REHEARSE CORONATION CEREMONY Going Through Parts of The Great Event Has Been Begun MUCH CARE TAKEN Earl Marshall, Duke of Norfolk, the Man in Charge of All Except Rehearsing King George—An Idea of What Has to Be Done

(Canadian Press) London, April 10.—With the final approval of the order of the coronation service, which will follow closely on traditional lines, the rehearsal of the ceremony has been begun in Westminster Abbey. To insure smooth working of so elaborate and complicated a function necessitates the most careful and systematic training of all the scores of individuals who have duties to perform. Each person has to study his part as closely as an actor, and every section of the service has to be rehearsed again and again, until the whole splendid scene is perfected. To the Duke of Norfolk, as earl marshal falls the duty of "stage managing" the great spectacle. Under his direction the office of works carries out the actual arrangement of "setting" the hall to school and train each participant in his role, he arranges and regulates all details of robes, dresses, he controls and directs the rehearsal and on the great day is responsible for every item of the ceremony.

The King There is one exception, in form, at any rate, to the earl marshal's control. The principal figure in the whole scene, the sovereign himself, is instructed and rehearsed by the archbishop, but by the Archbishop of Canterbury, and assisted by the Dean and Chaplain of Westminster. (Continued on page 4, fourth column.)

POOR MAPLE HONEY YEAR. Frederick Gleason, farmer from Queensbury and other maple honey centres state that this is going to be a poor honey year. The silk flag which is to be presented to the St. Stephen's Cadets by the Daughters of the Empire at their annual inspection, arrived in the city today and was greatly admired by those who were permitted to see it. HECTOR TAKES IT VERY COOLY Colored Youth Smiles as He Hears Evidence Given Against Him in Willow Grove

George Hector, the colored youth charged with assault with intent to kill on Mrs. Ann Davidson, does not seem greatly perturbed over the matter. This morning he was again brought into court before Judge Ritchie, and frequently smiled coolly as Detective Killen gave evidence of his arrest. The detective told of going to Willow Grove with Deputy Chief Jenkins, of searching for the prisoner, and of their making the arrest at the point of a revolver. Hector, when told of the case of his being placed in custody denied the charge. Detective Killen described Mrs. Davidson's home, and told of having seen blood marks on the floor, on the door-sill, and on the sofa.

SEVEN HAVE PAPERS IN Nominations for Aldermen Will Close at 4 O'Clock Tomorrow Afternoon at City Hall

Seven aldermanic candidates had filed their nomination papers up to noon today, although the time limit does not expire until 4 o'clock tomorrow afternoon. Present indications are that there will be contests in at least six wards and for alderman-at-large.

Little has been heard of opposition to the aldermen of Gays, Brooks, Stanley, Victoria, Wellington, Queens, and Sydney wards, and it may be that they will be returned by acclamation though other contestants may appear before tomorrow at noon.

Unless someone decides to back again, there will be contests in all the other wards. It is not thought likely that there will be any opposition to Mayor Firth.

(Canadian Press) Rome, April 10.—The crown prosecutor has drawn up a report embodying the results of the investigation into the killing of Princess Giulia Triana Di Sant'Elia, lady in waiting to Queen Helena by Lieut. Baron Paterno. The conclusion of the prosecutor is that Paterno is guilty of premeditated homicide. He dismisses the defence based on Paterno's assertion that he committed the crime because of jealousy. This plea the crown prosecutor considers absurd, as on the eve of the crime Paterno wrote to Triana in very cordial terms with reference to the princess.

THE NEW CHARTER

It is impossible to answer every question that may be asked about how this or that office or department may be affected by the new charter. Reasonable citizens, however, are quite willing to trust the charter committee, of which Mr. James A. Byles is chairman, and which will have among its members able lawyers, prominent business men, representatives of labor and all other interests, to frame such a charter as will safeguard the rights of the people in every particular.

The citizens who are behind this movement for reform have no selfish interests to serve. The movement is too broad. Whoever has read the list of names of those forming the Citizens' Committee and its executive will surely say without hesitation that what these gentlemen approve is not likely to be injurious to the interests of this city.

This is a people's movement, and not political. The foremost men of the two great political parties are working in harmony to secure the adoption of the commission plan, and the framing of such a charter as may give full expression to the will of the people. Months of earnest thought and study must and will be devoted to this task and the result must commend itself to the citizens and the legislature.

The citizen who declares that he will not vote in favor of the commission plan until he knows how it will affect every individual, and every detail of departmental affairs, by that declaration proclaims his utter lack of faith in the whole movement for reform, and in the honesty and ability of the men, representing all classes and interests, who have brought it to the present stage.

The charter committee will have no prejudice. They will not be dealing with men, but with principles. They will not concern themselves with officials, but with departments. The city must still have officials, and no faithful official whose work speaks for itself, need fear that he will be the loser by the adoption of the commission plan.

Petty appeals to prejudice and self-interest can only be made by those who desire for personal reasons a continuance of existing conditions. Assertions to the effect that prominent citizens are turning against the commission plan may be set down as falsehoods, published for a purpose, unless the names of the prominent citizens are mentioned. It may also be expected that during the next week false and misleading statements will be made about the operation of the elective commission plan in other cities. The friends of reform must be on the alert until polling day. If they permitted themselves to be lulled into a feeling of false security they would be giving an artificial fee at an advantage at the polls. They have won at every point thus far, but the next week should be the best of the whole campaign.

THE BONDS OF A PEOPLE

There is much confusion today regarding the bonds that unite different sections of a country together, and confusion also regarding the nature of community feeling and patriotism. This confusion is increased ten fold by the politician who confuses economic questions with those of social organization and patriotism.

The people living in the area marked off on the map as Canada, are composed of men, women and children, of various ages, classes, races, and stages of intelligence. They have many modes of organization, as unions, clubs, societies, associations and churches. In thinking and interests they are apparently as far apart as the poles; but in spite of differences they constitute one great community. It is not commercial interests that bind them together. The maritime provinces have sacrificed commercial interests, have seen the ships disappear from their ports, the trade languish from their routes of commerce without protest or the least diminution of loyalty to the whole. They have sacrificed commercial cial property, when this sacrifice was regarded as for the good of the whole, with the same self-forgetfulness and loyalty with which one member of a body would sacrifice for the body of which it is a part.

In spite of the fact that the ties are not commercial, they are none the less real. The people is a reality, not a mere fancy. The consolidating elements are numerous and varied, and they defy complete analysis. In earlier days the answer would be given that states are built up out of economic interests, common descent, common language and pride of race. But there is no common language, no pride of race, no classes leaning against a family tree, but a mingling of all the races and languages and the most diverse economic interests with the most complete state consciousness, some other explanation must be given.

The bond is entirely psychical and needs no physical expression to make it more real. It is seemingly dependent upon the occupation of a common territory. This is the physical basis of a united society. When a people dwells in a space and covers a land, all objects become touched with a new feeling. Animals dwelling in the same valley have no community feeling; they have no capacity for social community. The government is the expression of this community interest and sentiment. But there are very real bonds in the common life of a state which are not taken up into law or realized by political institutions.

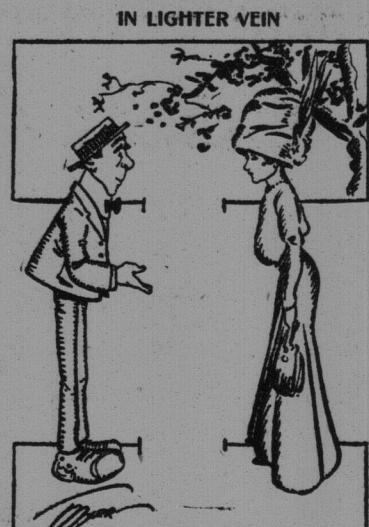

The threads that bind states are finer than silk and stronger than steel. Every hill and farm witness to a common heritage and the feeling of patriotism humanizes the very earth. Plain men, unused to the refinements of theory, understand what it means and feel its power. The keenest metaphysician cannot analyze it. Patriotism is a worship of the gods of the soil and the symphonic of the streams and forests. And when the thing is not made common and cheap by stupid politicians confusing it with economic theories and with avenues of trade, it is the only glory of the land. "Truth," says an early writer, "springeth out of the earth," and when it does, "righteousness looketh down from heaven and maketh for man's footsteps a way to walk in."

GRILLING THE SINNERS
Burke once said, in one of those wonderful speeches that emptied the House of Commons, but which have charmed all readers since where the English tongue is spoken, that when the laws of Great Britain were not strong enough to protect the humblest Hindoo upon the shores of the Ganges, the nobleman was not safe in his castle upon the banks of the Thames. Our lives would not be worth the living unless the law were maintained and enforced. We all live under the law; we all must render obedience to the law; we all are entitled to the protection of the law.

That all our liberties and blessings arise out of the protection which it offers, everyone will most heartily agree. But in enforcing a law it is absolutely necessary that the punishment bear some relation to the popular mind to the offence; otherwise the lesson of enforcement is lost. The sanction of law is that it expresses the feeling of the community. It has no other sanction or sanctity in this country. There was deep philosophy in the confession of an eminent English judge. When he had condemned a young woman to death for a petty theft under the sanguinary code that then obtained, she fell down dead at his feet. "I seem to myself," said he, "to have been pronouncing sentence not against the prisoner, but against the law itself."

If a petty theft is punished with an extreme penalty, or how shall we grill the great sinner? It is the great weakness of our law enforcement today that it is ready to strike at the small sinner and the petty pickpocket, while the high-voltage sinner escapes. We strike at the porch-climber or wire-tapper or thimble-rigger, but punishment does not dog the footsteps of the representative of the respectable organization, who, sitting at the focus of many fiduciary relations, is able from his office chair to pick a thousand pockets, and who oppresses his subscribers or customers or stockholders. The man who cheats by charging "all the traffic will bear" instead of with a deck of cards, does not regard himself as a great malefactor. In reaction against wrong-doing even judges are sometimes naive and sentimental. When the case concerns a vulgar criminal it is easy to be severe, but with a first class instance of a stevedore passenger it is easy to see crimes as peccadilloes. Even-handed justice to all—even the meanest on the one hand and the public service corporations on the other—alone can lead us forward on the way of honor. Equal rights and fair play are the jewels dear to the heart of every man.

This shows us that we must grade before we can wisely grill the sinner. The petty thief should be but as a grass-hopper in our sight compared with the men and corporations who enter all gateways that are open to greed. There is no higher law which great enterprises have the right to command and a lower law for the little fellow working in a field that is so rich in winter opportunity. When the hurt passes to that vague mass that "public," we should be as keen to seek it out for punishment as when the victim is an individual or a corporation.

"Why did he change the name of his pretty little home from 'The Nutshell'?"
"He got tired of having passing humorists ring his bell to ask if the kernel was in."

NO WONDER.
"And how is your husband doing now, Mrs. Smith?"
"Oh, he's doing well! He's got a job in a glue factory."
"I'm very glad. I hope he'll stick there."

HER DEBUT.
"How did your first stage appearance go?"
"Splendidly. When I sang the first verse the audience yelled 'Fine!' And after I'd finished they yelled 'Imprisonment!'"

As the new minister of the village was on his way to evening service he met a young man of the place whom he was anxious to have become a member of his church.

"Good evening, my young friend," he said solemnly. "Do you ever attend a piece of worship?"

"Yes, indeed, sir; regularly every Sunday night," replied the young fellow, with a smile. "I'm on my way to see her now."

BUSINESS.
"Business is business," he said to me. And he gave short weight in my pound of tea.

"In business there isn't much sentiment," said he, as he charged me the extra cent.

"Once I trusted a friend and he didn't pay."
The bread that he sold wasn't made that day.

"Business is business," she said to me. Of a dozen eggs we could use but three.

REHEARSE CORONATION CEREMONY

At first the rehearsals take the character of simply plotting out the general arrangement of the scene, assigning positions and stations to individuals, calculating distances and places, planning the structural work necessary and preparing a detailed timetable.

Meanwhile all those who have to take part in the ceremony are having their various duties allotted to them and in a short time regular rehearsals will be begun and will be continued in the abbey almost daily, different sections of the service being taken in succession.

At these rehearsals the principal functionaries go through their duties in every day attire with walking sticks for wands of state and wands of office, silk hats and footstools for regalia, and two ordinary workmen are busy completing the various buildings, of which there are more than 200. All the overseas dominions are represented by a fac simile structure of their capital buildings.

The cost of the coronation to the state, according to a "white paper" just issued, is estimated at $625,000, which is just $90,150 more than the cost of King Edward's coronation, nine years ago. Prices for seats along the coronation route range from one to five guineas.

Sixty people sat down at Gorleston, Eng., to a huge sea pie made by Captain Harman, skipper of a smack. Its crust was three inches thick, and it was tightly packed with rabbits, kidneys, beefsteaks, potatoes, turnip, carrots and sprouts, the whole taking eight hours to cook.

Indians of the Upper Amazon have developed "wireless telegraphy" by means of drums made of hollow logs, tuned to varying pitches.

SOLID PETROL, A NEW SAFETY PRODUCT

(The Daily Telegraph, London.)

Petrol, petroleum, chloroform, and other flammable liquids are ranked among the danger fluids of the world's produce, so a German chemist, Dr. V. Roschitz, has produced a method of converting all highly evaporative liquids into a solid form. This is of itself interesting because this solidifying has been performed as a mechanical rather than a chemical change. The spirit is so converted to not alter their constitution, but are held in suspension, as it were, in a jelly.

The process of conversion is by means of stearic acid or similar fatty acids after undergoing prolonged treatment with a mineral acid, which is dissolved at a high temperature in the hydrocarbons, such as petroleum, etc. to be solidified, and the solution mixed with an alcoholic solution of caustic soda. After cooling, the hydrocarbon (petrol) is no longer a liquid, but forms a solid mass. In appearance this solid is like bottled starch, which seems to hold the petrol in its minute cells as honey held in the honeycomb, for by squeezing a portion of the jelly one could, so to speak, wring petrol from it as water from a sponge. At the same time the evaporation is as rapid as in the liquid, yet it is free from the spreading danger of lighted flames. The reason of this is that it does not melt, but burns as a candle, and can be extinguished as easily.

It is possible that in time motorists may adopt solid petrol in place of liquid fuel, as the change would reduce the bulk by 50 per cent., and no carburetor would be needed, since solid petrol vapourizes immediately on being subjected to currents of air. But in the field of gas-lighting solid petrol appears to have its greatest future.

Take the ordinary petrol-burning table lamp. In this the ordinary container is filled with lumps of solid petrol in its jelly form, and the incandescent burner of the ordinary coal-gas type, using the petrol gas which dissolves straightway from this solid petrol, gives a most brilliant illumination. There can be no danger with this form of lighting, as if the lamp overturns there is no liquid to be spilt, and the light simply goes out. The system can be applied for general house-lighting by pipes. For motors a small tube filled with solid petrol, costing half a crown gave sufficient gas and lighting capacity to all five lamps—head, side, and tail lamps—to last five hours a day for a fortnight—a much cheaper and yet more brilliant form of lighting than the ordinary method, as the biggest head-light only consumes one-sixteenth of a cubic foot of gas per hour using a double burner.

When the solid petrol evaporates there appears to be left only a residue of about 1 1/2 per cent. of foreign matter in the form of a white dust, which is easily disposed of, while a user of this fuel on his motorcar stated that he found an increase of 20 per cent. in the efficiency of his engine, which consumed this amount less than the liquid petrol. From the distributor's outlook solid petrol can be more easily handled than the liquid form, and by the method of its solidification a saving is effected in the refining process, while a much heavier spirit can be used.

In this direction a solid mixture of 40 per cent. of petroleum and 60 per cent. of petrol is said to give as good results for motor cars, without any of the soot or pungent fumes which have formerly discouraged this mixture's adoption.

In all directions where gas is used for power, light or heat, the new substance solid petrol is applicable. Who knows but in this form of fuel the aviation may have found the substance that will enable him to run his engine for long distances unimpeded? In any case, the system is interesting from the scientific point of view, irrespective of its commercial possibilities.

KING'S POSTOFFICE

An Account of the Work and Duties of the Court Postmaster

The postal and telegraphic department attached to the royal household is under the control of Mr. Hiley, who acted for several years as the court postmaster in the late reign and was re-appointed to the position by King George on His Majesty's accession.

The headquarters of the court post-office are at Buckingham Palace, but a temporary office is established wherever the king may be staying, under the direction of Mr. Hiley, who always travels with the court.

The post office at Buckingham Palace consists of three large apartments; one is fitted up as a telegraphic gallery, another as a sorting-room, and a third as a general office. There is also a telephone exchange attached to the post office, where three operators are employed.

The letters for the king and queen and members of the household are delivered to Buckingham Palace from the general post office six times a day, the first delivery being made at seven o'clock in the morning.

The mail, on its arrival at the post office, is at once sorted (there are four sorters on duty throughout the day) and made up into separate packets for the king, queen, members of the royal family, resident officials in the household, and the servants.

The whole mail is, by the way, carefully counted before it is sorted, and the number of letters received is entered in a book labelled "Mails In."

After the packets for delivery throughout the palace have been made up the number of letters in each packet is counted and entered in a book labelled "Mails Out," and the numbers in both books must, of course, be the same.

As soon as the mails have been sorted they are given to two of the palace post-men, who deliver them to their respective departments. The letters for the king and queen are delivered to the quarters department and are placed in the secretaries' rooms by an equerry.

The letters for members of the household are delivered to their respective private

TORONTO TO HAVE A SKYSCRAPER HOTEL

Toronto, Ont., April 10—Another skyscraper building is projected for this city at an early date. This time it will be a Howell hotel to be built on the site of the old Carl Howell hotel property at the corner of University avenue and Ord street, just north of the Alexandra apartments, at a probable cost of $1,500,000.

The principals in this enterprise are George Wright and E. M. Carroll of the Walker house, who purchased the Carl Howell hotel site for $100,000. The property has a frontage of 225 feet on University avenue and a depth in Ord street of 275 feet, and will make an ideal hotel site, being in the neighborhood of the parliament buildings and the Queen's park and readily accessible to the downtown district.

The building will be financed by an English capitalist who is now on his way to this country, and will be constructed on the latest lines. Work will probably be commenced this spring or early in the summer.

EASTER OPENING
The beauty of the Easter season reflected in our store

Out of doors bursting buds and warming sunshine. Indoors masses of color and luring notes of freshness and beauty. Fashion has proclaimed her rule of dress for the Easter Parade. Our store answered "Ready."

Here are lovely new dress goods, filmy nets, vivid toned silks, big bursting blossoms, clusters of wonderful toned ribbons, masses of laces, heaps of dainty children's wear, mounds of fascinating lingerie. Even the things of service—Hats and Suits and Gowns and such like join the chorus of Spring and Easter, chanting "new and beautiful!" "new and beautiful!"

Only our price marks are not new. They are the same dependable value-for-dollar kind you have always found at our store.

Every one of you must surely have something new for Easter. If not a suit or hat, then gloves, veil or handkerchief, one or the other of the dress accessories. You will find that we have anticipated every requirement, and while each item accurately reflects the latest style-dictates, the prices are fair and graded pleasantly to suit all purses.

Elegance the mark of the New Suits
It is in most cases the elegance of artistic simplicity. The modish serges, worsteds and Panamas are usually plain tailored, or with perhaps a contrasting note of braid. Every latest style-note is reflected in our suits—fabrics, colors, models. And our characteristic value-giving prevails here also.

Prices Ten Dollars to Forty Dollars.

Spring beauty seems woven even into the Hosiery
Such pretty new effects are introduced; even the work-day cotton and lace have gained in attractiveness through their added service qualities.

Sheer Lisle Hose, with three inch garter top, double heel, sole and toe, 5c. and 8c. pair.
Extra value Sheer Spun Silk Hose, three inch garter top, double woven heel sole, heel and toe, 7c. pair.

Here are such Hats as you'll long to wear on Easter Sunday
Shall it be a trig tailored hat or a big graceful affair of drooping brim with masses of glorious blossoms? Never was there such wide scope for millinery choice. It seems that the precisely becoming shape and trimming for every face has been anticipated.

It took clever fingers and a very mine of fashion notions to evolve such numbers of hats, each with its own notes of distinction and beauty, and which yet could be offered at such reasonable prices.

Possibly it is a Coat you have decided on for Easter
Cloth, Silk, Lace or Pongee, whatever material you have selected. You will find here, developed in many attractive models—according to the latest of fashion's decrees. Many new suggestions in fabrics, colors, styles.

AMUSEMENTS FOR OURSELVES AND OTHERS

THE GEM.

The days of slavery and the devotion of the colored people to their masters have at various times been the basis of interesting and attractive stories and dramas, and it is on the fidelity of an old colored man to the son of his white master that the leading feature of the Gem Theatre, the Esplanade subject, "His Master's Son," is based. A pretty vein of love runs through the story, and to strengthen matters the old drab takes the hand of the young man, who is a handsome fellow. The Gem Theatre presents "Bertha's Mission," a society drama, showing what follows a woman's desire to "reform" the world. The dress used by the leading lady in the Latin (and in the novelty) "Vanity of Women," thirty years ago of the hobbler kind, and it causes some perplexing situations to arise when the wearer appears in the street. "Trouble in Room 13" is a ripping comedy by the Edison Company, in which a countryman plays the leading part. Baseball fans are asked to hear Tom Waterall sing "Back to the Bleachers for Mine and mine" lovers the new orchestral programme.

THE LYRIC.

What is announced as the first of the special Vaudeville features secured for the Lyric theatre will be given this afternoon by Cross and Verno, comedy slack wire equilibrist, and other features of this team in the theatrical part of their daring and clever exhibitions, being out of a hundred who perform doubly on the slack wire. Comedy is a strong feature of this attraction. The drama, "The Iron Master," will receive a careful portrayal by the Edison Company. "A Western Courtship," by the Pathe American players and "The Wrong Box," a Vitagraph comedy, make up the balance of the programme.

THE UNIQUE.

The Gaumont Co., of Paris, whose picture productions have stood the test of years have lately painted upon the canvas of the silent drama, a subject that caused the moving picture world to gasp. Not only for the story itself, but for the artistic presentation it received, did exhibitors throughout the States and Upper Canada claim it as being one of the most important picture treats of the season. Under the title of "The Fleur de Lis" or "The Emblem of France," it tells a strong vital story. The stage settings were carefully preserved in detail, many beautiful scenes being brought before the eye of the looker on, colored in natural tints adding greatly to their beauty. They will anticipate waiting the Unique Theatre today of Tuesday expect a delightful photo play. This is the first of a series of Easter specials. There will also be a budget of new items from all over the world, with the Imp. Cuban drama, "A Manly Man," a laughable farce entitled "The Nurse," Mr. Newcombe has a new novelty number with excellent illustrations.

THE STAR.

Ralph Fischer, a concert tenor of announced ability, will give an engagement in the beautiful hall in North End tonight in the beautiful number, "My Mother's Favorite hymn." WAS TERRIBLY AFFLICTED WITH LAME BACK. COULD NOT SWEEP FLOOR.

Three Boxes of Doan's Kidney Pills Cured Him.

It is hard to do housework with a weak and aching back. Backache comes from sick kidneys, and what a lot of trouble sick kidneys cause. But they can't help it. If more work is put on them than they can stand it is not to be wondered they get out of order.

Weak back is simply a warning from the kidneys and should be attended to immediately so as to avoid years of terrible suffering from kidney trouble. Mrs. N. Larmour, Smith's Falls, Ont., writes: "I take pleasure in writing you stating the benefit I received from using Doan's Kidney Pills. About a year ago I was terribly afflicted with lame back and was unable to do any work. I had to have my own house swept every day. I was advised to try Doan's Kidney Pills, which I did with the greatest benefit. I only used three boxes and I am as well as ever. I highly recommend these pills to every sufferer from lame back or kidney trouble."

Price 50 cents per box, or 3 for $1.25, at all dealers of mail order on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

BRITAIN'S OLDEST M. P. (Westminster Gazette.)

In a short while Mr. Samuel Young, M. P., will enter on his ninetieth year. He is the oldest man in the House of Commons, though it is hard to believe it, for he is wonderfully active. Mr. Young was hailed the other day by an old friend, who congratulated him on looking so well for a man who must be at least seventy-five. "Yes, I am at least seventy-five, for in a short time, I celebrate my eighty-ninth birthday." He has lived to see home rule granted.

SHEFFIELD STREET CASE; THREE FOUND GUILTY

When Henry Berry came to the city on Saturday, after having been working in the woods, he indulged in some intoxicants, and before long strayed to Sheffield street, where he visited Margaret Phelan, a colored woman, who, after he got inside the door, secretly barred it and locked it. He went to sleep in a room, and when he awoke yesterday morning, he was short $8 from $8 which he had had. When he protested, she disclaimed all knowledge of having seen it. Later yesterday Berry was arrested and this morning a fine of $8 was allowed to stand against him for drunkenness.

Three policemen this morning, Sergt. Campbell and Policemen Henry and Goe-line, went to the Phelan woman's house and made three arrests, taking her on a charge of keeping a lewdy house, a white woman, Mabel Smith and a white man, named Frederick Alexer, on a charge of being inmates. The evidence of Berry proved the charge against the three and they were adjudged guilty. The colored woman was fined $100 or three months, and a fine of $30 allowed to stand against the man.

SPERDAKES' POSITION IS NOT CHANGED

Judge McKeown Refuses Application for Habeas Corpus — To Supreme Court is Next Step

Before Mr. Justice McKeown in Chambers this morning, Dr. W. B. Wallace, K. C., and J. A. Sinclair, acting for John G. Sperrakes, recently convicted by Judge Forbes for stealing electricity from the St. John Railway Company and sentenced to a term of two years in the penitentiary with hard labor together with a fine of $1,000, applied to have the prisoner released on habeas corpus proceedings.

Mr. Wallace, based his contention under Chap. 9 of the act of 1909 amending sec. 823 of the Criminal Code. That where an offence charged is punishable with imprisonment for a period exceeding five years, the attorney-general may require that the person charged be tried by a jury and may so require notwithstanding that the person charged has consented to be tried by a magistrate, and thereupon the magistrate shall have no jurisdiction to try or sentence such person.

Mr. Wallace contended that the attorney-general had not exercised that option and the failure to do so did not give the judge the right to proceed with the case. H. A. Powell, K. C., who appeared on behalf of the attorney-general argued that the words were permissive, and not simply supplied to the attorney-general authority; if he saw fit, to intervene to say this is a matter I want tried out before a jury.

Dr. Wallace refused the application, ruling that the act simply permitted the attorney-general to intervene, and that the jurisdiction of the court did not depend on the matter being submitted to the attorney-general.

Dr. Wallace will probably move the supreme court for a writ of habeas corpus, as the next step in the case.

THE QUESTION OF MAKING MILL STREET WIDER

It is probable that no action will be taken regarding the proposed widening of Mill street, for some weeks, as the committee appointed to deal with the matter is endeavoring to get all information possible before deciding on a definite plan.

At a meeting of the committee held last week there was a general discussion on the matter, and it was decided to look more fully into it before making a recommendation to the council.

The committee feel that it might be possible to make an arrangement with the C. P. R. for a strip of their land on the western side of the street and falling that the question of expropriating land on the eastern side would be considered seriously.

GARBAGE INCINERATOR IN MARKET ARRANGED FOR

Why the Youth's Clothing Business Centres at Oak Hall

Because our Youth's Clothing is not merely men's clothing in smaller sizes—as is the case in most stores; but it is made by men who know how to make Youth's Clothing, who draft patterns scientifically to fit a growing boy and who originate styles and select those fabrics and designs that will suit the tastes of the young man of today.

We were the pioneers in making Youth's Clothing a specialty—we are almost alone in the field today because few stores think it of importance to specialize this end of the Clothing business.

We have a very comprehensive collection of Spring Suits, in scores of styles and patterns, that will show you in a few minutes why the Youth's Clothing business is centring at Oak Hall.
