Stella Mordaunt.

—OR—

The Cruise of the "Kingfisher."

CHAPTER XXI.

"I intended calling Mr. Green, the officer in charge of the case, your worship, but he's not here. He went to London on business connected with the case and has not returned yet. I have produced all the evidence I have in my possession, your worship, and I ask for a remand."

Mr. Bulpit got up, snuff-box in hand. Whatever disappointment or discouragement he may have received during his interview with the prisoner, he showed nothing of it in face or voice or manner. He was just as calm and grim and self-contained as usual. The court waited for his opening words with close attention. Workley, seated in his former place beneath the witness-box, eyed him with moody impatience. Rath alone had no eyes or attention for him, but looked at Stella as if his mind were concentrated on her.

"I have had an opportunity of conferring with my client, your worship," said the old lawyer, in the dry way which was so familiar to most of his audience, "and I have only a few words to address to you before I call my witnesses for the defence. And first I would desire to refer to the dramatic incident which has taken all of us by surprise. It is not often that a witness called by the prosecution bears such formidable testimony for the defence. You have heard Miss Mordaunt's remarkable story, gentlemen. Incredible as it may seem, it is true. It is true that the prisoner has spent his childhood, boyhood, and the opening years of his manhood—indeed, one may say all his life—on an almost unknown part of an island. I find that it is the western part of Vancouver. You will expect to hear from me something of his parentage, his connections. I can tell you nothing respecting them. The prisoner himself is in complete ignorance of his antecedents, of all the facts of his birth and upbringing. For him his life and his life's history date from the earliest remembrances of his life on the island."

There was a murmur of astonishment, of doubt. Ralph moved in his chair, and a sneer of incredulity sat upon his face, plain enough for all to see.

"He and his father lived alone until that father's death, when the prisoner became a solitary in solitude as intense as that of the man in the famous history with which we are all acquainted. Then the two women, Miss Mordaunt and her mother, appeared on the scene—waifs from the wreck of the 'Andromeda.' You have heard how he rescued and sheltered and provided for those two helpless women, and of how, soon after the death of her mother, Miss Mordaunt was carried away from the island."

All eyes were turned on Stella; but the fixed gaze did not embarrass her. She was unconscious of the crowd of everything and everyone, but of Rath standing there, with that light shining in his eyes as they rested on her.

"I now come to another phase of this singular romance of life. The advent of another character, another actor, on this strange scene—Mr. Edward Bryan.

"As you are aware, he is connected with this mystery by his friendship with the prisoner. I will call him; he shall tell you the story in his own words. Is there anyone in court who doubts his veracity, his credibility? Is there anyone on the bench who would refuse to accept the word, the sworn testimony of a Bryan?"

The old man's voice rose with an almost youthful ring.

"No? Let him tell his story, then, let him prove that it was impossible for the prisoner to have known, met, the unfortunate woman who was done to death, until the night on which the cruel murder was committed. Edward Bryan!"

Edward, stepped to the witness-box. "Mr. Bryan, I ask no questions. You will place the court in possession of your knowledge of the prisoner and the facts which have a bearing on the case."

As Edward told the story, the court listened with well-nigh breathless attention. He reserved, concealed nothing. It was now nothing to him or Rath if others learnt of the discovery of the gold, and as he gave an account of it, the court stared and gaped. The prisoner with his partner were millionaires, then! The crowd moved restlessly and pushed forward to get a better, closer sight of the young and handsome man who possessed untold riches—and stood charged with wilful murder!

"Until you parted with Mr. Rayne, your friend and close companion for all those months, he was scarcely out of your sight?" asked Mr. Bulpit.

"No. Excepting for a few hours on the Monday night—"

"For which I can account," said Lord Lisle, involuntarily.

"Silence! silence!" cried the clerk, sternly.

"You left him at the station, you found him struggling with Mr. Workley and the gamekeepers. During the time of your friendship, partnership with him, have you ever heard him mention the name of the deceased?"

"No, sir."

"And, living alone in this desert island with the prisoner, you were in his entire confidence?"

"Yes."

"In all your knowledge of him, is there anything in his conduct which would lead you to consider him capable of such a crime?"

The clerk rose, but Edward was too quick.

"With all my acquaintance with him I have found him the truest, the noblest, the bravest of men, one quite incapable of any meanness or cruelty; and I am sure of his innocence as I am of my own."

A murmur rose that was instantly suppressed.

"We will take that as evidence of character," said Lord Hatherley, gravely. As he spoke, the superintendent looked towards the door, and rose with an air of relief.

"Mr. Green is here, your worship. Before I call him, I will hand to the court an article found on the prisoner."

"Why was it not produced before?" asked Lord Hatherley.

"I had entrusted it to Mr. Green, your worship," said the superintendent, "and by accident he failed to return it, and carried it with him to London."

He took the tin case from the detective and handed it up to Lord Hatherley, and went into the box and swore that he had found it on the prisoner.

The case was passed from one magistrate to another, and Mr. Bulpit frowned up at them.

"What is this?" he asked, testily. "These surprises are intensely trying. Mr. Superintendent, and extremely irregular."

"Mr. Green is my superior, sir," said the superintendent, apologetically. "I have to obey orders, and had to give the case to him."

"Well, what is it?" demanded Mr. Bulpit.

Rath leant forward, his eyes fixed on the tin box as it passed from hand to hand; then he turned to Stella.

"It is yours. I found it—"

"Silence!" cried the usher.

Lord Hatherley passed the case to the clerk, for Mr. Bulpit.

"It is tied and sealed," he said. Mr. Bulpit turned it over, with irritable impatience.

"It must be opened, of course," he said. "I have no objection, and can offer none. It is the first time I have heard of its existence."

He looked at Rath, and from him to Stella.

"Shall they open it, Stella?" asked Rath, simply.

She rose.

"It is mine—it was my mother's," she said, as simply as Rath had spoken. "I left it on the island."

"Your worship must open it, of course," said Mr. Bulpit, slowly; and he handed the case back to the bench.

Are you Anaemic?

Our blood is composed of red and white corpuscles—the red to nourish the body, the white to fight disease. In Anæmia, the red corpuscles are more or less deficient. Thus the blood cannot properly sustain and nourish the body. The eyes become dull, the face white, and a feeling of intense weariness pervades the whole system. There is nothing so effective in Anæmia as "Wingarnis." Because "Wingarnis" foods the body with rich, red blood, which gives a sparkle to the eyes, brings the roses into the cheeks, and gives new vigour, new vitality and new life to the whole body.

Begin to get well FREE.

"Wingarnis" is made in England and you can obtain a liberal free trial bottle—not a mere sample, but enough to do you good by sending 5 cents stamps (to pay postage) to COLEMAN & CO., Ltd., Wingarnis Works, No. 10, English. Re-sent supplies can be obtained from all leading Grocers, Chemists, and Wine Merchants.

Agents for Newfoundland—are really conscientiously desirous of doing their duty, and of administering the law justly and legally, and these county gentlemen confronted with this difficulty paused and considered gravely. They knew that both public and press would be only too ready to censure them if they made a mistake.

"Hand the case to Miss Mordaunt," said Lord Parodel, and there was an echo of assent from most of the magistrates; but Ralph alone leant forward and said, half sullenly:

"It was found on the fellow—the prisoner; we've a right to open it, and I vote we do so."

"I doubt it, Lord Ratton," said the clerk, gravely; but Ralph eyed him with the contempt which men of his temperament consider the proper manner with which to treat inferiors.

"We have to decide that," he said, haughtily. "This thing may contain evidence which would convict the man—though, to my mind there is quite enough."

Lord Hatherley interposed quickly. "I will ask her," he said. Ralph shrugged his shoulders, and leant back with a smile and an air of resignation.

Meanwhile, the crowd, growing impatient in their curiosity, began to murmur among themselves, and the usher had to call "Silence!" sternly.

"WHY you step into the box, Miss Mordaunt?" said Lord Hatherley. Lord Lisle took her hand and led her to the witness-box, and Stella stood as she had stood before, her hands gripping the edge of the box, her eyes, not downcast, but fixed, after a glance at Rath, on Lord Hatherley.

"You state, you swear, that this box is your property?" asked Lord Hatherley.

"Yes," she answered in a low but perfectly clear voice.

"When did you see it last?"

"On the morning of the day I was carried away from the island; I left it under my pillow. It was my mother's, my lord," she went on, with a tremor in her clear tones. My mother brought it with her from the ship in which we were wrecked. She carried it with her always."

"How did the prisoner come in possession of it?"

The clerk shook his head at the inadmissibility of the question; but Stella answered by turning to Rath.

"You found it, Rath, after—after I had gone?"

"Yes," he said, amidst the usher's cry for silence.

"Don't address the prisoner; answer his lordship, please."

"He found it, my lord, and he has kept it so carefully because—the tears filled her eyes—"it belonged to me!"

Ralph nodded, as if this statement covered all the ground.

"Are you aware of its contents?" asked Lord Hatherley.

"No, my lord." The people in the body of the court moved excitedly. "I do not know; my mother did not tell me. I saw it only by accident, when she was alive—"

Lord Hatherley nodded.

"Miss Mordaunt, this box belongs to you; it is your private property. I do not think the court has any right to open it; and I shall take the responsibility of handing it to you after the examination has closed—"

The crowd expressed its disappointment by a low murmur.

"I should advise you to place it in the hands of your nearest relation or guardian."

Stella shook her head.

"I have no one—but Rath," she said simply. "He was my guardian."

"No relation?" said Lord Hatherley, gravely and pityingly. "Surely, there must be someone!"

Stella shook her head again.

"I know of no one," she said. "I am quite alone in the world—"

She glanced at Rath and stopped suddenly.

"Then let me advise you to consult my friend, Mr. Bulpit," said Lord Hatherley. "I am sure that whatever course he thinks you should follow will be the best for you. The case can in no way be connected with the charge against the prisoner, and the court will retain it intact until the examination has closed. The next witness, Mr. Bulpit."

BIG, HEARTY BABY BOY Mrs. Beck's Fondest Hopes Realized—Health, Happiness and Baby.

Upper Lahave, N. S., Can.—"I wish to thank you for the benefit I received by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for female troubles from which I was a great sufferer, so that I was completely run down in health. Other medicine did not help me, but Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound made me well and strong. I now have a big, hearty baby boy, and praise your medicine for the wonderful lot of good it has done me."

The darkest days of husband and wife are when they come to look forward to a childless and lonely old age. Many a wife has found herself incapable of motherhood owing to some derangement of the feminine system, often curable by the proper remedies.

In many homes once childless there are now children because of the fact that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound makes women normal.

If you have the slightest doubt that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will help you, write to Lydia E. Pinkham, Medicine Co., (confidential) Lynn, Mass., for advice. Your letter will be speedily read and answered by a woman, and held in strict confidence.

Examiners and Their Vague and Indefinite Questions.

Dear Sir,—I will thank you for some of the questions of the recent examination of the C.H.E. Flux is our authority that questions should be short and clear—not vague and indefinite, leading to the bewilderment of the candidate.

Examiners should give their examinees a square deal by asking straight questions, and not those that probably lead into serious bewilderment some timid candidates.

"Saws Wood and Says Nothing."

The Montreal Star of Monday last pays a pretty tribute to the effort of Newfoundland to think and do imperially. The tribute takes the form of a cartoon, which is headed "Newfoundland 'saws wood and says nothing,'" and at its foot appears the legend "Britain's oldest colony makes an enviable record." The picture shows a Newfoundland skipper sawing wood with a wood saw, marked "Patriotism," while he is smoking. His demeanour is that of a quiet and determined man, intent on his task. He is placed on the hillside of a fishing cove, behind him is the Union Jack, and around it are a large number of sawn chunks of wood some marked "Naval Reserves" and the other "Recruits," and the site is called "Empire Wood Yard." We thank our Canadian contemporary for his kindly appreciation of the efforts of Newfoundland to do her "bit" in the Great War.

Newfoundland's Aeroplane.

Elsewhere in this issue will be found a copy of a letter sent by the Secretary of the Overseas Club, London, on the King's Birthday, and addressed to the Mayor of St. John's, directing attention to the club's scheme to provide an Imperial Aircraft Flotilla. The scheme has the approval of His Majesty the King, Lord Kitchener, and the Colonial Office. The matter was briefly alluded to by the members of the Civic Commission present at the meeting last night. The matter was then referred to a special meeting of the Commission next week. This morning we learn from the Prime Minister that on Wednesday last an almost similar letter was received by him from Mr. Wrench, who is personally known to him, covering copy of a letter written on behalf of His Majesty the King by Lord Stamfordham, and also copy of a communication from Earl Kitchener on the same matter which read as follows:

ROYAL PAVILION,
Aldershot Camp,
28th May, 1915.

Dear Sir,—The King was much interested to hear of the liberal gift from the Colony of Hong Kong of £4,500 with which to purchase the aeroplanes for the Imperial Aircraft Flotilla, and that this brings the total number of Aeroplanes subscribed for by residents overseas up to six.

Yours very faithfully,
STAMFORDHAM,
The Honorary Organizer,
The Overseas Club.

WAR OFFICE,
Whitehall, S. W.,
19 May, 1915.

Dear Sir,—I am gratified to hear of the prompt response to the appeal issued by the Overseas Club to its members and friends in all parts of His Majesty's Dominion of Newfoundland, which has already permitted the presentation of an aeroplane to the Royal Flying Corps.

I was interested to learn that the aeroplane in question had been paid for by the generous donations of several thousands of British subjects overseas, and, as I understand that you are hoping to obtain the gift of an aeroplane from each part of the Empire, I sincerely wish you success in your efforts.

Yours very truly,
KITCHENER,
The Honorary Secretary
The Overseas Club,
General Buildings,
Aldwych, W.C.

Before taking any action in the matter the Prime Minister proposes taking the matter up with His Excellency the Governor so that the movement which he entirely endorses will not clash with any of the funds that are now being subscribed to, and has already succeeded in inducing several patriotic citizens including Sir Edgar Bowring, Hon. W. C. J. B. Mr. W. B. Grieve, Mr. H. D. Reid, Mr. J. C. Hepburn and Mr. Robert E. Job, all of whom have promised substantial aid and hearty co-operation, and nearly half the cost of the aeroplane is at present in sight, so that we may assume within a very few days the entire amount will be subscribed and Newfoundland will have the credit of having her name on one of the Flotilla of the air.

The Prime Minister was not aware until its publication in this morning's paper of the communication to the Mayor and he has written him to-day proposing that the forces be united and desiring co-operation in the movement, the success of which will all have at heart. The amount required will be £7,500, and when this is subscribed it can be immediately cable and Newfoundland's Aeroplanes be at once placed in commission.

SATURDAY, July 4th, 1915.

We have just got in a line of Combination Fountain Syringe and Hot Water Bottles of good quality which we are selling at the moderate price of $2 each. The "Yankee" as it is called, is turned out by the B. F. Goodrich Company, whose name is a guarantee of quality. They are of chocolate colored Rubber, and the seams are well reinforced. There are three hard rubber pipes which slip on the tube (these are much less liable to breakage than those that screw on) and there is a good tight metal stopper. On the whole, the "Yankee" is as good a combination as we have ever been able to offer at the money.

Do not forget that we are now stocked up with Connoisseurs Perfume without spirit—Violet and Lily of the Valley; Price $1.35 a bottle.

J. P. Morgan Shot Telegram Fashion Plates.

Word was received in the city this morning that Mr. J. P. Morgan, the great banker, who is the British financial agent for Newfoundland, purchases in the States, was shot this morning. He is said not to be very seriously injured.

Pity the Poor.

Our attention has been called to the case of two poor women who, with their children, are residing in an improvised camp near the quarry on the Southside Hill. Their names are Sibley and Peddie, the former a widow, whose husband was accidentally killed at Grand Falls, and the latter has a husband not supporting her. Mrs. Sibley came here some time ago with her infant child, and the child of some relative of her husband. She took up residence in one of the small houses in the Ropewalk Range, and for a time worked at different places in the city. With two children, whose ages are five and six months respectively, it can be imagined what a hard trial was hers. She was only able to leave them at intervals to do a bit of washing and scrubbing, for which she received a miserable pittance, insufficient even to provide food. Failing to pay her rent she was evicted, and having no friends to whom she could turn for assistance, was obliged to take up her abode at the place aforesaid. The place is indeed a wretched one and is certainly a blot on a civilized community that such conditions exist, particularly when so much energy is expended by the Society for the Protection of Animals in calling the attention of the Civic Commission so often to the condition of the various streets of the city. The place where five human beings, two of them nursing mothers, are compelled to live because of their poverty is to say the least the most wretched we have heard of for some time. With insufficient shelter from the elements, barely enough clothes to cover them, and trusting to the charity of passers-by for an occasional bit of food, the case of these five persons is indeed a pathetic one. We have called the attention of our readers to this truly pitiable case with the hope that some of the charitably disposed persons in the community will see that some kind of shelter is provided for these women and their little ones.

BRAIN AMPUTATION.

One of the wonders of surgical science has been performed in a French military hospital where a wounded soldier has had a sixth of his brain amputated without missing it. The patient was carried in with a penetrating wound in the occipital region of the cranium. Splinters of bone had caused an abscess to form in the left cerebral hemisphere. These were removed by Dr. A. Guopin, surgeon-in-chief to the hospital, but a fresh abscess formed, and Dr. Guopin was obliged on two occasions to amputate portions of the brain which protruded from the wound. The patient thus lost at least a third of the left hemisphere, but shows no special signs of trouble, either of motivity, sensibility, or ideation.

 LONDON, To-day.
 Lord Curzon, speaking in the House said, that at present the situation was one of grave anxiety, and it was not too much to say the country was in great peril. Events and a recent statement removed the scales from everyone's eyes. This was not the time, he said, for a critical or sen-sorious attitude, but the time to pass the bill which would enable the organization of a rapid supply of munitions to go ahead and make up lee way. After a few remarks had been made by Baron Wardlaw, who criticized the remissness of the late Government and placed the responsibility upon Premier Asquith, the Munitions
 Bill passed in all stages.

THE LONDON BUDGET.
 LONDON, To-day.
 A sudden recurrence of heavy artillery fire by Germans at many points in France, was the marked feature of the fighting at the Western front, but meantime the Austro-German advance in Galicia and Poland is unchecked. The Germans have shown no disposition to diminish the intensity of their Eastern offensive. There has been during the week no official news whatever from the British front in Flanders, but General Sir Ian Hamilton, commanding the Allied land forces in the Dardanelles, in his second official despatch of the week, records the repulse of a vicious counter-attack by Turks, who were bent on recovering lost ground south of the fortified hill of Achi Baba, and the strong position at Krithia, which the British have for some time been attempting to envelop. The British forged a bit forward last Monday, the following day the Turks, after sapping and mining, launched a counter-stroke with the bayonet. This was crushed while French forces operating on the right of Kereves Dere Valley toward the East coast of Gallipoli, advanced and consolidated the ground won in the latter part of June.
 Despite hard fighting ever since the landing on April 25th, the France-British expedition has only lately achieved anything notable towards strengthening its hold on the tip of the Gallipoli Peninsula. Achi Baba being a small Gibraltar bristling with machine guns and surrounded by barbed wire and terraced with trenches. This is the reason why the Allied progress was halted with great astis-sired to create a sensation. Until an will be made public.

VILLAGE OF TOLMINO OCCUPIED.
 PARIS, To-day.
 The Italians have occupied the village of Tolmino, on the Isonzo, north of Gorizia, according to a Rome despatch. The Austrians are still holding the neighboring fortifications, and are bombarding the village. Italian heavy artillery has been brought up and mounted for use against the forts.
 Tolmino, the key to the Isonzo Valley, has been considered by the Italians indispensable (?) in their operations in that district. It is protected by strong natural and artificial defences and is said to have been garrisoned by thirty thousand Austrians.

ANOTHER PROTEST.
 LONDON, To-day.
 A Stockholm despatch states that the Swedish Minister to Petrograd has been instructed to protest against Swedish neutrality being involved by Russian warships firing on German warships within Swedish territorial waters.

TEN DROWNED.
 LONDON, To-day.
 The Amsterdam correspondent of the Morning Post, sends the following: Ten of the crew of twenty were drowned when the Dutch lug-ger Kalwik 147, struck a mine in the North Sea.

THE 'TIMES' AND THE ALLIES' STRATEGY.
 LONDON, To-day.
 The military correspondent of the 'Times' refers to a suggestion in the Russian army organ, the Busky Invalid, that Austro-Germans lately have gained marked advantage owing to the unity of their plans and action, and that it might be advisable for the Entente Allies to co-ordinate their operations and to place them under some central authority in whose ability everyone would have equal faith.
 The correspondent considers that there is something wanting in the Allies strategy. He suggests that, though it would be impracticable for a central authority to issue explicit orders to all Allies' forces, there might be frequent conferences to insure better touch between all the directions of the staffs of the army and navy, and that such conferences might be held alternately in capitals of the various allies.

EXPLOSION IN CAPITOL.
 WASHINGTON, To-day.
 An explosion occurred in the Senate Wing of the Capitol, shortly before midnight to-night, doing considerable damage. The explosion took place in the reception room on the second floor of the building, next to the office of the Sergeant at Arms.
 The floors of the room were blown out but no one was hurt. The authorities immediately began an investigation.
 The doors of the capital were closed immediately after the explosion and no one was permitted to enter while the investigation was under way.
 While the origin of the explosion has not been explained, some reports said it might have been caused by bombs.

GERMAN CRUISER SUNK.
 COPENHAGEN, To-day.
 At the Gothland naval action, the Politiska's Petrograd correspondent to the States, reported that not only was a German torpedo boat sunk at Windau, but a cruiser of the Magde-burg type was also lost.

GENL. IAN HAMILTON'S REPORT OF RECENT OPERATIONS ON THE GALLIOLI PENINSULA.
 LONDON, To-day.
 The Official Bureau issued the full text of General Ian Hamilton's report, which is as follows: On the afternoon of June 23, hostile columns moving west from the north of Achi Babi and south from Kild Bahr towards the Turkish right flank, indicated the enemy were preparing counter-attacks against the position captured the previous day. During the evening two light galleries in front of our right flank were blown in, after which the enemy subjected our trenches to heavy rifle and machine gun fire for two hours. After a lull and another outburst of fire a determined attack was made against the left position with the bayonet. This attack was repulsed with heavy loss to the enemy. On the southern front the Turks made a concerted attack along the coast where H. M. S. Wolverine, a destroyer, got with searchlights the guns into the sea. Bomb attacks and intermittent shelling continued but no further general attack was made. At 6.30 a.m.
 the French moved out and by 7.20 a.m.
 had taken a strong system of entrenchments immediately in front of the left centre of the line, called by them Quadrilateral. A number of Turks were driven out of the trenches by the French bombardment and much execution done during their retreat.
 Subsequently the trenches adjacent to the Quadrilateral and south were captured after more serious fighting, thus completing the capture of all that part of the enemy's line required to round off the gains made by the French on June 21. The enemy's losses everywhere were considerable.
 The captured positions are being consolidated.

WAR DECEITS—AN INVENTOR'S UNIFORM AND SENTENCE.

(Daily Mail, June 7.)
 Various criminal courts dealt on Saturday with persons—men and women—who were accused of conceit-ful acts or false pretences in connection with the war.

The inventor of an aerial torpedo, Alfred Rutt, thirty-five, describing himself as an engineer, was charged before Mr. Francis at Westminster, under the Defence of the Realm Act with wearing a uniform like that of a naval officer, calculated to deceive.
 Mr. Isaac Francis Towing, an underwriter at Lloyd's, residing at Purley, said he had known the defendant since last October and had agreed to finance his aerial torpedo invention.
 He regarded the uniform as much the same as recognized by Lloyd's for their signalmen.

Major Clive Miller, of the Royal Flying Corps, said he thought at the first the uniform was that of a naval lieutenant. In cross-examination he said there had been interviews and correspondence by the defendant with the War Office over the aerial torpedo, and that the official permit was given to the defendant to allow him to demonstrate the machine in action.

The defendant, giving evidence, said he had made a practical test of 105 miles an hour speed and been up to a height of 2,000 feet. By his dress he simply wanted to be regarded as an engineer.

Mr. Francis said he must class the prisoner as a person who had committed a serious and dangerous offence in masquerading for his own purposes as an officer of His Majesty's Navy. He would be sentenced to six months' imprisonment in the second division.

You Told Me So.

By RUTH CAMERON.

RUTH CAMERON

Do you ever say, "You told me so?" The other day the cautious member of the family warned me that I would find a crowd if I went to a certain place. On account of his caution his warnings are always discounted about fifty per cent. I spent a good five minutes pointing out to him various reasons why I shouldn't mind if there were.

He was still unconvinced, so was I. Subsequently I went to the place and there was a crowd, in fact a very dense crowd. At first I could find no seat, and when at length I did procure one it was uncomfortable and I placed. I came home cross and red. But did I tell the cautious one next time I saw him, "You told me so?" Hardly! Instead I talked sprightly of shoes and ships and sealing wax and cabbages and kings, and thanked my stars when he forgot to inquire about crowds.

It Takes Courage and Squareness. It seemed to me at the time quite natural and justifiable that I should do so. I felt sure he would have done the same. But afterwards, when I was thinking it over, it came to me that to have the courage and squareness to say, "You told me so" would be a pretty fine thing.

We all think we have a right to say, "I told you so" when events prove us to have been right and our friends wrong, perhaps not in just those words, but in one way or another. Now why should we forget that that right to point out our own wisdom when we have been wise is balanced by a duty to admit our opponent's wisdom when it is he whom events have proven right?

If the right exists, so does the duty.

A Right and a Duty.

If we waive the right then we may perhaps be exonerated from the duty, but if we claim the right we should remember the duty.

No three words in the English language are harder to say than "I was wrong," but their very difficulty makes them a test for moral courage.

I wish Kipling had included, "If you can say 'You told me so,'" in his list of Its that make a man.

Question.—There is a strain of intemperance in my family and my son drinks to excess. He is engaged to a beautiful girl who, I fear, has no knowledge of this fact. I think that married to her he may settle down and be all that he should. I am afraid that if I tell her she may break off the engagement and he will go from bad to worse. What shall I do? Should I tell her?—A Mother.

Answer.—I certainly think you should. She may choose to make the effort to reform him, but I think she should know what she is going into. This is a big question. Perhaps my reader friends think otherwise?

Imperial Air Craft Flotilla.

His Majesty's Birthday, June 3rd, 1915.

The Mayor, St. John's, Newfoundland.

Your Worship.—The Central Committee of the Over-Sea Club—of which the King is Patron—desires to provide an Imperial Aircraft Flotilla, authorized by the Army Council. As you will notice from the enclosed appeal, the scheme has the approval of His Majesty the King, Lord Kitchener, and the Colonial Office.

So far, five aeroplanes have been presented and it is hoped ultimately to provide an aeroplane from every section of the Empire. Every district which provides £1,500 can have an aeroplane named after it.

The first unit in the Imperial Aircraft Flotilla was called "Overseas No. 1" and it is to be named on Empire Day. It is hoped to keep a regular supply of further aeroplanes.

His Excellency the Governor of Hong Kong cables to last week the sum of £4,500 to pay for two gun-mounted 100 h.p. aeroplanes and we hope Hong Kong's patriotic example will be widely followed.

In view of the urgent needs of the Royal Flying Corps for more aeroplanes, it has been decided to keep the scheme open during the continuance of the war. To use the words of the assistant Director of Military Aeronautics: "Aeroplanes are very urgently required by the Royal Flying Corps in the field. May we appeal to the people of your city to provide one?"

We have every confidence in bringing this appeal to your notice and would respectfully solicit your further support.

Might we ask you to call a public meeting to further the matter and to discuss ways and means.

I am, Your Worship's obedient servant, E. WRENELL, Hon. Sec. & Organizer.

The foregoing letter was read by Mr. W. G. Gosling, Chairman of the Civic Commission, at last night's regular meeting of the Board. The Chairman referred to the great need of an air craft to guard against the much dreaded Zeppelin. Newfoundland had contributed largely in men, smocks that can be easily made. Evening dresses are adorned with artificial flowers, they may be worn at the girdle or they may outline the top of the bodice.

THE THOUGHTS OF THEOBALD.

"DUNDONALD'S DESTROYER."

Over a hundred years ago a mysterious invention was submitted to the British Admiralty by Lord Dundonald. The invention was tested by a board of experts, who reported that the method was too terrible for adoption by any civilized power, for it would have shocked humanity and made war between nations impossible. Researches in the British Museum have revealed a pamphlet which described an invention of "burning glasses," whereby it was claimed that man was enabled to grasp the "veritable bolts of Jove himself" and hurl them at his enemies, and this was evidently Dundonald's idea. The idea of these burning glasses was the arrangement of several hundred mirrors in a great frame, at such angles to catch and concentrate the rays of the sun on any desired spot. Any motor cars and the "movies." The boy will know of the power of the sun's rays through a magnifying glass to burn a hole in a handkerchief, but the power of the concentrated rays of these hundreds of mirrors was so great as to explode any magazine, quickly set all woodwork in a flame, and to cause the instant death of any human being who came within the influence of their scorching breath. It was claimed that these rays could be swept along a line of advancing troops, causing each man to drop dead the moment the rays fell upon him.

Archimedes by means of polished metal mirrors burned completely to ashes the Roman ships besieging Syracuse. A modern scientist with five plane mirrors in a frame ignited wood at one hundred feet away, and another by four hundred mirrors melted lead and tin at 150 feet. Maybe before the war ends, we shall have some modern adaption of "burning glasses" as an instrument of human destruction.

MONEY.

At first sight it seems a wonder as to where all the money comes from to carry on this war, but it really does not surprise when we consider how much money can be found in normal and peaceful years for non-productive luxuries or amusements.

In England for instance there is a yearly expenditure upon

All kinds of Drink	£230,000,000
Tobacco	35,000,000
Motor Cars	75,000,000
	£340,000,000

And these are only a few of the many forms of expenditure on luxuries by all classes. It is no wonder then that with comparative ease the same country can raise £500,000,000 for war purposes.

Even in this little Newfoundland of ours we can easily account for over a million dollars that go for "wets" and "smokes" without counting the motor cars and the "movies."

The volunteers offer their lives on the altar of their country. Is this not a supreme sacrifice? Then why should those who are "fifty and fat" be content with living the same luxurious lives, instead of offering their money, all of it even? No matter what they give, they cannot match the sacrifice of the volunteer, who gives his life. And the man of surplus money is not patriotic till he has made his sacrifice and offered it to his country.

VISITING CLERGY.

Judging by the reports of some of the Methodist Conference meetings, the visiting clergymen are men of vision. Not often do we hear from pulpits such expressions about the business world as one reverend Doctor gave utterance to, and mores the pity. To my mind our men too seldom get down to facts. Theory and high principles are excellent, but they don't help every one. There must be the application of principle to the everyday life of a man before he will realize where he stands with regard to it. And the nearer a clergyman gets to fact, the closer will he get to man, which, after all, is his mission.

Dr. Chown, I am told, said to a congregation here once: "You business men of Water Street it is just as much your duty to make Christians in your business as it is to make money. And if the business men took this to heart and made the first the object of their business as much as making money, I don't think there would be any clamour because of ill-treatment or ill-payment because these latter wouldn't exist.

FREIGHT EXPERT.

In some countries I have read that there are Freight Experts who audit the freight bills of various large firms and who are satisfied, in lieu of a salary, with a commission on the mistakes they find out in the making up of freight charges. It is not that freighters intentionally charge high or rates than they should, but the many rates are apt to be confusing and the shipping clerk may easily make a mistake.

It is an opening for an active man here. Most of the firms trouble little about freight rates, and especially lately the freights have been such that it is almost impossible to know what rate will be charged next. The law in regard to wharfage, too, is made as most laws are, for the lawyers. The law states that wharfage at the current rate may be charged, and goodness knows there is enough bother with that elastic phrase in the Labrador fish question.

ROAD DUST PREVENTION.

Perhaps the following may be of interest to the Civic Commission. Anything that will help to remove our annual summer "blight" is surely welcome. If one could only get rid of the dust the city would improve in many ways; people would feel like painting up their houses, and would welcome the day when they could open their windows and get fresh air instead of dirty dust.

From experiment granular calcium chloride would appear to be a particularly suitable, effective and cheap dust preventive for estate and farm roads. The granulated material was spread evenly over the road surface with a shovel at the rate of 1/2 lb. per square yard on two successive evenings, giving a complete dressing of 1 lb. per square yard; this application was found effective for two months. The material is hygroscopic, i.e., it absorbs available moisture and so keeps the road surface continuously sufficiently moist to prevent the formation of dust. It is free from offensive odours, and does not adhere to, or injure, boots of pedestrians, rubber tyres, or the feet of animals. The cost of the material was 60s. per ton, so that the cost of the dressing per square yard was just over 1/4d.—The Colonial Journal.

RICH WITHOUT MONEY.

My crown is in my heart, not on my head, Nor decked with diamonds and Indian stones, Nor to be seen: my crown is called content; A crown it is, that seldom kings enjoy.—Shakespeare.

Many a man is rich without money, as the old wise man says, "there is no riches above a sound body and no joy above the joy of the heart." Good bones are better than gold, a good stomach than silver, and a good heart is better than houses and land. "One would think" said Boswell, "that the proprietor of all this (Ked-diestone, the seat of Lord Scarfield) must be happy." "May, sir," said Johnson, "all this excludes but one evil, poverty."

He is rich who values a good name above gold. Among the ancient Greeks and Romans honour was more sought after than wealth. Rome was imperial Rome no more when the imperial people became an article of traffic.

A friend of Professor Agassiz, an eminent practical man, once expressed his wonder that a man of such abilities should remain contented with such a moderate income as he received. "I have enough," was Agassiz's reply. "I have no time to waste in making money. Life is not sufficiently long to enable a man to get rich and do his duty to his fellowmen at the same time."

Is it any wonder that children start out with wrong ideals of life, with wrong ideas of what constitutes success? They are urged "to get on," "to rise in the world," to "make money." William Pitt, the great Commoner, considered money as dirt beneath his feet compared with the public interest and public esteem. His hands were clean. Character is perpetual wealth. Invest in yourself and you will never be poor. Floods cannot carry your wealth away, fire cannot burn it, rust cannot consume it. "Do you know, sir," said a devotee of Mammon to John Bright, "that I am worth a million sterling?" "Yes," said John Bright, "I do; and I know that it is all you are worth."

In Milady's Boudoir.

By GWEN SEARS. ABOUT SUNBURN AGAIN.

The best remedy for sunburn that I know of is not to go into the sun, but unfortunately we can't use it unless we are willing to entomb ourselves indoors. But we can and ought to be more careful in protecting ourselves when we go out into the sun and the beauty wisher must take every precaution against the reddening rays of Old Sol.

Sunburn is very injurious to the skin, not only the burning sensation and discomfort and the peeling, but as to the ultimate effect upon the skin. There are certain qualities in the sun's rays which coarsen the texture of the skin. These rays are so powerful that they penetrate to the under layers, and even though the top layer peels off the harmful results are sure to appear.

Sunburn also weakens the skin tissues and makes them less able to withstand attacks of rash or the infections that sometimes come from water. The best remedy for sunburn is an application of equal parts of glycerine and witchazel. Apply it very gently with a soft cloth, don't rub the skin, just sop the mixture on. When it has dried apply cold cream liberally and let it remain on for several hours, then wipe off with a soft cloth. Use no soap until after the burning sensation has subsided.

If you are going to take a dip in the ocean fortify yourself. Rub your face, neck, arms, and hands with cocoa butter and finish with a generous application of rice powder. This treatment will not prevent sunburn if you expose yourself to the rays all day but is the best preventative known.

TO NON-COM. OFFICER TREBBLE.
The remains of the late James Trebble, son of District Chief Trebble, Fire Department, came by last evening's express in a hermetically sealed casket from Montreal where death occurred suddenly. Deceased had been studying Arts at McGill University, and, brilliant student that he was, undertook to pass a two years' course in one year, and accomplished it successfully at a recent examination. He was an ex-pupil of Bishop Field College and was a candidate for the Rhodes Scholarship this year and was looked upon as a likely winner, because in addition to his educational attainments he was an athlete of repute. On arrival at the railway station, last evening, the corpse was taken charge of by Undertaker Carnell, and, followed by a large concourse of citizens and boys with whom the deceased was very popular, wound its way to the home of the late young man's father, on Knight's Street whence the funeral will take place tomorrow afternoon. The C.L.B. Battalion and Brass Band will attend the procession, as deceased was Sergeant in that Brigade. The funeral is expected to be one of the largest witnessed in the city for some time, as the deceased was so well known. Interment will be at the C. E. Cemetery.

Wedded at Philadelphia

On Wednesday, June 30th, at St. Stephen's Church, Philadelphia, an attractive wedding took place when Miss Helen Powers, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Powers, of Philadelphia, became the bride of Mr. George Kennedy, of Avondale. The ceremony took place at 4 o'clock by Rev. Joseph McQuade. The bride, who was given away by her father, wore a veil and a gown of white tulle, trimmed with lillies of the valley and carried a bouquet of white roses. Her sister Margaret, who was dressed in white pussy-willow tulle, trimmed with rosebuds, and carried a bouquet of pink roses, was the bride's only attendant. Michael Powers, brother of the bride, acted as best man. The wedding was followed by a reception at the home of the bride, with only the families and intimate friends being present. Mr. and Mrs. Kennedy left the same evening on their honeymoon for Atlantic City, where they will remain for a week. After their return from the wedding trip, the couple will make their home at Avondale.

Obituary.

MISS NELLIE MERCER.

With profound regret we chronicle the passing of Miss Nellie Mercer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Mercer, Bay Roberts, whose death occurred at the home of her parents on Monday last. The deceased young lady, who was only in her twentieth year, had been ailing for some months past. Early in January she contracted a heavy cold and later developed pleurisy, which made such inroads on her none too robust constitution that despite all medical aid and the constant attention of her devoted parents and sisters her promising young life was brought to a close on Monday last. Though she had been very weak for some days previous to her death the end was altogether unexpected. Miss Mercer was up to the time of her illness employed in the office of the Newfoundland Clothing Co., this city, where by the conscientious performance of her duties she merited the esteem of her employers and all those with whom she came in contact. She was of a bright amiable disposition and was much beloved by her large circle of friends, who will regret to hear of her passing. To Mr. and Mrs. Mercer and family the Telegram extends sincerest sympathy in their bereavement.

The excellent offering now being given at the popular British will close to-night and will be succeeded on Monday by the strongest programme that has yet been offered. All lovers of good photo-plays must not fail to see to-night's performance consisting of five first class photo plays chief among which may be mentioned the great Vitagraph production: "The Mystery of Brayton Courts" in which the favourite actors Maurice Costello and Robert Gallard accomplish some of their finest work. There will be the usual big "extra picture" matinee to-day for the children.

PICTURE OF OUR BOYS COMING TO THE NICKEL.

It will be learned with pleasure that the motion picture of the presentation of the colors at Sliol's Camp has been secured by the manager of the Nickel Theatre. The film has already been shipped, and is expected here within a fortnight. Everyone will be anxious to see this picture as nearly all the soldiers, it is said, are very plain.

FINE PICTURE PROGRAMME.

There is a fine picture programme on at the Crescent Picture Palace to-day, yesterday large audiences attended the sessions and were highly pleased with every item. "The Demon of the Hills" is a very thrilling picture and gets the spectator at the start; there are two other very fine dramas and two good comedies, besides good music and singing; go to-day and see the fine show the Crescent has on.

Antipon in Canada.

SPREADING THE FAME OF THE GREAT BRITISH SPECIFIC FOR RAPID FAT-REDUCTION.

The burden of obesity is so distressing and so unappreciating, and is generally so difficult to get rid of with any degree of permanence, that the introduction to Canada of the famous British Specific Antipon will be welcome in many quarters. The preparation is not unknown here already, but the obstacles in the way of its supply to the general public were necessarily great. All difficulties are now removed.

Ever the important discovery of Antipon the treatments usually employed for the reduction of weight included starvation dietary rules, sweating and purging, together with mineral drugging. All these things are weakening in the extreme, and, when obstinately persisted in, ruinous to the constitution. Antipon is diametrically opposed to such drastic methods.

To expel the superfluous fatty matter from the system is all very well, but the body must be amply nourished at the same time. Now, Antipon not only rapidly eliminates the excess of fat, but overcomes the morbid tendency to "run to fat." Ample wholesome food therefore becomes Antipon's strength-giving ally, and there is no need to dread that the extra nourishment taken will bring about a re-development of excessive fatty tissue.

The decrease of weight is not a tedious process. Within twenty-four hours of the first dose there is a reduction varying, according to individual conditions, between 80 to 3 lb. The scales will be the unerring recorder. The daily decrease is eminently satisfactory. When normal weight and symmetrical proportions are regained the treatment is no longer necessary.

Antipon contains only the most harmless vegetable substances in solution, the liquid being in appearance like a light red wine. It is palatable, refreshing and slightly tart, and never occasions any unpleasant reactions.

Antipon can be obtained at all drug stores, from stock or order, or in case of any difficulty a large case will be forwarded direct from the Antipon Laboratories, Store Street, London, W.C. Eng., carriage paid, on receipt remittance for 5 dols. 11c.

DANDELIONS.

By GEORGE FITCH, Author of "At Good Old Stivash."

The dandelion is a beautiful flower which goes to seed in the most wonderfully delicate and fairy-like manner in the world.

Nothing is more beautiful than the dandelion's feathery balls of seeds. And nothing that grows is more popular. This is because, like the Germans, it is entirely too efficient.

Each dandelion plant produces 1,000 seeds and each one is equipped with an aeroplane of its own. This enables it to fly in a gentle breeze from a vacant lot to the lawn of a gentleman who has just spent $1,000 for grass seed and Mellin's food for the soil.

It is very disappointing to spend vast sums to secure a green carpet and then have it turn out yellow. For this reason, the dandelion has no friends and is attacked on all sides with the utmost ferocity. At the present time thousands of American citizens are cruising relentlessly over their premises with case knives hunting for dandelions to eradicate.

There are many scientific ways of removing dandelions from a lawn, but people do not use them, preferring cruder methods. One of the best ways is to inoculate each dandelion plant with gasoline. Owners, however, insist on using their gasoline in their automobiles.

If the dandelion is carefully removed by the roots and buried in salt water, it becomes limp and extinct, and is also highly nutritious. In case of war, it would be impossible to starve America. One vacant lot will produce enough dandelion greens to keep a family alive all summer.

Removing a dandelion, root and all, is easily done. The regular army could free an acre of ground from the pest in a few hours.

One of the very best methods is to remove the lawn altogether and turn it upside down. This confuses the dandelion and causes it to grow downward until it smothered.

Men who have covered their lawns with concrete and have painted grass upon it, declare that the dandelion crop has been seriously diminished thereby.

One should not falter before the dandelion, but should take its case up vigorously and with all the science at our disposal.

"Revelations" in New York—Schemes That Failed.

The New York World has begun the publication of the "Revelations of I. T. T. Lincoln, former member of Parliament who became a German spy."

The writer, Ignatius Timothy Trich Lincoln, was Liberal member for Darlington from January, 1910, to December of that year, and has in his time played many parts, having been born a Hungarian Jew and later figured as a Presbyterian missionary and an Anglican priest. His story must be rather painful reading in Darlington, and suggests the case with which a plausible impostor can impose upon an unsuspecting constituency.

According to Lincoln's statement to the New York newspaper, he determined to "get even" with his adopted country because of its "persecution" of aliens after the outbreak of war. The method of "getting even" is thus described:—"The plan I mapped out was nothing less than the decision to find out important military and naval secrets and to betray them to the Central Powers, and having achieved that to quit England for ever—if still alive."

Lincoln says that he first of all secured a post as a censor of Hungarian correspondence, but finding, he assures his American readers, that "appeals of Hungary for Red Cross aid from the United States were intercepted and destroyed" he resigned, then he tried to become a Secret Service agent, and laid before an official of the War Office a scheme which if it had succeeded would have "lured" part of the British fleet into the North Sea, there to be destroyed by the German fleet awaiting it. But the official was not to be tricked. In Lincoln's own words, "I was balked." Lincoln then went to Rotterdam and declares that he succeeded in obtaining possession of two German codes which he communicated to Captain Kenny, in return for which he hoped to get information of value to Germany. No such information was given him. At last, having good reason to fear that his motives were suspected, he flew to America, where he is in process of unbosoming himself.

In Reynold's Newspaper, Sir Henry Dalziel, M.P., gives an account of efforts made by Lincoln to secure his influence with the British authorities. Sir Henry listened to his story and had a conversation with Mr. Macpherson, M.P., who was at the War Office, on the subject, but the authorities showed no disposition to accede to Lincoln's importunity and grant him certain facilities he desired. Sir Henry formed the opinion that Lincoln was hard pressed for money, an opinion borne out by the following letter he received:—

51 Torrington-square, W.C., January 29, 1915.
Dear Sir Henry Dalziel,—I have been called by telegram to the Admiralty. I saw the Director of the Intelligence Division. They won't give me anything, because they found out a certain thing in my recent past which, although it has nothing to do with my work, or with their service, or with the value of my work, influences them or rather prejudices them, against me.

This is cruel, mean, unjust, un-British! I pray and trust that you will give me an unfair advantage of me which is devilish.

Please, for the sake of righteousness do not allow this!

If they do not remunerate me, at any rate to some extent, I shall be exposed, to great hardship and misery. Is it right to use my information and then, after four weeks, to turn me down.

They ought to be ashamed of themselves. I pray and trust that you will not permit this to take place. Excuse me for having troubled you. Yours truly,
I. T. T. LINCOLN.
The Right Hon. Sir Henry Dalziel M.P., P.C.
The "incident" in his past is unknown to Sir Henry Dalziel, who sums up as follows:—

"My own belief is that in order to make money he did undertake the visit to Rotterdam, and succeeded in inveigling himself into the confidence of the German Secret Service. When he found that his services were not to be taken advantage of by the authorities here he recognized that his betrayal of the Germans made it impossible for him to go back to Germany or Austria without the risk of being shot. He departed, therefore, for the United States, almost the only place left for him to go with safety, to endeavour to pick up some dollars, and to win the favour of the Germans in that country. With this end in view he has published his so-called 'confessions'—which have, doubtless, brought him the much-needed money—his other idea being, if possible, to rehabilitate himself with the German authorities, although I should say there is very little chance of this happening, because it is obvious that they themselves have recognized by this time that they were very cleverly duped."

An Adventurer's Career.

Lincoln, as he has chosen to call himself, appears to have been born in Paks, Hungary, in 1879, and when he disappeared from his native land in 1896 he was "wanted" by the police. In 1897 he was discovered in White-chapel and helped by a missionary, whom he rewarded by stealing his wife's jewelry. In 1890 he studied theology in Germany, and in that year married in Hamburg. In the following year he turned up in Canada, and after some time spent in the Presbyterian College, Montreal, he was appointed a missionary. Later he joined the Anglican Church and was ordained. In 1903 he returned to England and became curate of Appledore, Kent.

Two years later he is heard of as teaching in a Quaker school in York, and in the following year appears to have imposed on Mr. Seebohm Rowntree and became his private secretary. In January 1910, he succeeded in defeating Mr. Pike Pease at the Darlington election, and he made his maiden speech in February, 1910. He withdrew from Parliament at the Dissolution in December. In 1911 he met his creditors, his liabilities being returned at £1,700. A composition of 5s. in the pound was arranged. The most notable recent events of his career have been described above.

Electoral Devices at Darlington. Our Darlington Correspondent telegraphs:—

In political circles here and particularly in those of the party which returned him to Parliament in 1910, the admission of the Hungarian who fought the constituency in vitriolic fashion have come as a bolt from the blue. It is dawning upon the Liberal voters that they were completely hoodwinked by Lincoln, who wormed himself into the confidence of the electorate in a manner which suited the clamor of party politics of the period. He left no stone unturned in order to bring about the defeat of Mr. Pike Pease. From his first appearance in Darlington to his last he carried his plans through with remarkable efficiency, and to achieve his object went so far as to take deputations of working men to Germany in order to convince them of the difference between a protected and a free trade country. His chief method was to pour forth masses of figures on the heads of the working classes, and he used to expound them by the aid of the blackboard and chalk.

At the dissolution of Parliament at the end of 1910 he retired owing to financial difficulties, and Mr. Pease regained the seat for the Unionist Party. Lincoln then dropped almost out of existence, so far as Darlington was concerned, many of his former supporters feeling keenly that a mistake had been made in adopting him as candidate.
