MONCTON AND ST. JOHN

THE WHEEL O' FORTUNE

By LOUIS TRACY

Author of "The Wings of the Morning," "The Pillar of Light," "The Captain of the Kansas," etc.

"You ought to be careful in your choice of words," he said pompously.

"There is no question of 'dare' or 'dare not' where I am concerned. Signora, do me the favor of sitting here while I discuss matters briefly with Signor Alfieri. Signor, be good enough to precede me."

He pointed to the door. With a queer catching at her breath, Mrs. Haxton sank into a chair. Alfieri folded his arms and gazed at the Governor with eyes that blazed under his heavy brows.

"You are the representative of Italy," he said, making a great effort to speak quietly. "I call on you to lodge that woman in a cell so that she may be tried with her accomplices."

"If you do not go instantly, and in silence, into the corridor, I shall call on my guards to take you there by force," exclaimed Marchetti with a more successful assumption of ease.

Alfieri turned his lambent glance on Mrs. Haxton, but the governor stopped the imminent outbreak.

"I said in silence," he roared, stretching a hand to give a bell-ring. Alfieri, with a fierce gesture of disdain, went out. His Excellency bowed to the lady.

"Two minutes," he murmured. "The wine on the table is Capri. You will find it grateful after this somewhat heated interview."

But Mrs. Haxton drank no wine when the Governor looked Alfieri. She bit her lips and clenched her hands in an agony of restraint. This lull in the storm was more trying than the full fury of the blast.

The Governor's two minutes lengthened into ten. Then he hurried back alone. He was manifestly ill at ease, though he spoke glibly enough.

"I am taking a grave case, signora," he said, "but I feel that the peculiar circumstances warrant it. I have released the Baron von Kerber. He is now awaiting trial, and it will give me much pleasure to conduct you to your carriage. Yet I pray you give earnest heed to me. I have told him what I now tell you—his undertaking of yours must be abandoned. Not only is it my duty to prevent it at all costs, but an expedition starts for the Five Hills this very night. So, you see, you are sure to fall in any case. The exact locality is known, and Signor Alfieri has an armed escort. I repeat, you have failed. May I hope, without being rude, that your love affairs may be more prosperous. Charming woman that you are, I cannot compliment you on either of your present suitors. My advice is, go back to England and help me tomorrow in persuading Signor Fenshawe to let matters rest where they are."

As one walking in a dream, Mrs. Haxton accompanied Marchetti to the courtyard. There she found von Kerber, who ran to meet her.

"So it is you," he cried in English. "I guessed it, though they would tell me nothing."

The Governor was most polite. He would not lecture there before natives.

"I have spoken as a friend tonight," he murmured. "Tomorrow I shall be an official once more."

The alabaster rattled across the paved square towards the gateway. Alfieri, on an expedition starts for the Five Hills this very night. So, you see, you are sure to fall in any case. The exact locality is known, and Signor Alfieri has an armed escort. I repeat, you have failed. May I hope, without being rude, that your love affairs may be more prosperous. Charming woman that you are, I cannot compliment you on either of your present suitors. My advice is, go back to England and help me tomorrow in persuading Signor Fenshawe to let matters rest where they are."

"The driver swung his horses towards the sea front."

"No, no," cried Mrs. Haxton, "Go through the bazaar. Drive slowly." And in the next breath she explained to von Kerber: "We must find Abdullah. He is somewhere in the main street. Above all things, we must find Abdullah. Alfieri leaves Massawa tonight, he is making for the Five Hills. Our only hope lies with Abdullah."

CHAPTER XII. Stump Depends on Observation. After eight hours of dreamless sleep, Irene awoke to a torpid but blissful conviction that bed is a most comfortable place when bones ache and the slightest movement is made through patches of chafed skin. In fact, having buried her hands gingerly in the wealth of brown hair that streamed over the pillow, she lay and watched the white planks of the deck overhead, wondering idly what time it was. The effort to guess the hour brought her a stage horror complete consciousness. Her first precise recollection was also pleasant. She thought of the way in which Royson had carried her in his arms not so many hours earlier, and the memory banished all others for many minutes.

If she smiled and blushed a little, it may be pleaded that she was twenty years of age, and had passed her girlhood amidst surroundings from which young men eligible to carry young ladies in their arms, or even hold them there, were rigorously excluded. Not that her grandfather was a misanthrope, but his interests were bound up so thoroughly in Egyptian research that his friends were, for the most part, elderly savants with kindred tastes. The wreck of the Bokhara, too, with Irene's father and mother among its passengers, had helped to cut him away from the social world. When the grief of that tragedy had yielded to the passing years he had realized that the child who had crept into his affections was growing up into a beautiful and light-hearted girl. Quite inasmuch she assimilated herself to his hobbies and studies, became mistress of his London house and fine estate in Berkshire, and by operation of forces more effective in their way than any Puritanical safeguards, lived apart from the gay throng in which she was eminently fitted to take a leading place.

Irene offered, then, a somewhat unusual type. While other girls might regard the number of male hearts they had submitted during the past season as a record, Irene, with equal accuracy, the names of the gods of the Memphis order, though her grandfather's wealth and the eagerness of a skilled maid compelled her to take a passing interest in fashions, she was far more devoted to variations in accents. Such attainments, so sedulously pursued during the succeeding decade, might have converted her into an alarmingly precise Blue Bird. As it was, the Memphis gods smiled on her, and the scarab might buzz off to their museums contentedly at any moment, for Irene was only waiting the advent of an unrequited influence into her life to develop into a tender, sympathetic, delightful womanhood.

Indeed, if Ka and Ra and beetle-headed Khepra were so important in the scheme of existence that this dainty scientist carried naught for the moth-life of society, why, then, did she blush when she remembered how closely Dick Royson had clasped her to his breast overnight? Perhaps she might have asked herself that question, only to blush more deeply in reply. It was a question which she had not her thoughts were distracted by the extraordinary behavior of a silk undershirt hanging on a peg at the foot of the bed. It was swinging to and fro with the regularity of a pendulum, and that which is regular is a pendulum is fantastically irregular in its undertone. She sat up quickly, and listened. There was a swish of water under the bed. Now and again she heard a slight movement of the rudder chains as their boxes. Then, all aglow with wonder and excitement, she jumped out of bed and drew the curtain of one of the two tiny portholes that gave light to her cabin.

Yes, another marvel had happened. The yacht was speeding along under canvas, was already far out at sea. Where Maso-wah's yellow sandpit shone yesterday were now blue waterlilies dancing in the sun, and Irene was sailor enough to know that the Aphrodite was bound south. She rang an electric bell, and her maid came.

"Yes, miss," said the girl, "we've been going since midnight. As soon as Mrs. Haxton and Baron von Kerber came on board—"

"Baron von Kerber, did you say?" broke in Irene breathlessly. (To be Continued.)

ST. ANDREW'S MEN WANT TO OWN A HOME

At Annual Meeting Last Night St. Andrew's Society Took Initial Step Toward Securing a Building.

At the annual meeting of St. Andrew's Society last night, Dr. J. R. McIntosh was elected president for the ensuing year. It was decided that St. Andrew's day be celebrated this year by a "Scottish Night," and the old and new officers were appointed a committee to make arrangements.

The members of the society will attend divine services in St. David's church on the 29th inst. at 4 o'clock in the afternoon. An important step was taken towards the augmentation of the building fund of the society. It had long been felt among members that it was desirable to secure better quarters. It did not seem possible to rent suitable rooms and an agitation was set on foot in favor of erecting a building. A good many years ago one of the members, the late Robert Milligan, left a small sum to the society as a building fund. This with interest now amounts to $385.00.

The following motion which was introduced by R. R. Macaulay, and seconded by J. Roy Campbell, was carried unanimously:

"That a committee be appointed to prepare and submit to the February quarterly meeting, such amendments or amendments to the constitution as will provide for a proposition of the members to purchase and carry to the building fund, effected that change shall not come into effect until the capital of the charitable funds of the society shall amount to $10,000."

The committee was appointed in accordance with the motion. The treasurer, John White, submitted his annual report which was certified by the auditors, R. B. Kessen and J. F. MacIntyre, his vice president; Robert B. Patterson, 2nd vice president; Rev. A. A. Graham, chaplain; Alexander Wilson, historian; John White, treasurer; Cyrus F. Inches, secretary; P. S. Burpee and C. W. Bell, marshals; Dr. P. R. Inches, Andrew MacIntyre and James Mack, committee of charity. The president appointed H. S. Cruikshank, Alex. Cruikshank, W. H. Ross, John Gibson and Lawrence McLellan, the society pipers. B. Kessen and J. B. Patterson were chosen auditors.

The society received from St. Andrew's Society in Edinburgh a large box of beautiful charity. The president appointed H. S. Cruikshank, Alex. Cruikshank, W. H. Ross, John Gibson and Lawrence McLellan, the society pipers. B. Kessen and J. B. Patterson were chosen auditors.

Fashion Hint for Times Readers

FROM PARIS COMES THIS PRETTY BLOUSE.

So marvelously like fine hand needlework are some of the sheer embroideries produced by the St. Gall manufacturers that there is more and more tendency to incorporate these dainty trimmings in high-class lingerie houses. The embroidery is done on "hand looms" and has almost the individuality of painstaking hand-wrought work turned out in the French convents and by the inimitable Apennine needlewomen. The pretty waist illustrated is built entirely of strips of this fine "hand loom" needlework, showing a conventional figure on a delicate background, alternating with insertions of Normandy Valenciennes lace. Needlework and lace in this instance are put together with entire due "seaming"—a most painstaking task but well worth the extra trouble in the effect of distinction achieved. The deep yoke of Valenciennes lace to match the insertions is made by laying upon top of the lace up to the top of the high collar. An extra touch of elaboration is the butterfly inset of Venice, which helps to make this really quite simple little model rather intricate in effect.

DOMINION BAPTISTS ADOPT A SCHEME FOR FEDERATION

It Now Remains for the District Conventions to Ratify the Decision in Order to Bring it into Effect.

Ottawa, Nov. 5.—Baptist Union in the Dominion is practically accomplished. The report of the committee with its draft constitution was adopted substantially without change, the only thing that remains to be done for the three provinces, Ontario and Quebec, Maritime Provinces and the West to ratify the proceedings and to nominate representatives for the first meeting of the new union to be held in Toronto. It was suggested that all meetings in the future be held in Toronto but this is a question which the union itself will have to determine.

To give the plan of union definite form, a resolution was proposed by Rev. Dr. Norton of Toronto, which was accepted, declaring that formation of a Baptist union was both desirable and practicable. It recommended the appointment of a committee of fifteen to prepare a report on the subject to be presented to the annual meeting of the union in 1910.

The application of Brandon College to the Manitoba legislature for a charter was endorsed. This concluded the business of the conference.

MRS. SARAH WIGMORE MET AWFUL DEATH IN HER HOME

Burned to Death Last Night While Alone in Son-in-Law's House—Clothing Caught From Lamp.

Mrs. Sarah Wigmore, widow of W. A. Wigmore, was burned to death last night about 7.30 o'clock in the home of her son-in-law, Robert Bailey, 22 Erin street. No one knows exactly how the tragedy occurred as the old lady was alone in the house at the time.

The fire department, responding to an alarm from box 17, was promptly reaching the house, and just as the firemen entered the front door they heard Mrs. Wigmore fall to the floor in the parlor. Hurrying in, they saw her writhing on the floor between the table and the window with her head touching the wall. The clothing was burned from her body. It was a horrible sight. It did not take long to smother out the flames but the unfortunate woman was by that time dead. The house was quickly cleared of the curious crowd which had gathered, and Mrs. Wigmore was between sixty and sixty-five years of age, and it appears had been subject to fainting spells. When the body was lifted from the floor the remains of a small lamp were found under her and it is supposed that she was carrying the lamp lighted when it set fire to her dress. Nothing else in the room was burned, and even the carpet on which she lay was only charred.

It was only a few minutes after the tragedy when Mr. Bailey, the son-in-law, who had been sent for, arrived. In conversation with a Telegraph reporter he said he was unable to account for the fatal fall. "Mrs. Bailey and I had left her alone in the house only five minutes when it happened," he said. "She had been subject to fainting spells for thirty or forty years, but she always took them in bed at night. I never knew or heard of her having them in the daytime. She was my mother-in-law and came to live with us last May. Our relations were always of the pleasantest. Mrs. Wigmore was a woman of a very gentle, obliging disposition, and was very thoughtful of the comfort of others."

Coroner Berryman, after viewing the body, gave permission to have it prepared for burial. The lower limbs were fearfully burned and the whole body was badly marked by the disease.

Mrs. Wigmore, before she went to live with her daughter, kept a boarding house for some years in Dorchester street. People who lived in her house then speak of her character in the highest terms. She is survived by four daughters and two sons. All of the daughters are married. Two of them live in the United States, where Mrs. W. is believed to have relatives. Besides Mrs. Bailey, also residing in Douglas avenue, is a daughter, Rupert Wigmore, manager of the Sussex Milk Company, a nephew.

Coroner Berryman said last night that, after considering the circumstances of the case, he had come to the conclusion that no inquest was necessary.

GUY FAWKES' DAY WAS CELEBRATED

The Orangemen of the city last night celebrated Guy Fawkes' Day by an entertainment in the Orange Hall. E. S. Henegar, district master, was in the chair. An interesting and varied programme was presented. The evening was brought to a close by the serving of light refreshments.

The chief feature of the gathering was a fine address by Hon. C. N. Skinner on the significance of the anniversary. The speaker first dealt upon the reasons for celebrating the day and why Orangemen had particular occasion to do so. Mr. Skinner touched upon the principles for which the association stood and said that no man who truly loved the British empire could object to them. Briefly stated, he had come to the conclusion that no man who truly loved the British empire could object to them. Briefly stated, he had come to the conclusion that no man who truly loved the British empire could object to them.

Following Mr. Skinner's address, were a number of interesting duets by Mr. and Mrs. G. D. Davidson. There were also short addresses by a number of prominent Orangemen.

The Orange Hall, Fairville, was the scene of much jubilation last evening, the members of the order celebrating Guy Fawkes' Day by a supper and entertainment following a dance. The festivities were kept up until an early hour.

The members of St. John Council No. 337, of the Order of Columbus, will hold an informal dance on Wednesday evening next, November 11, in Keith's assembly room.

It is hoped to see as many members as possible present. As always, the Knights can be depended upon to give all a good time.

A FOOD PERFORMANCE BY BOSTON OPERA CO. LAST NIGHT

Gounod's Faust was Excellently Sung at the Opera House—Lucia is Tonight's Bill.

The Boston Opera Singers made a distinctly big hit last night in their presentation of Gounod's Faust. The merit of the performance by this talented aggregation seems to increase with each succeeding night, and the general rendering of this opera was in every sense a greater success than that given on their previous visit to St. John. The artists have become accustomed to each other and to the director and all goes as smoothly as the proverbial marriage bell.

The plot of this opera is so well known that it needs no retelling and it is only necessary to dwell upon special points of the generally excellent presentation last evening. Lyman Wheeler had not previously been seen in the title role, but he created a most favorable impression, using his rich vibrant voice with telling effect. The one thing he needs to make his work well high perfect is greater abandon. His stage attitude generally is little too formal to be sufficiently convincing and in this way he fails to carry his audience with him. With this point reminding his work would be fine indeed.

Francis excelled herself last night and at most times rose to the full height of her powers. She much strengthened the high opinion formed of her by her previous performance two months ago, and she was free from nervousness from which she evidently suffered on that occasion. She was at her best in the garden scene with Faust, which was emotionally strong, and her exquisite voice displayed itself in the ravishing strains throughout the act and she delivered the Jewel song brilliantly.

F. J. Boyle makes a supreme by satisfying the audience with his splendid vocal equipment, that his is one of the few great performances of Mephistopheles on the opera stage today. It is understood that he studied the part in Paris and he assimilated all that was to be learned of its traditions. This coupled with a powerful personality and splendid vocal equipment, makes Mephisto a thing to be remembered. A grim and menacing figure, his Mephisto permeates all with his sardonic humor and pervades the action with his infernal machinations.

Miss Stetler is to be congratulated on the great success that she achieved as Siebel, the youth. Her fine and flexible contralto voice proved to be a sympathetic medium for the music of the part, and she received a well deserved encore in the Flower Song.

Mr. Cantoni makes a most acceptable Valentine and his reading of the part is evidently the result of careful study. He was specially impressive in the death scene. Miss Preston and C. A. Pardonette acquitted themselves worthily in their respective parts of Martha and Wagner. The chorus were exceptionally praiseworthy, their bright tone being noticeable. The Soldiers chorus was heartily accorded. In view of the full orchestra that is called for in the work, it is a pity that it could not be rendered in anything like its entirety last night, but Mr. Francis did wonders at the piano.

Lucia is the bill tonight, and the excellence of this aggregation merits full praise for the remainder of the week.

LECTURE ON FOLK LORE

The second lecture on "Folk-Lore," given by the Ladies' Association of the Natural History Society, was held on Thursday afternoon and was listened to with much attention and interest by the large number present. The lecturer, Mrs. Grandlund, took as her subject the "Folk-Lore of Finland."

Before the president introduced the speaker, Miss Knight sang a folk song of Finland, and Miss Murray gave a violin solo, both of which were much enjoyed.

After the lecture, Mrs. Knight sang the Finnish national anthem. Tea was served by Mrs. A. R. Melrose, Mrs. W. P. Bonnell, Mrs. A. B. Gilmour and the Misses Fotherley.

Gill and Toronto Universities. We quote the following interesting account of the Cincinnati plan:

THE EVENING TIMES THE DAILY TELEGRAPH New Brunswick's Independent Newspapers

These papers advocate: British Connection Honesty in Public Life Measures for the Material Progress and Moral Advancement of our Great Dominion. No Graft No Deals

"The People who will not support their own City must one day want a City of their own to support."

IN NEWFOUNDLAND

We are somewhat vigorous in expression in Canada during political campaigns, but our wildest flights of imagination appear tame enough when compared with the Newfoundland article.

"Electors, you dare not trifle with this matter. Before you mark your ballots you must weigh well all the circumstances—the whole country. Men, women and children and those who are yet unborn are depending upon the justice of your decision. They cannot decide for themselves. You have to decide for them. Will you, by one false step, create conditions for them that will make their lives miserable? Will the fathers of St. John's West ensure and place in bondage their own offspring? Never! Never! Never! Look upon your homes, the land of your nativity, look upon your great public interests—the labor industries, the manufacturing industries, the fisheries and other native resources. Look prospectively upon the posterity that will follow you in the journey of life. Look at your domestic interests—your sons and daughters, the helpless children now being rocked in their mother's arms, and then gravely and sincerely and dispassionately ask yourselves if you can, with any human or paternal feeling, hand over all these sacred interests to the keeping of traitors—individuals who have forfeited every right to public confidence, and who would not hesitate for a moment to make you the slaves of a great grasping monopoly, or place you under the yoke of Canadian bondage forever."

This appeal appears to have had some weight. So far as the government is concerned, it indicates that the returns are sustained, though by a very small majority.

CHURCH AND SALOON

The Presbyterian church in Canada has taken advanced ground with regard to temperance reform. The Times reprints today a leaflet which will be circulated immediately by the Board of Moral and Social Reform of that church, of which Rev. Dr. Shearer is the secretary. The policy set forth has been very widely and carefully considered, and seven out of eight Synods, as well as the General Assembly, have endorsed it with almost absolute unanimity.

Absolute prohibition is the goal aimed at, but since that is not immediately possible the Presbyterian church counsels the local veto, the abolition of the bar and the public trading system, and the elimination of the element of private gain in places where a majority of the electors demand the sale of liquor. Whether the last mentioned plan can be successfully carried out has been a question concerning which there has been and is much difference of opinion. The Presbyterian church is convinced that the thing can be done, and the leaflet reproduced in today's Times deals with the matter at length. Not only members of that church but every citizen will be interested in the statements so clearly set forth. It is a distinct gain for the cause of temperance reform when a body so influential as the Presbyterian Church in Canada takes the field in an aggressive campaign against the liquor traffic. If it has been more conservative than some others, it will be the more effective now that a determined forward movement has been begun.

THE GLOUCESTER MOTHER

When autumn winds are high They wake and trouble me, With thoughts of people lost In coming on the seas.

How dark, how dark and cold, And fearful in the waves, Are those who lie not still And quiet in their graves— In many a grave deep.

That will not let me sleep As they may sleep on hills! May sleep ashore till time is old, And all the earth is frosty ground, Under the flowers a thousand springs, For they sleep and dream of many things.

God bless them all that die at sea! If they must sleep in restless waves, Or make them dream they are ashore, With grass above their graves. —Sarah Orme Jewett, in McClure's Magazine.

A VISION

I saw a vision once of future life, I came in answer to my earnest prayer, And at a moment's truth seemed vanished When God's bright truth seemed vanished.

And life a meager thing, and purposeless, And in the agony of death I said, "Oh, make me strong, Thou, Father of Soul in Man, And to me a vision send of future life, That will give back its grandeur and its hope!"

The "Thou" came: upon the margin I stood Of a wide and sullen sea, whose heaving bosom rolled in shadowy, indistinct, In massive rolls of cloud, through which no light could enter; and I felt cold and afraid. But lo! in the west the clouds break into light.

As in the sunset, and the glory strikes Full on my face, and movement there Beyond the clouds, in glorious light, I see: And, far above me, shadowy, indistinct, Yet irresistible in its silent force, A mighty Hand, pointing me toward the light.

Where in my fear, I cross that sullen sea— In truth the sullen sea is future life, Shut in by clouds of doubt and ignorance, And while that light shines from beyond, I feel But gladness in the journey, and but joy In buffeting the rough billows: while that Head Shall point the way, I go in trustfulness.

It is a vision true of future life! I sail that sullen sea, in joy I sail, Down the life, that leads at last to light. "The life, that merges in divine! 'Tis human life, with its undying hope!" —Mary Isabel Wynor.

IN LIGHTER VEIN HIS TROUBLE

"Poor Burroughs! He's worrying a great deal about his money."

"Nonsense! You'll never catch him worrying about his money!"

"I didn't say he was worrying about any old debts he couldn't pay, but about new ones that he can't contract." —Philadelphia Press.

SEVENTY TIMES SEVEN.

From a Paris paper we take the following conversation in a police court. The President—it appears from your record you have been thirty-seven times previously convicted.

ALL IN THE GAME

"Austin, before I punish you, tell me why you were making so much noise," demanded the magistrate.

"I was just playin' automobile, pa," sobbed the youngster.

A BIG BATH-TUB

The tide-iron-ship-out-in-the-Bay of Fundy, witnessing the phenomenon of a summer urchin, who had pulled the plug out of the ocean." —Washington Herald.

NOT FOR HIM

Passenger (on train car)—Don't you always shiver when you see this country? Conductor—Not me; I'm going to be cremated.

TOUGH!

He—Did you hear me stinging under your window last night? I hope your father didn't hear it!

PERFECTLY REASONED

An old Scotchman who was threatened with blindness consulted an oculist.

"Will you have a little stimulant?" inquired the doctor.

"Yes, yes, I'll tak' a drink o' anything you have handy," was the quick rejoinder.

"That's the best stimulant," advised the oculist. "You'll have to stop drinking or you'll be blind in a week."

The old chap pondered a moment.

"I've seen everything that's worth seein', anyhow."

LOVE AND A RING.

Love me little, love me long, is the conjugal rule in Japan, where they tell this story to illustrate the transitory love of the occident.

"A tourist, they say, was touring Brittany. He came to Quimper, and he found in the place public beside the river an old woman selling trinkets."

"What is the price of this?" he asked, taking up an antique ring of silver and sapphires.

"Is it for your wife or your sweetheart?" said the woman.

"Nonsense!" And the tourist—

—said the old woman. "Take it for me. I've been trying to sell it, though I have up sweethearts. I had the ring been for her you'd have bought it at once without regard to price."

"I will take it," said the tourist, smiling. "Here are the ten francs."

"So the old woman wrapped the ring up."

"But you haven't said the price," she grumbled. "If it had been for her you'd have paid me down to five francs. Oh, you men!"

A PLATE YOU CAN EAT WITH, HELD IN POSITION BY OUR NEWLY IMPROVED QUADRUPLE ATTACHMENT. People don't want artificial teeth to carry around in their pockets nor keep at home in their bureau drawer as they will know where to find them when the door bell rings, they want teeth for service. If you have a plate that no dentist has been able to make fit, why not try us, we have satisfied thousands and why not you? Our teeth are so natural in size, shape, color and the expression they afford to the features as to defy detection BY A DENTIST unless closely examined. Our new attachment holds them as solid as though they were riveted in the mouth.

LATE LOCALS

The country market will be closed on Thanksgiving Day. C. P. R. steamship Empress of Britain Captain Murray arrived at Liverpool yesterday at 9 a.m. from Montreal. R. A. Corbett a contractor has been reported for obstructing Spring street with sand, bricks, stone, iron and lumber without sufficient light. St. David's circle of the King's Daughters and Sons intend holding a service in that church on Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock. Rev. A. A. Graham will preach. The public are invited. Samuel Dunlop, rigger, who had his leg broken about two months ago, and who has since been undergoing treatment at the public hospital, is able to get around now with the aid of crutches.

The plans for fire escapes on the school buildings of the city were approved yesterday by the building committee and tenders will probably be called for after the school board meets next week.

Six large schooners arrived in port today from United States ports, three of them with hard coal cargoes, one with cement, and the rest in ballast. The amount of hard coal in the above schooners is 1239 tons.

A plebiscite is being taken in Fairville today on the matter of street electric lighting. The polling place is at Masson's carriage factory, and quite a number of the residents had voted up to 1:30 o'clock. The poll closes at 5 o'clock.

John Splane owner of the schooner Calabria, which is ashore at Salutation Cove near Summerville, P. E. I., is now at that place. In company with Captain Joseph Read he visited the schooner and found her leaking badly around the rudder casing. The schooner James A. Codric is alongside taking off part of the cargo in an effort to float her.

SELLING RIFLES TO SMALL BOYS

Magistrate Ritchie Scores the Practice in Commenting on Case of Eldon Morrish.

Eldon B. Morrish the twelve year old adopted son of William Morrish a blind man residing in Lancaster was arraigned before Magistrate Ritchie this morning, accused of securing $10 from Mrs. Elizabeth Jennings, sister of Mr. Morrish for false pretences. Although he did not plead to the charge he confessed to procuring the money from Mrs. Jennings purporting that he was sent to her by Mr. Morrish to negotiate the loan. He implicated James Reid a school mate and with the money two rifles were purchased. One of the guns was secured in Scribner's on King Square and the other in LeLacour's hardware store on Germain street. An eighteen year old boy whom the juvenile prisoner met casually purchased the rifle in Scribner's for him. Both were purchased on Tuesday and are now in the possession of Detective Killen. The magistrate commented very harshly on the fact that two little boys were permitted to secure weapons and postponed the hearing until to-morrow and also the assumption of the proprietors of the stores, young Reid Mrs. Jennings and Mr. Morrish will be present. Reid's home is in the West End on Duke street.

A FAST TRIP

Schr. Georgie D. Jenkins Comes From New York to St. John in Fifty-Six Hours!

The United States schooner Georgia D. Jenkins, in command of Captain Colwell, has arrived in port from New York, making a remarkable run to this port in fifty-six hours. The captain says he left New York last Tuesday with his vessel in ballast with the wind blowing hard from the north-west. At times she logged from 15 to 20 miles an hour, which almost equals steamship speed. This is a record trip for the jenkins. The vessel has before proved herself to be very fast. Captain Colwell was master of the schooner Abbie C. Stubbs at one time.

PERSONALS

RUSHING COUNTRY PRODUCE TO MARKET

The cold weather is resulting in very heavy shipments of country produce at the present time. This morning there was a record quantity arrived at Indian town, which included meat, poultry, vegetables, butter, eggs, cheese, etc. The fear of a sudden sealing of the big stream is the reason for rushing forward the produce in large quantities. From now to the close of navigation, freight business is expected to be very heavy.

WEDDINGS

Emery-Scott

The home of Andrew Cooper, 398 Duke street, West Side, was the scene of a pretty wedding last night, when his niece, Miss Annie R. Scott, of Milford, Me., was united in marriage to George W. Emery, of Summerville, Queens county. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Jacob Heaney, B. A., and there were no attendants. The bride was given away by her uncle, Mr. Cooper, Mr. and Mrs. Emery left by steamer Majestic for their future home in Summerville.

WON'T STAND FOR THE STREET SIGNS

Several Citizens Won't Have Them on Their Buildings and the City is Held Up.

An unlooked for difficulty has arisen with regard to the placing of street signs. A number of the signs are now ready, and the contractor is prepared to put them in place, but owners of buildings in several instances have refused permission to place the signs on their buildings. Recorder Skinner has been consulted, and he gives his opinion to the effect that the city has no power at present to compel the owners of buildings to allow the signs to be placed.

He suggests a by-law or an act of the legislature to authorize the city to place the signs where they wish to. The committee having the matter in hand will meet shortly to consider what steps shall be taken. The contract for painting the signs was awarded to John Sullivan at 42 cents each. He was also to put them in place at a cost of 10 cents each. Upwards of a thousand are being painted.

NEGRO CHASED WHITE WOMAN

Charles Taylor in Court This Morning on a Serious Charge

Charles Taylor, the negro porter on the Governor Cobb who was taken into custody on Duke street last night on the charge of assaulting a white woman, pleaded not guilty in the police court this morning, and after Night Detective Marshall was examined, Taylor was remanded until tomorrow. Marshall testified that at half-past ten he saw the woman proceed down Duke street, at the corner of Carmathien, walking rapidly, with the negro a few yards in the rear. After half the intersecting block had been traversed, the woman gazed behind, and seeing that the mulatto was rapidly decreasing the distance separating them, she ran, with Taylor hot in pursuit. Up the stairs she fled, and succeeded in outrunning the negro to the door, which she hastily flung open and unconsciously slammed just as he reached the final step. Taylor then reëntered, descended to the street, where he placed under arrest by the witness. When asked for an explanation, Taylor laughed and replied, "I didn't do gal, but Ah did it for deviltry." He said he had fled from Boston. The woman was on the verge of hysteria when she entered the residence of the employer, and was under restraint until she had recovered from her fright. To the magistrate this morning Taylor denied following the girl upstairs. He said both were walking down Duke street, and for 'deviltry' placed his foot on one step only, but made no attempt to ascend. He said he had been drinking. The seriousness of the offence was elucidated to him by Magistrate Ritchie.

IMPROVEMENTS AT SAND POINT

Clark & Adams Get Contract for Loading Platform at No. 6 Wharf.

The contract for building the loading platform on No. 6 wharf has been awarded to Clark & Adams. Two tenders were received, one from D. C. Clark for $1,243, and the other from Clark & Adams for $1,117. The latter being the lowest, was accepted. Director Peters is making arrangements to put tenders out for the wharves for the benefit of boatmen. Tomorrow morning at 11 o'clock the West Side Improvements Committee will meet to open tenders for lighting the new shed.

A BIG MOOSE

The biggest moose that ever entered the portals of the country market is now suspended on hooks from S. Z. Dickson's stall. The gigantic animal weighs in the vicinity of 1000 lbs. and was conveyed to the city this morning. Clarence Keirstead of Canaan Forks is the fortunate captor of the prize. He brought the bull to the ground within three miles of his home with one bullet from his rifle, a truly remarkable feat when it is considered that the incident occurred during the snow storm on Halloween. From tip to tip the antlers measure 66 inches with 22 points.

BRIDGETOWN NEWS

Bridgetown, N. S. Nov. 5.—Robert Hoyt, of the Nova Scotia Bank staff is spending his vacation on the schooner Frances. Captain Glaser is a genial host, and has entertained many of his friends with pleasant outings during the season. Mrs. J. W. Peters, president of the Bethel Assembly, left yesterday for Yarmouth on special work.

FUNERALS

The funeral of Mrs. Sabina Haley, of Protection street, West End, will be held from her late residence at 8:30 tomorrow morning to the Church of the Assumption, where requiem high mass will be celebrated at 9 o'clock. The funeral of Mrs. Margaret Boyle will be held from her late residence, 109 Hilyard street, tomorrow morning at 8:45 to St. Peter's church, where requiem high mass will be celebrated at 9 o'clock. The funeral of Mrs. Julia Cramp was held from her late home 52 St. Patrick street this afternoon at 2:30. Service was conducted by Rev. A. A. Graham and interment was in Fernhill.

Residents of Barker street complain of the rowdiness of a crowd of boys that make things most unpleasant for residents of that street and Somerset street. It is suggested that the police might look over the situation.
