CANADA AND THE EMPIRE.

Much newspaper discussion has been caused by a recent deliverance, ponderously oracular, of the Toronto Globe to the effect that Canada cannot be expected to assist Britain in her quarrels unless they are just and unless the issues are imperial and that, on the other hand, Britain is not bound to aid Canada, should this country blunder into war, except under the same conditions.

Canada is neither a dependency, an independent nation nor a partner. She is an impossible combination of all three. Claiming the rights of an independent state she continues to depend upon Britain for the force to support that independence and, because she is not partner in the general management, of that force must refuse, in protection of the democratic rights of her people, to contribute to the tremendous cost of its maintenance.

The Canadian government, striving to maintain its self-respect and at the same time to guard the hard won principle of responsible government, is compromising the difficulty by taking off Britain's hands the work of maintaining in this country the defenses necessary for imperial integrity.

Dependency outgrown, there will be no halting until either full national independence or full imperial partnership is reached. And the next few years will decide which is to be our goal. Soon Canada will be greater in population and wealth than the Mother Country, as she is now immeasurably greater in extent and natural resources.

Imperial federation is not a new policy. It has been ridiculed by the doctrinaires as freely and effectively as was the theory of responsible government centuries ago. But it still stands as, in some form, the only means by which the widely scattered sections of this great empire can be welded into a homogeneous and permanent whole.

province, is convinced that a coalition government is the remedy needed for New Brunswick's financial condition, and supports his view by a forcible article in last Saturday's issue. His contention is that lack of development in this province and the yearly increasing deficit is due to the fact that "it has been an almost continual struggle between the 'ins' to keep in power and the 'outs' to get control, rather than to devise ways and means how best to develop the province to its fullest capacity."

He develops his argument as follows: "If the writer has been able to learn anything from a somewhat close study of provincial affairs for the past quarter of a century, he would say two things are absolutely necessary in the interest of the future of the province. The first is a very large increase in the dominion subsidy and the second is the joining hands of the provincial government and opposition parties in the formation of a plan which will relieve the provincial exchequer of a great deal of the burden that it has had to carry in the past. There is no reason why the province should build the roads and bridges at provincial expense when the great bulk of such work is put upon the municipalities in such prosperous provinces as Ontario and Nova Scotia. And yet what N. B. government, if it proposed, without the co-operation of the opposition, a policy to unload on the municipalities the cost of maintaining roads and bridges and the providing for many of the other public services?"

"A composite government made up of some of the present government and opposition parties could revolutionize provincial affairs. Such an administration would practically find no opposition at Ottawa, for the request for largely increased federal subsidies, for then the federal authorities would not delay in doing justice to the claims of the province as they would have no reason to fear criticism with respect to that matter from their opponents in parliament. Then, once the finances of the province were put in proper shape, the municipalities should be relieved of burdens that should be borne by the municipalities, the composite government would be able with the money that heretofore has been spent in doing what the municipalities should be doing, to provide for a vigorous agricultural policy, give more than starvation salaries to the school teachers and in a hundred and one other ways promote the best interests of the province."

"The government need not absorb the opposition, neither need the opposition turn out the government to bring about needed reform in this province. A coming together of both the government and the opposition might result in a working programme being decided on—a programme that might include the retirement of two or three of the present members of the government and the acceptance of ministerial positions by two or three opposition members."

Whether practicable or not, the suggestion is certainly reasonable and worthy of full consideration on the part of all whom circumstances compel to admit that reform of some kind is needed in provincial affairs. While the proposed coalition would not do away entirely with a legislative opposition—for so long as there are governments there will be opposition—it would undoubtedly lessen the friction and give the administration more time and opportunity to devote to provincial, rather than to party affairs; to say nothing of the possible benefit that might come from the infusion of new blood into the cabinet. The conduct of provincial politics on federal party lines is illogical, unnecessary, and in many ways injurious, and if a change were possible in some such way as that suggested by "Onlooker," it would undoubtedly result in benefit to New Brunswick.

CAPITAL PUNISHMENT.

The pardon attorney of the State of Missouri, Thomas Speed Mosby, has been making an investigation of the effect of the death penalty as a deterrent of crime and describes the results in an article of great interest in a recent number of Harper's Weekly. Capital punishment is now in force in forty states of the American union. In his investigation Mr. Mosby caused inquiries to be addressed to the attorney general of these forty states, asking their opinion as to whether the death penalty tended to diminish capital crime.

Eighteen of the forty declined to express an opinion. Only sixteen of the attorney general of states which inflict the death penalty declared themselves as clearly of the opinion that capital punishment does tend to diminish capital crime. Two of the forty were positive in their conviction that the death penalty does not tend to diminish capital crimes and stated their reasons as follows:

In the five states of Kansas, Maine, Michigan, Rhode Island and Wisconsin, where capital punishment does not exist, the attorney general has not expressed an opinion as to whether the abolition of the death penalty, and generally express themselves as satisfied with the conditions existing in their respective states. In Michigan, Wisconsin and Rhode Island capital punishment was abolished over fifty years ago, and has not since been re-enacted. Though nominally prescribed by law in Kansas, the death penalty can be executed in that state only upon the governor's warrant, and the Kansas governors have persistently declined to issue a death warrant, the condemned persons, meanwhile, remaining in prison. In five other states where the death penalty exists the trial juries have power to commute it to life imprisonment.

The right of the state to take the life of a citizen has always been and doubtless must remain an academic question, although, conceding the soundness of the doctrine of "consent of the governed" as the ultimate basis of governmental authority, it must be admitted that one cannot be morally held to a contract whereby he consents that another may take his life. In our civil jurisprudence no man can give another the right to do him bodily injury. Such contracts are always void as against public policy. But the case against capital punishment is made when it is shown simply that it is unnecessary, and Mr. Mosby claims emphatically that his research proves this unnecessary.

"It is coming to be understood," he argues, "that the majority of human beings do not refrain from the commission of capital crimes merely through fear of being hanged. Every person who commits a capital crime knows that in states maintaining capital punishment, the death penalty is inflicted on that crime. From a personal study of more than two thousand cases I am convinced that most crimes are committed by persons who either (1) expect to escape all punishment, (2) who, upon the spur of the moment, are regardless of all punishment, or (3) who are governed by comic, social, or individual factors which render the prospect of punishment inoperative as a deterrent agency at the time of the commission of the crime."

YACHTS UPSET; EIGHT LIVES LOST

ANGELSEA, N. J., July 29.—Two yachts coming in from the fishing banks capsized on Herford Inlet Bar off here today, and so far as can be ascertained tonight, eight persons lost their lives. On the yacht "Violet" were three, of whom seven were lost, and twelve on the other, all of whom but one were saved. That not more fell victims to the rough seas was due to the quick action of Captain Henry S. Ludlum of the Herford Inlet life saving station and a crew of five men.

The two yachts that got into trouble were the sloop "Violet," which had on board Captain Ludlum, his mate and thirty passengers, and the sloop "Alvin B." with a party of twelve. The "Violet" had gone to Five Fathom Bank, about ten miles out to sea early in the day.

When the wind began to freshen, Captain Ludlum decided it was time to make port and with the assistance of a small gasoline engine and a good crew, he managed to make the port towards Angelsea. As the sloop ran for shelter the wind got stiffer and the sea rougher. Captain Ludlum, with long experience, knew how treacherous is the Herford Bar and approached it with his usual caution. The sand obstruction is about a mile from shore. Just as he was about to go over it, a heavy squall struck the "Violet." Despite the efforts of the captain, the vessel heaved over and was hit by a huge wave. The wind and a wave coming together was more than the yacht could stand and it turned completely over, throwing the thirty occupants into the water. The boat was overturned keel by two men. After hanging to the yacht for nearly an hour, and as hope of rescue had almost been abandoned, a government lifeboat, commanded by Captain Ludlum, came up and the boat was hoisted upon the deck. The "Violet" was hoisted in the air and the four men were drawn out of the water. Then at the risk of their own lives, the rescuers went after the other men and pulled them into their boat. The rescue was most perilous as the rough sea was constantly pounding the lifeboat against the yacht.

A minute after the last man was taken from the wreck the sloop "Violet," Captain Ludlum, came up and the men were transferred to her and taken ashore. Captain Ludlum remained in the vicinity in the hope of finding the bodies of some of the victims but saw none.

While this scene was being enacted there was much excitement on shore. Residents from Wildwood and Holy Beach came flocking to Angelsea and there was a large crowd at the fishing pier as the "Violet" came in. Some of them were so exhausted that they required medical aid and were taken to the Herford life-saving station. All of the rescued were able to leave for their homes tonight.

Shortly after the survivors of the "Violet" were brought ashore another yacht, the "Alvin B." was seen to capsize about a mile above the place where the "Violet" was hoisted. There were several boats in the vicinity at the time and all but one person were saved. The "Alvin B." was owned by E. L. Hallman of Pottsville, Pa. He and a party of friends were on board at the time.

MURDER AND SUICIDE AT BEAR RIVER SATURDAY.

Avard Morine Killed Wife With Hatchet, Then Cut His Throat and Jumped into the River—Murderer Had Been ill and It is Supposed He Was Insane—Large Family Left—The Community Shocked.

(Special to the Sun.)

DIGBY, N. S., July 28.—Avard Morine, living on the flat east side Bear River, about five this morning killed his wife with a hatchet, cut his own throat and jumped into the river in front of his house. Morine was a mariner sailing out of Bear River, was killed on the morning of the 27th. He was August and discharged presumably as well lately. A large family of children are left to mourn both parents and to the mercy of neighbors. One of the children sleeping with the mother, was killed. A doctor was quickly called, but Mrs. Morine expired soon after her arrival. Mr. Morine seemed dependent lately. A coroner's inquest will be held.

DIGBY, July 29.—The terrible murder and suicide at Bear River is still the topic of conversation among the townspeople and the hundreds of summer tourists in Digby and vicinity. An inquest was held yesterday over the bodies before Coroner Leavitt and a verdict returned in accordance with the facts. It appears that Avard Morine and his handsome wife Ida had always lived peacefully. Last winter Morine was attacked with typhoid fever, which left him indolent. He was thought by many to be mentally unbalanced, but supposed to be perfectly harmless. As the spring and summer advanced he became without any occasion jealous of his wife. At 5.30 yesterday morning, after he had been up and dressed, he returned to his room with a hatchet and struck his wife several blows on the head and then cut her throat.

A little son five or six years old, took the hatchet away from his father. He then for a moment appeared to realize what he was doing and cut his own throat and rushed for the river which ran close beside the little one and a half story cottage where the terrible deed had been committed. His brother Edward Morine, a near neighbor, saw him run and throw himself in the river and hastened to his rescue but only arrived in time to recover the lifeless body. In the meantime Mrs. Morine and the little boy gave sufficient alarm to attract the attention of Mrs. Joim Morine, mother of the murdered woman. Mrs. Ida Morine told the story of the crime in broken syllables, and finally passed away at six o'clock, having lived less than thirty minutes. A physician was summoned but too late to save life for the blows and the cuts had proven fatal. A large family of small children are left without parents and the scene is certainly sad. Morine's parents, who were highly respected by all who knew her. She has many relatives residing here, including two sisters, Mrs. Freeman Hardscraper of Cullison and Mrs. Robert Snider of Marshtown.

The seventeen-year-old daughter Emily, who was employed by C. A. Jordan, proprietor of the Dufferin and Columbia hotels, was immediately sent home by Manager Smith of the Columbia. She did not receive the real news of the tragedy until within a half mile of her home. She thought her mother was ill and when she asked a farmer by the roadside how her mother was, he said that her father and mother are both dead; they were murdered this morning. The poor girl immediately broke down and almost lost her mind. The driver had difficulty in holding her in the carriage until her home was reached.

A singular thing in connection with it is that the murderer was a devoted member of the Salvation Army, and it is said he had his comrades good-bye in an odd manner at the close of the meeting Friday night. He being by times "a little off" this was not particularly noticed at the time, but shows now that the awful deed was premeditated.

Funeral arrangements have not been completed. Tourists have obtained dozens of photographs of the cottage, the bodies, the surrounding scene, the home of the cherries, has always been a popular drive with our visitors, but this tragedy has given it a lot of advertising, and the various stable people are being busy this week.

Yesterday the steamer George L. Captain C. F. Lewis, ran an excursion to Bear River, and upwards of fifty took advantage of the trip to visit the scene of the awful tragedy. It is singular that Bear River has been the scene of more tragedies than any village in the western part of Nova Scotia.

CRAZED BY DRINK, MONTREAL MAN KILLS MOTHER, THEN HIMSELF

MONTREAL, July 29.—Crazed by drink, Michael Gagnon, an imbecile, this morning after attempting to kill his mother, killed his mother and then took his own life. Gagnon, who lived with his mother and two sisters on Papineau road, had an attack of typhoid fever about twenty years ago, since which time he has not been in full possession of his mental faculties. On Saturday afternoon he got drunk. All night he roamed around the house in an uneasy manner. Early this morning his mother and sisters were alarmed to find the door of the house open and the door ajar. One of his sisters until she cried and sought refuge with a neighbor. When she rushed out of the house he pulled a revolver and pointed it at his younger sister. She rushed out, and as she did so Gagnon fired. The bullet missed its mark. Directly after he turned on his mother and fired two shots. A few minutes later, when neighbors cautiously approached the house they found Gagnon and his aged mother lying on the floor dead. Gagnon was passionately fond of his mother, and not being able to control himself, he practically all the household for her. No one knew that he had a revolver, and it is supposed he obtained possession of it by parrying a new suit of clothes which he said he did not like.

CANNED MEATS IN GOOD CONDITION

OTTAWA, July 29.—Hon. Sydney Fisher asked his department some time ago to investigate and report upon the sanitary conditions of the canned meat industries and slaughter houses of Canada. At the same time he arranged with the minister of inland revenue to have analysis made of canned meats as offered for sale throughout the Dominion. The report of the department of agriculture is not yet completed, but the analysis of the chief analyst, Thomas MacFarlane, is finished. Mr. MacFarlane's report is as follows:

"In accordance with your instructions of the 11th and 12th of June last, a collection of canned meats was made as they are offered for sale in the Dominion. These included not only goods packed in Canada, but also about an equal number of samples as put up as manufacturers in the United States. The latter were of course obtained from dealers in Canada, but as regards the Canadian products they were taken not only from retailers and wholesale merchants, but also at the factories. The samples were obtained in the course of June and July, the number from the various inspection districts being as follows: 'Nova Scotia, 22; Prince Edward Island, 16; New Brunswick, 27; Quebec, 33; St. Hyacinthe, 32; Montreal, 32; Ottawa, 32; Kingston, 24; Toronto, 32; London, 20; Manitoba, 10; British Columbia, 32.' Total 322.

able odor, and they were tested as to whether any representatives had been used in packing. The report of the samples out of the total collection were found to give evidence of decomposition, a proportion amounting only to 14 per cent. The preservatives sought for were salicylic, benzoic, sulphurous and boric acids, but only the last named was detected in a comparatively small number of samples, and in quantity not exceeding the limit fixed by the English parliamentary commission of 0.5 per cent, and probably added in the shape of borax. There were fifty-one such samples among the 322 collected or 15.5 per cent. This proportion is less than in the collection of June, 1905, when the proportion of samples containing borax amounted to 31.2 per cent.

"Full details regarding the cure and origin of the samples examined are given in the tabulated statement appended to this report. Since its completion, however, my attention has been called to the number of June, 1905, of the monthly bulletin of the state board of Massachusetts in which there is a report on canned meats, with the following statement: 'In general it may be said that the results are favorable to the manufacturers both in the west and in the east, but certain preparations, the manufacture of which involves communication or grinding, are very largely fundamental in character. In that they are not what they purport to be. These preparations include the various potted tongues, chicken beef hams, and devilled chicken, turkey, ham and tongue. Some of these are said to contain formalin, for which no search was made in the samples described in this report. Since its preparation I desired with all possible dispatch, I do not propose to delay it any longer, but intend to refer to the subject of such adulterated potted goods in a future report.' (Sgd.) THOMAS MACFARLANE, Chief Analyst."

FOUR MORE SCOTT ACT CASES AT MONCTON

Rev. Mr. Thomas Speaks Strongly on Non-Enforcement of Liquor Act in That City.

MONCTON, July 29.—Rev. H. E. Thomas, pastor of Wesley Memorial Methodist church, in his sermon tonight, randered forceful denunciation in regard to the laxity of the enforcement of the Scott act in Moncton. He quoted from press reports of the recent meeting of the "Public Committee at which the enforcement of the act was discussed and discussed statements made by the chief of police and aldermen there. "I do not know anyone who knows more about this liquor traffic than the policemen and the chief of police," Rev. Mr. Thomas stated in the course of his remarks. "Not even the ministers of the city."

He commended Magistrate Kay's action in condemning violators of the act to imprisonment without the option of a fine, and believed that this was the answer to a charge brought against that official of refusing to issue papers in Scott act cases. He returned to the appointment of a special officer to enforce the Scott act, and he asked, if we are in earnest about enforcing this law, why do we employ a special officer to enforce it any more than we would have a special officer to enforce any other law.

The Scott act question is arousing deep interest in the city, especially so since Rev. Mr. Thomas revealed the astounding conditions in a recent letter to the press. The crusade being conducted by Provincial Constable Belleville is attracting much attention. Four more cases come up tomorrow, which will be watched with interest, since Magistrate Kay's recently sprung sentence when he sentenced three violators to jail. It is understood commitments in these cases have been made out, but not yet served.

The Grand Lodge of Arctida district, Independent Order of Oddfellow, which district includes New Brunswick and Nova Scotia, hold their annual session in Moncton this week, at which grand officers from Halifax, St. John and other points will be present. The sessions are to be held here Wednesday and Thursday, concluding with the annual dinner to be held at the Hotel Mirto Thursday night and a large attendance is expected.

A happening unprecedented in local baseball circles took place in the Y. M. C. C. Victoria game city league series Saturday afternoon, when after 5 innings full of dispute and delay Umpire McWilliam awarded the game by default to the Y. M. C. C. The Victorians will protest.

THE NEW MINISTRY AT SAN SALVADOR

SAN SALVADOR, July 28.—The Salvadoran Cabinet crisis has ended with the formation of a new ministry, the make-up of which is as follows: Minister of foreign relations, Dr. Manuel Delgado, when after 51 days full of dispute and delay Umpire McWilliam awarded the game by default to the Y. M. C. C. The Victorians will protest.

PEEK-A-BOOS ARE BARRED FROM COMMUNION RAIL

CONSTRUCTION MEN OUT ON STRIKE

SAN FRANCISCO, July 29.—To add to the complication of the labor situation in San Francisco, and following close upon the heels of the strike of the inmen and electricians on the united railroads, all the laborers, pavers and other workmen engaged in construction work on the street railway system, will be called out tomorrow morning to join the general strike of all construction laborers and workmen on the united railroads was decided on at a special meeting of the street railway construction workers union today. The union numbers about 1,000, but the order, it is said, will affect about 1,600 who are engaged in rebuilding the street railways and changing the cable roads into electric systems.

NEW KIND OF SPRINKLER

LORD AYLMER INSPECTS 62nd

Complimented Officers and Men on their Improvement

Annual Church Parade and Service at Trinity Yesterday—Banquet at Union Club.

The annual inspection of the 62nd regiment took place Saturday afternoon on the barrack green. The spectacle was a brilliant one and was witnessed by a large number in the evening Lord Aylmer, the inspecting officer, was entertained by the officers of the regiment to dinner at the Union Club. Yesterday there was the annual church parade and appropriate services in Trinity.

On the barrack green Lord Aylmer was received in line with a general salute, and marching down one line and up the other individually inspected the men. He was accompanied by Col. Edwards, the commanding officer, and by Col. White, D. O. C., and Major Eaton.

The regiment then formed into column on centre company and formed into hollow squares, then reformed into quarter column and marched past in that formation.

Major Hart the top command and the battalion moved into echelon, formed line on centre company and formed into hollow squares, then reformed into hollow squares, then reformed into hollow squares, then reformed into hollow squares.

The command was then given over to Major Magee, and the next part of the inspection proved the most interesting to the spectators. The battalion, practised on the attack, the attacking party being formed of the right half battalion, while the left half formed the reserve. The regiment was supplied with blank cartridges, and the officers of the company were given this part of the proceedings made a hideous but very realistic noise.

The attacking party were reinforced by the reserve and the movement completed by charging bayonets. The companies were then reformed and put through company drill by their captains, after which they were formed into column.

Lord Aylmer then addressed the regiment, saying that it gave him pleasure to be coming here again. He praised the way that the movements had been executed, and said that he observed a marked improvement since his visit here last year.

The dinner at the Union club in the evening proved a great success. The dining hall was brilliantly illuminated and tastefully decorated. The bright uniforms of the officers added very much to the splendor of the scene. The regimental band played in the rear of the club during the dinner, and large numbers were gathered in the dark on the streets around listening to the music and peering into the brightly lighted hall.

The guests were the following: Lord Aylmer, Col. McLean, Lieut. Col. Wedderburn, Major Eaton and Capt. Farrell of the 62nd regiment, Halifax. Col. White of the Artillery, who is out of the city, and Col. Marsh, P. M. O., were unable to be present.

Among the speakers were Lord Aylmer, Col. McLean, Col. White, Col. Wedderburn, Col. Walker, Capt. Farrell.

Lord Aylmer said that he had most favorable recollection of his former visit here, and had looked forward with pleasure to coming back this year. He said that he hoped to again inspect the regiment next year. He had just travelled some 3,000 miles on his tour, and had many pleasant inspections. He said a few pleasant words about the battalion, but regretted that the people were not a unit on the question of a salute for the new drill hall. It seemed to him that the people would be forced to take "Hobson's choice," and have the army built on the Barrack Green.

Col. White, D.O.C., and Col. McLean also spoke about the difference of opinion in regard to a site for the barracks, and spoke in favor of the present site. Col. White regretted that the regiment had gone to Fredericton this year instead of Sussex. He hoped that next year the regiment would think better of it and join the other provincial regiments in Sussex.

The annual church parade took place yesterday afternoon. The soldiers assembled at the Barracks about 7 o'clock proceeding along Sydney, Britain, Charlotte, King and Gernish streets to Trinity Church, where they listened to a very interesting address by Canon Richardson. Before they entered the church they were reviewed from in front of the Union Club by General Lord Aylmer, who was accompanied by his A. D. C., Major Eaton, and Col. Rolt White, D. O. C. The soldiers then marched back over the same route to the Barracks, where they broke ranks.

Throughout the line of march large crowds watched the parade and commented favorably upon the appearance made by the regiment.

METHODISM IN ST. JOHN.

The City Mission—The Other Side—Out-Door Services

—History of the Mission.

By REV. DR. WILSON.

The reader of these papers on Methodism in New Brunswick must have recognized the general satisfaction with which the past has been reviewed, and the confidence and hope with which the future has been anticipated.

The unwisdom of such a course is obvious, and when the facts are known can seldom be defended. The moral effect is fatal, it discourages the workers and gives, and chills the ardor of many by the fear that their efforts may be thrown away.

The City Road Mission was the direct outcome of outdoor evangelistic services held on Haymarket street during the summer of 1887-7 by the writer of this paper, who was then pastor of the Exmouth street church.

Feeling that more should be done than was being done for the expansion of our work in the city and its suburbs, a meeting of the several out-door workers was held in the Centenary church to talk over the situation.

After much discussion it was decided to memorialize the conference to organize a new mission to include the Marsh Bridge region, including the Millidgeville, and to name it "The City Mission." This was acceded to and Albert C. Dennis was sent to undertake the work under the superintendence of the chairman of the district.

The appointment was a probationer of three years' standing, an excellent preacher and a very worthy young man. Under his ministry great advancement was made, the success of the year's efforts was more than had been anticipated, so much so that notwithstanding the scarcity of ministers and the pressing calls from other places, Mr. Dennis was reappointed and returned to the circuit.

During the next two or three years a regular appointment was made and the place was provided for in a very unsatisfactory manner, and as a consequence the interest seriously declined. In the meantime Zion church had come into our hands, and the understanding that regular religious services should be conducted therein. As stated in a previous paper such services had been established and Zion was made the head of the circuit and "The City Mission" was dropped from the minutes of the conference.

With three or four weeks the rush to the west will begin and at the end of the Maritime Provinces will have suffered the permanent loss of not less than two thousand young men. The men who go to the west will be of the best in the provinces, the strong young men who are the most wanted there, but who, falling to realize what the future has in store for them here, determine to seek better fortunes in the west.

Every year sees the citizenship of the east weakened by this ceaseless drain, and no one may say what the result will be. These young men are not lost to Canada, but they are lost to the Maritime Provinces, and the result is almost as serious to the people here. For years we have been giving of our best to build up the new country, but the emigration has been from time to time of infancy to that of sturdy youth, and the drain on the older members of the family is becoming too great.

It is difficult for the Maritime Provinces to develop, to expand industrially, when the best of the young men are going away, and nothing but some well defined and systematically conducted policy will ever stop the emigration. There have been from time to time suggestions of a provincial organization, for there are many questions which are of the utmost importance to the Maritime Provinces and which can be successfully handled only by united efforts.

The emigration to the west is one of these, and there are others connected with the different leading industries of the provinces, with shipping, and with public works, which should receive the careful attention of all thinking men. Political union need not be the main object, but mutual interests should receive joint consideration.

St. John has a future, the rapid growth of our business with the west and the outside world warrants such a belief. With the increase of trade will come increase of population, and there is every prospect of a bright future for the city. The business men are planning for the future and are contributing their energies to build up the city, would it not be well for the church to imitate their example and inaugurate a similarly aggressive policy?

Of this our Baptist friends have furnished a striking illustration. Many years ago they had a mission in the Marsh Bridge section, but for some reason the little church was closed and the work abandoned. Quite recently they have re-opened the ground. First they built a hall and then a church on Haymarket Square, and now they have a good congregation, and an energetic pastor who has around him a number of earnest workers. But as no one church can hope to reach all the population, others not as rivals, but as fellow laborers must engage in the work. In our day people will not walk miles to hear the gospel, it has to be taken to them. We have to deal with facts not with theories, with what is done rather than with what should be done by those who are indifferent and careless about their higher interests.

If the increasing population of the suburbs is to be cared for, either for their own sake or for that of the city, the Methodist church should do her full share of the work, and encouraged by the example set us by our friends taken to the west, if not to recover the ground we have lost, to find a little further out in which "to do good and to communicate."

ALICIA'S HOME COMING. Provincial News

By CECILIA A. LOIZEAUX

"It isn't even as if you needed to do this, Alicia," Bob Kendal held his voice to a low, argumentative tone...

"Who are you that you should decide whether I need to do anything at all," she blazed, indignantly.

"I am your father," he began, beginning when she interrupted him. "If that is your excuse for such un-interference with my wishes, I can let her relieve you of your duty. And she placed her foot against the table between them. The young man glanced at it without seeming to see it. Then he looked sharply at the angry girl who was drawn to her full height.

"Alicia," he said, gently, "you are too angry to realize what you are doing. But the ring on your finger tells you that I mean this."

be sure to cause. Think it over well, dear, before you decide. "What I came to tell you today is that our house is all done—the last workman has left, including a key—there are only two things to be done...

As for Alicia, she had gone straight to her desk and had written the following note: "My dear Mr. Courtenay—I have decided, as I promised I would, to attend the concert, too. You may depend upon me for your soprano. And I have been the only one to object to your going to that also. Under your management I feel sure we shall be successful."

"Sincerely, "ALICE LEE FAIRALL."

When she had heard the closing of the outer door she gave the note to the maid who brought her the envelope. Bob had left with it in his hand and went slowly upstairs and sat down before her grate. She felt her anger from him before and from which she shrank mentally.

"Alicia, do you realize what you are doing? We were to be married in May, your trousseau is begun, I know. And you've given every reason to believe you cared for me as much as I do for you. And now, because I ask you to do this one thing—for your sake as well as mine—you are going to give up this?"

WON 2.08 TROT

Opening of Local Grand Circuit at Cleveland

Ann Direct, Hal C. and Rudy Kip the Other Winners—8000 People Present

CLEVELAND, July 30.—Even without pool selling the opening day of the local grand circuit races attracted a crowd of over 8,000 to the track. The M. & M. stake of $10,000, transferred from Detroit, proved the principal attraction. There were twelve starters, Ann Direct being the favorite in the pools sold in Newburg, outside the Cleveland city limits.

Brilliant Girl won the first heat in 2:11 1/4, the fastest heat of the races, but finished lame, and Ann Direct won the next two heats and the race. Second money went to Brilliant Girl, and third to Kenneth Mac.

The first race, the 2 1/2 mile pace, was won by Hal C., a Cleveland horse, he taking the first and third heats, the second going to Black Pet, who was distinguished in the last heat.

The 2 1/2 mile trot was won easily by M. & M. Stakes, while Rudy Kip won the 2 1/2 mile pace in straight heats, reducing his record from 2:10 1/4 to 2:05 3/4. He has been raced on the half-mile track, and this was his first appearance in the grand circuit. Summaries:

Split the Wood. Tramp—"Lady, if you will but give me something to eat, I will give you the Lighthouse by the Sea." Lady of House—"I would rather have you try the woodhouse by the saw."

HILLSBORO NEWS

Farmers in Albert county are wearing an expansive smile. Crops are excellent, the weather for hay-making is propitious, and signs of prosperity are much in evidence.

Hillsboro is the principal village, and is growing rapidly. A new grist mill is to be added to the factory of the Woodworking Co., the machinery of which will be installed this week. This factory turns out a variety of doors, sashes, mouldings, etc., which compares favorably with any imported goods.

Numbers of visitors, both native to the soil, and strangers, are spending a large portion of the summer in the county, and find that the climate of New Brunswick is about the equal of any. The only drawback is in the bathing. The turbid waters of the Petitcodiac do not look inviting, but those who venture the operation of a swim find that the mud has a cleansing effect.

On Saturday while several men were examining a piece of "marsh" hay, they came upon the body of a mouse which was much decomposed to bear close investigation, but probably after being wounded, dropped down from the grass and remained hidden from the sight of those who did the killing.

A cow owned by Edward McLatchy of Hillsboro, laid down in the dooryard and died one day last week. The cause of the animal's death has not been ascertained.

One of the oldest inhabitants of Hillsboro parish, Mrs. Maria Ritchie, died on Saturday and was buried on Monday. She was a life-long resident.

A sad death on Sunday was that of Mrs. Carl Steeves, of Dawson. She had been married only about a year and leaves a baby, which is not expected to live.

Among those on the Salisbury & Harvey Ry. yesterday, were Hon. A. R. McLachlan, of Riverview, journeying to St. John and Portland, Me.; Mrs. James Manchester and niece, Miss Sadler, of St. John, who had been spending a delightful two weeks visiting at Riverview and Hillsboro, and Dr. McNaughton, of Moncton, who passed the week-end at Albert.

One of the passengers remarked that she had seen snow fall on Sunday. As that day was particularly warm, she was advised to say nothing lest it should be reported in the papers.

Albert McLaughlin, employed with R. & A. Ltd., St. John, and Mrs. McLaughlin and child are in Hillsboro for a fortnight's stay with Mr. McLaughlin's parents.

ST. ANDREWS, July 30.—Mrs. Riley, head landress at the Algonquin, while engaged running the mangle yesterday morning, had her left hand caught between the rollers of the machine and severely injured. The skin and flesh on the fingers were bruised and torn off in places, exposing the bones. Drs. Gove and Wade were hastily summoned and rendered the necessary surgical aid.

While assisting Mrs. Riley from the laundry to her room in the hotel Cecil DeWolfe, a bell boy, collapsed in a fainting fit and fell on his face to the ground, painfully bruising his nose. Hugh Waddell, who was so seriously injured by falling to the beach off the Grimmer wharf, is making a slow recovery.
