JULY

Month of moonlight beach romances
Month of naughty, flirting glances;
Month of closing city houses
Month of sweaters, shirtwaists, blouses
Month of flitting 'er to Port,
Month when camping out is sport;
Month when days are warm and bright,
Month when money's awful tight;
Month when evening quickly flies
Month when fads play white lies Month when one plays many a prank
Month when one sees many a shank
Month when we wink the other eye,
Month of sultry, gay July.

A QUIET WEDDING took place at the Watford Methodist parsonage on Wednesday last week when Rev. A. C. Tiffin joined in the bonds of wedlock Miss Gladys V. Lewis and Mr. James P. Abraham, both of Sarnia.

CHILDREN playing on the street are taking long chances from passing automobiles. Parents cannot be too careful in this matter. A driver never knows just what a child will do, and most of them take every precaution, but at the same time a wrong move of a child may cause a fatality, even if the car is not moving more than four miles an hour. Then again, the child often flirts with death by seeing how close he may let the auto come to him before moving. The public highway is at no time a proper playground.

HAVE YOU ever read our British Navy in the Bible? Did you know that God has a special word for our British Empire and particularly our Navy to do for Him, and that these are made known to us in the scriptures? If not, come to the Congregational church, Watford, on Sunday evening and hear about it. The Rev. T. DeCourcy Rayner, is giving the fourth of his interesting messages on "Prophecy and the Present World Crisis," the title being: "The British Empire and Navy in God's Plan." Bring your Bible. The morning topic is, "Songs of the Heart. No. 3; The Song of the Ark."

THE service in Trinity church last Sunday evening took the form of a Thanksgiving to Almighty God for victory and deliverance from our enemies in the great war and for the restoration of peace. The order of service was that issued by the Diocese and authorized by the Bishop, and was deeply impressive, the large congregation present joining feelingly and gratefully in the prayers and hymns. The scripture lesson was taken from Eph. 6: 10-18. The Rev. S. P. Irwin, spoke sensitively from the last verse of the 29th Psalm, Prayer-book version, "The Lord shall give his people the blessing of peace." A pleasant feature of the service was that the organ was played by Capt. Bury Binks who five years ago played in the same church on the occasion of the last service attended by the Watford Platoon of the first contingent on the eve of leaving for Val Cartier in 1914.

THERE was a fair attendance of ratepayers at the meeting held in the Armory Friday evening to discuss the Waterworks by-law, several ladies being present. The Reeve presided. Mr. Harrison of Parkhill, who was mayor of that town when waterworks were installed there, spoke at length of the advantages the town had gained from the service, also told of some of the trouble experienced. Mr. Lockton, Clerk and Water Commissioner of Parkhill, told of the capacity and cost of their system and the reduction in insurance premiums, and also stated to construction and running of the system. Mr. W. E. Fitzgerald spoke of the necessity of better fire protection. Mr. W. S. Fuller and others made a few remarks, all being of the opinion that prompt action of some description was necessary for the protection of the village against fire. A vote of thanks was tendered the visitors for their attendance and for the valuable information furnished the audience.

THE Dominion Day holiday was as quiet as Sunday so far as Watford was concerned. A large number of people went by auto and train to Petrolia to the War Veterans reunion and all speak highly of the program of amusement provided there. Many went to the lake-side to spend the day in the cool breezes. The streets were deserted.

TWO RINKS of Watford Bowlers went to London this week to take part in the annual tournament of the London Elmwood Club. One rink was composed of Frank Lovell, F. O. McIlveen, L. Kinnell with F. W. Rogers ship, and got into the semi-finals. The other rink was skipped by Capt. Stapleford with S. Stapleford, F. Maclean and Mr. Leatherland supporting.

MRS. MORRIS, Alton, gave a very interesting address on Saturday afternoon in the Methodist Church on community work, under the auspices of the Women's Institute; Mrs. D. Cameron, of Allendale also gave a talk on Institute work. Mrs. M. Cunningham sang sweetly a Scotch song which was much appreciated by all. Meeting closed with the National Anthem.

THE wealth of the retail merchants is sufficient to buy out all the banks in the country and still leave a substantial cash balance in their treasury. They pay the greater portion of the taxes in almost every town and employ an army of helpers. If the retail stores were taken out of Watford there would be no place left. This great responsibility should have a tendency to make the merchants realize that their calling is a dignified one—one that they can believe in.

Amherstburg Echo:—"It was some new sight on Richmond street Sunday night to see young women and men from out of town drinking beer from bottles and smoking cigarettes at a swift rate, while waiting for street cars. The restaurants were packed full and visitors decided to have 'some time' in the Burg, which wasn't too slow to give it to them either."

THE news of Germany's signing of the peace terms was quietly received here on Friday morning soon after ten o'clock. Flags of the Allies were immediately displayed from some of the business houses and residences. About 3 o'clock in the afternoon the small boy kept the town bell ringing for about an hour, and the smaller kiddies got up a celebration of their own. When the appointed day for celebrating the event arrives Watford will be in line and no doubt do herself credit.

Thirteen sons killed on the field of battle, three discharged with grave injuries, one wounded four different times, the father and one daughter summarily shot by the Germans for going to Lille to celebrate the centennial anniversary of a relative, and another daughter killed by a German shell at Dunkirk, is the record of M. Vanhee, a French farmer of Reminghe, near Ypres.

Mr. Henry H. Armstrong, of High St. South, Olney, Buckinghamshire, Eng., says—I would like to get in touch with people who originally lived in these parts and who have since taken up their abode in Canada.

The Township of Usborne, County of Huron, surely enjoys the record for a township sending the largest number of boys overseas. The Honor Roll for that township shows 124 enlistments, with 21 killed or died of wounds or sickness. We believe there is not another township in Ontario of the size of Usborne that holds such a record.

At the last meeting of the Kingsville town council, the Canadian Fire Underwriters report was read, criticizing the fire-fighting equipment in no uncertain terms. They recommended laying a larger main from pump house up Lansdowne Ave. to Main street, and said others should be taken up and larger ones put in; also recommended a permanent paid fire chief, motor truck for carrying hose, as well as other trifles which, if the town adopts, would cost between $40,000 and $50,000.

Leonard Bears, aged 13 years, who makes his home with Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Gove, at Uttoxeter, was kicked in the face by a horse on Saturday, on the farm of Geo. Goode. The unfortunate boy was going to the picnic at Hillsboro on Saturday with Mr. Goode, and before hitching the horse up they were giving the animal a drink of water trough. For some reason the horse kicked and struck young bears in the mouth, breaking his jaw bone and causing other painful injuries to his face. Medical aid was summoned and at last report he was doing nicely.

Cowan—Lovell

An event of more than usual interest to this community transpired on Monday of this week, June 30th. It was the marriage of Mr. R. C. Cowan, a prosperous young merchant of Drumbo, Oxford county, to one of the most attractive and charming young ladies of Watford in the person of Miss Florence M., daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Lovell. The ceremony, solemn but beautiful and simple, was performed at the home of the bride's brother, Front st., by Rev. A. C. Tiffin, pastor of the Methodist Church, of which the bride is a member. The bride was gowned in embroidered georgette crepe over white silk and carried a bouquet of tea roses. The only attendant was Alberta Lovell, a little niece of the bride, who acted as flower girl. The ceremony was prefaced by the playing of Mendelssohn's wedding march by another niece, Miss Florence Lovell, during which the bride entered the drawing-room, on her father's arm, and took her place beside the groom under the canopy arranged for the ceremony. During the signing of the register Miss Jessie Cowan sang very sweetly, "O Promise Me." Only the immediate relatives of the bridal party and a few close friends of the bride were present. These, all with much heartiness, tendered congratulations and best wishes to the central figures of the occasion, after which a very dainty luncheon was served and Mr. and Mrs.

Cowan left on a motor trip to visit the bride's brother, Will, of Champagne, Ill. On their return they will reside in Drumbo. May all the blessing and joys of life be theirs in large measure is the hearty wish of a host of friends.

WATERWORKS

BY-LAW CARRIED

By a majority of 42 in a vote of 192, the ratepayers of Watford decided at the polls on Monday last that the proposed by-law to issue debentures for $52,000 for the construction of a waterworks system for the village should become law, and thus endorsed the proposition of the Council to at once provide adequate fire protection for the village. The matter of testing wells will be proceeded with at once and in the course of a couple of years it is expected the entire system will be completed and the village will be in a position to offer the advantages of a plentiful supply of water, sufficient fire protection and hydro power as an inducement to manufacturers to locate in our midst. The vote by divisions was:

	For	Against
Division No. 1.....	66	31
Division No. 2.....	46	39
	112	70

Majority for By-law 42.

PEACE SIGNED JUNE 28

Five Years to the Day After the Assassination of Archduke Ferdinand

Versailles, June 29.—World peace was signed and sealed in the historic Hall of Mirrors at Versailles Saturday afternoon, but under circumstances which somewhat dimmed the expectations of those who had worked and fought during long years of war and months of negotiations for its achievement.

The absence of the Chinese delegates, who at the last moment were unable to reconcile themselves to the Shantung settlement, and left the Eastern Empire outside the formal purview of peace, struck the first discordant note in the assembly.

A written protest which Gen. Jan Christian Smuts lodged with his signature was another disappointment to the makers of the treaty.

But bulking larger was the attitude of Germany and the German plenipotentiaries, which left them, as evident from the official program of the day and from the expression of M. Clemenceau, still outside any formal reconciliation, and actual restoration to regular relations and intercourse with the allied nations dependent, not upon the signature of the "preliminaries of peace" today, but upon reaffirmation by the National Assembly.

To M. Clemenceau's stern warning in his opening remarks that they would be expected, and held, to observe the treaty provisions loyally and completely, the German delegates, through Dr. Haniel von Heimhausen, replied after returning to the hotel, that had they known they would be treated on a different status after signing than the allied representatives, as shown by their separate exit before the general body of the conference, they never would have signed.

Under the circumstance the general tone of sentiment in the historic sitting was a rather relief at the incontrovertible end of hostilities than of complete and unalloyed satisfaction.

The ceremony came to a dramatic close—in fact, reached its high dramatic pitch—with the wildly enthusiastic reception of M. Clemenceau, Mr. Lloyd George and President Wilson by the crowds outside the palace, who ignored or disregarded the minor discords of the day. They tore the three statesmen from their escorts and almost carried them bodily in their progress through the chateau grounds to watch the playing of the fountains—a part of the program which had been planned as a dignified State professional of all the plenipotentiaries.

The ceremony of signing the peace terms was brief. Premier Clemenceau called the session to order in the Hall of mirrors of the chateau of Versailles at 3.10 o'clock. The signing began when Dr. Hermann Mueller and Johannes Bell, the German signatories, affixed their names. Herr Mueller signed at 3.12 o'clock and Herr Bell at 3.13 o'clock. President Wilson, first of the allied delegates, signed a minute later. At 3.45 o'clock the momentous session was concluded.

June 28 Momentous Date in War

The world's greatest war was formally brought to an end at almost the identical hour on which occurred the deed, used as an excuse to start that war, 5 years before.

The peace treaty was signed at 3 o'clock, Paris time, June 28, 1919.

At almost that same hour of June 28, 1914, Archduke Francis Ferdinand, heir apparent to the Austrian throne, and his morganatic wife, Countess Sophie Chotek, were assassinated at Sarajevo, capital of Bosnia-Herzegovina, by a Serbian resident of Bosnia.

July 28, 1914, one month after the death of Francis Ferdinand, Austria declared war on Serbia, marking the beginning of hostilities. August 3, Germany declared war on Russia and invaded Luxembourg. Germany sent her ultimatum to Belgium on August 2 and declared war on France on August 3. The next day Great Britain declared war on Germany.

June 28 also is the anniversary of the renewal of the triple alliance with Germany, Austria and Italy, which has been broken by the war.

June 28, 1890, the German Reichstag adopted a bill creating a new German army, the organization which is greatly diminished in power by the treaty to-day.

HOW THIS NERVOUS WOMAN GOT WELL

Told by Herself. Her Sincerity Should Convince Others.

Christopher, Ill.—"For four years I suffered from irregularities, weakness, nervousness, and was in a run down condition. Two of our best doctors failed to do me any good. I heard so much about what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound had done for others, I tried it and was cured. I am no longer nervous, am regular, and in excellent health. I believe the Compound will cure any female trouble."—Mrs. ALICE HELLER, Christopher, Ill.

Nervousness is often a symptom of weakness or some functional derangement, which may be overcome by this famous root and herb remedy, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, as thousands of women have found by experience. If complications exist, write Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass., for suggestions in regard to your ailment. The result of its long experience is at your service.

NEW PARIS WRAPS APPEAL TO WOMEN

Evening Cloak of Smoke-Gray Charmeuse and Model of Venetian Red Bure.

THICK CORD NECK ORNAMENT

Idea Taken From Habits Worn by Choir Boys—Craze Raging for Long Jet Earrings—The High Dog Collar.

Sketched this week is one of the loveliest evening cloaks it is possible to imagine. It is one which was recently designed by Paquin for the peace-conference festivities. The material of this regal wrap was deep smoke-gray charmeuse with a lining of gleaming silver tissue and fringes composed of long silver tassels on the wide, cape sleeves.

The whole thing, writes a Paris correspondent, was so exceedingly original and rich that one felt in the presence of a fairy-queen-garment. And yet the color was so subdued and subtle that the wrap might quite well be worn going to a restaurant dinner or an ordinary theater. It was only when it was thrown open and the dazzling lining revealed that its richness made itself felt.

This is a leading note of many of the new Paris models for evening wear. There are still considerable difficulties connected with getting about in the evening. Quite unexpected people find it necessary to walk to their friend's houses, or even to the theaters, instead of driving, as formerly.

Taxicabs are few and hard to find. There are still stringent rules connected with private automobiles. The metros and omnibuses are crowded to overflowing, hence the frequent necessity of walking in evening dress. For this reason our best dressmakers are creating evening wraps which can, as indicated, be worn in the street at night without attracting undue notice.

Satins and velvets in soft neutral tints are very much in demand, but the linings of these demure wraps are something to dream about. I have seen gorgeous gold and silver tissues worked over with brilliant silks and beads and then converted into linings for theater coats.

Metallic Threads, Glistening Beads.

I have also seen exquisite effects produced by the introduction of metallic threads and glistening beads on fine Chantilly lace, the latter being mounted over an underlining of bright-hued silk. The outline of the Paquin wrap is very new and it represents the latest notion of a famous dress artist. As you will see, the sleeves are so wide that they give the impresston of capes, while the collar is exaggeratedly large and vague in outline.

This model would look charming if copied in black, with black jet tassels as a fringe for the sleeves and a lining of some bright-colored satin or brocade, or it might be made of a soft camel's hair cloth, the jet tassels being retained and a lining of Chinese blue satin being introduced. I saw a driving wrap fashioned on very much the same lines as the model here illustrated.

In this case the material was pale beige cashmere, with a lining of brocade silk which showed blue flowers on a dull rose ground; there was a heavy fringe of beige silk tassels on either sleeve and a large roll-over collar of beaver fur. An admirable driving wrap, I can assure you.

The second model, full-length figure, shows a quaint early spring wrap made of Venetian red bure, with a row of gray bone buttons down one side and handsome embroideries worked in rough gray wool. This is a Beer model and one which has been greatly admired. The outline is simple, the wrap falling in long straight lines, but the sleeves are distinctly novel in outline, spreading out at the wrist in leg-of-mutton fashion.

Collar Muffles the Neck.

Here again you have a "vague," very large collar which muffles up the neck and makes a delightful frame for the face. The combination of Venetian red and gray is very fashionable just now. It is seasonal and cheerful, two excellent qualities. In Worth's showrooms I recently saw a splendid driving wrap made of Venetian red camel's-hair cloth which had a deep cape-collared of sable and a lining of tete de negre satin embroidered in black, white and dull blue silks.

This wrap was very long, reaching to the hem of the dress, and at the shoulders it seemed ample, even unusually bunched; but the hem hung in about the ankles and gave the peculiar outline which is typical of 1919.

Quaint Early Spring Wrap in Venetian Red Bure, With Handsome Embroideries of Rough Gray Wool.

A lovely young actress—one of the adored beauties of Paris—had just launched a most effective novelty. This novelty takes the form of a thick cord, with long tassel, of bright scarlet silk. In front there was an antique ornament, in plaque form, suspended from the cord, and at the back a big tassel weighted it down and made a splendid flash of color. This idea was taken from the scarlet cords and tassels worn by choir boys in some churches on ceremonious occasions.

The color of the cord and tassel was the brightest and most vivid scarlet, the ornament in front being of an antique nature, with a slight suggestion of "church" in its composition. On the head was one of the new cut jet bands which are placed very low on the forehead, almost touching the brows, and which completely circle the head and hair. The best cut jet is used for these pretty bands.

Draw Hair Right Off Forehead.

It becomes more and more the fashion to draw the hair right off the forehead and to arrange it very high on the top of the head, the only soft curls showing being those which thrust themselves forward over the ears. This style of headdress is very distinguished but rather trying to any one who is not possessed of a small nose and pretty profile. But all sorts of women, with all sorts of profiles, are adopting the fashion of drawing the hair away from the forehead, severely. And nowadays the hair is only very lightly waved, if waved at all. Side by side with this fashion we have a revival of "cropt" effects, the sort of headdress that Mrs. Vernon Castle has made so fashionable.

The hair is not really cut short, but it is skillfully tucked away at either side to give a cropt outline. "Headache bands" are again very popular; quite large bands of soft silk or metallic tissue which are rounded round the head and tied at one side in a coquetish bow.

Craze for Jet Earrings.

There is a craze for ultralong jet earrings raging in Paris at this moment. Thin, finely cut jet pear drops, suspended from miniature chains of diamonds or seed pearls. These earrings are so long that they touch the neck. They are exceedingly decorative and with certain afternoon and evening dresses they give splendid results.

I am not in favor of long earrings in the day time, in the street; nevertheless they are the fashion, and it is a fashion which seems likely to develop into an absolute rage. Cut jet in various forms is popular just now. At a recent important "first night" I saw a well-known Parisian beauty wearing a high dog collar made entirely of cut jet, and this with a fragile costume of palest rose chiffon. The strong touch of black was rather startling, but the ensemble was good, the note of jet being repeated in a square comb which held the high loops of fair hair in place. Cut-jet plaques attached to black silk cords are often thrown over a light-colored house dress, a long black silk tassel hanging low at the back.

Toronto War Memorial.

Formal sanction of the University of Toronto Alumni has been given to the memorial plans submitted by a special committee. These include the construction of an archway and tower connecting two of the main buildings, and the creation of certain scholarships for returned men and for dependents of soldiers killed in the war. The total sum to be raised for this purpose is $500,000, of which $275,000 will be set aside for scholarships. The university has also established a fund from which loans may be drawn by students who have served in the war and need financial assistance, and a special committee has been appointed to co-operate with the university authorities in requesting the Dominion Government to make financial provision for those veterans who wish to attend Canadian universities.

Tommy's Spirit.

"You don't get any sympathy in the army," said a returned soldier. "And some of them do not mind a joke now and then on their infirmities. A bunch of us were waiting on the dock at Brest. There were a lot of wounded casualties among us ready to be checked up and sent aboard the transport for home. One of them sat on a box swinging what was left of his leg. It had been amputated between the knee and the ankle. Another Tommy with one arm gone yelled over to him, 'Say, Bill, why don't you water it a bit? Maybe, it will grow.' And the other came back at him: 'Water yer brains, you big stiff! Who got your other arm?'"

Steel.

Steel is a kind of iron which can easily be hammered out thin without cracking and can be made extremely hard by being heated and then cooled quickly. It is different from ordinary iron because of the amount of carbon in it. Wrought iron contains less carbon than steel and so it can not be made so hard; cast iron contains more and so is brittle.

A Memorial at Tapley.

Premier Borden, unveiled at Tapley, Bucks, England, on April 4th, a memorial to those who have died at the Canadian Red Cross Hospital there. The memorial takes the form of a female figure typifying Victory, and stands in the beautiful little cemetery on Mrs. Astor's estate, adjoining the hospital cemetery, being in the form of an Italian garden.

Quite a Difference.

"There is quite a difference between the blowhard and the garrulous toper."

Wash The Kidneys!

After Bad Colds or Influenza Look to Kidneys and Bladder!

Owing to bad colds, over-eating or intemperance, or to the after effects of influenza—acid and toxins (poisons) are stored up in the body and cause backache, lumbago, rheumatic pains and stiff joints. It is most essential that treatment be directed towards the prompt casting out of the poisons from the body which cause these pains and aches. This means that the excretory organs—the bowels, skin and kidneys—should be excited to their best efforts. Every one should clean house—internally—and thus protect one's self from many germ diseases, by taking castor oil or a pleasant laxative such as Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets, which are made of May-apple, aloes and jalap. Take these every other day. This will excite efficient bowel action. If you suffer from backache, irritation of the bladder and the kidneys, shown by the frequent calls to get out of bed at night, considerable sediment in the water, brick-dust deposit, perhaps headache in the morning, you should obtain at the drug store "Anuric" (anti-uric acid), first put up by Dr. Pierce.

To build up the strength and improve the blood, take an iron tonic such as "Lantic," manufactured by Dr. Pierce, to be had in tablets at drug stores, or some good herbal tonic such as Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, made from wild roots and barks without alcohol, and put up in tablets or liquid.

ONTARIO

GUARDED HUN ELECTIONS.

Incidents in the Occupation of Town in Germany.

It was in a German beer garden in a rather important town in the Rhine districts occupied by the Canadian Corps, writes a Canadian in Germany. And since the German town centres round its beer gardens it was there I found the best answer to my anxiety about the fraternizing of old-time enemies. I had watched all year, from close by, the organized and unremitting hatred of the Canadian soldier for the fighting Hun. And from the same grand stand seat of war correspondent I had ample proof that the affection of the grey-coated German for the persistent, indefatigable, fearless Canadian was of the same calibre—longer drawn out. But of the Canadian memory I was not so certain.

The beer garden was the typical German one—a roomy theatre, with large stage in front, cheap chairs that could be turned towards the performance or the glass of beer that one extended across the entire rear. The stage was incidental, the chairs a medium only. The bar was the main idea in the old days of German guzzling and community life.

Now it was difficult. The long bar was half closed off, concealing a kitchen where tea and coffee urns stood ready for the evening's business. The seats were neatly arranged, with their faces towards the stage. The stage was a riot of red, white and blue. Indeed, the whole setting was so patriotic as to remind me of early war days when conscription was delayed on behalf of voluntary enlistment and the senses and sentiment were the mediums of appeal.

The manner of metamorphosis required no explanation. A Canadian Y.M.C.A. officer was my guide. When Canadian soldiers began to filter in to the town the Y.M.C.A. arrived with the first consignment. And the very first act of the officer was to ferret out the buildings suitable to his purposes of entertainment. And the beer garden—as in many another German village—supplied one of his most pressing wants. And the second phase of operations was to decorate in the flags and colors of the Allies.

The building seemed empty when I entered. But as we moved down the aisle two solid, silent figures loomed from the gloom—soldiers seated several chairs apart in the very front row.

Grim they sat, with frowning brows and firm chins, their arms folded in that instinctive expression of immovable determination. They scarcely shifted to look at us. There might have been a lieutenant-general up there on the stage, with these his guards. The officer explained.

The beer garden was the largest hall in town. It was also the local symbol of authority. The German elections were crowding. And the mayor had humbly craved of the Y the use of the hall for a pre-election meeting that afternoon. With the promise of dismissal at five in order not to interfere with the regular Y program, consent was given. Later the request—almost a demand—was for a two hours' extension. But the beer garden was the property of the soldiers for the time, and five was insisted upon as the time limit.

Some soldier conceived the idea that the super-decorations of the theatre in the Allied colors might not be completely in accord with the feelings of a German political meeting. He passed it on. It developed into a decision—official—to establish two Canadian soldiers of good physique where every movement of the main actors on the stage would be under their supervision.

And there they sat, an hour before opening time, not a whit impatient. I thought I detected something the opposite of impatience in their demeanor. I looked from their set jaws and anticipatory eyes to the stage, where a table was already surrounded with chairs for the political discussion. Across the front, below the footlights, stretched a three-foot strip of red, white and blue. The angry scenery was camouflaged in flags and colors. A grand Union Jack depended from one chandelier on the right stage, and a Stars and Stripes from another chandelier to the left. It was a ridiculously incongruous setting for a political meeting in a country that had preached hate of those colors for four years.

But I knew not a ribbon or strip would be touched. Those grim faces assured me of that. But the flickering glint in their eyes was not explained.

"You'll have a long wait—and a tiresome one," I volunteered. "And you won't know what they're talking about anyway."

A young Ole Bill of the army winked and screwed up the corner of his mouth. "No, it'll be Dutch to us. But"—he paused to give a tug at each coat sleeve, the initial movement of rolling it up—"we'll know if they aren't out of the building by five. And"—he hesitated diplomatically—"here's hoping!"

It is usually safe to say that when a child is pale, sickly, peevish and restless, the cause is worms. These parasites range the stomach and intestines, causing serious disorders of the digestion and preventing the infant from deriving sustenance from food. Miller's Worm Powders, by destroying the worms, corrects these faults of the digestion and serve to restore the organs to healthy action.

AWAITING THEIR DISCHARGE.

Canadian Soldiers Among Green Derbyshire Hills.

A short time ago I heard someone talking about the C.D.D. at Buxton, and I asked what the letters stood for.

"The Canadian Discharge Depot," was the reply.

Immediately the cruel meaning of the word "discharge" flashed through my mind. I recalled the way in which the authorities of the European nations, including those of the Motherland, had treated their ex-soldiers in the past; how the fear of unemployment and the spectre of famine haunted the lives and the homes of these men, eating into their minds and destroying the very spirit of bravery which had made them willing to offer even their lives in defence of freedom.

I reflected that the workhouse had been the reward for the nation in the past for thousands of our heroes, while glorified titles and pensions had been given to a few.

Such thoughts led me on to consider my own countrymen. Would Canada fail to do her part for these men who had fought for her? What would be Canada's first step toward helping to bring these men again into the field of construction away from the fields of destruction, I wondered.

So I took a train for Buxton. Conflicting reports had reached me concerning Canada's policy on behalf of her soldiers. I wanted to see and to know for myself.

The Buxton C.D.D. receives only the soldiers having dependents. Buxton is one of the great health resorts and is known as the "Switzerland of England." It is a pretty town lying in a valley. It has curving streets, with buildings of grey stone taken from the hills of Derbyshire, which surround the town. The district is rich in minerals, for the old Roman mines still yield ore. The fields on the hillsides and the moors look like checkerboards. They are divided by stone fences, the stones having been picked up hundreds of years ago, so that the ground might be made fit for grazing. These fields are a perpetual green, although on the first day of my visit there were little drifts of snow behind the fences on the north side. It was early in March, and spring was just showing herself here and there in the southern exposures, where little flowers were trying to open their petals to the sun, and the early spring birds were singing.

This was the scene on a Sunday morning. In the distance I heard the music of a band. A column of soldiers were marching to the Hippodrome Theatre for morning service—the only building large enough to hold them. The Canadian soldiers nearly filled it, leaving little room for civilians.

"All people that on earth do dwell," sang the soldiers, accompanied by the band. Then there were prayers and the lessons for the day, and the chaplain, Capt. Bruce Hunter, of Toronto, took for his text: "Thy will be done on earth as it is in Heaven."

It was a simple sermon, of plain words to be understood by plain men, showing the fervor of a deep thinker, an honest leader, and every man in the audience heard and understood. The preacher fitted his text to every-day ideals to guide men's lives, to prepare them for the New Canada. He spoke of the moral force that was greater than physical; he told them that true words cut deeper than the sword. Let their thoughts be true; let them return home determined to be "on active service" in the field of industry as they had been in the field of war.

I could see that the soldiers were deeply affected. Their stillness and attention proved that. I studied their faces and noted the interest those faces showed. Never have I attended a military church service where the audience seemed so to grasp the purpose of their leader.—Special correspondence of Toronto Telegram.

Napier Garden Party

The garden party held on Mrs. C. Sutherland's lawn, under the auspices of St. Andrew's Presbyterian church, proved a decided success. Mr. Wm. R. Sutherland of Toronto, an old boy of Napier, presided. The chief items on the program were music by Fisher's jazz band of Stratroy; Harvey Floyd of Toronto, comedian; Duncan R. Cowan of Toronto, and the Elite Ladies' Quartet of London. Pipe-Major Dugald Leitch of Alvinston and the Highland dancers from London were much appreciated. The refreshment booth and lunch counter were popular resorts. The grounds were lighted by the Delco system. A game of baseball between Kerwood and Walkers in the evening resulted in a tie by a score of 2-2. More than 2,000 people were present.

THE WESTERN FAIR
London, Ont.

September 6th to 13th

The general Exhibits at the great September Exhibition will be of a very high class this year. Several large firms have taken space and will exhibit for the first time at the coming Exhibition. The Pure Food Show will again fill the Process Building with exhibits of particular interest. War relics and Government Exhibits of different kinds will be on display. Tractors will be demonstrated and machinery of almost all description shown. A fine display of Pictures are being sent from the Canadian Art Gallery of Ottawa which will be of particular interest to all lovers of Art.

The Horticultural and Agricultural buildings promise to be full to overflowing and the display of cheese and butter in the Dairy building will be well in advance of other years. All information regarding the Exhibition will be given on application to the Secretary, A. M. Hunt, Western Fair Offices, London, Ontario.

George Hartley sold his 100-acre farm and standing crops P. & E. townline, to Mr. Sayles of Dawn, for the sum of $11,000, which together with the proceeds of his sale will give him a comfortable income. We understand that it is his intention to retire from farming and remove to Sarnia. His neighbors, Mr. Charles Smith has also sold his farm of 100 acres for $10,000 and will also retire.

When D. Whyte, Bosanquet, resigned his position as teacher last winter his friends presented him with a tangible token of esteem. Owing to unavoidable circumstances, among them the prevalence of the "flu," the social gathering in connection with the event was postponed until a more favorable time; that time arrived one evening recently, when about 100 friends from the neighborhood gathered at his home and spent a most delightful evening. Mr. and Mrs. Whyte's son having arrived home in the meantime from overseas, lent an additional pleasure to the postponed event, the welcome of the returned hero overshadowing the farewell to the father, the latter as yet retaining his home there.

Toronto Live Stock Markets.

The first "Peace market" was a very satisfactory affair. For the first time in its history the Union Yards were closed on Tuesday.

Hogs are very strong. Buyers admit that they cannot get hogs at the prices they were quoting last week. It's better to sell the hogs in the country just now than to ship them to the city.

The top figure for butchers on Monday was $14.25 as compared with $14.15 on Monday of last week. Spring lambs are on the down trend. Sheep and yearlings are holding about steady.

Rev. D. A. Walker of Guelph, who has been employed as an agent of the Christian Brotherhood Association, addressed the Methodist congregation of Arkona on behalf of the children and old people of Serbia. The response to his appeal was hearty and liberal, for they gave $237.25. He addressed the congregation at Bethel in the afternoon. They responded liberally, giving $110.25. He also addressed the Baptist congregation in Arkona in the evening. The response was about $38.00. So the help afforded from this neighborhood will be about $385.50.

Lambton Live Stock Association Meeting

The annual meeting of the County Livestock Association was held in the Agricultural office, Petrolia, on Wednesday, June 25th. In finishing up the business of the last Dispersion Sale held on February 6th, the finances allowed for a rebating of 1 1/2 per cent. of the price charged for conducting the sale.

The secretary, W. P. MacDonald outlined the proposed Winter Fair building which would give larger and more ample quarters for the housing of the stock and the conducting of the sale. The association went on record as being in accord with the scheme and were willing to do their share towards the completion of the building.

The possibility of holding a Fall sale, as well as an entirely dairy sale of stock was discussed. The arranging and completing of the same will be dealt with at the regular fall meeting of the association.

The members expressed themselves as being highly satisfied with the progress the association was making and all were unanimous with the continuation of the work. The quality of the cattle being offered each year is showing a marked improvement. Poorly fitted and unconditioned cattle are a detriment to the progress of the association. An inspection of all cattle being offered before being placed in catalogue will be a feature of the next sale. A resolution was passed and a committee named to take up the problem of holding a spring show of horses and bulls at some point in the county.

The following officers were elected for the coming year:

Hon. Pres. Major C. O. Fairbank
President, W. S. Steadman
Treasurer, George Hay
Secretary, W. P. MacDonald

Royal Wives Very Scarce.

Present Prince of Wales

Faces a Difficult Choice

THE marriage of Princess Patricia of Connaught to a commoner, the Hon. Alexander Ramsay, has awakened once more in England the interest in the marriage prospects of the Prince of Wales. The war having eliminated the two royal families of Russia and Germany from the marriage field, the London Daily Express considers that the prince's choice is narrowed to England and America, and it thinks an American wife for the Prince of Wales would be tremendously popular. The Express says:—

"There are still marriageable princesses in other European countries. The name of Princess Yolanda of Italy has been particularly mentioned during the prince's visits to that country; but Princess Yolanda is a Roman Catholic. Marriage with a Roman Catholic would involve the forfeiture of the right of succession, except by a special act of Parliament."

"Princess Helena of Greece is no longer talked of as a future queen. Princess Marie of Roumania, Princess Elizabeth of Roumania, or Princess Margaret of Denmark might be chosen, but the prospect would arouse little enthusiasm.

PRINCE OF WALES.

"The fact is that there is a keen desire that the prince shall be allowed to choose for himself a British wife—if not an American! His marriage with a British bride would be exceedingly popular. If he should choose an American bride the enthusiasm on both sides of the Atlantic would be unbounded, and dramatic possibilities would be opened up. The example would be infectious. There is no telling where the consequence would end.

"There is nothing to prevent an unmarried sovereign of this country marrying whom he or she chooses, providing the proposed consort is not a Roman Catholic. For all other descendants the consent of the sovereign alone is necessary, though this consent is required to be a formal act, and is conveyed by letters patent under the Great Seal."

France and Russia.

The old regime in Russia, just as in France in the eighteenth century, slowly undermined the government and the administration, teaching the people to despise the law and order, as something created by autocracy and for the mere purpose of supporting a small, egotistical ruling class, writes Baron S. A. Korff in the Yale Review. Even among enlightened Russians the methods of autocracy engendered a certain pride in not obeying governmental authority. Misgovernment for a whole generation had created among the people such hatred of whatever bore the name of government that it was not astonishing that, when the chance came, Tsardom was upset with pleasure and ruthlessness. Indeed, the destruction went much further than was originally intended or even thought possible. Again the similarity in the positions of the royal families in France and Russia at the outbreak of the revolution is quite extraordinary. Marie Antoinette and the Empress Alexandra were both princesses of foreign birth from an enemy country. Both were hated by the people at large and both were accused of having had during the war intercourse with the enemy. Russia also had a Cagliostro in the person of Rasputin—in fact all but the necklace. The characters of the two reigning monarchs, however, differed widely, and the comparison was certainly in favor of Louis.

CITIES ARE GROWING.

But Population in Rural Districts Show Decrease.

Ontario's total population for the year 1918 was 2,578,177, an increase of 17,724 over the year 1917, but a falling off of 2,075 for the total of 1916, according to the second municipal bulletin of the Bureau of Municipal Affairs, which has just been issued. In townships, towns and villages there was a decrease in population during 1918, but in cities the increase is 39,374.

The total assessment of the province for 1917 was $2,027,561,860, made up as follows: Townships, $688,000,181; villages and towns, $283,401,104; cities, $1,056,260,575. The total increase over the previous year is $22,883,313.

In 1891 there were 758 organized municipalities in Ontario. In 1918 there were 900, besides 10 districts that have no organization similar to the county council. The total of 900 includes 551 townships, 149 villages, 139 towns, 23 cities and 38 counties.

Municipal taxes imposed in 1917 were $38,134,017, an increase of $3,339,307 over the previous year. The total was made up as follows: Townships, $9,462,175; towns and villages, $5,589,415; cities, $23,082,427.

The total debenture debt of the province was $226,754,890, an increase of $1,056,878. There is a decrease however, in the cities of $575,650.

The report contains the following figures with regard to Toronto: Assessed population, 1918, 473,829; assessed area, 16,480 (acres); total assessment, 1917, $586,535,531; assessed population, 1917, 419,285; municipal debenture debt, December 31, 1917, $11,138,582; school debenture debt, $1,528,192; sinking fund, December 31, 1917, $2,162,862.

Farmers Escape Taxation.

The Canadian Reconstruction Association asserts that the farmers of the western United States and Canada are not paying a fair share of the taxes. The association secretary points out that the farmer is not over liberal in his contribution to the income tax. In the United States the income tax collected from 6,000,000 farmers amounted to $1,815,849, while the gross wealth produced amounted to $60,000,000,000. Of this amount the Department of Agriculture placed the value of farm products at over $19,000,000,000. These figures show that the farmer produced one-third of the national annual gross revenue, and paid only 1-150 of the income tax of the United States.

The explanation given for this is that farmers do not keep books, consequently are never sure what their income is. In Canada the increase received from the sale of farm products has been $992,447,700 in the past three years. The Reconstruction Association declares that the Canadian farmer should be operating on a basis of a much increased revenue and therefore should pay a larger proportion of the taxes. The increase in the value of farm lands is regarded by the members of the Reconstruction Association as a strong argument for the ability of the farmer to pay. On the other hand they assert that the Canadian manufacturer instead of having his values increased is faced with a deterioration in the value of his plant.

The Rule of the Road.

A change in the rule of the road to bring British Columbia into line with the rest of the North American continent has been approved by the Provincial Legislature. In British Columbia, as in Great Britain, it is the custom to drive to the left. While the Legislature has approved the change, being made in the meantime a committee is to be appointed to secure all facts as to what extent a change will affect certain interests now operating in the province, notably the street car company. This committee will be in a position to report to the Legislature prior to the introduction of the bill.

"Flu" in the Yukon.

Word has recently been received of the heroic efforts made during recent months to check the influenza epidemic in Yukon territory, where remote communities faced grave danger because of limited medical and nursing supplies. To meet the emergency, Indian runners with dog teams were despatched from Dawson with anti-influenza serum and sent across the snow as far north as Fort McPherson, near the mouth of the Mackenzie river, making the round trip of 1,000 miles in a little less than two months, which is a fair performance in midwinter. The journey included crossing the Rocky Mountains.

Clergyman Decorated.

The London Times speaks of the D.S.O. being awarded to Rev. W. L. Baynes-Reed, 75th Battalion, Canadian Infantry, rector of St. John's, Norway, Toronto, "for conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty, August 8 and 9, at the capture of the village of Lequedel. He was constantly in the forward area, attending to the wounded and ministering to the dying under intense fire of all descriptions. His unselfish devotion to duty and his courage were splendid examples, and his services earned for him the respect and affection of all those among whom he worked."

Camera Banned at Front.

One of the most disappointing things to Canadians at the front was the ban upon cameras which prevented them from having snaps of themselves taken at war and sent to the folks at home. Thus, priceless little souvenirs showing them in the trenches and depicting their rest billets in the French and Belgian villages to their friends and relatives in Canada were denied them.

When the first Canucks reached the front cameras, if not encouraged, were at least tolerated, but a few months later an order came out demanding that every camera be turned in. Commanders of each unit were required to collect the cameras and to make periodical reports to headquarters.

Possession of a camera was made a court-martial offence which increased in gravity as the months passed. For, innocent as was the average snapshot, some, if discovered upon a captured man, would certainly have given the enemy valuable information about our positions. Strangely enough, though the British laid such stress upon this, the French and Belgians allowed men to use cameras at will.

He was a daring man who disobeyed the order to turn over his camera. Notwithstanding, a few cameras were used clandestinely, right through the war, and the pictures the lenses of these pocket recorders chronicled are doubtless highly prized by their owners. Though latterly the official photographers were very active, the photos they took lacked the intimacy of the private snaps taken at great risk by private individuals.

Now that the war is well over it seems likely that a number of these photos, taken without the knowledge or consent of the army authorities, will see the light of day. Some few which were obviously taken on the sly have already appeared in newspapers, books and periodicals.

Record Railway Building.

An enviable record in military railway construction was set up by the 1st Canadian Railway Troops in France when this unit built a line 173 miles long, standard gauge, under front line conditions, in 90 days. Nor was this record an isolated achievement of this force, whose exploits at Cambrai and later in other sectors resulted in their being showered with the congratulations of the British Commander-in-Chief, Sir Douglas Haig, Gen. H. Rawlinson, commander of the fourth army, and Maj.-Gen. S. D. Cruickshank, director-general of transportation.

Lt.-Col. Blais Ripley, D.S.O., who commanded the 1st C.R.T. overseas, arrived in Canada recently, after having crossed on the Scotian, and gave a brief account of the feats of his unit in their particular sphere of activity.

The Dominion's Gift.

The Department of the Naval Service has concurred in the proposal of the British Admiralty that the gift of a silver plate and an investment bond presented by Canadians to H. M. S. Dominion shall be transferred to H. M. S. Canada. A subscription for the purchase of this silver plate and investment bond for $1,500 to be presented to the Dominion was made in 1905. The British Admiralty now points out that the Dominion has become an obsolete vessel, and is not in full commission, and that her name no longer denotes purely Canadian significance. Hence the suggestion that the gift be transferred to the Canada.

New Canadian Building.

Three sites are mentioned for the new Canadian Government building, which must soon be built in London, England. They are Morley's Hotel, Trafalgar Square; the old Trivoli site, now occupied by the Beaver Hut on the Strand, and a site on Waterloo Place.

The Kidnaper
By MILDRED WHITE

Peggy came down the terraced steps from her sister's bungalow and looked wistfully up and down the street.
Here were the trees all crimson and gold, her long summer visit coming to a close, and this glorious afternoon free, with no amusement in store.
Peggy's wide eyes seemed not to find that for which they sought, she wandered aimlessly up the broad road.
Near its top stood a great house behind a stone garden wall. Peggy had always admired this wall, the trees dropped over it so protectingly, and there were glimpses of flower-bordered paths within.

Today, on the walk before the house, stood a baby carriage, and smiling en-chantingly from beneath the carriage hood was a dimpling love of a baby.
"You darling!" Peggy responded to the smile, while the baby put forth a chubby hand with an evident invitation for its clasping.
"You friendly little thing!" Peggy exclaimed.

"Goo—" answered the baby.
No attendant was in sight; probably the child's mother had left it while she stopped at the great house. Peggy decided to visit with the baby until her return.

Gratefully the little one put forth efforts to entertain. The girl's laugh rang out at its droll tricks—hide and seek with the tiny skirt of its dress, peek-a-boos between chubby fingers.
But no mother was forthcoming.
Loath to leave the adorable little thing, Peggy made a trip of investigation to the flower-bordered path.

The baby's lusty cry at her desertion caused her to go farther and ring the front-door bell. To all appearances, upon this glorious October day the great house was vacated.
"Some careless nurse girl," Peggy indignantly reflected, "had forsaken the baby for her own pleasure. She must already have been gone some time. No wonder the tiny one had so gleefully welcomed her presence."

Peggy returned, to find baby's smile of greeting banishing the tears. She decided to push the carriage slowly down the stone walk until the one in charge should appear. But no one came.

Baby, indeed, seemed the only object of life in all the silent surroundings.
Peggy continued to push the carriage.
"Just as well to give the neglectful one a scare," she considered. And as she went on, new vistas of fall scenery invited.

She had never looked before from the hill to the valley. Baby cooed delightfully, while Peggy's thoughts went wool-gathering.
"This was the first day of her long stay in which the nice man had not passed her sister's home."

In her own thoughts—and strange to say, he was often in her thoughts—Peggy referred to him as the "nice man."

There was something so wholesomely frank in the good-natured face, even in the man's swinging carriage. Peggy wondered dimly how it was that they had not become better acquainted. Her sister introduced them one day, in passing.
"Oh, that is Tom Price," she carelessly remarked.
If the married sister had guessed at the wild commotion the chance encounter with this same Tom Price had raised in Peggy's usually adamant heart, she might have been more explicit in her description.

In some inexplicable way, in the many places where Peggy had happened to be during the past changing year, this "nice man" had bobbed up, until recognition between the two became an astonishing fact. Peggy fancied him eager for a meeting; yet, after her sister's introduction, Tom Price passed on his contented way—with but a dally, distant bow. And now she must go home!

"It is funny, indeed," Peggy proposed. "I have been most thoughtless.
Perhaps some distracted mother is now wringing her hands over his absence.
He was so captivating, you see, I just kept pushing him on from before the big stone house, where I found him."
"The house is at the top of the hill
I must get him back directly."
Breathlessly she swung the carriage about. The nice man took hold of the handle.

"Let me help you," he suggested; "if the police are on your trail, I may be able to help you out. I'm pretty well known around here."
Silently Peggy accepted his aid. The baby laughing into their faces, they made their way back down the road.
"Let me see," said the man matter-of-factly, "the first time I saw you was on your college campus."
"Yes," nodded the girl.

"And the second, crossing a busy city street?"
Peggy agreed.
"Then there was a time when you came glowing through the door of the railroad train—"
"Glowing?" smiled Peggy.
"You looked that way to me," said the nice man; "like a vivid flower in a dreary place."
"Thank you," answered Peggy primly.

"And this," the man went on, "is the only time I have seen you away from your sister's veranda, when you were not accompanied by the same fellow. Your fiance, I suppose?" The question was extremely casual.
"My young brother," Peggy replied.
Tom Price took his big hands from the carriage handle and stood still before her. "Your brother!" he lamented; "and all this time I've been trying to keep from falling in love with another fellow's girl."

"You have no right to speak to me like that—" Peggy began severely, but immediately her anxiety was transferred to the nearness of a surrounding stone wall.
"This is the place," she whispered,
"where I—took the baby. I've been away quite some time. Would you mind walking with me as far as the front door? If his mother should happen to be angry—"
"Just you leave it all to me," Tom magnanimously suggested.

As there was still no response to their summons at the great house door, perplexed and feeling rather giddy, Peggy followed her protector's advice and waited with him upon the veranda.
Her eyes softened as the nice man rocked the baby in his arms.
"He is not a bit afraid of you," she murmured.

Then Tom Price laughed. "Why should he be?" he said. "He is my sister's kid. She left him in my care for a couple of hours this afternoon. I'd just gone to hunt up his nurse when you came and stole him."
"And you didn't tell me," Peggy accused. "You kept walking along and never told me."
The nice man reflected baby's smile.
"I had to find out about that other fellow, you see," he said.

SEE EXTINCTION OF COYOTE Stock Raisers Confident That Their Skulking Enemy Will Soon Be Entirely Wiped Out.

According to stock raisers and farmers, especially in Kansas, the coyote seems to be fast becoming extinct. The fencing up of big pasture districts where practically every acre is stocked with cattle has robbed the coyote of his once free and open range.
Because of his depredations on young and helpless domestic stock a bounty has in many places been set upon his head and he has long been a fugitive, hunted and killed by every farmer and stock raiser. The greater part of these bounties are collected in the spring months before the mother wolf has left her den with her family. So persistently has the warfare of extermination been carried on that the coyotes which rear their families in safety must be cunning indeed.

The coyote has long borne a reputation for cowardice, to say nothing of other unworthy qualities, but in the opinion of some this is unfair to the beast. His warfare on sheep long ago led to the institution of coyote drives, especially in the far Northwest. Hundreds of men turn out and manage the thing pretty much as is done in the case of a rabbit drive, when great numbers of jackrabbits are driven into a sort of corral, where they are killed.
On one occasion many men and boys in southern Idaho worked all day driving in the coyotes and when they, the men and boys, had all converged at the corral they found just one coyote in it, and he got away!

FOUND GUILTY OF NEGLIGENCE

THREE YEARS' PUNISHMENT FOR MAN WHO ALLOWED A SERIOUS SITUATION TO DEVELOP.

Failure to take proper precautions has been responsible for many deaths, and is the cause of much suffering and hardship to-day.

Take the case of Wm. Dunn, 313 Gerrard St. East, Toronto, Ont. Mr. Dunn was a chronic rheumatic sufferer for ten years. Three years of that ten he spent in bed suffering indescribable torture. Picture the joy of this man on finding that Templeton's Rheumatic Capsules were restoring him to normal health again. Here are a few extracts from his letter to us: "During the past ten years I have been laid up with Rheumatism. One attack confined me to my bed for a year, and a second attack left me helpless for over two years. After I had tried almost everything, a friend got me a box of T.R.C.'s, and a few doses convinced me that I had at last found the proper remedy for my trouble. T.R.C.'s improved my condition rapidly, and I feel that had it not been for T.R.C.'s I should have been laid up for years." T.R.C.'s are certainly wonder workers. Try them.

PREVENT POTATO ROT

Spraying With Bordeaux Mixture Proven Very Effective.

Machinery Must Be Kept Well Oiled If It Is to Work Efficiently—An Expert Discusses the Question From Every Angle.

(Contributed by Ontario Department of Agriculture, Toronto.)

LATE Blight and Rot of Potatoes can be prevented by spraying with Bordeaux mixture. Commence spraying when the plants are from five to eight inches high and keep the foliage covered with Bordeaux throughout the season. Take special care to see that the spraying is very thoroughly done if the weather is at all damp about the 15th of July, as Blight often begins about this time. Add a poison when necessary for potato beetles—arsenate of lead paste 3 1/2 lbs. to each 40 gals. of the liquid spray, or Paris green 2 lbs. to 40 gals., or a mixture of 2 lbs. arsenate of lead paste and 1 lb. of Paris green to 40 gals. From three to seven applications should be made, depending upon the season—the wetter the weather the larger the number. Do not put off spraying because it looks like rain. If the spray is on the plants half an hour before the rain comes it will be dry and sufficient of it will stick to prevent infection, which takes place during or soon after rain. Such spraying should prevent not only Late Blight and Rot but also Early Blight and potato beetles.

Thorough spraying only is effective. If thorough spraying is to be done sufficient Bordeaux mixture must be used. From 50 to 150 gals per acre should be applied at each spraying, and when the plants are large not less than 100 gallons per acre should be used. Thorough spraying means the covering of every portion of the potato plant with Bordeaux mixture in the form of a fine mist. This can only be done when the solution is applied with good pressure, so as to insure covering every portion of the plant. The best results from spraying are obtained when potato sprayers are used which are fitted with a T-joint attachment so as to insure covering both surfaces of the leaves at each spraying. When the plants are large it has been found that it pays to go over each row twice at each spraying.—Prof. J. E. Howitt, O. A. College, Guelph.

The Importance of Keeping Machinery Properly Oiled.

The importance of keeping machinery properly oiled may be better realized when we try to compute, in dollars and cents, the annual sacrifice in machine efficiency through friction. Carelessness in lubrication may easily reduce the efficiency of a machine fifty per cent. At the same time the machine itself is wearing out faster, on account of the needless friction, than owing to the real work done.

The microscope reveals the fact that the surface of the most highly polished shaft ever made is as rough and untrue as a rough casting appears to the unaided eye. In practice it is not possible to make a metal surface that is absolutely smooth, incompressible, or even a true circle, hence inequalities of pressure at the bearings, grinding and tearing of the metal fibres, causing friction, producing factors of inefficiency and wear and tear. Though these faults of construction cannot be avoided, we can, in a great measure, overcome the effect in machinery, by judicious application of a lubricating agent.

The lubricant consists of minute balls or globules. These readily insulate themselves between the faces in mutual contact forming a cushion, keeping the metals apart. Its use is not only to reduce friction, but also to carry away whatever excess of heat is generated. All liquids havenot sufficient sustaining powers to be used as efficient lubricants. Some cannot be retained between the metals; others do not cling together persistently enough. To resist the tendency of the metal to tear the lubricating film apart, these globules must have a good deal of internal strength, and must stick together well. They must also cling well to the metal, or they will be squeezed out of the bearing.

The oils and the fats are the principal lubricants. The mineral oils are thin, and so are lard, olive, and sperm oils. Castor oil, neatfoot, tallow and rape are thick. Nothing is better for high speed bearings and light spindles or shafts than sperm oil, but it is costly; for heavy bearings castor oil is superior to this, but it is also expensive.

But there is relatively little pure lubricant used in machinery, for it is usually more economical to employ a compound oil, compounded for special uses, than to use pure lubricants which, after all, are often heavily adulterated—gum, soap lime, alumina soda, and free acids have their own distinct purpose to serve in the composition of cheap oils. The chief advantage, however, pertaining to the use of compound oils is that the objectionable qualities of one kind of lubricant can be neutralized by mixing it with a lubricant of another kind. For instance, vegetative and non oils are drying oils, that is, they oxidize rapidly, and cause gumming or clogging of the bearings to which they are applied, and if allowed to drop and accumulate upon dust, cotton waste, and timber are liable to develop an internal heat that will cause spontaneous combustion. Mineral oil does not oxidize, neither does animal. But mineral oils have what is termed a low flashing point; that is, they fire or ignite at a low temperature, some at 212 degrees Fah., or under. Animal oils develop fatty acids, and these corrode and pit the surface of the metal which they are used to lubricate.—Prof. John Evans, O. A. College, Guelph.

A Sure Corrective of Flatulency.—When the undigested food lies in the stomach it throws off gases causing pains and oppression in the stomachic region. The belching or eructation of these gases is offensive and the only way to prevent them is to restore the stomach to proper action. Parmelee's Vegetable Pills will do this. Simple directions go with each packet and a course of them taken systematically is certain to effect a cure.

To Control Jute Trade. It is understood that the English government is to keep control of the flax trade during the next season, and that it purposes to give greater facilities for the export of yarns and cloth, as well as to deal liberally with requests for permits, etc., for the home market.

Meantime the surprisingly heavy increase in the price of raw materials has made all quotations nominal. There being only one seller in Russia now, the government has had to pay what may be called an exorbitant rate for the fiber.

Changes are also rapidly developing in jute-goods trading arrangements. The granting of grading permits and export licenses has been put on a different footing. More encouragement will be accorded to the shipment of yarns until it is found that this is interfering with the weaving of cloth for home outlets.

White Whale in the Yukon. Deputy Marshal J. C. Wood of Fairbanks, Alaska, is authority for the story that a white whale has made its appearance in the Yukon river opposite the mouth of the Tanana river. He noticed the mammal on his recent trip up from Ruby. The deputy says that preparations are now being made for the capture of the whale as soon as the river freezes up a little more. The whale was headed for some place on the Upper Yukon, but the ice run prevented it getting any further than Tanana. It frequently comes up to blow and has been seen by a number of residents of the lower river town. —Alaska Citizen, Fairbanks.

Sores Heal Quickly.—Have you a persistent sore that refuses to heal? Then, try Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil in the dressing. It will stop sloughing, carry away the proud flesh, draw out the pus and prepare a clean way for the new skin. It is the recognized healer among oils and myriads of people can certify that it healed where other oils failed utterly.

Making Saving Attractive

Perhaps you have never been strong on saving.

You COULD save a little, but— If you knew you could get 4 1/2% on every $4.00 you saved, wouldn't that tempt you?

Well, then—that is what War Savings Stamps will enable you to do.

If you find it hard to save $4.00 at a time because the quarters slip away unawares, Thrift Stamps will help you.

You can buy a Thrift Stamp for 25 cents, and when you have sixteen, you can exchange them for a War Savings Stamp, for which you will be paid back $5.00 in 1924.

By doing this you will have become an investor! And you can go on building up that investment every time you save another $4.00. The odd cents pay the accrued interest.

Invest that "wasted five per cent." in War Savings Stamps. You Will never regret it.

SAVE THE CHILDREN

Mothers who keep a box of Baby's Own Tablets in the house may feel that the lives of their little ones are reasonably safe during the hot weather. Stomach troubles, cholera infantum and diarrhoea carry off thousands of little ones every summer, in most cases because the mother does not have a safe medicine at hand to give promptly. Baby's Own Tablets relieve these troubles, or if given occasionally to the well child will prevent their coming on. The Tablets are guaranteed by government analysts to be absolutely harmless even to the newborn babe. They are especially good in summer because they regulate the bowels and keep the stomach sweet and pure. They are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25c a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

PLAN MODEL TOWN.

New Village Will Be Situated on Lake Timiskaming.

On Lake Timiskaming there is growing up a village that may become within a few years a place of pilgrimage for those social reformers who have come to realize the deplorable results that follow uncontrolled development in the earlier stages of urban life, and many rival in picturesque those delightful villages perched on the hillside of continental lakes and bays that remain among the pleasantest memories of foreign travel. A large industrial concern that had decided to establish a plant near Lake Timiskaming for the production of pulp decided also that it would be good business to provide for the comfortable housing of its employees so that home life should be possible as well as work.

Skilled advisers were therefore called in, and on a site covering about a square mile on a hillside overlooking the lake a new town, Kipawa, has been planned as a social unit, with a civic centre for the chief public buildings to which the main roads converge; a village green that will be the focus of the recreation life of the community, and a far-sighted scheme of arboreal treatment. Town-planner, surveyors, architects, and engineers have co-operated in the project, and by skilful arrangements have laid out the streets with grades, for the most part, at less than five per cent., where a more rigid plan of rectangular character would have necessitated grades of not less than eighteen per cent. The workmen's houses will mostly be semi-detached with a few groups of three to six, and in all cases will provide gardens and extensive views over the lake. Attention to home beauty will be encouraged from the outset, and the rights of the community to protect the town from unheeded ugliness and land speculation will be recognized, as they can so easily be, by the consent of the community. Plans are being shaped whereby the workmen can acquire their homes by easy payments, and the domestic exile that so often accompanies forest labor may be abolished.

When a farmer near Kalamazoo, Mich., was knocked down and gored by a bull, his rabbit hound saved his life by attacking the bull and driving it away.

BE A NATIONAL ASSET

Based on an Editorial by Meredith Nicholson in the Cosmopolitan Magazine.

The test of all love is service and to love Canada is to serve Canada. Soldiers and sailors receive an honourable discharge when the nation no longer needs them, but no discharge is possible for the loyal Canadian citizen. He is always on the job. Something clearer and finer and sweeter than the bugle sounds the call of Duty in the hearts of the true lovers of Canada. Peace changes the nature of the need; it does not alter the obligation to serve.

We are debating how best we may express gratitude for the triumphant conclusion of the war. Monuments of stone and bronze we shall have, but an imperishable commemoration will be the increased self-respect and honest pride of a people who cheerfully shoulder the nation's burden.

Invest in War Savings Stamps and become a participant in a peace that has broadened the vistas of freedom for all mankind.

Every dollar you advance to the Government partakes of the nature of a thankoffering to the Lord God of Hosts for Canada's preservation and the dawn of a new era of Justice, Mercy and Peace throughout the World.

"Keep the Change" may mean generosity, but it also spells carelessness and thriftlessness. Sew up the hole in your pocket! Buy Thrift Stamps the simplest saving device ever invented.

Failure to absorb all the War Savings Stamps offered would be a confession of weakness, a monstrous demonstration of ingratitude in the hour of victory. We have won the war! The immediate and pressing business is to pay the bills. War Savings Stamps are the Government's liability, but they make you a national asset. Your investment is proof that you have willed to serve Canada.

The invincible spirit so manifest in the fiery trail of yesterday must not falter before the imperative need of an hour blessed and crowned with victorious peace.

Buy War Savings and Thrift Stamps—and then more of 'em, and strengthen your membership in the great communion of Canadian Democracy.

TIRED PEOPLE ARE DEBILITATED

Full Health and Strength Can Only be Regained by Enriching the Blood

People who are tired all the time and never feel rested, even after a long night in bed, people who cannot regain weight and strength, who feel no joy in living, are in a condition described by doctors as general debility. A medical examination might show that every organ in the body is acting normally, but the pallor of the face will usually show that the blood is weak and watery. This is the root of the trouble.

Debility is a loss of vitality, not affecting any one part of the body but the system generally. The blood goes to every part of the body and the use of a blood tonic like Dr. Williams' Pink Pills quickly tones up the whole system. The first sign of returning health is a better appetite, an improved digestion, a quicker step and better color in the cheeks. The rich, red blood, reaching every organ and muscle, carries new health and vigor. The nerves are quieted, sleep becomes more refreshing and with persistent treatment and a good diet the patient is once more enabled to enjoy life. The case of Mr. W. Doxtater, R. R. No. 4, Tilsonburg, Ont., illustrates the great value of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills in cases of this kind. Mr. Doxtater says:—"I was troubled with pains throughout my whole body, was extremely nervous, did not sleep at night, and was further afflicted with rheumatism. In spite of different treatment this condition persisted, indeed I was growing worse, and had fallen away in weight to 130 lbs. and was scarcely able to do any work. Then I began taking Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and after a few weeks there was a noticeable improvement in my condition. I continued taking the pills, constantly gaining until I felt as well as ever I did. While taking the pills my weight increased to 170 lbs. and I can now do as good a day's work as anyone. My advice if you are not feeling well is to take Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and they will soon put you right."

At the first sign that the blood is out of order take Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and note the speedy improvement they make in the appetite, health and spirit. You can get these pills through any medicine dealer or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.
