BEAVER FLOUR

COSTS LESS - IS BETTER - AND GOES FURTHER THAN ANY WESTERN WHEAT FLOUR

"BEAVER" FLOUR makes a real home-made loaf of bread, close grained, beautifully white and tempting, with the delicious old-time flavor that "mother's brand" always had.

"Beaver" Flour makes Pies and Pastry that far excel anything made of western wheat flour, and with less shortening. And do you know why? Western wheat flours are strong and absorb much water, but they lack flavor. Ontario fall wheat has the nutty flavor, and pastry-making qualities, but lacks strength. "Beaver" Flour contains the choicest Ontario wheat with a little Manitoba wheat to increase the strength.

The bakers of Toronto and London—the experts at the Agricultural Colleges—and thousands of homes through Ontario, Quebec and the Maritime Provinces—have proved that "Beaver" Flour is superior to any western wheat flour and is equally good for Bread and Pastry. Try it. DEALERS—Write us for prices on Feed, Coarse Grains and Cereals.

PART IV.

"As Miss Florde, of course," he said bitterly. "I didn't know till this moment either that her father was an earl, or, which is much worse, that she was a great heiress."

"And what is wrong, then?"

"Just that she refused me—refused me with the most biting contempt—the bitterest scorn—no; I cannot speak of it. She thought I knew, had found out about her—and now I see that my misplaced honesty, the way I spoke, must have given colour to it. She taunted me with my insolence at the first—good God! What an instrument of torture a woman's tongue can be! There is only one thing to do—to stop Gertrude's ever telling of that letter."

"Oh, Despard!" exclaimed Mrs. Selby, and her eyes filled with tears. "What a horrid girl she must be! And I thought she looked so sweet and nice. She seemed so sorry when her cousin told me about you. Tell me, was that after? Oh, yes, of course, it must have been. Despard, I believe she was already repeating her cruelty."

"Hush, Madeline," said Mr. Norreys sternly. "You mean it well, but you must promise me never to allude to all this again. You will show me Mrs. Englewood's letter when it comes—that you must do, and I will write to her. But there is no more to be said. Let to-day be between us as if it had never been. Promise me, dear."

He laid his hand on her arm. Madeline turned her tearful eyes towards him.

"Very well," she said. "I must, I suppose. But, oh, what a dreadful pity it all seems. You to have fallen in love with her for herself—you that have never really cared for any one before—when you thought her only a governess; and now for it to have all gone wrong! It would have been so nice and delightful."

"A sort of Lord Burleigh business, with the characters reversed—yes, her spite idyllic," said Despard sneering.

"Despard, don't. It does so pain me," Mrs. Selby said with real feeling. "There is one person I am furious with," she went on in a very different tone, "and that is Mrs. Englewood. She had no business to play that sort of trick."

"Perhaps she could not help herself. You say the father—Mr. Florde as he then was—did not wish her to be known as an heiress," said Mr. Norreys.

"She might have made an exception for you," said Madeline.

Despard's brows contracted. Mrs. Selby thought it was from the pain in his head, but it was more than that. A vision rose before him of a sweet flushed girl's face, with gentle pleasure and appeal in the eyes—and of Gertrude's voice. "If you don't dance, will you talk to her? Anything to please her a little, you know."

"I think Gertrude did all she could. I believe she is a perfectly loyal and faithful friend," he said; "but for heaven's sake, Madeline, let us drop it for ever. I will write this evening to Gertrude myself, and that will be the last act in the drama."

No letter, however, was written to Mrs. Englewood that evening—nor the next day, nor for that matter during the rest of the time that saw Despard Norreys a guest at Markerslea Rectory.

And several days passed after the morning that brought her reply to Mrs. Selby's letter of inquiry, before the person it chiefly concerned was able to see it. For the pain in his head, the result of slight sunstroke in the first place, aggravated by unusual excitement in the first place, had culminated in a sharp attack which removed from brain fever. The risk was faded over, however, and at no time was the man in serious danger. But Mrs. Selby suffered quite as much as if he had been dying. She made up her mind that he would not recover, and as her special friends received direct information to that effect, it is not to be wondered at that the bad news flew fast.

It reached Laxter's Hill one morning in the week following Lady Denster's garden-party. It was the day which was to see the breaking up of the party assembled there to meet Lord Southwold and his daughter, and it came in a letter to Edith Flores-Carter from Mrs. Selby herself.

"So you are really going, dear Madeline," said her hostess. "I do wish you could have waited another day."

"But," said Madeline, "you will let me know at once what you hear from Mrs. Selby. I cannot help being unhappy, Gertrude, and, of course, what you have told me has made me still more self-reproachful, and — and ashamed."

She was very pale, but a sudden burning blush overspread her face as she said the last words.

"I do so hope he will recover," she added, trying to speak lightly, "though if he does I earnestly hope I shall never meet him again."

"Oh, dear," the girl ejaculated, her usually bright, not to say jolly-looking countenance clouding over as she spoke, "oh, dear, I'm so sorry for the Selbys—for Mrs. Selby particularly. Just fancy, doesn't it seem awful—her brother's dying?"

She glanced round the breakfast table for sympathy; various expressions of it reached her.

"That fellow I found in the grounds at that place, is it?" inquired Mr. Florde. "I'm not surprised, he did look pretty bad, and he would walk home, and he hadn't even a parasol."

"Conrad, how can you be so unfeeling? I perfectly detest that horrid trick of joking about everything," said in sharp, indignant tones a young lady seated opposite him. It was Lady Margaret. Several people looked up in surprise.

"Beginning in good time," murmured a man near the end of the table.

"Why, do you believe in that? I don't," replied his companion in the same low tone.

"Conrad looked across the table at his cousin in surprise.

"Come now, Maisie," he said, "you make me feel quite shy, scolding me so in company. And I'm sure I didn't mean to say anything witty at the poor chap's expense. If I did, it was quite by mistake I assure you."

"Anything 'witty' from you would be that, I can quite believe," Lady Margaret replied, smiling a little. But the smile was a feeble and forced one. Conrad saw, if no one else did, that his cousin was thoroughly put out, and he felt repentant, though he scarcely knew why.

Half an hour later Lord Southwold and his daughter were talking together in the sitting-room, where the former had been breakfasting in invalid fashion alone.

"I would promise to be home to-morrow, or the day after at latest," said Lady Margaret, "Mrs. Englewood will be very pleased to have me, I know, even at the shortest notice, for last week when I wrote saying I feared it would be impossible, she was very disappointed. 'Very well, my dear, only don't stay with her longer than that, for you know we have engagements,'" and Lord Southwold sighed a little. Margaret sighed too.

"My darling," said her father, "don't look so depressed. I didn't mean to grumble."

"Oh, no, papa. It isn't you at all. I shall be glad to be at home again; won't you? Thank you very much for letting me go round by town."

Mrs. Englewood's drawing-room—but looking very different from the last time we saw it. Mrs. Englewood herself, with a more anxious expression than usual on her pleasant face was sitting by the open window, through which, however, but little air found its way, for it was hot, almost stifling weather.

"It is really a trial to have to come back to town before it is cooler," she was saying to herself, as the door opened and Lady Margaret, in summer travelling gear, came in.

"But," said Madeline, "you will let me know at once what you hear from Mrs. Selby. I cannot help being unhappy, Gertrude, and, of course, what you have told me has made me still more self-reproachful, and — and ashamed."

She was very pale, but a sudden burning blush overspread her face as she said the last words.

"I do so hope he will recover," she added, trying to speak lightly, "though if he does I earnestly hope I shall never meet him again."

HEALED A RUNNING SORE.

Where Other Remedies Failed.

One of the most difficult things in the world to get rid of is a running sore either in man or beast.

Mr. Chas. Falls, of Philadelphia, Jefferson Co., N.Y., was beginning to think the running sore on his horse could not be healed, until he started to use Egyptian Liniment. He tells the result:

"I had a horse afflicted with a running sore for over a year. I tried every remedy I could hear of, but none of them seemed to have any effect, and every one told me the sore could not be healed. I then determined to give Douglas' Egyptian Liniment a trial, and am pleased to say that a few applications entirely healed the sore."

The way Douglas' Egyptian Liniment removes all unhealthy matter from scalds, burns and festering wounds, and restores sound healthy flesh is simply wonderful. Keep a bottle handy, 25c. at all Dealers. Free sample on request. Douglas & Co., Napanee, Ont.

"Even if I succeed in making him understand your side, and showing him how generously you regret having misjudged him?" said Mrs. Englewood. "I don't see that there need be any enmity between you."

"Not enmity, oh no; but still less friendship," said Maisie. "I just trust we shall never meet again. Good-bye, dear Gertrude. I am so glad to have told you all. You will let me know what you hear?" and she kissed Mrs. Englewood affectionately.

"Good-bye, dear child. I am glad you have not a long journey before you. Strettham will take good care of you. You quite understand that I can do nothing indirectly—it will only be when I see him himself that I can tell him how sorry you have been."

"Sorry and ashamed, be sure to say 'ashamed,'" said Lady Margaret; "yes, of course, it can only be if—he gets better or you see him yourself."

"Two or three days later came a letter to Lady Margaret from Mrs. Englewood, inclosing one which that lady had just received from Mrs. Selby. Her brother, she allowed for the first time, was out of danger, but 'terribly weak.' And at intervals during the next few weeks the girl heard news of Mr. Norreys recovery. And 'I wonder,' she began to say to herself, 'I wonder if Gertrude has seen him, or will be seeing him soon.'"

Partridge are Numerous.

People who came up from the interior by yesterday's express say that partridge are numerous all around the camps and settlements, and especially at Grand Falls. The great masses of snow which fell the past winter covered up their sources of food supply and they flock around the camps and in the outskirts of Grand Falls looking for food. Several parties who recently shot some of the birds were taken before Magistrate Fitzgerald and fined $25 each.

Now when you give it a fair trial, if you honestly feel that you have not had splendid satisfaction with Cream of the West Flour, return the unused portion of barrel and get your money back.

Just tell the store man your bread didn't come out right and you want your money back as guaranteed.

It's not the grocery man who loses. It doesn't come out of his pocket. It is the Campbell Milling Company, Limited, of Toronto, who pay, and they are satisfied to pay if you'll be satisfied to try Cream of the West Flour.

Partridge are Numerous.

People who came up from the interior by yesterday's express say that partridge are numerous all around the camps and settlements, and especially at Grand Falls. The great masses of snow which fell the past winter covered up their sources of food supply and they flock around the camps and in the outskirts of Grand Falls looking for food. Several parties who recently shot some of the birds were taken before Magistrate Fitzgerald and fined $25 each.

M. C. L. I. Debate ON SANATORIA.

"Granted that the resources of the country warranted an expenditure of $70,000 for the amelioration of the various conditions of sickness and poverty. Resolved that the object sought would be better obtained by maintaining two central hospitals and spending the balance in agricultural colonies for the poor in the interior than by maintaining 17 sanatoria." This subject formed the final debate for the session of the M. C. L. I. last night.

The leader for the affirmative, Mr. W. Soper, maintained that in the majority of cases the sanatoria could not hope to "cure" but merely "patched" and sent the patient back to the same conditions which produced the disease. He also emphasized the effect on the foreign fish markets when it became known that we had erected 17 sanatoria, claiming that foreign newspapers would not state that we had erected one large sanatorium and 16 "baby" or "sample" sanatoria.

Mr. R. A. Holloway, seconded the affirmative and showed that it was absurd to place 6 sanatoria in Conception Bay districts and only one in some of the large districts such as Bonaventure Bay which has a coast line of hundreds of miles. One large sanatorium for St. John's would be easy of access for all the people from Conception Bay, Trinity Bay, Trepassey and Placentia Bays; thereby displacing nine or ten small sanatoria. The second large sanatorium could be placed either in Bay of Islands or Twillingate District.

The third speaker for the affirmative was Mr. T. Young who contended that sanatoria was unnecessary because statistics proved that consumption was decreasing owing to the good educational work among the homes of the people by the A. P. C. We should seek to improve the condition of the people so as to prevent consumption. Mr. L. C. Morris opened for the negative with a thoughtful and well delivered speech stating that we were debating a national question. He had visited more homes in this country than any other man, and stated that the majority of these "homes" were built with closed windows, etc., making them close and unhealthy, and he claimed the erection of 17 sanatoria was the best method of combating disease as they would be centres of education and would demonstrate to the people by practical example the correct method of living and the value of eating plain food.

Mr. C. C. Pratt contended that only 25 per cent of the whole amount which we spend on public charities is being spent on maintaining these sanatoria, and that although fresh air is easily obtainable by the majority of our population we needed a sanatorium in each district which would supply scientific treatment.

Mr. A. Dawe endorsed the remarks of the two previous speakers, claiming that the money would be well spent, that each sanatorium would have a strong educative influence through the patients who return to their homes.

Several members took part in the open debate, good argument was put forward pro and con. The vote showed a small majority for the affirmative. Dr. Wakefield then addressed the Institute and showed that the greatest benefit to be derived from the sanatoria would be the compulsory isolation of dangerous cases.

Every member should be present at the next meeting when the election of officers will take place.

HEALTH RESTORED TO THIS FAMILY

Wife's experience with Dr. Chase's Nerve Food led to husband's cure.

"Since childhood I was afflicted with biliousness and sick headache," writes Mr. A. K. Van Wyck, Park Hill, Ont., "and as all the doctors' medicines and prescriptions failed to do me any permanent good, I had lost faith in all medicines. It was by accident that I came to use Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, for it had been recommended for Mrs. Van Wyck and did her so much good that she wished me to try it.

"I did so, and was surprised at the results. It is now three years since I discontinued the medicine and I have not had an attack of the old trouble. I hope that others may benefit by my experience."

The cures effected by Dr. Chase's Nerve Food are lasting because it builds up the system and removes the cause of trouble. 50 cents a box, 6 for $2.50; at all dealers, or Edmondson, Bates & Co., Toronto.

St. Patrick's Day at Holyrood.

St. Patrick's Day—the great Irish festival—was duly observed and the great saint highly honoured.

The members of the Star of the Sea Association met in their Hall at 9 o'clock in the morning, and after a short address by Assistant Vice-President Walsh lined up outside the Hall to begin the annual parade. With the T. A. Band of St. John's at their head the Society proceeded to the Church of Holy Cross, the band rendering familiar Irish strains and favorite stirring melodies.

The day was an ideal one for the celebration, and at vantage points along the route hundreds gathered making an attractive scene, some proudly sporting the chosen leaf or bard and chief, the dear little Shamrock, and other garland and wreaths of green. The parade arrived at the church a few minutes past ten, and occupied the front pews; here the religious ceremonies were: Mass, Sermon and Benediction, at which Rev. Fr. Finn, the genial pastor of Whitbourne, and a large congregation assisted. At the conclusion of the Mass Father Finn began his panegyric on Ireland's Patron Saint whose festival the Society was celebrating. The rev. gentleman preached a splendid sermon on the life and labours of the great St. Patrick, his language being most eloquent and intellectual and in splendid keeping with the great occasion. He sketched the career of the saintly prelate whose fame has fasted down through the centuries, whose memory is still fresh and green in the hearts of Irishmen and their descendants wherever emigrated, and whose impress had been left upon the people of every land. We regret we can give but an imperfect sketch of the great sermon. Suffice to say in all it was a masterpiece of choice and scholarly diction developing with earnestness clearness and expression the leading characteristics of the great saint's life, and a credit to the preacher who did full justice to the subject and whose Irish connections and sympathies evidently inspired him with all the happy associations identified with the career of St. Patrick and thus enabled him to arise to the occasion and to render a sermon in every way worthy of the great festival. At the conclusion of the ceremonies the Society marched back to the Hall, halting at the Presbytery to tender its greetings to the respected Pastor and Spiritual Director, Rev. Fr. Donnelly who for some weeks has been confined to his room with illness. Cheers were given to Fathers Donnelly and Finn, and the band saluted them with some favorite airs.

The Society having returned to the Hall was addressed by Vice-President Walsh and Treasurer Carroll, expressing regret at the absence through illness of the Spiritual Director, Fr. Donnelly, and hoping his health would soon be restored, and congratulating the Society on the success of its parade, Fr. Finn on his splendid sermon, and the T. A. Band for its beautiful selections of music rendered of the parade. Regret was also made by the unavoidable absence of our worthy President, Capt. Lewis, and a vote of thanks was passed to the T. A. Band to which Capt. Hartery suitably and nicely replied. The Society then disbanded well pleased with the day's celebration.

The evening attraction was the "Amuse" concert promoted by the Amusement Committee and conducted by Miss Madeline Donnelly who, in deed, made a great hit with the performance all through, not alone because the object was a worthy one, but also because the entertainment was by every sense high class, and in good taste was the St. Patrick's Festival Concert entitled to the crowded house which patronized it; "was really a first class entertainment not a number on the varied programme of inferior order. The singing and marching of the wee tots, the songs and choruses of the young ladies, the recitations and dialogues, the tableaux, the "Coons" from darkey land, and the crowning piece of all the farce: "More Blunders Than One," were all well rendered and received, the "Coons" and the farce bringing a veritable storm of well-merited applause. The T. A. Band rendered an orchestral selection and also assisted at the tableaux. "Erin." The committee in charge and Miss Donnelly deserve great credit for their management of the entertainment, for its great success and for the handsome sum realized. The winding up of the celebration was the dance which was well patronized and fiddler Ghaneey kept the patrons well employed and enjoyed tripping the mazy dance. Refreshments were supplied by a committee of amiable young ladies, so that St. Patrick's Day celebration from start to finish was full of success. The concert was repeated on St. Joseph's Night, with pleasing results, for Rev. Fr. Donnelly.

The Evening Chit-Chat

By RUTH CAMERON

"If you would be pungent, be brief; for it is with words as with sunbeams—the more they are condensed the deeper they burn."

—Southey.

There is a certain type of person who is appreciated in every walk of life, the home, the office, the pulpit, the social function, the schoolroom; in short everywhere—and that is the man or woman who knows how to say what he or she has to say and then stop. How few people we know who talk too little! And how many who are guilty of the opposite offense! A great writer has said that the smallest part is knowing what to leave out, and when to stop. Apparently most of us find the same difficulty in conversation—we have no trouble in finding enough to talk about, but we do have difficulty in knowing when to stop. As the wearied listener said of the speaker who missed many excellent opportunities to bring his speech to a close: "Our terminal facilities seem to have been neglected." A recognition of the need of greater conciseness, if much is to be accomplished, is expressed in the little sign which hangs in so many business offices "Be Brief." It warns the over-voluble visitor: "We have our living to earn and it takes most of our time to do it."

It is said that one's digestion and general health are best served when he rises from a meal not feeling sated but as if he could eat more. We seldom get a chance to leave a conversational meal with this feeling, but I think on the rare occasions when we do meet with a companion who really talks so sparingly and has so much reserve that we wish to hear more from him, instead of less, the result is that his words are much more carefully heeded and better digested.

Although most of us are in a hurry these days, we do not seem to have acquired the fine art of conciseness. And that does not mean omitting half what one really has to say or cutting in short to save time. That's the kind of haste that makes waste. It means the fine art of having something worth saying, saying it simply, clearly, without repetition or irrelevant dilution, and then stopping short and sharp as well as a well trained orchestra stops before a rest.

The French have a proverb which runs: "Le secret d'enmuyer est de tout dire."—The way to bore yourself and everybody else is to say everything you know.

If you want to be a benefactor to yourself and the human race, practise not saying everything you know. Learn to keep a few things back; heard too little rather than too much; let your conversational guests leave their banquet hungry rather than surfeited.

The Tenderfoot Farmer

It was one of these experimental farmers who put green spectacles on his nose and fed her shavings. His theory was that it didn't matter what the cow ate so long as she was fed. The questions of digestion and nourishment had not entered into his calculations. It's only a "tenderfoot" farmer that would try such an experiment with a cow. But many a farmer feeds him- self regardless of digestion and nutrition. He might almost as well eat shavings for all the good he gets out of his food. The result is that the stomach grows "weak"; the action of the organs of digestion and nutrition are impaired and the man suffers the miseries of dyspepsia and the agonies of nervousness.

To strengthen the stomach, restore the activity of the organs of digestion and nutrition and brace up the nerves, use Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It is an unfailing remedy, and has the confidence of physicians as well as the praise of thousands healed by its use.

In the strictest sense "Golden Medical Discovery" is a temperance medicine. It contains neither intoxicants nor narcotics, and is as free from alcohol as from opium, cocaine and other dangerous drugs. All ingredients printed on its outside wrapper.

Don't let a dealer delude you for his own profit. There is no medicine for stomach, liver and blood "just as good" as "Golden Medical Discovery."

Fads and Fashions.

Brilliant tones prevail in millinery, as in costumes.

The ruches are not so puffed and full as they were years ago.

Irish lace figures conspicuously in most designs of neckwear.

A touch of black is seen on almost every frock of white or cream.

Short coats of taffeta and chiffon will be worn by ultra-smart women.

Glass balls and buttons as well as laces, are greatly used as trimmings.

Flounces of embroidered tulle and lace appear upon many new evening gowns.

Diamonds will be in favour and take the place occupied up to now by pearls.

Taffetas with the quillings and puffings which so well suit them are extremely chic.

Many blouses of white crepe de chine and satin are relieved by a touch of color.

Ribbon trimmings on hats of straw and taffeta will be used more than any other.

Ribbon streamers tied in the back are another feature of some of the new hat models.

Laces are combined with damasks and velvets to make dainty bags for dress-up occasions.

Frills, pleatings and ruchings are used upon every article on which trimming is required.

The jackets of the new suits are invariably short, the majority showing the cutaway line.

The waists worn with taffeta suits are usually a combination of chiffon and soft nets.

Buckskin shoes are the newest and most fashionable novelty in footwear of the spring season.

Some handbags of the present are of such huge proportions that they might be mistaken for valises.

Paradise plumage will trim the most costly hats, and is the favorite plumage on all the chic models.

The shaped corsage and tight waist line is an inevitable renewal from the epoch of frills and ruffles.

Blue serge street suits are trimmed with collars, cuffs and revers of white cotton ratine or cotton corduroy.

Some frocks have a broad flat ruche, forming a flounce. The edges pinked or fringed, according to taste.

The increasing mode of lace is now approaching a craze, and all smart women are wearing exquisite laces.

The coming season will be a great suit season. Models in tailored suits are composed of silk and corded materials.

Paris has decided that this is a color season. Shades are laid on shades to secure ever new and stranger effects.

At last the kimono sleeve has had its day, and in its place there is an immense variety of new models, but nothing extreme.

Shaded feathers are to be much worn this season. A color combination apparently in high favor is dark red and bright orange.

Some of the new blouses fasten in front with a double row of crystal buttons, which are most effective on the taffeta blouse.

Looking for Breakwater.

Editor Evening Telegram.

Dear Sir,—I am not much of a newspaper correspondent, but I would ask you for space for a few lines just now. On reading the late papers we see that Sir Robert Bond is jamming the Government pretty tight with petitions of one kind and another. We wonder would he present one from us. Three years ago we got in a petition through Mr. Cashin and he promised to do his best with our request. The late Government undertook to build a breakwater we were looking for for some time. As some people thought it would be useless to try it, Mr. Ellis, who used to come among the people and talk to them about what they needed, and being a practical man, saw for himself that a successful job could be done. He got money enough to put out three blocks where the sea would be greatest to find out if they would stand in such a shocking place for sea between an island and the main land, make for us what ought to be a snug harbor. If it stood it would be no use in anybody saying the gut couldn't be stopped. The next fall a frightful storm raged from the north coast and it was said by the old men to be the worst they ever saw. Most of the wharves and breakwaters on the coast were broke up at the same time, but our wharves stood without losing a stick. We have a couple of blocks hitched on that we used for bringing ballast over and one of them went, but those were only a few sticks and didn't belong to the wharf at all. The three wharves are there now to be seen just as they were put there. Mr. Cashin went and saw them and said they were a splendid job. If they weren't, they'd be gone long ago. When he was elected we allowed he would take interest enough in us to finish the breakwater, and so we got up the petition and had it signed by every man from Tor's Cove to L'Amaline. Everybody wanted the harbor made safe, as it is here all boats are kept and nearly all the business for the other settlements done. We appointed a few men to follow up the petition, but Cashin got out of it after a time, gave us no satisfaction and told us for our consolation that some people told him it would be wasting money. He got scrupulous, I suppose, and as he was Minister of Finance he wanted to say all he could to raise some of the fellows salaries. We wonder how much increase he gave the fellows who told him the money would be wasted on the Gut. Likely they hadn't a punt for their own afloat and had to stink for the summer or go on the railway. Everyone knows that this Gut should be stopped long ago, and every man sees the benefit of what was done by Mr. Ellis. We wonder if he will come back. Mr. Cashin, so it is said, is not going to stand for Ferryland District any more; we heard he is going to Placentia and that he will send one of the boys. He'll be riding around here in a motor car one of those days and if he don't break his neck over one of our bad bridges, he'll be promising to finish the breakwater and so forth.

When a man that pretends to be a gentleman breaks his promise, you can't put much faith in him after that. By the look of things we won't have long to wait for a change. The people here have their eyes open as well as they have in other places, and we're gulleed long enough. We don't feel like asking Cashin to do any more after the way he treated us about the breakwater, but we are going to wait till we get men to represent us who will take an interest in our affairs. Thanking you for publishing this, we are

Yours,

GUMHEADS.

A Present to Mr. Simpson.

A very pleasant and enjoyable "surprise party" was given Mr. Simpson at his residence on Wednesday evening, the 20th inst., by the members of the Methodist Church Choir.

The members of the choir assembled and presented their talented leader with an address, accompanied by a handsome Morris Chair and Duplicate.

After the presentation, a very nice supper, prepared by the lady members of the Choir was partaken of, followed by a programme of choice music. Songs were given by Messdames J. Duff, J. H. Penney and Mr. J. Duff; a duet by Miss Harvey and Mr. Simpson, also several choruses were rendered by the choir. The singing of Auld Lang Syne brought a very pleasant evening to a close.

Carbonear, March 24, 1912.

ADDRESS.

Dear Mr. Simpson,—We, the undersigned members of the Cabonear Methodist Church Choir, over whom you have so successfully presided as leader for many years, desire to express our heartfelt and humble thanks to Almighty God, the giver of all good gifts, for having brought you through your recent severe illness, which He, in His wise Providence has seen fit to lay upon you.

We trust that you will yet be spared to devote many years to that work which is so near and dear to your heart, a work to which the greater part of your life has been given. You have toiled unceasingly, and your labors have not been in vain. As you look back over the many years that you have spent as choir leader you cannot but notice the many changes that have taken place. Quite a number of the old members who sat with you in the days gone by have gone, some have made their homes in other lands and have connected themselves with other choirs, and we are assured that they often look back and think of the many happy hours so pleasantly spent in the old choir. Others have been called home to the better land and they are now singing the songs of the redeemed around the throne of God. The old members have been missed, but the vacant places have been taken by others, and the good work is going on. As a token of our esteem for you, and to show our appreciation for the deep interest you have always taken, and are still taking in the work of our choir, we ask you to please accept these tokens of regard from those who sincerely wish that you may have a life to enjoy the use and comfort of each.

Believe us,
Yours faithfully,

Arthur Taylor (organist), James P. Guy, Ernest Forward, Arthur B. Peach, James Howell, Joseph Maddock, Willis L. Penney, Augustus Howell, Millie Howell, Jean Taylor, Hilda Forward, Florrie Guy, Lily Tucker, Mollie

Boyle, Agnes Harvey, Ernestine Forward, Kathleen Forward, Irene Penney, Emmie Guy, Mary Rorke, Lillian Butt, Lizzie Taylor, Katie Taylor, Annie Peach, Mamie Greaves Duff, Susie F. Taylor, May Penney.
Carbonear, March 20th, 1912.

REPLY.

Dear Mr. Taylor and Members of the Methodist Church Choir,—I wish to express my heartfelt thanks for the very kind address and the beautiful and useful gifts you have presented to me. I appreciate them very much indeed. But even more do I appreciate the genuine good feeling and warmth of heart which prompted you in the matter. The remembrance of these I shall ever retain as among my richest treasures in the store house of memory.

I sincerely join with you in giving thanks to God for my spared life, and hope to be permitted to devote it, as much as ever, to the work I so much love.

If I have been of any service to the church, or any benefit to you, my associates, or have helped to brighten the lives of any who have found life none to resent, I think God for the privilege, and feel amply rewarded for any labors of mine, by their and your appreciation. The relations between organist, choir and myself have always been of the most enjoyable and harmonious nature, and the pleasure and profit have not been all on one side.

In looking back over the many years I have been associated with the choir, I think of many who have gone out from us, some to join choirs in this and other lands, and some to join the choir above, but the memory of our association together is ever fresh, sweet and pleasant.

May we, each and all, when our work here is finished, go to swell the numbers of the choir celestial who praise our God unceasingly.

Faithfully yours,
A. SIMPSON.

Wreck of the Grace Tibbo.

Further information is to hand concerning the wrecked banking schooner Grace Tibbo, belonging to Grand Bank, which, as already told in the Telegram, went ashore off Rose Blanche on Sunday night last. The vessel was riding in a strong N. E. gale and owing to the thickness of the blizzard that prevailed the land could not be made out, and she eventually was dashed upon the rocks. There was a tremendous sea running and the schooner pounded heavily. The crew had a narrow escape, and after a trying experience successfully landed at Rose Blanche in dories, where they were cared for by the residents. The vessel is still aground and in danger of breaking up. No attempt has yet been made to take her off owing to bad weather. When the Prospero is passing that way, we learn that she will make an effort to tow the wreck to Grand Bank. The crew will also be brought to their homes.

No Bankers Home Yet.

We learn that the weather during the past few weeks has been the stormiest ever experienced on the S. W. Coast. This is particularly the case on the water and as a result the fishing schooners operating on the different grounds are greatly handicapped. The trawlers say there is plenty of fish to be had but gales and blizzards are so severely felt that it is unsafe to venture out. At present the aggregate catch of the bankers, which to date are averaging 400 qts. each, is below that of last season, and not a single vessel has yet returned at any of the ports with her first trip.

The two-masted schooner Margaret Swartz, arrived in port yesterday afternoon from Ramea and is consigned to order. The vessel is owned by Messrs. Penny Bros. of Ramea, and has been chartered by an uptown firm for which she will take a cargo of fish to the West Indies.

N.B.S. Hat Debate

A very enjoyable and most interesting Hat Debate was held at the British Society's Club Rooms last evening in which a large number of the members participated. The debates were appropriate and some learned and well thought out addresses were made. The following comprised the subjects discussed:—"Should the Women of Newfoundland Exercise the Suffrage"; "Is the Fishermen's Protective Union Beneficial to the Fishermen of Newfoundland"; "Are the Seventeen Sanatoria Necessary in Newfoundland"; "Which is the Greatest Incentive to Duty, the Fear of Punishment or the Hope of Reward"; "Should the Government Reduce Taxation."

President W. H. Goodland acted as chairman in his usual satisfactory manner.

Returned Home.

Mr. P. M. Benteau, merchant of Pt. May, Lawn, who had been in the city for the past couple of weeks on business returned home yesterday by the Prospero.

One day, Mr. Simpson of this town told me about the trouble he had with his kidneys, and I recommended him to try GIN PILLS, and I gave him one to take. The next day, he bought some for himself, and both he and his wife have derived great benefit from them."
HERBERT H. BAUER.

Special Evening Telegram.

LONDON, March 28.
The Times says that there is a serious split in the Labour Party, following strained relations during the recent crisis between the trade unions and Socialist wings which amalgamated in 1909. The separation of these two branches is now threatened. The antagonism culminated on March 24th in regard to the course which the party should take as to the third reading of the Minimum Wage Bill in the Commons. The Trade Unionists, including the miners, wished to oppose the third reading. Macdonald and other leaders argued that the Labour Party should abstain from voting. The Trade Unionists prevailed, and under party rules Macdonald and other Socialists were obliged to obey and vote against the Bill. It is predicted that the vote will embarrass the Labour movement in the country. Several Socialists are going on the stump in support of the Bill.

Special to Evening Telegram.

LONDON, March 28.
Does the British Government recognize that the Monroe Doctrine is applicable only to the American continent, or does it admit that it includes the Islands of the West Indian Archipelago, was a question put to Sir Edward Grey in the House of Commons this afternoon. The Secretary said that it was difficult to reply without knowing the meaning which the questioner attached to the Monroe Doctrine and to Archipelago. The Monroe Doctrine is, he said, an expression of policy by the United States, and as such it is for them to say what it covers. As however the British Government has no intention of making any new acquisition of territory either in the American continent or in the neighbourhood, no question of policy on the point will arise between Britain and the States.

Special to Evening Telegram.

LONDON, March 28.
Resumptions of work were less numerous yesterday than anticipated, notably in Warwickshire, where the miners have decided to await the result of the ballot before returning to the collieries. Reports from every district confirm the willingness of the miners to accept the Wage Bill and terminate the strike. The prompt despatch of troops to the scenes of disorder, coupled with the advice of the strike leaders to refrain from violence, have had a wholesome effect. In Lanarkshire about 2,000 men descended into the pits to-day, this being the most extensive resumption of work in any colliery in North Wales. The Miners' Association has recommended that the Bill be accepted.

Death of Mr. W. T. Hanlon.

It is with sincere regret we chronicle to-day the death of Mr. W. T. Hanlon, at the age of 51 years, after a long and tedious illness, which he bore with Christian fortitude and resignation. Truly it may be said of him that a good and very charitable citizen has been called from amongst us, for his purse was at all times open in the cause of Church, Charity and Education. He was a life-long member of the T. A. & B. Society, and on all occasions took an independent stand in upholding the glorious banner of Father Matthew. He was one of the largest "guarantors," cheerfully subscribing for years during the period of the Society's difficulties after the Bank Crash of 1894. For upwards of 30 years he was a trusted employee of Mr. Samuel Garrett, master mason, who was a daily visitor to his bedside. Mr. Garrett declared the deceased to be one of the most honest employees ever he had. He was also a member of the E. I. S. and Bricklayers' Union, taking a deep interest at all times in promoting the workings of the Institutions. His funeral takes place on Sunday next when all his co-labourers we are certain will attend to do honour to his memory. The Telegram respectfully offers its sincere condolences.

Had Long Tramp

Mr. Mitchell, the Inspector of Postal Telegraphs, arrived here by yesterday morning's train. He has been away for some time and walked from Deer Lake over the Topsails to Norris Arm. He had been to Port aux Basques. He walked 150 miles from Deer Lake, and as he went along put up at camps and stations on his march. He was caught in three severe snow storms and had an ugly time of it. Mr. Mitchell says he never saw so much snow in the country, and in some places the drifts are 25 feet high, and along the Topsails on several occasions during the winter the telegraph poles were covered. Almost daily snow storms are experienced along this plateau.

Two Seamen Convicted.

Deputy Minister of Justice Hutchings received the following message yesterday afternoon from Magistrate Avery, at Burn:—

"Two members of the crew of the schooner Edward Roy, named Bernard Hoare and Geo. Hollett, were convicted before me of the larceny of a portion of belting from the mill of J. M. Jackman, of South Arm, White Bay, in the latter part of September last. They were each fined $40 or in default two months imprisonment. The fines were paid."

Traveller's Grave Danger.

One night last week a traveller who was selling goods at Holyrood had a narrow escape from death. He had imbibed too freely and fell across the railway track where he lay stunned and bleeding from cuts in the head and face, for some time. The whistle of the incoming shore train was heard in the distance, when some boys passing the track discovered the man and drew him to a place of safety. Had he not been found he must have been cut in pieces by the train.

Her Crew Well.

During the voyage of the Fogota which lasted just 17 days, not one of her crew was ill, nor did an accident happen to mar the voyage. The seas were very much scattered, and the patch from which he loaded, Captain Winsor thinks, did not contain more than 35,000 or 45,000 seals. He thinks also that the big patch met each season was split up early this year into sections and scattered over a wide area.

Advertising Our Advertisers.

THIS IS THE YEAR'S ONE SEASON WHEN THE CALL OF STYLE IS HEARD BY EVERY MAN.

A man will wear any old shirt in the Winter time, and in the Summer he will wear no shirt at all if he can help it. His Summer clothes are good enough for Autumn, and he is willing to keep on wearing them till it gets too cold.

But when old Winter turns the calendar and the first warm, perfumed days come creeping in, a man begins to look for the first time, at his clothes, and before the Spring has travelled very far, he is more eager for style than any woman could be.

For man is only an animal with property rights. And in the animal kingdom the plumage is worn by the male. It is the feathers or the fur of the male that is made to attract, and always those feathers and fur grow bright with color the moment the new Spring comes.

If you want to see a good man become a good animal, just watch him when the first stirring of the new season gets into his veins. Watch him as he looks at his clothes and then at the looking-glass. Watch him as he adjusts his coat and cocks his head when he starts away in the morning.

Watch him as he begins to sit up and take notice of new shirts and shoes, of suits and hats and ties.

And from the ages of six to sixty every mother's son of you feels this call.

Well, you who are reading this paper are a man. And this is the Spring.

So turn to the advertising columns and now look for the styles. Here is where you will find all the latest things from hats to shoes. All the new patterns in shirts and ties, all the new styles in suits and overcoats—everything that will make your looking-glass approve of you is here—here in the advertising columns of this paper you are reading now.

These merchants have been preparing for you for months. They have been shipping things from all over Europe and America. They have gathered the finest and best from every land. And their advertising news in this paper to-day is a report to you of all the new things they have brought to this city for your comfort and your vanity.

In these days the man who doesn't read the advertising is seldom a well-dressed man.

First Sealer Arrives.

THE FOGOTA, CAPT. JESSE WINSOR, ENTERS PORT WITH 9,000 SEALS, ALL PRIME HARPS; AVERAGE WEIGHT 55 LIBS.

Much excitement is created each season when the first sealer is announced to be in the offing, and this year was no exception to the rule. When it became known that the Fogota had passed Cape St. Francis, crowds thronged Water Street, and as the trim little ship, the smallest of the steel fleet, steamed in the Narrows at 5 p.m., gaily bedecked with bunting, the wharves were filled with sightseers, Crosbie & Co.'s piers being densely packed with people, who even climbed on to the roofs and sheds of stores and packed the galleries. The ship, looking very deep, was escorted in the Narrows by the tug John Green and some launches, while their whistles blew a noisy welcome, and after the vessel was given a clean bill of health by Dr. Campbell when she had hove up on the quarantine ground, the owner, a number of friends and the representatives of the Telegram, Herald and News boarded the ship, all heartily congratulating Capt. Winsor on his success. From him we glean the following particulars of the voyage: The Fogota left port at 7.30 p.m. on the 11th, just as the conflagration in the Collin block occurred, and in company with the Algerine, Eagle, Ranger Erik and Diana. She got down to Cape Bonavista that night but could not get round it as the ice was packed tight there, so she remained all night near the Cape in company with the other ships, getting clear on the morning of Tuesday the 12th. Steaming across Bonavista Bay in clear water she with the other ships saw several old seals that day. The fleet that day went down near Cape Freels, as the captain expressed it, "shaving the rocks," until 4.30 p.m., when the first whitecoats were seen off the Offer Wadhams, and five were taken on board while the ship forced through a pretty heavy jam of Arctic ice. This made a "balacalder" of ice around the islands; the ship's head was put into it and she remained close inshore. Thick weather prevailed while she lay there all night during the 13th, and at 1 a.m. on the 14th she slipped clear of the islands and steamed east through close ice all the day until noon of the 15th, when a small patch was struck four miles north of the Funks, and between 900 and 1,000 of the primest of harps were killed when her crew of 8 sturdy fellows went out over the bows. These were got on board and stowed that evening, the patch having been cleaned up, and in company with the Algerine and Eagle, which had secured 4,000 and 500 respectively, a start was made for "pastures new." The ships alluded to above went north and the Fogota steamed 25 miles in the same direction, Capt. Winsor anticipating that the patch would extend and enlarge itself in this direction. At midnight he decided to take another cut for the big patch, which he thought should be about 40 miles S. E. of Cape Freels, and his judgment proved to be correct, for here he struck the biggest herd yet on the 16th, and he "burnt down" his ship amongst them on Sunday, the 17th, he being in good and appropriate company, amongst so many "harps" or St. Patrick's Day. The crew were on good and early on Monday, the 18th, and Sheila's Day was a red letter day in the history of the ship's voyage for the whitecoats were plentiful and the ice was soon covered with gore as the men killed and panned their quarry. With only the Ranger in their company the men of the two ships worked together on the 18th but on the 19th the Ranger's crew worked north and the Fogota's south and day after day the slaughter continued until Tuesday, when it was impossible to remain on the ice long as a heavy swell was running through it. It broke up quickly, and it was decided as the ship was very deep with her weight of fat to start for home. The ship bore up that evening and had it very rough and stormy until yesterday. Each night the ship would be compelled to run far into the floe for safety. She left the patch about 250 miles to the eastward of St.

John's, and the captain thinks that the main body of seals went south and were missed by the whole fleet. He also believes that this main patch was broken up into smaller patches and says that the seals he took latterly were scattered about in little herds of from two to five over the ice. The Fogota left the ice about 25 miles S. S. E. of Cape Bonavista yesterday morning and saw four other ships going north, evidently looking around for seals. Capt. Winsor says that in his 27 years' experience at the seal-fishery he never killed better seals. Wednesday night a heavy snow storm with a gale of wind raged, and a very high sea ran as the vessel came along yesterday, time and again filling the well decks with water, inundating the forecabin and also wetting the cabin considerably. In the storm of Wednesday night the ship was in a string of heavy ice 40 miles east of Cape Bonavista. Several "round" seals were picked up as the ship steamed through the heavy ice coming home, and these were "scolded" on her deck after the ship had tied up to her pier yesterday. Capt. Winsor himself took the last whitecoat Wednesday morning, about 100 miles E. of St. John's and 85 miles from where her cargo was secured. This seal was kept alive in a quarter boat swinging at the davits, but it managed to crawl out of its berth Wednesday night unobserved and escape into its native element. The blood of Vikings flows through Capt. Winsor's veins, as his grandfather was an old and successful sealing captain in the old-time "windjammers," while his father, the late Capt. Wm. Winsor, often gave bloody decks to the Iceland, Vanguard, Greenland and other ships. To Capt. Jesse, who has been a sealer since his 10th year, as well as to the owners of the ship, Messrs. Crosbie & Co., we extend the congratulations of the Telegram. The reports brought in by the Fogota are: Beothic, 20,000 (Capt. Winsor was on board her Saturday last when she reported this); Eagle, 700 (the crew of the ship were on board the Fogota a few days ago, and this is their report); Adventure, 13,000 (received this report from Beothic); Ranger, 10,000. She steamed north Tuesday. As far as the captain could glean the catches for the other ships are: Florival, 300; Bellaventure, 1,500; Bonaventure, 7,500; Stephano, 9,500; Diana, 5,000; Sagona, 1,000; Algerine, 5,000; Nascope, 15,000, and Erik, 4,000.

The School Ma'am.

BY H. L. RANN.

The school ma'am is a conscientious individual, who teaches the young idea how to shoot. Once in a while she gets hold of a pupil whose eyesight is so defective that she can't shoot anything but moist paper wads, which describe a graceful parabola, and spread out on teacher's collar like a bow-legged man in an upper berth. The teacher is supposed to take the mind of youth while it is in a raw state and break it to drive single or double. The hardest task a teacher has to perform is to provide mental pabulum for scholars whose parents forgot to endow them with anything in the intellectual line outside of ears and feet. The rural school ma'am puts in longer hours for less pay than anybody in the universe who never strayed in to the newspaper profession, with a drum cylinder press and a soul full of hope. It is encouraging to reflect that most of our presidents sat under some rural school ma'am with a hard rubber ruler and a pious leaning toward corporal punishment, at one time or another, and had their characters formed along with a number of brisk and bas relief wits. Very few school ma'ams nowadays punctuate their remarks with anything but the power of love, which has about as much effect upon a case-hardened pupil as spraying talcum powder on the mumps. There is plenty of room in this country for the old-fashioned school ma'am, with an arm like a premium ham, who used to reach over into the third row of seats and land the school bully on a hard wood floor with a jolt that caused him to see the nebular hypothesis for a week. People whose children never pluck any prizes to speak of, have a very low idea of school ma'ams in general, but if it were not for our school ma'ams most of us couldn't tell a cube root from any other vegetable.

Boy Run Over.

Yesterday afternoon a lad named Brien while running along Adelaide Street in a crowd to go and see the Fogota when she arrived, was run over by a passing sleigh, and very much hurt about the body.

TIGHTWAD TOWN.

By WALT MASON.

In Tightwad Town they're chasing dollars, and when they catch a silver bone, they pinch the eagle till it hollers so loud 'twould rend a heart of stone. In Tightwad Town they all have axes for any scheme to make things move; "it would," they say, "increase our taxes if we the village should include." In Tightwad Town there is no knowledge of books or authors, art or song; they starve the church and bust the college, and boost the mortgage works along. In Tightwad Town the man's estimated according to the wealth he owns; he's most revered and elevated who has the tallest stack of bones. In Tightwad Town they're only civil to strangers who have brought their wads; in Tightwad Town the soul will shrivel pursuing milled and minted gods. In Tightwad Town there's little laughter, there is no warmth in hand or heart; men seldom smile who follow after the idols of the money mart. With streets unpaved and sidewalks broken, and houses old and tumble-down, the word of hope is seldom spoken in Tightwad Town, in Tightwad Town!

Mail Bags of Some Rulers

Pope's the Largest—Kaiser's Next With 7,500 Letters a Day.

The mail bag at the Vatican probably contains the largest number of letters that are addressed to any single person or institution. After the Pope, the Kaiser receives the greatest number fully half being addressed to him personally.

Emperor William has never less than 7,500 letters daily, a goodly proportion of which are appeals to right wrongs about which he knows nothing and would be powerless to act if he did. Many are private diplomatic letters.

After him comes the President of the United States, who gets a daily average of 5,000 letters. The mail of the present King of England has dwindled to 2,500 letters, probably a third of the number received by his father. The mail bag of the Czar is smaller still, about 500 persons writing daily to one well known to be hedged in by officialdom.

It is said that the royal palace in Madrid gets 300 letters, addressed for the most part to King Alfonso, but a share falling to the lot of the Queen. The Italian King gets only about 200 letters daily, while the mail bag of the President of France varies greatly.

When the foreign population in Paris is most numerous his mail reaches as high an average as the American President but in other months the average is comparatively small. It is said that the Emperor of Japan has only recently begun to be troubled in this manner, letters to him being mainly in the nature of appeals to add by swift and glorious war to the territory of the sun kingdom.

Cotton goods are perhaps quieter than the silk yet they are none the less colorful, and everything points to gay, lightsome tones.

Well, that depends.
And it all depends upon the quality of the tea. If the Tea is flat and flavorless—no comfort.

Then, you are sure of your solid comfort.
