

The Government practically gave up the Remedial Bill to-night. Sir Charles Tupper moved that the committee rise and report progress. The proceedings thereafter took the form of a walk-out by Mr. Dickey, who was the gentleman who rendered the dirge. The opponents to the bill, which had been so long and so hard during the all-night sittings in defence of Manitoba, had no regrets to express as to the Government's action. In fact, Mr. McCarthy congratulated Sir Charles Tupper on the sensible move.

At the 11th hour Sir Charles, however, reiterated the support of the Government to the coercive measure. He would not admit that the death of the bill meant the abandonment by the Government of the policy of granting remedial legislation to the Manitoba minority.

Much objection was taken by supporters of the Government to the statement of Mr. Oulmet that remedial legislation would be in the forefront of the planks of the Conservative party at the coming elections. Mr. Davin, speaking for the Northwest, said he would be unable to travel under any such banner.

The attack of Major Sam Hughes on Mr. Wallace was the first of the day, second only to the dropping of the Remedial Bill.

Mr. Hughes attacked Wallace. A remarkable turn was given to the debate after dinner by Sam Hughes. The gallant major rose and asked Mr. Wallace if he charged him with writing the letter signed "West York Conservative," which appeared in The Mail a few days ago.

Mr. Wallace replied that Mr. Hughes had no right to catch him. He had not written that letter, and he had no recollection of the "The Mail" stating that he (Hughes) had nothing to do with it directly or indirectly.

Mr. Somerville—Where do you stand on this bill? (Laughter.)

Mr. Hughes, continuing, said that up to a few months ago no one stood higher in his estimation than Mr. Wallace.

Dr. Landarkin—That was his misfortune. (Laughter.)

Mr. Hughes said that Mr. Wallace was the last man in the world to talk about newspapers. He had given an article a few days ago he had given an article written by himself to the young and foolish reporter of The Toronto Telegram lauding the action of himself and his six associates who had fought against the bill.

Mr. Landarkin said that the names of Mr. Adolphe Caron and Mr. Montague were mentioned, and implied that the member for West York knew something of the matter.

Dr. Landarkin makes fun. Dr. Landarkin said he understood this matter was a conspiracy. He was not a judge. (Laughter.) It is not to be spoken of by any person outside the cabinet.

Mr. Hughes, ignoring this, went on to say that Mr. Wallace was animated by a noble motive. He had refused a Cabinet position on the ground that Mr. Wallace was his senior. Mr. Hughes then went on to speak of the North Ontario election and condemned Mr. Wallace for resigning at the time.

Mr. McGilvray's chances of election. Following this, he referred to Mr. Wallace's 12th of March speech, and charged that a portion of the published utterances had never been delivered.

Mr. Wallace in Reply. The faces of the Opposition members beamed with anticipatory smiles as Mr. Wallace arose to reply. When he began in a low tone they shouted "louder." While he was being so accepted Mr. Hughes stated that he had not written The Mail's letter to accept Mr. Hughes' statement.

Mr. Wallace corrected the statement that he had written the interview in The Toronto Telegram setting forth the position of the Ontario opponents of the Remedial Bill. So, he denied that the record proved he had once favored a Home Rule proposal. But he prophesied an interesting time for Mr. Hughes when he went back to North Victoria, which he said Wallace called his "double record" of opposition to the bill and the nights spent in the effort to put it through the House.

After observations from Mr. Martin, Mr. Macdowell protested against Mr. Davin's assumption of the great question of the entire territories. His constituency, Saskatchewan, certainly believed in the maintenance of the constitutional compromise.

Mr. Craig regretted to hear Mr. Oulmet's declaration. He was Conservative, but he dissented from the statement that this question was to be the chief plank of the Conservative platform. He was a firm believer in the trade policy of Government, and if Mr. Macdowell were agreed on the whole question, he would be put up a candidate in East Durham against him, seeing that they were making good progress at Winnipeg in the preparation of their report.

The report is to be in the hands of the respective Governments of Great Britain and the United States by the 1st of June, but it is not unlikely that an amicable agreement will be reached in a few months in order to complete some essential enquiries.

The discussion was continued by Messrs. Foster, Lister, Haslam and McGillivray.

The motion was adopted, the committee rose, and the House adjourned at 2.30 a.m.

Views of the Winnipeg Board of Trade, as Expressed in Resolutions for the London Meeting.

Winnipeg, Man., April 15.—(Special)—At the meeting of the Board of Trade today a series of questions, proposed for the consideration of the Congress of the Chambers of Commerce of the British Empire, to be held in London June next, were discussed, and the views of the board crystallized in the following resolutions.

"Considering the means established for inter-communication between the various parts of the Empire, and the necessities of agricultural production that can be met only by a complete scheme whereby trade between Great Britain and her colonies should be stimulated, extended, and the freest trade relations possible established, the advantages of freest exchange of commodities within the Empire on a preferential trade basis consistent with the principles of international commercial education."

"As to the general education which would favor the general system calculated to bring commerce and industry closer to a fuller popular education. The board would favor a uniform decimal system of weights and measures, and would approve of the closest possible trade relations between all the different colonies and dependencies of the Empire."

"The board would favor the appointment of a permanent Board of Arbitration for the settlement of international disputes; we realize the constitutional difficulty of such a uniform procedure on bills of exchange throughout all parts of the Empire."

"Mr. Laurier said, as to the regrets of Sir Charles that Mr. Dupont's amendments had not been presented to the committee, two ministers, Messrs. Dickey and Oulmet, pronounced against the constitutionality of this amendment. Mr. Dickey—The honorable gentleman is mistaken as regards myself.
