The Glasgow Herald tells the following concerning Lord Dufferin and the Italian Prime Minister: "Lord Dufferio, the British ambassador at Rome, paid a visit the other morning to M. Oriepi. The latter he found seated in his cfine, and, without rising from his seak wished the ambassador good day, and waved him with his hand to a seat. Lord Dufferin stopped short on the coorstep without uttering a word. M. Orispi repeated his gestures inviting His Lordship to a seat, but the latter remained cool, immovable and silent. Then the Italian Prime Minister became aware of his duty to the ambassador of one of the great powers, and he at once rose and received. His Lordship in a proper manner."

Canada's Strong Man.

Considerable talk is going the rounds about "Canada's strong man," Louis Cyr.

Cyr comes by his strength in an explicable way. His mother, he says, weighed 265 pounds and used to carry a barrel of flour up two pair of stairs every now and then when the family was laying in a stock of flour. Of his father, Louis says rather slightingly, "He weighed 220, but could not lift more than other men." Louis, who stands 5 feet 10½ inches only, but weighs 318 pounds, can lift two tons. He puts a 300 pound barrel of cement on his shoulder with one hand.

The Commerce of Finland.

Finland is visited yearly by about 10,000 vessels, bringing rather more than 1,250,000 visits of merchandies, and carrying away about the same. The exports from Finland are, for the greater part, forest products, half being of planks, deale, firewood, etc, with 3 per cent. of tar. Farm produce, chiefly butter, forms an additional 15 per cent. of the whole; spricultural products, 3 per cent. more; game and fish, another 3 per cent.; and various/manufactures—fron tissues and paper—16 per, cent. more. On the other hand the goods trought into the country are fabrics, grain metals, sugar, cotton, tobacco, wine, oil and brandy. The exchanges with foreign countries are made to the extent of 70 per cent. by the bajos of Finland, of which the commercial flees, numbers 1,600 vessels, having 250,000 tors barden. The Poor Man's Day. The Poor Man's Day.

Christian Guardian: Sunday is the poor man's day. It is God's gift to him. It is the day for rest from wearying toil. It is the day for rest from wearying toil. It is the day when the hard-working father can find time to look upon the face of his little children, whom he has hardly seen in the sunlight during the week. It is the day for mental improvement. Sunday is a civilizer. It is the day for mental improvement Sunday is a civilizer. It is the day for reading the Holy Bible, and for worship and religious instruction. The movement for the running of street cars on Sunday will deprive a number of poor, toiling men of their day of rest, without any pressing need. Let our citizens put themselves in the case of the conductors and drivers. Do as you would tike to be done to if you were in their position.

Toronto Telegram: That poor old victim of the Ancaster murderer died like a hero. The pity of it is that he died at all. Age had weakened the body without depriving the man of his grit. His first impulse was to grapple with the intraders, and he obeyed it at the cost of his life. A man who in a moment is called to defend home and dear ones against burglars has not time for mature deliberation. It is easy to plan a campaign in cold blood. In a crisis a man must think and act at the same moment, and in the crisis of his life native courage rushed Mr. Heslop to his death. A CUIE CHINAMAN

Defrauds the United States Govern FAN FRANCISCO, Cal. Feb. — A scheme has just come to light whereby a sharp Chinaman has swindled the United States Chinsman has swindled the United States Government out of some $30,000 revenue. It is their custom here when goods are imported to take to the appraiser's store 10 per cent. of them, from which the duty is to be calculated. The Gustom house broker has to file a bond of $400 fox. for revenue, of the duty and the owner is payment of the duty, and the owner is then allowed to take the other nine-tenths to his place of business. IN DARKUST GUELPH. Shocking Story of Misery, Dirt and

People have been often shocked to read of the want and squalor in which millions of the civilized nations of the world live, but coessionally incidents are brought to light in this fair country which might surpass them for the misery and degradation shown. In Guelph, for instance, there is a family composed of what is termed a man, his wife and eight small children. The wife is dying with consumption. Not being able to rise from bed, the house has become so fitthy as to defy description. Two meighbors attempted to clean is out but turned sick before they had gone far, and, it is reported, almost had to burn their clothes. A charwoman refused to have anything to do with it. A minister stayed in two minutes, and those who have seen it say they never saw anything like it. The husband is a drunken brute, cares nothing for the rest of the family, so that his cown appetites may be ged. He came home the other evening intexicated and deliberately squirted tobacco juice down the throat of the helpless woman, as she was sposking to him. In other ways he has ill-used her so that the neighbors coming in have taken her for dead. Temporary arrangements were made on Saturday whereby the woman was taken to St. Joseph's Huspital; the children will be cared for, and the man allowed to shift for himself. It is understood that no action can be taken against him, as the wife is not in a condition to lay the information.—

THE GUINEA PIG.

A Greature That, From one Point of View, Stands Absolutely Alone.

The secretary of the Selborne Society of England, an association of lovers of wild nature, has lately written an account of the guines pig. This creature, the writer says, stands absolutely alone, from one point of view. Do what you will, it is impossible to make a friend of him. Titmice, robins, squirrels, wild ducks, ouckoos, even rate and mice, have been found amenable to kindness. Even Roman snails, Egyptian bectles and butterfiles have been taught to recognize their masters and show a friendly interest in them. The guines pig is an absurd listle animal for a number of reasons, and one of the most remarkable absurdities about him is his name. He is not a pig of any kind, nor any relation to the pig, and he has nothing to do with Guines. He is a kind of rat and his native home is South America. Why he should have been called a "pig" no one knows, unless it was on account of the slight grunting noise that he makes; and the word "guines" in his case may be a corruption of Guins, where the animal has sometimes been found, though it was first brought from Brazil. Elle real name is the "casy" and by that he should be called. In his wild state he is quite differently colored from the domesticated animal and lacks the spotting of white, black and tawny color which the tamed cavy often has. It used to be commonly supposed that the guines pig drove away ordinary rats, or rather caused them to 60 away on account of their extreme dislike of him, but even this negative merit is depiced to the poor little animal. No one, hower, is able to deny his gentleness and submissiveness.—Youth's Companion.

Dangers Attending Measles. Dangers Attending Measles.

The Journal & Hygiene Populaire for January says: "Measles are very prevalent in Montreal. This disease is far from being of a harmless obstractor, as a benevolent public imagine. Measles are not dangerous to lock at, but they become so and even mortal by complications. For this reason it is always well to attend to their cure at once. This year they have been of a most malignant character. Convulsions often complicate the nature of the disease, and the following have also been observed, diphtheris, bronchitis, inflammation of the lungs, sores on the mouth and the ears.

Fell Out of a Window.

Fell Ont of a Window. Frank J. Morrison, a Scotchman by birth, aman of excellent education, who came here from Toronto about five months ago and who was up to very recently advertising solicitor for this paper, was accidentally killed by falling out of a window at 256 South Clark street on Wednesday evening about 7 o'clock. The deceased at one time held a good position on the Toronto press. He has no relations in the United States. He was in his 35th year.—Chicago Canadian-American.

The two new words of the year in London are "spoof" and "wide." To spoof a man means to put up a wicked trick on him. When you say that a man is wide, you mean that he is something more than widewake, smart or olsver.

On the table of a friend I saw yesterday a copy of the bible which once belonged to Henry Ward Beecher and lay on the desk in that great preacher's study, says the New York Press. It is a small volume, and, from the inscription, had been pretented to him by a friend. There are two siken book marks run through its leaves, and on the pages they separate are two pencil marks around two passages of soripture. Nowhere else in the book are there any pencil marks about passages, and these two verses seem to have had some special attention from the eminent divine. The first if at the beginning of the thirty-second paalm, as follows:

Blessed is he whose transgression is forgiven,

Blessed is he whose transgression is forgiven whose sin is covered. The other is the eighth verse of the thirtieth chapter of Jeremiah, and reads:

The Christmas holidays are over, and again we are learning to sew. To day we have hems. If the first fold of the hem is not perfectly straight, no care in the turning of the second fold will be of any avail. In this, as in other things, it is of the greatest importance that the first step should be right. Your first folds are evenly done? The second fold of the hem, if narrow, should be firmly pressed down, and sewed without basting. The wide hem is measured, and held in place by a basting close to the edge. And now, while the folding and basting go on, tell me what were used long ago to fasten together the skins of animals of which garments were made. Nature's needles they were. Surely second one an guess. "Thorns?" Yes, it was thorns, with fibres of plants for the thread; and a very good purpose they served, I am sure.—Harper's Young People.

"Now I lay me down to sleep.

His thoughts ran back to his boyhood hours, and as he compressed his bearded lips he could ree in memory the face of that mother, long since gone to rest, who taught his own infant lips prayers which he had long ago forgotten to utter.

The child went on and completed her little varse, and then, as prompted by the mother, continued,

"God bless mamms, paps, and my own self,"—then there was a pause, and she lifted her troubled blue eyes to lies mother's face.

"God bless paps," prompted the mother, softly.

""God bless paps," lipped the little one.
"And—please send him home sober.
he could not hear the mother as she said line, home—sober. Amen."

Mother and child aprang to their feet in alarm when the door opened so auddenly, but they were not afraid when they saw who it was, returned as soon; but than might, when little Mary was being tuoked up in bed, after such a round a round and the leepiest and most contented of voices:

A New Canal in Japan.

The Kioto canal, in Japan, is the work of a French engineer, Mr. Tanaba. This canal is not only used for navigation, but it also irrigates the rice fields, and, still further, it supplies motive power for factories. It is shout seven miles long, and is supplied from lake Birva, which lies at an attitude of 276 feet. The water is carried through a mountain chain in a tunnel about a mile and a half long, which has been out and faced in the best style of engineering. There are two shorter tunnels near to Kioto, and there the new enal forms a junction with the old canal, between Kioto and the sea. The Japanese Government has taken a deep interest in the work of the French engineer.
