Students, Attention!

Rare Chance to Secure a College Education.

We have made arrangements that enable us to place within the reach of a limited number of deserving students, opportunities for securing, on easy terms, a classical or commercial education. A little work during the vacation season will secure this for the one worthily striving for such a boon, but who may not be in possession of sufficient money to realize his heart's desire. The facilities at our disposal enable us to offer a year's board and tuition at

St. Dunstan's College

to any three young men who will fulfill the necessary, easy conditions required. These may be beginners, or former students of the College who have not been able to complete their course. In addition to this we have at our disposal four scholarships at the

of Charlottetown. A full course in this excellent Commercial College may be won by any four young men or women, in town or country, who will fulfill the easy conditions we require. Whenever anyone satisfies the requirements in either of the cases enumerated he or she will be given a certificate entitling the holder to the educational advantages offered. A rare opportunity is here placed within reach of those desirous of acquiring a good education, and no time should be lost in taking advantage thereof. Only a little work is required in order to secure the coveted boon, and all can easily be accomplished during this summer's vacation, so that the winners may enter either college at the opening of the next academic year.

How To Express One's Thoughts.

FROM "A GENTLEMAN"

I did not intend to touch on journalism, as the work of making newspapers is sometimes called, but I have been lately asked to give my opinion as to whether journalism is a good preparation for the pursuit of literature. Perhaps the best way to do this would be to give the experience of a young journalist first.

I imagine a young person who had written at least twenty compositions; some on "Gratitude," one on "Ambition," one on "The History of a Pin," and a grand poem on the Southern Confederacy in five cantos. He had been prepared for the pursuit of literature by being made to write a composition every Friday. These compositions were read aloud in his class. What beautiful sentiments were uttered on those Fridays! How everybody thrilled when young Stephen compared Ireland to "that prairie-grass which smells sweeter the more it is trodden on!" He had never seen such grass; he would not have recognized it if he had seen it; but he had read about it, and when a cruel scientific instructor asked him to give the botanical name, he turned away in disgust. His finest feelings were outraged. This, however, did not prevent the simile of the prairie-grass of unknown genus from entering through all the compositions of the other members of the class for many succeeding weeks, until the professor got into a habit of asking, when a boy rose to read his essay: "Is there prairie-grass in it? If the essayist said yes, he was made to sit down and severely reprimanded. Teachers were very cruel in those days.

There was another lovely simile ruttlesly cut down in its middle age—pardon me if I digress and point out my wrongs to you; I know you can appreciate them. A boy of genius—once said that "Charity, like an eternal flame, cheers, but not inebriates. After that inspired utterance, charity, like an eternal flame, cheered, but not inebriated, the composition of every other writer, until the same cruel hand put it out. In those days we knew a good thing when we saw it, and, if it saved trouble, we appreciated it.

Daily Communion.

During the temporary absence from Oxford of Father Edgar Blount S. J., who by the way, has, I hear, been preaching in Farm Street, his place has been filled by Father Alexander Keough, S. J., whose headquarters is St. Bruno's College.

On Sunday evening last, Father Keough gave us an interesting instruction arising out of the late pronouncement of the Holy See, on the subject of daily Communion. It was interesting, he said to enquire what the practice of the early Church was in this matter. But as he was most careful to point out, our present conduct is not founded upon what the Church did in any age, however remote, because we follow the living, infallible voice of the Church which is as potent now, in the twentieth century, as it was in the third. In this, of course, our position differs, toto caelo, from that of Anglicans. They, indeed, like ourselves, seek to know what people did in the early centuries of Christianity. But here the resemblance ends, for while we look upon the customs of the early Church as matters of historical interest, Anglicans appeal to them as their rule of conduct. And therefore, as Father Keough pointed out, Catholics are encouraged to practise daily Communion now, not because they did so seventeen centuries ago, neither is that the reason why the Holy Father recommends it.

The preacher on Sunday introduced us to the custom of many lands, beginning with Orthage and going on to France, Jerusalem, Antioch and Constantinople. In the first-named city we learn from Tertullian that the faithful, after receiving Holy Communion at their Sunday Mass were allowed and encouraged to take home, no doubt with all proper precautions, particles of the Blessed Sacrament with which they were to communicate themselves (satis of course) each morning in the week. Thus, even when they did not have daily Mass, they had daily Communion; and when this custom changed, daily Communion was everywhere much practised in these early times. St. John Chrysostom went so far as to say that people who did not receive Holy Communion ought not to be present at Mass. But this rather startling assertion is sufficiently explained by what Father Keough said next. In the days of St. John Chrysostom, people who had committed great crimes which they were expiating, were classed as penitents, and one of the rules of their state, while it lasted, was that they were to withdraw from Church before the more solemn part of Mass began. Those who remained were presumed to be in a fit state of soul to receive Communion. If they were not, they put themselves on a par with the penitents, and should have withdrawn from Church with them. I am conscious in these few notes of having done but scant justice to Father Keough's interesting and instructive discourse—Catholic Weekly.

A Remedy For Present-Day Evils.

Many an editor is seeking a remedy for the corporate, civic and individual abuses that fill so large a place in discussion these days. Publicists, orators, and writers have been asked to contribute their views on the deplorable state of affairs. The other day a reporter of the New York World was sent to Southampton, L. I., to interview Cardinal Gibbons on this live topic. Every one familiar with the Cardinal's public utterances knows that he goes straight to the point whenever he discusses a question. His interview as reported in the World is no exception to his Eminence's well known habit of directness. Others who have spoken or written about present-day abuses have dealt in generalities. Some have even suggested that a new moral code is needed. But the Cardinal's remedy is simple.

"What," he was asked, "is the remedy for the social and civic unhealthfulness that is giving occupation now to so many muckrakers?" "I think," was the reply. "I may answer this by saying when the sanctity of the marriage tie and obligation of family relations are more fully realized, and religious training in the family becomes more general, we may look for better conditions. Dissect these questions as we may, we are forced back again and again to the same conclusion. Moral and religious training in the family is essential and just as it is neglected do these evils increase."

Here, in a few words, we have an effective cure for the abuses of the age. These abuses have grown as moral and religious training has deteriorated. Too much attention is given nowadays to developing the intellect, while the moral nature is practically neglected. But, to return to the interview with the Cardinal. His words should be read and re-read by every parent:

"By civic evils we refer to corporate greed, financial immorality and official infidelity, as in the case of the insurance companies and the group of crimes broadly classed as 'graft.' I do not know enough of the facts in the packing-house scandals to include them in this generalization, but generally speaking this class of evil is due to a lack of conscience as applied to corporate acts."

"A man will expose much in his corporation which his conscience would condemn in himself. Corporate conscience is negative. It minimizes responsibility and multiplies and magnifies excuses. A rudimentary moral sense will keep a man from stealing his neighbor's goods, but the moral sense must be educated to see moral wrong, sin and crime in the unconscionable acts of a corporation."

"There has been of late a great awakening of what is called the public conscience. This has given rise to much broad liberal discussion of prevalent abuses and their causes, fixing the responsibility and often disclosing criminality, and is doing much to remedy those abuses and bring business morality back to the point of safety. This is, at least my hope, I believe I can see a decided tendency in that direction."

"Public discussion brings understanding, and men who have been blind to the wrongs of corporate crimes have had their eyes opened. They now see much that they could not see before."

"I believe the secret of the great increase of suicides is due to a lack of religious training. An awakening to the sense of responsibility overwhelms a man whose moral courage has not been fostered by religious home training. He has not the sustaining force which a sense of the sanctity of his own obligations would give. This moral cowardice prompts him to take refuge in death from responsibilities which he has not been trained to assume and discharge."

"This is business morality. Social morality depends upon something more. The family, which is the foundation of society, is the source to which we must look for its purification. The great crimes and scandals which are now existing so much comment can be traced directly to a lack of sanctity in the family relations. Until the sanctity of the family ties is more generally recognized I see little hope for improvement."

"The principal obligation of the family is the religious education of the young, the importance of which is apparent. With it everything may be accomplished. Without it we may have great awakenings, we may have a general revival of public conscience, but releases will come again, because the fountain of life is lacking."

"I cannot agree with Judge Morrison in his declaration that marriage is the great remedy for crime. True, White and those people in Pittsburgh were all married. It is not marriage, but recognition of the sanctity of the marriage relations and its obligations, that must cure these terrible evils. Most of the putridity of private character, as disclosed in the revelations of courts and the press, grows out of family relations with false standards and without religion, and not from a lack of family relations."

As the Cardinal has spoken so would every Catholic Bishop and priest speak in response to a similar question. From long experience the Catholic Church knows that without the religious education of the young there can be no lasting morality—Catholic News.

Catholic Triumphs In Education

From the London Catholic Times.

We publish in our present issue complete lists of Catholic successes at the Oxford local examinations, which offer splendid testimony to the superiority of Catholic education. We have all the greater reason to feel proud because almost everything has been against us. We have had no endowment for our secondary schools; the parents of the candidates have not been able to facilitate the labors of their sons and daughters. We have had nothing to favor us in the competition save the ability and self-denying work of the teachers and the intellectual quickness of the candidates. With these we have got to the top against the well-endowed and highly equipped schools of the country. Again Stamford Hill, a Jesuit college, is at the head of all the seniors; one more St. Francis Xavier's, Liverpool, leaves competing non-Catholic colleges far behind, winning the first two places in the preliminary and the second place in the junior division, and adding to the laurels secured by gaining five of the eight senior city scholarships offered by the Liverpool City Council, seven of which, as we announced last week have gone to Catholics.

We would commend the outcome of these public tests to the attention of the politicians who would fain lord it over us and penalize us. We tell them, in face of these tangible proofs of the efficiency of our secondary schools, that our faith is not an obstacle, but a stimulus to earnest educational effort—that it is, in truth, the magical force which enables us to overcome all difficulties.

Cardinal Rampolla del Tindaro, whose sixty-third birthday occurred on August 17th, is in very good health, says a reliable correspondent in Rome.

A list of the Catholic undergraduates who recently took high honors at Oxford University shows more than half with unmistakably Irish names. Two are Jesuit schoolboys. Nearly all on the list made their classical course at Catholic colleges. Of the eighteen Catholic candidates who have succeeded in passing the intermediate examination in arts and science recently held by the University of London, nearly all are Irish, and all are from Catholic schools. Nine of the eighteen are convent girls.

Dr. James J. Walsh's answer to Dr. Andrew D. White is as masterly a piece of work in its own way as Newman's reply to Gladstone or Lambert's "Notes on Ingersoll." Unhappily, it is not written in as attractive a style as either of these works, and therefore it will never make so great an impression.—Osaket.

Crying With Headache.

Mr A. J. Osmont, the well known storekeeper, Indian Head, N. W. T. writes: "I have given Milburn's Sterling Headache Powders to some of my customers who came into my store almost crying with severe headache and in less than five minutes they went away cured and smiling." Price 10c. and 25c.

First Boarder.—There is one thing I hate about boarding-houses, and that is, the partitions are usually so very thin. Why, at the place I put up at last year, I could distinctly hear the scratches of the pen on the paper as the chap in the next room was writing.

Second Boarder.—Well, I guess that's nothing to be compared with the place I put up at a couple of seasons ago. Why, the partitions were so thin there I could distinctly hear the chap next door changing his mind!

Old People's Coughs.

Every winter many old people are troubled with a nasty cough, which afflicts them all season. Let them take Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup and be rid of the cough this year.

A certain baker who had recovered from a severe illness requested his doctor to make out his attendance bill, and he added:—

"Try and make it as light as possible, doctor."
"Ah," replied the witty doctor, "that's what you say to your foreman, Mr Baker; but it is not the way I make my bread."

Hagyard's Yellow Oil is a healing, balm preparation, that cures pain, allays inflammation and reduces swelling. A perfect medicine chest. Price 25c.

"Me, too," interrupted Mr Upp; "sometimes I get there early and sometimes late."

Ottawa Weekly Letter. On The Instalment plan.

By Elections to be Held Two By Two, So The Machine Can Get In Its Work.

Inter Provincial Conference Will Meet Next Month At Ottawa.

Liberal Minister in Quebec says Federal Money is Wasted.

Mr. Fielding Otherwise Engaged Than Attending To Tariff Matters.

Mr. Borden On The Stump—Conservative Leader Addressing Great Meetings.

Ottawa, Sept. 15, 1906.

By elections have been ordered for East Elgin and North Renfrew, the dates were fixed for October 4th but subsequently the North Renfrew election was postponed until the 9th. Both seats were held by Conservatives. The government has selected these two constituencies among a large number of vacant seats, apparently with the idea of concentrating the resources and patronage of the government in the contests. It was a habit of the late Ontario government to set the machine at work in one or two by-elections at a time, so that the same crowd of operators could be moved from place to place and collected at particular points. The dexterous and delicate work required could not be duplicated and the experts could only be in one place at once. It remains to be seen whether the operations which made West Elgin a historic constituency are to be repeated in the eastern riding, or whether a famous provincial contest in North Renfrew is to be a pattern for the one about to take place. Had the Laurier government brought on all the by-elections at once there would have been less cause for suspicion.

DEFERRED ELECTIONS. Other vacant constituencies are North Bruce, in Ontario, Nicolet or Gaspe, St John-Iberville and St Mary's District of Montreal, all of the Province of Quebec. Besides these the St Ann's district of Montreal has been vacated by the unseating of Mr. Gallery, who is appealing against the judgment of personal disqualification, but does not claim the seat.

Shelburne and Queen's in Nova Scotia is vacated by the unseating of Honorable Mr. Fielding. There is an appeal in this case also, but it is made by Mr. Fielding's opponents, who contend that the evidence is sufficient to disqualify him for personal corruption. It is understood, moreover, that Colchester County Nova Scotia, will soon become vacant by the appointment of the sitting member to the Supreme Court of the Province. Thus there are pending seven by-elections besides those for which writs have been issued. The machine will doubtless be moved from place to place as it may be made most effective.

INTERPROVINCIAL CONFERENCE.

The conference of the Dominion Ministers with the provincial premiers is to take place on and after the 8th of October. According to the official announcement the main business is the discussion of provincial subsidies with a view to rearrangement and increase. The provincial claims for larger subsidies are based on the resolutions adopted by the Inter-provincial conference called by the late Mr. Marcell when he was premier of Quebec in 1887. A number of years later a second conference of provincial ministers reaffirmed these declarations, and they now represent the demands of several provincial administrations. The resolutions call for an increase in the amount paid to the provinces by something over one and a half millions a year.

A QUEBEC WARNING.

A recent speech by Mr. Brodeur, Minister of Marine and Fisheries, contained a warning to the people of Quebec against any re-arrangement of the terms of union. Mr. Brodeur intimated that the people of Quebec had more to lose than to gain by any disturbance of the Confederation Compact. The special privileges enjoyed by Quebec province and by the French-speaking population under the terms of the Union would, according to this Minister, be placed in peril by departure from the original terms. Mr. Brodeur subsequently stated that when he issued this warning he had not in mind the proposed conference. But his observations apply to it, and if he had not been thinking of this particular attempt to change the terms of Confederation it is not very clear what he had in view.

LIBERAL PROTEST AGAINST FEDERAL WASTE.

There is however no such fear in the heart of the Premier of Quebec or the other local party leaders in the province. Mr. Gouin is pressing strongly for larger subsidies. One of his leading ministers, himself a strong supporter of the Laurier Government, speaking at Lachute, September 10th, carried the point so far as to complain of the waste of Dominion money by the Federal administration. Following is a report of Mr. Prevost's remarks:

"Referring to the Federal subsidy Mr. Prevost recalled that the Dominion government had a revenue of $34,000,000. He had seen on the Baie des Chaleurs, on his voyage down there, places where $20,000 and more had been spent on wharves that were not in use, where breakwaters had been built for three or four fishermen. Would it not have been better to save that money and apply it to the schools or to the improvement of the roads in the Province of Quebec?"

USELESS WORK.

The breakwaters, wharves, and other public works, which Mr. Prevost declares to be useless, have frequently been discussed in the House of Commons. When Mr. Marcell, the member for Bonaventure, was last seeking election, he circulated among the voters along the Baie des Chaleurs a statement showing the amount of money he had caused to be spent for breakwaters and other works along that coast. Nobody on his behalf claimed that these outlays were needed or useless. The basis of Mr. Marcell's demand for re-election was the amount of money that he had circulated among the people. At the same time he pleaded that as he had done so much in his first term he might be expected to bring into the country a great deal more public money in the next four or five years. Probably the wharves which Mr. Prevost complains of include the Grande Vallée structure which has cost $27,488 and serves no other purpose than the convenience and profit of a single private lumbering firm. It is refreshing to find these expenditures which were condemned by Conservatives in parliament and which were defended by ministers and their supporters by speech and vote, now placed in their true light by a leading Liberal politician.

SENATE REFORM PERHAPS.

While it is stated that the financial arrangements between the Dominion and the provinces are the subject of this proposed conference it will be remembered that Sir Wilfrid Laurier promised to lay another matter before the provincial representatives. Discussing Senate Reform at the last session the Premier set forth several schemes including one for the election of Senators by the provincial legislatures. He announced that when the provincial premiers came to Ottawa to discuss constitutional matters he would lay the Senate question before them and obtain their views on the subject.

MR. FIELDING OTHERWISE OCCUPIED.

We are now within two months of the time of the meeting of Parliament, the first business of which is supposed to be the revision of the tariff. So far Mr. Fielding has been too busy explaining away the election scandals in his own constituency to do much with the work of revision. He is still not quite sure that he will be in Parliament when the House meets, or whether he will be qualified to sit in any parliament during the next seven years. There is a report that he will take the risk of disqualification and be a candidate in Colchester after the appointment of Mr. Lawrence to the Bench. At the present moment it is thought that the Finance Minister is giving more attention to these personal matters than to the question of maximum and minimum tariff.

SUCCESSFUL CONSERVATIVE MEETINGS.

The Leader of the Opposition has returned from Nova Scotia where he addressed a series of large and enthusiastic gatherings. The closing meeting took place at Truro on Saturday of last week and was a magnificent open air demonstration. Halifax and Truro papers state that from seven thousand to ten thousand people were present and Mr. Borden says that it was the largest meeting he ever addressed. The electors of Nova Scotia are much interested in the disclosures of administrative corruption and extravagance made before the committees of the House, and in the Commons and Senate during the late session. Besides dealing with general questions of policy Mr. Borden discussed a few of these matters such as the North Atlantic Trading Co., the "Arctic" expedition and the western land scandals. Mr. Borden will probably speak during the next few weeks at several places in the constituencies where the by-elections are to be held.

General Treppoff Dead.

General Treppoff feeling relieved of the trying duty of protecting his Imperial Majesty who left St Petersburg last Thursday on a cruise to Bjordo, at 5 o'clock Saturday p. m. retired to his cabinet to rest. At half past seven o'clock dinner was announced. General Treppoff did not answer the call and finally a member of his staff at eight o'clock knocked at the door. Receiving no reply he entered and found the General lying stretched out at the foot of his couch with a newspaper in his hand dead. It was plain he had died shortly after he retired to the cabinet and had been lying three hours where he fell. Although he died of natural death the threat of the Revolutionists last winter that he would not die by being shot or blown up with a bomb, but would be killed in his own bed, is clearly brought to mind General Orloff who was General Treppoff's temporary successor while Treppoff was taking a short rest recently will be succeeded by Gen. DeDieulin, ex-prospect of police of St Petersburg as temporary commandant of the police. The Emperor's appointment however is in no wise permanent.

Crowded Ottawa Hotel Destroyed in an hour.

The Gilmour hotel on Bank street, Ottawa, was gutted in less than an hour Friday night. The fire was of the ferocious description and spread with lightning rapidity. Being fair week the hotel was crowded to excess. A few minutes after eleven the guests, who were in the rotunda, suddenly noticed smoke emerging from the elevator shaft, and then there came a trail of flame up the shaft and also into the office. At once an alarm was given and the employees ran through the house to awaken the guests who had retired. The difficulty was to reach those on the upper floors as the shaft stairway wound round the elevator. The fire department was speedily on the spot, but it was at once apparent that the hotel was doomed. The flames had for a moment to abandon their deadly grasp on the saving of life was the first consideration. At many of the upper windows persons in scanty attire, were screaming for help. A score of heroes rushed to the rescue. Many guests were injured in endeavoring to escape from the burning building. Arch Blue comes commissioner and his family had a narrow escape. They had to use ladders and Mrs Blue fell for some distance, but fortunately her injuries are not serious. Colonel D. A. MacDonald, quartermaster-general, fortunately had not retired and quickly got Mr MacDonald and her father, Judge Richardson, formerly of Regina, out of the building. A Torontoian named George Montgomery jumped from the second story and was picked up with a fractured thigh and a severe scalp wound. Those taken to the Protestant hospital were:— E. T. Walker, of Mullins Hill, Gloucester county, N. J., with both legs broken. Walker jumped from the third story. Mrs Robert Penstock of 407 Harrow street, Toronto, also jumped for her life. Both limbs were broken. Mrs G. B. Batorworth, of Ottawa, who was only married a fortnight ago, and her sister, Mrs DeGerry, of Galt, were severely burnt and are in hospital. At the Water street hospital there is a Miss Amelia Laforet, address not known. She is burnt, but not severely.

T. Smith of Montreal, had hands and limbs severely burned. Others who were less severely injured went to convenient drug stores and doctors' residences to get their wounds dressed.

The excitement for the first ten minutes was something awful. Mixed with the screaming of the guests and shouts of the firemen would come a cheer when some brave fireman emerged from a window with the form of a rescued guest.

All the 250 guests lost their belongings. The hotel building is valued at $75,000, and was well covered by insurance. Other losses will make the total fully $150,000. The extent to which the Royal bank has suffered will not be known until the vaults is opened.

Sad Drowning Accident.

A very sad drowning accident occurred at port Felix Nova Scotia by which five young children lost their lives. Minnie aged fifteen, John eleven, and Maggie aged nine, children of Frank Fougere, postman and mail driver of East port Felix, accompanied by their three cousins, Clara aged eighteen, Maggie aged fourteen, and Martin, aged twelve, children of Joseph and Mary King, Port Felix, left their homes Thursday morning to pick blueberries, and about six miles back of Port Felix they attempted to cross a lake in an old leaky flat, kept there for the use of berry pickers.

They succeeded in reaching a small island in the lake by going two at a time in the boat, but on returning the six got in and when about two-thirds of the way across the boat filled and turned bottom up.

Maggie Fougere and Maggie King got on the bottom but she turned back again throwing them into the water.

Minnie Fougere then caught the boat and managed to paddle ashore with it.

After reaching the shore Minnie says she saw the two boys locked in each other's arms and the two younger girls also had hold of each other and the larger girl was sinking.

Johnnie Fougere sang out to his sister to tell his mother that he was trying to swim ashore.

The girl hastened to her home where she arrived in about two hours. She still heard those in the water screaming for help after she left the lake.

A large searching party left for the scene of the accident, but when they reached the lake there was nothing to be seen and owing to the lateness of the hour search for the bodies had to be abandoned till morning.

Much sympathy is felt for the parents, who are nearly distracted. Mrs. Fougere wired the sad news to her husband, who is at Rumford Falls, Maine.

Canadian Canned Goods.

It must be borne in mind that the canned goods trade in Great Britain just now is absolutely dead, that stacks of fish, tongues, vegetables and other products which have stood pronounced perfectly wholesome in every way are standing in the warehouses to the amount of thousands of cases, utterly unsalable. In this strain does Mr. McKinnon, Canadian Commercial Agent at Bristol, descend upon the present condition of the English market for canned goods.

To remove suspicion, Mr. McKinnon says, and restore confidence the certificate of Governmental inspector what the trade in England stipulates as the first requisite. The date of packing should also be clearly stamped on the tin.

In the case of canned goods, the fact that they are from the Dominion should be prominently displayed Canadian makers of the very finest goods must not look for immediate return, but be patient while quality and salesmen do their work.

Roosevelt Sends Secretary of War Taft to Havana to View Situation.

Washington, September 16.—Secretary Taft and Assistant Secretary of State Robert Bacon, left Washington today at 3:45 o'clock over the Atlantic coast line for Tampa, Florida, to embark on a naval vessel for Havana, in accordance with the instructions of President Roosevelt to ascertain the exact political situation. Other members of the party were Frank G. Rockwood, stenographer to Secretary Taft, Henry Newcomb, private Secretary to Assistant Secretary Bacon; Captain F. R. McCoy, president military aide, a Spanish interpreter from the Insular bureau; F. L. Cairns, surveyor of the Port of Manila; James S. Maines and two messengers. Mr. Cairns formerly lived in Cuba, his step-father being a Cuban, and accompanies Secretary Taft at his request, because of his familiarity with Cuban matters. The party is due to arrive at Port Tampa about ten o'clock tomorrow night.

THEY PREFER PEACE TO AMERICAN INTERVENTION.

HAVANA, September 16.—After a consultation with the leading men who are under arrest here, charged with conspiracy and embezzlement of the revolutionists the government has announced the indefinite stoppage of all hostilities on its part with the object of making peace before Secretary Taft arrives or the United States intervenes. GOVERNMENT FORCES PURELY ON DEFENSIVE. Havana, September 16.—The government this evening is making final strenuous efforts to restore peace in Cuba, and to avoid any chance of American intervention. The object of these endeavors, it is stated, is that it may be able to say, by the time Secretary of War Taft and Acting Secretary of State Bacon arrive, that peace already has been secured, and that, therefore, there is no need of the American government's intervention, either to restore peace or insure permanent tranquility. Members of the government informed the Associated Press that they are making the effort in accordance with the advice contained in President Roosevelt's letter; that they have no objection to the friendly assistance of the United States in the matter if it becomes necessary, but that they can settle it between the government and the revolutionists without the necessity of any intervention. At least, they say, they are making an attempt to accomplish this end unaided and with fair prospects of success. This is the latest phase of a rapidly changing situation that developed late this afternoon, when an extraordinary gazette was issued containing a decree signed by President Palma on the recommendation of the secretary of public works, Montalvo. The decree follows: "All campaign operations are suspended, and in consequence the government force will act only on the defensive throughout the republic. The secretary of the Interior will issue all necessary orders for the execution of this decree."

A collision occurred on Wednesday afternoon on the railway track at Charlottetown station. The special engine No. 28 that went to Summerside that morning with the express was returning about 2:30 p.m. and in rounding the turn 75 yards from the station collided with engine No. 3 that was shunting in making up its western train which leaves at 3 p.m. Both engines were derailed but considerable damage was effected. The pilot of No. 28 was torn away and badly twisted, the front truck forced back onto the driving wheels and her cylinder broken. The pilot of No. 3 was badly twisted, the cover of the smoke box broken and headlight partially demolished. It is stated that the semaphore was not up when the shunting train was moving out. Outward going trains were not prevented by the accident from leaving on time.

Another slight railroad accident occurred at Summerside Thursday evening. The engine and tender of the Charlottetown train got off the track on the wharf at the point while coming up the wharf that evening. Nobody was hurt and no damage was done except the destruction of a few sleepers. It took some hours to get them back on the track and the western train which was on the wharf at the time of the accident did not leave Summerside till 3 o'clock Friday morning and the train going east left a quarter of an hour later. The Emerald train was telegraphed for in the mean time and came to Summerside and brought the mail and passengers to Charlottetown.

Disastrous Railroad Accident.

A train load of harvesters, bound for the Northwest from points in Ontario and Quebec, were victims of a horrible accident a few miles west of Sudbury, Ont., early on the 12th, resulting in the death of thirteen and the injuring of many more, some seriously and others slightly. The first one of three sections of the harvesters' train were to have passed at Asilda, in time way the east-bound express, Winnipeg to Montreal, failed to stop and crashed into the special with great force. Seven are said to have been killed outright and six died from their terrible injuries. Eight others were seriously injured, and about twenty have severe cuts and bruises.

The accident occurred near the village of Chimoisford, just past Asilda, several miles west of Sudbury at 1 a.m. The Winnipeg east bound train was to pass the harvesters' excursion train at this point. The harvesters' train was already on the siding when the regular, from the West, dashing along at a high rate of speed, came up to the station. Brakes were set, but failed to work, and as a result the two engines came together with fearful impact. The first three cars of the harvesters' train were almost demolished and their occupants injured. Seven people killed outright were in the first car. The killed and injured were all in the harvesters' train. The occupants of the other escaped.

The west bound train, the occupants of which were killed, left Toronto the day before in three sections, one running on regular time, the other two as specials. Immediately upon the news of the accident being furthered to Sudbury, a relief train was despatched to the scene bearing all the doctors in the town. The doctors of Sudbury and smaller responded, as well as a number of nurses from Sudbury, where the hospital is located. Later in the day relief also arrived from North Bay and the work of caring for the injured was hastened. All of the wounded, who were too seriously hurt to continue their journey, were taken to the hospital in Sudbury, where their injuries were attended to.

The cause of the accident has not as yet been made very clear, but the fact has been demonstrated that the brakes on the east bound train failed to work, though the train hands heard them set. The official report of the accident received at the head office of the C. P. R. gives the following details:

"There was a head on collision early this morning at Asilda station, seven miles west of Sudbury. Twelve persons were killed and ten injured. The injured are being cared for at Sudbury. Responsibility for the accident has not as yet been placed."

From other sources it was learned that the west bound train was on the siding waiting for the Winnipeg train to pass. A switch was open and the Winnipeg train, going at a fair speed dashed into the train with its load of harvesters. The scene of the disaster at that early hour in the small station where assistance was almost impossible to procure was heartrending in the extreme.

The mangled remains of the dead and pitiable cries of the injured produced a terribly weird and dismal effect on the eyes of the groups of spectators who gathered from the two trains. The two locomotives were locked in a deadly embrace. The staunch frame work of steel and iron piston rods, cylinders, wheels, governors, were heaped into a shapeless mass, while the foremost passenger car of the harvesters' train was completely smashed. Those on the east bound train escaped.

Neither full details of the accident nor the names of the dead and injured are yet obtainable. No Nova Scotians were on board, but there was several New Brunswick men in the death roll. According to reports that have reached General Manager McNeill, it was due to the air brakes on the east bound passenger train having been tampered with. The engineer claims that the valve regulating the air tube which passed through the train had been opened and the air exhausted. He was thus powerless to stop the train which was going at a practically full speed instead of stopping to allow the train with the harvesters to pass.

The excursionists on the harvesting train, it is now learned, were mostly from different points in Ontario and Quebec.

Pennsylvania Tubes to Meet.

One of the boldest engineering feats ever undertaken will be completed during the present week when the tunnels under the North River to be used by the Pennsylvania Railway will be joined. The boxes were made simultaneously from the New Jersey and Manhattan sides of the river and so accurate were the plans and measurements of the engineers that the two tunnels will meet under the middle of the river and join as accurately as the sliding of one tub into another. When the two tubes have been brought together a joltification will be held, participated in by the contractors and the officials of the road. It is expected that President A. J. Cassatt of the Pennsylvania, Mayor McEllan and other notables will ride on the first car that goes under the river.

Five members of a gang of forgers were arrested at Chicago last Friday night by detectives. The utmost secrecy was maintained by the police regarding the arrests. It is said that thousands of dollars were secured by the swindlers and that many prominent banks are losers. They would drive up to a bank in a large touring car and one of their number would enter. He would present a cheque to the teller and so perfect was the signature that the money was quickly forthcoming. In several cases when the swindler was questioned one of his companions would identify him at one bank the forgers earned $500. No trouble was expected and other banking firms were swindled in a similar manner.

Obituary.

There died at his home "Mt. Clement" Piquet, on the 4th of September Mr. Alexander McDonald. Death always brings with it a note of sadness, but doubly so in the case of Mr. McDonald. He was about retiring for the night when he suddenly complained of feeling unwell, and almost before the members of his family could realize it he was beyond all earthly help. The deceased who was in his seventy-ninth year, possessed the rugged constitution of the older generation now passing away, so that his sudden demise came as a shock to the whole community. His father was the late Ronald McDonald of Albion and his mother Clementina McDonald of Pannors Island. He was one of our most prosperous and progressive farmers, and his cheery word and kindly smile endeared him to all. The esteem in which he was held, was attested by the large concourse who followed his remains to his last resting place at St. Andrew's. The services at the Church and grave being taken by the pastor, Rev. A. P. McLellan. Mr. McDonald was married to Catherine McDonald of Cherry Valley, who is left to mourn, besides three sons, Ronald at home, Roderick and Gregory in the West, and two daughters, Margaret and Jane at home. Rest in peace.
