Only a Beggar;
 A Queen Among Women

CHAPTER XVIII.

"My simple— And pray, who told you it was simple? At any rate, how ever simple it may be, it will not be half as simple as you. Oh, here comes Diana and Vane," she exclaimed, as a dog-cart came up the road behind them. "I'll ask Vane to give me a lift; do you see his face?" The two lovers were looking at each other as they talked in low accents, in slow, lingering speech, and did not see the boy and girl until they were close upon them; then, in answer to Mabel's call, Vane pulled up. "Give you a lift?" His face fell as he repeated Mabel's bland request; then he laughed and shook his head. "Not much! A walk will do you two good. The fact is, Mabel—severely—you're getting fat for want of exercise." "Oh, Vane!" pleaded Diana, laughingly. But Mabel called out: "Sold again! Who wants to ride with a couple of spoons? Yah! Drive on, Romeo and Juliet!" Diana looked back, waving her hand until the dog-cart turned the bend.

HAVE YOU A CHILD?

Many women long for children, but because of some curable physical derangement are deprived of the greatest of all blessings. The women whose names follow were restored to normal health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Write and ask them about it.

"I took your Compound and have a fine, strong baby." — Mrs. JOHN MITCHELL, Massena, N. Y.

"Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is a wonderful medicine for expectant mothers." — Mrs. A. M. MYERS, Gordonville, Mo.

"I highly recommend Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound before child-birth, it has done so much for me." — Mrs. E. M. DOERN, R. R. 1, Conshohocken, Pa.

"I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to build up my system and have the dearest baby girl in the world." — Mrs. MOSE BLAKELEY, Imperial, Pa.

"I praise the Compound whenever I have a chance. It did so much for me before my little girl was born." — Mrs. E. W. SANDERS, Rowlesburg, W. Va.

"I took your Compound before baby was born and feel I owe my life to it." — Mrs. WYNONA TULLIS, Winter Haven, Florida.

then she nestled close to Vane again. "How happy they looked!" she said, with a happy little sigh. Vane nodded and laughed. "Yes; a pair of children playing at love," he said. "I hope there's nothing serious in it. Sometimes I blame myself for asking the boy down here; he was quite gone enough at Shortledge. There'd be trouble if he meant business. For Aunt Selina would look higher for Mabel, and Master Bertie will be as poor as a church mouse." Diana was silent a moment, then she said, in a low voice: "He may not be always poor. Some one—some one might help him—and her."

Vane pressed her still closer to him, and looked at the downcast face with swift comprehension and gratitude. "Is there any one you know whom you don't make the happier for knowing you, dearest?" he said. "Bertie's a lucky beggar! But I'm the luckiest of 'em all! But it's just like you, dear sweetheart, to think of those two kiddies." "Why, what is money good for but to make those we love happy?" she asked quietly. "And I love Mabel as if she were a sister. I never had a sister," she added, almost to herself. "I have never had any one but Aunt Mary."

Dalesford was silent a moment, then he said: "I don't think I ever met with any one so entirely free from relatives; relatives are a nuisance; at least, most of mine are. Desmond March, for instance. You don't know anything of your father, Diana? I mean who and what he was? Why he left England while you were so young?"

The question was prompted only by his interest in everything connected with her, and she answered simply: "No. You know as much about him as I do. Mr. Fielding has told you."

"Yes. He must have been particularly clever to have made that pile of money, that money which I'm always half inclined to be jealous of, Diana." "Oh, why?" she asked. "Oh, I don't know. Fancy I'd rather you hadn't turned out a great heiress. Never spoken of it before—rather a sore subject—and we won't speak of it again."

"I'm sorry," she said meekly; and he laughed and kissed her. "Well, so long as you don't do it again," he responded, as if she were apologizing for some naughty act. "And you think this idea of the governor's about my going into Parliament a good one?" he asked, changing the subject.

"Whatever Lord Wrayborough says must be right," said Diana. He laughed aloud at her prompt response. "His idea is that I shall have some object in life—as if I wanted any other than you!—and that it may amuse you. I ought to have put the second reason first, seeing that he considers you and your inclination before anything and everybody else in the world. If you'd like to see me an M.P., I'll have a shot for it. There'll be a vacancy at Westminster before long; what's his name, the present member, has talked of retiring a long time. I expect I should make an awful mess of it—got no brains, you know—but you will have to find them; and you'll have no difficulty. The governor says—"

But you must be tired of hearing the governor's song of praise in your honor. Here's the lodge, already! We must have come along pretty fast."

The mare had taken her own leisurely pace, but Diana, edging away from him to a discreet distance, did not say so. "Now, you go and lie down"—he was always wanting her to go and lie down, as if she were an invalid who needed the most tender care—"and have a good rest before dinner. And you dance the first and third and the fifth and the sixth."

"Yes. They wouldn't"—wistfully—"let me dance them all with you, Vane, I suppose?"

Not since the last visit of royalty had the great castle presented so gala an appearance as it did on this eventful night. The avenue and courtyard were illuminated by the torches of the Highland men; the guests were received by the majordomo and a double file of the house-servants in their state liveries, and conducted through the great hall, for this occasion all ablaze with electric lights, to the magnificent drawing-room, where the house-party awaited them.

Many of them had already made Diana's acquaintance, and now renewed their homage, for the girl looked, in her exquisite dress with the diamonds scintillating on her white neck and arms, and nestling amid the priceless lace—also a gift of the earl's—like a queen. And yet, with her queenliness, there was a sweet, maiden modesty, an expression of girlish happiness that struck each one who came up to her; and made strangers, who had been inclined to consider the rumors of her grace and beauty exaggeration, inwardly confess that her devout admirers had reason for their enthusiasm.

The dinner was a function almost regal in its splendour, and even Mabel and Bertie were almost awed into quietude; but when it had run its stately course and the Hungarian band was heard softly tuning up in the music-gallery in the old ballroom, Mabel broke the spell.

"Captain Fairbourne has asked me for the first dance," she remarked to the epergne laden with fruit opposite her. "Oh!" said Bertie grumpily. "And, of course, you gave it to him?" "Well, no," she said casually. "I thought I should like to sit it out and watch the others."

"Ends Dry, Hoarse or Painful Coughs Quickly"
 A Simple, Home-Made Remedy, Inexpensive but Unequaled

The prompt and positive results given by this pleasant-tasting, home-made cough syrup has caused it to be used in more homes than any other remedy. It gives almost instant relief and will usually overcome the average cough in 24 hours. Get 2 1/2 ounces Pinex (50 cents worth) from any drug store, pour it into a 16-ounce bottle and fill the bottle with plain granulated sugar syrup. This makes 16 ounces—a family supply—of the most effective cough remedy at a cost of only 54 cents or less. You couldn't buy as much ready-made cough medicine for $2.50. Easily prepared and never spoils. Full directions with Pinex.

The promptness, certainty and ease with which this Pinex Syrup overcomes a bad cough, chest or throat cold is truly remarkable. It quickly loosens a dry, hoarse or tight cough and heals and soothes a painful cough in a hurry. With a persistent, loose cough, it stops the formation of phlegm in the throat and bronchial tubes, thus ending the annoying hacking.

"Not you!" he retorted incredulously. "You watch the others! Well, you can watch them quite well enough while you're dancing; and I'll stop now and then for you to do so, if you like."

So he got the first dance. Diana also felt inclined to stand still and watch the brilliant crowd, as a mass of soft and flaming color of flashing and glowing gems, it moved about the vast salon; but she had to reckon with Dalesford, who, trying not to look too proud and Heaven-blessed, came to claim her.

"The most beautiful woman in the room, my dear Lord Wrayborough," said an old friend and neighbor, as she stood beside the earl and watched Diana. He turned his eyes slowly from the girl he had learned to love as a daughter, and bowed as if the praise were personal to himself.

"Isn't she! And as good as she is beautiful, countess. My boy is the luckiest Wrayborough that ever danced in Glenaskel. Look at him! He is ten years younger, he radiates happiness—and no wonder, with such a girl for his own!"

"Yes; Vane has changed," she said, as she watched him bending over Diana with love-worship in his fine eyes. "She carries those diamonds well, for so young a girl."

"Diana would carry an imperial diadem," he retorted, and as the pair glided near them in the progress of the dance, he smiled at her fondly, receiving as fond a smile from her in response. "There is no one like her—no one!"

"That sounds like Tennyson—Maud, you know," laughed the countess. "But you have every excuse for your enthusiasm, dear Lord Wrayborough. Who did you say she was?" she added, with friendly interest.

"Her father was a wealthy merchant named Bourne," he replied. "He is dead; I am her father now, dear lady." "You are not tiring yourself, Diana?" he asked her some time later. "You are dancing a great deal, my dear, and you have been out with the rods and the guns so much."

But Diana laughed and shook her head as she softly slid her arm in his—it was one of the "mousy" little ways in which she showed her affection for him, ways that filled the old man with delight. "Oh, no! I feel as if I could dance forever; as if—ah, well, try and imagine yourself the happiest girl in the world at her first big dance!"

And to Vane, still later on, she said, in a low voice: "Happy! Oh, Vane, how poor and meaningless the word is to express what I feel! If you knew how good every one is to me, how full my heart is of joy and bliss. Once or twice to-night I have asked myself whether it is fair for one girl to have so much, such wealth of love, such hosts of friends, such petting and spoiling, while others—"

A SONG FOR BRITISH CHILDREN.
Oh! children of the islands,
Of the glorious and free!
Yours is the noble heritage,
A proud old ancestry.

The spoiler dare not enter
Your homes by day or night;
And the poorest peasant in the land
The oppressor may not smite.
Your very names are watchwords
In battle for the right;
And the nations in their darkest days,
Look towards your land for light.

Oh! by my precious memories,
By the steadfast hearts of yore,
By the glory of your fathers' names,
In freedom, faith, and love—
Make glad your glorious islands,
And bright their history's page—
For the beauty of their old renown
Is a noble heritage.

The W. T. & Co. Pocket Atomizer and Nebulizer is a distinctly novel and ingenious appliance, and being so much more portable and therefore more convenient than the older types of spray producers, is likely to "catch on" well. It is a splendid idea for those who are travelling, for it renders possible the use of nasal and throat applications by means of spray—far more effective than gargles, paints, or washes—with the least possible delay and inconvenience. The pocket atomizer will spray either oil or water, and does not easily get out of order. Price 75 cents.

Emden's Rudder and Funnels Soon Fell.

London, Nov. 18.—A despatch from Melbourne, Australia, to Reuter's Telegram Company contains part of the report which Capt. John Glossop, of the Australian cruiser Sydney, made regarding the fight in which the German cruiser Emden was destroyed. It says:—
"The Emden's firing soon failed, when the Sydney began to hit the mark. The Emden's rudder was destroyed early in the fight, her speed suffering greatly in consequence.
"Her next loss was the No. 1 funnel, then the foremost, and this was followed by the No. 2 funnel. Finally the No. 3 funnel fell."

Have You an Itchy Spot?

Somewhere on your body? If so, attend to it at once. In Eczema and itchy spots, whether dry and scurfy, or moist and inclined to "weep," are generally eczematous—delays are foolish, allowing the disease to spread and affect more of the good skin. Your best chance for a cure is to use Zylex, which will give almost instant relief, and if used in the earlier stages of the trouble will almost certainly bring a cure, and in any event will greatly ameliorate the trouble. Ask your druggist about it. Price 50c. a box. Zylex Soap, 25c. a cake.

Doctors and Gas Fires

In an article which recently appeared in the London "Evening News," Mr. W. G. Faulkner stated: "In making my inquiries I discovered one significant fact. This was that one company—the Gas Light and Coke Company—had among their consumers 2,500 doctors who had gas fires installed in their houses, some as many as ten or a dozen; that 1,500 of these doctors had become users of gas during the past three years; and that not one had ever given them up."
Professor C. V. Boys, F.R.S., says, in the "Standard": "Sentiment and inertia are the only obstacles against the general adoption of gas fires and cooking appliances. Wonderful strides have been made, in spite of deep-rooted prejudice. A gas fire, burning with a blue, is an admirable agent for heating a room; and, as a scientist, I fail to understand how such a gas fire dries the air in a room more than any other fire."—nov17,14

Hr. Grace Notes.

Mrs. Baxter Webber and two children left by this afternoon's train for Chancel, where she will reside, for a time at least, as her husband is employed there.
Mr. and Mrs. Thomas, of Carbonear, who have resided here since the commencement of work on the Palace, left for home this morning.

The Supreme Court opened here on Monday, Judge Johnson presiding. We welcome His Lordship and the members of the Court to our town.

The s.s. Sagona arrived from Labrador yesterday. All our citizens were pleased to see the boat back, as many were beginning to think that some mishap had befallen her, owing to the long passage.

Mrs. W. Gosse, of the West End, who had not heard from her son William for some time, was delighted to get a letter from him yesterday, informing her that he was with the Canadian troops at Salisbury Plains. Another of our Harbor Grace boys who has answered the call to go forward and battle for the Motherland.

A great commotion was caused in town last evening, when it became known that a little girl four years old, daughter of Mr. E. Sheppard, Noad Street, was missing, as it was known to some children that she had been taken off by a man who had enticed the little one with two cents. A search was commenced, police and civilians—all searching every likely place. At last, about 7 o'clock, the little one and the man was found in an old barn near Shannon Park. The man, whose name is William Bransfield, was immediately placed under arrest. This is all we can say at present.

A good supply of beef is on sale in the places at present, and the price is from 12 to 14 cts. per pound. People find it hard to sell even at that price.

We have been asked to draw attention of the proper authorities to the great danger of leaving the public thoroughfares which have lately been torn up by the torrents of water from the hill, without lights at night, to the danger of the people living on the hill who have to go that way. Death Hill, Long Hill and Stretton's Hill are the places complained of.

A man in town, who has the great interest of the unemployed at heart, is working up, or trying to work up a plan, whereby some ten or twelve families will be able to live comfortably through the approaching apparently trying winter. The idea is to secure the most needy, providing they are industrious. His plan will be not to make money, but to give employment and let the work done pay for the outlay. Thoughtful, very. May he succeed.

Household Notes

To make a candle burn low, put salt around the wick under the flame. It will give a soft, steady light and will burn all night.
Excellent griddle cakes can be made with a small quantity of boiled rice left over. Such rice is always good for croquettes.

Sun your mattresses as often as you can. Put them out on the porch roof in the hot sun. This will keep them fresh and clean.
Lower the temperature of an oven considerably after the roast has been in twenty minutes and the juices will be retained.
If celery is allowed to lie in water for six or eight hours before it is put on the table it will be very tender.

To keep a broom in good order, soak it about in the hot suds on wash day, then shape it carefully and stand it on its handle to dry.
Put a little kerosene in the laundry starch when it is cooking. It will make ironing easier.

Corn beef makes a pleasant change and it is economical. Plan to have it cooked when the laundry fire is hot, serve hot for dinner, then sliced cold with baked beans, and the fatty parts and the undesirable ends will grind up and make an excellent corn beef hash for breakfast.

A cheap cut of meat well prepared is better than a poor one badly prepared.
A piece of flank meat can be stuffed with cracker crumbs, chopped pork, an egg, savory herbs, and seasoning, then rolled tight in a cloth and boiled four hours. Cool and press before cutting.

If possible sun the mattresses once a week in the open air.
Chemically prepared dusters are the best.
All cleaning cloths, such as dish-cloths, require frequent boiling.
Fruits ought to be thoroughly washed before serving.

Garbage—if one lives in the country—should be either burned or buried.
Government bulletins which deal with household sanitation may be had upon application to one's Representative in Congress.

Serge and Scotch flannel used for children's school dresses have the great advantage of being washable.
Use a wooden potato masher for creaming butter.
Brick ice cream may be cut in fancy shapes by means of a cookie cutter dipped in hot water.

Always stick flowers into a vase one by one.
A coat of gum copal will make shoes waterproof.

The Kaiser's Whipping Boys.

It is said the Kaiser has ordered Von Jagow, the German Minister of Foreign Affairs, to notify all German diplomatic agents who hitherto have been employed in countries now at war with Germany, that they can consider themselves free to choose another career. This is quite in line with the Kaiser's conception of the divinity that hedges in a king. These diplomats are converted into the Kaiser's whipping boys. The story is told that once upon a time a young prince had a whipping boy, and that in the course of the Prince's juvenile education, for every breach of discipline, which merited punishment, punishment that fitted the delinquency, was meted out not to the prince, but to the whipping boy. The offence was atoned, the sanctity of the person of the prince was saved, the baser clay of the menial served the prince as in duty bound, and the education of the prince progressed in a princely way. The German Emperor is the culprit who brought on the war. By fostering the Treitschke and Bernhardi doctrines among his people he keyed them up to their aggressive war spirit. He secretly committed acts of war in foreign states by laying down concrete emplacements for his own sledge gun. He egged Austria on to war, when a word from him would have prevented it. He precipitated war with Russia just as she was making a peaceful settlement with Austria. He frustrated every effort of Sir Edward Grey to maintain peace. He played the wolf to the Belgian lamb, and incited his soldiers to acts of violence, spoliation and devastation to terrorize them. And now, that it has proved all in vain. Now, that Germany is on the eve of a collapse, now that a high German Officer admits that British Infantry have worked wonders instead of proving themselves a contemptible little army; now, that Joffre and French have defeated German time strategy. Now, that it is clear that Germany cannot so cripple France that she will never prove an obstacle again. Now, that Grand Duke Nicholas has inflicted decisive defeats on German armies in Poland. Now, that German commerce has been driven from the seas, her colonies in many cases wrested from her, and in all cases isolated. Now, after the collapse of all his high hopes of dominating the world by brute force, he seeks whipping boys for his heinous outrageous and unparalleled crimes against civilization. But the days of whipping boys are passed. Germany can hardly expect even a whipping boy for the Crown Prince, now the Commander-in-Chief in the East, for his failures in the West and his colossal collapse in the East. Nor can Germany, if she has a spark of independence and manliness after being so long indoctrinated in the divine right of the Kaiser, and after a quarter of century's submission to the arrogant determination of the Kaiser, on no account to allow his people the right to "mis-govern" themselves—nor can Germany, if ever she is to be forgiven, accept German diplomats as the whipping boys of the German Emperor. Whether she does or not, the allies cannot with justice, allow a Twentieth Century Attila to remain at large. A place must be prepared for him, just as a place was prepared for Napoleon at St. Helena, and he must be kept there for the rest of his life.

Beginning Of the End.

Prince Von Buelow Prepares German People for Collapse of German Strategy--Russian Capture Entire German Army Corps--Perhaps Two--Long Columns of German Prisoners Passing through Warsaw--48 Trains sent from Warsaw to bring in 45,000 to 50,000 German Prisoners and Wounded. Great Jubilation in Russian Military Circles.--Von Hindberg's Army Separated from Crown Prince's Army--Austrians sent to fill gap, Badly Smashed--Crown Prince's Army Attacked--Austrians pushed from San River on Cracow.

RUSSIANS CAPTURE ONE COMPLETE ARMY CORPS.

LONDON, To-day. The Morning Press Petrograd correspondent says he learns that one German army corps, over forty thousand men, with munitions, complex, and when captured and that he believes when official details of fighting in the East are forthcoming, it will be found that at least two army corps have been captured.

48 TRAINS FOR PRISONERS AND WOUNDED.

PETROGRAD, To-day. Reports reaching here concerning the magnitude of the defeat of the Germans to West of Lodz, Russian Poland, which in some instances, placed the German losses as high as an entire army corps, appear in a measure to be confirmed by telegraphic despatches from Warsaw. Forty-eight trains have been despatched from Warsaw, bringing in prisoners and wounded. This number of cars of the Russian wide gauge would carry between 45,000 and 50,000 men. It is estimated here. There is great jubilation in army circles here, officers expressing the conviction that the enemy has received a crushing blow which is likely to prove decisive in the campaign in Poland.

LONG COLUMNS OF GERMAN PRISONERS PASSING THROUGH WARSAW.

LONDON, To-day. The Warsaw correspondent of Reuters Telegram Company sends the following: Long columns of German prisoners are passing through this city, among them are many of Prussian Guard. Many wounded Germans have their hands and feet frozen and lack warm clothing.

BRITISH WELCOME TO SANTA CLAUS SHIP.

PLYMOUTH, To-day. JOHN B. AYRE.

Hindenburg found himself hard pressed he ordered into the gap at Wielun the Austrian troops who were intended to turn the Russian left. These Austrians shared the fate of all Austrians who have been made to fight the Prussian battles. Russian Grenadiers foiled their turning movements and put them to flight, capturing 50,000 prisoners, military stores and machine guns. Von Hindenburg's position is now hopeless and the thousands of prisoners streaming into Warsaw, speak eloquently of his failure. In the battle with the Crown Prince's army the Russians are steadily winning. The Russian army advancing westward from the River San is now within twelve miles of Cracow. The civil population, fearing the destruction of the city, demanded its surrender. In reply, the Military Governor ordered the wholesale execution of civilians.

COMPLETE ROUT OF GERMAN AND AUSTRIAN FORCES.

LONDON, To-day. Official news received in Russian circles in London to-day declares that the rout of German and Austrian forces in Poland has been complete. The General Staff, however, is not yet able to give any details of this fighting. (For other messages see 8th page.)

A Warning.

Editor Evening Telegram. Dear Sir,—Reports having been circulated that I have been guilty of dishonest practices in sending out goods over weight from the store in which I was employed and also in sending goods which were neither charged or paid for in cash. I desire to say such reports are entirely incorrect and are circulated by persons ignorant of the facts or by malicious ones who are anxious to do me injury. My connection with the recent incident at the Royal Stores was straightforward and done in the regular business manner. I committed no theft, and received nothing but what I paid full price for. Having made this public statement I intend prosecuting any one I find in future repeating the slander. ARCH THOMSON, St. John's, Nov. 26th, 1914.

Rome, Nov. 18.—A despatch from Petrograd states that the Arabian Mussulman leader, Abdul Kazzor Bederkani, rebelled and dispersed the Turks in the region of Maku. The Kurdish chief Simko sustained an engagement against the Turks on the Persian frontier several days, and ultimately, with the assistance of the Russians, dispersed the enemy, the despatch adds.

CALL FOR RECRUITS.

Your King and Country Need You!

Will You Answer Your Country's Call?

At this very moment the Empire is engaged in the greatest War in the history of the world. In this crisis our Country calls on her young men to rally round Her Flag and enlist in the ranks of Her Army. If every patriotic young man answers Her Call, Great Britain and the Empire will emerge stronger and more united than ever. Newfoundland has already equipped and trained in drill and shooting so as to fit them for military service. They will then be formed into regular Companies of the Regiment, and will be given the option of volunteering for service abroad, if required, on the same terms and conditions as the men of the First Contingent. Pay will commence when the men are actually enrolled for service abroad. Recruiting Offices will be opened in St. John's, and at the offices of the different Magistrates, and at other suitable places in the Colony, (as to Recruiting in case of doubt write to the Recruiting Officer, St. John's). Where not less than fifty men offer for enlistment at any recruiting centre a drill instructor will, if possible, be sent to the District to train them. NOT MUCH TO REPORT.

Special to Evening Telegram.
PARIS, Nov. 25.—(Official.)
From the northern sea to Ypres there has been no infantry attack. We have gained ground between Langemarck and Zonnebeke. Around La Bassee the Indian troops have retaken from the enemy several trenches lost the previous evening. From La Bassee to Solissons, it is relatively quiet. We have slightly progressed near Berry su Bac and in the Argonne.
At Bethincourt, to the northwest of Verdun, a German attack was repulsed. An armistice, demanded by the enemy has not been granted them. In Pout-a-Mousson district our artillery has succeeded in bombarding Arraville. Nothing to be reported in the Vosges.

Petrograd.—The battle of Lodz continues. The Russian cavalry charged the retreating German infantry on several points and inflicted on them heavy losses, also capturing some heavy German artillery. On the front from Czesochowa to Cracow action is developing to our advantage.
On the 22nd, we captured more than six thousand prisoners. A German counter attack failed.

Nish.—The Serbs have annihilated one part and repulsed the other part of an Austrian column which had crossed the river Kaloubara during the night of the 22nd. The battle is continuing on the front from Lazaeavatz to Minitz, where the Serbs compelled the Austrians to retreat, leaving in the hands of the former 500 prisoners and three maxim guns.

VERY QUIET.

PARIS, Nov. 25.—(Official.)
This was a quiet day. There was no alteration on any part of the entire front.

DESTROYERS' GOOD WORK.

LONDON, Nov. 25.
A despatch from Dover says that British destroyers played an important part at the bombardment of Zebrugge on Monday. Steaming with great daring close to the shore, the vessels drew the fire of the German guns, which disclosed their position to the British naval guns. The British ships have withdrawn, the message says, without a single casualty, and are retiring to home ports to take on stores.

LOYD GEORGE'S HEALTH.

LONDON, Nov. 25.
The friends of Lloyd George, Chancellor of the Exchequer, are anxious about his health. He is being severely overworked. In addition to his heavy labor in matters of Finance, he is on the Armament and Pension Committees. He is working from early morning to late at night, and it is imperative that he be relieved of some of his responsibilities, if his health and strength are to be considered.

PREPARING FOR EMERGENCIES.

LONDON, Nov. 25.
England is preparing rapidly to repel any possible invasion by Germany. Along the east and south coasts of England these preparations, begun some time ago, are being pushed forward as speedily as possible. The work is chiefly in the hands of civilians. Emergency committees of citizens are being formed in several large towns. The principal measures already planned look to the safe withdrawal of women and children from areas which may be threatened, and also the removal of live stock and provisions which would be useful to an invading army; the destruction of grain and other commodities which cannot be removed; the blocking of roads and the destruction of bridges. Rifle Clubs are being organized. The War Office has decided to recognize these clubs, many of which are now drilling. Only those who are eligible for service as regular soldiers or territorials may belong to such organizations. Members are required to furnish their own equipment.
The City of Hull, according to the Daily Mail, is divided into six districts. In each district is a committee of 200 prominent men, which will co-operate with the police. Similar committees have been formed at Deal, Sandwich, Folkestone, and several other towns, the Mayors usually acting as chairman.

ROYAL NAVAL LOSSES.

LONDON, Nov. 26.
Thus far during the war, the Royal Navy has lost 4,329 officers and men killed, and 473 wounded; while 968 men are missing and 1,575 are captives or have been interned.

BOOM IN SHIPBUILDING.

Special to Evening Telegram.
LONDON, Nov. 26.
One of the results of the war has been the great boom in shipbuilding centres. In the North of England the yards have booked orders for 200,000 tons of new shipping, while on the Clyde alone orders have been given for 50,000 tons.

GERMAN DIPLOMACY.

LONDON, Nov. 26.
The German Emperor, according to a despatch from the Hague to the Exchange Telegraph Company, has ordered Von Jagow, the German Minister of Foreign Affairs, to notify all German diplomatic agents who hitherto have been employed in countries now at war with Germany, that they can consider themselves free to choose another career. The newspaper critics, the message adds, state that this sequel seems to indicate that German diplomacy is held responsible for the war.

GERMANS HARD PRESSED.

PETROGRAD, Nov. 26.—(Official)
Fighting near Lodz still continues. Large German forces which on Nov. 20, broke into the region of Strykow, Brzeziny, Koluszki, Rzegow and Quzryn (all these places are in the vicinity of Lodz) are pressed on every side by our troops, and are now attempting, by a supreme effort, to cut through toward the north. To the south of Kolluzki station, some scattered units, which were roaming about, we captured and made prisoners, and some heavy ordnance and field guns. The outcome of the battle of Nov. 24 was to our advantage. In fighting near Czesochowa and Cracow our troops manifestly have the upper hand. Beyond the Carpathian passes we are surrounding large bodies of Austrian troops in the vicinity of Micolaboroz. In this region we captured a General, forty officers and more than 3,500 soldiers and machine guns.

THE GAME OF FOOTBALL.

LONDON, Nov. 26.
Premier Asquith will be asked in the Commons to-day if he will introduce legislation suppressing all professional football matches during the continuance of the war.

At the Crescent Picture Palace.

The show presented at the Crescent Picture Palace yesterday attracted quite a large audience. The feature picture, in two reels, "The Mystery of Yellow Aster Mine" is a production of the Bison Biograph Company and contains some beautiful scenic effects with plenty of gripping action, especially the battle between the Indians and Miners is very realistic.
"The Second Home Coming" relates the story of a young girl whose mother slaves to give the daughter an education which only makes the girl dissatisfied with her surroundings but her actions does not weaken the mother's love.
"Bob's Baby" is the comedy reel and has a laugh in every line.
Mr. Jack McDonald sang a very nice ballad: "In the Heart of a Rose" a new song that is making a big hit at present in all the big American cities.
The same bill will be repeated to-night, and on to-morrow another great war feature: "The Glancing Arrow" will be shown.

Blooms for the little girls' dresses are the greatest saving of mother's time.

"A Masculine 'Thank the Lord.'"

By RUTH CAMERON.

The following remarkable letter, written by one woman to another, was sent me by a letter friend who found it among some papers which came into his possession. So I think it is without question a genuine letter. I wonder if it will make your blood boil the way it did mine.

"Dear Madam," it runs, "I have in my service at present a former house-maid of yours, M. B. I discovered by chance the other day that she has in her possession a pair of fine Maltese lace cuffs or sleeve borders which I charged her with having appropriated. She told me that they were part of a lace set that her father gave her when she was married, at which statement I could only be amused.

"She has absolutely no idea of their value, for she wears them on a common dress under very common black lace. I told her that if she would say to whom they belonged I would restore them and say no more about it. I am sure some one regrets having lost them, and as I know she was with you for some time I thought it might be possible that they were yours. In any case I consider it my duty to let you know. I have discharged her in consequence of her refusal to admit the theft, as I told her that such lace was quite out of place in the possession of anyone working in my kitchen.

"So kindly let me hear from you as soon as possible, as she will be leaving my house in a few days."

The letter friend who sent me that letter signed himself "A masculine, thank the Lord."

After reading it I didn't much blame him.

Of course there are plenty of women who are incapable of accusing another on such vague grounds. Nevertheless I fear that the habit of jumping at unjust conclusions with no real grounds to jump from, is inherently feminine.

Just the other day a woman told me that a man who is suspected of drinking had been on a drunk on a certain day. I asked her how she knew and she told me that she had been to his house to see him on business and his son had told him he was sick and that she could not see him.

"The idea that he might really be sick apparently never entered her head. And what was worse, instead of stating the facts and pointing out the inference which she drew from them, she went about stating her inferences as facts, and entirely omitting to mention the actual facts in the case. Of course he may have been intoxicated; personally I think he probably was, but she didn't know that he was, and not knowing she had no right to say so.

The law requires that an accused man shall be proved guilty. It does not assume his guilt and ask him to prove himself innocent. We call the law hard. What about the woman who assumes the guilt of anyone she suspects and does not even give him a chance to prove himself innocent.

Unreliability.

There's nothing handicaps you more than disregarding promises, and all the friends you had of yore you'll soon make doubting Thomases. The plumber says, "I'll send a man to fix the pipes that trouble you, with all the fixtures in a van, to-day, so help me W." I wait a day, I wait a week, the workman doesn't come along; the wretched pipes still leak and leak, and gases foul just him alone. Another plumber then I find, and tell him how I'm worrying, and how it goes to my weary mind, when he to work goes hurrying! He slings around his matted lead, so glittering and friable, while I heap blessings on his head, because he is, reliable. On time the leaking pipes he mends, and does his work desirably; I advertise him to my friends, who sing his praises choirfully. But as for him who did not cling to promises he made to me, he's queered himself—he cannot bring the weapons of his trade to me. Can he draw money from my purse? Ah, not the smallest smell he can; next time he'd only treat me worse—he's just that sort of peltican.

Pleurisy Pains Vanish! Chest Colds Cured!

NERVILINE HAS NEVER FAILED TO CURE.

Don't suffer! Nerviline is your relief. Nerviline just rubbed on, lots of it, will ease that drawn, tight feeling over your ribs, will destroy the pain, will have you smiling and happy in no time.

I caught a cold last week while motoring," writes P. T. Mallory, from Linden. "My chest was full of congestion, my throat was mighty sore, and I had the fiercest stitch in my side you could imagine. As a boy I was accustomed to have my mother use Nerviline for all our minor ailments, and remembering what confidence she had in Nerviline, I sent out for a bottle at once. Between noon and eight o'clock I had a whole bottle rubbed on, and then got into a perspiration under the blankets. This drove the Nerviline in good and deep, and I woke up next morning fresh as a dollar and absolutely cured. Nerviline is now always part of my traveling kit, and I will never be without it."

The large 50c. family size bottle is the most economical, or you can easily get the 25c. trial size from any dealer.

A Splendid Exhibit.

A display of cups and ribbons won by Mr. Walter Reid for the best exhibit of White Plymouth Rock Fowl at recent poultry shows, is now on exhibition in Hon. S. Milley's store window, Water Street. Mr. Reid has carried off several cups and ribbons for his poultry recently. At the local shows he has won two cups and thirty-eight ribbons, having won ten ribbons out of a possible twelve at the exhibition held at the Prince's Rink last week. His poultry has also won fame abroad. Last year he sent some fowl all the way to Indianapolis, Indiana, and the judges, who came from different sections of the State, were unanimous in awarding five silver cups and seven ribbons to Mr. Reid's exhibit of White Plymouth Rocks, which were declared to be the best birds at the show.

Christian Brothers' Collection Sunday.

Editor Evening Telegram.
Dear Sir,—As already announced, a collection is to be taken up in aid of the Christian Brothers. It is needless to say that the response will be a generous one. It is now some forty years since the pioneer of the Order landed on our shores. They were then but three in number but like the grain of mustard seed they have increased tenfold in order to meet the demands of the many applicants that seek admission to their schools. The sound commercial education together with the thorough religious training their pupils receive, fit them for any walk in life. They may choose to enter either church or state as is clearly evident to all. Let this year's collection be one that the good Brothers will be proud of.

I remain,
Yours truly,

My dear Mother,—

Just a few lines to let you know that I am well, hoping this will find you all the same. Well, mother, I haven't got much strange news to tell you at present, I must say we are putting in a fine time as yet, but, mother, I can't say when we have to go to the front. We are leaving here on Monday but I can't say where we are going; you can put the address on my letter. Mother, I would like for you to see me now, I got my new uniform and my cap and gun and knapsack, so, mother, if you saw me when I get it all on you would say I look fine. Mother, dear, tell father not to be uneasy about me, tell him I will be back again yet safe and sound; tell him to let me know if he is getting the money that I left to him; tell him I want to know so I can find out if he is not getting it. If he is it is all right. I got one letter from you but you didn't say whether father got my clothes what I sent him from St. John's, and I sent John my watch and you didn't tell me whether they got it or not and I want to know. Give my love to all the boys around also give my love to all my brothers and sisters and take the best of love for yourself and father and Hazel. So, mother dear, I will close by wishing you all good bye and God bless you all for this time. Don't forget to write soon.

I remain,
Your loving son,
SELBY CLARKE.

Maude Fealy a Great Attraction.

Nickel Patrons Delighted.
The great attraction at the Nickel Theatre last evening was the appearance of the wonderful actress, Maude Fealy who appeared as leading lady in "The Golden Cross." Miss Fealy was leading lady with the late Sir Henry Irving for a number of years and during that time appeared in all the principal theatres of the world with unusual success. She has been pronounced the greatest actress of the age, and the Nickel was fortunate in securing her. St. John's was delighted with her acting. This evening the picture will be repeated and those who were unable to attend last evening should do so to-day. This will be the last chance to see this great actress.

Stafford's Liniment should be in every home. No advance in the price.—sep19,14

LONDON GOSSIP.

LONDON, Nov. 26, 1914.

THE GERMAN EMPEROR'S CONDITION.

While the bad state of the German Emperor's health may easily have been exaggerated by rumor, there is reason to believe him suffering once more from nervous breakdown, as well as physical ailment. The catarrh and throat-and-ear troubles, to which he has always been liable, even in the quietest times, when he most assiduously could be taken care of, have not unnaturally developed themselves with acuteness during his recent rapid wanderings to and fro in the central plain of Europe. Sleeplessness and general nervous tension have supervened, and a course of specially-prepared tonics and sedatives is reported to have been ordered. Those who have long known the Emperor William's physical and nervous qualities will be in no way surprised at this. Their astonishment rather will be that he has borne up for three months against a physical and mental weight of trouble and anxiety that, in advance, his medical advisers would have deemed it most unlikely he could endure.

A LONG WEEK-END AT THE WAR.

A London gentleman very well known to artists and in the city, being unable through circumstances to join the army, came to an agreement with his family to take a short holiday in the battlefield of the Marne and beyond Senlis. This happened some time ago, but the account given me of his adventures has features that will still bear repetition. His great difficulty was to be allowed to go anywhere. He was arrested many times as a German spy, and at the last control he was only able to convince the commanding officer of his good faith by the simple statement that he was an English gentleman who had a friend who was an officer in an Irish regiment and a friend who was an officer in a Scottish regiment and he desired to visit his friends—where, please, were the Coldstream Guards? The French officers pointed out very gently that the battle-line was hundreds of miles long, but my friend said that if he strolled about he dared say he would knock against his friends. As he was clearly a mad Englishman, he was allowed to proceed. His most uncomfortable hour was on another occasion when his captors found upon him a diary, which Clears The Head, Opens The Nostrils, Stops Sneezing, Cures Catarrh.

You Get Instant Relief by Inhaling the Soothing Vapor "Catarrhzone."

Catarrh is bound to come with this weather. Slight colds become more offensive and sickening every day. The inflammation extends further into the head. Soon the ears begin to buzz and ring. The head aches, the eyes pain dreadfully, the nose gets plugged up and this forces the patient to breathe through the mouth. Vile stinky secretions are forced back into the throat, requiring a great deal of coughing to keep the air passages free. Finally, this foul matter finds its way into the stomach, causing dyspepsia and general ill-health. By this time the patient has SYSTEMATIC CATARRH, which saps strength, depletes the vital energies till consumption is the unhappy result.

There isn't the slightest use in trying to cure this condition with tablets, snuff or spray. Such treatments are wholly inadequate. You must employ Catarrhzone the only remedy that possesses power to kill the germs of Catarrh. The healing vapor of Catarrhzone is carried by the air you breathe to the most minute cells of the nose, throat, bronchial tubes and lungs. Its antiseptic medication goes everywhere that air can go. No case is too chronic, no person too old—everybody that has catarrh of any kind can be cured by this grand treatment which is endorsed by thousands of physicians throughout America, who say: "The only way to permanently get rid of Catarrh is to use Catarrhzone."

TWO MONTHS' TREATMENT GUARANTEED TO CURE. PRICE $1.00; small size 50c.; trial size 25c. Sold by dealers everywhere.

been popular here, though highly so in various Continental countries and the United States. A three-half penny Red Cross postage stamp issued ad hoc during the year, and yielding, as in France and Belgium, a halfpenny for relief, with the penny as before for the Postal Service, would be, however, a very different thing, and its issue at the present juncture would prove both profitable and popular.

AFTERNOONS.

With the day concentrated into the daylight hours, and the floating population multiplied appreciably, afternoons in the West End have become a remarkable social phenomenon. When London was London there were Saturday afternoons when every chair in the teashops in the neighborhood of Piccadilly Circus was occupied. At present this overcrowding may happen on any afternoon of the week. It is a strange and stirring thing to see this bustling crowd, more cosmopolitan than London crowds have been for a very long time. The year of the Franco-British Exhibition did not provide a parallel. The Strand, Pall Mall, Piccadilly, Regent Street, Oxford Street—everywhere there are slowly-moving streams of people. They talk, too, which English crowds do with less ease and persistence. In Oxford Street this afternoon it seemed as if every third person one passed spoke French or that strange Flemish which must have put so many amateur spy hunters on the supposed track of a German. It only needed cafes overflowing on to the noisy side-walk to make a Parisian boulevard. If the foreign invasion did not remind one so insistently of its calamitous cause it would be a delightful experience. As it is we are glad to offer to our guests something of our own security.

BELGIAN GUEST-HOUSES.

The increasing influx of Belgian refugees into London is stimulating the local authorities to energetic action, and the various religious denominations in West London are also playing a considerable part in dealing with the problem. I hear that a group of guest-houses for refugees are being opened in the Western district and the different churches and chapels are making themselves responsible for the upkeep of these establishments. The houses are usually provided rent free by the owners, and it is expected that the local authorities will remit the rates due upon them. Committees have been formed to borrow furniture and clothes, and lists of donors of food and other necessities are obtained by bodies of house-to-house canvassers. Word is then sent to the Belgian Relief Committee in Aldwych that the house is ready, and contingents of refugees are drafted there. By this means hundreds of poor Belgians are being cared for in West London, and the response given to the appeals made on their behalf is warmly bestowed.

THE USE OF CAVALRY.

The story of the employment of cavalrymen in the trenches reminds one that this arm of the service has had to display a good deal of versatility in this war. One had already heard of a troop of cavalry which, after service in the trenches, retained its bayonets when it took to horses again, and actually used them in a cavalry charge. Apart from that departure from the recognized duties of horsemen, the military experts are said to have been surprised by the extent of hand-to-hand fighting, both by cavalry and infantry. It is not so very long ago that one school of military experts argued for the abolition of the sword. The use of "shock" tactics by both cavalry and infantry has been remarkable in this war, though there have been a good many engagements in which the enemy has been invisible. A large proportion of the defenders of Antwerp never saw a troop of attacking Germans. As chance would have it the first Territorial regiment to go into the firing line—the London Scottish was thrown immediately into hand-to-hand fighting of the fiercest kind, and their first impressions of battle will perhaps be prejudiced by their experience. In any case, they can scarcely expect to have the variety of action of the cavalry, who when the time for pursuit of a retreating enemy comes, will return to the one kind of work for which all the military experts are agreed they are necessary.

RED CROSS POSTAGE STAMPS.

The Postmaster-General still hesitates to follow the example of two of the Allies—France and Belgium—and issue postage stamps which will assist the Red Cross Fund, and, though he has been pressed to do this in various quarters, his reluctance to move is no surprise to those who know the wisdom of his department. Stamps for affixing to letters, the profits from the sale of which go to either the National Relief Fund or the British Red Cross, have been forthcoming from various private sources, but the fashion of thus aiding a political, social, or philanthropic movement has never

PRINCE'S PHYSICAL EXERCISE.

The Prince of Wales, still hopeful of going to the front, has been on keeping fit that he goes in for a good deal of violent exercise on the plea of keeping his weight down! Seeing that he is already about as thin as it is possible for anybody in good health to be, this anxiety seems a little misplaced. However, the fact remains that frequently after His Royal Highness has returned from a long route march with the Grenadiers he indulges in running exercise in the Palace grounds, then after a hurried bath at home he races off to the Bath Club, takes part in a game of tennis, and finishes up with a plunge in the swimming bath. Certainly the Prince is not likely to get too stout, but his friends tell him that he is "overdoing the physical exercise business."

Great Sketch.

The Roman Gladiator.

To-night there will be a great change of programme, Kelly and Mack will produce "The Roman Gladiator in Black," and for a rollicking laugh-maker this act will beat anything ever seen. There is lots of songs and some of the finest soft shoe dancing; any one who can't laugh at the antics of Kelly and Mack to-night should consult a doctor.

The pictures are all good and need no comment.

Mr. Rossley has the men working hard at his new theatre, on Fitching's Street, and when finished will be the prettiest place in town, well lighted, heated and ventilated; splendid machine, good pictures and singers. Mr. Rossley will take great pride in his little theatre. It is his own property entirely; he is not in partnership with any one, having bought the place himself. He has worked hard and deserves success. Good luck to him.

German Cruiser

AND TWO TORPEDO BOATS WERE SUNK.

New York, Nov. 19.—A news agency despatch from Petrograd, published here this afternoon, says a German squadron which bombarded Liban was later attacked by the Russian fleet, and that in the fight which followed a German cruiser and two torpedo boat destroyers were sunk.

Norwegian Ship With Copper Detained.

London, Nov. 21.—The Norwegian steamer 'Sir Tyr' has been detained at Glasgow, according to a despatch to the Central News. Giving the reason, the correspondent says that 4,000 tons of copper ore, which are contraband of war, were discovered in the bottom of the Norwegian steamer's holds, hidden away among a cargo of general merchandise.

Five Noble Sons Ready to Fight For Empire.

The family of Mr. Wm. Knight, of Mundy Pond Road, is well represented in the service of the Empire. Two sons, William and James are in the Navy, two others, Thomas and Henry have enlisted with the Canadian Contingent and are now at Salisbury Plains, and still another named Stephen intends joining the second Newfoundland Contingent as soon as recruiting commences. Should he pass the necessary medical examination, the Knight family will be truly worthy of a prominent place on Newfoundland's roll of honor, as we are of the opinion that this is the largest representation from any one family in Newfoundland. While congratulating Mr. Knight on the splendid spirit of patriotism shown by his sons, we cannot refrain from noticing his modesty which is so closely associated with true valour, and which apparently has kept him from informing us of the fact long ago. We hope that when a complete roll of honour is compiled, the names of these young men will receive a foremost place among the soldiers and sailors of our island Home.

Finance Meeting.

The Finance Committee of the Patriotic Association met yesterday and took up business of interest. A committee consisting of the Hon. John Harvey, Hon. P. T. McGrath, Mr. Kent, K.C., Mr. Ellis and Capt. Montgomerie was appointed to take up the matter of pensions. Another committee consisting of the Hon. M. P. Cashin, Hon. P. T. McGrath, Mr. John Munn and Capt. Montgomerie was appointed to revise the estimate of costs for the Newfoundland forces for twelve months. The number of allotment papers received was 336, entailing an expenditure here of $10,600 a month to dependents. Messrs. Read, Watson & Co. offered to audit the accounts of the 8th Regiment at home free of cost. Some applications of dependents of Newfoundlanders who have joined the Canadian army or navy were received. The committee decided that the proper course to pursue was to put on the books of the Association only those who are on our own rolls, and to refer the other to the Canadian Patriotic Association.

QUIET ALONG THE WEST FRONT.

PARIS, To-Day. An official French announcement given out in Paris this afternoon is as follows: No important development marked day of Nov. 25. In the north cannonading diminished in intensity and no infantry attack was directed against our lines, which made slight advances at certain points. In region of Arras there was a continuation of the bombardment on the town and its environs. On the Alsace the enemy endeavored to deliver an attack on village of Missy. This movement resulted in complete failure with considerable losses to the Germans. We have made some progress in region of West Soissons. In the Argonne, in the Woivre District, in Lorraine and in the Vosges there is almost complete calm. Along the entire front there has been a heavy fall of snow, particularly in the higher portions of the Vosges Mountains.

"Trains, which we call cemetery trains, full of piled-up dead continue to arrive from the front. They contain bundles of dead; that is four tied together to facilitate transportation. The bodies are burned promptly in special furnaces erected just outside Brussels."

Thanksgiving.

By GEORGE FITCH,
Author of "At Good Old Swash."

This is the day upon which the average American eats himself into a comatose condition in the effort to express his thankfulness over what he has or hasn't gotten during the past year.

Thanksgiving was once a religious festival, now it is chiefly athletic. In the past one hundred years man has advanced wonderfully in the art of getting a half-Nelson on a third plateful of turkey and downing it without the aid of a pneumatic tamping outfit.

It is going to be easier this year to be thankful than it ever has been before. Gratefulness is going to be particularly rampant to-day, and only those Americans whose lives have been permanently impaired will have the nerve to scowl reproachfully at the past twelve months.

Some Americans have had very poor health during the past year, and have suffered from expensive and engrossing diseases, but they have not had to be operated upon for cannon balls in the thorax.

Other Americans are only working a few days a week. Yet when they consider how they might be working regularly digging trenches all night and dodging shells all day, they are almost supernaturally content.

Still other citizens have lost their property by fire recently and in ordinary years would now be celebrating Thanksgiving with snorts of derision. But this year they can hardly hold enough turkey to express their gratitude. If they were Belgians they would not only have lost their dwellings by fire, but the cellars would also have been blown out of shape and rendered useless for rebuilding purposes.

Thus Thanksgiving has gathered in one mighty throb of gratitude the whole nation with the exception of the defeated candidate. In all the world there is nothing to match his peculiar and poignant woe, and even turkey will not alleviate it. The defeated candidate will always continue to be a death's head at our Thanksgiving dinners until the great holiday is moved forward into October.
