MEN WANTED

Scarcity of Mechanics and Laboring Men in This District—Everybody is Busy.

"I never saw a time when men were so scarce as they are at present," said Ward Stanworth to a Planet reporter this morning.
"I have been looking all over to-day for a painter and I have not been able to get one yet. The same difficulty is experienced by every one wishing to procure men with any trade."
"I was over near Ridgeway lately and I found that the farmers in that part of the county will pay almost any price for a good man. It is hard to amount of standing orders for men to take positions on farms at from $25 to $30 a month."

INVESTIGATING

The Harwich Township Council Looking into the Matter of Complaints Against Drains.

Reeve McCully and Councillors C. Buchanan and R. Young, of Harwich, were in the city to-day consulting Wilson & Co. in reference to the writ that has been served on the township by Mr. Henry, asking damages by reason of more water coming down the drain through his farm than should. This is the same drain that was the cause of so much difference between Mr. Henry and the township of Harwich some years in former years.
A good quantity of the water that goes down this drain, the council claims, comes from the town of Harwich. A special meeting of the township has been called to determine what action should be taken. The councillors, however, have expressed their intention of referring this matter to the bottom, and settling it once for all.

EX-PREMIER OF ONTARIO CALLED TO THE BEYOND

Hon. Arthur S. Hardy Passed Away Last Evening From Paralysis of the Heart—Had Been in Public Life for 26 Years.

Toronto, June 13.—Hon. A. S. Hardy died at eight minutes past ten to-night of paralysis of the heart, following on the operation performed on Saturday for appendicitis. Mr. S. H. Hardy, Dr. Hardy and C. H. Hardy, son, and Miss Gladys, a daughter, were with him. Mr. Hardy had been unconscious for some time before death.
Arthur Sturgis Hardy, K.C., LL.D., ex-Premier of Ontario, was the son of the late Russell Hardy, and his wife, Julietta Sturgis. He was of U. E. L. descent. Born at Mount Pleasant, Ont., Dec. 14, 1837, and educated at Mount Pleasant Grammar School and Rockwood Academy. Studied law with his uncle, H. A. Hardy, and with the firm of Chief Justice Harrison, Toronto. Was called to the bar in 1865; Q. C. in 1876; a bencher of the Law Society of Ontario. Was first elected to the Legislature of Ontario in April, 1878, and represented South Brant continuously until his retirement in 1899. He entered the Mowat Administration in March, 1877, as Provincial Secretary, which portfolio he held until January, 1899, when he was appointed Commissioner Crown Lands. On the appointment of Sir Oliver Mowat to be Minister of Justice for Canada, July 13, 1896, Mr. Hardy became Premier of Ontario and Attorney-General. Was elected a Vice-President of the British Association for Advancement of Science at its meeting in Toronto in 1897. Received the honorary degree of LL.D. from Toronto University, 1897. Married January, 1870, Mary, daughter of the late Mr. Justice Morrison. Was a member of the Church of England. Owing to declining health he retired from the Premiership two years ago and accepted a minor office in Osgoode Hall, having declined a Superior Court Judgeship on account of his failing that the weak state of his health would not permit of his giving the onerous duties the attention they deserved. A year ago he was presented by his friends and admirers throughout the Province with a testimonial which aggregated $20,000.
Funeral arrangements have not been definitely completed, but it is proposed that the body shall be taken to Brantford by the C. P. R. train leaving Toronto 4.40 on Saturday afternoon. The interment will probably be at Brantford on Sunday afternoon.

NO FOUNDATION FOR RUMORS OF PEACE NEGOTIATIONS

Mr. Balfour, the Government Leader, Makes an Authoritative Statement in the British House of Commons—The Cost of the War.

London, June 13.—A. J. Balfour, the government leader, answering a question in the house of commons to-day, said there was no foundation for the rumors of peace negotiations with the Boers. The Boer strength in the field was estimated to be 17,000 men.

RUMORS GALORE.

Before the above official announcement was made in the commons, a London cable stated that Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman would ask the government in the house of commons to-day whether it will give full information as to the condition of affairs in South Africa. The despatch added: "It will be a surprise if he elicits anything very definite. What most people would like is the exact truth concerning the basis of the various peace rumors which are daily becoming more numerous and more emphatic, but which are bewilderingly divergent. There is daily some fresh version of the mission to Europe of Mrs. Botha, wife of the Boer commandant-general. The latest comes to the Morning Post from Brussels in the form of a summary of a statement issued by the Transvaal agency there. It says in effect that Mrs. Botha is not acting as an intermediary for the purpose of terminating hostilities. She is visiting Mr. Kruger as the emissary of her husband to explain the situation in South Africa to him. The initiative of any peace negotiations is in Mr. Kruger's hands. Neither Gen. Botha nor any other Boer leader will abandon arms except under orders from Mr. Kruger. The Standard's Brussels correspondent, however, attributes to the same source a statement that negotiations are possibly passing between General Kitchener and Gen. Schalk Burger, although Mr. Kruger has not been informed to that effect. From other Boer and pro-Boer sources on the continent come stories which almost compel belief that negotiations or tentative proposals in that direction are under way. The correspondence in South Africa contribute to the rumors. One declares that the Consul of the Netherlands, with Gen. Kitchener's permission, has returned to Standerton from Pretoria, and resumed negotiations with the Boer leaders. The Cape Times optimistically predicts an early peace, declaring that the Boers are only anxious to surrender."

COST OF THE WAR.

London, June 13.—Sir David Barbour, whom the Chancellor of the Exchequer, Sir Michael Hicks-Beach, sent to South Africa to investigate the sources of revenue of the Transvaal and Orange River Colonies, with the view of estimating how much they should contribute towards the cost of the war, reports in favor of a ten percent tax on the profits of the mines, yielding, on the basis of the profits of 1898, $450,000 yearly. After paying this Sir David Barbour considers the mines will be better off than before, as they will save $600,000 per year on dynamite, owing to the abolition of the monopoly in that commodity. The Orange River Colony will be unable for some years to meet the ordinary cost of administration and pay its share of the cost of the constabulary.

danger and closed upon the would-be assassin. Realizing that with such antagonists his case was hopeless, Epperson offered but a short resistance. He was soon overpowered and Mr. Brackin nervily confiscated the murderous weapons, while Mr. Goodall held the prisoner in his iron embrace. Incidentally Constables Chas. Cape and Jeff Thompson, and some of the court officials were mingled in the melee.

The presence of mind and brilliant heroism of the two young men who overpowered the desperado, demands suitable recognition by the authorities. Their claims to the Victoria Cross should at once be submitted to the King.

THE YOUNG HEROES' STORIES.

"I heard this morning," said R. L. Brackin with becoming modesty, "that all the lawyers had rushed to the rescue of the judge, but, when I emerged from the melee with the razor, gowns were flying in every direction and the judge was standing up at his desk yelling 'Seize him! Seize him!' I didn't see the prisoner jump from the box, but I heard a chair fall over and, seeing Epperson making for the knives, I at once divided his seized the prisoner and the corner was so small that at first neither Goodall nor myself could render any assistance. We had both been sitting near and rushed to render aid. Although I couldn't participate actively in the rescue at first, still I yelled at Thompson to seize the hand of Epperson and put his foot on the prisoner's wrist. By this time I had got in and took the razor. It was open I know, because I thought at first I would pull it through Beck's hand and put him, but I changed my mind and pulled it out the other way. After the prisoner had been removed I handed the razor to Chief Young."

Charlie Goodall, the other hero, is also very modest over the matter and says that the most of the credit is due to Mr. Brackin. In describing the scene he says: "I saw the man jump from the box and make for the judge's chair. Before I knew what his intentions were he had grabbed the razor and had opened it. No sooner had he done this than Mr. Brackin and I jumped up and grappled with him. The desperado brandished the razor above his head and I saw that either one of us was going to be hurt and I cried out, 'Get the razor.' At this time a colored man named Jeff Thompson joined us and caught Epperson's wrist and Mr. Brackin procured the razor. The man was then soon handcuffed and taken to the cells."

"Did you feel at all nervous when he was flourishing the razor above your head?" asked The Planet.
"Not at all," replied Mr. Goodall. "I saw that someone was going to be slashed and I thought it might as well be me as anyone else."

VIEWED BY THE COURT OFFICIALS.

Judge Bell spoke of the occurrence afterwards very calmly and dispassionately. "I had ordered the prisoner to be removed," said the judge, "and was reading at my desk when I heard the scuffling and looked up. I can't say what the intentions of the prisoner were because I didn't see him until Cape had seized him. I never saw Epperson before yesterday, but I should judge him a dangerous man. He is reckless and a man of violent passions, but none of his actions are premeditated. His intention at the time was no doubt to kill Mr. Ellison, but he hadn't prepared to do so. I think that the man has an uncontrollable temper and that he just gave an exhibition yesterday of his passions getting the mastery of him."

Crown Attorney Douglas, when asked if a charge of threatening the judge would be laid against the prisoner, replied that it was impossible to lay any such charge as Epperson had threatened no one. It was very hard to tell what the prisoner's intentions were.
Chief Young said: "The jury had just brought in a verdict of guilty against Epperson, and the judge, after dismissing them, had adjourned court till 9.30 a.m. The sheriff had nodded to the constable to remove the prisoner and Constable Cape was just entering the prisoner's box when Epperson jumped over the railing into the space before the judge's desk that Others who Incidentally Assisted—Ep. person made a Break for Liberty or worse—Comments of the Court Officials.

The heroic acts and daring bravery of two young lads prevented an appalling tragedy at the Court House yesterday afternoon at the conclusion of the trial of Andrew Epperson, convicted of wounding Mrs. Ellison. But for their splendid presence of mind and courageous conduct the life of the presiding judge and the safety of the entire entourage of the court would have been in imminent danger.

Epperson was in the prisoner's dock when the jury returned the verdict against him, while on a table to the left of the judge and immediately in front of the witness box lay three pocket knives and a razor, which had been used as exhibits in the case. Without a moment's warning the prisoner sprang from the dock to the table and seized the weapons, the knives in his left hand and the razor in his right. These he brandished. The whole court was petrified with the audacity of the act, while the desperado still stood still, handling the terrible weapons.

Knowing instinctively that the man meditated the life of his honor, R. L. Brackin, an intrepid young law student, and Chas. Goodall, a fearless young reporter, leaped manfully to the rescue regardless of their own

LOVE LETTERS.

This is the age of love letters, says the Hamilton Post. Everybody is reading them and a great many people are writing them, and among the readers of the fictitious article are to be found some whom one would not suppose to be driven to this resource for want of receiving such epistles of their own. It is a curious phase of the popular taste, for the real love letters (unless they happen to be addressed to one's self) are in these degenerate and sentimental days invariably thin and wishywashy to a degree, while the imitation product becomes less and less convincing the more it departs from the thinness and wishywashtiness of reality.

In these facts lie the basis for a hope that the love letter craze will shortly work itself out, and go the way of its literary predecessors. In the case of the real article—such publications as the Browning love letters, it is certain that refined taste would lose nothing by their being withheld from publication, and when the public begins to realize that they are interesting, we shall not be far from that ideal. For the real love letter is almost always a patchwork of trivialities, well-worn endearments, and little details of ordinary life which have a halo of significance in the eyes of the two who alone have a right to be interested in the correspondence, but which to the ordinary public can only be absurd and unimportant. In the great scheme of things it has been decreed that lovmaking should seem to an outsider a ridiculous and reprehensible thing, and the fact that a man is a genius does not make his lovmaking a scrap less ridiculous. The lovmaking of art, the love poems, and the love music which make their audience at once a part and parcel of the emotional process are an entirely different thing, and when a poet is writing love letters, he cannot be expected to have his eye on the probable sensations of the public.

The fictitious love letter is in a somewhat different category. It is open to the one serious criticism, that it is unreal. It is a false method of depicting passion, because no actual passion ever displayed itself in this particular way. It is this feeling, the idea that the girl was written, not to her lover, but to the public, that mars the entire effect of that powerful book, "An Englishman's Love Letters." In the imitation thereof it becomes simply appalling. Rosa Amorosa, the latest production of the lady who writes over the pen name of George Egerton is a whole volume of fine writing no tone line of which any lover would ever write to any mistress, or any mistress to any lover, but it is a regular dictionary of endearment. We have a strong hope that the public passion for love letters has reached the anti-climax stage when it can buy and tolerate a volume which addresses a map in the following extremely un-British and un-20th-century terms: "My twin soul," "you dear, dear, fine spun silk of a man," "dearest, dear, thing," "heart friend, true lover, and shaper of my destiny," "dear, good little man," "my golden-tongued little man," "most weaver of the fabric which makes life golden," "you whimsicality in breeches."

After this it will be refreshing to turn to the correspondence of a young lady of the early Victorian period, and read her letters uniformly addressed up to the day of her marriage, "My dear Mr. Smith."

ON HONEST LYING.

We have been waiting to see somebody come out boldly in defence of necessary lying, and we have been rewarded, says the Woodstock Express. The London Spectator, a journal of considerable influence and some authority, declares that when indulged in in moderation society lying is in no way injurious to the moral health. Indeed, following out the Spectator's view, judicious society lying is necessary, not only for moral, but for the physical well-being of the community. Supposing people were to tell the truth, say for a week—oh, dear, would the old world ever get to rights again? Suppose, when invited out to dinner, instead of regretting a previous engagement, you were to tell the truth and say you feared to be bored to death. Suppose, when Mrs. Blank, whom you properly detest, comes to pay her afternoon call, instead of playing the hypocrite and showering welcomes upon her which she knows are not intended, you were to tell her the truth at once and desire that she should no longer inflict her presence upon you. One can readily see that two or three persistent truth-tellers in any community would be quite sufficient to shake the social fablie to its very foundation. And think of the fate of the amateur artists, the budding orators, and the young preachers—and some old ones—if the truth were only told to their face as freely as it is told behind their backs! The graveyards would soon be filled with mute, inglorious Miltons and undeveloped Patis, dying of broken hearts as of pestilence. Imagine the effects of a few words of straight truth in a political campaign speech. Remember the member of North Oxford addressing his constituents something after this fashion: "You poor deluded chumps, we politicians call you the free and intelligent electorate; but we know that you are neither free nor intelligent, otherwise you would not find us conducting this campaign as we are doing. We know you are full of ignorance, superstition and bigotry, and that clever politicians like ourselves are able to play upon your weaknesses and your prejudices to our own profit. You are as much the slaves of your masters as if you lived in the days of feudal tenure. All you are fit for is to pay taxes and keep us clever fellows in office and salary. Therefore, come up and poll your votes as your grandfathers did or be anathema."

Why not frankly justify square lying? Everybody knows that everybody else is lying, and practically nobody is deceived. Mrs. A. knows in her heart that when Mrs. B. says, "Oh, dear, Mrs. A., I am so glad to see you," she means "I wish the old termagant was in Halifax"; yet if Mrs. B. said what Mrs. A. knows she meant, wouldn't there be a row? A few such simple statements of fact would soon make visiting a thing of the past. The line must apparently be drawn somewhere, either at telling the truth or at wrecking society. The Spectator puts it this way:

"In the matter of true speaking, as in wine drinking, no one can define what moderation means, though we all believe that in our own persons we illustrate the word. But, granting this vague moderation, we are prepared to maintain that a certain number of false formulas are necessary for the defence and maintenance of the spirit of sincerity and truth. We all have entered into a tacit agreement that under certain circumstances we will deceive each other for our common comfort, and if any large number of people took to avoiding these defensive forms and spoke on all occasions nothing but the naked truth, the world would have to be made over again, and we think that the new one would be worse and less ingenious than that in which we live."

"One would hardly dare to ask a friend to dine in so many words if it were not permissible for him to make the false reply that he was sorry but he was engaged and could not come. Ordinary social intercourse, instead of becoming more direct, would have to be carried on by an elaborate system of hints; otherwise society would be a far more difficult thing to live."

Don't Ask Me

If I am hot. Wait until you see me half an hour from now. Then you may ask me with an easy conscience if it is hot.

"Hot enough for me!" Fact is I'm a trifle overheated in my haste to reach Meynell's for a Flannel Suit. I'm wearing this heavy chert when for the wiggardly sum of $5.95 I might be cool and friendly. Don't detain me. No! I won't have one now. Wait till I get the suit. It only takes five minutes to get fitted out there."

become, metaphorically speaking, a bear garden in which sensitive persons would be battered to death. It would be impossible to get used to being told "I do not like you, and your friends bore me," or "I could come quite easily, but I do not care to identify myself with the very second-rate people among whom you live." Neither could we improve matters by reversing the ordinary procedure by allowing guests to invite themselves. The rebuff of being refused hospitality would be almost unbearable."

Has the Spectator made out a case for honest lying? It would be interesting to hear further evidence on this subject before deciding finally.

POSSIBLY AN INSINUATION.
London Advertiser.

Sarcasm I now see to be in general the language of the devil—Carlyle.

The Hamilton Spectator is strong on sarcasm.

WHAT HE ESCAPES.

Brantford Expositor.

Hamilton has a Methodist clergyman by the name of Hockey. Fortunately he is a married man, or all the Hamilton girls would be trying to work up a Hockey match.

AND LESS EXPENSIVE.

Hamilton Herald.

In future the Herald will be more careful in criticizing the assessors for missing people in their annual count of the population. Evidently the assessors are better counters than the census men are.

THE WARLIKE MOTORMAN.

Belleville Intelligencer.

That brave motorman in Toronto is coming in for a lot of praise. Very properly he slugged the man who tried to run away with his street car. It makes one shiver to think what a Belleville motorman would do in a case of that kind.

DANGEROUS HIGH JUMPING.

Montreal Witness, Grit.

We all remember how scathing were Sir Richard Cartwright's criticisms upon Conservative expenditure, when it averaged yearly around $42,000,000, and a leap from $40,853,727 in 1893 to $45,334,281 in 1899, and $62,717,466 in 1900, with $67,426,729, including the 1902 supplementary estimates, voted during the present session, does look like dangerously high jumping.

SIGNS MULTIPLY.

Toronto Telegram.

Canada is likely to be exposed to the wrath of heaven and the scorn of man as the only nation on earth which has not brains enough to manage the enumeration of her own citizens. Signs multiply and all point towards the lamentable truth that the census of 1901 has been gloriously bungled.

CANADIAN JUSTICE.

Buffalo News.

Over in Canada, where they have the habit of enforcing the laws, a man who commits murder feels it is just as well to kill himself as wait for the authorities to do it.

Buffalo Express.

Foreign criminals who ply their trade in Canada and get caught would appear to be justified in their fear of Canadian justice. There is a disposition on the part of those who dispense that article in the Dominion with the utmost severity to punish with the utmost severity any law-breakers who transfer their operations from this country to Canada.

Judge McDougall, in sentencing the bank burglar at Toronto on Friday, said: "We have quite enough to do to deal with our own criminals, and we have no intention whatever of allowing Canada to be a hunting ground for foreigners." Then he imposed a sentence of 21 years in the penitentiary.

Geo. M. BAIRD, Clerk.

HOWARD COUNCIL.

The Municipal Council of the township of Howard, met at the township hall, Saturday, June 1st, 1901, as per adjournment. All members present. Minutes of previous meeting and the Court of Revision on the assessment roll read and adopted.

Communications.

From O. M. Arnold, barrister, Bruce bridge in reference to the state of repair of the Brown drain, stating when you are well, to rub and scrub, but when the back aches and the head throbs, a woman's work is hourly torment. No woman can be strong and healthy of body who is the victim of those womanly diseases which are often responsible for feminine sufferings. Women who have used Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription for the cure of diseases of the womanly organs, say that work doesn't tire them any more. "Favorite Prescription" regulates the periods, dries encrusted drains, heals inflammation and ulceration, and cures female weakness. It makes weak women strong and sick women well.

There is no alcohol in "Favorite Prescription," neither opium, cocaine or any other narcotic.

"I had poor health for nine years (ever since the birth of my child)," writes Mrs. Arminie Watkins, of Acme, Kansas, "I was a feeble female weakness, was very irregular and would suffer untold misery. Our family doctor did not do me any good and I was forced to write to you. When I wrote I had no idea that I would ever get well, but when your letter reached me I began to have hope. I commenced taking Dr. Pierce's medicines as directed and began to improve in strength. I was soon able to do the work for my family of six. I think there never were such medicines in the world. I took eight bottles of 'Favorite Prescription' and five of 'Golden Medical Discovery' and two vials of Dr. Pierce's Pellets cure constipation."

that since the construction of the Brown drain—that his father's lot has been flooded each year, as they have taken down water and not given a proper outlet, asked to have same repaired so as to relieve said lot, if not, will persist in damages for loss sustained.

From Geo. M. Baird, clerk, Harwich, wishing J. C. Williams to have the ground staked on lot 1, con. 1, W. B. that will be required for grading at Kent Bridge, and appoint a day to meet at Ridgeway for the signing of agreement.

From the Wilkinson Plough Co., quoting prices for road planer.

From J. S. Boothroyd and David Wilson, re bridge east of Morpeth, stating that with some repairing will be perfectly safe for another year.

Petitions.

From John Dick and 24 others, asking council to pass a law prohibiting the use of public highways for the playing of ball or any other games that would interfere with the safety of public travel and for the unlawful and dangerous use of the highways.

Accounts.

John Hitch, to 132 10-inch tile, $7.92; Jas. Hurst, to attending Court of Revision, $2.00; to postage paid on notices, $2.80; J. S. Boothroyd, attending D. & C. notices, $1.50; J. C. Williams, locating ownership of two dead horses, $1.50; Walter Cudmore, burying two dead horses, $2.00; Jno. Green, getting road scraper and repairing same, $2.00; Standard advertising Court of Revision, $2.00; H. D. Smith, services as solicitor re Pangburn suit, $13.00; Delos Myers, drawing tile and putting same in D. W., $1.90; M. C. R. Co., freight on two car loads of sewer pipe, $33.65; Angus Smith, C. E., to plans, profiles, estimates in duplicate Crouch drain, $135; Geo. McDonald, publishing and serving by law Crouch drain on the ratepayers of Howard and on the Reeve and ratepayers township of Orford, $32.00.

The following persons addressed the council: E. Donahoe, J. B. Tape, W. H. Harris, Collins Handy, V. Springsteen, Chas. Gillard, John McKerricher, Thos. Barrett and J. C. Wilson, in reference to sheep killed by dogs, hoping that the council would adopt some method for the lessening of sheep killed by dogs; Ralph Gardner asking the council for the use of a grant of $50 to the village of Morpeth.

Donald Smith in reference to the charges on the west branch Bell or Crawford drain, stating that he did not understand the charges made on his assessment as he thought that when he signed the agreement for $25, it was the full amount, and hoped the council would deal justly with him.

F. Rache and Cyrus Craig, trustees S. S. No. 7, stating that there was some misunderstanding in the amount asked from 1900, and wished the council to borrow the sum of $150.

Archibald McBrayne in reference to repairing road on con. 6, left with commissioner.

John McCully, Reeve, and George M. Baird, Clerk of Harwich, in reference to earth from F. Arnold, Mr. Arnold refusing to sign said agreement, as it was not in conformity with agreement signed by him on May 1st, at Kent Bridge.

Mr. Arnold also addressed the council in reference to the Brown drain, stating that the water is brought from the upper lands in Howard, and also water brought from Harwich, and was no better outlet than before the drain was constructed.

Resolutions.

Moved by Balmer and Wilson, that the accounts be paid as presented, and charged to their several accounts, with the exception of A. Smith, $75, to be paid on said account.—Carried.

Moved by Brien and Williams, that C. Handy be paid $18.66 for two ewes killed and four lambs worried; Y. Springsteen, $2.66 for one lamb killed; J. S. Boothroyd, $12.66, three sheep and one lamb killed; Thos. Barrett, $5 for one lamb killed; W. Harris, $2.66 for one lamb killed and two sheep worried; Donahoe, $12 for two lambs worried; A. Tape, $2.66 for two lambs worried; J. C. Wilson, $4 for two lambs worried; charge to dog fund.—Carried.

Court of revision on assessment roll as per adjustment:—

Moved by Wilson and Balmer, that H. A. Bailor be assessed for a h. a. h. lot 12, con. 7, $2,300 F., and Oscar Gage for a h. a. h. lot 12, con. 7, $1,700 F.; John White be assessed for part 92, T. R. S., instead of John Smith; Carrie Hall, lot 15, Spring street, instead of F. Poulin; Chas. West, be assessed on pt. lot 4, con. 9, F. S.; L. Campbell, pt. lot 10, con. 8, F. S.; Wm. Parney, lot 7, con. 11, F. S.; John Campbell, Colin Handy, dogs struck off; H. Minshall, bitch struck off; and that this court of revision now close.—Carried.

Moved by Wilson and Balmer, that the court of revision on the McGregor and Buller drains be adjourned till July 6, McGregor 2 p. m., Buller 2.30.—Carried.

Council resumed general business.

Moved by Balmer and Wilson, that Thos. Watson be exempt from statute labor on pt. lot 12, Con. 1, as he is too aged to perform same.—Carried.

Moved by Wilson and Brien, that the clerk notify the C. P. R. Telegraph Co. to have the poles moved either back to the fence from Con. 8 to the L. E. & D. R. R. along the 12th and 13th sidewalk, or else to the other side of the road.—Carried.

Moved by Wilson and Brien, that a reward of $50 be paid to any person or persons capturing a dog worrying sheep; same amount of reward to be given to the party giving evidence to prove ownership of dogs which they unlawfully intrude on the annoyance of passers by.—Carried.

Moved by Balmer and Wilson, that J. C. Williams be appointed to examine Brown drain and make necessary repairs, also ditch north of Brown drain, towaline, Harwich and Howard.—Carried.

Moved by Wilson and Brien, that the petition of John Dick and 17 others be received, and that the clerk prepare by-law in accordance with the statute governing same.—Carried.

Moved by Wilson and Balmer, that Jas. Cunningham be refunded 30c, error on assessment roll for 1900.—Carried.

Moved by Brien and Williams, that the report of J. S. Boothroyd and J. C. Williams on bridge at Morpeth be received.—Carried.

Moved by Balmer and Wilson, that a grant of $50 be made to Div. No. 4, to furnish sewer pipe for drain in said division, and charge to general fund.—Carried.

Moved by Williams and Brien, that a grant of $50 be made to village of Morpeth and Mr. John Duck be appointed commissioner to expend same.—Carried.

By-law appointing thistle inspectors for 1901 was read (the required number of times and finally passed: Jas. Balmer, No. 1; Geo. Lenober, No. 2; F. Clark, No. 3; A. Winters, No. 4. Council adjourned.

Geo. McDONALD, Clerk.

IN JUNE.

At night the garden calls me out; Through perfumed aisles I go. Red lilies with strange spotted cups Sway softly to and fro.

Great, dusky moths drift silently About the half-closed flowers, And from a deep-blue sky the moon Lets fall her silver showers.

Throughout the fragrant gloom, dear love, Each night I search for thee; Behind each clump of shimmering leaves I peer expectantly.

Into each corner, dark and still, Whence blackest shadows start, I seek for thee, and find thee, love, Nowhere but in my heart.—Lucy Morris.

The young man stood before the great steel magnifying glass, and the latter looked up.

He stared at the rough clothing, the muddled shoes and the unkempt hair of the youth.

"Well?" he said.

"The youth retained his presence of mind. He wanted a job because he needed it."

"Sic?" he said. "I have come—"

He got no farther. A smile irradiated the magnate's face.

"That's all right," he said; "the job is yours. I was afraid at first that you might be one of those worthless college graduates."

And when the youth, the valetudinarian of his class and the pride of the university, again faced his mirror he winked expressively at his own reflection.

A SEVERE TEST.

Suffered Very Little Damage By The Hull Fire.

From the Evening Journal, Ottawa, under date June 7th, 1900.

Since many years "The Wrought Iron Range Co., limited," manufactures the "Home Comfort" stove, which they guarantee to be as resistant and durable as it is possible for the art and labor of men to make them. Their qualities have been fully shown on the occasion of the terrible Hull fire, the 26th of April last. There were eight of these stoves in that part of the city which was devastated by the conflagration; in spite of tumbling walls and chimneys, in spite of the water which flooded them, they were found perfectly preserved in the middle of the ruins. In one case, however, a cast iron pot which happened to be on one of these stoves, melted all over it; the bronze reservoirs were necessarily melted by the terrible heat of the fire and the fancy work was twisted by the fall of roofs and walls; but not a single piece of the main body was deformed, not a lid nor a single dish was broken or cracked. The company has generously repaired these damages and returned these stoves to their owner in as good a condition as if they were new. The malleable iron and amiantum which enters into, as well as the method used in their manufacture, is what gives these stoves, the "Home Comfort Ranges," their admirable force of resistance. The chemical analysis and the mechanical experiences have proved that the malleable iron has against the heat, a force of resistance twelve times and a half greater than cast iron has. The frame of these stoves, the doors and all of which is exposed to the danger of being broken, are made of that metal. The interior pipe and all the principal parts are carefully lined with amiantum, thus making them as durable, as strong and as perfect as possible.

The following certificate received from the proprietors of these stoves, confirm the above:

We the undersigned citizens of Hull, have bought before the last fire, Home Comfort stoves from the Wrought Iron Co., limited, of Toronto. These stoves were, during the terrible conflagration, exposed to the most ardent heat and we thought them entirely destroyed. After examining them, however, we found them well preserved, without any bump or displacing of any kind. A vase of cast iron left on one of them, we found all melted on the malleable iron lid on which it had been placed. The company most generously repaired them free of any charge and returned them to us in perfect condition. We do not know of any other style of stove which could have resisted this terrible disaster. Since our experience, we have no doubt whatever that the "Home Comfort Range" stove is without a rival.

THE MACCABEE MEMORIAL DAY.

The Maccabee Memorial Day, Sunday, June 16th, will be observed by Chatham Tent No. 8 in a manner befitting the Order of which we have the honor to be members.

The Tent has arranged the following program for the day:

The Sir Knights will assemble at the Lodge room at 1.30 p. m., and welcome the visitors from a distance who are going to join with us.

At two o'clock the procession will form, headed by the 24th Regiment Band, and march to the cemetery, where the beautiful Ritualistic work for the occasion will be carried out by the officers.

After the services are through the lines will reform and march back to the lodge room and disband till 6 p. m., when the Sir Knights will again form and march to the Baptist church, where Rev. J. J. Ross will deliver our annual sermon.

Let every Sir Knight be in line and show the citizens what a good turn-out the K. O. T. M. can make.

WORK FOR OUR YOUTHS

Planet Correspondent has Practical Ideas for the Discipline of our Boys.

They Might Be Profitably Employed in Workshop Building—Bring them in Touch With the Glorious Empire to Which They Belong

Chatham, June 13, 1901.

Editor Planet:—

Dear Sir:—I wish to introduce a subject for your consideration, viz., a training school for boys that are incorrigible. At the outset, I would say that it is not my intention to enter into any argument further than to give my views.

I am in sympathy with parents who are compelled to part with boys of tender years. We are always expecting boys to do better, and we say, give them a chance to reform.

Now, Mr. Editor, we have to provide a place for these boys. There is no getting out of that part of it, and the question arises—are we doing our duty to the parents, and also to the boys, in sending them to Penitentiary reformatories to learn a trade?

I claim the system is wrong, as taught in this reformatory, of learning a trade. A boy is sent up for three years. What does he learn, or what chance has he to learn anything? They may put him into the tailor shop, or the shoe shop, but when his time expires, could he take a position in a factory or workshop, with the primitive training that he got in the reformatory?

I don't think the owners of any factories, or any workman, would object to any competition that came from an institution which had for its sole object, giving boys an apprenticeship, and a thorough training to make them good men, forget their past life, and fit them, when they come out, with a chance to earn their living honestly.

*I would suggest instead of giving them three years, it should be at the least five years.

With the present arrangements a boy comes back to his home about sixteen years of age, thrown among his old companions, with a cross to bear that he has been to the reformatory, with a constant memory of the parents that he might fall again; but if he was discharged, say at eighteen years of age, it would be better for the parents and better for the boy. What-ever is made in the reformatory should be the finished article, ready for the market, something up-to-date—no use turning a boy into the world with a part of a trade twenty years behind the times. We should give him a chance to be a skilled artisan, the latest machinery turning out work of the highest order.

Whether it is a shoe factory, or clothing factory, carriage factory, bookbinding and printing establishment, or a machine shop, just use the latest and best. The better trade we can give these boys the better chance there is of making men of them.

I would also suggest to your consideration, Mr. Editor, another subject for boys of this class. I would like to see established a training school for sailors, and instead of sending boys to Penitentiaries, let the government fit out a training ship. We have the great lakes, and I don't think our Yankee friends would object to a training ship for boys even if it had a touch of a man-of-war about it. If a boy of mine was taken away from me, at the age of 13 or 14, I would ten times sooner see him put on board a training ship, or to stand behind the guns and fit him for the royal navy, than to see him sent to a prison or reformatory at that age. I am satisfied that boys of this class, daring, nifty boys, if handled with discipline, if something of this sort could be arranged with encouragement of promotion in the royal navy would be a consolation to the parents and a help to themselves. So much for the boys incorrigible.

Now, sir, what is the prospect for boys in this country? Canada has advanced in many trades, pushing ahead and keeping pace with other countries. We are told that Canada is rich in minerals. We have the finest iron ore and nickel mines in the world. We have blast furnaces, rolling mills and steel works in their infancy. But I am going to tell you, sir, that we are losing ground in none important industry, that is iron shipbuilding. We used to build the wooden walls, and build them well. We very seldom hear tell of one being launched in Canada to-day. If we want the boys and young men of Canada to learn the art of iron shipbuilding we don't want them to go to the States or the Old Country, but we want them to learn here in Canada and build up our country. I am well aware that talk is cheap, but it takes money to carry out such large ideas.

We should suggest to the Imperial Government to help to build up her colony in shipbuilding. Great Britain lets contracts to private yards to build many of her warships. We should have in Canada two shipbuilding yards owned by the British Government to build battleships as far inland as the depth of water would allow, with a rolling mill turning out the heaviest armour plates.

Canada is the only colony in the British Empire with the minerals and facilities for carrying out this work. Toronto would not be in a position to build the ships—the treaty of the Great Lakes and the shallow water to the seaboard would be against that proposition, but Toronto would make an excellent place for construction ships.

The British Government could erect a plant in Toronto.

Where could we have a better place for rolling mills for armour plates than Toronto, near the nickel mines with iron and steel at the Soo, and for making engine work and boilers with shipping facilities to the east by water where battleships could be finished complete ready for the guns.

We would then be in a position to furnish employment to thousands of mechanics and place us in the front rank with the Mother Country in building up the Empire. We have our military schools, but what we want is naval schools. The royal navy needs thousands of mechanics to man her ships. One battleship needs hundreds of first class mechanics in the several departments, and what we want in Canada is a chance to supply some of these men.

You may either take battleships or ships of commerce. Men that go down to the sea in ships are the men that are going to draw big pay in the future. The royal navy has 120,000 men rooked in the oracles of the deep ready to defend our country.

We must go on increasing our navy. Our possessions are great; our last big haul is South Africa, and in looking over the map there is nothing left worth having. We have planted ourselves largely in every quarter of the globe, and we must be ready to defend our colonies against all comers. Every nation is jealous of us, and the royal navy is the one that can do the talking to the powers of nations. We have the most ready-made army in the world. We need more ships and more men, because the battles that will have to be fought for supremacy will be decided on the seas. A nation is not only beaten by war, but it is beaten by starvation. We have sung Rule Britannia, Britannia rules the waves, and we intend to keep on singing it until we are all dead, and we keep them in brine. We must double our navy, both in men and in ships. Many British garrisons had cut their way out, but they could not do that on an island. The mother country must be banded together with the colonies, with a solid front facing every sea. The power of our ships was the best guarantee of the peace of the world. If imperial federation ever has to come to be an accomplished fact.

Mr. Editor, I don't know of any grander work than would make Canada feel part and parcel of the Empire, than to help to build the ships that have to defend the Empire. As Canadians we would not be asking any too much from the mother country. What we want is the mother country to take care of us a little more than she has done, and above all to give her colonies a preference in tariff over all foreign nations. With best wishes for the success of the Empire.

Yours truly,
MECHANIC.

Old Time Legislation Against the Use of Tobacco.

It is one of the curiosities of old time legislation that the use of tobacco was in early colonial days regarded by the magistrates and elders as far more injurious, degrading and sinful than that of intoxicating liquors. Both the use and the planting of the weed were forbidden, the cultivation of it being permitted only in small quantities, "for meere necessity, for phisick, for preservation of the health, and that the same be taken privately by ancient men." But the "creature called tobacco" seemed to have an indestructible life. Mrs. Alice M. Earle writes of these early restrictions about tobacco in "Stagecoach and Tavern Days."

Landlords were ordered not to "suffer any tobacco to be taken into their houses" on penalty of a fine to the "victim" and another to the "party steadily smoked and enforced, and still tobacco was grown and was smoked. No one could take it "publicly" nor in his own house or anywhere else before strangers. Two men were forbidden to smoke together.

No one could smoke within two miles of the meeting house on the Sabbath day. There were wicked backsliders who were caught smoking around the corner of the meeting house and others on the street, and they were fined and set in the stocks and in cages.

Until within a few years there were New England towns where tobacco smoking in the streets was prohibited, and innocent cigar loving travelers were surrounded at being requested to cease smoking.

Mr. Drake wrote in 1886 that he knew men, then living, who had had to plead guilty or not guilty in a Boston police court for smoking in the streets of Boston.

In Connecticut in early days a great indulgence was permitted to travelers: a man could smoke once during a journey of ten miles.

HE DID HIS BEST.

Celebrated Musician's Adventure in a Swiss Country Village.

The late Sir John Stainer, one of England's most celebrated musicians, was several years ago in a small Swiss village, and the English clergyman was on the lookout for a musician to assist at the service. Stainer was in the smoking room of the hotel when the clergyman found him and started the conversation with "Do you play the harmonium?" "A little," was the reply of the ex-organist of St. Paul's cathedral. "Will you, then, be good enough to help us out of our difficulty on Sunday? We will read the psalms, and the hymns shall be the simplest I can select," added the delighted parson. "I will do my best," said Stainer, with a smile.

The service passed off all right, but the congregation, instead of rushing away at the close, listened to a brilliant recital. When the parson heard the name of his assistant, he asked him to dinner. "Do you smoke?" he said at the close. "I will do my best," answered Stainer, and the ensuing laughter was the prologue of an entertaining exchange of Oxford reminiscences.

Stainer was a great story teller. One anecdote he was fond of relating had reference to the days when there were amateur orchestras in churches. The "Messiah" was being sung, and as the line "Who is the King of Glory?" approached the man playing double bass whispered to the violinist in front of him, "Let us have your rosin, and I will show 'em who is the king of glory!"—London Tit-Bits.

Great Patent Nation.

The United States grants 25,000 patents per annum, or nearly as many as all the rest of the world. England grants 8,000 per annum and France and Germany each about 7,000, and such countries as Canada, Australia, Austria, Italy and Russia grant about 4,000 each. An interesting and hopeful fact is that more patents are granted in proportion to the applications than ever before in the history of the patent office, showing that mechanical genius is not chasing as many rainbows as formerly. American inventive genius is shown in all lines of invention, but it greatly predominates in machinery for manufacturing, transportation and labor saving. Europe and the Orient have begun to find that without American industries they would be unable to go ahead.—Success.

What Might Have Happened.
A sports young gentleman of the city who drives a dainty runabout which is the envy of the other young men of his set was driving down Main street the other day when he nearly ran over a six foot countryman. The countryman caught the bit and sat the horse upon its haunches without apparent effort and then complacently remarked to the driver:

"Sonny, you had better be careful how you drive that doll buggy of your'n. If I hadn't collared this here horse, you would 'a' run that thing into me and smashed it all to kindling."

Difficult Dutch.

The Dutch language is of a good old fashioned tongue. It is so difficult that English speaking people cannot without difficulty acquire it. In fact, some folk say it is more like unto English than it is to German. The Boers in South Africa speak the Dutch tongue as it was spoken 200 years ago.

Heart Disease

Some Facts Regarding the Rapid Increase of Heart Trouble.

Heart trouble, at least among the Americans, is certainly increasing and while this may be largely due to the excitement and worry of American business life, it is more often the result of weak stomachs, or poor digestion.

Real organic disease is incurable; but not one case in a hundred of heart trouble is organic.

The close relation between heart trouble and poor digestion is because both organs are controlled by the same great nerves, the Sympathetic and Pneumogastric.

In another way, also, the heart is affected by the form of poor digestion, which causes gas and fermentation from half digested food. There is a feeling of oppression and heaviness in the chest caused by pressure on the distended stomach on the heart and lungs, interfering with their action; hence arises palpitation and short breath.

Poor digestion also poisons the blood, making it thin and watery, which irritates and weakens the heart.

The most sensible treatment for heart trouble is to improve the digestion and to insure the prompt assimilation of food.

This can be done by the regular use after meals of some safe, pleasant and effective digestive preparation, like Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, which may be found at most drug stores, and which contains valuable, harmless digestive elements in a pleasant, convenient form.

It is safe to say that the regular and persistent use of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets at meal time will cure any form of stomach trouble except cancer of the stomach.

Full sized packages of these tablets sold by druggists at 50 cents. Little book on stomach troubles mailed free. Address F. A. Stuart Co., Marshall, Mich.

"A man is generally driven to have his picture taken," said another photographer. "The old men are made to come by their daughters and the young men by their sweethearts. You know there is a great deal among young people these days for a picture. A girl doesn't hesitate at all to say, 'I want a locket picture for my fiancee,' while a man will simply say he wants a little picture, until you pump it out of him that it is for his wife. The young men for men care for their own pictures, but simply have them taken when some woman insists on it. They will come in and get the picture made. 'Well, I'll send back the old one that's wanted.' A girl, on the other hand, never wants a man to see her picture until it is entirely finished and all the lines taken out."

"I'm becoming a sort of fad with the best photographers now to make portraits of elderly men and women leaving their line and wrinkle in, and the public is growing to care for it. It is the picture of the wrinkles, of course, is a great advance from the stereotyped 'pleasure and youth' of bygone days."

"I am not at all in sympathy with what you say. The public is a fool," said one of the most eminent artists who has photographed many celebrities in his long and prosperous career. "An artist is supposed reaches every affected part. Such is Catarrh in Catarrh, which is the cause of all the trouble in the throat, lungs and nasal passages, where it kills the germs, and cures the disease. Catarrh is pleasant, safe and absolutely sure to cure. It is a disagreeable feeling in the head, clearing the throat and nostrils in one breath. Positive proof of cure is found in the words of Mr. Kirk, of Kingston, Ontario, who says: "I have suffered for years from Catarrh of the nose and throat, used hundreds of remedies, consulted specialists, but was not permanently benefited. Having perceived the value of Catarrh, I purchased a standing, offered by Catarrh, and bought an outfit and used it for one month. It cured me and I am now no more liable to catarrh than the new baby had it." This is most convincing testimony from one of Kingston's best known and most highly respected business men. It proves beyond question that Catarrh cures the most severe cases Catarrh. It never fails, never harms; guaranteed to cure. Price $1.00; small size 25 cents. I am now at my last gasp, and the family has suffered from it results most grievous. If you come, no matter how, everything is sure to be arranged. I have thought of a plan to ignore you, but I am still kept by ignorance. My life or death hangs on the issue of these few days. Even when we came to Shanghai last year he stayed indoors learning his lessons and never left the house. He is a very obedient and dutiful son, but he has never been out to go to school, and never returned. I ought to say that the boy was altogether unacquainted with Shanghai and the character of the people, and I presume he has been deceived away by rascals for some bad purpose. The gold charms which I will not, I am afraid, are sufficient for his necessities; on the contrary, he will be borrowing money or doing something of the kind. In that case I will not hold myself liable. Should any of my relatives or friends see him I earnestly hope they will convince him to return at once to his home in the country. But I shall not from his experience also came to the aid of the lines and forms and adjust lights than the laymen but the public pays the freight and certainly has rights that a photographer should recognize. I am inclined to his faults, and it may surprise you to learn that the human face is rarely a perfect bit of symmetry, for that is a long story. Even families do not know of peculiar distinctions in the faces of their own household. I once took a photograph of a lady who was so remarkably perfect in roundness, the difference between the corollary and corner of the mouth being but half an inch. I did all that my skill suggested in lights, shadows, and angles, and the unsymmetrical line.

When she saw the proof, she threw down indignantly, exclaiming, "Surely my face is not crooked!"

There is a little difference in the degrees of vanity in men and women," continued the photographer. "The surly element entered when I was a young fellow, and I did not look for a mirror for a generation came in for a photograph and became not only fast and ostreperous, but very critical."

"It is very hard to be a woman," said a very kitchendaisy wife, who came to me to study her face carefully, for I knew she did not realize it. She had a copy of Sir Thomas Lawrence's paintings. Then we retouched and retouched again, removing the line and wrinkle and the shadow and shadow of a woman, surely she was actually shamefaced over it and wondered how she would take it. She looked at it critically.

"I really am a woman," she said, feeling encouraged. "I always do look of my pictures, but if you'll just retouch

There are women stupid enough to quote poetry at the man who is cooking the turkey.

"Our recipe has come down to from a physician of the Ming Dynasty. A certain Mandarin was journeying the hill country, when he saw a woman passing southward over the mountain as though flying, in her hand she held a stick, and she was pursuing a black fellow of a hundred years old. The Mandarin asked her, 'You beat the old man?' She answered: 'He is a rascal, for I am 500 years old, and he is 114. He will not purify himself, taking his medicine, and so I am beating him.' The Mandarin alighted from his horse, and knelt down and begged his pardon, saying: 'Give me to pray you, this drug, that I may have it down to posterity for the salvation of mankind." Hence it got its name, "Fairy Receipt" for Lengthening Life. Take it for five days, and the body will feel light; take it for ten days, and your spirits will become brisk; twenty days, and the voice will be strong and clear, and the hands and feet supple; for one year, and white hair will become black again, and will move as though flying. Take it constantly, and all troubles will vanish, and you will pass a long life without growing old. Two dollars a bottle."

In one of the missionary schools in China, called Queen's College, the ages of the male students range from 9 to 30. Often father and son attend school together, and at times the father is the first place in the class. Sometimes family rivalry is destructive of dire results. Mr. May, second master, had been a short at school when one day he noticed that his boy was absent, and he made inquiry as to the reason. The following dialogue in Chinese took place:

Official: Boy—Please, sir, Li Swack isn't well.

Master—What is the matter with him?

Official: Boy—His father thrashed him last night, and he is too bad to come to school today.

Master—He must have committed grave fault to merit so severe a thrashing. What did he do?
 "A malicious boy—Please, sir, he laughed when you caned his father yesterday."
 "You don't seem well this morning," remarked the shark. "What's the matter?"
 "A little touch of indigestion," replied the whale.
 "You seem to be subject to that often."

MUSIC AND THE MARCH

Once Again the Soldier Boys in Red Delighted the Citizens
With the Parade.

Inspected by Lieut. Col. Rankin and Complimented Upon Their Appearance—Magnificent Music by the Regimental Band.

"What an excellent appearance they make," said "what splendid music," were common exclamations on King street last evening when the 24th Regiment made their regular march out.

And really nothing too good can be said of the good showing they made. These march-outs are being looked forward to with delight by every citizen of Chatham, and the officers and also the men are to be complimented upon the manner in which they are fast rounding into shape and also for the wonderful degree of efficiency to which they have already attained.

The companies assembled at the drill shed at 8 o'clock. They then marched out on the park where they were inspected by Lieut. Col. J. B. Rankin, and were also put through several movements, including the "March Past," and the "Salute." They then marched down King street to the Post Office and then back to the drill shed, where they were dismissed.

During the march down King street both sides of the street were literally lined with enthusiastic citizens who loudly applauded the splendid efforts of the Regiment. The good marching was largely due to the excellent music furnished by the band. This band is gradually rising in public favor and they will merit the many expressions of gratitude which are being liberally bestowed upon them.

The Regiment will hold their next drill on Tuesday evening. There will be no march out next week.

MANY PICNICS

Yesterday was a day of Successful Outings. Splendid Speeches and Good Programs.

A very successful picnic was held yesterday afternoon at Oldfield. A concert in connection with the picnic which was given in the evening was also well attended. The total proceeds amounting to some $135. The program was as follows:

Chairman—Rev. Mr. Nichol.
Selection—Mandolin Club—L.

Heath, F. Brundage, W. Wrigley and E. Sheldrick.
Solo—Miss Bella Riddell.
Recitation—Miss Williams, Wallaceburg.
Solo—Miss Bell Stewart.
Recitation—Miss Evelyn Barassin.
Selection—Mandolin Club.
Recitation—Miss Williams.
Solo—Miss Bella Riddell.
Recitation—Miss Evelyn Barassin.
Selection—Mandolin Club.
God Save the King.
Accompanist, Mr. Elmo Marshall.

The Ladies Aid of Hinds church, Dover, gave a very successful picnic in Hinds Grove yesterday. A large number of Chathamites attended.

F. P. Quinn, of this city, acted as chairman and presided over a delightful program.

Dr. McFarlane, Ald. Cowan, Rev. Myers gave very interesting addresses. Mayor Sulman gave an instructive and persuasive talk on sugar beet and radial railway companies.

Suitable prizes were awarded for bicycle and foot races. Miss Adams, of Dover, gave a recitation, and Miss Armstrong and Frank Weldon gave songs. Campbell's orchestra furnished excellent music.

The picnic given in the German settlement, Harwich, yesterday, under the management of the Young People's School Section No. 9, was a grand success. Geo. Stephens, M. P., acted as chairman to the satisfaction of everyone concerned. Dr. Fleming and P. Richards, of this city, gave speeches and Prof. Forsythe gave a number of songs. Dancing was enjoyed during the whole of the afternoon and Orr's orchestra furnished the music.

THE SCORES

Figures Secured by the Marksmen at the Maple City Gun Club Shoot.

There was a good attendance of the marksmen at the regular blue rock shoot of the Maple City Gun Club yesterday afternoon. The weather was exceedingly pleasant and an excellent day's sport was indulged in.

Next Thursday afternoon the representatives of the Blenheim club will visit Chatham to try conclusions with the local gunners, and the following week the members of the Highgate club will meet here for a similar purpose.

Yesterday's scores were as follows:

SAVED THE JUDGE'S LIFE

The lawyers occupy. During the afternoon James Dodson, in giving his evidence, had produced the knives taken from the prisoner and laid them on the table at the witness box. The prisoner rushed for these knives and owing to my back being turned I didn't see him till he reached the table. He grabbed the razor and then drew back, but what his intention was I couldn't say. Had he desired to kill Judge Bell he would have gone on and not have drawn back. Instead he went on he could have reached the judge before anyone in the court could have interfered. It looked to me as though he either had designs on the Crown Attorney or contemplated suicide. Whatever his purpose it was frustrated by Constable Cape, who with rare promptness and presence of mind followed and seized Beckas as he drew back with the razor. Jeff Thompson was the first to Cape's assistance, then R. L. Brackin, the Crown Attorney and other court officials crowded round and the man was soon overpowered. I was talking to Beck afterwards but he was sullen and all he would say was, "I'll do it; I'll do it."

Sheriff Gennill stated that he was standing at the witness box and that Constable Cape was the hero of the whole affair. If you want to know anything about the matter, see Constable Cape. He certainly deserves great credit and was the chief actor.

THE FACTS.

It is a most happy feature of the reaction and one that Chatham and the county are to be congratulated upon that the life of Judge Bell was in no danger whatever, nor that of any other persons except of those officers or others who would interpose or obstruct the prisoner in gaining his freedom. No other theory is possible under the circumstances. After the affair was all over and the matter thoroughly discussed by those in court, only two theories were attempted to solve the problem. One, that the intention was to commit suicide, and this was based upon the fact that Epperson threatened to do so if the jury convicted him. The other, that it was a bold, daring attempt to escape, and to keep the passage clear by overawing the constables and the people attending court. Mr. Cape, who is no doubt modestly quiet about his own active part in the affair, certainly deserves all praise for his fearless, bravery, and his conduct should be recognized and rewarded.
