Overheard. She—It was offered them for a hospital—just a great, big empty house, absolutely no conveniences.

He—Well? She—We got the Gas Company men to work at once. Had gas radiators fixed in the corridors, incandescent gas everywhere, gas fires in the ward rooms, gas water heaters for bathrooms, and all in a few days. We did work, I can tell you.

He—Reg'lar old gas works I call it. She—A lot you know about it; why, you couldn't have done it with anything else in the time, and it reduces our work to next to nothing. No coals to carry, no grates to clean, plenty of hot water all the time.

He—What did the Colonel say? She—He said it was "top hole", offered us staff appointments so's we could teach "his young blighters" how to hustle. may5.eod.1f

CHAPTER XXI
A WEEK OF SUSPENSE.

"Ah, well, I'd better not keep him waiting or he will want his bill, which would be awkward. Don't wait for me, Edgar. I can recommend that Chablis; you might drink the full bottle and it would not hurt you. I won't be a moment; simply a question of a frock-coat," and, nodding, pleasantly, he went out, taking care to close the door tightly after him.

Mr. Bowen was standing at the bottom of the stairs, looking blankly out into the Temple gardens as if he saw nothing and was rather too sleepy to keep his eyes open, but, though he was staring at the gardens, he saw Clifford Revel come out, and by some mysterious agency saw him beckon him.

Clifford Revel motioned him into the bedroom and closed the door. Mr. Bowen took a careful mental inventory of the room without appearing to notice anything, and waited to be addressed.

"Well!" said Clifford Revel, in a low voice, and with a warning glance at the wall, on the other side of which Lord Edgar was seated. "Have you found them?"

"That's as may be, sir," said Bowen. "You asked me to report as I went on, and I thought I would do so. I am sorry to have intruded just now."

Clifford Revel made a gesture of indifference. "It is of no consequence," he said. "I have an old school-fellow lunching with me, and did not wish him to hear anything of this."

"Just so, sir," said Mr. Bowen, with the most woody inexpressive countenance; then he took out his pocket-book and the stumpy pencil. "Hem! Went down to the station to make inquiries; find that inquiries had already been made by a gentleman of the name of Lord Fane."

Clifford Revel bit his lip and looked embarrassed for a moment; then nodded carelessly. "Yes, quite right. I asked my cousin to step down and make the inquiries for me. He knows nothing of the case, of course."

And the Worst is Yet to Come— up to-day."

"Where are they?" demanded Clifford Revel, eagerly.
"They booked for Larkworthy!"
"Larkworthy!" echoed Clifford Revel. "Why, that's not more than a score of miles from London!"
And his lips tightened.
"Barely so much, sir. Nineteen and a half is the fare reckoning. I've no doubt I shall find them there safe and sound. I thought I'd look in and take any instructions you might have. Is there anything you would wish me to do at Larkworthy? I could put a man on to watch them, if you wished it."
Clifford Revel had been thinking intently. Not twenty miles from London! Lord Edgar might run against them any day, and then—
His lips tightened.
"Go down and ascertain their exact whereabouts, and let me know. Do nothing else."

Mr. Bowen pocketed his memorandum-book and pencil, and fingered his hat.

"And, by the way," said Clifford Revel, "when you call upon me send up your name by the servant on a piece of paper. You understand?"

"I understand, sir," said Mr. Bowen, impassively; "quite so. You will hear from me to-morrow morning."

Clifford Revel nodded and opened the door, and Mr. Bowen departed down the stairs as noiselessly and unobtrusively as he had ascended them.

He paused outside the house, presumably to look at the gardens, which were really very bright and pretty, but his eye wandered from the grass-plots and elaborate flower-beds to the windows of Clifford Revel's chambers.

"Old school-fellow to lunch with him! Hem! Now, why couldn't he say that it was his cousin, Lord Fane, I wonder? He's a clever man, is Mr. Revel, but the cleverest of men make such mistakes. If he'd given the matter a thought he might have remembered that I'd heard Lord Fane had been inquiring, and that I should get a description of him; and if that wasn't his lordship sitting at the table, may I never get another case! I wonder what Mr. Revel's game is? How anxious he was that Lord Fane shouldn't see or hear me, to be sure! I wonder—hem!—but I shall find out quicker than you think, Mr. Revel."

A week passed. How Lord Edgar got through that week of suspense he did not know; he never could bear to look back on it, so full of anxious doubts and fears was it.

Every morning he went down to Clifford Revel's chambers to hear tidings of the search, and always was compelled to come away disappointed. Clifford assured him that everything was being done, that the man who was at work was one of the best in London for the purpose, and that if he could not find Lela and the professor, no man could.

"Certainly you could not," he said. "Do you think they have left England?" suggested Lord Edgar, in despair.

"No," Clifford Revel would reply, "I feel certain that they have not. My man would know, because he made close inquiries at the various ports, and keeps a close watch. Rest easy, my dear Edgar, we shall find them sooner or later, if you will have patience and keep in the background."

"Patience!" groaned Lord Edgar. "My patience is nearly exhausted, Clifford, and I can not wait any longer. If your man does not succeed by Tuesday, I will insert advertisements in all the papers, and—by Heaven! I do not know what else to do," and he went away with a downcast and moody countenance.

The week would have been perfectly unendurable but for the Draytons.

They were extremely kind to him. Oh, extremely!

No one could have been more full of sympathy than Edith Drayton. The proud beauty, whose manner was almost haughty to any one else, melted in Lord Edgar's presence; her smile became sweet and sympathizing, her voice full of gentleness.

By some kind of chance he found himself in Elton Square every day. They made him free of the house.

"Just drop in when you please, my dear Lord Edgar," said Mrs. Drayton, laying her thin hand on his arm caressingly. "We are very simple people, Edith and I, and shall make no ceremony with you. Come in when you have a spare half hour, and Edith shall play to you; or if she is not in, you must take your cup of tea or eat your lunch with an old woman instead."

Lord Edgar was touched by their kindness. He was absolutely free from guile and deceit himself, and never suspected the existence of it in others.

"If any one had said to him: 'My dear fellow, they are so kind because you are Lord Fane, heir to the great marquise,' he would have scouted the idea and cut the man who suggested it. He viewed the world from his own honest stand-point, judged it by his own honorable standard, weighed it by his own integrity, and was grateful to the fashionable lady and the beautiful creature, her daughter, who extended their hospitality and sympathy to him.

And Edith was always at home when he came. It sounds like an anomaly and contradiction, but if he had not been so wretched he would have been perfectly happy in her society. She fascinated him. Even while he sat, and thought, and longed for his darling, his innocent, dove-like Lela, he could not help feeling a deep admiration for the lovely, imperial creature whose voice fell softly when it addressed him, whose eyes grew tender and luminous when they met his.

He did not know that there was any danger to him in this admiration; he did not know that people were beginning to whisper about his frequent visits to the little house in Elton Square—all his thoughts were of Lela, and of the joy that would be his when he could take her in his arms again.

Danger! There was danger for Edith. Day by day she was drawn into closer contact with his frank and simple nature; day by day she allowed her eyes to dwell upon his manly beauty and unobscured, patrician grace; day by day the sweet and subtle passion was sinking deeper into her being, and the love which she had half dreaded, half welcomed, was developing into an all-absorbing passion.

The proud, haughty beauty found herself waiting for his footstep and trembling with delight when it smote upon her ear; a dull shaft of pain struck her when he left her, and she would follow him with her eyes until his tall, stalwart form had disappeared around the square.

Her dreams were full of him. Some simple speech of his—so unlike the unseemly, affected gibberish of the other men who thronged around her—haunted her. She loved to see him ride the great, raking chestnut, to see the great beast conquered by a touch of the strong hand. It was a subtle delight to her to have him lift her in to the caddy, to feel his breath stirring her hair. In a word, Edith Drayton, whom the world had accused of being heartless, was as madly in love as any bread-and-butter school-miss, but with a passion that belongs to such a woman as herself.

GERMANS DEMONSTRATE AGAINST SIGNING OF PEACE TREATY.

BERLIN, May 11. Big demonstrations against the signing of the Peace Treaty by Germany were held to-day in Berlin, Breslau, Danzig, Koenigsberg, Cassel, Bochum and other places. The demonstrations were organized by the National People's Party. "If this treaty comes to pass I will bring up my children in hatred," said Deputy Traub, speaking in Berlin. Dr. Gustav Sersmann, one of the People's Party leaders, spoke in protest against the demand for the surrender of former Emperor William. If the German people complied with it they would be without shame or honor, he declared.

FINALIZING ACCOUNTS.

WASHINGTON, May 12. "A complete and comprehensive settlement" of claims between Great Britain and the United States, growing out of the military operations, has been reached by the American Liquidation Commission. Secretary of War Baker announced to-day that under the settlement the British Government would pay the United States $35,000,000 as a net and final adjustment.

USING BRITISH DEVICES.

HALIFAX, May 12. Professor Alexander McArdie, of Harvard, here in connection with the United States Naval Transatlantic flight attempt, states that the instruments with which the N.C. planes are equipped, were developed, with few exceptions, by the British Air Force.

IMPORTANT INSTRUMENTS.

WASHINGTON, D.C., May 12. The important part played by two instruments, an aerial sextant, drift and speed indicator, with which all aeroplanes are equipped for Transatlantic flight, was made known to-day by the Navy Dept. One of these, the Byrd Sextant, invented by Lieut.

MANUFACTURING OPPOSITION.

BERNE, May 11. Press comment and other news concerning the Peace Treaty, as sent here by the German semi-official agencies, suggest that a campaign has been started to incite German public opinion against the acceptance of the Treaty, or perhaps, which is more likely, to give Count Von Brockdorff Rantzau manufactured popular support in the demands he may make for the alleviation of the peace terms.

ON FISHING TRIP.

Cheboygan, Mich., May 7. — Three brothers, two of them Roman Catholic priests, lost their lives in a drowning accident near here last evening, when their small boat approached too close to a whirlpool in Black River dam. The boat was drawn into the vortex despite the frantic efforts of the party. The dead are: Rev. Father Albert Duquoy, of Alpena, Mich.; Rev. Father Charles Duquoy, Alpena, Mich.; Fred Duquoy, druggist, Alpena, Mich. The triple tragedy was the culmination of a party that started at noon yesterday for a fishing trip. The bodies of the victims were recovered to-day.

Three Brothers Drowned

The Duquoy brothers were born, educated and ordained in Montreal and their ministry has been spent in Michigan towns. Two other members of the party, Rev. Father J. B. E. Mangan, of Cheboygan, and Rev. Father George Duquoy, of Bay City, a brother of the first three, were saved.

ARRIVED FROM BARBADOS.

The schooner J. D. Hazen has arrived from Barbados after a run of 21 days. She met with fair weather until the Banks were reached, when a succession of storms was encountered. Many icebergs were also sighted, on nearing the coast and a sharp lookout had to be kept to avoid them. She brought a cargo of molasses for Ayre and Sons, Ltd., and G. Knowling, Ltd.

Canadian Claims

Against Germans Amount to $34,000,000. No Mention Made of Halifax Explosion Losses.

Ottawa, May 5. — Canadian claims for compensation for losses due to illegal methods of warfare employed by Germans and their Allies are discussed in a memorandum which has been prepared for the government and the Enemy Claims Committee. Claims of this nature, amounting to approximately $34,000,000, have been filed with the government here. The great bulk of Canadian claims for illegal warfare arise from shipping losses, states the memorandum, which has just been made public.

The Battle of Langside.

Queen Mary Stuart had gathered her troops for the last time on a fine May morning in the year 1568, the rendezvous being Hamilton Moor, where many a pennon fluttered in the breeze, helms glanced, swords flashed, and banners waved; the war-horse pranced under the touch of his master's hand or heel, and messengers flew hither, excitement running high. In the centre of this glittering throng that had met in all the panoply of war, was the beautiful, fascinating, unfortunate Queen, fair daughter of him who had fallen at Solway Moss, and luckless granddaughter of the King who had fought and died on Flodden Field. Trumpets sounded, drums beat, and the troops of Mary were in motion, their objective being Dumbarton Castle. It was the Queen's obvious policy to avoid battle—the Regent's to bring matters to a head. The latter had the help of some of the best known generals of the day, notably Kirkcaldy, C. Grange, who urged the King's troops out from Glasgow southwards, to that most apparent and strategic position, the village and hill of Langside. There the opponents of the Queen's troops fixed their culverins, and fired them down the narrow lane up which the Hamiltons courageously strove to force their way. Their courage and devotion were of no avail, for the flanking movement ordered by the Laird of Grange very quickly determined the issue of the fight. Mary watched with trembling fear, disturbed by memories of Darnley, recalled to her by her surroundings. As she saw the beginning of the end, ere the conflict was an hour old, she cried: "The day is lost—I will fly no further—I can die but once, and I will die here." Thus was fought the battle of Langside on May 13, 1568, which settled the fate of Scotland. The Queen was forced to fly, a few faithful followers accompanying her, while others covered the pursuit. Gaining the open country, she fled towards the south, where she crossed the border, and Scotland saw her no more.

STICKS BY FOURTEEN POINTS.

BERLIN, May 11. "Germany has seized and unfurled a new banner on which are inscribed Wilson's fourteen points which the President has apparently deserted," said Premier Ebert this morning, in a statement to the Associated Press.

REFERRED TO EXPERTS.

PARIS, May 12. The Four Council at a session to-day, decided to refer the German note on Labor and War prisoners to experts, for consideration, instead of answering at once, as it did with the first two communications.

GERMAN CORRESPONDENTS DIS-SATISFIED.

BERLIN, May 11. Frederick Stamper, editor of Vorwaerts, in a talk with the correspondent to-day complained bitterly of the treatment the German newspaper correspondents were receiving at Versailles, from which he had just arrived. "Their status was that of prisoners of war," he said; "therefore," continued the editor, "my colleagues and myself were speedily convinced that we were not in an environment calculated to give us a peace in keeping with the exalted ideas of your President, who of late has become strangely silent—his pose so sphinx-like."

THINKS DISCUSSION POSSIBLE.

BERLIN, May 12. The semi-official Wolf Bureau last night, issued a statement to the effect that the reply of Premier Clemenceau to the note of the German peace delegation regarding the peace treaty, "although it seems to reject a discussion, implies a renewed adherence to the agreement of October and November 1918 (armistice) and hints that practical proposals may be made for negotiations on the draft."

New Relief For Constipation,
 "LES FRUITS"

Physicians agree that with the modern habits of living, constipation is likely to be always with us. They also agree that the constant use of any drug for the relief of constipation is exceedingly unwise—unwise for two reasons. First, a drug constantly used loses its effect and requires a constantly increased dose. Second, because the constant use of any drug is bad anyway.

So the cry is constantly going up from the constipated, "What can we do?" It will be interesting to a great many to know that an answer has been found in the re-discovery of a method which was used with great success by our Forefathers, and in Arabia far back in the twelfth century. The food is called "Les Fruits" because it is composed entirely of figs, dates, prunes, raisins and the leaves of each with the substitution of the Alexandria leaf for the raisin leaf. The taste is pleasant, if not to say delicious, and the effect is exceedingly satisfactory. Try it and be convinced.

For Mr. White's Benefit.

Dear Sir—Kindly permit me to comment once more on Mr. White's letters in the "Daily News," re certain sections of the Charter now before the Legislature.

The additional section noticed by Mr. White was submitted by me to the Council and then to the members for St. John's, and again has an entirely different effect to what he apparently attributes to it.

Mr. White has misunderstood the meaning of the sections completely. They inflicted no hardships on the working classes, but were entirely for their benefit and for that of the general public of St. John's.

To save Mr. White from further mistakes, I may explain that the new section is for the purpose of preventing a man who has a house with large grounds from claiming exemption from the cost of "improvements" for any more than 80 feet of frontage.

Yours truly, W. G. GOSLING.

European Army Uniforms.

Until the great war broke out France had never adopted any official field uniform for its army as a whole. The British army was first entirely equipped with a field service uniform in the South African War of 1899-1902.

The uniforms of the Italians have been rather French in character, particularly since the Napoleonic conquest of Italy, but of an endless variety of colors.

Previous to the unity of the country in 1861 each separate kingdom and state maintained and dressed its army as it saw fit. It was not until 1870 that the entire Italian army came under one dress regulation.

These regulations were changed in 1890, at which time the present uniform was adopted. The field uniform is brownish gray in color.

In Germany experiments with a field service uniform were begun immediately after Britain's war with the Boers, but it was not until 1908 that a definite uniform was decided upon.

An Unlovely Habit.

By RUTH CAMERON.

As I sat in the train the other day, waiting for it to start out again from a station where it seemed inclined to spend the day, another train came to a halt two tracks away. As one inevitably does, in such cases, I fell to idly watching the people in the windows, and presently my idle interest changed to an active one.

I looked up and down the train as if I could see and counted. I could see eleven people looking out of the windows. And of those eleven people, seven were sitting with their hands resting on their faces. In one or two cases the posture was not ungraceful but in all the rest it was a distinct disfigurement, as it is four times out of five.

Surely you have noticed how common this habit is and what a defect it is. The Position Distorts The Expression. Of the eight one was biting her fingers, another was rubbing her eyes, but the most had their chins in their hands and the fingers spread over the face in some such way as to distort the expression,—the most common form this habit takes.

Of course, you might tell me that in a train and that perhaps I happened to see a group of people who do not do that sort of thing. I beg to differ. I have sat in a friend's living room and seen several people in similar positions.

We All Know What Breeding And Sense Dictate.

To be sure, we all know that both good breeding and common sense dictate that the hands should be kept away from the face. Good breeding, because sitting with one's hands in one's lap or on the arm of the chair is a much more graceful position. Common sense, because the hands carry germs and dirt to the face.

THE SIMPLER SUCCESS.
I'm not denying that it's fine To claim the gold that's in a mine Or make some needed thing so well That for a profit it will sell. In every sort of world success There lies a lot of happiness. But this is something that I know It's fun to see the roses grow.

There are successes other than The sort which brings great wealth to man; Not all the joy nor all delight Are born of feats of skill and might, And some who never rise to claim The splendor of undying fame Have found success in other ways And lived their share of happy days.

Some find their happiness in gold, And some in deeds of conquest bold; Some find it in uncharted seas; Some in the fellowship of trees; Some in the blossoms of the rose Attain the joy the rich man knows, And by that road to happiness Achieve the summit of success.

Who breaks the ground with spade and hoe Is thrilled to see the roses grow; To him the tender buds of spring Untold delight and gladness bring, And in the beauty blooming there He's well repaid for all his care, Success is not alone in gold, Sometimes in humble things it's told.

Who Stole the Glasses?

Those who can appreciate the intense respectability of the Athenaeum Club will relish this story from Frank M. Boyd's "A Pelican's Tale."

It appears that Bishop Thorold was one day lamenting to a fellow-churchman the loss of his gold-rimmed glasses. They were old friends, and he felt their going keenly.

"I can't think how it happened," said he. "I had them with me when I went into the reading-room of the Athenaeum, and I only laid them down for a second or two while I searched my pockets to find a letter I wanted to answer. When I looked for them they were gone!"

Then the good Bishop was asked who was in the room at the time as well as himself.

"That's the dreadful part of the story," he said, "for there was only present the Bishop of London, the Bishop of St. David's, the Archdeacon of Rochester, and Mr. Gladstone!"

The Beautiful Nordica.

Madame Nordica, who was on board the steamship "Tasman," when the latter went ashore in the Gulf of Papua in May, 1914, never recovered from the pneumonia contracted then and died in Batavia on the night of the 10th of that month. Madame Lillian Nordica (Norton was her real name), was born in 1860 at Farmington, Maine, U. S. A. She received her first training at the Boston Conservatoire, and afterward studied at Paris and Milan. As a finished artist she made her first appearance in "La Traviata," and her London debut as Miss Lily Norton at an evening concert at the Crystal Palace. But though her voice was sweet, it was not specially noticed, and it was not till several years later that she became famous. Her career was a gradual and never-ceasing ascent, till she became known everywhere. There was scarcely a capital in the world where she had not sung and earned enthusiastic applause. A remarkable feature of her art was that she was equally successful in the old Italian and in the latest Wagnerian music. She was a particular friend of Fran Cosima Wagner and sang more than once at Bayreuth. In 1881, when the Nihilists were active in Russia she was playing at St. Petersburg, and was commanded to appear before the then Tsar, Alexander II. Owing to the turmoil, the time and date of the visit had to be kept quiet but one evening the "command" was made, and, with the greatest secrecy Madame Nordica was conducted to the palace. She sang before the Tsar and later he talked with her in English. The next day had dawned before she left the palace, and on the afternoon of that day—March 13—the Tsar was assassinated. He had spent the last night of his life listening to Mme. Nordica's singing. All exits from the palace were immediately closed, and Mme. Nordica, who wanted to leave the country to fulfil another engagement, had to undergo the same stringent police supervision as others. She was married three times: first to Frederick A. Gower, joint inventor with Bell of the telephone (who disappeared while making an attempt to cross the Channel in a balloon; then to Herr Dome, a Hungarian tenor; then in 1909 to Mr. G. W. Young, a New York banker.

The Allies will not attempt to stamp out Bolshevism in Russia by military force. Russia, or part of Russia, will be allowed to work out the experiment and take the consequences. It may extend to parts of Germany and Austria-Hungary, for it seems to have a certain attraction for people who have suffered from misgovernment. Bolshevism is not likely to make much headway in countries which are fairly and freely governed, and in which there is a constant effort to improve the conditions of workers, to establish social justice, and to bring about a good understanding between employers and employed. Theorists attract a few, but the bulk of mankind are interested in practical things—fair wages, decent homes and conditions of life, freedom, and opportunities for education and development. We have got to show that in these things Canada and the other Allied countries are superior to Russia. From Russia we receive and are likely to receive all kinds of contradictory reports, but even those who accept the most favorable accounts show no disposition to leave Canada or the United States and go to Russia to enjoy Bolshevik rule.

THE WIND.

I'm often weary of the wind; I sometimes think it should be tinned (the British word for "canned") it's hard to seem serene and say with all your whiskers blown away, by winds relentless fanned. I sometimes sit beneath a tree, and take a book to comfort me, and count on happy hours; I'll doze and read, and read and doze, inhale the fragrance of the rose, and other moral flowers. And then there comes a roaring wind, shot from some cavern of the Ind, which blows me from my chair; my treasured volume disappears, and dust is blown into my ears, and sandbars in my hair. Sometimes I take off hat and shoes, and lay me down to have a snooze, as peaceful as a clam; and then a wind sweeps through the shack, and all the timbers groan and crack, and doors begin to slam. Last eve I set out cabbage plants; a wholesome task like this enchants the same and normal guy; and in the forenoon of this day the wind blew all those plants away; I wept to see them fly. I hear the ladies crying, "Rats!" when they're deprived of costly hats by wayward, wanton blast; and men forget good form and swear when lids are soaring everywhere, and legs are flying past.

Germany Jibbing.

Germany jibs over the peace terms. That is only what was expected, for the conditions upon which peace will be concluded with Germany are not only severe but punishing. Germany has been made to feel that, being the aggressor, the judgment passed upon her has been righteous and just, and it is because of this that her Government and Press join in a protest that their nation has been humbled in the eyes of the world, and a burden of humiliation, more than they can bear, heaped upon them by the Allies. The German has learned nothing by his defeat, has profited nothing by his change of Government. Absolute monarchy or Republic, the spirit of German arrogance is the same. The form alone is changed. The individual and the national characteristics are immutable. Offensive in war they are equally offensive and swaggering in peace, and they are not slow in declaring themselves. Count Brockdorff Rantzau, the head of the German peace delegation, has been very pronounced in declaring his objection to the treaty terms. "They contain," he says, "demands which could be borne by no people," and furthermore the view is held by German experts that such conditions have been imposed upon them as are incapable of accomplishment. This may be taken to mean that the Germans are unwilling to accomplish them or to even attempt the process, or to put it in plainer language, will not.

In view of this it is significant to note that Marshal Foch is about to return to the front. What this may portend we can very well imagine particularly when it is considered that the German Assembly Socialists on Saturday adopted a resolution protesting against the Peace Treaty, in which resolution it is stated that "Justice is violated in nearly every phrase." How typically German. It will become Germans to prate of justice, which is incomprehensible to them, excepting under the German definition, of trampling down everything and everybody standing in the way of Teutonic advancement and progress. The Hun idea of justice may be summed up in their arrogant boast of "Germany above all," a national war cry which embodied all the ideals of German superiority, Kultur and contempt of their foes.

Allied justice, very obviously, does not appeal to the German, hence the almost general condemnation of the Peace Treaty, but the enemy has been given to understand that the final decision does not rest with him. The Allied Council will not permit any discussion whatever. The terms have been presented and their acceptance or rejection is a matter entirely for Germany to decide. There will be no modification, no lessening of the conditions. Germany played for world conquest and lost. Now she must accept the decision of the judges.

C. C. C. Boat Club.

The annual meeting of the C. C. C. Boat Club was held in the Armoury last night a large number of members attending. The reports of the Secretary and Treasurer were presented and adopted both being of a satisfactory nature. The election of officers for the ensuing year, conducted by Mr. J. Larkin, resulted as follows:—Hon. Pres.—Jas. F. Parker, Esq. Hon. Vice-Pres.—Leut. Col. Conroy. President.—P. P. Collins. Asst. Vice-Pres.—J. Hamm. Secretary.—J. M. Tobin. Treasurer.—J. C. Perez. The Committee of Management will consist of the above officers with Messrs. E. J. Brophy, E. Skeffington, J. Larkin, A. Lacey, F. Nangle, J. Ryan, D. Bentley, G. Brownrigg, T. Reardigan, J. Murphy, and several others, to be appointed. Another meeting will be held next Sunday morning when arrangements for the coming regatta will be discussed. Several members of the Club visited the Boat-house a few days ago and found the racer Cadet in splendid condition. The club intends to take an active part in the coming races.

Baseballers Meet To-Night.

Players and enthusiasts are reminded of the annual meeting of the Baseball League which is to be held to-night at the Blue Puttee Hall to finalise last year's business and to make arrangements for this season's games. The occasion will be availed of to present the championship cup and pennant and the Mount Cashel cup to the Cubs, and also the Reid Inter-Town trophy won by St. John's. The matter of taking over St. George's Field in conjunction with the Football League will also be decided upon.

Grand Falls Baseball Club.

HOLDS ANNUAL MEETING. The Baseball Clubs at Grand Falls held their annual meeting last week to reorganise their pre-war league and to arrange for the season's schedule. With the return of some of their players from overseas and the anticipated influx of a number of American employees, the inland town is looking forward to a renewal of their former sporting activities, and a team will likely journey to St. John's this year in an endeavor to wrest the valuable inter-town trophy from the home team.

Successful May Dance.

The May Dance held last night in aid of the Jensen Camp Fund was largely attended and proved a great success. Shortly after the dance had commenced Admiral Wood and staff of U. S. S. Chicago entered and were greeted by the strains of the "Star Spangled Banner." Teas were served by the ladies of the Jensen Camp Committee, and a most enjoyable evening was spent by all present. The latest waltz was rendered by the C.C.C. Band under the able management of Mr. Bulley. Mr. Green, of the U.S.S. Chicago, gave a fine exhibition of cornet playing, which was very much appreciated, the performer being a talented cornetist.

At the Majestic.

The packed house at the Majestic Theatre was agreeably surprised last evening when a talented young lady, Miss Mary Ryan, daughter of Hon. J. D. Ryan, delighted everybody with her rendition of two stirring songs, "Over There" and "The Star Spangled Banner." Miss Ryan possesses a beautiful rich contralto voice, and the songs were more appreciated than it would be possible to tell. This is the first time that the Majestic had a singer, but it is hoped that it will not be the last. The songs were very appropriate, the picture shown being "Over There," a splendid, stirring story of a coward's victory over himself and over his fears, featuring Anna L. Nelson and Chas. Richman. This was put on in courtesy to the many American visitors here now, a large number of whom were present last evening, every one of them in stantly rising to his feet as the sweet strains of "The Star Spangled Banner" were rendered by Miss Ryan. The first song was, "Over There," this having been vociferously encouraged. In compliance with the forcefully expressed wish of the crowded house, Miss Ryan again stepped to the front and sang the American National Anthem. Among those who stood at the singing of this were several Newfoundlanders, showing the respect felt for the Great Uncle Sam. The show was certainly one of the best put on by the Majestic to date. America is shown as having just entered the Great War. The young Americans are rushing to the colors in thousands. One, however, has a yellow streak in him, a streak, although he does not know it, inherited by him from birth. His friends are enlisting all around him. His fiancée pleads with him. His prospective father-in-law, himself an old soldier, pleads with him. His mother tries her best to have him join up. She cannot. It is not until he has lost his fiancée and friends, until even his business partners and associates and all others that he held dear are no longer his friends that he is suddenly brought to see his duty. No sooner thought than done, and very quickly he is in the front line trenching. Now follows the crucial moment. "What will he do? How will he act? Coward or hero? See at the Majestic this evening. The usual comedy will also be shown. Professor King at the piano and Mr. Joe Ross, the master of effects, at the drum.

Albert Edward Branch. The monthly meeting of the Albert Edward Branch, N. B. S., was held last night. President W. R. Boone in the chair. The minutes of last meeting were read by Secretary W. Dicks and confirmed, and three candidates admitted to membership. These were addressed by Mr. J. M. Lawrence, of the Adult Society, who heartily welcomed them to the ranks. Following the transaction of routine business a concert arranged by the Secretary was held, songs, recitations, etc., being given by C. Saunders, S. Martin, W. Hammond, A. Stacey, N. Boone and W. Dicks. The first of the lectures by W. Boone and W. Dicks will likely be given at the monthly meeting on the second Monday of next month when it is expected there will be a large attendance. The meeting closed with the singing of the National Anthem.

SOCIALISTS' PROTEST. PARIS, May 12. General Assembly Socialists have adopted a resolution protesting against the Peace Treaty, in which they say "justice is violated in nearly every phrase."

EXCITEMENT AMONG HOHENZOLLERNS. AMORENGEN, May 12. An official abstract of the preliminary Peace terms as published in a Dutch newspaper, translated and read to the former German Emperor today has aroused great excitement among the Hohenzollern party. The Empress displayed signs of deep emotion, but how the former Emperor took the news, the Associated Press is unable to ascertain. Rumors were however in circulation that he attempted to commit suicide by hanging, but these are considered incorrect.

GREY DELIGHTED. PARIS, May 12. Viscount Grey says in an interview that he is delighted with the amended covenant of the League of Nations, having feared "that much might be accomplished at the Conference."

CREATING CONFUSION. PARIS, May 12. The Four Council decided yesterday upon the terms of the reply to be made to the two notes sent to Clemenceau, Saturday evening, by Brockdorff Rantzau. The first of these asked that there be a reciprocal policy adopted as to repatriation of prisoners, and requested that details of transfer be placed in the hands of a commission. In the second note the German delegates advanced a counter proposal as to International Labor Legislation, but according to the newspapers, the basis of the second note is the labor charter inspired by the conferences at Leeds and Berne, and they argue that the purpose is to create among Socialists an opinion favorable to Germany, by plotting in direct collaboration with the working classes and the present governments of the country.

FRANCE NOT IN QUIET MOOD. PARIS, May 12. "France is not in a mood to listen to Germany just now," the Journal despech says, in concluding an article on the manifestations against the Peace Treaty by the German Government and the German press. "The President of Germany," the editorial says, "protests against the Peace terms, and declares them impossible of acceptance. This attitude will not be lost on us. The Germans as usual will yield only to force and during the term allowed them to make up their minds they will try to persuade us to conclude peace upon such a basis as they want. It is comic indeed, too see at a time like this, the Germans seriously proposing to us a version of the League of Nations and planning the reconstruction of their Empire. They should put them all back in their cabinets at the Wilhelmstrasse."

ITALY NOT IN ALLIANCE. PARIS, May 12. There is much comment over the fact that Italy is not included in the proposed engagement between Great Britain, the United States and France, for mutual action against Germany, should Germany again become aggressive toward France. It is said that Premier Orlando was ready to bring Italy into the agreement, and that he took part in some of the early discussions, although the plans were consummated about the time of the tension which removed Premier Orlando from active participation in the Council of four.

LAV ANSWERS QUESTIONS. LONDON, May 12. Reuter's despatch.—In the House Commons to-day in reply to questions, Mr. Hon. A. Bonar Law stated that he was not able to announce when the debate on the Peace terms would occur as this obviously depended upon circumstances, which could not be foreseen at the present time. Replying to questions regarding the Peace conditions, Mr. Bonar Law said, the Government would shortly announce its proposals, and the date of the Government would consider a presentation to invite Marshal Foch and the French Army to visit Great Britain, in connection with the celebrations.

ALLIED ARMIES READY. LONDON, May 12. Reuter's Ottawa Agency.—Reuter says that in the event of Germany signing the Peace Treaty, which is regarded as unlikely, all military arrangements have been made for the allied armies to advance in exactly the same way as they would have done had Germany not accepted the Peace terms.

GERMAN TONNAGE. LONDON, May 12. Reuter's despatch.—In the House of Commons at question time to-day, Mr. Wilson stated that twenty-two German passenger ships of 168,889 tons

ALLIED ARMIES READY. LONDON, May 12. (Reuter's Ottawa Agency.) Reuter says that in the event of Germany not signing the Peace Treaty, which is regarded as unlikely, all military arrangements have been made for the Allied armies to advance in exactly the same way as they would have done had Germany not accepted the armistice terms.

GERMAN TONNAGE. LONDON, May 12. (Reuter's Despatch.) In the House of Commons at question time to-day, Mr. Wells Wilson stated that twenty-two German passenger ships of 168,839 tons, and 89 cargo ships of 662,310 tons, had been handed over to Great Britain.

Economy. (From the Trinity Enterprise.) Our people of late years have been blessed with abundant prosperity, and the fat of the land has fallen to them; and the "Enterprise" is thankful that it has been so for our people deserve the best they can get.

"JOHN BULL" DISSATISFIED. LONDON, May 12. (Reuter's Ottawa Agency.)-In the House of Commons Mr. Horatio Bottomley has given notice of motion, declaring that the Peace Treaty has not fulfilled the pledges of the British Ministers in regard to indemnities, and, in view of the fact that the main financial burden of the war has fallen on Great Britain no treaty is acceptable, which does not provide for rendering to the enemy a bill for the entire cost of the war, and arranging for the recovery of such cost, regardless of the period over which it may be necessary to extend the payments.

LORD FRENCH AND THE COMMONS. LONDON, May 12. (Via Reuter's Agency Ottawa.)-Replying to questions regarding Lord French's articles in the Daily Telegraph, Col. Winston Churchill, Secretary of State for War, stated in the Commons today that Lord French was not drawing army pay or allowances, and did not occupy any military position.

McMurdo's Store News. TUESDAY, May 13, 1919. Blue Jay Corn Plasters have brought ease and comfort to many a sore and painful foot-painful by means of corns, warts, or callouses, and are well worth using by those who are troubled by anything of the kind.

"BRUTAL DICTATED PEACE." BERLIN, May 13. Scheidmann, the German Chancellor, denounced the Peace Treaty today as "a brutal, dictated peace" in which Wilson's fourteen points have been completely forgotten.

"Mariner" Answered. Editor Evening Telegram. Dear Sir, - Your correspondent signing himself "Mariner" in yesterday's Evening Telegram, knows very little about shipping laws, when he says "There was a law which read that every British ship proceeding on a foreign voyage, up to 100 tons should carry one certified mate or master, and from one hundred to one thousand, not less than two-certified master and mate."

War Memorial. In the windows of Muir's Marble Works, there is at present a splendid testimony of the high-spirited patriotism of the people of St. Mary's. It is in the form of a beautiful marble monument to be erected by the people of Point la Hève and Ganklers to the everlasting memory of the only soldier of that place who laid down his life in the war, Pte. Bernard Meehan, who was killed in action at Guisdecourt, Oct. 12th, 1916.

What PITTSBURGH Thinks of Republic Trucks

In Pittsburgh, with its hills and heavy hauling, where power and stamina are absolutely essential; half of all the motor trucks in use are Republics.

"We found Republic Trucks so satisfactory in spite of over-loading and strenuous overtime service that we have just purchased another Republic," say Best Company, manufacturers of pipes, valves, etc. "Because of the demonstrated efficiency of the first Republic we purchased, we are now using a fleet, including 1 1/2, 2, 3 1/2 and 5 ton, all Republics," say W. E. Osborn Co., large wholesale produce dealers. "In spite of the severity of service in the oil and gas fields and over difficult country roads, our Republic Trucks have been absolutely trouble-proof," say People's Natural Gas Company. "Even the additional abuse of war-time driving has had no apparent effect on the Republic Trucks which we have had in operation for three years. They continue to give the most satisfactory service," say Ziegler Lumber Company. Each of the owners listed in this advertisement and hundreds of others have learned the efficiency and economy of hauling with Republic Trucks. That is why there are as many Republic Trucks in operation in Pittsburgh as there are of all other makes combined.

The same sturdiness and dependability that has made Republic Trucks so popular in Pittsburgh is creating a constantly increasing demand for them in every part of the world. Republic Trucks are a profitable investment for any business with a hauling problem.

Too Much Speculation.

One reason for the present high prices of fish is due to speculative dealers going to points of production and offering extremely high prices to shippers. Such action inflames the minds of the producers, and the result is that the fishermen are never satisfied and continually demands more for his catches. It is all right to solicit trade in the usual way and it would be much better for all concerned if goods were permitted to take their natural course. Let the selling price be based on the demand for the fish when they come to market, and not on a price that speculative dealers must ask because of the exorbitantly high prices paid for the fish at the point of production, which frequently is much more than the fish is worth.
—N. Y. Fishing Gazette.

Who Can Identify It?

The New York Fishing Gazette of May 3rd says that the steamer Walrus, Capt. Clayton Morrissey, arriving at Boston, Thursday, had a strange bird on board, which flew aboard last Saturday, when the craft was 25 miles southeast of Sable Island. The bird is about the size of a partridge, with a red bill two and one-half inches long, blue spots on the head, yellow legs and long toes. Fishermen say they have never seen a bird like it in all their experience.

Drowned His Son.

Hull, Quebec, May 9.—Louis Forget, an aged farmer of Namur, Labelle county, was brought here yesterday to stand trial on a charge of having murdered his son, Ambroise Forget, aged 35, by pushing him into Little Range River. The son had been blind from infancy. The crime was committed in October last, the elder Forget telling the neighbors at the time he was taking his son to a home of refuge in Ottawa. The body was recovered on May 1 by some river drivers. With the prisoner to Hull to-day came a confession, which had been put in as evidence at the preliminary hearing before a Justice of the Peace. Forget, it is alleged, states that owing to his straitened circumstances and the helplessness of his son, he had decided to do away with him.

Short Weighter Fined.

For having scales set to weigh out a pound at only 14 ounces, Lew Rothman, an Allentown (Pa.) fish and produce dealer, was fined $10 recently. Judge Callahan, in the Superior Criminal Court at Boston, imposed a fine of $75 on a fish company on a charge of allowing 50 boxes of fish to remain in cold storage for more than a year without permission from the Board of Health.

Obviously.

As illustrating the matter-of-fact way in which the average British bluejacket looks at things, Admiral Tyrwhitt relates how he was one day questioning a batch of them as to their accomplishments.
"Which of you men can swim?" he asked.
"I can, sir," said one.
"Good!" answered the Admiral.
"Where did you learn?"
"Why—in the water, sir," came the unexpected reply from the rather mystified bluejacket.

Manure Should be Spread When Hauled.

The common practice of hauling manure to the field, and throwing it into heaps has several serious objections. In the first place, the work of spreading is increased, as it must be handled twice. When manure is so piled there is danger of injurious fermentation, with consequent losses of nitrogen. In addition, the leaching from such piles increases the amount of plant food directly beneath, and produces a rank growth. It is not uncommon to find the next season's crop spotted by a more luxuriant growth and deeper green color on the areas where the manure heaps have been placed. It is highly undesirable, as it causes the crop to mature at different ages, and also endangers loss by lodging. A crop with a large plantfood supply will have a longer season of growth than one with a meagre supply. If the manure is spread directly from the wagon, the unevenness of growth is largely avoided and the cost of labor reduced. When very coarse manure is used, it should be dragged to break up the larger lumps and thus spread it more uniformly.—Wisconsin Experiment Station.

Marshal Foch's Choice.

The Greatest Victory was When He Signed the Armistice.
The Count de Chabrol, has told the following fact as authentic: At the end of last October, M. Clemenceau sat to the front for the purpose of making to Marshal Foch. On meeting the great soldier, the Prime Minister took a paper from his portfolio, handing it to the Marshal, said: "These are the conditions of the armistice we can get from Germany." The Marshal thought for a while, and then answered: "I can obtain still better terms for you, and also the glory of capturing a German army of half a million men." Clemenceau answered: "No one has any right to deprive you of any glory you are likely to acquire. It is for you to lose." The Marshal thought deeply some time, then he said: "In order to gain the victory 50,000 men will have to be sacrificed. What is human glory beside 50,000 souls pre-terited into eternity? I shall accept the armistice." Lately a comment was made to the Marshal on all his victories he had gained over the enemy. His reply was: "My greatest victory was the one I gained over myself the day I signed the armistice." The words were spoken with the smallest tone of regret.

DID THEY?—Sir David Beatty says that the English Navy must be prepared for future wars? What about the League of Nations that was to end all strife? Did the millions of the Allied Armies die for a phantom and a delusion?

BRAVE CHAPLAIN.—Rev. Father Julius Babst, an Illinois Catholic army chaplain, has been cited no less than five times for bravery, during the war. He has been wounded once, and has received the Distinguished Service Cross, with bar and two crosses, and the Croix De Guerre with two palms and three crosses!

POOR IRELAND.—The Toronto Mail and Empire says proudly: "Under the British flag the people are the final judges, another illustration of the superiority of British institutions." The Mail should amend that to read: "Under the British flag the people are the final judges—but not in Ireland—no strice!"

NOT BY HALF.—"A thrill went through the civilized world when it was announced that the great Republic of the United States had officially recognized the Republic of Poland."—Hartford Transcript. That thrill will be nothing in comparison to the shock of delight the world will get when Ireland is recognized as a free nation.

A TRUE CHRISTIAN.—An American Chaplain, Father O'Hara, writing of the cosmopolitanism of the American Army, says: "On the same day I gave Communion to an Armenian (American) soldier, to a Syrian, to a Lithuanian, a Pole, an Italian, a Spaniard, and a Frenchman, an Indian from Arizona, a Colombian from South America, and, as it chanced, to a German prisoner from Saxony."

THEY WERE ONCE.—The New York Commercial is quoted triumphantly by The Toronto Globe, and argues that it is good for Ireland to be garrisoned by 250,000 English soldiers, because the soldiers are the chief business asset of each garrison town, and are a boon to the local tradesmen. Why does not the stupid Commercial advocate large British garrisons for Boston and New York to help out the local tradesmen? The Commercial editor is evidently suffering from deterioration of the brain!

Marshal Foch's Choice.

His Greatest Victory was When He Signed the Armistice.

The Count de Chabrol, has told the following fact as authentic: At the end of last October M. Clemenceau went to the front for the purpose of speaking to Marshal Foch. On meeting the great soldier, the Prime Minister took a paper from his portfolio and, handing it to the Marshal, said: "These are the conditions of the armistice we can get from Germany." The Marshal thought for a while, and then answered: "I can obtain still better terms for you, and also the glory of capturing a German army of about half a million men." Clemenceau answered: "No one has any right to deprive you of any glory you are likely to acquire. It is for you to choose." The Marshal thought deeply for some time, then he said: "In order to gain the victory 50,000 men will have to be sacrificed. What is human glory beside 50,000 souls precipitated into eternity? I shall accept the armistice." Later a compliment was paid to the Marshal on all the victories he had gained over the enemy. His reply was: "My greatest victory was the one I gained over myself the day I signed the armistice." The words were spoken without the smallest tone of regret.

Some Beds.

The largest bed in the world is the one owned by the celebrated French actress, Sarah Bernhardt. This tremendous bed is capable of accommodating nearly thirty people, and measures no less than fifteen feet wide.

Another bed of tremendous dimensions is the Great Bed of Ware. This is said to have been used by Warwick the Kingmaker. The number of persons which it will hold is from twenty to twenty-four. It is of oak, and bears the date 1463.

Among a collection of other curious beds is one which belonged to Richbourg, the smallest dwarf of the world has ever seen, for at the age of ninety the little fellow only measured one foot eleven inches in length. His bed measures two feet six inches in length.

Charles Stratton, otherwise known as General Tom Thumb, also possessed a bed with unique dimensions. It was three feet long by one foot nine inches wide.

The General afterwards married a dwarfish bride, when a new bed had to be made, five feet square.

The most curious bed ever seen was probably that made for Che-mah the famous Chinese dwarf. His bed was two feet six inches in length, and although he scarcely measured fourteen inches round the chest, he requested that it be made four feet wide.

Condensed Salmon

A despatch from Monroe, La., says that 942 cases of salmon said to contain decayed and injurious substances have been seized by the Federal Government and will be disposed of at a session of the Federal District Court.

According to Deputy United States Marshal H. R. Kirkpatrick, the salmon is a part of a shipment originally consigned to the United States quartermaster's department at St. Louis, for the use of the army, but was condemned and refused because on examination, it was found to contain injurious matter and was returned to the shippers.

Windsor Table Salt

Despite the announcement that the spring fishery in Newfoundland resulted in at least a partial failure and that there will not likely be any quantity of this pack of Scotch style herring to export to the American market, the trade here does not look for any serious shortage. In fact, many of the largest importers of herring in New York have expressed themselves as being in favor of the restriction of exports of herring to this market until supplies here can be cleaned up. Advocating the plan suggested a few weeks ago, that Newfoundland herring and other Canadian herring be sent to Europe, merchants are free to admit that this would relieve the general situation to a considerable degree. Stocks of Newfoundland herring received during the past few weeks have shown no better quality than those received earlier in the season. The market continues dull and buyers are reluctant to take on supplies of this grade more than sufficient to meet their needs for a week or less. Offerings at $18 continue to be made in the local trade, and it is understood that this price has been undersold in several instances. Fancy quality Newfoundland Scotch cured herring is commanding a better price in its limited market here. Quotations of $24@25 have been heard, and it is reported that a few lots actually sold at the lower price during the week. Several consignments are offering from St. John's and other Canadian centers, but New York is not taking any interest in them under present conditions. — N. Y. Fishing Gazette.

"Ah!"... and then a long-drawn breath while I watched her, feeling that my integrity was vindicated. She was an American Y. M. C. A. helper; our boat left New York on a beautiful spring day, made a perfect crossing, and found Liverpool still blanketing.

On the deck that morning with chattering teeth I said, "Welcome to England!"

"You are kind," she tried to smile, but it changed to a sniver. "Now I understand why the English are said to be cold," she went on; "who could help it? They warned me to bring warm clothes, but I told them that summer would almost be in England. I grew to silk as soon as I landed—wellness for me! My great-great-grandmother was a Puritan... she has the laugh over me now."

As we came south it got colder; I shivered. "Ah!" she said; just then I heard the love of London spoken in her voice. Then, in awed tones, "Now I know... Walking down Fifth Avenue, you can be a king, but here you can never be a king. Yesterday you met the man who put up the skyscrapers, and you walked up him jauntily, but the souls who put these... no! you must go reverent."

She had found the meaning of London.

In New York you wonder and applaud; in London you wonder and reverence.

I remember seeing "Till ole New York" at night for the first time; it was in an apartment high up; a curtain drew the curtain and pointed to the thirty-fourth story of the ambitious Woolworth tower set its shined window as another star in the sky.

sky. The gigantic buildings seemed to sway with their myriad twinkling lights like so many watchful eyes.

"I call it the Magical City," she said; and just then the sound of a horn came to us from the river. Big ships setting out with food and men. The noise was magical, for I heard answering horns that sounded from the fogs of far-away London.

I saw Fifth Avenue in the morning, when all the wealth of the world seemed to be rushing by as if it must be gone before noon. Later I watched one of those wonderful Liberty Loan processions pass down this "Avenue of the Allies."

An American said to me, "We like this, but do not think we are boasting. Why? If all the dead from the British Empire were to march by six abreast it would take from morning till night for them to pass."

One cannot be a king in London. Even His Majesty must feel the overwhelming pre-eminence of those grey buildings.

And yet on Peace Day, when the triumphant troops march through our Magical City, the shades of silent victorious ones too shall be there; and every man or woman who helped shall be a young king or queen.—A. N. C., Daily Mail.

Women Samsons.

Examples of extraordinary strength and endurance on the part of women war-workers have been given recently by Mr. George Ryder of the Amalgamated Society of Engineers. He says that in a Birmingham shell factory women habitually handled and lifted shells weighing 250 pounds each.

Work is measured in foot-tons—that is, power sufficient to raise a ton weight one foot. The working power developed by the human body is 3,400 foot-tons a day. The heart alone does 120 foot-tons in twenty-four hours.

Considered purely as an engine, the human body is very wonderful. The average day's work of a man in good health is equivalent to raising two million pounds to the height of one foot, and all this is done on the consumption of about eight pounds-weight of food, drink, and oxygen from the air he breathes.

To compare the work of strong men with strong women is interesting. The "peons" of Mexico and the professional porters of Turkey are reckoned the strongest of mankind. One of the former has been known to carry a Burley drill weighing 600 pounds over a mountain pass, while three of the Turkish porters have carried a grand piano in its case for a distance of three miles on end.

It is admitted that a professional cyclist in a twenty-four hours' race has broken the record for the amount of work done by a human being within that time. Such a man does twenty million foot pounds of work in the twenty-four hours, or in other words, lifts a weight of two tons to the height of one mile.

What a Big Picture Costs.

The cinema has been aptly called "the poor man's picture gallery," though few people realise the vast sums that are spent in providing an entertainment that is within the reach of any child with a few pennies at his disposal.

To give an idea of the lavish methods of the great trans-Atlantic studios, let us consider the so-called "big picture," which forms the chief item of an average three hours' cinema bill.

The first person responsible for the production is the author. An original scenario will net anything from £20 to £100. Scripts adapted from books and plays are, curiously enough, more expensive than original screen work.

Mary Pickford paid over £3,000 for the film rights of "Rebecca of Sunnybrook Farm," and the Vitagraph Company over £10,000 for "Within the Law." Dr. Dixon, author of "The Clansman," probably holds an unbeaten record as a harvester of film royalties. His profits on "The Birth of a Nation," which D. W. Griffith adapted from the story of "The Clansman," are estimated at £100,000, his share being 25 per cent. of the net receipts.

British Titles to Pass.

The war has hit heavily the aristocratic land-owners of England, and the old-fashioned gentry are fast disappearing. Many of the stately homes in England are coming under the hammer; old baronial halls and picturesque Tudor mansions, hallowed by age-long traditions, and for centuries the playground of romance, are being knocked down to the newly-made rich. In an auctioneer's catalogue just issued, there are no fewer than 28 country estates, carrying with them as many country houses, with acreages running from eight to 91,743—the latter being an estate of the Duke of Sutherland's, in the northern Highlands—for "early auction," and in the same catalogue there are 76 other country mansions down for quick sale by private treaty. For many years land has not yielded more than two and a half per cent., and the old type of aristocratic landowner always made a rebate to his tenants if they had experienced a bad season. On many estates the rents were barely sufficient to meet current expenses. Titles in England to-day do not carry the weight of former times. A lord may be a gentleman—or a blackguard. Titles are not sought after as they used to be. They have been made too cheap, and the lavish way in which the Orders of the British Empire were chucked about made the whole thing a laughing-stock. Nothing could induce men like Gladstone to accept a title, and only recently a princess of the blood royal has voluntarily relinquished a title that some people would give a fortune to secure. All these are signs of the times, and prove the democracy of the age, even in Britain.

Supposed Child in Arms.

Of woman arriving at Toronto turned out to be 5 1/2 gallons whiskey in two bottles.

Toronto May 5.—A woman stepped from a Montreal train this morning with a carefully wrapped child in her arms. Police constable Holmes saw her and something in her manner attracted him. He invited the "mother" to take a walk with him to the police station, which she did amidst tearful protests. The "child" was unwrapped and proved to be five and a half gallons of whisky, done up in tins and bottles. Further search revealed two bottles of whisky in the woman's pockets.

She gave her name as Anna Cheyverek. She was relieved of her burden, also $300 of good money, at the police court.

A War About Kettles.

Among the many little wars which, in the Middle Ages, served to keep Europe in continual turmoil none had a more extraordinary origin than the conflict commemorated by the remarkable title of the "War of the Copper Kettles," which, in the fourteenth century, lasted at least two generations, and was the occasion of fighting on both banks of the Meuse as sanguinary and desperate, though on a less formidable scale, as that witnessed before Verdun in the recent war.

The people of Dinant, on the Meuse, long notorious for their pugnacity and turbulence, objected to the rivalry of the people of Bouvignes, on the opposite bank of the river, in the manufacture of copper kettles.

One would have thought that even with the limited population of Europe in those days there would have been a sufficient market for the output of both centres of the industry, but the men of Dinant wanted the copper kettle monopoly.

The Bouvignese not only refused to discontinue making copper kettles, but went to the limit of making those useful domestic articles quite as well as the people of Dinant.

Thereupon the men of Dinant, in imitation of the practice of settling and plays are, curiously enough, more argument of the sword, endeavoured to prove the superiority of their kettles by erecting the Castle of Montgouel, and annoying as much as possible, by their attacks, the innocent Bouvignese.

In their turn the latter built the Castle of Creve Coeur on the opposite bank of the river, and the "War of the Copper Kettles" was waged with great fury by successive generations, causing much bloodshed and misery.

Dinant, by the way, prior to the outbreak of the Great War, was still famous for its brass and copper ware.

Salt & Pickled Herring.

In spite of the weakness in split and round herring heretofore noted in New York, there has been a better demand in evidence during the past week, and prices are now somewhat firmer.

Among the largest holders of stocks of either variety, splits of Newfoundland production—or round herring—continue to be quoted on the basis of $8 and 10 in a jobbing way, while in large quantities it is doubtful if these prices could be materially lowered.

There are still some lots of split herring which can be purchased as low as $8.25 and $8.50 per bbl., but the quality of these goods it may be assumed, is commensurate with the price. Likewise round herring can be bought at $8 but this herring, in the opinion of large factors must be considered as of $8 value. There has been a limited demand for either grade and round herring continues the weaker of the two.

Other varieties of salt and pickled herring have been moving in a slow market. Belly-cuts are reported to be selling in limited quantities as between jobbers, and marinated herring is being purchased only in hand-to-mouth fashion at the prevailing low prices.—N. Y. Fishing Gazette.
