Rare Chance to Secure a College Education.

We have made arrangements that enable us to place within the reach of a limited number of deserving students, opportunities for securing, on easy terms, a classical or commercial education. A little work during the vacation season will secure this for the one worthily striving for such a boon, but who may not be in possession of sufficient money to realize his heart's desire. The facilities at our disposal enable us to offer a year's board and tuition at of Charlottetown. A full course in this excellent Commercial College may be won by any four young men or women, in town or country, who will fulfill the easy conditions we require. Whenever anyone satisfies the requirements in either of the cases enumerated he or she will be given a certificate entitling the holder to the educational advantages offered. A rare opportunity is here placed within reach of those desirous of acquiring a good education, and no time should be lost in taking advantage thereof. Only a little work is required in order to secure the coveted boon, and all can easily be accomplished during this summer's vacation, so that the winners may enter either college at the opening of the next academic year.

The Catholic Encyclopedia.

The first volume of the new Catholic Encyclopedia, published by the Robert Appleton Company, New York, has been received. This Catholic Encyclopedia, when completed, consists of fifteen volumes of 800 pages each with 2,000 maps and illustrations. It is the first work of the kind to be printed in the English language, and will present its readers with the full body of Catholic teaching; not only precise statements of what the Church has defined, but also an impartial record of different views of acknowledged authority on all disputed subjects.

The Catholic Encyclopedia gives the whole truth without prejudice, national, political or factional, and employs in the determination of the truth the most recent and acknowledged scientific methods, with the results of the latest research in Theology, Philosophy, History, Apologetics, Archaeology, and the other branches of human knowledge.

It differs from the general encyclopaedia in omitting facts and information which have no relation to the church, and records all that Catholics have done for the intellectual and artistic development of mankind. It is enabled to do this by utilizing the services of the foremost Catholic scholars—and some other specialists in every part of the world, to contribute articles in the condensed form that appeals to the man of action with the accuracy that satisfies the scholar.

It is not exclusively a church encyclopedia, nor is it limited to the ecclesiastical sciences and the dogmas of churchmen. The general reader who goes to it for specific subjects will find in addition information of the broadest scope and value in its summaries of results on the entire cycle of Catholic interest and doctrine, and on all subjects directly and indirectly related to the Catholic Church in every department of human knowledge.

In the bibliographies added to each article the student has ready a valuable list of the most authoritative works in all languages on the topic treated.

The Philosopher, the Scientist, the Bible Student, the Architect, the Lawyer, the Doctor, the Business Man, the Sociologist, the Historian, the Statesman, lays in its pages the means of informing themselves about a vast institution, which, whether they are Catholics or not, affect their fortunes and their destiny. We shall refer to the work at greater length in future issues.

Talk, Work and Amusement.

"The thoughts of youth are long, long thoughts," Longfellow sings. He who comprehends them gets near to the heart of youth. But who tries to do it? The boy is as great an enigma to his father, as a rule, as the old Sphinx in the Egyptian desert is to passing travellers. And who but his father ought to have the key to the boy's mind, and find his way into his recesses so gently and so careful that the question of his child's vocation would be an easy one for him to answer?

If the religious vocations in this country are not equal in number to what they ought to be, we may attribute it to these two causes: the general desire to make money, and the placid indifference of parents. A boy is sent to "school"—school implying a sort of factory from which human creatures are turned out polished and finished, but not ready for any special work in the world which demands specialists. And what is specialism but the industrious working out of a vocation?

God is very good to a man when that man is true to his vocation. To be content in one's work is almost happiness. To do one's work for the eyes of God is to be as near happiness as any creature can come to it in this world. Fortunately are they who, like the old sculptors of the roof of the cathedral over sea, learn early in life, as Miss Eleanor Donnelly puts it—

"That nothing avails us under the sun
In word or in work, save that which is done
For the honor and glory of God alone."

Direction and coercion are two different things. The parents who mistake one for the other make a fatal error. Direction is the flower, coercion the weed that grows beside it, and kills its strength and sweetness.

The true gospel of work begins with the consideration of vocation, and the prayers and the appeals to the sacraments that ought to accompany it. This is the genesis of that gospel. It is true that if a man can be helped to take care of the first twenty years of his life, the last twenty years will take care of him. Those who find their vocation are blessed—

"And they are the sculptors whose works shall last,
Whose names shall shine as the stars on high,
When deep in the dust of a ruined past
The labors of self souls shall lie."
—From "A Gentleman."

The Little Joys of Life.

Has enthusiasm gone out of fashion? Are the young no longer hero-worshippers? A recent writer complains of the absence of American youth. "The absence of animal spirits among our well-to-do, young people is a striking contrast to the exuberance of that quality in most European countries," says this author, in the Atlantic Monthly.

Our young people laugh very merrily, but they are not, as a rule, cheerful; and they are amiable only when they "feel like being amiable." This is the most fatal defect in American manners among the young. The consideration for others shown only when a man is entirely at peace with himself is not politeness at all; it is the most unrefined manifestation of selfishness.

Before we condemn the proverbial artificiality of the French, let us contrast it with the brutality of the average carper at this artificiality. "A Frenchman," we will say, "will lift his hat to you, but he would not give you a son, if you were starving." Let us take that assertion for its full value. We are not starving; we do not want his son, but we do want to have our every-day life made as pleasant as possible. And is your average brutal and bluff and uncivilized creature the more anxious to give his substance to the needy because he is ready on all occasions to tread on the toes of his neighbor? He holds all a tereed pleasant things to be lie, and the suppression of the brutal a sin against truth. One sees this passage too often not to understand him well. He is half-civilized. King Henry VIII. was of this kind—charming, bluff old fellow, bubbling over with truth and frankness, slapping Sir Thomas More on the back, and full of delectable horseplay, when his dinner agreed with him! It is easy to comprehend that the high politeness of the best of the French is the result of the finest civilization. Now Tallardier looked back and said that no man really enjoyed life who had not lived before the Revolution.

But why should enthusiasm have gone out? Why should the young have no heroes? Have the newspapers, the levity of Logan, and the irreverence of the stump-speaker, the cynicism of Puck and the insouciance of Judge, driven out enthusiasm? George Washington is mentioned—what inextinguishable laughter follows!—the cherry-tree, the little hatchet! What novel wit that name suggests! One must laugh, it is so funny! And, then, the scriptural passages! The paragraphs have made Job so very amusing; and Joseph and Daniel—how stupid people must be who do not roar with laughter at the mere mention of these august names!—From "A Gentleman."

Items of Interest.

Rev. M. A. Dillon, P. P. Daugh, County Kerry, Ireland is dead, after forty-two years in the mission. He was educated and ordained in Rome.

The priests of the Diocese of Derry, Ireland, have chosen Mr. McHugh, D. D. P. P., Strabane as Dignissimus for the vacant see; the Very Rev. P. Boyle, president of the Irish College, Paris, as Dignior, and the Very Rev. Dr. O'Keane, president of St. Columba's College, Derry, as Dignus.

"I learned some time ago," writes the Roma correspondent of the London "Catholic Times," "that the Rev. George Tyrrell had communicated with Rome on the subject of dogmatic teaching. Now I hear that his massive was a letter to the Pope, and that it was of such nature as to sever the brilliant writer from the Catholic communion."

Rev. Alexander R. G. Ho, M. A. of Trinity College, Cambridge, formerly vicar of Elvaston, Derby, and rector of Gt. Gwilt, Wiltshire is one of the latest converts to the Catholic faith. He was received into the Church on March 8, at Bath by the Rev. Donatus Sweeney, O.S.B. Among the immediate causes of his conversion was the reading of a company it. This is the genesis of anti-Catholic, violently partisan Froude was a signpost pointing out to Mr. Goldie the right direction, and he trusts that Froude may do some good turn to many others.

Prince Francois d'Assise Louis Marie d'Arberg, who was a leading member of the Catholic Centre party in the German Reichstag, died recently, after a long illness, which had withdrawn him for several months from public life. In the last general election Prince d'Arberg was returned by an enormous majority.

On February 21 the House of Commons, for the eighteenth time, discussed the measure for legalizing marriage with a man's deceased wife's sister. Lord Talbot opposed it because such marriages were forbidden by the Catholic Church, and only rendered possible by dispensation in certain exceptional cases. Whereupon Sir Henry Fowler rejoined that "Lord Talbot's speech had blown to the wind the idea that the Catholic Church could be quoted as opposed to the bill. If it were admitted that it was within the disposing power of the ecclesiastical authority to permit these marriages, they were obviously not contrary to religion."

"The Lenten courses in the different churches of Rome have proceeded normally except in one instance," says "Rome," the new weekly published in English. "At San Carlo in Corso the young Franciscan friar, Father Draghetti, has from the very first produced an extraordinary impression. The congregations have grown with every succeeding sermon, until the Church, which is one of the largest in the Eternal City, has become too small to hold all who wished to hear the eloquent preacher. For more than a week past hundreds of persons have waited on the steps outside for an hour before the beginning of the function in order to secure a place. Once or twice an attempt at applause was made within the church after some particularly impassioned or brilliant period of the discourse, but was immediately repressed by the preacher. Then some of the people began to wait for him outside after the sermon and to cheer him as he drove away to his monastery. It was a peaceful demonstration, but it did not suit the taste of the anti-religious of Rome. Two days this week they organized a counter-demonstration. When the friar appeared they greeted him with shouts of 'Viva Giordano Bruno!' and so jeered and insulted the congregation that the police were obliged to interfere. Then they attacked the police, and for a while a riot seemed to be imminent."

Many Catholics will be surprised to hear, says a writer in the "Catholic weekly," of London, that there are two reliquaries in the British Museum, each containing what purports to be a thorn from our Lord's crown of thorns. One of them is in the Waddesden Bequest Room, and is a beautiful Spanish sixteenth century work in gold. The reliquary is adorned with twenty-two figures, representing the Holy Trinity and a choir of angels, as well as a great number of rubies, pearls and sapphires. At its base are the words "Esta est una spina coronae domine nostri," and two other words which could not be deciphered. The thorn can be easily seen, and is about the length of a forefinger. The other reliquary is in the Gem Room, and is in the form of a locket, in the centre of which a small thorn can be seen, the edge of the locket being formed of immense amethysts. Within there are depicted scenes from the Passion in translucent enamel. This thorn is said to have been given to a King of Arragon by St. Louis, who bought the crown of thorns from the Venetians.

The eloquent Scottish Jesuit, Father Campbell, lately lectured in Glasgow on the trials which led the Highland Catholics to emigrate to Nova Scotia. He praised them for the manner in which they had retained their religion and their mother-tongue, and said that there are at present more Gaelic-speaking Catholics in Nova Scotia than in the whole of the Highlands of Scotland. Father Campbell concluded by saying that he had received and accepted an invitation to preach a mission in this Province.—Osako.

As soon as the news of the explosion in the "Jena" was heard in Toulon, several priests went to the naval hospital to minister to the wounded and dying, eighty in number. The priests were refused admission, however, on the pretext that the new regulations did not permit them to enter unless their services were asked for.—Osako.

Insurance Debate.

Mr. Foster Meets His Accusers, and Triumphantly Repels Their Charges.

OTTAWA, April 13, 1907.

The most notable Parliamentary incident of this week was the statement of the Hon. George E. Foster respecting the Insurance Commission report and the Union Trust Company.

A SPLENDID RECORD.

Bvt Mr. Foster showed that Insurance investments through the Trust Company were well handled. This Company in five years, under Mr. Foster's management, paid interest on all the money it got and made profits of $526,000 for the Foresters.

A CONTEMPTIBLE COMPARISON.

It may be said here that Mr. Aylesworth argued that success is no justification. The Minister went out of his way to drag in the name of McGill, convicted of misappropriating the funds of the Ontario Bank, observing that McGill had made true returns.

A SLANDEROUS REPORT.

Mr. Foster's speeches at the opening and at the close of the discussion covered all the charges made or suggested by the commission and all that had been conveyed directly or indirectly to the Press.

A LIBERAL PAPER'S REBUKE

The following synopsis of his speech together with Mr. Aylesworth's criticism and Mr. Foster's rejoinder is of necessity condensed.

It was charged that Mr. Foster had impelled the trust money of the Foresters. Mr. Aylesworth in his speech discussed Mr. Foster's position as if he were an officer of the Foresters required to invest their funds under Insurance laws.

This express purpose and Mr. Foster was made manager. It was his business to invest the Union Trust Funds according to the law of trust societies and the charter of his company.

EASY TO VERIFY.

This simple statement knocks on the head what was represented to be a serious charge. Mr. Aylesworth did not undertake to contradict it, but only pointed out that the money was paid by a cheque of the Union Trust Company.

THE POPE-FOWLER LANDS.

The next matter taken up by Mr. Foster was the charge respecting the Pope-Fowler lands. Mr. Aylesworth dropped all insinuations against Mr. Pope or Mr. Fowler or the other original members of the Syndicate, practically admitting that there was nothing wrong in the affair with the Union Trust Company.

GOOD SECURITY.

Mr. Foster and two associates bought from Mr. Fowler and his friends 200,000 acres of land and organized a company of their own. They offered this property as security for an advance from the Union Trust Company.

CLEARED UP THE MATTER.

There was a question on which the Commission spent a great deal of time and which Mr. Aylesworth debated at great length, whether all the Directors of the Loan Company understood the nature of the transactions.

A PROOF OF MALICE.

Very little was said by Mr. Aylesworth respecting the Trust Company's British Columbia investment. Mr. Foster dealt with it fully. Reference to his share of the discussion and to other features of the occasion will appear in a future letter.

A DISCREDITED COMMISSION.

But Mr. Foster's language though used by a man speaking under the sense of personal injury, was not stronger than that of his leader, Mr. Borden, who held up to scorn and ridicule the malicious attempt which had been made to injure his associate.

MR. FOSTER AND HIS OPPONENTS.

There were many exciting scenes during the debate, though no Government supporter except the Minister of Justice ventured to say a word in support of the charges made against the politician.

more heartily than the Member for North Toronto during his address.

WHAT IT COST.

Mr. Fielding announced that the Commission will cost $105,000. Mr. Shepley the inquirer was paid $100 a day and has already received $5,000 on account.

The spring time table on the P. E. Island Railway comes into force on Monday next, 29th inst. It is pretty much the same as last spring. Two trains a day will run east and west.

E. J. McLartyre, arrested for the robbery of the Montague railway station some weeks ago, came up for preliminary trial at Georgetown on Thursday last. Hon. F. L. Hazard appeared for the Crown, and J. D. Stewart for the prisoner. The trial was adjourned for a week for further evidence.

Saturday last, April 20th, was the first day on which lobster fishermen were, by law, allowed to put out their traps around the shores of this Province. Montreal advises say that no less than sixty millions of barrels of what will remain to be exported from Manitoba, Alberta and Saskatchewan, besides large quantities of spring cheese from Ontario and Quebec, as well as heavy shipments of lumber from all parts of the Dominion. All these are awaiting the opening of navigation, and their tying up renders the money market very stringent.

Particulars received regarding the death of James Rooney, son of Robert Rooney, Montreal, which occurred recently in San Francisco, indicate the young man was murdered. Not far from where his dead body was found in one of the city parks, was discovered the knife with which he had been stabbed to death. Everything of value on his person, including his watch, money and ring, was robbed.

In the Admiralty Court here on Thursday last, his Lordship Chief Justice Bullivant delivered an elaborate written judgment in the case of the Magdalen Islands Steamship Company against the American fishing schooner Diana, tried some time ago. The action was brought by the steamship company for damages caused by collision between the steamer Anella, of their line, and the Diana, and for salvage for towing the schooner to Gouais after the collision. Judgment was given in favor of the Diana and against the steamers on all points. No salvage was allowed, because the steamer being to blame for the collision, could not claim salvage. The amount of damages to be paid by the steamship company to be assessed by competent persons.

Artistic Wall Decorations

In these days when both interior and exterior decorations are engaging so much attention, when the value of beautiful and attractive surroundings are gaining due appreciation, on account of their influence on the life and general character of all—the young especially—it is highly important that attention be paid to the artistic decoration of our homes.

In placing before you our new line of papers, we have provided for you wall decorations of artistic beauty, combined with extremely low prices, so that there is no longer an excuse for bare or unsightly walls.

We have been accused of cutting down the price of Wall Papers, and plead guilty to the charge, as we do not believe in exorbitant profits in papers, any more than any other line we handle. Besides we are in a position to quote you low prices, as the Manufacturers from whom we purchase our papers, not being in any combine—the only Manufacturers in Canada who are not—can regulate their own prices, and we have taken advantage of this to place before the people of this locality a range of papers, which for beauty and originality of design cannot be surpassed, and at prices which are admittedly the lowest ever quoted here.

That they were selected by people of taste, if not experience, is a fact potent to all who have seen them—that they were bought right is equally evident, the fact of being now able to purchase bordering by the roll at the same price as sidewall paper, is an item alone worth consideration—while the best proof of their popularity lies in the fact that already many designs are sold out, and had to be repeated on, which is simply wonderful at this early date.

We invite every householder to compare the new with the old prices, and in doing so they can come to no other conclusion than this is truly "THE STORE THAT SAVES YOU MONEY."

The following extracts taken from a leading Toronto daily will prove of interest to all admirers of the "Menzie" papers here:

Largest Wall Paper Plant in Canada.

"Although a new company, the Menzie concern, is the largest Wall Paper Manufactory in Canada, and is one of the best equipped on the continent. It is somewhat of an honor to have grown so steadily since the company was organized and the industry put into operation under the charge of fully competent men. Purely because of the merit of the product the business of the company has shown rapid increase. The orders for the first year were exceptionally large, and this year have practically doubled in volume, with indications for continued advancement."

The Menzie Line.

"During the past few years Canadian capital has sought investment in industries that utilize home products, a notable instance of this is the Menzie Wall Paper concern, located at New Toronto, and which during the brief year of its existence has not only given evidence of entering a field which needed just such a venture, but has proven to be a decidedly progressive and up-to-date concern. It is a Toronto industry one in which every resident of not only this city, but the entire Dominion can be proud."

"The Menzie Wall Paper means much for the country, from the fact of its size and importance as the feeding plant of the kind in the Dominion, and second, that it uses the product of our own forest wealth exclusively."

"All the designs and patterns have been considered in advance of competitors in originality, artistic merit and tasteful effect, with the result that the products of these mills have become a standard."

Aching Joints

In the fingers, toes, arms, and other parts of the body, are joints that are inflamed and swollen by rheumatism...

Sufferers dread to move, especially after sitting or lying long, and their condition is commonly worse in wet weather.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Remove the cause of rheumatism—no outward application can take it.

King and Beggar in Week of Piety.

The blessing of the palms and the ensuing processions date back to the earliest days of the Christian era...

The Sentinel Light of the Blessed Sacrament.

By Wm Thornton Parker, M. D.

Before the church's open door The busy throng all heedless pour...

That sentinel, which never sleeps, Its guard before the altar keeps...

Whereon there rests, beneath the roof, The Bread of Angels—Heavenly Food!

God's gracious miracle divine, His Sacred Body, Feast benign...

To all who love His Holy Name, This gentle Sacramental light...

Means more of hope and joy and cheer, Than all this world's glories bright...

Or all that prince and peasant hold dear.

While in deep thankfulness we gaze Upon this mystic vision fair...

Our hearts with gladness hope we raise And easier find the cross to bear...

For he who suffereth with Thee, Dear Christ, the holier shall be;

And he who is the most forgiven Shall love Thee most for hope of heaven.

Thus for the poor, the tired, the sad, The sorrow-wracked, the good, the bad...

This Sacred Eucharistic light Holds out to all the promise bright...

Purer and holier this light Than any far famed earthly ray...

For this faint flickering taper bright Tells of an endless heavenly day.

See how the kneeling thankful guest, Finds here a treasure dear and blest...

Which all our wealth can never make, Yet poverty is pressed to take.

God grant that at this sacred spot Some who, dear Lord, have known Thee once...

May for sweet Mary's holy prayer Learn the true Faith and in it share...

Where'er this holy altar light Doth shed its radiance pure and bright...

Earth-sufferers find the peace they crave, And which in love our Saviour gave...

Oh, may we learn the lesson well This sentry light to us doth tell...

This word of heavenly hope and cheer! "Come Unto Me"—its message dear.

As on the sea the storm doth roar, And we are struggling for the shore...

Piercing the darkness in our fear, The welcome harbor light shines clear.

So, on life's awful battle plain, When no one heeds our fears and pain...

We may, when seeking home secure, See this sweet light shine bright and pure.

And when, beholding with delight Christ's Holy Face divinely bright...

In heaven where sorrows is no more, His Presence may we all adore!

Yet here we now can cure the ache When hearts with sadness almost break...

For those now absent from our sight, Lo! He is here, near this Light!

O blessed Light, proof of a Treasure mine, O Sacrament most holy, most divine!

Here, in the one true Church, divinely bright, Shine on, and never wane, Sweet Sentry Light!
