WILD JUBILATION AT VICTORIA

Old-Time Charivari When Two Popular Young People Wed—Other Interesting Matters

Just a few notes at this time to re-new our acquaintance with old Observer friends!

In union with all the wide world the West Side is making preparations to observe the recurrence of the season of "good will and good cheer."

Our school closed on Friday after a satisfactory term under the guidance of excellent teachers, Miss McKay at Somerville and Miss Hallett at Victoria. Miss Hallett and her pupils marked the closing of a highly satisfactory term by a public entertainment which was enjoyed by a good audience. The excellence of the entertainment program and the deportment of the small pupils, evidenced the good judgment and capability of the teachers. In connection with an effort of the pupils to finance some needed improvements and additions to the school equipment a sale of baskets formed a part of the entertainment and certainly this innovation added some spice to an already enjoyable evening. The bidding was brisk throughout and at times competition was sharp indeed. The sales of some fourteen baskets netted the sum of $60. This added to $15 left from a previous entertainment makes a tidy sum at the disposal of the pupils for the carrying out of their plans. Both schools are fortunate in securing the return of such excellent teachers for the coming term.

Miss Hazel Birmingham has continued her work among her numerous pupils in music and is home to enjoy a holiday.

Miss M. Kathleen Albright, who is a student at the Provincial Normal School, came up from the celestial city to spend the Christmas season with her parents.

Miss Pearl Albright, lately popular as a "Hello Girl" in the "Farmers" was here to attend the concert and social given night. This bright little girl has won a large degree of appreciation by her connections and capable service at both Hartland and Florenceville where she has done duty as a telephone operator.

Numbers from the West Side have been attending the special meetings at Hartland despite the continued inconvenience of crossing on the uncertain ice.

Among a number from Waterville to attend the affair of Friday night were Miss MacInroy, Miss Gerald MacInroy, Miss Hayden, Miss McLean and Messrs. Culbertson, Hallett, Hayden, Springer and Grass.

Quite suddenly on Wednesday of last week the quiet of the West Side was rudely shattered by overhauling smithereens by one of the most outlandish upstarts ever produced by any combination of musical charivari band ever collected on any occasion, in any known community under the blue canopy of heaven. The sent and cause of this hullabaloo was quickly traced to a visit of two popular West Side young people to the United Baptist parsonage at an early hour of this same day, when Frank N. Shaw and Miss Mabel Cook boldly announced to Pastor Barton that they had come to be married and for no other purpose. An interesting few minutes ensued when that was said which ended for all time the chapter of single blessedness, in the life's story of the principals in this event. The neighbors had recently begun to suspect that Frank must be going down to Mrs. Cook's to see Mabel and what "they say" does not count in any man's country. So there were a few at least who were in the know to some degree. Miss Cook is well and favorably known and has long been favorite dressmaker in many of the best homes in the county, while of the other half of this new firm it is conceded that he is a good fellow, well met and on all occasions has been one of "the boys." He is one of Shaw Bros., well and widely known through Eastern Canada as successful breeders of pure bred Shorthorns and Berkshire hogs, stock that is making the name of these progressive young Canadian breeders and Highland Farm the insignia of quality and value in the particular breeds produced at this farm. The many friends of Mr. and Mrs. Shaw will be pleased to continue an always pleasant friendship and will enjoy visiting them in their newly established home at Highland Farm.

Miss Helen Oliver, who is a student at the vocational school, Woodstock, is another West Side girl home for the holidays.

Wiggins Orange Lodge

The December meeting of Wiggins L. O. O. F. East Florenceville was recently held and was of more than usual interest. Being the annual meeting, election of officers took place, most of the old officers being re-elected. A large attendance was present. A feature of the meeting was the fact of the presence of George S. Wiggins of Four Falls, and other visitors.

Wiggins Lodge was organized 10 years ago and Mr. Wiggins was its first worshipful master. The Lodge is named after Mr. Wiggins' father, the late Stephen Wiggins. Mr. Wiggins addressed the members at some length and, needless to say, his remarks were much appreciated. After the business was completed the brethren in a body assembled at the residence of E. W. Saunders where an oyster supper was served by the ladies. This Lodge is now in a flourishing condition, new additions being frequent.

The Andover-Perth basketball boys went to Fort Fairfield Friday night where they played a return game with the Fort boys. The game was a good one. Some rather rough usage on the parts of two or three. The Fort Fairfield boys won with a majority of three points. Score 23 to 26. About 30 from Andover and Perth accompanied the boys to witness the game and were very pleasantly entertained by our Maine friends.

Ross Flemington who is attending Sackville College, arrived home Saturday to spend the holiday with his parents, Rev. and Mrs. Flemington.

Raymond Bishop, a student of the U. N. B., is spending a week or two with friends in River de Chute and Andover.

Kilburn to Harold V. Hunt of Clinton, Me., the marriage to take place in January. The second is that of H. T. Kirby, now of Saskatoon but formerly of St. John, (and well known in our villages) to Miss Jean A. Torrie, daughter of Mrs. Iba Torrie of Moncton, the marriage to take place in December. The best wishes of all are extended to these young people for a long life full of joy and happiness.

George McLaughlin of Perth is a business visitor in St. John this week.

A most unique and interesting evening's entertainment was given Thursday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Rogers when their daughters, the Misses Beth and Justine, entertained their friends at a ghost party. Novel inventions were issued on black cards, accompanied by the skull and cross bone symbol, requesting the young men to be at Mr. Gillett's store at 8.34 o'clock. There they were met by the young ladies dressed as ghosts, and were taken to the Rogers' home where a ghost program of dances, stories, etc. were the amusements of the evening. Delicious refreshments were served and at a late hour the guests departed for home. Those present were Miss Helen Scott, Mrs. Ivan Rivers, Miss Sandra Howlett, Misses Isabel and Frances Wooten, Miss Jessie Jamer, Miss Ellen Robinson, Miss Titus, Miss Helen Spike, Randolph Bennett, Gage Montgomery, Charles Howard, Humphrey Flemington, George Wooten, Barrett Jamer, Thomas Walker, Ivan Rivers and Messrs. ## "My! How I did used to dread having the Threshers come—but I don't mind now."

"WHY, a year ago I could no more think of cooking a big dinner than I could fly.

"I did not seem to have any strength then, and a little extra work or excitement would use me up for a week.

"The doctor said my nerves were weak and that I had nervous prostration. I certainly was nervous and irritable. I was always worrying about something.

"It all looks very foolish now. But that is just the difference between being weak and strong.

"Why doesn't every woman use Dr. Chase's Nerve Food when she gets run-down in health?

"But I suppose they do not all know about it or do not realize what it will do for them. Then perhaps some of them do not use it long enough to build up their exhausted nervous systems.

"One thing sure, the women of this community will know all about Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, for they know how miserable I was, and I will see that they know what I used to make me well.

"I certainly did get into a terribly run-down condition, but no one would believe it to see me now since using Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. I can now take a real pleasure in life and its activities.

"And why shouldn't I? I sleep like a top, enjoy my meals and get outdoors where the fresh air and sunshine help to keep me feeling fine.

"I don't believe people appreciate good health until they have been sick for a time. I am sure that I did not. The credit for my splendid health now is undoubtedly due to the use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, and I want every woman to know it."

CONDITIONS IN BUSINESS ALONG THE ST. JOHN RIVER

Business conditions along the St. John River are only fair at this time, the potato market having quite a lot to do with this condition of affairs. Last year the farmers were receiving high prices while this year the price is around $1.75 and $2, with no demand even at that low figure.

Under these circumstances the farmers have practically no cash available, and as a result business generally has been more or less affected. Towards the headwaters of the St. John many of the merchants in the small towns are unloading considerable of their stock by means of cheap sales (prices on some goods being lower than in St. John) and thus endeavoring to augment their turn-over, but even with this attraction not very much trade is being enticed.

For a while a saving feature was the fact that pulpwood remained high, but prices have now lowered and this drop means that not so much will be cut as was at first anticipated. It is rumored that the Fraser Company's large pulp mill at Edmondston may soon have to close down, as there has been practically no demand for pulp and their warehouses are about full to capacity. Last week they cut down the time of the men by one day, only operating on Tuesday and Saturday, with Monday a day for repairing the mill, and Sunday a general rest day. If the Fraser concern should shut down for several months it would mean that times would be far from good in the town of Edmondston.

Under present circumstances labor is quite plentiful. Many of the men come out of the woods rather than accept the new wage schedule. On the American side lumbermen in the woods are getting around $110 a month and these wages have now been cut to $62 a month—a decided decrease.

In some places on our side of the border wages, formerly averaging from $90 in the woods a month have now been cut to $60 a month, and from this it may be judged that the men's financial circumstances will not be nearly so good as a year ago.

The present conditions of the potato market is causing a good deal of concern in some quarters. Many of the farmers having benefited to a large extent by the high market for the past two years, went in for this particular line of crop on a more extensive scale. It cost them a good deal for fertilizer and it is said by authority that under present conditions the farmer can hardly raise a barrel of potatoes under $2 or $2.50. There are some large crops reported, but there has been no demand for potatoes, the first the year the fertilizer bill, a really substantial item, in the farmers' budget, will have to be met, and without returns from their crops it is generally felt that the farmers will have difficulty in most cases realizing this amount. Adding to that they have the usual domestic expenses to meet, and it would seem as though the winter would likely be a very quiet one as far as the farmers spending money is concerned.

Many of the smaller dealers in the country districts particularly have been carrying quite heavy stocks and without being able to realize on their book debts to the usual extent they are finding it harder to finance now. Wholesale merchants in St. John however, report that commercial paper has been well taken up to the present time.—Telegraph.

THE DAY ENDS

It is five o'clock. A pile of letters lies on your desk ready for your signature.

You read and sign, and then these letters are turned over to the care of His Majesty's mail.

You are finished? Not so.

You have just begun, to-morrow, the day after or whenever these letters are received, you begin.

You, in the shape of envelope, paper, words and signature, begin personal interview. You and your business, or you and the corporation you represent, begin a business discussion. Does appearance count? Is the impression left by your presentation by correspondence of value to your interview, and to your business standing. Appearance does count. Good impressions are the beginning of favorable decisions.

Beautiful writing papers of quality cost very little more than shoddy products.

The Observer carries in stock the very finest papers made in Canada—but they cost money—and are worth it.

IF YOU WERE RICH AND ARISTOCRATIC AND BEAUTIFUL—if you wore a man's engagement ring—WOULD YOU BE JEALOUS OF A GIRL IN RAGS? Angela was. But she had a reason. See "THE BRAT," the wonderful melodrama based on Maude Fulton's sensational stage at the Star Theatre. IT WILL TEACH YOU MANY LESSONS.

SHE FIRED TWICE AND FELL DEAD AT HIS FEET—he realized too late that he loved her. THEN CAME THE REVELATION. What was it? How was the snarl untangled? You will learn all about it by seeing the supreme NAZIMOVA in "THE BRAT," a screen version of Maude Fulton's sensational stage success, at the Star Theatre. IT IS A STORY OF LIFE'S HIGH LIGHTS AND DEEP SHADOWS, DRAWN BY A MASTER HAND.

WALKED TO TOWN FOR MORE TANLAC

Says He Couldn't Walk At All Without His Crutches Until He Started On Tanlac

"I have walked all the way to town to get another bottle of Tanlac, and I'm just feeling fine, and yet when I started on the medicine a few weeks ago, I couldn't get around without the help of crutches," recently said John Olsen, sailor, aboard the S. S. Thomas E. Drummond, sailing from St. John's, New Brunswick.

"It's about two years since the rheumatism began to trouble me in the knees, but about last September it got so bad that I couldn't put my foot to the ground and the pain was something awful. At nights I used to lie in my bunk in perfect agony, unable to sleep, and this told so on my nerves that I used to tremble like a leaf. I lost all desire for food and got very thin and weak, and had to give up my job and go to Halifax for special treatment. But in spite of everything I tried I got worse instead of better.

"I saw several statements in the papers about people getting wonderful relief from troubles like mine by taking Tanlac and so when everything else failed I gave it a trial, thinking to myself that at least it would do me no harm. The first few bottles gave me a good appetite and my food seemed to be doing me good, for I gained several pounds in weight. So I kept right on with it and gradually it seemed to drive the rheumatism out of my system. The pains in my knees began to ease up, and soon I was able to lay my crutches aside and get around with the aid of a stick. Then after a bit I was able to do away with the stick also, until now I can get about without any help whatever and feel almost like a boy again. All signs of nervousness have left me and I can sleep the clock round. Many of my friends say they hardly know me for the same man that I was a few months ago, because I look so much better in every way. I certainly am feeling in fine shape again and am only too glad to tell others about the wonderful medicine which has done so much for me."

Tanlac is sold in Hartland by Essey & Curtis Company, and E. L. Field, Bloomfield, and by the leading druggists in every town.

"ALL RIGHT, JUDGE, GIVE ME THIRTY DAYS!" So said the girl when she faced a trumped up charge in the Night Court. SHE WANTED TO GO TO JAIL. Would you like to know why? See the supreme NAZIMOVA in "THE BRAT" at the Star Theatre. It's a screen version of Maude Fulton's great stage play.

SOCIETY SAT IN THE FRONT ROW—with lorgnettes leveled at the nameless girl who danced in the deprecation of despair. IT WAS HER GREAT CHANCE AND SHE FAILED. What happened next? What was her way out? The school closing took place on Dec. 16. Many visitors were present. On Dec. 17 the Advanced Department held a public debate, "City Life vs Country Life." Country Life won by a very few points. This debating club has just been organized and we hope to make of it a grand success. Those present were much pleased with the ability shown by the pupils.

Victoria as leader for the affirmative side had the able assistance of Allen Baker, Marion Baker and Lillian McGee. Mary Melville was leader of the negative side, and was assisted by Mildred Orser, Hilda Nevers and Joy Small. The negative side won by several points.

THE DEFENDED LINE

There is a line we should defend.
It is the line of Truth;
If that line we do not defend,
There'll trouble be for us both.

We all should stand up for the Truth.
The Truth we should walk in;
If we will walk in God's own Truth,
He'll cleanse us from all sin.

It's God's own Truth we should defend.
The blood should freely flow;
Defend the Truth that says Christ's blood
Makes "whiter than the snow."

If men will walk in God's own Truth,
That will reform each nation;
Will bring about a righteous state,
By walking in salvation.

This is the Truth that Paul did tell,
First "Righteousness" then "peace";
First get men's hearts made free from sin,

Mr. Allison Endowment Fund

SACKVILLE, N.B., Dec. 14, 1920.—
That the Board of Regents of Mount Allison intend to throw all of their energies into the proposed endowment campaign was evidenced at a joint meeting of the Board of Regents and their Zone Chairman held at the University today.

The most minute details of the plan of campaign were discussed and it was decided that the plan of organization should be carried into every Methodist Church in the Maritime Provinces, for while Mount Allison Institutions are not restricted to students of Methodist faith, it is the only Methodist University in the British Empire with the power to confer degrees. In addition, it is to Mount Allison that the great majority of Methodist Ministers of the Maritime Provinces have received their theological training.

At a joint meeting here today, practically every member of the Province was represented, the following members being present: Col. Frank M. Black, General Campaign Chairman; B. C. Borden, D. D., D. C. L., President; Hon. J. Wood, Treasurer; Dr. J. M. Palmer, Secretary; Sackville, J. T. Burchell, Sydney; Rev. Robt. Fulton, Halifax; R. B. Hanson, Fredericton; Justice Joseph, Sussex; George Killam, Yarmouth; H. P. Robinson, St. John; W. B. Snowball, Chatham; R. C. Tait, Shediac; J. T. Wilson, Halifax; H. M. Wood, Sackville; Rev. J. W. McConnell, Halifax; and A. S. Rogers, B. D., Amherst.

Cause of Early Old Age

The celebrated Dr. Michelson, an authority on early old age, says that it is "caused by poisons generated in the intestine." When your stomach digests food properly it is absorbed without forming poisonous matter. Poisons bring on early old age and premature death. 15 to 30 drops of "Seigel's Syrup" after meals makes your digestion sound.

COUNTER CHECK BOOKS

For years The Observer has done a large business in both manufacturing and selling for others counter check books and sales books. In 1918 we were given the agency for the well known line of McCaskey's Registers and Sales Books, and since that time have sold hundreds of dollars worth of their goods. They give no exclusive territory to any agent, and any person purporting to be a special salesman is merely selling on the same commission basis as ourselves. No others can quote lower prices on any quantities than ourselves.

Recently the manager of The Observer perfected an entirely new method of making these books and they are meeting with great success. One of the largest wholesale houses in Eastern Canada has applied for the privilege of selling this "Made-in-Hartland" product.

The Observer has also been appointed dealer-agent for Office Specialties Mfg. Co. and can supply, at manufactured prices any of that well known company's goods from a sheet of copy paper to a complete suite of office furniture in solid and fire-proof cabinets.

All correspondents in surrounding towns and districts should send in their contributions so as to reach the office on Monday. If any news of value is discovered later send it in soon as possible after Monday.

ARE YOU INTERESTED?

Early last Spring a gentleman drove into our Battery Service Station with an inoperative battery, the result of Winter neglect. He had reached the conclusion that "the battery was no good."

We of course had to explain that the battery hadn't been properly cared for during the long months of Winter inactivity; depreciation had been rapid and the battery was practically worthless. But the owner remembered the home-made "care" he had given his battery, and said: "Why I took the Battery off the car, brought it to the house and put it in the cellar behind the furnace. What more could you expect?"

The Service Man then explained in detail how a battery must be stored and cared for during the cold months—how it must be recharged to keep it in condition to resist cold weather and prevent internal injury while idle. "Of course, I see my mistake now," replied the owner, "but if I were a car dealer or garage, I'd warn my customers about such things."

May we suggest this be YOUR WARNING to insure yourself against unnecessary battery expense next Spring, by leaving your battery with us this Winter?

"THE BRAT" IS ANOTHER NAZIMOVA SENSATION

"The Brat," Nazimova's latest production and the successor to "The Red Lantern," will be shown at the Star Theatre Christmas Eve. Interest will be added to the star's adroit performance by the fact that she herself, in collaboration with Charles Bryant, adapted Maude Fulton's successful stage play to the screen. It was scenarized by June Mathis.

"The Brat" is the first of Nazimova's screen or stage impersonations that presents her as an American girl. Her great fame hitherto has been derived from portrayals of Latin and other European and Asiatic types; but as a real American girl, the product of a crowded city, she revealed anew her extraordinary ability as a feminine virtuoso of the emotions.

The story relates the experiences of "the brat," a nameless girl who loses her job in the chorus and who, cast forth into a pitiless world, is first insulted by a masquerade and then hated to the Night Court on a trumped up charge. There an author in search of "local color" and especially for a heroine for his forthcoming novel, rescues her and takes her to his aristocratic home.

Their friendship ripens into love and "the brat" shows pretty soon that beneath her rough and slangy exterior she is woman with tenderness and warm sympathy. She saves the author's ne'er-do-well brother from the consequences of his follies and in the end brings the novelist to a realization that he loves her and cannot live without her.

Nazimova's acting is superb, and her wonderful characterization is heightened by the generally humorous quality of the subtleties, which convey "the brat's" odd collection of slang phrases and whimsical philosophy. Mr. Bryant, as the star's leading man in the role of MacMillan Forrester, the absent-minded but likable author, is splendid. Others in the exceptional cast are Frank Currier, Darrell Foss, Henry Kolker, Amy Veness, Bonnie Hill, Millie Davenport and Ethelbert Knecht.

The entire production has been made upon a lavish scale. It was directed by Herbert Blanche, under the personal supervision of Maxwell Hunter, director general.

CLEANING UP

By MYRA E. MAJOR

(Copyright, 1920, Western Newspaper Union.)

There were six boarders at the home of Mrs. Luella Goodwin and they were a congenial and pretty well satisfied sextette. There was a Mr. Enid Gray and his young wife, the two Misses Ward, spinsters, Gordon Lisle and Millie Forrester. The young man last named was an industrial engineer, the young lady an assistant bookkeeper, and with them principally the story has to do.

The Grays had just started out in married life, Gordon Lisle was at the time working on a salary and Miss Forrester was a beginner in her then existing position. She and the Grays were content to occupy rooms on the third floor, while Lisle had an apartment in the half attic. The Misses Ward, having an income from a small estate, were able to pay for more pretentious quarters on the floor below, but these grades of means did not affect the regard with which Mrs. Goodwin considered them. All were welcome to the double parlor on the first floor, and many pleasant concert evenings they passed, Mrs. Goodwin the delighted high priestess of so much harmony and comfort, Millie at the piano, Lisle accompanying her with his violin, the spinsters always called upon for an old time duet and the Grays in an ecstasy of enjoyment sentimentally holding hands.

It was when there was a break in this perfect circle that Millie grew sad and thoughtful and the others lost their former home interest. The young man had told his friends enough to indicate that he had lingered in the city to contest a lawsuit which involved a large amount due him from an engineering corporation. The case went against him and he was a very much disappointed man.

"Somehow I lost all the important papers in the matter," he told Millie sorrowfully the evening they parted. "I have got to go back to hard work, penniless and defrauded. It is a disappointment to have you go out of my life, Miss Forrester," he added with deep feeling, "for your company has been a pleasure and an inspiration to me. I have asked my sister, Mrs. Bartley, to invite you to her home, for she will miss you, too, and it will be a solace to me to realize that you two are sometimes thinking of me."

"I shall never forget you," answered Millie with truth and emotion, and she broke down in tears after his departure. Once a week after that on invitation Millie was an evening guest of Lisle's sister. They became true friends and more so than ever when on one occasion Mrs. Bartley told Millie that she was the only girl Gordon had ever loved and Millie, overcome, confessed that he had won the affection she had never before revealed. In heart to heart sympathy those two read the frequent letters the brother wrote to his sister and they sent back messages of hope and cheer.

Mrs. Goodwin, the kindly landlady, took her first vacation in twenty years and by a mere coincidence exactly at the time that Millie was apportioned hers. A helpful impulse came to the latter after she had decided that she would remain in the city during the two weeks spell of leisure. Mrs. Goodwin had been kind and motherly toward her and Millie set at work to repay all her friendly consideration. The portly landlady did her best, but amid her multitudinous duties she neglected cleaning house that spring. The vacant room that Lisle had occupied had not found another tenant.

In a systematic way Millie started to have a grand surprise for Mrs. Goodwin when she returned. Mrs. Gray gave her what assistance she could and the cleaning up program was good practice for the bride of a year and gave Millie a new insight as to household work.

Somehow it saddened, yet engrossed her to work in the room that Lisle had occupied. It had not been touched since his departure and he had left some framed pictures on the wall, there was an old straw hat in a closet and in wastebasket pencil sketches of bridge and conduit work that he had mapped out. On a window ledge Millie came upon a faded rose bud. She wondered if it was one she had worn in her hair and gave to him one evening.

Millie did not evade a thorough renovation of the neglected room. There was a wardrobe chest of drawers set in a niche and all of these she dislodged and scrubbed and made sweet and clean. As she was setting one back in the place her eyes fell upon a crushed package of papers wedged behind a lining board and the bottom of the wardrobe. She drew it forth. Ten minutes later, hurriedly dressed and all in a flutter, Millie hastened from the house to seek the sister of the man she loved.

"These must be the missing papers your brother so often told me about," spoke Millie breathlessly. "Oh! if so, do they not mean something to him?" and Mrs. Bartley uttered a glad cry as she looked them over.

"Oh, Millie!" she cried joyously, "they are the precious documents, indeed! We must wire Gordon at once. You glorious girl. You have restored his fortune and"—she paused and bestowed upon Millie an interrogative glance.

"Yes," replied Millie frankly and bravely, "and love, true and lasting as it was his long ago."

LOCAL AND PERSONAL ITEMS

Our town was shocked last week at the comparatively sudden passing of Mrs. Mary J. Reid. Deceased had been in her usual good health until Thursday morning when she was found in an unconscious condition, having been stricken with cerebral hemorrhage, while about her usual duties.
Medical assistance was immediately summoned but despite all efforts the patient failed to rally from the coma into which she had fallen and passed peacefully away on Thursday with absolutely no symptoms of suffering and without regaining consciousness. Deceased was 66 years of age and had spent all her life in this vicinity. Her immediate relatives left to mourn are J. Reid, David Reid, whom she made her home, another brother, William of Digby and a niece, Mrs. Frank Phinney of Lynn, Mass. Additional to these is a long list of relatives and friends.
The funeral services were held at her late home and in the United Baptist church by Rev. H. R. Bell and interment made in the adjoining cemetery.
Mrs. Frank Phinney of Lynn, Mass., arrived on Friday, called home by the sudden illness of her aunt, the late Miss Mary Reid.

C. A. McBride was the winner of a beautiful Brunswick phonograph in the contest recently staged by the Carlton Sentinel and which came to a finale on Monday. Unfortunately he just lacked a few thousand votes of winning the Grand Prize. A person may now get a very easy opportunity of securing this phonograph by securing a ticket from Clark.

grievously shocked on Friday to hear of the sudden death at Houlton of Mrs.
Trueman Jones. Mrs. Jones was for many years Tracey of Tracey Mills and spent her early life there and at Knoxford. Some ten years ago Mr.
and Mrs. Jones moved to Donkey, Ariz., where they made their home until two years ago, when they returned to N. B. and have lately made their home in Houlton. The incident is peculiarly distressing to the husband as he was here attending the funeral of his father within the fortnight. Besides the husband and one son Mrs.
Jones is survived by an aged mother
a brother, Mark Tracey of Tracey Mills and a sister, Mrs. L. M. Cross-kirk of Centreville. The funeral services were held from her late home in Houlton.
