THE Toronto Saturday Night says:—"Let us drop this era of good fellowship in our municipal politics. Being a good fellow does not qualify a man for public office. I know of no place it does qualify him for except membership in a club. As a rule it disqualifies him. He is too many-sided, has too large a bump of approbateness, is fonder of pleasing people by neglecting his duty than of doing his duty no matter who gets hit or turns sour."

MILITIA orders just issued at Ottawa announce that a new method of conducting qualifying courses at cavalry and infantry schools of instruction will come into effect from January 1st next. A NUMBER of the brethren of Havenock Lodge, A. F. & A. M., assembled at the lodge room on Friday evening to bid farewell to W. Bro. H. R. Stuart who left on Saturday for Chatham where he has connected himself with the Chatham and Lake Erie Railway. During the evening Bro. Stuart was presented with an address and a past-master's jewel. After the proceedings lunch was served and a pleasant time spent in speech and song. Bro. Stuart during his sojourn in Watford has been active in the promotion of Masonry having twice occupied the Master's chair and also been a very efficient secretary for some years, and the brethren regret his removal from the town.

FOLLOWING is a new method of determining the age of eggs: Float the eggs in a tumbler of water in which has been dissolved a tablespoonful of ordinary table salt. An egg one day old will fall to the bottom of the glass, if older it does not reach the bottom; if three days old it sinks just below the surface, and the older the egg the more it protrudes above the surface of the liquid.

It is to be regretted that there was not a larger audience to hear Rogers and Griley in the first of the course of concerts given by the young people of the Presbyterian Church in the Lyceum on Wednesday evening, for the entertainment certainly deserved a full house. The program was a high-class one in every respect and was much enjoyed and fully appreciated by those who were fortunate enough to be present. As an impersonator Mr. Griley easily leads any who has been before a Watford audience for some time, and his selections being chiefly from the best authors and standard works had an elevating effect not often felt in listening to an entertainer. As a harpist Mr. Rogers seems to be master of the instrument and produced some wonderful music and imitations of other instruments. If the concert on Wednesday night is a sample of those to follow, the tickets should be picked up rapidly.

THE Rev. Matthew Kelly, of Brantford, writes to "The Congregationalist" as follows:—"Your readers will remember that on the morning of April 4th of this year the Watford Congregational Church was destroyed by fire. The friends there, however, did not go down under the heavy blow, but have courageously faced the situation and expect shortly to have a new place of worship completed. The new building is to cost three thousand dollars, and the Watford friends have on hand either in cash or promises the sum of two thousand six hundred dollars, which leaves them with a prospective debt of seven hundred dollars. The Western Association has instructed me to communicate with our churches, especially in the Western district, and suggest that if each of our churches approached would contribute the sum of five dollars or upwards, a substantial sum might thus be secured to help a worthy church, and it would also reveal the bond of fellowship upon which our churches are so much dependent. I have communicated with the churches as instructed by the association and I hope that each church will see its way clear to give this matter immediate consideration. Subscriptions may be sent to Mr. S. B. Howden, Watford, Ont."

An old lady in Kingsville who is now in the nineties, was at the age of seventy unable to read a word. She knew the letters of the alphabet and decided to learn to read. She now reads any books she wishes from the Public Library, and finds it a great comfort in her declining years. One is never too old to learn.

It is expected that Rev. Canon Downie will preach at SATURVILLE next Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock.

Joseph Acton has sold his farm, the E. J. lot 8, con. II, Brooke, to Rowland Hewlett, of Moss Township, for the sum of $5,350.

Brooke's debenture debt is $21,683, according to the Government report issued August, 1911. Population 2,813, total assessment $2,517,595. Taxes levied, $56,350 of which 11,246 was for school purposes. Area covered, 74,056 acres.

St. James' Church, Brooke, will hold an anniversary service on Sunday morning next at the usual church hour, when Rev. Canon Downie, B.D., rector of Port Stanley, will preach. It is through the efforts of Canon Downie that the church was erected, and the congregation are always pleased to have the rev. gentleman with them on the anniversary of the opening of the church.

Mr. Alvin Shirley, B.A., of Huron College, London, had charge of the service at Christ Church, Sutorville, on Sunday last, and preached to large and appreciative congregations at both afternoon and evening services. Alvin is no stranger to the people of Sutorville, having been born within a mile of the church, and except when away pursuing his studies, has always lived here, and in consequence his welcome was most cordial.

His friends, who are proud to regard him as one of their own, and who wish him the utmost success in his noble calling and profession.

Mrs. Nancy Cumming Kennedy, relict of the late Michael Kennedy, passed away at the home of her daughter, Mrs. George Shirley, 12th line, on Wednesday, in her 82nd year, after an illness of several months. She was a native of Scotland. She was one of the early settlers of Brooke having been a resident of the township for over fifty years. Her husband predeceased her in 1899 and since that time she has made her home with her daughters. She leaves one son Mr. Walter Kennedy, barrister, of Gravenhurst, and three daughters, Mrs. George Shirley and Mrs. Isaac J. Cowan, of Brooke, and Mrs. (Dr.) Chalmers, of Oil Springs. The funeral will take place this (Friday) afternoon at 2:30 p. m. from the home of her son-in-law, Mr. George Shirley, 12th line, for Mount Carmel Cemetery. A feature of the program will be the presentation of diplomas to the pupils who passed the recent Normal Entrance, Matriculation, and Faculty Entrance examinations. Mr. J. I. Carter, of Sarnia, the donor of the scholarships recently awarded to Miss Annie Tanner and Mr. Harry Rogers, has been invited to present the diplomas.

The plan of the hall is at Taylor's drug store. Secure your seats without delay, as they are going fast.

A Surprise in Store.

Several subscribers to "The Family Herald and Weekly Star" in this district have received their copy of the beautiful premium picture entitled, "Home Again." A copy has also reached this office. It certainly surpasses any picture ever given by that great paper before. How such a beautiful work of art, all ready for framing, can be included with such a great family paper for the small sum of one dollar a year is a mystery. "The Family Herald and Weekly Star" should add thousands of new subscribers this season. They well deserve it, for no such value has ever before been given. There is a big surprise in store for those who receive the picture. "Home Again."

Eye Specialist Coming.

Mr. Montgomery, the Toronto Eye Specialist, will be at C. Class' store Friday and Saturday, Nov. 10th and 11th. Parties needing glasses should consult him.

Lords Day Alliance Meeting.

Considering the disagreeable state of the weather on Monday evening there was a fair-sized audience to listen to Rev. W. G. Hanna, B.A., of Toronto, the representative of the Alliance explain the aims, method and work being done by the Society.

Its aim is to secure for every person in Canada the civil right of rest one day each week, the Lord's Day if possible. It does not require that any person shall worship, nor does it interfere with the sphere of religion. It deals with civil rights only.

ITS WORK.—It drafted a law of rest for the people of Canada, which with modifications, was enacted as the "Lord's Day Act" by the Parliament of Canada, the first on the statute books of the Dominion. This law, containing only seven restrictive clauses, but twenty-six clauses permitting works of necessity and mercy to be done on the Lord's Day, is regarded by those competent to value such legislation as the best upon the statute books of any country in the world.

It is working to secure a fair and reasonable observance of this law by all the people of the land.

Over 100,000 toilers in Canada have secured a weekly rest day. With the majority it is the Lord's Day.

The distribution and sale of American Sunday newspapers which had risen to 150,000 in Canada has been reduced by over 90 per cent.

Many hundreds of cases of violation of the law have been brought to cease in different parts of Canada, and many places in which the Lord's Day was open by disregarded now preserve it well.

ITS METHOD.—The Alliance first gives the people an explanation of the law and show the benefits that follow from its observance.

Violators of the law are reasoned with, personally or by letter.

The Alliance seeks to have violation of the law stopped amicably, by remonstrance and persuasion rather than by litigation. Very few cases are brought into court by its advice, and in these instances, no prosecution has been instituted till fair opportunities are given to cease from the violation of the law. But when a violator ignores these opportunities, and continues to trample down the safeguards of this civil right, it is fair to believe, that a point has been reached, when forbearance ceases to be a virtue, and the law should be enforced by prosecution.

Daughters of the Empire.

The November meeting of the Daughters of the Empire was held at the home of Mrs. S. H. Mitchell, Mrs. Bennett assisting hostess. Each member responded to roll call by giving a quotation on the flag.

Mrs. L. J. Williams gave a splendid piano solo. Mrs. J. Bennett read an excellent paper on "The History of the Union Jack." Mrs. Swift's favor, a piano solo, was also much appreciated by the ladies. The chapter sang "Pass Me Not Oh Gentle Saviour," which was followed by a sketch of the life of Fanny Crosby the composer, given by Mrs. Fitzgerald. Luncheon was served and the meeting closed by singing "God Save the King." The December meeting was appointed for the home of Mrs. N. B. Howden. Subject, "Our Beloved King and Queen."

A SPECIAL rain coat with Presto collar, $10.00.—SWIFT'S.

WOMEN MAY AVOID OPERATIONS

By taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

The following letter from Mrs. Orville Rock will prove how unwise it is for women to submit to the dangers of a surgical operation when it may be avoided by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. She was four weeks in the hospital and came home suffering worse than before.

Here is her own statement.
Paw Paw, Mich.—Two years ago I suffered very severely with a displacement. I could not be on my feet for a long time. My physician treated me for seven months without much relief and at last sent me to Ann Arbor for an operation. I was there four weeks and came home suffering worse than before. My mother advised me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and I did. Today I am well and strong and do all my own housework. I owe my health to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and advise my friends who are afflicted with any female complaint to try it.—Mrs. ORVILLE ROCK, R. R. No. 6, Paw Paw, Michigan.

If you are ill do not drag along until an operation is necessary, but at once take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

For thirty years it has been the standard remedy for women's ills, and has positively restored the health of thousands of women. Why don't you try it?

Keep the Boy on the Farm.

Many excellent articles have been written on "Why the boys leave the farm," but if the boy could clearly see a clean fighting chance towards independence ahead of him, many of their "whys" would cease to exist. What is the general age of the boy when he decides to leave for the city? It is the high school age, when the idea of a commercial life first takes hold of the imagination. He cannot sympathize with the idea of getting up at half past four in the morning and retiring at ten o'clock at night, because the interests of the farm home are not his, and he naturally has no particular interest in the care of the crops. He studies at the high school subjects out of harmony with his life on the farm. Ancient history, languages and higher mathematics do not inspire him to return home and grow potatoes; geography of continents, Virgil and algebra cannot impress upon him the dignity and blessedness of an agricultural life.

What is wrong, and shamefully wrong, are the principals of his education. You can take an oath that is interested and should know about the wonderful MARVEL Whirling Spray. The new Vaginal Syringe. Best Most convenient. It cleanses thoroughly. Ask your druggist for it.

If he cannot supply the MARVEL, ask for other, but send stamp for illustrated book—sent. It gives full particulars and directions invaluable to ladies.

if the boys are any good and learn what is what about right farming, it won't be long before they, instead of their fathers, change conditions on the farm. With sorrow we say that it is almost useless to endeavor to change the ideas of sixty years. The stout oak cannot be bent, but the sapling will reply to the influences brought to bear upon it.

The farm boy is the man from Missouri in his make-up. You have got to "show" him. How are you going to do it? We will tell you. Educate him in the terms of his environment; give him a practical scientific education; let him go to an agricultural institution for a year or two and learn something about the chemistry of the soil, something of the nature of weeds and plants, something about different methods of tillage; let him find out that he can find a larger field for his mental and physical abilities on the farm than he can ever find in the city. If he attends lectures on live stock, the desire to improve what you have on the farm will make him anxious to return and help you out. Teach him to grow two ears of corn where one grew before and you have solved the problem. A knowledge of the mysteries of nature, of the phenomena of plant life, of the means to improve and care for live stock, are binding ties which will hold the son on the farm.

"Like the Visit of an Old Friend From Home."

Ever been away from town for a month, or perhaps longer?
Remember what a delight it was when you unexpectedly met someone from home.

That's the sort of feeling that is aroused by the visit of The Guide-Advocate to those who have spent their earlier years in Lambton and district and are now located elsewhere,—the majority in the Canadian West.

Many of them in the rush of getting every possible bushel of No. 1 hard from their quarter-section have neglected to order the Guide-Advocate and are depending on the letters from home to keep them informed of the happenings from week to week in the old district.

You know how you keep putting off writing those letters—seems impossible to get the time when you think of it, and when you have the time it is often forgotten entirely.

Why not send them The Guide-Advocate for a year and square yourself for many letters you intended to write, and are still going to write.

The Guide-Advocate will reach them regularly every week, and carry to them the news of all that transpires in the old district to which they still look for the news that has the greatest heart-touch for them.

This is about the time of the year the rural population may expect a call from the "shoddy" pedlar. These men make a house-to-house canvass, selling an inferior quality of goods, and in the past have succeeded in disposing of quite a quantity. The same class of goods can be had from any of the clothing houses or merchant tailors in any of the surrounding towns and villages on order. Business men seldom stock such material, because the goods cannot be made up in a satisfactory way, nor is it a durable article, but if you want it, they will get it for you. In Watford, and we venture to say, in everyone of the surrounding places, the merchants will meet the prices of the shoddy man, and with it you have the guarantee of your local merchant or your tailor, where wrongs can be made right. To the farmer, we would say, patronize your market town, and give the shoddy pedlar a cool reception. He is here to-day and away to-morrow, with no interest in your welfare.

SURE REGULATORS.—Mandrake and Dandelion are known to exert a powerful influence on the liver and kidneys, restoring them to healthful action, inducing a regular flow of the secretions and imparting to the organs complete power to perform their functions. These valuable ingredients enter into the composition of Parmelee's Vegetable Pills, and serve to render them the agreeable and salutary medicine they are. There are few pills so effective as they in their action.

Sylvester Price, of Maidstone township, was the victim of a serious accident on Friday last when engaged in threshing at Thomas Barnes'. He was helping to move some of the machinery when he backed into the buzz saw, was in motion at the time, the saw striking the arm at the elbow and inflicting a deep gash half way up to the shoulder. The ends of the inside of the arm were severed and the bone nearly severed.

If you trade in Watford you go home satisfied.

For regulating the bowels, invigorating the kidneys and stirring up the lazy liver

DYSPEPSIA CLAIMS MANY LIVES.

But John Mitchell's Life was saved by Morriscy's No. 11 Dyspepsia Cure.

Woodstock, N.B., Aug. 10, 1910.
 "I had a very severe case of stomach trouble which caused me great pain, and a lot of distress. I tried several doctors, but could get no relief. I also tried about all the patent medicines that are recommended for stomach trouble, and still I was getting worse—in fact, I felt like dying, and had to stop work. My friends thought my days on earth were few, and I thought so myself. I had heard a great deal about the wonderful skill of Father Morriscy, and thought I would go and see him. He prescribed his No. 11 Dyspepsia Cure for me, and I took his medicine as he directed, and soon began to feel relieved, and today I am a very well man, have gained in flesh—have no pain in my stomach, and am feeling first-rate. There is no doubt but that he saved my life, and I only wish I could find words to express my gratitude. I hope all who suffer as I did will use his marvelous No. 11 Stomach Remedy."

John H. Mitchell.

The above prescription is not a "Cure-All" or so-called patent medicine. Dr. Morriscy prescribed it for 44 years, and it cured thousands after other doctors failed.

Price, 50c. per box at your dealers or Father Morriscy Medicine Co., Limited., Montreal.

CHANTRY FARM

LINCOLN SHEEP, SHORTHORN CATTLE

Fifteen good registered ewes, from 1 to 4 years old, also fifteen choice Shorthorn rams, can spare a few lambs of both sexes; an extra good red bull and a few calves. Am offering a bargain in the fifteen ewes as I wish to place them in small bunches with the option of buying their lambs at weaning time. On account of the tariff disturbance trade with the United States is dull this season and I think the present time very favorable to invest. All correspondence promptly answered.

THE BLACK DAGGER

A Story of China

By CLARISSA MACKIE

Copyright by American Press Association, 1911.

Garland and Harpeth met on the Pacific liner Tropico, and from the first attraction of congenial natures there developed a warm personal liking. Garland was from the state of Maine, and Harpeth was a son of California. Out of 70,000,000 human souls fate had drawn these two, one from the east and the other from the west, to play the principal parts in a strange incident.

They had left the fairy islands of Japan far behind and were drawing near to the first outline of the China coast.

"Are you going to stop over in Shanghai?" asked Garland, with a touch of Yankee inquisitiveness.

"Haven't heard you say."

"There was a little pause while Harpeth's eyes sought the rising coast line.

"Possibly." He clipped the word rather sharply.

Garland glanced at him curiously. "You know I really didn't mean to pry into your affairs," he said apologetically.

"It's rather a natural question for one tourist to ask another."

"Surely; no harm done," returned Harpeth quickly. "How about yourself—you going to stop over?"

It was Garland's turn to show embarrassment. The quick look of interrogation he flashed at his companion was met by Harpeth's expression of languid indifference.

It was quite plain that Harpeth had asked the question merely to make conversation, not that he cared a rap about the matter.

"Maybe I'll stop over to see the city," said Garland.

Clumsy junks came teetering over the sea toward the mouth of the Yangtze, but the Tropico left them far behind as she steamed up to her anchorage off Wusung and landed her eager passengers on to the little transfer tugs that would convey them to the tributary tidal river, the Huangpu, to hospitable Shanghai.

In the crowd Garland and Harpeth missed each other, accidentally or by design. Garland could scarcely wait for the tug to make her landing at the jetty before he was off and swinging away up the bund toward the hotel of his choice.

The electric lighted hotel, with its air of western luxury mingled with its quiet eastern service, impressed the Yankee wanderer most favorably, and he retired to his room and bath, whistling cheerfully at the prospect of the excellent dinner that he was sure awaited him below.

But when the meal was concluded and he had enjoyed the gastronomic delights which his fancy had conjured up he retired to the smoking room to pore over a queer little map drawn with brush strokes of india ink on mottled tissue paper.

It was an hour after midnight when he left the hotel and made his way along the bund to where a flight of stone steps led down to the river. Here were several sampans moored to the landing, and the coolies immediately fell to fighting for his patronage.

He settled the matter by stepping into one of the little boats, and, being pounced upon by its delighted owner, he was soon paddled out into the stream, which glistened in the moonlight like molten silver.

"Kaoyang! Sabe?" he cried sharply. The coolie nodded his head and whirled the sampan about until it headed up stream. For a mile he paddled steadily with his long sweep-like oar and then suddenly ran the boat in between high banks on the north shore and grounded in the mud.

As if guided by some invisible hand, he who could not recollect ever having touched foot on this soil before sought for and found a narrow path winding upward to where a ruined temple crouched among a group of distorted wind-blown cedars.

The moon sent long rays down and here and there pierced the secret places with an illuminating touch. It showed Garland the outline of a dark arched opening, and he made for it fearlessly.

Just before he reached it he drew from his pocket the little map he had studied in the evening and turned the flash from his pocket light upon it.

Pocketing the map and snapping off the light to hold it in his left hand while his right hand closed around a small repeating revolver, Garland plunged into the opening to find himself in the crooked passage, which was lighted down its length by the moon which hung above its roofless walls.

On either side of the white stone walls there stood out sharply the little black daggers, which seemed to point his way. Glancing to the right and left, he followed their guidance until one last circling curve of the passage brought him sharply up against another arched opening which gave forth a damp, earthy smell. On the stone post of the door was painted another black dagger pointing downward. Garland flashed on his lamp and saw a wriggling flight of broken stone steps dropping down into a black pit. For an instant he hesitated, and then, with a shrug of his shoulders, he stepped forward.

He counted twenty-seven steps in all before his feet touched soft earth. He extinguished his light for an instant and tried to pierce the darkness with his eyes.

Before he snapped on the light again he was startled into rigidity by the sound of footsteps treading the passage overhead. They came rapidly with sharp, tapping clicks of leather boot heels on stone. This was not the soft padding of felted native slippers; it was the tread of a fearless man wearing European footgear or perhaps American boots like his own.

Garland moved backward and away from the steps until his back struck sharply against a cold wall. There he stood, a part of the enveloping blackness, while the footsteps stopped at the arched door, and then by the flare of a sputtering candle jammed in the neck of a soda water bottle Garland saw a pair of trousers descend the first few steps. Then as the man came down the candle flame lighted his shirt front and reached his chin just as a whirl of air from out of nowhere in particular extinguished the light.

"Dash it all!" muttered the man in English, and Garland felt a queer little thrill of relief that the interloper was not a Chinese.

After some fussing and a final exclamation of disgust because he failed to find another match about his person, the newcomer flung his candle aside and seemed to stop and consider the situation.

Perhaps he heard Garland's carefully controlled breathing, for suddenly he asked, "Who's there?"

Garland hesitated and then decided not to answer. Perhaps the stranger would go away now that he was without a light. In the meantime he would endeavor to reach his goal by edging along the wall against which he was leaning.

His feet made no sound in the soft earth, and he had made considerable progress when he became conscious of heavy breathing behind him, and he knew that the newcomer was following in his wake.

Garland reached an angle of the wall, followed it around, turned again and once again into a small square recess which had a window slanting upward to some cunningly contrived opening above ground which admitted the moonlight to throw a silver cloth over a stone table. On the stone table was a small shadowy slit perhaps the width of a dagger's blade.

The two men reached the table together and in the moonlight stared pantingly at each other. The moon lighted them up to their lips, and above their faces were in darkness.

"If you've got a light for heaven's sake turn it on!" growled the newcomer impatiently, and Garland, as if it was the most natural thing in the world for him to have met a fellow white man on this secret errand of his, snapped on his lamp and threw his broad white beam across the face of Harpeth.

"Garland," said Harpeth stupidly. And then with fierce suspicion he went on: "You followed me. I thought better of you than that, old man."

"I was here first," ejaculated Garland. "I'm blamed if I don't believe you're following me!"

"You had an errand here?" Harpeth put the question hesitatingly.

"Yes, and yours is probably the same," said Garland, with a trace of relief in his tones. "I was fearfully afraid somebody would find out and get the cinch on me, but somehow it's so confoundedly spooky down here I'm glad of company, even if it's a rival for."

He paused suggestively. "The black dagger?" asked Harpeth quietly.

Garland nodded. "I guess you've met with Wah Sung Loo, haven't you? I saw him in Portland."

"And I in Los Angeles," admitted Harpeth. "Did he sell you information concerning the black dagger which contained one of the biggest emeralds in the world and which was concealed by one of his thieving ancestors in this spot? Did he tell you how you could reach it, and as he was dying and might never come back to this country he would sell a map of its location for $100? Well, he told me the same yarn, and I took a chance on it too. Since I started, however, I've had a thousand misgivings, the chief one being that the old rascal didn't believe the story himself. I believe that to him it was a tradition—nothing more, and he made money out of it."

"He stung me, too, and yet—I'm going to try for that black dagger, Harpeth. Here's the black dagger he gave me. I suppose you've got its mate. I'll just drop it in this slit. Well, by Jove, it touches something that's giving way! Now, what do you think of that?"

The table top swung up and slipped back into a recess disclosing a small square stone receptacle in which was crushed a heap of tattered yellow silk, which dropped to dust under their fingers. In the heap of dust was a dark object which Harpeth's fingers drew to the light. It was a small dagger of finely tempered steel, almost black in color. In the hilt was set the largest emerald the Americans had ever seen.

"It's a good thing it's big enough to divide so we won't quarrel over it," said Garland, and the other nodded approval.

"I wonder if Wah Sung Loo knew this was here?" began Garland speculatively as they emerged into the open air.

"Never," interrupted Harpeth, with a grin. "Didn't believe it himself and thought he'd stung us for fair—hardly calculated we'd come out after it."

"I'm not sorry, though," chuckled Garland as they went back along the winding path to the river, where two sleepy coolies awaited them with sam-pans.

Love Thy Fellow-Men.

After the toil of day is o'er, And the sun has gone to rest; 'Tis then that we go to our humble homes And think: Have we done our best?

Have we done something for a fellowman? Something to make him glad? Or, have we tried to knock him, So others will think him a cad?

Our lives are just what we make them, No matter how we fare, There are troubles and sorrows for everyone.

Each must have his share, But only the man who is strongest, Can lift up his head and say: I, too, have my sorrows and troubles, But still, I am happy and gay—

For God has been my protector, And has helped me, day by day To smile, tho' troubles oppress me, And help others whenever I may.

So let us all try to help our friends, And boost them whene'er we may; And believe that each cloud, no matter how dark, Has a lining as bright as the day.

Meyer-Culbert.

A pretty but quiet wedding was solemnized at the home of Mrs. Gaspar Howard, Lucan, on Wednesday, Oct. 20th, at high noon, when her sister, Miss Bertha Culbert, daughter of Jos. Culbert, 12th line, Plympton, was united in holy bonds of matrimony to Edmund Meyer, of London. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Wm. Lowe of Lucan. The bride was prettily attired in white satin and wore a tulle veil with a wreath of orange blossoms and carried a bouquet of carnations. Miss Olivia Meyes, sister of the bridegroom, was bridesmaid, while Chester Culbert, brother of the bride, acted as groomsmen. The young couple left on the 3.45 train for Toronto and Hamilton. The bride travelled in a tailored suit of navy blue broadcloth with hat to match. On their return the young couple will reside in London.

Duncan K. McRae, South Ekfrid, has bought the 100 acres adjoining Glenoe belonging to the late Donald McRae estate and used for pasture for many years.

Robert Clark, of Walkers, plowed 28 acres in twelve days—three acres of that being done in one day and eight acres more in three days. The work was all done with one team and a single plow.

The Windsor Fair had a deficit of nearly $3,000, but the directors are by no means discouraged, and have each assumed an individual share of the deficit, as provided by law. It will amount to about $300 apiece.

At the Methodist parsonage, Florence, on Monday night, Oct. 23rd, 1911, by Rev. A. D. Whaley, Miss Jennie Moorehouse was married to Mr. Alfred Mayse, both of Florence. The young couple left on Wednesday for England.

Nathaniel Boyd, of Quill Lake, Sask., died very suddenly Saturday morning while on a visit at the home of his sister, Mrs. John Wichman, Forest. Mr. Boyd only arrived home a couple of days ago accompanied by his wife, and intended spending some time. Saturday morning when he got up he complained of not feeling well, and went to sit down in a rocking chair by the fire. Those in the room heard him gasp suddenly, and before they could reach him he had fallen over dead. His wife, who had gone out to visit some of her relatives in the country was sent for hurriedly. Mr. Boyd was 55 years old, and was born in Bonanquet. He went west some time ago. Besides his wife and sister, he is survived by a brother in Florida.

RUPTURE

J. V. EGAN, Specialist of Toronto

A WORD OF CAUTION.

Delay is the common error of the ruptured. You may have been ruptured some time and no change noticeable. But no rupture stands still. Even if not getting larger the bowel is growing fast to the inside and any day your ordinary truss is liable to slip while lifting or coughing and more of the bowel escapes. In such a case strangulated hernia may result in death. People who feel like a new being; your nerves recover their normal tone, your rundown condition replaced by vigorous health. Act now and remove the daily danger of death which, like a thunderbolt, hangs over every ruptured person. No pain, no waiting, no fact what a cure means to you—viz., immediate security, comfort and a perfect physical condition. This is all yours to-day for the asking. Out-of-town patients consult me and return home same day.

LADIES Afflicted with rupture, displacement, weakness, lame back, stooped shoulders, corpulency can be permanently relieved by my latest invention, viz., "The Corsette," which gives elegance and shapeliness to the figure and overcomes the direct causes of women's troubles.

VARICOCELE Men of all ages suffer from this affliction in some way. No matter how serious, time affixed, or failure experienced trying to be cured by medicine, free trials or electric belts, my Biotone method will cure. No pain, no waiting, no fact what a cure means to you—viz., immediate security, comfort and a perfect physical condition. This is all yours to-day for the asking. Out-of-town patients consult me and return home same day.

SICKLY BABIES CRY HEALTHY BABIES SMILE

Baby's cry indicates distress—his smile health and contentment. The mother may be sure there never was a baby who cried for the fun of it. Baby's disposition is naturally a happy one and it is only distress such as may be brought on by a disordered condition of the stomach or bowels that can change this. So, mothers, to keep your baby happy you must keep him well—Baby's Own Tablets will do this. Concerning them Mrs. Chas. Potvin, Caussapacia, N.S., writes: "Baby's Own Tablets have proved an excellent remedy for my baby. I had been using syrups, but they failed to help him and he cried constantly. The Tablets cured him and now he is a fat, healthy child." The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

NAPIER.

The Busy Bee Mission Band held its November meeting at the Manse Saturday afternoon.

Miss L. Kadey, of Watford, who has successfully taught in the village school for the past two years, has been re-engaged for 1912 by the Public School Board at a salary of $575.

December 22nd is the date of the St. Andrew's S.S. Xmas tree. The committee in charge are doing everything possible to have this year's entertainment maintain its usual standard of excellence.

Our quaint village presented a most picturesque appearance Friday morning last under its white mantle of snow, which, together with the recent rains, has left the roads in a very bad condition.

The Napier Branch of the Woman's Institute held an entertainment in the town hall Friday evening, Nov. 3rd. Rev. J. Ure Stewart occupied the chair. Excellent music was furnished by the Napier orchestra. Messrs. Ted Wright and Hugh Jay, comedians of Strathroy, were the entertainers for the evening. Vocal selections were given by Mrs. P. McGregor, Brooke, Woods Bros., of Watford, and Ella McMahon, Kerwood. An address was given by Mr. W. Sutherland, of Toronto, and a reading by Mrs. Woods. Refreshments were served at the close.

Big Fire in London.

London, Nov. 3.—The most destructive fire in London in a quarter of a century completely destroyed six of the largest business houses this morning.

A late estimate places the loss at $750,000, with insurance of $600,000. Approximately 600 people are thrown out of work.

The fire broke out at 3.57 and was first noticed by Sergeant Macdonald and P. C. Fowler.

At 6 o'clock all the six places were burned out: Pardon Hardware Co., J. H. Chapman & Co., Kingsmills, Brewsters, Roome, Corbett & Co. and Mara's. Shortly after that time the firemen got control of the blaze. That the fire was not more far-reaching in its destination is due altogether to the splendid efforts of the firemen and the great pressure furnished by the new water system.

Dr. W. H. Woods Candidate of West Middlesex Conservatives.

West Middlesex Conservatives in convention at Mount Brydges Thursday unanimously nominated Dr. W. H. Woods, of Mount Brydges, as their candidate for the Provincial Legislature. Several names had been announced in connection with the nomination, but when it became known that Dr. Woods, who has served for some time as secretary of the local Conservative Association was willing to take the leadership, the other possibilities withdrew, making the choice unanimous. The nomination was received with enthusiasm by the meeting of upwards of 150 delegates, and it is felt that he will be in a position to put up a stiff fight.

Dr. Woods, in a short speech, thanked his constituents for the honor done him, and asked for ten days in which to consider the situation before finally accepting the nomination of the party in the western riding. His ultimate acceptance is, however, practically assured.

Dr. Woods is an old Warwick boy.

SHOOTING PAINS IN SIDE, ARMS, BACK

Prove the Presence of Rheumatic Virus, Which Is Cured Quickest by Nerviline—Rub It In.

Pains in the muscles, in the sides, the back, the neck, or the chest—they always carry with them great discomfort. If the inflammation is severe the pain will be intense. If allowed to continue they are dangerous. Nothing so quickly cures local inflammation and drives away pain as Nerviline. Nerviline does this because it penetrates so deeply. Nerviline is not only powerful, but soothing. By relieving congestion it cures pain. It does this always. It cannot fail because it is a true antidote for pain. You can scarcely find anybody that will not tell you wonderful things about the pain-curing power of Nerviline. Remember, that there is not an ache or pain that Nerviline will not cure immediately. Nerviline is an anchor of health in every household. Refuse anything that may be offered you instead of Nerviline, which is guaranteed for rheumatism, neuralgia, sciatica, lumbago, and all muscular aches and pains.

NERVILINE CURES ALL PAIN

LIQUID PORES.

An Entertaining Experiment With Alcohol and Water.

It is not easy to imagine liquids as having pores, though this seems to be the case as shown by certain familiar experiments. When a certain amount of powdered sugar is slowly poured into warm water, the water will dissolve the sugar and appear to absorb it without increasing its volume. Similarly, when alcohol is poured into water the resulting volume is less than the sum of the two volumes.

For instance, if fifty parts of water and fifty parts of alcohol be mixed together they will make only ninety-four parts. Apparently one of the liquids has entered into the "pores" of the other. This experiment, as commonly performed in laboratories, consists in putting measured quantities of the two liquids together, but the effect would be far more striking were it possible for students to see one of the liquids actually "soaking" into the other. This can be done in the following way:

Take two glasses, one filled to the brim with water and the other with alcohol. In order to show the effect to better advantage, color the alcohol with red ink. The glasses should not be over full—that is, the surface of the liquid should not bulge above the rim of the glass. When everything is ready, place a sheet of paper over the glass full of alcohol, and with a hand on the paper to keep it down on the rim of the glass invert the tumbler, and the liquid will remain in the glass, owing to the air pressure on the paper. Now place the inverted tumbler over the glass full of water and carefully draw out the paper. This can be done without spilling a drop of alcohol, and yet as soon as the paper is removed the alcohol will commence to drop. Owing to the fact that it is colored it is possible to see the alcohol actually "soaking" into the water, while tiny air bubbles that were formerly contained in the "pores" of the water rise slowly to the top of the tumbler. This will continue for some little time until a considerable air space forms in the top of the tumbler.

NO APPETITE? THIS REMEDY WILL RESTORE IT.

If you have no appetite for meals, can't rest and are annoyed with too frequent urination and a burning, scalding pain in making passages.

If at night you retire, hoping for sleep that either does not come, or is troubled and fitful, you have kidney trouble and need Booth's Kidney Pills, the guaranteed remedy for all kidney and bladder trouble. A few doses of Booth's Kidney Pills will wake up the sluggish kidneys and regulate the urine. Continued treatment will cure and heal the weakened kidneys and restore the appetite in the natural way. ASLEEP AT HIS DESK.

Lincoln Was Worn Out, but Hadn't Forgotten His Caller.

One day a very energetic lady called on me to take her to the president and aid her to get a private soldier pardoned who had been sentenced to death for desertion and was to be shot the very next morning. It was late in the afternoon when we got there, and the cabinet was still in session. I sent my name in to Mr. Lincoln, and he came out, evidently in profound thought and full of some great subject. I stated the object of our call and, leaving the lady in one of the antechambers, returned to the senate, which had not yet adjourned.

The case made a deep impression on me, but I forgot it in the excitement of the debate and the work of my office until perhaps near 10 o'clock that night, when my female friend came rushing into the room, radiant with delight, the pardon in her hand.

"I have been up there ever since," she said. "The cabinet adjourned, and I sat waiting for the president to come out and tell me the fate of my poor soldier, whose case I placed in his hands after you left. But I waited in vain—there was no Mr. Lincoln. So I thought I would go up to the door of his cabinet room and knock. I did so, and as there was no answer I opened it and passed in, and there was the worn president asleep with his head on the table resting on his arms and my boy's pardon signed by his side. I quietly waked him, blessed him for his good deed and came here to tell you the glorious news."—John W. Forney in "Anecdotes of Public Men."

Zam-Buk is so Very Useful.

Read How Beneficial It Proved in This Case.

Mrs. H. Sawyer, of Keene, Ont., writes:—"My husband is engaged on a farm, and one day, while chopping wood, the top of the axe broke and fell upon his foot, cutting a nasty gash. The wound was so bad that we first thought we would have to get a doctor, but we finally decided to drive the cut with Zam-Buk.

"Well, the Zam-Buk treatment proved a great success. It not only eased the pain, but it prevented any inflammation; and right from first applying Zam-Buk, the cut began to heal. It is now completely healed, and my husband says he will never be without a box of Zam-Buk in the house, for we are sure it saved us a great deal of expense."

Over and over again Zam-Buk has proved to be the worker's best remedy. As soon as applied to a cut, a burn, a scald, or any skin injury, it relieves the pain and it sets up healing. It also prevents blood-poisoning or inflammation. It is a sure cure, too, for eczema, piles, ulcers, old wounds, bad leg, ringworm, scap sores, festering, running sores, eruptions, cold sores, chapped hands, etc. Its absolute purity, also, makes it the ideal balm for babies.

Zam-Buk Soap should be used along with the balm for washing all sore places. This soap will be found excellent for baby's bath, even where the balm is not being used. All druggists and stores sell Zam-Buk at 50c. box, and Zam-Buk Soap at 25c. tablet, or post free from Zam-Buk Co., Toronto, upon receipt of price. Refuse harmful substitutes.

Two young men, Russell Stewart and George Stewart, East Williams, went out about two o'clock one morning last week hunting coons. George climbed into a maple tree after a coon but could not dislodge it and came down to within twenty-five or thirty feet of the ground to catch the end of a rope his companion was throwing to him which had a saw attached to the end with which he intended to saw off the limb. He grasped a small limb and leaned over to catch the rope when unfortunately the limb broke and he was thrown to the ground. Fortunately for George the dog was immediately below and made a soft spot for him to fall on. He landed fair and square on the dog and killed it instantly and was himself rendered unconscious. His companion took him home where he remained in a semi-conscious state until day-break. A doctor was summoned and found that no bones were broken but that he was so badly shaken up he will have to remain in bed for a week.

What might have proven a serious accident occurred in Euphemia on Wednesday. While Dr. Dunwoodie, James Smith and Mr. Clark were picking apples, the doctor fell ten feet, being badly shaken up, but fortunately no bones were broken.

An Unwelcome Visitor

He Was an American Trespasser on the Czar's Premises

By EDGAR E. THOMPSON

Copyright by American Press Association, 1911.

When I was a young man I traveled a great deal and usually instead of riding about the places I visited I walked. Among other countries, I sojourned in the Crimea, the scene of a great war that occurred about the middle of the last century and where is Livadia, the favorite summer residence of the czar of Russia. I was out on a tramp the day after my arrival and, coming to a narrow valley with cliffs on either side, it struck me that from the summit of the one on the right I would get a fine view.

The ascent would have staggered any one but a good climber. I, however, had ascended a number of the Swiss mountains and this one did not faze me a bit. The side of the cliff was mostly covered with timber, and since it was the summer season the leaves were out; therefore I could not lay out a route from below. I plunged into a thicket and fought my way through underbrush till I emerged on a rock. From there I took my bearings, then made my way through more brush to a ravine, by which I attained the summit.

Turning to enjoy the view, I saw a soldier below me leaning on his musket. To the right and the left were other soldiers strung along at open points from which they could see about them. I wondered what they were guarding and why they had not seen me, for had any one of them caught a glimpse of me he would surely have turned me back. I began to feel uncomfortable lest I might be on forbidden ground.

However I was in for it and concluded that I would rather make my way back to my hotel by going on than risk another passage of that line of soldiers. On passing over the edge of the cliff the country about me assumed a very cultivated appearance, and I came to a smooth carriage drive.

"WHAT IS IT YOU WISH TO KNOW?" Then it occurred to me that I was either in a park or the place of some nabob.

There was the sound of horses' feet on the driveway, and presently at a point where it turned about a clump of trees there emerged a young lady on horseback, followed by a groom. Desiring to know where I was, as she drew near me, I raised my hat and tried to ask the question in the Russian language. My knowledge of it being limited, I supplied what Russian words I needed and didn't know by

SICKLY CHILD
Made Well By Vinol—Letters from a Grateful Mother

New Haven, Conn.—"My little girl, ever since her birth, was frail and sickly and nothing seemed to do her any good until we tried your cod liver and iron tonic, Vinol. As soon as she commenced to take it, I noticed an improvement in her health and appearance. She has now taken three bottles of Vinol, and from the good it has done her I can say it will do all you claim for it in building up and strengthening frail and delicate children." (Name furnished on request.)

Another mother of Chicago, Ill., writes: "I can not say too much in praise of Vinol for delicate, ailing children."

We ask every mother of a frail, sickly or ailing child in this vicinity to try Vinol on our agreement to return their money if it does not do all we claim.

J. W. McLAREN, WATFORD.

English ones. The lady, who had reined in her horse, smiled and said: "What is it you wish to know?" "I fear," I replied, "that I am an intruder on some private grounds. I have just made the ascent of the cliff."

"I paused. The lady's face was taking on a horrified expression. "Do you mean to say that you came up that way, past the guard?" she asked.

"I did. I saw no guard till I reached the summit, and I fancy no guard saw me."

"Heavens! You are in the grounds of the emperor. There is Livadia." It was my turn to be astonished—not only astonished, but terrified. I know very well how carefully the czar is guarded from those who seek his life; yet here was I in the imperial enclosure. As soon as it was known that I had no right to be there I would most likely be taken for a would-be assassin. If I were not cut down by some over zealous defender of his majesty's sacred person, I would be arrested, and how could I prove, that I was not the agent of a revolutionary circle? I would be hurried away to disappear from the world.

"All this appeared in the lady's face as well as in my own mind. "You are English, I perceive," I said. "I am attached to the suit of the czar."

"Being familiar with the conditions here, possibly you may advise me."

Few realize the power of the human countenance. Without a word it may tell a story—a story of mirth, of danger or of tragedy. This is what the face of the young lady told me in a few moments:

"If he gives himself up and tells the truth as would be the first policy in any other country he will run a terrible risk. If he tries to leave the inclosure without permission the consequences will be as bad or worse. If he is known to be here without permission, and I am seen talking with him the consequences will be as frightful to me as to him. Shall I ride on and leave him to whatever fate may have in store for him or try to help him?"

cease of such a charge. God grant that you may pass safely through."

"That you may not be compromised," I added, and, taking her hand, I pressed my lips upon it fervently.

My faculties were sharpened far more by the danger for her than the consequences to me. I proceeded warily, and it almost seemed to me that I could scent my own footsteps on my upward course so keen was I to proceed by the same route. Luck favored me, and I emerged upon the road within a few yards of the point where I had entered the thicket.

I looked up and there, standing where I had left her, was the girl who had been the means of extricating me from my dangerous dilemma. I stood out in an open space where she could easily see me and, taking off my hat, waved it to her. The moment I did so I saw her place both hands over her heart, and I knew the emotion she felt. She did not return my greeting, but turned and, walking up over the top of the cliff, disappeared from my view. I turned and went back to my hotel, where I ordered a stimulant, which I never before or since so greatly needed.

I would have been eager to learn something about the girl who had taken a frightful risk for a stranger and whom in consequence I regarded as a saint, had it not been for the fact that in the first place I would not be able to do so, and in the second she was probably of noble birth or she would not have been of the entourage of the empress, and her social status would lift her so far above an untitled American that he would better not give way to personal interest in her. So I resolved to be content with worshipping her memory, and this I did devoutly.

Three years from the summer of my meeting her I was in London, about to return to America. When strolling on the path beside Rotten row I saw driving with an elderly lady and an elderly gentleman, the latter wearing canonicals, the lady who had befriended me in my great need. The carriage was soon lost in the multitude of other vehicles, and I was saved from yielding to an impulse to stop it and seize the opportunity to thank my preserver. It seemed hard that she was in London, and it would now be perfectly safe for me to know her and yet be kept apart from her. I could not bring myself to leave England, at least not at once, and canceled my passage ticket on the liner.

My resolution to let this woman alone from this time gradually weakened. I knew some persons of social importance in London whom I asked to discover what English girl answering my preserver's description was with the czarina during the summer of my adventure. This was not a difficult thing to do, and I learned through them that the lady was Miss Gladys Stackpole, the daughter of a simple clergyman of the Church of England. Her position at Livadia was that of instructor to the imperial children. This information sent a thrill of hope through me. I had supposed she was at least a countess and would not have been surprised to find her a duchess. That she was not even an "honorable" was a mystery to me. But on inquiry I learned that it was the woman and her ability that had been required and not rank.

I finally succeeded in getting a mutual friend to introduce me to Miss Stackpole, simply giving her my name without referring to our previous meeting. It was arranged that I should go to call upon her for afternoon tea. Our go-between told me that, notwithstanding the lady had numerous requests for introductions from persons she had never seen in this case, she manifested some curiosity.

My coming was a pleasant surprise to her, inasmuch she had often told in England the story of my danger and the risk she ran in the matter, but she had never expected to meet me again. I did not return to the United States for six months. Miss Stackpole kept me. Her connections were very aristocratic, but we American men are as desirable to Englishwomen for our gold as Englishmen are to our girls for their titles. Besides, Miss Stackpole had an interest in the man she had saved possibly from great trouble. At any rate, I brought her back with me.

Toronto Markets.

Toronto, Nov. 7.—The sudden revival of activity on the part of the live stock dealers which characterized yesterday's market continued to-day in spite of a much heavier run. The bulk of the shipments, however, were composed of common and medium grades of cattle, which made the few loads of choice butcher cattle the object of much greater competition. The result was that to-day's top price for butcher cattle went 25c higher than yesterday, when the best cattle were bought for export purposed. One dealer paid $6.25 for some extra choice butcher cattle and the best of the cattle on the market sold at about $5.90 to $6.20. Medium butcher cattle, which were in much greater demand, sold all the way from $5 to $5.75, while common cattle met with a much surer sale than at any time last week at good steady prices. Choice fat cows and heavy bulls both touched a price that has not been reached for weeks, $5.50. Common and medium sold steadily on a steady market from $2.50 to $4.50. Bulls sold from $3 to $5.50. Feeders were just about steady and some good prices were paid for nice stockers. Lambs were weak and sheep were about steady at $5 $5.35 and $3 to

NEURALGIA CURED

This Painful Trouble is Due to Poverty of the Blood.

Neuralgia is one of the most painful maladies that afflicts humanity. The trouble is usually seated in the face and head, following the course of some nerve, but it attacks other parts of the system as well. It is characterized by acute pains, sometimes steady, at others spasmodic and darting, headaches and a feeling as though the forehead was a band of iron. Medical authorities agree that neuralgia is a cry of the nerves for better food, and that if the blood is purified and enriched the trouble will disappear. This is the reason why Dr. Williams' Pink Pills cure even the most severe cases of neuralgia. They actually make new rich blood which feeds the tired starved nerves and thus cure the trouble, at the same time leaving the sufferer in better health in every way than was formerly the case. In proof we give the case of Mr. G. Brooks, of Aurora, Ont., who says: "About two years ago, while working in Collingwood, I was attacked with neuralgia, which became so bad that I was frequently unable to go to work. The pain would start over my right eye and would then spread to the whole face and caused me the greatest agony. I was under the care of a good doctor, but his treatment did not do more than give me temporary relief, and I was therefore an almost constant sufferer. Acting on the advice of my wife I finally decided to give Dr. Williams' Pink Pills a trial, and I am profoundly thankful that I did so, as in the course of a few weeks I began to improve, and after a further use of the Pills the trouble disappeared and I have not since had any trace of it. I may also add that while taking the Pills my weight increased by nine pounds, which shows that the Pills are a body builder as well as a nerve restorer."

Sold by all medicine dealers or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.
