ACCORDING to a proclamation issued in the Ontario Gazette, last sunday was observed throughout the province as a day of humble prayer and intercession to Almighty God, "on behalf of the cause undertaken by our Empire and our allies and those who are offering their lives for it, and for a speedy and favorable peace that shall be founded on understanding and not hatred, to the end that peace may endure." An order in Council has been passed retaining a considerable portion of the monthly pay due the soldiers who have not assigned their pay to relatives m Canada, and who are now overseas, where there is no need for any immediate expenditure and practically no opportunity for the expenditure of their whole monthly pay. The men actually at the front receive only $6 per month in pay, while officers are restricted to a maximum of $75 per month. The belauce is placed to their credit, and when they secure leave an amount up to $100 of accumulated pay is allowed them if they so desire. Under the new arrangement it is expected that nearly half of the regular pay will be held back until the final settlement at the end of the war, thus enforcing a sort of compulsory saving on the troops, which is both in their interest and in the interest of their families

THE roll of honor in another column may appear common place in these days ot war, but in the days to come it will look of war, but in the days to come it will look different. When the boys come back again, after they have done their bit to keep the flag of the crosses and of liberty flying, they will teel better satisfied with themselqes than even now. At least it is so today with the boys of yesterday who were "at the front." War's horrors I do not wish to discount a bit. But at the same time, the present horror will awak en Canadians from their dreams. Canada has been a land of leisure and luxury for a hundred years, save for two small re-bellions—men and women have come and gone and no armed force has said them nay. It is the only country in the world that these words can be written of. No man who wanted to work was ever disturbed in the peaceful possessions of his earnings by an armed foe. Want is un-known, that is, want as it is known in the known, that is, want as it is known in the other hemisphere. Notwithstanding all these blessings, the country has been a hard one to govern. The thrift that moulds character as no other known force has nearly lost itself in the past generation. The real responsibilities of citizenship are little talked of. War has changed it all. When the boys, whose names are now written on the rolls of honor, return from the trenders what then? Can turn from the trenches, what then? Canada will be a real nation, and our boys will have done their part to make it so. May the God of Battles spare the boys from Lambton.

NOTE AND COMMENT Britons flocked in millions to the colors and showed the world that freemen are able and willing to defend their country without compulsion. Canadian freemen, you have as much at stake. Show up.

Springfield Republican -- The Germans fear above all things the cool, dogged British perseverance, according to a Scandanavian man of letters, who has just been visiting Germany. Few people outside of Germany probably have doubted that just this perseverance is one of the chief assets of the Allies.

Dr. Francis L. Patton, of Princetown Seminary was recently interviewed on the war and is quoted as saying; "The war is a relapse into paganism, and I am saying this, not as a neutral, for I am out and out, through and though, rooted and tinue the honeymoon "till death us rock-ribbed on the side of the Allies. right side may win, but that the Allies may win. I am not leaving any doubt about it."

One day there was hoisted from a German trench a sign reading,—"The British are fools." This was withdrawn and up was shoved the sign "The French are fools." Next one reading; "We are fools," and finally this one: "Let us all go home." It took the German fifteen months to reach the point where they would hoist signals of this kind. Even then they overlooked the real point. They must do the home-going. The French to whom they signalled are Five financiers of world-wide fame, according to the Paris correspondent of the Sunday Times, were discussing the duration of the war in a Paris club. One declared it would end in March next. Three of the others concurred in this view. The fourth, described as "head of the biggest banking concern in the world, and whose name commences with R," demurred. "If you really want my firm belief as regards Germany," he said, "she will be beaten by Febru-' This Rothschild prophecy will be borne in mind.

An example that is likely to be followed in many other places has been set by the city councils in Kingston and St. Catharines, both of which have decided to raise the statute labor or poll tax, for which the young men are liable, to $5.00 per head if the legislature approves. This tax is paid by those who are not on the rolls for any other taxes, and it is not considered desirable that they shall miss the opportunity of contributing their bit when so much of the public money is being devoted to patriotic purposes. The feeling is that the amount should be larger, even $10 per head per annum. A good many of them could very properly enlist, and they will not do military duty except under conscription. They can spend less on diversions and more on war, and the exactions of the Kingston council are calculated to add considerably to the fund .- Municipal World.

Be Straight

If Charles Darwin had only looked in the right direction he might have found the missing link. There are men in business who trail their manhood in the dust and go on all fours to make a dollar. These are the moral chimpanzees, who chatter about it being impossible to be suc-cessful in business and be honest, To cover their own bideous deformities, they spread broadcast the slander upon those who are as far their superiors morally as Adam towered physically, morally and spiritually above the swinging apes of Eden. Sooner or later the scoundrel who utters sentiments like this will be in the place where he belongs—the cage. This is the kind of doctrine with which the Father of Lies sought to overthrow old Job, and the result was the imperishable record of a man who would die rather than touch the slime of the pit. The grandest sight in the physical universe is a man, but the grandest sight in the physical or moral univetse is a man whose eves "look right on" and whose eyelids "look

Not long ago a Chicago paper conducted a contest for the best 50word answer to the question, "What is marriage to-day?" The prize award was made for the following:

Marriage to-day, is a partnership by comrades for their mutual comfort and happiness. It is an alliance in which each member gives his best, physically, socially and economically. The spirit of comradeship which pervades all its phrases, makes marriage to-day ideal as compared with matrimony a century ago.

Another answer that won honorable mention was given thus: Marriage to-day, as of yore, is an opportunity to live in the clouds for a time, then return to earth and condo part," and blessed are those who When I pray I do not pray that the go at or about the same time, as many do and consequently know no of war but the end's not yet in sight, and the challenge comes to every man to either pay or fight. It's not the time to hum and haw, or air your hobby whims—it's up to you to see just now that the British Tommy wins. It's not the time to count on gain, or to fatten up your purse, while your brothers fight to rid the world from a war-mad ruler's curse. The man who stays at home just now has got to foot the bill, and it's just as well to do the thing with a cheery British will. The man who leaves his home, his kin, who leaves behind his all, to put the khaki color on and heed his country's call-he's made a sacrifice that's real, and the grouch or groan. It's not a day to count the cost or what the tax will be when the empire's fate hangs on the beam in this fight for liberty. When strong men march away to warn our fathers and our sons, to free a blighted Belgium from the curse wrought by the Huns-we've got to play the part of men-it's not the time to shake-we've got the blood of Wellington, of Nelson and of Drake. The call's gone forth to every man alike to small and great if you can't go with the fishermen, you'll have to cut the bait.

A new electric filter for household use consumes current only as water is being drawn through it. Why Is it?

Why is it, it is often asked, that people in small towns can find no better business than prying into other people's affairs, and then exaggerating the truth in regard to the same people who pretend to be Christians, who attend church regularly, who in the sight of their neighbors are generous and charitable, yet who, without the slightest provocation, pick up some little mistake, or more often, at nothing, will so scandalize one as to ruin his or her reputation for life. While they would not steal from them worldly goods, yet they rob him or her of what is more precious than gold-a good reputation. Why can't people practise the christianity that they preach and "do unto others as you would have them do unto you?'

Women Replacing Men

Women in England are being systematically prepared to take the place 'pinion 'bout married life? T'ink it tachment of St. John Ambulance Association, and of the Red Cross, is ing prepared to replace men clerks and cooks, etc., in military hospital. The positions of women quartermasters are being anticipated for the control of supply of the institutions, and for the more economic husbanding of stores.

For this purpose the Government have instituted a course of training. Twice a week lectures are given on the administration and etiquette of a military hospital, on quartermaster's office, and duties, on building and equipment, the commissariat and kitchen, clothing, linen and general stores. Women, say English periodicals, must also begin to relieve warehouse men, clerks, porters and all men connected with the commerce and transport of the military organizations. It is estimated that this would release about 150,000 men for the

A Sure Thing

What some people say:-"Those boys think they are very smart going to war, but they are going into a slaughter

Sure thing! Don't you suppose they know it, and if they didn't go, the slaughter house would be right here in Watford and the boys would be forced to stand aside and see their mothers and sisters and the little children of our town,

Billy Atwood's Degree

It Was at Least Honorably Earned

By DWIGHT NORWOOD By DWIGHT AND A SERVICE STATE AND A SERVICE ST

"Billy," said John Atwood to his son. "I have something of great importance to say to you before your departure for college. You are going to receive what I have always regretted not having received myself-a university education It depends upon you whether you take advantage of this great benefit I am going to give you or throw it away If I were in your place I would study hard in order that I might take an influential stand in the world. I would eschew everything but my books, try to take all the prizes

"Father," the boy broke in, "I'm going to college to please you. I'd rather go into a machine shop and amuse myself with tools than worry over books. I never could learn anything by studying hard to do it; I must do And when I've done it once I can do it again and the second time better than the first and go on improving on what I have done. However, I doubt college education will hurt me, and if I can get through honorably I'll do so, but I won't go through by doing what I hear so many do-passing examinations by illegitimate means."

"You needn't resort to illegitimate means if you'll give your time and attention to your studies.'

"Well, goodby, father. I'll do the best I can.'

William Atwood while a freshman strove to please his father by attending to his studies. But when he came to the examinations at the end of the first year he ran up against certain subjects upon which he must be examined that he had no taste for and upon which he was as stupid as any dunce There was small chance of his passing an examination in any of them. He had been picked out for one of the mainstays of the college in its athletic contests, and the college did not wish to lose him. Some of the best students in his class offered surreptitiously to help him with his examination papers, but since he was obliged to sign a statement that he had not received such help he declined the offer. They argued that receiving such help was a common practice among the students, but they did not move Billy. However, he was such a favorite with the professors that those passing on his examination papers gave him the benefit of sundry doubts and cleared him by a small fraction.

When the spring opened Billy was called upon for twirler of the university baseball team and won largely by his own efforts the championship for his college for that season. Again the faculty treated his examination papers elastically and scraped him through the elastically and scraped him through the final examination for the year.

Billy was as successful at football as at twirling. He was a husky fellow and as spry as husky. When in November the game between his college and its principal rival was played a run he made-celebrated at the time—won the championship for his team, and he was carried off the field with the usual eclat. Again he was tided over his exams by the professors, for he resolutely refused to be helped by his classmates.

After this it became an axiom-a self evident truth—among both faculty and students that Billy Atwood must, by hook or by crook, be boosted through college. It didn't make any difference to Billy how it was done provided he was not called upon to sign a false statement. The faculty were interested in keeping a man who by winning champion athletic games was attracting attention to the college, and the students were interested in the glory attending the winning of the games.

And so it was that in one way or another Billy, like a waterlogged scow in a shallow stream, replete with obstructions, was floated on till he approached the final examinations for his degree. His father went on to see him graduate, arriving the day after the exams had been finished. Crossing the campus, he met the president, who the moment he saw him rushed forward, seized his hand and exclaimed:

"We've got him through!"
"Who?"

"Your son. The examiners in metaphysics declared they couldn't possibly pass him on that subject. I called for the papers, found an ambiguous answer to a question, interpreted it favorably and made the mark three hundredths above the minimum. We're all delighted."

Mr. Atwood tried to look pleased, but failed. He left the president much disappointed that Billy had barely scraped through college. He inquired of a student he met who was the vale-family at heart? Don't you want to get for your family the very best? For internal ailments—the best medicine? For sores and skin diseases—the best ointment? If so, get Zam-Buk. Mothers who have used Zam-Buk say there is nothing to equal its soothing, healing power in cases of skin diseases and injuries, and nothing so suitable for sensitive skins.

This is because Zam-Buk is composed entirely of medicinal herbal essences and extracts, and is free from the poisonous coloring matter and harsh minerals found in ordinary ointments.

dictorian of the graduating class and was surprised to receive for answer "Bill Atwood." Upon expressing his astonishment the young man added, "Oh, I was thinking of the man who won the game for us the other day." "Great heavens!" muttered Bill's father. "Can it be that in college the edictorian went to the train alone. Billy Atwood had inherited his strength from his mother's family, his father being rather a delicate man and, at the time his son was graduated with a diploma which should have read in-stead of "bachelor of arts" "bachelor of athletics," was in poor health. He nursed his disappointment at his son's poor intellectual showing in secret, but did not reproach him. One thing in Billy's college career he was proud ofthe boy had not achieved his diploma by dishonorable means. And this matter set the father to thinking. After all, was it wise to place a temptation before mere boys such as in all his own career had never been imposed upon himself? He thought much on this matter, but did not arrive at any solution of the problem.

John Atwood, soon after Billy's return from the university, found it nec-essary to close out his business and seek a salaried position. He attributed his ill success to his want of education and, finally, to having spent so much money on putting his son through college. Being well liked, it was suggested to him by friends that if he would run for a lucrative office they would give him their support. He consented and was nominated by the best men in the town on an independent ticket to run against a man supported by as corrupt a gang of scoundrels as ever remained out of jail. From the moment of his nomination the opposition managers decided that if he could not be defeated by fair means he must be by foul. Certain of Atwood's supporters were let into this decision. Some of them were disposed to expect a failure.

Billy Atwood at a conference with the manager of a daily newspaper agreed that if given the use of its columns during the campaign he would not only show up the methods of the opposition, but would take the responsibility for doing so upon his own shoulders. He was assigned a desk in a room by himself, which was used for a reception room by the editor, no one being able to get at that functionary without passing through Billy's sanctum. Here he wrote sundry articles, accusing his father's opponent of such rascally proceedings that the town was shocked.

The managers of the attacked candidate held a meeting, at which ways and means for stopping the accusations were discussed. Since they were true

Jim Don-ally, one of the most powerful of the henchmen, was selected to go to the editor of the paper publishing the charges and demand a retraction. Jim chose 11 o'clock in the morning for the purpose and found Billy in his sanctum writing the second article of the campaign. He had decorated the room with trophies he had taken during his college course. There were five champion bats of rare wood and exquisite finish, several silver cups, a wire mask. and on each corner of his desk was a "Well, you've got to publish a retraction tomorrow morning or I'll take one out of your hide."

"You get out of here."

Billy rose, and each stood looking the other over and sizing up his chances of victory, for it was evident that the matter between them would be settled by force. Billy took mental account of his munitions, consisting of sporting prizes, his enemy showing his own resources by pushing back his coat and fumbling at his hip. But since his enemy made no motion to use any weapon except such as nature had provided him Donally did not go into his pocket. It is a pretty low grade of politics where politicians dare to use firearms.

"You have no right here, and I give you warning that if you don't vacate the place I'll throw you downstairs."
"I'll vacate the place when I have had satisfaction," said Mr. Donally way and very near the landing. Billy sprang for the man and, shoving him through the open door, sent him down the stairway. Donally returned, holding a revolver. It was knocked out of his hand by one of the baseballs that had decorated Billy's desk. Then Billy jumped for him and sent him downstairs again. A second time the henchman returned with another revolver in the other hand, which Billy eliminated with a prize bat and for the third time tackled his opponent, This time Donally made a better fight, grappling Billy, and the two struggled toward the landing. There Billy carried his man over, and both went down the stairs. But Billy's football practice enabled him to keep on top, and when they reached the bottom Donally's senses had been knocked out of him.

This ended the fight. The next morning an account of it appeared in all the papers. The opposition concluded to remain dormant till the reform movement had been forgotten, and the election was a landslide for John Atwood. "Billy," he said to his son when the triumph was announced, "you needn't mind about not being a scholar. You're good enough for me as you are My salary will be $6,000. You can have half of it with which to enter upon any career you like."

SAVED HIMSELF, UNAWARE. Showing How the Eye Sees More Than One Thinks It Does.

Writing on psychological subjects in the Ladies' Home Journal, H. Addington Bruce says: "From Dr. A. H. of Pennsylvania, one of our well known psychologists, I have received this impressive piece of testimony to the power of the eye to see more than one consciously apprehends:

"Three summers ago, when I was on a visit to my old home town, I took a short cut across familiar fields where a fair growth of weeds covered the ground. I was going along at a rapid gait, with my mind wholly occupied with matters other than my path, when suddenly, quite reflexly, my left foot, instead of going down on the spot where it should, jerked itself over to the left, and I went on fully ten steps before I realized that I had made the sharpest kind of an offset in my path. I wondered what made me do it, turned, retraced my steps and found an adder still coiled and ready to strike, exactly, as I judged, where my foot would have gone.'

"Dr. A. H., recognizing the correct explanation of his fortunate misstep,

"'During my boyhood summers I used to go barefooted much of the time. Through sad experiences with stubble fields, brier patches and stony paths I learned automatically to pick my way without giving thought to the matter. As a result, I find myself frequently in my walks avoiding obstacles which at the moment I do not consciously discern."

Ten Wars in Eighteen Years. The historian of the twentieth century, which was ushered in with the thunder of South African battlefields, will have to record eight wars in the first fifteen years of its span. These eight are the following: Boer war, Russo-Japanese war, Franco-Moroccan war, Italian-Turkish war, the two Balkan wars, the war in Mexico and the pending European war, greatest of all time. If we add the two wars with which the nineteenth century closed—the Greco-Turkish war of 1897 and the Spanish-American war of 1898-we have a record of ten wars in eighteen

The Dutch Army. Every Dutch citizen is liable to per sonal service in the army (or navy) from the age of nineteen to forty. Actual service in the ranks is determined by lot, but substitution is not permitted. The peace strength of the Netherlands army-that is, the permanent staffs of all the units of the first lineamounted in 1913 to 1,543 officers and 21,412 noncommissioned officers and men. The total strength of the field army is approximately 125,000 men, with 152 guns.

Girls Must Carry Books on Backs. The schoolgirl of Berlin must not carry her books in a hand bag, but in a knapsack on her back. The minister of education is responsible for this new rule. The rule is directed to teachers parents and the girls themselves. The minister declares that the habit of carrying books in hand bags is likely to lead to curvature of the spine and de rangement of internal organs.

A Curious Experience.

Lombroso, the famous Italian crimi-nologist, once had a curious experience. He was in a printing office corecting the proofs in his "Delinquent Man" with the chief reader when on reaching a page which dealt with a young man who, impelled by jealousy, had stabbed his fiancee he made r, surprising discovery. The proofreader was this man.

"Suddenly," Lombroso said in telling the story, "he threw himself at my feet, declaring that he would commit suicide if I published this story with his name. His face, before very gentle, was completely altered and almost terrifying, and I was really afraid that he would kill himself or me on the spot. I tore up the proofs and for several editions omitted his story."

Winter thunder is considered through out Europe to be of very ill omen, but April thunder is considered to be very beneficial. In Devonshire and other cider counties of England there is a saying that "when it thunders in April you must clean up the barrels"—in readiness, that is, for a plentiful crop of apples. The French consider April thunder to be indicative of a good yield from vineyards and cornfields

Toronto, Jan. 4.—With very light runs of all kinds of stock to-day there was slightly more life and snap to business to-day than was the case yesterday and prices, while steady, were certainly not any easier. The average quality of cattle offering was not so good as yesterday, choice butchers being scarce. There is a moderate inquiry for a few stockers and feeders at the easier prices now going in this class. Light sheep and lambs were strong and higher, several lots of lambs selling up to $11.25 and a few light butcher sheep at $8.

Hogs, with a light run, were stronger though it is said that prospects are for lower prices.

Receipts at the Union stockyards to-day were 1,135 cattle, 134 calves, 479 hogs and 279 sheep and lambs.

A pretty house wedding was solemnized at high noon, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Bryson, Warwick, when their only daughter Margaret Lavinia, was united in holy wedlock to Lewis James Shepherd of Strathroy. The ceremony was performed by Rev. W. Murton Shore, rector of St. Paul's church. The bride entered the parlor, leaning on the arm of her father, to the strains of Lohengrin's wedding march, which was played by Miss Irene Mathews of Strathroy, cousin of the bride. The bride looked very charming in a gown of cream silk embroidered net, over pink silk chiffon artistically designed with pearl and rose trimmings, she wore the original veil, and carried a shower boquet of roses and lily of the valley. Miss Alice Venning, cousin of the groom, acted as bridesmaid, and was attired in old rose brocaded silk trimmed with ecru lace and carried pink and white carnations. Little Iona Everett, cousin of the bride acted as flower girl and looked very charming in pale blue silk, carrying a basket of carnations and lily of the valley. Farm Seed Supplies

Field and garden seed supplies are practically assured for the 1916 planting. There is a scarcity in American grown crops including beans, onions, and to a lesser extent sweet corn. Amongst the imported stocks, swede turnips are rather short, also spinach and salsify and some varieties of carrots. Red Clover and Alfalfa are unusually short and show an advance in price from 30 to 75 per cent advance in price from 30 to 75 per cent, Other kinds that might be used as a clover substitute, as alsike, are higher in price than the supply would otherwise warrant. Well-established Canadian seed houses well-established Canadian seed houses with contracts made two or three years in advance will have no serious trouble this season in taking care of their regular trade. Seed merchants, who depend from year to year on the surplus stocks that may be offered, may have less assurance as to the character of their supplies.

John Mavity, son of Mr. and Mrs. J A. Mavity, Sarnia, has enlisted with the British Army Transport service. He ex-pects to leave for overseas service before immediate relatives of the bride and groom.

The bride was becomingly attired in pearl grey faille silk trimmed with shadow lace and pearls and carried a boute to f white roses.

A GUILTY CONSCIENCE

A Story of Parisian

By F. A. MITCHEL

Politics was running high in Paris. A candidate was speaking to an audience, inveighing against the demagegues who, he asserted, were corrupting the masses. "Money," he said, is flowing like water. There is a man in this audience who I know has received 100 francs for his vote. Just think of it-100 francs for the surrender of the invaluable privilege he enjoys under the republic of expressing his wish in national affairs!"

After the meeting the speaker, Victor Daroux, was sitting in a restaurant on the Boulevard des Italiens with a couple of friends, partaking of a supper. He was just raising a glass of wine to his lips when a man stepped up to him

"M. Daroux, I am the bearer of a message to you from my friend M. Charlier. He demands a retraction from you in tomorrow morning's journals of your accusation in your speech this evening that he has sold his vote. In case you refuse' Daroux, who was staring in wonder at the speaker, broke in-"Why does M. Charlier assume that referred to him in my remarks?" "Because you looked directly at him when you made the accusation.'

Daroux was deliberating what to do in the matter when a waiter approached and informed him that a gentleman in another part of the room desired to speak to him privately. Excusing himself, Daroux went to this newcomer. "M. Daroux," said the man, "I represent M. Arnoux. He demands an immediate retraction of your accusation made this evening that he has sold his vote for 100 francs."

Daroux was tempted to laugh, but the speaker was so serious that he refrained.

"Why does M. Arnoux assume that I referred to him in my remarks?" he asked.

"Because you were looking directly at him." Daroux was silent a few moments then said: "And if I refuse to retract?" "In that case M. Arnoux expects that you will give him the satisfaction due from one gentleman who has wrongfully accused another." "Let me have your address," said Daroux. "I will send an early reply." Returning to his table, Daroux received the same announcement from M. Charlier's friend of what was expected in case of a refusal to retract and called also for his address. man had scarcely gone when a third came and demanded a retraction for M. Blanc for the same offense and received the same answer as the others. "It seems," said Daroux to his friends, "that if a guilty conscience counts for anything there has been a good deal of vote selling." During the next half hour three more men demanded a retraction of M. Daroux for accusing them of selling their votes, and the accuser, after being informed that a refusal would be followed by a challenge, called for the party's address and promised to send an early reply. "It does not seem so remarkable," said Daroux after the last man had been disposed of, "that so many men have sold their votes, but that the price in each case should have been a hundred francs. I had heard before rising to speak that 10,000 francs had been distributed among certain influential voters, but I did not know that a hundred francs was the current price paid. I fancied that some one of the persons bribed might be in the meeting, and it occurred to me to fire an effective shot by making a pointed accusation. It seems that I have killed half a dozen birds with a single stone.' These words were spoken to friends who were with Daroux when the avalanche of demands for retraction fell upon him. One of the party suggest-ed that if the matter were properly handled sufficient capital might be made out of it to win the election. Daroux was running for the corps legislatif, but his opponent was so lavish with money that he had no hope of being elected. However, those gentlemen now gathered about him at the restaurant were shrewd politicians, and they set themselves to find a method of procedure by which the incident at me might be used to turn the scale in his favor. It was decided to stave off the matter till the day before the election, which was to take place in four days. The day after the demands for satis-faction were made no reply was sent The second day each one of the conscience stricken men received word that M. Daroux refused to retract. A reply to his refusal was returned by each one of the six men accused in the shape of a challenge to mortal combat.

Daroux chose six seconds to repre-sent him, and since, being the challenged party, he was entitled to choice of weapons, time and place of meeting he instructed each second in accepting the challenge to choose foils, to appoint the time at 10 o'clock on the morning before the election and the place the Place de la Concorde.

Every challenger was struck with amazement that so public a place should have been chosen for the meeting. "I cannot see," said M. Charlier,

"how he expects to make capital out of so great publicity. He has made an accusation which is thrown back in his teeth, and he must answer for it under the code. Surely there is no advantage in this." M. Arnoux was much puzzled at the choice of place of meeting, and M. Blanc-who, by the bye, had distributed the money used to buy votes-began to fear that some game was to be played. Nevertheless he did not see how he could do anything to prevent it.

At a quarter to 10 on the morning appointed for the fight M. Daroux, surrounded by his six seconds and a surgeon, appeared in the Place de la Concorde, near the base of the obelisk. Paris was quite alive at that hour, and many persons were passing and repass-Seeing the party at the foot of the obelisk, the seconds with foils under their arms, the surgeons with their boxes of instruments, persons stopped to learn what it all meant. Gradually a crowd collected, and the word was passed from one to another that there was to be a duel.

"Can you tell me," asked one of another, "who that distinguished looking man is, with his arms folded, wait-

"That, monsieur, is M. Victor Daroux, candidate for election tomorrow for the corps legislatif."

"And why so many attendants?" "That I do not know; I am waiting to find out."

At the moment a carriage drove up, and M. Arnoux, attended by his second and a surgeon, alighted. He seemed quite chagrined at seeing the crowd, but it had been not entirely unexpected. He supposed that Daroux was intending to make a display of his skill and bravery on the eve of the election. Arnoux, seeing that no one of the other party made any advance to begin the fight, said:

"Pardon me, gentlemen. If we are to fight so publicly it may be well to begin at once and have it over with." "There is another ahead of you, monsieur," replied one of Daroux's seconds.

"Another! What other?" "One who took M. Daroux's accusa tions to himself."

Arnoux winced. Another carriage rolled up, and another challenger alighted. He, too, was delayed, and before the cause of his delay could be explained to him four other defenders of their honor arby this time had swelled and was in a fever heat of expectation. No one understood why so many men, each attended by a second bearing foils, should continue to pour in. It happened that M. Charlier, who was the first challenger, arrived last. As soon as he came M. Daroux's second begged the crowd to make room, since the duel was about to begin. The other five challengers protested, and the crowd began to hoot and yell, at the same time pressing the duelists so closely that there was no room for the fray Finally some one of the crowd yelled:

"What's it all about?" "It's a put up job!" cried one of the vstanders.

"There's half a dozen of 'em picking on one!" shouted another. "There's an advertising dodge in it omewhere. Wait and see," was a third person's explanation. "Here comes a gendarme!" Meanwhile Daroux stood silent with folded arms, the only person whose dignified appearance commanded respect. When the gendarme arrived Daroux said something to him in a low tone, to which the officer assented. Then M. Daroux, raising his hand to impose silence, made an explanation. He began by telling of hearing on good authority that a large sum was being used to land his political opponent in office and of his having made a blind charge. Then he told how each of six different men in the audience had taknanded a retraction or satisfaction. "And now, my friends," continued the speaker, "I am here to back my words. I have accused none of these gentlemen. They have accused themselves. For we all know that a guilty conscience needs no accuser."

en the accusation to himself and de-

The men who had come to fight Daroux got away as fast as they could amid the jeers of the crowd. Daroux entered his carriage with his attendants and drove across the Seine to the legislative building on the other bank attended by an enormous crowd. There he alighted and made a political speech in which he told the story to a multitude of voters.

Every evening paper in Paris had an eccount of the affair, and the cafes were filled with persons laughing at the way Daroux had exposed the corruption of his opponents. That night spoke to an immense concourse who demanded again and again to hear the story from his own lips.

The journals the next morning all published editorials upon the low grade to which Paris politics had sunk and the iniquity of using money at elections. During the day Daroux drove from one polling place to another and wherever he appeared was greeted with shouts of applause mixed with laughter at the way he had turned the tables on his opponents.

Before 9 o'clock at night it was known all over Paris that Daroux had been elected, and when the papers came out the next morning they announced a landslide in his favor.

What became of the six self accusers was never known. They got away from under the limelight as quickly as possible, and on the day after the elec tion not one of them was to be found in Paris. Daroux was urged to proceed against them for bribery, but since the only evidence against them was what they had themselves furnished, no action was ever taken in the

A New Year's Message from His-Royal Highness the Governor General of Canada

Somewhat over a year ago, as President of the Canadian Patriotic band, I made an appeal to the people of the Dominion for funds to assist the families of the gallant men who were going to the front. Though anticipating a generous-response, I was hardly prepared for the magnificent manner in which the call Monies have poured easury of the Fund until the total ributions have reached and exceeded six million dollars.

Large, however, as this sum appears, it has not greatly exceeded current de-mands and, if peace were declared in the immediate future, the entire surplus on hand would be required before all themen of the *Expeditionary Force could again return home.

To-day there are 25,000 families, comprising, it is estimated, 80,000 individuals dependent upon the Patriotic Fund.

With turther recruiting the demands upon the Fund will, with each succeeding month, continue to grow, so that it is estimated that, should the war continue during 1916. a sum amounting to some estimated that, should the war continue-during 1916, a sum amounting to some $8,000,000 and probably more will be-required. This would, however, only mean $1 per head of the population for the people of Canada, and it is little in-deed to ask of those who remain at home in comparison with the sacrifice in life and limb of those who are fighting in defence of the Nation.

In spite of all the various calls that have been made for funds to aid our soldiers and satiors and the magnificent response that has been made in each and every case, I still feel assured that the warm hearts of all Canadians will respond to this further appeal to enable the Patriotic Fund to continue its splendid work during 1916 and take care of the families of those who are fighting for their Sovereign, the Empire, and the Dominion, on the battle-fields of Europe and on the High Seas every case, I still feel assured that th and on the High Seas.

Advice in Regard to Colds

Colds are very prevalent just now one reason being the changeable weather which we have had for a few weeks. Sudden changes of temperature without preparation are apt to bring them on, and when they come they are likely to stay for some time. A western editor who caught a cold states that his friends gave him in one week the following infallible prescriptions:

Starve a cold. Don't eat.
Feed a cold. Eat all you can. Stay in bed. Take plenty of exercise.

Drink gallons of water. Don't drink anything. Let it run its course. It will any-Nip it in the bud.

Stay indoors and keep warm. Get plenty of fresh air. Take quinine. Better see a doctor. You can't tell-What's a cold anyhow? Cure it yourself.

It is likely, if we should have any more of this changeable weather colds will continue to be prevalent, and even the possible advent of steady cold weather will still have the accompaniment of a considerable quota, mainly because people violate the laws of health. The Ottawa Journal gives the following advice of how not to get colds, as follows:

1. Don't eat too much. 2. Don't drink spirits.

Don't keep your house red hot. 74. Get something like an hour's walking in the open air daily off and on; and as part of it, one stretch at least of half an hour continuously.

5. If you can add a little exercise or recreation of some other kind, the better.

He Wouldn't Desert

A good number of the young men of Hodgetown had gladly responded to Lord Kitchener's call for men, and in honor of the occasion the old squire gave the new recruits a feast in the village schoolroom. During the proceedings one of the recruits cleared his plate of all the courses, then, standing up, he removed his serviette and unbuttoned his tunic to make room for more victuals.

One of the waiters, noticing him hurried up to him and whispered in his ear, "Desert, sir, dessert!"

"Desert!" replied Hodge. "No bloomin' fear! Not as long as I can get a good feed like this for nothing.'

Unsafe Lanterns

The season of shortened daylight brings its own peculiar fire dangers. One of these is the use of the lantern about farm buildings. Of recent years owing to competit on, a lowpriced lantern, which is a serious fire menace, has been placed upon the market. Instead of being securely screwed on the oil reservoir, the burner is simply slipped on, with the result that, if the lantern is upset, the burner comes off and the oil is allowed to run out upon the lighted wick. The result is either an explosion or a serious blaze, and unless speedily checked, damage to life and property.

Conquers Asthma. To be relieved from the terrible suffocating due to asthma is a great thing, but to be safeguarded for the future is even greater. Not only does Dr. J. D. Kellogg's Asthma Remedy bring prompt relief, but it introduces a new era of life for the afflicted. Systematic inhaling of smoke or fumes from the remedy prevents re-attacks and often effects a permanent cure.

Johnnycake

Various kinds of bread, having meal as Various kinds of bread, having mean as their basis, are of corn foods most gener-ally in use. Of these "johnnycake" and "hoscake" are perhaps the most popular. Both are easily digested. Butter, or some other form of fat, should be eaten with other form of fat, should be eaten with both kinds of cake for two reasons: because, as in the case of rice, it prevents the corn from forming into a sticky mass in the stomach; and because the butter supplies an abundance of fats and a slight amount of proteins, in wnich, particularly the fats, cornmeal is somewhat lacking. On this account cane and corn syrups and mollasses, should not be eaten as a "spread" with these corn breads, since the mollasses, like the meal, is composed chiefly of carbohydrates, and oversupplies the body with this element.

Many children die from the assaults of worms, and the first care of mothers should be to see that their infants are should be to see that their limits are free from these pests. A vermifuge that can be depended on is Miller's Worm Powders. They will not only expel worms from the system, but act as a health-giving medicine and a remedy for many of the ailments that beset infants, enfeebling them and endangering their m

POSTAGE STAMPS.

All Europe Laughed When Their Use Was First Suggested.

LOOKED UPON AS A HUGE JOKE

Rowland Hift Was Ridiculed For His Wild Postal Reform Idea, but He Persisted and Finally Won the Day For the Little Friend of Humanity.

Not since the days of the discovery of printing had there come to human beings such a boon as was launched in England on May 6, 1840, when the first postage stamps, the little friends of humanity, were used. That date in history marked the beginning of popular communication, placing within the reach of the poorest peasant the means of writing to relatives and friends. It put the people of the world into closer touch, it encouraged the art of writing as no other agency had done. But, greatest of all, it spread civilization.

Millions of people who today open their mail scarcely glance at the little stamp that adorns the wrapper. It but represents to them the cost of transporting and handling by the govern-

Few indeed realize that the postage stamp is a modern contrivance, and that its great aid to modern life has played a remarkable part in the world's development during the past three quarters of a century.

It was in 1840 that Rowland Hill, an English schoolmaster, stirred all Europe to laughter by declaring that James Chalmers and himself had devised a system whereby a two sheet letter could be sent from London to Edinburgh for two cents and yet leave the government a fair profit on the transaction. At that time the fee was 54 cents for that distance for a two sheet letter. Such a radical idea as Hill's seemed ridiculous to the public, which had looked upon the sending of communications as an expensive luxury. And so the joke went around, and the poor laughed with the others at the idea of any means that would place them on a par with the aristocracy.

Hill persisted despite the ridicule. He worked diligently on his schedule, and when the time was ripe he flashed the system on parliament and the public. Hill offered proof that was incontrovertible that the actual cost of the government for carrying each letter averaged only a small fraction of a cent.

He proved that the expense of hiring men to figure out postal rates on the system then existing, based on distance and the number of sheets, was greater than the profit gained, and he urged the adoption of a flat rate for all letters under a certain weight, no matter how short or long a journey they were to make.

He originated the idea of pasting a label on every letter, to show that the cost had been prepaid to the govern-ment, and pointed out that this would save the expense and time of collecting at point of delivery, which custom was then in general use.

The idea sprung by Hill and his friend, James Chalmers, gained friends after the first roars of laughter had died away. The government was pressed by not a few thinkers of the time to adopt the system. And so on May 6, 1840, postage stamps, or "stamped labels," as they were called at the time, were inaugurated. On the first stamp was a profile picture of the young Queen Victoria. The effect on the postoffice was instantaneous. Within two years-and they were panic years at that-the business of the postoffice nearly trebled.

"Did you look good?" persisted the head of the house.

Sarnia Woman Burned to Death

A sad fatality was discovered Friday morning when the dead body of Mrs. John Rainsberry was found at her home at 390 South Christina street.

Mrs. Rainsberry lived in one half of the house while another family occupied the other half of the residence. Last evening Mrs. Rainsberry was about as usual and retired at her accustomed hour. Nothing of an unusual nature was heard of during the night and this morning when Mrs. Rainsberry failed to respond to inquiries an investigation was started with the above result. Mrs. Rainsberry was found lying dead on the kitchen floor with her night clothing nearly all burned from her body and her body from the waist up burned almost to a crisp. The mat on the floor of her bedroom in front of her bed was also burned and there were evidences to show where the uniortunate woman had extinguished the fire. It is surmised that Mrs. Rainsberry arose some time during the night and either upset or let a lighted lamp fall. From appearances it looks as if Mrs. Rainsberry after putting out the fire in Nothing of an unusual nature was heard Rainsberry after putting out the fire in her bedroom attempted to go to the kitchen to secure more water to ex-tinguish her burning night clothing but as overcome. Deceased was the relict of the late John Rainsberry and was aged about 76 years.

A Letter From the Front

Military Mounted Police 1st. Infantry Bdge., H. O. 1st. Can. Div. France.

Interesting Letter From Old Warwick Boy.

Welland, Ont., Dec. 30, 1915. The Guide-Advocate, Watford, Ont.

Watford, Ont.

Dear Sirs:—Please find enclosed postal note to pay for the Guide until the close of 1916. The Guide is always a welcome paper in my house especially in this war, as old school mates have gone and are still going to defend their country against the most cruel foe that ever drew a sword. There are several Warwick boys who have gone that I knew well, and some who will never return, but their names will never be forgotten. The last time that I visited Warwick, I had a friendly chat with Gunn Newell, but never again, he has answered the call, and he leaved many, many friends behind who regret that he did not survive the war.

Well, Welland is on the boom again as all the large plants here are on war all the large plants here are on war orders The Canadian Steel Foundries here (where I am employed) are working night and day seven days a week on shells. I have seen them take out one shells. I have seen them take out one hundred and sixty tons of shells in twelve hours from the furnaces, so you see Welland is doing her share of business in driving back the huns.

There has been no uneasiness here with regard to the plot to blow up the Welland Canal or the factories on munition work, see they are fairly well guarded, although as they are fairly well guarded, although it would not take much in a place like Welland or Niagara Falls to do the job, as a bomb under any power house would hill the whole works kill the whole works

I am employed in the power house here and we get our power from the Ontario Power Co. and we use at the present time one thousand horse power.

We have also control of the fuel oil for all the furnaces which is obtained from Sarnia. The water we pump from the Welland Canal, and the compressed air is also obtained here at the power house. We have two compressors, one is two thousand cubic feet a minute and the other one eight hundred and fifty, both driven by electricity, and we also have a direct current generating set for operating electric welders. I work twelve hour shifts. Wishing you a prosperous New Year, I remain,

Yours truly, E. J. STILWELL,

MASS MEETING SUNDAY EVENING

Excellent Speeches by Hon. W. J. Hanna and Lieut,-Col. Bradley

The public meeting held in the Lyceum Sunday night to hear the issues of the war discussed by the Provincial Secretary was well attended, every seat in the hall being occupied and a number of men had to stand.

Reeve Kenward occupied the chair and as an opening number called on Mrs. Beers, of Kingscourt, for a solo, who sang very sweetly "Till the Boys Come Home."
The first speaker was Lieut. -Col. T. P. Bradley, the new Colonel of the 149th "Lambton's Own." Opening his address he paid a high tribute to the late Col. Kelly. Said he had known him for 12 or 15 weers and always found him kind and he paid a high tribute to the late Col.
Kelly. Said he had known him for 12 or 15 years and always found him kind and unselfish in private life and as, a public man and soldier most sacrificing. He died a hero in the performance of the duty given him to do. Col. Bradley said he had not sought the position of C.O.
but that he intended to fulfall the duties of the office to the fullest of his rower. of the office to the fullest of his power. Our homes, freedom and liberty are threatened by this war and our first duty is to protect them. We had to choose be tween retrogression for the next 1000 years and civilization. It was for us to decide whether we would accept slavery and bondage or avenge such crimes as the inking of the Louisatana, the Caval murder, the baby killing of the Huns, by rallying to the colors and helping to fill the ranks of the 149th and thus help to make ranks of the 149th and thus help to make such crimes an impossibility in the future. Messrs. McFarlane and McGill, of Forest, then sang a duet, "The Battle Eve." The Hon. W. J. Hanna thought it very fitting that Watford should have been chosen as the place for the first recruiting meeting. Col. Bradley, as successor to the late Col. Kelly, was a man worthy of the position he occupies. The speaker of the position he occupies. The speaker Mrs. J. Bryson lately wrote a letter addressed to the mail carrier asking him to deliver it to some soldiers who did not receive any mail. The other day she got the following reply:—

of the position he occupies. The speaker said that 17 months ago Germany after 40 years of preparation, and with every German of military age behind her, threw off all restraint and went out to crush France, cripple Russia and Belgium. At Patterson; hydro commissioners, Robert Jackson, Edward Pollard; hospital trustee, Neil McDougald; water commissioners, G. S. Pitkin; school trustees, Fred Brown, W. B. Smith, Calvin Boyd, John Bishop. Two by-laws in connection with the proposed sugar beet factory were each carried by 750 majority. The first by-law approves a loan of $25,000 for construction and expenses. Inniskillen Township passed a by-law by a large majority to loan $25,000 for construction and expenses. Inniskillen Township passed a by-law by a large majority to loan $25,000 for the sugar beet factory. By a majority of two over the required three-fifths majority local option was carried here. It was definitely announced that a recount would be demanded. The finish was an exciting one, and tou until the last ward had been heard from was the issue settled.

Strathrov—By a vote of 304 to 122 ratepayers Monday voted in favor of providing free light and other utilities and faing the assessment for the Geo. Rivers' basket factory.

On a plebiscite to ascertain whether hospital trustees should be elected by the ratepayers or appointed, it was decided by 360 to 228 to elect the trustees by vote.

Borney A by-law to a little and the trustees by vote.

Borney Barton and remember Lieut. Stapleford quite well. I enlisted with the first contingent in London, Ontario and was with the boys until a couple of months back when I was transfered to the Mounted Police attached to the 1st Infantry by the Mounted Police attached to the 1st Infantry by complete attached to the 1st Infantry by complete and the Mounted Police attached to the 1st Infantry by complete and the Mounted Police attached to the 1st Infantry by complete and the Mounted Police attached to the 1st Infantry Bdge,. I am a young man of twenty the boys until a couple of months back when I was transfered to the Mounted Police attached to the 1st Infantry Bdge, I the Mounted Police attached to the 1st Infantry Bdge, I the Mounted Police attached to the 1st Infantry Bdge, I the Mounted Police attache might of the British Empire must be put forth to prevent it. The speaker criticized the action of the County Council of Lambton at the December session for turning down the grants asked for recruiting and other patriotic purposes, and hoped that that body would reconsider the matter at the January session and give liberally for the cause. Three things are resided to win the day—money, munitions and men, and these Lambton should supply to the full extent necessary. These were the great needs and Lambton no doubt would do its duty.

A solo "Marching on to Glory" was sung by Mr. Crosse and the meeting closed with God Save the King.
