The Canadian Club of London Launched by Enthusiastic Gathering of Citizens

Local Patriotism Gives Birth to an Organization With Definite Object of Promoting West London Couple in a Solid Nationalism --- Some Splendid Addresses at City Hall Meeting.

"The Canadian Club of London, Onario," was last night launched by a sathering of representative men which alled the big auditorium of the city hall, and which manifested its enthusism so vigorously that at times the old building shook with the applause.

No well-wisher of an idealistic Candianism could desire a better meeting from all points of view than that of all denominations turned out in the other denominations, and spoke the kindliest words from the same plat- missed from the service. All Together. Representatives of the three great national societies of London - St. George's, St. Andrew's and the I. B. S. -placed their seal of hearty approval on the movement, and Rev. Mr. Ball, pastor of the B. M. E. Church, Grey street, spoke for the colored people of And Promptly Skidoos from the Disastrous Mix-Up at Port Dal-London by offering to do his best to help the good work along. His love for Canadian institutions manifested itself In his speech, and he was loudly applauded.

Altogether the meeting was one of remarkable success, and the promoters of the club-men who have no axe to an East London laborer, has skidooed, er Nipigon carried away three gates without the assistance of crutches. grind, but who are simply actuated by a desire to assist in the nation-building movement in the Dominion-were jubilant. Minister Lays Case Before Authorities Alleging Bride Has a Spouse

A peculiar case of alleged bigamy was brought to the notice of the authorties today by Rev. Mr. Freeman, of the Methodist Mission, West London. The parties said to be implicated were married on Tuesday last by Rev. W. J. Clark.

They are Alfred George Curtis, laborer, of West London, and Isabella Hamlin, of the same place. The ceremony was performed at 332 York street, at the home of a friend of the couple.

In the register at the city hall, the following entry appears under the head of marriages: Alfred George Curtis, 32, London bachelor, born in Brantford; occupaion, laborer; Presbyterian.

Isabella Hamlin, 33, London, widow daughter of Alexander Barclay and Betsey Jane Doan; Methodist. Witnesses, A. Michle and Maggte

in the air. Don't think you will buy a house by-and-bye. "By-and-bye" is a land positively empty. Do it now-while you have the opportunity. Remember, opyou have the opportunity. Remember, opportunities are not daily visitants. This applies to the selling of real estate as well as the buying. For upwards of twenty years we have been actively engaged in the buying, selling, leasing and exchanging of all kinds of real estate, and consequently are, therefore, in a position to know values and be of service to both buyers and sellers. If you have any real estate to sell, or desire to purchase any class of real estate, you will find it in your interests to call and discuss the matter with us. methods by electrocution, thanks to an apparatus which he has invented and patented. His device is a cylindrical lantern with two rings suspended one above the other and connected by parallel and vertical chains. These are connected with the source of electricity, which may be either a current providing light or furnished by a little accumulator, in such a fashion that each of the chains always is alive. In the cencorner Rich- ter is a lamp-which attracts the mosquitoes, which begin to buzz around the lamp. Contact with the lamp is fatal. The instant the insect touches two at once with its legs, it establishes a short circuit and immediately is electrocuted.

If this apparatus is installed in a bedroom, it has only to be lighted a short time before the owner retires to insure quiet night's sleep. At the last meeting of the Academie de Medecine, another system of protecting railway employes in Senegal against mosquito bites and the resulting yellow fever was described by Ma Kermorgant. This was the use of wire screens over the windows, doors, and other apertures to all rooms. As a consequence the number of days in the hispital for the personnel of a single station fell from 139 days and ten em-

Some years ago a wealthy landed proprietor in the Pas de Calais department, died, and left a subyears after his death fifty Austrian bank shares which had belonged to the July, at 2:30 p.m., the jewelry stock deceased were sold in England. These were traced to the servant-legatee, who appears to have purloined them from her master's safe. The woman was prosecuted and condemned for theft. i, Now the dead man's heirs, who suffered financially from the theft, are asking that the legacy to the dishonest servant should be declared void on the ground of the ingratitude evinced in robbing the testator. The legal problem is whether the robbery took place before or after the death of the testator. The defense says that it took place after the death, and that, therefore, there was no ingratitude shown toward the deceased, as immediately he died his property passed to his heirs.

It is somewhat surprising that it should be deemed necessary to go to the States for a pastor for a Canadian church. We must remember that but for the reciprocity in clergymen between the two countries the gentleman referred to would not have been able to lift up his voice in a Chicago pulpit at all. In this respect, at anyrate, the balance of trade is in Can-signs of the times.

There has been much discussion of late over the remuneration of the Canadian ministry, excited by the case of the clergyman alluded to, who resigned on the plea that he could not rear and educate his family on $800 a year. In Scotland, a reliable correspondent informs us that the lads who have just passed through the theological halls can practically dictate their own terms of employment, ministers and congregations being quite at their wits' end to obtain the services of assistants. One well-known divine did, Indeed, succeed after considerable trouble in getting on the track of a promising young licentiate, and wrote to him, offering him a post, for which a few years ago, there would have been a dozen aspirants. Imagine his amused consternation when he received a letter in reply stating that the young man had already had five applications for his services, but if Dr. --- would forward certain particulars regarding the vacancy, he would be pleased to add him to the list, and to give his offer due consideration.

Our Scottish informant regards this as a turn in the ecclesiastical world not at all requiring us to sorrow about. The poor ministerial help-the curate walting for a call-has for a couple of centuries at least, had more kicks than halfpence, besides being made the butt of half the jokes of the Scottish Joe Millers. The incident is related of the assembled worthles of the stone, outside the place of worship. The solon of the crowd "Erchie" was the familier. If not reverent, title applied to the marish minister, then absent at General Assembly. That was Recorder Weir's method to cure the man of wife-beating. When Maguire was asked to plead he said: "Your honor, I am guilty, but I believe I am perfectly justified in my actions, for the simple reason that every morning I have to get up at 5 o'clock to go to the gas works, where I am employed. My wife never gets up to get my breakfast ready. Every Saturday when I arrive home I give her all my money, and she does not give me a cent. But what I complain of most is that every night Mr. and Mrs. I. Axford for a few weeks. when I arrive home she gets me to Montreal and Nationals clash at Montreal today. It will be legs vs. head nd head will win.

Cleveland's troubles have begun. That great player, Bradley, is out of the ame for the balance of the season, with a broken wrist.

Cy Seymour is making good the claim of Cincinnati critics, who stated the champion slugger had lost his batting eye. The ex-Redleg had a pair of doubles and a single at Chicago the other day, and was in the main responsible for the Giants' victory over the Cubs.

That breaking of Umpire Moran's nose was a costly break for Captain Dunn of the Providence team. Not only was he fined $100 and suspended, but during the mixup was handed a swat from Mr. Moran's mask, followed up by a beautiful uppercut.

Pte. Hayhurst is the only Canadian left in the King's prize contest at Should he win it a second time Hamilton would go to pieces under the excitement and honor. Already they have one Bill Sherring and their proquet championship. The King's prize would be too much.

"Who's leading the league?" said McGraw, with a frown. "Who's standing on top today?

Who are the guys that have thrown us down, And have shown our bunch the way?

Read out the names," and McCann looked sore, While Bresnahan hung his head. "Read out their names," said McGraw, with a rous. And this is the list one read:

"Steinfeldt's playing to beat the band, With Sheckard and Lundgren, the Swede; Single and Kling from the Faderland, Are there in the hour of need.

Tinker and Schulte and Evers and Chance Are showing the Irish the way; They're leading old Erin a merry dance, They're winning the pennant today."

"Will you stand for that?" yelled McGraw, with a frown; "Will you be cleaned up by the Dutch? Will McGinnity, Donlin, McGann bow down

To Steinfeldt, Slagle and such? My grandfather fell on Vinegar Hill, And fighting was not his trade; But his rusty pike's in the cabin still, With Hessian blood on the blade.

"We can all look back on our past with joy, From Dublin to Ramilles;

We left our bones at Fontenoy, And up in the Pyrenees. Before Dunkirk, on Landen's plain, Cremona, Lille and Ghent; We're all over Austria, France and Spain, Wherever they've pitched a tent.

We were thick on the roll of 'Ninety-eight, With Kelley and Burke and Shea, And now will you quit us at this late date,

With Dutchmen barring the way?" "Will the Shamrock bow to the German flag, Will Erin shrink from the rod? Now which of the two will cop the rag-The Faderland or The Sod?

Well, we won't brag, but here's to the Flag," Said McGraw with a final nod.

Lohman, of 1 Navy street, Ocean Park, "Pete's" wife, was the principal witness in the trial. Mrs. Lohman had been described by the brothers and by her own sister as an unfit person to be guardian of the snug estate of the ball player. It was charged that she had been too fond of the company of Dr. George E. Bahrenburg, of Sawtelle, her husband's physician, and that the doctor had spent much time in the Lohman home before the ball player was sent to mend his shattered mind at the asylum at Patton. It was also charged that wine and beer went by the gallon to the Lohman cottage and that disgraceful orgies were held there. In summing up the case, Judge Gibbs said: "I will not give the guardianship of the property to the Lohman brothers, because they are antagonistic to Mrs. Lohman, and it would be unfair to her to place the property in hands that might lead to endless bickering and litigation. I believe that the charges brought against Mrs. Lohman are true. I will not allow this woman to retain the guardianship nor will I place it in the hands of the brothers. FINED FOR ROWDYISM

Rochester, July 20.-President Harry Taylor, of the Eastern League, at a league meeting held here this morning, announced that he had fined Captain Jack Dunn of the Providence team $100, and had suspended him up to and including July 29. The fine comes as a punishment for a fight on the ball field here yesterday, in the course of which Dunn pulled Umpire Moran's nose. President Taylor says there has been too much of this sort of thing this season, and that he intends to put a stop to it.

"I won't have an umpire touched," he said, "and I want it understood that any man who lays his finger on one of them will be severely dealt with."

WINDSOR OPENING TUESDAY. Windsor, July 20.-It has been decided to start the trotting meeting on Tuesday next, the 24th, instead of on Monday, and to give four races on the opening day and on Thursday, and three on Wednesday and Friday. terment. The bank statement was a remarkably good one, and showed still furthey the prevailing optimistic feeling. Reserves increased $6,500,200, and loans increased $9,500,200, and loans increased in cash, which amounted to about $11,760,000. The preliminary estimates of cash changes did not make a cash changes of more than $7,000,000. Of course, this week's statement, as well as last week's, reflects the readjustment of complications caused by the disbursements at the beginning of the month, and by the special arrangements made necessary on account of Trust Company reserve. Nevertheless, the banks are now in an excellent condition, and it is likely that succeeding bank statements will strengthen the position rather than weaken. The call money market continues remarkably easy. The sale of Panama bonds was a success, and justified the belief of the secretary that the bonds would bring in excess of 103½. Of course, it is a question whether the deal will be a profitable one or not, and it seems likely that these bonds cannot sell very much higher than the purchase price. There was no special feature in the news today. The usual leading stocks, such as Amalgamated Coper, prefered, Union Pacific, St. Paul and the Steels, were all strong. The situation in Russia seems to be ignored, and the strength in the local market, in face of this foreign trouble, is all the more remarkable. A Jubilee Effort To Be Inaugurated -The Lambeth Conference

(Paper by the Rev. Dyson Hague.) As we said in the last paper, a 87 8714 As we said in the last part 132% little over fifty years ago all this 46 1271/6 part of Western Canada was a section 351/6 of the great Diocese of Toronto, which was administered by that energetic churchman, the great Bishop Strachan, the memory of whose energy and rugged worth still survives in the hearts 150 Medical Periods (Mc-Kerlie) Medical Research (Mc-Kerlie) Medical Research (Mc-Kerlie) of many churchmen. It was an enormous diocese, and a touching sight 351/4 it was to see the aged bishop driving 102% over the rough roads and the log bridges of this then thinly settled part of Canada. But in 1857 this section of Canada, including the counties of Essex, Kent, Middlesex, Oxford, Norfolk, with Lambton, Huron, Bruce, and Grey, Elgin, Brant, Perth and Waterloo, thirteen counties in all, were formed into the new diocese of Huron. MURDER CHARGE How different things were in those days, and how nobly the brave and devoted clergy of that day consecrated themselves to the work of saving souls and constructing Christ's visible king-Was Toronto Woman Victim dom! One of the Toronto papers now, is full of letters from time to time on the starvation salaries of the ministers, and we agree with much that has been written. I think it is a sub-ago the entire Restigouche and all its tirbutaries were leased for $150 a year. The angler who paid that remarkable figure for fishing that is now estimated to be well worth a million dollars, is still in the land of the living, and is at the present time salmon fishing in a little branch of the Marguerite River, a tributary of the Saguenay, for which he pays as much as he formerly did for the entire fishing of the Restigouche, and of all its tributaries. Walter M. Brackett, the angler in question, is a noted artist, a resident of Boston, who studies his fish subjects on the banks of his river, and who received many years ago several thousands of dollars being quite as numerous and rivaling in size those of the far-famed Cascapedia. In 1884 Mr. Adams fished the river with his son Walter and with Dr. Heber Bishop, B. F. Dutton and Harry W. > There are many people who regard the large income received by the Prince of Monaco as being money that is decidedly "tainted." Coming to him direct from the gaming tables that have given the little principality of Monaco such world-wide notoriety, they look upon it as accursed.

When thinking or speaking of the ruler who reaps such large profits from ing at the sun or talking to the birds; what they consider a vice, they are inclined to rate him as one of the chief servants of the Evil One. This prince,

Pascinating Sunbonnets for Children

F ALL the fascinating things that have come out for children these past few years, none is more fascinating than the big sunbonnets fashioned upon French ideas. The prettiest of them all are quite simple affairs of embroidery, made so that they can be laundered easily, the brims (and the cap part itself in many instances) made the requisite stiffness by the insertion of cords between lining and outside.

Between this, a veritable model of stylish simplicity and its antithesis—an elaborate hounce of plicity and its antithesis—an elaborate bonnet of exquisite lace, deftly cut and applied so that the design seems untouched, and trimmed with plumes and baby-roses and great choux of ribbon or of mull—there are scores of other styles of bonnets.

Tuscan straw plays an important part in these babyish bonnets and in the hats worn by tiny girls Tuscan straw, both the plain and the fancy sort, which is so like a crude lace as to be fascinating.

The curious neutral tint which Tuscan straw takes on makes it the more interesting, in that white or pink or blue contrast with it effectively.

Some lovely bonnets have the cap part made apparently of one great wheel like those in lacework, but executed in Tuscan straw, the wide brim made of a braid as like lace edging as two peas.

And a stunning leghorn hat has the wide, droopy brim interrupted with an insertion of fancy.

Tuscan straw. Tuscan, Leghorn and Yeddo and Milan straws are the most popular kinds for children; and, for the most part, are kept to the natural color, a few of the almost irresistible baby bonnets made of Yeddo straw, tinted pink or blue, in regular baby

Almost every bonnet shows the great choux, beloved of French women, and, in reality, a wonderfully picturesque trimming for very little effort. Mull and chiffon are very seldom used—there's no real practical end to them, and their soft filminess resolves itself, in an amazingly short time, to stringy, unattractive loops and ends.

As to the lingerie coats, they are simply fascinating, but out of reach of the average purse, largely because they must be kept in an absolutely immaculate, freshly pressed state to be at all attractive. Anything worse than one of those airily beruffled things of sheer, beautiful embroidery rumpled and dingy, as a single wearing is apt to make it would be hard to imagine. Kept exquisitely fresh and dainty, they are thoroughly babyish. and

In dresses for very small children those for girls are very much the same as those for boys. Hints for Gowns

Some exquisite whole gowns are being fast-ioned of wide edgings, those embroidered in a deep cream—really one of the many biscuit shades—upon white the newest, and perhaps love est, of all.

For such a gown the skirt may take the form of three flounces, either mounted upon a foundation (of material that matches the material of the embroidery) or each of the two lower flounces cleverly joined to the one above it just under the scalloped edge.

The top flounce is made to fit smoothly about the hips, often by means of tucks, the tucks repeated, perhaps, at the top of each succeeding flounce, that the increasing fulness toward the hem may be the more gradual.

The new foulards are the loveliest things image inable, more like Liberty satins than the crudes stuff which has passed through so many interesting stages in evolving its present perfected self.

Stunning gowns are being made of it for fall, one that is particularly effective being made of plain foulard in a new beautiful shade of blue, combined with a foulard of the same shade dotted with

"They say" that pleated skirts are to be back again in early fall, and will be better than ever; and that the flare, even on those with never a sign of a pleat about them, will be more marked.

For wearing with the embroidered stiff collars come shaped and stiffened bits (which tuck up under the collar-button), upon which are set three little bows, graduated in size, the smallest, of course, at the top.

Sometimes all three bows are of the same shade, oftener they are of three shades so skilfully chosen that they seem like one thing made of shaded silk.

The newest of them all is orange, a touch of-which, by the way, is very good just now. But it is orange at its softest and best, the brash tones carefully avoided.

And the quaintest of tab-ties, also of silk are made, the two little stitched tabs set off by a tiny rosette set just at the top, from which two little ears of silk stick up. It is worn just at the turn of the throat, and fustened on with a long cuffpin

Various Notes of the Fashions NE of the prettiest designs for the strips; of hand embroidery which decorate a small boy's dress is nothing but dots. Big dots, little dots, dots of every size, are thrown together and juggled until a coherent, attractive design is the result.

The vogue of lingerie ties is responsible for a lot of lovely conceits in the shape of stocks, which are nothing more in the world than sheer collars with a four-in-hand or a wee bow made of a lin-

A new version of the lingerie tie is a made altre bow set upon a stiff foundation, which fastens over any the collarbutton and does away with tying. They're san a bother to do up, but otherwise are fascinating.

Sashes are once more tied in the two long drooping loops and two ends or the two straight across loops and long ends of several decades ago.

A dainty sash and girdle combined, of light 10 blue satin taffeta, had the belt part shaped as a auto girdle sloping to a sharp point in front. Conceal ing the opening in the back were flowers made of the same ribbon into the shape of three-leafed close vers held in the centre with cut steel buckles. Two long ends were edged with an accordion plaiting of blue chiffon.

One flowered ribbon girdle covered with big nk roses was outlined in narrow black velvet and had small flat bows down the front and back.

Messaline ribbon is too soft for sashes unless ends are knotted into a trimming.

IE RIGHT WRONG WAY TO PRACTICE

With THE coming of summer weather and school vacations, music lessons are dropped, although a little daily practicing is usually required of children by mothers who feel that the discipline of the state of the sta regular tasks-neither hard nor taxing is valuable.

So much harm has been done by inudicious practicing—not so much the length of time spent at it, as the way it is done—that it is well for mothers to watch out for the signs of the right or the wrong ways of practicing during the months when they themselves are brought more closely in touch with the brought more closely in touch with the small pupils.

Music is nervous work, even for the child (perhaps most of all for her) who loves it so that practicing is a pleasure. That point should be borne in mind, and the child taught to practice for, say fifteen minutes at a time, and then to rise and go through some simple stretching exercises—those with a came are particularly good—before returning to finish her half hour or hour, as the case may be.

The way she sits at the piano is really the most important point to be considered. The piano stool should be raised so that when she sits upon it and rests her hands upon the keys her arms, from elbow to wrist, are, without any effort, in a straight line. Stools are most trying articles of furniture, for the small body perched up on one gets inexpressibly weary with nothing to rest her feet on, and the general tendency to let her body droop and drag in accordance with the drop of her little legs over the edge is well nigh irresistible.

The best piano seat is a chair with a back no higher than those new chairs made for dressing-tables. A footstool should be provided that is of the right height, so that the child's feet may be set firmly upon it.

Then the child should be taught—and watched to see that she does not lapse

The way she sits at the piano is

into bad habits—to sit easily erect, the shoulders back, and when bending forward is necessary, to bend from the waist, instead of craning the neck forward and developing the awkward round shoulders which so many children have later to overcome. If the child shows any tendency towards stooping, exercises to correct it should be gone through regularly when the practicing time is up; and the mother should watch the pose at the piano even more sharply.

Hooking the feet around the legs of the chair or stool should be forbiddenunconsciously the whole body is thrown in a false position by such a trick.

To Promote Growth of the Hair I find your dandruff cure excellent, but would like to know how often it should be applied. I have used it now for three weeks. My hair seems to be coming out. Do you think the dandruff cure is the cause of same? Is there really anything that will make the hair grow out again? I used to have a nice growth of hair, but lost nearly all of it during my trials with patent medicines to cure dandruff; and I never did obtain any results except from your remedy. F. S. B. If the dandruff cure has benefited you in that respect, you should discontinue using it. Apply this tonic for awhile:

Massaging Wrinkles Will you please tell me how to massage the wrinkles from the face that form at the corner of the eye, the bridge of the nose; under the eyes, and near the temple? Is the wash you had in the paper for permanent wrinkles good to use for them? M. R.

The success you will meet with fin removing these wrinkles depends largely upon your age, which you have not mentioned.

Scalp Trouble Will you kindly print a remedy for falling hair? I am losing mine at an alarming rate.

I am troubled, too, with itchy scalp and an excessive amount of dandruff. I have tried many supposed remedies without success.

Mix all together with six ounces of rose water. Rub the scalp thoroughly with this preparation until no further evidence of dandruff is noticed.

This Bleach is Quite Harmless I read in the page that you advised peroxide of hydrogen for bleaching superfluous hair. Am troubled with superfluous hair on the face. Will the peroxide injure the skin? Also, about how much ammonia should be put in the solution to be used before applying the peroxide? How often should the latter be applied? I have been helped several times by your suggestions and hope to be helped again.

Peroxide of hydrogen is quite harmless and will not injure the skin in any way. Apply it morning and evening. Use a teaspoonful of ammonia in a tumbler of water.

Attend to the Skin First I have been a constant reader of your paper, and would like to ask your advice. I have a heavy growth of hair on my face. I would like to get something that would be very strong to keep it down, and that I would only have to use once or twice a week. I have tried a number of things, but they are no good.

Also, can you suggest a good cream to use? Having to use so much strong stuff in my face has made it very tender, and I charm of a gymnasium with all its own charm added.

Those great beams which run the length of the barn, interrupted by crossbeams as sturdy, give a splendid vantage ground for all sorts of daring leaps and somersault turning, with soft beds of hay to break the force of the fall and to do away with the fear of being hurt should you fail in your first attempts.

Those same beams are the very things to suspend the wooden rings from, with which every gymnasium is provided; and a ladder provides equipment enough for endless exercises, from crawling in and out the rungs to walking across it (as it stretches from one hay-mow to the other), not in the usual way, on your feet, but by your hands.

Put on gymnasium suits when you go out for a good romp in the barn. Then there's nothing to catch and trip you as you swing, by means of the wooden rings from one beam to another, or slide down the great piles of hay.

Turn children loose in the barn in summer—they will discover ways enough to develop and strengthen muscles without ever, for a moment, supposing that they are doing anything but playing.

You get tired and dirty and disheveled, but strong and lithe and well, gaining most of the good your country outing does from your romping in the sweet-smelling, dusty recesses of the old barn, which, for the time being, you have turned into your gymnasium.

But this much I can suggest: Live as simply as you know how; eat, regularly, pure. simple foods (no tea or coffee); take plenty of exercise in the open air—tennis, rowing, walking, or even gymnastics under the cool shade of a tree. I would not advise overexer-even gymnastics under the cool shade of a tree. I would not advise overexertion, however, in the hot sun. Take, meanwhile, some wholesome, invigorating tonic.

As to going out in the evening, don't worry about that just now. In the evening you should be at home, resting—in bed by 9 o'clock. Since you are relieved of business duties at 4 o'clock, you have two hours and a half to be outdoors. Rise at 6 in the morning and again spend an hour or two outdoors. And in spend an hour or two outdoors. And in all your habits be absolutely regular.

I have found all I've used, and there are quite a number, of your formulas just what you say they are; and now will you kindly tell me what to do for my hands and wrists? The blood fills the veins so they stand out like great cords. I cannot wear short sleeves or even medium short ones. I am thin, so the not on account of overflesh or tight clothing.

NANCY. Dr. Vaucaire's remedy has effect upon no part of the body but the bust. It is against my rules to quote commercial rates in these columns, so I cannot grant this request.

Henna Hair Stain

Will you kindly inform me through your columns what to use to color the hair a dark brown, and how to mix it? I noticed something you recommended, I think it was some kind of leayes, but cannot remember. You probably refer to henna half stain. This is made from henna leaves and gives a reddish tinge to the hair.

How to Use Henna. How to Use Henna.

Henna may be applied in several ways; the simplest and easiest way for the amateur is to use a tea made of the leaves. In preparing the tea use an ounce of leaves to a quart of water, and boil the whole down to one pint. The stain should be applied to the roots of the hair with a small orush; a clean tooth brush will answer. Next, with an ordinary hair brush, distribute the henna through the hair evenly. Ory thoroughly afterward, either in the sun or by heat.

See Answer to "E. E." MRS. L. R.—The henna hair stain is not a paste, but a liquid. You will find full directions for its use in the answer to "E. E."

Detailed Symptoms Necessary, IN DISTRESS-Unless you mention from what source the odor arises I cannot sug-gest a reinedy.

Severe Blood Disorder A. B. C.—Your trouble seems, from your letter, to be a severe blood disorder. You should consult a physician at once.

Mrs. Henry Symes' Advice to Correspondents

In your columns you speak of an institution where mechanical message is given. That is something I want very much. Will you kindly give me the address? Also, will you tell me if, in the exercise you speak of to "E. M." to reduce abdomen, where you say "lie flat on floor and raise body without bending knees," you allow one to raise body with their arms er elbows? I cannot raise myseif without help from my elbows. Now, is that right?

Mrs. W.

It is against my rules to give the names or addresses of specialists to my readers, so I cannot grant that request. I will repeat the exercises to reduce the abdomen, so that you may know exactly what the directions are. Usually, a movement that at first trial seems quite impossible may be executed with ease after a time of persistent practice. To Reduce the Abdomen.

Lie flat on your back and slowly raise both legs to perpendicular position; then lower them slowly to the floor. This will make your abdomen small and firm. Do not repeat this exercise many times in succession, as too many repetitions might strain the back. cession, as too many repetitions might estable the back.

Alternate it with the following, which is also strengthening to the muscles of the abdomen: Lie flat, and, keeping the heels on the floor, rise to a sitting position, with the arms crossed over the chest; or, if this is too difficuit, begin by tossing the arms forward to give the body an impetus. When it becomes easily performed in both of these arm positions, increase its pull by clasping the hands at the back of the nack, thus coming to a sitting position. This sitting position should always be erect.

Tonic for Bleached Hair Would you recommend the quinine hair tenic for bleached hair? I used peroxide of hydrogen. Would like something to stop the hair from falling out. I would use the same tonics for bleached hair as for hair of the natural color; but that of the former condition at best is never as soft and healthy as the latter.

Red, Inflamed Nose

I am 15 years old, a youth, and am troubled greatly by my nose being red and tansamed all the time. There are tiny little weins, it seems, under the skin, and sometimes it is redder than others. Will you bindly tell me through your columns of comething that will help me, as I am very ensitive about it at school, M. E. B. Perhaps this trouble is caused by indigestion; certainly, the blood does not circulate properly. There is small need, I think, for me to suggest exercise to a schooldoy, but are you just as careful as you might be about what you eat and the way you eat it? Try going without pie and all rich foods for awhile. Drink only water and milk, and never touch candy. Go to your meals regularly, and eat slowly. Drink water as many times a day as you can. This ought to help if you are faithful to the directions, and it is much better and more effective than medicines or cosmetics.

For Freckles I would like very much to have your advice as to whether the orange-flower cream would be the best thing for me to use. My skin seems dry and rough at times, and my complexion does not seem as clear as it was. I have a few freckles that will begin to thicken now that the warm weather is here. Would the cream keep them light and make my skin fine and white? Could I have it put up at the druggist's? DOROTHY O.

The orange-flower cream is an excellent skin food, but it has not the bleaching qualities that freckles require. Should the freckles become very objectionable I would use the formula below. Yes, any reliable druggist will prepare the cream for you.

Gray Hair Somebody asked your advice for dyeing hair, and you suggested to use the physician's remedy. Would you be so kind as to tell me where I can get it?

LA FEMME. The physician's remedy that you speak of is used to restore gray hair to its natural color. You can procure it by taking the formula often published in these columns to a druggist to pre-

About a year ago I was foolish enough to allow my friend, who was a massaur, to massage my skin, giving me eight electrical facial massages. I did not know what the result would be.

It is much to be regretted that so many women make this mistake—too much massage, or using the treatment when it is not only unnecessary but harmful. To restore your skin to its natural health and freshness will be rather a tedious matter; but with time and care, you should accomplish that result.

Rub into your skin gently once a day Rub into your skin gently once a day the orange-flower cream, the formula for which is frequently published in these columns. Give your face cold water baths to bring a glow to the skin, rubbing briskly but gently. Get up a good circulation by as much outdeor exercise as possible.

Dry, Falling Hair My hair is gray, almost white, and very dry, and coming out in handfuls. Anything I put on it turns it yellow. Will you please I put on it turns to do to keep it moist and prevent it from falling and at the same time keep it from turning yellow?

Mrs. M. B.

Try this tonic for falling hair: Tonic for Falling Hair. Phenic acid. 2 grams; tincture of nux vomica, 7½ grams; tincture of red cinchona, 30 grams; tincture of cantharides, 2 grams; cologne, 120 grams; sweet almond oil, 60 grams.

Apply to the roots of the hair with a soft sponge once or twice a day. This lotion is especially good for very dry hair.

Rates Not Quoted

Will you please inform me where the "Physician's Remedy" can be obtained and also the price of it?

I noticed you mentioned in the page that it was good.

Any reliable druggist will prepare the remedy for you if you hand him the formula that is frequently published in these columns. Commercial rates are never quoted in the department.

I would suggest these as the wash and skin food; A) skin food: Wash for Delicate Skin. Boracic acid, 1 dram; distilled witch hazel, 2 ounces; rosewater, 2 ounces. Use as a wash when desirable. He first five ingredients together. Take off the fire and beat until nearly cold, adding little by little the benzoin, and lastly the orange flower water. Offensive Breath

I am troubled with an offensive breath, and would like your advice as to what I could use to remedy it. My teeth are in good condition. I have a good appetite and my health is good.

If your teeth are in good condition and your health is good, the trouble evidently arises from some disturbance in the stomach. This is often the case, when there apparently is no reason for it. Drink two or three times during the night parsley tea, hot or cold. Eat plenty of onions (when you don't expect company!) and never allow constipation to continue for a day. Eat an apple on going to bed at night, and keep a gargle on your washing stand of tincture of bark and myrrh. Use the following wash:

Rinse the mouth with the above, which should be diluted for use in the proportion of one-half tooth wash to same quantity of clear water. Use after each meal and at any time required.

Depends Upon Individual Case Having noticed the recipe in your column for enlarging the bust. I have thought of trying it; that is, the doctor's prescription. But could you let me know how long it would be before I could see some improvement?

The length of time required to produce results from this treatment depends entirely upon the individual case. So often I am asked this question, and yet I am never able to answer definitely. Some notice improvement within a week, others not for ten weeks; though, often, results are delayed because the directions are not followed carefully.

Don't Change Proportions I have taken four bottles of Dr. Vau-caire's bust developer, and as yet see no improvement. Do you not think that the proportion of simple syrup is too large, proportion of simple syrup is too large, it do to increase the strength by either increasing the drugs or diminishing the syrup?

Read the answer to "E. W.," and, in addition, let me say that in no way should the formula be tampered with. If you do so it is at your own risk.

Feels Draggy

I work in a beautifully situated office, where the air is pure and the hours short; but, notwithstanding all this, when I come home at 4 o'clock I feel so fagged out or tired that I never feel like going out in the evening. would you please tell me of something which I could do or take to make me feel fresh and look as though I had a little more life in me? I always feel bright enough in the mornings, but as the day advances my eyes feel and look heavy, and I seem to be in a state of lassitude.

First of all, are you sure that there is not some disturbance in your system that is draining your health and strength? On the other hand, those of sedentary habits often droop in this way. It is due simply to a lack of exer-
