Salvage Notes.

That Hon. R. A. Squires is now K.C.M.G. must be pleasing news to "the loyal knights." We add our humble congratulations. It is rather too bad, however, that Hon. W. F. Coaker is still plain Mister except when addressed by the Italian or Portuguese term "Eccellenzy."

If Coaker has indeed resigned his portfolio it is a welcome news, for even admitting that he erred unintentionally and that his endeavors were always to uplift, the pitiable fact remains that his administration has left the country nearer confederation than ever Morine did, and with a worse position to make terms, than Morine ever contemplated. Although we are indeed glad that he is out of politics (if such is the case) we yet wish him renewed strength in his purpose of actually helping the underdogs.

The fish situation is still very gloomy looking, but of course, it is to be considered that caplin have not yet put in their appearance, although two or three stragglers were seen yesterday. The new "Springs" will probably herald their presence.

Mr. Morley J. Hedderton, who has been on a visit to his brother for the last four weeks, left by s.s. Malakoff this morning, to return to the "paper" city.

Mr. John Moss, Bishop's Hr., who had been in St. John's securing summer stock, returned yesterday via Alexander Bay, coming from the latter place in motor boat.

Mr. Job Stead's schooner arrived from St. John's last night; Messrs. W. Brown and Theo. Hunter also arrived with their summer's supplies.

The salmon boat has not been here for the last few days. It is rumored that she is to be taken off the Bay, as the abundance of salmon in the vicinity of St. John's is enough to supply the needs of the Atlantic Fisheries Co. We trust, however, that the boat will still continue to purchase fish here, as her removal will mean a big loss to the people engaged in the salmon fishery.

Mr. James Moss arrived from St. John's early this morning.

Miss Jennie James, Port Blandford, is here on a short visit—business and pleasure combined.

A certain amount of relief money came to hand a few days ago, and the men are "working it up" on the roads. But what will $10 or $15 do for the maintenance of a family? At present there is nothing bright in the situation here. Rumor had it yesterday that The Terra Nova Sulphite Co. was opening up the 1st of July with an employee force of 3,000 men. We sincerely hope such is true, but we could find no voucher for the said report. The situation in Grand Falls at time of writing is practically unchanged. But like the miners of England, one must imagine the strikers to be near the end of their resources. We note Quebec mills have resumed operations at a 20% cut in wages, and despite Newfoundland's Jorjax of 25% additional, we see nothing for the laborer of Grand Falls but to accept a similar cut (We—needless to say—think 25 1-3% too sweeping altogether).

Is it possible that the Premier, in his wording of the C. S. reduction, purposely did so that his own salary and those of his ministers might remain unaffected? If it be said that in Circular No. 2, Coaker issued his dying will in April, then assuredly Squires—Knight though he be—has sung his funeral dirge in June.

COAL OUTLOOK DARKENING.

LONDON, June 16. While the Labor Minister's intervention has staved off for the present, the threatening strike of one and one half million workers in the engineering trades, there is ground for doubt about the idle coal pits of the country being re-opened soon. Early returns show that the miners' ballot is going heavily against acceptance of the owners' new offer, but it is not yet certain that the two-thirds majority, required to prevent a return to work, will be given. South Wales is, apparently, casting its vote heavily for keeping up the fight for better terms. So is Lancashire. Durham miners are also of the same way of thinking, although they were expected to vote for the owners' terms. Lancashire shows a two-thirds majority against the owners' offer, and Scottish miners are nearly solid against the terms.

GREEKS ARE CAUTIOUS.

SMYRNA, June 16. It is improbable that the great offensive against Turkish Nationalists will be started for several weeks. King Constantine declared to the Associated Press yesterday. The Greek army now number two hundred thousand fighters in Anatolia, and has one hundred thousand reserves. The Nationalists, it is estimated, have less than one hundred thousand.

RAILWAY HORROR IN NEBRASKA.

OMAHA, June 16. Four persons are killed, fourteen injured and three are missing in the wreck of eastbound train number 606 on the Chicago and North-western Railroad near Crawford, Nebraska, last night. The forward sleepers of the train plunged through the bridge over Big Cottonwood Creek, after the engine and mail car had passed safely, according to last reports.

ATTEMPTING GUN-RUNNING.

NEW YORK, June 16. Investigation was underway to-day to determine how and when and why more than 500 modern machine guns, with hundreds of spare parts, were placed on board a steamer on the east side, while at her pier in Hoboken, awaiting departure for an Irish port.

ASCOT RACES.

ASCOT HEATH, June 16. The famous Gold Cup stakes worth 500 Sovereigns with £3,500 in specie added, was run here to-day, and was won by Perseus, owned by B. Irish. Fred Hardy's Happyman was second, and Henri Belsan's Juvigneuvair was third. Eight horses ran.

HAY FEVER, ASTHMA, CATARRH & CHRONIC BRONCHITIS.

All surrendered their terrible effects upon the human bodies of no less than 10,000 Canadians, by use of Buckley's 2 Bottle Treatment. Don't suffer one minute longer. Send to-day for trial size, 10c.

George W. Weaver, of Bellefonte, Pa., although only 68, has a great grandchild who is older than his youngest daughter. He has married twice and his oldest granddaughter married Edward Askey, and their eldest son, 13, is older than Mr. Weaver's youngest daughter by his second marriage. This young girl is a great-aunt to the lad who was born before her.

It Took All the Grit Mason Had To Stick It Out

"Every time I go out on a run now, I feel thankful to Tanlac for I'm convinced it kept me on the job," said William W. Mason, 1924 McClellan St., Philadelphia, for the past nine years a motorman for the Rapid Transit Co.

"I had stomach trouble in a bad form for three years and was going down hill fast. Nothing I ate agreed with me and after every meal I was sure to have heartburn, dizziness and sometimes awful cramps. I got in such a nervous condition my hand shook like a man with the palsy and at nights my sleep was broken and restless. In the mornings I felt so miserable I used to dread the time to come for me to take out my car, and it took every ounce of grit I could muster to stick unit quiting time. Finally I got so weak and was so discouraged I was ready to give up.

This was my condition when I started taking Tanlac and I owe all my present good health to this wonderful medicine and to nothing else. The first thing I did for me was to whet my appetite and I soon found I could eat anything without fear of bad after-effects. It's a fact, four bottles made a new man out of me. My nerves are quiet, I sleep like a log and wake up in the morning feeling fine. Then I eat a big breakfast and go to work whistling like I used to long ago. If people knew Tanlac like I do the clerks in the drug stores couldn't wrap it up fast enough to supply the demand. It's great."

Odd and Interesting.

27 per cent. of the area of Toronto is devoted to parks and playgrounds.

It is said that the sting of a honey bee will turn the hair of Ross Thomas, 17, of Marion, O., red. Before being stung his hair was jet black, and, according to Dr. D. B. Osborne, who attended the lad, his hair when he recovers his health will be bright red.

Strange indeed are theatrical distastes and tastes. In a few days the 2200th performance of "Chau Chin Chow" will take place at His Majesty's Theatre, London, G.B., after five winters and nearly five summers of unbroken success, but it didn't last long in New York.

MILLEY'S

Treachorous Sable Island

The wreck of the champion Gloucester fishing schooner, Esperanto on a sunken steamer on the shallows of Sable Island shore, led to the following interesting publication in the Halifax Herald:

Sable Island is an island off Nova Scotia, Canada, 110 miles Southeast of Cape Canso, in 43.56° N. and 60 W. It is composed of shifting sands and is only 20 miles in length by one mile in breadth, rising in places to a height of 85 feet. In the interior is a lake about 10 miles in length. At either end dangerous sandbars run out about 17 miles into the ocean. It has long been known as "the graveyard of the Atlantic"; over 200 known wrecks have been catalogued, and those unrecorded are believed greatly to exceed this number. The coast is without a harbor and liable to fogs and storms; irregular ocean currents, of great strength, sweep around it and its color makes it indistinguishable until close at hand.

Since 1873 an efficient lighthouse system and life-saving station has been maintained by the Canadian Government, and the danger has been much lessened. Since 1904 it has been connected with the mainland by wireless telegraphy. The island is constantly changing in shape, owing to the action of the sand and of wind and waves, and tends to diminish in size. Since 1763 when taken over by Britain, it has shrunk from 40 miles in length to 20 from 2 1/2 in breadth to one, and from 200 feet in height to 85; since 1873 the western lighthouse has thrice been removed eastward. As this makes navigation still more dangerous the Canadian Government has planted thousands of trees and quantities of root-binding grass, and the work of destruction has been somewhat stayed. Wild fruits grow plentifully during the summer, and cranberries are exported. Wild ducks, gulls, and other birds nest in large numbers and a native breed of ponies has long flourished. Sable Island, estimated as being then over 100 miles in length, was known to the early navigators under the name of Santa Cruz. Early in the 16th century horses were left on its shores by the Portuguese, and the native ponies, supposed to be their descendants, are still exported. In 1894 a band of convicts were left by the Marquis de la Roche, but in 1803 the survivors were restored to France. Eat MRS. STEWART'S Home Made Bread.—April 19, 1920

GOVERNMENT
DAWDLING.

The repeated adjournments of the House of Assembly to suit Government exigencies is becoming too serious to be regarded as a joke. The solemn farce continues to be carried out day after day. Occasionally a spirit of desire to accomplish some thing animates the Prime Minister, and the result is a midnight session, the last one having proven fatal to the administration in that it lost an adherent, who, disgusted with the method and conduct of the business of the House and the discriminative quality of the legislation so far introduced, deliberately and unequivocally forsook his party and placed his seat in the centre of the chamber, thus practically becoming of his own volition an independent. Fearing that this defection from the ranks may be followed by others not too well pleased with the working of the Government, there was great hurrying to and fro yesterday, and it is said that all sorts of promises and not a few threats, were made in order to hold Government members to party allegiance. But disintegration has set in, and there are some pretty live rumors current that the next session of the House may witness some sensations. Fear is in the heart of the Prime Minister. He sees the power so ardently pursued slipping from his grasp, and he has no idea how to retain it. Many opportunities to strengthen his position he has let pass, and his day of disaster is about to dawn.

The adjournment of the House yesterday portends that which is inevitable, that which is imminent. Much important business remains to be transacted, yet heedless of that and of the daily problems cropping up, the Government prefers further to prolong the session to suit the purposes of the Prime Minister and his Executive rather than grapple with the situation confronting them. The current business of the country can go to the dogs for all they care. The unemployed can remain unemployed. Holding on to office is far more important, than legislating for the needs of the common people. So long as there is money to be spent the Government will spend it, but not on the things that are necessary. Twenty-five thousand dollars squandered on twelve school teachers who have been sent abroad to undergo training for special work that will produce no educational results, so far as the children of Newfoundland are concerned, is merely an incident in the spendthrift policy of the Liberal-Reformers. The vast and expensive machinery of the department of education, the head of which is that arch-priest of silence, Dr. Barnes, should be scrapped instantaneously, and if the Prime Minister is sincere in his professions of economy, he will order the dismantling of that useless apparatus of the Government at once. The people of St. John's City want work. The fishing population of Newfoundland want supplies to enable them to prosecute the voyage, which should have been embarked upon long ago. And with all these, and other matters facing them, the Government dawdles and does not seem to appreciate the situation. Poor, puny, powerless legislators, their only ability appears to be in sweating taxes from an already overburdened people, and squandering the money just as fast as it is collected, and showing no tangible returns.

Watch out for the popular paper, "The Comic Weekly," on sale again to-morrow. Our newsboys are requested to be on hand at the Plaindealer Office, 1 Springdale Street, at 9 o'clock to-morrow (Saturday) morning. jne17.11

Barnard's Linctment used by Physicians

Skipped Important Centres.

Mr. J. R. Bennett, M.H.A. for St. John's West received the following message from Bay Roberts, this morning: "Ranger and Diana, bound to Labrador, did not call at Bay Roberts or Spaniards' Bay. This is unfair to Labrador planters and suppliers, and a very strong feeling prevails here as to late, and fishermen want equal chance to secure berths, etc."

Big Salmon Purchases.

During the past three weeks approximately 1,200,000 pounds of fresh salmon have been purchased by the Atlantic Fisheries Company and placed in cold storage preparatory to its being shipped to British and other outside markets. It is expected that within the next fortnight about 600,000 lbs. more will go into cold storage. The price paid was 10 cents per pound, which netted fishermen a handsome sum.

Miss Hutchings' Recital.

On Monday night next, Miss Marjorie Hutchings, daughter of Inspector-General Hutchings will give a recital in the Methodist College Hall, which is being looked forward to by all lovers of music in the city. Miss Hutchings, who has recently been honoured by Mount Allison University, where she received her vocal training, will be assisted at the recital by Mrs. Dr. Murphy on the violin and Miss Alice Woods, a graduate in oratory of Mount Allison. Miss Hutchings will sing selections from English, French and Italian melodies, and be assisted by Mrs. C. F. Garland, who presented scenes from the Opera "Orpheus." Many of the city's leading vocalists will take part in the chorus.

War Memorial Meeting.

The Committee on the erection of a War Memorial are holding a meeting in the Board of Trade Rooms this afternoon, when matters in connection therewith will be discussed, and the public notified through the usual press channels of the result of the deliberations.

McMurdo's Store News.

FRIDAY, June 17. Emulsified Coconut Oil Shampoo, used in hot weather as a thorough cleanser of the scalp is very cooling and refreshing and a bottle is to be found on the toilet table of many ladies, who appreciate to the full its worth in that way. But men can also use Coconut Oil Shampoo to advantage. It is well known that many cases of thinning hair are due simply to the clogging of the scalp with dandruff, which destroys not only the hair, but the roots of the hair as well, and causes premature baldness. It is of importance therefore to use Coconut Oil Shampoo occasionally in order to keep the scalp in proper condition. Price 40c. a bottle.

The Gorton-Pew Company.

Yesterday we drew attention to the absolute failure of a report which appeared in our columns as regards the business of this Company, and unreservedly withdrew our imputations upon its financial standing. It has been intimated to us that our denial might be construed as indicating that the Company only purposed doing business this year on the West Coast of Newfoundland, and that this was prejudicial to the operations of the St. John's branch, which purpose carrying on extensive operations on the Southern Shore and in the City. We desire, therefore, unhesitatingly to say that our intention was to make it clear that our comments referred to the business of the Company in all parts of the country, and we regret if any inconvenience has been caused our oversight. We wish especially to assure those on the Southern Shore and in St. John's who have business reports as to its financial embarrassment is without foundation.

Express Passengers.

The following passengers are on the income express which left Port aux Basques this morning after their arrival of S.S. Kyle:—A. Prince, K. Pettie, Miss Murphy, J. Quirk, Miss Shea, J. and Mrs. Gosse, J. Steele, Mrs. Stoken, Miss Richardson, C. and Mrs. Costello and two children, Mrs. Scovour, A. and Mrs. Halliwell, N. Halliwell, Miss and Mrs. Anderson, Dr. J. Colthoun, T. Hutchingson, Miss Butt, Miss Prowse, Miss Chaplin, A. and Mrs. Lyons, R. K. J. Prowse, Miss Adams, Mrs. Gibbon, Mrs. Topping, J. Wagne, Mrs. Musson, J. Sparkes, W. Lovis, M. Musson, S. Sniffer.

Guides Will Parade.

The Bishop Spencer College Girl Guides under their Scoutmistress, Miss A. M. Richards, B.A. will turn out with the G.L.B. Cadets at the Church Parade which they are holding on Sunday next. The Girl Guides have already paraded with the Brigades and made a very fine showing indeed, a fact which does credit to their efficient officers.

Personal.

Mr. P. G. Butler, Principal of the Springdale Street School, recently received the degree of Bachelor of Commercial Science at New York University.

THE SPENCERIAN.—The second number of the "Spencian," the magazine of Bishop Spencer College, has just come to hand. It is edited by two of the pupils and all the contributors are pupils also. Some very clever poems are among the contents, whilst a few excellent essays are also to be found in the magazine.

Wanted—A Mathematician.

The making out of entries under the new tariff is causing no end of trouble to business people. Mathematicians have used reams of paper trying to figure the taxes payable on the different articles. The whole thing seems so complicated that a reviving would seem necessary. In the Long Room to-day and yesterday very few entries were passed, and as a consequence little or no revenue has come in. It has been ascertained, however, that the new tax on flour, which a month ago was 25 cents, is now up to 75 cents, and that on beef, which formerly paid a duty of 15 per barrel, the duty, tax, surtax and sales tax now amount to $3.60. A well known dry goods merchant has calculated that on $121.00 worth of goods, which works out at near 100 per cent.

Football Notes.

To-night's Game.—The C.L.B. Old Comrades and the B.L.S. of St. George's Field. The B.L.S. team is practically unchanged but some alterations have been made in the C.L.B. team. The services of some very good players having been obtained who will materially strengthen the line-up. The game should be a good one if the ground is not in too slippery a condition.

Hands Agape.—I have been told on very good authority that the question of hands was finally decided by the League before the games began. Under the rule made if the ball hit any player on any part of his arm from the shoulder down a free kick was to be given and if in the penalty area a penalty kick, and not even in the latter case if the referee allowed to discriminate between accidental and deliberate hands. As regards outside, a rule has been made which declares that a free kick must be given if any player is found to be in an offside position, even if he be not playing the ball.

Council Again Sued.

The case of C. Robins vs. the Mayor and City Council for $2.20 arrears wages came up for hearing before Judge Morris this morning in the Central District Court. Mr. George W. B. Ayre for the plaintiff, examined Mr. Vinicombe and Mr. Fox, members for St. John's East. The examination of Mr. Fox was not concluded up to 11 p. m. when adjournment was taken. Mr. E. Leo Carter represented the Council.

Portia left Curling at 7.30 a.m., coming south.

Argyle arrived at Placentia at 8 p.m. yesterday from northern route.

Clyde left Lewisport at 7.30 a.m. to-day on Notre Dame Bay route.

Glencoe arrived at Battle Harbor at 2 p.m. yesterday.

Moyle left Harbor Breton at 10 a.m. yesterday, going west.

Sagona at St. John's. Leaving June 23rd, for Labrador.

Malakoff left Port Union on Bonaville Bay route at 12.30 p.m. yesterday.

Transferring Cargo.

The schooner Cape Pine was hauled alongside the disabled steamer Charleston for the purpose of discharging the cargo of grain in No. 2 hold. The work of discharging the oil in the forward hold is completed, and the pumps are still working to keep the water out. The work of transferring the grain begins this evening.

No More Work Available.

Up to to-day 629 unemployed have registered at the Labor Bureau, and so far work on the roads has been secured for 180 men, twenty-six of the number being sent out this morning to the Topsail Road. According to a notice posted, there are no more jobs available at present, but no more employment is found the names of those who are selected will be posted in the office window.

TO-DAY'S MESSAGES.

NEW YORK, June 16. The ownership of 469 machine guns and hundreds of spare parts, seized yesterday by Customs officials, after they were found secreted on the steamer "Gastonia," and presumed to have been destined for Ireland, is still the subject of investigation by Federal officials. The guns, through the agency of a Federal warrant of detention, were restored to-day to the possession of Customs officials, from whom they were taken on a search and seizure warrant by Hoboken police.

AUTHORITIES WERE WARNED. LONDON, June 16. The Daily Sketch says, this morning, that the seizure of arms on board the steamer Easteade in Hoboken, was due to enterprise of the Irish Office, which informed the British authorities of the fact that guns had been bought and were to be shipped.

TURNED DOWN. DENVER, Col., June 16. The American Federation of Labor to-day, unanimously repudiated the "One Big Union" idea. Without discussion the forty-first Annual Convention of the Federation sustained the action of its committee on organization, in non-concurring with the resolution calling for "one body of workers through amalgamation of Federations, and protective agreements."

A DUBLIN BUDGET. DUBLIN, June 16. Robert Healy, a soldier, who recently was described as a "bank official" dead to-day at Ballygarry. While going to his home from the court, where he had given testimony in a case of attempted robbery, J. E. Mahon was fired at and wounded. Two men did the shooting. MacMahon was taken to hospital in a case of compound fracture of the right arm. He was held up to-day on North Quay by armed men, and robbed of 65 pounds. The Carnegie Library on Castle Island was set on fire to-day and destroyed. The night mail train from Belfast to Dublin was held up at Dipsington by one hundred armed men. Two men containing Belfast merchandise were destroyed, and mails were taken. Robert Kane, tried by court martial for having in his possession five cartridges and caps and bullets, was sentenced to-day to ten years penal servitude. Patrick O'Donnell was sentenced to 15 years for having two hundred rounds of ammunition.

GOVERNMENT AID. KINGSTON, Ja., June 17. Owing to serious financial depression here, due to a fall in the price of sugar, the Government proposes to come to the aid of Jamaica sugar planters. It is proposed to raise a loan of two million dollars, probably in the United Kingdom.

LABOR ORGANIZATIONS OUT OF TOUCH. DENVER CITY, Col., June 17. The Executive Council of the American Federation of Labor has finally and completely repudiated the International Federation of Trade Unions, as it is now conducted.

THE RED PERIL. BERLIN, June 17. Bolshevism, which Russian, French, German and Austrian Communist leaders are known to have been planning to break out in the Polish insurgent forces under Korfanty in Upper Silesia, according to a despatch received here, Red flags have been hoisted in the Middle West, and even in the district and Red General Headquarters have been established. Money levies have been demanded and men impressed into the secret army. Socialist Korfanty officers have been deported to the new movement, and are reported to be organizing a Red army.

SIMS ON TOP. WASHINGTON, June 16. (Canadian Press)—A new factor, has entered the contest for the nomination of Sims, and as a result belief grows here that he will either not be nominated for his famous "jackass" speech, or that he will not receive a formal reprimand, which will be lenient. Great numbers of Letters are being sent to Congress from different states, the greater number of which are reported by Congressmen to be favorable to Sims. Some letters from the Middle West are even dated for Sims for President in 1924. This flood of letters will make it difficult, it is believed here, for Secretary Dunsby to take any severe action.

A STRONG PLEA. LONDON, June 16. Strong pleas for an amendment of the Irish Home Rule Act came unexpectedly to-day from the House of Lords, a feature of the debate being the Middle West, and even in the district and Red General Headquarters have been established. Money levies have been demanded and men impressed into the secret army. Socialist Korfanty officers have been deported to the new movement, and are reported to be organizing a Red army.

PARISHIONERS MEET. The R. C. parishioners of Riverhead held a meeting last night in the Convent Schools when arrangements were made for the holding of a Garden Party on July 18th next. Various committees were formed to look after the arrangements. The affair will be held in Brasill's Field, and will include, besides other sports, a Derby. The proceeds will be devoted to building a Convent school and hall.

Guards Defeat Highlanders.

IN KEEN FOOTER GAME.
In spite of the unpleasant weather conditions prevailing last night the football game between the Highlanders and M.G.B. was a fairly good one, the latter winning by a margin of one goal. Quite a large number of spectators were present despite the fog and rain, and whilst a really good game could not be expected under existing circumstances, nevertheless they were well repaid for facing the weather by being treated to a most exciting game. The ball was naturally not much better than a lump of lead and it was absolutely impossible to control it, whilst the ground had the skating rink beaten to a frazzle for slippiness. Moore in goal for the Highlanders, played an excellent game and saved some very difficult shots. Charlie Quick at centre half for the Guards also played a very good game. Judging by the speed at which the Highlanders started they were going to have things all their own way for they bombarded their opponents goal and scored through Hopkins before the ball had been in play ten minutes. The M.G.B. now thought they should do something, and they took the ball into the "kilties" territory and kept up a running fire of shots on Moore who was hard put to it to keep his goal clear. At half time the score was still 1-0 in favour of the Highlanders.

IN THE SECOND HALF
The Highlanders played a defensive game and resisted all attempts at scoring until 20 minutes before time. Charlie Quick managed to net the ball. Two minutes later Ches Quick put the M.G.B. ahead and there being no further scoring, the game ended with the score 2-1 in favour of the Guards.

Moderate Prohibitionists Meet.

A meeting of those interested in Moderate Prohibition took place in the Casino last night. The object of the meeting, as announced by the Chairman, Mr. Warwick Smith, was to place before the public the result of the Committee's work during the past 18 months, namely to have placed before the House a Bill, in which the provisions of "A bone-dry law." The Royal Commissions recommendations of a bottle every three months, with the script system or "the Swedish system" would be decided by a plebiscite. The Chairman explained to the gathering that as the object for which the Committee was formed had been attained their work as a body ceased, except that expenses for the hire of the Hall and some printing bills were not paid, and for which they were responsible. The speaker said he had reason to think their Bill would be introduced in the House as a non-party measure. After a brief explanation of the great efforts made by himself and Committee to attain their object, and a warning that the fight which had been won was only a skirmish, and that further effort by the public was necessary if the position was to be consolidated, the speaker concluded amidst general applause. Messrs. J. J. St. John, J. O'N. Conroy, and W. French also spoke along the same lines as the Chairman. On motion of Mr. Grouchy the Committee was requested to continue in existence until after another public meeting had been held. The Committee after some debate acceded to the request, and the meeting adjourned with the singing of the National Anthem. Authority was given the Committee to call for public subscription to pay for the expenses incurred in connection with their work. The next meeting will take place after the Bill passes the House of Assembly. It is the intention then to organize committees to conduct the campaign throughout the country.

Generous Gift.

The International Grenfell Association were the recipients of a very generous and particularly interesting gift from Mr. H. W. Petrie, Sr. of Toronto, who presented a carload of useful machinery for the Industrial Department of St. Anthony. Among the pieces are a 10 inch four sided Moulder, a wood frame Sticker, counter shaft and parts, a portable forge, anvil and blacksmith's tools, a Hack saw, knife grinder and Shaper pulleys, belt, extra parts, etc. This splendid collection of machinery will be landed at St. Anthony free of all charges and will considerably enlarge the activities of the machine shop, which at present is a boon to the north. The Canadian Government through their Department of Marine and Fisheries helped the good cause along by arranging to ship this machinery from Charlottetown on board the steamer which carries supplies to the Belle Isle Stations.

St. Anthony Orphanage.

The work on the new orphanage is under way and soon the full force of workmen will be engaged in the effort to put the roof on this splendid building before the snow falls. Local men have been secured and are now on the job. Local contractors are also figuring on the electrical, heating and plumbing installation work.

Personal.

Miss Alida Carter of New York, who will have charge of the Hostess House at St. Anthony, passed through the city last week.

Miss Nicol of Hamilton, Ontario, who will be Head Nurse at Pilley's Island Hospital this year, arrived at the hospital last week to relieve Nurse Harkman, who will carry away with her the best wishes of the district because of her delightful willingness to serve at all times. She has been of splendid assistance to Dr. Patrick Gear who, unfortunately, is also leaving soon. Both Dr. Gear and Nurse Harkman have rendered exceptional service and the Local Committee will greatly regret their departure.

Saint Alban First Martyr in Britain.

June 17 is in the Calendar of the Church of England Prayerbook the festival of St. Alban, a Christian martyr, which Greek word signifies a "witness," and is thus given to one who felt the religious belief to which he testified to be of such importance that rather than deny it he suffered even a cruel death. He is described as a young officer of the Roman army in the reign of Diocletian, its heathen emperor, from A.D. 284 till 305, and as having sheltered a Christian priest he was converted to that religion, and whom he enabled to escape. While St. Alban was still a catechumen, or under religious instruction before baptism, he offered himself boldly as a Christian to martyrdom, and was scourged and beheaded at the town, then called Verulamium, in Latin, or Verulam in English, but which has since been named after him the city of St. Albans. The whole account of this is given by another early saint of the Church of England, the Venerable Bede, a monk of Wearmouth and Jarrow, in the county of Durham, of the monastic order of Benedictine, whose festival is on May 27, but under Bishop Benedict about of Bede's monastic homes, who died in A.D. 680. Bede lived from 778 till 185, and was an extraordinarily great author of ecclesiastical history and biography, also of translations of the old and New Testaments, and commentaries upon them. St. Alban has lately been commemorated by most suitable honour, for while this city's name Verulam had previously been exchanged for that of St. Alban's, so also in A.D. 1877 it was made the seat and title of a new bishopric; and to it was granted the secular distinction of having a Mayor, Town Council, and Town Clerk, for the 12,898 inhabitants whom it had in 1883.

AUTO WEARINESS.

My car is always on the blink it's conduct's always coarse and raw; it would have driven me to drink long since, but for the Volstead law. On vernal morning, bright and cool, I go rejoicing for a spin; and in the dusk a farmer's mule is hired to haul my tumbrel in. The grim mechanics ply their trade, and mend the drivers busted parts, and then collect what coin I've made, and blow it in the changing marts. And evermore I hear my friends tell auto yarns, in joyous notes; oh, nothing ever breaks or bends about the other fellow's boats! Year after year they bowl along, and cost no money for repairs, and nothing's ever going wrong, no sparkling misses unawares. They climb up hills, the owners say, without a knock or kindred sound; and I get stuck on every brae, in every mudhole I am drowned. It is the other fellow's bus that never gets its water warm, that ambles forth, without a fuss, its many wenders to perform. It is the other fellow's van that's better now than when 'twas new; I have the only also ran that ever made a driver blue. But can it be the other lads, who brag in such a lofty tone, are handing me de-natured lies—have they some troubles of their own? Behind the mugs that bravely shine are there a lot of carking cares? Are other boats as bad as mine, and break their owners for repairs?

House of Assembly.

FRIDAY, June 17.
NOTICE OF MOTION.

Hon. The Prime Minister—To move that a Committee of the House be appointed to consider the question of the future operation of the Railway.

Hon. The Minister of Justice—To move the House into Committee of the Whole to consider certain Resolutions regarding the branch railway to Argentina.

Hon. The Prime Minister—To ask leave to introduce a Bill entitled, "An Act to indemnify the St. John's Municipal Commission for Acts done in connection with recent Public Works."

Hon. The Minister of Justice—To move the House into a Committee of the Whole to consider certain Resolutions for the confirmation of an agreement between the Government and the Pulp and Paper Corporation of America.

NOTICE OF QUESTION.
Mr. Sullivan—To ask Hon. the Minister of Marine and Fisheries what employment, if any, he intends to give the Statistical Clerk, whom he transferred from the Customs Department to the Department of Marine and Fisheries to keep statistics of fish shipped under the Fishery Regulations, which are now repealed, and to inform this House if the said Statistical Clerk is to be transferred back to the Customs Department, and if not, why not?

Sir M. P. Cashin—To ask Hon. the Prime Minister if any representations have been made to the Government by any parties here or outside with a view to the building of steel ships in the Colony and on a guarantee by the Government, and if so what action any does the Government propose to take in relation to the matter?

Sir M. P. Cashin—To ask Hon. the Prime Minister if the Government intends to take any steps to investigate the methods of the Banks doing business in this Colony in view of criticisms as to the manner in which they operate and especially of his own criticism of one of these Institutions a few weeks ago in this respect, which he described as composed of Shylocks, and does the Government propose to take any action to establish the State Bank advocated by the President of the Fishermen's Protective Union in the last annual address to his organization?

Sir M. P. Cashin—To ask Hon. the Minister of Marine and Fisheries if it is correct that the salt brought here by the steamer "Henrik Lund" was purchased from a man named George George Hawes is the owner and if so why; also if the salt has been sold without payment of any duty and if so why; and also if it is correct that the parties purchasing this salt have been furnished the same without check or tally being made by the Government representatives in charge of the delivery of the same?

Sir M. P. Cashin—To ask Hon. the Prime Minister if the Government has yet received the report from Mr. E. Collishaw on the mission of himself and Mr. Devine to Washington, in connection with fishery matters, and if not, when the Government expects to receive the same; also, if Mr. Collishaw has been paid any money on account of this service so far?

Sir M. P. Cashin—To ask Hon. the Minister of Marine and Fisheries, in his capacity of Chairman of the Railway Commission, if any report has yet been received from the engineer in charge of the coal boring operations at South Branch with respect thereto, and how much longer is the work to be continued?

Sir M. P. Cashin—To ask Hon. the Minister of Marine and Fisheries, in his capacity of Chairman of the Railway Commission, if the Commission has prepared or is preparing any report on its operation of the Railroad for the twelve months which will end on the 30th of this month, and if so when will it be tabled, and if not why not? Also if such a report has been prepared will it contain any recommendations with regard to the future operations of the Railroad based upon the experience gained by the Commission during the twelve months it has been in office, and if not will he undertake to have some such report or other material prepared without delay so as to assist the Legislature and the country to reach an understanding as to the difficulty which surrounds the railway problem and the best methods of overcoming the same?

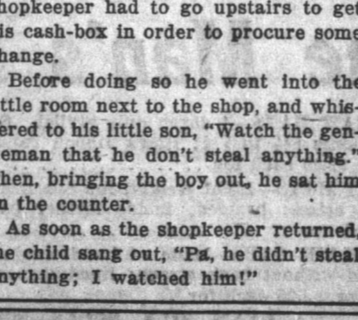

DODD'S KIDNEY PILLS
Mr. MacDonnell—To ask Hon. the Minister of Posts and Telegraphs to furnish a comparative statement covering the past five years showing: (1) the number of officials in the General Post Office at St. John's and the duties performed by each, giving name of each and date of appointment. (2) A statement of the same kind regarding the mail clerks on trains and steamers.
Mr. Sullivan—To ask the Minister of Shipping to lay on the table of this House all the names of the different parties who received government salt on credit from the Government, giving quantity supplied to each and price charged. Also the names of all parties who bought salt for cash from the Government and price paid for same.

Kept An Eye on Him.
A gentleman went into a fancy shop to buy something. As it was early, the shopkeeper had to go upstairs to get his cash-box in order to procure some change.
Before doing so he went into the little room next to the shop, and whispered to his little son, "Watch the gentleman that he don't steal anything." Then, bringing the boy out, he sat him on the counter.
As soon as the shopkeeper returned, the child sang out, "Pa, he didn't steal anything; I watched him!"

Editor Evening Telegram.
Dear Sir.—As I am the "glorified ass" to whom Mr. Morine refers in his letter on the Fishery Supplies Act, perhaps I may be permitted, like my biblical predecessor, to speak in my own defence. On that occasion, you will remember, the ass did not altogether have the worst of it. In the first place, no one knows better than Mr. Morine himself how unfair it is to tax the draftsman of an Act with all its defects. He has to take his instructions and follow them whatever his own opinion may be. In this particular case I had to take my instructions, not only from the Government but, apparently, from the whole country, with its most vociferous spokesmen on the Opposition side of the House of Assembly. The whole mercantile community has been insisting for weeks past that if the Government did not do something to help the situation, there would be no supplying done this year; and everyone knows that in bringing in this Bill, and in adopting the principle of guaranteeing the payment of the fishermen's accounts, the Government have yielded to the demands of Mr. Morine and his friends. It is plain, for instance, that he does not view the Bill in the same light as the "News," which has not yet seen anything perilous in the measure.

All of Mr. Morine's strictures, which are most of them sound enough, must be read in the light of this fact, that it is an extraordinary measure to meet an extraordinary emergency. The Government being, then, pledged to the principle of this guarantee, how could it have better safeguarded itself and the public funds (because that is the real purpose of the Bill)? And what do Mr. Morine's objections amount to? Let us consider them in order. His argument about the unfair distinction made between the "guaranteed" and "non-guaranteed" supplier is perfectly correct, but it is also perfectly obvious. Sir John Crossbie, if I remember correctly, pointed it out in the House, and I myself pointed it out as soon as I was asked to draft the Bill. It is plain that the merchant who will finance his own supplying is doing the country a far better service than the one who demands a guarantee, but the object of the measure is not to emphasize moral differences but merely to ensure that the Government gets a square deal in respect of the money it is putting at stake. After all, the unguaranteed merchant has a fair measure of protection in the insolvency law, and, except in one respect, is in no worse position than under the existing law. That respect is thus strongly described by Mr. Morine: "The very fish caught by aid of the supplies given by the unguaranteed man are mortgaged to the guaranteed supplier. Was there ever such a travesty, etc." Now that can only happen where the same man is supplied by both kinds of suppliers; and how many such cases will there be? Very few, I should imagine. I write subject to correction, but I believe that this year the great majority of fishermen are going, each of them, to one supplier only. Even if such a contingency does occur, it only means that the unguaranteed man is postponed to the other, with whom he would have to share in any case under the law as it stands. I think we can trust the business acumen of our merchants to avoid much trouble on this particular score.

Mr. Morine next makes light of the possibility of fraud on the part of the debtor, and writes indignantly of the suggestion that the fishermen cannot be trusted. Let us pass over the absurdity of the insinuation here that to take a businesslike precaution is to impute dishonest tendencies to the other side. A man does not suggest that another is a rogue when he requires a receipt for money paid him; but he shows himself, to use a polite expression, a "glorified ass" if he does not. But is this danger slight or is it a businesslike precaution? I do not know how many clients he has represented among the unfortunate "crop of insolventcies we have lately had to say on the subject, but can give him an instance typical of many. A large firm on the West Coast became insolvent at the time when the fish was being turned out. Immediately all the men who had received supplies from it, and who regularly sold their fish, turned to supply to a competitor, to a total value of about $80,000. Mr. Morine may consider that a small matter, but it was not so regarded by that firm's creditors. Finally, one aspect of the same question, that concerned with warehouse receipts, has been thought of sufficient importance to be fully discussed at a crowded meeting in the Board of Trade Rooms.

But Mr. Morine reaches the height of his argument when he proves that no one will buy "guaranteed" fish. He says that, before any person, therefore, can safely buy fish caught this year, he must assure himself that the fisherman who caught it has received no supplies from a guaranteed supplier, or that such supplier has been paid in full. Who will buy fish under such conditions? This means, in effect, that no one can safely buy mortgaged property, for that is what such fish will be. Coming from a layman, such an argument would be startling enough; from a lawyer, it is inexplicable. What is there to prevent anyone from buying such fish? The position is simply this: If the supplier wants the fish, he can buy it, but he must credit the fisherman at not less than the market price. If he does not want it, or will not give the price, the fisherman has no difficulty in getting it. The only difference from past years is this, that he will in such case buy from the real owner of the fish, the supplier, and that he can help the latter, and the whole country, by seeing that the money goes into the pocket where it belongs. Most merchants, I think, will agree that that is a consummation devoutly to be wished. I can see, in fact, only one trouble confronting such a buyer—he will have to inquire from his would-be seller whether or not his debt has been guaranteed. If Mr. Morine thinks it necessary, it would be an easy matter to add a section heavily penalizing any fisherman who gave false information in that respect.

Mr. Morine finally scores the Bill heavily for a provision which is no longer in it and only got there more or less accidentally. There was nothing in my draft giving the debt due the Government from a supplier preference over debts secured by mortgage, etc. Those words were hurriedly inserted, I think in the course of debate. Even so they were practically harmless. Mr. Morine has forgotten his law here and got indignant over nothing. For the Bill merely said that the Crown debt should be paid out of the assets of the estate of such supplier before the mortgage debt. Now if any of the supplier's property has been mortgaged to another, it does not form part of his estate, or come into the trustee's hands at all, unless the creditor chooses to surrender it! The words, therefore, as they stood were practically meaningless and Mr. Morine's remarks are beside the point. If he had taken the trouble to go to the right source for the Bill, he would have found that this feature is altered. The section now makes void, as against the Crown, and no further, all mortgages, charges, etc. of the supplier's assets made subsequently to the advance of the Government. In other words, the property mortgaged can be taken, if necessary, to satisfy the Crown debt; after that done the mortgage stands. Has Mr. Morine any objection to this?

If I have taken up more space than I intended, it is because they stood very close to, and to some extent, the commitment offered myself must be my excuse. In conclusion, I should like it to be understood that I am neither attacking nor defending the principle of the Bill; that is a matter on which there will be many opinions; I have merely been defending the manner in which it endeavours to put that principle into effect. I am afraid I cannot agree with Mr. Morine's criticisms. It is easy enough to mount oneself on academic stilts, but in this particular case I should prefer to have the opinion of our best business men, delivered from the humble level of me, if all.

Yours truly,
HARRY A. WINTER.

Legislative Council.

THURSDAY, June 16.
The session opened at 2 p.m. A Bill to amend the Law Society Act was read a second time and referred to a Committee.

Hon. Mr. E. Gibbs informed the House that only 3 or 4 persons would receive any advantage under the Act, but it was introduced in conformity with like measures introduced throughout the Empire.

Sir Patrick McGrath desired to see an exception made of those who had been conscripted in the army, but he is not entitled to the same privilege as a volunteer.

An Act further respecting the Cutting and Exportation of Timber, and an Act to amend the War Measures Act were given a second reading. In moving the Bill to Committee.

Hon. George Shea stated that both sides of the House would be glad to see the Act taken from the Statute Book.

The Darcy Exploration Co., Ltd. Agreement was given a first reading. The bill is in charge of Hon. Mr. P. Gibbs.

Hon. George Shea moved the first reading of the Salt Codfish Exportation Repeal Act. The Bill will be read a second time to-morrow. Adjournment was taken until to-day.

BIG ATHLETIC MEET.
At a meeting of the C.L.B. Athletic Association held on Wednesday night arrangements were practically finalized for the great annual Dominion Sports which will be held July 8th, in St. George's Field. An excellent programme was drawn up, which in addition to the Championship Races similar to those of last year, includes a ten mile open race which will probably start inside of Donovan's and end in St. George's Field. It is expected that a large number of entries will be made for the various open events. The preliminaries in the football five will be played off at the earliest opportunity. Amongst the C.L.B. events are an inter Co. Relay Race and Football Sixes. It is probable that teams from the Bell Island and Hear's Content Companies will compete. An exhibition which will prove most interesting will be that given by the Brigade Pyramid Squad under C.S.M. Rendell. A splendid array of prizes for the various events have been recently imported from H.Q., England, and will make fitting rewards for the victors. The C.L.B. Band will be present during the afternoon and will render appropriate music in their usual splendid manner.

With the Rod.

Two English sportsmen at Forks Pool, Grand River, landed four salmon last Wednesday.

E. Milten and party are at Overall Pool, Grand River, and are doing well with salmon.

D. Dunn and S. H. Clapp who spent few days on the Grand River, found they were a little early, went last week to Burnt Island Brook.

J. L. and Mrs. France had come good salmon fishing on Robinson's River last week. They are now camped at Harry's Brook having moved there on Sunday.

At Crabbes River over twenty salmon have been taken—all by local fishermen. Allen McIsaac landed a ten pounder on Wednesday and reports quite a number of salmon entering the river.—Western Star.

C. L. B. CADETS.

The C.L.B. Cadets are all busy as usual as regards their duties. All ranks are going strong like Johnny Walker! The Officer's Mess last week held the usual routine meeting. Camp will be held on the 22nd and 23rd of July will be held a bit earlier than usual. Lieut. Moty will be "Food Controller." He was a great success last year and was officially presented by Lt. Col. R. F. Goodridge, O.C. on behalf of his brother officers with a wedding gift in the shape of a pocket watch. He is a popular officer and all ranks wish Mr. and Mrs. Miles all good luck! A presentation to Major Riley, M.C., formerly Adjutant, was made last night in the Mess. A formally signed address accompanied by Major Riley to the address accompanied by Major Riley to the professional life in the Army. The address was composed by Capt. Fletcher and stated all the Mess officers expressing their high appreciation of Major Riley's heroic work in increasing the morale and Brigade discipline generally. Major Riley left his Regiment, which proceeds to India and all ranks wish him good luck.

Wednesday morning Lt.-Col. Goodridge and staff, consisting of Lt. F. Reid and P. B. Rendell, visited Bell Island for the purpose of inspection of J. Co. to the unveiling of the War Memorial subscribed by the public spirited citizens of Bell Island and their gallant leader, the late Major J. Co. to the Golden West, and whose memories are dear in the breasts of those whom they left behind. At 11 a.m. a special steamer "Orbit" brought His Excellency the Governor and suite with the C.L.B. Cadets officers to the island. The unveiling was at noon. Accompanying the Governor were the Hon. Regt. Serjt.-Major Peckham, President of the Old Comrades C.L.B. The Brigade paraded at 11 a.m. and marched to the cemetery, and then to the route. J. Co. was headed by their great brass band under Sergt. Martin and under the direct command of Major William Lindsay. The Memorial is in the form of an obelisk of native granite—some twenty feet high and contains the names of all Bell Islanders who were killed in the War. The Committee of Bell Island citizens were in charge. Magistrate Power was Chairman, and Fred Jardine, Esq., J.P. Secretary. Speeches were made by Capt. Murphy for Bell Island citizens, Mr. J. Higgins for the G. W. Veterans, and Lt. Col. Walter Rendell, O.B.E., for the Royal Nfld. Regt. His Excellency unveiled the monument after a graceful speech. Wreaths were laid upon the memorial, including one from the Church Lads Brigade Cadets—a magnificent work of the forists art—in red, yellow and blue colours of the Brigade. The Band played the Dead March in Saul, with like measures introduced throughout the party and with the notes of the bugles sounding the Last Post, Bell Island citizens had done their duty. We to be conscripted in the army, but he is not entitled to the same privilege as a volunteer.

The home of the bride's parents was the scene of a quiet but pretty wedding on Tuesday evening the 14th inst., at 8 o'clock when Miss Leah Steele, of Mill Road, was united in the bonds of holy matrimony to Mr. M. A. Johns, Manager of the Bank of Montreal at Curling. The wedding was performed by the Rev. Mr. Morrison, pastor of the Presbyterian Church, Grand Falls, in the presence of several immediate friends of the contracting parties and a goodly number of invited guests. The ceremony took place in the drawing room which was beautifully decorated for the occasion, the fair bride who entered the room to the strains of Lohengrin's Bridal Chorus splendidly escorted by Mrs. Little, leaning on the arm of her father taking her place with the groom under a floral bell specially arranged for the happy event. The bride was gowned in white georgette over satin, embroidered with crystal beads in star design and wore a bridal veil with a coronet of orange blossoms and carried a shower bouquet of white carnations and sweet peas. Miss Fitzgerald was her only attendant dressed in coral pink georgette relieved with helio with a black Tulle Picture Hat. Mr. Lonsdale, Manager Bank of Montreal, Grand Falls, supported the groom. Following the ceremony refreshments were served during which the health of bride and groom was ably proposed by Mr. Lonsdale while the same office in respect to the bride's parents devolved upon Mr. Harris, Director of the Anglo Newfoundland Development Company Ltd., who very graciously performed the duty. Many handsome presents were received, notably amongst them being a cabinet of silverware from the guests at the Staff House, where the groom during his residence here was a popular and honored associate and these together with numerous messages of felicitation speak in volumes of the high esteem in which both bride and groom are regarded by a large circle of friends. The groom's gift to the bride was a necklace of diamonds and pearls, to the bridesmaid a Cameo Brooch with pearl settings, and to the groomsmen a Pearl Stick Pin. Mr. and Mrs. Johns left on the early express this morning for their future home at Curling. Grand Falls, June 15th, 1921.

Splendid Railroad Engineering Feat.

Last Thursday we witnessed the consummation of the ablest piece of railroad engineering that it has been our privilege to witness. Superintendent Cobb, assisted by Roadmasters Keefe and Hauben and a gang of men placed on the main line engine 124 which twenty days previous had gone off the cliff at Crow Gulch down into the waters of the Grand River. A track had to be built around the cliff for over a quarter of a mile, much of it in the water, and they therefore had to work the tides, and the wrecked engine was hauled by cable attached to engine 62 about a hundred feet up the mountain. The feat was accomplished without the slightest accident and the wrecked engine reached the machine shops at Humbermouth on Thursday evening.—Western Star, June 15th.

SERIOUSLY ILL.

His many friends will be sorry to learn of the serious illness of Mr. Jonas Barter, S.P.C.A. Inspector. He has been confined several days Mr. Barter's condition has been critical, and he has to have the attention of two doctors and a trained nurse. Yesterday morning his condition showed slight signs of improvement.

That Sounded Fair.

A certain famous pianist was invited to dinner by a wealthy man, who was the owner of a large boot factory, and had been a shoemaker in his time. After the repast, the pianist was requested to play something, and he consented. Not long afterwards he invited the boot manufacturer to his house, and when dinner was over handed him a pair of old boots. "What am I to do with these?" inquired the rich man. With a genial smile the pianist replied: "Why, the other day after dinner you asked me to make a little music for you, and now I ask you to mend these boots for me. Each to his trade."

CLOUDS.

"There wasn't a cloud in the sky all day. It was a perfect day."
So ran the newspaper description of the weather on a certain gala day. In the first place I have been told that there is no such thing as a cloudless day—that sometime during every day there will be some clouds in the sky.
But whether that is true or not, I have another objection to the above description. Even supposing there were no clouds, would that be your idea of a perfect day?
It wouldn't be mine.
I think there are few things in all nature lovelier than the cloud forma.

full bloom on the side of a hill. I thought I had never seen anything lovelier than those apple trees in their fresh exquisite green and their even more exquisite pink and white against the background of a brilliant sky. But when I came back that afternoon and saw that same apple orchard again with a hundred fleecy clouds floating in the sky just above it, I found that there was something lovelier.
A photographer who does some very wonderful amateur work showed me two pictures of a hillside he had made. One was pretty enough—the other was beautiful because the developer, an artist in his line, had put in the cloud effects that the photographer for some reason had missed. You can hardly imagine what a difference it made in the picture.

So Many Kinds of Clouds.

Clouds appear in many different ways. The little fleecy clouds above the apple orchard were so dainty and so delicate and innocent looking that they gave a tender beauty to the landscape. But when the clouds roll together in some vast structure of peak on peak, their beauty becomes of the majestic type. And then again when electricity is in the air and the thunder clouds mass themselves on either side of the sky as if arrayed for battle, though still beautiful, they are awful in the true sense of that practically lost word.

HOW DOES GOD FEEL?
Clouds and stars, sunset of rose and amber, and crimson sunrises, the lovely curve of distant mountains, the white mystery of moonlight, the grace of trees, the exquisite form and color and fragrance of flowers, the marvel of snow—what a world of beauty this is!

And how easily we come to take it all for granted and do not respond to it. It is a well known human trait to resent having one's gifts taken for granted. I wonder how God feels about it.

Teeth Topics.

Dental science was restored to the world in 1700, after a lapse of a thousand years, during which long time no notice was taken of teeth troubles. Of every ten teeth belonging to adults, at least nine are saved by the progress of dentistry. Fifty years ago teeth were ruthlessly drawn, and filling was unknown.

Teeth of sycamore wood were used by the ancient Greeks. Ligatures of gold and silver were fastened to these wooden molars, which rested next to the natural sound ones.
Under the Mosaic law, "An eye for an eye, and a tooth for a tooth," was carried out to the letter. Amongst the old-time executioner's instruments of torture would be found a pair of forceps.

Savages have the best teeth. It is usually found civilized people possess the worst teeth.

Black stain is put on a Japanese girl's teeth just before she marries. The custom is more usually practiced among the rich classes, and the stain is a repulsive kind of varnish.
West African children, on reaching a certain age, have their teeth deliberately broken.

Malays, according to an authoritative source, stain their teeth with various colours. Bright red and vivid blue are common, and a tint of brilliant green is got with the aid of arsenic and lemon-juice.

Livingstone has told of how a Kaffir child with a prominent upper jaw, with good teeth, was regarded as a monster, and immediately killed.
Toothache in a decayed tooth, it is said, can often be cured by putting a small piece of cotton, saturated with strong ammonia, into the hollow of the affected tooth.

Osborne Naval School.

The British naval school at Osborne has just been closed for good and the junior cadets will now be trained with the seniors at Dartmouth.

Owing to the decrease in the navy, the number of boys at Dartmouth is being cut down by nearly half. The parents of those who are being withdrawn are receiving grants of $1,200, in order that they may make fresh provision for their sons' future careers.

Dartmouth college is probably the finest school in the world, and the most perfectly equipped. The main block of the college stands on top of a hill on the south side of the Dart. Lower down the hill are the mechanical instructional workshops, whose cadets are taught to handle drills, vices, and lathes.

The cricket and football fields are large, and the turf is the best in Devon. But the chief pride of the sporting side of the Royal Naval College is the pack of beagles. The kennels hold about twenty couples. The commander of the college is Master of the Hunt, and there is a meet every half holiday during the season. The master chooses twelve cadets as his assistants, and these are picked principally for their powers of cunning.

Though the numbers of cadets is to be smaller, Dartmouth will still continue to flourish. Candidates for cadetship must pass a pretty stiff examination, and each is separately interviewed by a committee of naval officers.

Then comes an examination in English, Latin, French, arithmetic, etc.

The full course of training for a cadet is four years and eight months, first at Dartmouth, and lastly in a training cruiser, such as the Cornwall. These cruises complete his early education, and at about seventeen he becomes a real "anotty" or midshipman.—Acadian Recorder.

A Tall Story.

Sir Auckland Geddes, our Ambassador at Washington, told an amusing story at a dinner he attended during his recent visit to this country.

An American was boasting about the height of the buildings in New York, but he had difficulty (said Sir Auckland) in beating the yarns of his friend Pat.

At last he said in desperation that in little old New York there was a building so high that it took twenty-four hours to walk up the flights of stairs to the top flat.

"Where, that's nothing," said Pat in disgust. "Why, because, I was working on a building one Saturday, and I dropped me hammer at forenoon when I stopped work. Truth it is, it was the very same hammer that dropped on me head when I returned on the Monday morning."

During a recent hail storm, says an exchange, Henry A. Bryant, of Corea, Me., froze five gallons of ice cream with hail stones.

A POPULAR OFFICIAL.

Mr. F. E. Pittman, the popular and obliging passenger agent of the Newfoundland, Co. was a passenger arriving here on the Kyle this morning. Mr. Pittman, perhaps one of the greatest live wire officials of his kind, and a general favorite with the travelling public, is making the round trip, but may remain here until Thursday.

STRANDED NEWFOUNDLANDERS.

According to stories told by several groups of hardy young Newfoundlanders who kept acting Immigration Officer Mitchell working overtime yesterday, the labor market in Cape Breton is pretty well glutted. In all there were about twenty applicants who pleaded with Mr. Mitchell for deportation back to the ancient colony. Some of them are married men with families at home, who told of only coming to North Sydney about a week ago to seek employment in the Cape Breton collieries or at any work, great at any price, but were unsuccessful. Asked why they left Newfoundland they said conditions were unbearable, but they would rather starve among their own people than among strangers. In some cases the applicants admitted to the Immigration official that they misrepresented the facts when passing through, so anxious were they to obtain work in this country. The men will be sent back on the steamer Kyle tonight.

COOK-MANNING.

The marriage of Miss Elsie M. Cook, South Side, and Mr. W. H. Manning, H.M.S. Briton, was solemnized at St. Mary's Church yesterday by Rev. A. E. S. Stirling. The bride was robed in silk and gossamer, crepe with pearl trimming and wore a wreath of orange blossoms. She carried a beautiful bouquet of white carnations and sweet peas with fern. Mr. Wm. J. Cook, father of the bride, gave his daughter away. Misses Laura Cook and Camille Cooker, wearing dresses of crepe de chine and picture hats, accompanied the bride, while little Ruth Taylor was flower girl. The bridegroom was ably supported by Mr. E. Newton, H.M.S. Briton, and Mr. Harper, of Mount Pearl. Wireless Station, Mr. C. B. Lloyd presided at the organ. There was a large number of guests, who after the ceremony accompanied the happy couple to Eiland's Hotel, Topsail, where a reception was held. The bride received many costly presents amongst which was one from her late employer, S. Milley, Dec., and another from St. Mary's Sanctuary Guild of which she was a popular member. The bridegroom presented valuable gifts to the bride, bridesmaids and best man. The church was beautifully decorated by the young ladies of St. Mary's Sanctuary Guild. The Telegram wishes Mr. and Mrs. Manning many years of happy wedded life.

HARTLEY-MOLLOY.

A quiet but pretty wedding was solemnized at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Molloy, Portugal Cove South, on June 12th, at 4 p.m., only the immediate relatives being present, when their daughter Teresa was united in the holy bonds of matrimony by the Very Rev. S. J. Wilson, P. to Michael Hartley of that place. The bride looked charming dressed in brown satin, with veil and orange blossoms, as she entered the room leaning on the arm of her father. Misses Maggie Molloy and Janie Hewitt, cousins and aunts of the bride respectively, acted as bridesmaids, while the groom was supported by Messrs. Samuel Molloy and Wm. Ward. After the ceremony a suitably arranged supper was partaken of and when the usual toasts and replies had been made, all engaged in various games, cards, chess, etc., until 11 p.m., when the wedding party proceeded to their future home. We wish Mr. and Mrs. Hartley many years of wedded happiness.—Com.

A Youthful Citizen Honored.

We have just been shown a Testimonial awarded by The Royal Humane Society, to Jack, son of Dr. F. Fisher, which reads as follows: "At a meeting of the Committee of the Royal Humane Society held at their office, Trafalgar Square, on the 8th day of March, 1921, it was resolved unanimously: "That John W. A. Fisher is justly entitled to the Honorary Testimonial of this Society inscribed on Vellum, which is hereby awarded him for having on the 26th August, 1920, gone to the rescue of Grace Fisher, who was in imminent danger of drowning in the Humber River, Newfoundland, and whose life he gallantly saved."

The document bears the autograph of H.R.H. the Prince of Wales as President and is one of which Jack and his friends may well feel proud. It is accompanied by a letter from His Excellency the Governor, expressing his congratulations to Jack on receiving this award.

We feel that not only Jack, but the whole community is honored by this public recognition of his pluck and resourcefulness so fearlessly demonstrated on this occasion. The testimonial as stated is printed on Vellum and is about 10 by 14 inches in size.—Western Star.

Blue-Bead a Potent Charm.

According to Melville Chater, who is on a tour of inspection for the Near East Relief, madness is still regarded by Turks, Armenians and other as evidence of the presence of an evil spirit, and exorcisms and darkness are the means taken to drive him away.

In a little village of Greek population, near Tala, where Mr. Chater and a party of relief workers were being entertained, "the Greek Bishop, Nicholas," writes Mr. Chater, "showing us some dungeon-like vaults under the chapel, in which vaults the early Christians held service during periods of persecution. These pitch-black vaults are now employed by neighboring Turks as a lunatic asylum."

"When an evil spirit enters into some one he or she is let down through a barred grating into the vaults and loaded with heavy chains, which I saw there. The devil is thus exorcised by pitch darkness, chains, bread and water diet and prayers until the situation becomes too uncomfortable for him and he forsakes the affected person."

"The Bishop assured me that this unholy, desecrating and unsanitary method of dealing with temporarily deranged persons is still in force, and strange as it may seem, the mental disturbance is often cleared up in twenty-four hours."

These superstitions are not confined to the Turks, however. Among the Armenians in the rural districts the Near East relief workers find that a blue bead is regarded as more efficacious in warding off the "evil one" than all the normal and sane precautions in the world. Even the animals are decorated with this symbol of good luck.

Historic Freaks
of Wather.

While many people are discussing what they call unusual weather conditions, a great many strange and freakish capers of the north wind can be added to our personal store of experiences if we will take the trouble to consult the records of weather conditions during the past centuries. One would believe from such records that the earth is really experiencing less cold than formerly, which tends to disprove the theory that this planet is going through a gradual cooling process.

Certain sections of Europe furnish many more freakish cold weather happenings than any other part of the world. Beginning with the fifth century of the Christian era, weather records disclose the fact that the Black Sea was completely tied up with a thick coating of ice for more than twenty days during the year 401, while just 367 years later both the Black Sea and Dardanelles were frozen over for a long period. In the year 402 the Danube River had ice of such depth that an army crossed and recrossed it several times in the course of its manoeuvres. In almost frost-proof Constantinople the very next year there was a continual run of frost from October 1 to Feb. 1, after which the customary balmy weather returned. Going on further north in Europe, we find that in 823 the Danube, the Rhine, the Elbe and the Seine rivers were frozen over hard enough to support heavy vehicle traffic. Even the warm Adriatic Sea, in the region of the much contested city of Fiume, is reported as frozen in the year 860.

Just fourteen years later the whole of Europe was visited by a big snow-storm, which continued from the beginning of November to the last of March, easily holding the record for snowfall during all the time that account has been kept of these happenings.

Not to be eclipsed in freakish cold weather doings, the Danube two years later was frozen into one big stream of solid ice and remained in this condition for a long time. Even the Cattagat, where the English defeated the German navy in the greatest naval engagement of the war, took its turn at an icy coat in the year 1301 and people walked across from Norway to Jutland. Thirty-one years later the same conditions were repeated, at which time the Rhine and other German rivers were traversed by the traffic of the day. During the winter of 1344 all the rivers and other waters of Italy were frozen over, and in the same year it was so cold in Denmark that even the wolves crossed over to Jutland on the ice in their efforts to reach a warmer place.

Queer Substitutes

At the forthcoming visit of the Prince of Wales to his Duchy of Cornwall the following "reliefs" will be paid—a greyhound for the manor of Elerky, guided spurs for the manor of Penrose, and a goatskin mantle for Swannoot, and other "reliefs" are a salmon spear, white gloves, and various roses. Roses, by the way, are quite a common form of this acknowledgment of feudal tenure, but though many of these charges are only due when the lord comes to his manor, examination of ancient charters often shows that the roses have to be ordered at Christmas. Chifford Castle, for instance, is held by the payment of a rose on Christmas Day, and of a specified quantity of snow on Midsummer Day, or in default the payment of a fine. As payment could never be made properly, it always meant the payment of a fine in lieu, and this was no doubt intended. Marlborough pays to somebody every year one white bullock, two white cocks, and two white greyhounds, though what for does not appear. Sheffield Castle and manor are held by the payment of two white greyhounds, but the most curious tenure of all is that of the lands of Pennycook (Midlothian), which are held by the service of the blast of a horn from a certain stone whenever the Sovereign enters upon the estate. Many services which are now regarded as privileges were formerly demanded and enforced as rent, and there are really many hundreds of them in existence.

"It Is Well."

The Last Words of Famous People.
Not always is the ruling passion strong in death. The last expressions of some famous people have been almost trivial:—

Socrates: "Krito, we owe a cock to Asclepius; discharge the debt, and by no means omit it."

King James V. of Scotland: "It came with a lass, and it will go with one." (Alluding to the intelligence brought to him, that his wife was delivered of a daughter, the heiress of the crown, and to the fact of the crown having come into his family by the daughter of King Robert Bruce.)

Raleigh: "Why dost thou not strike? Strike, man!" (To the executioner, who was hesitating.)

Charles I.: "Remember!"

Charles II.: "Don't let poor Nelly starve."

Haller: "The artery ceases to beat."

Mme. de Pompadour: "Un moment, Monsieur de Care, nous nous en irons ensemble." ("One moment—we will go together." To the cure of the Madeleine, who had called to see her, and was taking his leave, as she seemed just about to expire.)

Dr. Franklin: "A dying man can do nothing easy."

Dr. William Hunter: "If I had strength enough to hold a pen, I would write how easy and pleasant a thing it is to die."

Thurlow: "I'm shot if I don't believe I'm dying!"

Burns: "That scoundrel, Matthew Penn!" (The solicitor who had written to him about a debt, and had inspired the poet with fears of a jail.)

Washington: "It is well."

Nelson: "I thank God I have done my duty."

Napoleon: "Mon Dieu—La Nation Française—Tête d'armée—"

Byron: "I must sleep now."

Talma: "The worst of all is that I cannot see."

George IV.: "Watty, what is this? It is death, my boy—they have deceived me."

Goethe: "More light!"

Earl of Eldon: "It matters not to me, where I am going, whether the weather be hot or cold." (In answer to a remark that it was a cold day.)

Gainsborough: "We are all going to Heaven, and Vandryke is of the company."

Earl of Chesterfield: "Give Daryolles a chair."

Cromwell: "It is not my design to drink or sleep, but my design is to make what haste I can to be gone."

Grotius: "Be serious."

Mohammed: "Oh, Allah! be it so—among the glorious associates in Paradise."

General Wolfe: "What, do they run already? Then I die happy."

Sir John Moore: "Blanhope, remember me to your sister."

Johnson: "God bless you, my dear." (To a Miss Morris, who asked him for his blessing.)

Roosevelt: "Please put out the light."—John o' London's Weekly.

Camphor From Formosa

Practically all the camphor in the world comes from Formosa. An average camphor tree 12 feet in circumference at its base, yields enough camphor at present prices to bring its owner $7,500. The camphor laurel is but one of a number of trees which grow together. They grow wild; in old days some as big as 40 feet in circumference were found, but these soon fell to the axes of the wasteful pioneer camphor-gatherers, and now they must be sought in the jungles. Camphor-gathering is not a simple task. Apart from the labor of scouting for trees, cutting them down, and extracting the camphor, in many parts of Formosa the camphor workers perform their labors under armed guard. For the thick woods sometimes swarm with unseen but deadly head-hunters. Even with the efficient protection supplied by the Japanese—who now control the island, and who have made camphor a Government monopoly—workers now and then fall at their work. When a camphor tree is felled every bit of the wood is preserved and reduced to chips. These chips are placed in a report above water which is kept boiling by a fire built beneath. The vapor which rises contains the camphor, which is condensed into the solid white mass we all know.

After Six Years.

Soldier's Remarkable Experience.
To have a lump of jagged metal embedded in one's tongue for six years and not to know it sounds an incredible story, but there is a man in Bishops Stortford, Hertford, to whom it has actually happened. He is William Childs, employed as a postman there. Local doctors have removed from the back of his tongue a piece of shell weighing a half-ounce. It has certainly mystified the doctors. Childs is just as mystified about it himself, but he knows how the metal got there.

It happened in May, 1915, when, as he was advancing with his platoon at Hill 60, he received about 20 splinters from a shell in the face. He lost the sight of his left eye. He remembered nothing more until he regained consciousness in Bristol Hospital, where he lay for ten months.

"Ever since," said Childs, "I had difficulty in eating, and I used to get hung up when talking. One day I happened to look in the mirror and saw a hole at the back of my tongue, which had not healed up. I went to a doctor, who discovered the piece of shell. Until then I had no idea it was there."

Taking Precautions.

An amusing anecdote concerning Lord Northcliffe is told by Mrs. Stuart Menzies in "Modern Men of Mark."

Some time ago a child was run over and killed by a motor-car, the driver of which disappeared.

Lord Northcliffe offered a reward of £100 for the arrest of the inhuman chauffeur, only to discover that it was his own brother's car.

Soon after this (says Mrs. Menzies) a girl was murdered by an unknown assassin.

A friend of Lord Northcliffe asked if he were going to offer a reward again. "Well," he replied, his eyes twinkling, "I think I'll wait and find out first whether any of my relatives were out on that particular day."

LISTEN TO REASON!

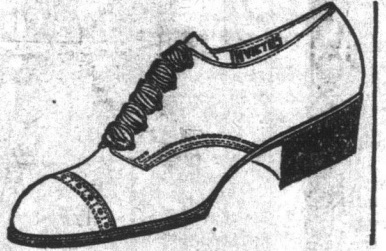

Common sense applied to the purchasing of your footwear will convince you of two things:—

That you cannot get value in a "cheap" shoe—because the materials which enter into their making must necessarily be "cheap."

That "cheap" shoes cost more than really good shoes—because their lack of durability necessitates more frequent purchases.

These are good reasons why you should buy

Reporters and Reporting

Editor Evening Telegram.

Dear Sir:—I shall now, with your permission, go on to the reporter who reports court work and especially the lower courts. Recently there was a case before Judge Morris that of W. J. Whitty, Chairman of the Unemployed Workmen, against W. C. Goetting, the Mayor, representing the city. That was a test case and in one of four that is being brought against the Council on behalf of about twelve hundred men. Five or six thousand dollars are involved, although the claim in Whitty's case is only four dollars and eighty cents. That case directly involved at least six thousand men, women and children and has proved of great interest, not only to the workers and those depending on them, the citizens, whose money is at stake, but also to the country as a whole. If you take up that day's paper you will see more than half a column which gives a lot of matter some of which is incorrect, but nearly all of it is unessential, and the essential points of the case are omitted. It is not only untrue that I congratulated myself but even if I did it would not be of much interest. Everybody knows that I must do the absurd or wrong thing that it is the correct thing for reporters and others to right-ou and abuse me whenever they get the chance. The only person I congratulated was Mr. Carter, who ably pleaded the Council's case, and won it as I knew it would win it. I told the men on a week ago. I told Mr. Whitty so Thursday night. These cases had to be brought. They are only the preliminary steps in a movement that will settle questions of great moment. I purposely brought my weakest case first, for if we won on that the others would follow. If we win one of the four we will win all, because I am certain the Mayor would not be so unfair as to pay half the men at three-thirty and the other half at two-fifty, or if he does, his Mayor days will receive a sudden termination at least if those working men can do it.

It might be just as well for me to give you the facts, which I shall do briefly. The Premier, while Mr. Goetting was absent from the city, induced the Council to spend its own money in relief work. He, through guaranteeing a loan of $10,000, enabled the Council to get the money from the Royal Bank. In addition to that the East and West End districts through their representatives contributed $10,000 each for work outside the city, on condition that the Council spent a similar amount and spent it at the regular rate of pay, the regular employees of the Council, doing similar work, received, namely three dollars and thirty cents for a day of ten hours. The foreman were to receive two cents an hour more than the men. The men worked two or three weeks at three-thirty. On the 24th the foremen and timekeepers received a circular letter addressed "Sir," notifying them that commencing the 28th, the rate of wages would be $2.50 per day. Some of the foremen told their men, some did not. The men as a whole, acting on my advice, objected, and notified the Council, that they worked under protest. I also notified the Council. They put in their time sheets at three-thirty. They were not accepted. They finally accepted two-fifty under protest. Whitty was paid for the six days commencing May 28th, four-eighths less than he would have been had he been paid at three-thirty rate. The others also were paid so much less. Whitty, representing the men, who worked in the city, where the Council was using its own money on its own work, sued on their behalf. Caleb Robbins, representing men outside the city where the men were paid with the joint money of the city and the East End district, also sued, and Henry DeLisle, sued on behalf of the men, under John Dempsey foreman, to whom the letter was not read and who were unaware of the notice to reduce. These are three of the cases. The fourth is by Caleb Robbins for work performed by certain of the men on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday of this week. The points which determined Judge Morris's judgment are very simple, although a great deal of evidence was taken which helped to elucidate the facts of the case. "Had the Council the right to reduce the wages of the men working in the city with the Council's money?" The judgment was "It had." "Was the notice to the men notice to the foremen?" The judge decided it was, and on deciding those two points in favor of the Council dismissed the case. You will notice that the reporter has entirely missed the essential and given the unessential details of the case and in some cases drawn on his imagination which at times is vivid. To give you a further illustration of the same fact. He also in the same paper reports an assault case in which it appeared and for which the defendant was fined ten dollars. The assault was committed with a saw. The plaintiff swore that his ear was cut, and a witness swore that blood was running down the plaintiff's face and his hands were covered with blood. Knowing Judge Morris, as I do, knowing how anything in the nature of a butt or weapon is severely punished, while a flat encounter is hardly noticed, I told my client that all I could do was to try and reduce the fine, but that the judge would punish him and probably severely. A saw is not a most delicate thing to hit a man a couple of times over the head with. It was as I expected, and the man got off lightly for he was fined only ten dollars, but the reporter omitted to say anything about the saw, the blood, the cut, all he said was that the defendant was fined ten dollars, the least essential of all the facts of the case.

Yours sincerely,
GEO. W. B. AYRE

Superintendent Keith, of New Bedford, Mass., has issued an order forbidding the use of cosmetics by teachers. Explaining the order, the Superintendent says: "Teachers must have clean faces. Children coming to school with dirty faces are sent home to wash them. I believe the same rule should be applied to teachers who use powder and paint." The order also decrees shortened skirts, but leaves their length to the teacher's discretion.
