MR. CLARKE IS MERELY INTERESTED SPECTATOR

Does Not Care to Mix Up in the Controversy Going on at Edmonton

FOR IT DOESN'T CONCERN HIM IN THE SLIGHTEST

He Says it Will be Impossible to Revoke the Contracts He Now Holds

(Special to Albertan)

St. Paul, Minn., April 20.—W. R. Clark, the promoter of the Alberta and Great Waterways railway, who refused to go to Alberta and testify in the investigation being conducted by the commission in that province into the conduct of the members of the government and legislature of the province in connection with the railway contracts, has been asked to give evidence before the royal commission, which is a desire to stand aloof from the controversy.

The trouble has been stirred up by political enemies of the present administration in Alberta. "The present premier," (and attorney-general of the province) is the only possible to revoke the contracts they now hold.

The government of Alberta, inaugurated a year ago a policy of guaranteeing railroad bond issues to promote the rapid settlement of the country.

When the first dividend was not made as had been expected, the creditors made a special audit. This was satisfactory to the government.

ENTERED SUIT FOR QUARTER OF MILLION

L. H. Doll Issues Writ Against Assignee and Inspectors

OMITTED IMPORTANT ITEM IN STATEMENT

Complains That Estate Was Neglected in Some Respects

(Special to Albertan)

Edmonton, Alta., April 20.—The story of how two loads of files were removed from the office of Attorney General Cross by the house of his private secretary, Mr. Thom, during the night of March 8 and 9, 1909, is the subject of a writ which L. H. Doll, assignee of the Northern Crown bank, Samuel King of Toronto, A. B. Cushing of Calgary and H. A. Allison of Loughheed and Bennett. Mr. Doll claims that he was forced to make an assignment on account of information given by them to his creditors, and also that there has been bad administration of his estate.

In the year 1907 Mr. Doll, for certain domestic reasons and family troubles, divided his estate, which at that time was valued at half a million dollars, with his wife, retaining for himself his diamond police and the business, 3,000 acres of coal lands in Carbon district, together with certain real estate in High River, Lethbridge and Revelstoke.

During the depression in 1907 and 1908, Mr. Doll asked his creditors for an extension of time. His debts amounted to only $20,000, and this was cheerfully given. He had satisfactory arrangements with the bank, and complaints now that the bank disregarded the arrangements he had made, and instead of placing the money he deposited from day to day to meet the first dividend, it was used to reduce the amount of the bonded debt.

When the first dividend was not made as had been expected, the creditors made a special audit. This was satisfactory to the government.

Removed Two Loads of Files From Building at Midnight

Sensational Statement Made by Witness at the Royal Commission Yesterday—Taken From Attorney-General's Office When Mr. Cross Resigned—Clarke Afraid of Lawyers and Demagogues

Edmonton, Alta., April 20.—The afternoon you went to Cross and learned of his resignation?

"Yes," McKinnon went on to say that he thought 15 or 20 files of the Shannon size were moved out of this city. He said the only person to whom he had mentioned the removal of the papers was his roommate, J. F. McMillan of the Royal bank. He affirmed that the removal of the papers was premeditated.

Jack Tells the Story John Southworth, the driver for the Windsor hotel, who was referred to by McKinnon as "Jack," was put on the stand. He said he was in the habit of taking out Cross when the latter went out for a drive, and corroborated the removal of the papers. He said they were taken to a white house on 8th street, but he did not know the number or who lived there.

The Auditor Speaks Geo. J. Seymour, auditor of the A. & G. W. company and of the Canadian West Construction company since November, 1909, who appears to be another of Clarke's high salaried employees, who gets a yearly allowance of $4,800, was the next witness. He said Clarke called on him at the Manhattan hotel, New York, and there closed the deal for obtaining his services. He had not known Clarke before.

Clarke told him he wanted an auditor for his two companies. At least he thought Clarke referred to the company as "his." Clarke told him he was president of the railroad company. He came here in February, 1910, and reported to Clarke. He had general charge of the accounts of the two companies and writes some of the checks. He said R. B. Clarke is president of the Construction company, and he did not know who is secretary. He knew W. R. Clarke had signed checks as acting treasurer last March.

A Letter From Clarke He then told of having received from Clarke, who was in St. Paul, a personal letter a few days ago. Because it was personal the witness had destroyed it. In the letter Clarke told Seymour that he had decided not to appear at the investigation. He admitted that there were other references to the investigation.

"Do I have to tell anything else?" he asked of the judges. "Consider them purely personal," said the judges, deciding that he had testified.

Mr. Clarke stated he continued in witness, "that your lordships are the highest character, and could be trusted, but that I was looking for lawyers and demagogues. He said he considered some of the men who are so deeply interested in the opposition to the government as demagogues and two of them were men who were trying to ruin the country."

The witness gave the exact date of the letter. It contained references to checks. It gave no intimation when Clarke would return to Edmonton. Clarke told Seymour that in view of the present conditions, expenses would have to be curtailed without "undue publicity."

The Premier is Next Up. Just before adjournment for the afternoon, Mr. Walsh announced that Premier Rutherford would be the next witness, and that he would be followed by S. B. Woods, P. J. Nolan, K. C. G. Forster, who has been ill, reached Edmonton this afternoon. Bennett spent a large part of the afternoon battering McKinnon, in all (Continued on page 5)

THE BIRTHDAY OF THE ETERNAL CITY

Rome Was Founded 2622 Years Ago Today Celebrations in the Ancient City.

Rome, April 21.—Today, April 21st, is the birthday of Rome. On April 21, 753 B. C., according to Plutarch, Romulus and his companions founded the Eternal City on the Seven Hills on the banks of the Tiber.

To this day (in modern Rome) the anniversary is kept up with appropriate solemnity and rejoicing. Today the bells of the old Capitol, which ring out merrily, cannot be fired. Bands will play. There will be banqueting and speeches, and the school children will go in procession to plant laurels on signs erected with Italian patriotic heroism in the glorious struggle against the tyrannical hand of the hated Austria.

Today, then, is the Eternal City's 2622nd anniversary. And on this date almost a sacred one to the mind of the historian, of civilization, of Rome, remember, was the cradle of that civilization of which we are so justly proud—on this date, that of the foundation of one of the very oldest cities in the world, the cradle of us of Calgary will appreciate and understand the feelings which must have thrilled the breasts of the original founders of Rome.

History informs us that within a year after the first rude fort was erected by Romulus on Mount Palatine, the city thus begun was already of importance and magnitude to which resorted immigrants from all parts of Italy, and even from distant Greece. In a word, Rome, in 753 B. C., was the Calgary of that distant time.

NEW CONFESSION OF FAITH DROPS THE APOSTLES' CREED Members Must Pledge Themselves to Higher Life and Moral Purposes.

New Haven, Conn., April 20.—A new confession of faith, which drops the apostles' creed, and requires a formal expression as to the divinity of Christ, has been adopted by the deacons and will be presented for adoption by the Centre church of Congregationalists of this city. The church has strictly held to Puritan orthodoxy for more than two and a half centuries, having been founded in 1637.

New members will only have to pledge themselves to belief in a higher life and to moral purposes. The old confession of faith will be spread upon the records of the church, as a historical relic. The pastor Emeritus is the Rev. Dr. Newman Smyth, a member of the Yale Corporation.

Bad Fire in Detroit Detroit, Mich., April 20.—The department store of Hume & Hester here, was damaged to the extent of $400,000 by fire last night. The flames started on the lower floor and in less than an hour burned up through the seven story building. A strong wind was blowing and showers of sparks swept over the roofs of all the surrounding buildings but no serious fire resulted. The stock in Traylor Bros. Co.'s store adjoining the burning building was damaged to the extent of $50,000. The contents of both buildings were insured.

The Children Killed by Medicine Pills Montreal, April 20.—Two children of Edward Calloway, Ontario, who are dead as the result of eating medicine pills, which had been left lying about a bureau by a member of the family.

The Revised Route Map of the Calgary The route map of the Calgary branch of the C.N.R. into Calgary, which was received by the city yesterday for their consideration, and which will come before the Dominion railway commission on the 29th, shows conclusively that the barracks site is to be used as a union depot for the G.P.R. and the C.N.R.

Both lines join just as they cross the Bow river to the east of the city, paralleling the C.P.R. main line right up to the north and following it until the banks of the Elbow are reached.

The C.N.R. route map gives an excellent idea of the country through which this road will pass after it crosses the Big Red Deer river to the north of Calgary, even showing the sections it traverses. Coming from the north it crosses the Big Red Deer river about seven miles above the forks of the Rosebud river and the Red Deer. It then follows along the south bank of the Big Red Deer river down to and over, suburban Calgary. One important fact brought out by the map is that the railway does not enter the Nose Creek district, as was supposed in the previous location, though a lot of that property was sold on the strength of its doing so. It also dispels the idea that the C.N.R. will enter the city from the north and use the Eau Claire lumber yards as a site for a station.

The road runs five miles south of the previous location until it reaches Berry Creek. It is now some distance from Carbon.

In that the railway does not enter the Nose Creek district, as was supposed in the previous location, though a lot of that property was sold on the strength of its doing so. It also dispels the idea that the C.N.R. will enter the city from the north and use the Eau Claire lumber yards as a site for a station.

From a point about twelve miles north of Strathdowne it turns due west, crossing the Langdon branch of the C.P.R. at the new townsite of Morley. From that point it goes due south for about six miles, keeping within a mile of the C.P.R. branch line. Then it follows the south bank of the Bow river, and then due east, until it joins the G.T.P. at a point where both roads cross the Bow river and enter suburban Calgary. Then it follows the south bank of the Bow river, and then due east, until it joins the G.T.P. at a point where both roads cross the Bow river and enter suburban Calgary. One important fact brought out by the map is that the railway does not enter the Nose Creek district, as was supposed in the previous location, though a lot of that property was sold on the strength of its doing so. It also dispels the idea that the C.N.R. will enter the city from the north and use the Eau Claire lumber yards as a site for a station.

CALGARY SHUTOUT BY TACOMA TEAM

nes Made the Single, Lonely Hit for Calgary—Team Leaves for Calgary at Once.

Tacoma, Wash., April 20.—(By Staff) Fred Anz, two of the good young pitchers on the Tiger staff, played the Calgary batsmen to one hit in today's game, won by the Tigers 6 to 0. Clyde found the ball for a single in the third inning, but from that time on until the end of the game the Tacoma pitchers were invincible.

Both had control and were given almost perfect support, so Calgary never had a chance to score. Only one visitor got as far as second base. Manning, the Calgary southpaw, pitched good ball. He gave eight hits, two of which were of the flake order, but he was unafraid, though unshakable, in the pitcher's box.

Tacoma's runs resulted from combinations of hits, errors, bases on balls and stolen bases. The brilliant feature of the game was pulled off by Gurney, the young Tacoma third baseman, and Mott in the last inning. Gurney came in at full speed, picked up Clyde's low rolling grounder with one hand and shot it to first. Mott reached far out and scooped up the ball, completing a sensational putout. Calgary left here tonight for the north, where it opens the season May 4. Carney's team looks good to local fans, who predicted it would make a successful fight for the Two-league pennant. Score:—

CHICAGO CUBS SEEM TO HAVE THE CALL

The Pittsburghs Seem to Have Gone Back Some—A Yawning Void at the First Saok.

(By Dudley Porter) New York, April 20.—Baseball experts who have staked up the strength of the National League teams, as the cry "play ball" goes over the country opening up the '10 season, seem to see more strength in the Chicago Cubs than in any other organization.

Judging from the line-ups of the sixteen clubs forming the two big leagues, the game will be fully as good as last year but hardly as exciting and spirited as in 1908, which was an exceptional year.

Comparatively few new stars seem to be developing while the veterans are maintaining their old time class. Overhauled the Brooklyn, Chicago, Cincinnati, New York and St. Louis teams of the National league show signs of being stronger than in 1909; Pittsburgh looks about the same, while Boston and Philadelphia are likely to retrograde.

In the American League Chicago and Cleveland are uncertain quantities, only to be judged by the strength of actual play. The Tigers, Boston Red Sox and Athletics grade up even with their 1909 form; New York shows signs of marked improvement and St. Louis and Washington should gain—they can't possibly be worse than last season.

The Pittsburgh champions cannot be reckoned as improved over 1909, and in fact may retrograde to some degree. So far, Clarke has not filled Abstein's place on first wholly satisfactory fashion, and the Pirate infield is not entirely dependable. Some of the champions have reached their limit and will hardly hold the pace of last season, while an accident to Gibson would cork the chances of the club.

Pittsburg may repeat, but the Pirates do not look like odds-on favorites. Gibson is the whole catching force and cannot be replaced in case of disability. The Pirate pitching staff is of the kind that win for winners—in other words, would hardly stand the gaff if misfortune overtook the club. As long as the Rock of Gibraltar—Hans Wagner—holds out the infield can be shaky in some positions, while now the case, while the outfield is tremendously strong, if Clarke and Leach do not retrograde.

Pittsburg has an even chance to win again, but no better.

President Lynch, of the National League and President Ban Johnson of the American League, are opposed over the question of allowing newspaper photographers upon the field during games. Johnson claims that the teams benefit greatly by the advertising that the printed pictures furnish while Lynch contends that the players are made nervous by the snapshots.

Johnson issued an order permitting photographers upon all the grounds of the American League. The fact that Ban is an ex-protector, may have something to do with his kindly feeling.

Covaleski, the Polish pitcher who was discovered in Philadelphia, is said to be the surest marksmen with a straight ball in the league. The other day in Cincinnati, Covaleski made a bet that, if two men stood facing each other at some plate with their heads six inches apart, he could stand in the pitcher's box and throw the sphere six times between their heads without touching either one. The Pole made good, but the two at home plate heaved long sighs of relief when the contest was over.

Larry McLean, the lanky good natured catcher of the Cincinnati National league team, will be reinstated on April 21, a week after the opening of the season, according to an announcement made by Clarke Griffith. McLean was suspended for infractions of the training rules while the team was at Hot Springs, Ark. He will resume play under a new contract, and a $500 pay, so it is said.

Catcher Charley Moran, who played last year with the Mobile club in the Southern league, has joined the New York Giants. He has already reported to McGraw and is well liked by the owner. Incidentally, the Giants now have the biggest staff of pitchers in the National league.

It will be at least ten days before Sam Crawford, the hard hitting outfielder of the Detroit Tigers will be back to the game. Crawford has been suffering from weak ankles and upon the advice of his physician he has taken a lay-off. Higher Jennings, however, is not worrying. "The fias will fly here again," is the cheerful pronouncement of the "Ee-yah" manager.

Reports from St. Louis, where Ed. Roebuck, the Cubs' pitcher, has been suffering from diphtheria, state that the big fellow is now convalescent and will soon be on the slab again in the Windy City.

The Brooklyn Nationals in addition to improving their form in the south, picked up three corking good wags, who will likely be heard from before the season ends. They are: Catcher Edwin, with the Rochester club last year; First Baseman Dankert, secured from Memphis, and Pitcher Schreber, with Milwaukee in 1909.

The baseball population of America is increasing more rapidly than the actual population of the country. Europe can be grown and developed much faster than human beings can be bred. It is estimated that more than 50,000,000 people witnessed ball games throughout the major and minor leagues last season. The attendance has increased at a rate of about twenty per cent. every year for the past decade. Four years ago a seating capacity of 12,000 at the Polo Grounds was considered large enough for all, but when they increased it to 34,000 they still found themselves over-crowded on one or two occasions.

The same thing occurred at Philadelphia where the new Shibe Park has been erected. The fact that fans know they can get seats seems to make more of them go to the games, and the owners have found that out.

Aside from the financial part of the game the National and American leagues are about to start two most interesting races. Detroit has won the championship three times in succession in the American, and the fans in that circuit are working overtime

MR. LOHR HAS SETTLED ON HIS WINNIPEG MAROONS

And the Outfit Does Not Look to Be Very Formidable.

Winnipeg, April 19.—With the exception of a couple of players, Manager Lohr has practically settled on the men he will tryout for the positions on the 1910 Maroons. About twenty men will report here today and judging from reports of the good work of the new talent, the old players will have to hustle to hold their jobs. The present outlook is none too bright for the opening practice, but the weather may change before Monday. This weather was something like that experienced at Red Wing last year, and it will be hoped that better conditions exist here this year.

Complete Roster of Players

The complete list of players who have signed contracts and who are likely to reach the city ready for duty on Monday are: Catchers—Anderson and Edmonds. Pitchers—Robcock, Miller, Spelzer, Wilson, Roache, Farrar, Tommy Smith, P. Roache. A great bunch of flingers should certainly be chosen from the above list. John Collins, the wonder of the Maroons last year, is expected along in June, and he is practically sure of a place, as he was one of the best men in the league last year.

Infielders—Beatty, first base; Krueger, second base; Smith, Wyland and Reed, shortstop; Holmes, third base.

Reed arrived in the city yesterday from Langdon, N. D., he coming up on his own hook, as he thinks he can make good. He looks like the goods. The outfield is uncertain. Lohr will hold down the center field, while Piller is billed for left again. The spare catcher may occupy the right side, but a couple of other boys will be tried out while Bond, the hard-hitting player of the team last year, is billed to report to Manager Lohr in the near future. The star-sacker could be obtained if needed, in June.

Easy Money for John Kling

Kansas City, Mo., April 20.—John Kling, baseball catcher, will walk across the stage at a music hall at Chicago twice a day, for one week each, to promote the Chicago National League. Kling last night said that he would report to Manager Lohr in the near future. The Chicago Nationals on Sunday and on the season for the $4,500 offered him.

Down to the Eastern

New York, April 20.—Among the eight players released by the Giants, Outfielder Kerns and Catcher Curtis go to Montreal, and Infielder Shaw to Toronto.

Basket Ball.

The B. B. E. B. and the Leaders, two local teams, will play an exhibition game of basket ball this evening in the Y. M. C. A. gym. The B. B. E. B. last season were a very fine team. At 8:30 the 75 yard city swimming championship will be pulled off, with a few other short races. The Swimming club invites those interested in swimming to attend.

Hillhurst to Practice

The Hillhurst Football club requests that all members turn out tonight for a full practice on their grounds. As this practice match will be played to give the committee a line on what material they have, each and every member is earnestly requested to be on hand as a good game is assured. CANADIANS WILL ORGANIZE TONIGHT

Lacrosse Men Are Invited to a Meeting of the New Lacrosse Club at the Royal Hotel Tonight.

A meeting of the new lacrosse team, "The Canadians," will be held this evening at 8 o'clock sharp at the Royal Hotel for the purpose of organizing for the coming season.

This is the new lacrosse club which Calgary will have this summer, to which there has been so much mystery attached.

Stacy has consented to act as manager, and those interested have elected a number of good men to act as officials of the club. Everyone interested in lacrosse is invited to attend this meeting, whether or not members of the City team.

Due to the unfavorable weather last evening the first practice of the Canadians was called off. The next practice will be announced at the meeting tonight, at which delegates will be appointed to attend the Provincial league meeting on Monday evening next.

The Latest From the Jeffries Camp

Forty-three book agents called to show their big following a strong line of literature. The influx of this particular brand of salesmen is due to the announcement made by Joe Shkoparski, the big fellow who has been writing and editing a book on poetry and literature, as Joe believes that such a battle as Jeff will wage against the big smoke is as much physical as literary.

Jeff's Day was a Strident One

He wrestled three rounds with Buyan's Pilgrim's Progress and then took a ten mile jog over the pages of Bill Shkoparski. The big fellow was highly excited with Ernest Thompson Seton's "Wild Animals I Have Known" but declined to even look at Dr. Johnson's dictionary, maintaining that it was a waste of time to draw the Johnson line sometimes. During the afternoon he took great brain exercise with the "Puncher" which was followed by a "rub-down."

Choyinski and Farmer Burns are keeping the hero's spirits up with a strong line of class literature, which they pass to the hero and who is together he is showing a wonderful improvement. Those wise ones who say he cannot stay and has not the wind are taking to the woods for Jeff.

Jim Took Day of Rest

Ben Leonard, Calif., April 20.—James J. Jeffries' training camp looked like a great success yesterday. For the first time since he began training Jeffries took almost a complete rest from active work. The trainers were pleased at the rest plan as it was an unusual one. Jeffries' steady desire for work. Billy Papke has joined the Jeffries camp to train for his fights with Joe Thomas and Tom Sweeney. He brought no sparring partners with him, as he expects to work out with Jeffries' helpers or even with Jeffries himself. Papke will not start work before Monday.

Jim's Weight is Much Discussed

New York, April 20.—Fistic followers in the east are much puzzled today over the weight of Jim Jeffries and the other two of the Jeffries-Johnson fight. For the first time since he began training Jeffries took almost a complete rest from active work. The trainers were pleased at the rest plan as it was an unusual one. Jeffries' steady desire for work. Billy Papke has joined the Jeffries camp to train for his fights with Joe Thomas and Tom Sweeney. He brought no sparring partners with him, as he expects to work out with Jeffries' helpers or even with Jeffries himself. Papke will not start work before Monday.

How Spike Lost Out

London, April 20.—In his fight with Jim Driscoll, at the National Sporting Club, Spike Robson fell in the fifth round, his head striking Driscoll's chair. A nasty scalp wound was the result and at the end of the contest Robson was in bad shape. This gave rise to a report that he had been seriously injured, but he has expressed a desire for another bout with Driscoll.

LETHBRIDGE MEN ARE TRAINING IN THE BURG

Chesty and His Men are Getting into the Game. Lethbridge, April 19.—Yesterday Manager Chesty Cox and his ball tossers held their first workout at the ball park. Those out were Chesty, Mackin, Len, Fish, Brogan, Englebreton, and Morris.

Phil Leslie is rounding into great shape and is sixty per cent better than he was a few days ago. Lethbridge considers the best of the Jeffries-Johnson fight. A nasty scalp wound was the result and at the end of the contest Robson was in bad shape. This gave rise to a report that he had been seriously injured, but he has expressed a desire for another bout with Driscoll.

Another pitcher named Englebreton is working well and he has good control, curves and speed. The only trouble about this pitcher is that he resembles Ed Killey who was let out by Lethbridge after Calgary had given him his walking ticket.

Left Fielder Brogan has established himself as a permanent fixture on the Lethbridge lineup. Brogan shows up a regular cyclone in practice, and Chesty says Brogan will be just the same in the game. Johnny Mackin who is slated for second is going fast and rounding into shape. He will have to take off a few more pounds of avoirdupois yet, and then he will be O. K.

Chesty Cox is not going to let the responsibilities of manager interfere with his game. He expects to show some new fielding stunts this year and will be in the game for all he is worth, both at batting and fielding. The club expects several more of the players signed on to report during the next day or two.

JEFF IS PRACTICING ON THE BLACK MEN

It is Believed That it is Harder to See a Smoke After the Lights Are Out.

(By Thomas Garrett) New York, April 20.—Jim Jeffries is getting ready for Jack Johnson by punching negroes as training partners. Fighters say that it is hard to land accurately on a negro in fights at night, and as the Jeffries-Johnson battle on July 4 may extend beyond that time when the sun drops into the Pacific Jeffries is practicing upon Bob Armstrong.

Later on Jeffries will spar with Sam Langford but the Boston fighter has another battle on his hands before he can join the Jeffries training camp at Rowardenna. Armstrong will take the brunt of the heavy work in training and he is a worthy foe. As trainer of Tom Sharkey and Bob Fitzsimmons, he knows every fine point in the game. Both Sharkey and Fitz always had the greatest respect for the big dark fellow.

Bob gave Jeffries his first fight in New York. Although he is getting up in years he is still strong, fast and clever. In fact, he may be a little better, for he has attended to training Johnson for two or three fights. Armstrong has always been a great trainer for Jeffries. In the training camp he is a world beater. Often I have watched the ebony giant in workouts with Sharkey and Fitzsimmons, and have seen Jeffries' training camp at Rowardenna. Armstrong will take the brunt of the heavy work in training and he is a worthy foe. As trainer of Tom Sharkey and Bob Fitzsimmons, he knows every fine point in the game. Both Sharkey and Fitz always had the greatest respect for the big dark fellow.

After Jack Johnson had given out the statement that he had secured Tommy Ryan as a trainer, Ryan announced that he would not work in the Johnson camp. Therefore, Billy Papke has secured the services of the Irishman to train and handle him for his coming fight with Tom Sweeney. Ryan is a native of Pittsburgh which takes place at San Francisco on May 14.

The former middleweight champion is still in good fettle and his knowledge of the ring will help him. "Illinois Thunderbolt" a whole lot. Billy claims that Ryan is just the man to look after him for this bout, as he was a great ring general when he fought and was fast, clever boxer. Papke will also have Ryan behind him if he ever fights Ketchel.

Jeffries' favorite pastime is baseball, and he insisted that this be included in his daily routine. It gives him plenty of chance to race around, all of which will help him reduce weight and improve his wind. Some people seem to think that heavy work at this time will rob Jeffries of his strength. But this is all a mistake. He will not overdo things. He is not going to leave his strength on the roads. If the runs become too fatiguing they will be cut down or stopped. Later on, when he gets within a few pounds of his regular fighting weight, the work will be curtailed, and he will be asked to do only enough to keep him in condition.

Trainer Tommy Ryan is going to have his hands full, according to the reported contracts made with him. It is now said that when Battling Nelson again faces Ad. Wolgast for the lightweight title, Ryan will be in his corner. Ryan says condition and trim will be the battle. This information was given out by the Durable Dane in Philadelphia, after an exchange of telegrams with the undated middleweight contender.

"Ryan knows more about fighting than any man that ever lived," was Nelson's comment on the deal. "He made Jim Jeffries, Kid McCoy and a host of other pugilists. I'm an old bird to be taught many new ring tricks, and it would be the height of foolishness for me to attempt to change my style. But I can adapt myself to the circumstances, and when he has me studied out—and that will only take him one day—he can teach me to vary my style as it becomes necessary."

Stanley Ketchel, who is training at Woodlawn Inn, is rounding into form nicely. Ketchel is peeved at the stories which have been going around concerning his bad behavior here and elsewhere. Incidentally it was at Woodlawn Inn where Ketchel trained for Langford last year when the fight was called off. There is every indication that their next bout in Philadelphia on Wednesday the 27th, will see some grudge fighting.

Matty Baldwin is trying to get a match with Ad. Wolgast. Great interest is being manifested in the outcome of the McFarland-Walsh fight in London on May 30, as my opinion the lightweight championship of the world ought to be decided by the winner of this fight meeting Ad. Wolgast. Walsh claims to be the lightweight champion of England, but has been refusing to fight for a year. Now that McFarland has him hitched up it is a safe and certain wager that the Chicago stockyards lad will make the Pontypool boy look like a setting plater before the tenth round of mulling is over.

Sam Berger's scheme to make a few extra dollars by starting a news service and furnishing papers with the latest dope from the Jeffries training camp is a flat fizzle. Jeffries believes in wide publicity as to his training methods, and his friends say that it is possible that Berger's scheme will be abandoned without his knowledge or consent. Promoters Rickard and Gleason, who say they appreciate the tremendous amount of news advertised in the fight is receiving from the newspapers all over the country, opposed Berger's plan. It is said, and are anxious to have the fight, and Jeffries and Johnson open to all newspaper writers.

Berger is chiefly responsible for the absence of Billy Delaney and Tommy Ryan from Jeffries' quarters. He is said that the holtermaker would have patched up his differences with these competent handlers, who trained him for his first fight with Fitzsimmons. But it has not been for Berger's protests. Furthermore, Berger is blamed for the tiresome negotiations which preceded the signing of articles and is charged with inducing Jeffries to refuse a Jeffries believes in wide publicity as to his training methods, and his friends say that it is possible that Berger's scheme will be abandoned without his knowledge or consent. Promoters Rickard and Gleason, who say they appreciate the tremendous amount of news advertised in the fight is receiving from the newspapers all over the country, opposed Berger's plan. It is said, and are anxious to have the fight, and Jeffries and Johnson open to all newspaper writers.

Berger is chiefly responsible for the absence of Billy Delaney and Tommy Ryan from Jeffries' quarters. He is said that the holtermaker would have patched up his differences with these competent handlers, who trained him for his first fight with Fitzsimmons. But it has not been for Berger's protests. Furthermore, Berger is blamed for the tiresome negotiations which preceded the signing of articles and is charged with inducing Jeffries to refuse a

EDITORIAL NOTES

Why? There is little doubt but that Quaker Oats with its three hundred years will get a friendly welcome in Calgary.

The opposition at Ottawa rather favored a demonstration upon the naval bill as they feel people to believe that they would do.

And Edmonton was waving that $100,000 job at our own Mayor Jamieson, who resented the temptation and stopped right in Calgary.

And again, why was Mr. Clarke so very anxious to get poster prizes in Toronto? What were the prizes? Where are they? What are they?

If Victoria park is not to be disposed of that portion of the park which is not used, now should be brought to light and made serviceable for mankind.

There is no danger of the Canadian navy commander having to retire from the bridge to consult the law and gospel before he limbers up the guns to get into action.

Every person connected with the A. & G. W. or any of its mysterious associations, seems to have been forced to qualify as a private detective under arms all the time.

Some people have the idea that imperialism means getting the Mother Country to do everything in the way of the naval business for Canada and the Empire as well.

The opposition at Ottawa rather favored the belief that real imperial assistance is for us to pay the British fare to stand up and get shot in our defence for the glory of the Empire.

Without desiring to assume any unusually bold attitude, Calgary persons who listen to the rumbling of the underground political world at Edmonton are glad that we didn't get the capital.

And Lord Kitchener passed through the United States and created somewhat of a sensation without giving out any more information than that other great world's strategist, Sirdar Rutherford.

The leader of the opposition in Ontario described the premier of that province as Oom Paul. Provincial premiers seem to run to that. We have Oom Paul Whitney, Oom Paul Roblin and now it is Oom Paul Rutherford.

As the days go by and more is thought of the Calgary university idea, the more feasible it seems to be. All that is necessary is the money, and there are enough people in Calgary with money to get the institution started without very much delay.

The average Edmonton person somewhat startled at the enormous salary being paid to the new school, because for $10,000 a year they could get money Wagner or Tyrus Cobb, who are much more illustrious than this man Boulton whose name cannot be found in the dope book.

It is not the best possible advertisement for the Hudson's Bay Company.

REMOVED TWO LOADS OF FILES FROM BUILDING AT MIDNIGHT

(Continued from page 1.) effort to get some more information from him, but not with very satisfactory results. He got the witness to acknowledge, however, that he has been acting as a sort of confidential agent for Clarke. He also showed that to a certain extent he had been the means of communication between Biggar and Clarke in the Hawes matter.

Close to Mr. Cross - Bennett sweated the witness thoroughly, trying to show that he was very close to Cross and he, at toya, got McKinnon to acknowledge that he had gone to Cross' residence the afternoon he resigned and that he had sent two telegrams the following day to Clarke advising him of conditions and how to act. One of these telegrams stated "Cross is in charge and everything is O. K." The other said "Biggar says important you wire him progress in Toronto matter before ten o'clock tomorrow morning," to which Clarke replied, "O. K. Biggar is arranging matters as fast as possible."

Waddell Kept Silent - Dr. Waddell, chief engineer of the A. & G. W., was on the stand at the opening of the session of the O. F. Court this morning. Mr. Johnston questioned him as to his $35,000 bonus and $75,000 bonus. The witness explained that he received with Clarke a whole year as consulting engineer, much against his will, and was entitled to substantial remuneration for this time. Johnston read the contract between the two men, which showed that Waddell had agreed to keep silent regarding the company's affairs.

Bennett then began his cross-examination. Witness explained that it had first been proposed in this agreement that Waddell receive the regular five per cent for engineering, but that the agreement was finally approved, was made a member of the board of directors of the London House of Morgan & Co., which he thought it would be a better arrangement. He had discussed the matter with Clarke, who had agreed to the arrangement.

Witness explained that he sent the telegram because the fate of the government was then uncertain, and he was afraid that if Clarke did not stampede the government, would be stamped. Later on in his examination McKinnon admitted that the papers in question were not the Bowen papers, as he then supposed, but the Hawes papers.

Cross Was in Control - Witness explained he understood the papers were to be used as a club for collecting money from Clarke. He also admitted that owing to the critical state of affairs with the government at that time he contemplated signing a false name to the telegram to conceal his identity, but concluded not to. The name he had in view was "J. R. Green." The next telegram was dated March 11, from witness to Clarke, who was in Montreal. It read: "Cross has returned to cabinet today and government sustained by small but substantial majority, which will grow on succeeding divisions. Cross in charge and everything O. K. Witness explained that he understood that Cross at that time was the real helm of the Alberta government and would bring things through all right. He did not think Cross would have gone back unless he was master of the situation.

A telegram from witness to Clark in New York, March 12, said: "It is important that you return to Edmonton. There will probably be a judicial investigation which will clear things up."

Witness said he then thought the investigation would show statements of insurgents to be rash. On March 16 he sent another telegram saying situation was more steady and advising Clark to send him the new agreement, in which Clark offered to allow the government to hold back $1,000,000 until the road was finished. He explained that witness had considered the concession unwise, and that he would tear it up if he got it. He was anxious that Clark should show it to witness, so that the agreement would be sure to reach the government.

Witness then told of going to Winnipeg at Clarke's request to discuss the whole situation with him. He went alone at Clarke's suggestion. Goddard, Darling, Minty and Pettigrew, K.C., Clarke's private secretary, was there.

The Cross-examination - Bennett then began his cross-examination. Witness admitted that he had once been in the employ of the Northern Hardware company, leaving under conditions not to his credit, and had then become manager of the Liberal Club from which he had resigned. Bennett tried to show that McKinnon had been interested in getting control of townships along the railroad, but could not. Witness said a man named Denby had gone over the line for the company in reference to selecting townships. Bennett got the witness to admit Cross had told him at his home about his resigning and that he became aware of it some time before the public knew. He would not acknowledge that Cross not lie for, but admitted he had asked Cross to speak for him. His salary was $1,800 a year.

KILLED ON FIRST DAY IN CANADA

Man Came From Kansas to Nanton and Was Run Over By Train on Monday. Nanton, April 20 - Quentin Osborne, Toronto, Kansas, arrived in Nanton on Monday morning with his household effects, intending to make that town his home. At 4:30 that afternoon he lay in the tracks of the Nanton branch, being run over by a train one hour after the time he met with the accident.

Osborne had just completed arrangements to work for Mr. Curtis, the saddler, at Nanton, and walked across to the siding, where his car of household goods were standing, evidently with the intention of unloading it. Crossing the C. P. R. yards he started to pass between two freight cars, when one of them was abutted by a yard engine, knocking him down and throwing him across the track. The blow evidently stunned him, for one freight car passed over his legs, crushing the left to pulp and amputating the right above the knee, the bone of the latter protruding.

Help came at once, and he was removed to the doctor's office, where every possible attention was given, but the effect of the terrible shock was too great, and he passed away without regaining consciousness.

Osborne's wife was to have arrived yesterday, but a friend of Osborne's, who lives out of Nanton, hearing of the accident, opened a letter addressed to the dead man from her, stating that she was leaving Kansas yesterday, and would spend a few days at Corwell Bluffs en route to Alberta. The authorities immediately wired her at Council Bluffs, notifying her of the shocking tragedy.

An inquest was held yesterday afternoon, the coroner ceasing to work from Malcedo. After being out only a few minutes the jury, through their foreman, C. H. Marshall, gave a verdict of "Purely accidental death."

Yesterday afternoon a wire was received from his wife, asking to have the body buried at Nanton, and the household goods disposed of there.

Osborne shared his car as far as Nanton with a friend, but after looking over the town decided to locate at Nanton, and came on alone. The man appeared to be without means of any description, only a five cent piece being found on his body.

HON. FRANK COCHRANE, Minister of Mines for Ontario, who has announced very important policy for the preservation of Ontario forests.

NEW CITY COMES INTO BEING IN ENGLAND - Six Towns Unite in Staffordshire As to Form One Great Borough. London, April 18 - A new city will come into being in Staffordshire tomorrow. Six towns will become one. A movement towards federation, which began in 1877, achieves its end when Hanley, Burslem, Stoke, Longton, Tunstall and Penkton will be merged into the great county borough of Stoke-on-Trent, to become thus the twelfth largest town in England.

There has been much discussion and much dispute. Hard things have been said in council chambers and at time was the real helm of the Alberta government and would bring things through all right. He did not think Cross would have gone back unless he was master of the situation.

Where Art and Labor Blend - Here in this centre of England's pottery trade art and wonderful blended with the finest of close art and keen, but here the advocates of federation found another champion in Lord Cromer, wise and tactful chairman of the house of lords committee. On December 21, 1908, the federation act received royal assent. Stoke-upon-Trent, with its 10,000 acres of area and its more than 1,000,000 rateable value, comes into being as for the first time its council meets.

It is not even surprising that the mantle of respectability so enfolds it that you have to peer and investigate before you can see the truth. The heavy duty on machinery makes it natural its plans should have been evolved for its manufacture within the user's territories. It is natural, too, that they should be established in the center of the cotton country. The Krupp, who do an extensive trade in machinery, should be back of the enterprise.

Nevertheless, the incident impresses the British foreign office much as the United States department of state would be impressed. If Vickers, Sons & Maxell or W. G. Armstrong & Co. were to establish big plants in South America, it might mean nothing wrong but it would look suspicious.

Certainly after the Krupp plant is in running order in Turkestan, it may prove to be more profitable to supply arms and ammunition to the wild tribesmen of the region than to sell cotton spinning machinery to the agriculturists. Russia and Germany both have interests in the east which would benefit by the armistice of the northern tribesmen. The latter being distinctly anti-German in their sympathies. Against the English, on the other hand, is the fact that the latter have a southward with the tribesmen of Mexico to invade, they might become dangerous opponents.

BE SAFE TO ASSUME SO MUCH IN THE POTTERIES

"Art for art's sake" in this locality is not a mere phrase; it is a fact. This spirit, which animates Wedgwood is not dead, and countless humble workers in the potteries, if they have any skill, are not one whit behind him in their love for the beautiful and all that is delicate and graceful in ceramics. As in every other branch of industry, the hand of handicraft in pottery-making is much of its skill and initiative, but perhaps in no other trade in the world has the hand made such little headway or done so little to disturb the instinctive desire for creation. The way in which the art schools of these potteries towns are patronized and the enthusiasm, which marks every exhibition of paintings by local and aspiring artists come as a revelation to the average town dweller elsewhere who as a rule passes his leisure in a magnificent gallery filled with paintings by artists of national repute, and into which he may stroll once a year.

Exhibition at Tunstall - It will not be easy for me to forget a visit to one of these exhibitions at Tunstall, which is now to be wedded to the city of Stoke. Tunstall itself must be granted the palm for monotony among the six towns. Here every bad external feature of the other five towns may be placed upon a pedestal to be a mere spot for dwellers in there. There is a deadly uniformity in the houses, a lifeless air pervades the whole place and you gain the idea of something which morally exists and has no part or parcel in the work of the world. Surely art can never be a desert in this, but wait a moment! Into the side street you pass, away from noisy, scurrying cars bedecked with advertisements and the usual traffic, you enter the institute. The room crowded with paintings! The sunlight which elyly intrudes into the street, is shut out by the glass here unashamed; a peace undisturbed by the sightseers is over all. The picture of monotony impressed upon the mind is much craftsmanship, can be in the hands and such beauty conceived in the minds of those who live in such an uninspiring environment.

The problem beyond you until you come to a picture which depicts a scene familiar to your sight. In a flash all is made plain. This new city, so wearying to the eye, so deadening to the heart, is set in a paradise. The streets, beyond the reach of the machine-like tramway, lead beyond the pall of smoke from chimney stacks and kilns, lies a country which, for fairness can not be surpassed England through. Here surely lurks the inspiration for the cultivation of art and music so zealous in pursuit of what at first appears to be most unpropitious soil. The red valleys, smiling pasture land, timber-clothed hills, streams pellucid and musical, all conspire to implant in the breasts of those fortunate folk who dwell in their midst a love for the beautiful which can not easily be eradicated. Those who talk of the Black Country as though it were a waste of desolation speak empty words. A lovelier landscape than the one in which this new city is cast it would be hard to find.

It would be neither honest nor gracious to neglect the newly arisen city, to search out its bad points, its food, and to pass over in silence a great talent upon which it justly has a right to be proud. Its artistic talent it makes no boast of but for its musical ability it does not display the same reserve. And surely it is not in this respect alone that it has advanced. It has having regard to the records of other choral societies of the Potteries towns have none achieved. They are no tyros who have just emerged from the shadows of the National Welsh Eisteddfod, and who are selected to sing before royal and yet such honors have befallen the citizens of Stoke. It is not only which have befallen their representatives themselves are honored. Thus it is that with such laurels these citizens adorn themselves in their musical accomplishments; but one or two varied in years, and which have not been in the hands of the composer, and critics alike.

Krupp Works Menace to India - London, April 20 - Definite news that factories for the manufacture of cotton spinning machinery are about to be opened in Turkestan and reports that the factories will be run by the Krupp are agitating the British foreign office.

Ordinarily the matter would be of interest to the board of agriculture. It was the linking of the Krupp name with the new enterprise that attracted the foreign office's attention. Turkestan is too much in the direction of India and the Krupp are too closely identified with the production of war munitions to be pleasant.

As to the Krupp plant in Turkestan, it may prove to be more profitable to supply arms and ammunition to the wild tribesmen of the region than to sell cotton spinning machinery to the agriculturists. Russia and Germany both have interests in the east which would benefit by the armistice of the northern tribesmen. The latter being distinctly anti-German in their sympathies. Against the English, on the other hand, is the fact that the latter have a southward with the tribesmen of Mexico to invade, they might become dangerous opponents.

Arrested, and Consumption Cured

Mr. G. D. Colwell, of Walkerville, Ontario, was stricken down with La Grippe in 1900 and it left him in very bad condition. He says: "I was all run down and bordering on Consumption. I could not sleep at night, had awful sweats, and coughed nearly the whole time. This is how I was when I began to take Psychine, in a low nervous state; but from the first bottle I began to improve. It did marvels for me and brought me back to health in time, making a new man of me. It fortifies the body against the attacks of La Grippe and is a sure preventative. I always take Psychine if I feel a cold coming on and it puts me right in no time."

Sultan Mahomet's action in bestowing one of the 16 year old princesses of the imperial family of Turkey in marriage upon Enver Bey is, although a great honor, nevertheless one which cannot be altogether welcome to this extremely level headed young officer, who, now military attaché of the Ottoman embassy at Berlin, is still regarded as leader of the military element of the Young Turk party at Constantinople. In fact, Enver was the moving spirit and the brains of the military pronouncement that extorted a constitution from Abdul Hamid, and which put an end to the rule of the infamous Yildiz Kiosk ring.

Although the highest offices were within his grasp, and he could have had the portfolio of minister or the grade of general, he declined everything of the kind, refused even promotion to a colonelcy, and returned to his post as military attaché of the Ottoman embassy at Berlin, with his former grade of major. When Abdul Hamid attempted the coup d'état last spring, which resulted in his deposition, Enver hastened from Berlin to Salonika and assisted the generalissimo, Shekik Pasha, in placing Mahomet V. on the throne, again returning quietly to Berlin as soon as his task was completed. In spite of all that has been said to the contrary, the Young Turk party still remains the power behind the throne, and the present sultan, aware of its strength and of the fact that it is subject to the direction of Enver, even though he is so far away at Berlin, wishes to assure himself against being deposed in his turn by allying the young officer, in a matrimonial sense, to the imperial family.

When the sultan thus bestows a princess of his house upon one of his subjects it is officially regarded as so great an honor that it cannot be declined under any circumstances, no matter whether the woman is homely or good looking, shrewish or good tempered, old or young. At the same time Enver must know perfectly well that the men thus distinguished by the sovereign always are regarded with a certain amount of contempt by the people and lose most of the prestige which they may theretofore have possessed. They are known as "damads," which has become almost a term of contempt.

Moreover, when a Moslem weds a princess of the reigning family, he ceases to be master in his own house, and even in his harem. It is she and not he who is supreme, and while she often may give him cause for jealousy, yet she will not tolerate any other wife, or even odalisque, in his seraglio. He is condemned to monogamy, in spite of the fact that the Koran concedes four wives to the true believer.

The father-in-law of Khedive Tewfik, El Hamy Pasha, found this out to his cost. For, married to one of the most impetuous daughters of Sultan Medjed, she took such exception to his having shown some signs of admiration for a young girl among her attendants that, one day, she caused to be placed before him a silver dish, on which, when the cover was removed, he saw the severed head of the unfortunate odalisque. That taught him a lesson of constancy, and it has always been my conviction that if Khedive Tewfik was a strict monogamist, and was the most faithful of husbands, it was because his terrible and cruel old mother-in-law lived most of the year at Cairo with her daughter, the khedivial, and that he probably feared that the latter might have possibly inherited some of the maternal decision of character.

Under the circumstances it is easy to understand that, although the princess affianced by the sultan, to Enver Bey is young and is beautiful, the major has requested that the marriage might be delayed for two years in order that he might complete his education abroad and render himself more fit for the honor in store for him. In two years' time there is much that may happen, and before 1912 possibly he may be able to evade the projected matrimonial alliance.

AS REPORTED
 (A lesson in journalism for the benefit of those who don't know the proper phrases to use when writing a story.)
 The blushing bride moved up the aisle to the altar, and returned to the bridegroom with a demure nod.
 Of Mendelssohn (You see the style?)
 You'll learn, with proper pains.
 The happy pair departed then.
 Amid a shower of rice.
 They'll be at home at eight ten.
 At Avenue Empty-twice.

Among those present was a man whose keen magnetic gaze about the pleasant gathering ran. With eager eyes ablaze.
 And ever and anon, his glance upon the happy pair he cast.
 Would rest in quiet calm—perchance the calm before the storm.

At the collation tendered by the bride's respected sire the guests began to satisfy the inner man, when "Fire!"
 The startling cry rang loud and clear.
 Upon the frosted air.
 And lurid flames made it appear.
 The fire laddies fought to stem the conflagration's flood.
 Till the blazing timbers fell on them.
 With a dull and sickening thud.
 Pallid and crimsoned—
 Cool million was the cost!
 The genial host broke: "The well groomed—
 Groom'stung! The presents lost!"

Whose keen magnetic gaze about the pleasant gathering ran. With eager eyes ablaze.
 And ever and anon, his glance upon the happy pair he cast.
 Would rest in quiet calm—perchance the calm before the storm.

 A newly patented material that is claimed to serve most purposes for which platinum is used has a base of such metal as iron, nickel, cobalt or one of their alloys, and this is coated electrolytically with an alloy of platinum and then with pure platinum. After each successive deposit, the wire or other article is heated to about 1000 deg. C, causing a welding of the deposit to the metal beneath. Several deposits of platinum may be necessary, and the process is completed only when the heating produces no apparent oxidation. The cost of the platinumized metal is much less than that of pure platinum. Platinum is rare and expensive, and it is indispensable in many places—such as the chemical and electrical trades—so that some means of lessening the quantity necessary is a matter of great importance.

The Colored Population

Dear Sir—In the Morning Albertan of the 14th inst., I noticed an article on page one, dated Edmonton, the 14th inst., expressing the idea of a certain Mr. Powell, who, speaking at a meeting of the board of trade, said in part: that the influx of colored people into the Dominion, especially into the Edmonton district and the surrounding country is creating a serious menace.

Now, Mr. Editor, I am not a Don Quixote but a Canadian and have also spent a number of years in the Southern States, but I have still retained the English fair play and never have been a party to the prejudice that prevails in the south against the colored race. I think you are right in your opinion that the influx of colored people into the Dominion, especially into the Edmonton district and the surrounding country is creating a serious menace.

WHY WILL MEN BE BACHELORS?

Letters From 500 of Them Contain Hints of the Answer

A woman's magazine recently sent out a list of questions to about five hundred bachelors in various parts of the country. These questions dealt with the question of matrimony. The first one was: "What, nearly in common do you regard as necessary to a man of your social standing before entering upon married life?" The second was: "Are the young women of your set rightly brought up and trained, do you think for the responsibilities and self-denial of wifehood and home-making?" About half the young men questioned expressed the belief that the girls are not adequately trained for the duties and responsibilities of wifehood. A sizable minority, between 50 and 60 per cent, pronounced the training satisfactory.

In regard to income the estimates received vary from $500 a year in a Connecticut village to $15,000 a year in Chicago. The average among the 500 men figures out $2,430.40. A favorite figure is $1,500, but the $15,000 mark and several estimates of $10,000 being the level up.

Those who think it essential that newly-married couples should have the comfort and luxuries of the parental home are 10 in number; those who think this unessential, 116. Those who believe such comforts and luxuries out of the question for young husbands to provide, 127; those who think such comforts and luxuries are not greater than the young husband can provide if they so desire, 10.

Here are some of the letters which were received by Good Housekeeping, the magazine which sent out the letters: "Two people can certainly live in the middle west on $1,500, but it will take every cent of that amount to live as an educated man wants to live, in Chicago. The average among the 500 men figures out $2,430.40. A favorite figure is $1,500, but the $15,000 mark and several estimates of $10,000 being the level up."

A man from Texas says: "You could not want a better living if you are a home man and live a moderate life than you could have in Texas on $1,500 a year. That sum would not only allow you to live well and have plenty of recreation, but would enable you to entertain friends and relatives occasionally."

"I'll want to be sure of $40 a week to marry," says a Chicago bachelor.

KAISER IS STARTLED AT WEAKNESS OF FLEET

Number of Hits Scored by German Gunners Disappointing

London, April 20.—It is not an open secret in Berlin that some very serious defects and shortcomings were revealed in the German naval manoeuvres last year, and the emperor and his naval advisers are greatly chagrined at the result of these operations. In the first place, it is known throughout the fleet that the gunners of the ships were extraordinarily poor. Even in the newer ships, mounting the latest pattern guns and equipped with the most modern sighting and ranging appliances, the number of hits scored was very disappointing. The summer records of the British navy are very severely scanned in Berlin, and the Kaiser is asserted to have ordered his fleet to be drilled by upon the poor shooting achieved by his fleet.

As a result it is probable that the present exercises in the Baltic, in the Baltic, and the Kaiser is asserted to have ordered his fleet to be drilled by upon the poor shooting achieved by his fleet.

NEW STATE MAY ARISE IN EUROPE

Balkan Kingdoms; It is Said, Will Confederates to Protect Themselves

London, April 18.—For some reason which diplomats may understand, but which no one else has ever figured out satisfactorily, the biggest politics almost always happen on Sunday. It will probably, therefore, be in the Monday morning newspapers that people will read of the very distant future of the birth of a new "world power" while they were at church, eating their holiday dinners and reading themselves the day before.

European statesmen are a ready logician forward on Sunday to the great event, so it will not startle them much, but to others it is likely to come as a good deal of a surprise.

The new power will be known as the Balkan Empire, the Balkan Confederation, the United States of the Balkans or something else to a similar effect. In Europe it will include all of the so-called "Near East," a total of 24,000 square miles, or about the same as France. In Asia it will have possessions embracing 600,000 square miles, which is more than six times larger than Alaska. Its combined European and Asiatic population will be nearly 40,000,000 or nearly as much as the combined populations of England, Scotland, Wales and Ireland.

The Balkan empire will be able to put into the field really on a war footing 1,000,000 trained soldiers. By calling in its Asiatic levies it will be able nearly to double this number and all will be first rate fighting men. Altogether, from a military standpoint, it will be numerically as in point of European area, about on a par with France, and with a far better material than the French, though its officers are probably not yet quite so well trained.

When the "Balkenbund" is completed, which promises to be very soon, its effect is likely to be very important upon the entire European political situation.

The best thing to keep an argument going intelligently is ignorance of the subject on both sides.

Ships Are Worthless

The presence of the Baltic fleet in the operations was merely an attempt to swell the importance of the fleet, and to give some measure of a set-off to the recent visit of the British fleet to the Thames. The Baltic fleet, comprising 14 vessels, all built between 1892 and 1897, their designed speed was only 15.5 knots an hour, while their armaments consisted of three 14 inch guns and ten 3.4 inch guns. Their fighting value is practically nil, and in the event of an officer upon one of the vessels, "two other criteria could wipe them all out."

Things were almost as bad in the high seas, the German fleet's real possession only twenty-four battleships that can be regarded as of any real fighting value. Of these only sixteen were manned by crews, the others being nucleus crews of varying strength. The largest battleship taking part in the manoeuvres was about the same class that is now being withdrawn from the main battle fleets, and passed into the reserve if anything, being rather slower and carrying four 11-inch guns in place of the four 12-inch guns mounted on the Albatross.

The only portion of the fleet that can be said to have any real value like satisfaction during the recent German naval manoeuvres was the flotilla of ocean-going destroyers, of which a very large number were employed. Here at least the German navy is ahead of the British, the number being 11, it is doubtful if they were handled with the same skill. It is perhaps significant that after the first few days of the manoeuvres had shown conclusively the defects of the Baltic fleet, by express order of the emperor chief admiral, the fleet was given the movements of the destroyers.

Will Consist of Six States

Just as the German empire is made up of a group of six kingdoms, perhaps the Balkan empire will consist of a group of six states federated under the presidency of one of them, number three, which will be Turkey, Bulgaria, Romania, Serbia, Montenegro and Greece.

For the supreme head of this combination Sultan Mehmed V. of Turkey, with Prince Alexander of Bulgaria, and the greatest number of subjects, will undoubtedly be chosen.

But the sultan, the emperor, the emperor will probably, however, be not much more than nominal head of the confederation. He would not be likely to get the credit at all costs it is not the fact that Turkey could not otherwise be induced to join the combination.

The federation's real head will be Czar Ferdinand of Bulgaria. European statesmen generally concede Ferdinand an extremely shrewd customer, but there is no question concerning his ability as a diplomat and an administrator.

Russians influence has had more than any other one thing to do with making the prospective combination of the Balkan states possible, but Ferdinand has handled the actual negotiations and handled them so well that he is on the eve now of accomplishing what every one believed a few months ago was absolutely impossible. His country is one of the best governed, freest and most progressive in Europe. Its army of 275,000 men is so efficient that even the powerful Austrian empire hesitates to try conclusions with it.

Training at Fault

It is the personnel and the system of training that has been the fault of Germany is surpassed alike by the British, the French and the Japanese. This has been the case for a long time past by many German officers of experience who have seen anything of the work of the British fleet at sea. The same rigid cast-iron discipline that pervades the German army has been introduced into the navy, and every rank has in its initiative and power of individual thought and decision studiously trampled out of it.

This is a fact that is now impressing itself strongly upon the minds of the German fleet where it is pointed out that a British master gunner is permitted much greater freedom of action than is allowed to the gunnery officer himself on a German battleship. It is this that is paralysing the German fleet today. The doctrine of the best ships, engines, and guns that money can buy, and human ingenuity suggest, is studiously preached and adopted in Germany. The notion of a man behind the gun is, however, completely ignored. This is where the German fleet, in the opinion of many of its most experienced officers, will fall if ever it comes to grips with the British navy.

On Vague of War

Since Bulgaria renounced allegiance to its nominal suzerain, Turkey in October, 1908, almost all Turkey, there has been intermittent talk and the most earnest prospect of war between the two countries. There has actually, in fact been frontier fighting, on a small scale, to be sure, but it was sufficient to have resulted in a declaration of hostilities from one side or the other, if there had not been the most expert reasons for preserving peace.

Turkey and Bulgaria will be ready enough, then, to get together—Turkey because it will consider that it is absorbing Bulgaria, and Bulgaria because it is perfectly satisfied that the Austrians will not be permitted to absorb them altogether.

Roumania would probably prefer to stand out if it could, but it is so hemmed in by the neighboring Balkan states that it would be foolish for it to attempt to do so. They would certainly get it in the end and the terms might not be so favorable if they were compelled to use force as in the case of the expected voluntary union. But Greece may not come so easily. There are pretty strong indications that there will be fighting before the Hellenic Kingdom enrolls itself as a member of the confederation, and it is not difficult to handle. Turkey could do it alone. With the help of Bulgaria the campaign can not but be a walkover.

There was a time when Russia objected vigorously whenever it saw signs of an alliance among the Balkan states to get together. It had ambitions in the direction of expansion into the Balkans itself, and it was obviously eager to realize them against a number of weak and classing governments than against one strong compact one.

These things have passed, Russia realizes that if any expanding is done into the Near East it will be by Austria, or rather by Germany, through its ally, Austria. Russia is afraid of Germany, as everybody else in Europe is, and the mere thought of the extension of Teutonic power into

The Winnipeg Markets

Winnipeg, April 20.—It was a big broad trading market in wheat today on the local exchange, and the bulls had the best of the argument. There had been a severe decline precipitated at the opening on the part of brokers who stop loss orders, knocking 1-1/4 cents off previous close, before a level was reached absorbing these offerings. With May at 96 cents there was considerable buying for export, but did not take long to run the shorts in, who had sold at a considerably higher level. Around midday there was renewed buying by commission merchants for the eastern trade, setting the market a good sport, with closing quoted at the highest price of the day, 1-1/2 cent higher than yesterday. There was a fair demand for cash wheat by parties with eastern connections. Receipts of wheat continue to be liberal and the general opinion is that there is considerable more to come here.

Chicago trade was firm. May closed the same as yesterday with July 1-1/4 cent higher and September at 87-1/2. Minneapolis may closed 1-1/2 to 1-3/4 cents higher, with July 3-5/8 of a cent higher.

Slight showers reported in Ohio and but few unfavorable crop reports from Nebraska, Missouri and Kansas.

Livestock—Broomhall—Wheat opened with a heavy underdone offering were large and pressed for sale. The market was 5-8 to 7-8 lower. The decline was brought about by the weakness in American cables and bearishness in Winnipeg. Later and during the entire trading session there was renewed demand and prices further declined 1/4 to 7-8 from the opening. There is a general lack of confidence in the local position with prospective large receipts from Russia. Stocks are heavy and crop conditions there favorable and continued free and easier Russian and Manitoba offerings. There is a general belief that there will be a supply which will fully meet the demand all during the season. At midday the market was weak and 1-1/4 to 1-3/4 lower than yesterday.

ONE OF THE VERY BEST HOUSES IN THE WORLD

One of the Best Private Residences in Dorchester House, England

Dorchester House, which has been the residence of Whitelaw Reid during his residence in London as American ambassador, is one of the finest private residences in the world and its rent is proportionate to its splendor. This figure, we believe, says Pearson's Weekly, is $22,500 a year, or nearly half as much again as the official salary of Mr. Reid's post—which is only $17,000 a year.

This rent is, of course, only the beginning of Mr. Reid's expenses. His entertainments probably cost at least $75,000 a year. He has also taken a very fine country house, West Park, in Bedfordshire, and his splendid week end parties must run him into a vast expenditure.

It is calculated that no American ambassador to the Court of St. James can possibly keep up the position upon an income less than $30,000 a year, and this only by paying less than half the rent paid for Dorchester House. Consequently it is impossible for any man who is not extremely wealthy to accept such a position as that which Joseph Choate, John Hay and Whitelaw Reid have filled.

Our own ambassadors are far better paid. Our representative in Paris receives $45,000 and at Constantinople $40,000. The salaries of our ambassadors to Austria, Germany and Russia are the same, but he who goes to Washington only gets $25,000, and as he is forced to entertain on a great scale, he too must be a wealthy man.

However, in addition to this, salaries all our ambassadors live rent free. Most of the embassies belong to us, and at St. Petersburg, where we have no house of our own, there is an allowance of $10,000 a year for rent.

A position which none but a rich man can possibly fill is that of Lord Mayor of London. Certainly the city corporation contributes the handsome sum of $30,000 to his expenses during his year of office, but this does not nearly cover the enormous expenditures necessitated by the constant entertainments at the Mansion House.

The cost of the Lord Mayor's show and banquet alone is about $20,000, half of which comes out of the Lord Mayor's own pocket. His other disbursements are placed at $127,000, so that $7,000 is the sum which he is out of pocket. Roughly speaking this is a year's income on a capital of $2,000,000.

All majorities entail much expense upon the holder thereof, and, as a rule, the larger the city the more wealthy must be the man who wears the mayoral robes.

In old days sheriffs were elected by their respective counties. But a statute of Edward I put an end to the practice, and ever since the high sheriffs are chosen by the Crown. Every February 3, the lists are submitted to the sovereign, who, with a pencil provided for the purpose, picks off the chosen names.

A sheriff so chosen cannot refuse to serve. If he does he is heavily fined. Yet he gets no salary at all. His duties are many, and complex, attending on the judge who holds the assizes. A high sheriff of Hampshire once forgot the date of the judge's arrival and failed to turn up at the station. For this omission he was fined $1,800.

A general election means endless responsibility and expense for the high sheriff, and he is legally responsible for the carrying out and execution of all judgments and orders of courts of law within his county. His one consolation is that he cannot be compelled to serve a second time.

It is only within the last few years that men without large private incomes have been able to offer themselves for election to the House of Commons, and even today the Labor members must receive a salary from their party in order to enable them to exist as M. P.s.

GERMANY'S PROJECT FOR STATE INSURANCE

Comprehensive Scheme is Now in the Hands of the Reichstag

Berlin, April 19.—The great project for reforming and uniting the various systems of state insurance has been approved by the Bundesrath, and has been put in the hands of the Reichstag.

It is a very comprehensive scheme, containing over 1700 articles, a monument of the thoroughness and refinement with which Germany carries out her social legislation. All the innumerable existing laws regulating sick, accident, old age, widows', and other insurance, and pension systems are codified and arranged in a homogeneous system, which if the bill becomes law, will prevail throughout the empire.

Among the projected reforms is the unification of the heterogeneous authorities which at present administer the different systems of insurance by new insurance departments. About 2,000 of these offices must be opened and maintained at the yearly cost of $1,075,000, which represents a considerable saving over the cost of controlling the different person insurance systems today. These offices will be conducted with the collaboration of laymen, representatives of employers, and of the insured themselves; but the conduct of affairs will be entrusted to a specialist "insurance official."

The reform extends the existing sick insurance to agricultural laborers, foresters, casual laborers and others, also to actors and musicians, whose salaries are under $500 a year. The premiums paid by the employers and employed are equalized, instead of remaining in the present relation of two to one. The equalization is also to apply to insurance against invalidity. Employers and employed will be equally represented on the management organizations.

The proposal to reduce the age for pensions from 65 to 60 is rejected on financial and technical grounds. To meet the wishes of the more prosperous among the insured the principle of voluntary increase of insurance is adopted on a scale which insures an addition to the pension of $4.50 annually, where an additional supplementary premium of one mark monthly has been paid for thirty years.

The widow and orphan insurance is somewhat changed from the first project. Where the dead head of the family has had a right to an invalidity pension, and where the widow is herself invalid, she has a right to a pension for herself till death, and for her children up to the age of 15. Illegitimate children have equal rights to pensions on the death of an insured mother, whether the father is living or not.

Scientific Miscellany.

What is said to be the largest single stick of timber ever brought into California, a 144-foot Oregon pine mast, recently was raised at San Pedro for a wireless telegraph aerial.

Good results have attended the extensive tests made in the Chicago public library of the adaptation of the electric ozone generator to ventilating systems of public buildings.

"Amalgamate," designed for making joints in plumbing, and other hand work, is a very thin ribbon of easily fusible metal, that having been treated with a composition to prevent oxidation, is placed between the surfaces to be joined, and on the application of heat melts and causes the metal to amalgamate at a temperature below their normal melting point. The process is adapted for joining brass and copper parts to lead pipe, uniting pieces of lead pipe, and many other purposes. Quite unlike ordinary soldering the amalgamate is claimed to pass into the surfaces joined by molecular absorption, causing the junction to become stronger than other parts of the material. Severe tests have demonstrated this greater strength. The process is stated to give more economical work than any other, and a wide range of applications is foreseen.

UNITED STATES FLEET MAY GO ROUND WORLD AGAIN

Extended Cruise is Being Mapped Out By Many Depts. at Washington.

New York, April 20.—Rear-Admiral Richard Wainwright, aide for operations, Reginald F. Nicholson, chief of the bureau of navigation, and William P. Potter, the aide for personnel in the navy department at Washington, are at work mapping out another great cruise for the Atlantic fleet.

The plans, which are almost certain to be approved by the president and the secretary of the navy, contemplate a voyage that will be the most important ever made by a fleet, with the exception of the round-the-world one made two years ago by the Atlantic fleet under the command of Admirals Evans and Sperry.

As was the case in the last cruise, the fleet will sail from Hampton Roads, and its going will be made the occasion of another notable review such as marked the departure of the fleet under Admiral Evans when the sixteen battleships were reviewed by the president from the naval yacht "Mayflower" as they headed for the Virginia capes to begin the voyage around the world.

When the cruise starts next November it is expected the president and Secretary of the Navy may review the departing fleet from the bridge of the Mayflower, as did their predecessors in office.

Many naval officers say, however, they would not be surprised if the voyage was continued through the Suez canal and to the Philippines. If the ships get that far, these officers say they would not be surprised if the route was extended to San Francisco and then home by way of the Straits of Magellan, which would mean another around-the-world voyage with the itinerary reversed but with Hampton Roads the beginning and the ending, as was the case in the last cruise.

Fleet Vastly Stronger
The fleet that will go in November will be a vastly greater aggregation of fighting tonnage than was the one that started under Admiral Evans and ended its voyage under Admiral Sperry. In numbers, it will be the same, but in strength, both offensive and defensive, it will be almost double that of the former fleet.

This time, four great battleships of the Dreadnought type will be included in the sixteen. These vessels will be the Delaware, the North Dakota, the South Dakota and the Michigan, three of which are already in commission, and the fourth of which, the North Dakota, has just been ordered commissioned.

The battleships that were around the world with Admirals Evans and Sperry, which will not be in the fleet next November are the Kentucky, Kearsage, Ohio, Wisconsin, Iowa, Missouri and Alabama. These vessels are already or soon will be, put on the reserve list.

The Ticklemouse —and his Sleepyland Adventures with Davy and Dorfy

By Roy Rutherford Bailey

The Water Baby

PART I.—Candy Cave.

The twins were caught napping last night. Their father was going out for a moonlight automobile ride, and was looking everywhere for his auto-goggles. But though he searched the garage through and through, he could not find either pair.

"Of course, I don't suppose we really need them after dark," he said to their mother, "but I get so in the habit of wearing them when I'm out in the machine, I'd be sure to miss them all the evening if we went off without them. Where in the world can they be?"

He laughed when he looked into the nursery at last and found Davy and Dorfy asleep, each with a pair of the missing goggles clutched lightly in a chubby little hand. They were so round asleep, he took the goggles away without rousing a single drowsy sigh from either twin.

And how surprised Davy and Dorfy were when the Ticklemouse woke them at midnight. "Why, our goggles are gone!" they cried—softly, lest father and mother should hear. The Mouse smiled at their little plan and the way it had gone awry. "We shan't need them tonight, my dears," he squeaked, tugging at something on the floor. "But you might lend a hand with this. We must hustle!"

He was hauling Davy's new sailboat out from a box of toys, hurrying to get it through the window before it should swell up too big to handle. For it was growing fast, almost as fast as Mrs. Noah's houseboat had done a few nights before.

The twins pushed and tugged with all their might at the "Merry Mouse"—which was the name the boys had painted across her slippery hull— and in a trice she was poised on the window-sill. At a nod from the Ticklemouse they sprang aboard, and before they knew what had happened they were sailing on the waves with a splash that sent the salt spray high in air—and bowed merrily over their heads into a glistening roof of rock-candy; and as they tumbled deeper into the shadows of the cave, they saw slippers with silver buckles, stood at walls of striped peppermint-sticks, the being while Davy hung out the with dull brown chocolate rocks, just ship's lanterns; and Dorfy, prone to fling through the clear water at their base. The Mouse now began to row very softly and cautiously, peering about him and listening every now and then.

Drifting slowly with the lazy current, around a shoulder of the cliff, they came at last to a far corner of the great silent cave. Here they moored their boat, crouching low in the bottom at a warning signal from the Ticklemouse. Davy and Dorfy could hear nothing but the wash and splash of the tide within the cave, but the Mouse's sharp ears had caught the sound of a distant splashing as of something breasting the current, swimming slowly and easily.
The chief object they could clearly make out in the cavern was a huge shell, something like an oyster-shell but many times bigger, on the smooth top of a dark rock twenty or thirty fathoms away. The Ticklemouse gazed earnestly at it through his spy-glass, and gave a sigh of satisfaction. "That's it," he whispered, "that's the Water Baby's cradle, sure enough; I've always wanted to see it."
Then he laid a quick warning paw on Dorfy's arm, as a low, rushing sound fell on their ears. And in the mouth of the silent cave—now so still that they could hear their own hushed breathing—came the rush and sweep of a swimmer, and the sound of tinkling, flashing drops falling back into the smooth blue waters of the grotto.
On, on she came, the lovely, starry-eyed mermaid, swimming with long, free strokes—her dark hair streaming back from her white forehead, her bright eyes fixed anxiously on the great shell.
They watched, spellbound. She rose from the water without a splash and clambered swiftly up the side of the great brown rock, and only in attainment, Gemmy, lovelier, she raised the lid of the great shell. "Oh-h-h!" gasped Dorfy, as the dim light struck the mischief rainbow fins inside it. And they gasped again at the living, breathing, slumbering gem that blushed within the open shell.
"Yes," breathed the Ticklemouse, "yes, it's the Water Baby. The little darling—no wonder they named her Pearl!"

AIGRETTE PLUMES BARRED IN CHURCH

London Rectors Institute Campaign to Curb Cruel Traffic

London, April 16.—Women who persist in wearing ostrich feathers, of the aigrette of the white heron as it is best known, when attending services in Holy Trinity church, Sloane street, must display an amount of courage settling them to medals accordingly. For, with the object of abating cruelty, thoughtlessly, perhaps, the rector, Rev. H. R. Gamble, has affixed a series of photographs from life at the church entrance, showing the pitiful history of the bird from which the feathers are taken.

In the face of this novel crusade instituted by Dr. Gamble the prediction comes from the smart millinery shops that this year's Ascot meeting will be what is termed a "chanteuse Ascot."

The demand for brilliant plumage in certain directions is signified, and the feather sales of the spring are expected to reach exceptional figures. Mere man, who has had his patience tested by the diameter and altitude of feminine headgear, is interested in Dame Fashion's dictates to emulate that Chicago alderman who has determined that man shan't have some relief from the daughters of the Diobe.

Larger and larger come the new hats. Higher and higher climb the angle at which these hats are to be worn. Oddly enough, the flowers with which they are trimmed are quite small. Two favorite materials for covering huge hats are moire and satin. A tan-colored moire has five beautiful black feathers fanning over the crown, and apparently tied on by wide black velvet ribbon with ends that fall over the shoulder to below the waist.

As a result, knowing that larger hats will require larger pins for anchorages, London men are hoping that some member of the London county council will have the generosity to emulate that Chicago alderman who has determined that man shan't have some relief from the daughters of the monster halpin other than encasing himself in armor. One of the latest "confections" of feminine headgear is two and a half yards in diameter. The smartest is said to be the "hat-in-a-hat" which is a structure something like a skyscraper built horizontally from the back of the head. It is held that any extensive following of this style may require some space between rows of theatre seats to be considerably widened.

Dame Fashion, too, be it known, is reported to have contemplated the leather bag, which has been a hat of woman's shopping equipment, to disappear in favor of the bag. This latter, it is explained, is modeled after the medieval bag familiar to us as worn by Marguerite in Faust.

A reputation for being clever can make a person act more like a fool than anything else in the world.

INTERESTING PAPER WAY TO KEEP A GARDEN

Mr. Reader Informs Members of the Horticultural Association

VALUABLE POINTERS FOR THE AMATEURS

And Much Very Excellent Advice in Good Address

The following very interesting paper was read by Mr. Reader at the regular meeting of the Horticultural society last week.

Mr. President, Ladies and Gentlemen: The paper I propose reading to you tonight is by no means extraordinary as a literary effort, but is merely a record of my successes and failures; my experiences and impressions during last season in gardening work, under what were to me, agreeable conditions, and will, I am afraid, be of little interest except to those who are interested in the practical side of gardening.

Calgary Garden, because as you all know there is nothing but greenhouse work to be done during the winter months, and that class of work not being of sufficient general interest, I shall not touch on it more than is absolutely necessary. I will begin with the flower garden. Mr. Burrows in his excellent lecture of the 26th, gave us reasons why we should grow flowers. I will give the method of growing them as practiced by myself.

REV. WILLIAM PATTERSON, celebrated Presbyterian minister of Philadelphia, who is giving up his life to the cause of the Gospel in Canada, to engage in evangelistic work. He was at one time pastor of Cooke's Presbyterian church, Toronto.

The ordinary double German (ten week stock) was the big I 2500, and this was raised under glass in the same manner, but owing to the fact that it germinates and grows more rapidly, it did not sow this till the second week in April. At our last lecture there was some difference of opinion expressed as to whether the amateur without a greenhouse should raise his own flowers by sowing in the open, or purchase plants from the florist. With regard to all the flowers I have already mentioned, and also many others, I would strongly advise the purchasing of plants by which means the garden will be bright by the beginning of July. By sowing in the open, without taking into consideration the risk of late frost, etc., destroying the seedlings, one cannot reasonably expect to see such flowers till the end of that month.

WHEN THE ABSENTEE RETURNS.

It is said that Mr. Foster's illness makes necessary his retirement from politics. Judge Doherty has been appointed to fill the seat next Mr. Borden for the present—Ottawa Despatch. Mr. Borden is rapidly recovering, and denies that he will retire from politics.—Later Ottawa Despatch.

Wondered what the man will say, how the man will act, Wishes he were far away, fears to be attacked, Dreads the Foster language, dreads the Foster stare, When the absentee comes back; comes—and finds him there.

Doherty may turn his head, look another way, But his soul is sick with dread, sick with blank dismay, Foster's tongue is bitter, Foster's sword is bare; What will hap when Foster comes; comes—and flings him there?

Charlie Joseph Doherty, member for St. Anne, Once was a nonentity, once an also-ran; Now he's first lieutenant, sits in Foster's chair, Wait until G. Eulas comes; comes—and finds him there.

Foster sickened, Foster quit, Foster took his leave; Charlie Joseph Doherty took his seat with zest, Took his seat with unction, occupied his chair; Wait until G. Eulas comes; comes—and finds him there.

"Foster's gone, the party said; Foster felt quite piqued; Foster sat right up in bed. "Not just yet," he shrieked, Doherty looked worried; wore a frightened air; Wondered when George E. will come; come—and find him there.

Heart Trouble Cured.

Through one case or another a large majority of the people are troubled with some form of heart trouble. The system becomes run down, the heart palpitates, you have weak and dizzy spells, a smothering feeling, cold clammy hands and feet, shortness of breath, sensation of pins and needles, rush of blood to the head, etc.

Wherever there are sickly people with weak hearts Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills will be found an effective medicine. Mrs. Wm. Elliott, Ottawa, writes: "It is with the greatest pleasure I write you stating the benefit I have received by using Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills. I suffered greatly from heart trouble, weakness and smothering spells. I used a great deal of doctors' medicines but received no benefit. A friend advised me to buy a box of your pills, which I did, and soon found great relief. I highly recommend these pills to anyone suffering from heart trouble."

GENERAL ELECTION TO BE FOUGHT IN FRANCE

No Outstanding Questions for Electors—Personal Factor the Chief

Paris, April 18.—The general election which will take place on April 21, with second ballots where necessary, on May 8, is exciting remarkably little bustle or noise, or, indeed, controversy of any kind. Unless the unexpected happens between now and April 24, there can apparently be nothing to rouse the electorate. There is no party system in the English sense in France. There are nuances, and there are groups of which the most noisy are the extreme right and the extreme left, the so-called United Socialists. The right, in so far as it is Royalist, is a diminished and diminishing quantity, and on the eve of the elections it is being further weakened by the furious quarrel which has broken out between the "Gaulois" of the Action Francaise, and the resigned, aristocratic wing of the Orleanists represented by the Gaulois. As reported the other day the Duc d'Orleans received representatives of the Gaulois at Seville and cautiously, yet with sufficient clearness, condemned the noisy agitation of the Camille Desmoulin, the excited young gentlemen who on every possible occasion indulge in demonstrations against the Republic at the street corners of Paris and of the provincial cities. The organ, the Action Francaise, has replied by the most virulent attacks upon the Gaulois and its proprietor and director, M. Arthur Meyer, and has even accused him of being hand in glove with the premier, M. Briand. It is, therefore, not unlikely that the Royalists will lose to Republican candidates several of the few seats which they still retain—in Normandy, for example, once a Royalist stronghold, where they are already reduced to two deputies. In any case they do not count for political purposes save as a small parliamentary party with a few speakers of eloquence and ability who on occasion can focus the criticism of the Chamber on the Socialist extreme left. As for the Socialist extreme left, M. Bismont observed the other day, is led by a premier who proceeded from the Socialist ranks; and he has the prominent colleagues in the cabinet, M. Millerand and M. Viviani, who are declared Socialists. Effective polemics on the part of M. Jaures and his immediate followers are in the circumstances difficult, and although the Socialist parliamentary party may not be diminished by the elections, it is not likely to be very materially increased.

M. Briand
France is being governed by an essentially bourgeois cabinet and parliamentary majority whose programme and promises are often condemned by writers of moderate opinions as extreme and demagogic. Yet in the attitude of the government and of the majority is really phrased in this sense by the very expression of M. Briand, who circumvently eliminates all personal feeling from the controversies of the day and who is appealing on business questions to a jury of business men. Not that the prime minister does not commend all the forensic arts of the special pleader. But he also possesses the ars celare artem, and besides, he is eminently l'homme des desolations, who enshew superfluous fireworks, and is manifestly scoring with a single eye to the prosperity and contentment of the country. In listening to his speeches in the chamber or on the platform one becomes convinced that he has succeeded in divesting himself of all personal vanity and self-consciousness, and that the glow pervading his measured eloquence is generated from the reasoned convictions of the republican patriot, which he interprets more effectively than any other spokesman of the majority. A French republican who wants to live in peace under the republic, to harass no one and be harassed by none, to go to church or stay at home if he pleases, to enjoy the most favorable conditions for the prosecution of his private business, and at the same time to feel that something is being done to ameliorate the lot of his less favored fellow-citizens—such an one constantly feels that his sentiments are extremely expressed by M. Briand; and the comment that is most frequently heard is, "Just what I was myself thinking." At the same time M. Briand is a hard worker and has surrounded himself wherever he went with hard workers. The execution of the Separation Law was a herculean task which on the whole he accomplished with conspicuous success and with the minimum of friction. The labor has settled his nerves for those conflicts and emergencies of the day with which he has constantly to deal as premier, and his capacity and resource were strikingly revealed during the period of the recent disastrous floods, when he placed himself beyond attack or criticism by the promptness and success of his measures.

There is of course the malodorous Dues case. But here, too, M. Briand has disarmed his enemies by being able to point quietly to the fact that it was he who as minister of justice put his finger upon the plague-spot and instituted a system of judicial examination and revision of the liquidators' accounts by which sooner or later the delinquents were sure to be brought to book. His record was quite clear. The nation saw at once that it was he who had spread the net in which these birds of prey were finally caught. The premier had no need to blow his own trumpet, and indeed, when the moment he had foreseen arrived, he achieved a great increase of reputation without lifting a finger. Like Moltke on a famous occasional, when his calculations with regard to the successful development of an encompassing movement proved exact to the minute, he might have exclaimed, "Es stimmt"—"Just so," or "Precisely." When the Dues scandal first broke out many republicans were inclined to say on the eve of the elections, "An enemy hath done this." A fortnight later every one saw that, on the contrary the revelations could not have been more opportune from the point of view of the government and the majority. M. Briand's policy of investigation was shown to have been at work for over a year—and to have succeeded. The members of the ma-
