$14 million blaze

Dick incinerates Earth Sciences

by Brad Fedger

Edmonton police charged Advanced Education Minister Dick Johnston with arson early this morning in connection with last night's Earth Sciences Building fire that caused an estimated $14 million damage.

Johnston, freed on $10,000 bail, denies he was even in Edmonton at the time of the blaze, which firemen say was likely started around 7:00 pm. Tuesday night.

"I was relaxing in my hot tub in Okotoks with some business associates last night," claimed Johnston, who recently announced that the government would be funding a renovation project for the Earth Sciences Building.

NDP leader Grant Notley said in a telephone interview that Johnston should resign from the cabinet: "I saw Dick at the Legislature in the afternoon carrying one of those plastic gas containers. He said his secretary used it to water plants."

The Getaway tried to reach Johnston's Executive Secretary but found that the Minister still had not hired one.

Government spokesperson Sharon Tymkow said Johnston was acting strange on Tuesday, asking her for a light.

Johnston is a non-smoker. According to a study by Fairbairn, Brinsmead and Ziola Architects, there were serious "architectural, mechanical, and electrical flaws" in the now-charred building.

"I guess you can throw that report out the window," said Johnston, who smelled more like gasoline and smoke than an Okotoks' sauna.

"You realize, of course, that this is all off the record. I don't want a trial by media. I've got my rights to privacy and no one can prove I was even near the University," said Johnston.

However, Notley and NDP Ray Martin say that Johnston was seen wandering around the Earth Sciences Building by some Campus NDP members who were holding a meeting there.

The members could not be reached at press time but Johnston maintains his innocence.

"The fact the building was a fire trap and that we (the government) had committed millions of dollars to upgrade it to Alberta Building Code standards, well, that's purely coincidental. It's a sophistry debate," he said.

Ron Phillips, VP facilities and service at the U of A, said it's quite possible that fire was accidental or simply due to inadequate safeguards: "There are exposed wires and there are chemicals that were left unattended. I suppose Johnston might have a case but my suspicion is that he's guilty."

Peter Lougheed's press secretary said Johnston will not be asked to resign in light of the minor nature of the charge: "I mean, get serious. This is nothing compared to what past cabinet ministers in Alberta have done."

Campus security, when contacted by the Getaway about last night's fire, replied, "So that's where all the smoke came from....I thought it was Myer Horowitz smoking his cigar."

Johnston is scheduled to appear in court on January 26.

Santa strikes

RNR(CUP) - The Soviet media has shed new light on the shooting down of Korean Airlines flight 007 - Santa Claus did it.

According to the most recent issue of Pravda, Santa Claus' sleigh has been equipped with air to air missiles since the jolly fellow had some trouble entering Finnish airspace three years ago.

Apparently, Mr. Claus was commuting from his island home in the South Pacific to the North Pole when he became involved in the incident between Soviet fighters and Flight 007.

He panicked and fired his missiles at the fighters but since reindeer antlers are no substitute for telescopic sights, Saint Nic missed and shot down the passenger plane instead.

The report did not mention the tape made by American Intelligence in which a Soviet fighter-pilot says he fired his missiles.

Firemen rush to put out fire at Earth Sciences Building.

Mulroney's muff mucks up

OTTAWA (CUP) — Progressive Conservative Leader Brian Mulroney was rushed to hospital yesterday after getting his jaw stuck in the doorway to his office in the Parliament buildings.

The incident occurred at 3:30 pm. while Mr. Mulroney was on his way to meet with reporters.

Paramedics were unable to remove Mulroney's jaw from the doorway and were forced to cut the doorjam out of the wall and transport the entire door frame along with Mulroney to the hospital.

"I've never seen anyone with such a fat head - I mean wide jaw," said one paramedic.

Upon arrival at Louis St. Laurent Memorial Hospital, Mulroney underwent successful surgery and was recuperating in his room by supper time.

Mr. Mulroney is expected to be back at his desk by next Tuesday.

"We're just keeping him for observation," said chief surgeon Robert Stanfield.

Upon hearing the news, Mila Mulroney rushed back from New York where she was partying with the Rolling Stones at Studio 54.

"I told him not to smile or open his mouth in narrow spaces," said Mrs. Mulroney.

The opposition leader was in surprisingly good spirits when he met with reporters in his hospital room this morning.

"This reminds me of an event from my childhood in Bay Como. My father and I were out hunting one fall day when a flock of ducks flew overhead....we didn't hit a single one," chuckled Mr. Mulroney.

Renovations have already begun to widen the entrance to Mr. Mulroney's office. It is estimated that the work will cost between $40,000 and $50,000 dollars.

"We might as well do it right the first time," said a spokesman. Prime Minister Trudeau was unavailable for comment.

HUB resident turns commie pinko

Police announced today that the gunman arrested in HUB last Tuesday has been formally charged with espionage.

The name of the suspect has not yet been released but it is known that he was a member of the Arts Students Association (ASA) and has been importing Cuban Arms through the Association since the beginning of the term.

"We found two cases of AK 47 rifles, 15 grenade launchers and ten boxes of exploding Havana cigars in the apartment," said Staff Sergeant Ian McKinnley of the Edmonton City Police. "We found a Soviet tank in the suspects parking space."

Police also discovered detailed plans for the overthrow of HUB management and the seizure of the Getaway and CJSR.

"The saboteurs felt that if they controlled the campus media, their position would be impregnable," said McKinnley.

"It is a good thing we apprehended this guy in time or else we would have had to call in Ronald Reagan to invade and protect ourselves and our neighbours from the Cuban presence."

McKinnley says that the police have been aware of subversive activities at the university for some time.

Photographs taken on the last space shuttle mission revealed preliminary preparations for the installation of SS 20 missiles in Quad," says McKinnley.

"But it weren't for the rather bizarre turn of events last Tuesday, the case would never have been cracked so quickly."

The suspect was arrested last Tuesday when police received a report that a man was pointing a gun out of the window of his apartment in HUB.

Tremendously big year-end party for Gateway staffers will be held on Thursday, December 15, 1983, starting at 6:00 pm. It's a potluck affair so drop by room 282 SUB for the address! See you there.

Should Lois dump him?

Noted Australian authority Lex Luthor recently spoke at a forum sponsored by the Women's Centre (a group designed to spread SUB 2nd Floor gossip) on the topic: Superman, the One Thing He Can't Do.

The forum was co-sponsored by the SU Anti-Cutbacks team (a group designed to do the VP External's job) and the Student Ombudsman (a service designed to do the VP Academic's job).

"Sex," said Luthor, "is the one thing this superhero cannot do, and his motivation for crime fighting is sexual frustration."

Luthor explained that it is not a problem for Superman to get the girls; it is biological factors that prevent him from sexual activities.

Luthor said we should first of all consider the character of a human orgasm which are scientifically similar to an epileptic fit. He then assumed that Kryptonians have the same impulses.

"Can you imagine the unfortunate woman who has this potential earthquake between her legs?" he says.

His second point dealt with the implications of the natural urges which are one part of making love.

Says Luthor, "consider the driving urge between a man and a woman, the monomaniacal urge to achieve greater and greater penetration. Remember also, that we are dealing with Kryptonian muscles."

He continued, "Superman would literally crush a woman's body, while simultaneously ripping her open from crotch to sternum, gutting her like a trout."

Luthor added that there are problems with a super-ejaculation.

"The release of semen would literally pop the head off any human woman," he says.

The speaker also said artificial insemination is impossible for Superman.

"The first and quickest sperm would penetrate the wall of the egg quite easily," he says. "But these are not human sperm, they are superhuman sperm."

"A hundred thousand sperm would gang-rape the egg, rendering it scrambled and useless."

Luthor concluded that copulation with humans is virtually impossible for our sexually frustrated hero.

But what about Supergirl?

Says Luthor, "ignoring Supergirl's age, she is also Superman's first cousin... and I'll let you tackle that one."

U of A invests

The University of Alberta Board of Governors has decided to purchase the neighbourhood of Windsor Park - at any cost.

"So what if the University loses 500 million dollars. What is Lougheed going to do? Close us down?" laughed B of G Chair John Schlosser.

The University plans to build a shopping mall in the expropriated space - to compete with West Edmonton Mall.

University President Myer Horowitz believes it is within the University's mandate to invest in the private sector.

"Why not?" he said.

As usual, SU President Robert (I don't know my ass from a hole in the ground) Greenhill had no comment.

Nuclear holocaust hits prime time

by Ned Walkman

ABC-TV announced today, in the wake of the overwhelming reaction to its presentation of "The Day After," plans to unveil a Day After weekly series, tentatively titled, "The Day After-again and again and again...."

The planned new show, slotted as a summer replacement, is based on the movie which depicted the obliteration of Kansas City during a nuclear war.

Representatives of ABC called the new program a serious drama with light-hearted human touches - kind of like the "Waltons face doomsday." The Day After - again and again and again will feature a different American city being demolished by Russian ICBM's each week. The show will spotlight guest stars like Dennis (Emerald Point-NAS) Weaver and Gavin (Love Boat) MacLeod playing city officials desperately trying to save their cities before being fried to a crisp after the last commercial break.

When reached for comment, ABC Entertainment Head Harry Brandon said he was excited and enthusiastic about the project, commenting "I feel people want to know more about nuclear war and what better way than by seeing their favourite stars fight the red menace."

"And the really neat thing," Brandon chuckled, "is that 'one week a city might narrowly avoid being reduced to rubble and the next, zappo! it's lights-out." "For instance," he continued, "we have one episode planned where guest stars Larry Hagman and Bill Daily (both formerly of "I Dream of Jeannie") are reunited to play American agents in Moscow who foil an attempt to blow-up Fargo, North Dakota."

"That's one I'm looking forward to myself," laughed Brandon. "And I can tell you one thing," promised Brandon, "we'll keep you in suspense."

Although the new program will cost staggering amounts to produce each week, Brandon is committed, "I feel ratings, I mean public education, is worth any price."

When asked if he felt this new show was slightly irresponsible in that it might lessen the public's perceived danger of nuclear war, Brandon said, "I don't understand the question."

Brandon said cities targeted for "irradiation" in upcoming episodes include Terre Haute, Des Moines, Rockyford and the city everyone loves to hate, Cleveland.

As an added feature, the syndicated program, "Entertainment Tonight" has agreed to set-up a telephone poll whereby viewers will call in voting on the city they would like to see blown to smithereens on a future episode.

University President Myer Horowitz (centre) addresses Students' Council in the new council chambers, during last Tuesday's meeting. Students' Council meets every other week and all students are urged to participate.

Getaway buys U of A

The Getaway recently concluded negotiations to buy the financially troubled University of Alberta.

"I'm just so glad the whole thing is finally over," said former University Vice-President Finance and Administration Lorne Leitch.

"We were so far in debt that there just wasn't any hope."

The university is expected to lose more than two million dollars this year and the Provincial Government had threatened to appoint a receiver unless something could be done.

"We sure surprised them with this move," said Leitch.

The exact price of the University has not been revealed, but "it was a steal," according to Getaway editor Brent X.

"Power, power, and more power," chanted X as his eyes lit up.

X says steps must be taken to run the University more cheaply but wholesale lay-offs are not in the works.

"Instead we are going to make all University administrators Getaway staffers and give them a corresponding cut in pay," he says.

"The situation was obviously out of hand," says Getaway staffer Myer Horowitz. "Something had to be done. I am glad that a responsible and sound organization like the Getaway took an interest."

The U of A will be renamed Brent's Place.

Falwell gets AIDS

LYNCHBURG VA — Sources revealed yesterday that Moral Majority Leader Jerry Falwell is suffering from Acquired Immune Deficiency Syndrome (AIDS).

Falwell was visibly shaken when he met with reporters this morning. He admitted that his doctors had informed him that he was suffering from the disease but he denies ever having had homosexual relations.

"It is a plot on the part of the forces of secular humanism," said Falwell, "they must have infected me in my sleep or something."

"I would never have sex with a woman let alone a man," protested Falwell. "Why, just the thought of two hot sweaty bodies passionately embracing each other until that moment of ultimate happiness....why, just the thought of it is disgusting."

The news of Falwell's illness has caused numerous problems for the Moral Majority.

The Washington headquarters have been flooded with irate letters of complaint from people threatening to withdraw from the organization.

Falwell's multi-million dollar Jesus First Corporation which markets pins and other religious paraphernalia, dropped ten points on the stock market before trading was suspended this afternoon.

The poor showing of Jesus First is considered by many experts to be the main reason for the Dow Jones Industrial Average decline today.

"We thought the John the Baptist shower curtains and the Mary Magdalene steak knives were sure sellers," said a company spokesman, "but with this latest scare who knows what could happen."

Despite these setbacks, work is continuing on Falwell's pet project, The Jerry Falwell Annotated Bible.

"It should be on the shelves in time for Christmas," said Falwell's personal secretary Lucifer Jones.

"A lot of people misinterpret the Bible because the language is antiquated," explains Jones.

"The King James version is a good book but people just don't talk that way anymore."

"A rather vague expressions like 'he who lives by the sword dies by the sword' is much clearer in its modern English equivalent: 'Nuke the Ruskies till they glow before they can do it to us.'"

"Another problem is that people often quote Jesus out of context," says Jones.

"For example, to someone such as myself who has studied the teachings of our Lord extensively, it is clear that when Jesus said 'Love thy Neighbour,' he actually meant, 'Love thy neighbour unless he is a faggot, a commie or in the under fifty per cent tax bracket.'"

"If someone read this famous saying in isolation, it is easy to see how they could be misled," says Jones. "We hope to prevent such confusion in the future."

"And the best part is that you can get your own personally autographed copy bound in genuine naugahide for only $19.95."

AIDS is a disease which attacks the immune system. It is found mainly in the gay community and is transmitted sexually although some Haitian immigrants have also contacted the disease possibly through unsanitary hypodermic needles.

Indications are that the disease is 100 per cent fatal.

Falwell's personal staff of researchers is presently tracing their leader's geneology in an attempt to ascertain whether Falwell has any Haitian ancestors.

Bob Jr. goes to court

by Big Al

Yes-CFS campaign manager Robert Lunney is taking the CFS referendum to the People's Court.

The announcement follows the Supreme Court's decision last week to uphold the Federal Appeal Court's ruling to support the University Disciplinary Panel's decision to uphold the Discipline, Interpretation and Enforcement (DIE) Board's ruling to overturn the results of the October 21 referendum which saw students at the U of A vote to join the Canadian Federation of Students.

"There is not much else we (CFS) can do," said Lunney, "the UN will just not return my calls."

"Besides can you think of a better place to settle petty squabbles (than People's Court)?" says Lunney.

Judge Wopner of the People's Court says he is "fascinated by the case."

"I think it's just ducky," says Wopner. "I've never done a referendum before."

But no date has been set for the case to appear on television.

"It sort of depends on what time Bora and Shah (Bora Laskin of the Supreme Court and Shah Pemberton of DIE Board) have free," says Lunney. "But also a popular show like People's Court always has a backlog."

But Judge Wopner insists CFS is "high on the waiting list, right after the case of the woman who had her pet chicken run over by a moped."

Keegstra silenced

by Biff Roppel

Former Eckville mayor and high school teacher James Keegstra was at the University yesterday to protest his firing by the Alberta Teacher's Association (ATA).

Speaking at a HILLEL sponsored forum, Keegstra said, "It was all a great misunderstanding, the ATA had no right to fire me."

Keegstra was fired for allegedly anti-semitic teachings, but he says, "I've got nothing against those sort of people."

"What happened," explains Keegstra, "is that my Social Studies class comes just before lunch and I was getting hungry."

"I asked someone to go get me a chicken salad sandwich with sprouts."

But Keegstra says he must have "mumbled or something, because some of my students wrote it down as 'Hitler had the right idea.'"

Keegstra says he didn't learn of the misunderstanding until it was too late.

"Before I could do anything, the ATA police were at my door. Naturally I was shocked when I found out what had happened."

"My heart goes out to anyone who has been hurt by this terrible mistake."

Keegstra emphatically denies that he has any prejudices towards Jews.

"Some of my best friends have known people who are Jewish," he says.

The Forum was interrupted by Arab Students' Association President Oscar Ammar.

Carrying a large placard proclaiming "Keegstra the Traitor," Ammar shouted "Down with the Zionists."

"I never thought the voice of James Keegstra would be silenced by the forces of Zionist Nazism," said Ammar.

Eckville is a small town of approximately 800 people near Red Deer.

Idiotorial

Bug-off

You know what bugs me?
 A lotta things bug me so I'm going to tell you some of them:
 The water that drips from the HUB Mall roof bugs me. It's fucking stupid; and while I'm talking about HUB, the food in there is ignorant.
 You ever had a HUB Burger?
 You ever had your stomach pumped?
 Something else that bugs me is West Edmonton Mall. That accursed place is too crowded, too big, and Fantasyland is more tacky than the brothel in The Sting.
 The coffee cups in SUB and CAB cafeterias bug me.
 You think it would be simple to get a cup where coffee doesn't ooze out the sides, but no, Housing and Food Services is too cheap.
 Brian Mulroney bugs me.
 He is just a big dink who won't make a decision on anything controversial. And that jaw! Ha! Ha! What a freak!
 Animal lovers bug me - especially people who like fish and cats.
 If God had meant people to keep fish in aquariums he wouldn't have invented the frying pan. As far as cats go, they are stupid. God invented the automatic dryer to deal with cats.
 The Alberta Heritage Trust Fund bugs me.
 Loughheed just wastes the money on trips and things.
 Loughheed is a smuck.
 Christmas bugs me; Santa Claus is a goof.
 AADAC commercials and light beers bug me.
 Elevators bug me - but not as much as esqalators.
 What really bugs me is sticky things that get on the bottom of my shoes.
 And you know what else?
 You bug me.

The asshole syndrome

As is well known, Nazis are atheists, so they won't be celebrating Christmas like most other Canadians. Instead they will be observing the 50th anniversary of Hitler's most satisfactory bowel movement.

This holiday may seem somewhat trivial to the outsider, but the fact is that Hitler had a severe, and sometimes downright disabling case of hemorrhoids. This disability, indeed, may have been the critical factor that eventually brought down the Third Reich. For example, if it hadn't been for a particularly painful bout of hemorrhoids in late 1942, Hitler may have eased up and let the German army retreat at Stalingrad, and the entire course of the war might have been different.

It should also be noted - especially by our modern humanists, who continue to flog a bogeyman who has been safely dead for 38 years - that Hitler's hemorrhoids go a long way towards explaining Hitler's more misanthropic and regrettable acts, which seem more understandable in light of the suffering he underwent.

Dear Sirs,

I have this recurring dream. My friends won't talk to me about it. My psychiatrist said I'm nuts and my bill was six months over due. It isn't sexy enough for the Penthouse Forum. The Gateway is my last hope.

In my dream I get out of my bed and open the bedroom door. Though still dressed in my briefs and a "Groo the Wanderer" T-shirt I walk unnoticed into a cocktail party. A man in a tuxedo (Robert Greenhill) I think comes up to me and asks me if the third time is really a charm. Before I can speak, he walks away and asks a sphinx what one calls a man with no arms and no legs floating in the ocean.

"I say 'Bob'" and the woman beside me turns and says "yes?" It's Barb Donaldson. She asks me if it's OK for a woman to be on top. Again before I can answer she leaves. She dances away singing, "nuke the people, nuke the people."

Then an older man in a dirty sweat shirt that says "Coach" comes up to me. He makes me run wind sprints which he times on a stop watch. He scribbles unseen notes on a clipboard. As I drop in exhaustion I hear him say, "things are going to have to run a lot better than this boy."

Here I woke up sweaty and more tired than when I went to bed. What does it all mean?

Letters

All letters just have to be less than 250 words long. If they're any longer I stick them on the wall and we all make cracks about your handwriting and your cheap stationery. Then again, even if they're shorter than 250 words, I still might not run it at all, and just run cartoons or a long Jean Cote Junction. Or I might change a few key words and make your whole long contorted letter that you wasted a whole evening on totally meaningless.

So, if you still want to send us a letter at least bring it in person. That way we can humiliate you to your face.

let-it-be left-lib and the right-to-life ultra-right over my killing an innocent fungus. "How can you," they plaintively, mindlessly wail, "kill an innocent fungus merely because it has not yet reached its full potential? Will it not evolve? Will it not, in some future generation, develop an intellect equal to our own? Would not that intellect, combined with the peaceful nature of fungus, be a great improvement over humanity's own violent nature?"

These upper-middle class addle-pated, dilettante extremists misunderstand the fundamental nature of fungi. Anyone who could see the way this blue peril expanded throughout the back of my cab, the way it devoured carpet, old sandwiches, unmentionable vomitations and my precious copy of Saul Alinsky's Rules for Radicals would recognize that fungi are as greedily imperialistic as our own kind.

Besides, murder is largely an imaginary crime. That fungus, just like you or I, will eventually die anyway. It is absurd to punish someone for killing a thirty year old, productive member of society the same as for killing a 75 year old retiree or a feminist of any age.

Of course, I found more than fungus in the back of my cab. Often I find passengers, or, as cabbies describe them, fares. There is a bit of proletarian cynicism I enjoy: the people who generally ride in cabs, particularly on the night shifts, are anything but fair. Fortunately, they do not stay long.

A dog once peed on H.L. Mencken's leg. He said it was a bad sign. How much worse a sign is it when a grown, if entirely intoxicated man, pees on your leg as you are trying to roll him out of your cab? When you go through his wallet to pay his fare do you take out extra for cleaning? I will try to deal with these and other pertinent questions next week.

MENTAL BLOCK

by the Cheese Danish

Having finally cleaned off my desk, in the process unearthing Soviet press releases, wimpy book reviews, CFS pamphlets and the other detritus of societal erosion, I decided to clean out my cab, the penultimate step towards cleaning up society.

The back seat of a taxi cab is a living microcosm of both everything that is right and everything that is wrong with our society. Living, that is, until I scraped the fungus out of the footwells.

With my super-sensitive, pre-cognitive hearing, I detect the usual niggling objections from both the

Cannibus cultivation

by Rich Snott

U of A Dean of Agriculture RT Berg has been accused of cultivating cannabis in an unused portion of his office. As of yet no arrests have been made but several people claim to have seen an "indoor plantation" in the Faculty of Agriculture offices and say the Dean's behaviour has been rather strange lately.

The loudest and most concerned witness is Dean Berg's Baptist secretary Sally-Joe Falwelly.

"Yes it's true," says Falwelly, "I could hear him in his office giggling, and he never giggles."

Continuing, Falwelly says, "there was this funny smell, and this weird music that if you listen to closely you can hear the singer say 'Lucifer, come to me Lucifer.'"

Dean Berg denies the accusation, and says the pot is being grown as part of an experiment.

"She (his secretary) is full of it, man. I don't know where she gets all that Lucifer shit," says Dean Berg.

"The pot is part of an experiment," continued Berg. "like uh, we're trying to get the most THC into the leaves as possible, and make the stuff smell just like tobacco, eh."

Berg says his experiment is proceeding nicely.

"Yeah, like, uh, we've got the office back there where we're growing the stuff set up really neat with a 6000 watt stereo, black light posters, and a tarantula in a fish tank, and all my back issues of Heavy Metal magazine."

"And the pot is potent, man. The other night Myer came over with his bong and we got so

RATT rats return rubbish

by Muffy Lenz

The irresponsibility of U of A students may force RATT out of the bar business and into becoming the city's highest garage sale.

"Tables, chairs, and all those fucking glasses, I've had it," said RATT Manager Don Moore.

"It wasn't too bad at first, we'd find a few extra glasses, maybe an ashtray or two after a Friday night, but lately it's getting really bad," sobbed Moore.

"I mean people just come in and leave six or seven glasses, a table, and a couple of chairs and take off. Hell, yesterday we found a Ms. Pac Man game we'd never seen before over by the ladies washroom," sighed Moore.

The storage problem led to a massive rummage sale which in turn has knocked beer prices down to a ridiculous all-time low of 25 cents.

"I mean what kind of self respecting bar serves booze for two bits," said Moore. "We're the laughing stock of the Edmonton bar scene."

Robert Greenhill, self-glorified accountant, also expressed concern over RATT's glasswear dilemma.

"I know that RATT is having some problems storing all the excess glasses, but putting ten cases in Peter Block's office is not an effective long term solution," babbled Greenhill.

Two U of A students add to RATT's beer glass and lawn chair surplus. Crackdown to begin on offenders soon.

Greenhill promises to bear down on offenders and prosecute them to the full extent of the law.

Serious offenders will have to accompany Robert for drinks in RATT on a Friday night. Repeat offenders will actually have to listen to him and even attempt to talk back on occasion.

THE KIDNEY STONE

fiction serial
by Big Al

Part CXXIV

It was the most intense pain he had ever felt. The sharp edges of the small calcified stone ground tiny ruts into his urethra. Rivulets of blood mixed with the uric acid that set his internal wounds aflame with searing agony. Usually the pain was small and sharp, a bearable but entirely distracting element that dominated his conscious thought. Eventually, however, the stone would move, scarring more soft internal flesh, leaving the scars to fill with poisons and acids. Then the pain would explode into a hell-fire holocaust of wrenching anguish that began at the ground zero of his groin and surged through his body until its full force came out in an earth shaking ear-shattering shriek of racking, torturing torment.

Stacey did not really understand what Bart was going through but obviously it was not the ordinary throes of passion. And it certainly was not helping her enjoy the moment. Despite her disappointment she did feel sorry for Bart. Whatever he was going through was definitely not fun she decided as he rolled from her to the bed then to the floor and crawled to the bathroom. She knew she should really do something about the situation. She decided to kill him.

Lise sighed. Her face felt warm and flushed. She told herself she had to get out of this funk. She had things to do, important things. If only she could think of what they were.

She shook her head sharply to help clear the cobwebs. Her long chestnut hair flipped back, the ends singeing in the flames as the house burned down around her. I really should get going, she thought, my life shouldn't be in a rut like this.

With a loud pop, a light bulb exploded, burst from the heat like a kitten in a microwave oven. The sharp sound in her ears and the sharper fragments of glass in her cheeks momentarily stirred Lise from her reverie.

She had been given to melancholy at an early age. Actually, she had been given to the parish priest, abandoned on the church steps one dark Autumn night by her parents who had won $5000 on the Western Express and run away to Las Vegas. Why had they never returned, wondered Lise, as the wall separating the living room from the kitchen collapsed, showering sparks like fake snow in a glass-bubble winter scene.

Mystery and murder seemed to engulf Lise's family the way the fire had swallowed the north wall. The only heirloom she had was from her grandfather who had died when a hunting knife he was cleaning accidentally went off. Or so Grandma Stacey had said.

Lise's past, present, and perhaps her future were all hidden away in the ancient kidneystone she wore on a chain around her neck. As the chain heated and branded its form onto her skin she arose, and walking through the hole where the north wall once stood, she set out to make something of her life.

TRY TOPPING THIS!

Everyone knows that Maxwell is the best when it comes to high position, low rumble performance. Now here's your chance to experience it yourself - by playing "Pin the Sports Bag on the Jock". Here's how!

1. Rip out the photo of Max. Don't use scissors - it doesn't look rugged; besides, you might accidentally clip something.
2. Gargle with hydrochloric acid to sensitize your tongue.
3. Crouch onto your hands and knees, then lick the other side of Max passionately. Don't be shy.
4. Stick the photo on the shower wall.
5. Cut out the picture of the bag.
6. Whip yourself into a rubber skinsuit and a dog collar.
7. Grip a 7 or 8 inch dart in one hand and the bag in the other.
8. Step into the tub and turn on the cold shower and you are all set. Now shoot!
9. Once you've calmed down, slip into your favourite negligee and light a cigarette. And then insist on Maxwell. He's your only guarantee of satisfaction.

Rip out photo above with bare hands. Cut along dotted line.

Cabbage infiltrates

by Windy Corning

The U of A campus has been hit by a wave of neo-Cabbagism. Is it good? Is it bad? The Getaway takes an in-depth look at Campus Cabbage Cults. "Anselma" (not her real name) was a happy, but naive, first year pre-vet student - until she met members of the Cabbage Patch. But, she was lucky. Anselma was rescued from the cult when undercover police introduced a plague of blight to consume the cult leaders. Recently, she spoke out about her ordeal.

"At first, I thought they were harmless," she says. "They looked a bit odd, but not too different from the kinds of people who go to Incredible Edibles."

Anselma first met the Cabbage Crowd after a late night study session for a botany class. "They just seemed to know more about plants than anyone else did," she said.

But Anselma soon sensed something very wrong about the Cabbage Kids.

Anselma was rescued from the cult when undercover police introduced a plague of blight to consume the cult leaders.

Did this woman just commune with an undercover cabbage?

ge cult es campus

Bad habits lurk under cabbage kid's innocent exteriors.

"It was during lunch one day," she recalls, "when I ordered Cabbage Rolls. The Cabbage Kids wouldn't let me eat them. They said they were carnivores and couldn't stand to see anyone eat vegetables."

And, so, for nine harrowing weeks, Anselma was not allowed to eat cabbage.

"It was awful," she says. "Freckles started popping up on my face, and then these dimples. I also developed a very cheesy smile and I found myself tying my hair into pigtails."

Little Kenny Kinkaid, a first-year Ag student, has an even more sordid tale to tell.

"It all started when I had to grow cabbages for a lab. See, I planned to bring 'em home for mom to make borscht, and I was going to lend a couple to my brother in Mech E who was going to make 'em into lamps. Anyway, I was workin' in the lab really late one night and these two Cabbage Head people came in. My dad warned me all about Cab Heads, but I tried to stay calm."

Will naive Kenny soon be corrupted by his unassuming friends?

However, Kenny's efforts to stay cool were too feeble to be of any consequence.

"The Cabbage Head girl was French and she said her name was Fifi. The boy Cabbage didn't say anything he was the silent, macho type. Anyway, Fifi said, 'Ow about we have menage a trois?' What could I say? It was late, and I was tired. Besides, I'd heard of Cabbage sex..."

Before he knew it, Kenny became entrapped in the bleak void of Tough Cabbages. He, too, developed freckles and dimples where he never had before. Worse, he became bright-eyed and bushy-tailed. But it was part of the Cabbage identity, a small price to pay for Cabbage acceptance.

"No, I don't regret running with the tough Cabbages," Kenny confides. "Hell, life is too short not to live dangerously."

Defenders of the Cabbage Cults say it isn't a cult at all; it's a lifestyle. Dr. Leif Greenface, a noted psychologist, says Cabbagism is legitimate, and for some, healthy.

"No, I don't regret running with the tough cabbages," Kenny confides. "Hell, life is too short not to live dangerously."

---

Grown cabbages make their first moves for ultimate power.

"Some people just can't cope with the pressures of adult life. They want the security of going home to find a nice warm Cabbage in bed... and meat-eating is such a macho thing."

Others are quick to note the enthusiastic Cabbage involvement in Alberta politics. Premier Lougheed has said that a "vote from a Cabbage is just as valid as a vote from your average Albertan."

Another famous politician, NDP Leader Grant Notley, is actively seeking Cabbagehead support.

He says, "I know I would have to use universal carnivorousism as a platform, but I will endeavour to appease vegetable eaters somehow, but I promise: there will be no vegetables user fees."

So is Cabbagism really healthy? Is it a passing fad? Or perhaps a Communist plot? Only time will tell, but let us hope that we will some day understand the Cabbage psyche well enough to either adopt it and become "whole" human beings, or crush it into borscht under an iron jackboot.

Review of a play

King Lear
by Bill Shakespeare
Citadel Theatre

review by Ursula Wursual

I never went to see this play. Furthermore, I couldn't find anyone else to go in my place.

Nevertheless, I'm sure it was a fine production. The script, of course, would be difficult to fault. The costumes were probably very nice, and I'm sure the actors and actresses did very well in bringing this great humorous classic to life.

The director's fine talents no doubt shone through and the singing was probably just great. The dancing and pratfalls maybe could have been practised a bit more, but I'm sure that in successive productions the three juggling clowns will get them just right.

The appearance of ET in the second act was probably a nice touch, and if Wendy O'Williams and the Plasmatics played during the intermission, it was undoubtedly a delight.

All in all this is very probably a fine show, and not to be missed.

Mr. Ed, the talking horse, stars in the Citadel's production of King Lear. Cordelia and the fool consult.

There's A Nekked Gurl on My TV
Sweeten or Wopland (1983)
Studio 82

review by "Lunchbucket" McPhee

Uhh, like I'm doin' this reveew fur my freind Greg Harris who said that a reveew of a movie wood be a gud thing for me to rite to him about so that I could show them collij stoodents that us ordinary Joes aren't such dumm guys as we think. So I got on the bus won day cause my freind Frank (we call him "And Beans") said that the movee that wuz playin at Studio 82 wuz a good won to see cause there were gurls with big censored and Frank said that made them smart.

Frank and me like smart gurls.

So I got on the bus cause it wuz too cold to walk and I was censored. Anyway, this old crippled up bat gets on the bus, and looks at me like I shud feel sorry for her but I don't until the bus driver that SOB tells me to get up cuz I'm a young man and she's a old cripple bat. So that wuzn't much fun but if I see her again I'll get even.

So I got to the theatre which as you know if you saw it is a nice place but kind of smells like dirty old men and they don't let plants in cuz they wilt.

Oh, yeah there wuz lots of guys in overcoats there too and I asked Frank why and he just said shut up lunchbucket.

So then the movie started. It must have been a spic film or some uther sort of foreen thing cuz the mouths never matched the words but in a sheshul sort of movie like this nobudy watches the mouths much cuz there's lots of interesting sorts of things going on further down.

Well purty soon Frank opened up his overcoat beside me and started to breathe a lot and eat his popcorn reel fast at least that's whut he tole me.

On the screen there was at least thurdy nekked gurls and they was censored with six censored and a ostrich. But there wuz no TV like the advertizement promised.

The whole theatre wuz breethin reel hard though.

So it must have bin reel stuffy in thear.

Pretty soon a man came in and did weird things to a gurl with a fork.

Then it wuz over.

I didn't like it verra much but Frank said that you have to beee smarter than me to appreciate forin filums. So I thought reel hard and I new Greg Harris wuz in university and that he might be smart enuff to like a movie that was forin.

So I rote this reveew for him and sed that if he wood want to he could publish it for his frends. If not he can shove it up his censored til his nose bleeds.

You guessed it, a book review

The City of Edmonton and Vicinity White Pages
By Edmonton Telephones

Review by Basil Wishbone

Hats off to Edmonton Telephones. This prolific author, who by all counts should be nearing retirement, has once again written a sprawling saga equaling, if not bettering, most of his past works.

In short, this is a cracking good read.

While Telephones still seems to be struggling with plot development, he's come up with a magnificent cast of characters that overshadows the rather simple story line.

The 900-plus page epic opens in the offices of AAAA Better Holdings and from there moves swiftly to the shady business of AAAA Able Darkrooms Inc. Telephones makes sure to establish setting before introducing his characters.

The story revolves around the lives of the FW Aab family who meet a number of people and journey to a number of places. Their first trip is to the Aabaca Hair Den - Telephones poignant symbolism is clearly at work here.

It's laughs, thrills, tears, and excitement all the way through this grandiose novel and it should be at the top of the Christmas list for any of your book-loving friends. The happy, and heart-warming ending at Zyg's Jewellery is worth the price of the book alone.

And just a short recommendation to the movie producers - Paul Newman would be perfect at Ronald Leeming, while Meryl Streep is a dead giveaway for AP Seabrook.

Artsies phased out in demolition project

University President Myer Horowitz confirmed today that the Fine Arts Building is to be demolished "early in 1984" as part of the University's ongoing campaign to cut back on non-essential services and programs. Said the president, "Land is at a premium now that they've foiled our plan to annex Windsor Park, so we've got to devote what little space we have to really useful things."

The university plans to erect a brand new carpark once the site is cleared.

The plan has met with vigorous opposition from Fine Arts students and professors, who feel their study environment and jobs are threatened, and Arts students in general are fearful that their facilities will be next on what one nervous HUBetteer called "Myer's hitlist."

The Old Strathcona Foundation has also swung its weight behind the students, saying that the nearly ten year old structure should be designated an historic site, and the Sierra Club is sending representative to investigate charges that the planned demolition could threaten the habitat of a family of rare grey-backed field mice living under the east entrance to the building.

Both Horowitz and Advanced Education Minister Dick Johnston hotly deny the charges: "Our surveys indicate that Fine Arts Students spend most of their time in either Java Jive or Dewey's, so how could tearing down the building inconvenience them?" the President wondered aloud. He added that the University Job Retraining Program would find positions for the displaced profs elsewhere, probably in Groundskeeping or Snow Removal. And at an early morning press conference forced on him by persistent Old Strathcona Activists, Johnston thundered, "We promised to build the damned thing out of brick, so what more do you pine-cone eaters want?"

To complicate matters further, claims from an inside source have fuelled speculation that the new carpark will be built not to serve the University as a whole, but merely to accommodate students and staff in the new Commerce building.

"I know of several Provincial Cabinet Ministers with sons in Commerce, I bet they're building that thing just so those guys don't have to walk over from the Jube," said a senior Johnston aide, requesting anonymity for fear of castration at Johnston's hands, or worse.

Ha.

I don't think you could write if your life depended on it.

You can probably write a mean essay — but that's formula stuff.

You don't have the jam to come up with something original.

Fraud, fake, phoney, charlatan.

Nyah, nyah, na nyah, nyah.

You might be self-cannabalstic enough, but you've got to do something about that fragile little ego of yours.

Too bad.

Quite a state really.

What will you do?

I suppose you could just sit there.

That's it. Very good.

Not too satisfying, though, is it?

You could try lying to yourself, but that sort of avoids things.

Why don't you write something?

And then let lots of other people read it.

Bible Quiz

Sure, it is now exam week and you are praying to God in the same desperate way your unruly five-year old brother is being good for Santa Claus. A faith of convenience is no faith at all. This year if you are going to pray (at least in the Judeo-Christian Tradition) you are going to have to know something about the Bible. Yes, the Bible, that strange book where people were so poor they had to rent their garb and spent most of their time begatting each other. Here is one test you will have to pass without divine guidance.

All answers are based on the Thomas Nelson edition of the King James Bible.

1. Sodom and Gomorrah were:

- a) resorts near Plato's Retreat
- b) the original Doublemint twins
- c) 2 cities destroyed for their wickedness
- d) nice places to visit but you wouldn't want to live there.
- e) Smurfs

2. Righteous lips are:

- a) bodacious
- b) the delight of Kings
- c) Mary Magdalen's claim to fame
- d) likely to sink ships

3. If a man finds a damsel that is a virgin which is not betrothed, and lay hold on her, and lie with her and they be found then the man must:

- a) respect her in the morning
- b) hasten unto the free clinic
- c) give her father 50 shekles
- d) make an offering of sloppy seconds unto those who find them.

4. Jesus said, "Take these things hence; make not my Father's house a house of merchandise." This was a warning to:

- a) them that sold doves in the temple
- b) Jerry Falwell, Oral Roberts, et al
- c) a stock boy from Crazy Cohen's discount sacrificial lambs
- d) a door to door vacuum cleaner salesman

5. Why is sorrow better than laughter?:

- a) tears shall wash away the stain of our sin.
- b) cuz God is a spoil-sport

BAD SPORTS

A TEGWAR demonstration at Lister Field from last summer's Universiade. The British team attacks with polo mallets and exceptionally bad breath while the Indian team tries the usually futile tactic of passive resistance.

TEGWAR is HELL

by Dead Fischer

It's exciting. It's rough and tumble. It's all-out, anything goes madness. It's called TEGWAR and it's the sport that the U of A Athletic Department believes will finally fill the stands.

"TEGWAR is going to save intercollegiate sports in this country," a department spokesman predicted confidently. "It's the most popular game in the world and it's bound to catch on here."

Action is what TEGWAR, The Exciting Game Without Any Rules, is all about. It is played as follows: the two (or more) competing universities assemble all their athletes, men, women, animals, and vehicles on a mutually agreed upon field, arena, parking lot or section of the city. Then each team tries to hit the other team as hard and as often as possible until everybody has to go some place else.

"Perhaps TEGWAR's most exciting innovation is that no score, no statistics whatsoever are kept," said Jock Taulk of the Canadian Association for TEGWAR. "Numbers of any sort just get in the way of the action. TEGWAR is a game you enjoy, not study."

Despite its name, TEGWAR, at least as played in Canada, will have some rules: no projectile weapons (spears, guns, cruise missiles); no armoured vehicles or vehicles over 2000 pounds; and, most of all, no eye poking. When asked about this Taulk said only, "Brazilian rules, Bah!"

All the other intercollegiate sports at the U of A have been cancelled to boost the TEGWAR team. Also, because of the nature of the sport, there are now an unlimited number of spots open on the team with the requisite number of athletic scholarships. Because the sport came to the U of A so quickly, however, players will be required to provide their own baseball bats, hockey sticks, helmets, machetes, and green and gold uniforms.

The U of A's first TEGWAR match will take place in January. The Golden Bears team will face a team from the U of Calgary, the congregation of The United Church of Canada, and a visiting team of Druze militiamen. The game starts at the Butterdome January 9 at 8:00 PM, and will continue until everybody has someplace else to go.

Intramural mayhem

Four hard core groups of alternate intramural sports enthusiasts are drawing together this Christmas for the first annual Fraternity Quadathlon. Although the sports are not too well known yet, and their avid followers are few and far between, the vicious and bloody rivalry between teams will undoubtedly make this competition a media event soon. Besides, we couldn't pass up the free beer at the refreshment stands.

Kappa Syphilis, an overall strong contender, is favoured in the Parachute Polo finals today, against the third-seeded but feisty Delta Epileptics. The object of this aerial endeavour is to keep the ball in the air and avoid pulling the rip cord until the players are in a position to drop the ball either on the Admin Building or in V-Wing. The Kappa-Syphs, with their noted ability to keep their balls up, are naturally at an advantage over the trigger-happy DE's.

The location of the Downhill Kamikaze Tourney presented a problem until some intrepid person suggested the pile of horseshit recently swept out of the Students' Union Offices. Observers are advised to clear the southwest access to Quad during this part of the Tournament, as competitors will be attempting to hit as many trees, buildings, opponents and bystanders as is fraternally possible. Thought the Fujis, with their extensive experience in Japanese skiing, seem to be the highest qualified in this meet, the perpetually drunk Lambi Pies have shown an uncanny impact ability in the eliminations. To date, the Lambi Pies have eliminated four cops, twelve political hacks, eighteen trees, and one or two opponents.

The results from the Co-Rec headball finals are now in. During a shock finale, the mule-headed Pigpen team was trounced 87-34 by the no-holds barred strategy of the Pan-Nymphonics. Reports from Campus Security indicate that the Pan-Nymphs demolished the Dentistry Parking bays used for the games, then devastated the Campus Security building to escape custody.

HUB residents accused of murder

by Captain Highliner

Involvement in a new campus sport has led to the arrest of at least 25 HUB residents.

Since the first arrest of a gun wielding HUB tenant on Tuesday, December 7, city police have been called in to investigate allegations of the misuse of firearms on at least 16 occasions.

The cause of this flurry of firearm activity appears to be a new fad which is currently sweeping the campus residence. The fad: indoor trap shooting - a skill testing and highly dangerous sport in which 2nd and 3rd floor residents arm themselves with shotguns and rifles, stand at their shutters, and shoot at airborne, hard clay projectiles which hurtle down the length of the mall at speeds in excess of 100 kmh.

It has not yet been determined exactly where these projectiles are being launched from, but Housing and Food Services speculates that it is somewhere north of SU records.

So far, at least 14 people have been killed or seriously maimed by stray shots. Most of the victims are themselves residents of the HUB Mall whose apartments lie in the line of sight of the eager young participants.

Leslie Blair, an innocent passerby and employee of HUB Administration, was shot between the eyes six times by a .303 calibre rifle.

When interviewed by a Getaway reporter while undergoing surgery at the U of A hospital, she commented pithily, "why can't people stick to pinball or something safe like that?"

Marshall Law, spokesmen for the city police, stated that the incidents are not of a serious nature, and for the most part they are viewed as being nothing more than a bunch of highly strung university students blowing off a little steam before exams.

So far the police have confiscated 4 shot guns, 6 rifles of various calibres, two AK-47s, a grenade launcher, and a toy pop gun.

The University of Alberta Women's Centre meets every Tuesday at 3:00 PM.

Keegstra accuses Oilers

by Tent Cockroach

The year 1982 never happened, according to Jim Keegstra.

"The whole thing was just part of the international Zionist conspiracy," he said.

Keegstra spoke last Friday at a Mechanical Engineering Undergrad Society Forum on the topic of "Nihilism and Existentialism in Recently Published Computing Texts."

"Those Jews are always pulling stunts like that," said Keegstra. "You just never know what they're going to think up next."

The former mayor of Eckville also called American president Ronald Reagan a "socialist."

However, Keegstra did call upon Reagan to make a selective nuclear strike against the Tory building here on the U of A campus.

"The place is just festering with queers, commies, rock musicians, Liberals, and postal workers," said Keegstra.

He also bitterly denounced Edmonton Oilers coach Glen Sather.

diabolical mind-bending communist plot."

After referring to the recent American invasion of Grenada, Keegstra called on the Canadian government to secure their own regional territorial integrity and invade Baffin Island.

Pierre the prick

by Ned Walkman

Prime Minister Pierre Trudeau embarked on the second-leg of his celebrated "peace mission" on Monday, flying to Washington to meet with senior government officials.

The Prime Minister had hoped to meet with President Reagan and top Congressional leaders, but as yet had failed to meet with anyone.

Apparently the Prime Minister called on President Reagan around midday Monday, but Reagan was still asleep and aides were reluctant to wake him. The President, press spokesman Larry Speakes explained, had been up late watching "Mr. Smith."

After this, the Prime Minister, his three sons, his entourage and 700 Canadian reporters called on Senate Majority leader Howard Baker. Senator Baker said he was busy, but if the Prime Minister cared to have a seat in the waiting room that was fine with him. Baker also added that the 700 reporters would have to wait somewhere else.

A red-faced spokesman for Prime Minister Trudeau admitted that he was scrambling a little bit to find someone for the Prime Minister to meet with. He was still hopeful, however, for a meeting with a second-secretary in the state department if the gentlemen could break his date for the evening.

The spokesman also admitted that the press in Washington was not very interested in the PM's mission. However, the sight of the Canadian press corps tramping around behind the Prime Minister was arousing some concern among local residents.

When contacted, a spokesman for the Washington Police Department said his department was monitoring the movements of the press corps.

By nightfall, the weary group decided to fly to New York to meet with UN Secretary General Javier Perez de Cuellar. The office of the Secretary General, when contacted, was unaware of the impending arrival of "Pierre the Peacemaker" and issued a statement regretting that the Secretary General would not be able to meet with the Prime Minister as he had tickets to the Rangers-Devils game.

Undaunted by the day's events, the Prime Minister declared he would continue his mission travelling next to Australia for a combined "vacation-search for peace trip."

"After all," he said, "my boys haven't been there yet."

Cigarette night fever

If Winston Smith has his way over 650 students will be smoking excessively by fall.

Smith, Chairman of the Cancer is Crap Committee, is launching a demanding drive to encourage people to start smoking or to at least increase their smoking to more noxious substances. The campaign will begin the first week of January to coincide with what Smith calls "that stupid habit of giving up smoking as a New Year's resolution."

The reasoning behind the campaign is simple, says Smith.

"More and more people are being coerced into quitting smoking or not even starting at all. This is clearly a move to destroy society as we know it!"

"After all what happens when a smoker quits? He gets fat and ugly."

Smith maintains this itself shows how healthy smoking really is. "All that cancer crap is really bull, it's all Russian propaganda."

"Besides," says Smith, "because smoking is some sort of oral fixation smokers actually make more interesting lovers!"

He also claims there is an economic advantage. "We would end unemployment if we all smoked!"

Currently, Smith is attempting to recruit hard-core smokers to instigate a new problem funded by an unnamed tobacco company. These volunteers will smoke heavily in elevators to whet the appetites of the other riders for smoke. He hopes there will be at least one of these volunteers in every elevator on campus by February.
