Another important source of atmospheric dust is volcanic eruption. The dust from this source is a powerful nuisance which is sometimes carried thousands of miles away from the source of eruption.

Prof. Piazzi Smyth while on the peak of Teneriffe witnessed strata of dust rising to nearly a mile in height, reaching out over the horizon, and so dense as frequently to obscure the sun.

There are oceans of such dust travelling through space, and it is assumed that by the contact and interlacings of two swarms of meteoric dust, the material is condensed into a kind of dust cloud.

ATMOSPHERIC DUST.

The infinitely small particles of matter which we call dust, though possessed of a form and structure which escape the phenomena of nature.

The origin of dust is almost universal. Trees shed their bark and leaves, which are powdered; plants dry up and crumble to dust; the skin of every living creature is perpetually shedding a scaly dust...

It is difficult to say to what extent the atmospheric dust which we inhale with every breath may become a source of disease. Atmospheric notes are really deposited in the respiratory organs, but ordinarily undergo decomposition, and get carried away in the circulation.

THUMB NAIL PICTURES. In collections centuries old, to be seen in both China and Japan, "specimens of the most remarkable drawings of the world" - pictures of all kinds drawn with the thumb nail. The nails of the thumb on the left hand of these pygmy artists are allowed to grow to an enormous length, sometimes to a foot or eighteen inches, and are then pared down to a pen shaped point. Dipping this oddly constructed pen in beautiful vermilion or sky blue ink, the only kind of ink used by these thumb nail artists, they draw the most gracefully outlined his work. Occasionally the bold touches from the studio of a master in this department of "high art" are life size, and are sketched by a few sweeps of the artist's arm. Like other pictures and sketches of the Orient, these sacred thumb nail pictures are mounted and rolled up like scrolls.

Explosion in a Box Car.—C. A. Lindow, station agent at St. Stephen, entered an N. B. R. box car at that place Wednesday night, in which were two tanks of gasoline weighing 800 pounds each, carrying a lantern in his hand. The car immediately took fire and the flames, rapidly spreading, caught the freight station but were soon extinguished by the firemen. The force of the explosion carried the end of the car and completely wrecked the vehicle. It also shattered the windows in the freight and passenger stations. Mr. Lindow was enveloped by the flames and burned severely, the skin being literally removed from his face and hands and his hair and eyebrows singed.

THE CHAMPION OF THE AMATEURS. A Pen Portrait of Their Captain.

The brilliant record of the press ball team in this city merits a brief sketch of some of its leading members. It is the purpose of THE HERALD to publish short pen portraits of some of the more conspicuous lights of the team. The "foxy captain" of the team will be first introduced to the public.

Captain Frank Harberable Risteen was born in infancy. Local tradition says he received his first name from his frank open face, and his present appearance lends color to the legend. His second name was given to him in honor of his birthplace, a small canton in the wilds of Carleton Co. Of his early life little is known, but his unswerving loyalty to have his team uniformed in "cowbreakfast" hats and spruce gum, would justify the presumption that he lived long enough in the place of his nativity, to become strongly imbued with characteristics of his early associates. This inference is considered strengthened by a close observation of his baseball peculiarities. His style of holding the bat, his manner of running, or rather over-running, bases, and his knowledge of the rules of baseball that obtained in rural districts all tend to strengthen the conclusion that the famous captain of the scribble team lived long enough in the land of buckwheat to attend school and mingle with the older boys.

Captain Risteen first became connected with the press is not known. His present relation to the fourth estate, outside of reporting the result of his games to the St. John morning papers, consists in writing for newspaper masses over the railroads. Natural qualifications have made him "phenomenally" successful in this department of newspaper work, and he already enjoys a provincial reputation.

That pen name of foxy, by which his associates dearly love to address him, was selected by himself, and he is thus dubbed in one of his own dispatches to a morning paper, describing the first game of baseball played by his team. It does not, as many might suppose, refer to the color of his hair or his complexion. On the contrary, captain Risteen's hair is of that rural color known as "how the wind blows," which forms an appropriate title to a light drab general complexion. To get a fair general idea of the make-up and appearance of the captain of the scribbles on the field, picture a somewhat stout man, with a crew of gun, a "cowbreakfast" hat, open-backed shirt, cat-rigged trousers, and a toy given-away-free-for-ten-subscribers-photograph-apparatus, ready for immediate use.

Captain Risteen has distinguished himself on his own team. He began his career as first baseman. He had seven chances in the first inning and missed them all. Next inning saw him at second base, after "creasing off" a couple of runners making for second, and kicking at the umpire for not calling them out, he went to centre field. After he had learned that catching a ball on the first bounce did not put the striker out, he came in to play short stop. A couple of hot grounders drove him out to left field, where he remained until the game was called. When the author of this sketch left the grounds yesterday, captain Risteen's record was being well maintained. He had been four times at bat, four times, no base hits, no put outs, no assists, two strikes out and four errors.

If captain Risteen can retain control of the press there is no doubt that he has a brilliant career before him. He could attach some steering gear to his feet, and supply them with an automatic break to keep him from over-running bases, he ought to make a record as a slider.

Plenty of Ice.—If the ice barons should happen to get caught in their own trap we should not wear mourning for their losses. Their ice houses were full to overflowing, and they pulled a sorry mug, looking as lugubrious as the merry law and made affidavits that ice this year would be as scarce as hen's teeth. Up went the price like the wind as a gale of wind and as suddenly as that voice outburst in Broad-way the other day. Things looked bright for the dealers. But they counted several broods of chickens before they were hatched. And now it seems there are two schemes on foot. One is to fetch ice from Maine by barge and the other is to make artificial ice. In either case the monopolists are going to have a very grim and galling sort of time. The grip of inland satisfaction has already given way to a groan of agony. Their dreams are changed to nightmares, and the price of the refreshing crystal has taken a tumble. All right, let it tumble. And if one or two of the monopolizing companies tumble with it we shan't waste brain tears on their fate. They deserve all they get, the only fair being that they won't get credit. By the way, the manufacture of artificial ice is becoming an important industry. The big breweries are now making ice for themselves, which is a heavy blow at the dealers. Their example will soon be followed by others, and it is more than probable that in the course of a few years every family will have its ice machine and make the day's supply before breakfast. Yankee genius has solved harder problems than that. Then these ice companies will find that they have fooled with the community once too often. The people's turn is coming.

PERSONAL.—Concerning People Known to Most Readers.—Frank Smith, who is a train despatcher in South America, is on a visit to his father, Charles Smith, of George street.

John Boves of the Gazette, W. B. Quinton of the Standard, Portland, and the Globe, are in the city attending the Methodist conference.

Mrs. W. S. Hooper, of Fredericton, New Brunswick, is in the city visiting her sister, Mrs. W. D. Woodcock.—L. A. Cross, Wisconsin, Republican, June 7th.

Mrs. Macnutt, her brother (Dr. Fletcher), who has been undergoing medical treatment for some weeks past, is expected home to-day (Saturday), from Philadelphia, where the former has been undergoing medical treatment for some weeks past.

Miss Lizzie Byrne, daughter of Mr. Byrne, manager of the Western Union Telegraph office here, has again left for Boston to receive her duties as nurse in the Massachusetts general hospital there.

George Hatt, one of the operators of the Commercial Union telegraph company in this city, left yesterday for a short visit to his home in Fredericton, N. B. He went to Rockland, where he was to take the steamship Valencia for St. John and after visiting at his home he will return and take charge of the new Bar Harbor office of the company.—Bangor Whig, 19th.

Staff Officers.—The staff of the Moncton military camp will be composed of the following: Lieut. Col. Mansfield, D. A. G., commandant; Major Gordon, I. S. C., brigade major; Lieut. J. Blaine, 62nd Fusiliers, instructor of marksmen; Major Lipsett, 71st Battalion, quartermaster; Major Vince, Brighton Engineers, supply officer; Surgeon Bishop, 73rd Batt., principal medical officer; Lieut. H. Tilly, N. B. Garrison Artillery, orderly officer.

Literary Notes.—A. W. Stratton, C. E. of this city, had an excellent article in a recent issue of the New York Independent describing the Chicago scribble railway. It has attracted much notice. In the last Independent C. H. Legrin discusses in a paper entitled "A Great Problem" some of the questions presented by the rapid increase in the population of the United States.

Edward Farrer, recently editor of the Toronto Mail, has been appointed chief editorial writer on the Toronto Globe.
