonight reports passing through wreckage of some steamer about 25 miles southeast of Michipicoten Island. Owing to the heavy ice it was unable to make out anything to establish its identity, however. There has been considerable apprehension as to the whereabouts of the Canadian lighthouse steamer Lampden which left here Tuesday last with light-keepers for Michipicoten and Caribou Islands, and it is thought it may be her. Efforts will be made tomorrow to locate the Lampden if possible.

300 NICARAGUANS WERE ARRESTED

Mexico City, April 24.—The arrest of more than 300 members of the Nicaraguan' Liberal party, because of revolutionary activities, has been ordered by President Chamorre, according to private advices received here. The Liberals are reported to have been unusually aggressive during the last week and a coup against the government was feared.

A Managua dispatch on April 6 said martial law had been proclaimed in Nicaragua for thirty days, following discovery of a plot against the government and that 34 Liberals had been arrested, charged with conspiracy to assassinate the president and other officials.

REGINA GRAIN MAN GUILTY OF THEFT

He will be sentenced this afternoon. He was acquitted on the charges of stealing grain tickets from farmers.

ROTARY ELECTS NEW DIRECTORS

James Gray, Sherwood Fox, Rance Foster and Tom McFarland Chosen.

Chicago Representative of Portland Cement Association Gives Interesting Talk.

Directors of the London Rotary Club, who will hold office for the next two years, are James Gray, Sherwood Fox, Rance Foster and Thomas McFarlane. The results of the election was announced at a luncheon of the Rotary Club at the Tecumseh House Monday. These officers will select a president from their number, who will direct the destinies of the club. The total number of ballots cast was 122.

Lieut.-Col. Boyden, of Chicago, representing the Portland Cement Association of America, was the speaker at the luncheon. Taking for his topic, "Cement and Concrete," Lieut.-Col. Boyden presented a wealth of interesting and useful information to the members on the proper methods of employing cement in building.

The speaker explained that the Portland Cement Association of America is not a selling organization, but a body composed of cement manufacturers of the continent, to promote the use of concrete, and to serve the buyers with scientific information on the subject. This association numbers on its membership roll 95 per cent of all cement manufacturers of America.

"Bring to us any problem in concrete," invited Lieut.-Col. Boyden. "Many people do not know what Portland cement is. I did not, and I have been a structural engineer for 25 years. It is a limestone mixed with shale or clay and powdered."

Speaker Describes Process.

Continuing, the speaker described the process of manufacturing cement, which includes heating at 2,500 degrees, grinding of the clinkers, and addition of three per cent gypsum. He explained that Portland cement is not a trade name applied to any special brand.

"It is not called Portland cement because it is made at Portland, Oregon, or Portland, Maine," he continued. "When it was invented in Leeds, England, in 1824 in the finished form cement resembled a very fine building stone found only near Portland, England and hence its name Portland cement."

"It was used prior to 1824. The Romans used cement, and we think civilization employed it prior to that time, but we have no direct evidence. Last year there was made and used in the United States alone one hundred million barrels of cement. That does not mean much to you or I unless we can visualize it."

In comparison the speaker declared that nine transcontinental highways, eighteen feet wide and eight inches thick, stretching from New York to San Francisco, could be constructed with this annual output, or one million six-roomed houses of solid concrete, with porch and sidewalk included, could be made from it.

As a further contrast, Lieut.-Col. Boyden pointed out that such an enormous output would build a five-foot wide sidewalk, four inches thick, stretching to the moon, 243,000,000 miles away. Original methods of computing these statistics were described by the speaker.

Interested in Concrete.

Continuing, he indicated that every man, woman and child of the community is interested in cvoncrete, because it enters so much into the daily life. He regretted to say that many contractors are not getting the best results in cement because they do not possess a complete knowledge of the subject.

The association, represented by Lieut.-Col. Boyden, has instituted five years research work on cement, and problems of the builder are solicited with information at his service.

"I want you, whenever you spend money on concrete to make sure your engineer or contractor follows the rules and you will get two dollars value when lots get one dollar in cement," advised the speaker.

Compression, strength and wearing ability are the outstanding factors upon which cement is judged, and the latter is dependent on the water cement ration in mixing. He pointed out that too much moisture weakens the finished product, and designated a plastic mixture as the best for results.

Impressing his audience with the fact that completion of cement work is not drying but a chemical process, Lieut.-Col. Boyden concluded by urging the club members to use less water in mixing and more water in "curing" when putting in concrete.

The weekly prize which was donated by Bert Hunt was won by Rotarian Bill McPhillips.

REFUSE TO TAKE CARGO OFF SHIP

Montreal, April 24.—When the Canada Steamship Lines freighter Bilbster entered Montreal port this morning, the first ocean ship to arrive here this season, she found no 'longshoremen on hand to attend to the unloading of her cargo of 7,800 tons of coal. The 'longshoremen have refused to accept a wage cut of 10 cents an hour. The Bilbster was unloaded by her officers and the employees of the Century Coal Company, to whom her cargo is consigned. The Bilbster came from Norfolk, Va.

London, April 24.—(Canadian Press cable.)—The adjustment of war accounts between Great Britain and Canada has been taken up by Hon. P. C. It is expected that the adjustment will be considered shortly on a basis entirely satisfactory to both sides.

SOVIET DECIDES MUST GO BACK TO CURRENCY FORM

Moscow, April 24.—While its delegation is at Genoa attempting to reach an agreement with the European powers for economic aid for Soviet Russia, the Bolshevik Government is endeavoring to bring its financial and other affairs to a sounder basis by work at home. The all-Russian communist party congress has been the preliminary battlefield on which this internal struggle to bring order out of chaos in Russia's finances has been fought.

Against the few remaining members of the communist party who still cling to the idea that money should be done away with entirely, M. Sokolnikoff, assistant to the commissaire for France, supported by the majority, carried his point that a sound monetary system for Soviet Russia can be gained only by curtailing the issue of paper money, on one hand, and by collecting taxes, in order to bring the money back to the government, on the other.

Sokolnikoff pointed out that Russia's industry and economic resistance is now dependable upon the amount of "hard" and foreign money the government can get into its hands. To attempt to go to a gold standard immediately, he declared, would be futile, as the recent endeavor to collect taxes, etc. on a gold basis had failed because of the impossibility of setting exchange rates quickly enough to keep up with the market fluctuations.

REALTORS WILL SEND DELEGATE

San Francisco Scene of Big Convention To Open May 31.

EXPECT 5,000 THERE

Mr. Bert Weir Says London Realty Board Has Not Yet Made Appointment.

Property valued at more than one billion and one-half dollars was appraised by committees of the real estate boards of the United States and Canada last year, Bert Weir, secretary-treasurer of the London Real Estate Board, said today. Mr. Weir said that one of the important conferences of the convention of the National Association of Real Estate Boards, which will be held at San Francisco May 31 to June 3, will be on board appraisal work.

The conference, among other features, will discuss the responsibilities of board appraisal committees to the community, property owners and purchasers; city and county appraisal work, and Cleveland realtors will tell how the board has been recognized by the federal internal revenue department, and the way in which the board is co-operating with the department in the appraisal of estates. Mr. Weir points out that property owners and purchasers are recognizing the importance and advantages of having property valued by a committee of expert realtors responsible to a real estate board. The administrations of many cities now buy property only after it has been valued by a real estate board appraisal committee.

The San Francisco board has announced that it will hold open house on May 30, the day before the opening of the convention, to afford to the hundreds of delegates of the United States and Canada an opportunity to meet informally and get acquainted.

Among the entertainment features the San Francisco board has provided are an informal reception to be held in the Palm Court of the Palace Hotel; a luncheon, shopping tours and a visit to Chinatown for the women; an Oriental ball; a cruise around San Francisco Bay out through the Golden Gate and return on the steamer Asbury Park, which has been chartered for this occasion, and an alternative motor trip around San Francisco for those who do not care for the water. Last but not least a golf tournament has been arranged starting June 5, on beautiful course at Del Monte. Many side tours by boat, train and motor will be arranged as long as the guests remain in San Francisco.

Last year the convention was held in Chicago, and more than 5,000 members of real estate boards in America were in attendance. As new boards have been formed since the last convention, and as San Francisco is an ideal tourists' paradise, Mr. Weir fully believes that fully 5,000 real estate men will meet in San Francisco on May 31.

A delegate has not been chosen yet by the London Real Estate Board.

One delegate will be chosen by the London board, and it is probable that one or more will accompany him for the pleasure that the trip affords.

GIVES LIFE BLOOD IN VAIN EFFORT

woman to make the operation possible.

His wife had no relatives in the city, and so the doctors sent the man to find three or four volunteers among his friends. Edwards went only to Sydney Hampton.

Hampton and he had enlisted together in the 18th Battalion, and together had braved the perils of the battlefields in France. They had remained side by side in the trenches until after the battle of St. Eloi, when Edwards was returned to England, but before the return to Canada he once again joined his pal.

Hampton did not hesitate to make the sacrifice, when he learned of his friend's trouble. He went immediately to the hospital where he submitted to a test that proved successful.

His arm was bound closely to that of the woman's. Slowly nearly a quart of blood were drawn from the more healthy veins, while color crept back to the white face of the patient.

Except for a slight paleness, Hampton did not suffer ill-consequences from the ordeal, and after a few minutes was able to ride his bicycle to his home.

Claims Canadian Schools Bind Heads As Chinese Crippled Youthful Feet

Ottawa, April 24.—"To some extent we are doing in Canada with our children's heads what the Chinese used to do with their little girls' feet—we are putting over their heads casts of false history, false political economy and false religious dogma so that only a small percentage seems to break through the encrustation and look out upon the world as it really is."

In the above sentence, W. Irvine, Labor's M. P. for East Calgary, in an address at the Chateau Laurier last night summarized his criticism of the modern educational system.

His address on "The New Social Order" was held under the auspices of the Ottawa branch of the Theosophical Society.

He considered that "We are in the midst of that revolution which so many feared, but it was so different from that which so many expected that it was not realized we are in the midst of passing from an old into a new order."

In dealing with the modern system of education, he declared "that every boy and girl should be taught how to make a living and how to enjoy life. Our higher institutions of learning should be democratized so as to afferd opportunity for every child."

Cronyn Hall, 7:30 o'clock Monday evening, when Rev. T. B. R. Westgate, superintendent of the Anglican Missions in the Canadian northwest, will be the speaker. At the session Tuesday morning following the celebration of holy commuion, the Bishop's charge will be given, from which will develop the general business of the synod.

Irishmen With Family, Dairyman, Shuffled From Place To Place.

Soldiers' Aid Attempts To Place Man Forgotten by Immigration Department.

From Elginfield to London and back to Elginfield again is a matter of about 30 miles, quite a notable step when one has to depend upon the "ankle express" to get over the course.

Such was the jaunt undertaken Saturday last, however, by one of the world war veterans, whose name is on Secretary Ed. Lance's list at the Soldiers' Aid Commission.

This is but another instance that has come to light whereby seemingly insufficient care has been exercised by government immigration officials at the Canadian ports of entry respecting immigrants arriving here from overseas.

Arriving at St. John a year ago, the Elginfield veteran, formerly of Dublin and an ex-member of Irish Fusiliers, with a good war record, including several months in a German prison camp, was sent, he related to Mr. Lance Saturday, to Toronto with his wife and child. After a brief wait he was then sent to Lucan to see the minister of the parish.

The latter provided him with two weeks' work in the cemetery, after which, upon his own initiative, he declares, he enjoyed in turn jobs in the gravel pit, on the provincial highway and the brickyard. Not once, he says, was any effort made by officials here to insure that he reached a farm, for which work he understood he was to receive upon arrival here.

Experienced Hand.

It develops that the young Irishman is an experienced dairy hand, and his chief complaint with the government is that no person of any real authority appeared to take the slightest interest in his welfare when he reached Toronto, a complete stranger in the country. During the year that he has been here he has been unable to secure that work at which he is proficient, he claims.

Seeking the aid recently of the Chamber of Commerce, he was referred to the local government employment bureau, he told Mr. Lance. At the latter office he was informed that if suitable to him, arrangements would be made for his deportation. That was a month ago.

Applying Saturday at the same office for either work or deportation papers, he was told, he says, that nothing had transpired and was advised to communicate with the provincial authorities himself with a view toward obtaining passage back to Dublin for himself and family.

Appeals Again.

Appealing again to Secretary Lance late Saturday afternoon, the veteran was given temporary aid for a few days and told to go back to his wife in the hopes that something more promising may develop. Still somewhat discouraged, but with hope for the future, he started out again on his return hike north, as the train and stage had both departed.

Mr. Lance deplores the system in past years which allows experienced men to come to the country to drift into occupations at which their abilities are not exercised to the best advantage. He feels that it is a distinct loss to the agricultural enterprises that an experienced dairy hand, willing and anxious to labor at that pursuit, should be deported home at an expense to the country.

Quite recently, speaking at Ottawa, the new federal minister of immigration, Hon. Charles Stewart, assured a representative gathering of interested persons that his department was busy formulating a new policy to offset in the future this and similar conditions, as has been occasioned by past administrations.

DEPARTMENT TO VACATE OFFICES

The Ontario department of agriculture office in London will be moved to the Home Bank building, market branch, early in May according to officials of the department here.

The change in premises from the London House, on the corner of Dundas and Talbot streets, will mean that farmers attending the market will find the new office considerably more convenient, as it faces the market square.

Before moving to the London House, five years ago, the department's office was situated at the rear of the Dominion Savings building.

PLAN TEMPLE IN WEST

Missionaries to Number of 300 Invade Canada, Boosting Movement.

Born a Mormon, and living as one of the wives of a Mormon for twelve years, Mrs. Marion Williams, of Utah, broke away from Mormon bondage in 1914 to join a crusade which was then being launched in the United States against Mormonism. Mrs. Williams is at present in London to lecture on her experiences under the rule of Mormonism, and it is her intention to speak strongly against the attempts of Mormons to gain headway in the Dominion.

"There are 300 Mormon missionaries in Canada," Mrs. Williams said, when interviewed, "and of these 180 are in the provinces of Ontario and Quebec.

"Out in Alberta, Mormons are aiming toward building a temple at a cost of a million and a quarter dollars. Their spreading of propaganda and sending missionaries is entirely within the law as it stands at present, and only the woord of those who know the bitter experience of Mormon women can deter them."

Mrs. Williams will address a body of women while in the city, wearing the robes in which she took the oath of treason against the United States in the Mormon temple of Utah.

During the course of her lectures in the United States and the Canadian west she was strongly recommended by various societies and mission boards, who considered her work as invaluable in checking the advances of Mormonism throughout the country.

WELL OF 1,000,000 GALLON CAPACITY READY BY JULY 1

Drilling Operations Will Begin Immediately, With Experts in Charge.

By July 1, the public utilities commission expects that it's new well in East London, with an approximate capacity of at least one million gallons of water each day, will be completed and ready for use.

While preliminary work necessary for the sinking of this well to a depth of 90 feet has been in progress for several days, the real drilling operation begins immediately, as the necessary equipment for this undertaking has just reached the city from Massillion, the home of the Ohio Well Digging Company, whose experts have been actively engaged in the local development since last summer.

Work will be proceeded with as rapidly as possible, although the American experts promised that the well will be completed within 60 days from the date the bigger machinery is placed at work. In any event, General Manager Buchanan of the utilities commission gives the assurance that London will thus have an abundant supply of water for the summer as a reserve in case any serious shortage develops at any of the other sources of supply.

When the new well is ready it is expected that additional as well as larger water mains will have to be constructed to handle the increased supply.

MUST PAY BOARD OF HEALTH'S BILL

The council has no option but to pay the board of health's bill of $103 for extra nursing.

This account, when presented to the council by the treasurer, was ordered sent back to the board, there being no funds to meet it. This was the reason for the treasurer sending the account to the council. He asked that body to provide the funds.

Under Section 22 of the health act, the board of health is provided with powers to take any steps necessary or make any expenditures deemed necessary in guarding public health. This is the section on which the board stands in sending the account back to be paid, at the same time pointing to this section.

One of the board's nurses fell ill. The board hired Miss Raymond. This was in the latter part of 1921, and the extra nurse was kept on until March. The total amount due is $103.

Wife and Relatives Weep When Auto Tire Thief Gets Two Months in Jail

Mrs. John W. Clark of Rectory street could not stand the strain of seeing her husband sentenced to two months in jail for the theft of a motor car tire and collapsed in police court Monday morning a few minutes after Magistrate Graydon had passed sentence. It was some minutes before she revived sufficiently to proceed home.

Clark was caught in the act of stealing the tire from a motor parked in front of the Patricia Theatre on the night of April 16, and pleaded guilty when he appeared in court next day.

A strong plea for leniency was made by M. P. McDonagh, counsel for Clark. Counsel pointed out that Clark owned his own home and had always been honest and industrious. He had a wife and family, who would suffer if the prisoner was sent to jail. Mr. McDonagh asked for suspended sentence on the man.

"Well, then, I think the ends of justice would be met by a fine."

"I don't agree with you. A fine would be no handicap to a man in his position," replied Mr. Graydon. "This man has been convicted before. Last July he was convicted of stealing from the G. T. R. My recollection is that he told me when he was here last week that he had never been convicted. It aggravates the offence that he did not need to steal.

"I think I would be quite warranted in sending Clark to the Ontario Reformatory, but I think the ends of justice will be met by a sentence of two months in the common jail, and I think it is a lenient sentence.

Tears streamed down Clark's face as he faced the magistrate, while the majority of relatives and friends in the front row of the spectators' benches were also crying.

MOTORISTS BEAT OFFICERS TWICE

FINDS CAR IN DARKNESS

Constable Takes Driver of Partially Lighted Car Before Magistrate.

Constable Fraleigh stated that he had warned Nuttall on three occasions, and the mud remained.

Nuttall declared that he had washed the mud off carefully, but had driven to Ilderton and got it all covered with the county road. This time he had wiped the mud off with an old newspaper, he said.

"You couldn't have made much of a job of it," commented Magistrate Graydon. "Some of you taxi men won't do what you should do. It wouldn't have taken you five minutes to go home and wipe the mud off properly.

"I'll let you go this time, but be careful in the future," warned the court.

James Taggart explained that he had gone to a party on Tuesday night last. The lights of his car were on when he went into the house and the two front lights were still burning when he came out. It was the inky blackess of the tail light that brought him into court. He was also warned by Mr. Graydon.

Sneak Thieves Steal Light Bulbs From Churches

STEALING electric light bulbs from churches is the latest occupation of sneak thieves.

Twenty-two bulbs were stolen from the Lambeth Methodist Church last week, according to information received by Provincial Officer Arthur Palmer.

Several weeks ago the church was broken into and the bulbs stolen from the electric light sockets, last week being the second robbery reported.

APRIL'S BUILDING FIGURES EQUALS RECORD OF 1921

Value of Permits This Month Equals Last April's Total.

The building permit total soared over the week-end, and though there are a few large permits yet to be added, the value of April's permits to date is already equal to the total of April, 1921, which was 240,130.

The number of permits issued, however, is materially below the total of April, 1921. This month so far 172 permits have been issued as compared with a total of 209 for the same month of last year. Due to the large number of new and high-priced residences being erected, however, the average value of the 1922 permits is much greater.

The month will also set a record for new residence permits, the total to date for April more than 50.

The permit for Cowan's new hardware store, $50,000, is yet to be added to the month's total, so that April 30 will see the building figures of the month well over the $300,000 mark.

SYNOD DELEGATES GATHER IN CITY

Presbyterians' First Session To Be Held in First Church Monday Evening.

CLOSES WEDNESDAY

Tuesday Discussion On Union Is Likely Outcome of Dr. Drummond's Subject.

Delegates are steadily arriving in the city in readiness for the first session of the synod of London and Hamilton, which commences in the First Presbyterian church, Monday evening. The synod will be opened by Rev. S. A. Carriere, moderator, and following a certain amount of routine business in connection with the hours of meeting the address of the evening will be given by Rev. Dr. Trevor Davies of the Metropolitan church, Toronto, whose subject will be "The Church and the World Situation."

At the Tuesday morning session, which commences at 9:30, Dr. Davies will deliver the address "Faith and the World Situation," a continuation of his subject of Monday evening.

At the same session, a report will be given on co-operation with other churches, by Rev. Dr. Drummond of St. Paul's Church, Hamilton, which, it is expected, will give rise to much discussion in connection with the prospects of church union.

At the afternoon session the work of the Sunday schools and life service in mission fields will be dealt with, the address being given by Rev. R. B. Ferris and a report of the Sunday school committee by Rev. W. J. Gordon.

The synod closes Wednesday afternoon.

JIACO STICKS TO ROADS IN FUTURE

Jiaco Castorof is now on his way to Sarnia and hopes to grab off a job sailing the lakes for the summer. Jiaco bobbed up smiling in police court Monday morning, looking quite fit after a week spent on the diet at the county jail.

"Where do you want to go?" asked the magistrate.

"I want to get out of town to Sarnia," was the reply.

"Are you going to take a chance on the railway?" inquired court.

"No, not me," was the horrified reply. "I'll take a walk on the roads.

"You're discharged, and if you come here again I'll send you to the reformatory," promised Mr. Graydon.

Accept "Challenge" Is Way They Phrase Announcement of Intention.

While Mayor Cameron Wilson and his associates of the city council have announced willingness to "take up the challenge" of the school trustees and conduct an inspection of the London Technical and Art School, Principal H. B. Beal, of the latter institution, explains that there was no "challenge" inferred in the invitation.

"It was certainly not in the form of a challenge," says the principal. "The board simply desires that the mayor and the aldremen visit the school and note it's operation for themselves. We are confident that they as well as others who have visited the school from time to time in the past will be most favorably impressed. We believe that there has been much undue criticism of the technical school, caused most of it no doubt by misrepresentation."

Trustee J. B. Wright, chairman of the advisory vocational committee, also expresses pleasure over the report that the "city fathers" intend to visit the school, despite the fact, he says, "that they have been a long time making up their minds."

ALTHOUSE CHOSEN HEAD OF CURRENT TOPIC CLUB

Winter Season Closes With Banquet At Tecumseh House.

The closing meeting of the winter season of the Current Topic Club was held Saturday evening in the Indian room of the Tecumseh House, when Mr. and Mrs. Robt. Greene were the host and hostess to the club members and friends. Nearly 50 ladies and gentlemen sat down to a sumptuous repast. The supper table was prettily decorated for the occasion.

The annual election of officers was held, when M. W. Althouse was the unanimous choice for president and John W. Cahill was re-elected secretary-treasurer. The secretary gave the annual report which showed much progressive work had been done by the club. The banquet of the club will be held at the beginning of the fall season, Saturday evening, September 30, and first regular meeting of club to be held two weeks later.

Leonard Tait, the outgoing president, was in the chair and in a neat speech introduced the following program: Solos, Mr. J. Parnell Morris and Dr. and Mrs. B. F. Keillor; violin duet, Miss Dorothy and Gertrude Cahill. Others who contributed to the program were Mrs. J. Parnell Morris, Mr. and Mrs. D. C. McNaughton, Dr. S. P. Reynolds, Professor James H. Bowman, Rev. John Garbutt and M. W. Althouse, Mr. Frank White, M. P. for London, gave a short talk on "Impressions at Ottawa." Mr. A. E. Cowley proposed the toast of the evening to "Our Host and Hostess," which was responded to by Mr. Robert Greene and his daughter, Mrs. Heber Gibson.

As a token of appreciation of Secretary John W. Cahill's work since the inception of the club in 1916 he was presented with a handsome silk umbrella. Mr. Morris made the address, while Mr. Cowley made the presentation. The recipient acknowledged same in a few words. "Auld Lang Syne" brought the meeting to a close.

ASKS PROTECTION FOR BOULEVARDS

Chairman Seabrook of the board of health is anxious that something be done to bring about a better respect for the boulevards of the city.

The ex-alderman declares that boulevards are being ruined daily. Persons who make short cuts are in a large measure responsible, he says. On Saturday he noticed a new move in the way of ruining boulevards. A couple of boys were flying along the walk on their roller skates. Coming to a corner they took a leap to the boulevard. In each case the skates sank up to the soles of the boys' shoes. Gaping holes remained in the sod of the boulevard when they moved on.

"This sort of thing should be stopped," says Mr. Seabrook.

Bird Bulletin

Issued by the MacIlwraith Ornithological Club.

After nearly a week with "nothing new to report," it is nice to be able to record a bird whose occurrence here is rather rare, at least as far as the observation of our field men is concerned.

We refer to the Blue-Winged Teal, which was seen at the ponds on the morning of the 23rd. This is one of the smallest of our ducks, and although not very brilliant in plumage, has a large white crescent between the base of the bill and the eye, which shows up against the slate-blue head and offers a good field mark even at some distance. It swam out from the edge of the pond and disappeared into a clump of bulrushes on the "point," a suitable place indeed for it to spend the summer.

Swallows, both tree and barn, are becoming more numerous, and the Ruby-Crowned Kinglet was also much in evidence, at least eight or ten singing males being recorded. Those who do not know the Ruby may wonder why such frequent reference is made to it in these notes, but if once you heard such a volume of sweet tones coming from such a small bird, you, too, would not cease to wonder, and to praise this gifted musician.

Appreciates Fine Effort In Turnout of Various Organizations

LIEUT.-COL. W. G. COLES, president of the local command of the Great War Veterans' Association is fervent in his appreciation of the manner in which the various organizations assisted in the commemoration service Sunday, marking the 7th anniversary of the second battle of Ypres.

The president desires to express thanks on behalf of the comrades of the association as well.

SCHOOL BOARD TO RECEIVE TENDERS

The board of education is now ready to receive bids for all school supplies for the year, including several hundred tons of coal. All tenders must be sealed and handed in to the secretary, but will not be opened until the regular committee meeting.

No specified date has yet been set for the closing of tenders, as it is the intention of the board to allow ample opportunity for all local firms to consult the list of requirements in order that they may become fully conversant with what is being sought. Every care will be taken to counteract the many complaints that have been registered in the past respecting the granting of contracts.

FINDS FARM WAGES IN ONTARIO NOT TOO LOW

Laborers Getting As Much As Those Employed in West.

Farm laborers in Ontario are not doing badly as far as wages are concerned, according to J. Spencer of the Ontario Government Employment Bureau in London. Mr. Spencer states that wages in Ontario are just as high as they are out west.

"In Ontario, farmers are paying from $25 to $35 a month with board for single men and $400 to $500 a year with house for married men," said the director of the London bureau." I have just received word from employment bureaus in Manitoba and Saskatchewan that the prevailing wage in the west for men hired for the spring and summer is $35 a month, so you see we are not so badly off in Ontario as some of the farm hands would have you think.

"Last year in Saskatchewan the prevailing rate of wages was $55 to $60, but apparently conditions have changed out there.

"At the present time we have applications for 45 farm hands at wages that I have quoted to you. Now that the fine weather is here, the farmers are anxious to get their help and get them working on the land.

G. A. WENIGE HAILS CITY ENGINEER INTO COURT

Charge To Be Heard Wednesday Cites Abusive Language As Basis.

The stage has been set for the next chapter in the Wenige-Brazier drama of city hall life, by the laying of an information against the city engineer, H. A. Brazier, by G. A. Wenige, ex-alderman, and defeated mayoralty candidate.

Mr. Wenige charges the engineer with using abusive language towards him. He swore out the information he says, on Saturday, and the case is set down to be heard on Wednesday morning next.

Mr. Brazier stated on Monday morning that he had received his summons to appear in court.

THE TUXIS BOYS of the Y. M. C. A. will hold their closing supper on Tuesday evening in the Y Building. A feature of the program will be the writing of compositions on "The Athletes in the Bible" by the members of all the church groups in the city. The London boys are in competition with the members of church groups of other cities and towns throughout Canada.

TO LECTURE ON CHEMISTRY APPLIED TO INDUSTRY

Hugh Lamont, Chief Engineering Chemist of McClary's, Speaks Under C. of C. Auspices.

Believing that a large number of those engaged in the iron and steel industry, as well as other lines of manufacture, would appreciate an opportunity to grasp something of the scientific principles involved in the production of its various grades, the chamber of commerce committee on "science in industry" has arranged a meeting for Tuesday next at 8 p.m., at which Hugh Lamont, chief engineering chemist for the McClary Manufacturing Company will speak upon "Chemistry as applied to the iron and steel industry."

Mr. Lamont is one with a good deal of practical experience in the manufacturing processes of iron and steel. The fact that he holds such a position with the largest stove works in the British Empire is in itself sufficient to indicate that his address will contain considerable information of real value to those in London's workshops who are striving to achieve a deeper insight into the work in which they are engaged.

The meeting will be held in the girls' dining-room of the McClary York street plant and is open to all. Foremen and heads of departments are especially invited.

It is proposed that all present be given an opportunity to discuss the points revealed and ask questions, while moving pictures will be employed to better illustrate the subjects under consideration.

STRIKE BALLOT IS PROBABLE

Car Workers To Consider Report From Montreal Conference.

Several Changes in Agreement Made Already Cause For Protest.

Gathering Monday in regular session at the Labor Temple, members of the Grand Trunk car workers' unions will receive and consider reports that have reached the city from Joseph Corbett, chief representative of the Grand Trunk car men, who is attending in Montreal a joint conference of the railroad and union representatives.

Officials of that section of the American Federation of Labor which includes the Federated Shop Crafts of six unions and the Switchmen of America, have already ordered that a strike ballot be taken in protest against several changes in the existing agreements between the companies and their employees. It is anticipated that a similar ballot will be taken in Canada.

The Federated Shop Crafts boasts an approximate membership throughout the Dominion of 49,000, of whom nearly 1,000 are located in London. Quite recently American organizers invaded Canada again, and were successful in establishing locals of the Switchmen of America.

One of the latter organizations was instituted several weeks ago in the London yards, and its local officers claim a membership of about 75 per cent of the Grand Trunk switchmen and switch-tenders. The remainder have to date remained with the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, one of the "Big Four" organizations.

The local car workers, in special session not long since, voiced emphatic disapproval of the proposed alterations in their agreement with the company and expressed determination to fight the same.

START WORK SOON ON FAIR GROUNDS

At a meeting of grounds and buildings committee of the Western Fair Association held at Queen's Park Saturday afternoon, business was transacted regarding the preparation of the grounds and buildings for the big exhibition in September. The recommendations from the board and various committees were carefully considered and work will commence shortly, the jobs of larger proportion to be let by tender, although there will be much work done by day laborers.

The contract for building the subway under the track was let to the city engineer, as was also the contract for the re-flooring of the amusement platform. Space for exhibits in the various buildings and on the grounds is being taken up rapidly, and all conditions point to a very successful exhibition.

W. E. SAUNDERS, one of Canada's leading naturalists will address the members of the London Chamber of Commerce on "Birds and Flowers" at the Tecumseh House on Wednesday at 12:30 o'clock.

PAY TRIBUTE TO COMRADES WHO FELL AT YPRES

HOLD CHURCH PARADE

Military Units of City March To the St. Paul's Cathedral.

Commemorating the 7th anniversary of the Second Battle of Ypres, at which the 1st Canadian Contingent, in the face of overwhelming odds, halted Von Kluck's dash for the channel ports, and incidentally saved the day for the empire, several hundred of London's permanent and non-permanent troops attended the special services in St. Paul's Cathedral Sunday afternoon.

The attendance was unusually large, every returned soldiers' organization in the city furnishing quotas, as well as the Royal Canadian Regiment, the 1st Western Ontario Regiment, the 1st Hussars, the Western University C. O. T. C., the Boys' Naval Brigade, and St. George's Society. The G. W. V. A. band headed the parade, while the two W. O. R. bands, the 1st Hussars' band and the Boys' Bugle band marched with their respective units.

Units "March Past."

At 3:15 the G. W. V. A. band, with Lieut.-Col. W. G. Coles at its head, led the parade from the Market Square, up King to Richmond street, down Richmond to Dundas, Dundas to Waterloo, Waterloo to Queen's avenue, Queen's avenue to Richmond, and Richmond to St. Paul's Cathedral. At Wellington and Queen's the units defiled past Major-Gen. H. A. Panet, G.O.C., standing on the south side of Queen's avenue.

As Sunday was also St. George's Day, the members of St. George's Society of this city turned out in full strength and marched with the other units.

Full service dress, with medals, decorations and ribbons was worn by the officers of the headquarters and district staffs, and by all the officers and others ranks of the permanent and non-permanent active militia.

C. O. T. C. Participate.

The Canadian Officers Training Corps of Western University presented a smart appearance in their khaki uniforms trimmed with red, more than 75 of the students marching. Another unit that drew considerable attention was the Boys' Naval Brigade.

Markers were called for just before the close of the service. At the conclusion of the service the veterans were dismissed, and the units of the permanent and non-permanent active militia were formed up by the garrison sergeant-major, facing the church. The First Hussars led the parade via Queen's avenue and Waterloo streets to the armories, the Royal Canadian Regiment continuing its march to the barracks via Queen's avenue.

The services at St. Paul's Cathedral commenced by singing "Onward Christian Soldiers," after which the choir sang the Lord's prayer. The 46th Psalm was then read by Rev. Dean Tucker.

Dean Tucker Speaks.

Dean Tucker in his sermon impressed two things upon the minds of his hearers, the number of men that Canada sent to the aid of the mother country, and the way in which our soldiers acquitted themselves on the battlefield.

"The way in which the Canadians responded to the call that re-echoed through the empire was wonderful," declared Dean Tucker. "From a peaceful nation without a real enemy, without a battleship or fortification on our frontiers, we developed in a week into a warring country. Within two months 33,000 troops had crossed he Atlantic and before the close of the struggle Canada had 600,000 men in uniform."

"The manner in which our boys acquitted themselves was nothing short of marvellous, for they were inexperienced, they knew nothing of warfare, but they had that never-say-die spirit. Seven years ago today when the German hordes were fighting like fiends at St. Julien, striving to reach Calais and England, our Canadian troops stepped into the breach and stood the gruelling test. They won the day.

Was Only Beginning.

"But that was only the beginning of the Canadian exploits. Shortly after that they distinguished themselves at Vimy Ridge, one of the most complicated battles of the whole war. Their heroism and their courage overcame all obstacles.

"From the plough, from the factory and from the office they came, and stood side by side with the most gallant troops of the British Empire.

"Eternal gratitude and remembrance is due to the Canadian boys who fell at the second battle of Ypres, and that is why on every anniversary of that crucial struggle we hold a thanksgiving service and deposit wreaths to their sacred memory.

"In this cathedral we preserve and cherish the flags of some of our battalions as a sacred memorial not only to the men who fought or fell in France, but to all those who battled in Asia, in Africa or on the sea. We have the flag of the 1st battalion, of the 18th, the battalion that brought so much glory to Canada; of the 33rd and of the 142nd (London's Own).

Homes An Inspiration.

"Our homes, the center of domestic and social life, was an inspiration to the soldiers who fought on Flanders' fields," said Dean Tucker.

Dean Tucker dwelt briefly on St. George's Day, and explained what the day should mean to us as members of the British empire.

"On this day we should remember the literary pre-eminence of England," he said, "because today is representative of one of the greatest men of a great people, Shakespeare. Today, April 23, is Shakespeare's Day and St. George's Day."

At the termination of the sermon a bugler played the "Last Post," and Dean Tucker receiving a wreath from the G. W. V. A. said: "I place this wreath in this sacred chancel in the sacred memory of the men who fought and died for the real brotherhood of men and for the freedom of the world."

OBSERVES ANNIVERSARY.

TORONTO, April 23.—With all the solemnity befitting to the hallowed members of the society the 7th anniversary of the Battle of St. Julien was commemorated at a church parade and memorial service to the fallen, in St. James' Cathedral this afternoon. One hundred and nine members of the Originals' Club, some dozen amputation cases, and a squad from the Army and Navy Veterans' Association, under the command of Major F. S. Burke, paraded to the cathedral, where they were addressed by Major the Very Reverened Dean G. L. Starr of St. George's Cathedral, Kingston. The paraders were joined at the church by representatives of the Grand Army of United Veterans and the Great War Veterans' Association, who, with friends and relatives of the Originals, swelled the number of worshippers to 500.

CATARRH OF THE STOMACH FOR EIGHT YEARS

The cause of this trouble is the fermentation of food in the stomach which generates a gas that is very frequently belched up. There is also a rumbling of the bowels and a discharge of gas therefrom, there is constant retching, and the meals are frequently vomited. There is a burning pain in the stomach, the appetite is fickle, the tongue coated, the breath bad, constipation is generally present and the sufferer becomes weak, nervous, depressed and exceedingly miserable.

The blame lies with a sluggish liver, as it holds back the bile which is so necessary to promote the movement of the bowels, and when the bile gets into the blood a badly disordered condition of the stomach, liver and bowels will surely follow.

Keep your liver active and you will always enjoy good health.

Mrs. Agnes Gallant, Reserve Mines, N. S., writes: "I had been a great sufferer for eight years, from catarrh of the stomach. I tried several, so-called, catarrh remedies without relief until a friend advised me to try Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills, which I did, and four vials completely relieved me. That was six years ago, and I have had no return of my old trouble."

Price, 25c a vial at all dealers, or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Company, Limited, Toronto, Ont.—Advt.

CHURCH RECEIVES GLOWING REPORTS

The 34th annual meeting of the Wortley Road Baptist Church was held Friday evening last (April 21), when most encouraging reports were received from all departments of church work, and officers were elected for the coming year.

About a hundred members and adherents sat down to the dainty luncheon, served by the Ladies' Aid at 6:30, and a most pleasant social hour was spent before entering upon the business of the evening.

The clerk's report showed a total membership of 254, and while this is a slight decrease compared with last year, it was pointed out that eighteen members had taken out their letters to form the new Kensall Park church.

Over $7,500 was raised for all purposes during the year. On recommendation of the treasurer a budget of $3,700 for current account was adopted for the coming year.

The following officers were elected: To the board of deacons, Messrs. W. J. Barton, G. W. Grose, T. May and A. Raymond; treasurer, Mr. D. J. Watson; assistant treasurer, Miss M. Black; to finance board, Messrs. W. Chalcraft, T. May, W. B. Mitchell, W. H. Pink, E. Johannes, T. Janes and J. M. Weber; clerk, Mr. E. O. Johannes; assistant clerk, Miss W. Stewart; to city extension board, Messrs C. A. Salmon and W. F. Deacon; Sunday school superintendent, Mr. A. Raymond.

STATES SORROW GAUGED BY LOSS

The Sacrament of Penance and the very necessary part which true contrition plays in the consummation of this sacrament was the subject of Father E. Brisson's sermon at high mass at St. Peter's Cathedral on Sunday.

Father Brisson stated that the gospel of the day told of Christ's institution of this sacrament. It was when he appeared to his disciples in the temple after his resurrection (St. John (chapter xx, 19 to 31) that he said "Peace be to you. As the Father has sent me, I also send you. Whose sins you shall forgive, they are forgiven them; whose sins you shall retain, they are retained." Thus the power conferred by our Lord, said the speaker, was twofold, the power to forgive or retain sins, and the disciples were really constituted judges.

In the Sacrament of Penance, Father Brisson said three factors entered—confession, satisfaction and contrition. There were times when the first two might be dispensed with. He instanced war time, soldiers going into battle, as to the first, and illness, which prevented the second; but the third was ever essential before sins could be forgiven. True sorrow for one's sins was imperative.

Present Day Sorrow.

Father Brisson said that the present day sorrow was usually gauged by the loss suffered. He spoke of grieving over financial loss or the death of a relative, and then asked: "What do we lose when we sin against God?" Sin is the greatest of all evils and God is the greatest of all to us. He said it was natural that a sorrow that affected both the body and soul should move us more than a sorrow that affected only the soul. It was not necessary that one be visibly affected, provided that the sorrow was sincere and heartfelt. The change in the will was the all important thing.

When we break from God to satisfy some caprice, we must apply the remedy where the disorder is, at the will. The speaker here pointed, by way of illustration, to Christ's reprimand to the Jews, whom he admonished to serve him with their hearts, not their lips, and whom he also told to rend their hearts, not their garments, in sorrow for their sins.

Tears are no use unless they are tears of genuine sorrow, as were those of St. Peter after he had thrice denied our Lord or those of Mary Magdalene when our Lord met her in the garden.

Supernatural Motives.

The speaker also contended that sorrow must come of supernatural, not natural motives. The sorrow of a man in jail, whose health is being injured or who is bringing disgrace on his family, will not suffice as contrition for the sin committed. This kind of sorrow is not available to salvation, although the speaker said it sometimes does lead to the right sorrow, and as an example of this instanced the prodigal son.

While fear of hell and loss of heaven do inspire a great deal of sorrow and contrition, and while such sorrow is mostly selfish, yet, he said, these sentiments do manifest some little love for God, and even these as motives lead to forgiveness and are acceptable to God. However, they were more frequently referred to as attrition and were not compared with the sorrow for sin or contrition arising from pure love of God. Real sorrow of the last nature, he said, brought forgiveness even before confession and penance.

The speaker referred to God as all beautiful and perfect and declared that having offended him, should fill us with a sorrow and a desire to again place ourselves in his favor. He pointed out that God has noticed us all. He created us when he might have created a million others, yet we choose to satisfy a passion instead of serve him, as did the men who drove the nails which held him to the cross.

"We again drive these nails every time we sin." He laid down his life on the cross that you might realize how he loved you and that he might atone for your sins, said the speaker, concluding, and urged all to detest sin because it displeases God.

GUIDES ATTEND ST. JOHN'S CHURCH

The Girl Guides of the Church of St. John the Evangelist attended church for the first time in a body Sunday morning in honor of the Day of St. George, the patron saint of England. The girls, who were in charge of their captain, Miss Alma Price, assembled in the Sunday school room. They marched to the church, proceeding down the aisle two by two, they were placed in seats reserved for them on the north side.

The service included patriotic hymns and lessons, and a splendid sermon on the patron saint by Rev. A. L. G. Clarke.

In the course of his address, Mr. Clarke referred to the fact that April 23 was not only the anniversary of St. George, and the naval raid on Zeebrugge, where British seamen covered themselves with glory, but also of the gallant repulse of the German gas attack by the Canadians at Ypres. Both incidents, he said, show that in the Britain of today there still remains loyalty to the great principle which inspired their patron saint.

"St. George," said the speaker, "was not an Englishman. He was chosen as the patron saint by the first Crusaders. He lived south of the Black Sea, where he was one of the Christian martyrs under the Emperor Diocletain. Noted for his courage, chivalry, and independence, he was called 'George the Victorious.'"

When the English returned with victory perched on their banners from Palestine, the nation adopted for its patron saint, St. George, who had led the crusaders.

"What the English people aspire to be," said the speaker, "is reflected in the saint they have chosen."

CLAIMS SECOND COMING WILL MARK HAPPY ERA

Dr. A. B. Winchester Talks On Pre-Milleniumism at New St. James.

Christ's presence on earth, two thousand years ago; His presence now at the right hand of God, and His second coming to inaugurate a reign of peace and goodwill, formed the subject of the Sunday evening sermon at New St. James' Presbyterian Church, delivered by Dr. A. B. Winchester, a student and lecturer, on the theory of pre-milleniumism.

"The question has been asked," Dr. Winchester commenced, "where is Christ now that He does not come? But the answer to that is clear. Christ is now at the right hand of God, pleading and interceding for our sins, just as two thousand years ago, He died for them on the cross, and His presence there is as necessary to the believer as his sacrifice on the cross of Calvary.

"Calvary formed the center of everything. Had Christ failed then in perfect obedience, the fact that He was without sin, He became the perfect offering unto God.

Satan Not Anxious.

"Satan is not anxious for the undesirables of the earth. It is those who are nearest to God for whom he casts his snare, and it is to aid the believer to resist evil, that Christ is at the right hand of God as a mediator, keeping the way open for us. Were all the meritorious deeds of man combined in one, that would not make the perfect offering unto God, or be sufficient to intercede with him for us. Christ, without sin, the perfect offering, is alone able to appear in the presence of God."

"Quoting the words of the Bible: "But now once again in the end of the ages hath He appeared to make satisfaction for sin," he said. "Christ was not a priest on earth, but when He was crucified, the veil of the temple was rent from the top to the bottom by the hand of God to indicate that the perfect sacrifice had at last been made, and where before it had meant death for any but the High Priest to enter the holy of holies, now all should draw nigh to God.

Appear Second Time

"Unto them that love him shall Christ appear a second time," said Dr. Winchester. "Press articles have appeared against the theory of pre-milleniumism. They claim to believe that the theory of pre-milleniumism represents Christ as coming in a blood-thirsty fashion, preceded by war and suffering. But when Christ way on earth before, He was represented as furthering sedition and desirous of overthrowing the government.

"It has been claimed that pre-milleniumism is against all movements for social reform or church union, but the church is one body. It cannot be divided. It has not been divided. All movements for greater union have been followed by an even greater dispersion, as witness the tower of Babel. All men are not alike, and they cannot be bound together except by a common love of God.

"The words of Moses and Elias tell us that Christ shall come again, in person, as at His last appearance, but on his second appearance not as a sacrifice, but to mark the commencement of an era of happiness and content."

RECALLS HEROIC DEEDS OF BATTLE OF YPRES

Rev. William Beattie, D.D., C.M.G., Describes Stand Canadians Made.

Sunday being the seventh anniversary of the battle of Ypres, pastors in many city churches called the attention of their congregations to that memorable battle seven years ago.

"It is a great thing to be permitted to die for others. It is a great thing to be so loved that men die for us. As long as I can I will lift up my voice to the people to remind them of those who died for us, those men who bent destiny with deed," declared Rev. William Beattie, D. D., C. M. G., at the First Presbyterian Church Sunday evening.

Mr. Beattie was formerly chaplain of the First Canadian Brigade in France. He told of the deeds performed by Canadians, many of which were London and Western Ontario men, at the battle of Ypres.

"The story of the event that happened seven years ago should be told to future generations," stated the pastor. "I do not count this service other than to keep our memories fresh and green."

Mr. Beattie describes how the first and second brigades moved into action in the salient on the right of the French colored troops. On Thursday, April 22, the Germans, whom it is now known had been preparing their gas attack for a long time, got a favorable opportunity, and aided by a gentle breeze, sent the poisonous clouds down the slope. Then, in Major Beattie's own words, "Every creature that could not fly or flee is today on Flanders Field."

Someone standing close by asked if they were going to retreat, to which the general answered "No, we are going to advance!" He told how the return current soon set in, stemming the advance. The pastor described the movements of the first four battalions and what happened when the Canadian generals, Turner

URGES YOUNG PEOPLE TO TAKE PLACE IN WORLD

Rev. (Major) A. E. Lavell, D. D., secretary of the parole board of Ontario, conducted both morning and evening services at the Dundas Center Methodist Church Sunday on the occasion of the Epworth League anniversary. He called upon the young people of Canada to take a place of achievement in these days of great danger, but of greater opportunities.

"I wonder if the young people realize the great days in which we are living?" asked he speaker in opening his morning address. "I do not see how anyone could be a pessimist or, as I heard it described a few days ago, a crape hanger, in these days I do not know. Never were there such days since the world began. The young people have opportunities now which they have never had before."

According to Major Lavell there were only two other periods in the history of the world which could be compared to the present age. They were the first century when the apostles went about teaching the gospel of Jesus Christ, and the 15th century, marked by a revival of learning and search for new truths, which brought with it the Reformation.

The change in the present age began about 1870, Major Lavell pointed out. It was first seen in the work of the poets and philisophical writers. Up until 1914, however, this search for knowledge was left in the hands of students. The great war, however, made the change so apparent that the whole world became interested. During the first and 15th centuries the peoples of the world passed through great suffering, but all their suffering was not greater than that experienced during the five years of war. It brought with it a spirit of sacrifice as well as suffering. Many know how marvelous was the spirit of "over there," and here as well. The world could not go through such a period and emerge the same. It must either get much better or much worse.

World Getting Smaller.

The speaker declared that the world had been getting much smaller since 1870, but it had become infinitely smaller since 1914. As an illustration of this, Major Lavell pointed out that the people of Canada as a whole take an interest in the doings of little countries now of which they barely knew the names in pre-war days. Before the war Canadians thought that they were living in one spot, but there had been a change, and they saw that conditions in other parts of the world were of real vital interest to them.

Major Lavell compared the world to one big room where all the nations were more or less together. If this big room, however, the Christians were but a small fraction of the gathering, and if the others were to conceive the idea of destroying Christianity, the Christian world would be in much the same position as would have been Noah if all the animals had got loose in the ark and he had been armed with a pitchfork.

The speaker pointed out that a few years ago people were interested in Russia, and the chief reason was that she had contributed nothing to civilization. Now, however, Russia was a country to be reckoned with, and one in which the peoples of the world were taking an intense interest.

New China Born.

Turning to China, Major Lavell pointed out that a new China was being born. The answer as to whether it would be a horror or one of God's ministering agents was in the hands of the young people.

"If we who class ourselves as Christians, trusting to material force to solve these problems, our case is hopeless," Major Lavell declared emphatically.

"There has been no time of greater danger since the sun first shone," the speaker continued. "The responsibility rests for the most part on the young people to whom God has given a great task. As the Master was in the midst of mankind, suffering, working, dreaming with them, so should be the Christian of today. There should be no waiting for the coming of Christ, because He has never left. He has been here since He was born in Bethlehem. Bibles are cheaper than bullets. Christianity is easier to give mankind than material things which seem to cost less. We cannot escape form the fact that the rest of the world matters to us. Germany did matter to us, although she was across an ocean.

"The young people of today are looking out on the world at a time of greatest opportunity and greatest danger," declared the speaker, in conclusion, "and they must take their part in bringing the whole world together through the teachings of Jesus Christ."

CLAIMS ALL LABOR SACRED, INSPIRING

The Hyatt Avenue Methodist Church was filled to capacty Sunday evening when the pastor, Rev. R. J. McCormick, spoke on the "Plowman's Sacred Path." He emphasized the fact that all necessary labor is sacred and inspiring. He said we are apt to draw a distinction between position and think one more honorable than another; it is the man that adorns the position and not the position that adorns the man. The pastor said that it would be hard to distinguish which is the most necessary President Howard G. Kelly, of the Grand Trunk Railway, or the man with the pick and shovel working on the section, as both are working for the safety of the people.

James Burns read the lessons. Solos were given by Mrs. Self and Luther Jackson.

Lantern and smreen were effectively used to illustrate the sermon. The film chosen was "The Cotter's Saturday Night.'

FINDS COMFORT IN RESURRECTION

"Simon Peter saith unto them, I go a fishing," John, xxi., 3, was the text of the sermon delivered by Rev. Quintin Warner at Cronyn Memorial Church Sunday morning.

The minister stated that there were certain things particularly clear regarding the resurrection. First of these was Christ's intention to make himself manifest after his death, in Galilee, but he was forced to meet the disciples in Jerusalem since at that time their faith was not strong enough to permit them to go forth.

"Another thing made clear," said the pastor, "is the tendency of the disciples to cling to the sayings of the prophets. We also learn that Jesus Christ was consistent throughout in his stand against temptation. He was tempted to dazzle the people with his power, but he withstood and at the time of his resurrection he made himself manifest only to those who truly desired to see him. After his victory over death he did not show any boastful spirit. These facts are comforting to everyone especially those who are trying to bring others to the faith of Christ."

Rev. Mr. Warner next dwelt on the truth of the resurrection, saying that while certain critics declared that the reason of the resurrection of Christ was created by the enthusiasm that the disciples had for him, and which made him in their eyes supreme over death.

"However," said the minister, "scholars today say that there is no truer fact in history, and we must realize the tremendous effort that Christ had to put forth in his moment of glory to convince his followers that he was really a living person. Nothing else but the fact of the resurrection could account for the church, those few words alone, 'He rose again,' in the apostles' creed, is its foundation."

Rev. Mr. Warner stated that people must not go back to the things that they tried to do before they became a companion of Christ, like Simon Peter went back to his fishing, since no person can return from heights attained and get satisfaction from the old life.

"We must spiritualize and make work a living power with the life of Christ transfusing it, in terms of life rather than death," he said.

The pastor closed his sermon by saying: 'Take the commission that came to Peter, and which comes to everyone, such as feed my sheep, feed my lambs, giving the necessary spiritual force to those who look to God."

CLAIMS ALL MUST WORK FOR CHURCH

On Sunday morning in the Robinson Memorial Church the minister, Rev. W. L. Hiles, preached from Mark xiii:34: "To every man his work." In part, Mr. Hiles said:

"The words bring before us the obligation of the church to be up and doing for her Lord, and especially present to us that Christian service in its personal aspect. The words are such words as one would expect to fall from the lips of Jesus. He was an optimist regarding the success of His kingdom.

The parables of the mustard seed and of the leaven shows us that he never doubted its continual growth and ultimate dominance. But Jesus was no easy optimist. He was not like Micawber, just waiting for 'something to turn up.' It would mean sweat and blood on his part, and it would mean sweat and blood on the part of all who truly called Him Lord.

"As far as He was concerned, the gospel records tell us how well He did His part. The disciples watched Him as he went about His Father's business. They applied to him the words of the Old Testament prophet, 'The zeal of thine house hath eaten me up.' And at last they saw Him in His very prime give His life in one great throw that God's kingdom might come on earth.

"When He yielded up His life He was able to look up into the face of God, His Father, and say: 'I have glorified Thee on earth, I have finished the work thou hast given me to do.' But He knew there was much work left to be done by others. So upon His followers he placed the responsibility of carrying on. He 'gave to every man his work.' His hope for the salvation of the world was in the faithfulness with which His church would discharge her duty. And after two thousand years this weary sin-cursed world of ours is again turning to the Church of God as her one great hope. Only the other day, Lloyd George called together at 20 Downing street a company of the leaders of the Church of God and declared that England needed a religious revival more than anything else and urged upon that company of men the duty of the church to stimulate that spiritual revival.

"But the church depends for her efficiency upon the willingness of each individual member to do his part. That is the secret of the success of any church. John Wesley had a motto he used to put before his people, 'All at it and always at it.' It matters not whether the membership of a church is large or small, or whether the members are rich or poor, the success of a church will be in direct ratio to the percentage of its members who are living stones. 'For their sakes I sanctify Myself,' said Jesus, 'that they also might be sanctified.' It is Paul who tells us how 'He gave himself for us that he might redeem us from all iniquity and purify unto himself a people for his own possession, zealous of good works.' Let each one of us see to it that, as far as we are concerned, He did not die in vain."

Rev. W. R. McIntosh Shows Appeal To Christian Service Is Threefold.

Those ideals which prompted young Canadians in khaki to call forth such sterling efforts at the Battle of St. Julien should not be forgotten, but should be incorporated into the lives of the young people of today, Rev. W. R. McIntosh informed his congregation on Sunday evening. The subject of his sermon was "Come On, Canadians."

Taking the second Battle of Ypres as the basis of his appeal on Life Service Sunday, which was observed yesterday, Mr. McIntosh pointed out that those ideals which stood the test at St. Julien seven years ago, are available today, and should be incorporated into the life of every young Canadian.

The minister declared that the appeal to life service is threefold.

"The first requirement is that every calling or vocation should be Christian," he began; "that is to say, regulated by Christian ideals. Every man has as much right for his calling to be Christian as if he were a minister or a missionary. It is a big question.

"The second appeal is that everyone should devote a portion of his income and time, unpaid, of course, to special religious work. He should undertake to give a certain portion of his time to means to this work. It is called part time service, and is a Christian obligation.

The third appeal is to those who feel qualified to give their whole lives to Christian work. There are fifteen or sixteen openings both at home and abroad, which number is more than there were formerly. These include the need for agricultural missionaries in India, industrial missionaries, medical missionaries and nurses, in addition to the need for evangelists and ministers."

Referring to the Battle of St. Julien, which he used to introduce his life service appeal, Mr. McIntosh said: "The Battle of St. Julien, sometimes called the second Battle of Ypres, is the basis of my appeal. General French said, in a dispatch after the Canadians went in and stopped the gap, 'The Canadians have saved the situation.' They died in closing the open road to Calais.

"It is now up to young Canadians to save the situation for church and country by accepting these ideals. The whole of this history should not be forgotten, but should be used as an inspiration to the people of all time to save situations in their time.

"There is a big opportunity in our time to answer this challenge, and to perpetuate the ideals of the young Canadians at St. Julien," concluded Mr. McIntosh. "Come on, Canadians."

SPIRIT DIRECTS SHIP TO RESCUE

Captain Carries Medal From U. S. President Because He Obeyed Apparition.

HALIFAX, April 23.—One of the stories of the "unknown" which were retold during the recent Antigonish County manifestations at Caledonia Mills, and while Dr. Franklin W. Prince of New York, of the American Society of Psychical Research, was conducting his investigations into the mysteries, was that which concerned Capt. George A. Hatfield, a well-known deep sea mariner, of Parrsboro, N. S.

In the spring of 1876 Capt. Hatfield left Cienfuegos, Cuba, in the bark J. T. Smith, bound for Boston with a load of sugar. On the night of April 20, with the weather clear and the wind favorable, Capt Hatfield retired, leaving the mate in charge of the ship. He had been sleeping for some time, when he was suddenly awakened by what seemed to be a man shaking him by the right shoulder, and telling him to keep the vessel off one-quarter of a point. Aroused from his slumber, the captain saw a man disappearing through the cabin door. Thinking it was the mate he went on deck and questioned him, but the mate, expressing much surprise, assured him that he had not been in the cabin.

Stranger Repeats Warning.

By this time a thunderstorm had suddenly broken, but the wind still blew from a favorable quarter. Capt. Hatfield went below, and was soon asleep. The same messenger as before awoke him, and he was able to distinguish, before the visitor disappeared on deck, that he was dressed in a grey suit and wore a white straw hat. When the captain went again on deck no sign could be seen of the stranger.

Capt. Hatfield went below, determined to watch, but, tiring, fell asleep. Again he was awakened by the apparition. It was then about midnight, and the storm had abated. The skipper determined to heed the thrice-given message, and had his vessel's course changed one-quarter of a point, and gave orders for a sharp lookout, as the Florida coast was being neared.

Rescues Ship's Crew.

On the following day at noon the lookout sighted what he thought to be a lighthouse. Capt. Hatfield thought that none should be near, and ran for the object. It was soon seen to be a schooner, waterlogged and sinking, and on closer approach was found to be the American schooner D. Talbot. A boat was sent to her, and Capt. Amesbury of the distressed vessel, his wife and young son, and several of the crew were rescued. Within a short time the disabled schooner sank.

When Capt. Hatfield told his dream to Capt. and Mrs. Amesbury, the latter confidently stated that she believed the apparition to have been that of her father. As a memento of the rescue Capt. Hatfield carries a valuable gold watch, with the following inscription:

"Presented by the President of the United States to Capt. George A. Hatfield of the British bark J. T. Smith, Parrsboro, N. S., for humanity and courage in the rescue of the crew of the sinking American schooner D. Talbot, April 21, 1876."

ENGINEERS' STRIKE STILL UNSETTLED

British Union Representatives Fail in Attempt to Reopen Negotiations.

SITUATION GROWS TENSE

Workers Claim Employers Seeking to Force Greater Managerial Control.

LONDON, April 23.—(By Canadian Press Cable.)—Following a new deadlock on Friday night, the mediators who are seeking to end the dispute in the engineering trades were early astir on Saturday morning continuing their effort to secure a fresh basis of negotiations.

Representatives of the Employers' Federation, the Amalgamated Engineering Union and 47 allied unions met separately at their respective headquarters, but three hours of discussion ended with the announcement that the attempt to reopen negotiations had definitely broken down.

T. J. McNamara, minister of labor, is coming to London to deal with the situation. The unions on Saturday published the correspondence since April 20, including the letter sent out by the employers on April 21, threatening to cancel the suspension of the lockout notices. The unions declare the employers are thus seeking to force the unions to come to heel and submit to a greater measure of managerial control in the shops than was provided in the agreements of March 24 and April 1. They declare that no responsible trades union body would ever voluntarily accept the new conditions.

The employers at the Friday night conference offered to withdraw their memorandum, claiming a greater measure of managerial control and regulation of overtime, if the men would accept as a basis of settlement the right of the employers to review wage conditions, but this offer was rejected by the representatives of the unions.

QUEEN'S STUDENT WORSTS BURGLAR

KINGSTON, April 22.—Grappling with a would-be burglar as he was entering his room over the balcony at Hillcroft, at 3 o'clock this morning at the home of W. T. Minnes, of MacNee and Minnes, Union Street West,, Dave Harding of Sarnia, star half back for Queen's inter-collegiate rugby team gave the intruder such a tussle that the two men rolled over the floor and onto the veranda, thence to the ground, a drop of about 15 feet.

Harding fell, still holding his man, but the force of the drop was so great that his hold was broken and he sustained injuries which necessitated his removal to the General Hospital, the burglar in the meantime escaping. Fortunately Harding had no bones broken.

He is a first year student in arts and was studying late, having been only asleep a short time when the burglar entered the room.

Dr. Deslaurier's resolution would assert "that whereas the exportation to the United States of the electric energy of the water-powers of Canada promotes the progress of the United States to the detriment of Canada, it would be desirable that the government place a prohibitive duty on this anti-national commerce."

SIDE LIGHTS AT OTTAWA

By JOHN J. McLELLAN.
Advertiser Staff Correspondent.

HOUSE OF COMMONS, Ottawa, April 23.—Even a Progressive member cannot stand the boredom of a dull day in the house, though he be imbued unto the crown of his head with the theme of diligent attention to every detail that occurs in the green room. He will be found to be present in the "off again, on again Finnegan" style. In the afternoon of Saturday's meandering through the main estimates only Donald Sutherland came forward to "brighten the corner where he was and the other corners where the other lone deputies were." He tried hard to exasperate that ordinarily calm gentleman, Hon. W. R. Motherwell. One could almost imagine the minister of agriculture saying to himself before the questionings of the member were over, in true agricultural manner, "Well I swan, Donald, if you ain't the most pestiferous fellow I ever saw."

Donald wanted to know all about hog cholera, the cattle embargo and divers other matters, each of which led further and further from the beaten path of estimates. One thing leads to another, on question to another. The why and the wherefor, the cause and effect, the beginning and the end, the who and the what of hog cholera were gone into, presumably for the edification of nobody.

The member for Oxford has always taken a great interest in agriculture, which is supposed to have undergone great disappointment when he was not appointed to the position of minister of agriculture in the late administration. Most every time he rose to his feet this afternoon after the first half-hour of questioning had gone on, Progressive members kept shouting out "passed," meaning the estimate in hand, hoping by this means to keep Mr. Sutherland quiet. Finally, Mr. Motherwell said the estimate was passed, in answer to a question from Sutherland about Duncan Marshall.

"Are the operations of Duncan Marshall passed?" said Mr. Sutherland.

"No, they have only begun," said Mr. Motherwell amidst laughter.

We do not think we are wrong when we suppose that the minister of agriculture is prone to use—what shall we call it?—rural phraseology. This afternoon Mr. Motherwell, speaking of one gentleman, said he "didn't know beans when the bag was open."

* * *

MEMBERS contrast the present parliament with the last, at least those who were here last year do. They point out the numerous holidays parliament took during the late regime. On the slightest pretext parliament would knock off for the day, and working days about balanced the number of holidays.

* * *

IT is easier to gauge the current political thought of a country from some place far removed from the capital. If gazing at close range at parliament were the advantage of the electorate then there would be far greater political stability than at present. Movements from the ordinary state of things do not originate in the legislature itself.

All of which brings out this thought—Will the time come soon when there will be in parliament a Western group, a Maritime group, a Quebec group and an Ontario group? If the Progressive movement loses itself and dissolves into the Liberal party then such a group parliament will never come, for such a thing would be the vindication, if it needs any vindication, of the two-party system. But if the Progressive movement remains in political integrity, and remains a Western group, for such in reality it is, the Ontario members of the Progressive group are really an overflow of the U. F. O. in Ontario, a movement that has or may not have a good future, and which will lose strength if redistribution is put through—so if one section of the country sends a group to parliament may not another.

* * *

MEMBERS are continually rising to their feet when the estimates are going through "suggesting in all seriousness that he, a minister, do so and so." Parliament has had considerable of this time-worn phrase, yet speaker after speaker continues to use it. Now it would be somewhat of a shock if a member intimated that he did not make his suggestion in a spirit of seriousness. For instance, what a shock would parliament receive should a member rise and say that he made a suggestion "in all jocularity" or "in all joviality," or something of that nature.

It must be admitted that they make suggestions that might be doubted as given in a spirit of all seriousness. This latter class of suggestion often emanates from many a Conservative bench.

FUNERAL PLANS MADE

Burial of Marjorie Pickthall To Be Held Wednesday.

TORONTO, April 23.—The funeral of Marjorie L. C. Pickthall, the brilliant Canadian novelist and poetess, who died in Vancouver on Wednesday last, following an operation performed on April 17, will take place on Wednesday afternoon.

The remains are expected to arrive in this city late Tuesday afternoon and on the following afternoon at 2 o'clock a service will be held in the church of St. Mary The Virgin, conducted by Rev. Canon Anthony Hart, who was a close personal friend of the late Miss Pickthall. Interment will then be made in St. James' Cemetery.

It was first proposed to hold the funeral immediately on the arrival of the train from the West, but these arrangements were changed out of regard for the wishes of a great number of friends who desired to pay their last respects.

SARNIA CONSTABLE RESIGNS POSITION

ADMITS INSUBORDINATION

Had Invited Sergeant to Step Outside Office and Settle Differences.

SARNIA, April 23.—Following a private meeting of the police commission to inquire into charges of insubordination made against Constable Clarence L. McLean, the latter tendered his resignation yesterday on the suggestion of the commission. The constable had intimated his intention of resigning before the meeting of the commission.

The charges arose out of an invitation made by McLean to Sergt. John Cranmer to take off his coat and come outside the police station to settle affairs.

This was following a statement by McLean to the effect that Constable Norman Short had accepted $3 from George Kreeby on Sunday last when the latter was being taken to the police station in an intoxicated condition. Kreeby, following his fine, asked Short to return $3 to him, and the latter denied having take it. McLean tackled Short later with the matter, and Short reported him.

The police commission found Short not guilty of taking the $3, though Kreeby, McLean and another man swore that he had accepted it. The commissione ruled that as two of the witnesses were intoxicated at the time their evidence was unreliable.

McLean admitted the insubordination, and stated that his remarks to Sergt. Cranmer had been occasioned by the latter declaring that he (McLean) had spied on other constables on their beats and other differences.

Public Funds.

AT THE banquet tendered to SENATOR PARDEE at Sarnia a few days ago, THOMAS MARSHALL, M. P. P., Liberal Whip in the Ontario House, made a very fair criticism of the financial methods followed by the finance minister of the province of Ontario.

As a case in point, MR. MARSHALL instanced the placing of a loan in the fall of 1920 for $6,000,000, a 15-year loan, bearing interest at 6 per cent, repayable at par. In one month this attractive offer with the best security in the world, brought in orders for $16,000,000, the price of the bonds being $92.34. The treasury should have finished with the first issue of $6,000,000, for better terms could have been obtained. Instead, through inexperience, they let the whole issue go, and it cost the province a million dollars.

MR. MARSHALL did not charge that there was wilful intention to run the province into a serious loss in this loan; he did not suggest that there was any graft in it. He made the one big point, viz., that the loss the province sustained was through inexperience and from lack of expert financial ability in dealing with such matters.

Going on from this he developed the idea that the country, whether in provincial or federal circles, needed a greater realization of what it was to spend public funds.

In that he was on solid ground. For too many years the people have nursed the idea that getting money from the government was like drawing it out of thin air; that it came from sources that were mysterious and in ways that were mysterious.

The cure for much of this loose-thinking is coming in the way in which the taxpayers of this country have to put up the money to run the affairs of state. When they are called upon to pay up in the form of direct and indirect taxes they are going to get a correct realization of "where the money comes from." Whether the lesson will result in there being fewer people who are out showing the governments where they can spend money to advantage remains to be seen.

MR. MARSHALL was perfectly right in his two main points:

1. Looking after the finances of the province or the Dominion is work for an expert, and

2. That public money, in the last analysis, comes from the public themselves.

Cleaning House.

THE BRIGHT days of spring make everything look shabby, and the mind of the house-proud woman anxiously turns to thoughts of the inevitable cleaning and renovating, which her household possessions require when the pitiless rays reveal unpleasant truths. However, happily, the task which lies before her is not altogether unpleasant; for there is genuine satisfaction to be gained from regarding the result when the work has been accomplished. And, thanks to the invention of numerous labor-saving devices, a house can nowadays be thoroughly cleaned from cellar to attic without creating the state of chaos and general discomfort which was formerly unavoidable. Once upon a time the period during which the annual spring cleaning was in progress was a time of domestic upheaval and trial to the temper—not to mention the terrible fatigue which it entailed, but nowadays the work can be done far more thoroughly than of old, and in less than half the time, by employing the modern devices which save labor and increase the efficiency of the workers.

Indeed, it may be truly said that spring cleaning has ceased to be the tyrannical monster which it was in the past. Then, as the pages of the old comic papers show, it was a time of domestic earthquake which supplied the artists with many humorous situations—situations which were more humorous to the onlookers than to the actors in them. Tired women and disconsolate men surveyed the carpetless rooms and stairs with horror—and the state of ruin to which what was once a comfortable home had been reduced made many sad hearts. But today a general upheaval of the house is no longer necessary—not woman who has any pride in her capacity as an organizer would tolerate for an hour the terrible discomfort which used to reign for days; and for the happy change which has taken place the modern woman has to thank the inventors of the ingenious machines which have been provided for her benefit. Moreover, the modern woman has the satisfaction of knowing that, when the task has been completed, the work of cleaning will have been more thoroughly done than would have been possible by the old methods.

Who Said Annexation?

HON. P. C. LARKIN, at an early stage of his official residence in London, England, has found it necessary to deny the report that he said the continuance of the cattle embargo was "placing a potential weapon in the hands of the annexationists of the prairie provinces."

When the matter was first brought to the attention of the Canadian parliament, it was discounted at once, and put down as the work of some party who had been feeding words and phrases to MR. LARKIN.

An old campaigner, and an old westerner like HON. MR. MOTHERWELL, was not alarmed by the report, claiming that similar statements had been made much nearer home. The inference brought HON. MR. MEIGHEN to his feet, and the burden of little ARTHUR'S speech was to provide for himself an alibi against any such statements or sentiments.

It is no doubt splendid political tactics for Conservatives to place on the pages of Hansard as much material as possible showing that they dislike annexationist talk, and seeking to establish a claim to 100 per cent simon pure loyalty.

In so doing Conservatives are taking it for granted that the country has a short memory, or one that is put together like a seive.

In the campaign of 1911, Conservatives talked annexation, seeking to hang it on the Liberals at that time. They plastered and placarded the country from coast to coast with the most insulting posters, showing Canada being taken over and handed to United States. Others had two flags, the Stars and Stripes and the Union Jack, with the wording underneath, "Under Which Flag?" The miserable inference was there as plain as mud. If the country chose to adopt the Liberal policy of that time the result would be annexation to United States. That was the charge the Conservatives of that time were hurling against the Liberals, and it was on that plank and platform that they carried the whole campaign.

We had the same thing in 1921, when the MEIGHEN crowd sought to drive an election on the tariff to the exclusion of all else. The cry was the same—the billboards carried the same idea. United States was once more prepared to take over Canada if the country dared to turn out the Tories.

The country did turn them out and this country's capital has not been removed to Washington.

The Conservatives have cried "annexation" for political purposes, when they knew it was the veriest sort of rubbish.

They are not called upon to rise in the House of Commons and hold up holy hands when the word is reported to have been used in London, England. The Conservatives, on the platform, in their speeches, on their billboards, shouted annexation whenever it suited their political purposes so to do.

Small wonder that the House sits back and laughs when the hon. leader of the smallest party in the House rises to prepare his alibi.

Buying Eggs.

MERCHANTS of Blenheim are thoroughly convinced that there are a lot of eggs in the country.

One merchant advertised that his store would give a pair of shoes for the most eggs brought in in three days, and this offer was followed by another, advertising that to the person bringing in the most eggs would be given a box of soap. This was not enough, and an east end merchant advertised that he would give a hundredweight of sugar for the most eggs, and this offer was met by cross-the-street opposition, who advertised three cents above the market price.

The result was a deluge of eggs that swamped some of the storekeepers. At one of the east end stores the proprietor reported that he had taken in from one person, the winner of the bag of sugar, 244 dozen, with another contestant bringing in 220 dozen.

Not all are said to have been good, either, a leading citizen having broken every egg in two dozen purchased without finding a fresh egg in the lot, this particular purchase evidently having come in a lot that had been used in an incubator.

The big question is who is going to buy these eggs? If there are dozens of them old, and not fit for use, some buyer is going to get soaked sooner or later, and the reputation of the merchants themselves will suffer as a result.

The question naturally follows, if there is such a surplus of eggs in the country, what becomes of them in the usual way? It must be a fact that the local markets are not absorbing them fast enough to keep them in the "fresh" stage.

This egg-buying contest brings out a fact that makes it very clear that our system of selling and storing eggs in the interests of the ultimate consumer is as yet a fairly crude affair.

IT LOOKS LIKE MORE ROUGH WEATHER.

LITTLE 'TISERS

After a man's wife gets the seeds all in it's a popular pastime for him to ask the boys up to see his garden.

One association is giving a prize to apply to reckless auto drivers. A London traffic cop puts in this one, "— — — — —."

Following the recent wet weather around here the works department had complaints of some wet cellars. It was hard to know whether to send some of the engineer's men or page the police department.

The Toronto Star says that about the time people down there make their first lot of home brew they have had enough of it, and are ready to quit. But the gaps in the ranks fill up rapidly in such a cause.

Farmers are complaining already that their chickens are being killed by autos that go flying along the country roads. About the only way out is to train these birds to go down the road and crawl through the culvert.

If the great nations of the world are taking a holiday on the building of capital ships, and turning this surplus energy into other kinds of destructive war machinery, where is the cause of peace going to be much farther ahead?

The grand old habit of signing petitions continues to flourish. It used to be claimed that a man could get signatures to have his neighbor hanged, and it might be possible to do so yet. It may be that one or two good petitions have been circulated since the world began, but their number could hardly exceed half a dozen.

PROFESSOR FRANK J. LAUBE, of the political economy department of the University of Washington, gave his views on land taxation, when speaking before the Associated Boards of Trade of British Columbia. "The Pacific Coast, unlike other parts of the world, has developed its industries—timber, mineral and fishing—first," PROFESSOR LAUBE explained. "Then we turned to the development of agriculture, the real basis of our prosperity, but we have hindered that development, loaded it down by crushing taxes on land. We shall not recover, we shall not be able to reach our full development until we reduce the taxation of our land. By such reductions and the consequent development of the land, we shall develop business, bring down the cost of food, the cost of labor. We have come to a time in the Pacific Northwest when we must encourage and develop agriculture and thus develop business." The single tax, PROFESSOR LAUBE declared, was satisfactory in old and well-settled countries where all land was occupied and developed to a high point. But the single tax in a new country took away the owner's motive to exploit his land and failed to develop that "anchorage of the soil" which was the basis of national life.

READ YOUR CHARACTER

By Digby Phillips

NO. 196—THE AVIATORS.

For those who may possibly doubt the accuracy of scientific character analysis by means of the observation and classification of physical traits, there is much of significance in the observations made by Lieut. C. N. Reinhardt in the British flying service during the war.

It takes no argument to show that the aviator must have certain well-defined characteristics. It is not only the question of the "middle ear," that is, of the sense of physical balance. The quickness of the mental reaction and the instinctive nervous reactions must be well defined. In addition, the aviator requires a certain distinct type of courage, the courage of action, dash and self-reliance rather than the courage of dogged resistance, supreme endurance and the like. In short, the aviator needs a strong balance of the characteristics attributed to the blonde, convex, aggressive, motive type of person.

And how does this square with the observations of the personnel of the Royal Flying Corps?

Reinhardt found that 95 per cent of them were fair, with blue eyes, and 60 per cent were pure blondes. More than 95 per cent were pure convex in profile. There was not one case of a "bulging brow" with a receding chin (the type of theoretical person, perhaps powerful in mentality, but speculative in thought and undecided in action). More than 70 per cent of them, as shown by their builds, were of the bony, active, motive type. None of them were of the vital type. And most of them were short-headed (which, in a general way, emphasizes the indications of the convexity of profile and lightness of coloring).

DR. BISHOP'S ADVICE.

SECRETS OF MASSAGE

BY DR. R. H. BISHOP.

SO brilliant have been the results of properly applied massage that a host of charlatans and fakers has sprung up to exploit the system.

Just as is the case of all effective means of treating the sick, it is safe and health-giving only when applied by one whose knowledge of the constitution of the human body, of pathology and of the sciences is suitable to select proper treatment for each individual.

The purpose of massage is to free the tissues from waste products which a stagnant circulation leaves in them; in general to promote circulation and exercise the muscles.

The first general rule of massage is that all movements should be toward the heart. The various movements used in massage are: stroking, friction, kneading, vibration, percussion and joint movements.

Stroking consists of a gentle sedative movement with fingers or palms. Friction is a heavy stroking, using the balls of the thumb and fingers. The first relieves nervousness; the second is good for stagnant blood vessels.

Kneading is an alternate compression and lifting of the tissues—not letting the hand slide over the surface as in the other movements, but remaining in one place.

Vibration is done with the finger tips or with electric vibrators. It and the kneading are good stimulants for those who need a stirring up of the digestive and eliminating systems.

Joint movements are used in final stages of treatment for arthritic troubles, such as rheumatism.

Protect the Meadowlark

By ALIDA M. BICE, Clandeboye.

WHEN skies are yet grey, and before the fields show a hint of green, the clear, far-carrying, musical call of the Meadowlark is often the first indication of the coming of spring. Perched in a tree-top or on the top of a fencepost, always near the pasturefields, he whistles "Swee-eet Spri-ing, Swee-eet Spri-ing" persistently and cheerfully in spite of bad weather, till one morning people wake up to find that he is a true prophet, and warm weather has arrived. All authorities on bird life and habits, are agreed in saying that the Meadowlark should receive absolute protection. At one time, this bird was abundant wherever the land was cultivated, all through the province, and was quite at home wherever there was level or undulating land covered with grass, with plenty of water at hand. Now, however, its numbers are rapidly decreasing, owing to its size and "slow, straight flight, which makes it an easy mark for gunners," who should know better than to wantonly destroy one of the most useful of our birds. Perhaps if they realized that hitting them is no proof of skill in marksmanship, it might make a difference.

THE Meadowlark feeds principally upon such insects as hide just beneath the surface of the ground, insects by far the most injurious, for they are continually boring into the plant's roots, eating away their fibre, and so destroying the whole plant, cutworms, wireworms, etc., which "emerge from their hiding places at night only. By some highly-developed faculty, the Meadowlark is enabled to locate these creatures in their hiding places, and being provided with a sharp beak of sufficient length for the purpose, is able to drag them out and devour them." Stomachs of Meadowlarks collected when the ground was covered with snow, contained a large percentage of insects, showing the bird's skill in finding proper food even under such unfavorable circumstances.

Of the various insects eaten, crickets and grasshoppers are the most important, constituting, according to reliable figures, "26 per cent of the food of the year, and 72 per cent of the food in August." Now, anyone will recognize at a glance the extremely beneficial work done by a number of Meadowlarks on a field of grass in the height of the grasshopper season. Of over 1,500 stomachs of Meadowlarks, collected at all seasons of the year, more than half contained remains of grasshoppers, and one stomach was filled with fragments of 37 of these insects. This seems to show conclusively that "grasshoppers are preferred, and are eaten whenever they can be found. Especially notable is the great number taken in August, the month when grasshoppers reach their maximum abundance; stomach examination shows that large numbers of birds resort at this time to this diet, no matter what may be the food during the rest of the year. Next to grasshoppers, beetles, mostly of the harmful species, make up the most important item of the Meadowlark's food."

FORTY-TWO individuals of different kinds of May beetles were found in the stomachs of Meadowlarks, and there were probably many more which were past recognition. To this form and several closely-allied ones belong the numerous white grubs, which are among the worst enemies to many cultivated crops, notably grasses and grains, and to a less extent strawberries and garden vegetables. "In the larval stage they eat the roots of these plants, and being large, one individual may destroy several plants. In the adult stage they feed upon the foliage of trees and other plants, and in this way add to the damage which they began in the earlier form. As these enemies of husbandry are not easily destroyed by man, it is obviously wise to encourage their natural foes."

CATTERPILLARS form a very constant element of the food, and in May constitute over 24 per cent of the whole. May is the month when the dreaded cutworm begins its career of destruction, and then the lark does some of its best work. Most of these caterpillars are ground feeders, and anyone who has ever tried to grow vines of any kind has doubtless indulged in choice language while digging along the row, or in the hill, to find the snugly-hidden cutworm that left plant after plant of cucumber and melon nipped off at the surface of the ground during the night. Birds which habitually frequent trees, overlook these worms, but the Meadowlark, living close to the ground, finds and devours them by thousands. The remainder of the insect food is made up of ants wasps and spiders, with some bugs, including chinch bugs, and a few scales, and weevils. So far as the ants are concerned, they may, long ago, have had a certain value in the scheme of creation as a bright and shining example of industry, but that need is long past; and their chief aim nowadays seems to be to make as many unsightly heaps as possible in the orchard and pasturefield and along the roadside. One of their most objectionable characteristics is a sort of uncanny cleverness in locating the sugarbarrel and pantry-shelves, to the disgust of the housekeeper, so it would seem a good idea to level every mound and let the Meadowlark do the rest. Moreover, no one would make any serious objection if the birds ate all the wasps and spiders that keep "jumpy" nerves on the stretch all summer.

THE Meadowlark's vegetable food consists of grain and weed and other hard seeds. Grain in general amounts to 11 per cent, and weed and other seeds to 7 per cent. Grain, principally corn, is eaten mostly in winter and early spring, and consists, therefore, of waste kernels; only a trifle is consumed in summer and autumn, when it is most plentiful. No trace of sprouting grain was discovered. Seeds of weeds, principally ragweed, barnyard grass and smartweed, are eaten from November to April, inclusive, but during the rest of the year are replaced by insects. A strong point in the lark's favor is that, although naturally an insect-eater, it is able to subsist on vegetable food, and consequently is not forced to migrate in cold weather farther than is necessary to find ground free from snow."

To sum up, all the Meadowlark's work being done amongst the "crops upon which man expends his labor, and to which he is compelled to look for his subsistence, the benefit conferred is direct, and should be appreciated. We cannot make any return for the good it does, but we can at least refrain from destroying its life, and exert ourselves a little to prevent others from doing so."

LEARN A WORD EVERY DAY

TODAY'S word is INCONGRUOUS.

It's pronounced in-con-groo-ous, with accent on the second syllable.

It means—lacking in harmony, lacking in consistency, characterized by disagreement or lack of conformity, "not hanging together."

It comes from—Latin, "in," not, and "congruus," similar.

Companion word—incongruity.

It's used like this—"It seems incongruous for a father to chide his son for extravagance when the father himself is a spendthrift."

The BOOKSHELF

EDITED BY CABR

THE BACKSLIDERS. By William Lindsay. New York; Houghton Mifflin Company, Publishers. $1.90

"SIN is not only forgiven but forgotten by God. It is as if it had not been at all. We are 'cleansed from all unrighteousness.' The church should take back the repentant sinner, and forget his sin. The member of the church who points a finger of scorn at an erring brother or sister is guilty of a dreadful wrong. Which one of us could claim the right "to cast the first stone!'" says John Gray in his sermon one Sunday morning.

"What is sin?" Alice Hale asks Gray.

"Sin is the breaking of God's just law," he replied.

"Are there degrees of sin?"

"Yes."

"There are big sins and little sins?"

"There are no little sins. Some sins are greater than others."

"And you dare measure them? Have you the rule, with moral feet and inches marked upon it?"

"I dare to measure sin with the Bible as my guide."

"You dare! Is there a sin immeasurable—unpardonable?"

"Yes—the sin against the Holy Ghost."

"That is what the Bible says, but man has changed it. Man says it is Faith's sin that has no forgiveness. Use your Bible rule and you will find Faith's sin is no worse than lying, stealing or even covetousness."

In those words we have a fairly clear idea of the theme of "The Backsliders." John Gray, a young minister, who had had a very sheltered youth, finds himself in the pulpit of the Methodist Church of Wesley, a little village, confronted with the problem of four backsliders whose names should or should not be dropped from the roll of church membership. Jude I. Burt, one of the backsliders, regularly every Saturday night for ten years had got "drunk." Faith Harding, the daughter of the Deacon, had given birth to a child out of wedlock and refused to tell who its father was.

It is in dealing with these two backsliders and other human problems which came into his life as a pastor of the Wesley Church that the inhuman John Gray became human—and instead of denouncing the girl insists that she should be received with as much rejoicing as was the prodigal son.

The book is a strong plea that families receive the prodigal daughter and cast no more slur upon the girl—if she has repented—than is cast upon the boy who sows his wild oats.

Though the story in its handling of small town characters is clever and delightful, it is not the type of book which should fall into the hands of the youths of this generation.

"Is that so, doctor!" faltered the patient. Then, after a pause, she said: "Before you begin, doctor, I ought to tell you that I really hadn't time to mend that hole in my stocking before I came here."

AVIATOR DIES IN PLANE CRASH

Passenger Escapes From Flaming Wreck With Serious Injuries.

GRAND VALLEY, Ont., April 23.—One killed and another seriously injured is the toll of an airplane accident which occurred near Waldemar about 6 o'clock this evening. Captain Holland of Ottawa, pilot of the air-machine took fire, and Flying Officer Owen, his companion, received injuries the extent of which could not be ascertained tonight.

The accident occurred on the farm of George Gamble, about a mile east of Waldemar. Captain Holland was in charge of the machine, which was one of the latest types in use at Camp Borden. During the return trip to Camp Borden engine trouble developed and a message was sent to Camp Borden for assistance. Another machine was sent down, and after repairs had been made the two machines started back. The ground was soft and muddy and the machine driven by Holland made a bad start. It had scarcely left the ground when it crashed into a tree and lurched to the ground 50 feet beyond. The machine immediately broke into flames. Owen was able to extricate himself, but before Holland could be reached he was burned to death. His body was taken to Grand Valley, where it now lies waiting an inquest, which will be opened tomorrow.

The injured passenger was taken care of by Mr. Gamble. According to the local physician he appears to be suffering from a severe shaking-up and scratched face and some bruises.

Between 3 and 4 o'clock Sunday afternoon they left Camp Borden for London, where they purposed taking photographs for the Government.

This disaster was witnessed by some residents, who rushed to the scene, but by this time Captain Holland had succumbed to his injuries. His body was removed to the undertaker's, and Dr. Campbell of Grand Valley, who had been summoned, dressed the wounds of Officer Owen, who had been taken to the home of Mr. George Gamble at Waldemar. The injured man will be transferred to the hospital at Camp Borden tomorrow morning. The plane, which was fitted wih wireless, is a total wreck.

The late Captain Holland resided at 452 Rideau street. He went overseas in 1916 with the Cyclist Corps, which was disbanded in England. He then joined the Royal Air Force and was sent to Italy in 1917, where he flew continuously till the armistice. He won the Military Cross and also some Italian decorations.

Some time ago he was appointed to the air board, serving first at Camp Borden and later at Ottawa. He was in charge of the Rockcliffe aerodrome at the time of his death.

WILL HIRE WATCHMAN TO PROTECT SUMMER HOMES

Owners of Port Stanley Property to Take Action to Stop Annual Pillaging.

Special to London Advertiser.

ST. THOMAS, April 23.—Cottage-owners on Orchard Beach, Port Stanley, find that many of the cottages have been entered by thieves during the winter and those who left their furniture from last season have suffered considerable loss.

The cottagers feel that there should be more adequate protection of their summer homes during the winter months and it is expected that the services of a competent watchman will be retained next fall.

If weather conditions are favorable next week many cottagers intend moving to the lakeside. Furnishings are already being moved through the city and many places are being rented. The demand for furnished cottages is very great, and real estate men report that no difficulty will be found in leasing all the available properties.

OXFORD COUNTY PIONEER PASSES

CITY BODY HAS SECRET SESSION

No. 4 Committee of St. Thomas Council Exclude Press From Meeting.

Believed Health and Sanitary Department Subject of Discussion.

Special to London Advertiser.

ST. THOMAS, April 23.—A mystery meeting of No. 4 committee was held in the city hall Saturday night, from which reporters were excluded, and the statement of one alderman that the meeting dealt only with the community chest movement is at variance with a rumor to the effect that Health and Sanitary Inspector W. J. Shaw's department was under fire.

Inefficiency Charged.

The agitation regarding Mr. Shaw's department first came to the notice of the public a month ago, when at a council meeting Ald. M. H. Penhale moved a resolution providing for dispensing with the inspector and dividing his work up among other city offices. Inefficiency was charged. The matter was at that time referred to No. 4 committee.

At a meeting of the committee to discuss the matter, Mr. Shaw endeavored to present a statement, but was ruled out of order.

Dog taxes are said to be one of the matters in question, and it is claimed that Mr. Shaw was called on Saturday to prepare a statement of the amounts overdue. It is further declared that several aldermen challenged the inspector with the names of dog owners who were believed to be short in their taxes, but were chagrined to find that according to Mr. Shaw's books all of them had been paid.

Mr. Shaw refuses to commit himself regarding the proceedings of the committee, and will not say whether or not he was threatened with a policeman to make him leave the meeting.

"I will have my say later," was the only comment Mr. Shaw would make when interviewed regarding the charge.

The division of the charity fuel is also believed to have been under discussion, and Mr. Shaw says that he will make a statement and have the matter threshed out in public, even if he has to call a public meeting.

OXFORD COUNTY REGISTRAR PASSES

WAS BORN IN CALEDON

Special to London Advertiser.

WOODSTOCK, April 23.—After an illness of several weeks' duration the death took place in the hospital this evening of George Robson Pattullo, registrar of Oxford County, and one of the most prominent and best-known men, not only of Woodstock, but of the entire county of Oxford.

Was School Teacher.

The late Mr. Pattullo was born in Caledon, Peel County, in 1845. Early in life he moved to Blenheim Township, Oxford County. He received his education at the grammar school here and at Toronto University. Finishing his education he taught school here for a time, following which he took up journalism as a profession, and in 1870 he became editor and proprietor of the Paris Transcript. In the same year he became head of the Woodstock Sentinel and later on, with his brother, the late Andrew Pattullo, took over the Sentinel-Review. He became registrar of the county in 1886, occupying this position until his death.

At one time Mr. Pattullo was regarded as one of the leading journalists of the province. He took a keen and active interest in current events of all kinds. For years he was active in politics, and was secretary of the Ontario Reform Association in 1878. He opposed the late Hon. James Sutherland on two occasions for the North Oxford seat in House of Commons, first in 1879 and again in 1882. Mr. Sutherland was, however, successful on both occasions.

On Boundary Dispute.

He was one of the representatives of the Ontario government in the disputed territory in the days when the boundary dispute was a big issue in both provincial and federal politics and he was first secretary of the Queen Victoria Park Commission at Niagara Falls. At one time or another the late Mr. Pattullo has acted as president of nearly every association in the city, and took a very active part in horticultural and historical matters. He was also president of the Oxford Veterans' Association, and at one time was the head of the Canadian Press Association.

URGA PROCLAIMS INDEPENDENCE

COPENHAGEN, April 22.—Hengsfors dispatches to the Exchange Telegraph Company state that the North Mongolian government at Urga, at the instigation of the Moscow government, has proclaimed Mongolia's independence of China.

The Urga government, says the message, also has concluded a treaty with the Russian soviet government under which the latter pledges active support to Mongolia in the event of Chinese invasion.

HAD BAD COUGH AND SORE THROAT

Never neglect a cough or cold, however slight. If you do, it can have but one result; it leaves the throat or lungs, or both, affected. A single dose of will help to stop the cough, soothe the throat, and if the cough or cold has become settled on the lungs the healing virtues of the Norway pine tree, along with the soothing and expectorant properties of other excellent herbs, roots and barks promptly eradicates the bad effects, and the persistent use cannot but help to bring about relief.

Mr. Albert Marsh, Lower L'Ardoise, N. S., writes: "About a year ago I contracted a cold, accompanied by a very bad cough and sore throat. I sent for the doctor, but what he prescribed did me so little good I began to get discouraged. A friend came to see me and asked me if I had ever used Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup. I told him I had not and sent him right away to get me a bottle. I started using it, and after a couple of days I found I was getting relief, and after taking two bottles the soreness in my throat seemed to be leaving me, so I resolved to continue its use, and after I had used five bottles both my sore throat and cough were gone. I would not be without "Dr. Wood's" for any money."

DO WOMEN WORK AS HARD AS MEN?

Yes. And They Must Keep Well and Strong

Two Interesting Letters

Toronto, Ontario.—"When my husband was called back to England in 1914 I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to strengthen me so I could work. I had a trouble that used to make me weak, but I am able to do my work now and am perfectly satisfied with your medicine. I still get it at the chemist's and I strongly recommend it to anybody I hear of suffering as I did. You may publish this if you wish." —Mrs E. Hornblower, 899 Yonge St., Toronto, Ontario.

I Did Not Feel Like Working

"I was in a general run-down condition with a weak back and a tired feeling so that I did not feel like working. My mother was taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and recommended it to me, so I have taken it and my back is better and I am now able to do my work. I recommend the Vegetable Compound to my neighbors and you may publish my letter."—Mrs. Josephat A. Grenier, Box 47, Carbon, Alberta.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound should be taken when you first notice such symptoms as nervousness, backache, weakness and irregularity. It will help you and prevent more serious trouble. Give it a fair trial.

Aunt Maria Goes a-Visiting; Loses Heart To Fish and Roses

Head lettuce, nice big ones at that, two for a quarter; rhubarb, two and three bunches for 25 cents; strawberries, fresh, crimson and fragrant, 25 cents a small box; tomatoes, firm and perfect, 15 and 20 cents a pound. Aunt Maria almost turned traitor on the spot to the dear old Covent Garden market. She wanted always and always to do her week-end marketing at the St. Lawrence market in the big city of Toronto. She has gone a-visiting, and her fancy just naturally turned to thoughts of markets as soon as she wakened on Saturday morning. "St. Lawrence market," called the street car conductor. Aunt Maria nearly lost her life standing out in the street gazing up at a great sign above a flower-lined arcade, so sure was she a mistake had been made.

Where was the open square, the wagons, automobiles and trucks filled with syrup cans, bags of potatoes, baskets of butter, eggs, vegetables, and even crates of hens and squealing pigs?

Everywhere there was perfume and beauty, a long vista of it, which overflowed on the sidewalk in either direction from the entrance, through which throngs of people hurried.

Had June slipped in unawares? There were baskets of roses, boxes of roses, vases and jars of roses, roses with long stems, heavy-headed roses of deep rose hue, roses delicate pink, white, cream, sunset and crimson.

"I'd rather have them than something to eat," said a shabbily-dressed woman as she looked over the top of an armful of pink beauties to catch the surprised expression in a stranger's eye.

Fifty Cents a Dozen!

Aunt Martha didn't wonder when she learned learned the price a moment later, 50 cents a dozen!

Surely the florist who occupied that particular section had been touched with April madness!

"A special bargain today," he explained.

Down the long, flower-glorified arcade, on each side, in window after window, stall after stall, was discovered just such a "special bargain" in roses.

There were other flowers, too, "ladies" at 75 cents a dozen, Princess Mary's favorite sweet peas, 25 cents a bunch; spicy carnations, 75 cents a dozen; snares of sweetness and loveliness to coax the coin from people before they even had time to get a glimpse of the things necessary to stay the hunger of the family over the week-end.

For the longer-sighted folk, there were shrubs, roots, growing plants, all ready to transfer to gardens, peony roots, starting to shoot, at 5 cents each. Why was it that 25 cents was asked for a hollyhock plant? Then rhubarb in the cellar fails, hollyhock farming looks like a profitable business.

And still the "real" market was not in sight, where the farm women (men, too) come of a Saturday morning. The trail to them led across a huge meat market—and then disillusionment.

It was cold, bunchy and unsociable compared with the basement of the neighborly old Covent Garden market back home. Men, women (mostly), stood with baskets or suit cases open in front of them. There was none of the "settled down for the forenoon" comfort of the long tables with the seats behind.

Perhaps it was an "off day," but the accustomed variety of a "heart of Western Ontario" week-end market was lacking.

"Eggs, lady? Thirty-five cents," said farmer's wife No. 1. "I'll give you eggs for 33 cents," said a keen competitor right next. A woman further along the way calmly demanded 40 cents a dozen.

Pugnacious "Chicks."

Butter seemed to be uniformly 45 cents, and apart from these commodities there was cream at 35 cents and 40 cents a pint.

There was also fowl, but it would not go far towards supplying Sunday dinners for a city of half a million and more inhabitants. Moreover, the "chickens" had an aggressive air. Instead of folding their drum-sticks meekly and reverently against their breasts like the Covent Gardent week-end poultry, they poked out their spurs pugnaciously, and they hadn't the slightest scruples about asking 45 cents a pound for themselves.

"How many pounds?" asked Aunt Maria, when told that a diminutive bird could be purchased for $1.65.

"Three pounds and a half," came the answer. "That makes it 45 cents a pound."

That Jazzy Lobster.

At this point the out-of-town visitor forgot her disappointment over the "basket market" in watching the antics of a real, live lobster—not a human one, but the ugliest bug among all the fishes, which had made a long journey, arriving just that morning from the sea.

"Look out!" a man warned a venturesome boy. "One blow from that lobster claw would take your head clean off."

"I'd rather have mine in a can," groaned a young woman. "I adore creamed lobster and lobster salad, but I never realized before that they were such ugly beasts."

Who said oysters were out of season? They were there, scores of them, all snug in their shells, 35 cents a dozen.

72 Varieties.

And that was only a start on the varieties of fish from sea, lake and river, in the midst of which lobsters did the latest lobster jazz in the Toronto down-town, week-end market.

After white fish, halibut, haddie (12 cents a pound), mackerel (ditto), salmon, herring, a "made-in-London fish-story vocabulary was exhausted.

"Got just 72 varieties of fish fresh in today," said the commander-in-chief of the glorified fish stall. "Everything you see here will be cleaned out by 6 o'clock. The Chinese restaurants will take all that is left by that time at special prices. Our rule is never to offer anything for sale that is two days old.

"You didn't know there were 72 varieties of edible fish obtainable in Ontario? Why, we have seven varieties of flat fish alone.

"And people used to think there was only one! What are they? Sole, flounders, plaice, witches—you don't like the name? They are good eating, though. Then we have megram, brill, chicken haddie and halibut.

"We have fifteen varieties of fish pickled fresh on the boats as soon as they are caught, such as sea trout, mackerel, salmon, cod, herring, and so on.

"You wouldn't like to eat those snails," and the fish magnate glanced at the huge jar bearing the legend "20 cents a quart."

The shells were exactly like those picked up by the old creek, "down on the farm."

"Why, those aren't snails," he said, laughing. "They're winkles; delicious they are. And so are the big ones. No, they aren't grownup winkles. They're whelks. Same price. Eels? We had them early this morning, 10 cents a pound. Cleared right out. here's winter-caught pike. Yes, that's a catfish. Ever eat one?"

"The only kind of fish I ever caught," said Aunt Maria, with vivid recollections of a string and bent pin. "But they threw it back; said it was no good."

A Fine Art.

It was something to know, even after many years, that the one fish of her life had been of commercial value.

Over at the counter a man was skinning and boning fish with lightning rapidity so it seemed to a greenhorn.

"Cleverest man in the world at filleting fish," remarked the Big Chief. "Can skin and bone an ordinary fish in two minutes, and one with difficult bones in two and a half minutes. Was seventeen years with one fish firm in Glasgow. Fish fillets are a specialty with us, and have helped to make fish popular. We sell fresh fish all ready filleted to go in the pan at 20 cents a pound. Think of the time and waste saved! Many a woman who likes to eat fish herself and to serve it to her family, won't buy it because it is so much trouble for one thing, and she dislikes the odor when preparing it for another."

"But doesn't it take a lot of time for your employees?" said Aunt Maria.

"It's all a part of our service system," said the successful fish merchant. "We employ only people who know the business, who can do the work quickly and thoroughly. Do you know why 97 per cent of the people who go into the fish business fail? Because it is a profession, and a fine art, and they don't know it."

A well-attended and delightful affair of Saturday afternoon was the talent tea given in the parlors of St. Andrew's Church under the auspices of the Marian Keith Club, in aid of social service work. The rooms had a spring-like appearance, decorated with streamers of yellow and mauve, with masses of bright flowers used effectively on the various tables. The tea table, which was presided over by Mrs. John Cameron, Mrs. F. W. K. Harris, Mrs. Charles Taylor and Mrs. Frank Ashplant, was centered with yellow tulips arranged in a basket, with yellow candles casting a soft glow. Those who dropped in at the tea hour sat down to small tables decked with tulips, and were looked after by the young girls, frocked in bright colored gowns. The president, Miss Alice Darch, welcomed the many guests who came to aid the club in carrying on their social service work, the chief object at the present being the educating of a high school girl in India.

During the afternoon delightful music was supplied by various members of the club. The conveners in charge of the different tables were: Home-made bread, Miss Mary Marshall; cakes, Miss Dorothy Sartain; candy, Miss Gladys Mitchell.

Cynthia Grey's Mail-Box

Dear Miss Grey,—It is almost a year since I have written to your Mail-Box. I am coming after some flower seeds. I will have a few if you have them. If this lovely weather continues we will soon be sowing seed.

What has happened to "Mother Pearl" and "Anchor." There hasn't been a letter from them for some time. We were visiting at Anchor's last summer. It is a very nice trip, and Anchor made us very welcome. I certainly enjoy the Mail-Box. No matter how sick I am, I can read the letters; they seem to cheer one up. I am inclosing a shinplaster for S. C. H. fund. Hope I am not too much trouble; best wishes to Mail-Box. I will change my name this time.

'ELLEN VANNIN.'

I think it is much more interesting for the Boxites to keep their original names. Why did you change, Ellen Vannin? Many thanks for the hospital mite, and I have forwarded you the seeds asked for.

HAIR TONIC.

Dear Cynthia,—I have not written to your Mail-Box for some time, but I read it every day, and I also like the stories. I am coming to bother you, but I hope I may be of some use to the Mail-Box some time. Would you kindly print the prescription for falling hair, as the paper was mislaid? GLOSSIE.

Hair Tonic—Five ounces bay rum, one-quarter ounce tincture of cantharides, one ounce olive oil, one ounce glycerine. Apply to roots of the hair each night for about a week. Wash the hair every few days while using it, as it makes the hair dry if left on long. Taken from Woman's Page of The London Advertiser about six years ago.

When asking for recipes or directions that appeared in back numbers, kindly inclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

THIRTY-SEVEN STILL RECEIVES HELP.

Dear Miss Grey,—Received parcel from M. E. W. yesterday, containing clothing, also ten cent piedes and candy for the children, and a nice, sympathetic letter also.

Will you please thank M. E. W. for me, through your column, and tell her how much I appreciated the articles and good wishes? How kind of her to think of the children too. They were delighted with the candy, and when they said their prayers last night they asked God to bless the kind lady who was so good to them.

If you will publish this letter, Miss Grey, I will be very much obliged. I would write personally to the donor, but no address was given. Thanking you, yours gratefully, THIRTY-SEVEN.

P.S.—Also received another parcel through your address, Miss Grey, with a generous supply of useful clothes and a very nice letter in it, but no clue as to who sent them, so will you also convey to whoever was kind enough to help us out in our difficulties my heartfelt thanks and gratitude for same.

SENDS BULBS.

Dear Miss Grey,—The dahlia bulbs I promised to send—will try and send you one dozen, half dozen of dainty pink and a half dozen dark maroon red, this week. They are for the Sick Children's Hospital. If any of the readers want any, I have some more. Please give me their addresses. Please send me some flower seeds, different kinds. It is sap time, and I hope you enjoyed maple syrup.

Has anyone a root of English violet that you know of yet, for me? It is a rainy day. I guess the wild flowers will soon be here. Old housecleaning will soon be here too. Some hints along that line would be good. Best wishes.

BLUEBELLE NO. 3.

Many thanks for the dahlia bulbs, Bluebelle. Am mailing you a few seeds which I think you will like. Esme has some violet roots which she will send you.

AMETHYST RETURNS.

Dear Miss Grey,—It is some time since I have written to your cozy corner, although I never fail to read all the letters. Most of the letters lately make one feel sorry for the writer. Everyone seems to be in such trouble. I wish I could help them all. Even if we cannot give in money we can give prayers to God, and they are sure to be answered. I think that is God's greatest blessing. I have felt very sorry for Seven Years Sadness. Don't you think we all have our troubles, and sometimes they seem harder than others. But when you see or hear of others' burdens it makes your own seem lighter. My mother had a very dear friend years ago, and she was such a happy person. Everyone loved her company. She seemed to spread sunshine wherever she went. She was married fifteen years and had two beautiful children, a boy and a girl. The girl was nearly 14 years when the first blow struck their lives. The father and dear, kind husband was taken from them in death, and only a year after their home that he had built was burned to the ground and just a few things saved. Three years later, the girl married and took the mother to live in better circumstances. A year later a baby was coming into their home, and everything seemed happy again, when the young mother died and left a tiny babe for her mother to care for, freshening the grief that was still in her heart. The girl's husband went overseas and married again. The mother still cares for her daughter's child with a song in her heart, knowing some day through her cross she has borne so bravely, through God's will she will receive a crown. Four years after the daughter's death, her only son was out duck hunting and was accidentally shot. You can imagine her grief after so many years of suffering. I could mention other people's burdens, but I think her's seem the greatest, and still she goes on praising God for all his love and mercy. You know, if we do not go through the fire we could never be tried, the same as gold is tried in the furnace. If you have any flower seeds on hand, please send any nice ones you have, as I want a lovely flower garden this year. AMETHYST.

WILL KITTY KELLY WRITE?

Dear Miss Grey,—I have been a silent reader of your page for some time, and certainly enjoy reading the many nice letters, and have also received many useful hints and recipes, as I keep house for my father and brother. My mother has been dead now for twelve years, and as I have no sisters either I get very lonely sometimes. I am eighteen years old and can sincerely sympathize with those who have had dear ones called away from them, as I miss my mother very much, although I only just remember her. But I try to bear my burden and be cheerful for those around me.

I live on a farm, and will be glad when the warmer months come as I like gardening and little out-of-door jobs. I would like to correspond with Kitty Kelly and any others who care to write if they would write first. I will leave my address with Miss Grey.

DAD'S BROWN-EYED HOUSEKEEPER.

We will be pleased to hear from you soon again. I hope you receive some interesting correspondents, as I think it is much more interesting writing to people you have never seen, trying to imagine just what they are like. I have placed your name on file, and anyone wishing to write to you may have it.

LOVES HER GRANNY.

Dear Miss Grey,—The Home Kidd has turned up again after the long cold winter. The frost was so severe here that we got almost all our house-plants frozen. I would like to get some chrysanthemum roots or slips of any other kind of plants. I dearly love flowers, as I haven't anything else to love, only granny. Granny is very kind to me. She says when she dies her daughter will take care of me, but I doubt if it would be all voice and echo between Aunt Nell and me. But, listen, and take it from me, the day that granny goes over the top, the sun will go down at noon on the HOME KIDD.

I am glad you didn't get frozen like the house-plants, Home Kidd. It is so long since you have written I thought maybe you had, but we are glad to have you back again. You must try to like Aunt Nell as much as you do granny, as I am sure she is good to you, too. Wouldn't you like to write to some of the little girls in the Mail-Box, as I think some of them would make nice friends for you. Thank you for the hospital mite.

WANDERING WANNETTA.

Dear Miss Grey,—This is my third letter to your interesting page. We take The Advertiser, and I like the Woman's Page.

I live along the shores of Lake Erie. Near us are the sand hills. They are about 200 feet in height.

I noticed where Jimmie wanted a correspondent. If he will write first I will be very glad to answer all letters.

Well, I guess I will run away. Hoping to see this in print, and wishing all the Boxites great success, I remain

WANNETTA.

P. S.,—Anyone wishing to write will find my address with Miss Grey.

Won't you write us a longer letter next time and tell us more about your home. Any shade of blue should be becoming to you, Wannetta.

WITH THE BRIDES

THOMPSON—ROGERS.

A wedding of interest to many Londoners was quietly solemnized at the home of the bride's parents at Rouleau, Sask., on Wednesday, April 19, at 5 o'clock, when Frances Ella, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. Rogers, became the bride of Norman Stanley Thompson, son of Mrs. Susan Thompson of this city.

Rev. J. G. Sibley of Drinkwater, Sask., performed the ceremony, while Miss Caroline Rogers played Lohengrin's "Bridal Chorus" as the youthful bride entered the drawing-room with her father, who gave her in marriage. The young couple were unattended.

In the drawing-room a profusion of many colored spring flowers were effectively used in decoration, and the ceremony was performed beneath an arch of massed ferns, starred with golden daffodils and tulips.

Very chic was the bride in her traveling suit of larkspur blue with hat to match and dainty sand blouse. A corsage of Sweetheart roses, violets and valley lilies completed her costume.

Following the ceremony a reception took place, after which a dainty wedding breakfast was served. In the dining-room a color scheme of pink and white was carried out. The flower-wreathed bride cake centered the bride's table, where slender vases held pink rosebuds and pink sweet peas. Dainty assistants who looked after the guests were Miss Pearl Miller of Regina, who wore a handsome gown of peach-colored taffeta with touches of silver, and a becoming black hat; Miss Caroline Rogers, sister of the bride, gowned in a pretty frock of navy blue canton crepe with sand embroideries and black hat with clusters of French flowers, and a corsage of American Beauty rosebuds and sweet peas, and Miss Madeleine Jeffries of London, Ontario, in a smart black gown of canton crepe heavily embroidered in white beads, and Belgin blue hat of cellophane straw wreathed in French flowers, and a corsage of Russell roses and violets.

Mr. and Mrs. A. Rogers received with the bride and groom, Mrs. Rogers wearing a handsome gown of figured foulard with smart black hat and corsage of violets.

Later in the evening amid showers of confetti, Mr. and Mrs. Thompson left for Regina from whence they will go on to London, where they will reside.

An interesting guest at the wedding was Mrs. D. Rogers, grandmother of the bride. Other out-of-town guests included Miss Josephine Rogers, Mrs. Claude H. Palmer, Mrs. Walter McInnis and Miss Pearl Miller, all of Regina.

The White Desert

by Courtney Ryley Cooper

BEGIN HERE TODAY.

A father's lack of confidence in his son's ability caused

BARRY HOUSTON to inherit a lumber mill on condition that he maintain a high output. A series of mysterious accidents are preventing this and when young Houston arrives in the Colorado timber lands he finds that his superintendent,

FRED THAYER, has been systematically wrecking his plant. In making the discoveries, Houston has been assisted by

BA'TISTE RENAUD, an eccentric French-Canadian, who quit the practice of medicine and retired to a cabin to forget the double tragedy of his son's death in France and the murder of his wife. He nurses Houston back to health when the latter's automobile plunges over a cliff. Houston, to deceive Thayer, feigns complete loss of memory. In Ba'tiste's cabin, Houston meets

MEDAINE ROBINETTE, a girl who owns the adjoining timber lands. Suddenly, Thayer arrives from the railroad station with

AGNES JIERDON, a girl who has a mysterious hold on Houston.

GO ON WITH THE STORY.

CHAPTER VI

THE woman in the buggy was holding forth her hands to him and he assisted her to the ground.

"Well," she asked, in a sudden fawning manner, "aren't you going to kiss me?"

"Of course." He took her in his arms. "I—I was so surprised, Agnes. I never thought of you—"

"Naturally you didn't." It was Thayer again. "That's why I sent for her. Thought you'd get your memory back when—"

"I've had my memory for long enough—" Houston had turned upon him coldly—"to know that from now on I'll run this place. You're through!"

Three hours later, the last of the men paid off, Barry Houston approached the door of Ba'tiste's cabin. Barry raised his hand to knock—and halted. His name had been mentioned angrily; then again—

"I don't know what it is, Ba'tiste. Fred wouldn't tell me, except that it was something too horrible for me to know. I can't be pleasant to him when I feel this way."

She ceased. Houston had knocked on the door. A second later, he entered the cabin, to return Medaine Robinette's cool but polite greeting.

"I'm afraid I've stayed longer than I intended," she apologized. "It's late. Good night."

Then she was gone. Houston looked at Ba'tiste, but the old French-Canadian merely waved a big hand.

"Woman," he said airily, "peuff! Eet is nothing. Eet will pass. Now, what mus' Ba'teese do?"

"At the mill? I wish you'd guard it for me. I'm going to Denver on the morning train to hire a new crew."

"Ah, oui. It shall be."

The next evening brought Barry to Denver, and the three days which followed carried with them the sweaty smell of the employment offices and the gathering of a new crew. Then, tired, anxious with an eagerness that he never before had known, he turned back to the hills.

With his rough-faced men about him, Houston reached Tabernacle, and started the journey to the mill.

Into the canon and to the last rise. Then a figure showed before him, a gigantic form, running and tumbling through the underbrush at one side of the road, a dog bounding beside him. It was Ba'tiste, excited, red-faced, his arms waving like windmills, his voice booming even from a distance:

"M'sieu Houston! M'sieu Houston! Ba'teese have fail! Ba'teese no good! He watch for you—he is glad you come! Ba'teese ashame'! Ashame'!"

They had reached the top of the rise. Below them lay something which caused Barry Houston to leap to his feet unmindful of the jolting wagon, to stand weaving with white-gripped hands, to stare with suddenly deadened eyes—

Upon a blackened, smoldering mass of charred timbers and twisted machinery. The remainder of all that once had been his mill!

CHAPTER VII.

"EET was my fault!" The French-Canadian still stared at the ruins. "Eet is all Ba'teese' fault—"

"I thought you were my friend, Ba'tiste."

"Sacre! I am."

"Then show it! I've got about fifteen thousand in the bank. There's enough lumber around here to build a new saw-shed, and money to buy a few saws. And I need help—I won't be able to move without you. But—"

"Oui?"

"But," and Barry smiled at him. "If you ever mention any responsibility for this thing again—you're fired. Do we understand each other?"

The next morning Barry went to Denver, and in a week returned to Tabernacle, thence across country to camp.

He found no Ba'tiste but there was something else which held Houston's interest for a moment and which stopped him, staring wonderingly into the distance. A new skidway had made its appearance on the side of the jutting mountain nearest the dam. Logs were tumbling downward in slow, but steady succession, to disappear, then to show themselves, bobbing jerkily outward toward the center of the lake. A thunderous voice was booming belligerently from the distance:

"You lie—un'stan'? Ba'teese say you lie—if you no like eet, jus'—what-you-say—climb up me! Un'-stan'? Climb up me!"

Houston broke into a run, racing along the flume with constantly increasing speed as he heard outburst after outburst from the giant trapper, interjected by the lesser sounds of argumentative voices in reply. Faintly he heard a woman's voice, then Ba'tiste's in sudden command:

FACING HIM WERE FIVE MEN WITH SHOVELS AND HAMMERS, WORKMEN OF THE BLACKBURN CAMP.

Houston, at last made the turn of the road as it followed the flume, and saw the broad back of the Canadian, squared as he was, half across the road. Facing him were five men with shovels and hammers, workmen of the Blackburn camp. Houston looked more closely, then gasped. It was another flume; they were making a connection with his own.

"What's this mean?" he demanded angrily.

The foreman looked up caustically.

"I've told you about ten times," he answered, addressing himself to Ba'tiste. "We're building a connection on our flume."

"Our flume?" Houston gasped the words. "I own this flume and this lake and this flume site—"

"If your name's Houston, I guess you do," came the answer. "But if you can read and write, you ought to know that while you may own it, you don't use it. That's our privilege from now on, in cold black and white. As far as the law is concerned, this is our flume, and our water, and our lake and our woods back there. And we're going to use all of 'em, as much as we please—and it's your business to stay out of our way!"

CHAPTER VIII.

THE statement took Houston off his feet for a moment; but recovery came just as quickly, a recoil with the red splotches of anger blazing before his eyes, the surge of hot blood sweeping through his veins, the heat of conflict in his brain. His good hand clenched. A leap and he had struck the foreman on the point of the chin, sending him reeling backward, while the other men rushed to his assistance.

"That's my answer to you!" shouted Houston.

"Run tell Thayer!" shouted the foreman, and then with recovering strength, he turned for a canthook. But Ba'tiste seized it first.

"Here comes somebody!" Ba'tiste's grip tightened about the canthook and he rose, squaring himself. Houston seized the club and stood waiting a few ftet in the rear, in readiness for anyone who might evade the bulwark of blows which Ba'tiste evidently intended to set up.

A moment more, and Ba'tiste, with a sudden exclamation, allowed his canthook to drop to the ground.

"Eet is Thayer and Wade, the sheriff from Montview, and his deputy. Peuff! Have he fool heem, too?"

The sheriff pulled two legal documents from his pocket, and unfolding them, had shown Houston the bottom of each. Barry's eyes opened wide.

"That's—that's my signature," came at last.

"Yes."

"Then I don't see what you're kicking about. Do you know anyone named Jenkins, who is a notary public?"

"Yes."

"Then look 'em over. If that isn't a lease to the lake and flume and flume site, and if the second one isn't a contract for stumpage at a dollar and a half a thousand feet—well, then, I can't read."

"But I'm telling you that I didn't give it to them." Houston had reached for the papers with a trembling hand. "I don't remember—"

"Didn't I tell you?" Thayer had turned to the sheriff. "There he goes pulling that loss of memory stunt again. That's one of his best little bets," he added sneering, "to lose his memory."

"I've never lost it yet."

"No—then you can forget things awfully easy. Such as coming out here and pretending not to know who you were. You can't even remember the night you murdered your own cousin, can you?"

"That's a—"

"See, sheriff? His memory's bad." All the malice and hate of pent-up enmity was in Fred Thayer's voice now. One gnarled hand went forward in accusation. "He can't even remember how he killed his own cousin. But if he can't, I can. Ask him about the time when he slipped that mallet in his pocket at a prize fight and then went on out with his cousin. Ask him what became of Tom Langdon after they left that prize fight. He won't be able to tell you, of course. He loses his memory; all he will be able to remember is that his father spent a lot of money and hired some good lawyers and got him out of it. He won't be able to tell you a thing about how his own cousin was found with his skull crushed in, and the bloody wooden mallet lying beside him—the mallet that this fellow had stolen the night before at a prize fight! He won't—"

SISTER MARY'S KITCHEN

QUICK BREADS

QUICK breads are always nice to serve with afternoon tea. All women like them and they are much nicer to offer to guests than elaborate filled sandwiches or sweet rich cakes.

Graham flour or bran makes a bread that will be welcomed by the woman who would "eat and grow thin." She may enjoy her cup of tea with lemon and a brown bread sandwich at 4 in the afternoon and not worry over added ounces.

Bran Bread.

One cup whole wheat flour, 2 cups bran, 1 cup sour milk, ½ cup molasses, ½ cup nuts, ½ cup chopped prunes, ½ teaspoon soda, ½ teaspoon salt.

Soak prunes two hours in cold water. Drain and remove stones. Cut in small pieces. Mix flours, add molasses, salt, nuts and prunes. Dissolve soda in milk and stir into first mixture.

Turn into a buttered and floured bread pan and bake an hour in a slow oven. If wanted for sandwiches bake the day before needed.

Nut Bread.

Four cups flour, ½ cup sugar, 6 teaspoons baking powder, 1½ teaspoons salt, 1 cup nuts, 1½ teaspoons salt, 1 cup nuts, 1 2-3 cups sweet milk, 1 egg, ¼ cup finely shredded crystallized ginger.

Mix dry ingredients. Add nuts broken in small pieces and shredded ginger. Add milk and egg well beaten. Bake in a buttered and floured bread pan. Let the dough rise for 20 minutes before putting it in the oven.

Bake half an hour in a hot oven. English walnuts, hickory nuts or pecans should be used.

Brown Bread.

Two eggs, 1 teaspoon salt, ½ cup granulated sugar, ½ cup molasses, 3 cups graham flour, 1½ cups white flour, 2 cups buttermilk or sour milk, 2 teaspoons soda, 1 cup seeded raisins.

Beat eggs well. Add salt, sugar and molasses and mix thoroughly. Stir in white flour. Add one cup sour milk and half the graham flour. Dissolve soda in remaining milk and add to mixture. Add the rest of the flour.

Mix thoroughly and scrape mixture from mixing spoon. Be sure the mixture is perfectly blended. Stir in raisins. Turn into a buttered and floured bread pan and bake an hour in a hot oven. This bread should be baked at least six hours before attempting to make into sandwiches.

Pound baking powder cans make very good round tins for sandwich breads. Don't fill the cans more than half full of the dough.

Date Bread.

One and one-half cups cornmeal, 1½ cups graham flour, 5 teaspoons baking powder, ¼ teaspoon soda, 1 teaspoon salt, 2 tablespoons brown sugar, 3 tablespoons molasses, 1½ cups milk, ¾ cup chopped dates.

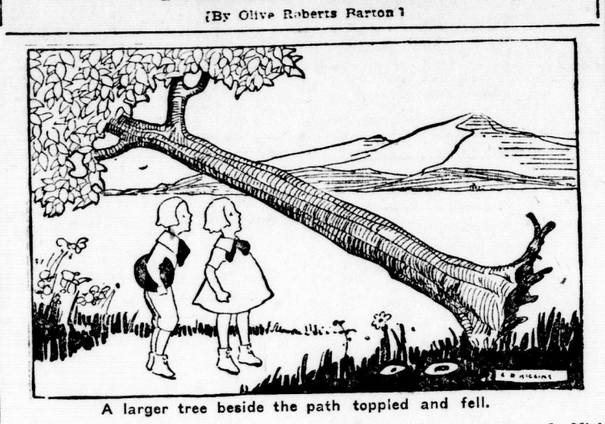

Mix dry ingredients. Add molasses, milk and dates. Mix thoroughly and turn into buttered and floured bread pans. Bake an hour in a hot oven.

ADVENTURES OF THE TWINS

TRICKY TRIXO

[By Olive Roberts Barton]

THE next valley was a terror. The white dove warned the Twins about it.

"No matter what happens," said he, "pretend not to notice, but go straight ahead. The Valley-of-Watch-Your-Step will be sure to try your courage. But no matter what happens, be sure not to scream or cry out. Old Tricky Trixo, the second cousin to Twelve Toes the Sorcerer, and third cousin to Eena Meena the Magician, lives in this valley.

"He has no power over you if you do not show fear. Pretend to notice nothing."

With these words he flew away and the journey began again.

"I don't see anything to be afraid of," scoffed Nick. "This looks like our own lovely meadow at home, doesn't it?"

They were walking over a nice little bridge that crossed a sparkling stream of clear water. But scarcely had the words left his lips when the bridge broke in the middle and down they went into the stream.

Nancy grabbed Nick and Nick grabbed Nancy, but not a sound did they make. Then, just as suddenly as it had gone down, the bridge righted itself again, and the Twins with it. There they were, walking peacefully along as though nothing had happened. They were not even wet.

"D—did the bridge go down?" whispered Nancy, "or was I dreaming?"

"It really did," Nick told her. "Wasn't it queer! It must have been one of Tricky Trixo's tricks."

Before Nancy had time to answer, a large tree beside the path toppled and fell. That is, it nearly fell, and right on top of the Twins at that.

But before it quite reached them it suddenly straightened and stood as firm and graceful as ever, its branches waving quietly in the breeze.

Sheer and Floating Effects Mark The Summer Frocks

THE fact that Paris is using a great deal of lace just now, added to the fact that many lovely frocks are featuring it, indicates that lace of every kind, color and width will be much used this summer.

Spanish laces, in black or white, are still decidedly popular. A new lace which seems destined to enjoy a real vogue this spring and during the early summer is a mixture of silk and wool in a big floral design. This comes in wide flouncing.

To meet the demand for dainty fabrics which float gently, the manufacturers have done their utmost, and the array of chiffons, crepes, embroidered nets, sheer novelty cottons, batistes, voiles and the like is enough to turn the heads of beauty-loving womankind.

The spring of 1922 has witnessed such an orgy of color, following a season of somber black, that it will be no surprise if the brightest colors in wash fabrics are ignored by the woman selecting her summer dresses, and white or sweet pea shades chosen, leaving the high colors for the younger generation, which does not grow so fagged and flushed when the thermometer begins to climb.

White or cream, pale blue, yellow or orchid always look exquisitely cool, and will be worn extensively.

Radio Radiations

Amateurs are requested to make their queries as brief as possible to facilitate the publication and answering of the questions. Address your communications to the Radio Editor, The London Advertiser.

BY THE RADIO EDITOR.

CONTINUING our trip around the circuit with a wireless wave, we find that the spark gap is the next step after the condenser.

The purpose of this gap is to discharge the energy stored up in the condenser in the form of radio frequency oscillations. It also quenches the spark—that is, restores the gap to its non-conducting state when its energy has been passed on to the antenna circuit.

The most popular form of spark gap is the quenched. It has several heavy copper plates separated by insulating washers. These are placed in a rack or holder and pressed tightly together by means of a pressure bolt.

The distance between each copper plate is not over 1-100 of an inch. The sparking surface inside the gap is absolutely airtight to prevent leakage and sparking, which would cause a loss in the output of the current.

Each gap requires about 1,200 volts. Using 20,000 volts approximately 17 gaps would be employed.

Oscillation Transformer.

Next comes the oscillation transformer, consisting of a primary and secondary winding. The primary of this is in the closed circuit (consisting of all parts heretofore described) and the secondary is in the open or antenna circuit.

The function of the oscillation transformer is to transfer the energy from the closed circuit to the open. By means of it the wave length of either circuit can be increased or decreased by varying the self-inductance of either the primary or secondary coil.

When the limit of charge has been reached in the condenser it discharges through the primary winding of the oscillation transformer across the spark gap.

This discharge consists of a number of radio oscillations, the frequency of which will be increased if inductance is reduced to the primary winding or decreased if inductance is added.

A reduction in the capacity of a condenser will likewise increase the frequency of the oscillations and an increase in capacity will reduce it.

RADIO PRIMER

Short Circuit.—An intentional or accidental connection by a conductor across the terminals of an electric generator. A shortening of an electric circuit by touching of two bare conductors in which the current runs in opposite directions.

Radio Editor,—Please tell me the action of the three-electrode tube as an oscillation detector, without the grid condenser? Explain how the radio frequency amplifier is adjusted to amplify damped oscillations.

A. E. J.

Your question is not of general interest to the radio public, and this department cannot take the space to answer it fully, as it would just about fill the whole paper. What you need it a book, and you had better write to the Wireless Press, 326 Broadway, New York. Ask for a copy of Bucher's Vacuum Tubes.

Radio Editor,—Did you ever publish directions for making honeycomb coils? READER.

No directions for making these coils have been published, because they are very difficult to make, and this department believes that the amateurs will do better by purchasing them. If you will study the construction of such a coil you will realize that they are very hard to make.

Radio Editor,—I am making a lightning switch of a bar of copper 10 ins. in length and 1¼ ins. in width. Will you please tell me how to connect it? I am making a loading coil of a Quaker Oats box 7 ins. long and 4 ins. across; what will be the wave length of this coil? My aerial, including the lead-in, is over 100 feet long and 35 feet high. Can I improve it?

ROBERT DEUEL.

A lightning switch cannot be used with an aerial that is used for receiving only. Some form of inclosed lightning arrester is what must be used, and your lightning switch is not necessary. The loading coil that you mention will have a wave length of about 600 to 700 metres, depending on the size of the wire that you use. Your aerial is all right, but one can always be improved. This part of the set is very important, and will stand much experimenting before perfection is reached.

Try Grandmother's Old Favorite Recipe of Sage Tea and Sulphur.

Almost everyone knows that Sage Tea and Sulphur, properly compounded, brings back the natural color and lustre to the hair when faded, streaked or gray. Years ago the only way to get this mixture was to make it at home, which is mussy and troublesome. Nowadays, by asking at any drug store for "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," you will get a large bottle of this famous old recipe, improved by the addition of other ingredients, at a small cost.

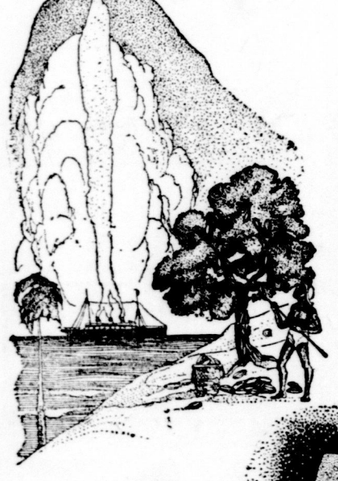

Don't stay gray! Try it! No one can possibly tell that you darkened your hair, as it does it so naturally and evenly. You dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair disappears, and after another application or two, your hair becomes beautifully dark, glossy and attractive. —Advt.

The Secret of their Satin Jackets

You have noticed the delightful smoothness, aroma and flavor of the coating on Moir's Chocolates. Do you know how this velvety texture is obtained?

Moir's do not buy their chocolate coatings. They make their own, importing for this purpose the highest grade cocoa beans.

The cocoa beans are first blended, roasted and enriched with added cocoa butter and then ground in powerful machinery for days at a time until the paste has the smoothness of satin and is so close in texture that the air is excluded and the flavor and delicate aroma of Moir's Chocolates almost indefinitely preserved.

SIX FAST SOCCER TILTS HELD BOARDS SATURDAY

W. O. R.'s Beat Army and Navy Vets' Weakened Team 7--0—Trunk Seniors Beat M. C. R.'s 2--1.

SOCCER RESULTS.
At Carling Heights.
W. O. R.'s 7, Army and Navy Vets 0.
R. C. R. Juniors 2, 12th Battery 0.
At Ontario Hospital.
St. Andrews 1, St. Johns Rovers 1.
At St. Thomas.
United Vets 2, R. C. R.'s 2.
Grand Trunk Juniors 1, St. Johns Rovers 1.

Dr. Hugh Stevenson, M.L.A., made the kick-off at the St. Andrews—St. Thomas Rovers game at the Ontario Hospital grounds Saturday afternoon, which ended in a 1—1 count.

Russell of the Scotsmen was injured at ten minutes of the first half and had to retire. When play resumed the visitors were pressing. Croal got in the way of a wicked shot and was winded for ten minutes. With two men short, St. Andrews lost ground, and after driving back several attacks Marchmont scored for St. Johns. The Scots returned to the attack, but Towers' and Allman's defence work was too good.

St. Andrews had ten men to start the second half, but had the edge on play. Latham headed the ball into his own goal from a mix-up, but a foul was committed before this and the goal was not allowed. St. Andrews were determined to get this goal, and out of a scrimmage a few minutes later Croal scored the equalizer. The Scots kept up their attack, hemming the visitors in their own area, but it didn't show results in the way of goals. Brown refereed a fine game.

The lineups, goal out:

St. Andrews — Adamson, Wilson, Knight, Russell, Whitelaw, Croal, McIntosh, Morgan, Peebles, Owen MacFarlan.

St. Johns Rovers — Towers, Allman, Latham, Robinson, Wise, Paul, Davy, Snowden, Marchmount and Farr.

W. O. R.'s vs. Vets.

In the first game played at Carling Heights between the Army and Navy Vets and W. O. R.'s, the latter won by a score of 7—0. The winners had the Vets 4—0 at the end of the first frame and continued to score until the end of the game.

Although W. O. R.'s had the edge on the Vets the score by no means indicates the play, since the losers put up a sturdy game and gave the regiment team plenty of anxious moments, and their forward line played well. Whitworth, Brumhead and Short were the pick of the victors.

The lineup:

Army and Navy Vets — Spraley, Combs, Farr, Smith, Walmsley, Tavenor, Faulkner, Woodward, McKay, Isom, McHaynes.

W. O. R.—Fuller, Ashton, Dennis, Whitworth, Brumhead, Short, Turner, Hearn, Ridley, Bucham, Angus.

Referee—A. Whitworth.

R. C. R. Tie St. Thomas Vets.

The senior R. C. R.'s tied St. Thomas Vets in a soccer game played there Saturday afternoon. The Vets had the Regulars 2—0 at the end of the first half. Davis brothers scored both goals in quick succession.

In the last part of the final stanza the R. C. R.'s evened the score, Ainsworth and Hill sharing the honors of tallying. Birchell of St. Thomas handled the game.

G. T. R. Juniors 1, St. Thomas Rovers 1

Grank Trunk Juniors played last year's junior champs to a 1—1 tie on the latters' grounds Saturday. Grand Trunks were given the edge of the play by London fans, and in the first 20 minutes scored to prove that contention. The champs knotted up the count ten minutes later on a goal that should have been a goal kick, but which was not seen by Referee Spillsbury, who was unable to get down with the ball.

The line up, goal out—

Grand Trunks—Goddard, Shaw, Morling, Payne, Newman, Malone, Smith, J. Smith, Henderson, R. Saunders, Allday.

INDOOR LACROSSE MAKES BIG HIT

MONTREAL, April 23.—Indoor lacrosse was given its initial tryout here Saturday night at the Mount Royal Arena. Two teams, representing English and French players, battled for an hour, and the result was 13 to 9 in favor of the English team, who added the last four goals in a whirlwind finish in the last ten minutes.

Upsets Golf Dope

PAT O'HARA, the professional of the Richmond Country Club of Staten Island, N. Y., sprang something of a golfing sensation at the recent north and south open championship at Pinehurst, N. C., by winning the title from a very classy field.

O'Hara turned in a score of 220 for 54 holes. The tourney was originally a 72-hole event.

O'Hara had turned in a 69 for his second 18 holes. Shortly after completing his rounds a terrific rain storm set in, preventing a number of other players from finishing their round. It was decided to throw all scores made in the second 18 holes into the discard.

Had the scores made in the second round stood O'Hara would have broken all records at Pinehurst with 289 for the 72 holes.

GALT HOLDS FORMER CHAMPS TO TIE

Westinghouse Opposition For Exhibition Before Small Crowd.

GALT, April 23.—With no league fixture, Galt's senior Provincial Soccer League team Saturday afternoon entertained the crack Westinghouse eleven from Hamilton, and held them to a 3—3 tie in a most interesting game before a small crowd. The weather was disagreeable, a tricky wind prevailing at times, while again it snowed, and the field was slippery. The half-time score was 1—1, and at the opening of the second period the visitors got two counters, one a very lucky one due to a miskick of the Galt goalie. The locals then, by some nice combination, evened the score, and neither team was able to get another counter.

The work of Borland, Galt's new inside right, was the feature of the local team's play. He turned in a beautiful game, and has greatly strengthened the local eleven. Tourlette, the little outside right of Westinghouse, is a speed merchant, and a most dangerous man, two of their goals counting off his perfectly-placed kicks.

The teams:

Smith	"	F. Moss
Tourlette	R. W.	Maley

COLTS BEAT MOOSEMEN

Carmen Hurls 7½ Frames and Hits Ball as Well—Weather Is Chilly.

DELAWARE, O., April 23.—The London colts triumphed here this afternoon, when they furnished the opposition for the Delaware Moose in the opening match of the Moose season, when the Canadians scored 7 runs and allowed the Moose 2. The game started off when Donnelly singled and came home on Carmen's double. The local lodgemen had a blue frame at the outside for only three batters got to the plate, the first and last of the trio striking out, while Pherson's connection was not good for a base. It was Carmen's big day. He had the Delawareans scoreless until late in the eighth, when Loader crossed the plate on Wilson's double. Hixenbaugh replaced Carmen, and he retired the side with a strike-out and allowed a single run in the last frame.

With the stick Carmen doubled once and singled once out of four trips to the plate. Pierce furnished the feature of the afternoon when he was hit by the pitcher three times. Another time he slammed out the horsehide for two bases.

The Colts were looking good and played good consistent ball. The lodgemen went great for the opening game. They registered 14 assists, and although they had 5 errors, no one man errored a second time. The air was a bit cold, despite a warming sun. The crowd was big. Wetzel's regulars defeated Ohio States Friday 5 to 4, while on Saturday they had it soft at Westerville by the hugh score of 28 to 1.

AYLMER GETS IN SOUTHERN COUNTIES

Entry Makes Compact Circuit of Second Last O. B. A. Addition.

WOODSTOCK, April 23.—The question of a fourth team in the Southern Ontario Baseball League has now been definitely settled. At present Stratford, Woodstock and St. Thomas are members. Galt G. W. V. A. applied for a berth, but were turned down. Then the eyes of the executive were turned on London, but the Forest City did not take kindly to the proposition, but just when the members of the executive were scratching their heads as to where they were going to find a fourth team, along comes the Carnation Milk Company of Aylmer and solves the problem by asking for admission to the circuit.

The club will play under the auspices of the Carnation Company, and will no doubt prove strong contenders for the bunting, as they have a habit in Aylmer of taking their baseball seriously. The Aylmer team is favorable to the other three clubs in the league, and Secretary Triller has called a meeting of the league, when the Carnation Club will no doubt be added and the schedule drawn up. The date and place of the meeting has not yet been named. The playing season will begin on May 24.

WITH AMATEUR NINES

Now that the Inter-Club League is an O. B. A. group, the team managers have already started to figure out how they can strengthen up still further. Senior O. B. A. is very little removed from the minor league brand of ball, and it will take a real team to get very far into the semi-finals. However, the local simon pures are determined to have a good big crack at getting somewhere their first year out.

* * *

The Orient Club, winners of the Martin-Lyons trophy last year, emblematic of the inter-club championship, are out again this season with most of the veterans back and much good tryout material in sight.

* * *

Some of the John Henrys they have in the club safe are: A. Gillies, Jack Smith, H. Down, G. Southcott, Fred and John Burgess, "Dutch" Logan, Tom Moylan, Doc Cline, Yank Flint, Lloyd Reilly, Dago Henry, Frank Tucker.

* * *

* * *

Those who met the representatives of the Southern Counties League at Friday night's meeting, were much impressed with the pep and enthusiasm they displayed. That they've got Aylmer lined up, is good news, for they deserved to get a turn in luck after being threatened with a three-team circuit, on their hands.

* * *

Incidentally, the locals are likely to be more interested in the Southern Counties later on in the season, for it's the policy of the O. B. A., as it is the O. H. A., to arrange the play-offs as economically as possible and the local winners will probably be paired with the Southern winners.

* * *

A winner must be declared in every group by Aug. 1, or probably earlier, so this will mean that the second half of the local series will have to be cut off.

GUELPH LOSES 1--0 IN OPENER

GUELPH, April 23.—Sons of England soccer team of Hamilton defeated the Taylor-Forbes eleven of this city by 1 to 0 in the opening game of the Provincial Football League this afternoon. A strong wind was blowing across the field in the early stages of the match, and the players experienced considerable trouble in controlling the ball in the first half. The weather brightened up after half time, however, and the remainder of the match was featured by good snappy football. With the wind in their favor in the opening half the visitors scored the only goal of the game, Duke drilling the ball past Lawson on a shot from close in. A fair sized crowd braved the cold atmosphere to witness the match.

O. B. A. Executive Meets.

At the first meeting of the executive committee of the O. B. A. A. held since the annual meeting there were ample evidences of very decided expansion of the activities of the association, and everything points to this being the banner year of this organization. The meeting was held on Saturday afternoon, and with one exception every member of the executive was present. The chair was occupied by P. M. Kennedy, the new president, and the others present were Robbin, Hamilton, past president; D. F. MacFarlane, Harriston, first vice-president; Wm. J. Snyder, Hamilton second vice-president; A. J. Walsh, Toronto, treasurer; W. J. Smith, Toronto, A.A.U. of C. governor; M. B. Dulmage, Guelph, secretary; C. R. Penhold, Guelph; R. W. Sharp, Picton; J. J. Solomon, Peterboro; H. Maguire, St. Catharines, and E. H. Jarvis, Owen Sound.

One of the important matters of business dealt with was the acceptance of the applications of a number of leagues for admission into membership, and as in each instance their fees were paid they were accepted as follows: Border Cities Intermediate League, Norfolk County League, Peterboro City League, North Hastings League, Hamilton Count League, Inter-Club League of London. The secretary reported that considerable organization work is in progress, and that he expected several other leagues in Western Ontario to affiliate during the next week or two. The amateur baseball players throughout the country are realizing more and more the necessity and the value of operating their leagues under a parent organization, and the O. B. A. A. will be larger and will cover more ground than ever before. Among the routine matters taken up was the application from the members of the Knights of Columbus team from Niagara Falls, who were suspended last fall after being put out of the senior race for playing against a semi-pro aggregation from the United States side of the river. At the annual meeting of the O. B. A. A., this matter was referred to the Niagara District League to investigate and report back to the executive.

This was done, and the report which was presented on Saturday recommended that the players be reinstated. It was found that the report which accused some of these players of partiipating in basketball and other amateur sports during the winter under assumed names was false. From the information presented to the committee, and after hearing representatives from Niagara Falls on their case it was apparent to the committee that the chief cause of their troubles was W. J. Gaynon, business manager of the club last year. After a long discussion it was finally decided to recommend to the A. A. U. of C. that these players be reinstated with the understanding that the officers of the Knight of Columbus Council of Niagara Falls give their personal written guarantee that Mr. Gaynon will have nothing whatever to do with the team in any capacity, and that they will become personally responsible for the behavior of the members of the team, and also none of them shall participate in a game on Sunday.

It was felt that this was the best action to take as being in the interests of amateur baseball in Niagara Falls and the Niagara District League. There were a number of applications for reinstatement presented and dealt with, Stanley Sutton, Toronto, will be asked to appear personally before the sub-committee at its next meeting. The applications of F. Eale, Angus Pennock, Harry Kerr, C. G. Hoose, Thos. E. Ashton, H. Morley, all recommended by the T.A.B.A., were sent on to the A. A. U. of C. with a favorable recommendation. The application of J. R. McKelvey of Brantford was laid over for further information, and the application of Wm. McMahon of Brantford, who played under an assumed name in 1920, was ordered sent on to the A. A. U. of C. with a favorable recommendation. Nelson Henry of Guelph, who was suspended as being a tourist, was also reinstated, his application having been passed by the registration committee of the A. A. U. of C. on Tuesday night last, and was confirmed at this meeting and his card issued. Dr. B. V. Hunt of Wolfe Island, who was suspended several years ago for playing pro hockey, is seeking reinstatement, but his case was sent on to the A. A. U. of C. without any recommendation, as the hockey authorities will have to deal with his case first.

President Roxborough of the T. A. B. A., requested the association to keep an eye on the Toronto players who were being sought after by the Leaside team in the Central Ontario League.

Mr. George C. Walker, formerly secretary of the O.B.A.A., was present and was appointed as an organizer.

SOVIET RUSSIA SIGNS 75 PACTS

Agreed To Three Others Under Duress Since Revolution of 1917.

Persia Willing To Allow Reds To Invade Country To Fight Enemies.

MOSCOW, April 23.—Soviet Russia, despite its isolation, has signed 75 voluntary treaties, agreements and conventions with foreign powers since the revolution of 1917, it is announced by an official state publication recounting the progress made by the Bolsheviki toward world recognition. This list does not include three compulsory conventions, such as the treaty of Brest-Litovsk, which were concluded under duress.

The treaties are arranged in three groups, the first of which were concluded with the so-called independent Soviet republics; the second with states bordering on Russia, and the third with states of Western Europe, including England and France.

The only agreement between Soviet Russia and the United States is the one signed last August with the American relief administration for the feeding of Russia's starving millions in the famine districts.

Twenty-one treaties are embraced in the first group between the Soviets and Armenia, Azerbaijan, Bukhara, Georgia, Ukraine, White Russia and the Far Eastern Republic. In general, according to the official publication, those alliances provide for the unification of various departments of the several governments with Russia.

Treaties between the Soviets and the border states comprise 31 agreements concluded with Finland, Esthonia, Letvia, Lithuania, Poland, Rumania, Turkey, Afghanistan, Mongolia and Persia. The most important of these, the publication declares, is the treaty with Persia, which provides that Russia may send armed forces into Persian territory should a hostile nation at any time attempt to attack the Soviets from that quarter.

Repatriation of military and civil prisoners and re-establishment of trade are dealt with almost exclusively in the third group. Trade agreements have been concluded between Soviet Russia and England, France, Germany, Sweden, Norway and Italy, as well as agreements of one kind or another with Austria, Belgium and Hungary.

THE HAGUE, April 23.—Grand Duchess Marie of Mecklenberg-Schwerin died late last night. She was the mother of Prince Henry of Mecklenberg-Schwerin, consort of Queen Wilhelmina.

LONDON, April 23.—Typhus has broken out in Birkenhead, near Liverpool, thirteen cases being reported there and three deaths having occurred, according to information received here.

If the disease shows indications of spreading, stringent inspection of British emigrants will be undertaken by the health authorities in London.

GENEVA, April 23.—The opium commission of the League of Nations yesterday discussed a system of importation certificates whereby the issue of permits for the export of dangerous drugs will be subject to the production of import certificates delivered by the government of the country to which they are consigned. The commission adopted a model certificate. The council of the league will be asked to propose the date September 1 for the introduction of the system in Europe and America, and January 1 for the Far East and Australia.

PARIS, April 23.—A determined effort by the police to put a stop to the fraudulent selling of alabaster statues for works in marble was undertaken today. A number of statuary houses were visited by agents of the fraud service, and statues were taken for examination. All the works from one large store when examined in the laboratory of the minister of agriculture proved to be made of alabaster.

FIUME, April 23.—Former President Zanella of Fiume has sent a message to Premier Facta, saying:

"I consider it my duty to inform you that the legally constituted government of Fiume has not authorized anyone to treat in the name and for the city of Fiume, still less to stipulate agreements for ports and railroads. Fiume cannot recognize as valid, or as entailing any responsibility, these negotiations and agreements without its legal participation and acceptance."

MOSCOW, April 23.—A session of the all-Russian central executive committee has been called for May 5, to discuss a projected decree for the curtailment of the Red army in the event the Genoa conference is satisfactory.

Other projected decrees to be discussed, says the official announcement of the calling of the gathering, will be with regard to land ownership, the fundamental laws regarding the rights of property, tax laws and court procedure.

MEXICO CITY, April 23.—Acting under orders of President Obregon, Gen. Guadalupe Sanchez, chief of operations in the state of Vera Cruz, has left for the Huatusco region to give battle to Francisco Gorozave, who began an uprising several days ago.

Gorozave, a Spaniard, who for many years was identified with Gen. Manuel Pelaez, now military governor of Tamaulipas, is understood to have more than 300 men in his command.

It is understood that Gen. Sanchez has also been ordered to supervise the immediate demobilization of the White Guards maintained by many oil companies in the Tampico region for protective measures. These will be replaced by federal troops.

MADRID, April 23.—"Would you have the goodness to ask the secretary to speak on the telephone?" This message, received by the page telephonist of the Military Club of Madrid, so astounded him by its exquisite politeness that he thought one of the other boys was having a joke with him. He therefore replied genially: "Hold the line, old man (or the Spanish equivalent), and I'll give him to you."

To his horror, the secretary addressed the person who had rung up as "Your Majesty."

Shortly afterward a message came that the page was to go to the palace. There the king received him and gave him a 100-peseta note, saying laughingly: "There you are, old man," and invited him to spend the rest of the afternoon at the palace with the royal children.

BUDAPEST, April 23.—The recent decree of the minister of finance permitting landowners to pay taxes on real estate and farm by turning over a certain percentage of land to the government is meeting with great success. The government expects within a few months to be proprietor of 200,000 acres of land, which it intends to distribute among farmers and peasants on the payment of nominal sums practically amounting to no more than rental fees.

The government's desire is that Hungarians returning from abroad with small cash deposits may become owners of farms. The measure applies to Hungarians who have adopted an alien nationality.

Get the Cream of the Trade

Order New Styles by Long Distance

"What lovely styles! How do you manage to get all these delightful novelties?" said the new customer as she looked around her.

"I got tired of seeing my customers boarding the trains to buy elsewhere, just because I didn't have some novelty that was being advertised."

"Whenever a new style makes a decided hit, the wholesaler or manufacturer's salesman calls me on Long Distance and tells me about it, and I order a few."

"I haven't seen prettier veils, smarter stockings or gloves, or more fashionable organdies, georgette-crèpes or ginghams anywhere. And I see you have the new music, too. How perfectly splendid. They leave me no excuse at all for going up to town to buy."

That's just one of the many things Long Distance does for small-town merchants, enabling them to obtain new styles immediately and cater to the progressive people in their town —the cream of the trade.

Dry Goods, Hardware, Grocery, Paint, and Shoe Stores find it pays them to buy small stocks of the new things people are asking for, and reorder by Long Distance at Station-to-Station rates.

SARNIA HONORS YPRES HEROES

VETERANS HOLD PARADE

Special to London Advertiser.

SARNIA, April 23.—In an afternoon of clear spring sunshine such as prevailed on the day seven years ago when the 1st Canadian Division stepped into the breach at the famous Ypres salient, all Sarnia, seemingly, turned out for the memorial service and parade in commemoration of the seventh anniversary of the battle.

Capt. (Rev.) J. F. Tupper, known to the troops overseas as "the fighting padre," and now chaplain to the Canadian Air Force at Camp Borden, was brought to the city as the principal speaker at the service by the local branch of the Grand Army of United Veterans, under whose auspices the commemoration was held.

Order of Parade.

The parade left the city hall square in the following order: Dominion Mounted Police, civic officials, Sarnia and Point Edward; Sarnia City Band; Machine Gun Company; Ypres veterans, under Col. W. J. Bentley; ex-service veterans; Boy Scouts and Wolf Cubs.

—From Comrades at Ypres.

The memorial service was held at the Imperial Theatre, with an audience of 1,500 people present.

Senator F. F. Pardee was the chairman, and, in a brief speech, paid appropriate tribute to the occasion. He was supported on the platform by Capt. Tupper, Col. W. W. MacVicar, Rev. R. Weaver, Rev. Canon Davis and others.

Urges High Ideal.

In the course of a very fine address, Capt. Tupper urged his audience to so live as to insure that the price paid by departed comrades should not have been paid in vain. Canada would then prosper and peace be established on earth.

The fourteen Sarnia men, ex-veterans of Ypres, were Lieut.-Col. W. J. Bentley, C. A. M. C.; Sergt.-Major A. E. Owens, Sergt. F. G. Russell, Sergt. F. J. Carlon, M.M., J. T. Crooks, Hugh Fleming, M. H. McAllister, J. Travis, J. F. Foster, J. Lethbridge, J. S. Wilson, H. Laidler. About 100 ex-service men paraded.

The parade was remarkably well organized under the direction of W. G. Ewener and others of the Grand Army United Veterans.

St. Thomas Topics

Special to London Advertiser.

ST. THOMAS, April 23.—The motorist who on Friday evening narrowly escaped being struck by an L. and P. S. car will face a charge of reckless driving. The man's number was taken on Talbot street west by an officer, who noticed that the speed limit was being disregarded, it is alleged. The crossing watchman reported that he had given his signal in the usual way, but that the man ran through it and would undoubtedly have been seriously injured but for the quick action on the part of the motorman.

He was elected in the last provincial election by a large majority.

DESPONDENT FARMER TAKES HIS OWN LIFE

WALKERTON, April 23.—John C. Reilly, 41 years old, one of the most prominent of Brant Township farmers, was found hanging from a beam in the barn of a neighbor by a piece of fabric belting, which he had noosed around his neck. Life was extinct when he was found.

Deceased had been despondent of late on account of ill-health, and it is believed that brooding over this induced him to commit his rash act.

Immediately on discovery help was summoned, the body cut down and efforts made to revive Reilly, but these proved unavailing, death having already occurred. Coroner Brown of Chesley was notified, who viewed the remains, the scene of the occurrence, and decided an inquest was unnecessary. He ordered the removal of the body to the Reilly home on concession 14, where the deceased had resided for the past ten years.

Mr. Reilly is survived by his widow, seven small children, one brother and two sisters.

IRENE, YEAR'S BEST, SCORES AT GRAND

IRENE DUNNE PLEASES

All the tuneful, lilting melodies of "Irene" ran through one's head for hours after hearing the performance at the Grand Theatre, Saturday afternoon, and all the lithe dancing with which "Irene" abounds left a vivid impression of slim grace and beauty.

Irene Dunne made an entirely captivating "Irene O'Dare." She could dance like a dream, had a sweet voice, which seemed just made for the songs she sang, and above all she had a winsome prettiness which claimed the audience even on her first appearance, with an ugly red hat and a suit that was never in the wide world made to fit her, and adding a finishing touch, a huge hole in her cotton stockings.

Wins From Start.

In the second act in her "Alice Blue Gown," she was the prettiest of anything to be imagined and won her audience, just as in the story she was supposed to win the hearts of all who met her. It mustn't be thought for a moment that it was Irene's prettiness alone which made her so attractive. She could act as well, and with remarkable cleverness she changed all in a second from the inimitable slang of the shop girl to the langorous accent of the society damsel.

Rollin Grimes, as Donald Marshall, a rich young man, who is the means of lifting Irene from the ranks of the shop girl to associating with people of a wealthy class, and finally marries her, fitted entirely with one's conception of what a lover for Irene O'Dare should be. He was gravely good looking and he sang very well, so that one was pleased to see him win the lovely Irene rather than any of the other numerous swains who were so anxious for her hand.

The most completely humorous character in "Irene" was Busby Berkeley as Madame Lucy, and there was characterization of the cleverest sort. "Madame Lucy" was a "gentleman modiste," and his effeminate speech and mannerisms, his take-off of the airs and graces of mannequins, and in short, his whole performance proved one of the most delightfully comic features of "Irene." He could dance nimbly and gracefully, and during the second act, while the chorus is executing a dance, "Madame Lucy" throws up his hands, and exclaiming "Spring is here," trips lightly about the stage in a sort of Grecian nymph style, a little bit of by-play, which the audience would have liked to have had prolonged.

Emma de Weale as Mrs. O'Dare, Irene's mother, acts cleverly the role of the stout Irishwoman, and was laughably ludicrous in her appearance during the last act in her "fine feathers." She is a good-hearted soul and one likes her deep love for Irene, disguised somewhat as it is by her rough brogue.

Dances Pleases.

Delightfully pretty and graceful were Irene's two friends, Helen Cheston (Beatrice O'Connor) and Jane Gilmour (Mary Moore), and they executed dancing which added not a little to the completeness of the production.

The costumes and scenery of the production were colorful and beautiful. The chorus was equally colorful and beautiful, and altogether superlatives don't begin to express one's favorable impressions of "Irene," easily the best musical comedy seen in London this year.

SENTENCES WINDSOR BOYS

WINDSOR, April 22. — Jerome Masse, Thomas Brothers and William Fuller, the three 17-year-old youths arrested by Windsor police 10 days ago in connection with store robberies at Windsor, Leamington and Maidstone, were sentenced to serve not less than one year or more than two years each in the Ontario Reformatory, by Magistrate Gundy in Windsor police court today. They robbed the store of H. Weingarden and Son, Wyandotte East, of a coat and several pairs of gloves. They snatched these articles from the window after hurling an automobile glass through the plate glass. At Leamington they robbed the Parkinson haberdashery store and took $500 worth of small wares. The bulk was recovered. The Halford general store at Maidstone was also broken into by the youths. They used two stolen motor cars to carry out the raids.

STATES ELECTION UNDECIDED.

HAMILTON, April 22.—When asked this morning as to the report that he would be elected to the board of Canada Steamship Lines, Robert Hobson, president of the Steel Company of Canada, said nothing had been settled yet. J. P. Steedman, a director, said the matter would probably be dealt with at the company's meeting on Monday.

CLAIMS GUILT WHICH HIS BROTHER BEARS

Montreal Man Confesses to Crime Committed Two Years Ago.

MONTREAL, April 22. — Joseph Lorrain was yesterday committed to stand trial for the crime for which his brother, Emile, is serving 15 years in the penitentiary. The crime was perpetrated over two years ago and since then Emile has been an inmate of St. Vincent Penitentiary.

Two weeks ago Joseph Lorrain, overcome with remorse confessed that he and not his brother was guilty. Efforts are being made to secure a new trial for the man in prison and should he succeed it is more than likely that both brothers will appear at the June term of the court of king's bench.

Meanwhile Joseph is out on bail, having entered a formal plea of not guilty, as such a plea is required by law in capital cases. The crime in question was an attack on a young woman of about 22 years, who was present in Judge Monet's court yesterday and testified as to the time and place of the assault.

She added that Emile had been found guilty on her evidence. R. L. Calder, for the defence, then produced an affidavit containing the confession of Joseph and signed by him.

PROMISES TO OBEY RULES.

KITCHENER, April 23—The Kitchener-Bridgeport Bus Service manager was again in police court here yesterday as a result of information to the effect that he was continuing to pick up and discharge passengers within the city limits. He was allowed to go after he had given a final promise that he would conform with the city bylaw, and carry only through passengers between the two places.

WOULD PREVENT FIRES IN FOREST

Maritime Lumber Operator Offers $1,000 For Essays On Forestry Problems.

Moved To Action by Devastation Wrought by Flames and Worms.

ANNAPOLIS ROYAL, N. S., April 23.—In order to encourage public interest in forest conversation, Frank J. Barnjum, well-known lumber operator of this town, has offered a series of prizes for essays on forestry problems, and also for practical experiments in reforestation.

Mr. Barnjum offered a sum of $1,000 for a competition, open to any citizen of Canada, the prizes to be divided as follows: $500, first prize; $250, second prize; $150, third prize, and $100, fourth prize, for the best essay on the regulation of the forest fire menace, with suggestions for the enactment of laws for the prevention of the same; or for any other methods of protection and retention of our home-grown forests for our home industries; judges to be the two provincial foresters of Quebec and New Brunswick, the dean of the faculty of forestry of the University of Toronto, and the director of the Dominion forestry branch, essays to be mailed to Mr. Barnjum's address on or before June 1, 1922; prizes to be awarded and paid July 15, 1922.

For the help and information of those who are not familiar with this particular subject, Mr. Barnjum will mail his bulletins on conservation free on application.

"Owing to the tremendous devastation wrought by the spruce bud worm and forest fires," says Mr. Barnjum, "I am moved by the urgency of the situation to make further offers applying in the provinces of New Brunswick and Nova Scotia."

In each of these provinces Mr. Barnjum offers a prize of $250 for the best municipal or town forest plantation; plantation to be made this spring, and prizes awarded Sept. 15, 1922; and also a prize of $250 for the chief fire ranger whose district shows the most efficient organization and the best results.

Mr. Barnjum also offers a cash bonus of $2 per acre to the farmers of Nova Scotia for every acre of spruce or pine seedlings planted by them on their lands this spring, no one farmer, however, to be paid a bonus on more than 100 acres.

WORLD'S HOPE IS MIDDLE COURSE

LONDON, April 22.—(Canadian Press Cable.)—The political world here is very much interested in a long declaration of Lord Robert Cecil's views, in which he says that the progress and stability of the country lie in the middle course between the revolutionaries and the reactionaries.

"Our policy should be based on that of the League of Nations," he says, "with its belief that force is no remedy." He condemns class war, and says the worker is entitled to a voice in the direction of industry. He advocates complete freedom of exchange.

Several papers, in editorial comment on Lord Robert Cecil's published views suggest that he should definitely enter the lists as a Liberal.

REPORT DECREASE OF STORAGE GRAIN

FORT WILLIAM, April 23.—With the opening of navigation the stocks of all grains, with the exception of rye, have decreased a little in the elevators at the head of the lakes, the actual decrease being about a million bushels. Four million bushels of grain in cars have been placed in the elevators and no sudden decrease in stocks will occur until some of the large lake boats arrive. Boats loaded to date have been of the smaller capacity.

Ridicules French Claim That Fleas Are Essential Need in Life of Dogs

DETROIT, Mich., April 23.—Edward Noyes Westcott made David Harum offer the opinion that fleas were a provision of Divine Providence to keep a dog from brooding too much on the fact that he is a dog. The world took it as a joke and let it go at that.

But now a Paris dog specialist says that fleas are necessary to the health and spirit of dogs. After observing fleas and dogs for many years in their relations to one another, he announces his coldly calculated belief that if dogs are denied their quota of fleas they will fall into a negative mental state from which there is no relief.

Dr. James Murray, Grosse Pointe authority on dogs, jumps on the French exponent of fleas and says his theory does not come up to scratch.

"Fleas are no more essential to a dog than cooties are to a soldier," he asserted. "Fleas show that the owner is neglecting his dog. Fleas will often ruin a dog's health by keeping him thin and souring his disposition. His constant scratching is likely to cause skin trouble and infection.

"A dog does have a mental life just as humans do. He needs a variety of mental stimuli to keep him even tempered and to occupy his mind.

"Flivvers, not fleas, keep a dog's mind alert. He is kept too busy dodging automobiles to need any further prodding from the insect world. Many house dogs suffer from lack of exercise and mental stimulus. The remedy is to satisfy a dog's itch for the freedom of the out-of-doors and not to inflict a quantitative one on him."

DEAN R. M. BRADY DIES IN BRANTFORD

WAS BORN IN QUEBEC

Received Doctor's Degree From Laval University After Coming to Brantford.

Special to London Advertiser.

BRANTFORD, April 23.—Death overtook Very Rev. Dean R. M. Brady of St. Basil's Roman Catholic Church at the deanery here last evening at 9:45. He had been suffering for a short time with pleuro-pneumonia and last night he was taken worse and passed away. It was thought that he was making progress for the better up until yesterday when he had a relapse and the end came last evening.

Dean Brady was born in St. Antoine Abbey, Quebec, May 1, 1851, of farmer parents and received his education in St. Theresa College, near Montreal, later going to the Grand Seminary, Montreal, to complete his studies and be ordained into the priesthood.

He was then sent to the diocese of Hamilton under Bishop Dowling and became attached to the staff of the cathedral, later becoming the pastor of St. Lawrence Parish in East Hamilton.

Extended Parish Work.

Here he accomplished much, erecting a church, school, convent and priest's home, which will ever remain as a memorial of his excellent work there. After 20 years there he was transferred to St Basil's with the role of dean, where he remained until his death last evening.

He was an ardent student of astronomy, being president of the Hamilton Astronomical Society. After coming to Brantford he was made a doctor of divinity by Laval University in recognition of his service with the church.

He leaves besides his loving parishioners, one brother and two sisters, Rev. Father Brady of Montreal, Mrs. Ryan of Montreal and Mrs. Ryan of Kennilworth, his mother having predeceased him about two years ago.

Hold Funeral Wednesday.

The funeral will be held on Wednesday morning from St. Basil's Church. Vicar-General Kelly of Dundas will represent Bishop Dowling and he will sing the solemn high mass of requiem over the deceased dean.

The body of the dean will lie in state to enable his parishioners to view the remains of one whom they loved as they did themselves. It is expected that his remains will be interred near the grave of his father and mother in Quebec.

EXPECT LEGISLATURE TO END DEBATE THIS WEEK

Ontario Budget Discussions May Be Concluded in Few Days.

TORONTO, April 23.—There is little doubt that the Legislature will wind up the budget debate this week, although not perhaps as early as Tuesday, by which time the government hopes the provincial treasurer will be able to make his concluding utterances.

Although there is plenty of legislation awaiting discussion, it is also probable that some new government measure will be presented to the house toward the end of the week.

Various heralded measures from the attorney-general's department have yet to receive their initial reading, notably some proposed amendments to the Ontario temperance act. It is understood that the returns regarding the Nipigon situation, which have been holding up the adjourned debate on that topic, are now ready for submission, so that the house may, if it sees fit, proceed with the debate during the week.

Still, there is no intimation of the debate on the premier's hydro-radial bill getting under way. That discussion, which is likely to be of a vigorous and lengthy character, will probably be held over until a host of minor matters are out of the way.

'SIBERIA ANGEL' AIDS DERELICTS

Will Round Up German Soldiers Wandering Aimlessly Through Russian Snows.

STOCKHOLM, April 23.—A refuge of rest and physical rehabilitation where the human wrecks of German war prisoners from Russia and Siberia may be treated and salvaged is being purchased by Miss Elsa Brandstrom, known throughout Central Europe and Russia as "the Angel of Siberia."

Miss Brandstrom is negotiating for a village in Southern Germany, which she proposes to turn into a human reclamation camp for the derelicts that once marched proudly under Hindenburg and other Teutonic military leaders against the Russians, and were captured and sent to Siberian concentration camps.

They remained in Siberia till long after the world war was over and there are still thousands of them left, free to return home if they could. But they have neither the means nor the physical strength to do so.

Miss Branstrom is a young Swedish Red Cross nurse, the daughter of the late General Edvard Brandstrom, for many years Swedish minister to Russia, under the Czar's regime. Leaving her comfortable home in Stockholm and the aristocratic social set in which she had been brought up, she led a small Red Cross expedition into Western Siberia, and has succeeded in repatriating thousands of German and Austrian war prisoners.

But she found that when the former soldiers reached their homes they were unable to assume their former places in society. They were wrecks that had to be attended to.

So she has collected a considerable fund, and hopes to purchase a village and have it ready for occupancy this autumn.

As to the war prisoners still wandering about Russia and Siberia, many of them will never be found, and none of them will ever be able to get back without outside aid. Miss Brandstrom proposes to continue rounding up these waifs and bring them to her haven of rest.

PLANT MEMORIAL TREES

Montreal Women Honor War Heroes By "Road of Remembrance."

MONTREAL, April 22.—With full military ceremonial and in the presence of a gathering reperesentative of every phase of the city's life, the inaugural planting of trees in the "road of remembrance," took place today.

The Road of Remembrance, planned and carried out by the Montreal Women's Club, is to extend from Claremont Avenue to Montreal West on Sherbrooke Avenue.

Norwegian maple trees have been selected for planting and each tree will keep green the memory of a soldier, sailor or nurse.

Among those to be commemorated are Edith Cavell, the nurse who was court-martialled and shot by the Germans, and the Montreal nurses who perished when the Llandovery Castle was torpedoed, Miss Hare and Miss Fortescue of the Montreal General Hospital and Miss Alexina Dussault of the Royal Victoria Hospital.

WORK IN S. AFRICA RESUMES SLOWLY

LONDON, April 22.—(Canadian Press Cable.)—The Johannesburg Star, according to a Reuter dispatch from Johanesburg today, says the absorption of the unemployed in that part of South Africa is proceeding more slowly than had been generally hoped for. One of the contributory causes is that the natives are somewhat tardy in returning to the mines. There is an enormous amount of misery and discontent, and a bitter feeling exists, especially among the large number of unemployed who were participants in the recent strike.

Another feature of the situation in the Johannesburg district is the widespread allegation that the unemployed who were on strike at the time the revolt broke out, are being made the victims of the powers that be.

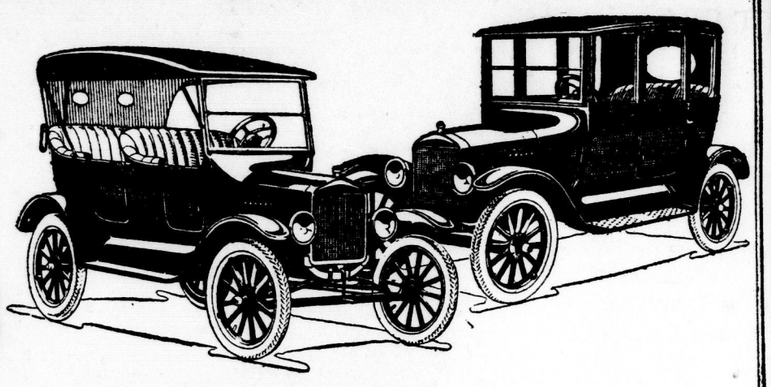

EXPECT TO AVERT HAMILTON STRIKE

HAMILTON, April 22.—While the employees of the Dominion Power and Transmission Company are taking a strike vote, hope of averting trouble has not been given up.

Hon. James Murdock, minister of labor, has offered to meet a committee of the men at Ottawa on Monday, but says he is too busy to come here.

Last minute developments today made it practically certain that there would be no strike of the Hamilton street railway men. The company and the men are so near an agreement that all danger of a strike has been removed.

Toronto, Ont. Canada.

Gentlemen:-

In considering our advertising media, we have made a careful analysis of each class, and after several years of continuous effort, we have demonstrated to our satisfaction that for Canadian merchandising the daily newspapers are the basic media through which to educate the users of a product that is sold to the masses.

We feel that the daily newspaper is just as essential to our merchandising as is our sales force and our direct dealer work, for through it we are enabled to tell our story to those whom we desire to reach, at a smaller per capita cost than is possible through any other media, and by mass selling, it has enabled us to reduce our prices.

Manufacturing the highest standard of quality and backing it with our entire organization for performance, we feel that the daily newspaper has been only secondary to these factors in its importance in gaining for Champion Dependable Spark Plugs the enviable position of market domination.

Needless to say, we expect to continue to place daily newspapers first on our lists of media.

IN REPLY REFER TO

High testimony, this, from the makers of Champion Spark Plugs. They say that Daily Newspaper Advertising has been second only to the factors of organization and management in securing for them domination of the Canadian market for Champion Spark Plugs.

What more convincing testimony could there be to the all powerful influence of Daily Newspaper Advertising?

IRISH FACTIONS AGREE TO CEASE THEIR FIGHTING

Republican and Free State Forces Find Struggle Does Not Pay.

POLITICAL ISSUE REMAINS

One-Day Strike Called For Monday Expected To Fail.

LONDON, April 24.—An agreement has been reached between the military leaders of the Republican and Free State forces in Ireland, says a dispatch to the Westminster Gazette from Dublin, which will constitute the basis for peaceful arrangements in connection with the future policy of both sides and profoundly influence events in Southern Ireland for the better.

The correspondent claims authority for this statement and says he understands that in consequence of the agreement arrived at hostilities between the rival forces are to cease, although the political issue between the two parties is not affected.

The decision, it is said, followed negotiations between the respective leaders, who have been deeply influenced by the fratricidal character of the struggle as well as by consideration of the effects upon the national situation.

EXPECT STRIFE TO FAIL.

DUBLIN, April 23.—Advices received from the country regions indicate that there will be no universal observance throughout Southern Ireland of the one-day general strike called for tomorrow. Trains from the north are not expected to pass over the boundary and the sailing of cross-channel vessels will be suspended.

The postmaster-general desired to maintain a limited telephone and telegraphic service for the official and hospital purposes, but the postal union has objected to this.

A mass-meeting of the Labor party will be held at noon tomorrow in O'Connell street. Addresses in denunciation of militarism in Ireland will be discussed from three platforms.

COLLINS IS THREATENED.

BELFAST, April 22.—Michael Collins, upon his arrival this afternoon at Killarney to deliver an address, was met outside the depot by an Irish Republican army officer, armed with a revolver, who warned him he would not be allowed to speak until an incident at Listowel, County Kerry, where the officer alleged one of his men was fired at, had been cleared up.

Mr. Collins, who was accompanied by Commandant General John McKeown, proceeded into town, whereupon the I. R. A. officer ordered the troops who were occupying the railroad hotel to surround the platform at the market place, where Mr. Collins was to speak. A number of men in uniform carrying rifles and bayonets, rushed out of the building from which a man carrying a machine gun also emerged.

BOMB KILLS WOMAN.

BELFAST, April 23.—A woman named Mrs. McCabe died tonight from injuries received in the explosion of a bomb thrown upon the porch of St. Matthew's Catholic Church in Newtonards road early in the evening. Constable Moriarity was gravely wounded by the explosion. Possibly in reprisal for the church bombing, two men broke into a house in Beckfield and shot and killed a blind man named Miller and wounded another man.

There was considerable firing in the city today. Two boys in the Yorkshire street area were wounded this afternoon, and a man in the Old Lodge road was hit by a bullet.

Obituaries

DEAN BRADY.

Dean Brady of Brantford, a priest well known locally, is dead, according to news which reached St. Peter's Palace Monday morning. His death occurred Sunday night.

The late priest had not been ill long. He was in good health on the occasion of the visit of General Byng, and was out to pronounce the benediction. It is believed that he caught cold at that event.

Dean Brady was 60 years of age, and was one of the best known priests in Western Ontario. His funeral will be held Wednesday morning, the mass being sung at 10 o'clock.

MRS. C. BRODERICK.

The death took place at St. Joseph's Hospital Saturday of Mrs. Catherine Broderick, wife of Edward Broderick of 188 Albert street. Mrs. Broderick had been a resident of London for the past 20 years. Besides her husband she is survived by one son, John of London, three sisters, Mrs. McGrath of Ottawa, Mrs. Hugh McGrath of Omaha, Nebraska, Miss Elizabeth McCarthy also of Omaha and one brother Dan McCarthy of Burt, Michigan. Rev. Father Frank McCartney of Thamesville is a cousin.

The funeral will be held Tuesday from her residence. Requiem high mass will be celebrated at St. Peter's Cathedral at 9 o'clock. Interment will be made at St. Peter's Cemetery.

JOHN J. DOLAN.

The funeral services of John J. Dolan who died at his residence 367 Maitland street, on Saturday morning were conducted at the house by Father Chisholm. The body was sent to Stratford where funeral services will be held Tuesday at St. Peters Church. Interment will be made at Stratford.

The pall bearers Monday morning were six members of the local Knights of Columbus; E. J. Ryan, Thomas Rowan, John Dean, Frank Walsh, F. Carty and E. Dibb.

10-Year Old Girl Stole Rings But Judge Puts Her on 6 Months' Trial

A little Byron girl of 10 years of age was allowed to return to her parents on six months' probation when she appeared before Judge Macbeth at the courthouse Monday morning charged with the theft of four rings valued at $220, the property of Joseph Turbine of Byron.

Mr. Turbine, in the witness box, said that the first ring was missed on April 3 and the last one on April 13. On the afternoon of the 13th, his wife missed a ring with three blue stones in it, just a few minutes after the little girl left the house. The youngster had been in the habit of coming and going to the house for some time, Turbine testified.

"I called to the girl and she stopped," said witness. "I asked her to give me the ring she had in her pocket, and she said she hadn't any ring. Finally I put my hand in her pocket, and took the ring away from her. She denied having taken the other rings."

Turbine said that the girl promised to bring him the other rings that night, but she never kept her word, nor has he seen the rings since.

URGES CARE OF MENTALLY ILL

Dr. Magee Tells Need of Mental Hygiene For Children.

Ministerial Alliance Hears Lecture At Westminster Hospital.

Dr. Magee indicated the importance of mental hygiene in detecting the mentally deficient child, and in providing proper treatment for the defective adult.

He stressed particularly the need of juvenile courts, so that those who were mentally deficient might be given proper care, and not allowed to continue in a career which led almost inevitably to the electric chair or gallows.

Too much care, he said, could not be given to proper feeding and housing to encourage normal development in children, and do away with the large number of sub-normal children who, brought up in unsuitable environment, were lacking in the element of leadership and unable to make progress.

He cited a case of two men who were hanged in 1920, and who had the mentality of a 9-year-old child, as well as numerous other cases as instances, which indicated clearly the need of proper care for those whose mentality did not reach the proper standard, and which brought home vividly the need of proper mental hygiene.

A vote of thanks was tendered from the alliance to Dr. Magee for the address, and for the fact that he had been good enough to postpone it from Monday of last week, in order that a greater number of the alliance might have the opportunity of hearing it.

CHAMBER OF COMMERCE TO START INDUSTRIAL SURVEY

Plan Most Comprehensive Attempt Ever Made To Cover Advantages and Disadvantages.

An industrial survey of London that should reveal information and data of greater value than any heretofore, will be undertaken immediately by the chamber of commerce.

From those who are vitally interested themselves and more likely to be in a position to advance information or suggestions, will the same come, i tis calculated, and mostly from manufacturers themselves.

A supreme effort will be made to ascertain as far as possible every advantage or disadvantage London possesses. Manufacturers and representatives of industry generally will be asked to co-operate in the contemplated move to the extent of furnishing, in as much as their business is involved or their experience in the city has been, just what changes they would welcome or what remedies they would suggest to counter-act any disadvantages that possibly now exist.

All data obtained will be used to the best advantage, both in rendering conditions as satisfactory as possible for those firms now located in the community as well as a means toward encouraging new industrial enterprises to come to London.

The new task undertaken will be thorough and complete, and will claim the attention of the Chamber of Commerce, it is believed for a considerable length of time. That the effort will prove its worth is the expectation of the members, however, who look toward 1922 as a banner year for the city industrially.

FEAR FULL RATE CANNOT BE COLLECTED IN ANNEX

City Officials Doubt If Council Has Right To Rebill.

So far no one at the city hall has been able to produce the written opinion of the city solicitor, T. G. Meredith, to the effect that city residents working in the annex can be assessed on incomes for the full mill rate of the city for 1922.

It has been said that this opinion has been given. And it was said the day after Dr. Douglas presented a motion to the council to secure this opinion, that the opinion had already been received.

There are officials who doubt if the council has the power to change the bylaw, providing for the collection of 1922 taxes, which would allow for those, who it is alleged, are escaping from a proper tax payment, to be rebilled this year.

However, the change in the manner of assessing these residents, now being made, will result in the object of Ald. Douglas being achieved in 1923, even if he is unable to get it through in 1922. This is being brought about by the assessing of annex workers at their residences in the city proper.

Steadies Down.

Once more today the gyrating Genoa conference, which has been alternating between fears and hopes, and punctuated by political crises which threatened to destroy it altogether, set itself grimly to the task of readjusting the economic life of Europe.

The announcement by the German delegates late last night, that they would not reply to the Allies' second note, because they did not wish to endanger the success of the conference, was received everywhere with frankly uttered words of relief, for almost everybody was beginning to despair secretly, if not outspokenly, that the conference would not end in economic achievement, but rather in political turmoil."

In all quarters today were heard words of praise for the patient efforts of the Italian leaders to re-establish harmony so that the conference might concentrate upon the constructive problems for which it was organized.

Six sub-commissions were scheduled to hold meetings today, and the committee of experts on the Russian question made plans to take up seriatim the report on the reconstruction of Russia prepared by the Allied experts who met in London. This report concerns not only the question of the handling of Russia's debts, but also matters vital to foreigners in their relations with Russia bearing on the legal protection they are to have in their dealings in Russia.

The Soviet delegation has overthrown for the moment its famous memorandum issued as an answer to the experts, because it is in contradiction with the Russian note accepting the Allies' terms on a basis of discussion. Russian spokesmen explained that the memorandum which the powers found unpalatable, merely voiced the opinions of the Soviet delegates at the first stage of the negotiations, whereas now they had decided to modify their earlier opinions. They were careful, however, to make the reservation that this modification was contingent upon "the successful outcome of the present pourparlers," but the conference has produced so many shocks and sensations that mere phrases no longer are causing the panic which they did at the outset of the deliberations.

Concrete Results.

Everybody appears to desire some concrete results and then to return home feeling that at least a hopeful beginning has been made toward rebuilding the deranged economic machinery of Europe. Such seems the spirit at the opening of the third week of the conference.

The financial commission yesterday considered what action, if any could be taken, to prevent the flight of capital in order to avoid taxation, and came to the conclusion that "any proposals to interfere with the freedom of the market for exchange or to violate the secrecy of bankers' relations with their customers, are to be condemned."

The commission also expressed the opinion that the measures for international co-operation to evade tax evasion might be successfully studied in connection with the double taxation schedule now under discussion before the league of nations.

Recommending resolutions on currency and exchange for adoption by the conference, the financial commission says:

"So long as there is a deficiency in the annual budget of a state met by the creation of fiduciary money or bank credits, no currency reform is possible, and no approach to the establishment of a gold standard can be made. The most important reform must therefore be the balancing of the annual expenditure of a state without he creaion of fresh credits not represented by new assets.

"The balancing of a budget requires adequate taxation, but if government expenditure is so high as to drive taxation beyond what can be paid out of the income of a country, taxation itself may still lead to inflation. Reduction of government expenditure is the true remedy.

Balancing of Budget.

"The balancing of a budget will go far to remedy an adverse balance of external payment by reducing internal consumption. It is recognized that in the case of some countries the adverse balance is such as to render attainment of the equilibrium of the budget difficult without assistance, which may be unattainable.

The next step should be to determine and fix the gold value of the monetary unit. This step can only be taken by each country when economic circumstances permit; the country will then decide as to whether to adopt the old gold parity or a new parity approximating to the exchange of the monetary unit at the time."

The report of the committee of experts appointed by the currency and exchange sub-commission says: "Regard being had to the very large debts incurred since the armistice by many countries we are inclined to think that a return to the old gold parity involves too heavy a strain on production. The decision must be left in each case to the country concerned, but we suggest that a considerable service will be rendered both to its own internal economic and the cause of European recovery by that country, which, after reaching comparative stability in its currency at a point so far below the old parity as to make a return to it a long and painful process, first decides boldly to set an example of securing immediate stability on terms of gold by fixing the new gold parity at or near the figures at which stability has been attained."

GENOA, April 23.—Another crisis in the economic conference was passed tonight when the German delegation announced after a long session of its delegates and frequent communications with the Russians and Italians, that the Germans would not reply to the note of the ten powers today stipulating that the signatories "expressly reserve for their governments the right to declare null and void any clause in the Russo-German treaty which may be recognized as contrary to existing treaties."

The Germans also decided to settle by private negotiations the differences between M. Barthou, head of the French delegation, and the German chancellor, Dr. Wirth, which arose through M. Barthou's written charge that the Germans had made untruthful statements.

Premier Facta and M. Schanzer of the Italian delegation are believed to have been responsible for the peaceful settlement of what threatened to be a hopeless barrier to real progress in the conferences on economic and financial work.

A member of the German delegation said that the allies had their "fanfare" in today's note to satisfy the French and that the Germans had decided they would not encourage a battle of notes, but would remain silent and let the conference proceed with its useful work in the hope that the economic situation in Europe might be bettered.

Powers Sign Note.

Sunday has been rather a bad day for the Genoa conference. Easter Sunday brought the signing of the Russo-German treaty, which caused much disruption, and today came the note from the big and little ententes and Portugal to Germany, which for the moment reopened the old wound that had partly healed. This note was written to satisfy the French demands for the more definite exclusion of Germany from all discussions relating to Russian problems. It also asserts specifically that it had never been suggested that the London proposals afforded no basis for discussion in the conference, or that the German delegation was about to conclude a separate treaty with Russia. After making the reservation with respect to the Russo-German treaty, it declares:

POLICE GUARD TAX PAYMENTS

Precautions Taken To Guard Huge Sums Received Daily.

With their broad-brimmed Stetsons and the formidable "six-gun," four stalwarts of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police are stationed in different parts of the local taxation office today, and will remain there for two weeks to frustrate any attempt which may be made by yeggs or hold-up men to obtain a part or all of the thousands of dollars that will pass through the offices within the next fortnight.

A tip was received over the telephone by C. S. Walters, the inspector of taxation at Hamilton, on Thursday last, that an attempt was being planned to raid the local office. Mr. Walters immediately phoned for some mounted police, and for a while guns were being loaded and oiled, and the elaborate system for guarding the money was improved. As a result of this, every precaution is being taken by the officers in London.

"We are taking no chances," said Inspector of Taxation George Tambling today. "No real attempt at a holdup has been made as yet, but a person cannot tell what might happen. Last year two foreigners entered the building, and began to act suspiciously, but they were escorted to the door by Sergt. Munday and his men in short order.

Sleep in Building.

"We are even making arrangements for the officers to sleep in the building," said Mr. Tambling, "and to make protection doubly sure a night shift of our own men will be on duty every night for the next two weeks."

Some of the male clerks in the cashier's office are fully armed with automatics, and everyone of them is proficient in the use of firearms, being mostly war veterans. One returned man, declared Mr. Tambling, was the Canadian champion for revolver shooting overseas, and is a dead shot with an automatic.

One of the "red coats" is stationed at the top of the stairs, and gives all who enter the "once over." The other three will be watching and waiting at other points of vantage.

"Any attempt at a hold-up will probably be made at the cashier's wicket," declared Mr. Tambling. "However, the wicket is in full view from my office, the clerks inside are fully armed, and the 'red coat' is able to see anything that takes place at the wicket, so the hold-up man would be inside a three-cornered triangle. We are well equipped to take care of any emergency."

Big Rush Expected.

Sergt. Mundy, who is in charge of the three officers, came here from Niagara Falls. One of his men came from Windsor and the other two are from Ottawa.

Mr. Tambling states that he anticipates a bigger rush this year because up to the present not so many of the returns have been filed this year as at this time last year.

"The tightness of the money market is the reason for that," he said. "Money isn't as easy to obtain this year as last year."

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

SEEDING AFFECTS MARKET BUSINESS

Farmers Forced To Take Butter Home Despite Lower Price.

The fact that the farmers have now started seeding will have a large effect on the attendance at the local market.

Buyers believe that the attendance will be small on the Tuesday and Thursday markets for the next few weeks, but that it will be large on the week-end market.

Saturday afternoon eggs were selling at 26 cents a dozen wholesale, and 28 to 30 cents a dozen retail. Many farmers were forced to take their butter home with them Saturday. In the afternoon the price dropped to 40 cents a pound retail, but it did not increase the sales to any great extent.

Chicago, April 14.—With the beginning of May deliveries only a week off, the wheat market showed a tendency early today to rise in price for May but decline for later months. The difficulty of filling contracts for May delivery was emphasized by expectance of a reduction in the United States visible supply total. On the other hand, believers in lower prices put stress on advices that Canadian wheat was already being imported at a profit, duty paid. Opening prices, which varied from unchanged figures to 1½c higher, were followed by moderate fluctuations.

Seaboard demand gave a little firmness to corn. After opening unchanged to ⅜c to ½c up, the corn market held at about the initial range.

NEW YORK STOCKS.

New York, April 24—Wall Street, 10:30 a.m.—In the stock market the week opened with further accumulation of buying orders, and new high records for the movement by such issues of General Electric Pullman, Norfolk and Western, and New Haven. General Electric led at a 2-point advance, and United Fruit and Barnsdall A gained 1½ each. United States Steel, common and preferred, forfeited small fractions, and moderate reactoins were made by Baldwin, Studebaker, Sinclair and California Petroleums. Royal Dutch was heaviest of the foreign oils, losing 1¼ points. New York, Chicago and St. Louis featured the stronger rails at a 1-point advance. Steadiness was shown by foreign exchanges, holding at last week's best quotation.

RURAL HOCKEY PAID ITS WAY

INGERSOLL, April 23.—That rural hockey had a most successful beginning in this district last season is evidenced by the financial statement just prepared in connection with the affairs of the South Oxford Hockey League. The several teams who played their games at the arena here were given splendid patronage, and from the enthusiasm which prevails, it is probable efforts will be made to enlarge the league next season. It is expected that the presentation of the Dr. Williams trophy to Dereham Center, the league champions, will take place shortly.

The various committees have been appointed and practically all arrangements made for the Victoria Day celebration to be held by the big eight. The object of the celebration is to obtain funds with which to provide a motor ambulance for Alexandra Hospital. Features of the program will be lacrosse games, the first in many years to be played here.

HUDDERSFIELD WIN FROM PRESTON

Latter Not at Full Strength, But Victors Will Be Cup Favorites.

LONDON, April 23.—The most interesting event of Saturday's league football games was Huddersfield's 6 to 0 defeat of Preston, their cup tie opponents of next Saturday. This will make Huddersfield favorites for the cup, although after Preston's defeat of Tottenham only a foolish prophet would belittle the chances of the Lancashire club, particularly seeing that Preston was in a safe position in the league and far from full strength in Saturday's match, whereas Huddersfield had every need of a decisive victory in order to avoid relegation.

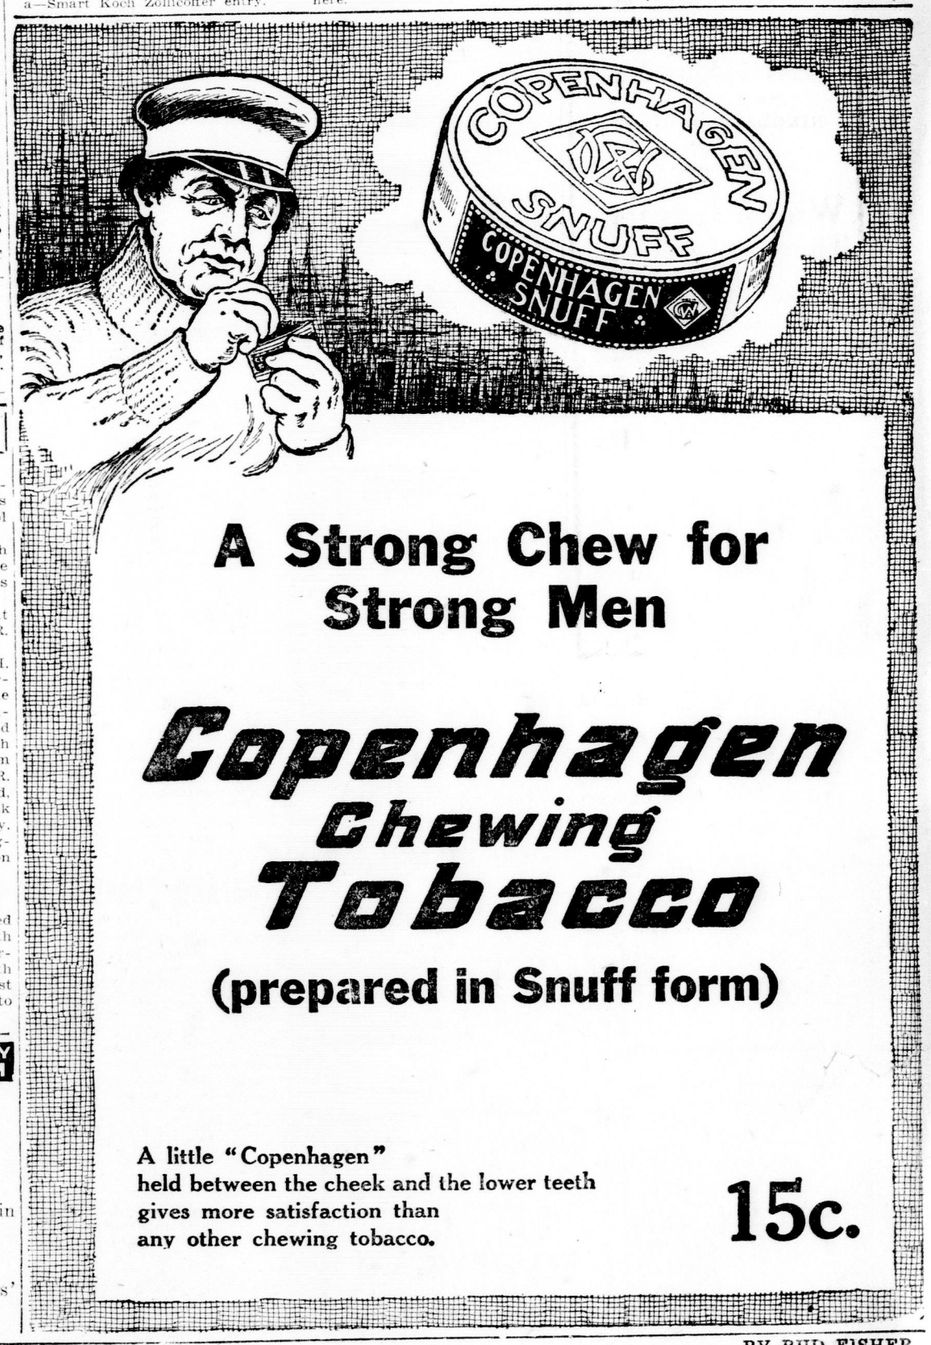

All three of the top clubs in the first league were defeated, but Liverpool has insured the championship, thanks largely to their wonderful defence. Burnley having been beaten by Manchester, who will be the runners-up, is still undecided as to position. Spurs will have the best chance, despite their defeat of yesterday, whilst the victory of Arsenal gives that team a splendid chance of avoiding a relegation they now having one point advantage over Bradford City. Everton saved themselves by drawing with Sheffield United.

In the second division it is still undecided what team will join Nottingham Forest in promotion to the first league. Stoke, beaten at Nottingham Forest, are level with Barnsley, but have a match in hand at West Ham, who are also in the running. A desperate fight is proceeding among the teams at the bottom of second league, Blackpool, Bradford, Bristol City are level on points, but Bradford have the worst goal average. Plymouth, with a one-point advantage over Southampton, at the top of the southern section, third division, seem to have best chance of promotion.

Stockport County are sure of promotion in the northern section. Aggregate goals scored in league fixtures yesterday were 107, Huddersfield being top scorers. Only seven visiting teams won. Ten matches were drawn and 26 home teams won.

BAR MINISTERS AS DIRECTORS

Resolution by A. R. McMaster May Be Debated in House Monday.

Sir Lomer Gouin Would Be Affected Most If Motion Carries.

BY JOHN J. MacLELLAN.

OTTAWA, April 23.—It is a matter of conjecture whether the resolution of A. R. McMaster, regarding the holding of directorships by ministers of the crown, will be debated Monday or not. This resolution, proposed by the member from Brome, is the twenty-second on the order paper, but might easily be reached tomorrow. The resolution says: "That in the opinion of this House it is desirable in the public interest that all ministers of the crown on their appointment as such, should resign all directorships held by them in banks, trust companies, insurance companies, transportation companies, or large public utility corporations; and that should ministers of the crown retain their directorships in companies other than these hereinabove mentioned, such companies should have no business dealings with the government of the Dominion of Canada, or with any department thereof or with any railway or ship owned or controlled by said government; it being understood that such prohibition would not affect the use by such company of the public service afforded by the said government or any department, or by any railway or ship."

This resolution affects Sir Lomer Gouin of all the ministers of the cabinet the most. He is the director of a number of companies and also notably a director of the Bank of Montreal. This resolution met defeat at the last session of the former government.

It is expected, however, that should the resolution not come on Monday it will be on a private member's day in the near future that it will be debated. The common anticipation is that the debate will be a lively one when the resolution is brought forward.

PARENTS IN HOSPITAL, CHILD DIES SUDDENLY

Special to London Advertiser.

INGERSOLL, April 23.—Whether the sudden death Saturday morning of little Victor Farrugia, 3-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Farrugia of Detroit, at the home of his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Jackson, King street east, was the result of injuries received in a motor accident a week ago at London, or to other causes, may be determined by the analysis of the stomach, which has been sent to London for that purpose.

The child died very suddenly under conditions said to have resembled convulsions.

He had apparently been in his usual health at bedtime Friday. Soon after he awakened yesterday morning the child became ill, and his death occurred in a short time. On Sunday last while the Farrugai family were motoring to Ingersoll they were struck by a street car in London. Their automobile was badly damaged and several of the party injured.

The dead child was thought to have escaped injury, and with another child was sent here to his grandparents to await the recovery of the parents at London. The coroner, Dr. Cornish, ordered a postmortem.

Wilson and Cox were held on a charge of mail robbery when the attempted escape resulted in the shooting of Cox.

Special to London Advertiser.

CARGILL, April 23.—J. S. Scharbach, Riversdale blacksmith, had a narrow escape from being gored to death by a bull owned by a farmer named Valad, near that village.

Mr. Scharbach was walking along the road when the animal, which is known as a particularly vicious one, jumped out of the field where it was pasturing and charged.

Mr. Scharbach made his escape by jumping over a wire fence on the opposite side of the road, and in performing the stunt he had the third and fourth fingers of his right hand badly lacerated.

DISPUTE SCHOOL SECTION DIVISION

COURT SUSTAINS AWARD

Special to London Advertiser.

BLENHEIM, April 23.—An award was made by the board of arbitration early this month, dividing S. S. No. 4, South Harwich and Erie Beach section into two sections. At the time of the appointment there arose the question as to whether or not the section was a union, and it was on that question that an interesting argument took place yesterday before Judge Stanworth in Chatham. A number of interested ratepayers of Harwich were present besides others. The first round of the legal fight was won by the municipalities.

The appellants were five ratepayers of the section formed nearest the lake, and it was contended by them that the original Section No. 4 and Erie Beach was not a union school section in the meaning of the school act, and hence the Harwich and Erie Beach councils had no authority to appoint arbitrators, but that Harwich Council should have divided the section by bylaw, and that Erie Beach had no right to any voice in the matter.

They contended that when Erie Beach village was incorporated that the act of incorporation provided that the school section was left as it was.

Present Arguments.

The argument produced for Harwich Township was to the effect that the act of incorporation of Erie Beach never intended that the section should be termed a union, although left intact as it was, that there was no provision to collect the school tax unless it was considered as a union and maintained under the authority of an assessors' award; that the two councils, the trustee boards since incorporation, had treated it as a union; that on an appeal to the county council in 1920 by certain ratepayers the council had decided it was a union and had taken it upon themselves to direct the ratepayers to take the very course they had this year by petitioning the councils to appoint arbitrators to obtain the division of the section.

After hearing the arguments, the judge refused to entertain the application to have the ward set aside and dismissed the appeal.

Barrister J. G. Kerr appeared for the appellants; Clerk G. W. Riseborough for Harwich; Clerk W. G. Smith for Erie Beach, and Inspector Colles for the board of arbitrators.

Will Appeal to Council.

It is understood that the appellants under authority of a large number of the ratepayers in the lower section intend to appeal to the county council to have a new board of arbitrators appointed, as they consider they have not received justice, their complaint being that they have not been given a fair share of the lands nor a fair share of the value of the school site and school left in the upper section.

These grievances will have to be carried to the county council to secure redress. The appeal to the judge was merely an appeal on the legality of the proceedings, and could not take up this latter grievance.

PLAN NEW GRANDSTAND

Ingersoll Organizations to Help Parks Committee.

Special to London Advertiser.

INGERSOLL, April 23.—Definite action has been taken relative to providing grandstand accommodation at Victoria Park. The Agricultural Society and the Caledonia Society were represented at a meeting called by Chairman Mason of the parks committee and the representatives stated the basis on which they would join with the council in erecting a stand. The proposed stand will be of steel and iron construction. The two societies will contribute one thousand dollars, and this was deemed sufficient to warrant the project being considered in a business way.

Estimates will be obtained at once, and efforts made a provide a stand for the 24th of May celebration if possible.

MARKS HUNDRED YEARS OF HISTORY

First Baptist Church of Woodstock Celebrates Anniversary of Founding in 1822.

NOTED PASTOR SPEAKS

Rev. Dr. J. A. Stewart of Rochester Conducts Opening Services of Week's Program.

Special to London Advertiser.

WOODSTOCK, April 23.—Sunday was a notable day in the history of the First Baptist Church, for it marked the beginning of a week of special services and gatherings to mark the celebration of the hundredth anniversary of the church. This is the first services of the kind ever held in Woodstock or Oxford county as the First Baptist Church is the oldest in the city, having been established in the year 1822.

The celebration will continue for seven days and during that period the congregation and citizens generally will have an opportunity of listening to many of the pastors of other days and also missionaries who have gone to foreign fields from the church.

Dr. Stewart Speaks.

Sunday's services were conducted by Rev. J. A. Stewart, M.A., D.D., of Rochester, N.Y., one of the leading members of the Baptist Church in the United States, and a graduate of the Canadian Literary Institute, now known as Woodstock College.

At the morning services the noted American pastor comprehensively reviewed the outstanding events of the past century, declaring that while a wonderful advance had been made in the material and scientific things of the world, there had not been a similar advancement in the perfecting of character and he made strong appeal to his hearers to celebrate the centennial celebration of the birth of the church by fresh consecration to Christian work.

The work of the church had made splendid progress within the past, but there is still much to be accomplished. He advised that ministers and congregations alike take their religion more seriously. Individual salvation is not enough. Religion must be carried into all branches of business.

Debt To Early Workers.

Mr. Stewart emphasized the gratitude due to the early workers who organized and founded the First Baptist Church one hundred years ago, and said that their heritage must be cherished, made even better, and then passed on to succeeding generations.

It is half a century ago since Mr. Stewart was a student at what is now known as Woodstock College and he referred reverently to the men who preached the Baptist doctrine in those days.

WOMAN STABBED AT PORT CREDIT

TORONTO, April 23.—Attacked by her nephew, Arthur Crane, who is said by doctors to be mentally unbalanced, Mrs. Robert Boyd of Port Credit, west of Toronto, is suffering from six stab wounds in the back and arms, but is expected to recover.

After attacking his aunt this morning, Crane jumped off a ten-foot embankment into six feet of water, and after scrambling out headed into the woods, but was soon captured by Constable Rutledge of Peel County.

Crane himself announced several days ago that he felt he should be under treatment.

LOCKOUT WILL EFFECT 600,000

British Engineering Workers Idle Within Week Will Total 825,000.

Employers' Federation Orders Members To Enforce Notices.

LONDON, April 23.—(By Canadian Press Cable.)—The engineering employers' federation has instructed its members to put the lockout notices into operation, which means that 600,000 men will be idle in a week's time, in addition to the 250,000 members of the Amalgamated Engineering Union already out.

Long statements issued today by both sides to the dispute show that while there was no difficulty about the principle involved in memorandum of agreement submitted by employers, a quarrel arose over the meaning of the phrase "material changes," which the employers claimed they were entitled to introduce into workshop practice pending negotiations.

The unions demanded to know what "material changes" meant, and the employers replied that that was a matter for them to decide, but that the representatives of the unions could discuss it with the management after the changes have been introduced.

The employers' statement protests against the suggestion that they want to force the unions to come to heel, and declare that they are still desirous of an amicable agreement.

The agreement which the employers asked the men to sign proposed for the employers a great measure of managerial control, especially in regard to overtime, and also the right to review wages conditions.

Release "Honest Robber" Who Made Good.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 23.—John M. Gilroy was released today as an "honest robber."

Gilroy told the jury he had been out of work, his wife ill and his children hungry. He needed $6, so he took his revolver and held up the soft drink establishment of William Moorman, taking the $6 from the till.

Gilroy found work next day, and out of his first pay paid Moorman the $6, then surrendered to the police.

INSPECTOR SEIZES LIQUOR ON LAUNCH AT BELLEVILLE

BELLEVILLE, April 23.—Provincial Inspector J. E. Adams of this city yesterday made a seizure of liquor here which consisted of 200 cases of Old Crow Bourbon whiskey, weighing 9,600 pounds, and being worth $7,583. It was neatly packed in the front and rear cabins of a launch, the property of G. R. Woodward of Toronto, who was in charge of it and who was accompanied by Charles Faulkner, also of Toronto.

The reason of the seizure seems to be the failure of clearance from customs, as the liquor was billed for Mexico City. Mr. Faulkner and Woodward were subsequently placed under arrest, and were remanded for a few days.

Mr. Woodward says he has no fear of the outcome of the affair, as he has broken no Canadian laws.

ATTACK SMUTS ON INDEMNITY

Bill Provides Compensation For Sufferings Caused by Rand Rebels.

LONDON, April 23.—(By Canadian Press Cable.)—The indemnity bill arising out of the Rand revolution was read yesterday a second time in the House of Assembly of the South African Union after a sitting lasting 20 hours, says a Reuter dispatch from Cape Town. Debates on the bill which promises compensation for sufferers through the acts of the rebels have occupied the house exclusively since April 10.

The opposition speeches were marked by some bitter attacks on Premier Smuts and the chamber of mines, as was the case when the bill was introduced.

The minister of the interior announced the appointment of a committee to investigate claims, and made recommendations regarding compensation.

Gen. Smuts, replying to attacks, delivered a fighting speech, and said the commission appointed to investigate the recent strikes was more necessary than ever before. Owing to the mine-owners' victory there were dangers that the employers would refuse to take account of the voice of labor. The government, he said, could not countenance tyranny on either side. While welcoming the fullest inquiry by a commission, the premier acknowledged that some irregularities were inevitable, such as those which the opposition had exploited, though the findings of the preliminary inquiries contracdicted the allegations.

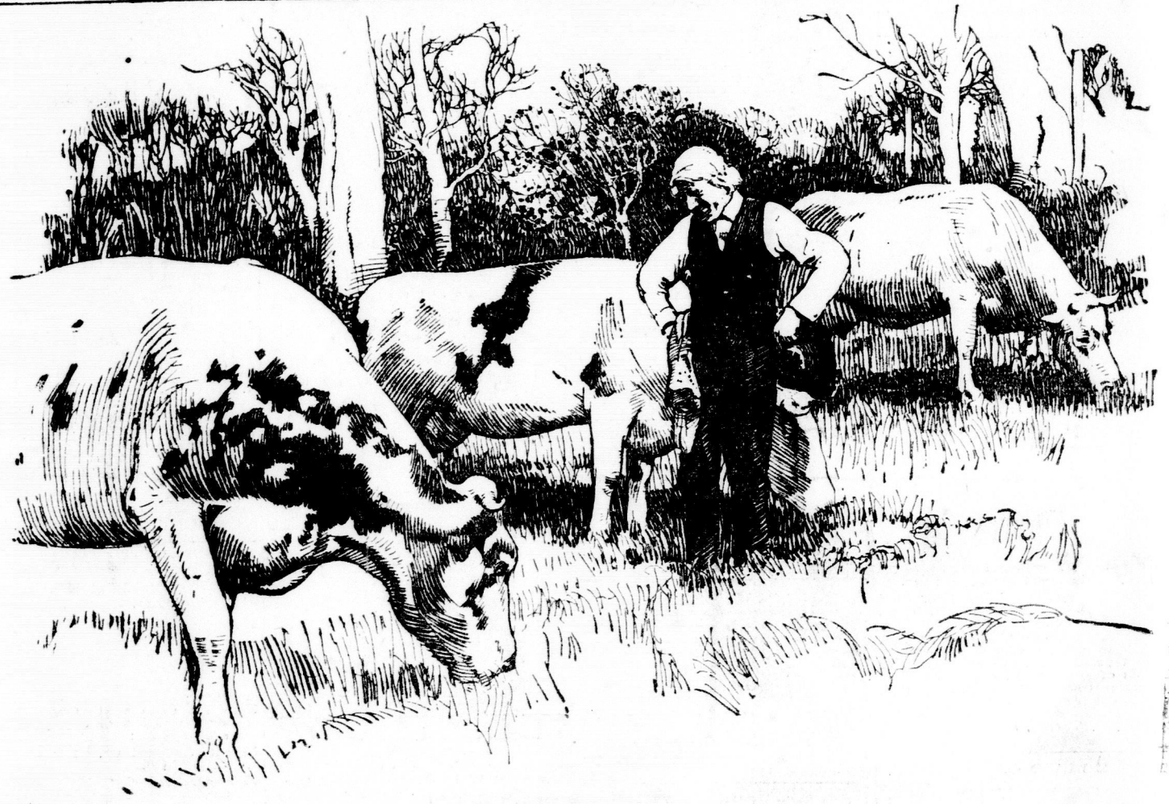

The amendment introduced by Gen. Hertzog, the Nationalist leader, to refer the indemnity question to a select committee to be named by the administrator of justice, was finally withdrawn, while the amendment moved by Labor Leader Boydell, demanding the appointment of a commission of three judges to investigate the allegations of a revolutionary plot, was rejected on a vote of 65 to 47.
