with the possible exception of the basking shark, the "Sea Devil," or "Ocean Vampire," is the largest of all the monsters of the deep. An unborn ocean vampire, taken from the mother, preserved at the British Museum, is 5 feet broad, and before mounting weighed 20 pounds. The mother measured some 15 feet in length and quite as much in breadth.

It is at all times a dangerous undertaking to attempt to capture one of these monsters, says the Sunday Magazine, but particularly so in the case of zine, but particularly so in the case of a mother accompanied by her offspring. She is quite capable of reversing the role of hunter and hunted, attacking and apsizing the boat containing her would-be captors, and of seeing that none of be captors, and of seeing that none of them escapes alive.

"Imagine" writes the Hon. William Elliot, in describing the exciting sport he had in hunting ocean vampires, "a monster from 16 to 20 feet across the back, full 3 feet in depth, possessed of powerful yet flexible flaps or wings with which he drives himself furiously in the water or vaults high in the air, through which he skims like some enormous bird; his feelers (commonly called horns), projecting several feet beyond his mouth, and paddling all the small fry that constitute his food into that capacious receptacle—and you will have an idea, ceptacle—and you will have an idea though an imperfect one, of this extra

The so-called "horns" to which allusion The so-called "horns" to which allusion is made are a singular feature in this animal. The pectoral or breast fins, much elongated, pointed arched in front, concave behind, stop short at the head, to reappear as frontal appendages projected on each side of the head. These appendages take the form and character of limbs, being flexible and capable of grasping prey, and carrying it to the mouth. The "feelers" as they are called. are sometimes three feet or more in length, and are curiously articulated at the ends so as to resemble the fingers of the human hand when clenched.

In this way fishing boats and vessels of a much larger size have been dragged from their moorings and in some cases capsized by the ocean vampire's having laid hold of the anchor. An instance of this kind occurred in the harbor of Charleston. A schooner lying at anchor, suddenly, and seemingly of its own volition, to the amazement and alarm of those on board, started at a furious rate across the harbor. Upon nearing the opposite shore its course changed so abruptly as almost to capsize the vessel and it recrossed the harbor to its former moorings.

These mysterious flights across These mysterious flights across the harbor were repeated a number of times in the presence of hundreds of astonished spectators, who were utterly at a loss to account for the phenomenon. The migrations ceased as suddenly as they began. Not till then did the back and undulating flukes of an immense ocean vampire, appearing above the water of the harbor, disclose the motive power that caused it all. that caused it all.

One of the curious habits of the fish is One of the curious habits of the fish is to throw somersaults, sometimes at a considerable distance beneath the surface, sometimes at the surface, and sometimes in the wir above the surface. The reason for this peculiar practice, which is kept up for hours, has so far as the writer knows never been conjectured. At times the great fish will throw bimself bodily perhaps as much as ten tured. At times the great lish will throw himself bodily perhaps as much as ten or twelve feet in the air. A young man student of Columbia University, writing from Port of Spain, describes the flight of one of these enormous sea monsters which passed completely over him and the light boat he was rowing.

NAVIGATION IN THE DEAD SEA. At Times the Water Becomes a Living Mass of Waves.

Since the earthquake in Palestine las April, someone circulated the story that the mouth of the River Jordan has been so affected by the shock that the level of one river has been attered to such an extent that at the place where the historic river goes into the Dead Sea there was now a waterfall of considerable depth and strength. This is altogether false and no change whatever gether false, and no change whatever has taken place at or near the mouth of the Jordan. The writer has just spent some days theye, and made it his special business to investigate this matter Much has also appeared in periodicals about steamboats navigating the Dead Sea. This too is a fabrication. The only boat on the Dead Sea is a small sailing boat about 20 feet long. This boat make trips as the wind allows, from the north end of the sea to the bay on the east-ern side of the tongue that divides the water near the middle. Here at this terminus some Jews are located. The whole concern is, in fact, in the hands of Jews, who, at a low rate, buy wheat and barley from the Arabs, to be delivered on the seashore. From there it is shipped to the Jericho side and carried on donkeys to Jerusalem, where it is shipped to the Jericho side and carried on donkeys to Jerusalem, where it finds a ready sale at a good price. When adverse winds blow, the little craft is in danger of being swamped, for the so-called Dead Sea becomes a living mass of waves. The writer recently spent four nights such as never will be forgotten on these waters, and the smartness of the old man at the helm and his boy with the three sails gaved smartness of the old man at the neim and his boy with the three sails saved us from being wrecked again. A charge of one mejedie (three shillings and four pence) a trip is made for each passen-ger, and for such a unique voyage this is not exorbitant. There is some talk about a small steam tug being put on the sea, but the authorities are loth to grant permission. It will be a great boon, if ever it does arrive, as it will bring the east and west sides of Jordan to one another for ommunication trading purposes.—London Graphic.

A man who had been notorious for his cruelties while engaged in the slave trade lay dying in a squalid hut in Edinburgh. According to the Scotch custom the family opened the door to let the spirit pass. To their infinite horror the bloody head of a black man suddenly rolled into the room. The family shrieked with fright, the man on the bed gave a yell of terror.

This appearance of a negro's head in the room of a man dying after he had committed innumerable barbarities upon black slaves was a strange coincidence and nothing more. Prof. Owen, the famous anatomist, had been attending an

Just as he was passing the open door he tripped, and the head, slipping from the cloth in which he had it, rolled into the little room. The cry of the dying man diverted the attention of those who were in the room, so that Owen was able were in the room, so that Owen was able to secure his treasure and depart un-

Thick and Thin Steak. A man who has investigated is pre-pared to explain why the housekeeper of modest means is never able to serve steak as it is found in the best restaur ants, at least an inch in thickness, and filled with juices in proportion. It is simply because when a portion of steak is ordered from the family butcher he cuts it from the whole piece, and if the is ordered from the family butcher he cuts it from the whose piece and if the weight desired be very small the cut is extremely thin, but quite wide. In this condition it is impossible for the most expert cook to broil it so it will retain all its toothsome qualities. The restaurant, on the other hand, buys in such large quantities that the meat can be cut thick, and for single portions it may be cooked and served very thick and narrow.

An ordinary echo is a curious thing, but, says the Youth's Companion, acording to the statements of a Frenchman at a watering place in the Pyrenees one echo on the Franco-Spanish frontier is so far from ordinary that it must have started in America.

Animals that Will Not Drink.

Naturalists have discovered many animals which seem to need no water or which drink only at rare intervals. There is a certain breed of gazelles that never drink, and the llamas of Patagonia live for years without taking water.. There is a particular class of cattle near Losere, in France, that rarely touches water, but in spite of this fact these cattle give milk of a rich quality, from which excellent cheese is made. Many naturalists have the theory that hares do not drink, or that water is not a necessity for them, and that the dew on the grass is sufficient for their needs.

Advices received here from Saigon show, contrary to previous announcements, that the Diana was in a very bad condition. She has one large hole In her hull below the water line. Her injuries will take weeks to repair. This would have permitted an extension of her sojourn in a neutral port beyond the twenty-four hours, which expired yesterday, but it is foreseen that the repairs would entail such a stay at Saigon that it is possible that questions affecting the neutrality of the port would be likely to arise, and therefore Russia is disposed to disarm the Diana, which thereafter will remain at Saigon during the war.

The Loss to Date in British Columbia is Nearly $2,500.000.

Vancouver, B. C., Aug. 20 .- Most destructive forest fires are still raging in British Columbia. It has been stated officially that the loss to date is $2,500,-000, and if rain does not come soon the result will be serious.

At Wullfshon's Bay, 20 miles of timber is burning, the timber being the best in the province, owned by many of the most prominent companies. On nearly all the islands of the Gulf of Georgia the timber is burning furiously. Forest fires are also raging couver and in East and West Kootens the settlements being threatened wi destruction in these places.

HER WILD BARBARIAN.

Am Additional Instance Wherein the U expected Happily Came to Pass—Can-adian, Story by Grant Allen,

"You see the child has spent most of her life at one of those trading posts somewhere in the Northwest her father is agent or factor or what-ever you call 'em—and he is sending her to me for her first real taste of civilization. She is in all probability a perfect little barbarian, but I must do what I can for her, of course, and I thought, with your od nature, you'd help me all you could, Fritz."

Young Mrs. Landers look appealingly at the big, goodlooking fellow on the other side of the fireplace. "When Jack read the letter," she went on, "the first thing he said was, 'Well, here's where Fritz Menwas, well, here's where the method dell fits in, all right,' and while it wasn't exactly a nice way of putting it, it expressed my own ideas in the matter thoroughly. You'll help me,

Fritz Mendell grinned good naturedly.

"My dear Agatha," he said, "as always, I'm yours to command.

Now, a few points about your—er—barbarian. First and foremost, in what stage of evolution is she? Is it candy age or the matinee age with her belt."

"Don't be absurd."

"And has wild black eyes and wears moccasins and enjoys a diet of cari-bou venison and bear steak."

"It's good strategy not to be taken by surprise," he commented. "I'll do my best, Agatha. When does the aboriginal maid arrive?"

"Tuesday, sometimes."
"All right, I'll be around about five to view the exhibit. If she isn't impossible, I'll do the honors, but I reserve the right to fly the field, should circumstances, in my poor opinion, seem to warrant such

'Fritz, you're a dear "Agatha, don't attempt to repay me by repeating these delicate, but well-known truths. Of course I am.

The clocks were just chiming five the following Tuesday afternoon, when Mendell rang the Landers bell.
"Is she in the library?" he inquired of Jenkins who opened the door. It is needless to state that he referred to Mrs. Landers.

"Yes, sir. In the library, sir, said the obsequious Jenkins as he took Mendell's hat and coat. Fritz strode briskly through drawing-room, and flinging aside the leather portiers, entered the library. The winter twilight was fading, The winter and the fire on the hearth having burned to a bed of glowing coals, the room was quite dark. Mendell could but dimly make the woman seated on a broad divan. He sank into a big carved chair by the table. "Hello, Agatha," he said cheerfully, 'has she arrived?'

"Yes." came the response from

"Yes," came the response from the divan. It was much lower than Agatha's normal voice.

"Got a cold?" he inquired selici-

'Yously.'
'Nothing serious.'
''Where's our young barbarian?'
''She's in the house.'
''Hm-m,'' Fritz mused. 'I judge from you somewhat brief replies that the worst is realized.' "The worst?"
"Yes. Dur worst fears of the other skinning "Oh!" "And insist on venison and bear

The "Oh" that greeted this was de-cidedly reproachful, but Fritz heed-

"Pretty?" he questioned.
"Frightfully plain." "I feel an incipient stampede brewing with me," he assured her, "Is she utterly impossible, "Agatha?"

Utterly

"Well trot her out, and let me sanction your decision anyway," he said.

She rose from the divan and touched a button on the wall. The room was suddenly flooded with light Fritz Mendell came out of the chair with a mighty bound. He was face with a mighty bound. He was face to face with a pretty, graceful girl in a stunning gown. And as he be-held her, the truth flashe i upon him. "Lord massy!" he groaned with more contriteness than he imagined could be squeezed into words.

The girl's face was flushed scarlet, but her eyes were laughing at his discomfiture. "It was mean of me," she said "frightfully mean! Cousin Agatha said when she went out that Mr.

Mondell might come at any momentand you came, and the temptation was too great. Can you forgive And then Fritz laughed-a wholesome, ringing laugh, and held out his 'But for Heaven's sake," he cautioned, "don't let Agatha get hold of this."

One dripping night in the early spring Fritz and the barbarian sat before the same library fireplace. "When may I tell Cousin Agatha about that first meeting of ours?

she asked.
'When you're Mrs. Fritz Mendeli,' he said gravely.
"I—I don't know but what it's worth it," she said mockingly.

THE LIFE OF A MOTH.

contiful Promethes in Its Filgr on Earth From the Cradle to

If one manifestation of nature's If one manifestation of nature's ways can be more marvellous than another the chief distinction must be given to the transformations of the insect world. The beautiful promethes moth emerging from a grey silken cocoon that has been lying inert on the desk for weeks cannot fall to appeal to the spirit of wonder. A ripping, cutting sound is the first indication of awakening life, as the knives with which the shoulders of the coming insect are armed are used knives with which the shoulders of the coming insect are armed are used to make a passage through the hard, tough covering. Soon the head, with its feathery antennae, comes forth, and the queer, misshapen, elongated insect vigorously extricates itself from its shell. It misses the lilac bush, where, in its previous incarnation, it went to sleep last fall. It runs eagerly about hunting for some point of suspension, for without the aid of gravitation those bulbs on its shoulders would never develop into perfect wings. A book leaning against a shelf affords the needed perch, and there the process of transparence. The lilacs, witch hazels and choke there wantles along her nocturnal course. That purpose achieved, her transient life goes out. But every egg that escapes the parasitic insects and the nimble warblers gleaming among the leaves hatches out a perfect larva, to complete the same strange metamorphosis.—Toroate Globe.

Lerd Minto's Daughters.

The English papers, to hand by mail, bring particulars of the last Court for the season, which was held by the King and Queen at Buckingagainst a snell anords the necessive perch, and there the process of transformation goes on with strange celerity. The attenuated body begins to enlarge and shorten and to take on its normal texture and rich colors. One joint after another from the thorax rounds out into shape. While this process is going on the bulbs on the shoulders are forming into wings. The change commences near the body, and the pulpy mass is gradually transformed into beautifully marked, velvety wings. The transformation continues till the pulp is but a mar-ginal band on the wings, but this is still capable of considerable extension before the thin membranes are really completed. Then the beautiful promethea, a female, poses and sur-veys a new and strange world, while the newly-formed wings, four inches across, are moved gently and timidly as if to make sure of their existence.

This large and beautiful moth is the mature development of the great, thick worm that crawled about last summer and nibbled the leaves of the lilac, witch hazel, ash and a few oth-er trees. Then it feasted leisurely, a crawling worm. Now it is beautifully equipped for flight, but it can no longer eat, and its life mission will longer eat, and its life mission will be fulfilled perhaps within the coming night. This moth can scarcely be re-garded as the worm transformed, for she excretes in fluid form all the vital, internal organs of her larval existence. Before lapsing in the inert pupa state she casts off her legs and all external organs, including even the head. There is a deepening of the mystery of identity in this casting off of all parts of a previous existence When the promethea larva decided to retire for the winter she selected a convenient lilac leaf and began by winding silk industriously around the twig where it grew. From this foun-dation she proceeded down the stem of the leaf, winding it round about ed thread of silk was wound and wound until it formed a complete strong cocoon cemented securely to the enfolding leaf. Thus protected the their cocoons, and then we shell have the raw material for a silk industry. With the approach of evening the promethea begins to manifest great activity, trembling and pulsating with abundant life. Her beauty is not destined to perish imappreciated, for the closing darkness brings several suitors to the open window. The males are darker and of different form, and live but to fulfill their reproductive mission. Away goes the beautiful lady with dizzy, irregular flight, perhaps to fall a victim to the night-hawk calling out of the darkness overhead, but more likely to sparingly distribute her eggs on the lilacs, witch hazels and choke cherry trees for many miles along her nocturnal course. That purpose achieved, her transient life goes out. But every egg that escapes the paraits invests and the nimble warhlers

The English papers, to hand by mail, bring particulars of the last Court for the season, which was held by the King and Queen at Buckingham Palace on June 22. The interest of Canadians naturally centred in the presentation of the eldest daughter of the Governor-General and Lady ter of the Governor-General and Lady Minto, and it will come as a surprise to most Canadians to note that L Ruby was also presented. It will also be surprising to notice that in the official account of the Court, the official account of the Court, published in The Times, the only mention of the presentation of the daughters of the Viceroy of Britain's greatest colony was "Ladies Elliott (2)." The Standard, however, had this description, which will interest the many Canadian friends of their Excellencies' daughters:
"Among the debutantes were the two elder daughters of the Earl and Countess of Minto, the Ladies Elleen and Ruby Elliott-Murray, who were dressed alike in white satin mous-scline, trimmed with cream chiffon roses and touches of palest green.

A rather humorous case has come before the Department of the Interior before the bepartment of the interior respecting a Norwegian who came to the immigration agent at St. Paul. The man, whose name is Gilbertson, gave his age as 73, and stated that he was on his way to Wetaskiwin to take up a homestead, so that he could make a home for his mother, whose age was 103. The lady is said to be hale and hearty and able to take care of a home, and Gilhartson himself is a man who would not be taken for more than 55 years of Relic of Old London. There may be two opinions as to which is the "Fayrest Inne of Cancerie," but Mr. T. C. Worsfeld, who twig where it grew. From this foundation she proceeded down the stem of the leaf, winding it round about thus spinning a tenacious silk cord. On reaching the leaf she began to fold it about herself, drawing it in gradually at various points until became a closely enfolding overcoat. Within this covering the exuded thread of silk was wound and process to the spot in busy London, and quoted thread of silk was wound and pickens, who said it was "like putwound until it formed a complete ting cotton-wool into your ears and ting cotton-wool into your ears and velvet slippers on your feet." As to its history, Mr. Worsfold told of mer-chants who in 1169 were trading in the entology seal. Thus protected the win-inert chrysalis slept through the win-ter, oblivious to frost, snow and rain. Some day we shall discover a means of dissolving the gum with which our moths sement the slik of staples in "Steelyard," and who, re-garding wool as the chief staple, those the woolpack for the armorial bearings. In 1878 it became an Inn in Chancery, of which there were ten. It was such an inn in the reign of Henry V., and in 1756 there was a fire there, now commemorated by an inscription. One of the ancient sumptuary laws enforced on the inn by Henry VIII. and Queen Mary was the regulation of the beards of students, one of whom in 1601 was fined for its infringement. The inn was once close to a country road, from which branched a path to Shoe lane. The Fayrest Inn of Cancerie, said the lecturer, with its grand old roof and gables and beautiful old building, could not fail to draw appreciation. It was almost the last relic of London's good old time, when work went slowly and was done very thoroughly.

Not For Men-Only For Women

The need of an up-to-date remedy for women has long been recognized. The remedies introduced twenty-five years ago while perhaps the best in their day, have, in the progress of medical science, been superseded by others that are regarded as more effective.

Dr. Hugo's Health Tablets

The placing on the market of the formula used by the greatest living specialist in female diseases, Dr. Hugo, of Paris, has put in the reach of every tired and ailing woman the latest, and thus far the most successful one, ever introduced for the ailments it is claimed to cure. It is not a cure-all. No specialist's prescription ever is.

The tablets are not for men; they are only for women, and are only claimed to cure the diseases to which they are specially subject. No woman, however, who has regard for her future health and happiness, should delay one moment in taking Dr. Hugo's Health Tablets if she has either backache, bearing-down pains, menstrual difficulties, pallor, cold feet, nervous irritability, hot flushes, bloating, faintness, melancholy, lassitude, or a tired and all-gone feeling. These symptoms indicate that important organs in the female system are becoming weakened and need toning up, otherwise serious sickness, grave uterine diseases, and the surgeon's knife are threatened.

There is no need of serious apprehension, however, if these tablets are taken, for they so act upon the female system that they take away the cause of these symptoms. They stop all drains on the system, restore the weakened vital forces, and make women regular. As a result, there comes new life and vigor, and in ninety-nine cases

INTERNATIONAL LESSON NO. X. SEPTEMBER 4, 1904.

Klijah Encouraged . - 1 Kings 19: 9-18.

Commentary.-I. Elijah receives instructions from God vs. 9-14). 9. Came thither—rie came to Horeb, or Sinai, The thither—He came to Horeb, or Sinai, The relations of the two names is not clear. Horeb was either "a mountain of the Sinai range, or the range of which Sinai is a mountain," probably the latter. A cave—Hebrew, "the cave." Stanley says there is nothing to affirm or contradict the conjecture that this may have been the same spot, where Mass stood. (Exod.) the same spot where Mose stood. (Exod. xxxiii, 22) when Jehovah passed by. What doest Thou here—The Lord now

What doest Thou here—The Lord now gives the prophet an opportunity to open his heart and tell his grief.

10. Very jealous—Zealously avenging Jehovah's honor by slaying those who have brought idolatry into Israel, thus imitating the zeal of Phinihas (Num. xxv., 1-13).—Whedon. "There is no boastfulness in these words. Elijah only sets forth that he has done his utmost, but that, in spite of all, both king and people forth that he has done his utmost, but that, in spite of all, both king and people are still unrepentant."—Lumby. For-saken Thy covenant—The first stage of apostasy. They ligatly estimated the word of the Lord. Thrown down Thine altars—The second stage of apostasy; desertion from grew into enmity to; the places of prayer were destroyed: they desertion from grew into enmity to; the places of prayer were destroyed; they were unwilling to have among them longer anything that reminded them of their Lord. Slain Thy prophets—Lowest stage of apostasy. When a man will not stage of apostasy. When a man will not listen to the truth, he seeks ot remove its witnesses, either by power or cun-ning. I only, am left—The same statening. I only, am left—The same state ment in I. Kings xviii., 22, but the sense is different. There Elijah merely said that he alone remained to execute the prophet's office, which was true; here he implies that he is the only prophet left alive, whereas a hundred had been saved by Obadiah, but none of them had stood by Obadiah, but none of them had stood whether Elijah went out of the cave now or after the wind and earthquake had passed (v. 13). The account seems to indicate that at this time he went to the mouth of the cave and looked out. The Lord passed by—As He passed by Moses, perhaps in this same cave. God was about to teach Elijah a great lesson and send him back to Israel a much wiser man. Strong wind—A tornado. Rent, etc.—Literally, "Tearing up the mountains and shivering the rocks."—Terry. Earthquake—One of the most terrible manifestations of divine power. Still, small voice—"A sound of gentle stillness."—R. V., margin. 13. In his mantle—"The skins of beasts dressed with the hair on were beasts dressed with the hair on were beasts dressed with the hair on were formerly worn by prophets and priests as the simple insignia of their office," He covered his face to show his as the simple insignia of their offices. He covered his face to show his respect; so Moses hid his face (Exod. iii. 6). Went out—Elijah now leaves the cave and listens to the voice of God. What dost thou here—The Lord's question and the prophet's answer are repeated. The repetition shows that Elijah still justi-

Companionship, by having a disciple and successor. 3. Assurance that he had not lived in vain, since seven thousand were still faithful.—Hurlbut. Go, return—Eli jah's mission is not yet ended. Though his own success has not been what he had expected, yet Jehovah's work is still had expected, yet believed as a leady going forward; new agents are already prepared, and the discouraged prophet is to be honored and encouraged by a divine commission to call them into activing commission to call them divine commission to call them into action.

17. Shall come to pass—God assures Elijah that the Almighty is still ruling in Israel, and that idolatry is to be overthrown. Hazael, Jehu and Elisha are to be "the ministers of divine vengeance against the house of Ahab." Shall Elisha stay—These words cannot be explained literally, for we do not read of any who were slain by the hand of Elisha, but "his voice and his labors for the overthrow of false worship were constant, and by the 'sword of his mouth' he overthrew the foes of Jehovah."

111. The call of Elisha (vs. 19-21). Elisha and

III. The call of Elisha (vs. 19-21). Eli-III. The call of Elisha (vs. 19-21). Elijah went as he was commanded and found Elisha ploughing in the field. The prophet threw his mantle upon Elisha and passed on. "This was a symbolical act on the part of Elijah, investing Elisha with his own prophetic office." The sign was understood by Elisha, who obeyed the call.

A prophet discouraged. Elijah had had a glorious victory at Carmel. But periods of depression are likely to follow victories, and we soon find him so discouraged that he discouraged that he prayed that he might die. Itad his prayer been answered, his life would have gone out under a cloud. There would have been no anointing of Elisha, no school of the prophets no chariot of fire.

A prophet comforted.
Cave Elijah to himself.

He loved him He loved him leave Elijah to himself. He loved mis still, in discouragement as well as in victory. He refused to answer his un-wise and shortsighted prayer. God gavee mm rest and refreshment and then as a means of further comfort Elijah was

A prophet encouraged. In the solitude of the desert in a eleft of Mount Horeb, God speaks. 1. His first word is one of of the desert in a eiert of since the factor of the deserts. 1. His first word is one of reproof. "What doest thou here, Elijah?" Specially endowed for a great work and miraculously aided and protected in the prosecution of it, God inquires why he should be so far awayfrom his field of labor. The command was to "return." Yielding to discourse the command that the command was to "return." Yielding to discourse the command was to "return." was to "return." Yielding to discouragement necessitated retraced steps. The call was to practical work. It was to anoint three men to carry out the purposes of God in Israel. It was to personal work, dealing with individuals. Hazael he was to anoint king of Syriato afflict apostate Israel for their sins; Jehu to be king of Israel to punish the was to "return." sonal work, dealing with individuals. Hazael he was to anoint king of Syria to afflict apostate Israel for their sins; Jehu to be king of Israel to punish the wicked house of Ahab; Elisha to be prophet in his stead. God used a variety of instruments in the accomplishment of his work. Backsliding from God is an awful sin, and terrible woe is the doom of those who thus fall away. As the feeling of loneliness in the cause of Jehovah was the chief reason of his dishovah was the chief reason of his dishovar was the chief reason that there were seven thousand true men and women, all heart and soul with him, in the great work of spiritual reformation. When God talks to men it puts to flight their pessimism.

A prophet at work. Elijah at once began his work. He found Elisha plowing in his field, and ordained him for the prophetic office. After giving a fare-prophetic office. After giving a fare-well dinner to his friends and a parting kiss to his father and mother, Elisha followed him, and when the fiery chariotranslated his master, the mantle of the translated his master, the mantle of the prophet fell upon him. And when Elijah was restored to God's favor and did useful service he never regained his lost place of power and prestige with the people. Yielding to discouragement impairs our usefulness, and forfeits God's confidence in us. Eldon G. Burritt.

And the Pope's Flag Saluted by British Warships.

Rome, Aug. 29.—Cardinal Vannutelli has returned here from his visit to Ireland, where he represented the Pope at the reopening of Armagh Cathedral, on July 24. He was received in audience by the Pope to-day, and made his report. He says he was accorded an enthusiastic reception and that many hon-ors were paid him. For the first time since the fall of the temporal power of the Popes, the papal flag, hoisted on will express his feelings towards the steamer carrying the Cardinal, was

U. S. Railways Are Dismissing Employees and Reducing Time.

Binghamton, N. Y., Aug. 29 .- An order went into effect this morning on the Inckawanna Railroad whereby one of the three brakemen is dropped from every freight and coal train on the road. This is in line with the general retrenchment system being followed on the road and is partly due to decreased traffic. Altoona, Pa., Aug. 22.—The Pennsylvania Railroad to-day made the most sweeping reduction in the time of the men employed that has taken place since the panic of 1893. The employees of the machine shops to-day were notified that, commencing to-morrow, they would be divided into shifts, each shift to work every other day, eight hours to constitute a day's work. One shift will work Mondays and Wednesdays and the other Tuesdays and Thursdays. The remainder of the week the shops will be closed down entirely. DOGS FIND DEAD BODY.

Exidences of Brutal Murder of Manayunk Girl.

Philadelphia, Aug. 29.—The mangled and badly-decomposed body of Mrs. Louisa Greiner, better known in Manayunk as "Lou" Kolle, was found yesterday at the bottom of a 70-foot bluff in Old. Clegg's lane, West Manayunk, and the Montgomery county officials have another deep mystery to solve. That the woman, who had been missing for a week, was murdered and her body thrown down the steep bank is the belief of the officials, and they are working on that theory.

The body was found by Jacob Fitsmire, of Manayunk, who was in that little-frequented locality simply to give his pair of hounds a country run. The dogs were attracted to the spot by the stench, and as they refused to come out their master went in to investigate. His beautiful discovery was the result, and norrible discovery was the result, and he hurried off to notify the authorities.

he hurried off to notify the authorities. Officers Goehring and Broadhead happened to be in the vicinity, and news of the find was soon sent to the Coroner and other township officials.

On top of the bluff was found a suit of men's clothing, consisting of a black cheviot coat and trousers and an undershirt, the underwear of a woman, and a side comb. Another comb was found near the bordy, and the two comb: led to her identification of the corpse by Mrs. George Price, of 4,445 Cresson street, Manaynk, with whom Mrs. Greiner had boarded.

The body, which was partly nude, was Mrs. George Frice, of 3,243 of desagrated, Manaynk, with whom Mrs. Greiner had boarded.

The body, which was partly nude, was left as found until nearly 3 o'clock.

An examination showed that the woman's skull was fractured at the base, both legs were broken and the body badly bruised. Whether she fell from the bluff or was murdered and thrown there is the question to be solved. The theory of foul play is strengthened, however, by the finding of a large stone covered with what looks like blood and hair, and a railroader's shovel that appears to have bloodstains on the blade.

Mrs. Greiner was lase seen by any friend or relative on Saturday afternoon, Aug. 13, crossing the inter-county bridge, accompanied by a thick-set man, who was attired in a dark mixed suit and wore a straw hat. She was met on the bridge by here sigter, in lews Long Greiner.

But he raved and swore and vowed that she should not essape him like Richardson."

to a clandestine marriage. It seems to me now, such a weak and foolish thing for any girl to do. If a woman truly loves a man well enough to become his wife, and is assured that he is worthy of that love, she should be strong enough to stand boldly up, in the face of all opposition, and assert her position; she should never burden herself with such a secret or consent to live a lie, f am greatly perplexed and troubled over that wretched farce in the Church of God; over the indentity of that mysterious stranger, and whether that ceremony could, by any possibility, be regarded as legal. I trust, Walter, that we may be good friends always, and that you will agree with me that it is better we should live apart. I am sure that papa, were he living —even though he apprared to so earnestly desire that I should marry the son of his best friend—would, knowing my present feelings, uphold me. Florence had sat watching him with wide eyes and paling cheecks, during the asbove explanation, her heart burdenel with a terrible fear. Could it be possible, she asked herself, that she had really been deceived, after all?—that the excitement, the confusion and suspense, together with the trightful storm, had so wrought upon her that she had been mistaken, and imagined had so wrought upon her that she had been mistaken, and imagined that a stranger had appeared and personated Walter during that cere-

Could it be that, in spite of the recent revulsion in her feelings, she was really his wife and bound to him was really his wife and bound to him irrevocably?—that she would have to live out her life with him, even though he had become positively repulsive to her?

No classes of bereaved people have motions which are the subject of so much speculation as widows and widowers, and while they will always remain to be the butt of cheap jokes and the objects of mystified admiration al-"Are you fully recovered?" he inquired, retaining her hand in a lingering clasp and looking tondly down upon her.

Most Dangerous of All. California has in her hills the uargest and most kind-hearted of the great fight ers, the grizzly, and at the same time the smallest and most treacherous, the red lynx. Most hunters call them 'wildcats," but they are not. The real wildcat has a long tail and lives only in Europe-in fact, he's about extinct now-and old hunters dread the wailing midnight cry of a hungry lynx more than they do al the growls a grizzly ever let out.

For when a lynx is maddened by hunger he fears neither man or beast, the most of the animals of the forest give him the road without waiting for him to ask it. In Canada and even in the northern row of states of this nation, the lynx grows to be much larger than they do in the warmer climate of the southwest. The villagers were all gathered round the little store, talking about Sam Jones' lost colt. It was a two-year-old, and had strayed out of the pasture lot the day before. Sam worried about it, the neighbors had all been out looking for it without success, and no one seemed to know where to look for it.

Jim stood there, looking on and listening. Jim was a tall, lank young felloy, regarded as half witted by some persons and as foolish by others, "I think I could find your horse," he said to Sam Jones.

"Yo? Why, Jim, how do you think you could find him when we have had the best men in town out looking for him?"

"Well?" said lim "I could try couldn't."

The minister who imagines that he is going to make men better by lowering his office to the level of their weaknesses is laboring under a tremendous mistake.

"Will," she said, before the second marriage. "I want to ask a favor of you."

"What is it, dear?" he questioned.

"Why," she said, "you know I loved my first husband, and I want to ask you if you would mind having his name put with yours on the wedding cards?"

The enraptured husband-to-be succumbed, and when the wedding invitations went out they read: "Mr. J. Dudley Black Indigo," and to this day Mr. Indigo is the proud possessor of a middle name, which name belonged to his wife's first husband.

Calling at a house whose mistress had been a widow before her recent marriage, a relative saw the new husband deep in the litter of a large packing box.

A Word to Ministers Of the Gospel

By Rev. Thomas B. Gregory in Certain things have happened of late which would seem to make it necessary that some one, having the cause of re-ligion at heart, should speak a few plain words to the ministers.

It is thoroughly realized that many ministers do not need these words, but it is very evident, if reports are true, that there are clergymen who do need that there are clergymen who do need that the pool they hadly.

that there are clergymen who do need them, and need them badly.

St. Paul, in his letter to the Romans, speaking of his calling as a preacher, said, "I magnify mine office."

If the half that we hear is to be believed them. If the half that we near is to be silieved, there are certain preachers in the land who, instead of magnifying their office, are doing their level best to belittle and degrade it.

For example, it is said that not long For example, it is said that not long ago a Newark clergyman invited the men of his congregation to attend the church services in their shirt deeves, assuring them that he himself stand go into his pulpit and preach in the case of the in the sacred edifice I might sit in my shirt sleeves and smoke, I could have no particle of respect.

And the overwhelming majority of men would, I have no doubt, express themselves to the same effect.

It is about time that this belittling and degrading of religion by its own ministers had ceased.

It is about time that right-minded clerglymen—and these are overwhelmingly in the majority—put a quietus upon the type of minister I am speaking of—the minister who, sadly misunderstanding the nature of his calling, is, in the name of religion, doing all he can to make religion the butt of ridicule and

The Old People's Day at Glen Buell

On Sunday, August 28, the third anniversary was given by Glen Buell Sabbath-school for the benefit of aged people, not only for the aged of the Glen, but for all who in any form were associated with old pioneer families, ome of which run back in history a hundred vears or more. The morning opened up fine indeed, and the day on the whole was all that could be asked

Early in the morning many representative members of old pioneer families began to arrive, and by 9 a.m. there were many present for the early leader, and by 10.30 the church, which has accommodation for 300 when close ly seated, was fairly well filled. Rev. F. Chisholm of Elgin delivered the address of welcome, using for his text Romans 14th chapter and 17th verse, more especially the last half of that selection, viz.: "Peace and joy in the Holy Ghost." The rev. brother, although carrying a burden of many years, was strong and vigorous in his address concerning the joy and peace of an active Christian life as found in the Holy Ghost. The practical possible side of a righteous life was beautifully illustrated for the benefit of the child in Christ's kingdom as well as the old fathers and mothers in Israel.

The afternoon service, commend at 2.30, was more largely attended. Every possible seat was occupied, as well as all the standing room, and then there was about a hundred who did not get into the church. The first order of business was the presentation of an address and a floral token by a class of 10 S. S. girls to the Rev. Bro. Chisholm, as follows:— Rev. F. Chisholm, Elgin, Ontario. Respected Sir and Brother,-We, as representative students of Glen Buell Sabbath-school, wish to present to you a token of our appreciation of the fact that God in his wisdom has permitted you to join with us in this flower garden, and our appreciation of your kindness, we present you this beautiful "Barbara Heck" memorial plant. Although the sainted mother of Methodism has been dead a hundred years or more, yet the fragrance com-ing from that humble life and beautiful haracter is rich and sweet and full of character is rich and sweet and full of inspiration to-day. And, sir, as you in other days, or, perhaps, years, may be permitted to look into the rich, beautiful floral development of this memorial plant with pleasure, we ask as a favor that you remember the Sabbath-school girls of Glen Buell in your prayers, that the beautiful life and character of usefulness found in that of Barbara

The old servant of the church delivered a practical reply, in which he reviewed a portion of the joyful side of life. With much kindness he referred to the beautiful token of love as expressed in the address presented by the ten Sabbath-school virgins, and promed to remember them at the Thron

Heck may be sweetly developed in us.

The Rev. Wm. Knox then addressed the people, his subject being "Prayer; its privileges and blessings in developing a holy, happy, useful life."

After his address came the memorial reference to those who died during the year. The superintendent of the Sab bath set ool introduced with much tenderness and love the names of Otis F. Bullis and William H. Howe, each of whom was born within a mile of the church. Both were active, useful assistants in the S. S. anniversary services as held from year to year for aged people. Each was a member of the church militant and each was triumphant in the hour and article of death. And thus they left precious memories for friends and relatives to inspire happy, useful lives.

Bro. Chisholm, in much wisdom, referred to the fact of a Christian understanding the significance of death from a scriptural point of view. Much nterest was manifested in connection with this service.

After this came the presentation of the special silver medal award given by the S. S. for the oldest attendant of the anniversary.

Our old friend, "Uncle" Wriley Smith, of Athens, was found to be entitled to the medal and he responded at once when his name was called. He will be 95 years of age on the 20th of next October and he himself inscribed his name and age in the visitors' book. Mrs D. J. Forth read a comforting and inspiring address and then, after speaking a few well chosen words to Uncle Wriley, presented him with the medal. The Reporter has before given the biography of our aged friend, and little need now be added. His life has been as an open book, and in it there have been found few faults and much to praise. Verily, in his case, a hoary head is crown a of glory. Like our em blematic maple, his life has grown more beautiful at 1ts close, and the kind wishes expressed by Mrs. Forth found an echo in all hearts.

Respect, consideration, veneration for the aged is one of the most admir able distinctive traits of our Christain civilization, and it was a happy thought that prompted the Sabbath School of Glen Buell, inspired by their superintendent, Mr. C. J. Gilroy, to arrange for a public service in honor of their elders. This last has been the best of the series, and so widespread has been the interest manifested and so thorough the enjoyment of all who attended that we may reasonably regard "Old People's Day" at Glen Buell as a permanent institution. It is the past that has moulded the present, and all honor is due those who conquered the wilderness in this country. From a friend, the Reporter gleaned the following biographical sketches of some of the earlier settler at Glen Buell:

RICHARD ROWSOME

Richard Rowsome was one of the old men at Glen Buell S. S. Anniversary for the benefit of aged people, as held in the beautiful brick church in that rural village on August 28th. Mr. Rowsome is a member of one of the pioneer families who arrived in this beautiful portion of Eastern Ontario when the Indian and wild animals were plentiful. He was born in the county of Wexford, Ireland, September 15th, 1816, of true Irish par ents. The family consisted of five sons and two daughters and parents. Early in the year 1819, they bade farewell to the land of birth and emigrated to Canada. In due time, after a long tedious journey, they arrived in the county of Leeds, then known as a portion of Upper Canada, and settled at or near Unionville, now called Glen or near Unionville, now call Buell. As the several sons arrived at the age of manhood, they secured farms full operation, such as carpet-weaving, and entered upon a life of useful indus- silk spinning, cheese cloth making, nail our third anniversary in bonor of the try, which has always had its reward "Aged People," who were the boys and girls of yesterday and now the fathers and mothers in Israel.

Canadian history. We find that in the year 1796, Eri Hayes, the father of Joseph Hayes, emigrated to Canada and in the year 1805 settled on lot 32 in the sixth concession of Elizabeth-town, at the place called Hayes' Corn ers and for about thirtylyears known as rural district of Glen Buell.

Joseph Hayes, who is now a happy, hearty vigorous old British subject, was born May 10th, 1818, on the old bistoric homestead, where he now resides, and is thus in his eighty seventh year. He secured for his first wife, Thankful, a daughter of Gardiner Lee, of U. E. Loyalist origin, by whom he had five children. His second companion in life was Emily, a daughter of Rosewell Rowley, who then resided at or near New Dublin.

Eri Hayes, a grandson of the original settler, was born in the year 1844, on the same farm, and is now the owner. His partner in life's journey was Miss Louisa, a daughter of John Cumning, and a sister of Abe Cumming. Brockville, well known as an active fire insurance agent. From this union came a family of four sons and two daughters, four of whom were called from the parents in early life. Two sons, active young farmers, Arthurand Stanley, are at home enjoying its privileges and blessings. Thus the fourth generation of the Hayes family are in active service as farmers on the

In the palmy days of this family Open throughout name at Glen Buell (formerly called Thorough Courses Hayes' Corners), they were quite numarous and enjoyed much respect and confidence on every side, because of sterling worth of character. Now we have but one family by that name, George Hall. His grandfather George was a native of Emerald Isle. While living in the county Armagh, Ireland James and Boyd came as welcome members of the then large family, and when they became strong young men they began to look around for more liberty and privileges than what they enjoyed in their native land. Afte due consideration, they emigrated to Canada and secured farms in the then wooden country now known as the happy, prosperous Glen Buell. James Hall, father of George, was a mason by trade. He erected the comfortable homestead house now occupied by Mr. W. T Towriss. Here a large family of twelve sons and daughters came along, claiming care and school privileges. The old high school building now in use at the Glen stands as a monument of his industry.

At the age of 83 years, George found a companion whose name was Margaret Bolton. From this union came three sons and two daughters, and from these boys and girls devel oped "the Paul of Glen Buell," Wm J. Wm. James contracted malarial fever and died in active ser vice in the work he loved so well.

NOTES

In the contest made for the silver medal, Mrs. Horton of Soperton made a good second for the honor's, she having attained to the ripe old age of Mrs. Horton appeared strong and hearty. She walks quite erect, and her intellect like that of Uncle Wriley Smith appears bright and clear. Mrs Horton is a mem of the old pioneer Horton families of New Dublan.

John Culbert, M.P., was in attend ance as a representative of the once large Culbert family.

Miss Stella Orton of Brockville was the only representative of the old Orton family, who for a hundred years more were prominent citizens.

Mrs. John Yates of Valley City, N.

D., was with the old friends and relatives, and was delighted with the neeting, which was the first one for her to attend.
