How French Retook Douaumont Position.

A wounded colonial infantryman, who reached Paris recently, gives your correspondent a picture of the making and retaking of Douaumont. The German cannonade had levelled the parapets and trenches until the position looked like a new plowed field," he said. "It seemed as if every gun in the world was concentrated upon that one point. The noise was far greater than in the battle of Champagne.

"Some Bosche infantry were creeping up a narrow ravine on the right front, others were crawling through the wood directly before the position. Suddenly they surged forward in a grey mass from both quarters at once. There must have been 5,000 in the ravine and perhaps 20,000 from the wood. As the former reached the plateau a single shell burst right among them, flinging pieces in all directions. The front was enveloped in a storm of shells, fragments of men and lumps of earth.

"Through the smoke one could see them advancing, heads down, as if sheltering themselves from rain. Soon the ravine was choked with bodies. Others tried to clamber over and kept falling down the hillside. The heaps of dead gave us a more effective bar than our own entrenchments. They simply could not pass.

"But in front, where the slaughter was even greater, they came on incessantly. Truly, they are brave, those Bosches. I would never have believed that human beings could face such a terrific fire. Yet they knew it was certain death, for the wounded were piled under corpses or torn in pieces by fresh shells.

Battle Without Quarter.

"Wave after wave advanced. At last they reached the spot where our fortifications had been on the spur of the hill, and began piling up bodies to protect them from our fire. Douaumont was theirs, but at a ghastly cost. Further back our hearts were burning. Were the Germans to be allowed to consolidate their victory? For three days they had kept us idle while the gunners did all the work. Since we retook Caures Wood they told us, saying it was useless sacrifice.

"We watched our shells concentrate upon Douaumont, tearing the German defences into fragments. Our hearts beat fast. Surely we should attack soon.

"At last our turn came. I took part in the Champagne charge, but it was nothing like this. We were mad. Nothing could have stopped us. Despite the German fire, which, perhaps, was hampered by the fear of hitting their own men on the spur, we hurled ourselves at them with the utmost among the shell holes and mined emplacements.

"This was real war as I had never known it. For a moment it was furious and equal. Then came another wave and another. We hurried them back, screaming, over the hillside. It was a battle without quarter. We only captured corpses.

Joffre Economizing Effectives.

"The Germans are no nearer breaking the French army to-day than they were a week ago, but because the economizing of effectives is a military principle, never more respected than under General Joffre, and because it is an evident commonsense in a grand action to fight on your strongest points, they have won four miles of French soil by sacrifices which, when they are known, will send a shiver of horror through the German nation.

"The abandonment of the French segment lying beyond the hills in the flats of the Woivre is rather different. The French staff decided upon the movement on Friday night without any special pressure from the Germans. It is not difficult to one who knows the region to define their motives. Although marshy in winter, the clay on the plain would be like a sponge under Friday's sheet of snow.

"Moreover, the trenches here facing eastward would be under a rear and flank fire from the new German position on the hills, while it only the northern portion on the crescent were open up the remainder would be a most difficult to defend. Hence, the withdrawal to the foot of the hills. So far from being forced, it was fully twelve hours before the German watchers discovered that the position had been evacuated.

On Slopes of Douaumont.

"Throughout Saturday the combat continued with undiminished intensity between Champagneville and Douaumont, and even with increased desperation on the right.

"When General Sarrail laid down the present scheme of defence, the old fort, with its stone glacis, moat, and bridge, was dismantled. The ridge was sapped with entrenchments which since have multiplied, and the slopes spread with horrible networks of barbed wire at every critical point. The momentary capture of such a position was far from being an altogether discouraging piece of news for the Allies. The re-capture of the position proves if that were needed, that the French point at the end of the line days of mortal trial are as strong as many Hfandenburgers the Kaiser can hurl at them.

"The ways of approach to Douaumont are narrow, being limited to a defile between Hill 378 and the Vauche Wood, with a few hill tracks coming over the spur of the M. Guvenost Hills on the northwest.

"The Germans were swept back into the approaches by the French assault of Saturday afternoon and the plateau, thus cleared is now, it is believed, securely held.

"The French counter-stroke at Verdun may mark the battle raging there as the beginning of the end of the war on the western front, according to military authorities here, reading between the lines of to-night's official bulletin.

"That trenches have already been scrapped and the long-drawn field fortress deadlocked displaced by an old-fashioned pitched battle is the great lesson of the German attempt to take Verdun. But in teaching it, there are good reasons to believe, according to the views here, that Germany may have signed her own death warrant.

FERROVIM
The Invigorating Tonic.
For Sudden Exhaustion,
Thin Blood, General Debility

What has been already indicated in the Champagne battle is now clearly proved by the German cannonade at Verdun, that under the concentrated fire of hundreds of great howitzers hurling shells weighing from one-half to three-quarters of a ton, even the strongest trenches are smashed into a defenceless chaos, and the mitrailleuse emplacements which have previously rendered the heroism of infantry fruitless, are blasted into nothingness.

Foot soldiers have become once more, as throughout history the decisive factor of warfare.

The week's orgy of slaughter. The first is that German artillery cannot silence French, and the second is that if sacrifices are ignored and reserves are sufficient, infantry can advance despite the artillery and because of the practical obliteration of the mitrailleuse, may only be checked by infantry.

Hr. Grace Notes.

Mr. A. L. Collis intends holding his annual concert on Thursday of Easter week.

Mr. John Snow, a familiar figure about town for many years, passed away at the home of Mr. John Sheehan, yesterday morning.

Owing to an accident along the line, yesterday's mid-day train reached here a few minutes before 6 o'clock, and left shortly on the return run to the capital.

Last night's recruiting meeting was well attended and the speakers did full justice to the subject. Only one volunteer, James Garland, of Charles, came forward, but it is hoped the good seed sown by the various speakers will bear fruit from time to time.

A gentleman of this town received a letter from a friend at St. John's a few days ago with the request that he secure for him a barrel of (listen, Sunny Jim) mussels, the request coming as a result of an item in our notes some little time ago. He adds, "can't get them here fit to use."

The ladies of the Methodist Aid will hold a tea and sociable in Coughlan Hall on St. Patrick's night. Half the proceeds will be devoted to the Patriotic Fund.

Mr. Albert Rogers met with a rather serious accident to his left hand on Saturday last. Mr. Rogers was in the woods, when the slipping of an axe in the hands of his assistant caused the trouble. He suffered much pain.

Mr. Charles Webber, shoemaker, formerly of this town, but for several years residing at Sydney, has volunteered for service in a Canadian regiment. He is now in training in Halifax. Mr. Webber has a son also serving in the regiment. —COR.

BONEHEAD PLAYS.

We might, as graveward we advance, know naught but golden days, if we did not at every chance, indulge in bonehead plays. For nearly all the ill we know, and all the pains and aches, originated long ago, in our own foolish habits. Man labors in his stalwart years, and when he draws his pay, he blows it in for long cold beers, and that's a bonehead play. The school-boy, Mother's Little Pet, upon a summer's day, learns how to smoke a cigarette, and that's a bonehead play. The damsel learns to paint and sing, to dance the night away, but sidesteps every useful thing, and that's a bonehead play. All carelessly man goes in debt for grub and clothes and hay, and knows, when lawyers make him sweat, it was a bonehead play. To buy a gaudy choo-choo cart, man signs his home away, and says some day, with shaking heart, "It was a bonehead play." This life of our should be sublime, our hearts should all be glad; but we pull boneheads all the time, and that's why life is sad.

SATURDAY, March 11th 1916.

The Lesson of the Figures.

Through the courtesy of Capt. Montgomery, we are able to publish the various electoral districts who have volunteered for the Newfoundland Regiment and have been accepted after medical examination at headquarters. The figures are as follows:—
St. John's 1029
Trillington 182
Trinity 143
Bonavista 108
St. George's 97
Placentia and St. Mary's 67
Harbor Grace 57
Harbor Mah 53
Burn 49
Fogo 39
St. Barbe 31
Port de Grave 31
Fortune 29
Burgoyne 24
Ferryland 21
Bay de Verde 21
Labrador 12

The outstanding feature of the figures is the number of volunteers from St. John's. The contribution from St. John's is far above the relative proportion by population and the lesson to be derived from it is that men responded according to their opportunities of realizing their duty. The headquarters of the Regiment is at St. John's. Men in khaki are constantly about the streets. Newspapers are constantly calling attention to the war and the needs of the Empire. Pupils are more numerous. Posters are on the walls. Public meetings, societies and working parties are constantly reminding young men of their duty, and last but not least important of all four well organized brigades have instilled young men with a spirit of discipline and duty. That is the lesson which the Recruiting Committee must take to heart and bring to bear in working up recruiting. We are not in a position as yet to publish exact figures of the number of young men who have served in the Navy since the outbreak of the war. But we know sufficient to state that St. John's leads slightly in the Navy, and Trinity Bay comes next with a material lead over other districts. Bonavista comes next, Harbor Grace, Placentia, St. George's, St. Barbe, and Port de Grave follow in order. Trillington like St. John's District seems to prefer the army to the navy. While the men of Trinity Bay, Bonavista, Harbor Grace, Placentia Bay, St. Barbe's and Port de Grave have sent far more to the navy than the army. Another feature of the figures is that in general, a district which has responded poorly to the army has responded poorly to the navy. This emphasizes strongly the lesson we have drawn from the army figures. It is a matter of giving men an opportunity of knowing their duty. Where they have had better opportunities of hearing their duty they responded better, and where the opportunities are fewer the response is less. It is clear there is much recruiting work of an educational character to be done, more particularly between Burn and Channel, and between Carbonear and Old Fort. Can.

Man Reoprted Robbed of $665.

Gave Money to Friend to Keep for Him.

Last night an outport man named Benjamin Brown, reported to the police that he had been robbed of $665. He was staying in a boarding house on Adelaide Street where he claimed his money disappeared. Suspicion rested on another boarder and an hour later Detective Byrne arrested Llewellyn Hamilton, a 23-year-old fisherman of Tack's Beach, P.B., charging him with the theft. This morning the accused was tried before Mr. Hutchings, J.P., and his innocence being established he was discharged. It was found that Hamilton had been asked by Brown, yesterday, to be the custodian of the pile of cash and he agreed, but at the time Brown reported his loss he had been celebrating and had not all his faculties. This morning the "wad" of notes was handed over to Brown. There was a moral in Hamilton's unpleasant experience, and he vowed that he would never play the role of banker for any one again.

Oil Tanker Being Towed to Halifax

The San Onofre, the big British oil tanker reported off Cape Race with oil tanks Ashababa and San Gregorio, is going to Halifax. It was previously thought that the three ships would be coming to St. John's, but a wireless message reached the city this morning stating they were on their way to the Nova Scotia port. The San Onofre, as previously noted, is damaged as well as having her bunkers empty.

Socks Sale.

A grand sock sale will be held in the Presbyterian Hall on Tuesday evening next, by the ladies of St. Andrew's. Capt. Montgomery, who will preside, will give an address in relation to our Nid. soldiers. A feature of the event is that a pair of socks or its equivalent in wool or money will comprise the admission fee. Those who attend are assured of a pleasant evening.

McMurdo's Store News

SATURDAY, March 11, 1916. Have you noticed our West centre window at the Water St. Store? It contains a selection of requisites for the boys going on active service, and something will be found there as a present to your relative or friend now in training, before he leaves for the front. Among the items you will notice the unbreakable mirror, each in a neat khaki case; the waterproof writing companion, containing post cards, paper, envelopes, pencil and blotter, and is also in khaki; shaving brushes, tooth brushes, clothes brushes, face cloths, razors (safety and ordinary), shaving soap, nail files, nail brushes, soap boxes and pocket combs. We should like you to see these things, and to step in and see them upon nearer view. We think we shall be able to show you something appropriate for the purpose, and at reasonable price.

S. P. A.

The committee in charge of the S. P. A. money boxes begs to report as follows:—
Of the 226 boxes issued 132 had been returned, 5 empty. Of the outlying 44, 19 have been stolen, and it has been found impossible to collect the remaining 25 after strenuously endeavoring to do so since last December.

We desire to thank all who have kindly contributed by means of these money boxes and to express the hope that when the war is over they will again consent to adopt this, the easiest method of helping on the good work of the Society for the Protection of Animals.

War News.

Messages Received Since Last Issue.

RUSSIAN TROOPS LAND; FALL OF TREBIZOND IMMINENT.

WASHINGTON, March 10.—Russian troops have landed on the Black Sea coast of Asiatic Turkey, and the occupation of Trebizond is imminent, according to a despatch received to-day from the American Embassy at Constantinople. The State Department also was advised that the American Consul at Trebizond had taken over the archives of the German consulate there, the German Consul having fled.

WILSON AND MEXICO.

WASHINGTON, March 10.—President Wilson to-day ordered American troops over the Mexican border to capture or kill the Villa bandits who, yesterday, raided Columbus, N.M. In his present stage the President's order does not mean armed intervention in Mexico, but provides for a punitive expedition to deal with the lawless forces over which the Carranza Government has no control.

SMUTS' PROGRESS.

LONDON, March 10.—Lieut.-General Smuts' occupation of Taveta and also of Salatta, German East Africa, is announced.

GERMANY'S DIPLOMATIC FAILURE.

LONDON, March 10.—Telegraphing from Amsterdam, the correspondent of the Exchange Telegraph Co. says the German press devotes many leading articles to the German declaration of war on Portugal. Considerable dissatisfaction is expressed with the foreign office, which the newspapers claim could have detached the Lisbon cabinet from Britain by tacit handling of the Portuguese situation. The German minister at Lisbon probably will retire from the diplomatic service. The Portuguese minister with the personnel of the legation will leave Berlin to-night. Germany has asked Spain to represent German interests at Lisbon. This action recalls the fact that Switzerland was asked to represent Germany at Rome, after the breach of diplomatic relations caused by Italy's declaration of war against Austria. German interests in the more important capitals of London, Paris and Petrograd are in the hands of the Ambassadors there.

ANNOUNCES STATE OF WAR EXISTENCE.

PARIS, March 10.—The Portuguese Legation announces that a state of war exists between the Portuguese Republic and the German Empire from six o'clock last night.

GERMAN CASUALTIES FOR FEB.

LONDON, March 10.—According to official German casualty lists which have reached London, the total German casualties for February was 35,138. This brings up the total for the war, as shown in these lists, to 2,667,372.

McKENNA'S SELF DENIAL.

LONDON, March 10.—Reginald McKenna, Chancellor of the Exchequer, is the first member of the British Ministry to give up his motor car, and set an example for the community in the interests of economy. The Chancellor is seen daily walking to Parliament and Council meetings. No other member of the through mails to and from Germany. These figures taken alone, Lord Robert added, seem to sustain the American criticism as none of them are large in comparison with cargo seizures, but the whole problem reduces itself to the broad question, whether Germany can import goods valuable for her war purposes and export goods increasing her foreign credits under first class and parcel postage. So it becomes a question not so much what actually is shipped in this form, but what would be shipped, if England announced to the world she would not touch goods sent through post to and from Germany. Recently we have taken from the letter mail sent from Germany valuable consignments of goods which cannot be regarded as postal correspondence under the Hague Convention. As an instance of the use of the parcel post we took from a liner from the United States bound for Scandinavia the following: 194 parcels of fur skins, 221 parcels of military boots, 418 parcels of strip tin, 80 parcels of Ferro-Vanadium. It is unnecessary to dilate upon the great military value of the last two items.

GERMANS REGAIN GROUND.

PARIS, To-day.—German infantry attacks launched with huge effectives, but with losses, described as beyond all proportions to the objective they sought, have re-occupied part of Corbeaux wood, west of the Meuse and northwest of Verdun. According to a French official communication issued last night the German attacks west of the village of Douaumont and against the village of Vaux were put down by the French.

WILL NOT DISARM MERCHANTMEN.

WASHINGTON, To-day.—The Entente Allies have agreed to inform the United States that they cannot accept the proposal of Secretary Lansing in a recent circular memorandum that a medium sized merchant ship should be allowed to sail without warning. The general assertion that Germany interferes less with trade than the Allies is untrue. The whole purpose of their submarine blockade was to prevent the Allies from receiving supplies on account of the efficiency of the British Navy. As yet there is no indication of any success being enjoyed by the new submarine campaign, but it is dangerous to prophesy, however. The Navy probably will be able to deal with any new manifestation of frightfulness.

THE WAR BUDGET.

LONDON, To-day.—Throwing large masses of infantry against the French in Corbeaux Wood northwest of Verdun, after several attacks, in which they are declared to have suffered large casualties, have retaken part of the wood, from which French previously ejected them. The entire region about Verdun continues the scene of intense operations. West of Douaumont sector and embanking the village of Vaux have been points against which Germans have launched vicious infantry attacks, but at both places their efforts at advancing broke under the heavy fire of the French. Berlin, however, counters this assertion by announcing in the taking of the ridge west of Douaumont by the Germans and says also that the Germans have succeeded in pushing forward their lines through a wooded sector southwest of Douaumont, which is situated east of fort Vaux. It is admitted in the German official communication that the French succeeded in gaining a firm footing at fort Vaux. Paris had previously categorically denied that the Germans captured either the fort or village of Vaux. East and south-east of Verdun a crest of about seven and a half miles the Germans have been directing a heavy bombardment of these towns. Elk, Moulainville, Villers Bouchamps and Bonzevillers with French guns answering them energetically. In Artois region the French have occupied the crater of the mines exploded by the Germans and in Lorraine have damaged with their gun fire the German organizations in front of Malleville Brennil. The Germans on the Upper Stripa region on the Russian front, declares Petrograd, have suffered heavy losses in a counter attack made on a position captured by the Russians. Despite the bad weather the Italians are keeping their offensive against the Austrians along the Austro-Italian line. Talmine Bridge head has been heavily bombarded. On the Isonzo front there has been some intermittent shelling. Petrograd reports a continuation of progress of the Russians against the Turks along the Black Sea coast toward Trebizond.

ATLNER FALLS BACK ON RIVER.

LONDON, To-day.—The War Office last night made public the following official concerning fighting in Mesopotamia: General Lake reports General Attkin's force was operating on March 8 from seven to eight miles from the right bank of the Tigris River. In consequence of lack of water has been obliged to fall back on the river after having removed all his wounded.

REASON OF WAR AGAINST PORTUGAL.

LONDON, To-day.—Germany has declared war on Portugal, according to a British diplomat in close touch with the situation, because she feared other countries might do what Portugal has done, as the seizure of German ships makes the submarine campaign much less effective, because of increases in available tonnage. This official declared Portugal only exercised the rights of eminent domain and took ships with a promise to make compensation for the reason that she is in vital need of more vessels. He pointed to the fact that Italy which is not at war with Germany did the same thing without a serious protest from Berlin.

THE SAME OLD GAME.

LONDON, To-day.—Knowing well the Germans would starve us if they got a chance, I don't believe any intelligent German doubts for a moment we have a perfect right to put every economic pressure possible on them to bring the war to an end in the most humane way, said Lord Robert Cecil, Minister of War Trade, yesterday discussing the new German submarine memorandum with possible consequences. There is really nothing new in the German submarine memorandum, said Lord Robert Cecil, as it employs the same old evasion, as it employs the same old evasion. They still use the reciprocal argument, but they began submarine warfare before the so-called blockade was adopted, with regard to the charge of mine laying they began to do so without indiscrimination before we put any. We never laid a mine in the trade routes on the high seas, while the Germans even planted them in Neutral waters, as is witnessed in the present case of Sweden. These things we have never done. As far as the increase in the list of contraband goes, every belligerent in the past has exercised this right, according to needs, with due regard for existing rights. Besides not having ratified it we are not bound by the Declaration of London. Whether Germany has increased her contraband list in violation of the Declaration I do not know and it does not matter. It is nonsense that submarine warfare is a new departure in warfare are not subject to existing International Law, they are merely warships, therefore, come under existing rules. We might well say German airships have the right to drop bombs on women and children who are more vulnerable by international law which prohibits their murder. As to the right to stop food supplies, Germany set the precedent by sinking the Dutch ship Maria and the American ship William P. Fry; blockades always have been recognized and cannot be called submarine, as they cause less suffering and less loss of life than actual operations of warfare, especially bombardments. Germany's general contention that we have no right to interfere with the trade is absurd. Such interference is the natural result of blockade and the German contention that British merchant ships are for offensive cannot be sustained. By reference to the Admiralty instructions which number as they were issued with the purpose of enabling ships to defend themselves from attack, that such armament is not subject to international law, it is shown in the case of the steamer Clan Macintosh sunk by the German raider Moeve. The fact that the submarine is more vulnerable by international law merchant raider gives it no right to sink neutrals without warning. The general assertion that Germany interferes less with trade than the Allies is untrue. The whole purpose of their submarine blockade was to prevent the Allies from receiving supplies on account of the efficiency of the British Navy. As yet there is no indication of any success being enjoyed by the new submarine campaign, but it is dangerous to prophesy, however. The Navy probably will be able to deal with any new manifestation of frightfulness.

SPLENDID PICTURES AT THE NICKEL.

The week end programme attracted large audiences yesterday. The pictures were high class as they always are at this popular house of entertainment. "The Who Pays" was most impressive and was very favourably spoken of by all in attendance. "The Merry Widow" a spectacular musical drama produced by the Vitagraph Co. was also a beautiful picture. The comedies were bright and sparkling and the upper class enjoyed them. This evening the programme will be repeated and we advise all our readers to attend. The Saturday night audience is always a good one. By attending the Lenten season you help the Vitagraph special 2 reel feature.

AT THE CRESCENT.

This week-end show at the Crescent Picture Palace is a very fine one. "The Money Leeches" is one of the best of the "Girl Detective" series and produced in a really fine style. The Kalem Co. Jack Muhlail and Irma Dawkins the noted Biograph stars feature in a great comedy drama "A Much Needed Lesson." A spectacular "most of the days of the early Christians is "Iola the Christian." The photography of this picture is beautiful. A very heavy and interesting comedy is "A Bunch of Matches." This is a great show; go to-day and see it. On Monday "The Natural Man," a Vitagraph special, 2 reel feature.

BRITISH THEATRE.

The British Theatre was well attended last night, and patrons were well pleased with the selection of pictures shown. The leading picture was the two-act drama with Grace Currier and Francis Ford, which was splendidly acted throughout. Mary Pickford was seen in a re-issue entitled "The Stronger Love." Although this is a picture of ancient vintage it shows the remarkable talent of the little actress who is now one of the most famous in the world. A Manhusen drama "Their Best Friend" and a comedy "The Frankfurter Salesman's Dream" with a brief view of the French Army in the field completed the programme which will be repeated to-night, with a big matinee for the children this afternoon.

LONDON, To-day.—The Paris correspondent of the Daily Mail, telegraphing under Friday's date, says: Not since the battle of Verdun began have the German losses been so terrible as in yesterday's fierce fighting. Whole brigades which went into action against Douaumont and Vaux village and Vaux fort were practically wiped out of existence and most of the German units engaged lost two-thirds of their strength.

Per Telephone.

By RUTH CAMERON.

RUTH CAMERON

The uses of the telephone are many and varied, and some of them more fearful than wonderful, especially if you are a party on the line of the person who indulges in them. The other evening I took up the receiver and heard someone say, "Don't you want to hear my records?" Now I am not in the habit of listening on the line, but I felt that as long as I was helping to pay for the concert I might be permitted to listen to it. And I did. It lasted for about ten minutes and consisted of half a dozen dance records.

Wonderful, isn't it? I think even Mr. Bell (far-reaching as his vision must have been) would have been surprised if he could have looked into the future and seen the group of us, my neighbour and I, each in her house listening, while a woman in her home in another town played music which had originally been produced I don't know how many hundreds of miles away and brought to us on a piece of metal.

A young bride whom I know chanced not to have any clock among her household possessions. For some months she used to call up central to find out when to start getting her husband's lunch and on all other occasions when she had to know the time.

Some People Can Get Anything Out of a Telephone. Some people never think of using the telephone for anything but conventional uses. Others are accustoned to wrest all sorts of information from that little black instrument which reaches, the trolley schedule, the weather, the news of the day and goodness knows what else.

Some of my readers, I know, will be grinding their teeth, mentally if not actually, and thinking of the people on their line who use the telephone with a capital U or perhaps I should say a capital A.

For their benefit I want to tell of a scheme a friend of mine has recently put into practice. One morning she waited from eight until half-past for a chance to use the telephone. It was held all that time by one party. The fragments of conversation which reached her ear whenever she lifted the receiver to see if the line was still busy were plainly social gossip.

Her Whole Day Was Upset By That Delay. She waited so long that she missed her car, and as she was taking a trolley journey, thereby missed connections all day.

Of course she was indignant, and then, being a just person, she remembered that she had sometimes used the telephone in the same way.

So the next day she called up each party on her line and suggested this agreement, that after any party had used the telephone for social purposes for five minutes any other party who wanted to use the line was privileged to cut in and take possession of the use of the line.

"We all like to use the telephone for social talks sometimes," she explained, "and there is no reason we shouldn't if it isn't needed for other purposes. We have also asked the operator to break in if the line has been continuously in use by one party."

How the scheme is working out I don't know, as she has only recently inaugurated it. But this I do know, LIGHT, HEAT, COMFORT!

The proprietor of one of the best known multiple shopping systems is credited with saying, "Give me any old shop, in any old street, and I'll guarantee to make it in twelve months the most widely-known and best frequented shop in the district." He was asked to explain. Holding up three fingers he said, "I believe in the trinity of LIGHT, WARMTH, COMFORT. I should dazzle the moths until the candle drew them. I should bring them into a warm, comfortable shop, filled with a soft, pleasing radiance, and the rest is—well, mere child's play."

Mixed metaphors, perhaps, but expressive. Now we can more than imagine the kind of shop this well-known individual would open for we pass it in almost every town—always a landmark to the street. No one fails to notice it. There is an indescribable air of welcome and invitation as one stands for a moment on the pathway and lets one's gaze travel inside it. The subdued, restful lighting effect, that so charms because of its very unobtrusiveness, the absence of dark corners, the intangible feeling that if one would step inside one would be sure of experiencing a delicious sense of warmth and comfort and cheerfulness—all these are part of its appeal. Truly a shop with an individuality.

We cordially invite all progressive business men to visit our showroom and see our latest Lighting and Heating Appliances, by the adoption of which the ideal outline in the above extract from a London paper may be easily secured. Our new RADIO X Lamp and GASTRAM Radiators fill all light and heat requirements.

Compulsory Education.

Compulsory Education was the subject debated at the Commercial Night School on Monday night and resulted in a lively discussion, participated in by Messrs. S. W. Pelley, C. Barnes, H. Barnes and the Principal on the affirmative side, and by Messrs. H. Hawkins, H. J. Bishop (head teacher) and A. W. Miller (visitor) on the negative side. Mr. H. Hartnett, leader of the last debate, acted as Chairman. The result of the voting was a majority of seven in favour of Compulsory Education in Newfoundland. The chief points raised on the affirmative side were: The duty of the State to educate all free here as in other countries where it had proved a success; the prevention of child-labour in factories and shops, thus leaving more positions open for the competent to fill, advancing business in the country. It would be one of the needed improvements of the educational system of the country because provision would be made for carrying it out by increased grants to make up for the loss of fees and to engage more teachers and give better salaries. Possibly it would lead up to united schools as an economic necessity, and a more suitable syllabus by the C. H. E. for all classes of pupils—practical for the business and industries of the country, the same as is being carried out in the United States of America. The negative side contended that the present system should be improved first, and that it would be impossible to carry out a compulsory law in fishing and farming districts of the country because "child help" is so valuable there; also it would tend to make conditions worse because the country could not afford more money for education, and why shouldn't the rich man be allowed to pay for his own children? The only persons who have suffered are those who have neglected

Splendid Church Meeting.

A most enthusiastic meeting of the General Building Committee of the Cochrane Street Methodist Centennial Church was held in the Primary Room of the new Church last evening. The meeting was presided over by the Pastor, the Rev. C. A. White-march, M.A., The Secretary, Mr. Burt, read the minutes of the different meetings of the Executive Committee, and was followed by the various reports of the Building Committee, Finance Committee and correspondence from architects and contractors. It was pleasing to note that the contractors, Messrs. Downing, Cook & Co., of Montreal, had completed, although so many vexatious delays in getting their materials to St. John's, their work within the contract time of nine months from the day the first sod was turned. During the discussion on the various reports presented a number of ladies of the congregation entered and gave the members of the Committee a genuine surprise, the provincial delightful cup of tea was handed around together with a bountiful supply of sandwiches, biscuits and cakes. After a social hour, Mr. J. C. Marshall proposed a hearty vote of thanks to the ladies which was seconded by Mr. E. Parsons and supported by a number of the Committee and presented to the ladies, through the Chairman. Business was again taken up and the adjournment was called for at 11 o'clock. We understand that although facing a rather heavy debt all the members present were very optimistic. Quite a large amount in subscriptions was reported by promise card and inter-posed by the Chairman, reported that the suggestion of the Building Committee to call a meeting of the ladies to consider the advisability of forming a Ladies' Association and to take into consideration the Church furnishings, had met with a hearty and generous response and had now after only several months since its organization nearly five hundred dollars to its credit. As the chairs for the Sunday School Building are now at Port aux Basques it is expected that the usual Sunday services will be conducted in the School Building Sunday week, March 19th and continued there until the pews are placed in position in the Church.

Can Do My Work, Pain is All Gone.

MISS DOLLIE McCLAIN TELLS OF DODD'S KIDNEY PILLS. Alberta Lady Tells of Quick and Complete Cure Through Using Dodd's Kidney Pills. Ferguson Flats, Alberta, Mar. 10th. (Special).—Yes, I am very glad I can say that I have tried Dodd's Kidney Pills and found them all that is claimed for them." So says Miss Dollie McClain, an estimable lady residing here. "I was troubled with a sore back that made me almost helpless. I took one box of Dodd's Kidney Pills and my back is all right. I can do my work and the pain is all gone."

Thousands of women in Canada are suffering daily tortures from pain in the back. Thousands of others like Miss McClain are doing their work without an effort because they took the advice of others and cured their backache by using Dodd's Kidney Pills. Every woman should use Dodd's Kidney Pills. They are the finest tonic in the world because, acting directly on the kidneys, they take up those organs to do their full work of straining all the impurities out of the blood. Pure blood means new strength—means new cheerfulness. That is why so many women so cheerfully testify to the benefit received from using Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Creditable Shooting.

Yesterday morning a squad of volunteers visited the Southside Rifle Range at practice shooting at the head and shoulder targets, firing five shots in 40 seconds. The scores were: S. Parsons 18, G. Eddy 14, S. Simot 8, J. Cran 8. In the afternoon a squad of recruits visited the range for their first time, and considering the strong wind and light conditions poor, they did remarkably well. The scores at 200 yards were: J. E. Moore 18, R. Brown 18, J. Moore 17, A. Roberts 15, E. Eddy 14, H. Frampton 14, J. Kiely 13, A. Abbott 12, T. Carew 12, J. Langer 12, J. Hudson 12, Ed. Moore 10, J. The Tonnage Question. At the City Hall.

Discussion on the tonnage question was resumed at a meeting of the joint committee appointed by the Board of Trade and the Government held last night. Present were:—Chairman, Rt. Hon. Sir Edward Morris, Secretary, Mr. George R. Williams and Hon. R. K. Bishop, M. P. Cashin, M. G. Winton, and Messrs. R. F. Horwood and C. Blackburn together with Messrs. J. S. Munn and W. B. Grieve, members of the Salt Committee, and Mr. W. A. Mann, on the special invitation of the Secretary.

The reports of the sub-committee, appointed at Wednesday night's general meeting, were received and considered.

On behalf of the Salt Committee, the Premier reported that the offer of Lord Rothermere to have the steamers Alconida and Cranley bring salt cargoes here from Cadiz was accepted and that Sir Edgar Bowring, representing the Newfoundland Government, had been asked to sign the charter party, also intimating that through His Excellency the Governor, the Admiralty would be asked to place one or two of the transports available in the Mediterranean and which would be used to freight salt, at the disposal of the Government.

Reference was also made to the fact that Mr. Morey had an offer of a steamer for a like purpose. Sufficient supplies to meet requirements are in sight and it was thought that there is now no danger of a salt scarcity.

Hon. M. G. Winter reported that the Transportation Committee had interviewed Mr. R. G. Reid who assured them that everything possible was being done to rush along supplies of feeds, also showing the Committee a message from Sir William Reid intimating that he had negotiated for the S. S. Durley China to bring a load of freight from Sydney to St. John's within a couple of weeks. It was also pointed out to the Committee that to help to relieve the shortage until the Durley China is available two or three carloads of feeds would be brought over on the S. S. Kyle each trip.

Mr. W. A. Mann offered to interest himself in the tonnage problem at Montreal for which place he will be leaving in a few days. He will endeavour to get the steamers, which go to Montreal from Sydney with coal cargoes, and return practically empty, bring freights of flour, feeds, etc., to St. John's. In his lengthy remarks he showed how a direct steam service from Montreal would solve the problem under discussion satisfactorily.

Mr. R. Horwood, Vice-President of the Board of Trade, informed the meeting that the President, Mr. Job, who was at New York, would visit Montreal and see the proper authorities and try to get their co-operation in dealing with our difficulties as regards freighters. He suggested that Mr. Mann join Mr. Job so as to strengthen the representations of the Board of Trade.

The securing of the S. S. Durley China, it was thought, would obviate the necessity of the S. S. Stephano making a special trip to Sydney, but Mr. J. S. Munn expressed the opinion that the S. S. Florizel could make a trip there after returning from the sealfishery if necessary.

Mr. C. Blackburn, for the Transportation Committee reported that two steamers were in sight, but the prices asked were excessive and besides the boats were unfit for requirements.

Regarding the coal question, Secretary G. R. Williams was instructed to write the coal dealers for their united action to find out the possibility of getting steamers to bring supplies here and report to the Joint Tonnage Committee the result of the enquiries.

No definite action was taken re-exporting fishery products. What is left of the present catch on hand will be shipped to market in vessels secured already, so that the question will not become serious before September next. However, it is thought that by that time the problem will have solved itself, though every effort will be made to market our staple product in the meantime.

George Washington.

By GEORGE FITCH.

Author of "At Good Old Stivash."

George Washington, the father of this country, was born in Virginia, February 22, 1732. He was the son of aristocratic parents and spent his boyhood playing with the other sons of aristocracy in Westmoreland County, most of whom became Presidents of the United States later on. He was a great athlete, though nowadays he would be disqualified in a minute by the Amateur Athletic Association for handling money, as he once threw a dollar across the Potomac River. He was also an honest lad, and when he chopped down a cherry tree and was asked about it by his angry father he replied, "Father, I cannot tell a lie. I did it with my little hatchet." The father was so relieved to find that the boy had not used his expensive imported razor that he embraced him and they lived happily ever after. There are no other famous incidents of truth-telling in our history.

Washington became a surveyor and also helped the British Army fight the French and Indians. He then married and settled down on his estate to spend a happy life. But he had no children and in order to fill the vacant space in his heart, he decided to adopt his country. This necessitated a great deal of fighting on his part and from 1775 to 1781 he was almost continually occupied in eradicating redcoats. He was often defeated and was chased an aggregate of several thousand miles. His soldiers had little to eat and less to wear, and usually ran out of powder about the second round of each battle. If Washington had had the powder that is burned each Fourth of July nowadays, in celebrating his victories, he would have been a happy man and would have become a national parent much earlier in life.

There was great opposition to Washington, and all over the colonies, men eagerly wore out dry goods boxes and store counters, showing just how he could get much better results. He was cursed and maligned by large numbers of rich Tories, who wanted to let well enough alone. A price was set on his head by the British and he often had to postpone dinner from day to day. But in the end he captured Cornwallis at Yorktown and everyone hastened to admit that he was a great man.

In 1788 Washington was elected first President of the United States and served eight happy years, undisturbed by tariff squabbles, conservation agitation or invitations to dinner on the Pacific Coast. At the end of his second term he declined re-election and returned to his home at Mount Vernon, where he died in 1799 from a consultation of physicians, complicated by a slight cold. He left a widow and an infant country, which was compelled to grow up without parental discipline and has felt the effects ever since.

Washington could have been King of his people and he could have had great honour from Great Britain by refusing to insurge. But he chose to be President of a busted and struggling nation at a small salary and because he seems to have had the habit of thinking of his own interests last, the American people have built him a monument 555 feet high and have named mountains, rivers, states, counties, towns boulevards and babies after him for over a century. He was tall, grand, gloomy, dignified and wore a powdered wig with a tall to it. But all this was forgiven him a long time ago. His birthday is observed with increasing devotion each year and he is still one of those rare beings who are willing to imperil an income for a principle.

THE THOUGHTS OF THEOBALD.

FOR THE ORPHANS.
It was splendid to hear a chorus of men's voices at the concert for the orphanages last Tuesday. The Comrades Glee Club deserve much praise for their good work, especially in their third number, which was really well done. Their efforts to help the orphanages should be seconded by the public in every way possible, and it is hoped that they will not disband for a long time to come.

COAL FIGURES.

The local newspapers which refrain from expressing an opinion on the unnecessary trouble to which the public and the Government were put to by the unreasonable advance of $2.80 on coal at the first of the year, are now all anxious to justify the price of the Alconida and Florizel's coal. They are spreading broadcast figures showing actual costs and I should like to bring some clearness on the matter, as their figures seem somewhat confusing. I shall take the figures they give and show the actual cost of the Government coal.

Cost of coal at mines $3 21
Freight 3 10
Extra freight caused by Florizel's rate of $3.50 on 2,160 tons 10
Insurance 2
Landing and Shedding 62
Cartage 70
Duty 70
Government charges, of which most is to settle contracts for coal made previous to Jan. 1st. 31
 $8 76

Now to this must be added the following expenses. I grant you that some are ridiculously high, especially that put on for loss of weight. These are the expenses of a business which handles 4,000 tons a year, so that they may be applied to these larger firms who are handling the Alconida and Florizel coal and he will over the actual cost to them.

The Ideals for Which We Stand.

By Dr. G. R. Parkin—The Gigantic Problems of National and International Reconstruction Which Must Be Faced.

Dr. G. R. Parkin, C.M.G., who bears so striking a resemblance to the well-known portrait of Livingstone, and who is now the Administrator of the Rhodes Scholarship Trust, in an address at Hull, reported by "The Layman," spoke of the Ideals for Which We Stand—the Responsibility of our Empire.

Every Home.

"In a conflict so gigantic as this is, where so many millions of our people have to throw their lives into the issue, where almost every home in the country is being struck from day to day, it is imperative, it seems to me that we should clearly understand the ideals for which we are fighting, the things we live for, what we are going to lose if defeat comes to us, what we are going to gain, or at any rate preserve, in case of victory," said Dr. Parkin.

"During the last year and a half we have seen the machinery of destruction applied to the world on a vaster scale than has ever been known in human history, and which produces not only frightful wastage of life, paralysis of industry and commerce, accumulation of debt, dislocation of national life, and disregard of the sacredness of national obligations on which our civilization seems to depend, but which, when it is over, will, we may be perfectly certain, leave the world at large, and our own nation in particular, confronted by problems of reconstruction such as have never been thought of or attempted before.

Think of the Future.

"Therefore I say, in the gigantic task which we hope soon to be met, of national and international reconstruction, we must be thinking about the future, because in it we, the British people, with our Empire, must necessarily take a leading part. We must then be thinking of the future even while we are trying to summon up all the spiritual and material energies that we have for this great struggle.

"What are the ideals for which our people, the British people, stand? First, I think I would like to place the liberty of the individual. We have stood, again, for free self-government in every community where capacity for that self-government exists; we have founded free nations in every corner of the world. If you read a book lately published by

Scientific Cure For Eczema.

New Discovery—Thousands Find Relief.

No scientific discovery in recent years has attracted such wide-spread attention among physicians in this country and throughout Canada—as the wonderful D. D. D. Prescription for Eczema.

After years of debate, medical authorities are now agreed that eczema and other skin diseases are not seated in the blood but are caused by myriads of microscopic germs gnawing the flesh just below the epidermis. The patient is perfectly healthy, it is only the skin that is diseased.

Hence, scientists are now agreed that you must cure the skin through the skin. The medicine must be in autocratic will which must be absolutely and implicitly obeyed. Between the British ideal and the German there can be no compromise—the difference is fundamental; the future of the world hangs on the issue of the struggle in which we are engaged.

Standing at the World's Gateways.

"Now, to measure our part in that struggle, and the stake that we have in it, we must try, for a moment, to grasp what our British Empire is, and what its points of contact are with the rest of the world. The attempt puts a strain on the most vivid imagination. Only those who have seen can fully understand, but to see the British Empire one must traverse every continent and sail on every ocean. Only then can the traveller grasp the fact that the people of our British race stand, as no other people ever stood before, at the gateways of the world.

"In Europe we find ourselves in close touch with all the forces which have given impulse to Western civilization; the action and re-action of our institutions to the standard which they have established in religious, political, and social life are felt in every European nation. Go out to the remaining continents.

You Can't Find Any Dandruff, and Hair Stops Coming Out

Save your hair! Make it thick, wavy, glossy and beautiful at once.

Try as you will, after an application of Danderine, you can not find a single trace of dandruff on your hair. No difference how dull, faded, brittle and scraggy, just moisten a cloth with Danderine and carefully draw it through your hair, taking only one small strand at a time. The effect is immediate and amazing—your hair will be light, fluffy and wavy, and have an appearance of abundance; an incomparable lustre, softness and luxuriance, the beauty and shimmer of true hair health.

Go across the Pacific, and you come to where we have a whole continent, Australia, with a climate which draws people from every part of the world, and with enormous possibilities of developing some of the richest storehouses of wealth in the world.

Go to South Africa, where we have a country as large as half of the Empires of Europe put together; it, too, is endowed in a wonderful way with some of Nature's greatest gifts. And New Zealand, one of the most wonderfully favored places of our Empire, capable of holding a large population, and with an area about equal to these islands.

In Asia again the circumstances of our history have brought under our flag 315 millions of what we sometimes call the 'weaker' races, and yet, in other ways, they are among the most intelligent and industrious of all the peoples of the world.

One-quarter of the World.

"When this war is over, under our flag will be found one-quarter of the whole of the land area of the world, and nearly or quite, one-quarter of the whole of the population of the world. In addition to that, if victory crowns our arms we shall have established a naval supremacy such as never has been known in the world before. But beyond that, and perhaps more difficult for us to grasp than anything else, because more unusual, against our will, we shall find ourselves with a military organization equal to that of the professedly military powers of Europe.

No nation or people in the world have ever had responsibility placed upon them such as that. That is the Empire to which we are trying to apply our ideals; that is the Empire to which other ideals would be applied if we fail. But it is a tremendous responsibility.

For the good of Mankind.

"Now, nothing can be more certain than this: the extraordinary position which we hold is one that is going to provoke envy in the world. When this war is over, more than ever before, we must give convincing proof to the world that we hold this amazing, this astonishing position that we do, and which I believe has been granted to us for some of the highest purposes of humanity and civilization—we must give convincing proof to the world that we are holding this unique place not merely for our own selfish interests but for the good of mankind at large.

I believe we are going to stand in a different position from what any nation ever did before. We have all the materials that we could wish for, all the opportunities that we could desire, and the question is, Whether we are to rise up to that opportunity and apply those great ideals on a scale commensurate with the immense position which we hold.

Facing Responsibilities.

"We must face these responsibilities unflinchingly, and try to make the people of our great democracy understand what they mean. As one who has spent a very large part of his life in trying to work forward towards the great ideal of national unity among our British people, I am satisfied that one of the very first responsibilities that lie upon us, that we must force upon our statesmen, unwilling though they may be, is the organization of this power which we have had placed in our hands in such a way that for all time to come there

VICTORIA CROSS SIXTIETH ANNIVERSARY.

While, possessing neither official nor home, the "Order of Valour" was unable formally to celebrate the diamond jubilee of the foundation of the Victoria Cross on January 29th, the occasion was not overlooked by army or public. The care with which the award of the famous decoration is made is shown by the fact that only 69 crosses have been conferred in the sixty years, and 147 of this number have already been earned in the present campaign. There are to-day about 250 survivors of this noble company, including one or two who secured the distinction of the Cross and the Indian Mutiny, at least fifty have been killed in action during the past eighteen months, the majority of these giving their lives for the honor, which, happily for their family and friends, can be posthumously conferred.

THE NEW DERBY LEVIES

The rapid calling up of new groups under the Derby scheme seem to have surprised many people, though, in point of fact, there is ample forewarning. It was clearly indicated that the demand for men had not been made before they were wanted, having due regard to the necessary for their training.

Experience has shown that it is a cruel business to put inexperienced levies in the field to learn the enemy many even of the elementary lessons of modern warfare. It is no kindness to the men themselves to delay the call. The first army raised were expected to be sent out without any training at all. One recalls especially the experience of colonial troops who over under the impression that they had nothing to learn, and thought of drill and discipline of the camps as a waste of time and unnecessary. It was nothing wrong with the levies themselves and they did the work, but, if the story of battles ended in stalemate when victory within reach could be told—as they day they must be told—it would be found that the failure and the incurred by failure lay against the levies of the forces employed—and men alike. The lesson has been learnt very thoroughly, and the case of the older levies, whose measures have been taken of an interesting and practical kind of the mishaps of a similar nature in the future. The new levies will profit by these experiences, and sooner they get to work the better. There is a good deal to be said in theory of quick training in Lumbago is a peculiar sort of rheumatic trouble that affects the muscles about the loins and back. At times its agony is intense. Severe spasms of pain shoot in all directions, and become more severe on stooping.

LONDON GOSSIP.

LONDON, Jan. 31st, 1916. VICTORIA CROSS SIXTIETH ANNIVERSARY.

THE NEW DERBY LEVIES.

The rapid calling up of new army groups under the Derby scheme seems to have surprised many people, though, in point of fact, there was ample forewarning. It was clearly indicated that the demand for men had not been made before they were wanted, having due regard to the time necessary for their training. The men of the first army raised were eager to be sent out without any training at all. One recalls especially the impatience of colonial troops who came over under the impression that they had nothing to learn, and thought the drill and discipline of the camps here tiresome and unnecessary. There was nothing wrong with the men themselves and they did the work of giants, but if the story of battles that ended in stalemate when victory was within reach could be told—as some say they must be told—it would be found that the failure and the losses incurred by failure lay again and again in the imperfect training of portions of the forces employed—officers and men alike. The lesson has been learnt very thoroughly, and even in the case of the older armies special measures have been taken of a very interesting and practical kind to prevent mishaps of a similar nature in the future. The new levies should profit by these experiences, and the sooner they get to work the better. There is a good deal to be said for this theory of quick training in soldier-ship, but those quickest to learn are among the first to realize that there is no royal road to it.

OUR YOUNGEST GENERAL.

Evidence of General Haig's new role in the army, and of his belief in the value of youth and energy when combined with the best brains, is seen in the promotion of Colonel John Charteris to be temporary brigadier general in place of General Macdonogh, a succession which indicates the high importance of the staff position to which he has been appointed. He is, I think, our youngest general. He is not yet forty, having been born in Glasgow, in January, 1877, and he has advanced from captain to brigadier general in less than a year. His record in the army, however, is a long and testing one. He was educated at Glasgow University and Göttingen University, and entered the army in 1896. He is an engineer, and did much hard work on the Indian frontier. He passed the Staff College at Quetta, and was appointed to the staff of General Haig, with whom he returned to England and served at Aldershot as assistant military secretary for three years. He went out with the First Army Corps, and has been on General Haig's staff throughout the war. The French Government made him a Chevalier of the Legion of Honor for a courageous service done to a French force during the great retreat. He received the D.S.O. and was twice mentioned in despatches. He has always been a keen student of the German military machine and practice, and he visited the Balkans during the first war.

DECEIVING THE LOOTERS.

Viscount French is the hero of the following story, which is told by an officer back from the front. General French's affability of manner had made him exceedingly popular among the French civilians with whom he came in contact. One day he had occasion to call on a chemist in a town which had been rescued from German occupation after some months' interval. The chemist recognized his visitor and invited him to have a drink, cognac to be found anywhere in France. The Field-Marshal declined the proffered refreshment, but very interestedly asked how the chemist had been able to preserve his store of the precious liquid from the Huns, who are certainly not backward in looting the cellars of the towns they occupy. The chemist smiled, and though a little chagrined at his famous visitor's refusal explained—"I left out all the cheap wine in my cellar," he said, "but I hid upon a good idea for keeping the brandy. I looked out some poison bottles, poured it

That He Could Depend on Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills to Cure Many of the Common Ills of Life.

Living eighteen miles from a drug store Mr. Carr found it necessary to keep in the house some treatment to regulate the action of liver, kidneys and bowels. To the habit of keeping these important organs active by the use of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, when required, he attributes the good health of his large family.

Here, surely, is evidence of the value of these pills as a family medicine to protect the members of the family who use it from the common ills to many of which arises from constipation of the bowels and torpid condition of the liver and kidneys. Mr. James Carr, Maynooth, Ont., writes: "About 19 years ago I received an envelope containing two boxes of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. I was doctoring at the time with two doctors, and as they did me no good I used the Pills, and by the time I into them, and conspicuously displaying them on my shaves labelled them 'Sulphuric acid.' The chemist's wine was drunk, but the brandy entirely escaped the attentions of the Huns.

OUR GROWING EMPIRE.

Government gazettes which are now reaching London attest that the new administration of the late German colonies in the Pacific and in Africa is now proceeding satisfactorily. The gazette in South West Africa was first published in September of last year. Its title, "Official Gazette of the Protectorate of South West Africa in Military Occupation of the Union Forces," indicated that South West Africa is now a military protectorate, but also makes it clear that by degrees the military administration will be superseded by the civil power. The freshly acquired territory is for the time being divided into seven major districts under military magistrates, who include a few civilians, but all of whom have the military rank of major. Eleven minor districts are supervised by detached assistant military magistrates with the rank of captains and lieutenants. The civil eventually is foreshadowed by the appointment of E. H. Gorges—formerly Chief Secretary under the Military Governor—as administrator. All the German Pacific colonies, except Samoa—which remains under the New Zealand Government—are now administered from Rabaul, the headquarters of an administrator appointed by the Commonwealth of Australia. The title of the gazette published at Rabaul is "Government Gazette British Administration of (late) German New Guinea." It is not surprising to find that the islands Neu Pommern and Neu Mecklenburg, in the Bismarck Archipelago, once more enjoy their former British names. New Britain and New Ireland, and we may picture the joy of the veteran colonists of the old regime over the reversion. The last gazette from Rabaul contains a proclamation rescinding martial law, which affords a clear sign of the advance of the new order. As regards the Kamerun it may not be generally known that its occupied parts and Togoland are divided into British and French spheres of administration. Togoland falls into two distinct spheres, while the Kamerun territories are apportioned to Great Britain or France according to military exigencies.

THE GRANBY MARRIAGE.

The name to which Miss Tennant succeeds was for many years the symbol of London aristocratic society's most brilliant and thoughtful expression, for the Lady Granby who is now Duchess of Rutland was the recognised leader of the inner intellectual set of high fashion. The new Marchioness of Granby has much the same tactics as her mother-in-law. The set of which the Rutlands, Asquiths and Tennants form the center is concerned with learning and art and poetry, but carries it all lightly, wears, as it were, its art on its sleeve. Even Lord Granby, for all the attractions of his age and opportunities, has lived laborious days and is said to be a serious young man with literary tastes. Before the war, his ambitions lay in diplomacy. The new Lady Granby has great charm and taste and a gift for design. She and her cousin, Lady Diana Manners, between them are said to have designed every object of Lady Granby's trousseau. Lord Granby was not born to his great inheritance but lost an elder brother in early boyhood.

THE DISAPPEARANCE OF THE SERVANT.

In the higher social level the servant problem is quite as difficult as it is amongst ordinary people. Even the big territorial families, who recruit their servants mainly from their own tenants, have found the supply cut off. The big London hotels are profiting by this state of things. It is found much cheaper to go to the hotels than to run London houses with regular servants. The footmen are at the front and the maids are making munitions. The sort of conversation one hears would have seemed a couple of years ago like the dialogue in a fantasy. "I had a charming nurse—she is now post-man," said one, well-known London hostess, "but I hear that she hates it, so I hope to get her back." It used to be the desire for liberty and independence that caused the dearth of servants; now it is patriotism and a desire to do their bit like their men relatives. One of the many things that can never be the same after the war is the old organisation of the British household. The domestic servant as we understand her to-day will be as much an anomaly as the term "servant" now is.

A VISIT TO THE MANOR HOUSE—NEW STYLE.

It would be interesting to know the proportion of the really big country houses that are serving at the moment as well-run hospitals. A week-end nowadays in the country is not unfrequently like a prolonged visitors' day at one of the great London refuges for the sick and wounded. People now are asked down to stay with friends who have hardly been in town since the beginning of last year, having been as constantly on duty as any regular nursing staff, and they find the old Elizabethan or Georgian manor transformed into a house of wards, operating theatres, and sterilised pantries. The family have, possibly, with the exception of the heads, all turned out of the decorated bedrooms overlooking the park, and are sleeping on the top floor in old nurseries and disused bachelors' rooms. In some cases visitors are asked if they will mind "doubling up," and the same people who two years ago expected a sitting room to themselves will be glad to sleep on a truckle bed, to the sounds of concertinas, mouth harmoniums, and patter dances from the "wards" below. There is no such thing as dressing for dinner, as the girls of the house are usually in nurse's uniform, and go back to duty as soon as the meal is over. It is still somewhat of a shock to the unprepared bachelor, for instance, to come upon a former partner, the eldest daughter of the house, scrubbing the floor of a housemaid's pantry, now used as a ward kitchen, or to meet the second, a former society beauty, carrying piles of greasy dishes down the long gallery to "wash up." But such things are now common sights of the country house.

Winner of $30,000.

That $30,000 was won in a single evening at bridge whilst by her husband, Joseph E. Elwell, a year from the instructor of the game, who has had many Brooklyn society folk for his pupils, is alleged by Helen D. Elwell in a suit for separation filed in the Supreme Court, Manhattan.

According to the wife's petition, her husband is worth $500,000 and she has recently succeeded in winning four books he has written on bridge. They were married in Brooklyn, she says, but separated in April, 1911, her husband telling her that "he intended to live his own life separate from her thereafter."

The defendant is an expert card player and has succeeded in winning $20,000 in a night, and larger sums on many occasions. She has known him to win $20,000 in a night, these matters being within the personal knowledge of the plaintiff. She also is informed and believes that he still continues to play heavily and most successfully.

Mrs. Elwell adds that her husband, now has country places at Southampton, L.I., and Newport, and that his entire personal property is worth $100,000. He has made a great deal of money recently, she says, by investing "heavily and wisely" in stocks. His income from giving lessons in bridge to society folk has run as high as $15,000.

Germany Lied To America on Arabic.

New York, March 2.—The British Government is in possession of evidence which has caused it to brand as knowingly false the official memorandum in which Germany sought to justify the torpedoing of the White Star liner Arabic on August 19 last.

This memorandum was sent to Mr. Lansing by Count von Bernstorff, the German Ambassador on October 5 of last year. In it Count von Bernstorff stated that the German Government had received reports of Lieut. Schneider, the commander of the submarine which sank the Arabic, as well as additional affidavits from other members of the submarine crew, to the effect that the commander did not order the Arabic sunk until he became convinced that she was trying to ram the submarine.

The British Government now makes the unqualified statement that the submarine which sank the Arabic was the Y-27, commanded by Lieut. Schneider, as stated in the memorandum but after the Arabic was torpedoed, a British naval patrol boat overhauled the submarine and destroyed it.

Commander Was Lost.

At least two members of the crew of the U-27 were rescued—both of them mortally wounded—and before they died they admitted that it was their boat which had torpedoed the Arabic. Lieut. Schneider went down with his submarine.

Subsequent salvage operations resulted in the recovery of parts of the U-27 wreckage, among those recovered parts being the boathooks and other gear which bore the marking "U-27." These exhibits are now in the possession of the British Admiralty.

The facts in the possession of the British Admiralty have been kept carefully guarded for months, awaiting, it is asserted, the hoped-for admission on the part of the German Government that the U-27 had been destroyed.

A few weeks ago that admission was forthcoming, according to official information from London, in the shape of an official request made to the British Government through Walter H. Page, American Ambassador in London, for information as to whether or not one Wilhelm Schulz, who was a warrant machinist on the U-27, was a prisoner of the British in England.

Publication Authorized.

An official of the British Government, now in this country, received a resume of the U-27 evidence from London yesterday and was told that it would be proper for him to make

British Glove Dealers in London Are Heavily Fined.

Obtained $30,000 Worth of Goods From Germany Through N. Y. Branch. At the Old Bailey recently William Gardiner Rigen was fined £500. William Fownes Rigen was sentenced to 12 months imprisonment and Stanley Fownes Rigen to four months imprisonment, on their withdrawing their former defense and pleading guilty to the charge of obtaining goods from Germany through their New York branch and trading in such goods in contravention of the trading with the enemy act.

The three men are partners of Fownes Brothers and Company, glove manufacturers. The prosecution alleged that between the end of September and the end of December, 1914, the accused had obtained goods worth $30,000 from Saxony through the New York branch for which payment was to be made after the war.

She was given up for dead and all the relatives notified, but recovered from a state of coma after seven hours, and is now expected to regain her normal health in a few weeks.
