rson went to Brockville last September from Renfrew, having preriously been engaged as teacher in latter town. On April 21st, following a public announcement of his engage-ment, he went to Renfrew and married a daughter of Rev. Mr. Jamieson. The bride was aged about 25 years and the groom was nearing the 50 mark.
They have since been living happily in Brockville. He has received a preliminary hearing before a Renfrew mag-istrate and his trial will take place the latter part of this week. It is reported that Anderson has a wife and nine children living in Toronto.

A STEEL-SHINGLE DELIVERY

On Saturday last a car load of The Pedlar People 4-lock Steel Shingles arrived here from Oshawa, and a large number of farmers were in town for their respective shares of the consignment. The goods had been sold through the agency of Mr W. B. New some of Plum Hollow, and the travel ling agent, Mr T. J. McCann of West Gamble House to all whose time per mitted them to partake of the hospi tality of Mr Newsome, and the meet ings and greetings of so many progres sive farmers, with the consequent inter change of views, made the event very pleasant and profitable.

The goods produced by the Pedlar People are winning an ever widening way among those who wish to combine economy, durability and efficiency of weather protection in the purchasing of shingles and siding. Mr Newsome became thoroughly convinced of the merits of these goods before accepting an agency for their sale, and the suc cess he is meeting with is only another evidence that faith and good goods constitute a winning combination.

ATHENS VICTORIOUS

A keenly contested game of baseball took place here on Thursday afternoon. It was the return match of Lyndhurst against Athens, and the interest arous ed was attested by the (for Athens) large number of spectators who witness

To tell the whole truth, Athenians, though loyal to their team, had very little hope of seeing victory come their way, in view of the decisive defeat they had suffered from the same opponents of such percentage to be spread over a product of twenty years. only a week previously. But confi dence, in great big chunks, came to the bleachers during theopening innings and to the end of the match all good plays especially those of the home team) ere heartily applauded.

In the first two innings Athens scored 7 runs while Lyndhurst went Henry to Elgin streets, and the second twice to bat for only two runs. The for a four-foot walk on Elgin street, fans were jubilant. Then Athens from Prince to Main street, scored two goese eggs and Lyndhurst added six, placing the visitors in the lead by 1 run at the end of the fourth This began to resemble the Lyndhurst match, and the Athenian doubters and a few days will be given for the were about ready to say "we told you so," when A:hens placed another egg in the basket; Lyndhurst followed sait, scored 4 runs in the sixth, and were then shut out three innings in ssion. Athens scored 6 in the sixth. 8 in the 7th, failed to score in the 8th, and did not take their ninth, the score standing at this stage of the

The venerable and well known Chauncey Bellamy passed away on the evening of May 27. The funeral service was conduted by Rev W. Hender son in the Methodist church on Saturday. Mr Henderson in speaking on Ecclesiastes the 12th—a description of age as true to fact as it is beautiful in poetry—referred to Mr Bellamy's long and useful life. At Elbe in this county of Leeds he was born on March 11, 1818, in the reign of George the III; 1818, in the reign of George the III; his life therefore touched upon the

GRANOLITHIC WALKS

Athens has toyed with the granolithic idewalk idea for some years. The exerimental stretches of walk put down noriginal plans and conditions have been the citizens has been the very opposite of that for which our municipal representatives hoped. A comprehensive search to the lead sidewaik idea for some years. The experimental stretches of walk put down on original plans and conditions have proved so costly that the resultant effect on the citizens has been the very opposite of that for which our municipal rep resentatives hoped. A comprehensive scheme for building walks on the lead ing streets of the village was considered by our present council at the beginning of the year, but a thorough investigation of the subject brought them to the wise conclusion that such a scheme was inadvisable, if not impracticable.

All these years there has been a provision in the statutes under which a certain proportion ofresidents of any section of a street could by petition to the council secure the construction of a granolithic walk in tront such little hope of seeing victory come their section under agreement to pay 60

> Under this statute action is now being taken, and at its meeting on Monday evening the village council received and adopted two petitions for granolithic walks, the a four foot walk on Wiltse street, from

It is thought probable that a petition will be presented from the business men for a walk on the north side of Main street, from Henry to Elgin streets, presentation of this or any other peti tion, before the council arranges for financing the undertaking.

An engineer is to be brought here at once to run the levels and prepare the plans and specifications for the work already in hand, and it is probable that at the same time levels will be run on other streets where it is likely the walks will be required in the near future.

Those ratepayers who want a grand lithic walk in front of their premises under the terms of this statute should ask for it now. Prompt action will be in their own interest and in the interest of the general public.

Jesus Appears to the Apostles .- John 20: 19-31.

Commentary.-I. The fifth appearance of Jesus (vs. 19-23.) 19. The same day-It is still the resurrection day, Sunday, the Lord's day. In this case at least ed in counting the hours. It was cer-tainly long after sunset, as it was even-ing when Jesus left the two at Emmaus, and they have returned and are now John must have used the modern methwith the distiples here in the upper room and yet John says this was "the same day." At evening—The events of the day had been many and important, and the apostles, except Thomas, who was absent, were probably talking over what they had seen and heard. Doors were about This example of the same than the same table. This probably means that the were bolted. Disciples—The disshut—This capies were the ten apostles (Thomas being absent) and "them that were with them' (Luke 24; 33); probably the same company that gathered in the upper room after the ascension. See Acts 1; 13, 14. Fear of the Jews—There is nothing to show that the Love deis nothing to show that the Jews de-signed to molest the disciples, but be-cause Christ had been put to death they had reason to fear for their safety

.... In the midst—He evidently entered miraculously. In verse 26 John refers to the fact that the doors were shut in a way to leave but little doubt that he intends to convey the impression that Christ actually 18 sion that Christ entered by his own pow er while they were shut. "This fact er while they were shut. "This fact gives us a glimpse of the power of the spiritual body, showing that it is not confined by material substances." — Scott. After the resurrection Christ's human form, though still real and corporeal, is not subject to the ordinary conditions of material bodies. Before the resurrection he was visible unless he willed it otherwise; after the resurrection it would seem that he was invisible unless he willed it otherwise.—Cam Bib. tion it would seem that he was invisible unless he willed it otherwise.—Cam. Bib. There is a great mystery attached to Christ's spiritual body which he possessed after the resurrection. Peace be unto you—His usual salutation and benediction. "May every blessing of heaven and earth which you need be granted unto you." It was peace from trouble, for Christ was dead and is alive again; the night had passed and the light had begun to dawn. It was peace to those who needed the forgiveness of trial and persecution and bolt the door, then Paradise opened and the stairway of glory appeared, whereon the Son of man was seen ascending. It is ever so. Shut away from the world, we are shut in with God. In New York, where land is high, immense-been pressed heavenward to find room they could not find by spreading out. So they have been pressed heavenward to find room they could not find by spreading out. So they could not find by spreading out so they could not find by spreading out. So they could not find by spreading out. So they could not find by spreading out so they could not find by spreading out. So they could not find by spreading out so they could not find by spreading out so they could not find by spreading out. So they could not find by spreading out so they could not find by spreading out so they could not find by spreading out. So they could not find by spreading out so they could n again; the night had passed and the light had begun to dawn. It was peace to those who needed the forgiveness of sins; for the atonement was now made. It was the peace of victory over death; the peace of one who had shown his power to conquer all his enemies. It was peace because (1) the storm is over, (2) Christ is still their teacher, and (3) (2) Christ is still their teacher, and (2) the prospect will never again be dark-

Had so said-Luke makes mention of several other things that took place before he showed them His hands and side. See chap. 24. 37, 38. Here we every one. When they saw—A sight of Christ will gladden athe heart of a disciple at any time. It was at this time that He gave to them another proof that He was the same Jesus whom they had known. He called for food (Luke 24, 41-43), and did cat before them. Afterward the apostles called attention to what now occurred as a proof of their Lord's resurrection (Acts 10, 41).

21. Hath sent me—As I was sent to proclaim the truth of the Most High so I send you for the very same purpose, clothed with authority and influenced by the Spirit. 22. Breathed on them—The breath here should probably be regard-ed as merely an emblem of the Spirit. Receive ye the Holy Spirit (R. V.)—Or, take ye, which shows that the Spirit's presence must be welcomed by them if lie came into their lives; they could reject Him. Their minds and hearts were to be illuminated by the Spirit and led by the Spirit, and thus they would be prepared to carry on the work after Christ had left Him 23 Vergnit carry.

"Peace be unto you?" (v. 19). Jesus' by the Spirit, and thus they would be prepared to carry on the work after Christ had left Him. 23. Ye remit, ect.—See R. V. Compare Matt. 16. 19. The gift here imparted was not merely to the ten apostles present, but to the entire company of disciples, including the women. They could not have been given power and authority to forgive sins and regenerate man's fallen nature, as that is the prerogative of God only. The medium by which God remits sins is the gospel. The gospel. Is the preaching of the gospel was here committed to the disciples, and those who accepted and obeyed the gospel as preached by them and turned by the Christ as their Saviour from sin, would be forgiven, while those who rejected the preaching of the disciples, and the preaching of the disciples would rest under condemnation.

If The unbelief of Thomas (vs. 24. 25.) 24. Thomas—This was his Hebrew name and Didymus his Greek name! both mean "a twin." Was not with them—This was one of the principal causes of the unbelief of this apostle. He should he would have seen and heard Jesus and would have received the blessthat time on the next Lord's day night Again they were met for religious wor that time on the next Lord's day night. Again they were met for religious worship, and this time Thomas was with them; probably encouraged to be present by what the other apostles had told him. Then came Jesus—Jesus will always be present with those who meet in his name. 27. Reach hither—Our Lord meets him in his own language and this was a rebuke to Thomas, showing him his name. 27. Reach hither—Our Lord meets him in his own language and this was a rebuke to Thomas, showing him that Jesus, though not present, knew all the hard, unbelieving things he had said. But believing—There is evidence sufficient. It will be well for every one to heed these words of Christ to Thomas; let us have faith in God. 28. Thomas answered—Overwhelmed with the fact of Christ's presence, he did not hold out an instant. My God—"I confess thy divine power and prostrate myself before thee as the great God." Thomas was the first who gave the title of God to Jesus. The slowness of Thomas to believe ought to strengthen our faith. The disciples were cautious and accepted nothing that they did not know was founded on fact. 29. And yet have believed—The faith of Thomas would have been more pleasing to Christ if he had believed at once. Let us receive the testimony of those who have seen him; there are peculiar blessings in store for those who have not seen and yet have believed.

IV. The purpose of sacred history (value of the said of those who have history (value of the said of the propose of sacred history (value of the said of the propose of sacred history (value of the propose of IV. The purpose of sacred history (vs.

30, 31.) 30. Many other signs—Signs here mean miracles in general. This book—John is glancing back and has book—John is glancing back and has reference to his entire gospel. We thus see that we are not to infer that the svangelists are ignorant of a given fact because they omit it from their writings.

31. These are written, etc.—It was not John's purpose to write a life of Christ, but to record such facts as would accomplish two things: I. Cause them to believe that Jesus is Christ, the Messiah, the divine Word and the true God. 2. Cause them to trust in him, "in his name" (R. V.), for eternal life.

PRACTICAL APPLICATIONS.

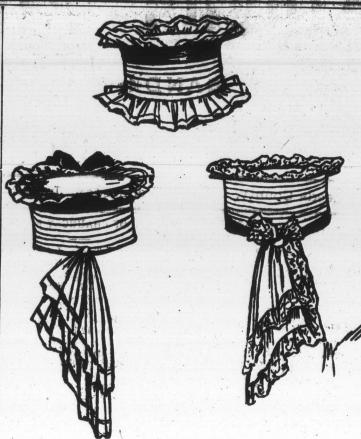

"When the doors were shut where the trial and persecution and pain come, they build upward toward heaven. The tallest of Christians are those who are most cramped for room on earth; the and pushed by the low sinners of this world."

"Jesus....stood in the midst" (v. 19) As near to one as to the other. Learn a lesson of unity. Christ the centre of every life. Those who are his are one. Learn a lesson of concentration. Make him the pivot around which each amd side. See chap. 24. 37, 38. Here we see how terrified they were, supposing they had seen a spirit. The difficulty with which the disciples accepted the fact of the resurrection should strengthen our faith in it. Instead of there being collusion among them to show that Jesus was alive, they themselves were actually convinced against their will. He then gently reproved them by asking them why they were troubled and why they permitted anxious reasonings and questionings to arise in their minis.

Mark says (chap. 16. 14) He "upbraided them with their unbelief and hardness of heart." Jesus then proceeded to convince them that He was indeed a real person. sheart." Jesus then proceeded to convince them that He was indeed a real person. Shewed unto them—The wounds were probably all perfectly healed, but the scars remained. His hands and His side—Luke says hands and feet. This leaves no doubt that Jesus was nailed to the cross and not tied on as .nany were. Jesus told them to handle Him (Luke 24, 39), which they probably did. Glad—They were terrified at first, but when they knew Him they were glad. There is great joy in the resurrection for every one. When they saw—A sight of Christ will gladden athe heart of a sight of Christ will gladden athe heart of a sight of Clas. 29, 19). Is this your mission? Is crease their joy, and the poor rejoice (1sa. 29, 19). Is this your mission? Is your time given to helping others, either in the home or out of it, to a better, in the home or out of it, to a better, higher, holier living? Is it given to strengthen, support and comfort the poor, weak, sorrowing ones? Is your money used to draw others closer to Christ, or to draw them about you? Do you dress to please Him, or some friend? Do you furnish your home to make it a blessing to all who share it with you, or to make it attractive to with you, or to make it attractive to worldly associates? Do you indulge in luxuries to glorify God or to satisfy your natural desire for beautiful things? Are your purchases made from necessity or to gratify vanity? Is your home a city of refuge for the poor, the troubled, or the oppressed? or do you entertain only distinguished guests, or those who would be likely to entertain you? Would a

Is Owen Sound Murderer Too Crazy to be Hanged?

Port Huron, Mich, June 1.-Proessing his love for the wife he murdered. James Creighton, of Owen Sound, Ont., who also killed his two step-children and attempted to put himself out of existence, wrote Judge Harris, his father-in-law, two weeks ago referring to his victim in gushing terms. How, after writing an epistle of this kind, Creighton could so terribly mutilate those whom he said were so dear to him is a puzzle to Judge Harris. The latter can only count for it on the theory that Creighton must have been insane. The daughter, Mrs. Creighton, had been expected to visit her relatives in this city within a few days.

Toronto despatch: In the police court to-day John H. Zarofonitis, a Greek, was charged with receiving stolen property from Robert Taylor, 14 years old, who was employed by Saunders & Rowan, 121 King street west. The lad was remanded for sentence in the children's court for stealing gloves, etc., and was used as witness against Zarofonitis. To Mr. Corley, young Taylor, who lives in Cowan avenue, said that Zorafonitis, who sold candy from a push-cart, gave him sweets in return for the gloves.

"How many did you steal?"

"Turbuy pairs"

"Twelve pairs."
"Did he know where you were get-ing them from?"
"Yes."

"How did he know?" asked Mr. Robmette, who appeared for Zarofonitis.

NEVER HAD A KISS.

The Pathetic Complaint of a Child in an Almshouse.

Julius Chambers relates in the Reader a pathetic incident that once occurred while making a tour of the almshouses of the State of New York. It was in the children's ward in one of these that a small, red-faced, red-headed lad attracted his paties.

a small, red-faced, red-headed lad attracted his notice.

I patted him on the shoulder and asked his name. He gave it promptly, told me he was 10 years old and that his father and mother were dead. I felt deeply touched by the child's words. Soon after I left the miserable shed in which these children were herded together and started to recross the yard I felt a tug at my coat and found my little a tug at my coat and found my little friend behind me. His eyes looked up into mine so pitifully that I asked:
"What can I do for you, my boy?"
"I want you to kiss me."
"Certainly; but why?"
"I never was kissed in my life."

"I never was kissed in my life."

"I never was kissed in my life."
When I came to write that story for publication I developed its full pathos, giving the name of the fatherless and motherless lad. As a result he was adopted by a wealthy family near Saratoga; he has been well raised, given a college education and is to-day heir to a fortune.

MISSING GIRL.

Toronto Girl Disappears-Her Mother Anxious About Her.

A Toronto despatch: Where is Vere Gloyns, who disappeared from her home at 119 Church street on Monday last? The missing girl is in her 17th year, fair, of an attractive appearance, and when last seen wore a blue lustre skirt, white muslin waist, plain sailor hat and a gold chain. Her mother, in telling the story of her daughter's disappearance said:

"On Monday I arranged to go to Scarboro Beach with my grandchildren, and left tickets for Vera to come later. I started about 2 o'clock and returned started about 2 o'clock, and returned home at 4 or 4.30. When I got into the house I found all the boxes and draw-ers in Vera's room pulled open, and the contents scattered around the floor and on the chairs.

All her best clothes had disappeared, she even having taken off her old shoes and put on a new pair. The clothes she had been wearing were lying among her things, so that she evidently made a complete change."

GOLD COIN FOR CANADA.

Three-quarters of a Million Shipped From New York,

New York, June 1.—The gold taken for export to Europe to day totalled $3,529,060, of which $1,500,000 was taken in coin and the balance in bars from the assay office. Half the amount of the gold bars taken was made up of small bars of only $500 value. These are known as jewellers' bars, and the charge made on them is five cents on each $100 value, or one cent more than the charge value, or one cent more than the charge on the large bars.

The engagement of gold to-day brings the total exports of gold to Europe on the present movement up to $38,500,000. In addition to yesterday's engagement for Europe about $750,000 in gold coin was shipped to Canada.

Lavarick was mounted on the best horse belonging to the gang and the animal was fresh, whereas that ridden by Lorrimore was rather jaded. But Lor-rimore had not ridden steeplechases without learning that it is not always the best horse that wins. He pulled up for an instant, took the line Lavarick was going, saw that he was striking for the plain, and, making a slight detour, emerged from the wood at the same time as Lavarick, but of course at a different

It was now an open race. Lavarick looked round, scanned the horse and rider pursuing him, and, drawing his revolver, levelled it at Lorrimore, but, hampered by his lifeless burden and the pace at which he was going, he could not take acurate aim, and no harm was done. It would be very difficult to tell what it cost Lorrimore to refrain from send-ing a bullet into the scoundrel's back, but the Englishman's repugnance to shooting a man from behind held his hand, and he contented himself with riding as

As he spoke, Sylvia snatched the revolver out of his hand and pulled the trigger. She must have killed Lavarick, for the revolver touched against his chest, but unfortunately the barrel had and he contented himself with riding as rapidly as possible.

A hideous din of firing and yelling sounded behind him, but Lorrimore scarcely heard it; it was this man with the helpless woman in his grasp whom he wanted and meant to have.

The plain was not of very great extent, and Lorrimore saw a dark line of trees which formed the entrance to a wood similar to that which they had wood similar to that which they had just left. It was to this Lavarick was making, and if he could only gain it he would be able to put into practice a favorite dodge. Neville staggered into range, and knelt on one knee to take better aim. Then he hesitated, and groaned. If he should miss Lavarick and hit Sylvia. The dread

He knew that he was better mounted and an evil smile twisted his ugly mouth, but the smile disappeared as he heard the thud, thud of the pursuer's horse white lips.

He fired instantly, but his fear had spoiled his aim. The bullet whizzed past Lavarick's head.

With a laugh of triumph and exultation Lavarick turned and fired.

The bullet struck Neville in the leg.

They drew nearer the dark outline of the wood. Lorrimore, though he guessed nothing of Lavarick's intended subterfuge, felt somehow that he must stop the man before he left the plain.

By this time Lorrimore was almost enjoying himself, and he would have been at the height of enoymentj—for a man hunt is, of all things, the most ex-citing—but that the sight of the helpless borne away from him, he learned how dear she was to him. "Sylvia! Sylvia!" rang through the figure lying across Lavarick's saddle so bered him with anxiety.

He was gaining still, though slightly and wild exultation rose within him as he saw that the double burden was beginning to tell upon the ranger's horse. Lavarick knew that his horse was fail-ing, and he ground his teeth and swore as he savagely dug his spurs into the animal's reeking sides.

The horse made a spurt but it was only a spurt, and Lavarick knew that he must be overtaken before he could reach the wood. He looked down at Sylvia and back at the prisoner. That he should be hung within, say, twenty-four hours of his capture he knew was as certain as that the moon was shining above him. A string of curses flowed from his lips and with one hand he tried to open Sylvia's dress at the throat, but she was lying face downward and without stopping the horse it was impossible to LOTTIMOTE was drawing nearer and nearer; Lavarick could almost feel the rope around his throat. Suddenly, with an oath which expressed his disappointment and impotent rage, he pulled up and dropped Sylvia from the saddle. The horse, relieved of part of its burden, dashed forward with respect to the saddle. They rode forward quickly but cau-tiously. The sound of firing had ceased, but suddenly there rose from the dense Lord Lorrimore's heart stood still as

He lifted Sylvia from the horse and apported her on his knee. A man proluced a water flask and Lorrimore bathed her forehead and tried again to get some brandy through her teeth. He may have succeeded for he fancied that he felt her heart flutter beneath his hand.

"We must get her to the camp as soon as possible." he said.
"Yes, sir." said the captain. "A doctor's what she wants. The poor girl is just dead with fright. Look alive, my men, and let's have a litter."

Three or four men quickly cut down some branches and deftly formed a litter which would not have disgraced an

"What prisoners?" said the captain, dryly.

"The rangers, the men you have taken," said Lorrimore.

"There ain't no prisoners, sir," replied the captain. "I reckon there was eleven of 'em in the gang; two got off, including the gentleman you was after. The rest of 'em lie there," and he pointed to a line of bodies, round which the rest of the vigilants were standing.

"Great Heaven!" exclaimed Lorrimore, under his breath.

under his breath under his breath.

"You're disappointed, sir," said the captain, "and so am I, and so will the boys in camp be. We've looked farward to a high old time, with the trial and execution, and the rest of it. We've got a chap made judge already. But there was no help for it; we should have lost the lot if we'd tried to take 'em alive. I'm sorry."

I'm sorry."

I'm sorry."

"Let us go on," he said. "If the poor girl sould come to in this spot with those men lying there——"

The captain understood and nodded. "Go on towards camp with her, boys," he said. "I'll ride on and send a cart to meet you, sir. The rest of the boys will stop here until the burying party comes."

Lorrimore still walked beside the litter, to stop, and bent over her eagerly. She sighed painfully and opened her eyes.

For a moment or two they gazed up at Lorrimore's anxious face with vacant terror, then rose from her lips a faint same. It was found that it would not work early in the morning during the dew or after a rain, for the simple readew or after a rain, for the simple rea-son that moisture diluted it too much. Finally a suitable spraying machine was obtained from Germany and the iron sulphate was applied about the third week in June, when mustard was in the third leaf and previous to bloom, and the grain plantlets not yet high in the blade.

THE MUSTARD PEST. How the Farmers Get Rid of a Plague

"What was the result? The weed was wilted up and burnt as if by fire. The grain blade remained a little blackened but unhurt, for new shoots came on in

Now in many western States the oat crop represents a yearly yield to the farmer of from twenty to thirty million dollars. Half that destroyed by mustard represented loss of ten to fifteen millions

"That amount is practically saved to the farmers' pocket by the discovery of the iron sulphate solution. Multiply that amount by the dozen or more States that are great out growers and the importance of the discovery can be realized."

CUB BEAR'S ADVENTURES.

And the Coming of the Animal With the Long Ears.

The next morning early the little Cub Bear got up and rubbed his eyes with his paws, instead of washing them as

Just then he heard a noise as if some Just then he heard a noise as if some animal were coming, and he ran to the mouth of the den and looked out, and said, "I see the queerest looking animal coming up the path. It has long ears and a great big mouth, and a queer-looking tail, and looks something like a horse," and just then the owl saw the animal and said, "Who-o-o, who-o-ot" and the animal answered "Hee-haw, hee-haw," hee-haw." And the Circus Bear said, "I know who that is. That is a mule. His name is Neddie." Just then Neddie came to the mouth of the den, and the little Cub Bear said, very politely, "Come in, Mr. Neddie;" and he came you, give Dr. William's Pink Pills a fair trial. They have cured thousands after doctors and other medical treatment had hopelessly failed. These Pills actually make new, rich, red blood, feed the starved nerves and bring health and strength to every part of the body. This is why Dr. William's Pink Pills cure such apparently hopeless cases as Mr. McDonald's, and it is why they have cured thousands and thousands of sick, discouraged people in every part of the world. Sold by all medicine long while, but I can kick like everylong while, but I can kick like everythin." The little Cub Bear said, "Well, here is a soft place in the rock. Perhaps if you kick it will fall down and make more room." And Neddie turned around and kicked the rock, and it fell down; and he kicked, and he kicked, and more and he kicked, and he kicked, and more rocks fell down; and he kicked, and more rocks fell down; and he kept on kicking, and more rocks fell down and the bears picked up the rocks and carried them out, and when he got through there was a nice large room, and the little Cub Bear said, "We will call this Neddle's room." That day the bears worked hard trying to find enough to eat for themselves and for all the other animals that were coming to see them, for the little Circus Bear told his father and mother just what kind of

FOR ALL CHILDREN

Disease attacks the little ones through the digestive organs. Baby's Own Tab-lets are the best thing in the world for all stomach and bowel troubles of children. They act quickly and are absolutely safe. If necessary the tablets can be crushed to a powder or dissolved in water. Mrs. Wm. F. Gay, St. Eleanois, P. E. I., says: "I know of nothing of stomach and bowel troubles. I can Tablets in the house." Sold by medicine Brockville, Ont.

Beautiful Snow Effects on the Alps. The snow on the upper peaks, like the timber on the lower spurs, is quite an effective destroyer of kinear drawing. The effective destroyer of linear drawing. The hard edges and sharp angle-lines are rubbed away, waved into imperceptible billows, or rolled into enormous drifts. The sense of mass is still left, but it is not suggestive of rock foundations. Monte Rosa is one of the most colossal of all the Alps, yet from the top of the Gorner Grat it is so indefinite that it is located with some difficulty. Mont Blanc, too, has a shroud of snow about its top that effectually covers the rocks and leaves only an undulating field of

But though these peaks lose some of their rugged mountain character under the snow, they gain in another way. The snow is an intense reflector of light. And swer:

"Wild mustard has been and is yet the curse of the farmer's field. The old method of dealing with the pest was two fold: to summer fallow, plow and harrow the infested field for a season; then when the crop was planted the next year, if the mustard still grue, to have the children wander through the field plucking out the weed by the roots.

"This was a waste of time and grain. the children wander through the field plucking out the weed by the roots.

"This was a waste of time and grain, for little plantlets of oats or barley were trampled down or derooted for white paper. This is the old Impressionist contention of Monet, and scientificially, as well as pictorially; it is true. The snow is its best illustration. For every mustard plant pulled up. The new scientific method is to use no seed that is not guaranteed; if necessary certificated and inspected. But what of the field already infected? And what of fields infected by other weeds quite as noxious as mustard?

"It was in the spring of 1906 that the American Steel and Wire Company called extention of the agricultural experts."

The snow is its best illustration. For, strange as the statement may sound, the snow is really not white. Under the microscope every snowflake is a crystal, a prism, that shows on its edges all the colors of the rainbow. Taken together, these flakes make a myriad mass of color dots; and in combination the dots produce the appearance of white. The flakes themselves are not mere white disks reflecting the sun.

The brightness of the snow, then, is manufactory, an iron sulphate solution, which seemed to destroy weeds without injuring grain. The chemists of the company conferred with the agronomy experts. The iron sulphate was diluted in water.

"The remedy did not always act the one one knows so well as he who has made the ascent of the snow peaks—From "The High Alps," by John C. Van Dyke, in the June Scribner.

DEFEAT AND TRIUMPH OF THE BASEBALL NINE

Who whispered baseball to the straying wind, That listless lingers, lingering late to find The scores on scores that Lyndhurst piled on high? Yes, Athens, the town for which our team would die, Tasted the cup o'er running with defeat And found its gilded lining none too sweet. Nine players left the town in full array, And cheered and sang till all along the way The earnest farmer stopped his plough to glance Upon the smiling team's gay countenance A team,—what may I say,—a team to glad!— Nine players that before had never had So rare a chance to pit their name 'gainst name And win for Athens and themselves the fame Of victory.

The curtain I will raise, Although the scene beyond your eyes may daze, And tell without one little qualm of fear The story of the game that cost us dear. Was it a game, or something of a dream Or some ill-luck that fell upon our team? Was it the Fates, with their strange threads a-working, Or our right noble "nine" asleep or shirking? The game began; also began the scores To honor the enemy by their threes and fours, While our good men, with one asleep on first, Would fain have put them out,-I'll tell the worst, They dare not throw the ball to me, for I, In slumberland, would let the sphere go by. I missed full three, got mad, tho' never swore, Tripped o'er my feet, let in another score. We heard the watchers cheer till they were hoarse; Our captain nearly died from his remorse; Till joy, oh joy! most heavenly of glee! We got a score, then two, and then got three. Ah! how the team, Ah! how the fans did cheer!-It certainly was music to the ear. I quickly woke—at "first" no more "passed balls," The Lyndhurst boys began to look for squalls, And we began to play. But 'twas no use; And, being beat, we have but this excuse:

We'll not delay To tell the truth of that eventful play, That filled our hearts with sorrow, but made glad The Lyndhurst boys and every watching lad. Ah, who with any heart for sympathy Could smile when the score stood all of thirty-three? My heart is sad. I never can tell more-Our runs amounted to but one from four. But, loving citizens of Athens dear, Don't let your hearts, we ask, be struck with fear. We will in other games the victory win, And have a different tale to tell again. Till then, farewell, dear people, my sad heart Can stand no more, and from the tale I part.

The "merry widows" that our hearts inspire

Were absent; and hence defeat most dire

A day is passed—I turn again to write A tale oft told of sorrow or delight To all. From Lyndhurst came its bashful boys, Conspicuous by their lack of cheers and noise. Hopeful, so hopeful, that the find game Would bring to them new hon... and fresh fame And praises

Most vain hopes to mostals known! Ah! the deep chagrin when Fortune's flown To another team. Athens, awake and shout! Learn the news. What? Our great victory. No more we ask your kindly sympathy. But, 'bout the game. Ye modern citizens Of a place of old renown, yet new—Athens, Come! cheer or smile or say at least a word; Or is it possible that you've not heard About the game—the noblest game of games— Where we redeemed before all eyes our names That once sank in the dust of harsh defeat-How may we sound this through the air, "We've beat!" Oh, joy! Cheer loud for our old Athens, yes, Come from your dreams and cheer the A.H.S. Shout for your home, where wooden walks abound. Where on dar't nights not e'en the moodlight's found To light you on your way. You need no light; Your baseball team has proved a light and bright.

Thou wilt object, dear friends, why I have not Proclaimed the number of the scores we got, Just twenty-one, but that is three times seven: Poor Lyndhurst only got one plus cleven. Hip, Hip, Hurrah! Just think of twenty-one-Twenty and one whole scores when the game was done. My heart is glad. But I can write no more. Think not of this poor piece, but of the score; And let your hearts be filled with perfect glee, While singing all this little song with me :-

> In the shade of the Athens high school, Poor Lyndhurst the ball couldn't rule, Where the cheers from each girl Put their heads in a whirl; For the pitcher's poor curves couldn't fool Our boys that could reach every base, And say with a smile on each face-"Just twenty and one-Oh, that's what we've done, When we played at the Athens High School."

A meeting of base ball enthusias was held in the high school hall Saturday evening for the purpose of or ganizing a base-ball club for the season. The meeting was well attended and the following officers were elected:

Hon. Pres — A. E. Donnelley.

Pres — Mr. G. F. Donnelley.

Vice Pres — Mr. F. S. Clow

Vice Pres.—Mr. E. S. Clow. Sec.-Treas.—Mr. J. S Chadburn. Manager—Mr. J. E. Burchell. Executive Com.—Mr. Geo. Holmes, Mr. J. Ackland, Mr. A. Denyes and

Mr. G Harper.
The club have resolved to charge a membership fee of 50c, or anyone giving a subscription fee up to or over that amount will be entitled to member that amount will be entitled to member ship rights. All wishing to join can hand in their fees to the Sec. Treas. The club expect to play at least one home game every week. Much important business was done at the meeting and the thoroughness with which the matter was gone into clearly showed. that the boys are much in earnest, and there is no reason why Athens should not be in the running all the season, as there is plenty of good material to choose from, and all seem to be very much interested in the sport.

THAT ELECTRIC (?) STAR

P. T. Barnam said years ago, "The world loves to be humbugged." Rea lizing the gullability of the reading public of this plagiaristic age, when men will accept holus bolus anything that bears the authority of being in print, from politics to patent medicine ads, some newspaper wag has sprung upon the East an electric joke that went the rounds of the country news papers of the West last year.

The story was printed with all the ear marks of genuineness, that a large advertising firm in Detroit were sending up a large ballcon filled with electric lights nightly, and distributing adver tising matter over the city. The brilliant light was pointed out nightly in the western sky, and interested watchers saw it go down every night about 10.30. After enjoying the gullability of the public for some weeks the feate come out, and some ardent the facts came out, and some ardent star gazers felt like thirteen cents with a hole in. Lately we have the same old joke in practically the same dress but a change in base. Now it is a firm in Peterboro who are taking pity on we poor Athenians, who cannot even afford an ace:yline star and have Of nature winding through it created a star, brighter than any of the first magnitude, to light us on our

The utter absurdity of the thing will and that no stationary searchlight, with powerful reflectors and prisms, would throw a direct light half the distance. That it subtends an angle of about 45 degrees from here, thus necessitating an elevation of about 140 miles, while no balloon can rise onetenth that distance.

The electric wonder is only Venus, our most brilliant planet. Its move ment is accounted for by its orbita revolution and the revolution of the earth in the opposite direction, making it appear to go down. The apparent speed with which it drops is readily understood if we consider it has a speed of 1,300 miles a minute and our earth of over 1,000 miles a minute. Fin ally, its present brilliancy is accounted for by the astronomical fact that it is now at its major conjunction, reaching its climax last Friday night, May 29, when it was at its greatest brilliancy. It will be seen until July 5th, when it will be a morning star.

We would suggest that our civic fathers borrow the Peterboro hot air bag and float it over our town hall. It would be a cheap municipal light plant, self-supporting, and the upward pressure might help lift the debt and lighten the taxes.

The reason Vinol is so far superior to old fashioned cod liver oil, emulsions and other tonics for children is because Vinol is a delicious modern cod liver preparation without oil made by a scientific extractive and concentrating process from fresh cods' livers, combining with peptonate of iron all the med-icinal, healing body building elements of cod liver oil, but no oil, and children love it. We ask parents of Athens who have delicate children to try Vinol on our guarantee to return their money if it fails to give satisfaction. J. P. Lamb & Son, Druggists, Athens, Ont.

(Vancouver Saturday Sunset.)

An exceptionally large audience was initiated on Tuesday evening into the mysteries of electricity as app.ned to street cars, very clearly and interestingly put before them by Mr. J. G. Lister. In the absence of the president, Mr. Waller took the chair, and Mr. Sparling showed numerous lantern slides illustrating the lecture.

The lecturer began by saying that the principle of generating large power by electricity was really based on the simple magnet which it was found gave off at its poles what were known as "lines of force," unseen by the maked eye. These lines of force were dealt with in three ways in order to produce a commercial current of electricity; the first by using such force as comes from the magnet direct, the second by sending a flow of electric current around a coil of wire, thereby producing what is known as an electric magnet. In the centre of this magnet a plece of soft or pure iron is placed, and the larger it is the more power is generated. The third method was based on the iron not touching the coil of wire, and in this way the greatest amount of electricity is generated. Adynamo was nothing more than a magnet revolving in a field of force—the appearance of this field was shown on the screen in a remarkable manner, inasmuch as it is invisible to the naked eye. Having obtained the generating machine at the station at Lake Buntzen, the next question was how to bring it down to Vancouver.

The metallic path along which this guestion was how to bring it down to Vancouver.

The metallic path along which this guestion which submit the mass, is unfitted for use in guns to metal the mass, is unfitted for use in guns which in mining operations and bursting hard poperations and bursting hard poperations and bursting that the mass, is unfitted for use in guns which the mass, is unfitt

Vancouver.

The metallic path along which this current had to travel offered resistance, and it therefore became necessary to provide a sufficient amount of power to make the electricity travel along the high tension wire. The world volt was explained, named after Volta, the great Italian scientist. If one wire cuts one line of force and generates the fraction of one hundredth million of one yolt, two wires would generate fifty million, and by adding wires it is easy to see how the power can be "stepped up" to $2,000 volts, which is about that generated at the manufacturing station at ated at the manufacturing station at Lake Buntzen: Gigantic dynamos are in use in large cities, but the modern tendency is towards smaller size revolving at a greater speed but generating the same power. One shown on the screen can cut one hundred million lines of force, and represented a horse power of 5,000 to drive it. What is known as the alternating current was explained in an ingenious manner by way of musical notes based on the principle that what can be done with one wire can be done with two or three, and this is what is called three phase power used at the generating station.

The transformer was explained as an instrument through which the current passes over coils of wire and by which it is possible to transform or moderate the power passing along the wires to the moderate requirements of a house or factory, too great a pressure resulting in the burning up of lamps and other ma-chinery used in a commercial way.

The electricity generated at Lake Buntzen travels to this city along high tension wires with a power of about 22,000 volts and when received at the sub-station on Westminster avenue and for car purposes has to be changed from an alternating surrent to a direct one. alternating current to a direct one, it being impossible to run a car except on a current running in the same direction. A special machine, the details of which were explained, does this work, and prepares the power for the trolley line. It is then applied direct to the motors of cars seen attached to the axles.

The method of controlling the power the process when the power attached to the axles.

as it is received by the trolley was next explained with a simple imitation of a controller. Each turn given by the motorman, it was shown, allowed what are called fingers to touch an additional piece of copper, thereby increasing the power until it arrives at the maximum at which the car will travel at is great-est speed, taking the level of the lines

bined have produced the grandest remedy for woman's ills that the world has ever known. In the good old-fashioned days of our grandmothers they relied upon the roots and herbs of the field to cure disease and mitigate suffering. The Indians on our Western Plains to-day can produce roots and herbs for every ailment, and cure diseases that baffle the most skilled physicians who have spent years in the study of drugs. From the roots and herbs of the field Lydia E. Pinkham more than thirty years ago gave to the women of the world a remedy for their peculiar ills, more potent and effica-cious than any combination of drugs. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is now recognized as the standard remedy for woman's ills.

The experts who design the fashion plates for the ladies' journals might plates for the ladies' journals might almost be accused of taking their ideas from the dress of women in Crete nearly 3,500 years ago, for the frescoes recently unearthed at Knossos, the ancient capital of the island, show women of remarkably thin waists, wearing dresses with puff sleeves and flounced skirts. Some of the little goddesses found had even lace bodices (surely the forerunner of the "pnuemonia blouse.")

Dancing, still popular in Crete, not by artificial light, but in the sunshine, was equally popular there 3,000 years ago; bull-fighting was common, and pugilism a very popular pastine. Rather singularly, every portrayal of a man shows him so narrow in the waist as to lead to the conclusion that nen as well as women must in those days have been devotees of tight-

Literary traditions of the cult of the Minotaur have been upheld by the excavations. The people clearly worshipped a kind of half man and half beast, there were also snake god-desses; and another form of religion was pillar worship, reminiscent of Jacob setting up a pillar and calling it Bathel.

The Cretan civilization and the Cre-The Cretan civilization and the Cretan Empire, however, at the very height of its perfection, came to a sudden and perpetual end, and has lay buried and unknown through all these centuries. The lecturer advanced arguments to show that the invasion which brought the great Cretan civilization to so disastrous a close, came from the north, and that it was an early phase of the southward movement which later resulted in the settlement of Greece as we know it totlement of Greece as we know it to-day, and was an early part of the same movement which sacked Rome.

Color of Eggs an Asset.

One of the most potent factors, perhaps, that should be considered when selecting a breed for producing eggs for market, is the demand of the market at while the eggs are to be disposed of. Some markets, notably New York city, and cities immediately adjacent, prefer white-shelled eggs, and the best trude in these markets will accept wone other. Boston prefers brown eggs, and pays a substantial premium for them; and, taking the country over, the preference is for brown ebbs by a large majority. However, in many markets no preference at all is expressed; in fact, those just mentioned are practically the only markets in which the color of the egg receives attention to the extent of influencing prices. Where there is a preference, and whichever the preference is, one should keep a variety of fowls that ference, and whichever the preference is, one should keep a variety of fowls that lay eggs of the preferred color. A glut in the strawberry market is the prediction of fruit dealers in nearly all sections of the country. Beports from the growers of berries indicate that the coming crop will be better than for many seasons, and show that a larger acreage has been devoted to the fruit. It is predicted that lovers of this succulent fruit in many northern cities will be able to eat all the good berries they want.

It is a fact that many persons cannot eat strawberries without discomfort. The full enjoyment of this delicious berry is denied to thousands whose stomachs do not take kindly to the peculiar acid and

The combination makes a most wholesome and delicious dish-more easily digested and much more nu tritious than the ordinary short-cake.

You can make the same wholesome combination with raspberries or any kind of fresh fruit. A dish that is great favorite with noon-day lunchers is made by partly filling a small bow with red raspberries, then covering with a layer of Shredded Wheat crumbs (made by crushing two crisp Biscuits in the hand), then adding a little cream and sugar. Such a lunch is wholesome and sugar. Such a lunch is wholesome and easily digested. The Shredded Wheat itself contains more real nutriment than meat or eggs, and costs much less, while the fruit adds to its healthfulness and palatability. Immense Damage to Water and Power Plant.

> THE KILLED. ENGINEER SAVARD. FIREMAN M'BRIDE. BRAKEMAN INMAN. TWO UNKNOWN.

Port Arthur despatch: In one of the worst disasters that has ever been experienced in this country five men were killed and hundreds of thousands of dollars' worth of damage done at Current River, on which the corporation has its water-power.

This stream got on the rampage last night, and to-day practically the whole system, that has cost the city thou-The sands of dollars, is demolished. park has been torn up, and large streams

Last night about 11 o'clock a great terrent of water caused the breaking open of one of the system of dams on the river, and in a short time a vast volume of water was on its torrential way down to the lake, carrying everything before it. The river overflowed its banks at all points, and soon the whole channel was filled with logs and debris.

At Black Bay the Government bridge was torn away. The next obstruction was the storage dam at Port Arthur. When the water, timber and other portions of the wreck struck the dam the report could be heard for a great distance.

Power House Submerged.

Engineer Richmond, who was in charge at the power house, with great presence of mind, immediately shut off the power, and in a minute the power house was submerged and the water was pouring through from all points. He grasped the lantern, intending to go out and flag approaching trains. The unable to do so. water was up to his waist, and was rushing to the lake in torrents. His lantern was put out, and he had to get back into the power house. The water had torn away the track on both sides of the bridge for over half a mile. Freight Train Plunges In.

When the torrent of water struck the bridge a C. P. R. freight train was just pulling into Port Arthur, with or-ders to meet the passenger train. She was running at a good speed. Just before striking the bridge she went into the undermined track. The locomotive turned completely over and fire turned completely over and five cars went over with it. It was thought impossible for any person to live throug the wreck, as in a moment it was under and the flood flowed over the

Went Down With Engine. Engineer Savard, Fireman McBride and Brakeman Inman, who were in the locomotive at the time of the accident, were pinned under the engine, and two were pinned under the englie, and two tramps who were riding in the train are believed to have been killed. This morn-ing hundreds of people visited the wreck, and work has been commenced to get the bodies. So far only one has been found, and this is so badly pinioned under the train that it has been impossible to ascertain who it is. Search has been made for others, but so far without success. It is believed that they have been washed out in the lake with the flood of water.

Flagged the Express Train. Conductor Rose stated that as soon as the wreck took place he at once prepared to flag the eastbound express, but, although he was unable to get across the track. he mounted the debris and flashed two lights. By this means he was successful in stopping the train or the loss of life would have been great. He himself was badly injured, his shoulder being hurt and his hand cut.

Scene of Devastation. The scene is one of great devastatio ere once existed one of the prettiest parks in the west is now practically a ruin. Houses and stands were swept away, some being taken over half a mile. Fortunately the rain had interfered with the regular traffic or else scores would have lost their lives. The loss, it is thought, will reach half a million dollars, while the power plant of the city

Teams of Horses Found.

Teams of horses were found at the storage dam this afternoon, having been carried down the river. This fact has given rise to the suspicion that Onion Lake dam may have been destroyed. E. T. Ross, foreman, and a gang of thirty men were encamped at Onion Lake, in connection with the raising of the height of the dam. These men were encamped at a point which, it is said, would be right in the path of the waters of the dam if released, and it is feared that a loss of life may have occurred at this

What the Flood Did.

A Fort William despatch says: The days caused the naturally rapid river to rise at an enormous rate, though no one had any suspicion of any danger to be feared from the bursting, yet at about 11.30, with a tremendous roar, the upper dam gave way, precipitating down the country side an enormous wall of water fifteen feet high, which spread out for over a mile in width, sweeping everything before it, including houses, pavilions, bridges, all the fences, trees and other things in its path.

Where the C. P. R. track crosses over the ateel bridge above the water a ghastly sight was to be seen, for where the bridge was but a few hours before was a heterogeneous mass of twisted iron, splintered wood, levers, wheels torn from their fastenings—all that remained of the engine and nine cars, part of a freight train and three of the crew who unaware of the impending disaster, unaware of the impending disaster, reached the bridge at almost the identical moment that the flood reached it.

Four Tramps in One Car. It was learned that there were for tramps on the train stealing a side in the first box car near the engine, which contained a large number of railroad the train stealing a side in spikes. The car was smashed to splint-ers, and with cuts all over their bodies, bleeding and bruised, two of them man-aged to crawl with their lives out of the hideous turmoil but of the the hideous turmoil, but of the other two nothing has been seen. There were two nothing has been seen. There were also two other tramps riding farther back on the train. These also escaped with nothing but a shaking up. All round the train is piled trees, rails, rocks, huge beams in every imaginable form, showing where the river raged over the wrecked train.

No. 96 Had Narrow Escape. Train No. 96 had a narrow escape. This train should have met the freight train, which met destruction at the yards. No. 96 waited its appointed time, and then pulled out for the east, with its train load of passengers, but the engineer was warned in time and backed his train to Port Arthur.

The track for half a mile west of the bridge was seized as though by some huge hand and flung many yards into the bush at the side. Rails were bent by the mighty force, ties torn up, and the the bush at the side. Rails were bent by the mighty force, ties torn up, and the roadbed washed away as though it had never existed. All through the bush of the lake shore are scattered timbers, trees and rock, carried down by the river, and on one spot, where the track originally was, is deposited an organ which was used at a dancing hall. The pavilion itself was on the other side of the track, and was smashed into kindling wool, nothing remain-ing but the roof.

The washout will be bridged at once, and it is thought that there structures can be finished within twenty-four hours. The wash-outs occurred one and one-half miles east of the town of Port Kaministiquia Power.

Winnipeg despatch: A visitor to Port Winning despatch: A visitor to Fork Arthur, who recurred nonne yesterday, speaking to a reporter, said: It is a fortunate thing for Port Arthur that the Kaministiquia Power Company was in full operation at the time of the breaking of Port Arthur dam, owned breaking of Port Arthur dam, owned by the town. Otherwise Port Arthur would have been without light, street car service and water service for a considerable time. As soon as W. A. Black, of this city, managing director of the Kaministiquia Power Company, heard of the disaster he immediately wired to the local manager at Fort William to do everything possible to assist the town in re-establishing their service, and it is expected that before to-night a connection will be made which will permit of the town being supplied with light, and as soon as the pumps can be put into opera light, and as soon The Kaministiquia Power Company have for some time past been supplying Port Arthur with power for the operation of their street car service be-tween that town and Fort William during the spring, and while the water was low the power company was supplying several hundred horse-power for lighting purposes. The town recently decided to raise their dams, and it is thought that the present trou-ble originated from this source, the dams not being strong enough to stand the increased pressure of water. Current River is situated about a mile east of Port Arthur, its source being Dog Lake, which is also the source of the Kaministiquia River.

A SILLY TRICK.

Young Woman Threw a Box at Horse's Head.

Montreal, June 1.-Two the point of death and two ...g men are seriously injured as the result of a foolish trick last night. The four were out driving, and the girls were eating chocolate. When the box was empty Miss May Lockerby threw the box at the horse's head, and the animal was scared and ran away, landing up against a telegraph post and upsetting the buggy.

Miss Lockerby and Miss Lizzie Hull

had their skulls fractured, and had to be operated on at once, but there is little chance of saving their lives. Thos. Lockerby was driving and is not much hurt, but Leslie Cameron was badly cut about the head.

ONE CAUSE OF MURDERS.

Girls Refused to Rise at the National Anthem.

Owen Sound Murdered Family Heard Dr. Lyle Preach.

Insanity Will be the Plea . Creighton.

Owen Sound despatch: The only sen sational evidence which came out at the inquest on the bodies of Mrs. Lillie Eilza Creighton and her daughters, Katherine Belle Chapman and Clare Louise Chapman, was the atrociousness of the wounds inflicted by the murderer in his destruction of the lives of the three, as revealed in the result of the post-mortem examination. The fact that two bullet wounds, instead of one, were found in the body of his wife, three in the eldest daughter, and one in the youngest daughter, indicate that Creighton emptied the whole of the chambers of the revolver in his fiendish attack. It is evident, then, that the man put at least two more cartridges into the revolver, one of which he used on himself and the other res maining in the weapon. Dr. Dow read the statement of the post-mortem. The extra bullet in the body of the wife, it was found, had gone in at the right side of the head, above the ear, and had penetrated the ear. Either the bullet wound in the head or the horrible gash in the throat would have caused death.

Dr. Cowper gave corroborative evidence as to the post-mortem. He then gave evidence as to Creighton's rationality when he was found. Creighton asked for chloroform, which was not administered. The man was lyter on the rest and in his conversation. ing on the bed, and in his conversation said that he had committed the murders at 4.40. He claimed that he had taken strychnine. Creighton said that he had no intention of killing her (meaning his wife), when he went into the room. He went to the kitchen and got his revolver, determined to finish nimself, and went to say good-bye to his wife. He thought it was too bad to leave her to bear the disgrace alone. Mr. John Parker, druggist, gave evidence of having given the prisoner some chlorodine tablets on Monday afternoon, and stated that he tor some strychnine, which he said he wanted to use to kill a dog. He was

Three caskets, one black containing the remains of the mother, and two white ones with the remains of the daughters, formed the touching scene at the Creighton home on Union street here this morning. The undertaker's art has done all possible to obliterate the signs of the ghastly wounds that each suffered, and wreaths of flowers told surrered, and wreaths of flowers told of the sympathy of the people who had learned to love them during their brief residence here. One was a beautiful floral pillow sent by the students and staff of the Collegiate Institute. Mr. W. J. Creighton, brother-in-law of the dead woman accompanied the remains dead woman, accompanied the remains to Port Huron, and bears the messages of grief to the sorrow-stricken relatives in that city.

It is believed by some that an incident of the morning service at the Division Street Presbyterian Church last Sunday may have helped to urge Creighton on in his fearful plans. There was an Empire Day service in the church on Sunday morning. Rev. Dr. Lyle, of Hamilton, was the preacher, and the service closed with the singing of "God Save the King." Mr. and Mrs. Creighton and their two daughters were in their accustomed daughters were in their accustomed pew. For some reason or another, probably to tease their stepfather, the girls declined to rise when the National Anthem was being sung. On their way home the father 'expostulated with them about it. They replied that, being American-born, they were not called upon to honor the British National Anthem. Creighton's temper arose and he told them he would have nobody about his place who would not rise to sing "God Save the King."

Evidently this little incident wrought on Creighton's mind. Rev. G. A. Woodside, the pastor of the church, heard the story of it from Creighton's own lips on Sunday morning. Is seems that since his second marriage Creighton was looked upon as a re-

Creighton was looked upon as a re-formed man. He had been a regular attendant at church and the minister took a great interest in trying to keep him straight. He seemed to think that an explanation of his step-daughters' conduct was necessary.
Mr. H. G. Tucker, who has been retained by Creighton's brothers to defend the murderer should he recover from his wounds, stated to-day that the defence will be insanity. the defence will be insanity.

"There can be no doubt," said Mr. Tucker, 'but that this mild gentleman, who feared the sight of blood, was oppressed by a terrible mental aberration. The circumstances all prove it. He devoured all the most lurid ewspaper tales of murders, divorces nd domestic infelicity that he could seize on. He was an eager student of the most dreadful, sensational morbid stories that were ever written. The worst type of Chicago papers he devoured with avidity, and they af-

WANTS REDRESS.

Britain Wants Compensation From Cuba For Killing a Man.

Havana, June 1.—The British Minister to Cuba, A. C. Grant Duff, has presented to Governor Magoon a request for the direct payment of indemnity to the family of Wm. Harrington, a native of Nassau, Balama Islands, and a mem-ber of the crew of the British turtle fishing schooner Experiment, who was killed by a cannon shot fired by the Cuban revenue cutter Abeja off Cayo Coce, an island off the north coast of Juba, last April.

THE STEEL TRADE

Great Depression In Trade But Steadily Improving.

Detroit, June 1.—Speaking last night at the annual banquet which closed the convention of the International Master Boilermakers' Association, Charles M. Schwab, former President of the U. S. Steel corporation, said that in ten years the annual production of steel in this the annual production of steel in this country would be 40,000,000 toms as against 25,000,000 in 1907.

'Mr. Schwab said that while there existed to-day the greatest depression ever known in the history of the steel trade, conditions were steadily improving. Nothing, he said, could retard the grogress and prosperity of the U.S.

He has been onfined to his residence since Decemcommed to his residence since December of last year. He saw service not only in the civil war but in the o'Fendan raids in Canada and under General Miles in the campaign against the Sloux Indians.

SHAW-WORKMAN CASE. Making Trouble Again in Conference at Quebec.

Quebec, June 1.—The Methodist Conference will be convened in this city to-morrow. In the meantime upwards of 130 ministers and 120 lay delegates have arrived. The ministers have already held several meetings behind closed doors, and rumors are current that harreons does not prevail in the body in respect to the Wesleyan College. There are two factions, one of which recognizes the superiority of the lege. There are two factions, one of which recognizes the superiority of the Rev. Dr. Shaw, and the other the followers of Rev. Dr. Workman.

It appears that the difficulty is over the appointment of a Chairman and prothe appointment of a Chairman and pro-fessors in the Wesleyan College, though, legally speaking, the chartered board, appointed by the General Do-minion Conference, whose jurisdiction covers the whole of Canada and Newfoundland, alone have the right to set tle this question. Of course the quar-rel is a dignified one, and the result of a difference of opinion only.

THE PRIZE COURT CONVENTION. Most Important Topic at Forthcoming Naval Conference.

London, June 1.—Answering a question in the House of Commons to-day, Sir Edward Grey, Foreign Secretary, said that the British Government desired to concentrate the discussion at the forthcoming naval conference upon the Prize Court convention. It was the Prize Court convention. It was essential, he said, that Great Britain have some agreement upon certain points, especially the rules governing blockades and contraband of war, with the chief naval powers before the convention meets. MILNER ON PREFERENCE

He Deprecates Negotiation of Franco-Canadian Treaty.

London, June 1 .- Lord Milner, speaking at Westminster, said the Canadian system of tariffs, before it was more or less mutilated, seemed the right sort of system. In negotiating the Franco-Oan-adian treaty Canada to some extent sacrificed preference to reciprocity, which was a misfortune. Under the tariff reformers' system of Imperial pfreference all round there would still be room for each State to make bargains with for eign States. TEARSE WILL NOT HANG.

Ottawa, June 1 .- The death sentence of John Tearse, a young Englishman who murdered his employer, a Peel county farmer named Currie, last win-ter, has been commuted to life impri-sonment. Tearse was to have been hanged early next month. His sentence has been commuted on the ground of insanity.
