PREDICTS INDIA WILL BECOME DOMINION, TOO

B. P. Wadia Paints Bright Future in Address Before Kiwanians.

WAR RESTORED FAITH

England's Stand For Belgium and Small Nations Caused New Understanding.

"The future is not so dark. It is bright. In the course of the next six years India will emerge a strong partner, equal in rights with England, working for the betterment of the British commonwealth and the world at large."

So predicted Mr. B. P. Wadia, labor delegate at the conference at Washington and representative of India in the league of nations, during an interesting and illuminating address on "The Commonwealth of the Future" to the Kiwanis Club at the noon-hour luncheon at the Tecumseh House Friday.

On this, St. Patrick's Day, he said it was important to mention the part Irishmen had played in aiding Indians to obtain political emancipation. Ireland and India, he remarked, had experienced the same struggles. The result, he thought, would be the same, with perhaps a slight difference.

Problems Now, Aftermath. Indian problems, Mr. Wadia declared, had been settled a year ago. The events of today were but the aftermath.

Several Irishmen had been presidents of the Indian National Congress and had performed good work. Irish leaders in the British House had rendered India substantial assistance.

At one time, the speaker stated, educated Indians had lost all hope for the future. They had lost all faith in Englishmen in India, and had but little faith in Englishmen at home.

When England went to war to protect the rights of small nations, such as Belgium, Mr. Wadia said, a new manifestation of England's power to go to war to protect small nations, what about such a large nation as India? the political leaders in that country asked. "What about our treaties?" they questioned.

However, in the great world struggle all enmities were forgotten in the enthusiasm of the war.

"All political leaders and the masses went to the aid of England in her hour of need," the speaker asserted.

The declaration of President Wilson of the United States, that the world was made safe for democracy, had stirred up new hopes in the breasts of Indians.

Until lately, Mr. Wadia declared, there had never been talk of separation. He blamed a statement of the government at Madras, which was to the effect that democracy was for the western world, that it could not be for the eastern world because Asiatics were not fit to rule themselves for this new movement.

Had Been Locked Up. Mr. Wadia had been locked up without trial because of his opinions, he said. The same treatment had been given an Irishman who was an editor on the same paper as him.

The failure of the Mesopotamia expedition was the means whereby another step toward political freedom was taken. An investigation of the civil service commission was asked. Then the Indians argued that if this commission could not handle military affairs it could not handle civil or industrial affairs.

To Edwin S. Montagu, who recently resigned his post as secretary of India, Mr. Wadia attributed a great Turn to Page 4, Column 4.

LORD DERBY.

LONDON, March 17.—The refusal of Lord Derby to accept the Indian secretaryship is today believed to have further endangered the life of the coalition government.

ULSTERMEN ARE UNIT IN STAND

Orange Speakers Declare Not Inch of Territory Will Be Yielded.

WILSON ARRIVES

Sinn Fein Prisoners Vary Hunger Strike With Refusal To Exercise.

Belfast, March 17.—Not an inch of Ulster territory will be yielded to Southern Ireland, speakers at the Kilkeel Orange meeting last night declared. Harry Mulholland, member of the Ulster parliament, son of Lord Dunleath, told the meeting the Orangemen had decided to have nothing to do with the boundary commission provided for in the Anglo-Irish treaty.

"Before we yield an inch of our territory to the rebels they will have to kill twenty or thirty thousand Orangemen," he declared. "If such a thing is attempted thousands of Orangemen in the colonies will flock to Ulster's aid."

Lady Craig, wife of the Ulster premier, also spoke, saying the premier's recent tour had resulted in a determination on his part never to allow an inch of territory "to be filched from Ulster."

Field Marshal Sir Henry Hughes Wilson, who is formulating plans for maintaining order in Ulster, arrived in Belfast today from England. He will leave for a tour of the border after consulting Home Secretary Bates. The men sentenced recently at Dunsinkill to long terms of imprisonment in connection with the kidnapping raid have begun a hunger strike in the Londonderry jail.

In Belfast the protest of the Sinn Fein prisoners against their confinement has taken a novel form, the men refusing to exercise.

FOUR WOUNDED. Cork, March 17.—Four persons were wounded in a clash at midnight between a number of persons following a brass band and the republican police. The members of the process ignored orders to disperse and shots were exchanged. One of the wounded was a policeman.

ARRANGE TO AID RUSSIAN RELIEF Acting on a resolution submitted by the London Ministerial Alliance, the executive head of the Western Ontario Brotherhood, at a meeting Thursday evening, decided to hold a mass meeting in St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, Thursday evening, March 23, in the interests of the "Save the Children Fund" for Russian famine relief.

An effort has been made to secure Col. Mackie, chairman of the national committee, to give his illustrated lecture on the subject, but in the event of Col. Mackie being unable to come other arrangements for speakers will be made. Announcements will be made from the pulpits and every effort made to secure a generous response to the urgent need of assistance for Russian children.

Slash Civic Estimates $102,000

2 CITY BOARDS CUT CASH NEED TO 1921 LEVEL

Board of Works and Parks Department Complete Slashes.

AWAIT SCHOOL PARING

Board of Education Cut Has Double Significance, As It Saves Annex Rate.

The board of works has cut $21,000 and the parks department $12,000 off their estimates, bringing the total cut in the preliminary estimates to date to $102,000.

The board of health is holding a special meeting Friday afternoon to cut their figures. The hospital trust has informed the mayor that it will pare its costs, so that already the authorities can see most departments down to the 1921 figures.

Nothing further has been heard from the board of education, but it is believed that they will put forth every effort to make a reduction.

There is a double significance to a board of education cut. Every reduction in the mill rate for schools will leave so much more of the annex mill rate of 15 to apply to the general tax rate, and though the value of a mill in the taxes is small, it will add, according to the finance commissioner, to cut down the general expense to the city proper.

The board of works estimate for the year was $143,000 and it has been reduced to $126,000, which is just about the 1921 estimate, and $2,000 below the 1921 actual expenditure.

The actual cuts made to date bring the mill rate down to a little over 37 mills, but several big cuts are expected.

The word has gone to the different bodies that salary cuts are not to be considered in getting down to the 1921 figures. Any amount taken from salaries is to be used to lower the estimates below the 1921 figure.

THINK GIRL'S STORY WRONG

Toronto, March 17.—Miss Florence Patterson, the young woman who was found in her room at Willard Hall last Friday morning with three knife wounds in her body, left the General Hospital last night. Miss Patterson had a wound on her neck and two on her breast, both of which were inflicted by a kitchen knife.

While Miss Patterson still maintains that she was attacked by a man, detectives who have investigated the case, declare that from their inquiry they are sure that no man was in Willard Hall at the time the girl was wounded. This opinion is also held by the Willard Hall officials.

LINK CASE CLOSED, SAYS LAWYER Hamilton, March 17.—M. J. O'Reilly, K.C., legal adviser to the Sisters of St. Joseph, this morning treated as a joke William Link's alleged threat to bring legal action to compel his daughter's return to him and make her become a Protestant.

"Absurd," he said. "The girl is over 18 years old, and therefore a free agent to choose where, how and with whom she shall live and what her career shall be. And there is now law to compel a person to join a new religion. They have been trying to do that all down through the ages by laws and persecution and have failed. The case is closed as far as we are concerned."

AUTO TRUCK KILLS CHILD Hamilton, March 17.—Rosie Macaluso, 23 Mill street, aged 7 years, while going to school this morning, was knocked down by an automobile delivery truck and fatally injured, dying a short time after being taken to Dr. White's office. Fred Farrington, a youth who drove the truck, was arrested. He was employed by W. Peacock, butcher.

BANK OF ENGLAND DIVIDEND RAISED New York, March 17.—The Bank of England, which has distributed a 5 per cent dividend semi-annually since 1914, has increased the rate to 6 per cent, a cablegram to a financial agency here said today. A dividend at an annual rate of 12 per cent has not been paid by the Bank of England for an entire year since 1896.

The increased dividend declared was an agreeable surprise to international bankers. Even those with influential London connections seemed to have no intimation that such action was impending. The larger disbursement coming so soon after the reduction of the discount rate was accepted here as proof of Great Britain's steady recovery to normal or pre-war conditions.

SIR JOHN EATON RESTING EASIER Toronto, March 17.—More cheering news came from the bedside of Sir John Eaton at his home today. The official bulletin issued by his physicians read as follows: "Sir John has not lost any ground during the last 24 hours. He is resting more comfortably today."

DE VALERA'S LEAD IS REPUDIATED Boston, March 17.—The leadership of de Valera was repudiated, and his policy of external association with the British Empire was condemned in a resolution passed last night at a meeting of the Friends of Irish Freedom at their St. Patrick's Day dinner.

Loyal support was pledged to the provisional government of Ireland under the leadership of Collins and Griffith.

WINDSOR GHOST PROMISES Medium To Be Good From Now On WINDSOR, March 17.—The Crandall "ghost" is laid. Mrs. Sydney Nunan, Windsor spiritualist medium, who proposes to find Ambrose Small, missing Toronto theatrical magnate, saw to that last night.

Failing to receive any relief from the clergy, Franklin Crandall, son-in-law of the late Leo Leonard, whose spirit he believes is haunting his home, went to Mrs. Nunan with an appeal that she visit his home and do her best to drive away the intruder.

Mrs. Nunan went to the home, entered with the spirit and after some plain talking, obtained his solemn promise that he would visit the Crandalls no more.

Idolized by Hindus and Mohammedans!

MOHANDAS K. GANDHI.

B. P. WADIA of Madras, who addressed the Kiwanis Club, Friday, on "The Commonwealth of the Future," has, despite his protest views, retained for many years the warm personal friendship of Mohandas Gandhi, the leader of the non-co-operationists in India, who was arrested this week by the authorities.

FARMER DIGS UP SILVER BULLION

With a Spade Salmon Unearths Forty-Four Bars, Valued at $3,500 to $4,000.

POLICE OFFICER HELPS

Representatives of Companies Robbed of White Metal Some Time Ago Will Try to Identify Find.

Buffalo, N.Y., March 17.—The police and the sheriff's office today were trying to solve the problem of how bar silver worth between $3,500 and $4,000 came to be buried on the farm of Lewis Salmon, on the east bank of the Niagara River near LaSalle.

Salmon called on a Buffalo jeweler yesterday with a sample of the metal which he had turned up with a spade. Learning that it was real bullion, Salmon reported his find to the police and accompanied by an officer returned to the farm.

They dug up forty-four bars, each six inches long, three inches wide and half an inch thick. The soil showed no sign that the bullion had been recently buried. The bars were found at varying depths from one to four feet below the ground level.

Representatives of the William A. Rogers Company, of Niagara Falls, N. Y., and the Onondaga Community Company, of Niagara Falls, Ontario, are expected here today to examine the bullion. The Rogers Company was robbed of 5,600 ounces of silver in 1921, and in June, 1921, the Onondaga Community Company lost a similar amount through theft. Most of the silver stolen from the Onondaga Community Company was recovered in New York.

C. N. R. EARNINGS SHOW DECREASE Toronto, March 17.—Canadian National Railway earnings for the second week of March were $2,250,238, a decrease of $128,730 compared with the same week of 1921. For the period Jan. 1 to March 14, the earnings this year were $20,141,864, compared with $25,948,615 for the same period last year, a decrease of $5,806,751.

BARBER CLAIMS SHAVED SMALL

Arthur Weatherup's Story About Former Theatrical Magnate Being Investigated.

AROUSES NEW INTEREST

Believed Latest Recital Will Bring to Head Differences Between Relatives.

Toronto, March 17.—What is described as a bombshell is the effect that has been created in local police circles over the affidavit sworn to by Arthur Weatherup, a barber, in which he stated that he had done some tontorial work for Ambrose J. Small, the missing theatrical magnate, at 2 o'clock on the day on which Small disappeared, over two years ago, and that Small was then wearing a watch which had subsequently been found at the missing man's home, under a pillow.

The two sisters of Mr. Small and their solicitor have twice appeared before the police board and made representations on the matter. They ask that another detective be assigned to the case in addition to Detective Mitchell, who has been working ever since it was brought to the attention of the police late in December, 1919. Affidavits have been taken by the Small sisters, and it is expected that they and their solicitors have even gone to the attorney-general to make certain representations in regard to the case.

Weatherup was interviewed last night by Detective Mitchell and stoutly maintained that he was positive that the watch found at Small's house was identical with the one worn by Small when the latter was shaved by Weatherup at 2 o'clock on the day of Small's disappearance. Severe cross-examination by Mitchell failed to cause Weatherup to change his story in the slightest detail.

Mrs. Small declares that her husband had several watches and that the one found in the home must have been a different one from that seen by Weatherup. Both Mrs. Small and Weatherup are under examination by the detectives today.

MAKE SHARP REDUCTIONS IN AIR FORCE ESTIMATES British Staff Will Be Cut From 40,880 Men In 1921 to 31,176.

London, March 17.—Drastic reductions in the estimates for the air force for the coming year were announced today. The estimates provide £9,935,500 for normal services and £2,959,500 for war liabilities. Last year's figures were £15,809,000 for normal services and £1,471,000 for war liabilities. A reduction in force equal to two squadrons is proposed.

The estimates provide for an appropriation of £3,733,000 for services in the Middle East, which sum is to be repaid by the colonial office. The staff for the coming year will include 31,176 men, against 40,880 for the previous year.

Beyond the reduction of two squadrons, the government agrees with the recommendations of the Geddes economy committee that the equivalent of three additional squadrons should be withdrawn from the joint service of the army and navy and allocated to home defence.

South African Trades Unionists Claim They Were Intimidated by Extremists.

BULLETIN.

Johannesburg, March 17.—Joe Thompson, president of the South African Industrial Federation, has been arrested in connection with the mine strike.

The rebel leaders, Fisher and Spendif, who were found dead in Trades Hall at Fordsburg after the bombardment of the city by government forces, committed suicide, according to an official statement. Their bodies bore shrapnel wounds, but it is thought these came after their deaths.

London, March 17.—(Canadian Press Cable)—Things are rapidly becoming normal in Johannesburg. Reuters correspondent cables, and it is hoped to have the tramcars running there again very soon. Already there is a great rush of men seeking work, and some of the mine managements are being inundated with applications for employment. On the other hand, the managers of the mines in the districts where the greatest trouble has occurred in consequence of the strike and the attempted revolution are getting but few applications from men who wish to work.

Reuters' Johannesburg correspondent cables that the old industrial federation of the trade unions of South Africa has issued a statement saying that the formation of the augmented executive was unconstitutional. Although the federation did acquiesce in the conditions upon which the executive was augmented the executive resisted all efforts to bring about a general strike and at a meeting of the joint executives when the decision in favor of calling a general strike was taken the decision was reached at the point of revolvers, the extremists threatening the augmented executive who were not allowed to leave the room until the general strike was declared. A force of Transvaal Scotch Light Infantry and police supported by artillery has cleared the southern suburbs without meeting with resistance. Some arrests have been made and some arms and ammunition captured in this connection.

Twenty Natives Killed. Twenty natives were killed and thirty were wounded at Nairobi, British East Africa, yesterday in fighting which followed demonstrations over the arrest of the India agitator, Thuku, says a belated news dispatch.

About 1,000 natives, armed with sticks, assembled before the police station and demanded the release of the prisoner, but were dispersed by police forces, who used their bayonets.

Early yesterday a strike of house boys and other native workers was reported.

WOULD REDUCE WAGES IN ALL BY $200,000

New Municipal Commission Will Consider Proposal Tuesday.

MAY REDUCE STAFF ALSO

Aldermen Declare Departmentments Overmanned and Drastic Cut Expected.

All employees of municipal departments are to be asked to agree to a ten per cent reduction. If the proposal succeeds it will mean a reduction of $150,000 in the tax rate and a further saving in public funds of about $50,000, making $200,000 in all.

This proposal will go before the new municipal commission which has all bodies represented on it, at a meeting to be held Tuesday afternoon at 4 o'clock.

There has been some talk of reducing the staffs of some of the departments, but proposals along this line have not been forthcoming as yet. They will come later, however, as some of the aldermen have declared that in their opinion some of the offices are overmanned.

Came After Conference. The decision to make the ten per cent salary cut was arrived at on Thursday night, at a conference between the mayor, some of the aldermen and the various department heads of the city hall.

Figures in regard to the salaries of all city officials with comparative figures of the pre-war years were presented by the Finance Commissioner James Bell.

Discussion centered around the point whether all municipal salaries should be cut or not, and some of the aldermen held that it would be unfair to cut one department and not another.

This brought about the decision to send the whole proposal to the new commission with a view of having every board agreed to the 10 per cent cut.

Of the proposed expenditure for this year, something over $2,000,000, about $1,500,000, makes up salaries. There are other departments, like the utilities, whose funds do not come from the tax rate, and 10 per cent off these added to the city hall will bring the total reduction close to $200,000, or over 2½ mills on the tax rate, besides increasing the accumulated funds of the departments which do not draw from the tax total.

Not Greatly Perturbed. City officials are not greatly perturbed by the proposal to cut their salaries, and do not anticipate much objection from their subordinates.

It is pointed out that the salaries in the city hall have gone up steadily since 1915, and the figures show a general increase of about 50 per cent in that time.

There are bound to be some officials who will be more or less dissatisfied. During the dying moments of 1921 some salary "adjustments" were made. Many officials were missed, but they were told that their case would be cared for with the estimates. Instead of an increase as their fellow-officials got, they are to face a 10 per cent decrease.

While he was being assaulted, several painful bruises about the head and face, evidently inflicted by the blunt instrument.

The man escaped.

'EYES OF THE HEART' SHOWING AT GRAND

Mary Miles Minter Film Tells of Bliss Destroyed by Sight Restored.

VAUDEVILLE BILL SCORES

Five Big-Time Vaudeville Acts and
Out Delightful Program.

Is it better to leave the blind sightless, strong in the belief that they are in a world of beauty and bliss, or to restore their sight to view the evil of life that the eyes alone see?

Around this question the plot for "Eyes of the Heart," Mary Miles Minter's latest release, which is showing at the Grand the last part of the week, hinges.

Miss Minter assumes the role of a little blind girl, who is brought up among crooks, but because of their tender care of her, believes the world to be a fair land.

When her sight is restored, through an operation paid for with money given by her friends, she sees her miserable surroundings. Her plight turns her against her companions.
She becomes hard and bitter and agrees to employ her sensitive fingers to aid a thug in his nefarious calling.
As she is about to carry out her new "job," Mike, one of her crooked friends, arrives, battles with her accomplice and saves her from a life of crime.

The story is well screened and interesting. The supporting cast is well chosen, but above all stands out Miss Minter's interpretation of the role of the blind girl.

Howard Rice, pianist-comedian, presented several imitations which were greatly enjoyed. He has a good line of comic songs and sayings, and adds to his list a few of the older comic songs, rendering them in a new way.

Wells Duo, aerial acrobats, won the house with their daring and difficult feats. Although many of their stunts were not new to London theatregoers, some of them were really original.

Smith and Layden, eccentric comedians, introduced a good line of patterns and proved themselves fair singers.

Bidwell and Rice have good voices.
Probably the best part of their firm was their singing of the old melodies of days gone by. Their quaint costumes and the lighting effects added much to the quality of the act.

Charlie Chaplin's "A Dog's Life," shown the first part of the week, was repeated.

A Chester Outing Picture completes an excellent program.

every note, Dame Clara Butt thrilled a London audience which packed the Allen Theatre to its capacity Thursday evening. Her rendition of the score, "The Homecoming of the Unknown Warrior," was given with a depth of emotion which penetrated every corner of the house, chilling the audience with its indescribable pathos, and again filling them with warmth at her notes of triumph.

Her singing of "Abide With Me" caused a breathless hush until the last fragments of sound had died away, when a frenzy of applause broke loose and she was forced to return for several more encores.

"A Fairy Went a-Marketing" was sung twice, and Dame Butt subdued all the magnificent volume of her voice in its light, sparkling tones, again giving vent to all the depth and quality of which she is capable in her next number, "Yonder."

Another encore, an Irish song, "If My Love Leaves Me, What Shall I Do?" Dame Butt rendered with an affection of the tragic air of a love-sick Irish maiden, which hugely delighted the audience.

The singer was most generous with her encores.

Kennerly Rumford's singing is delightful. His voice is not only a charming baritone, but is endowed with a wealth of feeling which was apparent in every number. He was also most generous with encores, two of which particularly endeared him to the audience, one an old favorite, "When the Swallows Homeward Fly," and the other a rousing old English ballad of the time of King Charles.

From the treasure troves of old songs he had selected some of the quaintest, for instance "Britanny," a song breathing the spell of this corner of the old world, and another old-fashioned gem, "The Rejected Lover."

M. Meisa displayed an amazing command of technique in his violin solos, which were all of a brilliant nature. Miss Grace Torrens showed herself to be of that extremely rare type, a real musician, as well as a perfect accompanist.

SYDNEY WORKERS OPPOSE PAY CUTS

SYDNEY, N. S. W., March 16.—
The Sydney Labor Council, representing 100,000 trades unionists, today adopted a resolution expressing whole-hearted sympathy with the South African trade unionists in their fight against the armed forces of capitalism, and promising the utmost support.

The resolution also urged workers to organize to prevent armed forces from being used in Australia to reduce wages, as it was alleged was done in South Africa.

World News CUT SHORT

BERNE, Switzerland, March 16.—
The first Swiss hospital train for Russian children started yesterday for the Volga district. It consisted of 35 cars of food and medical supplies, with which it is hoped to support 20,000 children for three months.

LONDON, England, March 16.—The Heacham estate, the ancient home of the Roife family, one of whom, John Roife, married Pocahontas, daughter of Chief Powhatan of Virginia, in 1614, is for sale. The property is situated in West Norfolk, next to the King's Sandringham estate, and covers 1,750 acres.
It was owned by the Roifes for many centuries.

KINGSTON, Jamaica, March 16.—A mass meeting of citizens yesterday protested against the proposal that the government take over the entire liquor trade and run it for the benefit of the country. Several speakers made reference to the application of prohibition in Canada.

A resolution was adopted urging the government at London to veto the liquor control bills.

MEXICO CITY, March 16.—Tomas Garrido, governor of the State of Ta-huasco, has been added to the list of state executives ousted by dissenting legislatures. Governor Garrido recently obtained a month's leave of absence to come to Mexico City to confer with President Obregon.

Word came today that his legislature had deposed him and named Pedro Casanova as provisional governor.

Considerable anxiety is felt in official circles here over the continued illness of Sir Herbert Samuel, British high commissioner for Palestine.

On the advice of Dr. Albert Biskind, his physician, a bacteriologist and a consulting physician have been summoned from Cairo to the high commissioner's bedside at government house, on the Mount of Olives.

BERLIN, March 16.—According to the Morgen Post, a divorce recently was granted in reactionary Potsdam for a curious and novel reason to a former high officer named Tschirsky.

The officer based his divorce suit against his wife on the ground that since the revolution "she had developed politically more and more to the radical left," and that, as an officer of high rank, "he could not be expected to keep on living maritally with a radical woman."

The Potsdam justice decreed the divorce on that ground.

ROME, March 16.—The new experimental wireless station eleven miles out of the city was inaugurated yesterday, the 25th anniversary of the invention of wireless telegraphy by Guglielmo Marconi. Several government officials attended the ceremony.

Signor Marconi sent a message regretting his inability to attend, as he is convalescing from pneumonia in London. He was represented by Marquis Luigi di Solaro.

The new station received messages from Long Island, New Brunswick and San Francisco.

LONDON, March 16.—The hostility between the Angora and Constantinople governments is not maintained in the relations of their respective representatives who are now in London. Several members of the Constantinople government, representing the Constantinople government, met the party accompan-
ing Yusuf Kemal Bey, the Angora plenipotentiary, upon their arrival here for conferences looking toward a revision of the Treaty of Sevres.

The Angora representative told interviewers that the Turkish Nationalist lives are now in London. Several members of the Constantinople government, representing the Constantinople
government, met the party accompan-
ing Yusuf Kemal Bey, the Angora
plenipotentiary, upon their arrival here
for conferences looking toward a revision
of the Treaty of Sevres.

Kemal Bey said the Turks left that England, misunderstanding Turkish claims, had been inconsiderate of them.
He hoped the Sevres Treaty would be amended, and then the Turkish Nationalists would welcome English co-operation. "But we must have Asia Minor and Thrace," he added.

RIGA, March 16.—A ghastly welcome is awaiting those Russians who are taking advantage of Lenin's offer of amnesty to all soldiers who have fought against the soviets, according to the story of Ivan Supper, who arrived in Riga today.

Mr. Supper says his fifteen comrades returning to Russia, after leaving Petlura's army, were all shot by the Bolsheviki at the railroad station of Seibsh, just across the Latvian border.

Supper and his companions left Riga a week ago en route for their homes in Ukraine. Soviet passports were given to them at Riga, and they were welcomed like prodigals. They arrived at the frontier at night, and were compelled to leave the train, which pulled out, and they were marched off to a guard house. They were then ordered to disrobe, and obeyed. Shots rang out and two of the men dropped.

Supper was near the door, and he knocked the guards down and escaped.
Several shots were fired after he hid under a freight train. He rode the rails to a Latvian town, arriving half frozen, dressed in trousers, socks and under-shirt.

GIVE STANSELL CLOSE VICTORY

Stockholders Show Confidence in London Motors President.

HAVE FINANCE IN SIGHT
American Banker Intimates His Firm Will Back Auto Concern.

Taking Thursday's special meeting of the London Motors Limited, as a basis for calculation it would be reasonably safe to assume that a great majority of the shareholders are confident that the bright future awaits the company providing its present management is allowed to carry on unhampered.

The announcement at the meeting by William R. Stansell, president and general manager, that he had found a way to insure the success of the firm and was ready to submit his plan was the signal for a wild outburst of cheering from the assembled stockholders.

When George Gebbie, of the firm of Gebbie & Co., bankers of Elmira and Buffalo, New York, declared that the institution of which he was a member stood ready to finance the London Motors Limited, the applause was deafening.

From its inception the gathering was destined to be replete with action.

Called at the instigation of U. A. Buchner, stockholders, eager and alert, and probably a hundred in number, appeared at the county buildings despite a notice sent out by the directors of the company that no gathering was scheduled.

The meeting opened with Mr. Buchner in the chair. In his opening remarks he urged co-operation among the shareholders, and denied emphatically that he was "knocking" the corporation. He explained that as chairman of a special committee of four shareholders representing stock to the value of $100,000, he had summoned them together in an effort to gain if possible further details as to the company's financial status.

Only Fair.

"It is only fair that we should have this information," asserted Mr. Buchner. "I cannot understand why anyone should oppose this meeting. I am sure that a committee be formed to secure this information. Before we proceed further I must caution you that no personalities be indulged in."

W. R. Stansell, president, explained that he felt that, although the session was of an irregular nature, by reason of the fact that it had not been called by the directors, what he had to say should be heard at that juncture.

He declared that he had received two letters from Mr. Buchner, one March 14, 1922, the other August 11, 1921, both communications expressing a desire for similar data.

"I have written Mr. Buchner," said Mr. Stansell, "that the books were ready at any time for inspection, but have heard nothing from him since."

"I thoroughly agree with Mr. Buchner that everything should be done to keep the company on its feet, but I do think that the methods taken have been unwise. I can be seen by any shareholder at any time, and I cannot find from careful investigation that Mr. Buchner has ever asked to see it. Our audit has been prepared by chartered accountants, recommended by our bank and absolute strangers to me."

Traces Growth.

After tracing the growth of the company since its inception the president read a communication from the Continental Motors Company lauding the London product.

"It is of good quality," said the Detroit eulogist, "of which Canada can be well proud."

While explaining that he was about to read a similar letter from another firm the president was interrupted by the chairman, Mr. Buchner, the latter commenting "we want to hear what progress the company has been making, not the opinion of Americans."

"Well, I have the floor," continued Mr. Stansell.

"But excuse me," interrupted the chairman a second time, "we want to hear what you are doing."

"We are making automobiles," was the retort amid applause.

"If the shareholders are not interested," continued Mr. Stansell, "I will not read the letter, but I would like to impress upon them that people who know this business thoroughly contend that our progress has been marvellous."

"Just a minute," exclaimed the chairman, "let's hear how many ma-

Awarded Prize

MR. AND MRS. M. GOOTSON.

6 Webb street, London, have reason to be proud of their 15-month-old daughter, Rhea, who was recently awarded a prize for being the prettiest baby at a local gathering.

"That Rhea is possessed of a high degree of bodily perfection is shown by the following measurements: Weight, 20 pounds; height, 25 inches; from fingertip to fingertip, 32 inches; about the head, 20 inches; chest, 24 inches; and about the abdomen, 23 inches.

chines you have made."

"We have eighteen under construction," was the reply, "and two were sold in this city last night, but I still claim that the office is the place to seek this information."

Continuing, President Stansell declared: "I cannot see why honest efforts should be blocked. There is not one of you shouldering the burden that I am, and some of those who are causing the most trouble haven't a nickel invested in the project. I want to get down to bedrock and tell you how we can finance this project if you want to hear it."

"I'll call upon Mr. Gebbie of Buffalo," explained the president.

While the vast majority of the shareholders appeared anxious that the visitor be heard, a section of the audience, headed by the chairman, opposed the move. The latter objected that Mr. Gebbie was not a shareholder, and his statement was the signal for a volley of contradictory opinion from all quarters of the room.

Must Keep to Case.

"I don't care about his own experiences," thundered the chairman, "he must confine his remarks to our case."

Explaining that he would not attempt to speak with a gag in his mouth, Mr. Gebbie promised that he would confine his remarks to matters of interest to them. He explained that he represented a firm of licensed bankers, with offices in Buffalo and Elmira, New York.

"We have a branch which aids corporations which will stand our investigations. Our investigation of your company has been so favorable that I accepted the invitation to come here and see what could be done. Unless you stop 'scrapping' among yourselves, however, I fear nothing can be done."

After another verbal tussle with the chairman, Mr. Gebbie declared, "We have thought favorably of taking up the sale of your treasury stock and financing your company."

At this point the chairman insisted upon learning definitely whether the American bankers were willing to take over a company with a $75,000 debt. Mr. Gebbie replied, "Not while there were factions pulling both ways."

The latter then continued to explain that similar enterprises had been financed before with excellent results, and expressed the opinion that the same would be noted here as the company had a product that would sell at a profit.

Quick Turnover.

"If anyone here wishes to sell his stock and get out let him give me his name, and we'll take it from him so we can wipe out those persons first."

"Now is your chance, chairman," exclaimed several in the hall. "Let him sell out."

"Well, mine's for sale, at 50 cents on the dollar," retorted the chairman quickly.

"I'll take it," shot back the American banker. "Bring it to the office, and I'll give you a draft on our bank."

When the cheering had died away, President Stansell arose to make a further announcement, but was interrupted by the chairman. Various comments and suggestions then emanated from the audience directed mostly at the chair, such as, "You're not right in the chair," and "You have no right in the chair," and one stockholder rose and moved that the chairman be unseated.

After considerable discussion of a similar nature the meeting stood adjourned to await a financial report to be ready by April 1.

General Manager Buchanan Says Commission Will Not Cut Parks Board Estimates.

FIGURES ARE PREPARED

Declares Reductions Would Eliminate New Bandstand Construction and Proposed Roadway.

No voluntary cut in the parks board estimates is contemplated at the moment by the public utilities commission, General Manager Buchanan explained Friday morning.

The figures, as already prepared, will be submitted to the city commission, he says. The commissioners believe that these estimates are absolutely for the best interests of the city and feel that if any reduction is to be accomplished, the onus for the same should rest upon the city council.

"As an instance," pointed out the manager, "for years and years the estimates have provided for a new bandstand in Victoria Park, and a new roadway leading into Springbank Park, but each year they have been eliminated."

Should it be absolutely necessary it is these two items which would have to be slashed this year again, the commissioners say, meaning a reduction of from $48,000 to $36,000. In the interim the old stand in Victoria Park is to be removed, Manager Buchanan has been instructed by the commission to this effect, for the public's protection it is explained.

Should the council refuse to grant the money for a new structure, the band will be compelled to play from the benches while the audiences will be compelled to stand or resort to the grass.

A THOUGHT FOR TODAY

There shall no evil happen to the just; but the wicked shall be filled with mischief.—Proverbs 12:21.

FOR myself I am certain that the good of human life cannot lie in the possession of things which for one man to possess is for the rest to lose, but rather in things which all can possess alike, and where one man's wealth promotes his neighbor's—Spinoza.

TOMORROW'S DOINGS.

SATURDAY.—Agricultural Section of Chamber of Commerce meets at Tecumseh House, 1:30 o'clock.

THE CONDITION of Crown At- (torney) W. McKillop, K. C., remained unchanged Friday afternoon. Mr. McKillop has been seriously ill at his home in the Hayman Court for the past week.

THE CONDITION of Mrs. A. E. Silverwood, who has been critically ill at her home for the past few days, was reported to be slightly improved Wednesday afternoon.

THE INTERNATIONAL Harvesting Company of Canada, Ltd., has issued a county court writ through Messrs. B. Perrin, against W. Simpson of Wallaceburg for $505.87 for goods sold and delivered.

AN EVENT that the junior boys of the Y. M. C. A. are eagerly looking forward to is the hike that Mr. Spearman is having tomorrow for their benefit. He intends to hold these hikes weekly and is looking for a large turnout in order to make it as great a success as possible.

SECRETARY PAULGOR of the G. W. A. stated that the unemployment situation is practically the same as far as the veterans are affected. For the entertainment of the boys a euchre drive will be held on March 22. He wishes also to announce that an executive meeting will take place in the clubrooms over the Majestic Theatre on March 27.

J. A. DICKINSON, head master of the Commercial department of the London Technical and Art School, has been chosen to attend a meeting in Toronto Saturday next, when school representatives from various sections of the province will confer with the provincial department of education with a view towards re-organizing the council of business schools. The principal discussion, however, is expected to center upon the "school annexation" problem, although some time will be devoted to a consideration of the decision registered at the recent provincial convention at Stratford, when it was decided to extend membership of the party to individuals as well as organizations.

MEMBERS of the London Labor Party met in regular session at the Labor Temple, Friday night, with a lengthy agenda of business scheduled. The principal discussion, however, is expected to center upon the "school annexation" problem, although some time will be devoted to a consideration of the decision registered at the recent provincial convention at Stratford, when it was decided to extend membership of the party to individuals as well as organizations.

NOT A GREAT DEAL has been heard from the Lone Scouts of America in this city up to the present time. The Y. M. C. A. is therefore co-operating with the patrols already organized here, and is calling a meeting of all the leaders and scouts in the Y. M. C. A. building this evening for the purpose of organizing them into a complete unit. Within a short time it is hoped that London will have one of the strongest city organizations in Canada.

Careless Auto Drivers Let Off Too Easily Here Says Magistrate

Three constables stated that W. R. Hodges had driven his motor car along Queen's avenue, past the intersection at Clarence street, at an excessive rate of speed, when Hodges answered to his name in police court Friday morning on a charge of reckless and negligent driving.

The defendant cross-questioned the officers closely, but was unable to shake their testimony. Hodges admitted that he had been driving on Queen's avenue the night in question, but not at the hour specified.

The court informed him that the time did not make any difference as far as the offence was concerned.

"I hope that your honor will be lenient," observed Hodges, as the court signified his intention of registering a conviction.

"I'm not going to send you to jail," stated Mr. Graydon, "but something will have to be done to stop this reckless driving. The fine will be $5 and costs."

"In the United States prison terms are meted out for infractions of the motor laws in addition to that for driving a car while intoxicated. I see where young Dodge was sentenced to jail in Detroit and fined. That is perfectly right. There is too much leniency shown in this country."

Twenty thousand names have been forwarded to Toronto on the petitions which were circulated throughout the city, protesting against any increase of concessions to separate schools in Ontario.

Officials of the local Orange lodges state that but for Drury's statement that the matter would not be brought before the House, the number of names would have been even greater. These petitions have been circulated not only in a house-to-house canvass but through the medium of Protestant churches in the city.

A resolution was passed by the London Ministerial Alliance asking the support of all clergy in bringing the matter to the attention of the church-going public, and at the last session of the London Presbytery a resolution was passed indorsing the petition.

Dr. Edwards' Opinion.

The circulating of the petitions came as a result of the stirring up of public opinion against the claims of the Roman Catholics for increased allotment of tax money for use in separate schools of that denomination.

Dr. Edwards, who addressed a meeting in the Masonic Hall on the subject, stressed the harm which would result from carrying the separate school system into the higher forms of education and protested against the use of public funds for separate schools, whether Roman Catholics or otherwise.

MRS. PANKHURST MAY SPEAK HERE

It was announced that the annual meeting of the provincial council for combating infectious diseases will be held in London on April 27, at a meeting of the London council held Thursday afternoon in the Health Institute.

The formation of a national financial committee was also decided upon and a committee to confer with the Social Service Council was appointed.

In connection with the annual meeting of the provincial council, it was stated that an effort would be made to secure Mrs. Emmeline Pankhurst as a speaker.

Among those present were: Dr. Gordon Bates, general secretary of the national council; Miss Gertrude Tate, general secretary of the Toronto council; Major Gordon Ingram, president of the London council; Dr. R. D. Hutton, M. O. H. of Brantford; and Miss D. Moore, representing the provincial board of health.

MOLDERS GO ON STRIKE.

Boston, March 17.—Five hundred members of the iron and brass molders' unions went on strike today in fifteen foundries affiliated with the Foundrymen's Association of Boston as a protest against a wage cut of 5 cents an hour.

SHOWS CANADA'S NORTHERN LANDS

Rev. R. J. Bowen Gives Graphic Description While Displaying Pictures.

TELLS MANY STORIES

Reviews Hardships and Privations Encountered by Early Settlers—English Capital Helping.

The beauty and grandeur of the great northland of Canada was shown through lantern slides by the Rev. R. J. Bowen at the Western University extension lecture given in the public library Thursday night.

Pictures were shown by Mr. Bowen of the wonderful mountain systems in the little known regions of Alaska and the Yukon, with all the beautiful color effects that dispelled any thoughts that one might have of a country that is usually thought of as being all snow and ice.

Some of the best pictures shown were those of mountain ranges on the edge of the lakes, it being hard to tell at times which were the actual mountains and which the reflections in the water. This was explained by the lecturer as being due to the clear atmosphere.

The pictures of the gigantic glaciers shown, the lecturer relating many interesting stories of the hardships and privations encountered by early pioneers who risked their lives to develop the country, or to explore it, and in so doing played their part in empire building.

Horses Died by Thousands.

Dead Horse Gulch, which derived its name from the number of horses found there during the rush of the boom days, was shown with a railroad running through it. During the time that the railroad was being surveyed no less than 2,000 skeletons of horses were found and buried.

Some fine pictures of Dawson City were shown. They had been taken in the prosperous days of the city when it had nearly 25,000 population, the population of that city is only about 3,000.

An interesting fact revealed in connection with the pictures shown of the railroad in that territory was that it was built by capital raised in London, England, as was also the hotel built on the mountain top for the use of the tourists.

Other pictures showed the miners at work with their sluice boxes, also the methods used to wash the gold from the gravel.

At Dawson, in the middle of summer, Mr. Bowen said that ice could be found about two and one-half feet below the surface of the ground.

Housing Commission Will Appoint Manager

THE housing commission will meet Friday night to appoint a manager to take complete charge of its affairs.

It is believed that matters are in such a state that no one knows where the affairs of the commission are. Civic funds are being lost almost daily as a result.

It is to overcome this condition that the decision to place the affairs in the hands of one responsible man has been arrived at.

It is understood that Commissioner J. W. Cunliffe will be asked to take full control of all collections, payments and the sale of houses.

BALLANTYNE NEW "Y" SECRETARY

According to information given by C. M. Copeland of the National Council of the Y. M. C. A., at a meeting of the board of directors Thursday evening, Harry Ballantyne has been appointed general secretary for the Y. M. C. A. in Canada in place of Charles A. Bishop, who has left for New York.

The following were appointed a nominating committee to prepare a slate for the election which takes place in May: R. F. McPherson, N. Mills, J. J. Foote, Colin Duffield, Wendell Holmes and F. McFarland.

A budget committee was also appointed to prepare estimates: A. Langford, A. E. Silverwood, W. Deemer, Col. W. J. Brown, K. P. R. Neville, James Gray and J. J. Foote.

TRUSTEE FAVORS DAKIN STREET SCHOOL SITE

Mrs. John I. A. Hunt Declares Talk Against Property Is "Tommy-Rot."

School Trustee Mrs. John I. A. Hunt has come to the defence of the proposed Dakin street public school site, which has been condemned by numerous citizens, including Mayor Wilson.

"I have visited the location," said Mrs. Hunt at a meeting of the audit committee of the board of education Friday morning, "and I think it is an excellent site. It's all 'tommyrot' talk about that property."

Commenting upon the petition which is to come before the board at its next meeting from a number of East London residents, urging the purchase of Eleanor street property valued at $18,000, the trustee stated that the members of the various mothers' clubs of the district in question were highly indignant regarding the story that their names were on the petition. "They do not want to be identified with it," said Mrs. Hunt.

Trustee William Clark also expressed disapproval of the $18,000 site and maintains that under the circumstances the board should purchase the neighboring property, which although an acre larger in area is for sale at half of the price of the other, $9,000. "If there was not such a difference in price," he explained, "I would be inclined to agree with the petitioners."

The secretary of the board states that the petition contains 73 names, and not 200, as reported.

YOUTH IS GIVEN ANOTHER CHANCE

George Jones, a youth of 16, who pleaded guilty last week to having stolen a bicycle, was released in the care of Ed Lance of the S. A. C. by Magistrate Graydon in police court Friday morning.

Mr. Lance stated that a former employer of the boy, a farmer, living near Dorchester, was willing to give the lad a job, and that Jones had promised to stay at the work.

"I don't think it will be long until he is back in the city," stated the court. "However, we will try it."

"I want to go out on the farm and behave myself," said Jones eagerly.

"If you come back to town, you will go to the reformatory," stated the court, as Jones was led away by Mr. Lance.

"If they do not keep the promise they made at Hamilton within thirty days, then they can expect something. They will find me just as determined as they are."

So declared William Link, 89 Mainland street, Thursday evening, commenting upon the report from Hamilton that his daughter Grace Jean had in an interview with the press stated that she had no intention of coming to live with him in London.

BLAMES UNREST ON LANDLORDS

Rev. Father Tobin Scores Owners of Uninhabitable Houses.

SEES CRIME AS RESULT

Would Provide Laws Requiring Proprietors to Make Improvements.

Special to London Advertiser.
ST. THOMAS, March 16.—In discussing the social unrest and prevalence of crime in the world, Father Tobin of the Holy Angels' parish here, today made the unique declaration that in his opinion "landlords of uninhabitable houses" are the greatest contributory cause of the present unhealthy condition of the social world.

In explanation of his remarkable statement Father Tobin hastened to explain that no one factor contributed so much to dissatisfaction among men as the unwholesome atmosphere of a home barren of cheerfulness, and the comforts of life.

"In all large cities," Father Tobin continued, "there are laws compelling landlords to make their houses habitable. We would do well to have such laws in this city. There is nothing now to force landlords to properly heat, light or to install proper sanitary arrangements in houses. It is absolutely essential that there should be such laws.

Makes For Crime.
"It is no wonder that there is a great deal of crime. Workingmen become dissatisfied with their cheerless environment. They become disgruntled, opposed to capital and government and law. And too often eventually become criminal. Many cases of crime can be traced back to home conditions."

"But what can the workingman do? True he can fix the home a bit himself, but the main things that make home life comfortable lies with the landlord. He goes to the landlord and usually he is told if he does not like it he can leave the house."

"The proper way of renting a house," I believe, "is by the yearly contract," he continued. "In the contract stipulations as to repairs and maintenance should be made and the law should be such that the landlord can be forced to live up to those conditions. But in cases where houses are rented by the month the owner should be forced by law to make it habitable."

In his visits to more than 450 homes in his parish and in many others he has visited, Father Tobin said he has been given a splendid opportunity to study conditions. He related as an instance one case on which he was now working, seeking redress for a defenceless widow, a member of his church.

Repairs Promised.
This woman, he said, rented an eight-room house by a lease. On renting it the agent for the owners had promised that several repairs would be made and among other things a furnace was to be installed. It was understood that the house was to be sublet to roomers, for in that way the woman was hoping to make a living.

"The woman moved into the house and certain repairs were made, many of which she paid for herself. The furnace was installed, but would you believe it, the furnace was a pipeless affair. Only one grate, located in the lower hall, was installed to heat the whole house. The poor woman had to buy oil stoves for every room and even then the rooms were so cold that not a roomer would stay more than a week at a time. The woman was distracted because she could not pay her rent or other bills which were accumulating, so she came to me."

"I went to the chief of police, to the city solicitor, and while they thought that the heating system was ridiculous, they informed me that they knew of no way in which the owner could be forced to rectify matters. They said that they could do nothing."

Interviews Agent.
"I then interviewed the real estate agent, and he asked me what I intended to do about it. When I told him that I would show him he stated that if the woman did not like the house she could move."

"Now," Father Tobin said, "why should that woman be forced to move, to give up a home that was satisfactory to her as to size, location and rental, to go to the expense of moving again, just because a landlord chooses to deal unfairly?"

"That woman is now talking of selling everything and of going back to London. If she does, St. Thomas will not only lose a good citizen, but her daughter also who is one of the best musicians of the city and an outstanding soloist."

"Don't you see now how much influence a landlord can have on a community?"

HAMILTON POLICE GET GUN TOTERS

Hamilton, March 17.—Last night a squad of detectives raided the home of Rocco Perry, 166 Bay street, who was named as the father of the children of Olive Rutledge, who committed suicide by jumping from the seventh story of the Bank of Hamilton building. They arrested Ross Carbone and Louis Gurozzy, who were today sentenced to three months' imprisonment and fined $100 each by Magistrate Jeffs for being in possession of revolvers. Perry was in the house at the time.

ARREST FIVE IN RAID

Montreal, March 17.—In a raid made last night by federal officers on Henri Julien avenue five persons were placed under arrest and a still with a capacity of 80 gallons of whiskey and a quantity of materials seized.

Scenes in Suppression of Revolt in South Africa

PRETORIA, Union of South Africa, March 16.—An official summary of the operations in the Rand area in suppressing the revolutionary outbreak there, issued today, makes acknowledgment of the assistance given by the loyal citizens and the help offered to the authorities from every quarter of the union.

People of all shades of political conviction, says the statement, came forward to help the government suppress "a social revolution by bolsheviks, international socialists and communists."

The accompanying photographs show British troops arriving at a mine in the Rand district after thousands of workers had gone on strike. Below, strikers crowding about troops sent to preserve order and protect property at another mine.

Day's Legislative Doings at Ottawa

TODAY IN PARLIAMENT.

In the Commons.
The debate on the address will be continued when the house resumes this afternoon by A. W. Neill (Comox-Alberni), who declared that he was the only independent in the house, having been elected to oppose the Meighen government, after which he was free to follow his own course. If the Liberal government could put his platform, which he laid down, on the statute books, he would support it.

In the Senate.
The Senate meets at 3 o'clock.

YESTERDAY IN PARLIAMENT.

In the Commons.
Debate continued by T. L. Church, Conservative, North Toronto; Sir Lomer Gouin, Liberal, Outremont; D. M. Kennedy, Progressive, Edmonton; A. J. Lewis, Progressive, Swift Current; A. M. Carmichael, Progressive, Kindersley; J. A. McElvie, Conservative, Yale, and A. W. Neill, Independent, Comox-Alberni.

In the Senate.
Sir George Foster moved for production of order-in-council appointing Hon. P. C. Larkin, high commissioner in London; Senator Bradbury asked for information regarding Arctic exploration; Senator McMeans gave notice of an amendment to the criminal code respecting appeals. Tributes to deceased senators by party leaders.

WILL TAKE OVER BRYANT'S ASSETS

Montreal, March 17.—Arthur Levin has been named interim receiver to take over the assets of Hersey R. Bryant, pending judgment on a petition which has been filed in court, declaring Mr. Bryant to have been a silent partner in the firm of Dunn and Company, of 4 Hospital street, which assigned a short time ago to Alexander Burnett, trustee.

The petition asks that H. R. Bryant be declared bankrupt and his assets included with those of J. H. Dunn in satisfying the claims of creditors. It was presented at the request of certain creditors after an investigation by Mr. Levin, who was appointed a short time ago, following a previous petition to act jointly with Alexander Burnett as liquidator.

ART EXHIBITION TO OPEN FRIDAY

Toronto, March 17.—The 50th annual exhibition of the Ontario Society of Artists, which will open here this evening, will hold many surprises for the regular gallery patrons as well as much that is startling and new to the onlooker.

Portraits and figure painting have an unusually large representation this year, landscape always preponderating. Of outstandingly large canvases the pictures that are painted for gallery purposes only, there are few. Another feature to be noted is that there is an unusually large number of names of painters exhibiting for the first time, including the younger men and women.

CREW DEFEND LIQUOR SCHOONER

New York, March 17.—Fifteen special revenue agents today arrested 4 men after a pistol battle aboard a two-masted schooner said to have been loaded with contraband liquor in the East River at the foot of Tiffany street, the Bronx. More than 30 shots were exchanged. The schooner, whose cargo of liquor was said to be worth nearly half a million dollars, was seized together with two automobiles and a large moving van, which the authorities said were to have been used in transporting the contraband.

AMUNDSEN LEAVES NORWAY

Christiania, March 17.—Captain Roald Amundsen, the Norwegian explorer, left here today for New York, on his way to Seattle. He plans to leave there about June 1, on his long expedition into the icebound Arctic regions.

CATHCART PIONEER DIES AT PARIS HOME

Edward Kneale, Born In Isle of Man, Came To Canada When Six Years Old.

PARIS BOY WINS PRIZE

Leads In Essay Competition In Connection With Brantford Motor Show.

Special to London Advertiser.

PARIS, March 16.—It is expected that the tax rate will be around 38 mills this year.

The Y. M. C. A. directorate is making an effort to reopen the "Y" here. Mayor Rehder stated today, The Kwanis Club and the board of trade are co-operating to make it a success.

The Brantford motor show has apparently whetted the desire of Parisians for new motor cars. Several made their appearance here during the last few days. About 20 new cars have been purchased in and around Paris this season.

The death occurred here today of Edward Kneale in his 77th year. Born in the Isle of Man, he came to Canada when six years old. His parents settled in Cathcart in pioneer days. He learned the shoemaking business, and for years ran a successful business in Cathcart village. He came to Paris some 20 years ago, and since then ran a shoe repair shop at Paris Junction. He was married to Miss Jane Reed of Cathcart 52 years ago, with one daughter, Mrs. Fred Wells of Canning, and one son, J. A. Kneale of the Central Y. M. C. A., Toronto, survives him. In religion he was a Methodist and in politics a Conservative.

Bert Lilley of the local high school won the first prize at the Brantford motor show, donated by the Brantford Expositor, for an essay. The second prize went to a Brantford student.

Town Clerk Barker has received 5 or more tenders for garbage collection.

Chief Green had a giant visitor last night in the person of a young Irishman who sought refuge in the cells for the evening. He was only 20 years old and was 6 feet, 6 inches in height. He proceeded on his way this morning.

C. E. Walker, president of the Paris Board of Trade wired Deputy Minister of Highways McLean yesterday asking him if the provincial highway between Brantford and Paris could not be improved. Cars have to be towed through by a team in some places.

Commissioner Sowton, eastern territorial commander for the Salvation Army, is coming to Paris next Monday. He will speak in the Methodist Church. Mayor Rehder will preside and members of the council will also speak.

announced, and further disturbances occurred, in which large numbers of the surrounding district participated. Mobs halted rickshaws and walked. The efforts of armed police to clear the streets proved unavailing.

When the situation became menacing the riot act was read, and the demonstrators were exhorted to disperse quietly. Instead, they advanced toward the police, waving flags and shouting. Women were used as shields by the men to delay the police fire.

Meanwhile military forces had arrived and, upon the mob attempting to rush the police, were ordered to fire. Seeing 50 of their number cut down by the bullets, the remainder of the mob stampeded.

Following this occurrence, the demonstration ceased, and at the time the dispatch was filed, the situation was characterized as normal.

Nordheimers Closing London Retail Store

On April 1 the Nordheimer Piano and Music Co. of Toronto, will close the London retail branch and their pianos will then be sold by W. McPhillips, Limited, at 238 Dundas street. In order to close the business quickly all pianos, organs, phonographs and records will be sold at exceptionally low prices. Those intending to purchase an instrument should attend this sale tomorrow.—Advt.

PREDICTS INDIA'S GREAT FUTURE

love for India. In 1917 this official had declared that India should attain a self-governing status step by step. A commission of investigation was ordered. A report followed, and Indians gave evidence later before a joint committee of the two British houses.

The Amritsar massacre had stirred up the Punjabese. They were smarting under that insult, Mr. Wadia said.

Then there were other troubles in India. Of the 350,000,000 of people, 70,000,000 were Mohammedans. They demanded that the sultan of Turkey be allowed his rights as leader of the Mohammedan world. However, today they were not satisfied that England had carried out her promises in regard to this matter, made when the war was entered. The peace treaty with Turkey, they thought, was not satisfactory.

Referring to Gandhi, Mr. Wadia remarked: "He is a personal friend of mine. He is a follower of Tolstol. If the British Government kicked him he would kick back. Mr. Gandhi is a saint. He took it for granted that all Indians were saints. They are no more saints than Canadians."

"He is an anarchist, but not of the bloody kind. He believes 'If they kill me, I am ready to go to the gallows for my principles.'"

Robert Darragh, photographer, was the "booster" at the club this week. Solos and prize drawings were other interesting parts of the program of the day.

St. Thomas Topics

JONAS DOXSTATER, WANTED in this city on a charge of operating a still at his home in the east end of St. Thomas, was arrested in Ingersoll. He was brought to this city by Detective McElroy Thursday afternoon.

MEASUREMENTS OF ALL BUILDINGS on Talbot street are being made by Assessment Commissioner Freck and his assistant. The assessment notices will not be delivered in the business district for several months yet, however. The residential districts will be assessed when Talbot street is completed.

F. H. KETTLE, GARAGE OWNER, of this city was awarded a judgment for $6.75 and costs in the county court today as the result of a suit brought against him by the City of St. Thomas. The plaintiff claimed was due him for rental of a car let to the defendant. The award covered the cost of gasoline and oil used. Major Abel claimed that the car was loaned to him and nothing was said of rental at the time.

MRS. SUSAN HEARD, 224 TALBOT STREET, this city, died at her home on Thursday morning, following a year's illness. Mrs. Heard was born in Alvington 59 years ago, and had resided in St. Thomas for the past 25 years. She is survived by her husband, Samuel Heard, and one son and three daughters by a former marriage and four brothers. The funeral will be held Saturday at 2:30 o'clock. Interment will be made in St. Thomas Cemetery.

DONATIONS TO THE PRINCESS MARY memorial fund now totals $320.25. The money will be used to furnish a ward in the Elgin Memorial Hospital.

WANTS BYLAW TO CURB LOITERERS

Special to London Advertiser.
ST. THOMAS, March 16.—Chief of Police Armstrong has made an appeal to certain members of the city council for a bylaw which will make it an offence for men and boys to loiter in the doorways and entrances to buildings, from where, it is alleged, they molest passing girls and women.

At the present time the police of St. Thomas have not the power to interfere with loiterers while they stand on private property, as long as they are not violating the law in other ways. Because of this laxity the police find it difficult to protect women from coarse remarks, and many complaints have been received. The chief was promised that the matter will be taken up immediately. Meanwhile, the police have been instructed to keep street corners clear.

NOT IN FAVOR OF WHITE WORKERS

LONDON, March 16.—(Canadian Press Cable.)—An Indian political delegation from Suva, Fiji Islands, which came to London to inquire to the possibilities of immigration to their country has concluded its here. It is believed it will report unfavorably for Indian immigration for labor purposes, as Europeans on the Fiji Islands are strongly opposed to any proposal of equal status. The outlook for the sugar crop on the islands is gloomy as there is not sufficient labor sight to harvest it.

Takes Over Scotland Woolen Mills London Store!

An Open Letter To London Men

Gentlemen:
I have been in the men's tailoring business for many years and know what a good dependable Suit and Overcoat can be made for if the materials are bought direct from the mills and the tailor is satisfied to work on a very close margin of profit.

I have taken over the Scotland Woolen Mills' London store with the intention of giving the men of London the best clothes value that was ever given in London at $15. I have figured costs down to a minimum so that I can give you clothes to measure at $15.00 that other tailors are asking $25.00 and $30.00 for.

To-morrow will be my opening day and I want to be judged by my values. I invite you to come to my store and see my selection of spring materials. You will, of course, be under no obligation to buy unless you wish to. If you do order a Suit or Overcoat I will guarantee to please you, fit you and satisfy you or give you back your money. Yours faithfully,

(Signed) FRANK TURNER
Successor to Scotland Woolen Mills Co.

Made To Measure --- Guaranteed To Satisfy

Come and be your own salesman. See my materials. Judge for yourself. There's plenty of variety for every sort of man.

Forget everything you ever knew about clothing values and come to-morrow and see my new Spring Suitings and Topcoats. I have set out to meet the public demand for better quality at a lower price—and render a service that commands respect and confidence. All I ask is an investigation of my values and a chance to make good. Every man who buys from me does so on the understanding that he must be satisfied or his money is refunded.

PROCLAIM FUAD KING OF EGYPT

CAIRO, March 16.—The proclamation of the sultan, Ahmed Fuad Pasha, as king of Egypt today, was accompanied by the firing of salvos of 101 guns in Cairo, Alexandria and Port Said, and of 21 guns in all the other provincial capitals.

Field Marshal Viscount Allenby, hitherto the British high commissioner, accompanied by members of his staff, called at the royal palace and congratulated King Fuad, whom he addressed as "Your Majesty."

Through Premier Sarwat Pasha the king addressed a letter to "our noble nation" in which he said in part: "God has graciously permitted the independence of Egypt to be attained by our hands. We are grateful to God and hereby announce to the world that from today Egypt enjoys independence and sovereignty."

"We have taken for ourselves the title 'His Majesty, King of Egypt,' in order to insure the country's dignity and its international status. We ask God and the nation to bear witness that we shall endeavor to work for the welfare and happiness of our beloved country. We hope this day will inaugurate an era which will restore Egypt's grandeur."

CHARGE KEHOE WITH PERJURY

Well-Known Farmer of Sombra District Arrested by License Inspector.

ALLEGED FRAUDULENCY

Claimed That Man Framed Liquor Robbery on Another Person.

Special to London Advertiser. SARNIA, March 16.—A sensation was created in the Sombra district today with the arrest of Peter Kehoe, well-known farmer, by License Inspector W. J. Coulter, on Warrant charging Kehoe with perjury.

The circumstances leading up to the arrest are of an extraordinary nature, it being alleged that Kehoe deliberately framed a charge against Bush of robbery with violence at Kehoe's home in May last, when 22 cases of liquor were alleged to have been stolen, while at the time Kehoe is said to have had the sum of $1,600 in his possession, proceeds of the sale of the liquor to Carmen Mitchell, a Marine City bootlegger, who is held in jail at Sarnia pending trial for robbery at Port Lambton. Mitchell has produced a receipt, alleged to be signed by Kehoe for the sum of $1,600, and witnessed by W. J. Bulman.

Obtain Release of Bush.

The story is strange in several ways, as following the conviction of Bush, who received a sentence of from six to twelve months in jail by Magistrate J. J. Jarvis on June 21, Henri & McNally, Sarnia lawyers, were instructed to appeal the conviction and were successful in obtaining the release of Bush from jail, and as the appeal has never been brought up for hearing, Bush is at liberty and is in the United States, this situation is stated to be without precedent.

O. L. Lewis of Chatham defended Bush at his trial, but the man's friends, after the conviction, retained Henri and McNally to appeal, believing a frame-up had been made. For months the solicitors endeavored to obtain the receipt for the cash, believing that Mitchell held it. He could not be induced to produce it nor give any statement regarding the supposed purchase. Finally Mitchell himself was arrested and extradited from the United States for robbing the Downs brothers of Port Lambton with violence. Mrs. Mitchell retained Henri and McNally to defend her husband, and they were then successful in obtaining the receipt, which is alleged to bear the signature of Kehoe. It is stated that at the trial of Bush, Kehoe and several members of his family swore identification, knowing at the time that the liquor had been sold to Mitchell for disposal in Detroit.

Was Second Man.

Another peculiar feature of the case was that Bush was the second man charged with the robbery, Joseph Richards of Sombra having been acquitted of a similar charge a few days previously. Some time previously a relative of Kehoe had been arrested and convicted on a liquor charge, and Inspector Coulter had announced to Peter Kehoe his intention of checking Kehoe's stock. It is alleged that Kehoe framed the charge of robbery in order to avoid having to account to the police inspector for the disappearance of the liquor he had held. The magistrate allowed Kehoe out on bail on his own security for $5,000, with that of John C. McMillan of Sombra for a similar amount.

J. R. Donohue of Cowan, Towers & Cowan has been retained to defend Kehoe, who will receive preliminary hearing at Courthouse, Thursday next.

UPHOLD UNIONISTS' FIGHT.

London, March 17.—(Canadian Press Cable).—Melbourne Trades Hall, like the Sydney Labor Council, has passed a resolution expressing sympathy with South African trade unionists, according to a Reuters' correspondent at Melbourne, Australia. A red flag is flying at half-mast at the trades hall in Melbourne.

Don't Let That Cold Turn Into "Flu"

Rub On Good Old Musterole.

That cold may turn into "Flu," Grippe or even worse. Pneumonia, unless you take care of it at once.

Rub good old Musterole on the congested parts and see how quickly it brings relief.

Colds are merely congestion. Musterole, made from pure oil of mustard, camphor, menthol and other simple ingredients, is a counter-irritant which restores circulation promptly and helps break up the cold.

As effective as the messy old mustard plaster, it does the work without the mustard plaster's sting and blister.

During the "Flu" epidemic a few years ago, Musterole was used in our training camps. The Y. M. C. A. War Board sent thousands of jars to France for our soldiers overseas.

Doctors have been recommending it to their patients for years for colds, aches and pains.

Just rub it on with your finger tips. You will feel a warm tingle as it enters the pores, then a cooling sensation that brings welcome relief.

Your druggist has Musterole.

DOHERTY DENIES HE "FIRED" CREELMAN

Minister of Agriculture Declares He Promoted Former O. A. C. President.

REYNOLDS REVIEWS CASE

Maintains That Crow Publicly Challenged His Authority.

[Special To London Advertiser.] TORONTO, March 16.—"Absolutely untrue" was the way Hon. Manning Doherty today described the statement made yesterday by Prof. J. W. Crow of the Ontario Agricultural College, Guelph, that the former president, Dr. Creelman, was dismissed by Mr. Doherty. "I promoted Dr.

Creelman to the highest position in the gift of the province, as Ontario's agent-general in Britain, a most responsible and important office," he said.

With reference to Professor Crow's dismissal from the O. A. C. staff the minister of agriculture said responsibility for that rested with President Reynolds. "He must assume the responsibility for administration of affairs at the college, and I presume he is prepared to," added Mr. Doherty.

REYNOLDS REVIEWS ISSUE.

GUELPH, March 16.—The only new development in connection with the dismissal of Professor Crow from the horticultural department of the Ontario Agricultural College was the publication of a letter today sent by President Reynolds to Hon. Manning Doherty, the Ontario minister of agriculture, in which Mr. Reynolds reviews the whole affair from his standpoint.

He says it has been a difficult situation to handle and admits that there were no proofs of serious maladministration or incompetency, and that Professor Crow has marked ability in certain directions. He declares that arrangements had been made to get a report as to the work and management of the horticultural department, but this was interrupted by the action of Professor Crow in giving an interview to newspapers. The words used are considered by the president as publicly challenging his authority.

Up to this time no irrevocable action had been taken with reference to Professor Crow, but the latter's action in giving the interview and making the question a public one left Dr. Reynolds no option but to dismiss him.

Laurier in Quebec.

THE ADVERTISER a few days ago reproduced several extracts from SKELTON'S "Life and Letters of SIR WILFRID LAURIER," but there are some excellent passages that could not be covered in any review of the work.

Too often the impression has been wrongly given that Sir Wilfrid did not play to the full his part in the securing of recruits in the time of war.

The Nationalist campaign in Quebec was one of the chief obstacles to the progress of recruiting, and Sir Wilfrid LAURIER saw the danger of that movement right from the start, and especially during the war lost no opportunity to combat it. To those who may hold the idea that Sir Wilfrid hesitated to carry the message to his own people in Quebec, we commend a speech which he delivered at the Monument National in Montreal on June 3, 1916:

"This, my compatriots, is what I ask—this is the entente cordiale I would have us achieve by service together. I have followed the ideal of conscience as prompted by my heart. Do not let us waver from the right line of conduct. I am older than the most of you, and I am more than ever convinced that there is no real success but that which is based and has its foundations on right and justice and the generous instincts of the human heart. Let us unite to ally, and, please God, to extinguish the prejudices that pull us apart, and do our utmost like real men and women to bring together the two elements in our country."

"Come, my young compatriots, with these brave young men who offer their services—their lives—that France may live, that Britain may continue her noble and generous rule, and that heroic Belgium may be restored to her standing as a nation."

And again in Maisonneuve in September to an outdoor meeting of 15,000 people he urged:

"There are people who say we will not fight for England; with you, then, fight for France? I speak to you of French origin; if I were young like you and had the same health I enjoy today I would join those brave Canadians fighting today for the liberation of French territory. I would not have it said that the French-Canadians do less for the liberation of France than the citizens of British origin. For my part I want to fight for England and also for France."

Viewed in the light of history, the life of SIR WILFRID LAURIER stands up above and beyond that of any Canadian. The test of time is a measure that fails but seldom, and the fact that the memory of the great leader is cherished by Liberals to lead furnishes all necessary proof of the place Sir Wilfrid LAURIER rightly held in the hearts of his followers and in the pages of Canadian history.

Per Capita Spending.

FROM A PAMPHLET issued by the Citizens' Research Institute of Canada on the "Cost of Government in Canada," the claim is taken that "a contributing cause to the high cost of living is the high cost of municipal government," making the further statement that "the increase in the cost of municipal government must stop before we reach a normal basis."

In order that municipalities can have a chance to measure up what is being done in this regard by their own councils, the Research Institute advises that "judging from the average yearly cost of other commodities, 1920 should prove to be the peak in the cost of municipal government, and from that time onward in efficiently managed communities the per capita cost should recede."

Owing to the several plans being followed in methods of accounting, it is not possible to produce absolute results, but the figures worked out by the Research Institute came pretty close to real results. The following figures taken from its reports show what Canadian cities did in 1920 and 1919, on a per capita basis, showing the tax for general government, education, protection, highways and bridges, charities, health and sanitation and recreation. The totals show:—

|---------------|---------|---------|
| Victoria      | $48.26 | $42.69 |
| Vancouver     | 45.02   | 43.52   |
| Edmonton      | 56.06   | 48.66   |
| Calgary       | 47.31   | 46.01   |
| Regina        | 44.62   | 36.38   |
| Saskatoon     | 46.53   | 44.67   |
| Winnipeg      | 41.58   | 32.19   |
| Toronto       | 46.38   | 39.21   |
| Hamilton      | 35.34   | 25.98   |
| Ottawa        | 51.94   | 23.78   |
| London        | 39.07   | 26.27   |
| Windsor       | 28.26   | 21.25   |
| Montreal      | 27.89   | 24.97   |
| St. John      | 26.89   | 21.36   |
| Halifax       | 25.79   | 18.35   |
| Charlottetown | 11.99   | 8.42    |

The debenture debt of the same cities is as follows, the amount quoted allowing for the sinking fund already accumulated against the debt:

| City.     | 1920     | 1919 |
|-----------|----------|------|
| Victoria  | $414.13 |      |
| Vancouver | 226.87   |      |
| Edmonton  | 349.23   |      |
| Calgary   | 297.38   |      |
| Regina    | 245.31   |      |

AND THEN THE CAT HAD TO THROW ANOTHER FIT.

|               |        |
|---------------|--------|
| Saskatoon     | 301.82 |
| Winnipeg      | 165.09 |
| Toronto       | 147.14 |
| Hamilton      | 104.97 |
| Ottawa        | 124.47 |
| London        | 136.34 |
| Windsor       | 104.67 |
| Montreal      | 190.78 |
| Quebec        | 151.44 |
| Halifax       | 111.23 |
| Charlottetown | 67.41  |

The same report also makes some comment, excerpts from which follow:—

The increase in the total per capita expenditure for municipal government in 1920 over that for 1919 has been general in all the cities listed. This increase ranged all the way from $9.39 per capita in Winnipeg and $9.36 per capita in Hamilton to $1.46 per capita in Vancouver. The average general increase in the total per capita being $5.94.

The per capita cost of education still continued to soar in 1920. Edmonton expended the large amount of $18.41 per capita in this connection. It is interesting to note that western cities on the average spend larger per capita amounts on education than do the eastern cities.

The per capita expenditures for the protection of persons and property were generally advanced in 1920 over those of 1919. The advances in most cases, however, were not large, and since salaries and wages are no longer increasing, costs in this connection should now be at the peak.

Per capita expenditure for highways and bridges also showed a fairly general advance. Since in the latter part of 1920 cost of materials began to recede, these per capita should show a decrease in 1921 and 1922.

While some of the per capita expenditures for charities and correction were higher in 1920 than in 1919 this condition was not general. The unemployment situation will probably have the effect of increasing the per capita in 1921 and 1922.

Toronto has a very large per capita expenditure for recreation, with Vancouver, Winnipeg, Windsor and Calgary showing a much greater per capita expenditure in this connection than the other cities listed. It is a peculiar thing that many municipalities continue to expend increasing per capita amounts in this direction, especially at a time when high municipal taxation is causing such general dissatisfaction.

Those Billboards.

MEMBERS OF the house at Ottawa can hardly refrain from pointing a few arrows here and there following the election. The leader of the opposition has talked of little else than the last election since the house started its sessions. The premier made a passing reference to a certain large and gorgeous poster of Agraria Moreschini that was used in the last campaign.

"My right honorable friend," stated the premier, "made reference to some of the literature issued in the late campaign. He seemed to have a particular fondness for producing documents which carried portraits of one kind or another. I would say to my right honorable friend that he should not take too seriously much of the campaign literature that was issued on any side. I think I need only remind him of one poster that had something to say about a very distinguished public man. This poster asserted that the statesman in question was much needed by Canada; but the country did not think so. My right honorable friend ought to be the last to take too seriously to heart the literature or the pictures that appeared in the newspaper press and on the billboards during the campaign."

It might be even more pertinent to ask where the money came from to print and post all these pictures. Mr. CHERAK asked Mr. MEIGHEN several times during the campaign where the money was coming from, and the only answer was that if a man gave a donation to the fund that was his own business.

The memory of those hundreds upon hundreds of billboards, flaunting all over the country the face, features and countenances of one ARTHUR MEIGHEN, telling him who passed that the country had to have this man or go to the how-wows—it must now rise up as a nightmare to the honorable leader of the assorted two-score and ten Tories.

LITTLE 'TISERS

Force is being used to put down trouble in India. Necessary, no doubt, but do these things put down by force stay down?

Many a man who boasts that he doesn't owe money to the bank, fails to add that it's because the bank wouldn't lend him any.

One bright paragrapher writes that a ton of diamonds is worth $50,000,000, and if a person pays more than that he is getting stung.

MARY PICKFORD'S income for two years was $1,123,625, according to court testimony in New York. The premier of Canada makes that much in 50 years. The average unskilled day laborer in eastern steel mills, making 20 cents an hour, would have to toil 2,265 years to earn as much as Mary gets in two years.

How long can a man be out of work and retain his self-respect and a properly-balanced outlook on things in general? It takes only a short time in tramping the streets and getting turned down to convince many a man that the dice are loaded against him. He soon becomes susceptible to suggestions of agitators, and in a few weeks it is not much of a job to find his mind a fairly good seed bed for the anarchist and the malcontent to cultivate.

HON. RODOLPHE LEMIEUX, as speaker of the house, occupies a position that must be trying at times to a man of his talents and disposition. After sitting in opposition, and having tasted defeat of government, he now must, in the hour of Liberal success, view the whole performance without bias and make his rulings accordingly. There must be times when he would like to slide down off his perch and cut loose in either French or English. Being speaker of the house has its disadvantages, especially to a man of the attainments and inclinations of the Hon. RODOLPHE LEMIEUX.

The demand for the resignation of Prof. Crow of the O. A. C., Guelph, has brought in its wake considerable notoriety and publicity. Prof. Crow claims his department (horticulture) was stunted by lack of money, while the president of the college seems to hold that Prof. Crow was a competent horticulturist, but was not satisfied with the administration of the department. There is not a point raised that a little investigation would not establish or disprove. It is not desirable from the standpoint of the province—because the college is the property of the province—that a prolonged discussion should take place over the matter.

25 YEARS AGO TODAY

Here We Have Items of Local and District Interest As Recorded in The Advertiser of 1897.

FRIDAY, MARCH 17, 1897.

Rouse, Toronto; A. R. Braden, Barrie; Jas. Dickson, Winnipeg, and others.

After the report had been submitted the following directors were elected: Messrs. John McCleary, Wm. Bowman, Geo. C. Gibbons, Wm. F. Bullen, Thos. H. Smallman, Judge A. Bell, A. S. Emery, G. M. Harrison and A. O. Jeffery.

At a subsequent meeting of the directors Mr. John McCleary was re-elected president, and Mr. A. O. Jeffery vice-president.

The eleventh concert of the Women's Morning Music Club took place this morning at Bell Music Hall. The program consisted of a duet by Mrs. Chadwick and Miss Raymond; song, Miss Baldwin; violin solo, Miss Adeline Baldwin; song, Miss Gibbons; instrumental selections, Mr. T. G. Mitchell; and song by Miss Campbell.

The three-day anniversary services of London West Methodist Church Sunday school were brought to a termination by a tea meeting last night. After tea had been served Mr. W. Gibson took the chair and introduced the following program: Recitations, Master Harold Elson, Miss Lottie Arscott, Master Harold McPherson, Miss Anna Cochrell, Miss Alice and Master Leslie Bowie; musical selection, Mr. Currie's class; Chorus, Mrs. Cooper's class; vocal duet, Misses A. Greenaway and A. Green; dialogue, Miss N. Greenaway's class; chorus, Miss Wilkins' class; duet, Misses William Gibson and Eva Lawrence; piano solo, Miss A. Green; instrumental duet, Misses B. Currie and M. Hookaway; solo, Mr. W. Spence; whistling chorus, Miss Heritage's class; trio, Messrs. Stickels, Rossiter and Berry; chorus, Mrs. Douglas' class.

LEARN A WORD EVERY DAY

TODAY'S word is CYCLE. It's pronounced—aye-kul, with accent on the first syllable. It means—a circle, a period of time, an age, an epoch. It comes from—Greek "kyklos," a ring or circle. Companion word—cyclic. It's used like this—"Optimists believe we are moving out of the cycle of business depression into a cycle of prosperity."

READ YOUR CHARACTER

(By Digby Phillips.)

NO. 164—ELOQUENT LIPS.

Ordinarily it is sufficient for us to know that a man is eloquent by listening to his eloquence. Nevertheless, many people, not naturally so, do wax eloquent upon occasion, under unusual circumstances, or perhaps solely in connection with one subject upon which, for instance, their special knowledge may make them appear eloquent when they are not normally good talkers.

If a man's lips are not at least moderately full, you can make up your mind that he is not naturally eloquent, according to the well-known physiognomist, Lavater.

He is also authority for the statement that you will never find a well-defined, large and proportionate lips, the middle line of which is equally serpentine on both sides, in a bad or a common countenance.

Large mouths, as a rule, denote more character than small ones. The girl who feels that her large mouth is a handicap should realize that there are compensations in it.

An overhanging upper lip denotes mildness and amiability of character. You'll rarely, if ever, find it in a "scrappy" person.

FOUND some figures recently which proved about one-third of the deaths of persons under 40 are caused by diseases contracted from filth.

This seems to leave no doubt that an annual spring clean-up campaign is of vital importance to every community of any size. The degree of immunity during the summer months will be influenced by thoroughness or lack of it in the community house-cleaning.

A city or community-wide clean-up now may head off an epidemic of infantile paralysis this summer. The battle against this disease is one conducted for the most part in the dark. Medical men do not know exactly how it is spread.

They do know, however, that the disease has been made less perilous and extensive in the large cities where clean-up campaigns have become a regular annual public health measure. Disease-breeding places are at this time wiped out of existence.

Disease-producing germs thrive best in warmth, dampness and darkness. The places furnishing these conditions should be sought out and thoroughly cleaned.

Flies are without doubt one of the greatest spreaders of communicable diseases. They transport germs from person to person. A fly killed in March is equivalent to millions killed in August or September.

Mosquitoes also spread disease, and these pests find ideal breeding places among empty cans, bottles and broken crockery partly filled with water.

WHO WAS IRELAND'S PATRON SAINT—ST. PATRICK?

BY DINOSAUR.

Special to London Advertiser.
Who was St. Patrick?
An old ballad, full of native Irish wit, informs us that "St. Patrick was a gentleman, And came of decent people."

and it is notable that the tradition, preserved in its quaint doggerel, should bear directly on recent researches of French savants—researches of fascinating interest to the average reader and which give a wider view, even, to be learned.

Numerous and popular as are the legends of Ireland's patron saint, it has been generally conceded that most of the authentic information concerning him is found in two Latin works: St. Patrick's "Letters to Coroticus" and his "Confessions," which are a kind of autobiography of his public and official life. Yet there are reasons why modern learning, digging deep in old French and Roman sources, may fill gaps or throw new light on things known or surmised; and those who have access to the "Confessions" in their completeness, will find paragraphs, here and there, that will no longer seem obscure.

The popular accounts begin, regularly, with a little slave boy who herded sheep on the mountain slopes of County Antrim, Ireland. Yet the boy had not been born in slavery. Noble blood flowed in his veins. As son of Calpurnius, Roman patrician and magistrate, freedom was his birthright. "And," as a popular

St. Patrick establishes Christianity biography continues, "we are safe in surmising that his childhood's home afforded every comfort known to the luxury-loving Romans of his day."

One should say so!

I have known of these researches since 1911. How I regret that they are not my own, to spread before you! Another man, more capable than I, is making a book about them; and he fears that the French government may lay claim to a certain discovery on which he places great historic value.

But, with what he gives me, I have a luminous vision.

It is the vision of a cultured and cosmopolitan family of patrician government functionaries intermarried with the army, habituated to travel, shifting luxurious residence over all Europe, in a period that still inherited the good roads, splendid cities, baths, forums, promenades, seaside resorts and mountain baths, arts, industries and commerce of the august Roman Peace.

How, otherwise, could Concessa, St. Patrick's mother, have been born in what has become the present Hungarian city of Kothburg; lived a young wife and bore her illustrious son near Dumbarton, Scotland, and died in the rich Gallo-Roman city of Tours, today the center of the Garden of France.

Yet all becomes simple and understandable when you remember that Concessa was the niece of St. Martin of Tours, himself born in that Pannonian city of Kothburg, which modern Hungarians still call Sarwar—from Sabaria, its antique name as Martin and Concessa knew it.

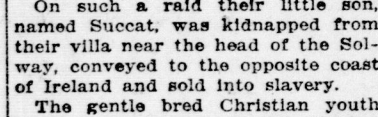

Martin's father was military tribune there (most of these outline facts are generally admitted; and part of this Frenchman's work is to put them together and reinforce them). The family of the military tribune evidently made a long and happy station down there on the south bank of the Danube, near the Hercules baths, where the Emperor Trajan soaked his rheumatism. What a picture it gives of long settled civilization, before Franks, Goths and Hun barbarians overran the empire! Regular mails on horseback and quick freight by canal boat—modern tourists see parts of road and tow-path hewn in rocks hundreds of miles apart.

St. Martin's youngest son quit the military tribune's palace, down there, at the age of 15, to go off as a Roman lieutenant. His elder sister was already married in the natural course of things, so that his baby niece Concessa, born likewise down there, grew up in a society like that so beautifully attributed to the sisters of Parthenius by Kipling in his "Puck of Pook's Hill," shifted residence, as those girls had to do, and finally married Calpurnius, young military magistrate, whose post was the luxurious Roman city (most extraordinary in the empire, a single street thirty miles long!) which Kipling makes his heroes defend in that epic "Holding of the Wall!"

It was the Wall of Severus—away up in North England! To the south was all England and Roman civilization. To the north were Picts and Scots, not entirely uncivilized in their way, but certainly raiders. Kipling's story may be used as a perfect picture of the situation of Calpurnius and Concessa, after the withdrawal of too many legions and growing neglect of the wall permitted raids through breaches in it by "the Painted People."

On such a raid their little son, named Succat, was kidnapped from their villa near the head of the Solway, conveyed to the opposite coast of Ireland and sold into slavery. The gentle bred Christian youth became the property of Milcho, wealthy cattle breeder of North Ireland. There everybody called the boy Patrickus, "the young patrician"—whence Patrick.

Although he had led a slave's life, Patrick found his owners, the rich Irish of the day, had a civilization of their own, superior to that of the Picts who stole him, and a valuable literature; and they remain remarkable as the only Pagan people who were made Christian without wholesale martyrdoms of apostles and neophytes.

There were chiefs and serfs; strong houses and big banquet halls; huge herds of horses, cattle, sheep and swine; and the kings and queens, lords and ladies, and their famous fighting men and their wives wore garments of crimson and blue, green and saffron, plain or checkered, plaid or striped. They had rings, clasps and torques of gold, urns, mugs, troughs and vessels of silver and iron. They played chess by the fires in their great halls, and they feasted and drank and quarreled, while the ladies sat ladylike in their sun parlors.

The 16-year-old boy of patrician Rome got to like these Irish people well, in the six years of his slavery; which explains his return to them, later, as a missionary.

Even while escaping from them, he thought of them tenderly; so that the cry—"We pray thee, come and henceforth walk among us!" which Patrick heard in exalted moments, seemed always as proceeding from the woods near Killala Bay, where he is supposed to have lain hidden while waiting to embark on a Britain-bound vessel.

Patrick got home safely. The overjoyed Calpurnius and Concessa wished to keep him with them. The self-reliant, hard trained hero of 21 obeyed them; but taking risks had become natural to him in Ireland; and the breach in the wall of Severus was badly guarded. Twice again he was captured while fighting against Pict raids—or when he adventured into the Picts' country, which is more likely; and twice, again, he escaped.

It was all his mother could stand. She and Calpurnius had some influence at Rome. They had done service in the chilly north of England! So Patrick's mamma used political pull to get them shifted to fair France.

Did all three go to Tours? Or did Calpurnius die en route and Patrick, then remove his mother to the protection of her powerful Uncle Martin, for the preceding fifteen years Bishop of Tours? This, I understand, is a point that will be cleared up.

In any case, it is plain history that Patrick went to Tours, where he embraced the monastic life. And Martin, wealthy bishop of that brilliant center, obeyed and venerated like a king for all his simple life, was able to settle his widowed niece, a lady by birth and breeding, in cultured society that would cherish her after his own death—which was to take place soon enough, while on an episcopal voyage in Touraine.

It was not the first time that Concessa had seen her uncle Martin since he quit the palace of the military tribune on the Danube, when he was a youth of 15 and she a little girl. How they traveled in those days is shown by the fact that less than a year after leaving home on the Danube, Martin arrived with his legion at the gates of Amiens in north France. There, at the gate, occurred the incident so celebrated in Christian art and story. Noticing a poor man, insufficiently clothed in the snow, young Martin cut his own heavy blue military cloak in half and gave him one of the two pieces!

Between then and his twentieth year Martin was baptized, had sent in his resignation as army officer and had gone to study under St. Hilary, bishop of Poitiers. When Hilary was exiled to north Italy he prepared to start off with him; but the great man had said: "First pay a visit to your family. You have not seen them for a long time."

Thus Martin had seen, once again, the old home on the Danube, where his mother and grandmother still lived—because he then and there converted them. They were good people already under Christian influences. Had not Martin, fresh from home, cut his coat in half before he had asked for baptism? Doubtless, his niece, Concessa, joined up also at this time along with her grandmother, because at the next glimpse we have of her she is found married to that Christian man, Calpurnius—not only a military magistrate, but a deacon! Thus, Patrick, their son, was to be a Christian boy from birth.

Meanwhile Martin had joined Hilary in his north Italian exile, but himself a hermitage where he meditated ten years and finally returned to Poitiers with Hilary, who had been recalled. Outside the city

Sees Era of Peace

JAMES A. FLAHERTY.

BY JAMES A. FLAHERTY.
Supreme Knight, Knights of Columbus.

St. Patrick's Day this year augurs more happiness for Ireland than any St. Patrick's Day I have ever known. St. Patrick is honored today, not only because of his missionary work in Ireland but on account of his contribution to civilization throughout the world.

He was past 50 years of age when he returned to Ireland with the commission to preach the gospel. No other apostle met with the same success as St. Patrick did in Ireland. The entire nation embraced Christianity without the shedding of a drop of blood.

lieve that Patrick had a sister on the Isle of Lérins.

"I began my researches for St. Martin—not St. Patrick," continues my French learned man, "but it is the same family and a beautiful discovery naturally threw me back on Patrick. I think that I have recovered, positively, what I take to be the sepulchral portrait of his mother, Concessa, unearthed during the excavations made in 1860, which led to the rediscovery of St. Martin's tomb."

Like many other objects found on private ground in those extended diggings, this tombstone was concealed by a private collector who acquired it. It has never become known; and even now its present possessor fears that the French Beaux-Arts may get wind of it and claim it—"a fifth century piece, large and beautiful."

In France this sort of archeological treasure trove is pounced on by the state. Thus, the authentic gold head of this very St. Martin, owned for 1,000 years by the town of Soudeilles, but classed as "a national monument," was seized by the Beaux-Arts. Yet what the municipality really started to deliver to him was only one of two counterfeit which they had caused to be made for the purpose. They would never have given up their real St. Martin for money. Nevertheless, they lost him! "Is the tombstone portrait of St. Patrick's mother equally authentic?" I asked my French authority.

"Certainly," he answered. "It was found exactly where it ought to have been; and the letters 'Conc.' are visible on it, among others."

"Where?" I asked, studying the photograph.

"Ah, there is the danger, when private collectors take charge of important discoveries," he answered. "The lettering is on a broken piece, which the discoverer could not make fit, at the bottom. He hoped to find other pieces, but he never did so. The whole tombstone was found in a broken state, and he put it together himself. The head is joined at a bad angle. I shall explain all that in my book!"

Have we here an unmistakable effigy of St. Patrick's mother? As it makes her look comparatively young, she could not have lived long after Patrick went on his mission to Ireland. The palms in the right hand do not necessarily indicate martyrdom—there were no martyrs in Christian Tours in that century. Or is there, here some fascinating fact that we may never know?

In any case, the family history of these great ones comes out in fair pictures, beyond what one might expect from patient delving into the uncatalogued masses of the Vatican and the garrets of the Ecole des Chartes in France—where, among the baled spoil of abbey no unpack since the French revolution, anything may be found!

Clearly it shines out—St. Patrick was a gentleman and came of decent people!

MISS PENNINGTON RESIGNING OFFICE

Mrs. Harmon Westland Probable Successor for Ontario Guide Council Secretary.

GOOD MEETING ASSURED

Annual Report for Sturdy Contains Record of Great Expansion.

Resignation from the office of secretary of the Girl Guide Council of Ontario, which she has filled with marked acceptance, will be tendered by Miss Beth Pennington at the first annual meeting, to be held in Cronyn Hall at 2 o'clock on Saturday afternoon. This will be accepted, it is stated, owing to the fact that other duties will make it impossible for Miss Pennington to carry on. Great regret is expressed by members of the council in the city that such a step has become necessary to early in the history of the council.

Mrs. Harmon Westland has been asked to allow her name to stand as successor to Miss Pennington, and her consent to do so has occasioned much gratification.

Miss Pennington's report of the work of the council since inauguration last May will be a record of exceptional expansion and fine achievement. The establishment of a real, live official organ through the initiative of the secretary is a feather in the cap of the Ontario council, blazing the trail, as it has done, for Guide publications in the Dominion. Miss Pennington will continue as editor of the bulletin, in a most real sense her very own paper.

Twenty-five or thirty delegates from outside points are expected for the annual meeting, the majority arriving Saturday morning. Mrs. F. P. Betts, provincial commissioner, and Mrs. E. B. Smith, deputy commissioner, are arranging luncheons of fifteen or sixteen covers for the visitors in their own homes.

CLUB NEWS

What Women Are Accomplishing
In London.

ST. MARY'S UNIT MEETS.
The regular meeting of the St. Mary's Mothers' Unit was held on Wednesday evening in the school. Father Webber opened the meeting with prayer and an interesting address, speaking of the need of cooperation between home and school. He also spoke of the Boy Scouts, of which he is greatly in favor. Mrs. B. C. McCann addressed the meeting, telling of the great service that is being accomplished by the units.

PRESENTING PLAYS.
Two French plays will constitute the program of the next meeting of L'Alliance Francaise on the evening of Friday, March 31.

SEWING FOR HOSPITAL.
Wortley Road Mothers' Club, in addition to the generous relief work for the district, is undertaking to sew for the War Memorial Children's Hospital. The latter work will be started at the next weekly tea, to be held Wednesday evening, March 22, at the home of Mrs. R. Wray, 171 Briscoe street.

FORM NEW C. G. I. T. GROUP.
A new group of the C. G. I. T. was formed Thursday evening at the Colborne Street Methodist Church. Following a dainty supper, served by the girls, Miss Helen d'Avignon gave an address explaining the work.

STUDYING GALSWORTHY.
Papers on Galsworthy will be given by Mrs. Carr-Harris and Mrs. Higgins at the meeting Saturday evening of the University Women's Club.

BROUGHDALE M. C. ORGANIZES.
Several members of the executive of the London Union Mothers' Club were present at a largely attended and enthusiastic meeting in the Broughdale school on Wednesday evening, when the latest addition to the large circle of mothers' clubs in the city came into existence. Short addresses were given by Mrs. John Rose, Mrs. A. G. Calder, Mrs. W. A. Tanner and Mrs. Cole on the work of the mothers' clubs, after which partial organization was effected. Mrs. Owen Mooney was unanimously chosen as president of the Broughdale club, Miss Lyman as vice-president, and Mrs. W. R. Ulin to fill the office of secretary. Another meeting, to take place the last Wednesday of March, when a good speaker will be present, the remainder of the executive elected, and plans made for the future program and work.

WITH THE BRIDES

HUNTER-PARSONS.
Two of Dorchester's most popular young people were united in marriage at a quiet but very pretty wedding on Wednesday morning, March 15, at 10:30 a.m., at the Dorchester Methodist parsonage by Rev. S. J. Thompson. The bride was Della Mae Parsons, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Parsons of this village, and the groom, Roy Hunter, only son of Mrs. Lottie and the late Frank Hunter, of the same place.

The bride looked charming in a navy blue tricot suit, with which she wore a small sand colored hat with veil, and a fur neckpiece of brown wool.

After the ceremony the happy couple, who were unattended, left by motor for London, where they caught the 11:50 train for Detroit to spend their honeymoon with friends there. On their return they will reside on the groom's farm north of the village, where they will be at home to their many friends after April 20.

Mr. and Mrs. Hunter received many beautiful gifts, including a substantial check from the bride's parents.

Personals

Mrs. W. E. Robinson is spending several days in Detroit.

Miss Irene Brown is spending several days in St. Thomas.

A. S. Macgregor is seriously ill at his home in Burwell street.

Mr. S. F. Wood, Dufferin avenue, is a guest at the Selby, Toronto.

Miss Priscilla Ball will be the hostess of a bridge Saturday afternoon.

Monday evening Forest City Chapter, O. E. S., will pay a fraternal visit to Trinity Chapter, assisting with initiation ceremonies.

Mrs. Ronald Harris is entertaining at a small dinner party Friday evening in honor of her guest, Miss Louise James, of Toronto.

Mr. and Mrs. H. P. Rosser, 248 Oxford street, have left for a month's holidays in Charleston, South Carolina, and other southern points.

Miss Dorothy Hird entertained a number of her friends at her home, 17 Queen's Place, Wednesday evening, in the occasion of her birthday.

Mrs. McGillivray and Miss Lorna McGillivray are in Chatham attending the Major George Smith dance, the guests of Miss Helene London.

Rev. F. G. Newton of Sarnia spent several days in London this week with his daughter, Mrs. Ray Lawson. Mr. and Mrs. Lawson have recently returned from Europe.

In honor of Miss Wethered of London, England, who is a guest with Lieut.-Col. Eric Reid and Mrs. Reid, Mrs. Gordon Hunt entertained at a bridge on Tuesday evening.

While in town for the first annual meeting of the Girl Guide Council of Ontario, Mrs. Clarence Forman will be the guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. Harvey, Talbot street.

Mrs. C. E. Sumner, Belgrave Place, was the hostess on Wednesday evening of a jolly little dinner party arranged in honor of Miss Madeleine Jeffries, who is leaving shortly for the West.

A well-attended affair of Thursday evening was the fortnightly dance given by the employees of McCormick's in the dining-hall. Excellent dance music was provided by the Selby Young Orchestra.

What promises to be a delightful affair is the bridge and tea being given Friday afternoon, March 17, in the Armstrongs, under the auspices of the 7th Regiment Chapter, I. O. D. E., with Mrs. D. M. Morrison as general convener.

Dr. G. A. Routledge and Mrs. Routledge, of Lambeth, entertained at a dinner party Thursday evening in honor of Judge and Mrs. Duncan C. Ross and Miss Bougart of Strathroy, taking their guests on later to the Clara Butt concert.

Mrs. J. McLeod, 15 Edward street, has invited the Campbell Becher Chapter, I. O. D. E. to hold the April meeting at her home in South London, the first Thursday in April. Mrs. J. E. Richards and Mrs. Claude White will be the tea hostesses.

Over three hundred guests attended the dance given Wednesday evening in Hyman hall by the Ladies' Auxiliary of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Engineers. Excellent dance music was enjoyed, which was supplied by the Gayety Orchestra.

Mrs. George Copeland and Mrs. E. Spence are taking charge of the tea-room, a very special feature in connection with the St. Patrick's Day tea and sale of home cooking of the Ladies' Aid of Dundas Center Methodist Church on Friday afternoon from 3 to 6 o'clock.

Ruth Chapter, O. E. S., is arranging a euchre, to be held on Wednesday afternoon, March 22, under the joint convener of Mrs. Oliver Brady and Mrs. George Logan, in aid of the War Memorial Hospital. The chapter is also planning to hold an evening euchre later in the month in the chapter rooms.

Mrs. W. R. Lang of Toronto, commanding of the first provincial training camp for Girl Guide officers, held in Hamilton last summer, will be the first member of the Ontario Council to arrive in town for the annual meeting. She is expected on Friday night, and will be the guest during her stay in town of Mrs. Auden. Others who are definitely expected are Mrs. Rutledge, Hanover; Mrs. Howard Thompson, Rodney; Mrs. Clarence Forman, and Miss Bruce, Waterloo; Mrs. F. W. Marlow and Mrs. E. A. Hardy, Toronto. Hopes are still entertained that the Dominion commissioner, Mrs. H. D. Warren, will be able to come, though the commissioner has not yet received notice.

The Jewish Immigration Aid Society held a most enjoyable masquerade dance in Dayton-McCormick's Hall, Wednesday evening, when they celebrated the festival of Purim. The society colors, blue and white, and many flags, were used effectively to decorate the hall. Mr. John Pink, secretary of the society and chairman of the dance committee, assisted by the other officers, welcomed the guests. A dainty supper was served, which was arranged by the Hadassah Chapter, with Mrs. M. Matthews as convener. During the evening the Daughters of Zion sold daffodils to augment the proceeds, which are to go towards the general activities of the immigration society. These include local relief work.

Mrs. Harry Bell, who has been treasurer of the Campbell Becher Chapter, I. O. D. E., for the past three years, and is entering upon her fourth term, was surprised in a most happy manner by her fellow members on Wednesday evening, who Riverview Mothers' Club, tea, home Mrs. F. R. Hardie, 74 Stanley street.

In addition to affording a happy hour or so for the many who attended the musicale, under the auspices of the Wortley Road Mothers' Club, for which Mrs. J. G. Steele, 142 Duchess avenue, opened her home on Thursday evening, brought a generous shower of groceries for the relief of the needy in the school district. St. Patrick's decorations were effectively used throughout the attractive house, Mrs. W. Richmond, president of the club, receiving with the hostess.

The musical program included solos by Mrs. E. Jenkins and Miss G. Clement, a violin number by Miss E. James, accompanied by F. Linforth Willgoose, a duet by Mrs. W. Stevens and Mrs. F. Hopkins, and a piano duet by Miss M. James and Miss R. Phillips. Mrs. J. B. Hamilton and Mrs. R. Wray presided at the tea room, assisted by Mesdames F. W. Chambers, P. Quick, A. H. Jarvis, C. W. Vollick, W. Barnes and G. A. Coates.

A delightful social event of the week was the post-nuptial reception of Mrs. D. McCachern, who received for the first time since her marriage at her home in Regent street.

Mrs. McCachern looked charming in her wedding gown of white kitten's ear satin with overdress of Limerick lace and corsage of pink roses. She was assisted in receiving by her mother, Mrs. H. M. Douglass, who wore tulle gown and corsage of mauve sweet peas and violets, and by Mrs. M. B. McCachern, whose gown was navy blue satin, and who wore a corsage of violets.

The hostess greeted her guests in the living-room, which was made doubly attractive by a glowing fire in the wide open fireplace, and palms, ferns, pink and white tulips and pink sweet peas arranged with artistic effect.

Mrs. Arthur Greenslade, becomingly frocked in black tulle, with blue feathered hat, and Mrs. J. Pollock, in navy canton crepe with touches of grey, ushered the guests who came and went to the tea room during the afternoon.

Tea was served in the dining-room, where the pretty tea table was arranged with a central basket of yellow daffodils and tulips, surrounded by silver vases of violets and fluffy masses of tulips.

Madame Fox and Mrs. W. H. Ford poured tea, the former in black satin with sequin overdress and black and red hat, and the latter in navy blue canton crepe, with black lace hat. The needs of the many guests were well attended by the three charming tea room assistants, who were Mrs. J. Holland, Mrs. Albert Judd and Mrs. Dean Russell. Mrs. Holland's gown was of turquoise blue satin, with corsage of pink sweet peas and mauve crepe hat. Mrs. Judd was in jade green velvet with bodice of silver, while Mrs. Russell's gown was of rose satin with overdress of silver sequins and wore a blue feathered hat.

Little Miss Marion Douglass, wearing a dainty little French frock of pink mull with touches of blue and carrying a hand bouquet of violets, made a most winsome door attendant.

PRINCESS THANKS GUIDES FOR GIFT

Girl Guides of London and district, whose pennies helped to buy the wedding present sent by the guides of the Dominion to H. R. H. the Princess Mary, will be interested in the cable of thanks from her royal highness which has been received at Canadian Girl Guide headquarters, Toronto, this week. It reads as follows:

"Princess Mary sends sincere thanks to the Canadian Girl Guides for their gift. (Signed) 'JOAN MULHOLLAND. 'Lady-in-Waiting.'"

The gift was a beautiful jewelled crest, towards the cost of which each Girl Guide in the Dominion contributed one cent.

STUDENTS' DAY PROGRAM DISCOVERS MUCH TALENT

Budding Artists Appear in Vocal, Violin, Piano Numbers, De-lighting Audiences.

Students' Day program at the fortnightly recital of the Woman's Music Club in the Normal School auditorium Thursday afternoon discovered a wealth of talent in process of being developed. While the occasion was a very real ordeal and the numbers presented most ambitious, the young musicians acquitted themselves in all cases in a manner that brought much credit to themselves and teachers, and afforded real pleasure to the gratifyingly large audience.

Two singers made their bow, Margaret Laing, who has a soprano voice of much purity and sweetness, and Grace Crouse, gifted with a melodious and appealing contralto voice, wonderfully well controlled. The former was heard in a pleasing rendition of "Tell Me, O Fair One" (Mozart), and the latter managed very successfully the difficulties presented to so young a singer by "O Thou That Tearest" (Handel).

Miss Lillian Sparling was the violinist of the occasion, playing with good technical mastery and artistic appreciation the Andante and Allegro movements from Concerto No. 23, G Major (Vivotti).

Six pianists gave a varied and interesting program. Fred Underhill opening the recital with "A Storiette" (Lemont) and "Elfin Dance" (Jensen), played with crispness and assurance. Elsie Currie's playing of "Valse Gracieuse" (Gallup) was marked by fluency and grace. Harold Gray essayed Debussy's "The Little Shepherd" and "Le Cuckoo" (Darguin), showing fine mental grasp of the content of the numbers. The gift of the genuinely musical touch is Ray Eden's, whose offering was "La Truite" (Heller). Miriam Oxley of Glenora played Schumann's "Arabesque, Op. 18," with excellent style. Possessed of a technique equal to the demands of the number, Miss Dorothy Collier gave a discriminating and finished interpretation of the Chopin Ballade in G minor.

Mrs. Hubert Eckert was program convener, sharing with the pupil recitalists the thanks and congratulations of the club members and visitors.

Features Softness

BY MARIAN HALE.

LONDON, March 16.—Soft materials, soft drapings and soft lines are very much the thing in summer frocks.

Pussy Willow Canton crepe is the fabric background for the rather elaborate bead design of this gown. The beading gives weight enough to both bodice and skirt to keep the lines beautifully straight and slim. Sleeves are no part of the design at all. A very large proportion of the frocks shown for summer afternoon wear are quite sleeveless, which naturally means a substantial increase in glove bills. Indeed, long gloves have become a necessary accessory. The uneven hem line continues to hold interest. Designers are giving much attention to drapings which give an effect of length. On the other hand, the very simple scalloped skirt is good.

Cynthia Grey's Mail-Box

WANTS A CORRESPONDENT.
Dear Miss Grey and Mail-Box,—I am also a reader of your wonderful Mail-Box club, and certainly enjoy reading the many interesting letters. I wrote once before and was very glad to see it in print.

(1) Now for a little help. Will you please tell me which is proper, to go and meet a boy friend or wait until he comes to the door. (2) When going into an entertainment or social, which is to take the lead? Would any men or women please write to me? I am twenty-eight years old and live at home with my parents, and like writing and receiving letters very much.

PATIENCE.
(1) I would wait till he came to the door. (2) When going into an entertainment, unless there are ushers, the gentleman should pre-sente the lady, but when going into a social gathering, the lady should go first.

HARBINGERS OF SPRING.
Dear Miss Grey,—Isn't this lovely spring weather we are having? The birds will soon be back from their winter home. How many of the boxites have seen any robins or other birds yet? I have seen a kilder, but that is all so far. I am glad to see spring coming back again, although we have had a nice winter.

I am 12 years old, have blue eyes and light hair, with a dark complexion. I passed my entrance last summer, and have been going on in the Fifth Class. I have four brothers and three sisters. Well, if I write much more my letter will, no doubt, go into the W. P. B. Please criti-

Winter Comes

©1921 A.S.M. HUTCHINSON

It much affected his relations with those nearest to him—with Mabel, with Mr. Fortune, and with Twynning. In those months, and in the months following, the year changing and advancing in equal excitement and strong opinions through winter into spring, he found himself increasingly out of favor at The Precincts and increasingly estranged in his home. And it was his own fault. Detached and reflective in the fond detachment of the daily bicycle ride, awake at night mentally pacing about the assembled parts of his puzzles, he told himself with complete impartiality that the cause of these effects was entirely of his own making. "I can't stick shouting and smashing"—"I can't help seeing the bits of right in the other point of view"; those were the causes. He was so difficult to get on with; that was the effect of the complaint.

"Really, Sabre, I find it most difficult to get on with you nowadays," Mr. Fortune used to say. "We seem never to agree. We are perpetually at loggerheads. Loggerheads. I do most strongly resent being perpetually bumped and bruised by unwilling participation in a grinding congestion of loggerheads."

And Twynning, "Well, I simply can't hit it off with you. That's all there is to it. I try to be friendly; but if you can't hear Lloyd George's name without taking up that kind of attitude, well, all I can say is you're trying to put up social barriers in a place where there's no room for social barriers, and that's in business."

And Mabel: "Well, if you want to know what I think, I think you're getting simply impossible to get on with. You simply never think the same as other people think. I should have thought it was only common decency at a time like this to stand up for your own class, but, no. It's always your own class that's in the wrong and the common people who are in the right."

"Always." He began to hate the word "always." But it was true. In those exciting and intensely opinionated days it seemed there was never a subject that came up, whether at The Precincts or at home, but he found himself on the other side of the argument and giving intense displeasure because he was on the other side. In Mabel's case—he did not particularly trouble himself about what Twynning and Fortune thought—but in Mabel's case, much set on his duty to give her happiness, he came to prepare with care for the dangerous places of their intercourse. But never with success. Places whose aggravations drove her to her angriest protestations of how utterly impossible he was to get on with never looked dangerous as they were approached; he would ride into them with her amicably or with a slack rein—and suddenly, mysteriously, unexpectedly, he would be floundering, the relations between them yet a little more deeply founded.

Such utterly harmless-looking places:

"And those are the people, mind you," said Mabel—not for the first time—"those are the people that we have to look stamps for Lloyd George for!"

This was because High Jinks had been seen going out for her afternoon with what Mabel described to Sabre as a tramp, gee-gaw paragon.

The expression amused him. "Well, why in heaven's name shouldn't High Jinks buy a tramp, gee-gaw paragon?"

"I do wish you wouldn't call her High Jinks. Because she can't afford a tramp, gee-gaw paragon."

He spoke bemusedly. No need for caution that he could see. "Well, I don't know—I rather like to see them going out in a bit of finery."

Mabel sniffed. "Well, your taste! Servants look really nice in their caps and aprons and their black, if they only knew it. In their bit of finery, as you call it, they look too awful for words."

Signs of flying up. He roused himself to avert it. "Oh, rather. I agree. What I meant was I think it's rather nice to see them decking themselves out when they get away from their work. Rather pathetic."

"Pathetic!"

She had flown up!

He said quickly, "No, but look here, Mabel, wait a bit. I ought to have explained. What I mean is they have a pretty rotten time, all that class. When High Jinks puts up a tramp, gee-gaw paragon, she's human. That's pathetic, only being human once a week and alternate Sundays. And when you get a life that finds pleasure in a tramp, gee-gaw paragon, well that's more pathetic

Eric Von Stroheim Plans Another Picture

BY JAMES W. DEAN.

NEW YORK, March 16.—Eric Von Stroheim soon will start work on another picture. It will not cost a million dollars and it will not be his own story. Therefore it promises to be a remarkably fine photoplay.

From a technical standpoint no photoplay better than "Foolish Wives" ever has been projected on the screen. Its chief fault was the nature of Stroheim's story. Given a million dollars to spend on its making, a little boy who is allowed to knock his own apples from the tree. Stroheim's new photoplay will be based on a Viennese stage play. An Austrian with high artistic sense, Stroheim will probably create an opus of rare merit. That is, if someone sits on the safety valve and holds the purse strings, to mix the metaphors.

A German-made film, "The Mistress of the World," is now having its premiere.

It is presented in installment form. When Stroheim filmed "Foolish Wives" it was his intention to present it in a similar manner.

After working on it a year with that idea in mind it was presented in twelve reels.

I recently saw it for the second time. It had been cut to a two-hour run. It had been improved by the elimination of several silly sequences.

However, Stroheim's film was far worthier of installment presentation than its German contemporary—and it would have had the honor of being first in the industry with the idea.

John Drew's reminiscences of his half-century career on the stage will be published soon by E. P. Dutton & Co. They should prove a valuable contribution to the history of the theater.

"Oh, well," said Sabre. Deeper founded!

II.

And precisely the same word—pathetic—came up between them in the matter of Miss Bypass. Miss Bypass was companion to Mrs. Boom Bagshaw, the mother of Mr. Boom Bagshaw. Mabel hated Miss Bypass because Miss Bypass was, she said, the rudest creature she ever met.

And "of course" Sabre took the opposite view—the ridiculous and mad-denying view—that her abominably rude manner was not rude but pathetic.

The occasion was an afternoon call paid at the vicarage. Of all houses in the Garden Home Sabre most dreaded and feared the vicarage. He paid his call, with shuddering, in pursuance of his endeavor to do with

POLLY AND PAUL AND PARIS

CHAPTER XLVIII.—THE SEARCH.

By Zoe Beckley

WHEN the studio-party had broken up and Polly, with a little engineering from Norma Bradley, had started ahead with Barry, Violet watched them with narrowed eyes. There was neither moon nor glamor in the night for her. It was a novel experience for her to be usurped in any man's attentions. Yet Polly Dawson, the insignificant bride of a man too good for her, a man who was devoted only because it was the Canadian fashion for a husband to adore his wife—Polly Dawson had twice succeeded in attracting George Barry away from her.

Exasperating little Puritan with her gentle manners and ingenuitous eyes! So sure of her man, too, that she scorned anger at Violet's obvious interest in Paul. Well—she'd see about it this time! Paul should know that his Precious Puritan was quite capable of having a good time in his absence. Queen of the Carnival, forsooth, to Barry's King!

The more Violet meditated on it all, the more bitter it grew.

As the merry company fared forth from the Cassards' Violet declined the escorts that offered in plenty, joining first one group, then another, restless, brooding. Finally shaking off Norma's detaining hand, she broke away on the pretext that Barry had her purse. Only a sharp effort of pride kept her from revealing her humiliation—and its cause.

She walked to a nearby boulevard and waited until a night-prowling taxicab came along.

"To Narvaux's," she commanded. And when they reached there she paid the extortionate fare absently.

While the driver smiled. She hurried into the gold-and-crimson reception hall and asked the caretaker, "Has Monsieur Barry been here?"

"Non, Madame, pas ce soir," he bowed obsequiously, recognizing her as a frequent visitor. "Will madame wait?"

Violet glimpsed several familiar faces among the dancers in the other room.

"No," she replied sharply and hastened out, choosing one of the many cabs that waited along the curb.

She mentioned a street and number at random, and when she later ordered the driver to go instead through the Bois, he shrugged ironically. Being an old, old Paris cabman, he was incapable of surprise.

Feverishly her thoughts tumbled on. Her head ached, her brain seemed hot and heavy. By a street lamp she looked at her watch. Half past four—and the first faint gray of dawn was breaking; the dawn that Polly and Barry were greeting so merrily at the door of the Little Cafe.

At the corner of the Avenue de l'Opera and the Rue d'Antin Violet finally dismissed the taxi and walked about until the hour was late enough for her decency to ring up the concierge of Polly's house. Six-thirty at last! And Mme. Dubois opened the big doors of No. 19 and came out with pall and broom.

No—Mme. Dawson was not in. Had not, in fact, returned.

"Ah?" Violet's smile was deadly sweet. "I wonder."

KIP GETS GOLOSHES

[By Olive Roberts Barton.]

It took a dozen to each shoe.

KIP, the Brownie, soon returned from the Sorcerer's Cave to the place where the Twins and Mr. Pim Pim were waiting for him in Brownie land, down under the earth.

"Here are the goloshes!" he announced proudly. "We found 'em." With a wave of his hand he indicated a crowd of Brownies dragging the shoes behind them; for they were so small, the Brownies were, that it took a dozen to each shoe.

"Oh, thank you ever so much," declared Nancy, and Nick, too, said he was much obliged. You may be sure they lost no time in putting the goloshes on over their Green Shoes.

"Now, then," said Mr. Pim Pim, rubbing his hands together, "I shall take you to a secret door which opens out into daylight, right at the foot of the Electric Mountain. You can go over it with safety now, as the electricity cannot shock you through the rubber soles of your overshoes. But remember, you must not touch anything you see—no matter how much you want it!"

Pim Pim took them each by the hand and led them to a three-cornered room with a trap door in the ceiling. Nancy and Nick scrambled up a ladder that stood there and a little door without a mite of trouble, "Good-bye," they called down through the hole. "We're ever so much obliged for helping us."

"You're quite welcome, my dears," answered Pim Pim. "Here's wishing you a safe journey and a happy return. If I can help you again, let me know."

The suddenly he was gone, gone was the little trap door and every sign of Brownie land. It all seemed like a dream.

But there were the goloshes! Behind them in the dim distance was the Glass Mountain! There was the prism glistening and blazing in the sun!

Right ahead was another mountain! Was the Electric Mountain Pim Pim had told them about.

a remedy without an equal, for soothing the lungs, loosening the phlegm, strengthening the breathing organs and fortifying them against serious pulmonary disease.

Mrs. John McKernan, Lower Montague, P. E. I., writes: "About three years ago I caught a very bad cold accompanied with a sore throat and hoarseness, and was so hoarse you could hardly hear me speak. I could get no rest at night with the terrible annoying, hacking cough. I tried several remedies, but they did me no good. Finally I saw Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup advertised; got a bottle, and at once it gave me relief, and after using four my cough had all gone. Now I always keep 'Dr. Wood's' in the house, and shall recommend your wonderful remedy to others."

Declares Meighen Is "Blinded by His Bitterness at Quebec."

LAUDS FIELDING TARIFF

Asserts Liberal Party Has Now But One Chief—Premier King.

OTTAWA, March 15.—(By Canadian Press).—It was an eagerly expected and again a crowded house which heard Sir Lomer Gouin, minister of justice, today.

"The Liberal party," Sir Lomer said, "has one chief and one chief only. That chief is the prime minister of Canada."

Debate on the address had been following a torpid course. But immediately Sir Lomer arose galleries and house filled rapidly.

Meighen Will Learn. Mr. Meighen, Sir Lomer observed, "has allowed himself to be blinded by his bitterness against the city of Montreal and against the province of Quebec."

On the tariff Sir Lomer declared that now, for the last 15 years, he favored the Laurier-Fielding policy. In the general election he told his electors that if returned to power Liberals would remain true to that policy.

Ex-Mayor Church of Toronto, in continuing the debate on the address at the opening, could not see what necessity there was for a Canadian high commissioner in London.

When the House opened this afternoon T. L. Church of Toronto North, continuing his speech on the address from the throne, said Canada was very much behind the times in the matter of good roads.

Church Attacks U. F. O. Mr. Church said the U. F. O. had become unpopular in Ontario because it had not carried out its promises.

He hoped that before long Hon. W. C. Kennedy, minister of railways, would indicate what he was going to do about it. Co-ordination indicated in the speech from the throne should not take long.

portation and of good roads. This could not be supplied, in Mr. Church's opinion by the motor truck. Radial railways had done much to meet it in the United States, and the farmers of Ontario wanted them because it was believed that they would also solve the problem in Ontario.

Mr. Church declared himself in favor of protection and of Senate reform. He would like to see radical changes in the method of appointing the Senate.

There was an agitation in this country, to loosen the ties between Canada and the Motherland. It was impossible to agree with those who would abolish appeal to the imperial privy council.

Hon P. C. Larkin, Canadian high commissioner at London, now that he had received his appointment, should, like the speaker, forget his party politics.

Gouin Takes Floor. Sir Lomer Gouin, minister of justice, said he would not have spoken in this debate if the leader of the opposition had not referred to his attitude in the last election campaign.

While listening to Mr. Meighen he could not help but think that the opposition leader should be grateful to him for being elected to the house.

Sir Lomer did not propose to detain the house in answering all the criticisms levelled against him. He had sat for many years in another parliament, and had never attempted to impose his personal views on any subject.

Mr. Meighen had referred to the paragraph in the speech from the throne which said: "Our Dominion has not escaped the world-wide economic disturbance and industrial depression, but has suffered less from it than other countries."

Wants More Credit. During the election the country was at a serious crisis, and the picture I drew of economic conditions was no darker than the picture drawn by Mr. Meighen, Sir Lomer said.

Mr. Meighen should have given Sir Lomer more credit than to attribute to him the statement that Canada's population was decreasing. "I never made such a declaration," Sir Lomer asserted. I did say, however, that the customs revenue was decreasing, and this was borne out by treasury returns.

No one could say that he was misleading the public when he had stated that the national debt had increased to an alarming extent. His election material had not exaggerated, but was an accurate description of the economic conditions and state of mind of the people at that time.

Circumstances had changed since the dissolution of the last parliament, and the feeling of security which was already noticeable and the general revival of business were due to the confidence the people of Canada placed in the new government.

Mr. Meighen had referred to Sir Lomer's statement on the tariff question, and had insinuated that this stand was inspired by certain interests, to which Mr. Meighen attributed the defeat of his party and the triumph of the Liberals.

Views Are Unchanged. "My views on the tariff have never changed for the past twenty-five years," said Sir Lomer. "For fifteen years I have followed, approved, endorsed the Laurier-Fielding policy. During the last election I advocated the same policy. I told the electors of Laurier-O'Uremont and the Province of Quebec that if the Liberal party secured their confidence the Liberal party would remain true to the Laurier-Fielding policy, and would carry it into effect."

"That policy I would carry into effect in revising the tariff to meet the necessities which have arisen since the last revision, taking into account the necessities of the consumer, of the farmer—for agriculture is a basic industry in this country—and the necessities of manufacturers in general. That policy I advocated before the general election. That policy I advocated in the city of Quebec some years before the general election at a dinner at which Mr. Meighen then applauded my declaration and made no insinuations such as those he made the other day."

Sir Lomer said that Mr. Crerar had quoted from one of his speeches before the Shoe Manufacturers' Association, and seemed to have found therein a declaration indicating an intention to raise the tariff on shoes. It was surprising that Mr. Crerar had made such a discovery. Sir Lomer added that he had only reminded the shoe manufacturers that their era of prosperity had followed the tariff revision in 1907.

Lauds Tariff Policy. He had reminded them and their 70,000 employees, that all their prosperity they owed to the Laurier-Fielding tariff policy.

Mr. Meighen, in speaking on the railways, had endeavored to make it appear that some mysterious power inspired those people to express the opinion that they did not believe in state ownership and operation of railways. Mr. Meighen had come out categorically in favor of nationalization.

"He is sincere, I know," said Sir Lomer, "but why should he cast suspicion on those who do not share his views?"

"It is not a question which concerns Montreal, Toronto, Winnipeg, Vancouver, or any other city in particular. It is a question which concerns Canada as a whole; and the solution we seek is the solution which should be satisfactory to the interests of our country generally."

Mr. Meighen has stated that every one of the orders-in-council passed by his government was necessary for the good administration of the country, and he has stated that this government passed an order-in-council which deprived Canada of many of its rights. I can tell him that in every case where an order-in-council passed by his government was submitted to the courts, it was declared illegal and ultra vires. It is not orders-in-council that hinder that this government has passed in regard to the fisheries in the province of Quebec. We have passed an order-in-council only to conform to a judgment of the privy council, and I wish to state that in passing such an order-in-council the federal government abandoned not an inch of territory nor renounced a shadow of right in favor of the province of Quebec.

Blinded by Bitterness. "Mr. Meighen allows himself to be blinded by his bitterness against Montreal and against the province of Quebec, and he is leading other provinces to believe that by order-in-council the government has favored the province of Quebec, which never asked for a favor and never received any."

"I admire Mr. Meighen's high attainments and a good fighter, but I regret to say that he is not a good loser. He will have an opportunity to learn and I hope that some day I will be able to say that he is as good a loser as he is a fighter."

"Mr. Meighen has taken pleasure, particular pleasure, in designating me as the master of the administration."

This is an old game which has been played before in this house by some of Mr. Meighen's predecessors and there is one thing I regret; it is that it is resorted to today not so much to annoy me as to accentuate the unfortunate differences which have existed for too long between certain provinces of the Confederation and the province of Quebec.

Have But One Chief. The Liberal party has one chief, and one chief only. That chief is the prime minister of Canada, the present leader of this house. He has and he can depend on the loyal support of all his colleagues, of every one of the Liberal members of this house and of every Liberal in Canada.

As for myself, I am nothing but a man of good will. I hope I will be long enough in this house to convince all my fellow-members, Conservatives and Progressives as well as Liberals, that I have only one ambition in coming here—it is simply to be permitted to serve my country in my own modest way, and in the West. He felt that the gov-ment should make a strong stand in regard to reducing freight rates. In regard to the return of natural resources, Mr. Kennedy held that the Prairie provinces should not be asked to play the "part of colonies" to the older provinces. The resources should simply be handed back to them.

There were prolonged Liberal cheers as Sir Lomer resumed his seat. D. M. Kennedy, Progressive, of Edmonton West, observed that Sir Lomer Gouin had told the house that the government was going to give the country the Laurier tariff. Mr. Kennedy would be quite satisfied if that tariff were framed in the temper shown in Sir Wilfrid Laurier's utterances when he described protection as "robbery and bondage."

There has been substantial reduction in the tariff since 1896, and after 40 years of tariff policy there was now more unemployment and hardship in Canada than at any time. He deplored "lack of definiteness" in the Government's references to tariff reduction and immigration.

FARMER'S WIFE REGAINS HEALTH

Gives Credit to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Fork River, Manitoba.—"I saw in the newspapers where Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound was doing so much good to women, and as I needed something I began to take it. I used to be very sick but I am not now. I live on a farm in the homestead district and we have to do all our own work. I tell all the women I see what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound does for me. I think it saves me from going to a doctor and is the best medicine women can take."

Mrs. Wm. Coculas, Fork River, Manitoba.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is a medicine for the ailments peculiar to women. It is prepared from medicinal plants, with care and accuracy. It can be taken by women of any age.

Women make a serious mistake in allowing themselves to become so weak and nervous that it is well-nigh impossible for them to attend to their necessary household duties. Such symptoms as pains and irregularities, all gone feelings, backache, headache, hot flashes, nervousness, with a general run-down condition, indicate some form of female trouble.

The Vegetable Compound has brought relief to thousands of women suffering from such ailments. Let it help you.

SMITH DEFENDS HIGHER OUTLAY OF GOVERNMENT

Ontario Treasurer Announces Province Has Surplus of $681,789.41.

MAY LEVY BETTING TAX Debate on Budget Will Begin in Legislature Tuesday Next.

TORONTO, March 16.—Hon. Peter Smith, provincial treasurer, made his budget speech in the Provincial Legislature this afternoon and, surrounded by crowded galleries, announced a surplus of the year's operations of $681,789.41; defended the increased expenditures of the government during the last year and challenged the financial critics in the opposition to show in what particular the annual cost of governing the province could be reduced without the interests of the public suffering.

He maintained that the taxes of the province were paid by those best able to pay, revenue being derived mainly from amusements, luxuries, corporation taxes, succession duties and subsidy from the Dominion government. Corporation taxes include the taxes on race meets.

The provincial treasurer made no announcement of any tax changes in his speech, although it was afterwards stated that a bill would be introduced to levy a tax on betting on horse races. It was stated that it will tax the receipts of pari-mutuels at perhaps 10 per cent after the jockey clubs' percentage has been taken out. In this way all the tax would be paid by the holders of winning tickets. There has also been a rumor that there would be an additional amusement tax, but it is now said to be practically certain that this is not intended.

The provincial treasurer explained that while the ordinary expenditure for the year was $28,579,687, nearly $7,000,000 of this was interest on the public debt. He stated that the surplus was a genuine one, and if the system of accounting had been the same as that of the former administration, surplus of $1,462,466 could readily have been shown by treating all crown land receipts as ordinary revenue instead of placing a portion under capital.

Deferred Increased Expenditures.
The treasurer proceeded to defend increased expenditures in the various departments. The increase of over $1,000,000 in education in the last year, as compared to the year before was principally due to increased appropriations for elementary schools, spring and summer schools and providing special professional courses for teachers. The higher expenditures for the administration of justice was largely due to accounts remaining unpaid from the year before, because election accounts had taken precedence.

During the last year the increase in the number of automobiles and the higher cost of licenses had made the receipts from this source almost $1,000,000 more than the year before. The succession duties total was also greatly in excess of the year before, owing to the great number of estates coming in.

The land transfer tax, a form of revenue originated by this government, produced in the five months it had been in operation $182,506. Of the total amount paid out by the province, the aggregate amount of nearly $12,000,000 went almost directly back to relieve the rate-payers by grants to counties and townships for roads, mothers' allowances, hospital grants, etc.

During the budget debate last year, the treasurer continued, he had asked members of the house, in view of the exceedingly heavy borrowings which he knew would be necessary in the ensuing year, and on account of the precarious state of the money markets, to refrain from making statements which would result on the province in the flotation of its loans, but on every occasion, he believed, without any exception, certain members of the opposition had accused the government of inefficiency, reckless expenditure and extravagance. Notwithstanding all the unfair accusations made against the government, the loans made by the province were a decided success. The treasurer believed this proved the people did not heed the words of leaders of the late government.

Debate Begins Tuesday.
Mr. Smith claimed that members of the former administration were arguing that this government was extravagant because the total expenditures had increased, but he pointed out that the former government had increased the expenditures of the province 43 per cent the first two years it was in office, and 27 per cent the last two years.

At the conclusion of Mr. Smith's speech W. E. N. Sinclair (Liberal, Ontario South) moved an adjournment of the debate on the budget until Tuesday next, when he will be the speaker.

The total estimated receipts for the fiscal year ending October 31 next, are placed at $32,971,378. The receipts from the lands and forests department are placed at $3,000,000, while those from the mines are estimated at $500,000.

Other large items in the receipts are $1,200,000 revenue from public institutions; motor vehicles licenses $3,500,000; casual revenue $700,000; amusement tax act $1,600,000; succession duties $500,000; corporation tax act $1,050,000; game and fisheries, act $1,000,000; game and fisheries $650,000; the hydro electric power commission, interest, etc., $6,220,000; Dominion government subsidy $2,686,378.88.

The government is therefore planning on a slight increase from forests and mines, about half a million more from the motor vehicles branch, a slight increase in amusement tax returns and some $300,000 more from the corporation taxes which include race meets.

The estimated expenditures, ordinary and extraordinary, are placed at $24,805,181, which leaves a prospective surplus of about $8,000,000. Some of this may be taken up subsequently in later supplementary estimates. In addition there are considerable expenditures planned under capital account which will bring the total for ordinary and capital expenditures up to $41,558,895.

The government anticipates a slight increase in the cost of civil government, fixing the cost at over $2,000,000, but the big item in the expense account is for education which is placed at a total of $8,656,773 or over a million dollars more than last year. It will spend nearly four millions on public institutions, $1,581,702 on agriculture, $1,390,000 on the labor department and $1,205,050 on lands and forests.

LEAVES FOR OTTAWA.

CRANBROOK, B. C., March 16.—Hon. Dr. J. H. King, minister of public works, left here last night for Ottawa to assume control of his department, and to take his seat in the House of Commons, to which he was elected in Tuesday's by-election. He was accompanied by Mrs. King.

WEDDED 13 TIMES HE WARNS OTHERS

INDIANAPOLIS, March 16.—Isaiah Moore, 32, in jail for having thirteen wives, declared last night that he contemplated being an evangelist, so he might warn others of "the dangers of matrimony" as soon as he gets out of his troubles, which were increased today by the return of grand jury indictments, charging him with bigamy, embezzlement and grand larceny.

"My only desire is to lead a Christian life," Moore said, who became acquainted with most of his wives when attending church. "I always wanted to enter the ministry, and so I will become an evangelist when I get out. I am going to warn other boys."

The bigamy charge, returned by the grand jury, centers around Moore's marriage recently to Miss Harriet Evans of Mexico, Ind., at which time, the indictment charges, he had a short time before married and deserted Laura Herzberg of Peoria, Ills. The embezzlement and grand larceny charge allege that he took a check for $512 from Miss Evans and then deserted her.

A Better Way Than Diets and Exercise For Reducing

Diets and exercise are sometimes helpful for reducing. But they are inconvenient and unpleasant, and usually produce only temporary results. Then, too, they are merely corrective measures. A better way is to aid the digestive organs to turn food into muscle, bone, and sinew, and not into corpulent tissue. This method allows you to eat many kinds of food which others eat and does not require strenuous exercise.

Thousands have found that Marmola Tablets give relief from obesity in just this way. Marmola Tablets are made from the same formula as the famous Marmola Prescription. If taken after meals and at bedtime, they retard the development of fat by helping the digestive system to obtain full nutriment from food. When the accumulation of fat is checked, reduction to normal, healthy weight soon follows.

All good drug stores the world over sell Marmola Tablets at one dollar per box. Ask your druggist for them, or order them direct and they will be sent in plain wrapper, postpaid.

GIVES $200,000 TO UNIVERSITY

Provincial Budget Provides for Special Grant to Western Buildings.

INSURES EARLY START

Equal Amount Towards Annual Maintenance Fund Also in Estimates.

Special to London Advertiser. TORONTO, March 16.—In the budget tabled in the Ontario Legislature today, a special grant of $200,000 towards the building fund of the Western University of London, is provided for.

This is a separate grant in addition to $200,000 towards the maintenance fund of the Western University, also included in this year's estimates, being the same amount as was given last year to the London Institution.

In the city of London bill before the house at this session a municipal grant of $250,000 is provided for, the provincial and city grants together making $450,000 for building purposes.

The inclusion of the special $200,000 grant in the provincial budget, Dr. H. A. Stevenson, M.L.A. for London, stated he is delighted to insure an early commencement of work on the new university buildings at London.

The educational commission recommended a total of $800,000 as the provincial contribution towards the new Western University Buildings, and the London member believes that this full amount will eventually be granted, probably by continuing the special $200,000 grant for three years more.

WARRANTS ISSUED.

ST. THOMAS, March 16.—Warrants for the arrest of two local men, charged with stealing several cases of whiskey from a freight car on a C. P. R. siding near the city a few nights ago, have been issued by the county police.

The men, it is alleged, were on the top of the car with a crow bar and then threw out the cases. They escaped with a part of their booty, but other cases, containing many broken bottles, were left on the ground. The suspects were traced by railroad detectives.

SEES DANGER FROM AIR RAIDS

Austen Chamberlain Points Out Necessity of Limiting Aircraft.

WARNS PARLIAMENT

Believes Aeronautics Have Great Potentialities Apart From Warfare.

LONDON, England, March 16.—A question much discussed lately—to what extent developments in aviation may render naval warfare more obsolete—was raised in the House of Commons tonight in the course of a debate on the naval estimates, which were introduced today. Austen Chamberlain, lord of the privy seal, outlined the present policy of the government on the question. Mr. Chamberlain said he could imagine circumstances which might soon lead the world to believe that limitation of battleships or armament would be of little use unless similar limitation was placed on aircraft. Therefore, he could only declare the government's policy as things stood at present.

Believing, as the government did, that the air force had immense potentialities quite distinct from its duties as an adjunct to the naval and military services, and convinced that in the future the greatest danger to Great Britain might well be from an action by air forces, the government considered it would be a retrograde step to abolish the air ministry and re-absorb the air force into the admiralty and the war office.

Mr. Chamberlain announced that the standing committee of the committee on imperial defence, after long and careful inquiry, had arrived at the following conclusions: First, that the air service shall be autonomous in matters of administration and education; Second, in case of defense against air raids, the army and navy must play a secondary role; Third, in case of military or naval operations the air force must be in strict subordination to the general or admiral in supreme command; Fourth, in other cases, such as the protection of commerce and an attack on enemy harbors and inland towns, the relations between the air forces and the other services shall be regarded as a matter of co-operation.

Mr. Chamberlain added that the government had decided to appoint a committee to advise further how to secure the utmost efficiency in the air service.

CARSON MAKES BITTER ATTACK

Scores Coalition Government for Part in Irish Free State Bill.

SECOND READING PASSED

Lord Birkenhead Points to South Africa Suppressing Rand Revolution.

LONDON, England, March 16.—During today's debate on the Irish Free State bill in the House of Lords Lord Carson bitterly attacked the coalition government, declaring it had abolished constitutional government, and had laid down the principle that by executive action could be brought about not merely constitutional but revolution.

Lord Carson declared that in effect the government had told South and West Ireland, "You have known how to bring the British government to its knees; surely you can do the same with Ulster."

Lord Carson denounced the policy of the government and the Free State bill in most uncompromising terms, but admitted that the mischief had been done, and said he was not going to argue that the Lords ought to reject the bill; but he hoped they would not be so powerless and feeble and lacking in courage as not to insist that they should never allow, without consent, on acre of land to be taken from Ulster.

Wants Loyalty To King. He concluded his address by declaring that if South and West Ireland were willing to acknowledge themselves loyal subjects of the king and yield to Ulster the same rights and privileges as they demanded for themselves, and abandoned their present campaign of outrage, showing that they really meant to take their places within the dominions of the crown as loyal and faithful servants, he would promise that they should be welcome in every corner of Ulster.

After Lord Carson's speech the house passed the second reading of the bill without division.

The debate followed the familiar lines. Lord Birkenhead defended the bill in behalf of the government, and replying to Lord Carson's denunciations of the present outrages in Ireland, said he was convinced that Michael Collins and Arthur Griffith would neglect nothing to bring the criminals to justice.

Cites South African Case. It was preferable that the maintenance of order would be in the hands of Irishmen themselves, said

James Gordon Fries Speaking Indian To Girl and Lands in St. Thomas Court

Special To London Advertiser.

ST. THOMAS, March 16.—Because all Indians looked alike to James Gordon of this city, he will be forced to appear in police court Friday morning.

Gordon knows how to "parley voux" a little in the red man's tongue, just enough to say "Good morning" and "Good night," and his little bit of knowledge is alleged to have led him into trouble.

According to a story told to the chief of police by an Indian girl, Thursday, Gordon met two fair, dusky maidens in a store on Talbot street Wednesday night. "The young man, being in a friendly mood, is alleged to have addressed one of them in a strange tongue, saying, as he afterwards explained, a harmless "Good evening."

It happened that the girl was not that kind of an Indian, and she didn't understand. For all she knew, he might have been swearing at her, and so she grew highly indignant. The young man apologized when he saw that she was offended, but while the girl's companion, a married woman, accepted it, she herself was unappeased. Thursday she informed the police that Gordon had used abusive language and had threatened her. A summons was issued.

the lord high chancellor, and he instanced the existing parallel in the Rand, pointing out that if South Africa had not been under self-government the colonial office and Downing street would have been in an uproar, and the imperial government would have been compelled to hurry troops to the scene, instead of the South African authorities themselves suppressing the revolt, without any anxiety on the part of the British or the need to expend blood or treasure.

DRAPERIES.

Crosswise draperies have taken a definite hold on the spring mode. Many of the loveliest of new frocks are wearing their draperies at an angle.

Brantford Family Has Visits from "Ghost."

BRANTFORD, March 16.—Brantford has a "ghost" all of its own. The family of Mr. Arthur J. Golding, residing at 84 Nelson street, has been thrown into a state of terror over the mysterious visitations of an invisible "spirit."

For a considerable period in the past the family has been aware of peculiar steps approaching the side porch by way of the sidewalk which runs by the side of the house. These can sometimes be heard right up on the porch steps, but on every occasion when some one in the house has gone to the door and thrown it open suddenly so as to surprise the spooky visitor nothing was to be seen save the usual tranquil surroundings of the side lawn and the adjacent fence.

On one occasion the family heard the visitor scrape his feet on the door mat, as if he might intend staying awhile.

PARIS SPORT HUMS. PARIS, March 16.—The Cricket Club is organizing for this season. They are bound to put Paris on the cricket map. The art is full of soft ball, and by according to present indications, there will be about a dozen teams who want to play.

There is some talk of lacrosse, but Paris will hardly have a team this year, although there is some good material around with plenty of old champs to coach them.

WILL AMEND LIQUOR ACT

Alberta Legislature To Provide for Sales on Prescriptions.

EDMONTON, March 16.—A commissioner is to be appointed by the Alberta government to administer the liquor act, on the authority of amendments to the act tabled in the legislature today.

Government dispensaries are to be opened at certain points in the province at which doctors' prescriptions for liquor will be honored, and upon their advent drug stores will be limited to the sale of six-ounce bottles on prescription.

The maximum quantity which may be provided by prescription may be set by order in council. At present 40 ounces may be prescribed. There is a general stiffening of penalties which may be applied for violation of the act.

Imprisonment for first offences as an alternative to a fine is provided, or both fine and a jail term may be given.

G. T. R. EARNINGS INCREASE.

Montreal, March 16.—Grand Trunk Railway System traffic earnings for the seven days ending March 14, 1922, were $1,988,401, against $1,841,416 for the corresponding period in 1921, an increase of $146,985.

Sandwich, Windsor and Amherstburg Railway and the York Radial Railway.

The bill provides that the government will not guarantee the bonds of a radial railway, nor will the hydro-electric commission be held responsible for any bonds.

Townships, towns and cities of any number may unite in partnership to construct a radial railway, and must name an association of five members to manage the project who are not members of the municipal councils.

Provision is made that the smaller municipalities in the partnership will get proper representation in this association.

After obtaining a report on the feasibility of their scheme at their own expense from the hydro-electric commission a vote of the ratepayers of the municipalities must be taken before the project can be gone ahead with.

Will Issue Bonds.

The scheme will be financed by the association issuing bonds secured by a mortgage deed upon the railway. Each municipality must deposit debentures in addition with a trust company in proportion to its liability under the agreement, but these will only be sold in case of the entire collapse of the undertaking. They cannot be sold to cover deficits.

In case there are deficits the municipalities must make them up each year within a month after the deficits are ascertained.

This is provided so that the debentures security will not be used to pay off deficits. The municipalities may appoint members of the hydro-electric commission members of the governing association.

The premier, in introducing the radial bill to the house, made the following statement:

"This bill proceeds on an entirely different basis to any previous legislation respecting radial railways."

May Form Partnership.

"Any number of municipalities may form what would practically be a partnership with regard to a radial railway. These municipalities would appoint five persons, not members of any of the municipal councils, who would be termed an association."

"The members of this association, who will hold office for five years, would, to a very great extent, have the same powers as the directors of a railway company. The method of appointment has been so worked out that both the large and small municipalities will get proper representation."

"The municipalities must first obtain at their own expense a report from the hydro electric power commission estimates of the cost of construction, equipment, operation, probable revenue, etc."

"The municipalities will then enter into an agreement, which must be submitted to, and receive the approval of, the electors qualified to vote on money bylaws in each municipality whereby the proportions in which the cost of construction and equipment to be borne by each municipality will be settled. The agreement must also provide for the construction of the railway either by the association or by the power commission."

Permits Agreement.

"After the railway has been constructed the association may, if the agreement between the municipalities so provides, enter into an agreement with the hydro-electric power commission for the operation of the railway by the commission as its agent for a period not exceeding five years, but such agreement may be renewed for further periods of five years."

"The financing of the railway will be done by the association issuing bonds, which will be secured on a mortgage to be given to a trust company and secured on the railway."

"Each municipality will also be required to deposit with the trust company its debentures for the proportion of the cost for which it is liable under the agreement, and these debentures will be deposited with the trust company as collateral security for the bonds issued and charged upon the railway. Such bonds and debentures issued by the municipality will bear the same rate of interest and will be payable in 44 years."

"The association must fix the tolls and fares so that the revenue derived therefrom will be sufficient to provide for the operation of the railway, the payment of the interest and sinking fund on the bonds, and all other probable charges. If there is a deficit in any year the municipalities must pay such a deficit within one month in the proportions in which they contributed to the cost of construction."

May Utilize Surplus.

"If there is a surplus the association may pay it over to the municipalities in the same proportions, or may use it for improvements and additional equipment, or may build up a reserve fund to meet the cost of future operation or contingencies. Where the original agreement so provided the association must fix the tolls and fares so that the revenue derived therefrom will be sufficient to provide for the operation of the railway into the latter municipality."

"Such agreement will require to be carried by the electors qualified to vote on money bylaws in such adjacent municipality. Practically all existing legislation relating to radials is repealed, excluding, however, that relating to the Sandwich, Windsor and Amherstburg Railway and the York Radial Railway."

The premier explained that the bonds which would be issued by the association would be 44 years at 4½ per cent. In the matter of financing, he said that the old system was to wipe out deficits by selling the debentures deposited by the municipalities.

KILLS SELF AFTER SHOOTING YOUTH

SHERBROOKE, March 16.—William Sullivan, Lewiston, Me., who yesterday morning shot down Emile Martel, a young lad of 17, on the King street bridge, died early this morning in the St. Vincent de Paul Hospital from a self-inflicted wound. Young Martel, who was shot three times by Sullivan, is reported to be in a critical condition, but hopes are entertained for his recovery.

Judge Mulvena took the ante-mortem depositions of Sullivan and young Martel, the former admitting the shooting, stating that he had been drinking and admitted shooting himself. He gave no reason for the attack on Martel.

Cold! Lumbago, Or Stiff Back

Old St. Jacobs Oil will stop pain and stiffness in a few moments

Ah! Pain is gone! St. Jacobs Oil acts almost like magic.

Quickly?—Yes. Almost instant relief from soreness, stiffness, lameness and pain follows a gentle rubbing with St. Jacobs Oil.

Rub this soothing, penetrating oil right on your painful back, and relief comes. St. Jacobs Oil is a harmless back-ache, lumbago and sciatica liniment which never disappoints and doesn't burn the skin.

Straighten up! Quit complaining! Stop those tortuous aches. In a moment you will forget that you ever had a weak back, because it won't hurt or be stiff or lame. Don't suffer! Get a small trial bottle of old, honest St. Jacobs Oil from your druggist now and get this lasting relief.—Adv.

OPPOSES LAW SCHOOL MOVE

E. Douglas Armour Against Osgoode Hall Union With University.

DEFENDS OLD TRADITIONS

Sir William Meredith Favors Step to Improve Legal Education.

TORONTO, March 16.—The necessity for closer co-operation between the University of Toronto and the Ontario Law School was urged by Justice Sir William Meredith in an address before the Ontario Bar Association today. The expression of this view brought forth words of dissent from members of the law society.

E. Douglas Armour, who presided, declared that the idea of handing the society's law school over to the university was abhorrent to most of the members. If such a federation were established, he declared, the law society would do all the work and the university would get all the credit and collect all the fees.

"Why," he asked, "should we be called upon to break the traditions of a hundred years to gratify the ambitions of an institution of which the chief justice was chancellor?"

Opposes Union.

In opening his address, Sir William Meredith said that in his opinion there were many ways in which legal education could be improved. In opposition to a union with the university was the proper jealousy of the law society, but he saw no reason why this sentiment could not be met. Too many lawyers were of the ultra-Tory type, who were against change even for their own benefit.

A change suggested by the chief provinces enforceable in each of the other provinces without trial as at present.

Justice Riddell read a paper on the Law Society of 1922. Prior to taking up his subject he referred to the law school at Osgoode Hall, which he said, was potentially the greatest law school in the British Empire. The school and the university should come together, he declared.

Officers were elected as follows:

Hon. Mr. Justice Hodgins, honorary president.

Francis King, K.C., Kingston, president.

Francis Dean Kerr, Peterboro; A. J. Russell Snow, K.C., Toronto, and Nicol Jeffrey, Guelph, vice-presidents.

A. A. MacDonald, recording secretary, justice was to make the judgments of the superior courts of the various tary.

W. K. Murphy, corresponding secretary.

H. P. Parkinson, treasurer.

W. S. Harrington, Kingston, historian and archivist.

Diva Seeks Freedom From Husband She "Picked From Gutter For Love"

ST. LOUIS, Mo., March 16.—"I picked him out of the gutter and that is where I leave him. You can tell the world I am through—all through with him."

There wasn't much doubt but what Mme. Margaret Matzenauer, famous opera star, meant what she said when she declared here today she was done with her husband. She fairly boiled with indignation and her eyes flashed.

Mme. Matzenauer arrived here on a concert tour and was asked regarding reports that her chauffeur-husband, whom she had characterized as "100 per cent man," had deserted her and gone back to driving a "for rent" car in Monterey, California.

"I took him out of the gutter because I loved him," she stated.

"I believed then that the great love which I felt for him would overcome all other obstacles."

The prima donna wept as she told of her happiness during her honeymoon.

"I made a game fight to hold him according to my desires. But I am also a game loser, and I had to give it up."

"I have only one desire—to rid myself of this man legally as quickly as possible."

The opera star stated she has started divorce proceedings in New York against her handsome mate.

"Divorce papers already have been served on Floyd," she asserted.

The diva said Grotzback had fallen in love with a certain woman "who is over fifty years old and lives in Carmel, California."

Improvement, repeal, etc., as may be desirable.

No licenses to be issued without the approval of the city manager.

(b) No. 2 committee recommends that there be a readjustment of offices to provide accommodation for the city manager.

(c) The special committee recommended that C. H. R. Fuller, city engineer, be appointed city manager, he to receive $500 additional salary and $600 car allowance, and such assistance in the engineering department as may be necessary in the opinion of the manager.

(d) The committee ask power to prepare a bylaw to appoint a city manager, and further define his duties, and that the appointment take effect April 1, 1922.

CHATHAM BOARD SHOWS SURPLUS

Special To London Advertiser.

CHATHAM, March 16.—At the regular meeting of the public utilities commission held here this afternoon, Manager J. G. Jackson submitted the report for the year 1921, showing a net surplus of $21,188.68, after deducting all expenses and paying debt for the year. This is a record surplus for the local commission.

Chairman B. L. Bedford presided over the meeting, and the commissioners approved the purchase of a new motor truck from the International Harvester Company.

SIDE LIGHTS AT OTTAWA.

By JOHN J. McLELLAN.
Advertiser Staff Correspondent.

HOUSE OF COMMONS, OTTAWA.

March 16.—If former Premier

Arthur Meighen hoped to find a vulnerable point in the armor of the government when he made his onslaught on Sir Lomer Gouin Monday last he must have had a rude awakening today when the minister of justice, in addressing the house, fully vindicated himself.

Opinion here late tonight is that the leader of the opposition did not by any means make a point in favor of the Conservative party when he inferred in his speech Monday that the sentiments of Sir Lomer now and as expressed during the election campaign were in contradiction to the platform of the Liberal party.

It is quite obvious that it was for the satisfaction of his own vanity and for the satisfaction of the vanity of the Conservative party that the leader of the opposition turned his "shellish guns" upon the minister of justice. For he would like to believe that his defeat and the defeat of his government was due to certain "interests," and to powers, which he alone, in the fineness of his perception, can see—powers other than the principles of Liberalism.

AS Sir Lomer Gouin said today, it is an old method, and one used by the predecessors of Mr. Meighen on many occasions.

"Sir Lomer might not doubt have allowed the references to pass by were it not that there sit in the double-chained seats of the house this year 130 new members who are unused to political moves of this nature, and had not the minister of justice spoken they might have judged his silence to be a tacit admission of culpability, in their political innocence."

Sir Lomer today declared that he subscribed fully to the tenets of the Liberal platform in every way. He told Hon. T. A. Crerar that in his speech to the shoe manufacturers in Montreal, from which Mr. Crerar quoted Tuesday in an endeavor to point out the Sir Lomer seemed in the speech to deviate somewhat from the Liberal platform, that had he read it in its entirety he would have stated that he was entirely in favor of the Laurier-Fielding tariff revised to meet present-day conditions.

SIR JAMES LOUGHEED, leader of the Conservatives in the Senate, who has, on account of the more or less stability of party lines in the red chamber and the non-partisan stand which the Senate seems to be taking, no axe to grind when he makes a statement, hit nearer the truth of the last administration's defeat than did Mr. Meighen, when he said that the very parties to which it had catered—had themselves caused the defeat.

A profound impression indeed has been created by the masterly manner in which the minister of justice made his maiden speech today. In all frankness, members give him the credit which he really deserves. The speech was an echo, in form, of the great Sir Wilfrid Laurier, at least such is the opinion of those who heard the Liberal chieftain on many occasions. Praise for Sir Lomer, on account of his style of speaking has been written from even those with whom it is hardest to admit a supremacy of fineness in oratory to one of a different race, the English-speaking members.

MORE than that, in all the speaking so far, while each who has risen up to speak has expressed himself as placing before all else the interests of Canada and Canadians, has there been greater nobility of sentiment given voice to. In all the 25 years of his activity in public life, affirmed Sir Lomer, he had always striven to further the unity of Canada.

The point there could be well taken by many members of the Tory side, who care not so long as they serve party, to add in disunity by differences between the provinces.

Now that Sir Lomer has spoken the debate is expected to draw quickly to a close. If it finishes tonight, then the estimates for the fiscal year will be tabled tomorrow, and it is expected that a merry wrangle will immediately ensue. However, no party will give out whether they will put up more speakers or not for strategic reasons. But more than likely it will be a problem for the opposition to find debate material in the estimates, since the Liberal policy of economy and retrenchment has pared the figures as far as it is possible to pare them.

A party which came but recently into power is not likely to venture big expenditures which might afford opportunities for censure and criticism from the deputies across the floor.

NOTWITHSTANDING, many have already secured the estimates of the immediate preceding years for comparison when the estimates are brought down. The prime minister has promised that the Hon. W. C. Kennedy will deal with the paragraph in the speech from the throne concerning the railways at some time in the future.

It is by no means necessary that the minister of railways should deal with it during the life of the debate on the speech from the throne.

On the contrary, it has been learned, and the general belief is that the statement is well grounded, that the subject of the co-ordination of the railways will not be touched except by way of criticism from the members of the opposition before the minister of railways brings down his statement on the railways some time during the middle of April, because it is not expected that the statement will be brought down before then.

THE 31st of March ends the fiscal year. It is now March 16. Unless some appropriations have been made by the first of April the whole machinery of government ends normally. So it behooves the government to move with haste to bring an end to the debate and commence on the estimates.

The order in which questions are brought up in the speech from the throne has no bearing on the precedence which they received in the chamber. It is a matter of convenience that rests with the administration what precedence questions will have.

This session no doubt the presence of the Progressives will have a bearing on which questions are brought up. If they become impatient with procrustean inaction of problems that they believe loom large, then, of course, the government will lose in a more or less degree its prerogative of bringing in matters.

After the estimates there is the introduction of bills and the budget. And then the session will undoubtedly close, since it is known that the real work on the questions broached in the speech from the throne must await the fall session.

T. L. CHURCH, of North Toronto, made little impression today and yesterday in his speech. This was probably because of its length. And again Mr. Church failed to pursue a continued line of thought in his speech, introducing considerable talk about radials and turning aside to laud Sir Adam Beck.

In dealing with the problems of Canada, he found, particularly with the question of railways, one of the many which he discussed, considerable parallel between Canada and the United States. Here are a few of the references he made to that republic. He talked of the interstate commission, the New York Central, the 300 railways of the United States, Pennsylvania, Ohio, New York, Indiana, Woodrow Wilson, President Harding and the attorney-general of the United States. One might almost think that Mr. Church was addressing the Congress of the United States instead of the Parliament of Canada, and the attention he received was rather negligible; in fact, Mr. Speaker, was forced many times to call the house to order as a sort of reminder that the man from North Toronto had the floor even if he didn't have the members' attention.

Two other Progressives followed Sir Lomer, the first being Douglas Kennedy, of West Edmonton. He confined himself to problems largely of his locality.

Mr. Kennedy is a fluent speaker. On information coming directly from the premier himself, The Advertiser learned tonight that the estimates have been printed and ready for three days past, but cannot be tabled in the house until the house is moved into supply immediately on the conclusion of the debate on the speech from the throne.

THE MORE YOU TELL THE QUICKER YOU SELL!

EXAMPLES

HAVE YOU, after using a Want Ad, ever asked yourself, "Why didn't I get better results?" If you have, read these examples showing how advertisers found the way to better results in their Want Advertising:

MR. O. wanted to sell his automobile. Here is The Advertiser's Want Ad he used to tell people about his offer:

DODGE — 1919 TOURING, REX
winter top, $425. Apply—

This Want Ad brought no inquiries. Not a flicker from the populace. Mr. O. was surprised, disappointed, hurt. It was suggested that he try The Advertiser's remedy for poor results: "The more you tell, the quicker you sell." He decided to do so. With some misgiving he ran this Want Ad:

DODGE TOURING.
1919 model, Rex winter top, heater, etc. This car carries a 90-day service guarantee; terms to suit your convenience or your old car in trade; $425. Apply—

Before noon on the day this second ad appeared Mr. O. had sold his car. Why? Because people who went to the Want Ad Section that day to look over the offerings in automobiles became really interested only in those which were described frankly, openly, fully! Whenever your market, your offer, your price, all justify a quick sale, and your Want Ad does not produce, look to the WORDING of that Ad!

Rents room more quickly

IN AN endeavor to rent the front room of her home, Mrs. N. ran this Want Ad in The Advertiser:

LARGE FRONT ROOM. PRIVATE
family, newly furnished, reasonable. Apply—

In response to this ad she received a fair number of calls, but no one rented the room, which was a fine one, with many unusual features. The reason is simple. On account of the vague indefinite wording in her Want Ad she had not brought just the sort of people who would be likely to rent the room. So she used The Advertiser's Want Ad slogan, and here's the resultant Want Ad:

TO RENT — VERY ATTRACTIVE
room, suitable for 2; newly furnished and decorated; all modern conveniences; private residence. Apply—

This second Want Ad, because it told a reader immediately whether or not that was the place he was looking for, rented the room. "The more you tell, the quicker you sell!"

Sub-lets apartment

MRS. S. wished to sub-let her apartment, and this is the Want Ad she thought would bring results:

TO RENT — SUB-LET. SNAP FOR couple, or mother and daughter; 1 room rented. Apply—

It is logical that there would be little really worth-while response to this Want Ad. It had absolutely no NEWS in it—a person desiring to rent an apartment could get no definite idea of Mrs. S.'s apartment from that Want Ad. Here is the Want Ad as it was rewritten, following The Advertiser's slogan: "The more you tell, the quicker you sell!"

TO RENT — IDEAL FOR MARRIED couple or 2 business women, 4 rooms and lounge, living porch; 1 room rented, steam heat, modern, cozy. Apply—

This Want Ad brought a number of good prospects and rented the apartment. Mrs. S. commented on the class of prospects who inquired in response to the Want Ad. She is going to use the Want Ad Section next week to sell her automobile and you may be certain that she'll remember The Advertiser's slogan!

More and better prospects—bigger sales

MR. E. had always been a firm believer in the cryptic Want Ad. He actually believed that to give a prospect a clear idea of what he was offering would lessen the returns from his advertising! Here is one of the Want Ads he was using:

FOR SALE — HAVE FEW MORE
choice homesites in beautiful suburb, on which I will build a home to suit you; 2 blocks from station and also car line; $250 will start you. Answer quick. Address—

It was suggested to Mr. E. that he apply The Advertiser's Want Ad slogan to see whether or not the returns would justify the slightly increased expenditure. He decided to give it a trial. This Want Ad was inserted:

HOMESITES.
A beautiful suburb for a home. We will build a home to suit you with all modern conveniences on a large lot with plenty of room for the children to play. We have a generous selection of plans and designs from which you can choose in building your home. The size and number of rooms, including sun parlor and clothes closets, will be made just as you desire; convenient to churches, schools, theatres and shopping district, 2 blocks from station on car line. A $250 down payment will start you and a small payment each month until the lot is paid for; then with a payment of 10 per cent down on the cost of the home we will build to your satisfaction. Plans, specifications and expert design—free! act now and send for particulars which places you under no obligation.

This type of Want Ad, giving in greater detail the features of his offer, brought Mr. E. not only more prospects but a better class of prospects—people who were really interested in his offer and who knew what they wanted, recognized it when they saw it, and had the means to buy. Mr. E. is now convinced of the logic of The Advertiser's slogan and will continue to make use of it.

Obtains "most capable stenographer ever had"

Mr. A. needed a stenographer, a particular kind of stenographer. Here's the Want Ad he was running in The Advertiser:

STENOGRAPHER — MUST BE AC-
QUAINTED with general office work for permanent position with manufacturing concern; state salary desired. Apply—

It seems that plenty of girls responded to the Want Ad, but they were not just what Mr. A. wanted. He blamed it on The Advertiser. It was suggested that he re-write his Want Ad, gauging the copy to suit the particular stenographer he desired. This was done. Here's the Want Ad:

STENOGRAPHER.
Permanent position in small, pleasant office; some experience necessary; Saturday afternoons off all during year; state age and salary desired. Address:

Mr. A. commented as follows on the results of this second Want Ad: "I am surprised at the difference in the replies! I have six fine girls from which to choose. I think that the one I'm hiring will be the most capable stenographer I've ever had. The Advertiser's slogan certainly pays. I'm much obliged to you!"

"Here's just exactly what we've been looking for! It tells all about it in this Want Ad!"

WHENEVER you use a Want Ad to bring you BUYERS, you have more to consider than the market, the offer, and the price. How did you tell it? If your Want Ad is so briefly worded, so lacking in necessary information that the prospect cannot form a definite idea of exactly what you are offering, you weaken the result-producing power of that Want Ad! On the other hand, the more you tell, the quicker you sell!

Here's HELP

The suggestions below will help in phrasing Want Ads to rent a room or to sell a business. They are well worth clipping and preserving. Of course you needn't include ALL the features listed. Just be sure that you tell exactly how your offer differs from similar ones. It really pays to do this! Read the examples given on this page, showing how Want Advertisers applied, with great success, THE ADVERTISER'S Want Ad slogan.

PLAN TO START WORK ON NEW HOTEL NEXT WEEK

Final Arrangements Concluded For Sinking of Test Holes.

The first real steps towards construction work on the new Lloyd George Hotel have been taken, directors stated Thursday night.

On instructions received from Anglin-Norcross Company, Limited, Sproule & Johnson, an excavating and drilling company of Oil Springs, Ont., arrived in London this week and made final arrangements to start work next week on the site at the corner of Richmond and Fullarton streets, it is reported.

According to plans, test holes will be drilled and several wells sunk at once in order to determine the tensile strength of geological formations.

The object, it is said, is to prepare for a foundation that would hold additional stories to the proposed hotel, should the growth of the city demand an increase in accommodation.

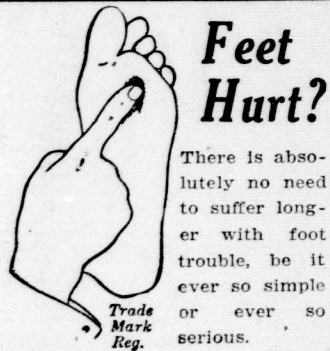

At the recent meeting of the board of directors an appropriation for the first construction expenses was authorized. Salesmen report that new subscribers are being secured daily and it is expected that the total money required will be obtained within a short time.
