

The Waterdown Review

VOL. 2.

WATERDOWN, ONTARIO, THURSDAY, AUGUST 7, 1919

NO. 13.

W. F. MORGAN-DEAN

G. R. HARRIS

WE WILL BUY OR SELL

VICTORY LOAN BONDS

Large or Small Amounts—Fully Paid or Partly Paid
Consult Us Before Buying or Selling

Morgan-Dean, Harris & Company

802 Bank of Hamilton Building

Reference—Union Bank, Hamilton

Phone Reg. 6855

Hamilton, Canada

Used Car Bargains

1917 Ford
1915 Ford
1917 Gray-Dort
1917 Hupmobile
1916 Studebaker

These cars are all in good running order. Terms can be arranged.

Gallagher's Hardware

Farmers and Stock Owners

SHOULD USE

Creonoid Fly Oil

Undoubtedly the best preparation on the market for keeping the fly pests off your animals during the hot weather.

The daily use of Creonoid on your milch cows is a real economy, it decidedly means a greater milk flow, besides making the milking operation easier.

Its use is only decently humane, for it saves the animals all fly and pest discomfort during the hot weather and affords them better opportunity to

Half gal. Cans $1.00
One gal. Cans 1.50
Six gal. Cans 6.00

W. H. CUMMINS
Druggist

Phone 152

Waterdown

A Bird Refuge

The most important, and by far the largest in extent, of national "refuges" for the preservation of wild birds on this continent is a vast area in the delta of the Yukon river, proclaimed as such by an edict from the White House just ten years ago. It is even more beneficial to the birds of Canada than to those of the United States.

It is an area approximately equal to Massachusetts, and the most valuable feathered species concerned are wild geese and wild ducks, which breed there in countless numbers.

There is found the proper home of the "emperor" goose, the "white-fronted" goose, and many species of ducks which are sought as game in other latitudes.

The region is known as "tundra country"—devoid of trees, swampy, with many lakes, and of no possible usefulness for agriculture or any other purpose. If, however, the wild-fowl are there safeguarded on their breeding grounds, it will be a permanent source of game and food supply for Alaska and the entire Pacific coast.

In order that this may come to pass, it is necessary that the birds shall be protected during the mating season against the wholesale slaughter which formerly was conducted by pot-hunters and alleged sportsmen from year to year—a method commonly adopted being to drive the helpless creatures into pens built for the purpose, where they were ruthlessly murdered.

Coal in Alberta.

The Alberta Government has decided to appoint a commission with wide powers to investigate the coal mining industry in all its bearings. The provincial inspector of mines has been selected as chairman and the following organizations have been asked to choose one member each to serve on the commission: the United Mine Workers, the Western Coal Operators Association, the Alberta Federation of Labor (not a miner), the Industrial Research Association (not a mine operator).

Grateful to Canada.

A Connecticut soldier, Gunner Harry Smith, who enlisted in the Canadian army, writes the New York Times expressing his gratitude for his treatment by this Dominion. He is worth quoting: "I was discharged one hour after arriving in Canada from overseas, and, equipped with my first month's gratuity allowances, transportation, and service badge, was on my way home to the United States in 'jazz time.' We were also allowed $30 for civilian clothing. I am now receiving $70 and my wife $30 per month for the time stated. My wife received $30 per month during my absence plus foreign exchange money. I cannot speak too highly of this wonderful country which treated us American volunteers like 'gentlemen.'" Gunner Smith, who feels he was treated like a gentleman, has acknowledged it like one.

Canada Leads.

A paragraph appearing in Repatriation, a monthly bulletin published in the interests of returned men in Australia, quotes the speech delivered in Sydney by Premier Holman, of New South Wales, in which he stated that the state had settled 1,100 men on the land. The Premier claimed that this was a much larger number than had been settled in any of the other states. New South Wales sent to the battlefields of Europe thirty-nine per cent. of the total of the Australian Expeditionary Force. If the proportion of ex-service men settled in the land in the other states was equal to that of New South Wales the figures would be for the whole of Australia 2,820 men benefited by the Land Settlement Act up to the date of the Premier's speech. Up to the 17th of May, the Soldier Settlement Board of Canada had approved 7,900 applications for the benefits of the Soldier Settlement Act and a great many more applications were before the Qualification Committees in the various provinces. These figures which will be largely augmented by the returns for the last two weeks of May and for the present month show that Canada is well in advance of the sister commonwealth in providing suitable farms for her war heroes.

Two of a Trade.

"Do you think these alienists are any good at a trial?" "Some, I take it. An alienist is the only person I ever saw who could bluff a lawyer."

Mills in Poland.

Textile mills at Lodz, Poland, are reported by the British Economic Commission to be comparatively undamaged, and capable of production almost immediately if supplies of cotton were obtainable.

Should Farmers Enter Politics

(By Chas. M. Flatt)

Never before in the history of Canada has there been so much uncertainty as to the classes who are to be most largely represented in the governing bodies of the country.

While it is unwise as well as almost impossible to make any attempt at prophecy concerning such a matter, still a study of the present conditions will give reasonably sure indications of the part certain classes can be expected to play in politics of Canada.

Of all classes by far the more important are those of labor and agriculture. Of these the former has in the past played the greater part largely because, owing to the nature of their work, laborers can co-operate easier than farmers, and also because legislation affecting them was in more urgent need of reform than that affecting farmers.

Since the beginning of the war great strides have been made in securing representation in the government for the farming classes. While progress along this line is reasonably satisfactory, it is being retarded, not so much by outside influences as by farmers themselves. When a proposal is made to elect a farmer representative a common remark is "What do we want to mix up in politics? Leave that to the politicians."

To arrive at the utter absurdity of such a remark from the lips of a farmer it is necessary to consider the origin of politics. Our present parties are but the result of differences of opinion regarding the best policy of governing the country. When Canada was a young colony it was necessary to consider conscientiously the best course to pursue, for a false step at that time meant a danger of entire destruction to the colony.

As the country grew its continued existence became more assured, and the system of government became more lax. Then there arose a class of professional politicians who found the task of directing the destinies of the country more congenial than working to support it. The percentage of representatives who conscientiously tried to do their best for their constituents grew less. Finally the present condition of affairs was reached when a member of parliament takes his reputation in his hands and holds it loosely when he seeks continued re-election.

Were it not for a few of the old type of representatives the Ship of State would lurch along through the ocean of time more wildly and would come nearer to foundering than it does at present.

But at its best our present government is unwieldy, unbalanced, and does not give adequate representation to many classes, and chief among them that of agriculture. This brings us back to the question of the advisability of the farmers entering politics.

What man is there who would hire another man to run his business if he knew that this man's only desire was to hold down the job and draw his pay? Surely there can be no one so foolish. But if he knew further that this man would sell his influence and dispose of his business to the highest bidder, one would think he would have less to do with him than ever. But that is exactly what we, as farmers have been doing. We have been content to elect to represent our interests, men who to say the least did not have the interests of agriculture at heart.

The time has arrived to change this state of affairs. A class that comprises more real business owners than any other, must be vitally interested in nearly every act of legislation. Surely the farmer who owns a herd of beef or dairy cattle is interested in legislation affecting the sale and transportation of his produce.

Already several constituencies have elected a farmer to represent their interests at the next election. No doubt there will be farmer candidates in the majority of the constituencies of Ontario. It is a duty to elect them, not because they are of any special party, but because they being farmers must be interested as we are in securing favorable legislation.

It is not to be concerned that adequate representation will effect a perfection of conditions. Such an ideal state is visionary. But this much can be safely said that if when we do secure fairly good representation things do not just suit us, then we will not complain because it will be our own fault.

The Value of Cheerfulness

Cheerfulness is a social trait that stands over and above every other. How sweet in infancy, how lovely in youth, how saintly in old age. If we are cheerful and contented all nature smiles with us, the air seems more balmy, the sky more clear, the trees have a richer foliage, the flowers a more fragrant smell. Birds seem to sing more sweetly and all seems to appear more beautiful around us. There are a few noble natures whose very presence carries sunshine with them where ever they go, they have a sunshine which means pity for the poor, sympathy and help for the suffering and unfortunate. How such a face enlivens every other face it meets and carries joy and gladness into every company. Let us all look on the bright side and keep the sunshine in our hearts, however we may be, and the harder the task the more need of singing, for a hopeful spirit will discern the silver lining of the darkest cloud. Be cheerful for it is the only happy life. Let us cultivate that which is warm and genial, not cold and repulsive, and our life may help to brighten the lives of those around us.

MARIE

Excitement at Carlisle

One of the worst fires that has ever occurred broke out last Tuesday in the Beachgrove Settlement. There were more lives lost than in the great Chicago fire and its origin more pathetic. Fire Marshals George Cummins and Hamilton Kerr noticed smoke coming from the direction of a settler's home and jumping into their motor fire extinguisher were promptly on the job trying to save the burg. Upon arriving the marshals found a smouldering heap burning on the lawn. They found three men one of them John Barleycorn, lying on the ground unable to crawl into the hut. The Marshals enquired as to how the fire started and with tears in his eyes the old settler intimated that the bed bugs were so bad that they could stand it no longer and had brought the old straw tick down the winding stairway and were burning the blankets, blankets beggars alive. It is estimated that 2000 lives were lost in the great fire.

Wm. O. Alderson of Flamboro Centre was in town this week. He was congratulating himself on his narrow escape from being put off the market in Hamilton. He said that as he was lifting a crate of fruit he unfortunately tore his trousers which were getting thin. The police told him that if he did not stick a bunch of hay in the rear he would have to get off the market. He promptly accepted the officers suggestions and secured enough hay from Malcolm Hackney. Everything went well until he was standing in the Dominion yards when Stuart Wyatt drove his team up to what he thought was a hay stack and so tramped the hay down that Mr. Alderson got disgusted and got into his wagon and pulled for home.

It will cost the Canadian National Exhibition over $25,000 to bring the Grenadier Guards Band out for the two weeks at the Big Fair.

RICHEST SOIL IN AMERICA

Crescent City, Florida.
June 26th, 1919.
Florida Land Owners' Association,
Crescent City, Fla.

Gentlemen:
Coming from St. Catharines, Ontario, Canada, which is in perhaps the best fruit and truck farming belt in the Province, naturally was more or less sceptical of lands in any Southern States, but after looking over many tracts in Florida, it remained for me to see the lands you were offering, and I must say that they are the RICHEST LANDS I have ever seen. I would be pleased to have any Canadian write me for further verification of this statement and can honestly recommend not only your wonderful lands but the Association as a whole. The easy terms you offer makes it possible for practically any one to purchase and no one need hesitate about buying before they examine the lands as I know you will select only the best, and make a better selection than the purchaser would himself.
Wishing your Association much success I am,
Very truly yours,
David Beaver.

FLORIDA LAND OWNERS' ASSOCIATION, INC.
7 Prospect St.
Crescent City, - Florida, U.S.A.
WRITE FOR CATALOGUE.

Hail and Electricity.

The formation of hail through electrical action, according to one theory, is an interesting and even a wonderful process. The wind draws out a cloud into a long, narrow strip. In that form, owing to the great amount of surface exposed to the air, the cloud evaporates rapidly, producing intense cold.

Dry particles of snow are then formed, and these, by friction with the water drops, quickly become charged with negative electricity. But the water drops carry positive electricity, and since negative attracts positive a film of water is formed upon each snow particle and is instantly frozen into a layer of ice.

At this thickness its outer surface remains moist, the water not freezing so rapidly there, whereas the electrical charge changes from negative to positive and the particle is repelled by the water drops and driven to the outer parts of the cloud. Here the increased cold covers it with snow, and friction recharges it anew with negative electricity.

Repulsion is now once more changed for attraction, and the particle rushes back into the cloud, receiving upon its surface another film of water, which is turned into a second ice layer.

This is the growing hailstone darts zigzag through the cloud, piling up its alternate layers of snow and ice, until gravitation gains control and sends it with a jingling crowd of its fellows spinning to the ground.

Minard's Liniment Cures Diphtheria.

HEART SURGERY.

Daring, Successful Operations Not Unusual Nowadays.

Probably the most daring chapter in modern surgery is that which treats of operations on the heart. "The road to the heart is only two or three inches long, but it has taken surgery nearly 2,600 years to traverse it," is one writer's striking remark. The scientist as well as the layman has looked upon the heart with an almost superstitious awe. Any injury necessarily implied death. Any interference with such an injury could only hasten the end. Yet many shrewd observers in the course of the ages had noted that all heart wounds did not result in instantaneous death.

It was not until ten or fifteen years ago that surgeons began to act upon this knowledge. In exceptional cases death did not result immediately from a heart wound. There were intervals of a few minutes, a few days or a few weeks. Why not utilize this interval

In an attempt to sew up the wound? Medical history now reports many successful operations of this kind. An especially noteworthy one, performed upon an Alabama negro boy in 1902, illustrates the resources of modern heart surgery.

This boy had been the victim of an especially nasty stab wound. The knife had penetrated the apex of the heart and passed into the left ventricle, making a wound nearly half an inch long. When the boy was placed on the operating table in a little negro cabin, the signs of death had already appeared. His feet were cold, and his face showed signs of the utmost distress. The surgeons made a little window-like opening just above the heart. Through this they could readily see the injured organ, the blood spurting from the wound at each pulsation. One surgeon put in his hand, pulled the heart upward and held it while another sewed the wound with a catgut. The operation—performed without an anaesthetic—lasted fifty-five minutes. On the sixteenth day the boy was sitting up. In a short time his heart was as good as new.—World's Work.

Boring Pole Holes.

The tiresome and time consuming work of digging holes for telegraph and electric service poles is now at an end, says Scientific American. At least, there has been evolved a gasoline driven earth-boring machine which makes an average boring time per hole of one and one-half to two minutes. The equipment is mounted on a horse-drawn truck and is operated by two men. In ordinary soil it maintains an average of 100 holes per day each measuring five feet deep by 24 inches in diameter. The equipment consists of a truck, which carries a gasoline engine, driving mechanism and a huge auger which is slowly rotated and fed downward. The augers are furnished in sizes from 2 to 24 inches.

BABY'S GREAT DANGER DURING HOT WEATHER

More little ones die during the hot weather than at any other time of the year. Diarrhoea, dysentery, cholera infantum and stomach troubles come without warning, and when a medicine is not at hand to give promptly the short delay too frequently means that the child has passed beyond aid. Baby's Own Tablets should always be kept in the house where there are young children. An occasional dose of the Tablets will prevent stomach and bowel troubles, or if the trouble comes suddenly the prompt use of the Tablets will relieve the baby. The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25c a box from the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

SUNDAY BREAKFAST.

Here Are Some Good Ideas for a Change.

Sunday is a day of rest and mental and bodily recuperation. It is a good start for Sunday enjoyment to give weekday forethought for all needed ministrations to Sunday necessities. First and foremost comes the breakfast. What is easier, what is better to begin the day with an appetizing fish spread? Here—follow some suggestive Yankee dishes well worth trying:

Codfish Tongues and Sounds.—These small morsels, cooked in any number of ways, furnish an esteemed delicacy for the breakfast table. Soak in warm water several hours, or until fresh. Scrape off the skin, then boil and serve with egg sauce on toast, or after heating slowly in milk pour a thin white sauce over them and serve on toast with a garnish of sliced eggs hard boiled, or fry in clarified butter, handling delicately in the pan, drain on soft paper and serve with tomato sauce and parsley.

Breakfast Dish of Bloaters.—Cut off the head and tail of one fish, season the skin at the neck with a knife and finger and pull it off. Split the fish with a sharp knife, remove the backbone and soak in cold water overnight, or, if you forget to do that for 20 minutes in water nearly at the boiling point. Arrange the fillets in

TO ALL WOMEN WHO ARE ILL

This Woman Recommends Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound—Her Personal Experience.

McLean, Neb.—"I want to recommend Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to all women who suffer from any functional disturbance, as it has done me more good than all the doctor's medicine. Since taking it I have a fine healthy baby girl and have gained in health and strength. My husband and I both praise your medicine to all suffering women."—Mrs. JOHN KOPPELMANN, R. No. 1, McLean, Nebraska.

This famous root and herb remedy, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, has been restoring women of America to health for more than forty years and it will pay any woman who suffers from displacements, inflammation, ulceration, irregularities, backache, headaches, nervousness or "the blues" to give this successful remedy a trial.

For special suggestions in regard to your ailment write Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass. The result of its long experience is at your service.

a baking dish, cover with milk, dot with bits of butter and bake in a hot oven for 10 or 15 minutes. Garnish with a little finely-chopped parsley or sprigs of watercress and serve with fried sweet potatoes or mealy baked potatoes. On a cool morning there are few more appetizing breakfast dishes, while its cheapness puts it within the reach of the most impecunious. For a change, the fillets may also be broiled over a glowing fire, may be baked in buttered paper cases or cooked on gratin.

Fish Timbales.—Flake as fine as possible a cupful and a half of any cold fish. Add two well-beaten eggs, a cupful of milk and salt and pepper to season. Fill small buttered tins or cups about half full, set in a pan of hot water and bake about 20 minutes. Turn out on a hot platter and pour over them a cupful of cream or tomato sauce to which a tiny bit of mustard has been added. Garnish with parsley. If preferred, the moulds may be lined with freshly cooked spaghetti left long enough to wind spirally around the mould, beginning at the bottom and going up until the top is reached.

Minard's Liniment Cures Distemper.

Cream of Almond Soup.

Did you ever eat any cream of almond soup? It is easy to make and well worth trying for its goodness. Get enough almonds to make a cupful and put them in boiling water for one minute. Then pour off the hot water and put them in cold water until the almonds have become thoroughly cold. Remove the almonds and blanch. If the skins stick put them back in to hot water again, and then into the cold. Chop them while one quart of thin cream heats in the double-boiler, and then put them in with half a teaspoonful of salt. Simmer ten minutes and then strain. If you want the soup especially good add whipped cream before dishing, serving it on top.

Tight Money Pinching Many

Thousands more are being squeezed by aching corns which can be cured quickly with Putnam's Corn Extractor. Being free from caustics, Putnam's is painless. Used successfully for fifty years. Use no other, 25c at all dealers.

Worth Knowing.

After peeling onions, rub your hands with celery or parsley. It will counteract the odor.

A large cork will be found very convenient for scouring pans, knives, sinks, etc. Moisten the end in water, dip in some good cleaning powder, and rub.

After prunes have been soaked overnight, if they are baked in a slow oven they will have a richer flavor of stewed.

In making coffee, if you will add a dried prune it will improve the flavor and give the coffee a richer color. Some who cannot use coffee without, can use it with the prunes added.

Life is a school and we should be hungry to keep on learning the good lessons it has for us. The education that stops is a poor thing. It is the ambition to progress that is the thing of value.

After newly papering the walls in a house where there are small children, fasten an extra piece of the new paper behind the couch with thumb tacks, to prevent soiling of the newly hung paper there.

Minard's Liniment Cures Garget in Cows.

THE MARSHALL ISLANDS.

Islanders Are Great Seamen and Navigators.

In "Some Recollections" Admiral Sir Cyprian Bridge writes of the Pacific Islands among which he made extensive cruises in the early eighties and late nineties. The "Marshall Islanders," he writes, "are great seamen and navigators, and build, not canoes, but real ships. These are regularly built of pieces of wood, which, for want of nails and bolts, are sewn together with sennit, plaited of coconut fibre. A canoe has a sloping platform rigged out on each beam. The platform is several feet square, and usually has on it a regularly constructed house of miniature dimensions, it is true, and low in the roof, but big enough to let a couple of men, if not more, lie down inside it.

"The Marshall Islanders make long voyages, and even understand the art of preserving provisions for sea stock. The fruit of the pandanus looks like a coarse pineapple. It is pulled to pieces. These are placed on a mat in the sun until they exude juice. They are then rolled much as a cook rolls dough for piecrust, until there appears what looks like a piece of blanket soaked in treacle. It has a rather sweet and not unpleasant taste. The "blanket" is made into a roll, is 'parcelled' or covered with a dry leaf, and is then regularly 'served' over with coconut fibre sennit. The rolled pandanus fruit, thus treated, will keep for months, and in its wrappings is impervious to salt water.

"The Marshall Islanders even make charts. Four narrow strips of wood tied together make a roughly square frame. Lines of twisted fibre are stretched across the frame at irregular intervals and roughly at right angles to each other. On the intersection of these lines shells or small pieces of coral are tied to represent islands. I think that the relative bearings are approximately correct. Sir John Thurston, a distinguished Governor of Fiji, a great part of whose life has been spent in the Montreal, May 29th, '08.

Minard's Liniment Co., Limited,
Yarmouth, N. S.

Gentlemen,—I beg to let you know that I have used MINARD'S LINIMENT for some time, and I find it the best I have ever used for the joints and muscles.

Yours very truly,
THOMAS J. HOGAN.
The Champion Clog and Pedestal Dancer of Canada.

South Seas, told me that most islanders could point correctly in the direction of the islands far distant from their own.

"In several islands one came across material evidence of bygone civilization, which was so completely historic that it lay far beyond the oldest traditions current among the natives of the present day. The langis of Tongatabu were of comparatively recent date, and their construction was included in the range of credible tradition, but the great cromlech or trilithon a few miles from Nukualofa must be much older.

"Some remains are so colossal in size, and cover such extensive areas, that they could only have been constructed by a very numerous population. On many islands there is a tradition that in former times they were much more densely populated than they are now."

Minard's Liniment Cures Colds, Etc.

BETTER THAN GOLD.

Real Treasure of Peru Was the Potato.

The gold of the Incas was the attraction that led Columbus to sail westward, that carried Cortez to Mexico and Pizarro to Peru. The Incas had large stores of the precious metal, representing, no doubt, the accumulations of many centuries. The capture of such a booty resounded through Europe, Spain became for a time the wealthiest, as well as the most powerful, nation of Europe, and this was ascribed to the gold of Peru.

But Peru held another treasure much more valuable for the nations of Europe than the golden booty of Pizarro. Carrying the potato to Europe was an event of much more profound significance in relation to the subsequent history of the world than sending the Incas' gold to the coffers

Dr. Martell's Female Pills For Womens Ailments

A scientifically prepared remedy of proven worth, recommended by physicians. Sold for nearly half a century in Patented Tin Hinged Cases. Box with Signature "Knickerbocker Remedy Co." across side. Accept no other. At your Drugist or by Mail Direct from our Canadian Agents, Loran Bros. & Co. Ltd., Toronto, Can., upon receipt of price $2.00.

ISSUE NO. 32, 1919

HELP WANTED—FEMALE

WANTED—LADY FUR SEWER, CONvey fur. Reid Bros., Bothwell, Ont.

FARMS FOR SALE

LARGE NUMBER IMPROVED FARMS for about half cost of improvements, $300 and up; grows in abundance all kinds of vegetables; auto roads, flowing wells, schools, churches, fish game; have farmed here 31 years; never had crop failure. J. Locking, Emo, Ont.; Rainy River Valley.

FARM FOR SALE, 300 ACRES. HALF cash, 100 tillable land, lots of water, frame barn, 40 x 58. Good machinery, good house, farm implements, horses, cattle, close to Post Office, school, 800 maple trees for syrup. Sell separate, (also Ford car.) Possession any time. Apply to John Smith, McMurrick P.O., Parry Sound, Ont.

IF YOU DESIRE TO SELL YOUR farm send me full particulars and have description published in my new Catalogue. No expense whatever to you unless I effect a sale. J. D. Biggar, 206 Clyde Block, Hamilton, Ont.

120 ACRES, PICKERING; EIGHTY Markham; 65 Markham, fine grain and stock farm, one ten per acre, or divide; lively barn; and 4 fine homes, in Markham village. F. K. Reesor, Markham, Ont.

MISCELLANEOUS

SEND A DOMINION EXPRESS Money Order. Five Dollars costs three cents.

AUTO OWNERS AND MECHANICS. Don't lose your tools. Stamps your name on every one and be insured against loss and theft. We will make for you a Stamp hand cut from tool steel, or divide; lively barn; and 4 fine homes, in Markham village. F. K. Reesor, Markham, Ont.

WANTED — LIMITED NUMBER OF prime rabbit skins, raised, stretched, salted and air dried. Reid Bros., Bothwell, Ontario.

FOR SALE — SHEEP AND HAY ranch, 255 acres, 1,000,000 fine timber; house, barn, about five acres finest black soil, cultivated garden and hay; post office, church, school, telephone, 10 in. water-main, Canadian Northern Hotel, way, saw mill, planing mill; most beautiful climate in the world; radius 6 miles Victoria; fine auto roads; electric wires soon. Reason for selling, Dr. Barker, Happy Valley, Vancouver Island.

250 ACRES—HURON COUNTY—BEST of land; excellent water; good buildings; price right; near good markets, school; churches, store. Box 154, Seaford.

HOME BUILDERS.

Write for Free Book of House Plans, and information telling how to save from two to four hundred dollars on your new home. Address, Halliday Company, 21 Jackson Street East, Hamilton, Ontario.

FOR SALE OR EXCHANGE.

HOUSE WITH EVERY CONVENIENCE in village of Grimsby. Steam heated, car stops at door. Would consider exchange for same or smaller place between Stoney Creek and Brantford. Apply, Box 368, Grimsby, Ont.

of Spain. But nobody understood the value of the potato, and its Peruvian origin was generally forgotten before the plant became well known. Instead of Peruvian potatoes we call them Irish potatoes.

The potato was the basis of the ancient Peruvian nation and has attained almost the same importance in other parts of the world within the last one hundred years.—National Geographic Magazine.

Chinese Tea Houses.

Just as England has highway taverns and as we have roadhouses along our highways, so has China her tea houses. The Chinese do not indulge much in intoxicants, and tea is about the strongest drink they consume. Tea houses there are about as numerous as ice cream and soda resorts are here.

NOW IS THE TIME
To Prepare Your Stock for the
TORONTO FAT STOCK SHOW
TO BE HELD AT
UNION STOCK YARDS
December 11th and 12th
Early preparation produces the prize winners.
Premium list, which will be ready for distribution in three weeks, carries more classes than ever before.

Send Your Cream TO THE Best Market in Canada
We supply cans and pay express. Cash weekly. Write for cans now. Don't let your biggest month go by without taking advantage of our prices. Representatives wanted in every locality; write us.
H.N. CARR & CO., Ltd.
193 King St. East Hamilton, Ont.

BRITAIN AFTER GERMAN TRADE

Government Board is After Central Europe Business.

Urges Commercial Men to Get Busy.

London Cable—During the war it has been necessary to prohibit all trading with the enemy, but with the conclusion of peace with Germany the necessity for this prohibition has ceased.

So opens the Board of Trade's statement of conditions under which trading with Germany is now permissible.

"It may be expected that there will be a considerable demand in Germany for all kinds of goods," the Board of Trade adds, "and with the raising of the blockade this market will be open to all the world. It is necessary in the interests of this country to develop our export trade to the fullest extent possible, and it is very desirable that British traders should at once make every effort to secure a proper footing in Central Europe."

STOMACH TROUBLE

Comes When the Blood is Weak and Watery.

Thin blooded people generally have stomach trouble. But they seldom recognize the fact that thin blood is the cause of their indigestion, but it is.

Thin blood is one of the most common causes of stomach trouble; it affects the digestion very quickly. The glands that furnish the digestive fluids are diminished in their activity, the stomach muscles are weakened and there is a loss of nerve force. In this state of health nothing will more quickly restore the appetite, digestion and normal nutrition than good, rich, red blood.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills act directly on the blood, making it rich and red, and this enriched blood strengthens weak nerves, stimulates tired muscles, and awakens to normal activity the glands that supply the digestive fluids. The first sign of returning health is an improved appetite, and soon the effect of these blood-making pills is evident throughout the whole system. You find that what you eat does not distress you, and that you are strong and vigorous instead of irritable and listless. You are on the road to sound, good health and care in your diet is all you need. If your appetite is fickle, if you have any of the distressing pains and symptoms of indigestion you should begin to cure yourself at once by taking Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

These pills are sold by all dealers in medicine or you can get them by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

POLE AND UKRAINIAN

May Join—Petlura Has Sent Envoys.

Vienna Cable—Fighting between the Poles and the Ukrainians has ceased. Gen. Petlura, the Ukrainian leader, has sent a mission to the Poles with the object of discussing co-operation in fighting the Bolsheviks and driving them from the Ukraine.

The Polish-Bolshevik front near Brest is inactive, and the Poles are able to promenade outside their trenches without being fired on.

Petlura declares that if the Allies ever arrive at a point of understanding on the Ukrainian situation and furnish him with munitions, he will be able to wrest Ukraine from the Bolsheviks within a month. The objection to this plan in Poland is said to be the possibility of Petlura renewing the conflict with the Poles later.

Petlura and his followers say they are opposed to interference from the outside or the advent of foreign soldiers, even to defeat the Bolsheviks, so it is thought unlikely that Gen. Denekine, the Russian anti-Bolshevik leader, will be welcomed by them. The Ukrainians are outspoken in their intentions to disregard the Anglo-French reconstruction plan in Russia under Admiral Kolchak.

A Medical Need Supplied.—When a medicine is found that not only acts upon the stomach, but is so composed that certain ingredients of it pass unaltered through the stomach to find action in the bowels, then there is available a purgative and a cleanser of great effectiveness. Parmelee's Vegetable Pills are of this character and are the best of all pills. During the years that they have been in use they have established themselves as no other pill has done.

Tester for Fountain Pens.—Fountain pens are tested by an instrument called a micrometer. If one piece of the mechanism is out even a six-hundredth part of an inch it is rejected as faulty.

Scotch Criticism.

Musical criticism in the far north is sometimes rather outspoken. At an annual concert of a certain north-country friendly society, the members of which were for the most part pitmease "sweet music." After his performance there were mingled feelings among the audience. The chairman, however, declared the piper had received an encore. "Aa's not gan to play ony mair," said the piper. "What for not?" asked the puzzled chairman. "Aa ho'd someone carl me a fule." "Nonsense, man," said the chairman. "Naeboddy said owt of the sort." "Onyway, Aa's not gan to play ony mair," said the obturate piper. He held to his decision and the concert had to proceed without him. At the conclusion a fitman rose to move a hearty vote of thanks to the performers. "Aa include the piper," said he. "It warn't me called the piper a fule, and Aa divvent see why any one should carl the piper a fule." He paused for effect. "What Aa want t' know is, who carled the fule a piper?"

It is in Demand.—So great is the demand for Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil that a large factory is kept continually busy making and bottling it. To be in demand shows popular appreciation of this preparation, which stands at the head of proprietary compounds, the leading Oil in the market, and it is generally admitted that it is deserving of the lead.

Cultivating Cinchona.

Experiments are under way in the Philippines with the cultivation of cinchona plants from India in the belief that quinine can be produced in the islands.

Sandaged Beyond Recognition.

An ambulance had just discharged its load at a dressing station, and the quartette of wounded were lying on stretchers on the ground. One of the patients was a youth. Even the bandages which concealed four-fifths of his face did not conceal that. While he waited his turn on the operating table his one available eye twinkled as he related to a line of walking wounded how it had happened. Suddenly he paused in his conversation, having spotted a Tommy trudging down the road, a chum from his own home town and his own regiment. "Hey, Joe!" he shouted, and when Joe reached his side he said, "say I'll bet you don't know who I am, Joe."

LAON INFORMERS ARE SENTENCED

Paris—Cable—Sentences were delivered this evening in the case known as "the Laon informers" after a trial of more than sixty days. Of the 28 persons accused, eight were condemned to death, two of them being women; three others were condemned to death by default. Six were acquitted, and the remainder received sentences of from one to twenty years' imprisonment.

The charge against the accused was denouncing compatriots to the German authorities during the occupation of Laon. In many cases the hiding-places of French soldiers, who had escaped the German advance, were pointed out, with the result that a large number of the soldiers were executed.

Recognized as the leading specific for the destruction of worms in children, Mother's Worm Expeller has proved a boon to suffering children everywhere. It seldom fails.

National Traits.

The Archbishop of Canterbury once described the characteristics of the English, the Welsh and the Scotch. "The Englishman," said the archbishop, "takes everywhere with him—his beer, his bath and his bible. The Scotchman keeps the Sabbath and everything else he can lay his hands on. The Welshman prays on his knees on Sunday and on his neighbors the rest of the week."

PLAIN TALK TO WORKERS OF GERMANY

Gompers Censures Them for Not Protesting Against Outrages.

LAME EXCUSES

Offered by Them at Great Amsterdam Labor Conference.

An Amsterdam Special Cable—The preliminary gathering to-day of the International Trades Union Congress developed a series of accusations by Belgian, American, English and French delegates against the German workers for their conduct during the war. This led to sharp incriminations by both sides.

To-day's meeting had the purpose of clearing up the affairs of the old trades union internationale and making preparations for a new organization. Before the discussion opened the Belgians declared that they had a mandate to state the grievances of Belgian workers. M. Mertens then delivered his indictment, declaring that the German trades unionists had not protested against their military authorities deporting Belgians.

Carl Rudolph Legien, president of the German Federation of Trades Unions, in reply defended the entire policy of the German trades unionists, which he said had been absolutely correct, declared their position prevented their protesting to the Government. Moreover, Legien added that they all the time were under the impression that they were fighting a defensive war.

"We did what we thought was right to help the Belgian workers," Legien continued. "Instead of protesting publicly, we tried to retain the influence of the Government and effect ameliorations."

The impression seemed to prevail among the delegates that Legien's statement constituted a halting apology.

SINKING OF LUSITANIA.

Samuel Gompers, president of the A. F. of L., followed Legien. He recalled that Legien, in the course of a speech, had defended the sinking of the Lusitania. Mr. Gompers told the Germans that they owed an apology only to Belgium, but the whole international organization of workers.

The American labor leader brought to light a communication he sent to Legien before America entered the war, in which he endeavored to persuade the Germans to protest against the Lusitania incident. This was contained in a letter carried by Count von Bernstorff, German Ambassador to the United States, when Bernstorff was recalled. Legien denied having received the letter.

At the end of the long sitting, Herr Sassenbach, a German Socialist, handed in a resolution containing a statement in explanation of the German workers' attitude during and since the war. This was handed over to a committee for a report, which will be heard Monday, when a vote on it will be taken. The gist of the Sassenbach resolution follows:

The German workers always had been opponents of war and armaments, and never gave assent to the Government's imperialism. If, the war as far as possible, during the war fought against it; the attitude of the German workers at the outbreak and during the war was dictated by the position of Germany. It was their conviction that Germany was fighting a defensive war, which was the opinion of all Germans, including the leaders.

The German trades unions always recognized that Germany acted wrongly in Belgium and always condemned atrocities committed; the German occupation of Belgium and the deportation of Belgians was not done with the consent of the German workers, resolution continued, at the beginning of the war, all had been known that now was known. If the workers had not been misled and betrayed by the Government, the attitude of the workers and their leaders would have been different.

If the German labor movement had suspected that Germany was the aggressor it would, without doubt, have tried by every means to prevent the war. The German workers recognize that the workers of other countries cannot appreciate or understand the several actions of the German workers during the war, but these actions were forced on them by the severe struggle waged by the German nation.

Many things were done, the resolution said, under the full conviction that right was on Germany's side, that would never have been done in the light of the truth now being brought home. The German workers at the beginning of the war tried to do their duty without wronging the laboring classes of other countries and without falling in their own national obligations.

The Terror of Asthma comes like a thief in the night with its dreadful throttling, robbing its victim of breath. It seems beyond the power of human aid to relieve until one trial is made of that remarkable preparation, Dr. J. D. Kellogg's Asthma Remedy. Then relief comes with a rush. Life becomes worth living, and, if the remedy be used persistently, the disease is put permanently to rout. Take no substitute.

NO TIME TO SPARE.

This Skipper Had to Decide in a Hurry.

The Cephalonia was deeply loaded with shells, and her chill-rooms were filled with T. N. T. for the Italian army, writes R. E. Cropley in the Atlantic. She was well in the midst of the convoy proceeding down the Thames, and had just passed beyond the submarine net, when a thin pencil of smoke was seen to rise from the corner of No. 1 hatch. It happened to catch the third officer's eye first, and he called Sammy's attention to it. In two shakes Sammy had sounded four blasts on the siren, and a flag fluttered from the yard-arm, which caused all other ships to give him a wide berth, as the propeller of the Cephalonia churned up the sea in her frantic effort to back and turn as if to return to London.

A ship on fire should return to port, but Sammy, with a cargo of T. N. T. wasn't that kind of skipper to risk blowing cottages and kiddies into the next world in an effort to save his own skin. No; he turned the Cephalonia till her stern was head to the breeze, and slowly kept her backing seaward to restrain the fire, if possible, from spreading aft to his chamber of T. N. T.; backed her away from port and other ships, so that, if she did blow up, the military loss would be confined to the Cephalonia alone. And all the while he was wondering what moment a U-boat would pop up and send a torpedo into him, or he would strike a drifting mine.

Only the uninformed endure the agony of corns. The knowing ones apply Holloway's Corn Cure and get relief.

SENATOR HUMBERT CLEARED.

Paris Cable—Senator Charles Humbert, who was acquitted in May by court-martial on a charge of having had dealings with the enemy, came up for final examination to-day on the allegation charging him with corrupting officials in the matter of contracts in the United States.

During the examination a letter was read from former Attorney-General Becker of the State of New York, who investigated the charges in New York for the French Government. Mr. Becker's letter said no trace had been found in banks or factories of any negotiations or collusion with which Senator Humbert could be reproached.

TO IMPROVE RUSS LABOR

Omsk Government is Making Good Progress.

Working Class is Doing Its Duty.

London Cable, via Omsk, Tuesday, July 15.—Good progress toward increased production and improved labor conditions were reported to-day by Leonid Shumilovskiy, Minister of Labor in Admiral Kolchok's all-Russian Government, at the closing session of the State Economic Council Congress.

The Ministry of Labor has established a minimum wage, and aids workmen to organize unions, M. Shumilovskiy told the congress.

"All the data we possess shows an increase in the productivity of labor in the various industries," he said. "I am glad to say that in these critical days the working class is doing its duty to the country. The Government sees that the workmen are paid enough for their work, and have enough time and rest to participate in healthful life."

Endorsement of the all-Russian Government's policies as given in Admiral Kolchak's note to the allies, is expressed in a declaration of the constitutional democratic party, made public here to-day.

The declaration says the party welcomes "the allied note promising Russia energetic help in its struggle against the Bolshevik tyranny."

Admiral Kolchak's reply to the allies, the statement adds, "expresses fully the opinion of the Russian people with regard to the problems touched upon in the allied note."

The point is made, however, that the party considers "it our duty to state the Russian public opinion repudiates the idea that the struggle against Bolshevism should be made at the expense of Russia's unity. The task which all Russian parties pursue is the re-establishment of a united Russia."

Catarrrh Cannot Be Cured

by LOCAL APPLICATIONS, as they cannot reach the seat of the disease. CATARRH is a local disease, greatly influenced by constitutional conditions. HALL'S CATARRH MEDICINE will cure catarrh. It is taken internally and acts through the blood on the Mucous Surfaces of the System. HALL'S CATARRH MEDICINE is composed of some of the best tonics known, combined with some of the best blood purifiers. The perfect combination of the ingredients in HALL'S CATARRH MEDICINE is what produces such wonderful results in catarrhal conditions. Druggists 75c. Testimonials free. F. J. Cheney & Co., Props., Toledo, Ohio.

NEED CITY PLANNING.

Japanese Municipal Authorities Are Aroused.

The remarkable expansion of Japanese cities during the last few years has accentuated the urgent necessity of city planning. With this end in view a conference of the mayors of the leading Japanese cities has occurred at Tokyo. Among those present were the mayors of Osaka, Yokohama, Nagoya, Kyoto and Kobe, while Tokyo municipality was represented by Messrs. Kabashima and Ogino.

"In Tokyo, city planning was set on foot twenty years ago, about the same time the question of city planning was receiving attention in America and Europe," said Dr. Seki, mayor of Osaka, in an interview with a Tokyo Yomiuri representative. "In Osaka, however, it is only a few years since the problem began to claim serious attention, although the necessity of city planning in Osaka is perhaps more urgent than in other cities. The density of population in Osaka is certainly greater than in other places and improvement in sanitary and other matters is urgently needed. It is estimated that the population of Osaka twenty years hence will be 2,650,000, and that of the two neighboring districts 2,360,000, making a total of 5,000,000. This estimate is based on the present rate of increase, but it is possible the rate of increase may be larger. Herein lies the urgent nature of the city planning for Osaka."

Miller's Worm Powders are a prompt relief from the attacks of worms in children. They are powerful in their action and, while leaving nothing to be desired as a worm expellant, have an invigorating effect upon the youthful system, remedying fever, biliousness, loss of appetite, sleeplessness, and other ailments that follow disorders caused by worms in the stomach and bowels.

Homes Help Community.

A wealthy Englishman once said that a good home was an institution for civilizing a community, and instead of surrounding his own home by a high hedge, like many in the vicinity, he built about it an open fence, so that whoever passed, rich or poor, might enjoy the beauty of house and lawn and garden. It is a good thing for the girls of to-day who are to be the home makers of tomorrow, to grow up with the idea that the home owes something to the community.

Benson's CORN STARCH

For Tomorrow's Dessert

The question of variety in summer desserts never troubles the woman who knows the possibilities of Benson's Corn Starch, the choicest product of the corn.

Benson's Corn Starch is equally fine for crisp, delicate pastries as it is for simple puddings; it is good for cakes and for pie fillings to say nothing of Blanc Mange, Custards and Ice Cream.

Try one of these recipes for tomorrow's dessert—

Write for Cook Book The Canada Starch Co. Limited - Montreal

226

THE WATERDOWN REVIEW

Issued every Thursday morning from the office, Dundas Street, Waterdown
Subscription $1.00 per year. Papers to the United States, 50 cents extra.

Advertising rates furnished on application
G. H. GREENE
Editor and Publisher

THURSDAY, AUGUST 7, 1919

LOCAL MENTION

Mrs. Chas. Richards spent Sunday with friends in Toronto.

The canning factory will be prepared to receive tomatoes next week.

George Mitchell spent a few days with his brother Stewart in Kitchener.

Austin Tudor of Toronto was a week end visitor under the parental roof.

Miss Mary Featherston and sister spent last Thursday at Niagara Falls.

Mr. A. Baker, of Detroit, is spending a few days here with his brother Isaac Baker.

Mrs. Liddycoat and family and Mrs. King were visiting in Toronto on Thursday last.

Mr. Arthur C. Griffin of Detroit is spending a weeks vacation with relatives in the village.

Dr. J. O. McGregor has purchased a new Ford coupe car with all the latest improvements.

The Rev. Mr. Anthony, a former pastor of Knox Church, is visiting friends in this vicinity.

Miss Mary Spears, of Merton, spent the week end here with her cousin Miss Grace Alton.

Mr. Chas. Richards and family motored to Jarvis last Monday on a business and pleasure trip.

Mr. John Smith and family of Strabane spent Sunday with his sister Mrs. Reginald Langton.

Mr. and Mrs. Freeman Gunby of Tansley visited with Mr. and Mrs. A. Newell over the week end.

Mr. and Mrs. W. J. McKee and little daughter Ina, of Christie, were Sunday visitors in the village.

Two cars of oil for the village streets arrived yesterday. Workmen are now busy unloading the cars.

Miss Gertrude English and Miss Jean Drummond attended the wedding of Dr. John Chassels of Toronto last Saturday.

The Women's Missionary Society will meet with Mrs. A. E. Alton on Wednesday afternoon, Aug 13th at 2.30. A Temperance program will be provided.

Miss Mabel Whitmore of Hamilton was the week end guest of Mr. and Mrs. C. T. Everett. On Sunday morning and evening Miss Whitmore rendered an excellent solo in the Methodist Church, which was appreciated by all.

Dr. G. F. and Mrs. Allison left on Saturday July 26th on an extended trip to the Saginay river and the Chootenay lakes. Before returning home they will visit with relatives in Nova Scotia. They are making the trip by boat and motor.

Mrs. W. A. Drummond and her sisters, Mrs. R. Withington of Philadelphia and Mrs. Woolverton of London, who are her guests, were in Grimsby last Monday attending the funeral of Miss Nellie Evans. During their stay there they called on a number of old friends before returning home.

The Women's Institute met with Mrs. Stewart Gallagher on Wednesday afternoon last. The usual business was disposed of. Mrs. Facey gave a splendid talk on "Canadian Women as prospective Voters". Mrs. W. A. Ryckman ably presided over the Question Drawer which was very interesting to all. Readings were given by Mrs. A. Newell and Mrs. Geo. Nicholson. The roll was called and six new members added. After the National anthem was sung Mrs. Gallagher served refreshments and a very social time was spent. The next meeting will be at the home of Mrs. Geo. Nicholson.

Tenders Wanted

Tenders will be received by the undersigned up to Monday, August 11th, 1919 at 5 o'clock p. m., for the laying of approximately 350 square yards of Cement Walks in the Village of Waterdown, work to be completed before October 15, 1919.

George street.....140 yds. in length
Franklin street..... 20 " " "
Raglan street..... 35 " " "
Approaches to bridge on Dundas street..... 80 " " "
Specifications can be seen at Review Office.

J. C. MEDLAR, Clerk

DIED—Suddenly in West Flamboro Township on Wednesday, Aug. 6th, 1919, William Henry Shaver in his 64th year. Funeral from his late residence 7th con. to Westover cemetery.

Jacob and Mrs. Metzger, of Dundas, spent Sunday in the village.

Mr. and Mrs. John Carter have returned home after holidaying at their former home in Blyth.

Miss Nettie Buttrum and J. W. Griffin and family spent Sunday at Lynden with their uncle Mr. Mark Binkley.

Miss Mary Buttrum of Hamilton Road and Miss Lilly Buttrum of West Hamilton visited Miss Nettie Buttrum and Mrs. J. W. Griffin.

Rev. John Radford, of Smitville, occupied the pulpit of the Methodist church on Sunday and preached morning and evening to a large audience, his sermons being much appreciated.

Carlisle

Mrs. Morris and children are visiting the formers mother, Mrs. Gallo-way.

Mr. and Mrs. Robt. Thompson and family of Guelph spent the week end and holiday with relatives here.

The Burlington Sunday School Orchestra took part in the Sunday evening services here and was very much appreciated.

Mr. Young is visiting with Rev. Dr. Morrow.

Miss Lena Alger of Hamilton is spending a few days with Miss Ruth Fuester.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilson, of Westover visited with friends here over the week end.

The choir picnic to Scarboro Beach is being held on August 13th and the choir extends an invitation to everyone of the community.

Baptismal and reception service is being held here next Sunday morning.

Greenville

Mr. and Mrs. Jake Smith of Tilsonburg visited at Johnson Tew's on Sunday last.

Miss Isabel Surerus is in Hamilton nursing her sister Louie who is very ill with pneumonia.

Mr. Will Taylor with his Uncle John Taylor have returned from a motor trip to Bruce county.

Mrs. Ego of Newmarket spent the holiday with Miss L. Green.

Mr. Piper, wife and son of Newmarket were calling on friends here while on a motor trip to Galt.

Miss Nellie Betzner is spending a week with friends in Kitchener.

Mrs. Rayner was visiting her sister in Troy on Sunday last.

Mrs. Muirson of Galt has been visiting at Miss M. Clarke.

Mr. Jas. Slater of Toronto spent the holiday with friends here.

A young son arrived at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Vern McKee last Friday.

Cols. Barker and Bishop, world's greatest aces, will have charge of flying circus at the Canadian National Exhibition this year. They will fly surrendered German Fokkers and types of British, French and Italian machines.

$25 Reward

For information that will lead to the arrest and conviction of parties trespassing and stealing fruit from the premises of J. and C. Anderson, Waterdown. 15

For Sale

5 Ewes and 2 Lambs. Apply to Mrs. Innis, Waterdown.

For Sale

Young Yorkshire Brood Sow, due this month. Geo. Pearson, Waterdown

For Sale

Holstein Bull 16-mos. Also Holstein Heifer, fresh. Apply to R. Hemingway R. R. No. 1, Freeman. Phone 5-8 Lowville.

For Sale

A handy Farm Wagon with 3000 lb. bolster springs, box, doubletrees, neckyoke and heavy shafts, good as new. Also Covered Market Wagon with pole and shafts, all complete and almost new. Covered Buggy, also several sets of harness and other articles. J. W. Young, Waterdown

Wanted

Berry pickers for Friday morning, 4c per box. Auto will be at Dale's corner at 7 o'clock. Mr. Hill, Flamboro Centre.

Organist Wanted

For Knox Church, Waterdown. Apply to J. A. McKay, R. R. No. 1, Waterdown

For Sale

9 Pigs 5 weeks old. Also 1 Sow with 5 pigs 4 weeks old $90. H. Newell, R. R. No. 1, Millgrove. 11

Piano Tuning

First class work guaranteed. W. Reid, R. R. No. 1, Waterdown.

For Sale

Large Brick House, Good Barn and 4 lots in village of Waterdown. Apply to J. C. Langford, Waterdown.

Dixie Ace Tractor

I have taken the agency for The Dixie Tractors for Flamboro, Nelson, Trafalgar and surrounding district. LeRoy Alton.

Farmers Attention

Bring your live hogs to Millgrove station. We are prepared to pay highest market prices.
Drummond & Gallagher

For Sale

One Frame Barn 24 ft. x 24 ft. 12 ft. posts, heavy frame, in first class repair new roof. One large Kitchen Cabinet with glass door top. One Sideboard also one Yearling Jersey Grade Heifer.
S. Frank Smith, Phone 167.

SOFT COAL

Car of Soft Coal at Millgrove Station. I will be at Millgrove Station Monday and Thursday of each week. For other arrangements phone Garfield 2693 Hamilton or Waterdown 14-12. H. A. Drummond

LOST

Gold watch charm valued as keep sake. Reward. Apply at Review Office.

LOST

Between Dougherty's store and Fourth concession on Dundas or Main streets, a gold Brooch with purple stone. Finder please leave at Review Office.

All Kinds

Of No. 1 Wood and Coal for Sale

At Reasonable Prices

H. SLATER

Waterdown

The practice of standing up in moving wagons by young boys almost resulted fatally to a Hamilton lad here last Tuesday afternoon. The boy was standing in the rear end of a democrat containing a number of berry pickers. In turning the corner at Mill and Dundas streets the horse made a sudden start throwing him backwards out of the wagon on his head on the stone crossing. Fortunately Dr. Hopper was present when the accident occurred and medical aid was given at once. He recovered sufficiently to return to his home by train.

NOTICE

New goods arriving every day
Call and see them

Canada Food License No. 8-17371

O. B. Griffin, Waterdown

Wanted At Once

We have several buyers who are wanting small and large farms.
If you want to sell, ask

The Royal Real Estate Exchange

7 MARKET STREET

They Know. Hamilton, Ont.

The Sawell Greenhouses

A Birth A Death
A Joy A Sorrow

Say It with Flowers

Carpenter and Metal Work

For Inside or Outside

Roofing, Siding, Ceilings and Walls, Metal Garages, Silo Roofs, Stock and Hog Troughs Oil or Gasoline Barrels.

I also do furniture repairing and picture framing

W. H. REID, Waterdown

Gordon & Son

LADIES and GENTS

CUSTOM TAILORS

Cleaning, Pressing and Repairing a Specialty

PHONE 153
WATERDOWN

BUCHAN'S

Canada Food License No. 9-1987

FOR
Groceries
AND Confectionery

Tomatoes Corn
Pork and Beans
Home-made
Sweet Pickles
Rep Catsup
Cream Cheese

WE SELL
Linkert Bros.
BREAD

Fresh Every Day
AGENT FOR
Wah Lee
LAUNDRY
HAMILTON
PHONE 182
Waterdown

LOST BOUNDARY RECORDS.

Strange Story of How They Were Recovered.

In 1818, Great Britain and the United States agreed that the 49th parallel of latitude should be the boundary between Canada and the United States, from Lake of the Woods to the "Stony Mountains," as the Rockies were then called. West of that to the Pacific, the country was "free and open" to both parties for a period of ten years.

But in ten years the boundary was not settled. In 1824 Russia surrendered all rights to the territory south of 54 degrees, 40 minutes. Time passed, and the country was still "free and open," but an influx of American settlers began to arouse jealousy. In 1844 the political cry of the Democrats in the United States was "Fifty-four forty or fight!" which meant that the United States would have the Pacific coast up to the Russian territory or fight Britain for it. But in 1849 a treaty was made, continuing the 49th parallel "to the middle of the channel which separates the continent from Vancouver's Island."

The commission on the boundary made a map survey, but only got 95 miles of lines cut and erected stone pyramids at frequent intervals in that marked distance.

A few years later, settlers found three lines cut and two sets of pyramids. The boundary was lost. Who could say which was United States and which Canadian soil?

The Canadian settlers applied to the Provincial Government of Victoria, and the query was passed on to the Dominion Government. The simple thing would be to write to London, Eng., and obtain the required information re the surveys of 1857-1861.

In his recent pamphlet on the subject, Mr. Otto Klotz, Chief Astronomer of the Dominion, says:

"Now the extraordinary thing happened. This final report with the necessary data of the survey was not to be found in London. Time and again search was made by different persons for the missing document, but all to no avail. To add to the remarkable situation, the duplicate final report was not to be found in any of the Government archives in Washington.

"Does history record any similar circumstance? Two governments are engaged for years on an expensive international work, a boundary survey; the respective commissioners sign joint final reports and transmit them to their respective Governments, and the reports are nowhere to be found — apparently vanished from the face of the earth!"

"Such was the situation in 1898, when the writer (Mr. Klotz) was sent by the Dominion Government to London and Petrograd on a special mission, in which was included the obtaining of information regarding the records and final report of the above survey. All the offices in London were visited in which there was the faintest likelihood that the records might be stored, but without result, and no one seemed to be able to give any assistance.

"It was the writer's first visit to Europe, and naturally a visit was paid to the Royal Observatory at Greenwich, as he was astronomer for the Dominion Government.

"By chance, his eye caught the initials, B.N.A. on some boxes on top of the library shelves. Like a flash those letters interpreted themselves as standing for 'British North America.' At his request, the boxes were taken down, the dust of years removed, and in them lay the long-lost records of the international survey of the 49th parallel."

"Bars" To Be Awarded.

Canadian soldiers will be awarded bars to the general service medal for the following engagements:

1915—Second battle of Ypres, April and May; St. Julien and Langemarck.

1916—Mount St. Eloi, April 3 to 19; Sanctuary Wood, and Hill 2, June 2 and 3; the battle of the Somme, October and November.

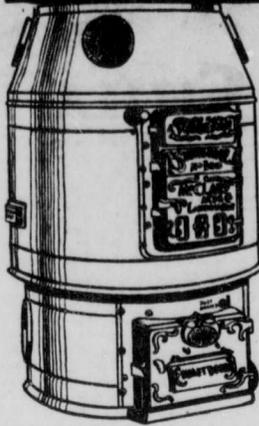

1917—Vimy Ridge, April 9 to 13; battle of Arleux and Fresnoy, April 28-29, and May 3; Hill 70, August 15; and Passchendaele, October 25 to November 10.

1918—Battle of Amiens, August 12; capture of Monchy-le-Preux, August 25 to 28; Boiry and Cherisy, August 30 to September 2; breaking of Queant-Drocourt Line, September 3 and 4; Crossing of Canal Du Nord and Capture of Boulon Wood, September 27 to 29; capture of Cambrai, October 19; capture of Deaulx, October 20; capture of Valenciennes, October 25 to November 2; and the capture of Mons, November 7 to 11.

It is possible that bars will be given also for the battles of Festubert, Givenchy and Hooge.

A Difficult Question.

One day I was getting dinner in my tent and the usual company of natives watching the performance, when there came along a couple of men who had just landed and who, evidently, had never seen an Eskimo before. I overheard their conversation, relates Rev. S. Hall Young in his book, "Adventures in Alaska." "Say, Jim," said one, "just look there. Did you ever see the like?" (A pause.) "Say, do you think them things has souls?" "We-e-ll," drawled Jim, "I reckon they must have. They're human bein's. But I'll tell you this: If they do, they've all got to go to heaven, sure; for the devil'd never have them around."

McClary's Sunshine

It is after a furnace is installed and the first cold snap tests it that you know whether your investment in COMFORT was wisely made or not. Don't take a chance on it.

You can be sure of it under the McClary's guarantee. McClary's engineers will plan your heating system without charge. They will guarantee that the Sunshine furnace, installed according to those plans, will heat your home comfortably.

Take advantage of this service. Have a comfortable, well-heated home.

Sold by F. SPECK

McClary's

FOR SALE

Two Splendid
Building Lots
Facing on Main St.
50 x 230

R. J. VANCE
DENTIST

Mill Street Waterdown

John Kitching Mervyn Kitching

Kitching & Son

FUNERAL
DIRECTORS

Up to Date Equipment
Motor or Horse Hearse

We Pay All Telephone Charges
Waterdown Ontario

Westover Branch at Markle's Store

CAN'T PUNCTURE OR BLOW OUT

Dayton airless tires in the past 15 years have been used by thousands of owners of light passenger and delivery cars in all parts of the civilized world, and have conclusively demonstrated:

1st—They can't puncture nor blow out.

2nd—They ride much longer as smoothly as pneumatics.

3rd—They give much longer wear than the average pneumatic.

4th—They absolutely will not injure the car.

They have been endorsed by 50,000 or more satisfied users, including the late George Westinghouse and Edward Grey formerly Chief Engineer of the Ford Motor Company.

Piers of live elastic built about one inch apart inside the casing and vulcanized or welded to it take the place of an inner tube.

Nothing can happen but wear. We have standardized on 30x3 1/2 and the price is right.

Dayton Airless Tire Co., of Canada
346 Yonge St., TORONTO, ONTARIO

MAIL THIS COUPON TO-DAY

H. J. McCLINTOCK

77 King St. W., Hamilton, Ont.

Please send, without obligation, booklet and information on Dayton Airless Tires as checked below:

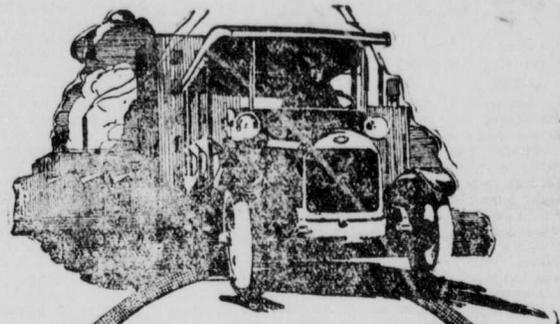

For pleasure cars.

For light delivery cars.

Name

Address

County or St. No.

Years of Truck Service
Assured

The permanency of any company is of as great importance as its product. It makes all the difference in the world in the service you get from the product. The Chevrolet Motor Company is founded securely. It has many factories, its financial resources total many millions, its organization numbers many thousands. In every respect, the

Made in Canada

ONE-TON WORM-DRIVE TRUCK

reflects the ideals of the Company to produce a really high grade Truck at a popular price. See this Truck. If unflinching power, staunch building, long life, low upkeep, low price and service, are what you demand of a truck, you will want the Chevrolet. Price, Chassis, $1575; with body, $1710; complete with body, 8-post top and curtains, $1795; f. o. b. Oshawa, Ont.

Wm. Livingston
Carlisle, Ont

Saturday Specials

Salted Peanuts per pound	33c
Peanuts in the shell per pound	29c
Chocolates, half lb. boxes	30c
Chocolates, one lb. boxes	55c
Humbugs, per pound	29c
Maple Buds, per pound	55c
After Dinner Mints	33c

August Number of Ladies Home Journal now on Sale

A. FEATHERSTON

Our Waterdown Factory

We are prepared to receive your
Cherries and Raspberries

Empty Crates and Baskets for sale
24 box crates 20c. 27 box crates 25c.
11 qt. baskets 5c

For Cherry and Raspberry prices call 162 Waterdown

The Wentworth Orchards Co.

When you think of THE WALKER HOUSE always think of the WALKER HOUSE

It is the Personal Service that Pleases

THE HOUSE OF PLENTY

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

Lesson VI., Aug 10th, 1919.
WINNING OTHERS TO CHRIST.
Acts 16: 9-15; James 5: 19, 20.

Commentary.—I. Paul's call to Macedonia (vs. 9-12). 9. a vision—A clear and definite impression means something seen and does not necessarily imply the beholder was asleep, yet the fact that it occurred in the night might indicate that the apostle was asleep at the time. A man of Macedonia—Macedonia was a Greek province across the Egean Sea from Troas. Whatever this personage was, whether a representative of Macedonia or an angel, Paul recognized him as "a man of Macedonia" with a message for him. Come over and help us—This was a call of pagan need for spiritual light. Paganism failed to satisfy the longings of the soul and application was made for the gospel of Jesus Christ. The mission of the angel was great, but the mission of Paul was not less important. 10. we—This indicates that Luke joined the company at Troas, assuredly gathering, etc.—The apostle had no doubt as to the particular place where the Lord would have him labor. His duty was clear to carry the gospel into Europe. A clear conviction of duty goes a long way toward assuring success in the work of the Lord. The apostle could not possibly have any misgivings with regard to his field of labor, and he could move forward with the utmost confidence that his work would be blessed. A new continent was opened to the apostle to the Gentiles. 11. loosing from Troas—Sailing from Troas. wit a straight course—The wind was favorable and in one day the company sailed sixty miles in a northwesterly direction to Samothracia and the next day reached Neapolis, the seaport of Philippi, having sailed seventy-five miles. At another time it took Paul five days to travel the same distance. Samothracia—A rocky island in the Egean Sea. 12. in Philippi—Ten miles from Neapolis. The journey could be made by land or by river. chief city—The first city of that region. a colony—A Roman colony was composed of citizens transferred from Rome. They had the organization and customs of the city of Rome, and their city was a miniature of Rome itself. Those who composed the colony were still enrolled as citizens of Rome. There were rich gold mines north of Philippi.

II. Conversion of Lydia and her family (vs. 13-15). 13. On the Sabbath—Probably the first Sabbath after Paul's arrival at Philippi. Where prayer was wont to be made—It seems that there was no synagogue in the city, and when Paul and his companions understood that there was a place of prayer by the river outside the city, they went to meet those who would worship the Lord there. Spoke unto the women—Those who were interested in the worship of the Lord were women, and of those women, one was a foreigner and a proselyte, faithful, perhaps, when the birthright Jews were faithless, and to her the gospel is to be an exceeding great reward. 14. Named Lydia—The name may have been given to her from the town in Lydia, Thyatira, from which she came. This town had long been noted for its manufacture of purple. Worshipped God—From this statement it is evident that Lydia was a worshiper of the true God. She had evidently become a proselyte to the Jewish faith. It is considered remarkable that this should be the case, because repeated passages occur in Greek literature which affirm the wickedness of the women of Lydia, in Thyatira. Lydia may have been influenced by the corruptness of her surroundings in her native city to resolve to Philippi. It was highly favorable for her that she was in Philippi at the time of Paul's labors there. Whose heart the Lord opened—The Lord moved her by His Spirit to accept the gospel and she was obedient to the divine impression. Attended unto the things which were spoken—Her hungry heart, received with gladness the message which the Lord's servant brought, and she believed the gospel. . . 15. was baptized, and her household—Baptism was administered as a sign of the inward washing of the heart and as a testimony to the world of discipleship with Christ. Lydia's household must have included children or servants or both, and all were baptized. If ye have judged me to be faithful to the Lord—As Lydia had received light from the Lord previously to the coming of the apostles and had walked in that light, so now she had accepted the gospel through their ministry and had become a Christian. If the apostles had confidence in her God she would be glad to entertain them, and they might prosecute their work of preaching the gospel among the people of Philippi.

Wood's Peppermint Cure
The Great Cough Remedy.
Cures all kinds of Coughs, Croup, Whooping Cough, Sore Throat, Bronchitis, Asthma, Hay Fever, and all other Coughs. Sold by all Druggists.

III. Importance of the work of winning souls (vs. 19, 20). James, the writer of the epistle that bears his name, was called "the Lord's brother" (Gal. 1:19; Matt. 13:55). He exhorts "the twelve tribes which are scattered abroad" to patience under trials, and shows the uselessness of faith without works, yet he does not vitify faith. One cannot be justified by the law, for one who breaks one point of the law is condemned for breaking the entire law, but one is justified by faith. The apostle sends forth a warning with regard to the wrong use of the tongue and exhorts the prayer, citing the praying of Elijah to show its efficiency. 19. brethren—The apostle addresses his fellow Jews in terms of endearment. If any of you do err from the truth—A warning is sounded of a liability to depart from the ways of the Lord, yet an honest, earnest, prayerful soul will not be allowed to make shipwreck of faith. One who keeps close to the word of God and is diligent in his service will not go far astray. one convert him—The figure of the preceding clause is continued. The figure is that of a traveller who gets off the road and loses his way, and another comes to him and leads him back or directs him to the place where he left the right road. Again we are reminded that human agency is employed to help men into the way to heaven. The term convert, as here employed, involves what one can do in behalf of another, and does not involve the change of heart, which can be accomplished by divine power alone. 20. let him know—Let this that follows be for his encouragement, converteth the sinner—The sinner, according to the Greek, is one who has missed the mark. He has fallen short of his possibilities and what God planned for him. He has missed his way, and the Christian has rescued him by personal effort and helped him to turn from his evil way to the Lord, save a soul from death—No human mind can comprehend all that is involved in the loss of the soul. The soul is of priceless value. For a soul to be lost is for it to be separated eternally from God and from all that is good. The soul saved from death is to dwell forever with God in his glory and serve him throughout unending ages. No other work can compare in importance with that of winning souls. shall hide a multitude of sins—The sins of him who is converted from the error of his way are blotted out.

Questions—What is the greatest mission of the church? How did the Lord show Paul that he was to go into Macedonia? Where was Macedonia from the place where Paul was? In what city did he preach? Who was Lydia? What was her native city? Where did the apostles go to attend service? What were the results of their labors? Who was James? What does he say about a winner of souls?

PRACTICAL SURVEY.
Topic.—Personal evangelism the duty and privilege of all Christians.
I. Personal evangelism.
II. A universal duty and privilege.
I. Personal evangelism. Evangelism is the active form of evangel, which means good news, a gospel. Personal evangelism is individual effort to bring individuals to a knowledge and experience of the blessings of the gospel of Jesus Christ. It may be termed the private ministry of the gospel. A first essential is a personal knowledge and experience of its truth and power. Andrew and Philip declared, "We have found him," and each brought his brother. Individual relation to the great truths of redemption is the secret and measure of efficiency. The gospel is a living message and must be inwardly vitalized to address itself to the deepest life of those who listen. The message of the heart, as well as the assent of the understanding, is essential. He who speaks effectively must feel, as well as know, the message he delivers. A strong ministry requires not only high intellectual, but high emotional power. The heart fires the thought. Knowledge may impart formal instruction, but only the quickening of the Spirit can vitalize the utterance. It was said of Jesus, "Never man spoke like this man." He said, "I am . . . the truth," hence he spoke with authority. Moral responsibilities, however widely shared, are always individual. The gospel is universal because it is individual. It invites all men by inviting each man. At Pentecost, its first complete fulfillment, "they were all filled." The Spirit in his work of awakening, regenerating and sanctifying is always personal. Men enter the kingdom in single file; hence no opportunity is too small. Jesus proclaimed his message of love and forgiveness to Nicodemus and the woman of Sychar with the same fullness as to the thronging multitudes, and he halted the throng that he might call Zaccheus from hiding to salvation and hope. Philip "preached Jesus" to a solitary auditor and baptized his convert before he left him. It was the personal message of the prophet, "Thou art the man," which brought the king from the throne to his knees, a convicted, contrite, confessing penitent. Personal evangelism invites to a personal demonstration. "Come and see," is the effective reply to criticism.

SINCE 1870
SHILOH
30 YEARS COUGHS

II. A universal duty and privilege. There are no moral neutralities. Duty and privilege are synonymous both as to character and service. Every man is obligated to be his best, live his highest and do his utmost. Moral excellence is a condition of clear-sighted and effectual service. An isolated life is impossible. "None of us liveth to himself, and no man dieth to himself." The intricate, inseparable and responsible associations of human life attend us to the end. Every man becomes his "brother's keeper." "Thou shalt in any wise rebuke thy neighbor, and not suffer sin upon him," was the law of ceremonial obligation. The silent outgoings of character, the force of right example, kindly admonition and earnest entreaty are included in the apostolic injunction (2 Tim. 4: 2). No privilege is so exalted, no delight so pure, and no work so abiding as that of leading men to Christ. To "save a soul from death" is the highest achievement of life.

"Jocko"
(By May Hendrie Wharton).

"One more mouth to feed," grumbled old Grandfather Warren.
"You mustn't grudge the mere mouthfuls this little creature will consume," said Bertha Warren.
"Look, look! Isn't the little pet cute and clever?"
She held on an arm a bright-eyed agile monkey. The old man, despite his fancied miseries, had to smile. The little animal doffed the ragged military cap it wore, made a birdlike flight to the ceiling whence a lamp hook suspended, and swinging thence from its tail, gave to its body a whirling motion.
"I found it in the basement, and it must have got in through a broken window there," narrated Bertha.
"Belongs to some organ grinder, I opine," Grandpa Warren remarked.
"Probably escaped and got into the house as a refuge. Sore of vicious, those critters, I reckon."
"Oh, grandpa, not Jocko—I've called him that. Soon as I fed him and coaxed and cuddled him he climbed into my arms like a contented little babe."
"Well, I suppose his owner will be searching for him," observed Mr. Warren.
"I shall make him a comfortable bed in the basement," planned Bertha. "Come, Jocko," and at the gentle call Jocko described another flight and landed on her shoulder.
Grandpa Warren was mistaken. A week went by and no one appeared to claim the refugee. Meantime the well-trained little pet became as interesting to the old man as to Bertha. He went down to his own special quarters when directed. Every morning when Bertha started to get breakfast, Jocko would tap on the door with a glass in it, at the top of the basement stairs, and peer mischievously through the pane at his kind-hearted young mistress. He amused them with his varied tricks and appealed to them because of his appreciation of the care and attention they bestowed on him.
The Warrens had some difficulty in making ends meet. Bertha had been an orphan from childhood, and since her grandmother had died had been housekeeper for her remaining aged relative. At times Grandpa Warren was not easy to get along with. He had a sore grievance—fate had played him a scurvy trick, and he had never gotten over it.
"If your grandmother had only spoken before she died," was his constant complaint. "You see, for years every cent I could put aside I gave to her to keep against a rainy day. We had often talked it over how, if one of us died, the other would buy a life membership in the old people's home. Your grandmother used so sudden she didn't tell me where she kept our savings. I've searched everywhere, and nowhere a trace. Oh, dear, Oh, dear! And then the old man would mourn over the lack of a part of the savings to be given Bertha to support her while she studied for a music teacher or learned to become a milliner. And Bertha would declare it was the rarest happiness to work for his comfort. She had become acquainted with an establishe young man named Wade Bartley. They were engaged, but with the understanding that Bertha would not have to marry until her grandfather died or was provided for. Bartley suggested saving a fund to carry out the cherished plan of the old people's home, and Bertha, by doing sewing, had managed to put aside quite a little store of money.

Every morning when breakfast was nearly ready, Bertha had taught Jocko to ring the table bell. One night a crash of glass aroused the old man. He went rushing around in a frantic state of excitement. The little animal had broken the window in the basement stairs door, and was swinging the bell amid frantic chattering. Bertha had hurried after her grandfather.
"Oh see!" she cried, "the room is filling with smoke, and—grandfather! the kitchen is ablaze!"
They had been aroused just in time by the shrewd-witted Jocko, and managed to extinguish the blazing wainscoting near the overheated kitchen stove. That settled the value and efficiency of their humble guest with Grandfather Warren. And a week later there came a climax that caused the old man to bless the day when the little rascal made his home among them.
"Why, Jocko!" exclaimed Bertha as her pet came up from the basement, made his customary nod and placed a grimy gold coin in her hand. Then he began rubbing off a smear of smut on one of his paws. A sudden enlightenment came to Bertha that thrilled her. She proceeded to investigate.
There was an old useless stove in the basement, set aside years ago, ready for the junk man who never came. Bertha discovered that, poking into this, Jocko had fished out the coin. The trained instinct of the animal for money in his old days had not been at fault in the present instance. Bertha unearthed over a thousand dollars in coin and bank notes from dead Grandpa Warren's queer saving bank.
Grandpa Warren did not go to the old people's home. Instead, he influenced Bartley to start a little business with the unearthed capital and was content to settle down for life with the happy husband and wife—and Jocko.

HOLY GEE, MY HEAD FEELS GOOD TO-DAY!
Pain Over Eyes is Gone, Headache Cured, Catarrh Relieved!
This is the Common Experience of Those Who Breathe the Vapor of Catarrhazone
Remember this, Catarrh can never be cured or even relieved by a cough syrup, a spray, or tablet treatment. Trouble is those remedies slip quickly over the sore irritated membranes, drop into the stomach and do little else but harm digestion. It's different with "Catarrhazone"—you inhale it. Every breath sends healing balsams to the inflamed tissues. Tightness, soreness and inflammation are cured by healing pine essences. The cough dies away, throat is strengthened, huskiness is cured. Nothing is so simple, so convenient, so certain to cure as Catarrhazone. The dollar outfit includes the inhaler, costs $1.00, and is guaranteed to cure. Small size 50c, trial size 25c, all dealers, or The Catarrhazone Co., Kingston, Ont.

Music the Word of Germany.
Music is the word of Germany. The German people, so much curbed as a nation, so emancipated as thinkers, sing with a somber delight. To sing seems a deliverance from bondage. Music expresses that which cannot be said, and which cannot be suppressed. Therefore is Germany all music in anticipation of the time when she shall be all freedom.—Victor Hugo.

Paymaster for the Party.
As an inducement to Cecil, aged four, to attend Sunday school for the first time, she was allowed to carry the pennies to be put into the collection envelope. When the class monitor came around the teacher and the rest of the class were very much amused to hear her say in her most dignified tones, "Here, girls, I will pay the fares."

Two "Wheel" Patents.
Uncle Sam granted the first patent of the present series seventy-seven years ago. Patent No. 1, issued on July 13, 1836, was for a device to keep car wheels from slipping. Not long ago the millioth patent was issued on a pneumatic tire, which proves that inventions are still much concerned with "wheels."

DODD'S KIDNEY PILLS
ALL KIDNEY DISEASES
23 THE PR

LET A WOMAN save your suffering. I want you to write, and let me tell you of my simple method of home treatment. send you ten days' free trial, post-paid, and put you in touch with women in Canada who will gladly tell what my method has done for them.

A MESSAGE TO WOMEN!

If you are troubled with weak, tired, nervous, aching, back-ache, bearing-down, sense of things blind, dizziness, constipation, catarrhal conditions, pain in the sides, regularly or irregularly, bloating, sense of falling or misplacement of internal organs, nervousness, desire to cry, palpitation, hot flashes, dark rings under the eyes, or a loss of interest in life, write to me today for free trial treatment.

Mrs. M. Summers, Box 8, Windsor, Ont.

MARKET REPORTS

TORONTO MARKETS.

FARMERS' MARKET.

Dairy Produce—
Butter, choice dairy	50 65	50 60
do, creamy	48 00	48 00
Margarine, lb.	37 00	37 00
Eggs, new laid, doz.	60 00	60 00
Cheese, lb.	35 00	35 00
Dressed Poultry—
Turkey, lb.	50 00	50 00
Pow, lb.	35 00	35 00
Chickens, roasting	45 00	45 00
Live poultry—
Chickens, lb.	35 00	35 00
Roosters, lb.	25 00	25 00
Pow, lb.	28 00	28 00
Vegetables—
Beans, basket	60 00	60 00
Beets, doz. bchs.	35 00	35 00
Carrots, doz. bchs.	35 00	35 00
Cabbage, each	1 20	1 20
Cucumbers, basket	75 00	75 00
Celery, head	10 00	10 00
Corn, doz.	40 00	40 00
Lettuce, 3 bchs. for.	1 20	1 20
Onions, lb.	13 00	13 00
do, green, bunch.	05 00	05 00
Paraleys, bunch.	10 00	10 00
Potatoes, bag	1 50	1 50
do, new, peck.	05 00	05 00
Rhubarb, 3 for	10 00	10 00
Radishes, 3 bunches	10 00	10 00
Sage, bunch.	05 00	05 00
Spinach, peck.	03 00	03 00
Squash, each	02 00	02 00
Savory, bunch.	05 00	05 00
Tomatoes, bask.	1 50	1 50
Vegetable marrow, each	01 10	01 10

MEATS—WHOLESALE.

Beef, forequarters	15 50	17 50
do, hindquarters	24 00	26 00
Carcasses, choice	20 00	21 00
do, medium	19 00	20 00
do, common	14 50	16 00
Veal, common, cwt.	13 00	15 00
do, medium	20 00	22 00
do, prime	25 00	27 00
Heavy hogs, cwt.	23 00	25 00
Shop hogs, cwt.	27 00	29 00
Abattoir hogs, cwt.	29 00	31 00
Spring lamb, lb.	25 00	26 00

SUGAR MARKET.

The wholesale quotations to the retail trade on Canadian refined sugar, Toronto delivery, are now as follows:—

Acadia granulated, 100-bags	10 16
do, No. 1 yellow	9 78
do, No. 2 yellow	9 66
do, No. 3 yellow	9 56
Atlantic granulated	10 16
do, No. 1 yellow	9 78
do, No. 2 yellow	9 66
do, No. 3 yellow	9 56
Dominion granulated	10 16
do, No. 1 yellow	9 78
do, No. 2 yellow	9 66
do, No. 3 yellow	9 56
Redpath's granulated	10 16
do, No. 1 yellow	9 78
do, No. 2 yellow	9 66
do, No. 3 yellow	9 56
St. Lawrence granulated	10 16
do, No. 1 yellow	9 78
do, No. 2 yellow	9 66
do, No. 3 yellow	9 56

Barrels—50 over bags.
Cases—20 5-lb. cartons, 60c and 50 2-lb. cartons 70c over bags. Gunnies, 5 20-lb., 60c; 10 10-lb., 50c over bags.

OTHER MARKETS

WINNIPEG GRAIN EXCHANGE.

Fluctuations on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange, were as follows:—

Wheat—	Open.	High.	Low.	Close
Oct.	2 40	2 45 1/2	2 40	2 45 1/2
Dec.	2 35	2 42	2 35	2 42

Oats—

July	0 94 1/2	0 94 1/2	0 93 1/2	0 94
Oct.	0 89	0 90 1/2	0 89	0 90 1/2
Dec.	0 87 1/2	0 88 1/2	0 86 1/2	0 88 1/2

Barley—

July	1 40 1/2	1 43 1/2	1 40 1/2	1 43
Oct.	1 37 1/2	1 38 1/2	1 35 1/2	1 37 1/2
Dec.	1 26	1 32 1/2	1 25	1 32

Flax—

July	6 17	6 25	6 17	6 25
Oct.	5 90	5 95	5 90	5 95

x—To 8 1/2c sold.

MINNEAPOLIS GRAINS.

Minneapolis, Minn.—Flour unchanged. Barley, $1.20 to $1.32. Rye, $1.81 1/2. Bran, $4.00. Flax, $6.19 to $6.21.

DULUTH LINEDSEED.

Duluth, Minn.—Linedseed on track, $4.21; arrive, $4.21; July, $4.22 bid; Sept., $4.21 bid; Oct., $4.19 bid; Nov., $4.06 bid; Dec., $3.94 bid.

German Title of Honor.

"Von" before a name in German denotes a privilege title, either inherited or bestowed by a monarch upon his subject for meritorious services. While formerly this prefix was found in military or feudal families only, many commoners, captains of industry, scientists, financiers and artists were so honored by their monarchs. The title is either hereditary or ceases with the death of the distinguished person.

Fading Changed Conditions.

"I'm looking for employment, sir, I'll be frank with you. I've just been released from prison." "Ahem! One of the model prisoners?" "Yes, sir." "Well, I'm willing to give you a chance but every man we employ is expected to hustle. If you think you can get down to hard work and long hours after the life of elegant leisure you have doubtless enjoyed in prison, I'll make a place for you."

This is a topsy-turvy world. It's when a man is on his uppers that he is looked down upon.

Cook's Cotton Root Compound

A safe, reliable regulating medicine. Sold in three dosages—No. 1, 15¢; No. 2, 25¢; No. 3, 50¢ per bottle. Sold by all druggists, or sent prepaid on receipt of price. Write for particulars to THE COOK MANUFACTURING CO., WINDSOR, ONT. (Quality White.)

SIR WILLIAM'S WILL

"You don't realize, Mollie, dear," said Clytie, "that this—this prosperity of ours is only transient, that it will soon come to an end."
"Oh, yes, I do," retorted Mollie cheerfully. "Knowing you as well as I do, I'm quite aware that your virtuous but extremely inconvenient conscience will probably draw the curtains and shut out this gleam of sunshine; but meanwhile, the sun is shining, and like the butterflies and ephemerids—what is it?—the ephemerids, I mean to enjoy it. Will you come with me? That mare I showed you in the stable the other day will suit you admirably. It is perfectly quiet—oh, I beg your pardon, dear, I forgot that you used to ride in the old days when we were the Bramleys, of Bramley. As we are now," she added, with her chin up-lifted.

Clytie shook her head.
"I can't," she said, glancing through the open window wistfully. "I have so many letters to write, so much to do."

"The duties and responsibilities of wealth and position," said Mollie. "You are young, my dear Clytie; and the great fault of youth is to take duties and responsibilities too seriously. But you will grow out of it. When you grow as old as I am—"

She was leaning up against the bureau, and Clytie took the round girlish face in her hand and kissed it; getting a lock of the rough red hair into her eye for her pains.

"How untidy you are, Mollie, my child!" she remonstrated.

"I yam, I yam," assented Mollie shamelessly. "The great aim of my young life is to act as a foil to my elder sister. You are beautiful—nay, lovely, as the old-fashioned novelists say—I am plain; you are refined and graceful, I am vulgar and raffish; you are all the virtues compact—unselfish, conscientious, high-minded, womanly, with lofty ideals—I have, thank goodness! no conscience; I am the most selfish little pig that ever was out of a sty, and I have—thank goodness again!—no ideals. You would sacrifice everything to your sense of right, would give up—all this," she looked round the beautiful, richly appointed room comprehensively, "and lie on a bed of straw, like the historic Marjory Daw, if you thought it was your duty to do so. I revel in this luxury, in this new-found luxury, enjoy a dinner of seven courses, served by the immaculate Sholes and his satellites; I like having plenty of horses and carriages; I love my little room, as Tennyson says, and I could write a poem about it as he did; I like having a maid like Susan, who waits on me hand and foot and praises my hair while she brushes it—the audacious hypocrite! In fact, I am of the earth, earthy, of the world worldly; while you, my dear Clytie, float in the heavens above me, and are an angel fit for paradise, a girl who is too good for this terrestrial sphere."

Clytie laughed and pushed her away, for Mollie had twined her thin young arm about Clytie's neck.

"Oh, go for your ride!" she exclaimed. "You'd talk the hind leg off a donkey."

"That is the first sensible remark I have heard you make since we came," Mollie declared. "No, no, don't"

Oh! Such Pain! dizzy—dragged-down? With dull headache, backache—racking with pain here or there—poor woman, she's one of many. On those days each month, when in other circumstances she would go to bed, she must still be at the desk or counter, or struggle through the day as best she may with her housework or her family cares. Usually she who feels those dragging-down or dizzy symptoms, and other pains caused by womanly disease, can be cured by Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It cures the cause of these pains. Faded, jaded, tired, overworked, weak, nervous, delicate women are helped to strength and health by Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It makes weak women strong and sick women well. In liquid or tablets.

CHATHAM, Ont.—"Being a nurse I have had occasion to use 'Favorite Prescription' quite a lot. I recommend it to my patients and it has been a wonderful help to many of them. I never knew of a case where it failed. I have a patient who is using it now and is doing fine. I have taken it myself and got the very best results. I consider it the best medicine there is for women who are ailing."—Mrs. Emma Moon, 20 Dufferin Street.

Notwithstanding the spread of democracy, the feudal spirit still exists and burns brightly and warmly, not only in Scotland, where it flourishes, but in the remotest districts of England; and in the rural and agricultural parts of Bramley the people regarded Clytie as their head and chief; a paragon, not only to be looked up to with respect and something of awe, but a chief upon whose sympathy and assistance they had a just and inalienable claim. There was nothing servile in their conviction or their manner. It was a fair exchange; not a few of their forefathers had followed Clytie's into battle and laid down their lives with their chiefs; and those, their sons and daughters, had, perhaps unconsciously, inherited the old feudal spirit.

Every farm, every cottage, was open to Clytie and Mollie, who were always sure of a welcome, and the best that the house afforded; but the simple, old-fashioned people felt that the Hall was open to them, that it was a sure place of refuge to which, now that the Bramleys were there again, they could fly when in trouble and distress. Scarcely a day had passed since her return to Bramley, but Clytie had been summoned to the hall or to the huge kitchen to see some one who needed her assistance and sympathy. And how readily she had given them! The applicants had gone away with hearts brimming over with gratitude, not only for the money, the food, the clothing they had asked, but for the tender, compassionate words murmured by the sweet voice, for the pressure of the small, warm hand, the true sympathy.

"Why there was tears in her eyes as she listened to me, God bless her!" one woman had said, as she went away from the Hall, cheered and encouraged; and her words spread through the place as such words will do.

Little wonder that Clytie's heart ached as she looked round her; for in a few months she would have to leave the place and the people she loved, and Sir Wilfrid Carton would reign in her stead. What sort of man was he? she asked herself. Of course, there had been bad and worthless Bramleys, spendthrifts, gamblers, men of loose lives, who had embarrassed and impoverished the estate and had neglected the people. Was Sir Wilfrid one of these? He had spent a wild and roving life, had been regarded as an outcast and a pariah; must have passed the great part of his days with other outcasts and pariahs of bad character. How was it possible that he should be fit to reign at Bramley? She had a faint, very faint, recollection of him; a boy, with more than the usual boy's spirits, and an audacity which was always leading him into mischief and causing trouble with his father. She could picture him, and not uncharitably under the circumstances, grown into a reckless man, rough in manner, loud of speech, with all the consequences of his wild life clinging to him and rendering him unfit to be master of Bramley.

And where was he? Why did he not come home and put an end to her suspense? There had been plenty of time for him to answer in person Mr. Granger's pressing and almost peremptory letter; but Sir Wilfrid Carton had not come, still remained the insubstantial figure about which she tormented herself.

As she dwelt upon the perplexing thing, Mollie rode round. Her hair was flying in the wind, her young face was radiant, as she fought with the high-spirited horse, which was dancing on the smooth gravel drive, tossing its head and threatening to rise. But Mollie was evidently not afraid; and she disengaged one gauntleted hand and waved it to Clytie.

"Ripping!" she cried, in her girlish voice. "Why didn't you come? You look like a picture in one of the summer numbers—the chateaine, or something of that sort. By-by!"

As the girl rode off, Clytie sighed. It would be hard on Mollie when it came to leaving Bramley; for the child would persist in living as if they were there permanently.

Oh, why did not Sir Wilfrid come? Sir Wilfrid did not come, for the best of all reasons. His father's letter had not reached him. Hesketh Carton had taken care that it should not do so. For some time before Sir William's death, Hesketh had command of the key of the post-bag; and every evening before it was despatched he had carefully gone over its contents; for he knew enough of human nature to be aware that Sir William would select toward his only son and child and write the letter which would bring him home; and when his knowledge was justified, and Sir William had written, Hesketh had, of course, abstracted the letter from the bag, read it, and destroyed it. Letters miscarry now and then; and it is always the important letters which go wrong.

Mr. Granger's letter was lying at Minton, which it had reached the day after Wilfrid's departure. So, in ignorance of his father's death and its bearings on his own life, Wilfrid Carton, otherwise Jack Douglas, pursued the more or less even tenor of his way at Parraluna, and every day was gaining a firmer hold on the affection and respect of the people there. In such a life the days, the weeks, the months roll by almost unnoticed. Sometimes Jack was boundary-running, at others he was working on the farm; but whatever he was doing, he did it thoroughly, and won the commendation of Mr. and Mrs. Jarrow and the staunch adherence of Teddy.

He had another adherent in Mary Seaton. But he did not know this, for she rarely spoke to him, seemed scarcely to notice him; but her eyes followed him when he was not looking, and she aided and abetted Mrs. Jarrow in administering to Jack's comfort. There were towers on his rough dressing-table when he returned from one of his long rides; his well-worn clothes were brushed and darned; an favorite dish appeared at supper. Jack gave Mrs. Jarrow credit for these valued attentions; but it was Mary Seaton who had put the flowers in his room, brushed and mended his clothes, cooked or suggested the special dish, and she was amply rewarded when, as she waited at table, she heard Jack Douglas express his sense of Mrs. Jarrow's kindness, and out of the corner of her eye, watched him enjoying his food.

The wonderful air of the place, the wholesome life, the energetic and hard worked marvels in Mary Seaton. The lines had gone from her face, she had grown less thin, though she was still a slight and girlish figure, and her eyes were bright, though sometimes the shadow of her past trouble darkened them. Of that past she never spoke to Mrs. Jarrow; indeed, she spoke but little, moving about her work in a silent, self-contained way. She was an admirable servant; and Mrs. Jarrow often declared to her husband that Jack Douglas was not only a treasure in himself, but had brought a treasure with him.

Now, the Jarrow's owned another farm about forty miles from Parraluna. Jack had come upon it in the course of his boundary-riding and, with a quick and experienced eye, had seen that it was a desirable possession. The Jarrow's, fully occupied with Parraluna, had allowed Silver Ridge to run to seed. The homestead had been permitted to fall into something like ruins and the fences were mostly down. Jack Douglas, surveying the place from horseback, had noticed the good lie of the land, the stream, which might almost have been called a river, that ran at the base; and with his experienced eye he saw the possibilities of the place. He mentioned these possibilities on his next return to Parraluna. Mr. Jarrow shrugged his shoulders.

"Too far off," he said. "Parraluna is quite as much as I can manage. But look here, Jack, if you're so sweet on Silver Ridge, I'll tell you what I'll do. If you like to run it, you shall do it on half-shares. What do you say, missus?"

Mrs. Jarrow nodded and laughed. "I say ditto," she said.

"All right," said Jack, in his easy-going way. "Done with you; and thank you! I'll take Silver Ridge in hand. Give me Teddy and two or three of the men here, and I'll see what can be done with it. I think you will find it valuable."

He lit his pipe and sauntered out to look round the place; and next day he started for Silver Ridge with Teddy and three of the hands.

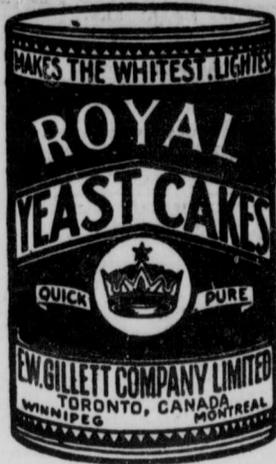

As he was starting, Mary Seaton crossed the yard. She paused and glanced at him and, as if he felt the glance, Jack said:

"You're looking very well, Mary."

"Yes," she said, in a low voice. She stood, as if hesitating, and her hand went toward the pocket of her dress; but, after a moment or two, she went on toward the cow-shed, without further speech.

Jack remained at Silver Ridge for nearly three weeks. And during those three weeks Teddy and the hands had a busy time of it. They repaired the homestead and buildings, set up the fences, and established the cattle. All the men were agreed that Silver Ridge was a promising place and worth their labor; and Jack rode home to Parraluna to make his report.

As he slipped from his horse in the stableyard, Mary Seaton approached him. Her face was white, her lips drawn tightly, and the eyes she lifted gratitude, not only for the money, the food, the clothing they had asked, but for the tender, compassionate words murmured by the sweet voice, for the pressure of the small, warm hand, the true sympathy.

"Why there was tears in her eyes as she listened to me, God bless her!" one woman had said, as she went away from the Hall, cheered and encouraged; and her words spread through the place as such words will do.

Little wonder that Clytie's heart ached as she looked round her; for in a few months she would have to leave the place and the people she loved, and Sir Wilfrid Carton would reign in her stead. What sort of man was he? she asked herself. Of course, there had been bad and worthless Bramleys, spendthrifts, gamblers, men of loose lives, who had embarrassed and impoverished the estate and had neglected the people. Was Sir Wilfrid one of these? He had spent a wild and roving life, had been regarded as an outcast and a pariah; must have passed the great part of his days with other outcasts and pariahs of bad character. How was it possible that he should be fit to reign at Bramley? She had a faint, very faint, recollection of him; a boy, with more than the usual boy's spirits, and an audacity which was always leading him into mischief and causing trouble with his father. She could picture him, and not uncharitably under the circumstances, grown into a reckless man, rough in manner, loud of speech, with all the consequences of his wild life clinging to him and rendering him unfit to be master of Bramley.

And where was he? Why did he not come home and put an end to her suspense? There had been plenty of time for him to answer in person Mr. Granger's pressing and almost peremptory letter; but Sir Wilfrid Carton had not come, still remained the insubstantial figure about which she tormented herself.

As she dwelt upon the perplexing thing, Mollie rode round. Her hair was flying in the wind, her young face was radiant, as she fought with the high-spirited horse, which was dancing on the smooth gravel drive, tossing its head and threatening to rise. But Mollie was evidently not afraid; and she disengaged one gauntleted hand and waved it to Clytie.

"Ripping!" she cried, in her girlish voice. "Why didn't you come? You look like a picture in one of the summer numbers—the chateaine, or something of that sort. By-by!"

As the girl rode off, Clytie sighed. It would be hard on Mollie when it came to leaving Bramley; for the child would persist in living as if they were there permanently.

Oh, why did not Sir Wilfrid come? Sir Wilfrid did not come, for the best of all reasons. His father's letter had not reached him. Hesketh Carton had taken care that it should not do so. For some time before Sir William's death, Hesketh had command of the key of the post-bag; and every evening before it was despatched he had carefully gone over its contents; for he knew enough of human nature to be aware that Sir William would select toward his only son and child and write the letter which would bring him home; and when his knowledge was justified, and Sir William had written, Hesketh had, of course, abstracted the letter from the bag, read it, and destroyed it. Letters miscarry now and then; and it is always the important letters which go wrong.

Mr. Granger's letter was lying at Minton, which it had reached the day after Wilfrid's departure. So, in ignorance of his father's death and its bearings on his own life, Wilfrid Carton, otherwise Jack Douglas, pursued the more or less even tenor of his way at Parraluna, and every day was gaining a firmer hold on the affection and respect of the people there. In such a life the days, the weeks, the months roll by almost unnoticed. Sometimes Jack was boundary-running, at others he was working on the farm; but whatever he was doing, he did it thoroughly, and won the commendation of Mr. and Mrs. Jarrow and the staunch adherence of Teddy.

He had another adherent in Mary Seaton. But he did not know this, for she rarely spoke to him, seemed scarcely to notice him; but her eyes followed him when he was not looking, and she aided and abetted Mrs. Jarrow in administering to Jack's comfort. There were towers on his rough dressing-table when he returned from one of his long rides; his well-worn clothes were brushed and darned; an favorite dish appeared at supper. Jack gave Mrs. Jarrow credit for these valued attentions; but it was Mary Seaton who had put the flowers in his room, brushed and mended his clothes, cooked or suggested the special dish, and she was amply rewarded when, as she waited at table, she heard Jack Douglas express his sense of Mrs. Jarrow's kindness, and out of the corner of her eye, watched him enjoying his food.

The wonderful air of the place, the wholesome life, the energetic and hard worked marvels in Mary Seaton. The lines had gone from her face, she had grown less thin, though she was still a slight and girlish figure, and her eyes were bright, though sometimes the shadow of her past trouble darkened them. Of that past she never spoke to Mrs. Jarrow; indeed, she spoke but little, moving about her work in a silent, self-contained way. She was an admirable servant; and Mrs. Jarrow often declared to her husband that Jack Douglas was not only a treasure in himself, but had brought a treasure with him.

Now, the Jarrow's owned another farm about forty miles from Parraluna. Jack had come upon it in the course of his boundary-riding and, with a quick and experienced eye, had seen that it was a desirable possession. The Jarrow's, fully occupied with Parraluna, had allowed Silver Ridge to run to seed. The homestead had been permitted to fall into something like ruins and the fences were mostly down. Jack Douglas, surveying the place from horseback, had noticed the good lie of the land, the stream, which might almost have been called a river, that ran at the base; and with his experienced eye he saw the possibilities of the place. He mentioned these possibilities on his next return to Parraluna. Mr. Jarrow shrugged his shoulders.

"Too far off," he said. "Parraluna is quite as much as I can manage. But look here, Jack, if you're so sweet on Silver Ridge, I'll tell you what I'll do. If you like to run it, you shall do it on half-shares. What do you say, missus?"

Mrs. Jarrow nodded and laughed. "I say ditto," she said.

"All right," said Jack, in his easy-going way. "Done with you; and thank you! I'll take Silver Ridge in hand. Give me Teddy and two or three of the men here, and I'll see what can be done with it. I think you will find it valuable."

He lit his pipe and sauntered out to look round the place; and next day he started for Silver Ridge with Teddy and three of the hands.

As he was starting, Mary Seaton crossed the yard. She paused and glanced at him and, as if he felt the glance, Jack said:

"You're looking very well, Mary."

"Yes," she said, in a low voice. She stood, as if hesitating, and her hand went toward the pocket of her dress; but, after a moment or two, she went on toward the cow-shed, without further speech.

Jack remained at Silver Ridge for nearly three weeks. And during those three weeks Teddy and the hands had a busy time of it. They repaired the homestead and buildings, set up the fences, and established the cattle. All the men were agreed that Silver Ridge was a promising place and worth their labor; and Jack rode home to Parraluna to make his report.

As he slipped from his horse in the stableyard, Mary Seaton approached him. Her face was white, her lips drawn tightly, and the eyes she lifted afraid; and she disengaged one gauntleted hand and waved it to Clytie.

"Ripping!" she cried, in her girlish voice. "Why didn't you come? You look like a picture in one of the summer numbers—the chateaine, or something of that sort. By-by!"

As the girl rode off, Clytie sighed. It would be hard on Mollie when it came to leaving Bramley; for the child would persist in living as if they were there permanently.

Oh, why did not Sir Wilfrid come? Sir Wilfrid did not come, for the best of all reasons. His father's letter had not reached him. Hesketh Carton had taken care that it should not do so. For some time before Sir William's death, Hesketh had command of the key of the post-bag; and every evening before it was despatched he had carefully gone over its contents; for he knew enough of human nature to be aware that Sir William would select toward his only son and child and write the letter which would bring him home; and when his knowledge was justified, and Sir William had written, Hesketh had, of course, abstracted the letter from the bag, read it, and destroyed it. Letters miscarry now and then; and it is always the important letters which go wrong.

Mr. Granger's letter was lying at Minton, which it had reached the day after Wilfrid's departure. So, in ignorance of his father's death and its bearings on his own life, Wilfrid Carton, otherwise Jack Douglas, pursued the more or less even tenor of his way at Parraluna, and every day was gaining a firmer hold on the affection and respect of the people there. In such a life the days, the weeks, the months roll by almost unnoticed. Sometimes Jack was boundary-running, at others he was working on the farm; but whatever he was doing, he did it thoroughly, and won the commendation of Mr. and Mrs. Jarrow and the staunch adherence of Teddy.

He had another adherent in Mary Seaton. But he did not know this, for she rarely spoke to him, seemed scarcely to notice him; but her eyes followed him when he was not looking, and she aided and abetted Mrs. Jarrow in administering to Jack's comfort. There were towers on his rough dressing-table when he returned from one of his long rides; his well-worn clothes were brushed and darned; an favorite dish appeared at supper. Jack gave Mrs. Jarrow credit for these valued attentions; but it was Mary Seaton who had put the flowers in his room, brushed and mended his clothes, cooked or suggested the special dish, and she was amply rewarded when, as she waited at table, she heard Jack Douglas express his sense of Mrs. Jarrow's kindness, and out of the corner of her eye, watched him enjoying his food.

The wonderful air of the place, the wholesome life, the energetic and hard worked marvels in Mary Seaton. The lines had gone from her face, she had grown less thin, though she was still a slight and girlish figure, and her eyes were bright, though sometimes the shadow of her past trouble darkened them. Of that past she never spoke to Mrs. Jarrow; indeed, she spoke but little, moving about her work in a silent, self-contained way. She was an admirable servant; and Mrs. Jarrow often declared to her husband that Jack Douglas was not only a treasure in himself, but had brought a treasure with him.

Now, the Jarrow's owned another farm about forty miles from Parraluna. Jack had come upon it in the course of his boundary-riding and, with a quick and experienced eye, had seen that it was a desirable possession. The Jarrow's, fully occupied with Parraluna, had allowed Silver Ridge to run to seed. The homestead had been permitted to fall into something like ruins and the fences were mostly down. Jack Douglas, surveying the place from horseback, had noticed the good lie of the land, the stream, which might almost have been called a river, that ran at the base; and with his experienced eye he saw the possibilities of the place. He mentioned these possibilities on his next return to Parraluna. Mr. Jarrow shrugged his shoulders.

"Too far off," he said. "Parraluna is quite as much as I can manage. But look here, Jack, if you're so sweet on Silver Ridge, I'll tell you what I'll do. If you like to run it, you shall do it on half-shares. What do you say, missus?"

Mrs. Jarrow nodded and laughed. "I say ditto," she said.

"All right," said Jack, in his easy-going way. "Done with you; and thank you! I'll take Silver Ridge in hand. Give me Teddy and two or three of the men here, and I'll see what can be done with it. I think you will find it valuable."

He lit his pipe and sauntered out to look round the place; and next day he started for Silver Ridge with Teddy and three of the hands.

As he was starting, Mary Seaton crossed the yard. She paused and glanced at him and, as if he felt the glance, Jack said:

"You're looking very well, Mary."

"Yes," she said, in a low voice. She stood, as if hesitating, and her hand went toward the pocket of her dress; but, after a moment or two, she went on toward the cow-shed, without further speech.

Jack remained at Silver Ridge for nearly three weeks. And during those three weeks Teddy and the hands had a busy time of it. They repaired the homestead and buildings, set up the fences, and established the cattle. All the men were agreed that Silver Ridge was a promising place and worth their labor; and Jack rode home to Parraluna to make his report.

As he slipped from his horse in the stableyard, Mary Seaton approached him. Her face was white, her lips drawn tightly, and the eyes she lifted afraid; and she disengaged one gauntleted hand and waved it to Clytie.

"Ripping!" she cried, in her girlish voice. "Why didn't you come? You look like a picture in one of the summer numbers—the chateaine, or something of that sort. By-by!"

As the girl rode off, Clytie sighed. It would be hard on Mollie when it came to leaving Bramley; for the child would persist in living as if they were there permanently.

Oh, why did not Sir Wilfrid come? Sir Wilfrid did not come, for the best of all reasons. His father's letter had not reached him. Hesketh Carton had taken care that it should not do so. For some time before Sir William's death, Hesketh had command of the key of the post-bag; and every evening before it was despatched he had carefully gone over its contents; for he knew enough of human nature to be aware that Sir William would select toward his only son and child and write the letter which would bring him home; and when his knowledge was justified, and Sir William had written, Hesketh had, of course, abstracted the letter from the bag, read it, and destroyed it. Letters miscarry now and then; and it is always the important letters which go wrong.

Mr. Granger's letter was lying at Minton, which it had reached the day after Wilfrid's departure. So, in ignorance of his father's death and its bearings on his own life, Wilfrid Carton, otherwise Jack Douglas, pursued the more or less even tenor of his way at Parraluna, and every day was gaining a firmer hold on the affection and respect of the people there. In such a life the days, the weeks, the months roll by almost unnoticed. Sometimes Jack was boundary-running, at others he was working on the farm; but whatever he was doing, he did it thoroughly, and won the commendation of Mr. and Mrs. Jarrow and the staunch adherence of Teddy.

He had another adherent in Mary Seaton. But he did not know this, for she rarely spoke to him, seemed scarcely to notice him; but her eyes followed him when he was not looking, and she aided and abetted Mrs. Jarrow in administering to Jack's comfort. There were towers on his rough dressing-table when he returned from one of his long rides; his well-worn clothes were brushed and darned; an favorite dish appeared at supper. Jack gave Mrs. Jarrow credit for these valued attentions; but it was Mary Seaton who had put the flowers in his room, brushed and mended his clothes, cooked or suggested the special dish, and she was amply rewarded when, as she waited at table, she heard Jack Douglas express his sense of Mrs. Jarrow's kindness, and out of the corner of her eye, watched him enjoying his food.

The wonderful air of the place, the wholesome life, the energetic and hard worked marvels in Mary Seaton. The lines had gone from her face, she had grown less thin, though she was still a slight and girlish figure, and her eyes were bright, though sometimes the shadow of her past trouble darkened them. Of that past she never spoke to Mrs. Jarrow; indeed, she spoke but little, moving about her work in a silent, self-contained way. She was an admirable servant; and Mrs. Jarrow often declared to her husband that Jack Douglas was not only a treasure in himself, but had brought a treasure with him.

Now, the Jarrow's owned another farm about forty miles from Parraluna. Jack had come upon it in the course of his boundary-riding and, with a quick and experienced eye, had seen that it was a desirable possession. The Jarrow's, fully occupied with Parraluna, had allowed Silver Ridge to run to seed. The homestead had been permitted to fall into something like ruins and the fences were mostly down. Jack Douglas, surveying the place from horseback, had noticed the good lie of the land, the stream, which might almost have been called a river, that ran at the base; and with his experienced eye he saw the possibilities of the place. He mentioned these possibilities on his next return to Parraluna. Mr. Jarrow shrugged his shoulders.

"Too far off," he said. "Parraluna is quite as much as I can manage. But look here, Jack, if you're so sweet on Silver Ridge, I'll tell you what I'll do. If you like to run it, you shall do it on half-shares. What do you say, missus?"

Mrs. Jarrow nodded and laughed. "I say ditto," she said.

"All right," said Jack, in his easy-going way. "Done with you; and thank you! I'll take Silver Ridge in hand. Give me Teddy and two or three of the men here, and I'll see what can be done with it. I think you will find it valuable."

He lit his pipe and sauntered out to look round the place; and next day he started for Silver Ridge with Teddy and three of the hands.

As he was starting, Mary Seaton crossed the yard. She paused and glanced at him and, as if he felt the glance, Jack said:

"You're looking very well, Mary."

"Yes," she said, in a low voice. She stood, as if hesitating, and her hand went toward the pocket of her dress; but, after a moment or two, she went on toward the cow-shed, without further speech.

Jack remained at Silver Ridge for nearly three weeks. And during those three weeks Teddy and the hands had a busy time of it. They repaired the homestead and buildings, set up the fences, and established the cattle. All the men were agreed that Silver Ridge was a promising place and worth their labor; and Jack rode home to Parraluna to make his report.

As he slipped from his horse in the stableyard, Mary Seaton approached him. Her face was white, her lips drawn tightly, and the eyes she lifted afraid; and she disengaged one gauntleted hand and waved it to Clytie.

"Ripping!" she cried, in her girlish voice. "Why didn't you come? You look like a picture in one of the summer numbers—the chateaine, or something of that sort. By-by!"

As the girl rode off, Clytie sighed. It would be hard on Mollie when it came to leaving Bramley; for the child would persist in living as if they were there permanently.

Oh, why did not Sir Wilfrid come? Sir Wilfrid did not come, for the best of all reasons. His father's letter had not reached him. Hesketh Carton had taken care that it should not do so. For some time before Sir William's death, Hesketh had command of the key of the post-bag; and every evening before it was despatched he had carefully gone over its contents; for he knew enough of human nature to be aware that Sir William would select toward his only son and child and write the letter which would bring him home; and when his knowledge was justified, and Sir William had written, Hesketh had, of course, abstracted the letter from the bag, read it, and destroyed it. Letters miscarry now and then; and it is always the important letters which go wrong.

Mr. Granger's letter was lying at Minton, which it had reached the day after Wilfrid's departure. So, in ignorance of his father's death and its bearings on his own life, Wilfrid Carton, otherwise Jack Douglas, pursued the more or less even tenor of his way at Parraluna, and every day was gaining a firmer hold on the affection and respect of the people there. In such a life the days, the weeks, the months roll by almost unnoticed. Sometimes Jack was boundary-running, at others he was working on the farm; but whatever he was doing, he did it thoroughly, and won the commendation of Mr. and Mrs. Jarrow and the staunch adherence of Teddy.

He had another adherent in Mary Seaton. But he did not know this, for she rarely spoke to him, seemed scarcely to notice him; but her eyes followed him when he was not looking, and she aided and abetted Mrs. Jarrow in administering to Jack's comfort. There were towers on his rough dressing-table when he returned from one of his long rides; his well-worn clothes were brushed and darned; an favorite dish appeared at supper. Jack gave Mrs. Jarrow credit for these valued attentions; but it was Mary Seaton who had put the flowers in his room, brushed and mended his clothes, cooked or suggested the special dish, and she was amply rewarded when, as she waited at table, she heard Jack Douglas express his sense of Mrs. Jarrow's kindness, and out of the corner of her eye, watched him enjoying his food.

The wonderful air of the place, the wholesome life, the energetic and hard worked marvels in Mary Seaton. The lines had gone from her face, she had grown less thin, though she was still a slight and girlish figure, and her eyes were bright, though sometimes the shadow of her past trouble darkened them. Of that past she never spoke to Mrs. Jarrow; indeed, she spoke but little, moving about her work in a silent, self-contained way. She was an admirable servant; and Mrs. Jarrow often declared to her husband that Jack Douglas was not only a treasure in himself, but had brought a treasure with him.

CUTICURA HEALS BABY'S FACE

Could Not Sleep Eruption Itched and Burned So.

"I noticed a little pimple on my baby's face. I thought it was from the sun but it kept getting worse and the skin was red and very hot. He could not sleep or rest the eruption itched and burned so, and it caused him to scratch. I was quite discouraged."

"I saw an advertisement for Cuticura Soap and Ointment and sent for a free sample. I bought more and after using two cakes of Cuticura Soap and two and a half boxes of Cuticura Ointment he was healed." (Signed) Mrs. S. D. McGuire, Clarkburg, Ont., Dec. 18, 1918.

Use Cuticura Soap, Ointment and Talcum for every-day toilet purposes. For free sample send to Cuticura, Dept. A, Boston, U. S. A. Sold everywhere.

to him were full of self-reproach and appeal. One hand was held behind her back, and as she brought it forward he saw that it held a newspaper.

"I want to give you this," she said, in tense tones. "A sundowner left it before you went away. You—you—might like to see it."

"Thank you

Dead Animals Removed Prompt Service

Day Phone Regent 1475
Nights and Sundays
Regent 1397

Works Manager, Mr. F. Valley, Garfield 2846

The W. A. Freeman Company, Limited
HAMILTON, CANADA

MAPLE PARK SURVEY

CORNER MAIN AND SCHOOL STREETS
WATERDOWN

Lots 50 by 150 to 265 Feet

OWN YOUR OWN BUNGALOW

Lots overlook Hamilton, the Bay and Cement Highway.

Lots to suit the purchaser. Easy
Terms.

C. P. McGregor, Owner
Phone 168 Waterdown

For Sale $1500 Each

Two Large Lots on Dundas Street with Frame Cottage on each lot.

Apply to
C. H. STOCK

Waterdown Ontario

PAINTING

For Exterior or Interior work neatly and quickly done with the best materials

Call, or Phone 198

Peter Mitchell

WATERDOWN, ONTARIO

THE MANLY ART.

"Padre" Was Referee at the Championship Boxing Contests.

If anybody has any idea that boxing will be tabooed by the muscular Christianity which has grown up with this war, he should have been at Brussels, Belgium, Saturday, March 22 at the Canadian Corps' championships and watched a clergyman referee the boxing contests. Yes, sir! the referee for the championship bouts was a beloved "padre," a Military Cross man and a major to boot—Rev. Major H. Beauchamp, M.C. That combined with the fact that a couple of battle front padres in the American army challenged each other to a game of padded clouts and that British, Canadian, Australian, New Zealand and American chaplains have openly encouraged the boys in every form of healthy sport, including boxing. The officer in charge of the boxing was a Y.M.C.A. boy, Lieut. Tommy Armour, of Toronto Central Y.M.C.A. There were plenty of men well-known in sport around Ontario on the list of officers. Major Jack Maynard, theVarsity rugby star, was referee of the rugby contests, and Capt. Jimmie Clark, M.C., of Toronto Central Y.M.C.A.; Capt. Billy Wood, of Brantford, the first Canadian Marathoner to finish in the 1908 Olympic Marathon—the race in which Tom Longboat quit—were on the Grounds Committee. Lieut. Ernie H. Knott, who used to manage the Young Toronto Lacrosse Club, was a scorer. Lieut.-Col. Jack Ralston, D.S.O., of Montreal, a well-known M.A.A.A. man, and Major F. O. Tidy, of Toronto, a judge of field events. The team events were competed at the Leopold Club, Avenue du Tennis, Uccle; the indoor events at the Palais des Sports, Avenue Louis Bertrand, Schaerbeek; and the swimming at the Bains St. Saviour Rue Montagne, Aux-Herbes-Potagers.

Virtue's Reward.

Two Hoosier teachers were traveling through Canada the other day. They had to take a very early train, and as a result intended to eat breakfast in the dining car. But there was no dining car on the train. Hungrily they faced the prospect of a day of fasting, for they would not arrive at their destination until late afternoon. "We have just two cakes of chocolate," said one, taking store of their possessions. "Will you eat yours now or wait a while?"

The second ate her cake then, trusting to luck to find a station lunchroom. But the first waited until noon and until a mother and two small children had settled themselves in the seat opposite the teachers.

Finally she took the cake of chocolate, eyed it in happy anticipation and then unwrapped it. But lo, the two youngsters were against her knee, and they, too, were looking at it with happy anticipation. Of course, it was divided between them.

Half an hour later the mother opened her grip and out came the family lunch of fried chicken, sandwiches, etc. But not one bite did the generous teacher get. "What was that about a cup of cold water?" she asked the other teacher hintingly.

The woman with the full basket stared at her coldly. Then she took a drinking cup from her grip and extended it. "You may have it," she offered, "but there's paper cups at the can."

THE THIRD MACKENZIE.

Temporary Leader of Liberal Party
Has Never Been Defeated.

Daniel D. Mackenzie, the new temporary leader of the Liberal party at Ottawa, is described by Parliamentary observers as a "two-listed, fighting man," a dour and capable Scot.

One may imagine the trusty and faithful type of the man from the fact that in twenty-five years of public life he has never been defeated in any election.

He is the third Mackenzie in the line of Liberal leadership in Canada, and it is just a century since the first, William Lyon Mackenzie, landed in Canada. That first Mackenzie was not a Liberal leader in the party meaning of the word, but stood for liberty and the free institutions in Canada. The second Mackenzie was Alexander, who was Liberal Premier of Canada for five years shortly after Confederation.

This latest Mackenzie has had a distinguished public career. He is now sixty years of age, having been born at Lake Ainslie, Cape Breton, in 1859. He entered the profession of law and served as mayor of North Sydney and Commissioner of Schools for Cape Breton County for five consecutive years. In 1900 he was elected to the Nova Scotia Legislature and to the House of Commons in 1904, in which he has remained ever since. From 1906 to 1908 he was judge of the County Court District No. 7 of Nova Scotia. As his name would indicate, he is a Presbyterian.

While a very aggressive fighter, Mr. Mackenzie has till the present, remained out of the limelight. In the Parliamentary debates in the first year of the war, when the Government was attacked on several points, Mr. Mackenzie took a prominent part. Sir Wilfrid Laurier thought so highly of Mr. Mackenzie that he chose him to sit at his desk-mate in the Commons during the last season of Parliament.

Twenty Dollars a Day In Alaska.
Miners employed in the Alaskan mines receive twenty dollars per day the year round.

EAGER'S WATERDOWN

Canadian Food Control License No. 8-11802

Hardware

Paint as a means of protection and preservation has taken on an increased value to the consumer far beyond its actual use in cost.

Paint for Protection

We carry a good stock of Butt hinges, Reversible butts, Corrugated strap, Old copper, ornamental, strap and T hinges.

Boots and Shoes

This is the Oxford Season. Empress make oxfords, good fitting new styles in patent or kid leather, spool or walking heel.

$6 a pair

Women's Kid Blucher cut, single sole, patent tip, low comfortable heel, kid boot, per pair

$6.00

Misses Kid Blucher, good wide last, low heel, per pair

$4.00

Men's Calf Blucher. A good comfortable last, good sole

$6.00

Men's Furnishings

Men's Lisle Hose. Grey, navy, brown or black, per pair 50c

Men's Falbriggan Shirts and Drawers, each 75c and $1

Men's Black Hose 25c a pair

Men's all Wool Cashmere Hose 85c

Groceries

Brunswick Sardines 3 for 25c

Libby's Mixed Pickles per bottle 20c

Lipton's Cocoa, 1/2 lb. size 25c

Peanut Butter 30c a lb.

Sliced Beef 25c a tin

Egg Preserver 25c a tin

Lipton's and Jello Powders 15c a pkg.

A good Salmon, small tin 15c

Dry Goods

New Curtain Muslins 35c a yard

Bleached Sheeting 65c and 70c

Good Heavy Striped Cottonade 60c

Women's Seamless Hose 50c

Women's White Voile Waists, good style and quality
$1.50, $1.98 and $2.25

This Store Will Close

EVERY WEDNESDAY

At 12 o'clock Noon

During the Summer