ROSSLAND SHIPMENTS.

Falling Off Because of the Northport Smelter Trouble.

Rossland, B. C., June 1.—The ore shipments from this camp for the week closing Saturday night are slightly below the standard for the past mouth or two, largely because the large shipments have been somewhat curtailed on account of the trouble at Northport. As there is every likelihood of this matter being arranged at an early date, the output is expected to reach the 10,000 ton mark again within a week or two.

UNITED STATES DEBT.

Washington, June 1.—The monthly statement of the public debt issued by the treasury department today, shows that the the close of business, May 31, 1901, the debt, less cash in the treasury, amounted to $1,062,476,494, which is a decrease for the month of $10,268,762. This decrease is largely accounted for by the purchase of bonds for the sinking fund and the increase in the cash on hand.

Sherbrooke, May 31.—(Special.)—The hired man of a Sherbrooke farmer eloped with his sixteen-year-old daughter, and walked to Avers Flats, a distance of ten miles. They had dinner there and afterwards boarded the train for here, a little before the arrival of the enraged farmer. The Coaticooke police arrested the couple on arrival of the train there on instructions from the girl's father. They were taken to the Klondike hotel, and imprisoned in the parlor, a policeman being stationed at the door to prevent their escape before the arrival of the enraged parent.

Several drummers in the hotel seeing the plight of the couple, planned an escape.

What the Islanders Will Do Now Remains to Be

Washington, May 31.—The administration has decided that the action of the Cuban constitutional convention in accepting the terms of the Platt amendaccepting the terms of the Platt amendment with modifications and interpretation of their own, was not substantial compliance with our terms within the meaning of the amendment, and Secretary Root will convey this intelligence to the convention. The decision was reached at the cabinet meeting today. The meeting Insted over an hour and a half, and had been preceded by an hour's conference between the President and Senators Platt, of Connecticut and Lodge, of Massachusetts. As the author of the amendment, the President desired to learn the views of Senator Platt and also those of Senator Lodge, who is one of the influential members of the committee on foreign relations.

At the cabinet meeting Secretary Root took the position that the interpreation of the Platt amendment contained in the constitution adopted by the convention, and the whereas appended to it, went outside of a fair interpretation of its meaning and was unacceptable. In this view the cabinet concurred.

When asked as to what would be the next step of the government after the Minister Wu graphically described the career of Gen. Grant as citizen, soldier and statesman, his remarks showing a close study of his subject. "Nothing shows more clearly," he said, "the highest est estimation in which Grant was held by the world at large than the spontaneous enthusiasm with which he was everywhere greeted when he made his famous tour around the world. Princes, potentates and common people alike vied with one another in paying him the hominge due to great rulers. Cities opened, their gates to welcome him at his approach. His progress from country to conduct was like a triumphal procession. All this was a significant tribute to his character and his fame. It must be remembered that he was at this time only a private citizen. But everybody recognized the greatness inherent in the man. In no country, I dare say, did he receive a warmer welcome than in the old empire of China.

Minister Wu then alluded to the friendship between Gen. CANNERY COMBINE.

would go through as he had options on every cannery on the Sound, and the money was ready to take the options up on the first of July. On being asked if the cannery of Messrs. Winch & Bower, at Anaconda, was in the deal, Mr. McGovern said it was, that he had their bond in his pocket, and that the price they asked and which would be accepted, was $300,000. In this connection it was subsequently learned that when M. Onffroy organized the Pacific-American Packing company, taking in a number of canneries on the Sound, Messrs, Winch & Bower were approached and asked to name a price for their cannery.

ed and asked to name a price for their cannery.

Their figure was $150,000. Mr. Onffory concluded it was too much and, left Messrs. Winch & Bower out of his calculations; that was two years ago. That year the Vancouver men did a business of $380,000, and $120,070 of this amount was winnings. This is the reason that practically the same parties are willing to pay double the price for the Anaconda cannery this year that they refused to pay two years ago, particularly as all the profits made in the last two years has gone into plant. Messrs. Winch & Bower on being asked if Mr. McGovern's statement recarding the sale of their cannery for $300,000 was correct, answered in the affirmative.

Mr. Hocking's statement, which is certainly backed up by letters received from Judge Davis of Neveda, is that he married a girl in Jutah and brought her to Austin, Nevada, where his people lived. While working in a mine he met with an accident that crippled him. He became the subject of charity, as he could not work. His wife sued for a divorce for non-support and subsequently wrote to him telling him that she had obtained a divorce. Believing that this meant that the decree had been granted, he married a second time, and was prosecuted for bigamy. Both his first wife and the lawyers serving her in her divorce proceedings, swear that when Hocking married the decree had not been granted. Judge Davis says in his letter, that this showed thit there was no intention to commit bigamy. Furthermore, when Hocking wrote to his brothers and asked them if it was true that a divorce had been obtained, they wrote back that wife number one said that it had. westminster, May 30.—W. R. Hocking, confined in Westminster penitentiary for bigamy, has managed to obtain the attention of the United States authorities to his case. cepted the position. This was not due to any diffidence upon his part to take hold of any work which the party assigned to him. He felt, however, that as a comparatively new man, one who had only been in parliament for five years, and following a line of illustrious leaders, the responsibilities of the office were very great. The party was so insistent that he had no alternative than to loyally bow to the expression of confidence reposed in him. Now, after an experience of four months of parliamentary work, it is amply demonstrated that the party had selected a man who, realizing to the fullest extent the nature of the high office to which he was called, has applied himself to the duties of leader with a zeal and energy which have won for him the encomiums of friend and foe alike. Mr. Borden is one of the most approachable of men, and besides the genial qualities which he possesses, he has shown that in the highest degree he has all the qualifications of a successful leader. Naturally from his position he has had to speak often during the present session, but whenever he harrisen in the house he has had something to say, and this is a remark which can be applied to but few members of parliament. It is noteworthy also, how attentively the house has listened to Mr. Borden's speeches, and especially does this remark apply to the members on the trasury benches. There is no other man in parliament better qualified to discuss legal and constitutional questions than the leader of the opposition, and it has been a source of satisfaction to Conservatives to note Thow often ministers have deferred to Mr. Borden's opinion. He is also essentially a fair-minded man; one not given to hitting below the belt, and it is probably this characteristic of all others which has gained for him the respect of the Liberals, equally as of the Conservatives.

A smart Aleck for the time-being, who is British consul there, boarded the Canadian ship and threatened to impose a fine of $500 if the Canadian ensign were not hauled down. GLASS IN CANDY. Used to Give It a Glittering Crystal

From the Lancet.

The production of modern sweets is undoubtedly a fine art judging from the innumerable varieties made and the countless ways in vogue of making them attractive. At one time the most deplorable practice prevailed of employing such poisonous substances as chromium, lead, copper, or even mercury and arsenic, as coloring agents in sweets. The use of such objectionable coloring agents became happily*obsolete, and, speaking generally, modern confectionery is now pure. True, the coloring agent is often an aniline dye, but so great is the tinctorial power of such dyes, that it is probable that several pounds of the sweets would contain at most a few grains of the dye and then the dye may be perfectly harmless.

The sweets to which we have referred were sent to us by a correspondent with a request for analysis, and he relates that these sweets were partaken of by two little children who shortly afterward suffered from severe abdominal pain, in the one case in the region of the appendix. The pain persisted for several days. The effect of sharp glass particles lodging in the appendix could, of course, be easily disastrous. Our analysis enables us to say most positively that these glittering particles are glass. They are quite unchanged in boiling water or in boiling acids and melt into beads at a red heat. On analysis we obtained silica, lime, soda, and a little lead, which are the constituents of common glass. From their appearance on the sweets the flakes might easily be taken for gelatin or mica. The glass is probably prepared by crushing glass bubbles.

It is probable that the practice is adopt-

In connection with the eight-hour day, for which the strikers are fighting, and which the Albion Iron works agreed to grant on the Garonne, the overtime arrangements are nothing if not intricate. The workmen figure their time at the basis of an eight-hour day for $3.50, the time being rated by the hour, and each hour of the day counting an hour and a quarter, the eight hours rating as ten hours at 35 cents an hour, or $3.50 for the eight hour day. All overtime is to be paid at the rate of double the pay earned in working from 7 a. m. to 4 p. m., thus an actual hour worked after 4 p. m. is to be paid as an hour and a quarter and being doubled is 2 hours and a half, or practically 88 cents for an hours work after the conclusion of the regular day at 4 p. m. Therefore if under this new schedule, a man works from 7 a, m. to 6 p. m., his actual work of ten hours will be counted fifteen hours at 35 cents an hour, the two extra hours rating as five hours.

As is the case in every seaport, the local iron workers have much overtime, for in many cases steamers arrive in need of repairs, and in order that they may not be delayed, it is arranged that the work shall be carried on day and night, in which case the workmen who go on after the regular working day getting double pay, and under the arrangement made by the iron workers unions—a system which is prevalent throughout—whereby the eight-hour day counts ten hours, or each hour counts an hour and a quarter, every actual hour's work overtime counts two and a half hours work. As can easily be seen, rush work involving the labor of the iron workers after his regular day, will therefore be costly.

civilization are possible. OPPOSED TO THE MINT.

The Manager of the Bank of Montreal Mr. Clouston, is very strongly opposed to a Canadian mint. In an interview recently published by the Mail and Em pire, he said: the establishment of this mint will be a grave mistake. In the first place, our present system has worked admirably, and it is always a blunder to tinker, with what already has been well done. Then the alleged benefits that a mint about joining issue with the head of our largest monetary institution on a matter of this kind, but possibly, indeed probably. Mr. Clouston looks at the case only from one side, namely, that of the banker. We are not impressed with his argument that if the bankers could see that a mint would promote general trade, they would support its establish ment. Bankers are like the rest of us. Their views depend upon their standpoint, and are restricted by their en vironment. The manager of a great financial institution is not necessarily the best judge of what is best for the country, and on the other hand, he is extremely likely to be opposed to anything which may alter the conditions under which he does business. The fact that he cannot see how good is to result from a certain line of action, is not by any means a conclusive argument Mr. Clouston thinks it a mistake to tinker with what is already well done. This is a platitude, not an argument. But we would like to know what he means by his reference. If it is the is handled, his ideas of well doing are very much one-sided. We do not say that from the banker's standpoint the existing method of handling gold may not be satisfactory but we do say that it is extremely unsatisfactory from the point of view of the miner or the Northern trader. We have already shown in these columns the loss to the trader them burned up without insurance after who endures the rigor of an Arctic winnever hears. Public opinion is gradually having its effect on the hunting of tame stags in this country.

The king's stag hounds have gone and now it is probable that the Enfield Chase pack may follow. Mr. Hills Hartridge is giving them up.

The Enfield Chase pack is merely a wornout relic of ancient days. It is only a couple of years since Colonel Somerset sold the whole lot, and now once again they are in the auctioneer's hands.

Apart from humanitarian reasons, it is time that this pack was abandoned. The district is becoming rapidly surburbanized, and quite unfit for sport. It has been only by the merest chances that the runs have been so seldom among the houses.

It is not, however, either on account of the houses or on humanitarian in the Northern Town.

When, on the afternoon of May 24 the steamer Hazelton tied up at the town, after which she is named, her passengers were greeted by a sight of the town in full holiday attire. The large flags of the Hudson's Bay company and the Indian office gave a brightness to the little town, which certainly looked its best in the bright afternoon sun. A good sprinkling of new houses suggests that business is moving even up there. Those of the citizens who were not off picnicing with their families had turned out en masse to help in or watch the time-honored Twenty-fourth Baseball match. From that they adjourned to watch the landing of the steamer, to welcome friends, and to hear the "latest" news. It was not ascertained whether the "small boy" was fishing, but no doubt he would not be the only one failing to celebrate the occasion.

Danger of Being Buried

The part of the pa

The revivals sometimes reported during epidemics of cholera, smallpox and yellow fever depend, as in so-called sudden deaths, upon the fact that the patients are usually taken down in their ordinary health, with a reserve of strength which bridges them over after the force of the disease is spent.

The estimates of such disasters are based upon the discoveries made when the dead are removed from cemeteries, as is done in some great cities every five years. A portion of the skeletons are always found turned to one side or on the face, twisted, or with the hands up to the head. These are counted as living burials. And then there is the admittedly large number of narrow escapes from being buried alive, recovered as a rule by some chance. Hidden and mixed with ignorance, laxity and indifference as this whole matter is, the authorities naturally differ in their views as to the frequency of these cases. A personal inquiry in Europe and in the United States for several years has convinced me that they are alarmingly frequent. The proportion of discovered cases must be small compared with those that never come to light. Dr. Lionce Lenormond, in "Des Inhumations Precipitees," says that a one-thousandth part of the human race have been and are annually buried alive. M. Le Guen, in "Danger des Inhumations Precipitees," estimates premature burials at two a thousand. He collected 2,313 cases from reliable sources. Hundreds of foreign authorities with similar views could be given. Dr. Moore Russel Fletcher, in "One Thousand Persons Buried Alive by Their Best Friends" (Boston, 1890), gives many horrors, taken from American sources. Carl Sextus, of New York, collected in 18 years 1,500 cases of death counterfeits of scientific value. He estimates living burials at 2 per cent.

cases of death counterfeits of scientific value. He estimates living burials at 2 per cent.

Between 1780 and 1800 Europe was agitated on this subject. France first recognized the necessity for legal protection against these dangers. Germany was the first to put them in force. Then followed France, Austria, Belgium, Spain, the Netherlands and Scandinavia. The pith of these laws is in the requirement of an expert examination of the apparently dead, independent of the attending physician. In Germany, Austria and Belgium, the examiners, called inspectors of the dead, are officers of the state, specially qualified for their duties. In the other states mentioned they are physicians of standing, also qualified. They must decide the cause and fact of death, and register a certificate of verified death before a burial permit can be issued or the body disturbed in any way with the view to embalming, autopsy, burial or cremation. The underlying principle of these laws is well expressed in the Austrian imperial law thus: "That the only sure sign of death being general decomposition, which as a rule comes late in the case, the examiner of bodies, in the absence of this proof, must not be guided by any single sign, and must base his conclusions on an assemblage of all signs that point to death, and to any injuries that may involve the vital apparatus."

I have been studying him in the street, in the sailors' homes, in the music halls, in the public houses, in the model dwellings where he sometimes nestles with his wife and babies—that magnificent human man who, take him all in all, is the best thing in the way of flesh and blood that the British Empire has to show. I mean Jack.

I went through the Sailor's Home in this port the other day. It's comforts are those of a popular club, and everything is extraordinarily cheap. All the things to eat and drink are of the best. You can take your easy chair before the fire, smoke your pipe, and read your paper, like any lord in the land. And you can get full board and lodging for a mere song, with no obligation to turn in till you have had time to have a drink after the music-hall or theatre. Not that Jack need go out of doors for entertain ment. There are concerts and performances of all sorts in the home itself; and Have I written enough about Jack ashore? Are you tired of him? For I can assure you I am not. I should like to tell you of his joyous laugh as the comedian on the stage trots out some hoary joke which we landlubbers have heard a thousand times, but which is quite new to this four-years' wanderer—of his proud appreciations when the

The Sailors Come Back

How Four Seamen Taken From

How Four Seamen Taken From Here Eluded Boarding House Man.

Took His Money and Liquor and Slipped Back to Victoria.

Sailors are scarce on the Sound, but the Port Townsend and Puget Sound boarding house men are not coming to Victoria for seamen as much as has been their wont. It is three weeks since Carl Newman, of a Port Townsend boarding house came here, and incident to his coming a tale is told which is in part explanatory of the absence of desire for a return visit. There was when he came, a disabled ship at Esquimalt, the Roland, and it was Esquimalt, the Roland, and it was thought that possibly some of her sail-ors might be induced to desert and go to the Sound, and failing this some sailors might be picked up from other ves sels here. At Esquimalt there were five men who had signed on the ship Ivanhoe, then in port, and who are now Wants of the Matron to Date on the high seas as part of the Ivanhoe's crew. These men consented to go to Port Townsend with Newman. They came an individual whom I must describe further. Without taking any notice of the 'after guard' he strolled for ward and introduced himself to us as we stood grouped together staring at the city. This was one James Turk, the keeper of a respectable boarding house for seamen, to which he presently invited us. He informed us casually that wages for 'A. B.'s' were there forty dollars a month, and that the paltry formality of getting a legal discharge need not trouble us. (It appears they 'don't go much' on discharges here), 'And' ye'll git tew mont's 'advance, y' know, 'fore ever ye go aboard,' he added. This last was rather too much for me to listen to silently, 'so with the utmost politeness I said:

"'Anybody as ships here,' he replied excitedly, 'you, ef ye like ter be man enough t' git yer dunnage an' stip into my boat thet's 'long side' my boat thet's 'long side'

"Swift as thought the wild beast stood revealed—man-stealer, murderer, criminal of loathliest shape Can any term of opprobrium be too severe to apply to these demons of American ports, whose awful trade has been a plot upon the fair fame of the great Republic for so many years? This particular devil burst forth into a torrent of flaming blasphemies against us all, and myself in particular,—lurid language to which none of us answered a word, until presently big Jim stepped forward quietly and said: many years? This particular devilourst forth into a torrent of flaming blasphemies against us all, and myself in particular,—lurid language to which none of us answered a word, until presently big Jim stepped forward quietly and said:

So he passed from our kem and we saw him no more, but afterwards we heard that this particular specimen of the Pacific Coast boarding-master had a reputation for evil-doing second to none in all that foul fraternity, and we were assured that we might be exceedingly grateful that none of us had been way-laid by his orders and brutally done to death But I do not know It has been my experience that in most cases where sailors have been thus evilly treated it has been because they themselves have been consenting parties in a measure; that they have willingly gone to those places where they were most easily trapped. Nanaimo, B. C., May 30.—(Special.)—
The people of Extension are at last genuinely alarmed at the sanitary condition of the town, and are taking vigorous steps toward remedying the evil.

The portion of the town which lies in the hollow is considered to be in the most dangerous position in the event of an epidemic. Several meetings have been held. One took place on Tuesday night, when the report of a committee appointed at a previous meeting was been held. One took place on Tuesday night, when the report of a committee appointed at a previous meeting was adopted. The committee have appointed S. Taylor, scavenger and sanitary officer, and will endeavor to have him properly established in that position. All the residents in the town and neighborhood are to be interviewed by the committee with a view of securing their signatures.

In the Barreau party, arrived back March 30, after a terrible trip of 105 days. They were unable to say how severe the cold was, but it was olitense the dogs froze to death in harness, and if a man stood of fight to keep from freezing. When they reached Point Blossom the thermometer had been frozen for two weeks at 50 below. What will probably prove to have been a murder occurred recently near Point Hope. Gid Hara, the man who committed the deed. reached Nome March 30 to give himself up to fustice, and is now in fall. Padday McCormick, his victim, according to late accounts. was being carried 50 miles through lintense cold, to Point Hopt, for medical ald, but his wound was bleeding so severely that it was doubtful whether he would live to reach his journey's end. Hara and McCormick belonged to a party fitted out by Louis Lane and M. Goldstein. The only version of the story which has yet reached Nome is that told by Hara According to this they quarreled over dogs and Hara shot McCormick in the thigh.

The annual report of dividends remaining unpaid, unclaimed balances, and unpaid drafts and bills of exchange in the chartered banks of Canada, for five years and upwards, prior to December 31, 1900, issued in conformity with the act respecting banks and banking, and amendments thereto, has just been published.

The report shows the following amounts lying unclaimed in the banks of the Dominion:

When Subscriptions Are in.

The celebration finance committee met at the city hall last evening, the chairman, Mr. A. J. Dallain, presiding. Chief Deasy reported that on Saturday last the sports committee took the old men from the Old Men's Home, and the children from the Old Men's Home, and the children from the Old Men's Home, and the children from the orphanage, to Beacon Hill, to see the sforts. They were much pleased, and heartily thanked the committee for their kindness. When all the subscriptions are in, there will be sufficient to pay all expenses, but as it is desired to pay all bills by Monday in readiness for the general meeting on Wednesday evening, all who have not paid their subscriptions are requested to do so.

The general committee meeting called for tonight has been postponed until Wednesday evening.

Before the meeting adjourned, His Worship, the Mayor, on behalf of the committee, presented Mr. W. Redfern of the Colonist staff with a fountain pen in recognition of his services in reporting the meetings of the various committees, and hoped that he would be spared many years of usefulness in the profession he had chosen and upon which he had just entered.

Slightly Drags in the Almighty's Name to Make Political Hit.

Vancouver, B. C., May 29.—(Special.)

—At a mass meeting at the city hall tonight, those in attendance being chiefly fishermen, a resolution was passed protesting against the taking over of the administration of the fisheries by the Provincial government. Jos. Dixon, President of the Trades and Labor council, occupied the chair. The speakers in the order named were Capt. Anderson, one of the strike leaders last year; Mr. Burns, president of the Fishermen's union; ex-Ald. Baxter, J. A. Watson, of the Canadian customs; G. R. Maxwell, M. P., and Capt. Tatlow, M. P. P. All the speakers condemned the contemplated action of the provincial government, and denounced the canners in general terms as enemies of the fishermen. Mr. Maxwell attempted to belittle the trip of Premier Dunsmuir to Ottawa, and referring to the fisheries bill said it had taken the Almighty six days to make heaven and earth, but he honestly believed that Dunsmuir and his cabinet made that bill in half an hour. Mr. Maxwell's speech was a special plea for the Federal government and for political favor, his bitter attacks on Mr. Dunsmuir and the Provincial government, and the canners, whom he characterized as up in arms against him, being used to that end. Arrested In Prairie City

George Leightner Now in the Hands of the Winnipeg Police.

Detective Palmer Left This Morning to Bring Him Back.

George A. Leightner, the absconding agent of the Northern Pacific railway in this city, who left here last Friday evening upon the sudden arrival of the travelling auditor of the company, was evening upon the sudden arrival of the travelling auditor of the company, was arrested yesterday afternoon at Winnipeg, as had been expected by the authorities, although it was longer in coming than they hoped for. Yesterday morning a telegram came from Acting Chief of Police Munro of the Prairie City, stating that Leightner had been seen there, and asking for instructions. The reply immediately went back to arrest him, and later in the afternoof the report came that he was under rest. Chief Langley thereupon instructed Detective Palmer to hold himself in readiness to go to Winnipeg for the prisoner. Mr. Palmer leaves by the Utopia today for Tacoma, where he will take the Northern Pacific for Winnipeg.

As Leightner left Vancouver on Saturday last, it was thought that he would have been intercepted at Winnipeg earlier in the week, and from the fact that he was not arrested as he left the train but after he had been in the city for a day at least, it is presumed that he arrived on time, but was able to get off the train without being seen by the authorities who had in the first place been instructed to arrest him on sight. Thiel's detective agency, representing the surety company, acted in conjunction with the police of the different cities in looking for him.

Before leaving Victoria, and, in fact, before the arrival of the auditor, Leightner wired his father, who resides in the East, telling him of his position with the edid, and the flight of the agent, made this impossible, for as soon as he left the city the matter present from the company.

Ogdensburg, May 29.—The cases against sixty of the ninety-nine Chinamen held at the county jail for unlawful entry into the United States, closed here today. Decisions have been rendered in 25 cases, in 20 of which deportation back to China is ordered. A large percentage of the remaining, cases will carry deportation. A strong point argued by the government, is that certain ports are stated, at which Chinese may enter this country. North Burke on the border, where all these Chinamen were arrested, is not such a port, hence they are here unlawfully. These Chinamen, were arrested last February.

MONEY BY-LAW DEFEATED. Toronto Ratepayers Vote Down Proposed Loans.

Toronto, May 31.—(Special.)—Property owners voted today on proposition to vote $278,000 for water works purposes, and $133,000 for a new exhibition building. Owing perhaps in part to very wet weather, there was but a very small vote. The exhibition bill was defeated by two to one, and the water works by nearly three to one. The ratepayers are evidently determined to keep down the city debt.

sites to quick and favorable animal development, and the upper temperate belt gives both. A considerable degree of warmth seems necessary for the growing of fine wools successfully and so our southern fellow shepherd has a right to come back at us and say he banks on wool, and that we of the north couldn't do so if we wished to. Quite true, too. But still it looks as though we were getting the long end of the stick, for the muttons keep on invadng and transforming and doing missionary work right in the wool strongholds.

There are reasons for it. The first of these is the growing popularity of sheep meat. Sheep meat is sweet, tender and healthful, owing to the active, healthy existence of the little quadruped. Trichinosis and tuberculosis are not in our calendar of sheep ills. Then sheep meat is economical.

quadruped. Trichinosis and tuberculosis are not in our calendar of sheep ills. Then sheep meat is economical.
It is estimated that the return in meat for a given quantity of food is from 12 to 20 per cent greater in the case of sheep than in the case of cattle. The carcass has less offal and less loss.
Then the care and labor in producing sheep meat are much lighter with sheep than with cattle. Sheep meat being popular then, both from taste and from economy, it is not strange that the so-called mutton brands should take a relatively more important place in the sheep business than they formerly did.
The choice of sheep meats is likely to grow, for a demand has arisen that will create and has created a corresponding suitable supply, and the existence of this established supply will react in demand.
Sheep interests have been created that cannot be suddenly sacrificed and these interests are bound to hold a place for their commodities in competition with other meat supplies, and are bound to conserve the taste already established.
Not only has the increased consumption given the mutton side of sheep hnsbandry greater relative importance, but it has affected the returns of fine wool products. You cannot produce a mutton sheep without producing wool of some kind, and as the producing of mutton, particularly in densely populated districts, is attended with adundant and intensive feeding, the supply of wool from mutton sheep has become quite large from this kind of feeding. The result is that the whole supply of wool has become very large and general prices have suffered a marked decline. It is a well recognized economic law

BREEDING FOR LAYERS.

BREEDING FOR LAYERS.

Some years ago I took the hen fever in its worst shape without ever getting cured. My favorites were Light Brahmas, Barred Plymouth Rocks and Single Comb Brown Leghorns, but being somewhat short and limited as to range and quarters, I had to content myself with only one breed, and I kept the Brown Leghorns, as I wanted fresh eggs. I bought good stock from several breeders and paid well for it. I began picking my best layers right out and only used their eggs, meeting of course with lots of trouble and failures by the way, but I am and was not to be discouraged so easy, but kept pegging away. By picking my best layers every year I soon had a nice lot of pullets and hens that averaged from 154 to 211 eggs a year. My last year's record for my egg mating pen was 155 eggs for eight hens and pullets, or a little better than 194 eggs apiece in twelve months. This, I think, is a pretty good record. This year I mated fourteen pullets and three hens for eggs, and with them put a young cock with as good a comb as it is possible to get, good color, and am sure the bird will score 93 honest points. I make no business to attend fairs and shows, but breed as near standard as possible without getting my egg records spoiled, for I breed for eggs only. By taking my young chicks well in hand and taking the cockerel apart from the pullets, I have my pullets laying by the four and five months, paying me for their trouble at an early age. I clean out and only keep the best cockerels which I care to dispose of almost without any trouble, the rest, which are culls, go to the market, as also do the pullets that don't come up to my standard of egg layers. My feeds are wheat, oats and mashes, with lots of free range and fresh water at all times. This will insure a good strong constitution. Anybody that wants eggs cannot fail if he or she follows my plan, for I know that there are lots of people who will take up the work of breeding for eggs and and give all up to fancy feathers.—Ranch and Range.

TROUBLES OF THE DAIRY COW.

Every-day troubles of the dairy cow is a very large subject for one person to bring before you for your consideration, in the limited time allowed. There are so many troubles, that the dairy cow is subject to, because of the conditions of domestication under which should be the domestication under which she is force to live, that they fill books. A dairy cow troubles may not vary much in seriou ness to her, for it is, to the cow, much is same whether her pain is caused by piece of wire piercing the wall of he stomach from the inside or if it is from boot toe, or milking stool trying to do the

To her owner, however, it does make a serious difference in many or nearly all cases what the troubles of the cow arc. This is especially true of those illnesses that affect the milk producting qualities of the cow, in which the milk secreting gland, the udder, may or may not be directly involved. I wish to limit myself to some of the diseases affecting the udder.

School Children.

The severe and ever-increasing strain of competitive examinations, coming at a time when every boy and girl is undergoing trying physiological changes, does much toward making mental and physical wrecks of school children. A glance at the pale, weak and puny children who come from our public and high schools will make any thoughtful person consider seriously the advisability of sacrificing health and vigor for the trivial honor of standing high at examinaancy and elasticity to the bodies of their pale, puny children.

Hosts of boys and girls, young men and young women are suffering from ills and irregularities resulting from exhausted nerve force. There is no treatment known to science that will so naturally and thoroughly restore strength and vitality to the nervous system and health to the whole body as Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. It makes parents happy by bringing back the color to the faces, and the buoy-as the disease advances, the loss of ap-title, the drooping of the ears, the horns, the nearly entire absence of m flow, the local pain in the udder manife ed by the straggling gait, may all be served and tells you of the seriousness the trouble. These symptoms may last their severity from two to four days.

The local treatment of the udder will consist in hot fomentations during the earlier, and stimulations during the later stage of the disease.

They are also very valuable in allaying the severe pain. These applications may be made in two ways, first by taking a paliful of hot water in which has been dissolved a handful of sait, and washing the udder continuously for fifteen or twenty minutes that the water has become chilled, then rob the udder nearly dry and apply with a good deal of friction a soothing liniment, such as tincture of oplum and fluid extract of belladonna, each one haif. It is not necessary to apply this in large quantities but rab it in well. This course of treatment should be given the animal three or four times daily. Hot poultices may be substituted for hot water. There is quite a knack in applying a poultie to a cow's udder so that it will be of value. Why time and time again have I seen the poultice applied so that you could see daylight between the udder and the poultice. In these cases the poultice is mapriment. Bran and linseed meal will sour and are too heavy when they have been dampened. Linseed meal is also too expensive. I would advise the use of hops for poultices, they are light and bulky, they do not sour and retain the heat fairly well; still with them it is also necessary to change often or re-heat them.

CHINESE HAND WARMER.

A very nice, convenient and inexpensive way to keep the poultice warm is by means of a Chinese hand warmer. They should have a place on every farm. There is no danger from them if you use them correctly. I have prescribed their use in a great number of cases. The lid being removed the tinder is lighted and placed inside, after which you replace the lid. Now warp one, two or three layers of cloth around it, so that it will not burn the cow when put in position in the poulties. It will heat the poultice for several hours giving the advantage of uniform temperature. CHINESE HAND WARMER

FINAL TREATMENT.

COWPOX AND TREATMENT.

This is another udder disease that has been reported prevalent in a number of herds in this state. It is never fatal to the animal but causes a serious financial loss to the owner, because of the diseased flow of milk. I believe these outbreaks were caused by the transmission, through a wound in the skin of the udder, of vaccine from persons that had been vaccinated against smail pox during the past epidemic of this disease in the state. The symptoms are very characteristic. The base of the teat as a rule, and they come in pimples appear on the teats and well up on the udder, these pimples appear at the base of th teat as a rule, and they come in crops, that is they may be found in various stages of development at the same time.

They increase in size until the seventh or, tenth day when they are fair sized bilsters containing a yellowish fluid. The walls of the bilsters will break, discharge their contents, form crusts and heal. It is about twenty days from the beginning of the attack until the animal is well. The bilsters on the teat are often irritated from the process of milking and become ugly looking sores. The person milking should be especially careful not to press and irritate the teat any more than is absolutely necessary.

Treatment is not necessary except in those cases where the teats become very sore, then some emollient application may COWPOX AND TREATMENT.

Last night's meeting of the city council was devoted strictly to business, there were none of those brilliant flights of oratory, with which certain of the aldermen are wont to tickle the ears of the groundlings, and several important matters were well advanced towards a matters were well advanced towards a final disposition. To His Worship the Mayor and Board of Aldermen:

Gentlemen: Your streets, bridges and sewers comittee having considered the undermentioned subjects, beg to recommend the following resolutions to the council.

I. Resolved, that the city engineer's suggestion to repair and strengthen Point Elle bridge, as shown by plan submitted, be carried out, that the Dominton government be communicated with and permission obtained to proceed with the work, on the condition and understanding if necessary, that the city will put up a new bridge and commence work thereon within eighteen months, and that the mayor be antiborized.

Steers Drowned.—Two 1,300-pound steers jumped from Yesler what last night into the bay to avoid being driven aboard the steamer Utonia, bound for Victoria, says vesterday's Seattle Post-Intelligencer. Diligent search was made for the animals, but they could not be found, as it was very derk in the vicinity of the water front, and they were probably drowned.

The Savoy.—The patrons and amusement seekers in general will be regaled this week with a feast of novelty acts, judging from the advance notices of the management of Victoria's thoroughly up-to-date amusement resort. The headliner this week will be the equilibristic marvel, "Kalacratus," who will set at defiance all the laws of gravity. This clever artist will also introduce his phenomenal hoop rolling, causing innumerable common barrel hoops to gyrate in the most fantastic manner. Another performer of rare ability who will make her ititial appearance in this city will be Miss May Nealson. The acknowledged peeress of all coon delineators, will undoubtedly prove a drawing card. Baker and Fouda, the artistic travesty duo, will appear in one of their original sketches, which embraces a little of all that is good in vaudeville. The Kramers, established favorites, will present a laughable skit, in which Maudie, the clever child actress, will be seen to the best advantage as a dancer. Helen Stuart, Minnie Jerome and Dolly Grooms will each appear in their excellent specialties, while last, but not least, Smith and Ellis, the comedy boomers, will assert themselves as funproducers of the highest order. Taken in the whole, the programme for this week is above the usual high standard for which the Savoy is noted.
