Lord Russell and His Title.

The elevation of Sir Charles Russell to the peerage as Lord Russell of Killowen set people asking: "Where is Killowen?" just as a few years ago, the choice of his new title by Sir Edward Guinness roused public curiosity regarding Iregh. Strangely enough, Killowen happens to be a small portion of the territory called Magh-Ienis, of which the Lords of Iregh were ruling chieftains, and from which, after the manner of the times, the Clan took its name, modernized into Macinnis, and Guinness. This territory comprehended the Moore range of mountains, extending from Rostrevor to Dandam, and forming a mighty bulwark on the north side of Carlingford Bay or Lough.

At the foot of Slieve Ban, frequently styled Rostrevor Mountain, on the bend of the peninsula which forms the bay on which Rostrevor stands, is the hamlet of Killowen, the parish stretching several miles between the mountains and lough towards the sea. Truly, the "lay of the land" is as fair a picture as the eye could desire, and no wonder that Lord Russell associated—as his life from earliest boyhood has been—with such a scene, made choice of it as a distinctive title. Though Newry claims the honor of being his birth-place, all the brightest, freest days of child and boyhood were spent at Killowen, and great has been the delight with which the "natives" have hailed so striking a proof of the great man's love for the days gone by; not that this is the only proof, for those who have known him familiarly know that scarcely a year has passed unmarked by some act of remembrance and interest.

The house occupied by the Russells may be easily found, so may the quaint old chapel on the mountain side, where, at the hands of the learned and venerable D. Bleke, Catholic Bishop of Drumore, Charles Russell received his Confirmation. This chapel has been supplemented by a handsome Gothic church (dedicated to the Sacred Heart) in which is a beautiful marble altar, an offering of Lord Russell in memory of his mother, whose good name is still a household word among the simple kind-hearted people. Nor are they less hearty in their appreciation of her loss. All over the parish are old "friends," proud of their early association, and garrulous with reminiscences and anecdotes of his early days, many of the latter characteristic of the force of will and determination which have done their share in elevating him to his present position. One story only will space allow of. A farmer, Francis Hughes by name, tells how having beaten "Charley" Russell at "putting" or "throwing the stone," the future Lord Chief Justice, though staying hard for an examination, stepped up a night practising the "throw," and entering the lists next day, he beat his rival and victor of the former trial.

Killowen is only a mile from Rostrevor, and, with that lovely resort, forms part of the old parish of Killowen, and surely, in no portion of the British Isles, will you find a more beautiful or interesting district. The lines with which Miss Mary Bavin winds up her delightful "Here and There in Ireland" may well be applied:

"Oh, she's a rich and rare land,
 Oh, she's a fresh and fair land,
 She's a dear and rare land,
 'This native land of mine.'"

THE HOLY FATHER.

The Pope, whose devotion to St. Francis d'Assisi is so well known, celebrated Holy Mass yesterday morning in the Pauline chapel to take part in the great pardon of Portiuncula. His Holiness paid another visit in the afternoon to comply with the conditions of the indulgence which is attached to the chapel. My informant also assures me that the Pope was looking extremely well. The abnormal activity of the Pontiff's daily life has proved too much for those who delight in spreading alarmist rumour. They are giving us a rest for a time, but do not be surprised if in a few weeks you are again told that the Pope is at the point of death, that he has given his last injunction to the Cardinals, that his successor will be etc. etc. The New York Herald is a great journalistic enterprise, but the news of its Roman correspondent is nothing if not sensational, and somehow or other that gentleman always does know more about the Pope's words, thoughts and actions than all the Cardinals put together.

THE Eucharistic CONGRESS.

The Eucharistic Congress at Rheims concluded its proceedings on Sunday last by a magnificent discourse of Cardinal Langenieux. This great demonstration of faith has excited much attention. One of the resolutions passed was addressed to Russia and was framed as follows: The Eucharistic Congress of Rheims, in rejoicing at the re-establishment of diplomatic relations between the Holy See and the Czar, desires to express to the Holy Synod of Russia its expectation and hope that Russia will use her power in realizing the prayer of the Saviour at the last supper "that they may be all one." The telegram from Cardinal Rampollo to Cardinal Langenieux read thus: The Holy Father has read your Eminence's message with particular satisfaction. The large effluence of distinguished congressists has given him great joy. He cherishes the comforting hope that this congress will give a powerful impulse to his views on the union of East and West, expressed in the "Encyclical Prælatia." To this end his Holiness affectionately accords the Apostolic Benediction to the cardinals, bishops, prelates and all who form part of the Congress.

THE TOMB OF POPE LEO XIII.

The Holy Father has given orders to have his tomb constructed. Signor Marassi, to whom the work has been confided, is perhaps the most distinguished sculptor, not only of Rome, but of all Italy. The monument will be in white Carrara marble, and on the lid will be a lion with one paw on the tiara. On the right will be a statue representing Faith, holding a flaming torch in one hand and the Holy Scriptures in the other. A companion statue on the left will represent Truth, holding in one hand the Papal eucoutche. Carved in front of the tomb, in large black letters will be the following inscription: "Leo XIII., P. M. Pulvis est (Here lies Leo XIII., Sovereign Pontiff, Dust.)"

INTOLERANCE.

The good people of Auxerre are up in arms at a monstrous piece of petty tyranny put upon them on Tuesday last, the feast of their great patron, St. German, or, as we say, St. Germainus. Every year the citizens of this old Catholic town made a point of visiting the tomb of the saint to venerate the relics of him whom they regard as the glory of Auxerre. This year, however, the jacks in office ordered the doors of the church to be closed and padlocked, and as a consequence the pilgrims had to go away disappointed. No reason for the rashly act was given, the municipal authorities willed it and there's an end of it. In the evening a congregation of 3,000 assembled in the Cathedral, and the Dominican Father who preached vigorously denounced the arbitrary proceeding.

It is time the Minister of the Interior interested himself a little in the way things are going on at Auxerre. For a long time past the Catholics have been subjected to abominable treatment, every opportunity to put a slight upon them being seized by the local powers that be.

THE CHURCH IN PRUSSIA.

The question of creating a Catholic bishopric in Protestant Berlin has arrived at a satisfactory conclusion. The Prussian Government and the Holy See, after considerable negotiation, have come to an understanding on the following conditions: The bishop created at Berlin shall be a suffragan depending on the Diocese of Breslau, and the new prelate shall be the archpriest of St. Hedwig.

RAD ACCIDENT.

Much sympathy is felt for Mgr. Jacobs, Dean of St. Gudule, Brussels, who was recently the victim of a terrible accident. It appears that the venerable priest was crossing the Boulevard de la Botanique in front of the Northern Railway depot when a runaway horse knocked him down and badly kicked him. On being conveyed to a neighboring hospital, it was found that he had sustained dreadful injuries, and a fatal result is feared. Mgr. Jacobs was formerly chaplain of the Pontifical States.

A LESSON TO LIBELERS.

A well-known anti-clerical Belgian newspaper called Etiole Belge published some time ago a series of odious articles against the Dominican Fathers of Ghent, accusing one of them of unlawful appropriation and violating the sigillum, and all the others of breaking their vows. These infamous attacks were copied with great glee by a number of other gossamer journals. The matter, of course, could not rest unnoticed, so the forty-four friars forming the community took legal proceedings. The case was tried before the civil Tribunal of Ghent, which, in a scathing judgment, declared the articles in question defamatory, eminently injurious and inspired by a perfidious intention. A copy of the judgment was ordered to be published on two consecutive days in the offending papers, and the fathers were empowered to insert the judgment in five other papers at their choice, the expenses, not to exceed 1,500 francs, to be paid by the defendants. Should these fail to pay the money, they were to be arrested. The judgment has had an excellent effect, although in truth it may be said the punishment was scarcely equal to the offense.

WHAT DOES IT MEAN?

Sen: The College of Bois, France. The occasion is the annual prize distribution. General Rio, a stern old soldier, deputy, radical, anti-clerical and Freemason, is the presiding genius. At the close of the proceedings, just as the assembly is about to break up, the general makes a sign that he wishes to speak. Silence being obtained, he begins first by thanking the Minister for asking him to preside; then after recalling the memory of his friend, General de St. Julien, he turns towards the Abbe Clamet, the college chaplain, who is sitting amongst the professors, and, addressing the pupils, concludes by saying: "Follow faithfully the teachings of your chaplain. It is his office to explain to you the morality of Christ, that morality which is summed up in the sublime precept, love one another." Needless to remark, the audience were in a state of stupefaction. Such an utterance from General Rio seemed impossible. In the town it has become a theme of general comment. Everyone is asking whether the old warrior has become a convert?

Among recent prominent converts to the Catholic Church is Professor Sydney B. Strong, for ten years teacher of natural science in the Friend's Central School in Philadelphia. He was led to the truth by the chance reading of a Ritualist's tract on "The Real Presence." That doctrine, worthy of Almighty God in its mystery, its ineffableness, its proof of Christ's consuming love, and its consolations, touched him to the heart. Once it was made credible to him by demonstration from Scripture, from the writings of the Fathers, from the belief of the early church, from the practice of Christians down through sixteen centuries, the rest of the dogmas of our religion were easy, natural, logical, and necessary with conviction, came the duty to follow conscience into the Church of Christ.

The Very Reverend Theophilus Mager, Vicar-General to the Archbishop of Madras, of St. Joseph's Missionary Society, Mill Hill, London, has been named by the Holy See Bishop Auxiliary to the Archbishop. The Rev. Henry Hanlon of St. Joseph's Missionary Society, has been named Bishop of Toce (Asia Minor) and Vicar Apostolic of the Vicariate of the Upper Nile. This Vicariate comprises the capital of Uganda, and extends as far East as Mount Kines. His Lordship was for two years missionary at Loh in Ladak, Cashmere and has contributed a number of important papers on Ladak to Illustrated Catholic Missions. He is expected to go to England before the end of the summer, and then will go out to his new Vicariate with certain members of St. Joseph's Foreign Missionary Society.

ABSOLUTELY PURE

A Salute From a Hostile Camp.

The affection which the Church has always inspired in the hearts of the poor, and the success which has ever attended the zeal and devotedness of her priests and religious, have been the theme of many a well-merited eulogy from Protestant pens. The following paragraph from the Arena, however, has a special interest as coming from one who is, confessedly, hostile to all forms of supernatural religion:

"The Catholic Church is the only one that is not ashamed of having poverty clinging to the skirts of its most beautiful temples; and although this bitter contrast is not that of an ideal state, still its meaning is clear as we are dealing here with actual conditions: the Catholic Church is, and always has been, in closer touch and sympathy with the poor and miserable than the Protestant. The magnificent military organizations of the Catholic Church and the intimate hold it has upon the imaginations of its people, prevent it from ever being seized with the complete lethargy that is practically making the Protestant churches merely social leagues among the rich, for the dissemination of a system of canting ethics in direct contradiction to the teachings of its Founder, from which the poor are turning heart-sick, disgusted, desperate. It is the testimony of almost all who have seen anything of the slums that the most active agent for physical and moral good is the humble Catholic priest, whose business is the welfare of his flock, and not social ambition and the diplomacy needed to keep in the good graces of his deacons. The Catholic priest is, luckily, freed from all necessity to pander to the prejudices of his deacons, and is truly a minister and not an entertainer. To be quite fair, the Methodist ministers, who often suffer great privations on small salaries and short tenure, are the most devoted and sincere of the Protestant clergy; and they divide the honors of consecration to arduous and unappreciated work in poor parishes with the Catholic priest."

Catholics are interested in such tributes as this, not because they gratify a puerile and unreasonable vanity, but in the hope that their separated brethren, recognizing the essentials of the Church in the catholicity of her influence as well as in her power to inspire and nurture priestly heroism may be induced to embrace the true Faith. The writer errs, however, in attributing this influence to such material causes as 'organization,' 'hold on the imagination,' etc. The real secret of it is found in the life-giving Sacraments of the Church, the proper reception of which ought to inspire in all Catholics a disposition akin to the heroic. But it is too much to expect that non-Catholics should recognize this, plain as it is to those within the Church. It is the old story of seeing the stained-glass windows of the cathedral from the inside and from without.—Av. Maria.

An Estimate of Leo XIII.

The following words about our Holy Father, the Pope, are from a letter written by a Protestant, and printed in a Catholic exchange:

"He is a pious Pope. Those who have had the happiness of assisting at the Pontiff's Mass in the private oratory of Leo XIII have borne away with them a never-to-be-forgotten idea of the most touching and impressive ceremony that can be imagined.

"Many a time have we seen Protestants and members of our sect, who out of mere curiosity have gained admission to this ceremony, moved to tears and press forward more ardently than his own flock to kiss and touch the hand of the noble inspired-looking representative of our Divine Lord on earth.

"And what a pure austere life! Work and prayer are the masters of the Pontiff's days. From early morning until late at night Leo XIII studies, reads, writes, prays and gives audience. He takes his repose alone—eats rapidly and is almost rigorously abstemious. When the weather is fine he walks in the Vatican gardens, stopping here and there, and especially at a large cage filled with birds. Here he will frequently take one of his little feathered friends in his hand, and having gently caressed it, will let it fly whither it will. My he not thinking that they, like himself, are captives! For morally speaking, the Pope cannot go out of his cage."

Loe XIII has toiled, suffered and endured his imprisonment longer than any other Pontiff, and has given the Church more liberty and power than even his great predecessors. Compare Leo XIII with any of the living monarchs and answer me, who among them enjoy respect, admiration, esteem, sympathy and loyalty from the Sovereign of the Vatican prison?"—Sacred Heart Review.

The American Ecological Review for August has three articles on Parish Missions written by a Dominican, a Lazarist, and a Paulist Father, that are of peculiar interest to all pastors of congregations. Father Heuser, the editor, is making this periodical most useful to the clergy by taking in hand vital questions of the day and having them elaborated by specialists.

The French papers have been noting the curious way in which the career of President Carnot was connected with the figure '4.' He was born in 1837, was admitted to the Ecole Polytechnique in 1857, was elected by virtue of article 7 of the Constitution to the office of President of the Republic in 1887, was assassinated at the age of 57 years, in the seventh year of his presidency, in a carriage containing seven persons (four inside and three outside, a coachman and two footmen) on the seventh day of the week by an Italian (a word of seven letters) named Caserio (also formed of seven letters). Finally, he was borne in triumph to the Pantheon on the first day of the seventh month of the year, seven days after his death.

The late James Carroll, of San Francisco, Cal., left these sums to charitable organizations: To the Youth's Directory, $5,000; St. Francis' Technical School, $2,500; the Sisters of Mercy for the benefit of the Old Ladies' Home, $2,500; the Magdalen Asylum, $2,500; St. Joseph's Home, $2,500; Sisters of the Holy Family Day Home, $2,500; St. Vincent's Orphan Asylum at San Rafael, $10,000; St. Vincent de Paul Society, $5,000; Catholic Orphan Asylum, $5,000; Hebrew Orphan Asylum, $2,500; Protestant Orphan Asylum, $2,500. The testator devises the whole residue of his estate real and personal, to Most Rev. Patrick W. Riordan, Archbishop of San Francisco. There is a codicil to the will, dated March 27, 1894, whereby the testator makes additional bequests of $5,000 to Mrs. Clara Valley; $1,000 to Miss Grace Powelson; $5,000 to Rev. Pius Murphy.

Mr W P Stead has an article on the labor war in the United States in the July number of the Contemporary Review, written with his wonted force and incisiveness. The article closes with the following words: "The Pope in his famous Encyclical on Labor, laid down doctrines which all Christian Churches everywhere would do well to lay to heart. But nowhere is there greater need of the preaching and the teaching of that sound doctrine than in the United States today. Catholic or Protestant it matters little which so long as there is a church which will assert the eternal law of righteousness and justice and brotherhood in all the affairs of man. Blessed are the peace-makers, for theirs is the kingdom of heaven, does not seem to offer a sufficient inducement to Christian men to compose these industrial feuds. Perhaps they will wake up to a sense of their duty and their responsibility when they discover that the failure to make peace not merely forfeits the kingdom of Heaven, but inevitably turns the kingdom of this world into a kingdom of Hell."

About Paying Debts.

UNDER the above caption might be considered several matters apparently of minor importance, which, however, if more carefully attended to than is perhaps generally the case, would tend to render the relations of buyer and seller, debtor and creditor, much more agreeable and satisfactory.

There are a few of the facts gleaned from the every day experience of those in business, and we comment them to the serious consideration of our readers.

The Canadian High Commissioner at London has cabled H. M. Mr. Bowell, Ottawa, stating that the Spanish Government have ordered the Governor of Cuba to admit Canadian and Newfoundland codfish duty free.

A few of our school teachers have received elementary diplomas in the Summer School of Science, which lately held its annual session here.

The London Economist estimates the wheat crop of all the countries of Europe, except Austria and Russia, to be better than last year; that in Europe and North America combined there will be no falling off from the production of 1893, and that, considering the "remnant of the great accumulation of the last three years still to be cleared off, there is nothing at present to indicate any substantial improvement in the price of wheat."

Whatever may be the real cause of the war between China and Japan; whichever party may be in the right or in the wrong, neither side seems disposed to give any quarter to the other.

The most serious impediment in the way of satisfactory business is the lack of prompt payment. A large number of those who contract bills, great or small, seem to think that any time will do to pay; that the creditor can get along very well without this particular amount.

There are not many who know that exposure to the moonlight in the tropics is dangerous. The other day the barque Nettie Langdon was brought into a Florida port by a coast pilot who found the vessel at sea with the captain blind and no one able to navigate her.

We have received a little book one of the text books of the Summer School of Science, which has the following title: "Children's Hymns for the Presbyterian Church in Canada for use in Sabbath Schools, with accompanying tunes Sol-Fa."

Perhaps a few illustrations will bring this phase of the question more properly before the mind of the average reader. Among the experiences of the writer in these matters was one where a debtor was furnished with a statement of his account, overdue for a considerable length of time.

The grits who had such fun over a clerical error or two in the Canadian tariff resolutions as first submitted to the house, will not be found cracking a single joke over the thirty and one errors discovered in the new Yankee tariff bill.

It is true that several articles on the tariff list, and also on the free list; it is also true that the same article is liable to different rates of duty under different sections; but the grit admirers of Yankee productions, even Yankee failures, will be quite ready to explain that in a long bill, dealing with a multiplicity of separate items, divided into classes and sub-classes, with doubtful or obscure distinctions, it must be difficult, indeed very difficult, in fact quite impossible that it should be all put together without some errors, or conflicts between words, sections or sub-sections.

It appears that Mayor Cox, of Ottawa, recently submitted a proposal to tax bachelors, for the benefit of the civic exchequer. The Ottawa Citizen, commenting on the matter, points out that it is but the survival of an old idea, and goes on to show that Colbert, the famous minister of Louis XIV, entertained somewhat similar views of the wisdom of discriminating against celibacy.

is but the survival of an old idea, and goes on to show that Colbert, the famous minister of Louis XIV, entertained somewhat similar views of the wisdom of discriminating against celibacy. The difference between the Mayor and the minister being that the latter went much further than the former seems inclined to go. In legislating for Canada he wrote: "Those who may seem to have absolutely renounced marriage should be made to bear additional burdens and be excluded from all honors; it would be well even to add some marks of infamy."

Resolved, That we desire to place on record our unabated confidence in the administration of Sir John Thompson. That the national policy having in an eminent degree developed the industrial resources in Canada so as to place many of the industries which are encouraged under it in a position to meet a reasonable amount of foreign competition, we are of opinion that the government have shown their independence of combines and their solicitude for the interests of the consumers by the important modifications of the tariff made during the late session of parliament.

That while every trade and anxious to agree to free relations with the United States, we are of opinion that the recent action of the so-called free trade party in the United States in adopting a highly protective tariff and abrogating existing reciprocity treaties, is more than ever convinces us that it is the duty of all patriotic Canadians to support the present tariff and to vote for the interests of Canada and the British Empire.

Two men were killed and eleven injured by an explosion of gas in the Colborne colliery near Ashland Pa., on Friday afternoon. The killed were: Frank McCormack, fire boss, aged 45; lived at Shenandoah, leaves a wife and five children; Lewis Ball, driver, aged 39; lived in Shenandoah. The explosion was primarily caused by a fall of coal, which became dislodged by the mining operation of the fire boss.

Sir Hibbert Tupper returned to Ottawa from Washington on Wednesday last. It is understood that the sum of $425,000 has been offered by the United States Government to be voted at the next session of congress in payment of damages found against the United States by the Paris tribunal last year, on account of the seizure of Canadian sealing vessels in open waters of Behring Sea. If, however, the government of Great Britain prefer to go on with the assessment which it was originally understood would be made, the money employed for the determination of these damages, then the claims will still be open, and the offer dropped; so that, practically, unless the plan of assessment damages goes on, the sum of $425,000 will be voted by Congress next December, in full settlement of the claims of the Canadian sealers.

A picnic which was held at Wood Islands on Wednesday last ended in a very sad way. It appears that in the evening a number of the picnickers were coming home by having a party. Some of the younger members were particularly jolly, and three or four of them went to visit a friend's house some distance away. As it is dark, however, would have it, they called in at the home of Mr. James McMillan, a well-known farmer, who is said to be rather short-tempered. The party, it is said, proceeded to the house and instantly a shot was fired at the young men. The charge, consisting of a bullet and a fragment of iron, struck one of the young men, Mr. Wm. McMillan, in the stomach, causing a shocking wound as the bullet entered six feet away from the gun. The injured young man was taken by his comrades to a house near by and a doctor sent for. He died on the following morning. Mr. McMillan was then taken to his home, where he lingered until his death occurred. Drs. McLaren and Barnes attended him. A great deal of sympathy is expressed for the young man, who is the son of James McMillan, Esq. of Wood Islands, and only 22 years old. McNeill has been arrested and his preliminary trial commences in this city today.

In reviewing its own article on the Ottawa Intercolonial conference, the London Times says: "Canada's interests for a Pacific cable is remarkable because she already has direct and virtually unassailable telegraphic communication with Great Britain. The Canadians in this are working for one of the noblest ideas they could entertain, namely, the uniting of the continents by sea and land, and by air and cable, for security and prosperity. The difficulty is with the Australian colonies, which are not yet ready to devote to the idea as is shown by Canada for the cable scheme. Nevertheless there is abundant sympathy which doubtless will develop into active concurrence. It is expected that the earl of Jersey's report will be in favor of subsidies for the Pacific cable, and that the idea of an imperial service entirely independent of the outside world proposed by the United States, and which is a complete frenzy; but now, when a number of Canadians who have been grievously wronged, are waiting for the money awarded them, the congressmen want to go home and rest from their wonderful labors. They can't stop even long enough to pay their debts. Such conduct as this at Washington is not creditable to a great nation. If the United States were half as punctilious about carrying out this award, as they demanded Great Britain should be, they would have found a method of paying these damages before next December.

Resolved, That we desire to place on record our unabated confidence in the administration of Sir John Thompson. That the national policy having in an eminent degree developed the industrial resources in Canada so as to place many of the industries which are encouraged under it in a position to meet a reasonable amount of foreign competition, we are of opinion that the government have shown their independence of combines and their solicitude for the interests of the consumers by the important modifications of the tariff made during the late session of parliament.

That while every trade and anxious to agree to free relations with the United States, we are of opinion that the recent action of the so-called free trade party in the United States in adopting a highly protective tariff and abrogating existing reciprocity treaties, is more than ever convinces us that it is the duty of all patriotic Canadians to support the present tariff and to vote for the interests of Canada and the British Empire.

Two men were killed and eleven injured by an explosion of gas in the Colborne colliery near Ashland Pa., on Friday afternoon. The killed were: Frank McCormack, fire boss, aged 45; lived at Shenandoah, leaves a wife and five children; Lewis Ball, driver, aged 39; lived in Shenandoah. The explosion was primarily caused by a fall of coal, which became dislodged by the mining operation of the fire boss.

Sir Hibbert Tupper returned to Ottawa from Washington on Wednesday last. It is understood that the sum of $425,000 has been offered by the United States Government to be voted at the next session of congress in payment of damages found against the United States by the Paris tribunal last year, on account of the seizure of Canadian sealing vessels in open waters of Behring Sea. If, however, the government of Great Britain prefer to go on with the assessment which it was originally understood would be made, the money employed for the determination of these damages, then the claims will still be open, and the offer dropped; so that, practically, unless the plan of assessment damages goes on, the sum of $425,000 will be voted by Congress next December, in full settlement of the claims of the Canadian sealers.

A picnic which was held at Wood Islands on Wednesday last ended in a very sad way. It appears that in the evening a number of the picnickers were coming home by having a party. Some of the younger members were particularly jolly, and three or four of them went to visit a friend's house some distance away. As it is dark, however, would have it, they called in at the home of Mr. James McMillan, a well-known farmer, who is said to be rather short-tempered. The party, it is said, proceeded to the house and instantly a shot was fired at the young men. The charge, consisting of a bullet and a fragment of iron, struck one of the young men, Mr. Wm. McMillan, in the stomach, causing a shocking wound as the bullet entered six feet away from the gun. The injured young man was taken by his comrades to a house near by and a doctor sent for. He died on the following morning. Mr. McMillan was then taken to his home, where he lingered until his death occurred. Drs. McLaren and Barnes attended him. A great deal of sympathy is expressed for the young man, who is the son of James McMillan, Esq. of Wood Islands, and only 22 years old. McNeill has been arrested and his preliminary trial commences in this city today.
