DIVISION OF KENT COUNTY

Division by the River Suggested by Mr. Clancy—Liberal's Scheme.

Mr. Borden Protests Against Discrimination Against Kent and Other Counties.

Ottawa, July 10.—The redistribution committee this evening continued its consideration of the constituencies of Ontario.

Mr. Borden reserved his right to object to giving Middlesex three members, because, with London out, there are five counties which have a larger population—Kent, Hastings, Bruce, Lambton, Wellington and each of these is to have only two members.

Kent, according to the Liberal scheme, will be divided as follows: Kent East—Orford, Howard, Zone, Camden, Chatham city, Wallaceburg, Dresden, Bothwell, Ridgeway, Thamesville. Population, 25,328.

Kent West—Romney, Tilbury, Raleigh, Dover, Harwich, Chatham city, Blenheim, Tilbury, lying in the county of Kent. Population, 31,862.

Mr. Clancy suggested making the River Thames the dividing line. This, he said, would be the natural division. By doing this and putting Chatham city in the North, there would be one constituency with 29,865, and one with 27,354.

Mr. Sutherland objected that to put Chatham city in the North would legislate the present member out of his constituency.

"I am not aware that was a consideration," said Mr. Clancy.

"Neither it is," said Mr. Sutherland. "I only mentioned it."

Mr. Clancy contended that if there was any attempt to equalize population and make decently shaped ridings, his suggestion was the proper one.

The discussion of Kent was then dropped.

Mr. Clancy was heard as to Lambton. He advocated putting Dawn in the East Riding, and Forest in the West.

"Our friends object very strongly to Forest being taken out of the East," said Mr. Sutherland.

A citizen calls attention to the fact that the Redistribution Bill as outlined by the Liberals has continued the perpetration of that old humbug, namely, the division of Tilbury village. Part of this village has been put in Kent and the remaining half in Essex. There is no need of dividing the village thus as there are only 34 votes in the part of the village that is in Essex. Sixteen of these are Conservative and 18 are Liberal. The difference is only a matter of two votes. For municipal purposes and everything except for the Dominion elections, Tilbury is in the Township. But the Dominion Parliament has allowed Tilbury Village to remain as it was. This is a farce, as it necessitates the preparation of two voters' lists for Tilbury village.

In dividing Tilbury village the Government has departed from their rule not to cross county lines.

WHITE STAR BURNED.

THE REFITTED STEAMER COMPLETELY DESTROYED.

Fire Broke Out Early This Morning. The Crew Were Asleep on Board—An Exciting Scene.

Toronto, July 11.—The passenger steamer White Star was totally destroyed by fire at her dock near the foot of York street early this morning. The well-known steamer had been refitted, after being out of commission for six weeks, and was to have commenced her trips to Oakville on Monday morning.

Captain Cooke and his crew had a marvellous escape from death. There were ten people on the boat, and all were sound asleep when the fire, which spread with frightful rapidity, broke out. At 1.30 o'clock Mrs. Cooke, the wife of the captain, was awakened by a crackling noise, and she stepped from her stateroom out on deck. She felt the casing on the smokestack and found it unusually hot. Returning to the stateroom she informed her husband, and while speaking to him of it the flames burst through the deck and appeared to envelope the whole ship. Mrs. Annie Fraser of 11 Trinity street, the cook, and Mrs. Elida Liveriois, of 10 Gill place, the ladies' maid, were awakened first, and their screams aroused Chief Engineer Thomas O'Reilly, Second Engineer Hugh McWilliam, and two other members of the crew. They rushed on the wharf with their clothing in their arms, and were quickly driven from there by the heat of the flames. Some of them had taken time to collect a few valuables, but the captain and engineers were forced to leave half-dressed and without their shoes.

THE BARR COLONY.

The Opposition Criticize the Government's Relations.

Ottawa, July 11.—The House had a field day on the Barr colony yesterday. The Opposition made a general attack on the relations of the Government to the colony. Mr. Sifton clearly explained the position, saying that the Government had granted no concession to Rev. Mr. Barr or his people beyond agreeing to reserve townships in a certain district for their occupation. These lands were reserved not for Mr. Barr, but for the men who made the applications for homesteads. To-night Sir Wm. Mulock announced that Sir Wm. Van Horne has stated definitely that at present he cannot act on the Transportation Commission, and that the Government had to decide whether they would wait his convenience or appoint someone else.

The Finance Minister introduced a bill respecting savings banks. It provides a gold reserve of ten per cent. on the deposits in Government savings banks.

REDISTRIBUTION OF ONTARIO

Only Two Counties Remain to be Dealt With.

Ottawa, July 11.—During the two sessions which the members of the Redistribution Committee held yesterday they succeeded in arriving at a decision with all the remaining constituencies in Ontario save the counties of Lanark and Hastings, the division of which is out of courtesy to the sitting members, who were desirous of being heard, but could not be present, was postponed until Monday. The leader of the Opposition has, however, in a few instances reserved the right to move amendments when the bill comes before the House. Toronto is divided into five constituencies, each sending a member. The city of Hamilton is also divided into two constituencies instead of electing two members at large, Ottawa being the only constituency in Ontario which, according to the present arrangement, will return two members, and special reasons were to-day advanced by the representatives of that city why a division should not be made in that case. The division of the Provinces of Manitoba and Quebec remains to be arranged, but it is understood that an arrangement has been made by which the task will be accomplished amicably and expeditiously.

CRAZED BY THE HEAT.

A Soldier Holds His Head Under Water and Dies.

Ottawa, July 11.—There were three drowning accidents here. One of the victims was Private Harold Winter, a member of No. 1 company, R. C. R., London, who was doing duty with a squad at the Musketry School, Rockcliffe ranges. Winter had a sunstroke yesterday and this seems to have affected his head. He made the remark to a comrade this morning that he did not know what they were going to do with him there and he would go and throw himself into the river, and walking down to the river bank with his clothes on he carried his threat into execution. Private W. E. Moule, a comrade, followed him to the water's edge and saw Winter lying in the water about 25 or 30 yards from the shore. He was holding his head down and making no effort to breathe. Moule jumped in to the rescue, but Winter sank before the former reached the spot. The dead man was born in India and enlisted in the R. C. R. at London three years ago, and is believed to be respectably connected in England. His character was good.

The other two victims were Moise Lacrape and James Lacrape, who were drowned in St. Louis dam while bathing.

LYNCHING OF NEGROES.

Russian Ambassador in London Said to Have Refused to Forward Petition to the Czar.

London, July 11.—The Russian Ambassador in London, according to The Catholic Herald, has refused to receive a petition relative to the treatment of negroes in the United States, and forward it to the Czar, as requested by The Catholic Herald. The petition draws attention to the "increasing outrages on negroes, accompanied by appalling brutality," and urges the Russian Government to make representations to Washington, asking the authorities there to take steps, in the interests of civilization and humanity, to suppress the growing evil.

The Ambassador says the matter is outside his purview, and that he cannot therefore move therein. The Catholic Herald says the petition will be sent direct to St. Petersburg.

IT'S UP TO THEM

Mr. Harry Reimer, of Cleveland, who has made a name for himself as an expert fisherman in past years, is keeping up his good name this year. On Monday last he went out and caught a number of fine large bass, the aggregate weight of his catch being 40 lbs. This breaks the record for one man at the Eau. Mr. Reimer was punted by Mr. Isaac Murphy, who, like Mr. Reimer, knows all the good fishing grounds in the Eau. It is up to A. C. McKay, of The Planet, to go to the Eau and get busy if he wants to retain his record as a champion of the piscatorial art. Honestly, though, we think A. C. will need to take E. J. McIntyre, Vital Goudreau and several more of Chatham's crack fishermen along with him when he starts out to beat Mr. Reimer's splendid record. Mr. Reimer says that he does not think there is a better bass fishing ground anywhere than at Ronceau. But then, a man who can catch 40 pounds of bass in one day ought not to think otherwise.—Blenheim Tribune.

DIED FROM SUNSTROKE.

Edward Fitzgerald of Ingersoll Overcome at His Work.

Ingersoll, July 11.—Edward Fitzgerald of this town, 45 years of age, died Thursday afternoon on the farm of Alexander Kellum, eight miles north of here, in consequence of the excessive heat. Fitzgerald was assisting in hauling in hay, and when on top of a load about 11 o'clock in the morning suffered a sunstroke. Medical aid was summoned from Thamesford, but his death occurred about 3 o'clock in the afternoon. Deceased had only been at work on the farm a few days. The remains were brought here to-day for burial.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVORERS

Discuss Missionary Topics—Some of the Papers Read.

Denver, July 11.—Christian Endeavorers, who are holding their international biennial convention in this city, were astray early, the first event on the programme being a memorial service in honor of the late Field Secretary, Clarence E. Eberman. Following this came meetings in various churches to discuss missionary topics. Among the papers read were: "Forward the Juniors," by R. A. Smith; "Forward the Masters," by Bratt, Ph.D.; and "Forward for the Master's Glory," by Smith Baker.

STORM IN PUSLINCH.

Nine Sheep Killed by Lightning—Guelph Man Shocked.

Guelph, July 10.—There was an electric storm here yesterday afternoon about 4 o'clock, which lasted half an hour. Little rain fell in the city, but in Puslinch township it came down very heavy, flattening the grain, but not to such an extent that it will do much damage. Michael Wolfe, in Paisley block, had nine sheep which took shelter under a tree killed by lightning.

At the lacrosse match between Brampton and Guelph a moulder, Thomas Robertson, received a shock which rendered him partially unconscious. Others in the grand stand felt the electricity.

TIRED OF LIFE.

Albert Marshall Webb Stabs Himself with a Pocket-knife.

London, Ont., July 11.—A man giving his name as Albert Marshall Webb, who had worked one day on the farm of Mr. Dugald McBain, was brought to Victoria Hospital from Mount Brydges Thursday in a very serious condition. Webb, who said that he was "tired of life," had stabbed himself three times with a pocket-knife during the afternoon, and when found was supposed to be dying.

The would-be suicide said he wanted to die. He was 47 years of age, a painter by trade, and came from Stony Fork, Pa. He is a widower. He had a ticket from Harrisburg to London, dated July 6. At the hospital to-day it was stated that the patient was doing well and would probably recover.

ESCAPED FROM CENTRAL.

Charles Quackenbush Dug a Hole Through the Wall.

Toronto, July 11.—About 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon Charles Quackenbush, who had served three out of a term of twenty-three months for burglary near Varence, Ont., escaped from the Central Prison by digging a hole through the storehouse wall. Quackenbush is 21 years of age, about five feet six inches in height, weighs 147 pounds, fair complexion, brown hair and grey eyes. He was in the prison clothing when he escaped. He has a scar on the back of his left hand, and another on his left thigh.

The Emperor of Japan has suggested that Marquis Ito and Count Yamagata take an advisory position near the throne.

A special committee of the Medical Council reported in favor of amendments to the medical act clearly defining the "practices of medicine."

The Mayor and Council of Amherstburg refused to attend the banquet celebrating the opening of the new branch of the S. W. & A. Railway, because they claim the company broke faith with the town.

INDIA TO BE INCLUDED.

IN THE INQUIRY ABOUT FISCAL RELATIONS.

Expert Evidence to be Called From All Parts of the Empire—Facts to be Published.

London, July 11.—The question of India's position in the coming fiscal inquiry was raised by Lord Northbrook (Liberal), formerly Governor-General of India, in the House of Lords, and brought out from Foreign Secretary Lansdowne a fuller statement of the Government's intention than had previously been elicited. Lord Lansdowne said India would certainly be included in the inquiry. The Government intended to call ample expert evidence, not only from India, but from all other parts of the empire. The interests of Great Britain and India would be fully considered from the economic, commercial and political standpoint, and thereafter the Government would publish the facts collected, and give the public access to the same information on which the Government itself would rely in forming an opinion.

THE G. T. PACIFIC BILL.

A Number of Amendments Proposed by Mr. McCarthy.

Ottawa, July 11.—Mr. Leighton McCarthy, according to report, will proceed on Monday with the third reading of the Grand Trunk Pacific bill. He, however, gives notice of a number of amendments designed to make the measure harmonize with the Government's policy. To the directorate he proposes to add the names of Sir Charles Rivers Wilson, Lord Welby, Messrs. John A. Chittenden, Joseph Price and Alfred W. Smithers, all of the city of London. Should the Government build a line from Moncton to Winnipeg the company want power to build from the Government road to North Bay, Nipissing Junction or Gravenhurst, and to Port Arthur and Fort William respectively; also from a point on the Montreal & Western Railway to Montreal. It is proposed to empower the directors to enter into an agreement with the Government or with the commissioners, whom they may appoint, respecting the construction of the Government line or any portion of it, but such an agreement will not be effective until it has first been approved of by a majority of the votes of the shareholders of the company, present or represented by proxy, at any annual meeting, or at a special general meeting of the shareholders. The capital stock will be reduced from $70,000,000 to $40,000,000. It will be provided that a majority of the directors shall be residents of Canada. The company seek authority to construct roadways and tramways in British Columbia with the usual expropriation powers conferred by the railway act, but these powers are not to be exercised until after the plans have been approved by the Government or railway commission, and no such roadway, or tramway is to be constructed upon any street, highway, or other public place within the limits of a municipality until the consent of the municipality has been obtained. A change is to be made in the route whereby instead of the prairie section extending to the eastern limit of the Rocky Mountains it will touch the eastern boundary line of the Province of British Columbia.

The steam launch Marion went up the river last night and ran into a log. The collision cracked the Marion's bow and she is leaking badly. The launch was to have taken a party of young men down to the lighthouse to-night, but now she will be unable to go.

Centreville is becoming quite a village and the poor inhabitants have a serious time distinguishing their cottages. One new arrival was observed the other morning in broad daylight counting the cottages to rediscover his. We recommend numbering the domiciles for the convenience of the public.

There are prospects of a warm time at the Eau this summer. The divine of Centreville lives in a bright red house and he is so enraptured with the color that he has promised to paint the whole bar the same bright hue. A brush, evidently from a red paint pot, was found on the beach, so it is surmised that the work is begun.

There is at present no clue to the fence stealer.

Deranged Nerves AND Weak Spells.

Dr. R. H. Sampson's, Sydney, N.S., Advice to all Sufferers from Nerve Trouble is

"GET A BOX OF MILBURN'S HEART AND NERVE PILLS."

He says: "I have been ailing for about a year from deranged nerves, and very often weak spells would come over me and be so bad that I sometimes thought I would be unable to survive them. I have been treated by doctors and have taken numerous preparations but none of them helped me in the least. I finally got a box of Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills. Before taking them I did not feel able to do any work, but now I can work as well as ever, thanks to one box of your pills. They have made a new man of me, and my advice to any person troubled as I was, is to get a box of Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills."

WHEN BOYS WERE MEN

By John Habberton.
Author of "Helen's Babies," "George Washington," Etc.

Copyright, 1901, by John Habberton.

Fighting with fence rails as weapons was new to us, but we took to it kindly. We had to. They demanded a lot of free space, which was not always to be had, for the tree trunks would not get out of our way, and some of us came to grief while downed by our weapons having collided with trees. Once I rushed to Brainerd's assistance, supposing him in deadly peril, for two of the few remaining Johnnies closed on him with their bayonets ready to lunge.
But Brainerd turned like a teetotum, holding his rail horizontally. It struck
one of the Johnnies and knocked him down. In an instant Brainerd jumped and landed with both feet on the stomach of the fallen man. He also said,
"I beg your pardon," but the fallen man's reply was couched in language unfit for publication. Then Brainerd's rail struck the other man below the belt, and he, too, fell. Sergeant Mick saw the encounter and screamed:
"Hooray, Brainerd! Ye little divil!
I'll thrall ye up to the lightweight championship av Ameriky whin we git back to Summertown."

About this time there was a visible
scarcity of Johnnies in fighting trim.
In fact, there was but one—the only officer who seemed to be with the party.
He had an eye like a hawk and had dashed to and fro as rapidly as if trying to learn our number and resources.
Suddenly it occurred to him that he had done and learned all in his power and that it was time to return. I tried to head him off and bring my rail to bear upon him. At the same moment Mick roared:

"Grab their muskets at the fence an' foire
wid 'em as fast as yez kin! Niver mould aimin', but make all the noise
yez kin, so they'll think we're beginnin'
their skirmishers an' are beginnin'
the fight ag'in!"

Fully half of us had had some mil-lita practice with muskets, and all the others had used muzzle loaders against large or small game before the war, so we made quite a racket, which, to my delight, caused the enemy to break into companies and move to the rear under the natural impression that their skirmishers had been overcome and we had resumed business at the old stand.
But I was still in chase of the officer.
Once I succeeded in knocking him down by tripping him, but he was on his feet again in an instant. Suddenly I saw Sergeant Mick near me, brandishing his severed arm. The sleeve had fallen from it, and it was really a slightly though displaced human member. I would give half my possessions and hopes for one like it, for 'twas a mass of muscle, with an elbow joint as big and protuberant as a cobblestone.
Mick raised it to the position of "rear out against cavalry" and landed it fairly on the back of the officer's neck.
The officer instantly landed on his own back, and the fight for the fence was over. Then Mick looked across the fence, saw the retiring enemy and croaked:

"They've throwed up the sponge!
Niver mould the killed an' wounded
just yet. Look quick to the Johnnies, as was punched wid the fence rail!
Glory be to the polkes av auld Orland! An' tie the han's an' fate av thim that's gittin' over bein' groggy."

We obeyed orders and found some very sick men, whom we bound so they could not get away when they recovered.
Then we did our best for the wounded. Mick had already sent another mounted messenger in search of the regiment to report that the enemy was retiring, and there was a fine chance for a chase and a charge. But the regiment was not found. It found us two hours later. The affair appeared to have been one of many of its kind, in which an advance of the enemy, reconnoitering in force, had been reported so imperfectly by negroes from beyond the lines that our regiment had taken the wrong road, found nothing and, like many times before, curse "the reliable contraband" and grumbled at a long, hard ride for nothing. But they buried the enemy's dead for us, which was great comfort, for to kill a man and then have to bury him is worse than war. I think it's worse than hell.

"Hadin't you better go back to camp,
sergeant, now that the fuss is over?"
suggested Brainerd as we waited for the regiment. "Your wound needs attention."

Mick did not seem to hear. He was leaning against his horse, looking tenderly at his severed arm, and we heard him say, as if he were alone with it:
"Ah, Norah, little did yez iver know av the strength ye was puttin' into that arm whin 'twas around yer swate
waist!"

CHAPTER XXI.

A CHAT WITH THE COLONEL.

OR Brainerd's sake I was glad the fight had occurred, for it seemed to me that it should have put Phil Hamilton's possible chance out of his mind. But as soon as we reached camp the few sick list
men and shirkers who had remained behind began to croak a story supposed to have filtered from the colonel's tent through several intermediaries that the colonel had been in a rage about the explosions of my relics in our old camp, that had made him sup-

NO CHAIN IS STRONGER THAN ITS WEAKEST LINK NO MAN IS STRONGER THAN HIS STOMACH D'PIERCE'S GOLDEN MEDICAL DISCOVERY MAKES WEAK STOMACHS STRONG

pose the enemy were shelling us as we evacuated the post, and that he was going to make an example of the guilty party. Sure enough, we had not been in camp more than two hours when the orderly sergeant of our company
came to our tent and said:

"The colonel wants to see you two at once."

We looked at each other and tried to smile, but failed.

"It seems to me," said I, "that our share of the fight at the fence ought to mitigate our punishment—I mean my own punishment, for you did nothing in that shell affair but tell about it, like a fool, I suppose that even now you'll try to make the colonel believe that you had some share in it, so as to shield me."

"I wish I could," replied Brainerd meekly. "I wish I hadn't told of it when the colonel was so mystified about the shots, but really it did seem for the good of the service."

"You're too good to live," said I.
"Come along. I hope you'll come in for some share of the punishment, you unspeakable lunatic!"

Nevertheless for a corporal to be summoned by his colonel has a sobering effect, so I fought down my feelings and tried to assume a bold front as I dragged Brainerd across the parade ground.

"Pass them in, sentry," said the colonel from the open front of his tent as we drew near. We stopped at the tent flaps, saluted and stood at "attention."
"Come in, gentlemen," said the colonel, with an odd smile which nevertheless seemed not ugly. "Sit down."

Both of us dropped nervously on the colonel's camp bed, the only seat visible.
The colonel was handling some papers which I promptly assumed were court martial charges against us.

"I was greatly surprised and still pleased," continued the colonel, also handling the papers, "at receiving today commissions for both of you—commissions as first lieutenants."

I looked at Brainerd, and Brainerd looked at me, and I don't understand why both of us did not drop dead with astonishment. The colonel went on:

"I had hoped to promote both of you in the course of time, after you had reached sergeant's grade—Brainerd, because of your rescuing your party from the enemy after capture and for getting that dispatch through to the left a few nights ago, and, Frost, because I've learned that you spent a lot of money in trying to get recruits for the regiment at the time you entered
it. I'm not the only influence with the appointing power. Political and other strings are being pulled for scores of my noncommissioned officers, and some of this sort of work seems to have been done for you boys."

To Be Continued.

IN WARM WEATHER

Use Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets and you won't be Troubled with Biliousness or Dyspepsia.

Does this warm weather make you feel Dyspeptic and Bilious?
I shouldn't. Joseph Leake, 194 McCaul street, Toronto, pressman in The News office, tells us why.
"I have been troubled for three years with Dyspepsia and Biliousness," says Mr. Leake. "I took several medicines, but none would cure me till I tried Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets.
One box of them cured me."
"My daughter, who was troubled with Headaches and Dyspepsia, also used Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets and was cured."
Other people who have used Dodd's
Dyspepsia Tablets, tell the same story.
You haven't used them, or you wouldn't be feeling Bilious and Dyspeptic. They never fail to cure and cure permanently.

WANT $15,000,000.

CONSOLIDATED LAKE SUPER- IOR COMPANY.

Plan to Issue Trust Bonds to Shareholders at 60 Per Cent., Bearing Four Per cent. Interest—A Crisis in the Company's Affairs.

Philadelphia, July 10.—Unable to realize the funds necessary to take up the $5,000,000 in loans held by the New York Banking Syndicate, and to secure cash absolutely needed for working capital, the directors of the Consolidated Lake Superior Company,
after an extended meeting, decided on an appeal to the stockholders
as a last resort. Unless the latter meet the emergency a reorganization and the possibility of a receivership seem certain. The plan proposed is to create $15,000,000 in 30-year four per cent. bonds, $12,500,000 of which are to be offered to the stockholders at $600 on the $1,000. Each holder of eighty shares of stock is to be given the privilege of subscribing to one $1,000 bond, $600. Large subscriptions are to be made on the same ratio.
The balance of the $15,000,000 bond issue is to remain in the treasury for future use.

The first $5,500,000 of the money to be raised by this bond issue is to be used to repay the temporary loan to the New York Syndicate. The stock, bonds, mortgages, etc., now held by the syndicate, and which practically constitute the available collateral of the corporation, are to be redeemed and held as security to the bondholders. The balance of the money to be raised by this bond issue is to be used for working capital.

The appeal to the stockholders indicates that the New York Syndicate, which holds the temporary loan, practically has Consolidated Lake Superior under its thumb. The syndicate was willing to extend the time of the loan to January, and to loan $750,000 additional, but the directors concluded that at least $2,500,000 will be needed immediately for working capital. Various ways of raising the money have been suggested, but have not been successful. It is estimated that if the loan can be made and the needed capital provided, the company will show $300,000 in net earnings on January 1,
and $500,000 will be required to meet the interest on the bonds, leaving a handsome surplus.

John Ball, a Quebec Bricklayer, tells how his Troubles Vanished When He Tried the Great Canadian Kidney Remedy.

Quebec, July 6.—Special.—One more remarkable cure has been marked up to the credit of Dodd's Kidney Pills
in this city. John Ball, bricklayer, of 57 Little Champlain Street, is the man cured. Interviewed regarding the matter he said:

"I have been troubled with Lumbago for two years and could not do my work. I was also suffering from urinary troubles and had to get up at night so much that my rest was spoiled."

"I bought one box of Dodd's Kidney Pills and after I had used them began to see and feel a change. I have used three boxes and I am now cured."

Similar cures by Dodd's Kidney Pills are reported so frequently that it seems safe to say that Dodd's Kidney Pills will cure any form of Kidney Complaint or any disease caused by disordered Kidneys.

Revenue Last Year Nearly $64,000,000
—Surplus Over $22,000,000.

Ottawa, July 11.—The financial year ending June 30 has been one of unprecedented prosperity for Canada. The revenue on consolidated account amounted to the enormous sum of $63,739,271, giving a surplus of $22,290,168 over ordinary expenditures, and of $15,060,975 over all expenditures combined. All the receipts for the last financial year are not yet in. When paid they will augment the total revenue by about a million and a half. A number of liabilities incurred during the past twelve months have also to be met. It is not thought, however, that the totals given above will undergo any material change, as the receipts and expenditures still to come will about balance each other. Canada's big surplus will give the Government a chance to effect a large reduction in the public debt if they so desire. The increase in revenue in 1903-3, as compared with 1902-2, amounts to $7,435,577. The ordinary expenditure underwent a reduction of $806,213, and the capital expenditure a reduction of $4,302,062. The Dominion has every reason to congratulate itself upon a well-filled treasury, and rosy prospects for the future. Following is a detailed statement of the receipts and expenditures:—

Watford, July 11.—Mrs. E. Burlington of this place was probably fatally injured in a runaway accident three miles west of Watford yesterday. Three doctors were summoned, and removed a portion of the skull, but the chances of recovery are slight.

When the kidneys are weakened, the body is made foul and unhealthy with impure blood. The purification of the blood from waste and poisonous materials can be accomplished only by healthy action of the kidneys.

When the kidneys give warnings of weakness or disease, may Heaven help you to realize that such conditions are serious menaces to life. When you are apprised of dangers, do not delay the use of Dr. Pettinelli's Kidney-Wort Tablets; they always effect certain and rapid cures.

the church, held on Mr. Proctor's lawn, was a decided success.

Northwood team came over and a fast game of ball was played with our team. Result a tie, 2-2.

As the program advanced Mr. McKenzie, our popular young school teacher, was called upon the platform. A nicely worded address was read by James Proctor, expressing the high appreciation in which Mr. McKenzie was held by all and good wishes for his future career in the ministry. At the close of the address Mr. McKenzie was presented with a beautiful Bible and hymn book, besides some other useful works. All join in wishing Mr. McKenzie every success.

SOUTH BUXTON.

We are having an abundance of rain just now, which is spoiling the hay very much, but is just what the corn needed, which is making a fine growth these past few hot wet days.

It looks as if some fields of wheat will be ready to cut by the last of this week.

Last Friday's storm was very destructive. Lightning struck Martin Drew's house, tore out the gable end, demolished the chimney, ran down the stove pipe, sent the lids flying through the room, lifted the chair from under Mr. Drew and gave him a seat on the tea kettle and bored a hole in the tea kettle and passed down through the floor. Martin was stunned, but not injured. Archie Broadbent's barn was struck and burned to the ground with contents. Among other things destroyed was one separator, a new binder, and 500 bush of wheat. We learn that there was no insurance.

James Wellwood is bringing out the largest threshing outfit that has ever been brought before the public in this country. The separator is the largest, with blower, bagger, and all other modern improvements, and Park Bros. are building him the largest traction engine ever set up by that firm, with all the latest improvements. The whole outfit will cost about $2,500, and when at work will save for the farmers from five to seven men. This is quite an item to the farmers, being that men are so scarce and wages so high. This rig will be ready at the opening of the season's work.

The hay harvest is on in full swing. The crop is not as heavy as last year, and the wheat has begun to change its color and will be ready to cut before the hay is off.

Mr. Chas. Dunbrook has returned home to Cleveland.

Mr. S. Givings had a sand bee recently and got home several loads of sand. He is preparing to have his house raised and a concrete foundation put under it.

Mr. Willington Wallace has secured a large job of ditching near Port Alma and wants 15 teams at once, for which he will pay $4 per day.

INTERIOR PORTUGAL

MUCH HIGH ART AND PLENTY OF DIRT TO BE FOUND.

Some Interesting Impressions by an Observant Traveler - Discomforts of a Journey in the Odd Little Kingdom - Some Things That King Edward Did Not See and Sample During His Recent Visit.

If King Edward had prolonged his visit to Portugal and visited the interior, he would have experienced some of the roughest traveling of his life, and if he could be conceived of as stopping at the so-called hotels of the country he would also have slept in some of the most doubtful beds of his life and sampled perhaps the very worst cookery.

Estremoz is a town in the interior of the country in the Province of Alemtejo. As you approach it by rail from Lisbon you see it standing upon a hill in the distance, Moorish, picturesque and inviting. When you reach the station, however, you find the town itself of Estremoz is two miles away, and, like the journey of life, the road leads uphill all the way. It is a wretchedly bad road too. There is only one hotel in the town and a very poor one. Some of the bedrooms open off the dining-room. They are mere dark dens without windows.

The streets of Estremoz are sociable and barnyard-like. On Friday droves of pigs and goats are "shoed" through the streets to the market place and confined until Saturday morning, market day. Not all the pigs and goats are kept over, however. Some of them are sold at once on Friday, and the sale is clinched immediately by the slaughter on the spot in the open street of the hapless kid or squealing pig. This public killing is enough to make a sensitive soul forswear flesh eating, but the natives mind it not at all, neither the health authorities, if there are any.

And yet this same dirty, miserable town would delight the soul of the artist. As in most Latin countries, dirt and high art flourish together. There are probably more marble and marble carving in Estremoz than in any other small city. In the old houses are marble halls and carved marble staircases that would give beauty to the palaces of kings. From marble public fountains the water

COULD NOT SLEEP

On Account of Headaches and Pains in the Side.

The Sad Condition of a Bright Little Girl Until Dr. Williams' Pink Pills Came to her Rescue.

Many young girls seemingly in the best of health, suddenly grow listless and lose strength. The color leaves their cheeks; they become thin, have little or no appetite, and suffer from headaches and other bodily pain. Such was the case of Bessie, youngest daughter of Mr. Chas. Cobleigh, Eaton Corner, Que. Speaking of his daughter's illness and subsequent cure, Mr. Cobleigh says:—"Up to the age of eleven, Bessie had always enjoyed the best of health and took great pleasure in out-of-door play. Suddenly, however, she seemed to lose her energy; her appetite failed her; she grew thin and pale; slept badly at night, and complained of distressing headaches in the morning. We thought that rest would be beneficial to her, and so kept her from school, but instead of regaining her strength, she grew weaker and weaker. To make matters worse, she began to suffer from pains in the side, which were almost constant. We thought at first she was overworked, but as the stage we decided to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. After a couple of weeks, the good effect of this medicine was decidedly apparent. Bessie became more cheerful, her step quicker, her eyes were brighter and she seemed more like her former self. We continued giving her the pills for several weeks longer, until we felt that she had fully recovered her health and strength. I honestly believe had it not been for Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, our daughter would not have recovered her health and strength, and I shall always give a good word to say for this medicine."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills will cure all troubles that arise from poverty of the blood or weak nerves. Among such troubles may be classed anaemia, headache, neuralgia, erysipelas, rheumatism, heart ailments, dyspepsia, partial paralysis, St. Vitus' dance, and the ailments that render miserable the lives of so many women. Be sure you get the genuine with the full name "Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People," on the wrapper around every box. Sold by all medicine dealers, sent by mail, post paid, at 50c per box, six boxes for $2.50, by writing direct to the Dr. Williams Medicine Company, Brockville, Ont.

Vaccinating Plants. Science has not contented itself with hunting out lymph and virus which will give immunity from disease to humanity alone. It has turned its attention to "inoculation" for the vegetable kingdom as well. Remarkably interesting experiments have been carried on by French and English scientists, among them M. Beauverie and Professor Marshall Ward.

They are working along the line of demonstrating the feasibility of treating plant diseases in a way similar to that in which animals are rendered immune to attacks of illness. Many successful results have rewarded their investigations. Cuttings of begonia, for example, were allowed to grow in soil which had been impregnated with a species of fungus which is an attenuated form of a destructive parasite to plants, and which animals are immune to. The plants, after inoculation, or rather impregnation by absorption, the begonias were placed in a separate bed and the hordes of parasites in the shape of scores of the parasites were let loose upon them.

They resisted the attacks perfectly, showing the beneficial results of the new kind of vaccination for plants.

A WORD TO THE WISE.

Heart Disease the Most Sudden and Dangerous of Ailments. Dr. Agnew's Cure.

Stealthy as a thief in the night, Heart Disease heralds its coming only by the deadly grip it lays upon its victim—the distressing symptoms of Palpitation and Short Breath, Smothering Spells, Vertigo, etc. Nothing will remove their fatal grasp save Dr. Agnew's Cure for the Heart. Totally unlike all other remedies, it acts on the nerves through the heart. It has saved thousands of lives—will save yours. A. Du Berger, Waterloo, Que., writes: "Alfred Coulter, who lives at Geo. Bell's, in West Shefford, has suffered from terrible heart trouble for the last four years. It has been completely cured after using eight bottles of Dr. Agnew's marvelous remedy."

Dr. Agnew's Cathartic Powder is universally recognized as a specific for Catarrh, Cold in the Head, Sore Throat, Influenza, Hay Fever, Tonsillitis and all the distressing results of a neglected "bad cold." No. 39 Sold by Messrs. Gunn and McLaren, Druggists, Chatham.

MADE KINGS' WAYS EASY.

A Delightful Interview With M. Paoli, Who Has Been Exclusively Attached to All of France's Royal Visitors.

At a quiet little flat on the third floor in a quiet little street in the shade of one of the oldest churches, in an old part of Paris, a voice said, "Come in, please," in quiet, deep tones. The voice was that of M. Paoli—a little man with silvery white hair, snow-white moustache, and deep-set brown eyes, which gleam out of a face that is so typically Corsican that the name Paoli and the big bronze figure of the great First Consul in the place of honor on the mantelpiece are quite unnecessary to show that their owner is a countryman of the great Napoleon. Upon the walls, on etageres, on tables, and on every piece of furniture where there is room to place them are photographs of royal personages with autograph inscriptions—The Queen of Holland, the Shah, the King of Sweden, the Princess of Wales, the late Empress of Austria, and many others; but more numerous than any others are those of the late Queen Victoria. A big official portrait of her late Majesty is on the wall, small water-color sketches of the late Queen on her drives in the Riviera are there, and also a photograph of the Queen in the famous donkey carriage. It is not difficult to see that M. Paoli had a cult for the late Queen of England. In his memoirs, which will be published very soon, this cult will find expression, better than in mere conversation; for, as the dear old gentleman said to me, "I lost a dear friend when she died, and only to my pen can I, at all composedly, confide my feelings."

"I do not, as a rule, like to be interviewed," he said, sitting down next to me and speaking quietly and with an introspective smile. "I prefer to be what I have tried to be for the last fifteen years, the man in the shade, whom nobody notices, and whose work and privilege it is to make the King's way easy."

M. Paoli has been in the service of the French Home Office for the last thirty years, and since Her Majesty first went to Aix-les-Bains some fifteen years ago he has been exclusively attached to all the royal visitors to France—their guide, their protector, and in many ways their mentor. He is naturally proud of it, proud of the favorable smoothness with which each detail of the many royal visits which he has stage-managed has passed off, proud of the confidence placed in him by each succeeding Government of France, proudest of all of the friendship of his many royal and imperial friends.

There were tears in M. Paoli's eyes and deep emotion in his voice as he spoke of the late Queen Victoria. "I was with her at Aix-les-Bains, at Grasse, Hyeres, and at Nice," he said. "I was, to all intents and purposes, more with her than with any other man during her stays in France. Each time she left she asked that Paoli might receive her and look after her upon the coming visit. She treated me not as a servant, but as a friend, and on the long drives out into the country, when I was practically her sole companion, she even honored me by asking my advice on many matters. Sometimes on these excursions I almost shuddered at the responsibility upon my shoulders. The Queen and Empress of a powerful country, the guest of another. Think of the weight of it! But nothing ever happened. Each time the royal yacht steamed out of Cherbourg, mingled with the natural grief of parting from kind friends, I felt a natural feeling of relief that all had passed off without accident; for you must realize that on these visits I am responsible for everything pertaining to the safety and comfort of the royal or imperial visitor."

"The royal guests of France—I very nearly said 'my royal guests,' " said M. Paoli with a smile—"always make matters very easy for me, and of all the Kings, Queens, Emperors, and Empresses that I have known, it seemed a little odd to hear this quiet statement in a third floor flat of modest aspect) the royal family of England have always been the kindest, simplest mannered, and most charming. The members of your royal family know how much I love them, and they are untiring in showing kindnesses to me. I was invited, and went over to the Diamond Jubilee of the late Queen of England, and I was present at her funeral. The King invited me over to the coronation, and honored me with a long conversation after the coronation. As Prince of Wales I knew him well, and he was pleased to say the friendship should continue."

"How is it, M. Paoli, that you don't talk English?" he asked. "For they all speak French, as do the persons of their entourage. I have always meant to learn your language, but I am a busy man. One had to work hard, don't you see, to keep the signs of my work invisible."—Correspondence of London Pall Mall Gazette.

Tennyson's Uniform. Once when Tennyson dined with Sir Arthur Sullivan his wide brimmed felt hat and long, flowing cloak greatly impressed a servant at the composer's house. At the end of the evening, when Tennyson had departed, she gave vent to her feelings by asking whether that was "real" or "not" in these words: "Well, he do wear clothes?" "Yes, so do most poets," answered Sullivan, "and then you must remember he is the laureate." The girl thought it over for a few minutes, no doubt cogitating on his official position, before she responded, with a sigh, "What a uniform!"

Had No Money to Burn.

"I worked for John D. Rockefeller once," says a Boston landscape gardener. "One morning I was out in the ground doing some work among the plants and flowers, and as I worked I smoked. Pretty soon the old man strolled out that way and when he came up to where I was said in a quiet way, 'I never had any money to burn.' I didn't tumble for a second, and he stood there looking at me. 'I have managed to put away a few dollars,' he continued, 'but I never had any money to burn.' It came to me all at once what he meant, and I threw the cigar away. Next morning when he came around there I wasn't smoking. He came up with a smile on his face and said, 'Well, the stove isn't going today.'"

LACTATED FOOD Keeps Baby Well and Strong and Rapidly Increases Its Weight.

Lactated Food is the world's ideal nourishment for all babies. It is most easily digested and gives the happiest results. A thankful and happy mother writes as follows: "My baby weighed 8 1-2 pounds when born; 15 pounds when three months old, and 21-2 pounds when four months old. I think we were starving it, for no food agreed with it. The doctor was called in when the child was four months old. He recommended Lactated Food, and in two months it gained 8 1-2 pounds, and now weighs 21 pounds, all from using Lactated Food. Before using Lactated Food it had little life or activity, but now it is as lively as a cricket."

Tom—I can't help asking my fiancée occasionally why she loves me. Dick—Me, too; mine always gives me a very satisfactory answer. Tom—That so? What does she say? Dick—Because—Philadelphia Public Ledger.

A lazy liver may be only a tired liver, or a starved liver. A stick is all right for the back of a lazy man. But it would be a savage as well as a stupid thing to beat a weary man or a starving man because he lagged in his work. So in treating the lagging liver it is a great mistake to lash it with drastic drugs. In ninety-nine cases out of a hundred a torpid or sluggish liver is but a symptom of an ill-nourished body, whose organs are weary with overwork. Let your liver alone. Start with the stomach and its allied organs of digestion and nutrition. Put them in proper working order, and see how quickly your liver will become active and energetic. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery has made many marvellous cures of "liver trouble" by its wonderful control of the organs of digestion and nutrition. It restores the normal activity of the stomach, increases the secretions of the blood making glands, cleanses the system from poisonous accumulations, and so relieves the liver of the burdens imposed upon it by the defection of other organs.

Good opportunities must be taken by the forelock, not by the tail.

THE WORLD OF SPORT...

CRICKET.

MADE BIG SCORE.

The second eleven of the Chatham Cricket Club is fast making a record for itself. It is a matter of congratulation that Chatham can place a second team, of such calibre, in the field as played Ridgeway yesterday. It augurs well for the perpetuation of the game in Chatham.

The second eleven should be the training school for "eligibles" for the senior or first eleven. The colts fast making records are Taylor, Stegman, Robert, Hutchison and Gordon in batting, and Dennis, Sutherland and Gordon in bowling.

It is urged that Thamesville, Ridgeway, Highgate, Kingsville and the other towns do all in their power to awaken interest in the oldest and grandest of all the sports—the noble game of cricket.

Yesterday's game between Ridgeway and the second eleven, although very one-sided in favor of the local boys, was not lacking in interest.

Chatham went to bat first and were all out for a total of 121 runs, a large score compared with what the same team made against the same bowling in Ridgeway a week ago—29. Taylor made the heaviest score of the day—28—mostly in three hits, doing some very heavy batting. Stegman came next with 21 not out, while Robert batted a very pretty 15, Hutchison hit for 15 and young Harry Gordon got 13.

For Ridgeway, Jeffries, with eight runs to his credit, made the score. Innes Sutherland and Frank Dennis bowled exceedingly well for Chatham.

BASEBALL

A SPLENDID GAME.

"It was one of the best games I ever saw on Tecumseh Park," remarked a Maple City baseball enthusiast after yesterday's Tilbury-Maple Leafs game.

It was anybody's game right up till the last inning, although from the way the Chathamites started things going in the first innings it didn't look for a minute as if it would be close. The batting went all the way round and one over for a total of four hits and five runs. The visitors secured two runs in their first innings on a base on balls, two errors and a hit.

Tilbury got one in the second and one in the fifth, making the score 7-4 at the end of the sixth.

In the seventh, however, there was doings in plenty, the visitors had scored a run and there were two men out, and a man on third and second, when Catcher Hicks tried to catch the runner at third off the bag. Sowerby at third and the runner got mixed and the ball got away, allowing the two runners to come in.

The score was tied, but the Chathamites were equal to the occasion, coming back with the same trick as in the previous innings by four clean hits.

The scoring was finished and the next two innings were uneventful except for two double plays by the locals.

Joe Robert put up the star game of the day, securing a hit every time he faced a batter, placing the ball in the right spot each time, getting three clean singles and a double.

Bobby Grant pitched fine ball and his support, especially in the outfield, was gilt-edged, all the fielders, McGarry, Robert and Cook, making sensational running catches. Not a long drive did the visitors get in the outfield except when in the trees.

BASE HITS.

A strong bunch of hitters.

Well, we beat the "Champs" of the county.

Early has lost considerable of his last season's ability.

F. E. Nelles, manager of the Tilbury unpriced the game—and did good work.

One of the spectators remarked that Tilbury was playing ten men. He surely could not have meant that the umpire was favoring the team of which he was manager.

Joe Robert batted a thousand yesterday. Pretty good, eh?

Chauncey Depew played a good second base, getting many bad ones. Chauncey also hit the ball.

Tilbury third-bagger made a sensational running catch back in the crowd almost to the trees.

Bobby Grant fields his position and is always in the game.

ENTRANCE RESULTS

In connection with the results of the entrance examinations, recently published in The Planet, an error was made in attributing the creation of new records to the findings of the Board of Examiners. While the results were exceptionally satisfactory and congratulating, no new records were scored in the matter of high marks. A phenomenal total of nearly 1,000 marks, secured by a pupil of former years, is a record that will doubtless hold good for many years to come.

This was not a promising year for record-breaking. The examiners were much more severe in their analysis of the papers and a higher standard of qualification was required. The fact that all the schools made such a splendid showing is, therefore, specially creditable.

SUMMERY NECKWEAR.

There's no reasoning like variety in a neckwear stock. We go on the principle that a store can hardly have too many styles.

We could keep half as many lines of neckwear and you would not consider the stock skimpy—but then we would only have half as many chances of hitting your personal taste.

Cotton neckwear (washable) in midgets, tubulars, strings, Derbies, Ascots and stocks, all new bright patterns 10c. to 50c.

Binder Twine Test

J. L. Haycock, ex-M. L. A. and now employed as government inspector of binder twine, visited the M. J. Wilson Cordage Company last week and made a careful test of the twine being manufactured by this company. It will be gratifying to the firm's many customers to state that in point of length, tensile strength, and uniformity of size, the twine was found to exceed the government requirements, and running in all cases nearly five per cent. over standard length.

It is said that owing to the large prospective crop this season binder twine will be a scarce commodity and it is well known that the large dealers in the United States are seeking twine at higher prices.

The Days of Auld Lang Syne

Interesting Events of Ye Olden Times Gathered from The Planet's Issues of Half a Century Ago.

From Planet files of January 17, 1855, to February 13, 1856.

A son was born to Mrs. Thos. Stone on January 21, 1855.

The Town Council voted $1,250 toward the patriotic fund.

There was a terrible accident on the Great Western at Paris on February 21.

The County Council of Kent has contributed $1,000 to the Crimea war patriotic fund.

The marriage of Archibald McLeod to Miss Adala Slater was recorded on the 19th of February.

A private fund was subscribed in the town for the widows and orphans of those killed in the Crimea.

The third annual ball of the local fire company was held on Friday, January 27, with about 500 in attendance.

Hamilton subscribed $2,000 to the patriotic fund for widows and orphans resulting from the Crimea war.

Wred. T. Andrew, of Richmond, Virginia, was married to Miss Laura Tolson, of Chatham, on January 10, 1855.

The death is recorded of John McColl, father of Rev. Mr. McColl. He died on the 16th at the advanced age of 74 years.

At the first council meeting of the year A. D. McLean was duly elected mayor, John Waddell reeve, and John Smith deputy reeve.

Rev. John Robb was elected president of the Mechanics' Institute, Jas. Baxter and A. McKellar vice-presidents, and Duncan McColl librarian.

The Toronto City Council voted $4,000 to the patriotic fund and then put it to the people for approval. The majority for it was just 38 out of a population of 40,000 souls and the Council backed up on their former decision.

The appointment of Thomas McCrea as police magistrate for Chatham was confirmed by the Government. Mr. McCrea was Chatham's first police magistrate and honored the occasion by treating a number of his friends to a banquet.

The school trustees for 1855 were elected as follows:
Northwood ward—Rev. A. McCall and Geo. Duck.
Eberts ward—James Burs and Wm. Eberts.

Chrysler ward—Rev. M. Robb and Mr. Pratt.

The County Council elections resulted in the election of the following:
Camden and Zone—James Smith, reeve.
Dover, East and West—Thos. Shaw.
Harwich—Geo. Young and Wm. McMichael.

Orford—Mr. McLean.
Chatham Township—Samuel Arnold, John Waddell and John Smith.
Raleigh—Thos. Pardo.
Romney—Thos. Jackson.
Warden—James Smith.

A petition signed by James Burns and 80 others to have saloon licenses fixed at $37.10 was presented at the Council. Another petition was submitted from Leonard Blackburn soliciting the appointment of high constable, also one from John Goodyear for the same office. Mr. McKellar moved Mr. Goodyear's name for the position, and in supporting his motion said that no person should hold this office who is connected in the remotest way with the sale of intoxicating liquor. Frequently had the complaint reached him in his magisterial capacity that Mr. Blackburn made persons drunk in his saloon for very object of committing them to jail and pocketing the dollar. He thought, therefore, that Mr. B. was not a fit person for the position. Notwithstanding Mr. McKellar's charge Mr. Blackburn got the job.

The refusal of accommodation to a colored man, reported in Toronto, on Tuesday night, was discussed in the Ontario License Department Friday. It was pointed out that by the 75th section of the Ontario License Act showed a refusal entails liability on the part of the hotelkeeper to a fine of twenty dollars.

While returning home from Fletcher Friday afternoon John Richardson, of Tilbury East, met with a serious accident. His horse became frightened, running away, completely demolishing his rig. Mr. Richardson was thrown out on his head and shoulders. The physicians report him doing favorably, but on account of his advanced age they fear he may not stand the shock.

ITALIAN METHOD

"Doc" Arnold was in a funny mood this morning—which is nothing funny for Doc.

"You probably will have noticed from the papers," said he to The Planet, "that in Italy they are excavating evidences that at one time in the earth's history water ran up hill. Now the man who put down the sewer on Victoria avenue must have been reading all about this, because every intake on that street is up higher than the street level. These sewers must have been put down a long time ago, for as far back as I can remember the water has always run down hill.

"As a result of this work the street is filled with mud holes. These are especially bad near the residences of T. A. Smith and S. T. Martin. I think they ought to be filled in."

Art. Dunn, who was near, chimed in with—
"I was driving yesterday through the country over 45 miles of road and the only bad roads I found were in the mud on Victoria avenue." Some one who was standing near thought that the intake must have been put down by the late city engineer Topp, because they are on "top" of the road level. No one laughed, however, and it was not even recognized as a good pun.

NEW PAVEMENT

"I am not in the least enamored of that William St. wooden pavement," remarked Rufus Baxter this morning. "How that pavement is expected to stand I don't know. The blocks are nothing but pine hearts. The carbolic carbolium treatment is a farce. The city might better have saved those chestnut fence rails, treated them with tar and used them. When a horse with heavy mud corks on his shoes strikes that pavement he will pull the blocks out. You'll see if I am not right.

"The only way to build a pavement in Chatham is with a cement foundation, and that is the only good feature of the William St. pavement. The foundation, though, to the King St. pavement is such in name only. You perhaps have noticed those hollows on King St. I believe that under nearly every one of those hollows the concrete has caved in. The cement is holding the bricks together. The other day when a horse slipped on one of those hollow places the cement gave way and the horse got his foot in the hole where the bricks dropped out. Had not the horse been going slow he would in all probability have broken his leg. The brick from King St. and the concrete from William St. would together make one good pavement.

Joe on Smuggling Operations

Is Much Interested in the Customs Seizures from Passengers on "City of Chatham"—Some Instances He Noticed.

"Drop around to-night Joe. There's a little work here waiting a good smart lad like you."

The compliment didn't phase on the shiner. He shook his head.

"Can't spare no time," he responded nonchalantly.

"Can't spare the time? Why, you have nothing to do these summer evenings!"

"The boat comes in ter night and doin's due," quoth Joe with a significant nod, "a feller never wants ter miss doin's."

"Aha! I see. Some fair and youthful amorita in the case?"

"Naw," disgustedly, "not fer me. But ther customs guys is lieble ter out loose again—and it's great sport er watchin' 'em."

"Say, I had ther sweetest time ther other night er watchin' 'em. They was doin' it up right, I tells yer. There was ther maddest lot er women folks around what you ever seen—and er few men guys what looked kinder 'shamed ter see they'd been placed in ther female class. Smugglin' is woman's long suit in ther swipin' line anyhow. It's kinder sneakin' bizness, yer know, and any duffer mostly tan get erway with it. So they shines. I feels ther 'profound contempt,' what the preachers speaks of, when I sees er man get nabbed so easy.

"Not but what some of these here women folks and gurls is becomin' artists. They stacks the cards on ther customs men and sometimes gets erway with it. Some of 'em develops amazin' on ther fresh air and cool breeze er one trip. Ther weight increases just wonderful, and they looks ther part.

"Say, ther other night they stopped one woman what could just waddle. Her dress hang kinder queer and she sweat just orful—both before and after takin' most perticklerly after, fer the customs took her fer keeys. Ther'll likely be er special customs auction sale er that woman's belongings. It'll need it."

"Then erlong come er woman with er baby go-cart with ther infant er-smilin' in its slumbers. There is no sentiment the soul er that officer guy er he'd er-let that there kid sleep—and missed a powerful lot er pickin's. Say, its wonderful what er go-cart will hold, ain't it? I never knew until I see what they unearth from under that squallin' baby."

"Then I sees ther big diamond flash and I'm on. They stops this gent an' examines him kinder close. They didn't get no more than three coats on him—and there was er bouquet pinned on ther lapel of every one."

"Ah! here she comes now—one er those serciety gurls, I guess. Yer know ther kind what wears tight fittin' skirts and flashes er few inches er drop stitch at yer every now and then. I guess she ain't an artist with that 'I'd-like-ter-see-ther-man-what-would-dare-ter-stop-and-examine-me' air. Well, she got erway with it. She fooled the customs feller all right. But she couldn't fool me. I've got eyes and I ain't been studyin' Parisian fashions and models fer nuthin'."

"They should have you for a customs inspector, Joe."

"Twouldn't do," commented the shiner. "I'd kill ther boat business."

PLEASANT CONCERT

The Daughters of Rebekah held an At Home in the I. O. O. F. Auditorium Thursday evening. There was an excellent attendance. Ice cream and cake were served during the early part of the evening, after which the following excellent program was rendered:—

Chairman's Address—B. K. Harper.
Solo—Miss Gertrude Knox.
Instrumental Duett—Misses Lamont and Clements, and Clements.
Piano Solo—Mrs. Knox.
Address—M. Sides.
Solo—Wm. Mellish, accompanied by H. W. Smith.
Scotch Recitation—Samuel McCornock.

Solo—Miss Gertrude Knox.
Piano Solo—Mrs. Knox.
Vocal Solo—Fire Chief Fritchard.
The last was the treat of the evening, and Mr. Fritchard was compelled to respond to several encores. It has since been rumored that he has received a flattering offer from a large concert company of Boston.

DISGRACEFUL AFFAIR

Last Tuesday Geo. Hoyles, lot 20, concession 7, Chatham Township, had a barn raising and in the evening gave those who had taken part a party at his home. All went well until lunch time, when one of the number, who was evidently the worse of liquor, struck Roy Hoyles in the eye. Roy was carrying a basket of sandwiches at the time and this party demanded something to eat. Roy did not see fit to give it to him until the proper time, and, therefore, got a blow in the eye, from which he bled profusely. His brother Harry, who was standing near, jumped on the person who had struck his brother, and Harry evidently got the worst of it, as about three o'clock yesterday morning he called on Dr. Williams, who had to put four stitches in his left ear; it having been nearly chewed off. This is certainly a disgraceful affair and the cause of the trouble, if he is a man, should be ashamed of himself, but the party who was guilty of chewing young Hoyles' ear is no man at all.—Dresden Times.

NEWSY NOTES FROM THIS WIDE AWAKE DISTRICT

Miss Pauline Reycraft, daughter of County Commissioner Reycraft, and Mr. David White, of Owen Sound, were married at the home of the bride yesterday.—Thamesville Herald.

A quiet home wedding took place at 4.30 Thursday afternoon last at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Francis Hathaway, Wallaceburg, when their second daughter, Miss Maud M., was united in marriage to Richard Sanders, of Leamington.

Manager Burns, of the local flax mill, stated to the Times yesterday that the flax crop was picked up wonderfully the past few days, and he anticipates the best crop yet raised here, although the recent storms have in some cases twisted the stalks. The best sample is a 5-acre field of Angus McIntosh's in Tilbury East, with Jos. Giroux, of Tilbury North, a good second. Flax-picking will commence next week.—Tilbury Times.

Maggie M., wife of Louis Bennett, of the Howard-Harwich Townline, died on Tuesday evening at the age of 45 years. The deceased, who had been ill for a long time, leaves a husband and eight children to mourn her loss. Funeral Friday at two o'clock to Blenheim cemetery.

F. S. Malott, of Quinn, reported yesterday that the corn crop looks well in his district. He has a fine sample of three feet high. F. M. Scarff, who has a 110-acre field on the plains, also reports favorably, although east and west of this district, reports are not so glowing.—Tilbury Times.

We extend hearty congratulations, in which we are sure many will join, to Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Westland, who on Tuesday celebrated their golden wedding anniversary. Fifty years ago on that day they were married at Chatham. Mr. Westland at that time resided in London, and he drove all the way to Howard by way of Talbot street to claim his bride, going to the county town to have the marriage ceremony performed. Ridgetown was a very small place then, although a few years later Mr. Westland came here to reside, and has remained here continuously since.

The death occurred at Merlia of John Ballah, aged 45 years, after a short illness subsequent to an apoplectic stroke. Mr. Ballah, who was widely known in Kent, was born in Dorchester, Ont., and afterwards resided a while at Belmont, Ont. Twenty-five years ago he came to Merlia, and for 14 years kept the Commercial House; then selling out he moved to Port Alma, where he carried on a general store for over a year. Twenty years ago he married Miss Annie Hodgins, whom he leaves behind, as well as a sister and brother.

The funeral of the late D. A. McDonald, of Woodstock, late of Tilbury, took place on Monday, instead of Sunday, owing to the train conveying the remains from British Columbia being wrecked near Winnipeg. Deceased's mother and other relatives were also on the train, but no one seriously injured.—Tilbury Times.

Charles Dyer, a well known London Township farmer, died of lockjaw Thursday morning. The unfortunate man stepped on a rusty nail in his barn on Saturday. He was not greatly alarmed over the incident, and but for the pain the wound caused him, would probably have forgotten the matter. Some time after, however, the foot began to swell. Medical men were called in, and the usual remedies were applied. These proved unavailing and, after suffering much, Mr. Dyer passed away as stated.

CLEAN SPORT

A public rumor is going the rounds of the press that the Chatham-Lacrosse Club have made monetary overtures to certain professional Detroit stars to aid them in their forthcoming cup match with Wallaceburg.

The Planet is not inclined to believe the report and sincerely trusts there is not a shadow of foundation for it.

Chatham is proud of her young athletes. They have done splendidly and reflect credit on the city. But Chatham does not want purchased athletic laurels—there is no credit in them. With her own sons the Maple City is justifiably well satisfied. If her boys can win—and here's luck to them!—she will enthrall and rejoice with them; if they are up against a better team she will experience no chagrin if they go down to defeat in honorable, manly, zealous struggle. Better a thousand times for the plucky Wallaceburg club to win from us in a clean, hard-fought game, than that we should purchase an empty and sullied victory.

Chatham can't afford to stoop to conquer.

POPE LEO XIII.

The persistent rumors concerning the health of Pope Leo XIII. are not to be denied, and as His Holiness is now far past the allotted span of life, it is probably not going too far to give credence to the latest despatch concerning the Pontiff, which says that the slender thread that connects Leo with earth cannot withstand the strain much longer. A grand old man indeed has been and in his head of the Catholic Church. A deep thinker and a shrewd observer, he has been a life-long student of events and men, and probably no man living known the people and nations of the world as Leo knows them. Always moderate, always conservative, always throwing his mighty influence in with the cause of right, he has lived at peace with the Protestant powers and, with the exception of the troubles with France, for which France is alone to blame, Leo is at peace with the world. Leo is the last of a famous quartette that once held the boards of Europe—Victoria, Bismarck, Gladstone and Pope Leo XIII. Frail and delicate even in his youth, His Holiness has continued all of his former contemplative, but the inevitable must happen ere long. If Leo's successor reigns with as much wisdom as the present Pontiff, the world will be the better for his reign, as it is for the reign of the successor of Pious IX.

CYCLISTS' CLAIMS.

Regulation of all kinds is but experimental, as a glance at our statutes will reveal. Acts are passed and tried and repealed or amended and next session.

Why not in the same way pass such a by-law as wheeled men ask and give it a fair test? It can be repealed without discredit and, if for good cause, will satisfy the wheeled men.

The objection that injury will result is best answered by reference to the working of similar by-laws in other cities. For example Port Huron regulates riding on the walk in the following way:

Pedestrians shall have the right of way upon all of the sidewalks of the city and shall not be required or compelled to vacate and leave said sidewalks for the purpose of permitting bicyclists to pass them whether moving in the same or contrary direction, and in every instance the riders of a bicycle must give the right of way to the pedestrian or pedestrians, and, if necessary, dismount or vacate the sidewalk in order to prevent a collision.

The rate of speed of bicycle riders within the limits of the city of Port Huron shall be as follows: For all wheelmen and bicyclists riding upon the streets not to exceed ten miles per hour; for all wheelmen and bicyclists riding upon any of the sidewalks permitted by this ordinance not to exceed eight miles per hour. It shall not be lawful for any person to ride a bicycle at night upon any of the sidewalks of said city from one-half hour after sunset until one-half hour before sunrise unless the same is provided and equipped with an illuminated lamp.

The by-law proves satisfactory there.

Mount Pleasant permits riding on sidewalks as follows:

Bicycles may be run upon the sidewalks of the city of Mount Pleasant at a rate of speed not to exceed six miles an hour.

It shall be unlawful for any person while riding a bicycle upon any of the sidewalks of the city of Mount Pleasant to meet or pass a pedestrian upon the same walk; such person shall dismount from the bicycle and meet or pass said pedestrian walking.

Any person riding a bicycle upon any of the sidewalks of the city of Mount Pleasant between twilight at night and daylight in the morning shall carry attached to the front of his or her bicycle a lighted lamp.

Mr. W. C. McDonald, the City Clerk

of Mount Pleasant, says with reference to their ordinance that "it gives very good satisfaction; it is not strictly enforced, but all who ride wheels know what to expect in case they intrude upon the rights of the pedestrian, so are much more careful in passing."

If such by-laws prove satisfactory in other places, why should they not do the same here?

The least the City Council can do is to give it a fair trial.

Something About People You Ought to Know.

T. A. Smith—You know T. A. Everybody knows T. A. and T. A. knows everybody. Tall, thin man with the gray side whiskers. May be 35, may be 40, may be 50. Acknowledges having passed his 40th birthday. Owns a huge diamond that cost $400 and some cents. That's why T. A. says that there is some sense in a ring like his. Great as a stump speaker. Has stumped all over the county speaking and then stumped some of the opposition to speak against him.

T. A. is a great favorite as a spell binder at country concerts. Some doubt whether they admire his personality, his ring or his speeches the most.

Went out to Charing Cross one night to speak. Had nothing up his sleeve. Doesn't carry notes. Says he speaks on his cuff. Doesn't need any. T. A. says he speaks from heart. Little boy sighted T. A. Smith. "We're going to have a good time to-night. Here's T. A. Smith," cried he as the veteran of the oratorical platform broke upon his vision. Quite a compliment. Was well worth the quarter it won.

Mr. Smith spent many years in municipal life. Was Mayor twice and Alderman many years. Has fine residence in North Chatham. Is fond of flowers. Raises many kinds of plants. A hard-working, enthusiastic Conservative. Devotes his time and talents to his party. His hobbies are lacrosse, and fishing. Used to play lacrosse. Played against Brantford Indians once. Big Indian knocked him a mile or more. T. A. says he was so thin in those days there wasn't enough of him to offer resistance to the atmosphere. That's why he went so far without stopping.

George S. Heyward—Good friend of the world, jovial, good-natured, kind-hearted. Also great admirer of fair sex. His admiration for lovely woman is only exceeded by his love of fishing. School trustee and ex-alderman. Likes school trustee business best. Great friend of McKeough school. His confederate on the Board complain that he wants too much for McKeough school. Always has something that school needs. If managers of Central school want anything, got to give it to McKeough school too, or won't support it.

Fishing where he makes his heavy baiting record. Fishes with hook and line mostly. Never known to fish with silver. Has all the great accomplishments of a true angler. Ever heard his fish tales you could well believe them. They're winners. Friends gave him a medal for his skill in the respect, and an address. The acknowledged he was the best. Proud of his honor. Vital Goudreau a little disappointed. Thought he deserved it. George liked that, too. Doesn't like some trees. Tried to cut down the trees on the park, but quit. He blames G. W. Sulman for his quitting, and G. W. blames him for starting. Blamed if he did and blamed if he didn't. Doesn't write letters to the paper. Doesn't write letters to the paper. Doesn't like to see his name in print, but is getting used to it. One of Chatham's leading grocers. Also a warm Conservative and a hard worker in the interests of his party. Broad minded and fair. Liked equally by Liberal and Conservative. Keeps a Conservative and a Liberal clerk, so that he can be called truly a Liberal-Conservative.

"Getting Together"

Heart to Heart Talks with Chathamites on General Topics—A Local Philosopher who Chats Entertainingly.

WHY?

It may be due to the cold, wet spring, it may be due to the sudden change, and now it is neither cold nor wet, it may be due to what psychologists term unconscious cerebration, and it may possibly be due to what physiologists call cell proliferation, but for some reason or another questions hard to be answered, keep crowding themselves to the front and, like the ghost at the feast, they will not be downed.

Why is it, for instance, that during the present hot spell it is the man who does the least work, that talks most of the necessity for a holiday. The man that in the early morning clothes himself in a flannel suit, spotless and cool, with white canvas shoes and Panama hat, the youth whose brow was never wet with honest sweat, is thinking of Muskoka and the cool breezes of the northern climes, while the man who works 313 days in the year must of necessity stay right by his job in order to keep the wolf from the door. We wonder why it is thus.

Why is it, too, that the pampered daughter of luxury can don her suit of duck or lawn, betake herself to some lakeside or shaded grove, or possibly as companion to the aforesaid man in the flannel suit, enjoy the lake breezes in a vapor launch, while the girl that keeps her muslin or flannel suit presentable and does the typewriting and correspondence for papa must sit and swelter, though her brain may reel, almost refusing sometimes to keep up under the strain. Once again we wonder why it is thus.

Why is it, we wonder, that the civic or government employee, whose hours are short, and whose pay is large, is permitted to have a holiday for three or four weeks, while his less fortunate brother, whose hours are long and whose pay is small, must force himself to be satisfied with an occasional half-day off. Is it one more illustration of the Bible truth, that to him that hath shall be given? Why it is, we wonder, that the junior clerk in a banking or other large business establishment must always follow the fashion of the closely reminding one forcibly of a fashion plate, while the manager can wear a hat that was not just up-to-date last year, or a pair of trousers that have not been very recently creased.

Why is it, once again, we wonder, that the City Council is willing to grant exemption from taxes and free water, or possibly make a fixed rate of assessment to people who are abundantly able to pay the taxes and pay the water rate, but refuse to give the slightest rebate to, or exemption from taxation, or give free water to the man or woman whose earning ability is limited, and to whom tax-paying time is a veritable terror.

Why, why, is it that there are so many "hearts pregnant with celestial fire," so many "hands that the rod of empire might have swayed or wake to ecstasy the living lyre," why so many many eminently worthy, to whom the door of opportunity seems always closed, while to some certainly no more worthy and to many much less worthy every door of opportunity is ever open and favors, and the desirable things of this world seem to come in super-abundance.

SWIMMING BATHS.

The great need of swimming baths in the Maple City was never more evident than last Thursday evening, when a crowd of strollers stood on the bank of the river and watched the Lacrosse boys take a dip into the river from the park dock. The plunge was refreshing after a night's hard practice, and the boys enjoyed it immensely, but there are many who take part in sports on the park, such as cricketers, baseballists and footballists, who are not as fortunate as their lacrosse brothers, who are able to jump into the river in their playing clothes. Anyone who thinks of the matter at all cannot but realize that it is high time that swimming baths were established in the Maple City.

Scotch straw is the leading millinery of the moment. This, as its name implies, is plaided with a predominant tone of blue, green or red, intermingled with a dozen secondary shades. The straw is treated with exceptional lightness and, on close inspection, reveals a series of tiny loops, while the arrangement of the many colors is very tasteful.

Fuchsia flowers and fuchsia shades are all the vogue and are seen both on gowns and on hats.

The straight front corset still prevails, worn less than ever. It is made in as many instances as possible of fine, flexible material.

A SUSTAINING DIET.

These are the enervating days, when, as somebody has said, men drop by the enstroke as if the Day of Fire had dawned. They are fraught with danger to people whose systems are poorly sustained; and this leads us to say, in the interest of the less robust of our readers, that the full effect of Hood's Sarsaparilla is such as to suggest the propriety of calling this medicine something besides a blood purifier and tonic, say, a sustaining diet. It makes it much easier to bear the heat, assures refreshing sleep, and will without doubt avert much sickness at this time of year.

THIS UNPOETIC AGE

COMMERCIALISM IS KILLING THE BEST OF MANKIND'S QUALITIES.

THE HEN'S WING AS A SYMBOL.

God's Wing Is a Spiritual Life-Giving Wing and Can Save Even from the Hardness of Commercialism—How the All-Father's Love Can Vivify and Quickened Life If We Place Ourselves in Receptive Mood.

Entered according to Act of Parliament of Canada, in the year 1903, by William Baily, of Toronto, at the Dept. of Agriculture, Ottawa.

Chicago, July 5.—Under the homely and familiar similitude of the barnyard fowl the preacher illustrates the divine love and protecting care that encircle all who give to the Heavenly Father a childlike trust and confidence. The text is Matthew xxiii, 37, "As a hen gathereth her chickens under her wings."

This commercial age is brutally unpoetic. It has even carried its shocking innovations into the barnyard. We are now trying to hatch our eggs not into broods, but by the wholesale. We would change a hen's nest into a big, square wooden box and call it an incubator. We would have the oil lamp of the incubator do the work of the feathered breast and the outstretched wing. We would have the wire screen displace the sharp pointed bill of the barnyard mistress vehemently plunging right and left in defense of her young. We would do this in spite of the inalienable rights of the hens, whose maternal affections are being crushed by this modern custom. The man, eager above all things to make money, has not the patience to listen to protests from man or bird against his methods.

This controversy, however, does not concern us in dealing with the simile Christ used in our text. At the time Christ uttered those words the barnyard knew nothing of this modern innovation of the incubator. Chickens still found their natural shelter under the wings of the hen, and our Lord's hearers perfectly understood the meaning of his illustration. So common was the sight of a hen gathering her chickens under her wings that every one would recognize the truth Christ meant to teach when he used the hen's wing as a symbol of divine love. Thus, as Jesus wept over the sinful inhabitants of Jerusalem, in the words of my text I would try to interpret that divine love in the language of the barnyard.

God's wing is a spiritual life giving wing. The warm feathers of the mother bird are absolutely essential for the development of the lives of her young. If it were not for the old hen's wing her chickens would freeze to death during the spring nights. They would sometimes be drowned unless her wing, as a waterproof covering, were placed over them. They would die from lack of warmth, even as a little baby would die unless the mother every night tucked him up in his crib or snuggled him up by her warm side in bed. Heat is life. Cold is death. The hen's wing is something more than a mere poetic figure. It means that its warmth not only hatches out the eggs, but also by its heat develops the little chickens after they are hatched. Post-natal care for the child in the making of a man is just as important as right prenatal conditions.

God's wing is absolutely essential for the development of a spiritual child. The Bible distinctly says, "Ye must be born again." That means, "Ye must be a God production as well as a man production." I am the physical child of my earthly parents. That does not necessarily imply that I am a spiritual child of God. But some day out in the cold, damp, destroying storm of sin I determine to creep under God's spiritual, life giving wing. As soon as I am under that shelter I feel the divine life begin to creep into my life. I learn to love my Heavenly Father and see him as he is. I hear him telling me what I ought to do and say. As a human being by placing his hand upon an electric battery immediately feels a thrill as the galvanic currents circle through his body the physical body and the mind and the dormant spirit all feel the warmth and the glow and the creative and developing power of God's wing as soon as we place ourselves in the receptive mood within the radius of the divine touch.

Oh, the creative and the creating spiritual power of God's wing! We cannot afford to be one moment without it. Sir Henry Havelock, the most famous Christian soldier, at the time of his death, in the British army, so felt his spiritual dependence upon God that he dare not and would not let any day pass without at least two hours spent in closest contact with God's wing. If the army was to march at 6 in the morning then Havelock arose at 4 and spent the intervening time in prayer and Bible reading, in talking with God and in having God talk to him. "I can afford to neglect every pulpit preparation," once wrote the great Robert Hall, "rather than neglect my private devotions and sacred solitary communion with Christ." Oh, my brother and sister, are we trying to get divine life by merely coming into touch with men? Are we trying to be gospel evangelists, known and read of all men, without having our penitent hearts beating against the great pardoning, spiritual life giving heart of God? Come under God's wing to-day. Come, that we may have life and have it more abundantly. Listen to the divine call, and come to the divine shelter, and as the chickens find under the hen's wing comfort and safety and peace, so shall you find rest and peace for your souls.

God's wing is a protecting wing. There are two kinds of hens. The one is a chickenless fowl, which is an errand coward. She will run at every strange sight and known danger. If she could fly, she would. When the little boy throws a stone at her she will run to the opposite side of the yard just as fast as she can go, keeping her wings flapping to help along in the retreat. But how different is the behavior of one who is clucking to her brood. There is no coward's heart beating within the mother's breast. Then there is no danger she will not face for her young.

The hen's wings in times of danger are always protecting wings. The other day I was walking about a farm and examining the horses in the stalls and the cattle in the fields, while a pet dog was running at my heels. During my explorations I heard an excited clucking, but thought nothing of it. As I stepped into the barnyard proper I saw a hen lying under a board. I called to her, but she moved not. I called again and again, and then tried to shoo her off what I thought to be a stolen nest. Then I took a stick and gave her a poke. Instead of a frightened hen flying away for her life I found a vindictive and outraged mother flying at me and my dog. The dog ran in one direction, I in the other. Then the hen called again to her young and gathered her chickens under her wing while she still eyed my four-legged companion as she would eye the would be murderer of her children. Oh, my friends, in the beautiful symbol of my text, did you ever stop to think that God's care could be a protecting wing?

God protects us in a physical sense. Some time ago a gentleman, with his family, wished to make a journey to Boston. He hurried through his work that his vacation might be one of complete rest; but, as hard as he could, he lost the desired train. A short time after the gentleman read the telegraphic reports that the train upon which he hoped to travel was wrecked in a collision and scores of people were killed. He immediately gathered his family together and returned thanks to God because he and his loved ones had been saved from this calamity. But why ought that man especially to have thanked God that day? Ought he not rather to be grateful to his Heavenly Father for caring for him and his loved ones every day? I never take a trip in my life, and I have traveled thousands and tens of thousands of miles, but I realize the innumerable dangers which everywhere beset me. One intoxicated engineer, one drunken switchman, one failure of the signal lights to work, and death is ready to reach out her bony arms and hug the breath out of me. If you do not believe what I say, some night when traveling lie awake in your berth. Then listen to the rumbling in the distance coming nearer and nearer until, with one wild shriek, the limited shoots past and then realize the prevalent dangers. Then thank God that he cared for and protected you in a physical sense. The breaking of one wheel, the twisting of one rail, the sagging of one bridge girder, and your train would be derailed and all its occupants would be hurled into eternity. God's wing in a physical sense is over us. It is protecting wing. It covers us as a hen shields her chickens from the threatening hawk.

God protects us in a spiritual sense. The Bible says, "God is faithful, who will not suffer you to be tempted beyond that ye are able, but will with the temptation also make a way to escape, that ye may be able to bear it." What does that statement mean? Simply this: Here is a man whose whole nature is gnarled and twisted by sin. He is by a corrupt past a drunkard, a libertine, a thief. He wants to get under the protecting shadow of God's wing. When he arises in the morning he kneels by his bed and says: "O God, I am awfully weak. I know not which way to turn unless I look to thee. Save me this day from the wine cup. Save me from the part of the pitfalls which are yawning at my feet. Save me, O God, save me, save me!" Will God answer such a pleading prayer as that? Oh, yes. God says to this moral cripple: "Come, my child, come under my wing, my protecting wing. I will surround thee with holy companionship. I will shut out from thee the temptations of the world, the flesh and the devil, and the serpents and the rats of sin which would destroy your life! Come, my child, come. Come under the shadow of my spiritually protecting wing. My friends, some of us have been trying to resist temptation in our own strength. Will you not depend upon the strength of God? Will you to-day, as a Christian, accept God's protecting wing against your besetting sin? That wing is a pledge that God will not allow your temptation to be stronger than you shall have power given to resist."

God's protecting wing is one of Christian fellowship. An old homely proverb says, "A hen will make just as much noise and scratch just as hard for one chicken as she will for ten." That may be true. Such actions upon the part of the feathered bird might be very exemplary. But one of the most ridiculous sights to me is a great, big fat hen strutting through the barnyard followed by one wee, little chirping chicken. Better for that little chicken to be killed and the hen go out her legitimate business of laying eggs for the breakfast than for the mother bird to continue to waste her energies upon the one offspring. The natural brood for a hen is not one or two chickens, but eight, nine or ten or even thirteen chickens. Every would-be sitting hen if left alone nearly always lays thirteen eggs for her nest. She wants a large family. A large family is good for the hen. It is good for the chickens.

What is the practical application of this simile? Why God's wing is a protection which not only a Christian can find rest but many Christians. God's children are going to find safety and protection under God's wing because they will work together and live together and have their hearts beating together and, as it were, snuggle up together and keep each other spiritually warm. They will be together as close as fellowship as the chickens are close together under their mother's wing. If you lift up a hen who is covering her little ones at night you will be surprised how many chickens her small area is able to shelter. The reason each chicken is pressing close against the other chickens as well as against its mother's breast.

God's wing often protects his children best when they themselves are enveloped by total darkness. The little chickens, running to the warning call of the clucking hen, answer for the most part to the blind obedience of faith and love. When they crawl under the overshadowing and enveloping covering of that wing they can see nothing. Under that wing is total darkness. When the chickens are truly under that wing they leave all and trust all to their mother's care. It is because those chickens stay in total darkness under that wing that they often escape the searching eye of an advancing foe.

My dear hearer, are you ready to trust God in darkness as well as in the light? You came to me the other day and said, "I cannot understand why this trouble was laid at my door." Neither can I, my brother. I do not understand why God should have taken away from your side that young man just five months after he was graduated from the bar. He was a bright fellow. He was a pure boy. He was the child upon whom you set your heart to take your own place. You are in total darkness about this matter. So am I. But I do know God is good. I do know that God loved your boy. I do know that God loves you. Though under God's wing it may be dark, at times as at a fungeous yet I do know that above God's wing is God's all seeing eye. What God did he did for a good purpose. Trust him, then, my brother. Trust him and have faith as a chicken under the darkness of the hen's wing trusts a mother's love.

I do not know why in your old age you should have lost your money, and now in your physical weakness you must work or be dependent upon others. From my standpoint you always seem to have been a faithful and conscientious Christian. I do not know why Ira D. Sankey, who has sung thousands upon thousands into the light of the kingdom of God, should in the evening time of his life sit in total darkness and as a blind man have to be led around, helpless as a little child. But I do know that "all things work together for good to them that love God." I do know his care will give us a peace that passeth all understanding rights to work, and death is ready to reach out her bony arms and hug the breath out of me. If you do not believe what I say, some night when traveling lie awake in your berth. Then listen to the rumbling in the distance coming nearer and nearer until, with one wild shriek, the limited shoots past and then realize the prevalent dangers. Then thank God that he cared for and protected you in a physical sense. The breaking of one wheel, the twisting of one rail, the sagging of one bridge girder, and your train would be derailed and all its occupants would be hurled into eternity. God's wing in a physical sense is over us. It is protecting wing. It covers us as a hen shields her chickens from the threatening hawk.

God protects us in a spiritual sense. The Bible says, "God is faithful, who will not suffer you to be tempted beyond that ye are able, but will with the temptation also make a way to escape, that ye may be able to bear it." What does that statement mean? Simply this: Here is a man whose whole nature is gnarled and twisted by sin. He is by a corrupt past a drunkard, a libertine, a thief. He wants to get under the protecting shadow of God's wing. When he arises in the morning he kneels by his bed and says: "O God, I am awfully weak. I know not which way to turn unless I look to thee. Save me this day from the wine cup. Save me from the part of the pitfalls which are yawning at my feet. Save me, O God, save me, save me!" Will God answer such a pleading prayer as that? Oh, yes. God says to this moral cripple: "Come, my child, come under my wing, my protecting wing. I will surround thee with holy companionship. I will shut out from thee the temptations of the world, the flesh and the devil, and the serpents and the rats of sin which would destroy your life! Come, my child, come. Come under the shadow of my spiritually protecting wing. My friends, some of us have been trying to resist temptation in our own strength. Will you not depend upon the strength of God? Will you to-day, as a Christian, accept God's protecting wing against your besetting sin? That wing is a pledge that God will not allow your temptation to be stronger than you shall have power given to resist."

God's protecting wing is one of Christian fellowship. An old homely proverb says, "A hen will make just as much noise and scratch just as hard for one chicken as she will for ten." That may be true. Such actions upon the part of the feathered bird might be very exemplary. But one of the most ridiculous sights to me is a great, big fat hen strutting through the barnyard followed by one wee, little chirping chicken. Better for that little chicken to be killed and the hen go out her legitimate business of laying eggs for the breakfast than for the mother bird to continue to waste her energies upon the one offspring. The natural brood for a hen is not one or two chickens, but eight, nine or ten or even thirteen chickens. Every would-be sitting hen if left alone nearly always lays thirteen eggs for her nest. She wants a large family. A large family is good for the hen. It is good for the chickens.

What is the practical application of this simile? Why God's wing is a protection which not only a Christian can find rest but many Christians. God's children are going to find safety and protection under God's wing because they will work together and live together and have their hearts beating together and, as it were, snuggle up together and keep each other spiritually warm. They will be together as close as fellowship as the chickens are close together under their mother's wing. If you lift up a hen who is covering her little ones at night you will be surprised how many chickens her small area is able to shelter. The reason each chicken is pressing close against the other chickens as well as against its mother's breast.

God's wing often protects his children best when they themselves are enveloped by total darkness. The little chickens, running to the warning call of the clucking hen, answer for the most part to the blind obedience of faith and love. When they crawl under the overshadowing and enveloping covering of that wing they can see nothing. Under that wing is total darkness. When the chickens are truly under that wing they leave all and trust all to their mother's care. It is because those chickens stay in total darkness under that wing that they often escape the searching eye of an advancing foe.

My dear hearer, are you ready to trust God in darkness as well as in the light? You came to me the other day and said, "I cannot understand why this trouble was laid at my door." Neither can I, my brother. I do not understand why God should have taken away from your side that young man just five months after he was graduated from the bar. He was a bright fellow. I do know that God loved your boy. I do know that God loves you. Though under God's wing it may be dark, at times as at a fungeous yet I do know that above God's wing is God's all seeing eye. What God did he did for a good purpose. Trust him, then, my brother. Trust him and have faith as a chicken under the darkness of the hen's wing trusts a mother's love.

during the days of our amusements. I do know that some day all inexplicables will be explained, when God lifts his wing and the flood light of heaven roll in. I do know that under such conditions you and I, my brother, my sister, can afford to wait and trust Christ just a little while longer. We can trust him and believe in him though we sit in the darkness of the shadows of God's encircling but loving wing.

But though God's wing is a spiritual developing and protecting wing it only spiritually develops and protects his own children. A hen knows her own brood. She will do everything in her power to care for and protect them. If a farmer takes some ducks' eggs and places them in the nest of a sitting hen she cares for those ducks after they are hatched. If there be a pond near and the little ducks enter the water the old hen upon the shore will be frantic. She will run round and round, trying to call them out. But a hen, as a rule—sometimes there are exceptions—will only care for her own brood. The average hen will not allow her brood to be mixed up with other broods. She will drive the strange chickens away from her young. She tries to keep the family intact.

The hen's chickens know their mother's voice. At her call they leave whatever they are doing and go to her. My brother, have you heard God's voice calling you? Have you responded or have you stayed in your sin, heedless of his call? Remember, the protection of the divine wings is over none but those who seek it. God's wing is big enough to cover all who repent of their sins and come to him in the name of the Lord Jesus Christ. But though God's wing is big enough to shelter the Mary Magdalenes and the poor publicans and the Peters and the Johns, though they may come by the millions, there are some who miss its protection. What is the reason?

"How often would I have gathered thy children together, even as a hen gathereth her chickens under her wings, and ye would not!" That is the reason. God forces no man to come. He invites, he pleads with them, but if they will not come, even he can do no more. The awful storms of the godless eternity beat upon them, and they have no shelter. What the terrors and the misery of that time will be we cannot conceive. They are but dimly outlined in the Bible, but the images used are terrifying enough to blanch the bravest cheek, and through it all memory and conscience will reproach the sinner with those sad words, "Ye would not." Shelter was offered to all who would come, but "Ye would not." Self excluded, self destroyed; that will be the most terrible part of that awful fate.

Obedience and disobedience to God are the two great teachings of my text. It was said that during a famous naval battle the sailors of an American ship were almost ready to surrender when suddenly a fowl escaped from the hencoop and perched herself in the rigging. There she defied the shot and shell and inspired the sailors to fight on to victory. May this sermon, founded upon the barnyard symbol, inspire some sinner to seek his safety for time and eternity under the shadow of God's loving and protecting wing.

Only a small man will blame his circumstances for his size.

The Kilted Skirt—Grass Lawn is Being Revived.

The kilted skirt is rapidly gaining ground, especially in figured fabrics, and linen, both plain and spotted, is extremely effective when treated in this wise.

Grass lawn is also being revived. Last season an effort was made to put it in vogue, but it never succeeded. Now, however, Parisians have copied all sorts of beautiful oriental embroideries on grass lawn foundations, and this relief to the somewhat somber hues of the latter fabric has produced the desired smart effect. Grass lawn trimmed with eastern embroideries will therefore be a decided feature of the season.

fashioned silken chenille fringe. In fact, trimmings alone offer a fair field to the amateur.

There is a distinct fancy for hems of embroidery on frocks—that is to say, embroidery bought by the yard or woven into the material.

Hats with cherries are very smart when the straw is of a light cream color.

Many hats are trimmed only on the underside.

The flat sailor trimmed with wings laid on flat or loops of ribbon brought up from under the brim is always smart, and in good taste. Such hats are prettiest in pure white, with an edge of color in velvet.

The little toque bearing the single aigret is seen so much on all sides that it has fallen from popularity with smartly dressed women.

It seems to be one of the necessary conditions of the summer hat of 1903 that it shall tilt up in the front. These shapes are very simply trimmed with a quill and a loop of ribbon or a couple of wings.

The use of all black and all white costumes is increasing.

An Interesting Genealogy

The Martin Family—Martin De Tours the First of Nobles, Statesmen, Warriors and Scholars—Alderman Geo. G. Martin a Lineal Descendant.

The following is contributed by Eleanor Lexington to the Los Angeles Times:

The name Martin is derived from the Latin Martius, meaning warlike, or from Mars, the god of war.

In the Gaelic, mor is great, and dium, a man; hence, mordiun, a chief, or warrior. By some circumlocution, the name Martin may be derived from Martyn, Martin, Marten, Martain, Marceen, Martine and Martin.

The first of the name of whom records appear was, Martin de Tours. He came over from Normandy with William the Conqueror, and made a conquest of Commaes, or Keuney, in Pembroke County, England, about 1077. He was also made Lord of Combe-Martin of Martinshoe, in the northern part of Devon.

Martin de Tours had a sister Concha, or Concha, by name, wife of Calvarius, whose son was the famous St. Patrick of Ireland.

No sooner had Martin de Tours completed his conquest than he devoted a portion of his wealth thus acquired to the founding of a monastery for Benedictine monks at St. Dogmael's, near Cardigan. This monastery was dedicated to St. Segwell, and was annexed as a cell to the Abbey of Tyronne in France. This institution was endowed with lands by Robert Fitz-Martin, the son of the founder.

Martin de Tours and his successors were summoned to the King's council as barons of Commaes, and continued to be lords of the English Parliament. The third baron, married Angharad, of Rhye, Prince of Wales.

More than one knight, or man-at-arms, is recorded in the roll of Battle Abbey as bearing the name of Martin.

It is perhaps superfluous to explain of what this roll of Battle Abbey consisted. On October 4, A. D. 1066, the battle of Hastings was fought, and William the Norman was seated upon the throne of England under the historic title of William the Conqueror. Close by the field of Hastings, William caused a stately pile to be erected, which was named Battle Abbey in commemoration of his victory. A roll, or catalogue, was prepared, in which was carefully prepared the names and titles of the Norman chivalry who had followed William's banner in the enterprise. This was the famous Roll of Battle, or "Battel," Abbey. It has been of inestimable service to the herald, the genealogist, and the historian. Some portions of the abbey still remain.

Battle Abbey was dedicated to St. Martin. In the "Chronicles of Robert of Gloucester" are the lines:

"And then as the bataille was
An Abbey he let rear,
Of Saint Martin for the soules
That there slayn were."

In the reign of Henry II. William Martin, a lord of Commaes, was sent with the Abbot of St. Augustine and other persons of note into different counties of England to make inquisition touching the behavior of all sheriffs, bailiffs and other officers, likewise of all archbishops, bishops, abbots, friars, earls, barons, vassors, knights, citizens and burghers.

In 1245 Nicholas, the fifth lord of Commaes, for services to the King, obtained license for a market every week, and a yearly fair at his manor.

South Moulton, in Devonshire, was held by the Martin family by service of finding a man with a bow and three arrows to attend the Earl of Gloucester when he was hunting in the neighborhood.

It is believed that from the barons of Commaes, whose ancestor was Martin de Tours, are descended those of the family of Martin, who came to New England in 1635.

The immigrant ancestor was John Martin, who was one of the founders of the town of Swansea, Massachusetts. He had five sons and four daughters, each of whom married and had a family. Robert Martin, in 1640, settled at Weymouth, Massachusetts, afterwards Rehoboth. Among other early settlers of the Martin family were Abraham, Isaac, Richard and Samuel. The latter was born in Lancashire, England, May 2, 1760, and was a son of Richard Martin, nicknamed "Mad Dick," who was member of Parliament. Samuel Martin's wife was Jane Trotter, daughter of a landed proprietor of Belfast, Ireland.

From the bequests of Abraham Martin, who died in 1670, it may be inferred that he was a Puritan of the good old stock and solicitor for the welfare of the colony. He left three pounds, ten shillings, for the "pastours"; one pound "towards the burying ground"; ten shillings to be laid out in the making of a Bier, and one pound "for the procurement of a bell to call the people to God's worship." In those early days, before the introduction of bells, it was customary to beat the drum to give notice of the time of public worship. It is, therefore, probable that the colony was indebted to a Martin for its first church bell.

The Bible of John Martin, the immigrant, is still extant. This he left to all his children, but its home was to be with the eldest son. Similar provision was made for another valuable volume, the "Book of Grantham," as he calls it in his will. The book, which is now in the possession of a descendant, is an exposition of the views of the Baptists, and was written in 1678 by a Thomas Grantham, of London. On the margins of the leaves of the book are various curious inscriptions, written by members of the family, whose penmanship was unique, orthography sui generis, and punctuation nil.

The most important legend is this: "You all my friends desired are to wash your hands and read with care."

On another page is written: "Manasseh Martin, his book, the 9th part; my father gave this book to his 9 children and I am his 4th son, Manasseh Martin."

One of the last pages is written: "I find this book was my great grandfather's John Martin's, who brought it out of old England. I have perused this book and find it worthy of any serious person's consideration."

The Martins seem to have been a patriotic family; at least, the number of those who have applied for pensions, at different times, runs into the hundreds. Capt. Simeon Martin, of Providence, Rhode Island, fourth from immigrant John, was one of the first to enlist in the Revolution. He was in the first campaign with Washington, in 1775. He was also in the Battle of Trenton. He was later adjutant-general and major-general of the militia of his State, and at one time lieutenant-governor.

Ebenezer Martin served in the first brigade of Massachusetts, 1781. Capt. George Martin was engaged in scouting expeditions. Another George Martin, who was "a scholar and a good penman," was deputy quartermaster in the Revolution.

Martin also served in the Indian wars. A John Martin was in the Indian campaign during King Philip's war, and a Richard Martin advanced £15s. 4d. towards carrying on the war against Philip.

Upon the Martin arms appear two red bars on a white or silver shield, or in the language of heraldry, argent, two bars gules. Crest, a red star of six points, or an "etoile gules." These arms are found cut on a tombstone in Copp's Hill graveyard, Boston, with simply the name Martin underneath. A bird—probably a martin—forms the crest of the arms of one branch of the family.

According to heraldic lore, a star is supposed to symbolize the Creator, its rays, which point in every direction, indicating the all-pervading attributes of the Supreme Being. The presence, therefore, of a star, in a coat-of-arms implies the existence or the presumption of pre-eminent qualities in its possessor. Gules, or red, signifies strength or boldness; the spotless whiteness of argent, and the virtuous qualities, and when combined with red, purity and courage. From the Martin arms, then, it may be inferred that the ancestor who achieved them was a God-fearing man of pure life and charitable heart, who, with a firm reliance on the divine protection, marched forth with his fellows and by deeds of valor and manly prowess won in the service of his king and country the military girdles which are represented by the two bars gules.

At what time or for what particular achievement these arms were bestowed is not known, but in 1675, in the Barony of England, these arms were given with an account of the Somersetshire family of Martin. The patron saint of the family is St.

Martin, the son of a military tribune, who was born at Salaria, a city in Hungary, about A. D. 316. The saint attained great celebrity on account of his sanctity. The festival of St. Martin, which occurs November 11, was instituted by Pope Martin, about A. D. 650. Upon that day the casks of new wine were tapped. Our English ancestors kept the feast by the consumption of roasted geese. The old tradition is that St. Martin hid himself on account of his unwillingness to become a bishop, but his retreat was discovered through a goose.

No less than seven churches in London and Westminster are dedicated to St. Martin. The excessive admiration of the saint led to many towns being named in his honor, and pious parents, when bestowing his name in baptism, felt that they had insured a potent protector for the new-born child.

Alderman Martin says he was well aware of all these facts before, but that his usual modesty prevented him from speaking out in meeting. He says he belongs to the Welsh branch of the family, who are numerous in Wales now. Mrs. Gladston was a kinswoman.

Where is this here band business going to end?

I wonder what kind of pavement will be put down on Queen street?

This is the open-work season on shirt-waists and—well, never mind.

The bakers must be using a lot of shortening in their loaves just now. It's a wise family that keeps his troubles to itself.—Hamilton Spectator.

The citizen band blew themselves on new uniforms and new instruments.

Some of the band boys complain that the brass wasn't all in their instruments.

Let me see. It's bitulithic pavement they are going to have on Queen street, isn't it?

Is it a case of the band going to abandon the regiment or the regiment the band?

These are the days when most everybody would like to be able to raise the wind.

Nearly every street corner has its loafers, and in every back shop you can generally find a loafer too.

Wanted, a few lessons in law in regard to military matters. Kindly furnish references. City Lawyer.

The band had made a hard blow in their time, but the hardest blow was a week ago last Monday night.

The Sheriff might write a thrilling story on the missing clarinet. Wonder who could write the sequel?

It has been suggested that the electric fans in the Council Chamber be run by Ald. Martin's electric oratory.

What's bothering me is whether the Queen street pavement will wear as long as it has taken to get it or not.

Some of the aldermen suggest that there is enough wind at either end of the aldermanic row without electric fans.

It has not yet been decided whether the oppressive heat in the Council Chamber is caused by the eloquent alderman or by the weather.

No, Dear Aldright Yes, a skipper is not necessarily a St. Thomas bank manager. He may own a yacht at Brieau and be otherwise respectable.

The firemen in the stove holes can go up in the fresh air every little while for a breathing spell, but when Ald. G. G. Martin starts his eloquence he never stops.

I would like to know what the Property committee is going to do with that $48 birdhouse. Perhaps they might lend it to the band to blow themselves.

Ald. McCoig suggests that the Property committee do not put electric fans in the Council Chamber at the northwest end of the aldermanic row. It wouldn't do to have all the wheels at one end.

NOT HIS RACING SUIT.

The latest thing in church wear is a striped flannel suit and slippers. For further particulars apply to the chairman of the C. C. I. Board.

I am glad to see that the Council are going to act on the Satellite's advice and endeavor to improve the atmosphere of the Council Chamber on rainy nights. Ald. Mounter put the matter very aptly when he said, "I know that not one of us would transact our own business in such a hot place."

A lady who had taken The Planet for 45 years moved to Brieau when the hot weather began. She ordered her Planet to follow. Owing to their being no mail service, the G. H. J. arrived very irregularly. This aroused the lady and she said she would have to quit The Planet after 45 years and take a local contemporary. So Monday night a copy of the "News" was purchased, but it was thrown aside in disgust because all the news in it had been read in the Big Saturday Planet, two days previous.

TWO SCENES.

Last Sunday a preacher was holding forth from a gospel wagon near Cass park. A carriage containing a white-haired man and woman came dashing up. Abreast of the gospel wagon the coachman slowed up and the dignified old gentleman courteously lifted his hat until past the preacher. Ten minutes later an automobile came roaring down the street. The occupant's hat seemed to be tied to his head. The driver as he whirled past the gospel wagon gave warning: "Toot! Toot!"

WHY THEY TWINKLE.

When Eve had led her lord away,
And Cain had killed his brother,
The stars and flowers, the poets say,
Agreed with one another.
To cheat the cunning tempter's art,
And teach the race its duty,
By keeping on its wicked heart
Their eyes of light and beauty.
A million sleepless lids, they say,
Will be at least a warning;
And so the flowers would watch by day,
The stars from eve to morning.
On hill and meadow, field and lawn,
Their dewy eyes returning,
The flowers still watch from reddening dawn
Till western skies are burning.
Alas! each hour of daylight tells
A tale of shame and crushing,
That some turn white as sea-bleached shells
And some are always blushing.
But when the patient stars look down
On all their light disfigurement,
The traitor's smiles, the murderer's frown,
The lips of lying lovers.
They try to shut their saddening eyes,
And in the vain endeavor
We see them twinkling in the skies,
And so they wink forever.

THE SONG OF LIFE.

One must sing of the sunshine;
One must sing of the rain;
One must sing us the songs of joy;
And one sing woe's refrain;
Yet in the end all the song's will blend
In one harmonious strain.
One must sing of the future;
With hopes and fearsings rife;
One must sing of the misty past—
Its dreaming and its strife—
Yet they will meet in a chord full sweet
The marvellous song of life.

One must sing of the mountains;
One must sing of the sea;
One must sing us the song of love;
And in late's shrill key;
Yet all will rise to the blending skies
In one grand harmony.

Love and hate and compassion,
Sorrow and right and wrong,
Past and future and war and peace—
Rise in an anthem strong,
And all will grow, as they ebb and flow,
To life's unceasing song.

A Forgotten Weapon

Second of a Series of Interesting Articles for Sunday Reading.—The Significance of Recent Rains and Summer Sunshines.
(Specially Prepared for THE PLANET by Mrs. Anna Ross.)

The argument of this paper is that, if the Gibeonites had understood and claimed the treaty rights secured to them by that old covenant with their fathers, then Saul could not have hurt a hair of their head, but because they forgot it, they suffered to the death.

"Whoso readeth, let him understand."

GOD'S COVENANT WITH THE GIB-EONITES—A FORGOTTEN WEAPON AGAINST SAUL.

If God's covenant with Noah is still in force (and it must be, so long as the rainbow bedeck the clouds), then the one reason why famine gets hold upon any part of this earth is that Noah's sons have forgotten it. Forgetfulness is a fruitful source of loss in every direction; but when it comes to forgetfulness of such a covenant promise as this, "Seed-time and harvest shall not cease," and the consequent loss of the fulfillment of the same, it is surely time that stupid memories should be stirred up into activity.

It is no new thing for man thus to forget his covenant opportunities with God. A sorrowful instance of just such forgetfulness, preceded by a signal instance of the opposite conduct, is to be found in the story of the Gibeonites.

The inhabitants of Gibeon, in the days of Joshua's conquests, in spite of difficulties that seemed insurmountable, had succeeded in securing a covenant or league with the people of Israel and the God of Israel.

It was a narrow affair, securing only for them their liberties, for it left them bondmen to the sacred people. But it was like all God's covenants with men, it was sure.

As soon as it was known in Canaan that Gibeon had gone over to Israel, all the kings of the hills, and of the valleys, gathered together against them.

What could the Gibeonites do? They knew right well what to do. They had a covenant, and they promptly claimed it. It was no vague cry for mercy that was sent to Gilgal. It was the bold, almost imperative, covenant claim, "Slack not thy hand from thy servants; come up to us quickly, and save us and help us; for all the kings of the Amorites are gathered together against us."

The answer to this covenant-prayer was just what you would expect when the covenant-faithfulness of the living God was involved. Joshua, with the ringing assurances of his God in his ears, marched all night. In the morning he came upon Gibeon's enemies suddenly. "And the Lord discomfited them before Israel. . . . And the Lord cast down great stones from heaven upon them. Then Joshua spake, Sun, stand thou still upon Gibeon, and thou, moon, in the valley of Ajalon. And the sun stood still, and the moon stayed." All this was God's answer to the cry of the people, who remembered in their time of need that they had a covenant, and put in their claim for its fulfillment.

But these poor Gibeonites were not always so wise. Years went by. Generation after generation lived and died, and the covenant at first so eagerly sought and so dearly prized, came to be only an old story amongst them. Israel asked a king, and God gave Saul. This warrior king was full of crooked blunders. He was slack in dealing with the Amalekites, whom God had doomed with a sentence of death; and he was cruel in his dealings with the Gibeonites.

whom God had fenced round with a covenant of life.

But what did he care for the covenant made with the cities of Canaan five hundred years before? Perhaps he cared just about as much as the Salisbury Government to-day would care for a treaty made with the gipsies by Richard II. one hundred years before the discovery of America, especially if the treaty was one which the gipsies themselves had forgotten. How much attention would the politicians of to-day pay to such a treaty? Just about as much did Saul pay to the covenant with the Gibeonites. If some warning voices were raised amongst his people, he paid no heed. He looked only to the (supposed) interests of his own people, and turned his murderous might against the strangers.

What should Gibeon have done the moment she saw Saul's evil eye upon her? Just exactly what she did in Joshua's days. Right up into the ears of Jehovah she should have sent the old covenant cry, "Slack not thy hand from thy servants; come up to us quickly, and save us and help us; for the king of Israel himself has gathered his armies together against us." The Lord's hand was not short-ended, neither was His ear heavy; but He listened in vain for that covenant cry, and Saul did his deadly work unhindered—deadly work for the Gibeonites, for their blood reddened the land, and deadly work for Israel, for that shed blood cried aloud to heaven for judgment, and got it.

Saul's reign ended under the thunderstorms of defeat and disaster. But all these calamities did not settle for the blood of the Gibeonites. David's reign ushered in victory and prosperity, but the blood of the slaughtered Gibeonites was not brought to mind. Year after year was given to David, and his own peaceful kingdom, to call to remembrance the violated covenant. David had forgotten, and Israel had forgotten, as well as the Gibeonites, all about that old covenant. They all forgot that it was still in force.

But God had not forgotten. His judgments visited the land in the days of David three years, year after year. And David enquired of the Lord, and the Lord answered, "It is for Saul, because he slew the Gibeonites."

God had not forgotten, though Israel had done so, and Gibeon too. Had the harassed people remembered this covenant they could have laughed at Saul's malice, as they had in olden days defied the combined wrath of the Canaanite kings. But they forgot their covenant, put in no covenant claim, and suffered to the death in consequence. True, it is a serious thing to forget a covenant. It is as though Englishmen were to forget their Magna Charta, and so lose the liberties it had handed over to them.

Is not this latter story of the Gibeonites a perfect picture of the position of the whole human race relative to the ravages of famine? They have forgotten the treaty of Ararat. Four thousand years have buried it out of sight, and out of mind. The rainbow is still hung in the sky; God still looks on it and remembers His covenant; but man looks on it, and only says, "How pretty!" When the rains are withheld, God listens in vain for the covenant cry. Noah's descendants have forgotten the treaty made with their father in their behalf. They do not know its terms, they put in no claim on the strength of it, and famine works his will in the earth as Saul worked his will among the Gibeonites.
