U. S. CARRIER TORPEDOED OFF NEW YORK 17,000 PRISONERS CAPTURED BY ALLIES

U-BOATS RENEW RAID ON AMERICAN COAST

U. S. Armored Cruiser Sunk Not Far From the Entrance of New York Harbor, and Other Vessels Are Reported Attacked by German Submarines.

New York, July 19.—German submarines appear to have renewed operations off the American coast. The United States armored cruiser San Diego was sunk not far from the entrance of New York harbor today. Circumstantial reports reaching here indicate that she was torpedoed.

The San Diego was sunk at 11:30 a.m. about ten miles south of Fire Island light, which is off the Long Island shore, about 50 miles east of the entrance to New York harbor, and on the marine in the afternoon.

Seven merchant steamers were reported to have responded to S.O.S. calls of the San Diego, and shore wireless stations, and are said to have stood by to pick up survivors.

Aviator Saw the Disaster. Details of the San Diego's destruction remained wholly veiled tonight except for a story told by an unidentified naval aviator on patrol who apparently witnessed the disaster from the air.

Whether there had been a toll of lives taken on the San Diego was not known up to the late evening hours. Not more than 35 had been accounted for out of a crew of 1,145 men aboard the warship, of which some 300 reached New York on a tank steamship at 10 o'clock tonight.

Many of the engines room crew killed. Point of Woods, N.Y., July 19.—Survivors of the United States cruiser San Diego, sunk ten miles off Fire Island shortly before noon today, declared tonight that many members of the engine room crew must have been killed by the explosion which wrecked the warship.

He said he was a socialist and now assisting in the war by making dynamite. Exemption in his case was refused. Wm. J. REPORTS IN THE CANADIAN PACIFIC ROCKIES.

Banff, Lake Louise, Field and Glacier, the ideal mountain resorts, are in the heart of the Canadian Pacific Rockies, and on the main line of the Canadian Pacific Railway. Considerable difficulty is being experienced in the attempt to get any sort of coal for domestic consumption in Toronto at present. The Woodbine Coal Company will have little soft coal on hand until the end of August, and the officials advise the use of coke. This is a dearer commodity, and sells at $11.50 a ton. The officials of the Connel Coal Company stated yesterday that it would be possible to get any amount of soft coal after the anthracite orders had been filled. They stated that the present was too early for contracts for soft coal. This coal, they said, was passable as a substitute, and might be relied upon to keep a house warm. On the other hand, it would prove more troublesome than anthracite because of the soot and smoke which it would give out. Had it not been for the scarcity and uncertainty of labor the company might have been able to promise the delivery of coal much earlier than will be the case this year. The Standard Fuel Company, which specializes in soft coal, will have plenty of it by the beginning of September. The officials were dubious as to its qualifications for domestic use, but agreed that it might prove a valuable substitute for anthracite. They pointed out that it would involve much more labor on the part of householders than anthracite on account of its fifth. While it was always possible to prepare and maintain an anthracite fire with one long strong pull, so to speak, the soft coal fire would need continuous attention. It would be necessary to clean out the drafts and other cavities from soot much oftener than was the case with anthracite fires. Quite often it was only necessary to clean out the drafts and other cavities from soot much oftener than was the case with anthracite fires; it would need many such cleanings to get rid of the soot and refuse from soft coal firing. Soft coal was much cheaper than anthracite in mere dollars and cents, but taken altogether, might prove to be itself more expen-

"The population of the city is over 500,000, and there is certainly not sufficient accommodation to house all these people properly in the City of Toronto.

AMATEUR BURGLARS AT WORK IN TORONTO

Burglars of the amateur type, who have been entering houses in the various districts of the city during the summer, were busy in the vicinity of Brook avenue and College street Thursday night, according to annoying discoveries made by at least nine householders when they got up yesterday morning. The valuables taken were few, and the work was hardly housebreaking, so small were the obstacles which daunted the intruders. It was found that the total thefts amounted to a ring, a watch, $27 from one house and $5 from another. The police are of the opinion that the work is that of a number of small boys. Several other cases of a similar nature have been reported from time to time from the various districts in the city.

UNIVERSITY TEACHERS GIVEN WAR INCREASE

A war increase of 10 per cent. in salaries to all members of the teaching staff of the Toronto University for the next year, has been ratified by the board of governors. The increases in most cases take the form of a bonus. Sir Robert A. Falconer, president of the University of Toronto, has been added to the teaching staff of the Khaki University, the overseas university for Canadian soldiers under Y. M. C. A. auspices. Sir Robert has left for England where he will attend to his new duties in the training camp. It is not yet known if he will be able to proceed to France to assist in the instruction of the "Vimy Ridge University." Sir Robert Falconer's return is not looked for until the opening of the autumn term.

TRAINING SHIP STARTS ON FIRST CRUISE TODAY

At 3 o'clock this afternoon, the "Wave Crest," a Royal Naval boat, to be used for the training of members of the Boys' Naval Brigade, will start from York street wharf, on the first cruise. It will carry with it fifty boys, a chaplain, and a petty officer. The vessel, which will be in charge of Capt. Redfern, a well-known lake mariner, will head for Hamilton, which port, if weather conditions are favorable, will be made by Tuesday or Wednesday. The parents of the boys will be permitted to inspect the vessel tomorrow afternoon between 2 and 3 o'clock. The boat will put into port the first night out. It will probably be Port Credit. The length of the cruise will be two weeks.

Russell Motor Car Company Given Chance to Stop Smoke

An adjournment until September 5 was set by Chief Justice Sir William Mulock yesterday morning for the hearing of an application made by G. G. S. Lindsey, K.C., for an injunction to restrain the Russell Motor Car Company from continuing to operate its plant at King and Dufferin streets, which it is alleged is a serious nuisance in the neighborhood of Mr. Lindsey's residence, 145 Tyndal avenue. The delay is granted to allow the company to install underfoot stokers and raise the smokestacks to remedy the nuisance.

TWO ARE MAROONED ON LONELY ISLAND

French Settlers Lose Canoe and Spend Thirteen Days Without Food.

Practically starved to death after being marooned on an island about a mile from shore on Lake Rimy, about three miles from Moonbeam station on the National Transcontinental Railway, for thirteen days, Joe Pelletier and George Imbau, two French settlers from the Lake St. John country, were finally rescued by a search party and taken to Moonbeam where they were carefully looked after. Pelletier is now on a fair way to recovery, but Imbau, in spite of all that could be done for him, succumbed to the terrible privations. The two men had determined to celebrate Dominion Day by a three day's hunting and fishing expedition. They had loaded a canoe with provisions, arms and ammunition and fishing tackle. On reaching the small island they decided to explore it. In getting ashore one of the men slipped after the other had safely landed and the canoe slipped from his grasp and was blown into the lake, carrying away with it their provisions and camp supplies. For thirteen days the two men had to subsist on leaves and twigs and even grass, and when they were found were in a state of collapse and unable to do anything for themselves. Their friends had not made any search for them and for the first five days it was known they were out for a few days' holiday and were well supplied with everything they required. It was only on the thirteenth day that the search party, after combing the whole district without result, decided as a last resort to visit the island, where they found the two unfortunate castaways. The story of the terrible adventure was brought to Toronto by E. R. Heyland of Cochrane, who said that it snowed at Cochrane two weeks ago and that the weather for the last few weeks had been very rough in the whole district.

POSTAL EMPLOYEES MAY QUIT MONDAY

Reaffirm Previous Ultimatum Sent Government Some Time Ago.

MAYOR AT MEETING

Tells Men He is Sick and Tired of Government's Dilly-Dallying.

The letter carriers at a quarter to twelve last night, at a meeting held at the S.O.E. Hall, Bert street, and attended by more than 600 men, unanimously reaffirmed the ultimatum delivered to the government the previous Friday.

Mayor Church strongly criticized the inactive policy of the present government, and said he and Mr. Stevenson, the secretary of the Trades and Labor Council, advocated a walk out of a few days to give the government time to complete negotiations for a settlement of the grievances.

Mayor Church strongly criticized the inactive policy of the present government, and said he and Mr. Stevenson, the secretary of the Trades and Labor Council, advocated a walk out of a few days to give the government time to complete negotiations for a settlement of the grievances.

It is quite believed that if public ownership is to be a successful labor movement, it must be based on the principle of public ownership.

The secretary of the association read out correspondence from J. M. Gideon Robertson and other notable men in Ottawa, senator Robert Borden, who had never been apprised of the grievances of the carriers.

In extending a hearty welcome to the visitors the mayor said that the city of Ontario owed more to its police force than did Toronto.

"We are continually calling on you for assistance and you have never failed us," he said. "For three years you did all the work that the military police are now doing, as well as your own duties. I think we would have greater efficiency and greater economy if you were still in charge of those duties which the military police are performing. If the government would utilize your services and reimburse you they would be taking the wisest course, I think."

Acting Provincial Secretary Returns From Visiting Veterans

F. G. Pratt, acting provincial secretary of the G.W.V.A. for Ontario, returned Thursday night from a trip into the eastern section of the province at Smith's Falls. He was welcomed by a number of veterans while waiting for connections, and learnt that the Smith's Falls branch is doing exceedingly well.

WAR VETERANS

Veterans' Secretaries Understand More About Vocational Training

G. V. Gustar, secretary of the West Toronto branch of the G.W.V.A., stated yesterday afternoon that the meeting at the Keene Building between the officials of the vocational training branch of the soldiers' civil re-establishment and the secretaries of the G.W.V.A. was productive of the best results.

Provincial Secretary of Veterans Now Looking for J. E. Fisher

F. G. Pratt, acting provincial secretary of the G.W.V.A. for Ontario, stated yesterday that the provincial office was looking for James Eric Fisher, a returned soldier, who is a returned member of the G.W.V.A. and who is now in the hands of the Chicago police.

GERMAN SPY WORK RECITED TO CHIEFS

New York Inspector Addresses Heads of Police Visiting Toronto.

At the police reception to the visiting chiefs yesterday the feature speaker was Inspector Cunningham of the New York police. He described the workings of the German spy system in the United States before the Americans entered the war.

In extending a hearty welcome to the visitors the mayor said that the city of Ontario owed more to its police force than did Toronto.

"We are continually calling on you for assistance and you have never failed us," he said. "For three years you did all the work that the military police are now doing, as well as your own duties. Amsterdam, July 19.—Strikes involving all the Ukrainian railways have been started, according to a telegram from Kiev to The Rheinische Westfaelische Zeitung of Essen. The men have demanded increased wages and the restoration of the employees' committee.

Shell Shocked Nerves

Shattered nerves are the source of greatest suffering to many a returned soldier. The doctor can give something to relieve physical pain, but when the nervous system breaks down and you are sleepless, nervous and mentally worried, real cure only comes when the exhausted nerve cells are nourished back to health and vigor by such restorative, upbuilding treatment as Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.

SEVERE CRIMINALS METHODS OF COURT

Major Hunter Criticizes Treatment of Accused and Witnesses by R.A.F.

"If the procedure of any court has been weakened by Tammany Hall methods, its wisdom avails nothing," declared Major A. T. Hunter in addressing the Royal Air Force court-dressing the Royal Air Force court-martial, which met yesterday afternoon to try Acting Warrant Officer J. M. Bisset, who is charged with impersonating a Major Hunter, of the 12th Regiment, York Rangers, and has twice served overseas in the C.E.F.

Stating that his client had been placed in close arrest, not allowed to see his wife nor a lawyer, and kept in ignorance of the charges which were made against him up to within a few days of the trial, Major Hunter said no court he had ever heard of would proceed with the trial of any case after hearing what he had in the case of the instant case preliminary to the trial.

"There is not a court in Canada that will not pause in its business and make an immediate investigation of such charges as I make," declared Major Hunter.

He said he wanted to make it quite clear to the court that two of his witnesses had been "bulldozed."

No adjournment was asked by Major Hunter, because he said he believed his client would be in a position to give evidence in a few days.

Warrant Officer Bisset pleaded not guilty. Sgt. Newark said he gave certain money to the warrant officer for money to the warrant officer, which he belongs.

These R.A.F. members testified that they had given Bisset money. Cadet Sgt. H. A. Newark said he had given Bisset money for the purpose of clearing on behalf of course 34; Corp. Archer said he had given $35, and Cadet Buckingham said he had given $30.

WINDSOR IS FACING A GENERAL STRIKE

Windsor, July 19.—Serious trouble is brewing in Canadian border labor circles as a result of the disaffection among employees of the Ford Motor Company, a large number of whom were let go recently following a demand for a wage increase of 15 per cent.

The message stated that a strike is being called for August 1st, and that the men are reinstated and their demands for increased wages are submitted to arbitration.

When you wake up with backache and dull misery in the kidney region it generally means you have been eating too much meat, says a well-known authority. Meat forms uric acid, which overworks the kidneys in their effort to filter it from the blood and they become sort of paralyzed and laggard.

MAN ELECTROCUTED ON HARBOR WORKS

Police Deny Report That Use of Pulmotor Was Stopped Too Soon.

William Mitchell, 40 years of age, 20 Glasgow avenue, was fatally injured by a high tension wire coming into contact with a steam shovel he was operating at the harbor improvement works at the foot of Bathurst street yesterday afternoon and since being admitted to the Western Hospital. A fellow workman, Patrick McNulty, was severely burned about the hands and arms and for short time stunned by the electric shock.

How the accident actually happened is still a mystery, but it is supposed that the upright of the steam shovel must have touched one of the high voltage cables which supply current for the machinery at the harbor works.

Immediately after the accident the foreman on the works notified both the nearest police station and the Hydro-Electric Company. A few minutes later the ambulance from No. 2 police station reached the spot, but a pulmotor had been secured from the Hydro-Electric office and had been used apparently to no advantage on Mitchell, who seemed to be the worse injured of the two men.

It had been stated at the works by companions of the dead man that the police had prevented the men who were using the pulmotor from continuing to use it on the unconscious man, but this is emphatically denied by the police both at No. 2 and No. 3 stations, who when to the scene of the accident as soon as notified.

The driver of No. 2 police station ambulance, James H. Watson, denied there had been any interference with the use of a pulmotor. He stated there was no one working on the unconscious man when he reached the hospital, working on him in an attempt to revive him. He was dead, however, before reaching the hospital.

LATEST AIRPLANE CLIMBS RAPIDLY

Many Exceedingly Fast New British Machines Ready for Use.

London, July 19.—The newspapers today give prominence to a report of a new type of British airplane which, having been tested at the front with the greatest success, is about to be employed there in large numbers.

No technical details are given, but it is said the new machine has enormous speed and climbing power. It is capable of carrying great weight in bombs, machine guns, and other equipment and of attaining a height of 20,000 feet in an astonishingly short time.

It is said the machine can cover long distances at a speed which leaves all but the fastest modern scouting machines far behind and thus is able to cross the enemy's lines and drop bombs and return for a fresh load within a time limit far less than any of the earlier airplanes.

Yes, lady. Is Prof. Mulveney speaking? Have you a warm remedy for children? Yes.

Could you tell me if I brought my little girl down, if she had worms? No, lady, I cannot tell by looking at children if they have worms. You can't.

Could you tell me if I told you all the symptoms? No, madam. My remedy, called Mother's Friend, expels worms, is an excellent medicine for Regulating the Bowels; it brings away all filth and small intestinal worms, is perfectly harmless and can be given to the smallest infant without fear of doing harm.

A lady who is living on Sheppard street got a bottle of this medicine for her baby, 2 years old. She said she had no peace with the child night or day for four months; the doctor was calling regularly and did not help the child in the least. The little one took a bad cold and was choking; the mother opened the mouth and pulled out a stomach worm that was strangling the child. She rushed over to me and brought the child, also the worm, which measured 8 inches long with her. She purchased a bottle of Mother's Friend, and the second dose brought 17 more away. She was horrified at the sight and brought the worms to me, which I have here in a bottle in my office, and many others from many other mothers. So if you think it is a good investment to try Mother's Friend, it is $1.00 per bottle, 4 for $3.00 for postage in city, and 20c extra for postage outside Toronto. Now, you understand the matter. Write to me at 207 Dundas street, Toronto, phone 4650. Mother's Friend in powder form, each package twice as large, and containing 100 pills, no danger of breaking and no cost for sending. TEXT OF JUDGMENTS IN HABEAS CORPUS

Majority Judgment, Written by Justice Anglin, Upholds Validity of Order-in-Council.

CAN DELEGATE POWERS

Minority Judgment, by Mr. Justice Idington, Holds That Government Exceeded Powers.

Ottawa, July 19.—By a majority of four to two, the Supreme Court of Canada this afternoon upheld the validity of the orders-in-council of April 20 1918. It is under the authority of these orders-in-council that exemptions of men in class one between twenty and twenty-two years of age were cancelled. The written majority judgment was prepared by Mr. Justice Anglin; that of the minority by Mr. Justice Idington.

The majority judgment written by Mr. Justice Anglin is as follows:

The applicant moved before me chambers for a writ of habeas corpus ad subjunctum under s. 82 of the Supreme Court Act. He is in military custody awaiting sentence of a court martial for disobedience as a soldier to lawful orders of a superior officer. Such disobedience is declared to be an offence punishable by imprisonment for any term up to life by the Army Act (44 and 45 Vic., Imp. c. 58, s. 9; Manual of Military Law, 1914, pp. 370, 387), made part of the law of Canada by the Militia Act, R.S.C. c. 41, ss. 62 and 74, and the Military Service Act, 1917, c.
19, s. 12. The "court-martial" of the applicant is therefore in a criminal case "under an act of the parliament of Canada" within s. 82 of the Supreme Court Act.

Before me in chambers, and on the argument of yesterday before the full court, counsel for the applicant, based on his client's claim of discharge from military custody solely on the ground that he had been granted exemption under the M.S.A., 1917, and that two orders-in-council of the 20th of April, 1918 (numbers 919 and 923), purporting to cancel or set aside exemptions so granted to men of Class A between the ages of 20 and 23 (which apply to him) are invalid.

A Clean-Cut Issue.
Counsel representing the attorney-general frankly conceded that if these impugned orders-in-council cannot be upheld the applicant is entitled to his discharge. The issue is, therefore, clean-cut, and while the circumstances of the two cases differ somewhat in points not material, is precisely that recently passed upon by the supreme court of Alberta in the case of Norman Earl Lewis; that court (Chief Justice Harvey dissenting) held the two orders-in-council to be valid, and that many thousands of young men throughout Canada, most of them already drafted and a considerable number of them already overseas on routes to Europe, were affected, the importance of the matter involved is obvious. It has occasioned much public excitement and interest, and numerous applications for writs of habeas corpus are already pending in the provincial courts. Under these circumstances it is the public interest that the question of the validity of these orders-in-council should be authoritatively determined by the supreme court, and I, therefore, readily acceded to the suggestion of Mr. Newcombe, in which Mr. Chrysler concurred, that I should follow the course taken by Mr.
Justice Duff and approved of by the majority of this court in re Richard 38, S.C.R. 394, and subsequently sanctioned by rule 72 of our rules of court, and instead of myself dealing with the motion should refer it to the court.

Reasons for Taking Course.
The doubt which exists as to the appeal ability of the order for discharge made by the Alberta court, in the Lewis case, the unavoidable delay that the taking of such an appeal (which solicitors for the respondent could scarcely be expected to expedite) might involve, the probability that if I should make a like order in the present case it would not be subject to appeal (s. 2 of
s. 82 gives a right of appeal to the court if the judge refuses the writ or remands the prisoner), and the fact that it could not be expected that a decision of a single judge would be binding in the provincial courts, seemed to me most cogent reasons for taking the course suggested by Mr. New-combe in view of Mr. Newcombe's assurance that it had been already arranged with the chief justice and the acting registerar that, should the reference be directed, a special session of the court to hear the motion would be called for an early date so that the applicant would not suffer the prejudice of any undue delay.

Also some questions as to the case being within the section 82 of the Supreme Court Act and as to the right of the full court to deal with it were raised by two of my learned brothers during the course of the argument, but the reasons already stated, I entertain no doubt, upon either point.

Against the validity of the order-in-council, it is urged (a) that parliament cannot delegate its major legislative functions to any other body; (b) that it has not delegated to the governor-in-council the right to legislate at all so as to repeal, alter or derogate from any statutory provision enacted by it; (c) that if such power has been conferred it can-validly be exercised only when parliament is not in session.

Many Previous Delegations.
The decision of the judicial committee in Rowley v. Apollo Canada Co., 10 A.C. 282, cited by Harvey, C.
J., in the Lewis case, puts beyond doubt the sovereign character of colonial legislatures within the limits of the legislative jurisdiction committed to them and the constitutionality of limited delegations of their legislative powers. Such delegations have been so frequent that they are most a matter of surprise that their legality can now be considered open to question. In every common instance the provision that orders-in-council shall come into effect in whole or in part on a day or days to be named by proclamation to be issued pursuant to an order-in-council leaves the limitation upon the extent of the powers delegated in found in the words vested in the War Measures Act of 1914 "as the emergency requires" existence of real, or apprehended war, invasion or insurrection, deem necessary and expedient. Their duration is expressly limited by section 6, but their limitation as to enactments is imposed by s. 11. As was said in the Apollon case, at p. 291, "the legislature has not passed any order-in-council which they have not intended to be under the control of the governor and the power, of course, at any moment, of extending or altering the power vested in the governor-in-council by the Bank of Toronto v. Lambie, 13 A.C.
575, at p. 588, their lordships of the judicial committee said, "The federal act exhausts the whole range of legislative power."

An Inconceivable Idea.
A complete abdication by parliament of its legislative powers is something so inconceivable that the constitutionality of an attempt to do anything of the kind need not be considered. Short of such an abdication, any limitation delegation would seem to be within the ambit of a legislative jurisdiction which is as wide as that of which it has been so often and so indisputably exercised by the governor-in-council as ample evidence of the plenitude of its powers passed on to the governor-in-council. The plenitude of its powers is the plenitude of the Hodge v. The Queen, 9 A.C. 117, 133, I am of the opinion that it was parliament of Canada to delegate to the governor-in-council the power entirely the impugned orders-in-council.
To hold otherwise would be very materially to restrict the legislative powers of parliament.

Ejusdem Generis Rule.
(b) I am unable to appreciate the force of the argument based on the ejusdem generis rule. In opening, Mr. Chrysler rather disavowed invoking it. Mr. Chrysler, however, appealed to it and in his brief reply Mr. Chrysler appeared to insist upon its application. If this rule of construction would otherwise have governed, its application to section 6 of the War Measures Act of 1914 is clearly excluded by the words which precede the enumeration of the specified subjects, namely "for greater certainty, but not so as to restrict the generality of the foregoing terms, it is hereby declared, etc." The same language is found in section 91 of the B. N. A. Act and I have never heard it suggested that the residuary powers of parliament under the general terms of that section, "to make laws for the peace, order and good government of Canada" are restricted to matters and things of the same class with the subjects enumerated in its succeeding clauses or as Mr. Chrysler argued, to matters and things of the same class as those specified in the opening, that the specified subjects terms should be confined. Rather I think as put by Mr. Newcombe and Mr. Tilley the specification should be deemed to be of cases in which there might be such doubt as to whether they fell within the ambit of the general terms, wide as they are, that extraordinary conditions it was safer to mention them specifically.

Illustrative of General Words.
Mr. Justice Beak appears to have appreciated that this was the purpose of the words "for greater certainty," etc.; yet by some mental process that I am unable to follow, after saying:
"The enumeration of the particular subjects of jurisdiction is obviously made in order to remove doubts which might possibly arise as to whether or not the particularized subjects would fall within the general statement of the subjects of jurisdiction," he proceeds to add that "such an enumeration of particular subjects must necessarily be taken as interpretative and illustrative of the general words which must consequently be interpreted as intended to comprise only such subjects, in addition to those particularly specified, as fall within a generic clause of which the specified instances are illustrative and definitive of the general characteristics of the clause," and he makes a strict application of the ejusdem generis rule thereby excluding the making of orders for the enlistment of certain men exempt under the M.S.A., 1917, as to which whatever else may be said of them, there cannot be a shadow of doubt that they were made "by reason of the existence of real war," and because "deemed necessary or advisable for the security, defence and welfare of Canada."

Purpose of Inserting Words.
The very purpose of inserting the words "for greater certainty," but not so as to restrict the generality of the foregoing terms," would appear to have been to insure the exclusion of the rule of construction under consideration.
"The terms" of s. 6, the generality of which is not restricted, are "to do and authorize such acts and things and to make from time to time such orders and regulations as he may by reason of the existence of real or apprehended war, invasion or insurrection deem necessary or advisable for the security, defence, peace, order and welfare of Canada." More comprehensive language it would be difficult to find.
The corresponding terms of the B.
N. A. Act, s. 91, are "to make laws for the peace, order and good government of Canada in relation, etc."
"Welfare" is substituted for "good government" and "security" and "defence" are added in s. 6 of the War Measures Act. In some constitutional acts, for instance the B. N.
W. Constitution Act, we find the word "welfare" used with "good government," as a substitute for the word "welfare." To introduce a limitation as that suggested by Mr.
Justice Beak, and approved of by some of his colleagues, would therefore appear to me to be to fix in the teeth of the very words of the act of parliament Health.

Parliament by express words in the M.S.A. has conferred on the governor-in-council the power to make orders for the enlistment of certain men exempt under the M.S.A., 1917, as to which whatever else may be said of them, there cannot be a shadow of doubt that they were made "by reason of the existence of real war," and
because "deemed necessary or advisable for the security, defence and welfare of Canada."

BEDRIDDEN WITH RHEUMATISM

Felt That He Would Never Walk Again—'Fruit-a-tives' Brought Relief.

MR. LORENZO LEDUC.
3 Ottawa St. Hull, P.Q.

"Fruit-a-tives" is certainly a wonder. For a year I suffered with rheumatism; being forced to stay in bed for five months. I tried all kinds of medicine but without getting better; and thought I would never be able to walk again.

"One day while lying in bed, I read about 'Fruit-a-tives,' the great fruit medicine; and it seemed just what I needed, so I decided to try it.

"The first box helped me, and I took the tablets regularly until every trace of the Rheumatism left me.

"I have every confidence in 'Fruit-atives' and strongly recommend them to every sufferer from Rheumatism."

counsel for the attorney-general, that the orders-in-council fall within the very terms of section 6 of the War Measures Act, as orders made for the security and defence of Canada, therefore, has statutory sanction.

No Serious Difficulty.
Nor does the use of the term "orders and regulations" present any serious difficulty. No doubt "regulations" is a term usually employed to describe provisions of an ancillary or subordinate nature which the executive, or a minister, or some subordinate body is empowered to make to facilitate the carrying out of a statute. But, coupled with the word "orders" (which, as I used here, seems to me clearly to connote provisions to be made "for the security, defence, peace, order and welfare of Canada," it has necessarily and obviously a more comprehensive significance. It was used, no doubt, because the governor in council usually acts by making orders and regulations. "Orders" might have been a more apt expression, but the context leaves no room for doubt that it was intended to confer power to pass legislative enactments such as should be deemed necessary or advisable by reason of "real or apprehended war, invasion, or insurrection," as that declared by a definitive clause of the military act to establish an emergency.

Extreme Exercise of Power.
No doubt the amendment of a statute or the taking of privileges enjoyed or acquired under the authority of a statute by order in council is an extreme exercise of the power of the governor in council to make orders and regulations of a legislative character but the very nature of the operation of which is affected by the order now in question, contains a prevision not found, we are told, in the original draft and apparently inserted for the purpose of expressing the solicitude of parliament in such cases being made of the powers which it had conferred on the governor in council by the War Measures Act.
By s. 6, of the Military Service Act, it is provided that nothing in this act contained "shall be held to limit or affect the powers of the governor-in-council under the War Measures Act of 1914."

The very presence of this subsection in the M. S. A., 1917, imported that under the power conferred on the governor-in-council by the War Measures Act, orders and regulations might be made with the validity of which, but for it, some provisions of the M. S. A. might be deemed to interfere. It carries confirmation of the view that the scope of the powers conferred by the War Measures Act was intended to embrace matters dealt with by the M.S.A., and it puts beyond question in my opinion, the powers of parliament to enable the governor-in-council, in case of emergency, as defined, to exercise the powers granted by section 6 of the War Measures Act, even to the extent of modifying or repealing, at least in part, the Military Service Act itself. The immediate juxtaposition of subsection 12, and subsection 6 of section 12, as was pointed out by Mr. Newcombe, served to emphasize the significance of the latter, and make it certain that its purview

The provision of subsection 2 of section 6 of the War Measures Act was also repealed upon the repeal of a single line of the M. S. A.

granted."

Questions Right of Court.
In the opening part of his judgment, Mr. Justice Idington questioned the right of the supreme court to deal with the matter. He points out that under the Supreme Court Act, if a supreme court judge refuses a writ of habeas corpus, an appeal shall lie to the court. "It is to be observed," he proceeds, "that this only gives the right to apply to a single judge in chambers, and then if the applicant is unsuccessful an appeal is given him to the court, which at no moment would in such cases be constituted by the remaining five judges. To substitute that course of procedure for the present would be reference to the full court does not seem to me in accord with the law."

MURMAN RAILWAY
OCCUPIED BY ALLIES

Amsterdam, July 19.—Rear-Admiral Kemp, of the British navy, has proclaimed the occupation of the northern section of the Murman railroad by British, American, French and Serbian forces, says Max Behrmann, the Stockholm correspondent of The Berlin Vossische Zeitung, under date of July 16. The admiral, he adds, also announced that the forces would advance southward "in accord with the local Soviet authorities and at the request of the local population for help."

Behrmann says that there are no Soviet authorities in the whole Mur-man territory. On the entire 400-mile stretch of railroad only at half a dozen main points are there a suit of rudimentary political organizations.
The newspaper prints an Archangele message to The Ivestia, of Moscow, which mentions the arrival there of Italian and Serbian officers and men, who, it declares, were disarmed and expelled by the local Soviet.

It has also been alleged that such wide powers have been granted and are often rejected by the courts as affording no sufficient basis for holding them. In an opinion, however wide, it conferred in language admitting of no doubt as to the purpose and intent of the legislature, should be restricted to the observations of the observations of their lordships in delivering the judgment in the case of London & The King v. Halliday, 1917, A.C. 260.
As Lord Dunedin there said: "The danger of abuse is theoretically presented; practically, as things exist, it is inoperative and absent."

As Lord Atkinson observed: "However precious the personal liberty of the subject may be, there is something in it which it may well be, to some extent, sacrificed by legal enactment, namely national success in the war, or escape from national plunder or ex-slavement. It is not contended in this case that the personal liberty of the subject can be invaded arbitrarily at the pleasure of the executive. It is contended that the executive has been empowered during the war, for paramount objects of state, to invade by legislative enactment that liberty in certain cases."

(c) It may be open to doubt whether parliament had in mind when enacting the War Measures Act that legislative enactments, such as those now under consideration, should be passed by the governor in council actually as if they were made by parliament. It is, however, as to the should be actually in session. We can only determine the intention of parliament, however, by the language in which the War Measures Act was enacted. The terms of s. 6, of the War Measures Act are certainly wide enough to cover orders-in-council made while parliament is in session, as that declared by a definitive clause of the military act in the present instance a resolution was adopted by both houses of parliament approving the orders-in-council, while it does not add anything to their legal force as enactments, makes it abundantly clear that no attempt is to be made to resist instance to take advantage of the powers conferred by s. 6 of the War Measures Act to pass legislation without the concurrence and approval of parliament.

For the foregoing reasons, I am of the opinion that the motion for habeas corpus must be refused. But having regard to the fact that this has been made a test case and to its criminal character, there should, in my opinion, be no order as to costs.

The Minority Judgment.
Mr. Justice Idington in dissenting from the finding of the majority of the court, is of the opinion that the circumstances relating to the adoption by parliament of the War Measures Act, the Military Service Act, the particular case under review, proceeds: "The fact that the order-in-council now in question was supported by the approval of both houses of parliament was very properly discarded by counsel for the crown as falling to give any statutory efficacy thereto."

Cannot Accept Proposition.
"Nor can I, as a member of law, subscribe to any such doctrine as contained in the startling propositions put forward that it was quite competent for the governor-in-council to have proceeded under the War Measures Act of 1914, not only independently of, but to repeal and render inoperative, all the provisions of the M.S.A. of 1917, and to substitute therefor what the governor-in-council might deem necessary or advisable, including therein the levy of such taxes as needed to meet such exigencies; and, in short, to govern the country at large, and to confer and exceed the possibility of save ment being invoked once a year to act and seeing it to revoke such orders."

CLEMENCEAU SHAKES HANDS OF GEN. MANGIN

Paris, July 14.—"Last night when he saw his troops on the heights dominating Boissons on the southwest, Gen. Mangin smiled," says the correspondent of The Liberte. "Premier Clemenceau was there and warmly shook the general's hand."

On his return from the front Premier Clemenceau said to his friends:
"I have shaken the hand of the happiest man in the world." Late yesterday the premier also visited the divisions commanded by General DeGoutte. A violent storm which burst shortly before the hour set for their dash yesterday morning was favorable to the allies. Thunder drowned the noise of the shells, while a torrential rain drove the Germans back. It is felt that Thursday they had learned of the Franco-American advance.

SEVERE BLOW DEALT TO GERMAN PRESTIGE

Paris, July 19.—France is thrilled by the news that on the fourth day of the German offensive French and American troops snatched the initiative from the enemy by surprise, and soundly beat 15 of his divisions on a 30-mile front.
It would be difficult to exaggerate the cheering impression on public opinion given by Gen. Mangin's mastery stroke. It is felt that Thursday marked the ebb of German's offensive power.

The official statements have been brief and discreet, recording only in general terms the most definite results, but when the full details are made public it will be seen how skillfully Gen. Foch has outgeneralized the enemy, who has been puffed up by his recent successes.

Gen. Foch, it is held here, not only dealt a severe blow to German military prestige, but raised high the hopes of the allied nations.

Premier Leaves London to Visit Canadian Institutions

Canadian Associated Press Cable.
London, July 19.—Sir Robert Borden left London early today to visit the Canadian camp hospitals in the country. The premier has a busy week, including special meetings of the war cabinet and also he held a special meeting with his own ministers with Sir George Parley present.
With Sir Edward Kemp he had a special consultation regarding certain proposals which have come from the war office. Another conference was held with the ministers of the other dominions concerning matters arising at the war conference and the war cabinet.

Sir Robert also met the colonial secretary in consultation.
Another meeting of the war conference was presided over by the lord chancellor. Borden also visited with Lord Weir, secretary of the air force, the new works of the air force near London. Sir Robert had a very flattering reception at the moment when he was unexpectedly called to propose a toast at a luncheon given by the Indian residents of London to the Marquis of Patilla.

Hon. N. W. Rowell visited the Canadian camps on the south coast including mounted police, recently arrived here, looking very fit, and also the Canadian officers' training centre.

55 per cent of the output of the seven big Maxwell plants is war work!

Every one of those plants is doing its patriotic duty—100 per cent.

We are frank to say we believe that is equally true of our competitors—we have yet to learn of a single shirker in this industry.

If there is anything more our government desires done, we will tackle that too.

Meantime, and for the very reasons set forth above, we deplore the loose statements of panic-preaching publicists throughout the country.

This would close down the third largest industry in America on the grounds that it is a "non essential" industry.

No other industry is doing so much outside its regular sphere—doing it so willingly, doing it so rapidly and doing it so honestly as is this very motor car industry.

For a ship builder to make a few more ships; or for an ordnance plant to make more guns is only to develop their normal business.

But for a motor car factory to make ships entire and in part—and guns—and shells—and fuses—and caterpillar tractors—and mine anchors—and airplane motors, wings and other parts—that is doing things.

This industry is doing all that and more.

Detroit, the very center of the motor car industry—an inland city and one where, in normal times, we had no war industry—now is doing more war work than any other city in America.

And in our regular line we are also helping more than any other class of business men to solve the transportation problems at home and abroad—for we not only transport a very large percentage of our own raw material and finished product on its own wheels, but every truck—yes, and every passenger car too—helps by thousands of tons per year in carrying, formerly done by the railroads.

Loose talk is harmful at any time—it is particularly serious just now.

Let other industries do their part—do a tithe of what the motor car industry is doing—and they will be going some.

Meantime your own transportation problem, accentuated as it is by the war activities and the war prosperity of the country, can best be solved by an efficient, economical, reliable Maxwell Motor Truck.

The Supreme Court Judgment.

The supreme court of Canada has denied the application of Edwin Grey for a writ of habeas corpus. Grey claimed that he was unlawfully restrained of his liberty because he was called out for active service after having been exempted. The order-in-council cancelling exemptions he declared to be invalid.

A Vital Stroke.

Col. Repington, General Maurice and other military critics who objected to the policy of a union army with a single head will now have an opportunity for an amende honorable. After four years of fighting in the single command, assisted undoubtedly by the allied war council, which has produced results such as had been hoped. Perhaps the critics will allege that it is the stronger forces and better equipment that have given success, but there is more than a victory to be accounted for in the whole change of policy which has made Albania a centre of interest which only the Franco-American advance could have obscured.

THE FLAX INDUSTRY

Its Importance to After-War Development

By W. O'Farrell.

Flax is to be used for its fibre, and this can and should always be done, even if it is cultivated principally for the seed. It should never be cut, but pulled up root and all. This is most essential in the case of the better grades of flax when the inch or inch and a half of fibre contained in the foot of the flax may mean the difference between a two and a three-cunt when it is scutched and ready to be spun, with the corresponding gain or loss in value of the product.

When the flax has been pulled it is stacked on the field in small mounds to allow it to dry thoroughly for a few days before it is taken to the dressing barns, where the grain is extracted from the pods by beating it with a flat shaped flail on a hard earth floor. It would not be possible to do this in a factory as it would result in the breaking of the straw and the consequent tearing of the fibre.

When the grain, or linseed, has been removed, the flax is "retted" or "rotted" by allowing it to remain for a number of days in water, softening the outside straw, and detach the fibre. Various systems of "retting" have been tried by growers and manufacturers of flax, but until now none other but the old system of placing it in large cases or boxes, made of heavy timber, joined in such a fashion as to permit the water running thru them, placing the cages in running water and loading them down with heavy stones or pieces of metal, have been found satisfactory.

All running water is, however, not suitable for the retting of fine flax, some of it containing too large a percentage of mineral salts which tend to harden the fibre, while others are harmful thru their chemical composition. Retting can also be done in pits or holes containing the proper kind of water or even thru chemical processes.

It is claimed that the only water in the world which will "ret" the finest grades of flax without any injury, are the waters of the River Lys which has its source on the St. Quentin heights and flows thru part of Belgium and particularly thru the Courtrai district in West Flanders. This river, whose name has appeared in many of the war despatches, has earned for itself the surname of "River of Gold" owing to the great wealth its remarkable retting qualities have brought to the country it runs thru.

AN IDEAL SUMMER OUTING.

The Provincial Government of Ontario earned the gratitude of all lovers of out-of-doors when it set apart, in 1893, nearly two million acres of heavily timbered land, started with beautiful lakes and winding streams, as a preserve for the wild things and a recreation ground for the people. They called it Algonquin Park. Away up in the "Highlands of Ontario," 200 miles north of Toronto, 170 miles west of Ottawa, and two thousand feet above the level of the sea, this lovely region remains today unspoiled, a perfect refuge for the creatures of the forest, and an ideal camping ground for the sportsman and business man. THE FLAX INDUSTRY has never been decided. The fact remains that the very fine grades of Central grown flax can only be safely "retted" in the River Lys.

Its Importance to After-War Development

When perfectly dry, the flax is taken to the scutch mill. The actual process in the manufacture is the breaking of the straw by passing the flax thru grooved iron rollers. When properly broken, the flax is ready for the actual "scutching" or "blasting," to separate the straw from the fibre inside.

In some of the smaller scutch mills in Belgium, the blasting was still done in a primitive manner. The flax was placed in a wedge shaped opening cut in a broad board and the part hanging on the outside was lashed with a sharp paddle shaped wooden instrument which gradually beat off the outside straw. In the better mills the work is done by machinery, the principle being the same as in the actual hand scutching.

When the flax has been scutched, the fibre which still contains a certain quantity of straw in very minute particles, is "scrapped" with a blunt iron knife, and then given a first rough combing. It is then handed over to the "hecklers," who pass it thru a series of graduated combs or "heckles" which relieve it entirely of every particle of broken straw and straighten out the strands of fibre until they look like a mass of fine blond human hair.

The next process consists in "dressing" the flax by careful manipulation, rubbing it with the hand covered with a kind of leather glove, to smooth it out and thoroughly clean it of all impurities. The flax is next tied up in tight bundles weighing each about 25 pounds and packed in large jute bags, which weigh about 200 pounds, and the product is then ready to be sold to the flax buyers representing the various spinning mills and sent across the seas to the Irish factories.

As can be seen by the foregoing, flax goes thru a number of interesting processes before it is ready to be turned into yarn, thread or linen. A great deal of that work could be done by returned soldiers; even by men who have lost the use of an arm or leg, or even for that matter men who have lost their eyes. Combing and dressing, cleaning could all be performed by men who were deprived of one arm, as the flax is held in one hand only when being passed through the heckles, and is often tightly gripped between the knees when being cleaned or dressed. The same operation, and in addition, the spinning of flax are of course open to the returned soldier. And usually they come directly to me.

The Woman Who Changed

BY JANE PHELPS.

A Delightful Visit.

CHAPTER CXXXVIII

We had a delightful luncheon together, just Mrs. Babcock and I. Mary had given us such simple dishes, but so perfectly cooked, that Mrs. Babcock complimented me. "You are a very tempting temptress. I eat very little at noon, usually, but no one could resist this omelette," she said, as, in response to my urging, she had a second helping of Mary's mushroom omelette.

After luncheon we separated for an hour. I imagine she lay down, but I went into the kitchen and talked with Mary, congratulating her upon the luncheon, and consulting her as to the dessert for the simple dinner we had planned. Then, when Mrs. Babcock again appeared downstairs, I ordered the car and we took a ride thru the town and out into the country. She was a charming companion, and I almost forgot, at times, that she was so much older than I, and was inclined to be as fresh with her as I would have been with Evelyn Reeves.

I told her all about Evelyn's baby—that she was named for me, and what a cunning little thing she was. Then, without meaning to, I told her that I had lost my baby. She was all sympathy, all interest.

"You will have children, I hope," she said. "They make life worth while, my dear. We are apt to become selfish when we are without them."

"But you are so charming, and I love you now Mr. Babcock," I said so impulsively that she smiled.

"A Corner of a Woman's Heart." "Perhaps not; but you see we had our daughter for many years. And I must keep bright and cheerful for him, you know. A woman, my dear, can hide her feelings more easily than a man; even her grief she can conceal, if she feels that she is making him happier by doing so. My husband almost worshipped our daughter—perhaps no more so than I did—but I had to be brave for him and for myself, too. It is often so, Mrs. Howard. Men are but children in many ways. A wife often has to be both wife and mother to them."

And I no reply; none was needed. And in a moment, she was changing gaily again about the beautiful roads, "he haze on the distant hills, the things that would ordinarily attract attention when riding on a strange road." But the little impulse she had given me of her heart—the hiding of her own grief to make that of the man she loved easier to bear—remained with me, and made me, if anything, more in love with her character than before. I remember, I wished mother could know her, and thought what good friends they would be, because they had the same ideas.

I had never known anyone so self-sacrificing as my mother. Father, the boys, were always her first thought. I used to tell her that by the time she got around to thinking of herself, she had no thought left. Mrs. Babcock was that kind, too. She never seemed to think of herself.

We returned to the house about half past four. I told Mrs. Babcock, of course I went alone, not knowing whether she would like to rest, or would she enjoy seeing my little namesake? Mrs. Babcock soon set me right. "All babies act the way with me. I consider it a great compliment," she said as we turned and walked slowly home. "Are you to dress?" she asked me when we reached the house. "Just as you choose. We are to dine alone, but I have asked Mr. Gray, the artist, to spend the evening. He is very musical, and I think will interest you." "Delightful! How thoughtful of you. You are an ideal hostess, Mrs. Howard. You make one so at home, and yet do so much for them."

As she went upstairs, I thought to myself that for once I would repeat a compliment to George. I would tell him that Mrs. Babcock had said I was an ideal hostess. So I waited for him, a thrill with happiness. When George and Mr. Babcock came in, the latter went at once to his room and George came up to freshen up. I repeated what Mrs. Babcock had said.

"Umph—I told Babcock he needn't dress," was all the reply I received.

WHEN YOUR COLOR FADES

When a girl—or a woman—finds her color fading, when her cheeks and lips grow pale, and she gets short of breath easily and her heart palpitates after slight exertion, or under the least excitement, it means that she is suffering from anaemia, a weak, watery blood. Headache and backache frequently accompany this condition, and nervousness is often present.

The remedy for this condition is to build up the blood, and for this purpose there is no medicine so equal to Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. They build up and renew the blood, bring brightness to the eyes, color to the cheeks, and a general feeling of renewed health and energy. The only other treatment needed is plenty of sunlight, moderate exercise and good plain food. The girl or woman who seeks this treatment a fair trial will soon find herself enjoying perfect health.

You can get Dr. Williams' Pink Pills from any dealer in medicine, or by mail post paid at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

GERMANS MAY HIKE FROM CHAMPAGNE

Success of Allies Changes Entire Situation on Battlefield.

RAILWAYS CAPTURED

Enemy Offensive May Turn Into Defeat—Already Repulsed.

London, July 19.—The success of the Franco-American counter-offensive has altered the entire situation in the Champagne front. The whole German line from Chateau Thierry to Rheims, the despatches from the battlefield point out, is dependent on the railroads which the French now dominate. Supplies for the German forces around Chateau Thierry must now be carried 20 to 30 miles by road.

It will be a very serious business for the Germans to remain in this salient, according to all accounts they will not only have to discontinue all their plans for the offensive here, but probably will be forced to fall back a considerable distance to a new line, where the problem of supplies can be handled easier.

The German offensive thus has been turned into a repulse, the advances from the front say, and may now be turned definitely into a German defeat.

The initiative is now in the hands of the French. The tables have been completely turned by Gen. Foch's brilliant stroke, and the whole German situation between Soissons and Rheims is endangered.

The Germans, it is contended, will have to fight hard to save off a route and to extricate themselves. This means that the entire allies definitely have settled with the crown prince and have completely neutralized his group of armies. It is stated that he will have all he can do to extricate himself from his present position.

Good Features of Work. In the past week the Germans have used more than thirty divisions, of which number 23 were from the general reserve. The using up of these 23 general reserve divisions is one of the most satisfactory features of the week's work, for they have been used up in a wholly abortive enterprise and have lost very heavily.

Crown Prince Rupprecht's group of armies in the north, on the front from Montdidier to the English channel, however, despatches from the front state, remains almost intact. Only a

A SINN FEINER AT NIAGARA CAMP

Says He Will Go to Prison for Life Rather Than Fight for the Empire.

ROUTE MARCH OFF

Canceled Owing to the Departure of Troops From the Camp.

Niagara Camp, July 19.—A Sinn Feiner has been uncovered in camp in the person of J. Torrish, 1st Battalion, 2nd C.O.R., who is now awaiting court-martial on a charge of refusing to put on the uniform when ordered to do so.

Torrish says he will go to prison for life rather than fight for the British Empire. Two brothers of his are fighting with the British in France and one of them has won his commission at the front.

The accused says two more relatives of his were killed by the British during the Sinn Fein rebellion in Dublin at Easter, 1916, and this is why he will not fight for Great Britain. He is a native of County Tyrone. He finished his first year in medicine at Dublin University before coming to Canada. He was picked up as a defaulter a few days ago and brought to Niagara Camp.

Col. H. C. Bickford, Major G. G. Mitchell and Captain Christie Clark of headquarters, Toronto, were entertained at dinner this evening in the officers' compound here by Col. McLaren, camp commandant and staff. Col. Bickford arrived here after a tour of inspection at Hamilton and Niagara Falls.

Routes March Canceled. The weekly route march was canceled today, for the same reason as the cancellation last Friday—the departure of troops from camp. The next route march will probably be held in a week or so, as the camp strength is being gradually added to from day to day by new men reporting for duty. In the case of the cancellation of the route march and tactical scheme planned for last Friday by the camp commandant there was a hurry-up call from Ottawa for a draft to leave here, so the local arrangements for the day's outing all went by the board.

The camp sports also are being affected by the large numbers of men being sent away, and those in charge of this department of camp life are finding it somewhat difficult to

ASQUITH PRAISES SOUTH AFRICANS

Dominion Railway Minister Says Nationalist Movement Was a Mistake.

London, July 19.—The Hon. H. Burton, K. C., minister of railways in South Africa, who is attending the imperial war cabinet meetings, was the guest of honor at a luncheon given by the Empire Parliamentary Association at the house of commons yesterday. Rt. Hon. H. Asquith, who presided at the distinguished gathering, said that without exaggeration, Botha was one of the pillars of the empire.

He paid a hearty tribute to South Africa's contributions to the war, and particularly to the brilliant services of the German East Africa contingents. South Africa had sent 60,000 men overseas.

Hon. Mr. Burton said that the nationalist movement was practically a racial unmaking of substantial progress. It was a mistaken cause and was bound to fail. The nationalist motto was "South Africa first, last, all the time and alone." The majority of South Africans, including the government, were unable to accept that view. South Africa accepted "South Africa first" as a good motto, but realized that it's interests were bound up with the empire.

Continuing, Mr. Burton said that what struck the Dutch-speaking South Africans the most about the empire, was the fact that it was the least imperially governed of all empires, and that they enjoyed the priceless privilege of constitutional liberty. Referring to the republican propaganda in South Africa, he did not think that there was any substantial danger of a rebellion. The movement was largely political and vote-catching. It more particularly appealed to youths and irresponsibles, but the great bulk of the Dutch-speaking population of Natal, were keenly appreciative of the British system.

Not to Naturalize Germans Till Five Years After War. London, July 19.—In the house of commons today the British Nationality and Status of Aliens Bill was amended by adding a provision that no certificate of nationality shall be granted for a period of five years after the war to any German subject or any subject of any country at war with Great Britain unless he has served in the British or allied forces, is a member of a race or community known to be opposed to enemy governments or was a British subject at birth.

GERMAN RESERVES THROWN INTO BATTLE

Paris, July 19.—The Germans were without doubt taken by surprise on Thursday, writes the military commentator of The Temps, by the attack of the soldiers of General Mangin and De Goutte and the American troops, who realized in their first blow an important advance and captured more than 10,000 prisoners and much material.

The Germans, however, have disappeared in the quadrilateral of Soissons, Chateau Thierry, Dormans and Rheims reserves estimated at two divisions, and it has been possible for them to bring rapid support to their first line troops, which are beating a retreat.

Must Be Divergent Practice In Treating Enemies' Property. London, July 19.—(Via Reuter's Ottawa Agency)—Replying to a question by Captain R. F. Peel, member for Woodbridge, Mr. Bonar Law, chancellor of the exchequer, in the house of commons yesterday said he feared some divergence in practice between different parts of the empire in the treatment of enemies and enemy property was inevitable, owing to the fact that circumstances in different parts of the empire were varied. Uniformity would be desirable if it could be arranged.

CANADIAN TROOPS HELD IN RESERVE

Gen. Turner Explains Why Forces Have Remained Unengaged.

UPHOLD TRADITIONS

Men of Dominion Live Up to Records of British Army.

London, July 19.—A definite statement that the Canadian troops in France are now being held in reserve was made by General Turner at a banquet to Canadians here. General Turner's speech in full follows:

"It is a proud occasion for me as a Canadian soldier to be allowed to speak on behalf of our Canadian expeditionary forces at a representative gathering of Canadians. We owe a debt of gratitude to the Canadian press for the loyal support they at all times have given us since the beginning of the war.

"We feel very proud to be able to state that after four years of war our forces in the field exceed those of the original expeditionary force. We increased our forces in France during the last 12 months in numbers almost equal to our first Canadian force, which sailed from Canada in September, 1914.

Canadians in Reserve. "In the early part of this year the higher command decided that the Canadian troops should be held in reserve. For that reason the Canadians have taken very little part in the heavy fighting this year. To the British, Australians, New Zealanders, South Africans and Newfoundlanders is due the honor of having held the line during these critical months, the line that was never broken, notwithstanding they were assailed by numerically greater forces.

"You will have an opportunity of visiting the Canadians in France and Great Britain. You will find wherever you go the same feeling of pride and confidence in their ability to beat the Hun any time and under any conditions, and they live up to the proudest traditions of the British Army, which we Canadians are proud to be a part.

"You will find Canadian battalions and brigades that individually think that they are the best (Laughter). You will find British battalions and brigades who have the same opinion. You will not find in the Canadian or British armies any unit that will acknowledge it can be beaten by any other, but you will find in the British and Canadian armies the premier of Great Britain they have the right man, Lloyd George.

In Right Hands. "I know that in excess to you the feeling and opinion of the men serving here who are trying to serve Canada to the utmost in every way, and every confidence that the destiny of Canada is in the right hands when entrusted to Sir Robert Borden.

"The prime minister of Great Britain, Sir Robert Borden, in his remarks tonight referred in very kindly terms to the efforts of the Canadians during the early period of the war, and of course the Canadians did. We lost a good many friends then, but I do not think they died in vain. You can take my word for it the Hun has paid a damned heavy toll since that time. (Cheers). And under the distinguished leadership of General Curlew, who is now in the Canadian corps, they will yet take a heavier toll. (Renewed cheers).

"I think the British army is like a family of brothers," continued Gen. Turner, "they often scrap among themselves until they run up against the common enemy."

"In addition to our fighting forces we must not forget the invaluable service rendered by our medical service. It has been gratefully acknowledged that one of the hospitals bombarded recently by the renegade Hun, performed the most excellent feat of evacuating all its wounded. By their ability and technical knowledge we very largely enabled our armies in France to become self-supporting. Those gentlemen among you who are acquainted with shipping will realize what that meant, and the fact that our railway battalions have made it possible by their technical knowledge, to enable supplies and munitions to be got up to meet the demands of the gunners.

Credit to British Troops. "Mr. Prime Minister, I want to thank you for your very kind remarks and assure you I only voice the opinions of every officer in England when I say, they may have cushy jobs and safe jobs in England, they would rather be out on the front where they can see the real effort that is being made. A great deal of credit has been given to us for what we did in the early days of the war, but we must not forget, however, that in the critical days there were British troops also engaged with us and that they rendered invaluable assistance.

"I remember on April 26, or 27 in the early morning, I was coming out from my brigade headquarters in the front line, when I saw a small battalion coming along the road. I stepped out to see what they were. I found them a detachment consisting of two officers and less than one hundred men. Buffs, which had been entrusted with the duty of helping the Canadians hold the line on the night of the 22nd.

"There was one short interval when the only gun we had to support us was a gun from a battery of the Royal Field Artillery, and that gun was in workshop at the time. The young officer in charge of the gun, hearing the racket outside, got his gun out of the workshop, and it rounds were fired with it. That is the sentiment we want to encourage. We want to beat the Hun. We want to stick together and don't make mountains out of mole hills."

CAPT. BALES PORT WARDEN.

Montreal, July 19.—Word was received today by George Hadrill, secretary of the board of trade, that the council's recommendation for the appointment of Capt. Jas. N. Bales as port warden here, to succeed the late Capt. Field, has been approved by order-in-council, and the appointment accordingly promulgated. Capt. Bales has already entered upon his new duties.

In the year 1917 Canada produced:

55% of all the Shrapnel; 42% of all the 4.5's; 27% of all the 6 inch Shells used by the British Army.

This is a proud achievement!

The Manufacturer of Munitions who refuses, in this crisis, to submit Labour differences to independent judgment, meanwhile continuing production, commits a crime against the State.

This is equally true of the Employee.

TOTAL REGISTRATION OVER FIVE MILLION. Ottawa, July 19.—A total registration of five million over was predicted by Senator Robertson, head of the Canada Registration Board this morning. Senator Robertson stated that he hoped to be able to announce the final figures of the registration shortly, but as yet returns were not published. The returns from 204 out of the 230 constituencies in Canada, he said, showed a total of 4,800,000 registrants, and in addition to these at least 200,000 cards would be received from constituencies in the Province of Quebec, where registration was being carried on thru the post-offices. "The total registration will exceed our estimate," said Senator Robertson, "and the results are very satisfactory." He stated that in the Province of Ontario, 101,000 agricultural prospects had offered themselves, whose names were now in the hands of the resources committee. More than 8000 unregistered persons of alien origin have been located and registered thru the instrumentality of the Canada Registration Board.

LOSS IN CHICKS

Some of the Defects in Dairy Butter.

The main defects in dairy butter as compared with creamery butter are (1) bad flavor, (2) staleness or rancidity, (3) too many shades of color, and (4) unsatisfactory packages.

STRAWBERRY DISEASES

By A. W. McCubbin

In the following notes there are dealt with the five most prominent strawberry diseases in Ontario.

Strawberry mildew appears during June and early July. It is due to a fungus which grows mainly on the under side of the leaves.

The mildew is rather erratic in its occurrence. In some years it is almost absent, and in others it is very prevalent over large areas.

The most useful means of combating strawberry mildew is in the use of ordinary sulphur, which should be applied to the rows when the first symptoms of mildew are noted.

During the last few years a great many strawberry plants have been lost in many plantations badly damaged by a peculiar "rot" of the roots.

It is encouraging to note that several cases have been observed where plantations which were seriously affected one year recovered and yielded well during the following year.

THE TWO MOST IMPORTANT ROTS OF STRAWBERRY FRUITS WHICH HAVE BEEN NOTED ARE THE DRY ROT AND LEAK.

Dry Rot, caused by a grey mold (Botrytis sp.), is a field trouble and is particularly common and destructive on fields which are unusually wet either from excessive rains or because of poor drainage.

KEEP SOME CHICKS IN BACK GARDEN

Easy to Keep and Feed, and Quickly Pay Expenses.

After the chicks are ten days old a good growing mash, composed of two parts by weight of bran, two parts middlings, one part cornmeal, one part low grade wheat flour or red dog middlings and 10 per cent. sifted beef scrap, may be given in a hopper.

When one has only a few chickens it is less possible to purchase the prepared chick feeds, but where a considerable number are reared it is sometimes cheaper to mix them together.

As soon as the chickens will eat the whole wheat—usually in about eight weeks—cracked corn and other grains, the small amount of bran should be eliminated.

Chickens confined to small yards should always be supplied with green feed such as clover, alfalfa or timothy.

Keeping Sweet Peas Blooming. All weeds, however small, must be kept out of the sweet pea rows.

Why Cabbage Plants Wilk. Cabbage plants may be found wilting at this season, as well as later, because of small white maggots feeding on the roots.

Kink in the Back. You bend over and can scarcely get straightened up again. This comes on you so suddenly you can't understand it.

This is lumbago. Like backache and rheumatism, it is the result of poisons in the blood.

Suggestions on Potato Growing

By Austin Richardson

The potato seems to offer much room for improvement in yield. I propose to suggest a few ideas as to the increasing of yield by seed selection.

If you observe any given number of hills of potatoes being taken up you will invariably find that a large percentage of them are not uniform in their yield.

Experiments have been carried out (O. A. C. Group) which seem to prove that the best part of the potato yields differently. That is to say, the top or eye part has a different yield to the middle part to each of the others.

As to cutting, first of all the potatoes should be cut in the same way. The standard should be made higher than six if the crop allowed, seedling, of course, good shaped potatoes.

Scabby potatoes are worth much less than good clean potatoes for cooking purposes because a considerable portion has to be pared off and the parings as a general rule contain the best part of the potato.

Scabby seed may be treated by soaking for two hours in a solution of formalin one pint of formalin to 40 gallons of water in a barrel.

NEW BIG BREAKS IN CORN MARKET

Allies' Triumphs and Other Favorable Factors Cause Slump at Chicago.

Chicago, July 19.—Fresh successes of the entente allies led to big new breaks today in the corn market. Prices closed unsettled, 2-7-8 to 3-5-8 net lower, with August 16 1/2 to 12 1/2-8 and September 13 1/2 to 14 1/2-8.

British sentiment regarding corn was so pronounced that the August delivery was forced down more than 10c from the high point of the previous day.

Orders for corn were heavy, but the day buying support was limited except from shorts whose profit-taking induced nervousness.

Provisions finally eased off a little with grain despite higher quotations on hog and notwithstanding liberal shipments.
