Peace at Last!

China and Japan Will Now Sheathe the Sword.

The Treaty Was Signed This Morning.

Betrothal of the Duke of Edinburgh's Eldest Son.

Arrival of the Disabled Steamer Clyde in Port—Serious Accident to the Heir Apparent of Wurtemburg.

THE DISABLED CLYDE IN PORT.

SOUTHAMPTON, April 16.—The British steamer Clyde, previously reported as having been spoken on Sunday north of Cape Finisterre with her machinery disabled, arrived here at 6:45 this morning.

THE DUKE'S BAD TUMBLE.

STUTTGART, April 16.—Duke Albert, heir apparent to the Duchy of Wurtemburg, was seriously injured today by being thrown from his horse. He fell headforemost, and is suffering from concussion of the brain. His physicians, however, do not believe his life is in danger.

THE CHITRAL TROUBLE SUBSIDES

CALCUTTA, April 16.—Advices received by the Viceroy of India from Sir Robert Low state that the followers of Umra Khan are returning to their homes. The dispatches further say that Lieut. Fowler and the others of the British column who were taken prisoners by Umra Khan are safe in camp.

BISMARCK.

LONDON, April 16.—A dispatch from Berlin this morning reasserts that Prince Bismarck is seriously ill, and that Dr. Schwenenger was hastily summoned to his bedside last evening and started for Freidrichsruhe at once.

A dispatch from Friedrichsruhe, dated at noon today, says that Prince Bismarck was suffering somewhat from fatigue yesterday, but that he had entirely recovered this morning.

ANOTHER ROYAL MATCH.

LONDON, April 16.—The World publishes a report to the effect that Prince Alfred of Saxe Coburg-Gotha, eldest son and heir of the Duke of Saxe Coburg-Gotha (more generally known as the Duke of Edinburgh), is likely to be betrothed to the young Queen Wilhelmina of Holland. The young queen was born at The Hague on April 31, 1880, and the young prince was born in London on Oct. 15, 1874. The mother of Queen Wilhelmina is regent of Holland during the minority of the queen. It has been announced here that Queen Wilhelmina, accompanied by the Queen Regent, will leave Amsterdam on May 26 for London, via Flushing.

BISMARCK TALKS TO WORKMEN.

FRIEDRICHSRUHE, April 17.—This morning opened clear and bright. Prince Bismarck rose earlier than usual, and is in good health and spirits. The visiting guilds arrived at noon in three special trains. The visitors, with bands of music and banners, marched to the veranda of the castle, where they were met by Prince Bismarck. Two beer booths were erected in the park.

Herr Faster, on behalf of the Berlin guild of artisans, addressed the ex-Chancellor, who responded in a speech highly eulogistic of trade guilds and denunciatory of the Reichstag's action with reference to them. He was wildly cheered. The prince spoke with difficulty, but looked well.

TH E NICARAGUA TROUBLE.

Answer to Britain's Ultimatum Said To Be Unsatisfactory.

LONDON, April 16.—It is ascertained that the Globe's statement that Great Britain refuses to accept Nicaragua's answer to the British ultimatum regarding the expulsion of Consul-General Hatch, and intends to take immediate action to enforce the ultimatum emanates from the Exchange Telegraph Company. Inquiry at the Foreign Office this afternoon resulted in a refusal of officials to divulge the purport of the official communication with Nicaragua, or furnish any information whatever concerning the matter, in the absence of Lord Kimberley and Under Foreign Secretary Grey, both of whom are in the country. The Exchange Telegraph Company's statement is, therefore, unauthorized.

THE WAR ENDED

Peace Treaty Concluded Between Japan and China.

LONDON, April 16.—A Central News dispatch from Tokio says the newspapers are publishing extra editions announcing that peace negotiations have been concluded, and that the treaty will probably be signed tomorrow.

LONDON, April 16.—The United Press is authorized by the Japanese legation here to state that the Times' version of the China-Japanese treaty of peace published this morning is notably inaccurate. Japan, the envoy declares, has never asked for an offensive and defensive alliance with China, nor in regard to the commercial points of difference has she ever asked anything beyond the most favored nation treatment, which hitherto Japan has not enjoyed.

Late on Tuesday afternoon United States Secretary Gresham at Washington received a cablegram from Minister Dun at Tokio, Japan, confirming the press dispatches that a treaty of peace had been signed by Japan and China. The message gave no details. The statement that Japan had agreed to accept an indemnity of only $100,000,000 is regarded here as erroneous. Her demand at the beginning of the peace conference was 400,000,000 yen, equal to $200,000,000 in gold. According to advices previously received, Japan reduced this amount by 100,000,000 yen, thus leaving the indemnity as 300,000,000 yen, or $150,000,000 in gold. The information received at Washington confirms the report of the conclusion of peace, but discredits the details as reported by the London Times.

The Standard says Whatever the exact stipulations of the China-Japan

The Standard says: Whatever the extinctly understood that they are subject to the approval of the other states having relations with Eastern Asia. Only so far as they cannot unfairly conflict with the legitimate rights of Europeans can they be permited to have effect. Anything that could serve the basis of a scheme giving Japan a political and commercial mastery over China cannot be allowed to pass.

A dispatch from Tokio to the Central News dated today (April 17) says that the treaty of peace between China and Japan was signed this morning. The terms of the settlement, the dispatch says, will probably not be divulged until the treaty is ratified.

LONDON, April 16.—A dispatch from Tokio to the Central News says the Chinese war indemnity will be paid in taels.

The Chronicle says that such terms as have been announced as the conditions of peace between China and Japan would be a defiance of Europe and a danger to the world.

REPATRIATION.

Father Pardis' Colonists Building Log Huts—Some of Them Hurt.

LAKE LINDEN, Mich., April 16.—Thirty heads of families left yesterday afternoon for Vernor, Ont., to build log huts for families to follow in a few weeks. These are the advance guard of Father Paradis' colony of repatriated French-Canadians. A large number of emigrants will leave during the next ten days.

HOUGHTON, Mich., April 16.—The morning passenger train on the Mineral Range, loaded with French-Canadians en route for Vernor, Ont., via the Duluth, South Shore and Atlantic, jumped the track at Dallar Bay. Severaly passengers were injured but none seriously.

AT THE DOMINION CAPITAL.

All Vacancies in the Commons Will Be Filled—Seven Senatorial Seats Empty.

OTTAWA, April 16.—The four bye-elections tomorrow will fill all the vacancies in the House of Commons, but the Senate will meet with eleven members short of the regular number.

Hon. Joseph Martin, Winnipeg; Mr. Boyd, Marquette, and Mr. Perry, Prince Edward Island, were in their seats in the House today attending to their correspondence. Mr. Laurier, leader of the Opposition, who is at the Russell, had a number of Liberals call upon him. He is now much better, and will enter upon his Parliamentary duties in good spirits.

MINE DISASTER.

Two Men Killed by an Explosion in a Nova Scotia Coal Pit.

SYDNEY, N. S., April 16.—An explosion of gas occurred at the Dominion No. 1 colliery of the Dominion Coal Company today. About 40 men were in the pit at the time, but all were rescued except two. The dead bodies of Daniel Hardy and Alexander McKinnon were brought to the surface. McKinnon was day foreman, and leaves a wife and two children. Hardy was unmarried.

INTERESTS UNCLE SAM.

The Nicaragua Question Creates Much Comment at Washington.

WASHINGTON, D. C., April 16.—If Great Britain, as reported, considers Nicaragua's reply an unsatisfactory answer to her ultimatum and should proceed to take immediate steps for the collection of the demanded "smart money" for the expulsion of Mr. Hatch, the Nicaraguan incident will immediately take on a new aspect. The matter causes considerable discussion in official circles.

The United States has already been assured that no Nicaraguan port where American interests are important will be bombarded, but the question of Great Britain's attaching Nicaragua's customs is still an open one, in which the United States, it is said at the State Department, has not yet made any representations.

THEY ARE GIVING WAY.

Physicians Commence to Realize the Value of Dodd's Kidney Pills.

OTTAWA, April 15.—The inveterate reluctance to admit the success of patent medicine usually evinced by physicians is rapidly giving way as far as Dodd's Kidney Pills are concerned. The cases of Dr. Rose and Dr. McCormick, who published details of their recovery from diabetes and Bright's disease, through the agency of this remedy, were the first attacks on the citadel of their skepticism, and now it appears as if the remarkable recovery of Mr. G. H. Kent, of this city, the details of which have been already transmitted to the press, would complete what has been so auspiciously begun. The published interviews with Mr. and Mrs. Kent and the sworn statement of the former leaves no foothold for disbelief.

AMERICAN BEEF IN ENGLAND.

NEW YORK, April 16.—A London special says American beef in England has not followed the advance in America, but has recently actually decreased in price.

KILLED BY A BASEBALL.

BERLIN, Ohio, April 17.—George Cowan, a student of Oberlin Academy, was killed at Athletic Park yesterday. While practicing for the 'Varsity ball team he was struck on the head by a liner and almost instantly killed.

ANOTHER PROTEST.

TORONTO, April 16. — The Toronto District Congregational Union met tonight and passed a resolution protesting against any attempt being made by the Dominion Government looking to the enforcement of the remedial order against Manitoba.

BRANT ASSIZES.

BRANTFORD, April 16.—Brant spring assizes opened today, Mr. Justice Meredith presiding. There were no criminal cases on the list, so the sheriff presented the judge with a pair of white gloves. There were three civil cases, Schultz vs. Wilkes, action on promissory note, settled out of court; Milne vs. Nightingale, action for damages for injuries received, settled out of court; Bain vs. E. Sims and F. Grabb, action to make exectors personally liable in connection with the estate of the late James Beer.

Nothing But Oil!

The Odiferous Fluid Sweeps All Before It.

Pennsylvania Prospectors and Speculators Going Wild.

Prices Take a 25-Cent Jump Upward in Oil City—Ohio and Indiana Catch the Craze.

WHEELING, W. Va., April 16.—Since the rise in oil Sisterville field has grown alive with prospectors. People have gone wild, and everything is oil. Every man who can raise a few hundred dollars is trying to locate a well. It is estimated that 400 small wells have been located for spring operations, and the number is increasing. Operators are complaining of a scarcity of labor, and work is hampered very much on this account. Thousands of dollars are being sent to Oil City and Pittsburg for investment. James Burge invested $100 a week ago, and is now worth over $50,000, investing all as he goes. Oil will probably go up to $2 20 tomorrow and some predict $2 25.

OIL CITY, Pa., April 16.—Ruling price, $2 25, an advance of 25 cents over yesterday. At the exchange the market opened at $2 40; highest, $2 54; lowest, $2 39; closed $2 50 1-2 offered.

UPPER SANDUSKY, Ohio, April 16.—Oil men are flooding the country, and almost everything is leased. Wells that were formerly abandoned because their capacity was less than ten barrels a day will be opened up at once. The McKinley well is doing almost 1,000 barrels per day.

Between 400 and 500 new wells have been started in the Indiana field in Blackford, Wells, Adams, Jay and Randolph counties.

LONDON, April 16.—The operators in petroleum here follow closely New York prices, venturing little on independent speculation. The American advance is supported in European markets by the generally low stocks, which in some places are nearly exhausted. Thus, some German dealers report stocks are so reduced that over 50 casks cannot be filled. The decrease in imports from America and Russia, together with dissatisfaction over the character of recent shipments from the Black Sea, has assisted to stiffen the prices. It was said that the standard white, which closed at 10 pence to 10 1-2 pence, must rise to 1 shilling. The trade, however, does not believe that such a price can be maintained for any length of time in view of the opening up of fresh wells and the impetus given to Russian orders. Traders question the truth of the reported agreement between the Russian trust and the Standard Oil Company. They believe such an agreement has not been concluded, and that it is unlikely any such scheme will be carried out. They think that the Russians will eventually get the better of the contest, as they can lay down oil in the United Kingdom and on the continent at 4 pence a gallon and have a handsome profit left.

Regarding European supplies, it is difficult to get reliable figures. The Standard Oil Company holds the bulk of the trade, and does not allow the statistics to become public. It is a matter of surprise that the American producers did not put up prices earlier, as the consumption of oil during the severe weather of the past winter was enormous.

CLEVELAND, Ohio, April 16.—The demand for new wells is so great that there are not enough drillers in the field. Manufacturers of tools are running night and day, and are away behind on orders.

IT WAS HARCOURT.

The Provincial Secretary Throws Light on a Much-Talked of Matter.

Before the University Investigating Commission on Tuesday Mr. Harcourt said that Prof. Dale had called upon him, and complained had called upon him, and complained the Latin department, of which he was head, was slighted. It seemed to Mr. Harcourt, from Prof. Dale's manner, that that gentleman thought Hon. Edw. Blake had interfered in the appointment, and to disabuse his mind of any such notion he stated to Prof. Dale that only once had he heard Chancellor Blake mention the name of his son-in-law, and in that case it was done parenthetically. When the name of Mr. Wrong was mentioned in connection with the appointment Mr. Blake had remarked "As to that matter, I can say nothing, as Mr. Wrong is my son-in-law." He could say from what he knew that Chancellor Blake had never interfered.

WASHINGTON'S SOCIAL EVENT.

The Marriage of George N. Curzon, M. P., to an American Girl.

A Good Match—The Contracting Parties Both Very Talented.

WASHINGTON, April 17.—The great social event of the post-Lenten season will be the marriage in this city on Monday next of Mr. George Nathaniel Curzon, member of Parliament for Southport, England, and Miss Mary Leiter, the daughter of L. Z. Leiter, of Washington, formerly of Chicago. The ceremony will be performed at noon at St. John's Episcopal Church. Mr. Curzon is expected to arrive in New York on the Majestic today. He will be accompanied by his brother, Francis Curzon, his sister, Lady Miller, and his best man, Lord Leamington.

Miss Leiter has been warmly congratulated upon her approaching marriage with Mr. Curzon, who is one of the most promising of Great Britain's younger public men. Mr. Curzon is 33 years of age and is the eldest son of Lord Scarsdale. He has traveled extensively in the Orient and has written several books on Japan, Corea and Siam. He spent last winter in Afghanistan and wrote a series of letters from Cabul to the London Times, which evinced a comprehensive grasp of the political conditions in that country, and which attracted wide attention in Great Britain. He has been an active student for many years of Central Asian affairs and filled with credit the post of Under Secretary for India in the British Foreign Office. The Scarsdale family is an old and highly distinguished one. The family estate, Kettleston, is in the north of England, near the town of Derby. Here 150 years ago one of the ancestors of Greig Nathaniel Curzon entertained Dr. Samuel Johnson and his biographer, Boswell. The estate of Kettleston has been in the possession of the Scarsdales for more than 200 years.

Miss Leiter is not only a very beautiful girl, but she is brilliantly endowed, and has enjoyed for several years the advantage of extended foreign travel. She has been a conspicuous figure socially, not only in Washington, New York, Newport and Bar Harbor, but in London and Paris as well.

Mr. and Mrs. Curzon, after their wedding trip in this country, will make their home in London.

BRITAIN'S NAVAL ENTERPRISE.

LONDON, April 17.—The Cunard liners Campania and Lucania have been added to the list of subsidized steamers. In the event of war they will be equipped with five-inch breach-loading guns and Nordenfeldt machine guns.

AUSTRIA STILL SHAKING.

VIENNA, April 17.—Shocks of earthquake were again felt in Laibach last night, doing additional damage to the town and greatly increasing the existing panic. Most of the people who remained in the town after the previous shocks are now fleeing to the open country, leaving the place almost deserted. Food is very scarce and great distress prevails.

Another Triumph for B. B. B.

Dyspepsia Cured.

I was very sick for over three months, and, believing my case to be of a malignant type, I lost no time in consulting a physician, who treated me for dyspepsia. Receiving no benefit, I went to a specialist, who told me I had catarrh of the stomach, but his treatment had no effect and I was getting worse every day. The pain was so intense that I could not rest at night and was compelled to walk the floor to get any ease. I consulted eleven physicians in all, first trying one and then another, but their medicine did not do me a particle of good. My friends recommended one thing, then another, but I got no relief. I failed from 195 pounds down to 135 pounds and was about giving up in despair when, as a last resort, I noticed that B. B. B. was recommended for dyspepsia, and concluded to try it. I felt a slight change for the better after using one bottle. I then purchased six, being delighted to find that it was doing me good. I kept on using B. B. B. and kept gaining in flesh at the rate of one pound a day. I took in all eighteen bottles of B. B. B., and am today about back to my old weight, and am feeling as well as I ever did. Now, I would strongly recommend B. B. B. to anyone suffering from dyspepsia. Don't be experimenting with other things, but take the genuine, never-failing, old reliable B. B. B. that always cures.

The Scrap Bag.

Such weather for Easter Sunday! I wonder how many fair ones gazed up disconsolately at the patch of sky which belongs to London. I fear more than one pretty pair of eyes murmured "provoking!" when regarding the clouds that the weather bureau sent us for Easter morning. Sulky, bad-tempered looking clouds—the sort that seem to lie in wait for pretty flower-trimmed hats, and crisp spring gowns, and then suddenly empty themselves with a little splutter of joy, when everybody is looking the other way!

"Diplomacy," by the Coghlans, last Saturday afternoon, was about the least exhilarating entertainment I ever attended. The rain pattered dismally on the roof, while a depressed audience watched a languid, distrait company saunter through their parts. There seemed to be but one pretty woman and one joke in the whole performance. Fortunately, I had an engagement with the dentist.

* * * *

She (hanging back at the doorway and whispering)—Don't look so happy. I shan't go in with you while you wear that rapturous expression. Everybody will know at a glance that we are bride and bridegroom.

He (whispering also)—My dear, take the beam out of your own eye.

Wife-beating comes high in Germany. We see that the problem of how to discourage these undeveloped savages in their marital theories has been solved in a wiser way in der Vaterland than in most other countries. There, the brutal husband must make his wife a present of his earnings for a week, and spend Saturday night and all of Sunday in jail meditating on the error of his ways, and wondering whether his wife shall have had time to spend all the money before he gets out. This mode of correction may be recommended to New York women, who have recently been endeavoring to obtain more practical protection for poor "walloped" wives. They found the Legislature not altogether unsympathetic, insomuch that it offered to increase penalties for a man who should beat any woman but his wife! Old Galileo was right. The world does move—a little.

"Vogue" says: If women could only realize the nature of the mud and dirt accumulated by the trailing skirts and brought into their homes—a daily invitation to cheerful, active, virulent, deadly microbes, to "jump on and have a ride"—they would never have a skirt come near the ground under any circumstances.

* * * *

They say of Madame Rejane in her great play, "Madame Sans-Gene," that to be comparatively plain-looking is a distinct advantage to the French woman who undertakes to make herself adorable; there is then nothing to obscure the triumph of pure art. Her enunciation is beautifully clear and telling; she makes her points without appearing to underline them. In the vernacular of the prize ring, Madame Rejane would be credited with the possession of a "terrible left"; her significant gestures are almost invariably made with the left hand.

KEEP THE RIGHT SIDE OUT.

Like most garments and most carpets, everything in life has a right and a wrong side. You can take any joy and by turning it around find troubles on the other side, or you may take the greatest trouble and by turning it around find joy on the other side. The gloomiest mountain never casts a shadow on both sides at once, nor does the greatest of life's calamities.

WESTERN ONTARIO.

A St. George's Society will be formed in Stratford.

Charles E. Fleming, a well-known business man in Chatham, died on Sunday.

The inquest into the cause of death of George Betts resulted in a verdict of suicide and temporary insanity.

The Young People's Relief Union of Chatham supplied 85 families daily with bread and soup from Feb. 9 to March 22. In all 6,720 quarts of soup and 1,890 loaves of bread were given out.

The St. Clair River is full of running ice and it is very heavy. Three steamers, supposed to be the State of Michigan, J. D. Marshall and Pilgrim, are fast in the ice about five miles above Fort Gratiot light. Lake Huron is reported to be full of ice.

Judge C. B. Waite, of Chicago, has closed contracts for the purchase of fifteen lots in Windsor for a sum approximating $100,000. Judge Waits says it is his intention to erect several houses on the property during the summer. With the improvements the entire deal will represent an outlay of approximately $125,000.

Charles Smith has been charged at Woodstock with a heinous offense, which if proven against him will lay the prisoner open to confinement in the penitentiary for the rest of his natural days. The boy who claims to have been the victim is only about 13 years of age, and is particularly bright. He claims to have been taken from London to Chatham by a German boy, and placed in the Salvation Army Home. It was there he met Smith, who evidently was a professional tramp. Smith was sent for trial and the lad remanded.

BAY CITY NEWS.

The New Specific Remedy Making Its Way in Michigan.

BAY CITY, Mich., April 17.—Much interest has been felt here over the published reports of the recovery of Mr. Hugh McCarron, of Detroit, from blood poisoning. There have been several cases in this city of recovery from various forms of kidney diseases by means of Dodd's Kidney Pills, the same remedy to which Mr. McCarron owes his recovery, in fact the new specific appears to have found its way into every city, town and village in the State, and although no one in Bay City who has benefited by its use has so far communicated the facts publicly it is expected that several will very shortly do so.

MIDDLESEX.

The Thorndale Methodist Sunday school held a very successful entertainment in the church on Easter Monday. The programme consisted of the Easter Sunday school lesson by Mr. A. Vining, Bible class teacher; scripture reading by Mr. J. Vanderburg, assistant superintendent, and Easter recitations, dialogues and carols. The church was beautifully decorated with blooming house plants. The school has two Bible classes, three intermediate and two primary classes, and numbers over eighty persons. Mr. Charles Walker is the able superintendent of a very prosperous school. The friends and parents of the scholars pronounce the Easter Sunday school a perfect success. Excellent recitations were given by Miss L. Evans and the Misses Duncan.

RESURRECTION MORNING!

When "Death is Swallowed Up in Victory."

Rev. Dr. Talmage's Discourse on the Subject of Easter Jubilee.

Rev. Dr. Talmage preached twice on Easter Sunday in New York—on both occasions to crowded audiences. One of the sermons was on the subject of "Easter Jubilee," the text being taken from I. Corinthians, xv., 54: "Death is swallowed up in victory."

The royal court of Sabbaths is made up, said the preacher, of 52. Fifty-one are princes in the royal household; but Easter is queen. She wears a richer diadem, and sways a more jewelled sceptre, and in her smile nations are irradiated. We welcome this queenly day, holding up in her right hand the wrenched-off bolt of Christ's sephulcre, and holding up in her left hand the key to all the cemeteries in Christendom.

My text is an ejaculation. It is spun out of hallelujahs. Paul wrote right on in his argument about the resurrection, and observed all the laws of logic; but when he came to write the words of the text his fingers and his pen and the parchment on which he wrote took fire, and he cried out, "Death is swallowed up in victory." It is a dreadful sight to see an army routed and flying. You have read of the French falling back from Sedan, or Napoleon's track of 90,000 corpses in the snowy banks of Russia, or of the five kings tumbling over the rocks of Bethoram with their armies, while the hail stones of heaven and the swords of Joshua's hosts struck them with their fury. But in my text is a worse discomfiture. It seems that a black giant proposed to conquer the earth. He gathered for his host all the aches and pains and maladies and distempers and epidemics of the ages. Some of the troops marched with slow tread, commanded by consumptions; some in double-quick, commanded by pneumonias. Some he took by long besiegement of evil habit and some by the one stroke of the battle axe of casualty. With bony hand he pounded at the doors of hospitals and sick rooms, and won all the victories in all the great battlefields of all the five continents. He was conqueror of conquerors.

But one Christmas night his antagonist was born, and power is given him to awaken all the fallen of all the centuries and of all lands, and marshal them against the black giant. Fields have already been won, but the last day will see the decisive battle. When Christ shall lead forth his two brigades, the brigade of the risen dead and the brigade of the celestial host, the black giant will fall back, and the brigade from the riven sepulchres will take him from beneath, and the brigade of descending immortals will take him from above, and "death shall be swallowed up in victory." The enemy that threatened the conquest and demolition of the planet has lost his throne, and the one word written over all the gates of mausoleum and catacomb and necropolis, on cenotaph and sarcophagus, on the lonely cairn of the Arctic explorer and on the catafalque of great cathedral, written in capitals of azalea and calla lily, written in musical cadence, written in doxology of great assemblages, written on the sculptured door of the family vault, is "Victory."

We shall have no more to do with death than we have with the cloak-room at a Governor's or President's levee. We stop at the cloak-room and leave in charge of the servant our overcoat, our overshoes, our outward apparel, that we may not be impeded in the brilliant round of the drawing-room. Well, my friends, when we go out of this world we are going to a King's banquet, and at the door of the tomb we leave the cloak of flesh and the wrappings with which we meet the storms of the world. At the close of our earthly reception, under the brush and broom of the porter, the coat or hat may be handed to us better than when we resigned it, and the cloak of humanity will finally be returned to us improved and brightened and purified and glorified. You and I do not want our bodies returned to us as they are now. We want to get rid of all their weaknesses, and all their susceptibilities to fatigue, and all their slowness of locomotion. They will be put through a chemistry of soil and heat and cold and changing seasons out of which God will reconstruct them as much better than they are now as the body of the rosiest and healthiest child that bounds over the lawn is better than the sickest patient in the hospital.

But as to our soul we will cross right over, not waiting for obsequies, independent of obituary, into a state in every way better, with wider room and velocities beyond computation; the dullest of us into companionship with the very best spirits in their very best moods, in the best room of the universe, the four walls furnished and paneled and pictured and glorified with all the splendors that the infinite God in all ages has been able to invent. Victory!

It matters little whether we are cremated or sepulchered. The most of us prefer the old way. But whether out of natural disintegration or cremation we shall get that luminous, buoyant, gladsome, transcendent, magnificent, resurrection body. You will have it, I will have it. I say to you today, as Paul said to Agrippa, "Why should it be thought a thing incredible with you that God should raise the dead?" That far-up cloud, higher than the hawk flies, higher than the eagle flies, what is it made of? Drops of water from the Hudson, other drops from the East River, other drops from a stagnant pool out on Newark flats. Up yonder there, embodied in a cloud and the sun kindles it. If God can make such a lustrous cloud of water-drops, many of them soiled and impure, and fetched from miles away, can he not transport the fragments of a human body from the earth and out of them build a radiant body? Cannot God, who owns all the material out of which bones, and muscle, and flesh are made, set them up again if they have fallen? If a manufacturer of telescopes drops a telescope on the floor and it breaks, can he not mend it again so that you can see through it? And if God drops the human eye into the dust, the eye which he originally fashioned, can he not restore it? Aye, if the manufacturer of the telescope, by a change of the glass and a change of focus, can make a better glass than that which was originally constructed, and actually improve it, do you not think the fashioner of the human eye may improve its sight and multiply the natural eye by the thousandfold additional forces of the resurrection eye?

"Why should it be thought with you an incredible thing that God should raise the dead?" Things all around us suggest it. Out of what grew all these flowers? Out of the mould and earth. Resurrected. Resurrected. The radiant butterfly, where did it come from? The loathsome catterpillar. That albatross that smites the tempest with its wing, where did it come from? A senseless shell. Near Bergerac, France, in a Celtic tomb, under a block, were found flower seeds that had been buried two thousand years. The explorer took the flower seed and planted it and it came up; it bloomed in bluebell and heliotrope. Two thousand years ago buried, yet resurrected. A traveler says he found in a mummy pit in Egypt garden peas that had been buried there three thousand years ago. He brought them out, and on June 4, 1844, he planted them, and in thirty days they sprang up. Buried three thousand years, yet resurrected.

"Why should it be thought a thing incredible with you that God should raise the dead?" Where did all this silk come from? The silk that adorns your persons and your homes? In the hollow of a staff a Greek missionary brought from China to Europe the progenitors of those worms that now supply the silk markets of many nations. The pageantry of bannered host and the luxurious articles of commercial emporium blazing out from the silkworms! And who shall be surprised if out of this insignificant earthly life our bodies unfold into something worthy of the coming eternities. Put silver into diluted nitre, and it dissolves. Is the silver gone forever? No. Put in some pieces of copper and the silver reappears. If one force dissolves another force reorganizes.

"Why should it be thought a thing incredible with you that God should raise the dead?" The insects flew and the worms crawled last autumn feebler and feebler, and then stopped. They have taken no food, they want none. They lie dormant and insensible, but soon the south wind will blow the resurrection trumpet, and the earth will be full of them. Do you not think that God can do as much for our bodies as he does for the wasps and the spiders and the snails? This morning at half-past four o'clock there was a resurrection. Out of the night the day. In a few weeks there will be a resurrection in all our gardens. Why not some day a resurrection amid all the graves?

Physiologists tell us that while the most of our bodies are built with such wonderful economy that we can spare nothing, and the loss of a finger is a hindrance, and the injury of a toe-joint makes us lame, still we have two or three apparently useless physical apparati, and no anatomist or physiologist has ever been able to tell us what they are good for. Perhaps they are the foundation of the resurrection body, worth nothing to us in this state, to be indispensably valuable in the next state. The Jewish rabbis appear to have had a hint of this suggestion when they said that in the human frame there was a small bone that was to be the basis of the resurrection body. That may have been a delusion. But this thing is certain, the Christian scientists of our day have found out that there are two or three superfluities of the body that are something gloriously suggestive of another state.

I called at my friend's house one summer day. I found the yard all piled up with rubbish of carpenter's and mason's work. The door was off. The plumbers had torn up the floor. The roof was being lifted. There was not a room in the house fit to live in. My friend had gone with his family to the Holy Land, expecting to come back when the building was to be done. And oh! What was his joy when at the end of six months he returned and the old house was enlarged and improved and glorified. That is your body. It looks well now. All the rooms filled with health. But after awhile your soul will go to the Holy Land, and while you are gone the old house of your tabernacle will be entirely reconstructed, and all the improvements of heaven introduced, and you will move into it on Resurrection Day. "For we know that if the earthly house of our tabernacle were dissolved, we have a building of God, a house not made with hands, eternal in the heavens." Oh, what a day when body and soul meet again! They are very fond of each other. Did your body ever have a pain and your soul not re-echo it? Or, changing the question, did your soul ever have any trouble and your body not sympathize with it, growing wan and weak under the depressing influence? Or, did your soul ever have a gladness, but your body celebrated it with kindled eye and cheek and elastic step? Surely God never intended two such good friends to be very long separated. And so, when the world's last Easter morning shall come, the soul will descend, crying, "Where is my body?" and the body will ascend, saying, "Where is my soul?" and the Lord of the resurrection will bring them together, and it will be a perfect soul in a perfect body, introduced by a perfect Christ into a perfect heaven. Victory!

THE MANITOBA SCHOOLS.

Some of the newspapers of this Province that were zealously opposed to Mr. Meredith when he undertook to restrict the separate school system here, and to give, as he argued, to the Roman Catholics a first-rate system of education in its place, are now zealously on the other side. What it would have been a gross breach of faith for Ontario to do is a wise and statesmanlike thing, it seems, when done in Manitoba.

The expression "Provincial rights" is found to be a very convenient phrase to defend what is indefensible, and to serve as a barrier against the correction of a wrong.

What are provincial rights?

They are rights expressly bestowed by the constitution, not rights which have been expressly withheld. A provincial right is not only a right by a province to legislate upon a subject, but a right to be free from external control on any matter exclusively assigned to it. It is not a provincial right to legislate on the subject of crime; it is not a provincial right to legislate exclusively on the subject of immigration; it is not a provincial right to legislate in opposition to the compact on the subject of education. The 22nd section of the Manitoba Act says:

"In and for the province, the said legislature may exclusively make laws in relation to education, subject and according to the following provisions:

"1. Nothing in any such law shall prejudicially affect any right or privilege with respect to denominational schools which any class of persons have by law or practice at the union.

"2. An appeal shall lie to the Governor-General in Council from any act or decision of the legislature of the province or of any provincial authority, affecting any right or privilege of the Protestant or the Roman Catholic minority of the Queen's subjects in relation to education.

"3. In case any such provincial law, as from time to time seems to the Governor-General in Council requisite for the due execution of the provisions of this section is not made, or in case any decision of the Governor-General in Council on any appeal under this section is not duly executed by the proper provincial authority in that behalf, then, and in every such case, and as far only as the circumstances of each case require, the Parliament of Canada may make remedial laws for the due execution of the provisions of this section, and of any decision of the Governor-General in Council under this section."

This is the compact. It discloses the rights and privileges that were intended to be protected. It provides the machinery for the redress of wrongs, and for the correction of grievances. Where is the authority for saying that one class of rights or powers here conferred are more sacred than another class? Where do some of our contemporaries find any authority for a provincial right on the subject of education beyond what is here bestowed? The section begins with a declaration of the exclusive authority of a provincial legislature. The words are "in and for the province, the said legislature may exclusively make laws in relation to education," and if the power was intended to be absolute it should stop there; but there are three very important sub-sections added, which limit this authority, and under certain conditions transfer it to the Parliament of Canada. We notice that some of our contemporaries insist upon the practical elimination of these sub-sections, and they assume that Manitoba should be and is as free to legislate as if they had no existence. They insist that the Legislature of Manitoba shall, in this regard, be above the law, and that the Parliament of Canada shall wholly ignore the duty the law imposes. Such a contention is in the last degree demagogic, for we cannot assume that any writer can be so ignorant of our constitutional system as to suppose that Parliament can have a constitutional or moral right to abstain from discharging the trust committed to it. The Government of this country ought to be carried on in conformity with and in obedience to the supreme law, and not in defiance of its plainest provisions. If the policy advocated by Mr. Sifton, and by some of our contemporaries, is acted upon, then the compact is made a dead letter. Those who think that provincial jurisdiction over the subject of education should be absolute ought to insist upon repealing the sub-sections we have quoted; but to complain that any right arising under them is being protected under their authority is to complain of obedience to the law, and to make that obedience an offense.

Their Lordships of the judicial committee say:

"It must be remembered that the Provincial Legislature is not in all respects supreme with the Province. Its legislative power is strictly limited. It can deal only with matters declared to be within its cognizance by the British North America Act, as varied by the Manitoba Act. In all other cases, legislative authority rests with the Dominion Parliament. In relation to the subject specified in section 92 of the British North America Act, and not falling within those set forth in section 91, the exclusive power of the Provincial Legislature may be said to be absolute. But this is not so as regards education, which is separately dealt with, and has its own code both in the British North America Act and in the Manitoba Act."

* * * *

We have no intention whatever of conceding to any province a right to invade the common field, and to exclude the Parliament of Canada from exercising in this regard the most sacred of all the functions entrusted to it. Not long ago Principal Dawson, of McGill University, addressed the Government of Canada in respect to legal education, and pointed out that rules and regulations had been adopted which put all the Protestant high schools at a great disadvantage, and he and others asked that relief, in the premises, should be granted under the provisions of the B. N. A. Act, just as the Roman Catholics of Manitoba have done. The Legislature of Quebec repaired the wrong, and removed the grievances complained of. We do not hesitate to say that if they had not done so Parliament would have been justified in exercising its powers in that case for the very purpose for which it has been bestowed. We earnestly hope that the electors of this Province will not be so short-sighted as to give countenance to the proposal to uphold bad faith, under false pretense of a provincial right, for if they listen to such a claim coming from Manitoba today they may effectually put it out of their power to redress a wrong in Quebec tomorrow of even a more grave character.

It is sometimes said that as Parliament is not compelled to act, no action should be taken. Those who argue in this way would do well to devote a little time to make themselves acquainted with the elementary principles of the British constitutional system. The Crown cannot be compelled to pay its debts; it cannot be sued; but would any one in his senses seriously argue that there is no moral or constitutional obligation resting upon it? We know what the constitutional provisions in this respect mean; we know that its obligations, though only constitutional and moral, can be as clearly ascertained from the law as can those of an individual, against whom a writ of execution may be issued.

Now in this case of Manitoba the question is, are the matters complained of of the kind that the law intended to remedy, and are the privileges such as the law intended to protect? We say they are. There can be no room for doubt on the question. The judicial committee of the Privy Council say they are. The Queen-in-Council, acting upon the judgment of the judicial committee, reiterates this declaration. And what is said to the contrary? Only this: "Don't obey the law; don't follow the constitution; let Parliament ignore its trusts, and refuse to give effect to the compact." To what a state have the public affairs of this country come, when such a policy can, without a blush, be advocated!

Her Majesty-in-Council has been petitioned for a construction of this section of the Manitoba Act. She referred the subject to the judicial committee of the Privy Council, and after very full argument they have decided in favor of the minority whose rights have been affected by the legislation of Manitoba. That advice, in the form of a judgment, was reported to the Queen-in-Council, and in Council she has answered the six questions that were in the first instance submitted to the Supreme Court of Canada. These questions submitted are sufficiently indicated by the answers which she has given in Council after judgment. We need but refer to the two last; they are as follows: "In answer to the fifth question, that the Governor-General-in-Council has jurisdiction, and the appeal is well founded, but that the particular course to be pursued must be determined by the authorities to whom it has been committed by the statute; that the general character of the steps to be taken is sufficiently defined by sub-section 3 of section 22 of the Manitoba Act, 1870."

"In answer to the sixth question: 'That the acts of Manitoba relating to education passed prior to the session of 1890 did confer on the minority a right or privilege in relation to education within the meaning of sub-section 2 of section 22 of the Manitoba Act which alone applies; that the two acts of 1890 complained of did affect a right or privilege of the minority in such a manner that an appeal will lie thereunder to the Governor-General-in-Council."

* * * *

The substantial aim by the Government, in what they have done in this matter, is not, in our opinion, open to hostile criticism. The law ought to be honestly carried out, the compact in spirit adhered to, and the question removed from the arena of party politics. The Government ought not to be allowed to shelter themselves behind this question. The wasteful expenditures of the country, the oppressive taxation, the class legislation, and all those things upon which the general prosperity of the country depends, must be kept to the front. The constitution itself marks out the course to be taken on the Manitoba school question; and as to it there is no room for difference in principle among those who desire to keep faith. We may further say that all the reasons given by Mr. Sifton for a violation of the compact do not rise to the level of extenuating circumstances; not one of them is there which could not have been remedied without the revolutionary changes embraced in the act of 1890. They may show that legislation was necessary; and the very reason which the framers of the constitution had in view, when they put the rights of the minority under the protection of Parliament, rather than under the protection of the courts, was to enable the Government and Legislature to amend the legislation and to keep it abreast with the requirements of the country without taking away the rights of the minority.

The Roman Catholic population all over North America have asked that the state, in undertaking its work, shall not take from them the opportunity of accompanying that instruction with religious teaching which they deem of the highest moment to the individual. Very many Protestants share with them the feeling that secular education alone is inadequate to the formation of a high type of character, and that the indifference of some parents and the inability of others makes it important that this work should not be wholly neglected in the public schools. They also are of opinion that religious instruction, such as all Protestant bodies concur in, can be carried further in schools where separate or dissentient schools can be freely established by Roman Catholics as a part of the system.

This we know full well, that in Ontario, where the separate system is recognized, and where the same standard of attainment is required of all, the system secures more satisfactory results than in Massachusetts, where a system similar to that now existing in Manitoba is established. There is a larger percentage of Roman Catholic children in private schools in that State than there is in the separate schools with us, and the State has no control, either as to the qualification of the teachers or as to the work performed. When you provide public schools for a people who will not use them, and impose upon them the burden of supporting their own schools besides, the aggregate sum spent is far larger than under a mixed system, such as we have in this Province, and everyone must admit that the work performed will be far less satisfactory.

It is the business of statesmen not to make a new society, but to govern the community as they find it. The state is subordinate to the man; it exists for him, for the protection of his life and property and for the furtherance of his happiness. It admits of no masters who have a right to oppress. The kingdom of the truth is not of this world, and the weapons of the state are not to be employed to force one man's notions of it upon his neighbor.

THE HARTLEY CASE.

Among the pains and aches cured with marvelous rapidity with Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil is earache. The young are especially subject to it, and the desirability of this Oil as a family remedy is enhanced by the fact that it is admirably adapted not only to the above ailment, but also to the hurts, disorders of the bowels, and affections of the throat, to which the young are especially subject.

CRICKETERS IN COUNCIL.

Annual Meeting of the London Club—Most of the Officers Re-elected.

The annual meeting of the London cricket club was held in the Tecumseh House last night, and a large number of enthusiastic cricketers were present. The reports of the past year's work showed that the club had held its own. Altogether fifteen games were played, and of these eleven were won and four lost. The total minority of the Londoners in three of the four games was only eleven runs. The financial report was also encouraging, and the club starts with a goodly number of dollars in the treasury. A scheme which may give a great impetus to both cricket and lawn tennis in the city was also considered. Of late years the tennis club has been on the wane, but to bring it up to its old standard a proposition to bring about an amalgamation between it and the cricket club is on foot. Should the proposition be adopted, new grounds would be purchased, and a boom would undoubtedly ensue. As yet no definite steps have been taken in this direction. The old staff of officers was, with two exceptions, re-elected, with Mr. C. S. Hyman, M.P., as president. Mr. H. C. Pope was chosen honorary secretary, to succeed Mr. Campbell Becher, who retired, and Mr. F. W. Bayly was delegated to handle the cash, Mr. A. B. Cox declining re-election. The executive committee comprises Messrs. W. A. Young, A. B. Cox, F. Grew, G. A. Macbeth, Dr. Butler and Dr. Williams. The match committee is composed of Messrs. C. S. Hyman, H. C. Pope and Campbell Becher.

CROOKEDNESS ON THE CARS.

Damaging Statements of a Grand Trunk Railway Detective.

MONTREAL, April 16.—The trial of Grand Trunk Conductors Defries, Tamblyn and Mulligan, charged with conspiracy to defraud the railway company, was continued in the Criminal Court this morning.

John D. Fraser, clerk, Toronto, stated that he had been employed by the general inspector of the Grand Trunk to investigate this matter. He left Toronto Aug. 7 last, arriving in Montreal, where he put up at the Balmoral Hotel. Returning to Toronto, he purchased his ticket at the counter of the Queen's Hotel. It was not a regular G. T. R. ticket, but simply a white card. This he handed to Conductor Mulligan on board the train. He was asked if "Fred" had given him that. He replied "Yes." Mulligan then marked the figures "191-1" on the white piece of cardboard and put it in his (Fraser's) hatband. Mulligan had then taken another ticket from his pocket and given it to him, remarking that it would take him through. Arriving at Kingston, Fraser had gone to Mulligan and asked for another ticket, as he had lost the one out of his hat. Mulligan had given him another ticket, marking "220" upon it. Mulligan had then told him that Tamblyn would take the train from Kingston to Toronto. When Tamblyn came through accordingly, Fraser presented the card marked "220," which was punched and handed back. Witness had bought the ticket in Montreal from Wm. Lewis, a porter at the Queen's. Lewis had arranged with Fred Pominville, a porter at the Balmoral, all details. The two had instructed him how to sit in the car and where. He came to Montreal on Aug. 10 and got another ticket from Mulligan on board the train. He offered $5 for the ticket, saying it was all he had. Mulligan said that was too bad, and gave him back $2 50. In cross-examination witness stated he had done up the town with the two porters at the Grand Trunk's expense.

Other damage was also done to the extent of nearly $2,000. The fire is thought to be of incendiary origin.

Annual Meeting of the Hamilton and London Synod.

Able Address by Rev. Dr. Battisby, of Chatham.

Rev. G. L. Murray, of Kincardine, Chosen Moderator — The Wingham Trouble Settled—Mr. Munroe's Case Revised—Resolution on the School Question.

WOODSTOCK, April 16.—The annual meeting of the Hamilton and London Synod of the Presbyterian Church opened in Knox Church here last night.

The moderator, the Rev. Dr. Battisby, of Chatham, presided, preaching the annual discourse to the Synod, taking as his text, Judges i., 3. He delivered a very able and impressive address upon the subject of "The true method of church extension." He dealt at considerable length upon the three heads upon which he founded his sermon: 1. The nature of the church's work. 2. The need there is for this work. 3. The possibilities of such work.

At the conclusion of the moderator's address, the clerk, Rev. Dr. Cochrane, called the roll and the delegates proceeded to elect the moderator for the ensuing year. The choice fell on the Rev. G. L. Murray, of Kincardine, whose election was received with loud applause. Mr. Murray is a native of Oxford county, having been born near the village of Embro.

The standing committees were then appointed, and the Synod adjourned.

TUESDAY MORNING.

The sessions opened this morning at 10:30. After devotional exercises the clerk read the minutes of the previous meeting.

Rev. Dr. Cochrane presented a report of the committee which visited Wingham to adjust the difficulties between Mr. McQuannie and Mr. Gordon. The matters had been amicably arranged.

Reports of the Buckstone mission commission and Brantford Ladies' College were presented.

Revs. Drs. McMullen and Fletcher, were appointed to draft a resolution regarding the death of the late Dr. King.

The Monroe case was next taken up. Mr. Monroe was suspended from the Presbyterian Church in 1879, and had endeavored every year since to secure reinstatement. Last year the Synod laid the matter on the table, and the committee did not touch it. Mr. Henderson moved that the case be now taken up and disposed of. This provoked a good deal of discussion, and at last Mr. Monroe was allowed to address the Synod. An adjournment was had before the conclusion of the discussion which followed.

TUESDAY AFTERNOON.

During the afternoon the Synod was addressed by the Rev. J. Fraser Campbell, missionary to Central India, and the Rev. Dr. Robertson, of the Northwest missions, on matters pertaining to their separate fields of labor.

Dr. Hamilton gives notice of the motion on the Manitoba school question: "That this Synod views with deep concern the present opposition between the legislation of the Dominion Government and the Legislature of Manitoba, regarding the Educational Act of 1890, and hereby express its sympathy with the position taken by the representatives in the Manitoba Legislature against any interference by the Central Government with the educational matters of the Province.

"THE DIVINE SEARCH WARRANT."

Mrs. J. K. Barney Deals With This Subject at the Wellington Street Methodist Church.

At last evening's meeting at the Wellington Street Methodist Church, the body of the edifice was well filled. Mr. C. R. Sayer, secretary of the Y. M. C. A., had charge of the meeting, and a majority of the members of that organization assisted in the audience. A short season of song and prayer was held prior to the address. Miss Gilmour assisted with a solo.

"The Divine Search Warrant" was Mrs. Barney's subject. She remarked that in her work among the prisoners they would tell her of the crime, the conviction, the trial and the sentence. Once she read a psalm dealing with God's punishment of sin, and a prisoner had told her never to read that again to any of them, but to tell them of God's mercy and forgiveness. In the Scriptures God says: "I will search Jerusalem first." God comes with his law, his word and his Holy Spirit to search all people. In one place where Mrs. Barney had lectured an official in the church had asked her to come to his factory and pray with his men. He would even shut down the works. She questioned him as to how he had prayed with them, and found out that he didn't know anything about them. "Well, I will pray with you, and then you can pray with your men," she said. A great many young people say, "I ought to be a Christian," but they grow up and then they say, "Well, I don't think it would agree with my business just now," or, "My husband (or wife) wouldn't favor my taking any such steps." People have no idea of the terrible realization of sin. That is why there are no more Christians. God will set our secret sins in the light of his countenance. What have you got that you can say is your own? Nothing you can take with you into eternity but your sin. "I was once traveling," said Mrs. Barney, "from California to Nevada by stage route, and away up in the mountains the coach broke down. I was in a hurry to reach home, and impatient. A man who was serving us was asking each one where they came from. In reply I said Rhode Island. 'Why, there's a man from there dying upstairs,' said the man. I went up. It was a bare room, with only a turned picture on the wall. I asked the sick man why the picture was turned, and he told me to look at it. It was a very rough print of the Savior in a crown of thorns. The man could not bear to look at it, as he said it brought to his memory all his past wickedness and wrong-doing." Mrs. Barney concluded with an earnest appeal that all those present who were not Christians should become so, and asked for confessions from careless followers of Christ. Several persons present gave confessions of lost opportunities, and the meeting closed with the doxology.

A Bible reading entitled "Prayer" will be held in Somerset Hall this afternoon, and an address on "Connecting Links" will be given in the evening by Mrs. Barney in the Wellington Street Church.

Consumption Hospital

Thousands Dying Every Year From This Disease.

Dr. Slocum's Psychine and Dr. Slocum's Emulsion Is a Positive Cure for Consumption.

A HOPELESS CASE OF CONSUMPTION CURED.

This Is What the City Relief Commissioner Says:

Some five or six years ago, in the spring of the year my daughter, Mrs. Slemin, was pronounced a hopeless case of consumption by several eminent physicians in this city. I might here state that she had been for years somewhat delicate, and easily contracted coughs, colds, etc., when I was informed by the physicians that nothing could be done for her, and that it was a hopeless case. I decided as a last resort to try Dr. Slocum's Psychine and Dr. Slocum's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil. The Psychine was given to her as directed, three times a day, and the Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil three or four times a day. Before she had finished the first two bottles of these valuable preparations she was able to sit up in bed, and gradually began to improve, until she became quite strong again, and before many months had elapsed she was able to be out, and apparently was in perfect health. I can assure you I feel very grateful for what these remedies have done for my daughter. Although years have elapsed since, she is in the enjoyment of fairly good health, which goes to show that the relief that she received was of a permanent nature. I shall ever feel grateful to you for this valuable medicine, and shall ever esteem it a favor to recommend them to any person similarly afflicted, and I consider it a duty that I owe, not only to you as the proprietors of these remedies, but also a truthful recommendation may be the means of inducing some other sufferer to use Dr. Slocum's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil and Dr. Slocum's Psychine. Yours very truly, (Signed) EDWARD TAYLOR.

CONGREGATIONALISTS HERE.

Semi-Annual Meeting of the Western Association

In the Southern Congregational Church—Stirring Addresses and Satisfactory Reports.

About 35 delegates arrived in the city yesterday morning to attend the semi-annual meeting of the Western Congregational Association in the Southern Congregational Church. The delegates were billeted with the members of the church. They assembled in the afternoon in full force, when an interesting programme was carried out. The devotional exercises were conducted by Rev. W. H. A. Claris, after which reports from the various churches in the association were heard. Satisfactory progress was evidenced by these reports, and notwithstanding the depressing times the financial showing is excellent.

Following these reports was an eloquent address from Rev. J. Hindley, of Garafraxa, on "The Spiritual Life in a Minister," in which he affirmed that the progress of the work of the church of Christ would be impeded if ministers did not possess the true spiritual grace, and not think so much of explaining modern theories as the true Gospel.

The address was discussed and criticised, after which a paper was read by Rev. G. Skinner, of Frome, on "The Development of Talents." This was laid over for discussion.

After dealing with several applications for membership, the association adjourned until the evening.

In the evening the number in attendance was considerably augmented by the arrival of more delegates. The opening exercises were conducted by Rev. J. K. Uusworth, B.A., Scotland, who introduced Rev. J. Borton Hamilton, who took for his subject "The Church of the Future."

The address, which was listened to attentively, was a masterly and able effort, and was frequently interrupted with outbursts of applause. The different points brought out impressed his hearers deeply.

At the close a communion service was held, participated in by ministers and lay delegates.

The meetings will continue today.

Rev. A. W. Richardson, Brantford, is chairman.

ANOTHER CASE OF ARSON.

The Brigade Called to Horton Street at Midnight

To Attend the Third Incendiary Blaze in as Many Weeks—Loss Covered by Insurance.

Is London becoming a prey to incendiaries?

A little over a week ago a little log house was burned in the north end. As it had been unoccupied for some time and was a resort for tramps, its demolition caused little comment.

On Sunday night, however, an empty frame cottage in South London was fired, and clumsily fired at that. There was a noticeable smell of coal oil about the premises, and the flames had started just inside a window.

At midnight last night fire was discovered in rear of the residence of Mrs. Sarah J. Linfoot, on the northwest corner of Colborne and Horton streets. Mrs. Linfoot has not been living in the place during the winter, but has been staying with her son-in-law, Mr. Charles C. Young, general agent of the Port Stanley division of the Lake Erie and Detroit River Railroad, at 418 Horton street. The furniture, however, was not removed from No. 398. The fire was noticed by Mr. John Williams, 269 Colborne street, who heard the prolonged whistle of a G. T. R. yard engine a few minutes after midnight, and looked out. The fire was then in complete possession of the back porch, and by the time the brigade arrived the back of the house and kitchen and upstair bedrooms were badly burned. The damage to the building will amount to $200, and the furniture is also injured to the extent of probably $150. Mrs. Linfoot is not well, and it was fortunate she was not living is the house at the time, as her bedroom was badly damaged.

Peculiar facts attending the fire are the finding of a broken lamp just inside the kitchen window and the unaccountable shrinking of a pile of shavings which had accumulated in rear of a house in process of erection next door. The loss is covered by insurance.

UNSEATED THE MAYOR.

TORONTO, April 16.—Because at the time of his election he was "chief" of the fire brigade at the salary of $50 per annum, the court at Osgoode Hall today unseated Mayor Barnes, of Rat Portage, and ordered a new election.

Dyspepsia or indigestion is occasioned by the want of action in the biliary ducts, loss of vitality in the stomach to secrete the gastric juices, without which digestion cannot go on: also, being the principal cause of headache. Parmelee's Vegetable Pills taken before going to bed for a while, never fail to give relief and effect a cure. Mr. F. W. Ashdown, Ashdown, Ont., writes: "Parmelee's Pills are taking the lead against ten other makes which I have in stock."

"And this—this is elocution!" sighed the poet, as the recitationist finished his pet poem. "Yes, what did you think it was?" "Execution," returned the poet, with a moan.

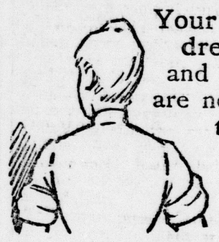

Tammany has been reorganized in New York. Richard Croker will continue to lead.

Why will you allow a cough to lacerate your throat or lungs and run the risk of filling a consumptive's grave, when by the timely use of Bickle's Anti-Consumptive Syrup the pain can be allayed and the danger avoided? This syrup is pleasant to the taste, and unsurpassed for relieving, healing and curing all affections of the throat and lungs, coughs, colds, bronchitis, etc.

Mrs. Gadzley—Do you suffer much from toothache? Mrs. Blazzer—No—that is, not unless my husband has it.

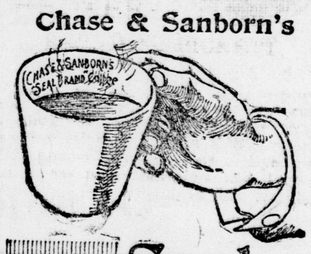

"It's her disposition to make light of serious things," he said mournfully. "Yes," replied Cholly Luvlorn. "She even burns the poetry I write about her."

It's a gain for her and a gain for you, and they're washed just as safely as they could be with the best soap—only a great deal more easily. CHICAGO.

CHICAGO, April 16.—The supply of cattle was light today and prices were strong at Monday's advance. There was a fair demand for dressed beef and butchers' cattle. Offerings of sheep were light and prices held very firm.

TORONTO.

TORONTO, April 16.—Because of lighter offerings there was quite a firmer feeling at the Western cattle yards today. Everything sold early. Buying for outside markets was not so brisk so that local butchers came in for a better supply. Receipts were 19 carloads, which included 1,530 lambs and sheep, 622 hogs and nearly 200 calves.

Butchers' Cattle—Offerings were light, and the demand rather better. All worth buying sold early. Buying for Montreal was not so brisk, only 3 carloads being taken. Prices were about ¼c per lb better than they were on last market day. Good to choice butchers' cattle sold at from 3½c to 4½c per lb. The demand for Easter beef has been good and the supply rather light, which has had the effect of firming the market. Common cattle did not sell so well as good ones, and ranged from 2¾c to 3½c.

Sheep and Lambs—Not many offered, and the market was firmer. Good grain-fed yearlings sold for 5c to 5½c per lb, and more are wanted. Sheep were only quiet and not many are wanted. Those disposed of today sold at from $4 to $6 per head.

Export Cattle—Buyers were looking out for a few head today, but none of the right kind and they were unsupplied.

Hogs—There were a firmer feeling, and as high as 5½c per lb, weighed off the cars, was paid for one or two choice lots of long, lean bacon hogs, ruling prices for that kind being from $4 to $5 per cwt. All kinds of hogs were firmer. Stores were fetching from $4 70 to $4 80 per cwt, weighed off the cars; thick fat hogs, $4 80 to $4 95, and $5 per cwt. In calves —Offerings were heavy and the feeling was barely steady. The general range of prices was from $3 50 to $4 50 per head, with selected veals going up to $6, $7 and $8 per head.

EARTHQUAKE IN QUEBEC.

ACTONVALE, Que., April 17.—A very severe shock of earthquake was felt here at 11:30 this morning. A quantity of window glass was broken, two chimneys knocked down and other small damage done. Great excitement prevailed.

The shocks were felt in Three Rivers, Waterloo, Drummondville, Coaticooke, St. Anne, Roxton's Falls and St. Stanilaus, all in Quebec, and in Norwood, N. Y.

—William Charles Parker and Gertrude Sophia Jacobson, of Detroit, were married in this city yesterday by the Rev. W. T. Hill.

—Mr. and Mrs. S. J. Radcliffe, of this city, are spending the Easter holidays at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Scholtz, at Stratford.

—Building permits have been issued to T. W. Harrison for the erection of a frame cotage on the corner of Colborne and Hill streets, to cost $400; and to S. B. Coon, for the erection of a two-story brick house at the corner of Queen's avenue and Maitland street, to cost $2,200.

—With Mr. H. Ruthven Macdonald as the principal contributor, the concert in the City Hall tomorrow night will undoubtedly be most enjoyable. The popular baritone will be assisted by Miss Allen, Miss Jex, Mr. Thorn, Mr. Huntington and the Hatton male quartet.

—The funeral of the late Rev. James Gordon will take place tomorrow afternoon, from his late residence, 730 Waterloo street. The services will be conducted by Rev. Robt. Johnston, of St. Andrew's Church, assisted by some of the local Presbyterian clergymen. Interment at Woodland.

—It is pointed out that besides the three fires mentioned as of incendiary origin in this morning's "Advertiser" the burning of Frank Armstrong's cottage on Quebec street about a week ago is still unexplained. Like the other places, it was an empty house, and there was no fire or light about the premises before the blaze.

—An interesting time was spent last night at the York Street Mission, in which several of the children took part. The chair was occupied by Mr. A. C. Vaughan. After a very interesting programme plants were given to the members of the Mission, which they were requested to take home. In a few months the children are expected to show the plants and a prize will be given to the one who has the best.

—At this morning's police court a young man named Andrew Thompson was charged with fighting on the street. The row occurred on Good Friday eve, but Thompson escaped while the police were gathering in his opponent. The latter was in the dock on Friday morning, but his case was enlarged till today to allow of Thompson being summoned. In the magistrate's opinion Thompson was to blame, and a fine of $2 or a week in jail was imposed. His partner was discharged. Patrick McPhillips, drunk, was also allowed to go.

—The gentlemen honorary members of the Mission Circle in connection with the Queen's Avenue Methodist Church entertained the young ladies of the circle and their friends at the residence of Mr. Spencer, 534 Queen's avenue, last night. An informal programme was rendered by the gentlemen, the ladies being put to no other exertion but that of listening. This proved a delightful task, as the choruses were very pleasing, the solos well rendered and the recitations and readings most enjoyable. During the evening eighteen new honorary members were added to the roll.

THE SPRINGBANK ROAD.

Manager Carr and Party Laying Out the Proposed Route.

Indications that the Road Will Be Built This Spring—A Survey To Be Made.

A wagon load of stakes, headed as if they might bring up at Springbank or thereabouts, attracted the attention of an "Advertiser" reporter this morning. There was nothing unusual about the stakes. They were of the ordinary kind that are generally used to stake out the proposed route of a road. There was also nothing unusual about the driver—except that he was a street railway employe. The wagon was also labelled "London Street Railway Company," and the fact that they were headed in the direction of Springbank led to inquiries, the result of which tend to show that the street railway company has serious intentions of building the road to Springbank this spring.

Manager Carr, Cashier Currie and two other gentlemen were busy at Springbank today, with the aid of the hereintofore mentioned stakes, laying out the route of the proposed line and bridge. After dinner two of the quartet reurned by boat, and the other two by the road on the north side of the river.

The actual survey on the north side of the river will be made shortly.

The proposed city electric railway bylaw is still in the hands of the company's solicitors.

A BIG HAUL.

$5,000 Stolen From the Canadian Express Company at Parkhill.

Most of It Recovered and John Grant Arrested on Suspicion.

On Thursday afternoon last a daring burglary was committed in the office of the Canadian Express Company in Parkhill. About 1:45 o'clock the train from Toronto stopped at the village station, and among the valuables handed to the express agent was a package containing $5,000 in bills, assigned to the Bank of Commerce, Parkhill, from the Toronto branch. The package was taken to the express office and placed in the safe. The officer in charge had occasion to leave the office, and when he returned the package was missing.

Mr. B. S. Murray, of the Canadian Express Company, this city, was notified, and went to Parkill. Constable Maine was engaged to work with Mr. Murray, and before noon on Saturday over $4,000 had been recovered from various places in the village.

Sunday was no day of rest for Messrs. Murray and Maine, and their searches resulted in the location of $935 more. The balance of the $5,000 has not been found.

Suspicion rested on John Grant, a man of 37 years, who has hung around the village for about five months, doing nothing. Grant was arrested at the Royal Hotel and brought to the city today. He was arraigned before Judge Edward Elliott and further remanded. Grant was formerly engaged as train dispatcher on the G. T. R. at Point Edward, and was transferred to Parkhill. He was discharged about five months ago.

HOT IN HALDIMAND.

Both Parties Hard at Work and Interest Intense.

Conservatives Accused of Bribery—Roman Catholics Neutral.

CAYUGA, Ont., April 17.—The weather today is beautiful, but the country roads are terrible. Rumors are current that a large sum of money is being used by the Conservatives and the McCarthyites claim to have obtained proof of several cases of bribery, which, in the event of the defeat of their candidate, they will make use of.

There are reports of a big split in the ranks of the Conservative party in the country, and also that many Liberals will vote Conservative.

In Cayuga the result is doubtful.

JARVIS, Ont., April 17.—The McCarthyites and Hon. Mr. Montague's friends are doing their utmost to get in the outside vote. They are bringing every influence to bear to get votes. So far there have been no rows. The Catholics are not taking an active part, and the prospects are they will not vote or will be equally divided. The indications here point to a close contest. The interest is intense.

THE PRICE OF PEACE.

Terms of the Treaty—Enormous Cessions to Japan.

LONDON, April 17.—A dispatch to the Star from Tien Tsin says an imperial proclamation has been issued authorizing Li Hung Chang to sign a treaty of peace with Japan guaranteeing the payment of 2,000,000 taels indemnity. By the proclamation Li Hung Chang is empowered to cede to the Japanese the Island of Formosa and the Peninsula of Liao Tung to the 40th degree of latitude; to sanction the opening of five new commercial ports, including Pekin, and to give Japan the power to open cotton factories and other industries in China.

By the terms of the protocol the import dues at the open ports are not to exceed 2 per cent. Another imperial proclamation has been issued granting sick leave to the Viceroy of Canton, and ordering him to retire to his native province.

The Russian journals are more vigorous in their utterances than the English papers, and sound the warning that the signing of such a treaty of peace will be only a prelude to a wider though unnecessary armed conflict.

LONDON, April 17.—The Pall Mall Gazette says the cession of Formosa will surely displease England, while the cession of Port Arthur will be objected to by Russia. "Our Government," the Gazette says, "may safely be depended upon to do nothing, however, unless the other powers take action."

Gives a Few Pointers and Some Good Advice,

Which Many Will Be Glad to Follow.

UFFORD, Oct. 14, 1894.

Messrs. Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto:

Gentlemen,—I think it is due to you to let you know the benefits I have received from Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. I have been suffering off and on for three years from bladder trouble, with a constant desire to urinate, with its accompanying weakness. Medicine furnished by a skillful physician afforded me temporary relief, but the trouble would return, often at very awkward times. I was persuaded to try the pills, and obtained relief from the first. Before I had taken one 25 cent box I felt better than I had for years, and have had not the slightest symptoms of the complaint since. As there are, no doubt, many others who are suffering from like troubles, and to whom a cure would be a similar boon, you are welcome to use this communication as you please. I remain, yours faithfully,

A Lost Gem

It was perhaps rather an odd wooing' And when he had bent his lips to the little hand that she had given him, and the compact was ratified by a kiss, Stella felt a rush of compunction, of dread, of insecurity. What had she done? Had she not given her consent too readily to the most momentous step in life that a woman can ever take? What did she know of Alan Moncrieff, and how could she believe that he cared for her?

But then, she told herself positively, there was no pretence of 'caring' on either side. He had not said one word of love; he had not asked for her affection. He had asked her to perform certain duties at his side; that was all. She honestly believed that she could do these duties—that she could be of more help to Molly and Bertie as their father's wife than in her present position. And she wanted to help them. She was fond of Bertie; and she had grown to love Molly with all her heart. It was surely right to take upon herself the duty that was offered to her; to do her best for the man who would be her husband, for the boy and girl whom she could also count as hers. She did not feel as if the task would be without its charms.

But she did not love him, she went on to say to herself. She admired and respected him; and surely that was enough? If her heart had never been won before, she might have looked for passionate affection in her lover; now she was only too glad to feel that he neither gave nor required any such thing.

She was tired of the very name of love. John Hannington had won it from her once and flung it cruelly away; she had none now to give. Honestly believing, as young people do sometimes believe, that she had loved once and for ever, it seemed a fair bargain to her to give her hand to a man whose heart was, presumably, buried in a grave, and who asked her only for help and service in a prosaic, matter-of-fact, but kind and even fatherly way. That was Stella's view of the question, and she gave little thought to the possibly that marriage would bring her either great happiness or great misery.

Meanwhile Mr. Moncrieff looked at her, and thought of the poem that he had once or twice quoted when her sweet tranquility was before him:—

Her eyes were stiller than the depths
Of summer skies at even."

But when he spoke aloud, only commonplace words came forth.

"How soon shall you be ready for our marriage, Stella?"

She started and colored. "Oh, not yet," she murmured, nervously.

"I hope that it will not be very long before I can call you my own property," said Mr. Moncrieff, rather lightly, but with a sudden softening of his stern, dark face. "I have heard you say that you wanted to see Staffa; we might go there before the season closes——"

But Stella gave him a look of such mingled surprise and dismay, that he smiled and resolved to bide his time. More could not be said just then, for Miss Jacky and Molly were seen approaching, and in their astonishment at Mr. Moncrieff's appearance, Stella's flushed face and drooping eyelids passed unnoticed.

Molly's lively tongue was, as usual, hushed in her father's presence, and she soon seized an opportunity of drawing Stella away from his side, and leaving him to the companionship of Miss Jacky. He walked with them to their lodgings, and then bade them farewell, saying that he would return in the evening. And Stella found that he had made good use of his time, for, as soon as Molly could be shaken off, Miss Jacky seized her niece impulsively, and gave her a kiss of congratulation.

"And what's this I hear, Stella?" she said, her very bonnet nodding with mingled delight and agitation. "Mr. Moncrieff of Torresmuir, that has been everywhere and seen everything, to take up with a wee lassie like you. Well, wonders will never cease. You to be mistress of his house, and one of the grandest ladies in the country side! It's a proud man your father would have been, lassie, if he had lived to see that day! And do ye mind him saying that he meant to see you a duchess yet? Why, Moncrieff's as rich as many a duke, I believe, and a far grander looking man than any I ever saw; and ye may well be proud of your conquest, Stella, my bairn!"

"Proud?" said Stella, smiling a little. "I think I am more perplexed than proud, Aunt Jacky. Do you think that I am right?"

"If ye love the man, ye're right to marry him, be he lord or beggar," said Aunt Jacky, stoutly.

"But if I don't love him?"

"Ye're not thinking of marrying without love, are you, my dear? That's just an awful thing to do."

Stella stood silent for a moment. Her color varied and her lips trembled as she replied—

"But—if I do not love him, I respect him, I admire him, I like him. Is that not enough? He has asked me to help him; and I want of all things to be a help and a comfort to him. Oh, auntie, do not tell me that I am doing wrong."

"But have you not considered, my dear, what a frightful thing it would be if you met somebody, some day, that you liked better than your husband? And if you don't love him, it seems to me a just possibility," said Miss Jacky, quite simply and solemnly, her eyes growing large with horror as she uttered her little warning. But, to her great surprise, Stella met it with a burst of tears.

"Oh, Aunt Jacky, I shall never, never do that! I shall never love anybody—I shall never be loved myself," sobbed the poor child on her aunt's shoulder, as Miss Jacky hastened to console her. The old lady scarcely heard, and certainly did not understand the words, but she saw that her beloved Stella was in trouble, and she at once forgot everything but her love for her brother's daughter, and her desire that she should be happy.

Mr. Moncrieff came to the house from his hotel that evening, and pressed the scheme of a very speedy marriage upon his betrothed with some assiduity. And, indeed, as he said, what was the use of waiting? If Stella had promised to marry him at all, she might as well marry him at once. And Stella, after the first protest, and in spite of some inward shrinking, was persuaded to agree with him. With her limited means there could be little question about wedding finery. Then it would be a pity to deprive Alan of his autumn holiday, and he told her plainly that he would not go away from Dunkeld without her, and that it would be much more convenient for him if she would become his wife with as little delay as possible. Stella was far too reasonable to oppose his will.

She wondered very much how Molly and Bertie would take the news, which Mr. Moncrieff insisted on telling them almost immediately. The result was unlooked for. Bertie seemed pleased by it in a shy and diffident sort of way; he wrote a letter expressive of great content with the new arrangement; but Molly, who had hitherto seemed so fond of Stella, raged and stormed for a day or two, and then fell into an aggrieved and injured frame of mind, which distressed Stella inexpressibly. Molly was sixteen now, and felt it very hard to have a stepmother only five years older than herself set over her head; for she had begun to dream of the delight of being mistress of the house, of going very soon into society, and assuming all the importance which would attach to the daughter of the master of Torresmuir. Now she felt that she would have to resign herself to obscurity and submissiveness for some time longer; and she did not relish the prospect.

The marriage was celebrated early in August; and then the bride and bridegroom departed on their wedding tour. Molly was left with friends to pay several visits while her father was away; and Bertie and his uncle had some shooting in the Highlands. It was late in September before Alan Moncrieff brought his young wife home to Torresmuir.

CHAPTER XIV.

Stella had sometimes wondered at the fear entertained by Molly of Mr. Moncrieff, but during the days of her engagement and of her early married life she was fain to confess that the fear was justifiable. Alan Moncrieff was a grave man, whose manner was apt to be cold and austere; his will was strong, his judgments, founded on a very high ideal of conduct, occasionally seemed to her harsh and inflexible. There were certain sins and vices which he never condoned. Deceit of any kind was in his eyes unpardonable; cowardice, incomprehensible as well. He did not boast of his inability to forgive, as a weak man would have done; he was, perhaps hardly aware of the force with which this characteristic struck an observer; but Stella could not help feeling that she should be sorry to incur his displeasure, and that she sympathized a little with his children's awe of him. His manner was so courteous and he was so uniformly calm and kind and gentle, that she did not all at once discover the iron hand beneath the velvet glove, and even when she found it out she could not find it in her heart to like him the less, although she might fear him the more, for it.

Her honeymoon was, however, a very enjoyable time to her. It might have astonished Molly to see how far her father could unbend when he chose to do so, how seldom the melancholy shade crossed his brow, and how ready was his smile, when he was with Stella. He took great pleasure in showing her fine scenery, old buildings, and interesting relics of antiquity; and, finding her a very intelligent listener, he developed a flow of talk of which nobody at his own home would have deemed him capable.

EMPLOYER AND EMPLOYES.

Conditions in This City Contrasted With Those in Britain.

The Relations That Should Exist if Mutual Prosperity is to Prevail.

In your issue of March 15, says a well-known citizen, I notice an item relating to two firms in the old country who have reduced the working hours to eight hours per day, and have experienced no falling off in the percentage of work turned out. Now, I came from the old country, and my own personal experience has been that they are far more considerate of their men than in any other part of the world I have been. Take this place, for instance. I know of one firm here who have a basis of operations founded on their own inexperienced ideas without any thought or consideration for the knowledge or skill of any of its principal stays, as any skilled artisan is and must necessarily be a stay in any firm in which he is employed. The great trouble seems to be a bitter antagonism between the master and man as to the terms on which a man should work. Instead of using the knowledge an experienced man brings, they are determined to use their own narrow ideas, and as many of them do say, to work the business in their own way. Of course, we know that they have a perfect right to use their own discretion, but does it pay? I say no, and my experience in various shops has fully proved to me that masters lose heavily by this plan. In ninety-nine cases out of every hundred, I have found that the master who thoroughly understands his business (that is, the practical part of it), is generally the one to cede to his men those little items that go to make the business a successful undertaking, as he knows from past experience that a man who has traveled much generally carries with him ideas not possibly to be had by one who has always remained at home, and that generally add to the reputation of the firm he may work for. The majority of the people I have met with here have an idea that if a man is kept at work for ten hours he must perforce accomplish more than if he worked eight hours. Now, with skilled labor this is entirely a mistake, and I think has been very sufficiently proved in various places over and over again. A man who is getting paid, say by the hour, at so much an hour, for ten hours per day, knows that the general trade demands a certain amount of work done in that given time. Now, if you give that man to understand that you have reduced the time to eight hours per day, but expect him to accomplish the same amount of work, he will do it. I have seen this hundreds of times in various shops, and never knew it to fail. But also in several cases where inexperienced managers have absolutely refused to concede anything in any form to any of their men, I have found that the firm whom they represent are the losers thereby, as they are not generally experienced enough in the practical part of the business, even while watching a man work, to know that he has the power of making or losing the firm a certain percentage at his particular work. These are the firms who are continually changing their hands, allowing good men to be replaced by inferior workmen, just for the meager satisfaction of working the business on a system based upon their own narrow standard. In this age of keen competition it is necessary that there should be a mutual and agreeable understanding between master and man in order that the master should profit thereby as far as possible, as upon the prosperity of the master depends the prosperity of the man, and a master must needs be short-sighted who would create, or allow another to create, a spirit of antagonism between himself and his men. We all know very well that every man with money, who can control labor to any extent, believes he can also demand any quality of skilled labor that he may require. This in some instances is a great mistake, as in some cases a man is so skilled as for it to be almost impossible to replace him in the event of his leaving; and again, I know of a firm where the mutual understanding between master and man is of such an agreeable nature that you could not bribe one of his men to leave him for any money. How many firms are there in this city of which this can be said? I have noticed that in Canada this petty feeling of uppishness of master to man seems greatest. In my experience, England is best, then France and Germany follow very closely. There are many illustrations I could draw from, and I have no doubt there are hundreds of others who could speak from experience on this matter, but as I have taken up more space than I should, I must end.

JOHN A. HENDERSHOTT

Could Not Mortgage His Chattels Because He Is Legally Dead.

(St. Thomas Times.)

John A. Hendershott, now under sentence of death, raised a sum of money on his real estate to pay the expenses of his trial, the amount being variously stated at from $1,500 to $2,700, and his fellow-prisoner, William D. Welter, contributed what cash he had saved—a couple of hundred dollars. In order to pay off some small creditors an effort was made to raise money on Hendershott's chattels, but the solicitor for the person to whom application was made pointed out that when Hendershott was sentenced to death he was legally dead, and therefore could not execute a legal document. The money it is understood has been raised in another way to satisfy these creditors. There was no legal point raised in this matter, as has been stated in a London newspaper, because the point in question is settled, and laid down in all the legal text books. Hendershott's brick house and lot at Middlemarch were offered for sale under a first mortgage on Saturday, but did not reach the reserved bid. What money he raised for the trial was raised on a second mortgage and by a first mortgage on the Aylmer property.

Mr. John A. Robinson, counsel for Hendershott, says everything possible will be done to secure a new trial. Application will be made to the Attorney-General for a fiat to bring an appeal on the admission of the evidence of Mrs. McConnell, Mrs. French and George DeLacey, and of there not being sufficient evidence to go to the jury in any case before the Court of Appeal. If this fails, application will be made to the Minister of Justice, on review of the evidence, to order a new trial.

Out of Sorts.—Symptoms, headache, loss of appetite, furred tongue, and general indisposition. These symptoms, if neglected, develop into acute disease. It is a trite saying that an "ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure," and a little attention at this point may save months of sickness and large doctors' bills. For this complaint take from two to three of Parmelee's Vegetable Pills on going to bed, and one or two for three nights in succession, and a cure will be effected.

Manufacturers Complain That Water Meters Register Far Too Much.

Movement to Tax Vacant Property Adjoining Water Mains for Water Privileges—Petitions for Extensions of the System.

Chairman Cowan, of the water commissioners, said yesterday afternoon at the regular meeting of the commissioners that he was formulating a scheme for the assessment of vacant property, in front of which water mains are laid, and for that purpose ordered Engineer Moore to prepare a statement of all vacant property in the city so situated. It is the intention if possible to make the owners pay something for the privilege of having water so handy.

Mr. Thomas Warner applied for a service on Grosvenor street, east of Maitland street. Referred to the inspector.

P. E. Gregory, Wortley road, complained of an overcharge of one room on his house, 239 Wortley road. Referred to the inspector.

Action was deferred on Charles McMillan's application for the use of the hotel at Springbank.

Residents of Langarth street, west of Edward street, south side, applied for an extension of the system to that neighborhood. Referred to the engineer with power.

Residents of the north end of William street, in the neighborhood of the brick yards, applied again for city water. The application was also referred to the engineer.

Mr. John Watson wrote complaining of an overcharge on the last quarter's account. Referred to the engineer.

The London Furniture Company also complained that the meter on their premises did not register correctly, and pointed out that under the old fixed rate they were charged $42 40 quarterly, whereas now their bill was $85 net. If the company could not get free water they asked that they be charged a fixed rate like the McClary Company. Action on the matter was deferred until several similar applications are dealt with.

The secretary reported that 39 water meters had been out of order so far this year.

There were pumped during the last fortnight 34,373,428 gallons of water. On April 15 there were twelve feet nine inches of water in the reservoir. The limit is thirteen feet six inches.

Engineer Moore submitted a sketch of a proposed swimming bath at Springbank to be 50x150 in size, the water to be from two to seven feet deep. Ample provision is made for spring boards, ladders, etc., but no reference was made to the probable cost. It was laid over.

There were present R. K. Cowan (chairman), Joseph Judd, Mayor Little, Secretary Ellwood, and Inspectors Platt and Plastow.

CHARITY ORGANIZATION SOCIETY.

It is thought advisable by the mayor and the committee appointed to arrange for a public meeting of the charity organization to postpone the proposed meeting until September, when all the charitable organizations will resume work. In the meantime the committee will be active in distributing literature explaining the objects and working of the association and for the preparing for the foundation of the society on a firm basis.

NEXT TUESDAY'S CONCERT.

The plan for the London Choral Society's concert on Tuesday, April 23, opens tomorrow (Thursday) at R. S. Williams & Sons' music rooms. The soloists that have been secured by the society are artists of a very high order. Mr. Fred Jenkins is a vocalist of rare attainments. As an oratorio or concert singer he is the peer of any tenor in America. He received unstinted praise in Montreal two years ago by his singing of Gounod's "Redemption" at sight. London concert goers will be delighted to hear Mrs. Frank Mackelcan, who will sing three numbers. Mr. W. C. Furness' many friends will also welcome his reappearance upon the concert platform. His rich bass voice will be heard to advantage in his several solos, and will prove a surprise to those who have not heard him. Miss Evelyn DeLatre Street's abilities as a violinist have been greatly developed since her former appearance here two years ago.

James was convicted of having allowed gambling on the hotel premises, and was fined $20. Friends appeared on behalf of Alex. McDonald, who was charged with asssaulting a constable. They promised to send him to Grand Rapids, and the magistrate warned him not to return before Jan. 1, 1896. Fred Keene was charged with operating a second-hand store without the requisite license. He was not aware of the law's requirements, and promised to take out the license at once. Wm. D. Lyons, Alfred Hall, John Twitchen, Dugald McKechnie and Francis Downey were allowed a week in which to pay their carter's licenses. Patrick McCue and James McIntyre were allowed a similar period in which to pay their cab licenses. James Heron, a cigarmaker, was charged by his wife, Georgina Heron, with being drunk and dangerous. She says he has been drinking steadily for six weeks. The magistrate remanded him for a week to sober up.

WILD WEST WAYS.

Murderous Attack on a Sandwich Farmer by Masked Marauders.

WINDSOR, April 15.—Chief of Police Wills received word today that a murderous attack had been committed on a West Sandwich farmer named Tuite, whose home is four miles from Windsor. At a late hour Tuite was summoned to his door by a loud knock, and when he asked who was there the name of one of his neighbors was given in response. He opened the door, and was confronted by two masked men, one of whom reached forward with a long-bladed knife and slashed at his neck. The weapon struck Tuite's cheek and jaw, however, and though it made an ugly wound it did not inflict serious injury. The house was ransacked, but the marauders found only $15.

THE SAN FRANCISCO MURDERS.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 16.—Evidence is fast accumulating connecting the young medical student Durant with the murder of the Misses Lamont and Williams in the organ loft of the church. Durant was arraigned in the police court today for the murder of Miss Williams. The hearing was set for next Monday morning.
