Ovation.

SUN BREAKS FROM CLOUDY SKY
AS THE KING STARTS FOR ABBEY

Procession From the Palace to the Cathedral
Furnishes Pageant of Unexampled
Magnificence.

[Canadian Press.]

London, June 22.—King George V., eighth of the House of Hanover, was today consecrated to the service of the British Empire, and in turn received the public homage of his worldwide subjects.

With his consort, Queen Mary, his majesty was crowned in the abbey of Westminster, with all the wealth of religious rites and royal ceremonial prescribed by historic custom.

The picture within the grey-walled fabric was one of mediaeval splendor. The coronation services, solemn and imposing, were those handed down from the earlier centuries, and the actors in the principal secondary roles of today's great function were garbed in reproductions of the multi-colored, gold-embroidered trappings worn by their ancestors in bygone generations. The latter made up a wonderfully effective scene around the central figures.

A MASS OF COLOR.

Outside the usually dull streets had been transformed into a mass of color. The King's and Queen's progress to the abbey and the return to Buckingham Palace was one unbroken ovation. The route was hemmed with a vast polyglot host, with a background of bravely decorated viewing stands and windows and roofs all of which were crammed to their capacity.

COUNTLESS HORDES LOOK ON.

Hundreds of thousands of spectators shouted themselves hoarse at central points like the Mall, and the entrance to the Admiralty Archway, where the Government stands held a score of thousands. Trafalgar Square was so densely packed with humanity that it would not have been difficult to traverse the square walking on the heads of the people.

Parliament Square, Club Land and Constitution Hill held their countless hordes.

A THUNDEROUS WELCOME.

The tumult of thunderous welcome was almost deafening as the King and Queen passed on the outward and homeward journeys, preceded in the first instance and followed on the return by the state carriages containing the royal family and British and foreign dignitaries, statesmen, diplomats, courtiers, soldiers, sailors, and men of all hues, races and creeds, from the four quarters of the globe.

A drab sky and smart showers early this morning, though they dimmed the freshness of the lavish decorations could not dull the enthusiasm of the multitude who for months had been planning to make the twenty-second of June a red letter day in their lives.

STREETS JAMMED.

Hundreds of thousands of foreigners, natives of all lands from China to Peru, joined the hustling throngs and yielded themselves up with magnificent enthusiasm to the coronation glamor.

The weather was about the only thing that had not been prearranged with exactness, and it was the one thing likely to mar or make supremely glorious the day that was to give Britain a new king.

SUN BURSTS OUT.

Later, as the royal coach, bearing King George and Queen Mary to Westminster Abbey for their crowning, emerged from the yard of the Buckingham Palace the clouds gave way, and the sun burst through in all its glory, permitting what might have been a bedraggled procession to become a spectacle of splendor.

After the early morning rush of enthusiasts, mainly of the humbler classes, and great numbers of ticket-holders eager to secure places of vantage from which to witness the royal procession, before the expected crowds arrived on the scene, there was some falling off observed, and as late as 5 o'clock, when the gates at Buckingham Palace were closed, there was little difficulty in moving freely at any point between the palace and Westminster Abbey.

SIGHTSEERS IN MASSES.

Thenceforward the crowds rapidly increased, and by the time the troops began to take up their positions along the line of the processional route at 7:30 o'clock, there were dense masses of spectators at every point. The pressure became so intense at Charing Cross and at Whitehall that the police cordon was broken by the surging people.

With the aid of the troops, however, the authorities soon regained control.

BANDS GALORE.

The military bands were now playing in the Mall, Waterloo Place, Trafalgar Square, Whitehall, Hyde Park Corner, Parliament Square, and other central places. Gaily attired people, taking their places on the stands, formed a brilliant and lively scene somewhat marred to be sure by showers which were just beginning to fall.

CHEERS FOR KITCHENER.

General Kitchener, who is in command of the troops, and 12,000 police, hurried here and there, and was everywhere cheered. It was a great day for Tommy Atkins. Sixty thousand of the empire's picked men lined the processional route, and as they swung along to their assigned places with a cock-sure stride they wrung a cheer from every spectator who had a cheer in him.

TROOPS FROM EMPIRE'S ENDS.

A Splendid Military Spectacle at Buckingham Palace and on Route of Parade.

There were mounted men from the Guard regiments, with their glistening breastplates and waving plumes; mounted and unmounted artillery, infantrymen in every uniform known to the British army. Here and there a group of the ever-popular bluejackets, and scattered along the route colonial troops in their workmanlike khaki, white and colored troops from north, south, east and west, along with veterans from Chelsea Hospital and other home corps, who have followed the wars, though the latter were not required to stand.

Entertained by the bands, the sight of the troops, the crowds were well engaged, and before they realized it, the processions from Buckingham Palace to Westminster Abbey were getting under way.

THREE PROCESSIONS.

There were three processions, one for the royal guests, another for the

Robes

Prince of Wales and members of the royal family other than the King and Queen, and the Imperial procession.

The first was made up of fourteen dress carriages occupied by the royal guests and the distinguished court officials and officers attached to their staffs. The carriages were drawn by pairs of the famous bay and black horses from the royal stables, driven by royal coachmen and attended by footmen in scarlet livery.

HORSE GUARDS ESCORT.

Trumpeters and an escort of the Royal Horse Guards preceded the royal guests, few of whom were recognized by the crowds. A light rain was falling, and the carriages were closed, but their occupants could be distinguished through the windows.

CHEERS FOR PRINCES.

Immediately following was the second procession with members of the British royal family, including the Prince of Wales and the Princess Mary and their younger brothers. Their appearance was the signal for the heartiest demonstration up to that time. The cheering began as the royal children rode from Buckingham Palace, and carried along the row upon row of seats, was relayed by the crowds behind. Four other carriages were occupied by others of the royal family and their suites.

ROYAL PROCESSION STARTS.

Hardly had these passed when there were signs in the palace yard of the assembling of the great procession of the day, that which was to escort the King and Queen to the abbey and back to the palace. There was a brilliant scene in the quadrangle, but this was reserved for friends of the royal family officials and their families and court servants, who had seats at the windows and on the roofs of the palace itself.

A HAPPY COINCIDENCE.

The Sun Breaks Out as King Leaves Palace for Westminster Abbey.

Exactly at 10:30 o'clock booming guns announced that the King and Queen were leaving the palace, and by a happy coincidence the sun suddenly broke through the clouds and the rain ceased. The guard of honor consisted of big six-footers from the guard regiments. Bluejackets and troops came to attention with a clang of swords and muskets, while the bands struck up the National Anthem.

THE ESCORT.

Following the staff officer was the advance guard, a sovereign's escort of the Life Guards, in their familiar steel breastplates and white breeches, in their black chargers. The King's burgomaster and twelve watermen, in quaint costume, reminded the sightseers that there was a time when the King travelled by water when he "went to Westminster to be crowned," aided-de-camp to the King, naval and military. Officers of the headquarters staff followed in their modern uniforms, and then came another quaint touch, when the Yeomen of the Guard, "Beefeaters," as they are nicknamed, walked solemnly by, carrying long staves.

Equerries to the King, escorts of colonial and Indian cavalry, the colonials in khaki, and the Indians, in bright colors, passed in rapid succession.

GREAT OVATION FOR KING

Tremendous Cheering Greets Passage of George and Mary Through Streets.

As the first division of the sovereign's escort of the Royal Horse Guard trotted slowly through the gates, the booming of cannon announced that the royal coach with the King and Queen approached.

The long-awaited moment when their majesties were to look into the faces of their subjects and their subjects upon their King and Queen had arrived. There was a momentary hush, broken only by the trumpeters and the crash of brass, and then, as with one voice, the multitude acclaimed the sovereigns with a roar of cheering that preceded and followed them from the gates of the palace yard to the very doors of Westminster Abbey.

THE KING IN PURPLE.

Smiling and bowing, their majesties acknowledged the greetings. The King wore a long purple robe and velvet cap trimmed with ermine. The Queen made a beautiful picture in her robe of cloth of gold.

CHORUS OF BELL AND VOICE AS MONARCH ENTERS ABBEY

Anointing of Sovereign by Archbishop of Canterbury Witnessed
by Seven Thousand—Gorgeously Costumed Princes, Peers, Peeresses, Make Picturesque Scene.

[Canadian Press.]

London, June 22.—Westminster Abbey, the lodestar of all of today's ceremonial, was ready and waiting the arrival of their majesties by the time that the imperial procession left Buckingham Palace. Nothing could be more impressive than the customary aspect of the interior of the abbey, but this was all transformed today. Where usually is a grey and somewhat gloomy atmosphere was a mass of blinding color.

THE COLOR SCHEME.

All the tombs and the floor of the great building were concealed under immense carpets and hangings of deep blue and amber. The color scheme was rich and impressive, while it afforded a subdued background to the marvellous mass of theatrically colored robes of state and variegated uniforms with flashing decorations.

FLOOR SPACES FILLED.

The floor spaces in the transept were wholly occupied by the white upholstered chairs of the peers and peeresses, those of the peers on the south side and those of the peeresses on the north. Back of these were immense stands in ascending tiers, filled with the members of the House of Commons and their ladies. Many commoners were uniformed, and wore decorations, while the dresses of the ladies were rich and striking.

PRINCES AND HEROES.

At each angle of the transept were smaller stands for the accommodation of the foreign and colonial representatives and other high personages. There were the heirs to most of the thrones of Europe, the crown prince and princess of the German Empire, Prince Henry, the Emperor's brother, and his princess, the Duke of Aosta, Prince Henry of the Netherlands, Yusuf Izzed Din, the heir to the Turkish throne with a red fez on his head, Prince Fushimi of Japan, with the heroes of the Russian war, Admiral Togi and General Nogai, in full uniforms, with much gold lace and rows of decorations on their breasts, the American officials, Special Ambassador John Hays Hammond, with his aides, Ambassador Reid, with his staff, almost the only officials wearing plain clothes, and the Chinese Prince Tsai Chen, robed in gorgeous embroidered silks. There, too, was Manuel, the deposed king of Portugal.

SEVEN THOUSAND.

Above the choir stalls were arranged tier after tier of seats, then the boxes displaying the embroidered arms of the three kingdoms. Above the choir stalls were other tiers of seats, and altogether nearly seven thousand people were congregated as closely together as they could be packed.

ORCHESTRA OF EIGHTY.

Above the choir screen was an orchestral platform, where was an orchestra of eighty musicians and several hundred male singers selected from the principal choirs of the kingdom.

THE THRONES.

The centre of all interest was the area between the choir, and transepts, which is called the theatre. Five broad steps led up to it. It was covered with a carpet of rich blue, on which was embroidered the emblems of the Order of the Garter and other heraldic designs. There were two thrones, for the King and Queen, covered with crimson silk and velvet, and before them marvellous Oriental rugs hundreds of years old. On the south side before the peers were chairs for the young Prince of Wales and the Duke of Connaught.

THE STONE OF DESTINY.

In front of the thrones and facing the altar was the historic King Edward's chair, with the Stone of Destiny set in its frame, on which British sovereigns have sat for nearly a thousand years.

There were peers in their purple velvet robes and peeresses in evening dress, and superb trains borne by pages, wearing diamonds and with feathers in their hair. There were ambassadors and ministers in full regalia, law lords in wigs and wearing robes thickly laden with gold, judges in scarlet and members of the House of Commons all in court dress or uniform.

ENTER THE CLERGY.

The wait for the arrival of the processions was made less tedious by the music of the orchestra.

At 9:30 o'clock the entry of the impressive procession of clergy composing the chapter of Westminster Abbey put a sudden stop to the sonorous hum and conversation. The crowns and regalia were lifted from the altar and conveyed on cushions and in great state down the aisle to the robing-room, the choir meantime chanting "Oh, Lord, Our Help in Ages Past." The chiming in the tower pealed a loud accompaniment. Upon the arrival at the robing-room the regalia was handed over to the hereditary bearers, who awaited their majesties.

NURSES FOR INJURED.

All eyes were turned to the west door in anticipation of the arrival of the processions. Scattered through the vast audience were many nurses in simple costumes prepared to tender first aid if their services were required. The whole complicated arrangement for seating from 7,000 to 8,000 persons was carried out with the best of order.

ROYAL PROCESSION ENTERS.

The royal guests, making up the first procession, had been seated, when at 10:20 the second procession entered.

The Prince of Wales, a boyish figure, was the cynosure of all eyes and the cheering of the crowds outside as he entered the Abbey could be heard within its walls. Merrily ringing bells sent an echo to the roof.

A PRETTY INCIDENT.

There was a pretty incident as the junior members of the British royal family entered. They were saluted with a blast of trumpets, and everyone rose as they were conducted to their seats. The Prince of Wales, in Garter robes, took his seat beside the throne. Princess Mary wore her hair down her back in girlish style, but had a long train which attendants carried. The three younger princes were in Highland costume with jackets and plaid kilts.

THE KING AND QUEEN ENTER.

Nothing remained to complete the picture but the arrival of their majesties, with the great state officials. Everyone was on the tip of expectation and excitement, and a solemn hush reigned over all within the ancient fane as at a few minutes before eleven o'clock a fanfare of trumpets announced the entrance of the King and Queen.

AN IMPRESSIVE SILENCE.

Again everyone rose to their feet. The scene was marvellously impressive as the leading figures emerged from the robing room. Many who looked on scarcely restrained themselves from cheering, but the joyful notes of the initial anthem, "I Was Glad," intoned by the choir, suppressed the impulse.

PICTURESQUE SCENES.

Lining the avenue of the approach to the throne were the picturesque Yeomen of the Guard in their scarlet uniforms and carrying their pikes, a company without whom no British ceremony of state would be complete.

After the clergy came the chaplains of the chapel royal, the Dean of Westminster, the Archbishop of Canterbury and York, the Bishop of London, and other bishops. Next, moving with great deliberation five pursuivants, followed by heralds in quaint medieval costumes, then the officers of the orders of knighthood, first those of St. Michael and George, after them the Star of India, the Order of St. Patrick, and the Order of the Thistle, then the gentlemen usher of the Green Rod, the Scarlet Rod, and other functionaries of the royal household, altogether an impressive and picturesque band.

ROBES FOR THE CORONATION ARE GORGEOUS AND COSTLY

What the American Ambassador's Wife Wore and How Peer, Marquise and Baron Were Costumed.

[Canadian Press.] London, June 22.—The robes worn by American ladies at the coronation in Westminster Abbey are described as follows: Mrs. Whitelaw Reid, wife of the American ambassador, wore a dress of white satin, the front and back of which were trimmed with pearls and diamonds, and panels of fine lace. She wore a tulle collar and ruffles of pearls. Mrs. John Hay, wife of the American ambassador, wore a dress of heavy white satin embroidered with jeweled peacock feathers. Her jewelry consisted of a tulle collar, necklace, earrings and bracelet of diamonds and emeralds. The earrings are a pair worn by Catherine II, who carried a white ostrich feather fan, a counterpart of the one presented by South Africa to the present queen at the time of her marriage. Like all the other ladies, she wore three ostrich feathers in her hair.

Mrs. Phillips, wife of the first secretary of the embassy, wore a white dress with pearls and silver trimming. A tulle, diamond collar and pearl necklace.

Mrs. Simpson, wife of Captain Simpson, naval attaché American embassy, wore a white dress with diamond point lace and diamonds, pearls, diamonds.

Mrs. Sheum, wife of Captain Sheum, military attaché American embassy, wore a white dress with diamond point lace and diamonds, pearls, diamonds.

Mrs. Dawson, daughter of the Countess of Lanesborough, wore a white dress with diamond point lace and diamonds, pearls, diamonds.

MACEDONIANS CREATE SCENE IN COURT

Witnesses in Atlas Case Say There Is No Justice in Canada.

Toronto, June 22.—In Judge Winchester's chambers, this morning, the Macedonian witnesses gathered for the Atlas trial, appeared to give evidence in the administration of the Sinoist estate. The evidence given at the trial yesterday, and the day before, was put in instead in the form of the stenographer's notes, and Judge Winchester adjourned the matter to September.

The estate amounts to between $500 and $700, and letters of administration had been granted by the surrogate court to Rev. George M. Atlas before his conviction. In view of his acquittal in yesterday's trial, the widow and her friends are very much afraid that he will be liberated, and be free to administer the estate after all, in which case they say his contention that he paid $100 to the widow will be sustained.

"They had better kill me now," she cried shrilly in Bulgarian. "I cannot go back to Macedonia without my money."

It was explained that even if Atlas was pardoned his conviction would stand, and his sureties would be responsible for her money.

"They are disgusted with the whole trial," said the interpreter. "They say they have come across the ocean twice from a country where there is no justice, to Canada, under the British flag, and they don't think it is any better. Their evidence has been disregarded and a verdict given against them."

"They say that they are regarded as animals here because they are foreigners. In Turkey, Atlas had not been convicted, he would have been taken out and shot the next day."

Philip Tzouloff, the mayor of Nis, in his own language, with vigorous declamation. The widow broke in several times in the trial, and kept up, and the judge having retired to his room, the foreigners were gently ushered out of the court by the constables.

Literary Notes

The tenth volume of the New Schaff-Herzog Encyclopedia of Religious Knowledge has just made its appearance from the presses of the publishers, Funk & Wagnalls Company. A volume every three months has been issued, and the two more yet to appear to complete this twelve-volume work. The volume brings the work down to the subject.

It would be difficult in the space here allowed to more than mention a few of the many articles in volume 10. "Ritualism," "Socialism," "Sacrament," "Sabbath," "Serpent," "Salvation," "Samaritan," "Scotland," "Russia," "Semitic Languages," etc. The volume abounds in short biographies of famous men in religious affairs, and among the more extended articles should be mentioned here, "The Foundation of this Encyclopedia," Rev. Philip Schaff, D. D., L.L.D., written by his son.

The July Woman's Home Companion contains the first of a series of articles describing the life of the girlhood of some of our most famous women singers. The first article is on Lillian Russell. Other artists who are to be included in the series are: Mary Garden, Bessie Abbott, Emmy Destinn and Schumann-Heink.

July Century Notes. The Century to publish in two parts a story by Edith Wharton. It is entitled "The House of the Seven Gables," and is a sequel to her famous "The House of the Seven Gables."

Failure of Civilization. The only definite fact in life is death. From childhood onward we know that our days are numbered. Every hour we are certain for a limited space of time, and still, with all the wisdom of all the ages, we do not know how to live. We have not as yet found a philosophy with which to calmly face the grave. Man cannot truly be said to have attained civilization until he can view with dignity the one episode, inevitable to every career—Woman's World for June.

Among the well-known and no less popular writers of fiction whose new work appears in the Red Book, Seumas MacManis, Mary Heaton Vorse, Edwin L. Sabin, Arthur Goodrich, Mary India, Richard Susan, Gladys Barker, Herbert, Hubert, Foster, Ellis Barker, Fulton and Ian Hay.

James Ford Rhodes, the historian, will contribute a number of historical papers to Scribner's Magazine in the near future. The July number will contain "The Railroad Riots of 1877," a fair and judicial inquiry into the causes and results of a disturbance that almost reached the proportions of a panic.

CHARGES COX GETS WEALTH FROM JAILS

American Magazine Says Cincinnati Boss Runs Prison Factories.

New York, June 22.—The direct charge that much of the wealth amassed by George F. Cox, who came through his interest in the Ford-Johnson Company, of Cincinnati, otherwise known as the furniture trust, which practically controls the whole furniture industry of the prisons of the country, will be made in the July American Magazine. The Cincinnati American, it asserts, has been able to keep the money for his company because of his political influence.

The prisons controlled by the Ford-Johnson Company are located at Michigan City, Kentucky State Penitentiary at Frankfort, Ky., Kentucky House of Correction at Milanville, House of Correction, county jail at Hartford, Conn., county jail at New Haven, Conn., and several others.

There are some 15,000 men and boys hired out daily to this company in which Cox is interested at an average of $16 a day for the same labor. If slavery exists in the United States, it is in the prison system, the convict may not ask for decent hours, food and shop conditions.

The labor of all these prisoners were sold at cost the bill would foot up about $25,000 a year. But the company has obtained the labor of these men and boys for $15,000 a year or thereabouts, about $10,000 less. This labor could have been sold at a good profit. It is estimated that the Detroit House of Correction the state makes a profit of about $150 per inmate per year.

TORONTO WRITER ILL Lady Too Busy With Potomac Poisoning to Finish Story.

New York, June 22.—A man who waded through the flood of 15,000 manuscripts submitted in a recent prize story contest day, has been told by the publisher of the bookman something of what he encountered. Among various narratives received he declares:

"Just before the date of closing a telegram from Toronto came to the editors. They had been wondering why they had been feeling so uneasy during the last days of competition, but their fears were not at rest when they opened that night message, which read as follows:

"Secure illness, potomac poisoning, prevents mailing story until last moment. It will go in postoffice before midnight of Jan. 1."

The story was signed by a lady of whom the editors had never by any chance heard."

SEALSKINS' RECORD PRICE Green Pelts Sold at $48 in Seattle as Result of Great Scarcity.

Seattle, Wash., June 22.—Sealskins sold here last week for $48, the highest price ever received at this time for green seals. Last year the top price reached at any time for the pelts of fur was $20. The great scarcity of the herds in the north last fall and the protection afforded the animals by the winter weather made large catches. This year it is predicted that the number of skins taken will fall below all records, and that next year the price will soar to nearly $100. Because of the immense profits, seal farming on the islands of the north and on the pelts of fur, both Alaska and British Columbia is being attempted.

BIG GARRISON AT LONDON

Sixty Thousand Troops in Coronation Service at Capital.

London, June 22.—The invasion of London by 60,000 soldiers and several thousand horses has not been the least feature of the past two days. The invasion began on Tuesday, but was still going on throughout the entire day of Wednesday.

All of the garrisons in the United Kingdom have been drawn upon to supply troops with which to line the routes of the two processions. The march through the streets of the various detachments has been one of the most popular items of the big drama for sightseers.

Late on Wednesday evening a closed van, escorted by Life Guards, left the lord chamberlain's office at St. James' Palace for Westminster Abbey. It contained the regalia to be used at the coronation. The regalia was removed from the strong room in the Tower under military escort days ago, and had been stored under guard at St. James' Palace.

Arriving at the abbey the precious emblems were carried to the Jerusalem chamber, where they were to be used at the coronation. The regalia, popularly known as "beef eaters," throughout the night.

At 9 o'clock on Thursday morning, the day of the coronation, the dean of the chapter and the clergy will carry the regalia in procession from the chamber to the steward's altar of the abbey. Musicians of the choir will accompany the procession, and sing and play as it moves along. Later the regalia will be transferred from the altar to the unexposed, where they will be guarded by the great officers of state, who will carry them while accompanying the king.

It has been estimated that during the present year the automobiles of this country will aggregate 1,000,000. So rich is Argentine tobacco in Suffered Greatly From Heart Trouble. NERVES WERE VERY WEAK.

Mrs. John Farrell, Rose Hill, P.E.I., writes: "It is with the greatest of pleasure I write you stating the benefit I have received by using Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills."

"About five years ago I suffered greatly from heart trouble, and my nerves were very weak. After seeing several doctors and using their medicine, I got no relief until a friend told me of your Heart and Nerve Pills. I took two boxes and they effected a complete cure. I can recommend them highly to all nervous and run-down women."

"I have advised many others to try them and they have all been cured of the same trouble."

The proper action of the nerves, so important to the well-being of the heart, depends entirely upon the general condition of the nervous system. If there is a nerve derangement of any kind, it is bound to produce heart derangement.

Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills are combined a treatment that will cure all forms of nervous disorders, as well as the heart itself, and in this case the secret of their success in curing so many cases of heart and nerve trouble.

Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills are one per box, or 3 for $1.25, at all druggists, or mailed direct on receipt of price by The J. B. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

A FEW FARMERS ON LOCAL MARKET

A Fair Supply of Strawberries Were Brought in This Morning.

Although it was announced that there would be no market today, quite a number of farmers came in with loads of vegetables and strawberries. There was a fair supply of the latter, with only a fair demand for them. The prices ran from 8 to 9 cents a box by the crate, and from 8 to 10 cents, retail.

The supply was pretty well cleaned up by 10 o'clock.

than Tuesday. October was up to 10, December up to 15. There was a good demand for all grades of cash wheat from No. 1 down to No. 4. There was no wheat worked for export, and very little about ten loads of oats. Receipts of wheat were very liberal, being 32 cars more than the corresponding date last year. The weather map showed scattered showers throughout the week, with high temperatures.
