

Councils of Miners and Employers May Manage British Collieries

British miners and employers may manage British Collieries, and if this plan is consummated will mark one of the greatest epochal advances for Labor in world history, is the recent announcement that the mines of Great Britain are to be managed by workers and owners jointly. The Mining Association of Great Britain, which comprises all the leading colliery owners in the British Isles, has decided to invite the formation of joint councils of miners and employers to manage mines in certain defined districts. These joint councils will arrange and fix the standard of wages, labor costs, management and interest on capital. The mines also will be brought into intimate contact with all problems relating to selling prices and costs. By this plan, profits and wages that can be paid will all be an open book to the mine workers.

At a conference of Government officials and representatives of a number of trades unions, held to discuss the application of the Whitley system to Government establishments, the British Minister of Labor declared that the Government was ready to apply the system giving workmen a share of the

LONDON HEARS CONGRESS PRESIDENT

Industrial councils of workers and employers giving workers a voice in the direction of the plants in which they work, were one of the new developments in the relations of capital and labor, which constituted an interesting point in the address of President Tom Moore, of the Dominion Trades and Labor Congress, at a meeting, under the auspices of the London Trades and Labor Council, held at the Dominion Hotel, London, England, on Saturday, Feb. 28. Pointing out the need for more democracy in the management of industrial plants, Mr. Moore stated that a number of factories in Canada had already inaugurated workers' councils for the purpose of bringing employer and employee into closer and more harmonious working relations. It was even rumored that the Flavelle Packing firm had under contemplation the inauguration of such a council. He had interviewed employers who had placed entirely in the hands of their employees such matters as the sanitation and safety in the factories, and the results had been greatly satisfying to the employer as well as to the employee. While at first no plan had come forward with suggestions of all sorts of foolish innovations and supposed improvements, yet in their suggestions, and the expense to the employer at first for unwise alterations was more than covered in the real improvement gained through later suggestions of the employees.

BRIDGEBURG HAVE A DEPORTATION

Joseph Schlossberg, General Secretary of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers of America, has been deported to Buffalo by the Canadian inspectors at Bridgeburg, N. Y. Schlossberg is a Russian Jew, who was detained by immigration officials while on his way to Toronto and Hamilton, where he had been invited to speak at the meeting of the Clothing Weavers of America. In his possession they found a budget of inflammatory speeches that had been prepared by him for his lecture tours, which he had received from a man named Petrovsky at New York City. U. S. secret service officials came to Bridgeburg today, but would not permit Schlossberg to be taken to Buffalo, where he had been invited to speak at the meeting of the Clothing Weavers of America. Schlossberg, who is an American citizen, was deported to Buffalo, where he had been invited to speak at the meeting of the Clothing Weavers of America.

KINGSTON TRADE COUNCIL'S DESIRE CARRIES

Hereafter, Kingston will hold its municipal elections on New Year's Day, instead of on the first Monday of the year. During a debate thereon at the City Council meeting, the quarry was directed to whether the matter had been discussed by the local Trades Council. The answer being yes, also that they had on record favorable to the change. When it was suggested that other opinions should be sought, Ald. Smith remarked that he represented 1,700 members of organized workers who favored the New Year's Day elections. This declaration of the voters, a favorable vote being cast, Labor coming out on top again.

TORONTO 'BOBBIES' WANT UNION CHARTER

The members of the Toronto Police Union, want to retain their charter, which matter is in the hands of the Royal Commission, now considering the question. No surrender in the attitude of the union; to merely retain the inside union and to have the Executive wait on the board at its regular meetings with complaints and grievances. The Hamilton Police Union is behind the local union in its fight, as was shown by a telegram read at the meeting.

MONTREAL POLICE GET BACK PAY

The policemen on the Montreal force received their cheque for arrears in pay which was awarded by the Board of Arbitration. The amount of the cheque is considerable.

WESTERN VETERANS MAY LINK UP WITH TRADE UNIONISTS

As indicating the trend of thought in the West, there is a movement on foot among the G. W. V. A.'s in the Prairie Provinces to unite interests with the trade unions. Several branches of the Veterans have indicated to headquarters in Ottawa, their willingness to join, and form joint committees to further mutual interests. This movement is looked upon as an important one in G. W. V. A. circles, and is indicative of the current feeling among the western veterans. The civil servants only recently announced their readiness to discuss such an affiliation with organized labor, and the subject will be brought up at the annual meeting next month.

QUEBEC TRADES COUNCIL PROTEST MOVIE LEGISLATION

Strong protests against the bill now before the Legislature, which would prohibit children under 15 years of age attending moving picture shows, even if accompanied by their parents, were made at the meeting of the Trades and Labor Council last night when a resolution protesting against the proposed law was adopted unanimously and will be sent to Premier Gouin. The executive committee reported it had decided to leave to the new executive the duty of examining a draft bill, suggested by J. L. Brunet, secretary of the Union of Tramway Employees, by which legislation was suggested authorizing any allied employees to organize a union for the adjustment of wages and working conditions.

MONTREAL LABOR BUREAU REPORT

The number of unemployed in Montreal as shown on the books of the Provincial Labor Bureau at the end of the week was 555 men and 37 women. In the City of Quebec the records showed 174 men. In such case there was a slight increase on the figures of the previous week. The sluggishness in the building and construction trades still continues, also in the metal trades. More applicants of the office type are also coming to the Labor Bureau. The casual laborer was not quite so much in evidence, as apparently the snow-removal work had absorbed more of those men during the past week. As regards outside districts, the lumber work in the camps has closed down and nothing in that line will be doing for a few weeks.

TORONTO FIREMEN SEEK PENSION REVISION

The rank and file of Toronto's fire-fighters resent the suggestion that a Fire Commissioner be appointed to administer the department. They claim there are enough competent men in the department among the present officers to conduct the brigade. The Firemen's Union, which claims the membership of every man on the job, except four firemen, are going to demand that a flat rate be struck for the percentage of the men's salary payable to the benefit fund. At present the older men pay seven per cent, while some men pay 3 1/2 per cent, and the new men coming on pay as high as 10 1/2 per cent.

TORONTO STREET RAILWAY-MEN'S INCREASES

Employees of the Toronto Railway Company received their first pay this week, under the award of the Board of Conciliation, which met recently in Toronto. Under the award the men received 2 cents and 2 1/2 cents increase, and the increase dates back to November 1st. Today, the men receive an additional $1,000 between them. The rates of pay for the employees of the company before the award, and since the award was put into effect, are:

QUEBEC LEGISLATURE AND CHILD LABOR

What is considered practically a law of compulsory education in a limited degree is embodied in a bill amending the Quebec Industrial Establishment Act relative to child labor, which was presented in the assembly by the Hon. L. A. Taschereau, Minister of Labor. The measure is intended to reach the children up to the age of 16 years, such as those employed in hotels, office boys or messengers, newspaper vendors, children in any industrial establishment or in any employment whatever. It will be required of such children to produce a certificate from school teachers showing that they have completed the necessary course of studies before leaving school. At the present time such certificates are not exacted from children over 15 years of age.

P. M. DRAPER SAYS

LONDON, Feb. 27.—P. M. Draper, official representative of Canadian Labor at the peace conference, said the Dominion today on board the Mauretania.

President Tom Moore Addresses Canadian Manufacturers' Ass.

President Tom Moore was the guest of honor of the Canadian Manufacturers Association, at the dinner given at Montreal, on the 28th inst., and he was accorded an enthusiastic reception from his introduction. At the outset of his address, President Moore thought it was an indication of a more friendly attitude between labor and capital in Canada today, when he, the head of trades unionism in Canada, was the guest of honor at a banquet of an association which was supposed to be the strongest opponents of trades unionism. "But," said Mr. Moore, "in opposing trades unionism so strongly, the Canadian Manufacturers' Association and other kindred bodies of employers are really hurting themselves in the eyes of the workers, who, with reason, come to look upon their trade union members of the association before him tonight, had suffered from the mistakes of unions led by such dictators, but that the responsible, intelligent trades unionist was the capitalist's strongest bulwark, if only his friendly co-operation was extended to him, since the trades unionist and, indeed, the worker, fully realized that the downfall of the capitalist was the cessation of the work in the factory spelled his own idleness and possible starvation.

The civilization of the future is what we make it, and the time has come for labor and capital to join hands in solid friendship for the betterment of the world. The speaker mentioned better housing conditions for the workers, and might as well try to get a healthy plant, deprived of air and sunshine, as try to make a good citizen of a worker, deprived of the education, in a miserable hovel," said President Moore. Then there was the question of unemployment insurance, which would avoid the cessation of work at least a temporary suspension until such time as he could get work. "The trouble is not over-production, but under-consumption, and we must broaden our own Canadian markets to meet this condition," President Moore was against the introduction in any factory of any working scheme which would diminish the power of trades unionism, for individual effort is at best mediocre, but when united action is taken, the product is better in quality, and the worker becomes more skilled. Another point was to educate the worker and give him a chance to rightly educate his children, for it is the children that make a great country, and that country, with the highest intellect will be the leader in the world.

Still another means to better the worker is the doing away with child labor, and the liberating of 35,000 women workers in Montreal, so that they can devote themselves to bringing up their children, instead of being forced to work in the streets, the mercy of neighbors or the streets, while they themselves go out to work. Mr. Moore called attention to the speech from the throne of yesterday, in which many remedial measures were outlined for the Government to act upon. It is an evidence of what can be done, that recently, capitalists, laborers and scientists formed a joint delegation and urged upon the Cabinet the necessity of Parliament in the most timely manner in the world, in which we all have a personal interest, until we get all we're after," concluded Mr. Moore, amid great cheering.

ALMONTE TEXTILE WORKERS' HOURS

Almonte Local No. 2,000, United Textile Workers of America, was recently formed on the initiative efforts of the Trades Congress. The financial secretary, M. N. Playfair, has recently supplied the following information on the question of hours, also showing the active interest they are now taking in the movement. Following is the statement:

Until recently, all mills commenced work at 6:30 a.m., working 10 1/2 hours per day, and on Saturdays, 10 hours, except one mill, which had a six-hour Saturday. Thus, it will be seen it was a 69-hour week for two mills, and 66 1/2 hours for the other. The working hours now are 7 a.m. to 6 p.m., and on Saturdays, 7 to 12:30, making a 56 1/2-hour week. On the 10th of January, the working hours were dropped off to the employers, I must state that it was voluntarily granted by them, and that all workers affected suffered no deduction of pay. The long hours of labor is one of several reasons why the textile workers of America, is the pioneer textile union in the Ottawa Valley, and we are going strong. The movement was only launched in January, 1919, and now we are over the 300 mark in membership, and affiliated with the American Federation of Labor and also with the Trades and Labor Congress of the Dominion.

SYDNEY MINES ADOPT 8 HOUR DAY

After a meeting held between operators of the coal areas of Cape Breton and their employees recently, two of the three concessions asked for by the workers were granted. These were for permission to affiliate with the United Mine Workers of America and the granting of an eight-hour day for the underground workers of the mines. The third item in the routine business for discussion was that of wages, but as most of the associations are under contracts with the operators for a time yet, this matter was not taken up seriously, only with a view of paving the way for the discussion, which will come after these contracts have expired. There were many tangles to be unraveled and to be discussed, but the respective cases with decision there was no actual ill-feeling and both sides are satisfied with their conclusions.

BRANTFORD ASKS FOR PROPERTY QUALIFICATION ABOLISHED

Brantford City Council, has gone on record for the abolition of the property qualification for municipal offices. They are going further in securing the assistance of similar bodies invoking aid to this end, in an appeal to the provincial Government for the change in legislation that calls for property qualification. The local Trades Council, through Secretary David Greaves, are being notified of this action, with a view to urging the various civic representatives to assist the efforts of the Brantford Council.

'PEG CITY' WORKERS ASK INCREASES

A flat increase of $15 per month for all city employees was demanded at the request of the union employees. Increased cost of living was the basis for the request. It is stated that an increase of $100 to the civic pay-roll would follow the granting of this request, but this cannot be used in any form of argument, as the figure for these is a standard which is desirable.

TO AVOID LABOR DISTURBANCES.

DURING the crucial period of reconstruction there must be no disastrous differences between Labor and Capital—no rending of our national industrial fabric. On harmony between employers and employees depends the solution of most of the problems coincident with transition from war-time to peace-time conditions.

VETERANS' VOCATIONAL TRAINING.

PUTTING the disabled veteran back into industrial life is a big job with many different angles. The decision by the returned man to undertake a course of industrial training must be a voluntary one; otherwise his whole heart will not be in the work.

A great aid in helping a soldier to decide about his future is acquaintance with the records of other men with similar physical handicaps, who have made good—men who have been trained and who are now holding jobs at substantial wages.

The ideal trade is one in which the wage standards are high, the employment steady and the demand for labor constantly increasing.

The section of the country in which a man lives also has a bearing on the choice of a trade in which he is to receive instruction. Thus, a Canadian living in Hamilton may be trained as a machinist; the same man, if a resident of a far western province, would better be given instruction in the operation of motor tractors for agricultural work.

A Letter For You

Help Industry Wave Her Wand

THE Friend and Supporter of Labor is Industry. The most potent Wand in the hand of Industry to-day is Education.

BY wisely and judiciously waving the Wand of Education another powerful friend is brought to the side of Labor---Public Opinion.

GAZE about you in the work spots of those who toil; Public Opinion has demanded and gained for Labor more sanitary factories and working conditions; safety first devices; workmen's compensation; the beginning of old age pensions; improved hours and wages.

THERE is much yet to be gained in the matter of Wages and Hours of Labor.

THERE are some smudges---child labor---cheap alien labor; anti-union feeling---to be wiped away by the Wand of Industry. But these things, too, will be dealt with in due season. Public Opinion---the Friend of Labor---will see to it.

KNOWLEDGE is Power. Use that power to exalt Labor. Co-operate for a better, bigger, busier Canada. Strengthen Industry's hand. Help her wave her wand from the Atlantic to the Pacific.
