WAR BRIEFS

It is reported that 10,000 troops will be wintered in Toronto. New Zealand has raised 65,000 men for service in the British forces.

The Canadian Post Office Department reports a surplus, the first for five years.

Canada's export trade to Great Britain has nearly doubled during the last two years.

Russia has given additional orders for Army cloth to English firms, totalling now 18,000,000 yards.

All inscriptions referring to the visit of the Kaiser to Rome have been removed from the Hall of the Capital.

Germany has its Army scandals. A timber merchant paid 250,000 dollars to German officers in order to secure contracts.

In the recent engagements at the Somme, the Canadian casualty list numbered 400, nearly one quarter of whom are dead.

"This war has demanded more in the way of energy and courage than any war in the history of the world," says Lord French.

Wilhelm, Queen of Denmark announced in Parliament at its recent sitting that the army and navy are being strengthened.

Gen. Falkenhayn, until lately the chief of the German Staff Officers, reported as saying Germany is short of guns and ammunition.

Prof. A. Kieth says, "The men of the British Army today are taller, stronger and braver than any generation of their ancestors."

A trophy of the war has been received in Ottawa, in the shape of a German machine gun, captured by the Second Canadian Division.

German gramophone records are prohibited in Russia. Many had harmless labels, but were found to be scurrilous Anti-Russian lampoons.

Horse flesh, for a long time popular in Germany among the poorer classes has increased in price from five cents per pound to 50 cents.

Since 1914, thirty-five seats have become vacant in the Austrian Parliament. Most of the men who occupied them have been hanged or imprisoned for high treason.

Austrian military authorities have commandeered all available dogs in Austria-Hungary, Serbia, Montenegro and part of Albania, for the purpose of harnessing them as substitutes for horses.

Socialists, to the number of 150 have been arrested and sent to the front in Germany, though over military age, because they were promoting an agitation against the continuance of the war.

The Russian General, Brusilov, says, "I am no prophet. The future is in the hands of God. But, if I had absolutely to make an hypothesis, I should be inclined to think that the end of August, 1917, might see the end of our memorable work."

A Scotch soldier, bereft of speech by a shock in the trenches, recovered it at a Liverpool theatre when "Scotland forever" was sung. His enthusiasm was so aroused that his voice returned and he hurried out, saying, "I must go and tell Maggie."

"Germany was a nation which in the past had shown many estimable qualities but by resting herself entirely on military life, has been capable of some of the greatest brutalities the world has ever seen, such as were not exceeded by savages in any clime."

Sir Douglas Haig, in a letter to Sir Sam Hughes, says, "It must be a source of pride and gratification to you to know that the gallant officers and men who come from Canada to fight for the King, and the common cause of the Empire, invariably do their duty in a way that reflects the greatest possible credit on themselves and their Dominion."

OBITUARY

W. FLETCHER PARKER
It is with profound regret that we chronicle the death of one of our most highly respected citizens in the person of Mr. W. Fletcher Parker, whose death occurred at his home in Belleisle at an early hour Sunday morning, Oct. 1st. Mr. Parker has been in failing health for some months past, but was able to be around his home within a day or two of his death, and the end came as a great shock to his many friends. All that the best physicians, good nursing and loving care could do was done to relieve suffering and make his last days comfortable.

Mr. Parker was one of the most popular and influential men in the community where he was born and lived a life of seventy-two years.

In religion he was a Methodist, being a member of the church since his early manhood. He was also a charter member of Belleisle Division, and one of its most active members always ready to do all in his power to advance the temperance cause.

Mr. Parker leaves to mourn the loss of a devoted husband, his widow (formerly Miss Kathern DeWolfe Troop) two sisters, Mrs. Edwin Dodge and Mrs. Henry F. Troop. Also five children, Mrs. Alfred Inglis of Tupperville, Lieut. J. Rotie now in England, Dr. Vernon of Montreal, Miss Lila and Mr. Gladstone at home, who have the sympathy of a host of friends in their great affliction.

The funeral, which took place Wednesday afternoon from his late residence was one of the largest ever seen here, the Rev. A. R. Reynolds officiating. The floral tributes were many and beautiful consisting of a pillow from the members of Belleisle Division; wreath from the Belleisle school; Heart from Granville Centre Baptist church; Cross from Dr. Armstrong, Bridgetown; wreath from Upper Granville School, where his son Gladstone is teacher, and tributes from the Granville Methodist church of which he had been a faithful member for so many years. Interment took place in the family burying lot at Granville Centre. The undertakers were H. W. Bent, Harry G. Parker, Fred J. Parker and W. E. Bent.

ELMER E. BRINTON
On Monday, October 16th, at his home in Halifax, there passed away Elmer E. Brinton, after an illness of only a few months, at the early age of thirty-eight years. Although every thing was done that could be done by loving hands, the progress of the disease of the heart from which he suffered, could not be stayed, and after only a few days in bed he passed quietly away. The body was brought to Port Lorne, his former home, and laid to rest beside his father who predeceased him some few years ago. The service was conducted by Rev. Mr. Kinley of Paradise, a former pastor of Port Lorne Church, of which the deceased was a member.

There are left to mourn, a mother, Mrs. Emma Brinton of Port Lorne, a widow and five small children, two sisters, Mrs. E. C. Hall of Bridgetown, and Miss Elinor of Vancouver, B. C.; and three brothers, Messrs. Avarid in Victoria, B. C., and Frank and Merrill of Halifax.

Mr. Brinton was employed in Bridgetown some years ago, and made many friends who will deeply regret to learn of his early death.

OCTOBER WEDDING

AKINS-KENT
A pretty countryside wedding took place at the home of Mr. and Mrs. I. W. Kent, at Tupperville, on Thursday morning, Oct. 19th, at nine o'clock, when their eldest daughter, Bessie Weatherspoon, was joined in happy marriage, with the ring service, to Mr. Stafford Thomas, son of the late George A. Akins of Pictou, Hants County. As the wedding march played by Mrs. Burrage of Bear River, poured forth its melody, the charming bride on the arm of her father was led to the marriage arch. The bride, unattended, was handsomely gowned in white silk crepe de chene, with veil caught up with orange blossoms, complete by a hand bouquet of carnations and ferns.

Rev. A. R. Reynolds of the Methodist Church performed the ceremony. The popular bride has been teaching at North Battleford, Saskatchewan, since her graduation at Sackville, two years ago. A buffet collation was served to a company of intimate friends during which time congratulations and best wishes were profused. Among the many wedding presents were a purse of gold of two hundred dollars, and two handsome dining and bedroom suites.

The going away suite was of brown broadcloth with a rose satin hat to match. The wedding party motored to Bridgetown, and took the west bound train for St. John and the New England cities for a ten days honeymoon. On their return, Mr. and Mrs. Akins will reside at their new home at Pictou.

METHODIST CHURCH ANNIVERSARY

The Methodist people of the Bridgetown Circuit celebrated another church anniversary last Sabbath. The Rev. A. R. Wallis, of Musquodoboit Harbor, was the preacher in the town pulpit in the morning. His sermon was a thoughtful exposition of the question, "Lord, how is it that thou wilt manifest thyself unto us, and not unto the world?"

The other preacher was the Rev. D. W. Johnson, D. D., the Editor of the Wesleyan, a former pastor of the church. Dr. Johnson preached in the morning at Granville, in the afternoon at Bentville and in town in the evening. Thirty three years have passed since his pastorate here ended and many changes have taken place in the personnel of the congregations during that time, but at each of the services he was welcomed by a few old friends, who were glad of an opportunity for the renewal of former friendships.

The sermon of the evening was based upon the words of St. Paul, "Nevertheless the foundation of God standeth sure." It was a timely and able presentation of the fact that while at the beginning of the war, there were fears expressed that Christianity had proved a failure, the progress of events had led even pronounced agnostics to confess the hand of God in national affairs, and to affirm that the issue will be a clearer understanding of what Christianity really is and of the immutability of its foundation. The application of the text to the life of the individual was not overlooked.

The Christian may be severely buffeted, but in the severest storms of temptation, he knows that the foundation on which he has built his hopes is secure. Like Bunyan's Hopeful, he can say, even when crossing the dark river of death, "Be of good cheer my brother, I feel the bottom, and it is good."

Come again, Dr. Johnson; you will always be welcome to the pulpits and homes of your old field of ministerial toil.

ANNUAL MEETING OF THE ST. JAMES CHURCH ADULT BIBLE CLASS

The eight annual meeting of the class was held in St. James Church School room last Friday evening. The Secretary's report of the last season's work was full of interest and helpful suggestions, showing as it did the steady maintenance of interest in the class.

After the transaction of routine business and election of officers, for the ensuing year it was proposed to change the night of meeting from Friday evening to Wednesday, it being desired to set Friday evening free for meetings of the Anglican Young People's Association.

This was eventually agreed to and it is hoped that all members may be able to attend on Wednesday evenings.

The Officers and Conveners of Committee for the ensuing season are: Pres. Mr. A. F. Hill; Vice Pres. Mr. H. W. King; Secty-Treas. Capt. W. E. Gesner; Teacher, the Rector; Ass't Teacher, Mr. Thos. Kelley; "Look-out" Committee, Mrs. W. R. Longmire; Social Committee, Mrs. Underwood; Question Committee, Mr. Thos. Kelley.

LOCAL RED CROSS

We think that the friends of the Red Cross would like to know that cards and notes have been received from many of our Bridgetown boys expressing real appreciation of the parcels which have been sent them through the Red Cross. Also we have had letters of thanks from several prisoners of war in Germany.

At our meeting on Thursday Oct. 19th, it was decided to send Christmas parcels especially to the boys from Bridgetown and the country around, who have no friends to send to them. One of the cards recently received said "I don't receive many parcels because I have no relations."

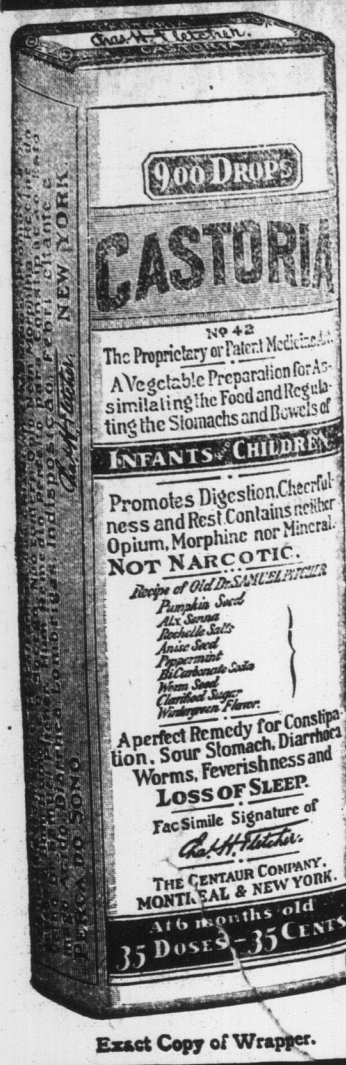

Will anyone who knows of any such, or of any one who would like a Christmas parcel from home, please send at once his latest address to the Red Cross rooms.

MARY S. JOST,
Secty. Treas.

Her Royal Highness the Princess Patricia of Connaught, with the object of providing Christmas presents for her regiment, the Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry, has very kindly donated six of her own paintings, together with a handsome ruby bracelet, to be drawn for, to supply funds for this object.

The C. P. R. has decided to operate a weekly service from St. John to Glasgow beginning next month. Formerly this service has been operated from Portland, Me.

WHAT CATARRH IS

It has been said that every person has catarrh in some form. Science has shown that nasal catarrh often indicates a general weakness of the body, and that treatment in the form of steam and vapors do little, if any good.
To correct catarrh you should treat its cause by enriching your blood with the alkaline Scott's Emulsion which is a medicinal food and a building tonic, free from any harmful drugs. Try it.

HEALTH AND LONG LIFE

To the Editor:
During 1916 there was extensively published part of an address by Arthur Hunter, Actuary of the New York Life Insurance Company, which in my judgment marks a distinct advance in our views on the subject of long life and good health. A great deal has been written on the subject, its relation to heredity, to occupation, to the drink habit, to habits of life, etc., but Mr. Hunter touches a note above all these.

Of course the statistics of Life Insurance Companies are without bias, as all they care about is to get at the facts bearing on their business. Mr. Hunter says that the consensus of opinion of medical directors shows disfavor on applications from persons who drink freely each day although not to the point of intoxication, and also on those who have taken alcohol to excess in the past, but are now temperate.

He says the experience of seven American Companies and one Canadian Company is given on abstainers and non-abstainers. He also shows from experience of two large Insurance Companies that the mortality among abstainers was distinctly lower than among those called temperate, and very much lower than among those called "moderate users." Now comes the point to which I attach so much importance. The cause of the low mortality among abstainers is not due in Mr. Hunter's judgment to abstinence from alcohol alone. Other factors, such as abstinence from tobacco are involved, but requires self-control to be an abstainer, and the strength of mind which has made abstinence a habit may affect other habits, such as eating in which there should be both moderation and discrimination. The low mortality among abstainers may be said to be due to temperance in all things and total abstinence from alcohol. In my judgment that last sentence is the most important in the very notable address. I have no doubt that it will constitute the new health slogan for the future. It is the experience of medical observers that lack of self-control and discrimination at the table are the cause of many diseases which shorten life.

One difference between man and the lower animals is that we are compelled to use our judgment and self-control if we should make the best of life.

more Zam-Buk. They are asking for it in their letters home. They say that nothing takes the place of Zam-Buk for cuts, burns, blisters, sores, etc. Pte. J. R. Smith of the "Princess Pats" writes: "Tell my friends, if they want to help me, to send some Zam-Buk. We find it very useful indeed, and we can't get too much of it."

Pte. Johnson, writing home, says: "Mrs. — has offered to send me a rug. Ask her to send some Zam-Buk instead. It will be of more use here than all the rugs in creation."

Nothing ends pain and heals so quickly as Zam-Buk, and being germicidal, if applied to a wound as soon as sustained, prevents all danger of blood-poisoning. The soldier who carries a box of Zam-Buk in his pocket will be saved much needless suffering. Don't let your friends go without.

OUR BLINDED HEROES

It was with great pleasure that I read the report submitted to the Government by the Military Hospitals and Convalescent Homes Commission concerning their work of training and obtaining employment for the returned wounded soldiers, for it is a proof that Canada, although engrossed with other war matters, means to do her utmost to help those who have, and will return, totally unfitted for their former employment. The noble work in which this Commission is engaged deserves the warm support of all Canadians, and it is to be hoped that employment will be readily given to these men when their training is completed. Whilst reading the article I could not help wondering why no mention was made of those who may lose their sight, for although it is true that so far, few have returned to Canada suffering in this way, yet both England and France are in a situation for these heroes, which clearly shows that sooner or later we too, will be faced with the same problem. In London alone the St. Dunstan's Home has considerably over 100 inmates, besides those who have received their training and are now out in the world trying to earn their own living and as so many questions claim the public's attention just now, that nothing can be done hurriedly, I am bringing this subject forward, in order that it may receive consideration before the men are actually in our midst. My object therefore, is not to find fault with what is being done for I think Canada is doing splendidly in every way, but simply to offer a few suggestions which may prove useful to those who will ultimately have to deal with this subject.

In dealing with soldiers who have lost their sight we must not forget that at first everything will seem very strange, and in some cases rather difficult, for by their loss they are being placed in an entirely new position, but with encouragement, and proper training, there is no earthly reason why in time they should not become wholly self-supporting. This training however, is bound to take a rather longer period than that of other wounded soldiers, for they have not only to be taught a trade but also to read and write in Braille, and to a man who has always been accustomed to use his eyes for everything, it requires such patience and concentration before he can become really proficient in either. Some people may wonder why they need to bother with the Braille as it takes up more time, so I will briefly explain what this system is, and how great a benefit it is to all blind people.

Braille, which was invented by a Frenchman of that name, is a system of raised dots which can easily be read by the fingers, and it can be printed by machinery or hand-written. The frame used by individuals is in two parts, the board on which the paper is placed, and the brass ruler which has two lines, each line containing 25 small cells, in each of which can be embossed six little dots. By various combinations of these six dots sixty-three Braille characters can be formed, and in order to facilitate speed, many contractions and abbreviations are used, and as these signs are employed in nearly all Braille books to decrease their size, it is essential that the men should be given the time to learn them. However, once this system has been mastered by a soldier, his interest in reading can always be kept up, for by joining a library he can obtain all kinds of books, papers and magazines and read for himself without any delay. The writing too, is a great blessing, for it enables a man to correspond more freely especially if he has friends who have also lost their sight and for men in business positions that have considerable memory work, it is a means whereby they can make their own memorandums and so become more self-reliant. I hope that from this little discussion my readers will agree with me that every blinded soldier should be given the opportunity of learning this wonderful Braille system, in order to increase his pleasure, and add to his independence.

Having discussed the subject of Braille reading and writing, we must turn our attention to a still more essential matter, namely the training of the men in whatever branch of work obtaining and suitable for them. The only way to deal adequately with this problem, is as far as possible to study each case individually with this problem is as far as possible to study each case individually, and see that a trade is taught which best suits the capability and social position of the individual. As circumstances alter cases it is impossible to lay down hard and fast rules, so I will just mention the trades that have been successfully taught in other institutions opened for blinded soldiers and sailors and leave those in authority to select for themselves what they think most practicable. Many men who before the war were accustomed to rough and heavy kinds of work could be taught such trades as boot and shoe repairing, mat making, carpentry, and brush and basket making. It is brought to such a fine point there are many men of higher ranks who could earn good money by making the more delicate baskets used by florists and other decorating firms. Then again those who enlisted in the West could in many cases return to some form of farm work, for poultry farming, market gardening and fruit farming, have been taught in other countries and the men have proved themselves most efficient in their work. Men possessing a knowledge of engineering are being trained as divers and in places where shipping and repairing are carried on, they should have no difficulty in obtaining employment. Divers possessing their sight have often to do their work under water in the dark, so there is no reason why a fully qualified blind person should not manage the work equally as well. At the present time, too, another occupation which is being taken up by many blind persons is massage, and to prove that they are making a success of it I may mention that one blind officer who has only studied this work since losing his sight at the front, is now in a London hospital as one of the leading masseurs. For men engaged in office work before enlistment, new prospects are also opening, for shorthand and typewriting is being taught not only to our blind all over the United Kingdom and America, and many large firms have proved that blind stenographers can work as quickly and accurately as their sighted companions. Perhaps many of my readers are wondering how such work is possible, so I will briefly compare the two systems.

As before mentioned, the Braille characters are made by various combinations of six little dots, and as a machine has been brought out by means of which any number of these six dots can be written simultaneously, that it will follow this in the first place will facilitate speed. The phonetic outlining is based upon the same principles in both systems, but for words or parts of words different combinations of dots are used instead of, as in ordinary shorthand, strokes and marks made with a pencil. For phrases too, the smallest number of characters possible are used, for instance, three P's stand for "by return of post without fail" and as there are a large number of similar abbreviations it will easily be clear that when a person has mastered this system and become thoroughly used to his machine, his speed will equal that of any seeing competitors.

With regard to typewriting, almost any machine can be used by a blind person, though some are more easily and quickly learned than others, but with constant practice speed and neatness will, in a short time, be the pleasing result. There are no insurmountable difficulties connected with tabulating, if the man taking up stenography in all its details are only given sufficient time to properly learn the subject from those who are really competent to teach them. Perhaps to some people, the trades and employments about which I have been speaking sound a little far-fetched or impossible, but I can assure my readers that in places where these industries have been tried to blind people of average intelligence none have presented difficulties which in time have not been overcome.

Before closing I want just to say a word about the employment of these men when their training is completed. Many employers are showing their patriotism by taking on, or promising to do so, many soldiers who have been wounded in other ways but I do want to urge that when our men who have lost their sight apply for work they may also be given a trial or the time and money spent on their training will be of no avail. My object in touching on this question of employment is to impress upon people that education for the blind is nowadays considered as great a matter of importance as it is for seeing people, and that being the case when a fully qualified blind person applies for a position it hardly seems right that they should be constantly turned down, and have to wait several months or perhaps longer, before someone will give them a trial. I do hope therefore, that this article will contain for some people a little useful information, for I feel sure that many have not realized the capabilities of educated blind people, but as Canadians are doing so much in all other war connections, I am confident they will render assistance both by giving employment to the men, and money to the authorities who, I hope in the near future, will be endeavoring to carry on this noble work.

The writer of this article would be both pleased and willing to help any blind soldier with either the Braille reading and writing or shorthand and typing, for having had experience in teaching both, and possessing the necessary requirements, she would count it an honor to be able to assist any men who have made such a noble sacrifice for their King and Country. (Sgd.) DOROTHY V. HILL, 125 Bayle Street, Montreal.

Ed Note:—Miss Hill, who is blind herself is a living example of what an educated, blind person may accomplish. She is an accomplished pianist and vocalist, an excellent typist, and has taught in England.

SOME IMPORTED WORDS

Their use Here and their Meanings in Their Native Land.

You are so familiar with those three imported words, chauffeur, tonneau and limousine, that it would never occur to you to ask whether they really apply to the objects which they have been made to describe. You know that a chauffeur is the man who is hired to drive a motorcar. The mere driving of the car is not the thing which gives the name its significance, for it does not apply to the owner of the car when he drives. In like manner you know that the tonneau is the part of the machine which is behind the driver's seat and accommodates three or five persons. When the possessor of an automobile is sufficiently opulent he has a limousine body for winter use, and probably it is electric heated and has a bunch of fresh flowers in the wall vase every morning.

To these vocables, with their small of greenbacks and their rattle of silks we might add another, even more suggestive of the expenditure of money and the word "hangar," which was dragged into the language when the glided youth wearied of sixty horse power speed and took to the air.

Would you be shocked to learn that a hangar, in rural France, where aeroplanes are almost unknown, is nothing but a shed for the farm cart? And what of the chauffeur? The high school girl was horrified to find by consulting her dictionary, that he was either a fireman or a braggart. Almost as disconcerting was the revelation that a "tonneau" was nothing but a vat or a tub. But the cruellest blow of all fell when the limousine was shown up as rough gostakin worn by peasants near Limoges.

Players of the Boston and Brooklyn Baseball teams sliced a juicy melon when nearly $163,000 was divided among the men who took part in the world's series won by the Red Sox. According to the official figures the wearers of the lurid hose shared $97,756.47, while the Dodgers because of their inability to cope successfully with the American League and world's champions, had to be content with $65,170.96.

FROM HERE AND THERE

The Crop Estimate of the Canadian Government for the present year is 168,811,000 bushels of wheat, compared with 341,602,000 bushels in 1915, and 161,280,000 bushels in 1914. The trouble this year has been the "black rust," which has manifested itself in some of the lowest forms of barbarism, descend to lower infamy than this! It has been well said that "the world stands aghast at the depth of degradation to which the Huns have dropped."

Germany's Latest Atrocity. It is established on good evidence that the Germans have been spreading the germs of phthisis among prisoners of war in some of the internment camps. Fifty thousand French soldiers are reported to be victims of tuberculosis; also thousands of British soldiers. This is the latest product of Kultur. Could "frightfulness," which has manifested itself in some of the lowest forms of barbarism, descend to lower infamy than this! It has been well said that "the world stands aghast at the depth of degradation to which the Huns have dropped."

Forest Fires in 1916, are judged by the Journal of Commerce to have destroyed Canadian forests to the value of nine millions of dollars, and in most cases the fires were preventable. In other words greater care would have avoided them. The same authority says that in sections where the best protection systems were in operation, the losses of life and property were lowest, thus proving the value of adequate measures of prevention. Nine millions of dollars would go a long way in providing for wounded soldiers, and widows and orphans of the war.

The British Navy is in need of sailors. An effort is now being made to enroll two thousand Canadians for this service. The matter is in charge of the Naval Service Department of Canada, and the men recruited will be known as belonging to the Royal Naval Canadian Volunteer Reserve. The rates of pay will be the same as for the men of the Canadian Expeditionary Forces, one dollar and ten cents a day, and a separation allowance of twenty dollars a month. The men must be of good character and physique, and will be permitted to enter classes to qualify for petty officers of various grades.

Munition Orders to the value of 550,000,000 dollars have been executed in Canada since the war began. This year orders to the amount of 185,000,000 dollars have been received. These orders are given by the Imperial Munitions Board. Shrapnel shells, ready for use, with "cartridge cases, fuses, primers and propellant charges," to the number of 250,000 thousand a week are now being manufactured. And some establishments have been fitted up with machinery for the making of the larger kinds of shells. The time for completion of some orders extends into 1917.

VISCOUNT GREY.

The two men in England who have borne the heaviest burdens in consequence of the war are Mr. Asquith, the Prime Minister, and Viscount Grey, the Minister for Foreign Affairs. Since the transfer of the latter to the House of Lords, we have been hearing less about him than when he mingled in the discussions of the House of Commons, but the burdens have not been lightened by the change. And he has had his tragedy to bear in his home. About ten years ago, his wife, a beautiful and accomplished lady, was killed by a runaway horse, leaving him a childless widower on his Northumberland estate. It is reported that he finds pastime and solace in making friends with the hosts of squirrels who have their nests in the big trees nearby. They seem to know when he is at home, and they come flocking in at the open door, apparently understanding that they have the right of way. They swoop into his library, climb the walls, they play hide and seek among the books, run over his writing desks, look up to him evidently expecting a treat, and they are not disappointed. He keeps a store of nuts for these occasions and they take them out of his hand. In this respect he imitates the great naturalist Darwin, who in his walks in Down Wood was so familiar with the squirrels that they climbed upon his shoulders although devoid of fear. The paper from which we quote has the following appropriate lines from Longfellow:—

"A sudden rush from the stairway,
A sudden raid from the hall!
By those doors left unguarded,
They enter my castle wall.
They climb into my turret,
O'er the arms and back of my chair;
If I try to escape they surround me,
They seem to be everywhere."

THE BRITISH RED CROSS

The ladies Committee also spoke of an amount of about $15.00 left over from the "At Home" held in Grand Central for the benefit of the soldiers who were then here. A motion was passed that the amount be given to the Red Cross for the "Soldiers Christmas Stockings Fund."

WORLD'S RECORD WHEAT CROP.

In view of various claims of world's record wheat crops for large areas, the Crowfoot Farming Company of Crowfoot, Alberta, submit a sworn statement of their results for the year 1915 which probably surpass all properly authenticated claims from other sources. From 1356 acres the Crowfoot Farming Company received an average yield of 51 bushels, 56 1-3 pounds per acre of number one spring wheat, by actual selling weight; 400 acres wheat averaged 59 1/2 bushels per acre. These records were established in the Canadian Pacific Railway Irrigation Block in Southern Alberta.

TOO MUCH FOR THE TWIN.

Some years ago Lord Charles Beresford received a letter from a railway porter, which ran as follows: "My lord, last night my wife had twins, and I write to ask your lordship if you will ask H. R. H. the Princess of Wales if we may call the little girl Princess of Wales Brown and may call the little boy Lord Charles Beresford Brown?" Lord Charles obtained the Princess's permission, and gladly consented himself to the man's request. Three months later came another letter: "My lord I am 'appy to inform your lordship that Lord Charles Beresford is well and 'ealthy, and Princess of Wales Brown died at four o'clock this morning."

DIGBY COUNTY EXHIBITION

Some Observations

The "weather man" was in a most gracious mood the day of the Digby County Exhibition at Bear River. Then too this most picturesque Town had on her Exhibition dress of wonderful hues. Every hillside glowed in the warmth of Autumn coloring and every visitor felt the gladness of the welcome.

From far and near the people came until well over a thousand persons visited the ticket seller's booth. Once on the grounds it was fully realized that the backbone of the country is the farm. Every department of this avocation was well represented, the outside, devoted to horses, cattle, sheep, swine and poultry being especially well filled.

The horses were a classy lot, from the large sixteen hundred Percheron to the foal of the current year, and the red, blue and yellow tickets gave evidence of many classes and keenly contested merits. This was also true of the cattle part of the show. Here were found pure bred Shorthorns and Jerseys, each showing the care of the owners in his own particular favorite. One noticeable lack in this department was that of the Holstein, but we are confident that some of the wide awake breeders of this locality will, in due course, remedy this defect.

In Sheep, the Shropshire appeared the favorite and some excellent individuals were on the showing. In Swine, it appeared that the Yorkshire and Chester hold a large place in the estimation of the exhibitors. The Berkshire has yet to come into its own in this locality.

In the Poultry department considerable interest was shown and a nice assortment of the different breeds was in evidence with the Barred Plymouth Rock in the ascendant.

As we entered the building at the South door, the first to attract one's attention was the exhibit of the DeLaval Cream Separator Co. presided over by a representative of this concern and judging by the numbers who crowded about this booth there was much of interest in the exhibit of this popular make of Separator.

But it was impossible to linger long, as the Fruit and Vegetable tables were beckoning us on. Here was all the evidence needed to prove that this locality can and does grow the very best and the exhibit, though not so extensive, compared most favorably with that of any exhibit in the Province.

After feasting the eye here, it was next in order to visit the balconies, where the splendid educational exhibit of the Entomological department was the first to attract attention. Here was a complete outfit to show the fruit grower the ravages of the various pests that affect his crop and the most approved methods of dealing with them.

Near this booth, were the exhibits of dairy products, eggs, grains and seeds, all of which were of credit to the Exhibition.

The front balcony was a blaze of color in its exhibit of cut flowers, such as would gladden the eye of every lover of the beautiful.

Then came the fine arts department. Over this the lady visitor lingered long and lovingly, and no skilled fingers could well call forth many an exclamation of praise of the dainty and beautiful handiwork of the exhibitors.

But now our steps lead us to a large booth in the North balcony where was found the school exhibit. In any opponents of domestic and rural science and manual training for our schools visited this booth it may well be taken for granted that his preconceived notions must have received a severe bump. One only need to look over the work, done in the several departments, by the pupils to be convinced that training of this sort is of first importance and of the greatest possible value, not only to the individual but to the community. In spite of all handicaps, the teachers of the schools exhibiting, have awakened interest and shown the possibilities. There were so many exhibits and all so excellent that only a brief mention is possible.

In the domestic science department were to be found many tempting displays of preserved fruits, cakes, bread and candy, while the further skill of the youthful fingers was seen in the plain and fancy sewing and patchwork.

Rural science work was shown in specimens of vegetables, cut flowers, potted plants, collections of weed seeds, native woods, pressed flowers, ferns, etc. In fact it was patent that nature work is taking a higher place than ever in school life and the drawings from nature studies were of a high order. Now were samples of writing and map drawing forgotten and the whole exhibit showed painstaking efforts on the part of the several teachers and to see the samples of work from the lower grades but proves the possibilities of childhood when rightly directed.

It is to be hoped that the rate payers of every school represented will insist on giving such efforts encouragement. Taken altogether, the Exhibition was a success and the steady improvement in the years speaks well for the system of County Fairs and the willingness of the "man who feeds the world" to take advantage of the newer and better methods.

AUTOINTOXICATION OR SELF-POISONING

The Dangerous Condition Which Produces Many Well Known Diseases.

HOW TO GUARD AGAINST THIS TROUBLE

"FRUIT-A-LIVES" — The Wonderful Fruit Medicine — will Protect You

Auto-intoxication means self-poisoning, caused by continuous or partial constipation, or insufficient action of the bowels.

Instead of the refuse matter passing daily from the body, it is absorbed by the blood. As a result, the Kidneys and Skin are overworked, in their efforts to rid the blood of this poisoning.

Poisoning of the blood in this way often causes Indigestion, Loss of Appetite and Disturbed Stomach. It may produce Headaches and Sleeplessness. It may irritate the Kidneys and bring on Pain in the Back, Rheumatism, Gout, and Rheumatic Pains. It is the chief cause of Eczema — and keeps the whole system unhealthy by the constant absorption into the blood of this refuse matter. "Fruit-a-lives" will always cure Auto-intoxication or self-poisoning — as "Fruit-a-lives" acts gently on bowels, kidneys and skin, strengthens the bowels and tones up the nervous system.

RAILWAY FIRE PROTECTION

Dominion Chartered Railways Have Secured Excellent Results.

In times past, the railways of Canada have been charged with being the most important single source of forest fire damage. That this charge can no longer be justly made has been proved conclusively by the results of the present season. Reports received by the Fire Inspection Department of the Railway Commission show that, with very few exceptions, the Dominion chartered railways have faithfully observed the requirements relative to fire protection imposed upon them by the Board. Notwithstanding the exceptionally dry season, practically no serious forest fires have occurred which could be attributed to railway agencies. It is true that numerous fires have started, resulting unavoidably from the operation of trains, but the records show that, in general, the railway employees have been prompt in discovering, reporting and extinguishing them before they did material damage.

Especially care has been taken by the companies in keeping the fire-protection appliances of engines in good order; also, much has been done in disposing of inflammable debris on rights of way, notwithstanding the extreme difficulty of securing labour. This work prevents the rapid spread of fires and facilitates prompt extinguishment. Special patrols have been maintained in forest sections, supplemented on all lines by the observance of special instructions to all regular employees relative to the reporting and extinguishing of fires in the vicinity of the track.

Not only have the railways efficiently handled their own fires, but they have extinguished or aided in extinguishing many fires that originated at a distance from the track, due to outside agencies. They have co-operated, wherever possible, with governmental or private fire-protection agencies, with such beneficial results as, a few years ago, might have been thought impossible.

SOLVING INFANTILE PARALYSIS

A rabbit used in the pathological department of John Hopkins hospital to determine the method of transmission of the infantile paralysis germ has developed the disease, it was announced Oct. 15 at Baltimore, Md. Dr. Montrose T. Burrows of the hospital, who discovered that the germ is taken into the system by the mouth said that the experiment with the rabbit means another important advance toward solving the whole problem of poliomyelitis. One of the legs of the rabbit has become paralyzed. Transmission will be next attempted through two monkeys.

Poultry

HAVE FOWLS IN GOOD CONDITION WHEN MOULTING

When growing fowls pass through a succession of feather alterations a thorough moult of all the feathers is a process belonging to adult fowls.

A pullet that begins laying at six, seven, or eight months will not shed her feathers until she has completed her laying period if she is regularly fed an egg-laying ration and kept under clean, healthful conditions. This will make her about sixteen or eighteen months old when she moults. Young fowls that are mature and are not favored as to egg laying by food, weather or other conditions will begin to moult before abundant egg laying, thus deferring that function.

This early moulting is not so conspicuous as the moulting of the older birds, but serves to hinder egg production for a time. Birds hatched very early in the year and maturing in summer will often moult during a brief time and then suspending this function during early winter when the eggs are wanted.

Fowls hatched in April and maturing in early November will usually prolong their egg production into the natural breeding season of late winter and spring moulting in the summer.

The period of the moult is a strenuous one for the birds. Bodily covering seems to have a psychical as well as physical relation to the condition of fowls. Observation of the flock during the moult, especially if it is a lagging process with many "undressed" birds and delay in the arrival of new clothes, will disclose an air of shiftlessness; no self-conscious strutting and no happy chatting. Not only are such birds not up to physical standards, but they are below mentally as their lack of interest indicates. The listlessness and extreme dishevelment are not necessarily a dishevelment are not necessarily a part of the moulting process but of unfavorable conditions which retard the growth of new feathers that should quickly replace the old.

Diet has much to do with it, and so have climate conditions and sanitation. Any mode of life that contributes to a vigorous physical condition hastens the development of the new growth of feathers.

The moulting period with most birds follows the breeding seasons, and with fowls at an adult age it generally follows the most active period of egg production. Unless the bird is possessed of superabundant vigor the function of egg laying is entirely suspended, the elements needed for feather formation making too great a tax upon the bird's system to admit of egg production.

Fowls should begin to moult in a plump condition, so that the falling feathers will not leave them exposed to weather inclemencies, so that the formation of feathers shall proceed unchecked and egg laying may begin as soon as possible after the moult is accomplished. They should have clean runs and be free from vermin. Grass-sown runs with some clean space for sun — not a dense shade but such as one tree or two will give — help the birds through this period.

The diet should be a complete ration, or that supplies some fat, some protein, and some mineral matter; and its sources should be various, for the birds seem to tire of one or two forms of food during the moult.

As soon as the plumage begins to look dull and ragged, partly from lack of preening and partly because the infant feather is begging the nourishment which supplied the old feather, take away highly seasoned or over-stimulating food if you have been feeding it, and give them just nourishing food, depending upon green food as a relish. Fed pened fowls three times a day, giving one meal a whole grain that combines necessary food elements such as wheat or oats. Whole corn should form another meal, and a dry or wet mash of bran, with some linseed meal, should be fed at least three times a week, using about one-sixth of the bulk of the mash linseed meal and the remainder bran or bran middlings. If the hopper method of feeding is used the wheat or a wheat, oats, and barley mixture may be kept in the hoppers so that the fowls can get it at any time, but not feed the corn in this way, as fowls are very fond of it and will eat too much.

Pulverized oyster shell and plenty of grit, preferably crushed hard stone should be always at hand. — M. R. C.

The Farm

FEEDING GRAIN HEAVILY TO FATTEENING ANIMALS IS WASTEFUL

That beef production pays under rational feeding is the opinion of T. L. Haecker, of the section of animal nutrition, University Farm, St. Paul, after nine years of experiments with fattening cattle. The chief method of increasing the profit under Mr. Haecker's feeding system is to reduce the amount of grain nearly half and to increase the amount of roughage.

The feeding experiments started at University farm in 1907 dealt with 154 beef-bred steers. These were fed in eight different groups under varying conditions. In every case the steers more than paid for the feed given them. Steers that were fattened all their lives brought more at market prices than their feed cost. Steers run on pasture for two seasons brought from $20 to $25 more than the cost of feed.

Mr. Haecker says that nearly twice as much grain is given under ordinary conditions of beef feeding as can be used. It does not add to the farmer's bank account to overfeed the cattle and expect the hogs to dig the waste out of the manure pile. Feeding experiments commonly used, before this, from 10 to 30 pounds of grain per day during the fattening period. Mr. Haecker never succeeded in feeding 11 pounds. To feed a steer from the time he weighs 100 pounds until he weighs 1,200 pounds, according to the tests, requires on the average the following amounts of feed: Grain, 3,288.2 pounds—consisting of approximately 18 bushels of corn, 5 1/2 bushels of barley, 9 1/2 bushels of oats, 168 pounds of bran, 645 pounds of oil meal and 322 pounds of hay, and 2,240.9 pounds of silage.

The grain cost for the five chief groups of steers averaged for the first year $14.32 a head and for the second year $39.92, making a total cost of $54.24 for the grain feed for a 2-year-old steer finished for market.

A small daily gain was found to be most profitable. A gain of a little less than two pounds a day was kept up on these steers. It gave better results than heavy gains for a few weeks that could not be maintained.

The cost of producing additional gains increases as the cattle become heavier. The tests show that the cost of feeding calves to a weight of 100 pounds is about 10 cents a pound. From 200 to 300 pounds the feed costs 4.9 cents a pound. A pound in the 900 to 1,000 pound period costs 9.3 cents and in the 1,400 to 1,500 pound period it costs 15.4 cents.

Heavy grain feeding is wasteful and increases the cost of the cattle without making the product any bigger or any better.

PAINTING OF FARM IMPLEMENTS

The painting of farm implements for their protection and preservation has apparently received very little consideration by Canadian farmers, if one may judge by the information secured by the Commission of Conservation in the survey conducted on 100 farms in each of four counties in Ontario. In Waterloo, not one farmer who painted his implements was found among the hundred, in Carleton only one, in Northumberland three, and in Dundas eleven.

The use of paint on both the wooden and metal parts of machinery gives a protecting cover against deterioration by use and weather, apart altogether from the general improvement in appearance. The cost of prepared paint for the purpose is very small, and experience in the work is unnecessary.

The initial cost of farm implements means to the farmers a large outlay. This investment should be protected. Depreciation from rot and rust is rapid, when once these conditions are established. For the actual money saving as well as for the more prosperous appearance it gives to the farm and farmer, the regular overhauling and painting of the farm implements should be a recognized part of the year's work. — D. in Conservation.

What are Peps

Peps are the new treatment for coughs, colds and lung troubles. They are little tablets made up from Pine extracts and medicinal essences. When put into the mouth these medicinal ingredients turn into healing vapors, which are breathed down direct to the lungs, throat and bronchial tubes. The Peps treatment is direct. Swallowing cough mixtures into the stomach, to cure ailments and disorders in throat and lungs, is indirect. Peps are revolutionizing the treatment of colds, as their price is within the reach of all. See box all druggists, or Peps Co., Toronto.

SURVEYING THE FORESTS OF NEW BRUNSWICK

Such good progress has been made in the New Brunswick forest survey under Mr. P. Z. Coverhill, that 200,000 acres have been covered to date, some of the maps are practically complete. The object of the survey is not only to estimate the timber resources of the province, but to learn the location of pure forest-growing land and soil fit for field crops so that future settlement can be wisely guided. Nearly all the provinces have shown tragic results of indiscriminate placing of settlers. Abandoned farms by the thousand testify to the evil consequences of allowing farmers to take up homesteads where the soil defies everything except tree life.

The Premier of New Brunswick has ordered a soil type map to be made of the whole forest area and this will be of the highest value in deciding what lands to open for settlement. The question of better fire protection in the timbered area is another urgent problem engaging the Government's attention.

APPEAL FOR THE BRITISH RED CROSS.

To the People of Nova Scotia:

One year ago you responded most generously to the appeal made on behalf of the British Red Cross Society and the Order of St. John. Another call has come and however many the demands upon us, we must, as a people assist in the magnificent work which the British Red Cross Society is doing for the gallant sick and wounded soldiers and sailors of the Allied Nations.

I am in receipt of a cable from the Marquis of Lansdowne, President of the British Red Cross Society, and from the Earl of Plymouth, Superior of the Order of St. John of Jerusalem as follows:

"I have the honor to inform you that the British Red Cross Society and the Order of St. John, are once more proposing to appeal throughout the Empire, by street and other collections. The money received will be devoted to our wounded soldiers and sailors from home and overseas at the various seats of war. The generous response which we received last year from all parts of the King's Dominions encourages us to hope that the constantly increasing demands for our help may be met by a corresponding increase of generosity throughout the Empire. We shall be truly grateful to you if you will assist our work by organizing an appeal and sending the proceeds to us for our sick and wounded at the front. I shall be greatly obliged if you will communicate the contents of this cablegram to your Ministers and recommend the proposal to their favorable consideration. Their Majesties, the King and Queen, and Her Majesty, Queen Alexandra, are giving us their gracious patronage."

I am therefore appealing to the people of Nova Scotia to take up such a collection on Tuesday, the 31st day of October as will enable us to forward to those societies a contribution worthy of the Province. Since our last appeal the Province is much more largely represented at the front or by battalions en route. It is incumbent therefore upon us to do all in our power to provide the necessary funds to enable these splendid organizations to carry on their work effectively.

I therefore confidently appeal to the civil authorities of every city, town and municipality in the Province to take such necessary steps as will give our people an opportunity on the 31st day of October to make their contributions to this most worthy object.

I have requested Mr. H. A. Flemming, Manager of the Bank of Nova Scotia, Halifax, to continue to act as treasurer for the Fund. All contributions are to be forwarded to him.

Newfoundland's sealing vessels were very few in the season now closed, owing to the war. But the twelve thus employed were very successful. The catch numbered 243,000, and the net value 1,000,000 dollars.

RECRUITING

Five hundred men are urgently required for overseas Service in the Army Service Corps. The classes of men most needed are:—Horse transport drivers, mechanical transport drivers, bakers, butchers, farmers, wheelers and saddlers. It is also to be noted that the eye test for the A. S. C. is not so difficult as for Overseas Infantry.

Arrangements have now been made for recruiting for the Royal Naval Canadian Volunteer Reserve.

In addition to the above, men are urgently needed for all branches of the Infantry and Artillery Service both Overseas and Home. Also for special units such as the Pioneer and Construction Battalions.
