STORY OF LOVE, INTRIGUE AND REVENGE

CHAPTER XXI.

"My dear, it is true. As I was driving home along the Deeping road last night with James Ashford, I saw a lady walking. Her eyes were cast down, and she seemed buried in thought; but I recognized her in a moment at Lola de Ferras. Wishing to be sure, I said to James, 'Who is that?' He looked and answered immediately, 'Miss de Ferras, sir.' But I noticed that the moment she saw my attention drawn toward her she pulled down her veil over her face and walked on swiftly. She evidently did not want me to see her. I drove past her and took no notice. I saw that she was going toward Scarsdale, and I wondered at that, because I knew you had not parted on good terms. You had told me so. Now Lord Rhysworth will tell you what she saw."

"I do not know Miss de Ferras," said his lordship. "But last evening I went for a walk through the woods. You know where the Deeping Hurst woods join yours? A path branches off there and leads to the palings that skirt your portion of the woods. I followed it, and when I reached the palings, I stood for some moments leaning against them. Looking toward the further end, I saw Sir Karl talking with a lady. She was crying, and seemed to be pleading to him. I could see that she was tall, with a graceful figure and a dark, beautiful face, over which she drew her veil. She presently said something to Sir Karl, and he turned and looked in my direction. Whether he saw me or not I cannot tell; but as he turned I walked away quickly, as I had no wish to appear intrusive. That is all I have to tell you, Lady Allanmore."

She raised her despairing eyes to her father's face.

"There is one person more who can give information," said the Squire, "and that is Ashford, the groom. He, I think, saw the last of Sir Karl."

He rang the bell, trying to hide from his sight his daughter's colorless face.

"If I were but twenty years younger," he said, to himself, "I would follow him to the end of the world and crash him! Send James Ashford some moments in silence. The Squire was the first to speak.

"I am afraid," he said gravely, "that this is a bad case. I hate to sit in judgment upon any man, much less a man whom I loved so well as Karl. Dolores, your best plan will be to go to your husband's room, and see if there is any trace of that letter."

"I have not the strength to walk up stairs," she replied; and her pallid face showed how true the words were.

"Then I will go for you," said the Squire.

He was not absent long; and he returned with the letter in his hand. He had found it just as Sir Karl had thrust it into the pocket of his coat. He held it out to his daughter.

"I have read it, Dolores," he said; "and, my dear, I am afraid the simple but shameful truth is, that Lola de Ferras has persuaded your husband to go away with her. Read the letter yourself."

The Squire, watching her as she obeyed, thought that it would have been easier to see her die than to witness unutterable anguish creep into her face.

"I will not believe it," she cried—"not from any evidence, not from any person but himself or her! Why should he run away with her? He never loved her; he loved me." And then she recollected Lola's threat—"When he has grown tired of you and your washed-out, faded kind of beauty, his heart will turn to me, and then I shall take my revenge."

"I must know. Do not be afraid. Speak," she said, in a faint voice; "I must know. Do not be afraid. Where did you see Sir Karl last?"

"At the end of the wood, my lady, at the white gate. I had put up the pointer, and was going, where I do go sometimes to smoke my pipe, to the lodge. At the white gate I saw my master standing talking to a lady. I could not help seeing that her hands were clasped round his arm, as though she was begging of him to do something. He was talking very earnestly to her. After a time she smiled and looked pleased; then they walked away together."

"In what direction?" asked the Squire.

"Toward the Deeping road; and I thought that perhaps the master was taking the lady to the station."

"We have inquired at the station," observed Lord Rhysworth, "but neither Sir Karl nor the lady was seen there."

"Who was the lady, James?" asked the Squire.

"It was madame's daughter, the young French lady who lived at Beaulieu."

"You are quite sure?" said Lord Rhysworth.

"Quite sure, my lord, I have often driven her home from Deeping Hurst to Beaulieu. I was groom there, my lord, before I came here."

"That will do; you may go," said the Squire; and the three were left alone again.

LIMITATIONS.

I saw him in his office grand,
A figure sharp and stern,
Where all who heard his least command
Would willingly comply.
Both men and women served his will
Throughout the busy day,
And no doubt felt a nervous chill
Whenever he came their way.

Downtown he was a ruling force,
A figure sharp and stern,
And there both young and old, of course,
His whims were quick to learn;
They knew what service pleased him
And hastened to obey,
And seemed to take an interest
In following his way.

Men listened to his simplest word,
To none he ordered twice,
With him financial kings conferred Respecting his advice.
"And the children!" she cried aloud.
"Do you think that even if Karl could leave me, he would leave them?
Ah, never, papa! There is some treachery, some mistake! He has not left me, my darling, my husband, my love! Oh, come back to me, Karl, or I shall die!"

"I could almost pray that she
at length inensensibility deprived her for a time of all knowledge of the trouble which had fallen upon her.
"I could almost pray that she might die in her unconsciousness," said the Squire, with a heavy sigh.
"Great Heaven, how little did I ever think that such a fate would overtake my child!"

"Do you really believe that Sir
Karl has been foolish and wicked enough to elope with that wretched girl?" asked Lord Rhysworth.

"Knowing what we do, I see little reason to doubt it," answered the Squire. "I would give my life to find that he was innocent, to see him come back the upright, honorable man I have hitherto believed him to be. I cannot help thinking him guilty. There is no doubt the girl loved him; and no one knows what a woman can persuade even the most sensible man to do."

But Dolores, who lay seriously ill, still retained her faith in her husband.

"I shall never believe it," she said,
"until I hear it from his own lips or from hers."

In the meantime the news had spread that the baronet had disappeared. The whole neighborhood was in a commotion about it. No one would credit the story. It seemed utterly impossible that Sir Karl, whose marriage had been a perfect love-match, who had been laughed at for his adoration of the two children, should have left them deliberately.
They tried to keep the newspapers from Dolores, but she insisted on seeing them; and every line she read added to the poignancy of her grief.

"Lola told me to remember that her heart was always aching," she said to herself. "Can it have ached worse than mine?"

The Squire took up his abode at Scarsdale; it was quite impossible to leave Dolores. The house, too, was besieged by visitors, old friends and new friends, some to console, some to gratify their curiosity. The Squire received them with great dignity; he would spare Dolores in every way that lay in his power.

In spite of the details she had heard, of the gossip to which she had been an unwilling listener, of the arrest newspaper reports, Dolores still entertained a glimmering hope that there might be some mistake. But, as day after day passed and no news came of Sir Karl, that hope grew less and eventually died out.

Recently closed for repairs. Waterloo Bridge, described as the noblest bridge in Europe, owes its existence to a farmer's son, who later in life developed a genius for engineering.

The boy was John Rennie, and so keen was his interest in machinery that he frequently absented himself from school, spending his time at a millwright's when he should have been at his lessons.

Out of his passion for mechanics grew some of the most notable engineering feats of the past century, among them the building of Southwark Bridge, London Bridge, and many bridges in Scotland, and harbors and coasts all over the kingdom, including those at Grimsby, Holyhead, Hull, and the East India Dock, London. In addition he reclaimed large areas of land threatened by the sea.

So great was the esteem with which the nation regarded him that when he died, at the age of sixty, the erstwhile farmer's son received the honor of interment at St. Paul's Cathedral.

THE MARRIED ONES.

Countless brides and grooms are starting down the path of married life, and my blessing I'm imparting to each husband and his wife. There are signs and snares besetting every avenue they take, and the pessimists are betting that the marriage bond will break. Salesmen smooth and blithe and clever will approach, with smiles sublime, and put up a stern endeavour to dispose of goods on time. "We will trust you," say the sellers, "we're accustomed for ready men; we're accommodating fellows, doing business just for fun. We will fill your lovely shanty with the finest rugs and chairs, with the works of Pope and Dante, with the skins of Polar bears; we are trying, understand, us, to fill brides and grooms with glee, and you only need to hand us, once a month, five bucks or three." I address the newly wedded: "Bid the smiling salesman go; once in debt you're surely headed for the Reef of Norman's Woe. Do without the worsted motto that you cannot pay for now; do without the nice tin auto, and the silver dish for chow. Do without the sausage grinder and the wooden statette, for no system's valuer, blinder, than this going into debt. Save your money, now you're married, for you'll need it all, ay bank; let the roll be carried every Monday to the bank."

If the World Stopped Whirling!

What would happen if the earth stopped rotating? The possibilities must have occurred to many who read Dr. A. C. D. Crommelin's statement to the British Astronomical Association to the effect that the rotation of the earth on its axis was gradually slowing down.

"No one need become alarmed over the situation," Dr. Crommelin said to an interviewer. "The slowing-up process has been going on for centuries, and nothing sensational has come out of it.

If it did stop things might become uncomfortable. The sun would shine on one side only, while the other side would be wrapped in frozen darkness; and the moon might vanish.

"If the earth's motion slowed to one rotation a year," he added, "each day would be one year long, as they are thought to be on the planet Mercury.

"It will take a few hundred million years before the earth's motion, at its present rate, is retarded to a point where it entails actual discomfort."

State Pay to Unemployed

Mr. Shaw (Minister of Labour) states that the contributions paid by the State to the Unemployment Fund were as follows:—

1921-22	£ 8,122,000
1922-23	12,001,000
1923-24 (approx.)	12,800,000
1924-25	12,827,000

The proposal to bring juveniles into insurance, if proceeded with, would increase the State grant in 1914-25 by £230,000.

United States Consul Killed by Mob in Teheran

Pensions Bill Causes a Deadlock in Canadian Parliament—Americans Strongly Behind Exports' Report.

U. S. CONSUL KILLED BY MOB.
LONDON, July 19.—A despatch to the Evening News from Teheran, Persia, states that Major Robert Imbrie, United States Consul there, died as a result of a severe beating administered by a mob. Another United States citizen, it is said, was with Major Imbrie and was seriously wounded.

KILLED THROUGH MISTAKEN IDENTITY.

WASHINGTON, July 20.—A message received by the State Department from United States Consul Joseph Skornafel, at Teheran, Persia, said that Vice-Consul Robert Imbrie died from shock at 3 o'clock Friday afternoon, after being brutally kicked and beaten by a mob. The Vice-Consul and Melin Seymour, also of the United States, had stopped their carriage to watch a religious demonstration in the city, the message said, and were rushed by the mob, who mistook them for a sect known as the Bahais, against which the demonstration was directed. Seymour's condition was said to be so serious as a result of the beating he received that he has been unable to make any statement.

VIOLENT STORM IN ENGLISH CHANNEL.

PARIS, July 19.—The heat wave which has been so distressing to Olympic contestants was broken up to-day by a series of violent gales which wrought havoc throughout France and Belgium and caused damage to shipping and loss of life in the Channel. Twenty yachts are missing at Ostend and it is feared all are lost. Twenty-six bodies have already been washed up on the beach. Ten more boats are missing from Portsmouth and sixteen persons are reported drowned. The storm seems to have blown itself out and better weather is forecasted.

AMERICA BEHIND DAWES' REPORT.

SOUTHAMPTON, Eng., July 20.—Asked for his views regarding the Experts' Reparations plans, Charles Evans Hughes, United States Secretary of State, upon his arrival here Saturday, said American sentiment is very strongly behind the Dawes Report as it now stands and we believe that prompt execution of that report is of the greatest consequence. Mr. Hughes emphasized that his visit to England was unofficial and personal. Regarding the Experts' Report, however, the Secretary declared we are very much interested in having it put into execution. We hope it will be found possible to have that effected at an early date, he continued. We consider it affords a sound basis for the economic recuperation of Europe.

DEADLOCK OVER PENSION BILL.

OTTAWA, July 19.—The Senate this evening refused to participate in the conference on the deadlock which has arisen over the refusal of the House of Commons to accept the Senate Amendments to the Pension Bill.

POWER OF CANADIAN SENATE TO BE REDUCED.

OTTAWA, July 19.—The Prime Minister announced in the House of Commons this afternoon that the Government would next session seek to establish the right of the House of Commons over the Senate in respect to Legislation initiated in the House of Commons. The privileges sought would be similar to those held by the British House in respect to the House of Lords.

GERMAN RESOURCES THE GUARANTEE.

LONDON, July 19.—The committee of the inter-Allied Conference in charge of sanctions in the event of Germany's default under the experts' scheme, this morning unanimously agreed to insure investors in the loan to Germany of priority on all German resources in the event of Germany's default.

LOEB CONFESSED.

CHICAGO, July 19.—Richard Loeb awaiting trial with Nathan Leopold, on charges of kidnapping and slaying Robert Franks, has admitted that it was he who actually struck the blow killing the victim, says the Chicago World and Examiner. The blow was struck with a chisel wrapped with tape and Leopold drove the automobile in which they were riding at the time. The youths in their first confession told identically the same story with the exception that each accused the other of striking the fatal blow. Loeb, the newspaper says, made the additional confession after learning the death penalty may be the same for both regardless of which was the actual slayer. Preliminary motions for trial are to be heard Monday.

"DEATH RAY" INVENTOR IN NEW YORK.

NEW YORK, July 20.—Zealously guarding the secret of his invention known internationally as the death rays, Crinell Matthews, the English inventor, arrived Saturday on the steamship Paris for a short visit to this country. He declared that he had come to the United States to interest the Government or any one else in his invention. The inventor's first statement upon arrival was the use of the term death ray for his device was a misnomer. He said it was in reality an electric beam and that he had never called it anything else. The inventor declared that the ray could, if properly developed, destroy a city like New York. He also said it could paralyze a whole army. "At present," he said, "my ray operates upon half a kilowatt. I am now developing a machine in England that will operate on fifty kilowatts. In the course of six or eight months I shall so perfect my invention that I will have a ray that could work great destruction." He declared that four or five nations had offered large sums for the invention, but upon its perfection would be offered to Great Britain above other nations. He declared he took a trip to France to interest the French Government. The inventor said his claim that the ray could paralyze armies was based upon experiments in which it killed one mouse and four rats. He said that a test which he gave in England in which the British Government experts found the ray to be harmless was unfavourable because he did not have time to make the proper arrangements, being rushed and crowded. The fear that his investigation might be stolen by spies caused him to conduct his experiments on an island in the English Channel, he said.

Spencer Guide Camp

"Spencer Camp" near the Riverside

Woolen Mills, Mackinson's, has been a big success. About fifty are camped in twelve C. L. B. tents on the banks of Mackinson's River, between two ranges of hills about three hundred feet high. Captain Elwin Nash is Camp Commandant, with Miss Kelly of the College Staff and Miss Syretha Squires, Trained Nurse. The Guides have had fine weather and return by special car attached to the 9.15 train due to-morrow night.

On Saturday camp routine was as follows:—Reveille, 7 a.m.; breakfast, 8 a.m.; Inspection 10.45; Bathing, Parade, noon; Dinner 12.30; Rest Period, 1 p.m.; Fishing and Reception of visitors, 3 p.m.; Tea, 5.30; Patrols to complete duties of the day, 7 p.m.; Camp Fires Songs, 8 p.m.; Cocos and biscuits, 8.30; Lights out, 9.15 Camp duties, etc., are divided up between the following patrols:—Cooking Patrol, Wood Patrol, Sanitary Patrol, Orderly Patrol, and Odd Job Patrol.

The following visited Spencer Camp Saturday:—Rev. Hugh Facey, Lady Crobie and party, Mr. and Mrs. Brice of the Woolen Mills, Prof. and Mrs. Herbert Sterling, Major and Mrs. C. R. Williams, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Cantwell, Miss Furlong, of Winterton, who is an officer of the Girl Guides and is a guest of the staff for a few days. Miss Syretha Squires of the medical staff reports no illness of any kind and the girls are all healthy and happy. Miss Squires is quite an acquisition to the staff and the girls are delighted with her work. The high liners in trout are Guides Ethel Smith, and Daisy Way, who find the trout plentiful near the camp site, which has been hired from Mrs. Kelly owner of the land nearby. The signalling squad were seen sending messages Saturday most successfully under Lieut. Grace Watson. Instruction in knots, lighting and building camp fires is also given. Saturday night Nurse Squires was giving a lecture to the Guides on Nursing in order that Guides could apply for this proficiency badge. Lieut. Rita Butler is also a very busy officer.

Last week Captain Nash and Miss Keef and the Company hiked up over the mountain top and had an enjoyable day returning to camp at five o'clock. The exercise was thoroughly enjoyable and the day well spent. During the week the Rev. H. V. Whitehouse has been most attentive for the welfare of the Camp and yesterday intended holding service. Bugler Jean Hutchings has been a splendid bugler and in the early morning makes the valley res-cho with the Revellie. The Camp had a welcome visitor in the person of Rev. Canon Bolt, Director of Spencer College, on Friday, who expressed himself as well pleased with all the arrangements. To Captain Elwin Nash, the thanks of all ranks and of the College are due for the excellent care of the Guides and the wonderful success of their First Outdoor Camp. The responsibility has been heavy, but the happy smiling faces of all Spencereans in Camp testify that the work has been well done and well worth while.

Kilbride Garden Party to be Season's Event

SPLENDID SPORTS PROGRAMME ARRANGED—THREE MILE ROAD RACE FOR BEAUTIFUL CUP.

The annual Garden Party at Kilbride takes place Wednesday at 2.30 p.m. This year's event promises to eclipse preceding years and nothing has been left undone to make the day a red letter one. The rev. pastor, Fr. John Rawlins, and his committee, have worked hard to give patrons the best day's enjoyment for the season.

A feature of the day's programme is the three mile road race for a beautiful cup donated by Sir John Crobie. The Pony Derby Race this year will be a thriller. Many entries have been made for this event and there is great rivalry between the contestants for honors. Judging from the active practicing and the times made, it will be a hard struggle for first place, as some very fast ponies will be seen in action with competent jockeys. Football fives and other features will be the order of the day.

There will be something to engage the attention of young and old and Kilbride will be the mecca for all those wishing to enjoy themselves. The C.C.C. will be in attendance with the very latest selections which this popular band is noted for.

The ladies of the parish, with their city friends, will provide tea, and visitors will find the very best attention bestowed upon them.

The proceeds of the Garden Party are to be devoted to the completion of the new church, consecrated last year at Waterford Bridge. That Rev. Fr. Rawlins and his energetic committee will receive whole-hearted support goes without saying, as Kilbride Garden Party is now looked upon as one of the season's events which few can afford to miss.

The city motor buses will run during the afternoon, besides which passenger cars will be attached to the 1 o'clock freight train. Patrons may also return to town by the train reaching the city at 9.30 p.m. The committee in charge has several surprises in store for those who attend and all that is needed to make the day a gigantic success is fine weather.

Indians Consecrate Two Lads to Keep Tribal Traditions.

Washington, July 19. (A.P.)—The controversy arising out of the question of withdrawing two Indian children from school in the Taos Pueblo, New Mexico, for the purpose of teaching them the pagan rites and traditional customs of the Pueblo ancients has been branded a "tempest in a teapot," by Commissioner Burke of the Indian Bureau.

Declaring the position of the Indian Bureau had been misrepresented, Commissioner Burke expressed a belief that the question would be amicably settled before the new fall school term at the Taos Pueblo begins.

According to new information Mr. Burke has received, two Indian children between the ages of seven and ten are usually withdrawn for an 18-months period from modern educational instruction, to be taught the ancient rites and traditions of the tribe. As there is no written history of the Pueblo the purpose is to develop the children to become priests and medicine men, and enable them to pass on to succeeding generations by word of mouth the story of Pueblo life.

The instructions given the children, Mr. Burke said, deal not only with religious matters but also the history and materia medica of the Pueblos from the beginning of time, including the uses of herbs and their medicinal qualities. The boys are supposed to play with other children and sleep under guard of an elder Indian in the "estufa" or "kiva," a chamber built in or beneath the pueblo where secret religious ceremonies and tribal councils are held, and which is entered by a hole in the roof.

During their year and a half training, Mr. Burke continued, the boys are fed upon corn and corn products, squashes and other traditional vegetables. Meat from domestic animals is forbidden, such diet being confined to the flesh of wild animals, fish and wild birds.

Commissioner Burke denied that the Bureau of Indian Affairs had issued orders placing a ban on the holding by the Pueblos of their ancient religious ceremonies, and stated the government would not interfere in any way with them.

The Taos Pueblo is located 75 miles north of Santa Fe, on a small stream, and has a population of 618 Indians, the number increasing about 25 per cent in the last twenty years.

"Ducks and Drakes"
Plus, more than three thousand years ago.

Perhaps the most famous patron of the game in our time was Alfred de Musset, the French novelist and playwright, who spent whole days on the beach, picking up pebbles and making them skim over the water.

According to an Elizabethan writer, the game was known in his time as "a duck and a drake, and a ha'penny cake."

What Do You Think of a Fluid

That will draw roaches and ants out of every hole, crack, or crevice before killing them and not poison food?

That will kill bugs instantly and not leave an unpleasant odor?

That will knock flies off the wall and not harm paint or paper?

That will keep the bedroom, kitchen, or verandah clear of flies, mosquitoes, etc., for several hours after a few sprays?

That will take fleas off a dog and not harm the dog?

That will destroy chicken lice without any injury to your stock?

That applied in small quantities to the exposed parts of the body will insure you from Mosquito bites?

That as a general disinfectant is stronger than the ordinary carbolic solution.

THAT FLUID IS

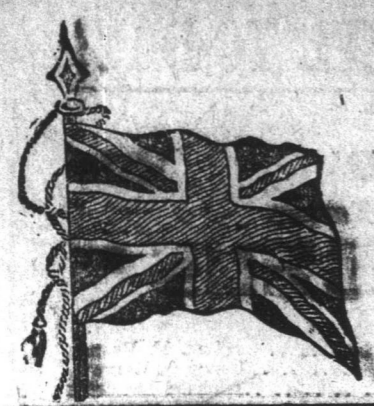

SAN-O-SPRAY.

No insect can live where San-O-Spray is used. Yet San-O-Spray is non-poisonous to human beings and can be used with perfect safety in pantry, kitchen, dining room, and cellars, moreover San-O-Spray has an agreeable and delightful odor, removing all fetid or unpleasant odors. In addition San-O-Spray is a disinfectant and germicide. Keeps the home sanitary and free from infectious diseases.

CANADIAN PARLIAMENT PROLOGUE.

OTTAWA, July 21.
Parliament prorogued on Saturday afternoon after nearly five months deliberations under the shadow of dissolution between the senate and the Commons. The main business of the Commons had been wound up in a sitting which lasted from 11 a.m. Friday to 4.30 a.m. Saturday. When the Senate met at eleven Saturday a message from the Commons awaiting it, asking that it reconsider certain amendments it had made to the Government bill to amend the Pensions Act, which amendment amongst other things made permanent the pensions bonus to war veterans. The Senate made the bill read that the extension would be for two years only.

The delegations participating in the Inter Allied Conference to launch the experts report on reparations conferred during the Sunday holiday in order to advance the work so as to make possible a plenary session to-day. The headquarters of all the delegations were active and the sub-committee on reparations has the most difficult problem awaiting solution—railways and economic evacuation of the occupied territory. The sub-committee dealing with the question of the economic entity of Germany at to-day's deliberations made substantial progress. Another sub-committee dealing with the railway question has encountered an obstacle in the Franco Belgian claim to be allowed to maintain some form of communication between the Ruhr and the Rhineland and France and Belgium.

SYDNEY COUNCILLOR KILLED.

SYDNEY, July 21.
Town councillor Rennie McDonald of Glace Bay was instantly killed when his automobile touring car jumped the Lewis Cove road and turned against a stump at Grandrive, near Lardies Richmond County this afternoon. He is a brother of Roddie McDonald the noted Cape Breton boxer. There were six persons in the car at the time, four women and two men, including the wife and child of the deceased but no one else even slightly injured.

MOTOR BOAT CREW FEARED LOST

SYDNEY, N.S., July 21.
With the exception of the remote possibility that they may have been picked up by the schooner Alice, which broke from her moorings on rum row of the Glace Bay coast during a storm and was forced to return to St. Pierre, small hope is expressed for the safety of the Glace Bay men Allan McNeil, George Adams, and Wilson Jessome, who left Glace Bay Thursday evening in a fifteen foot motor boat to visit rum row and have since failed to return. Shortly after the men left on their ten mile run to the rum row, an electrical storm broke accompanied by a high wind which eventually developed to a hurricane. In the opinion of local fishermen the boat could not have lived through the gale.

New Anti-Tuberculosis Vaccine.

SUCCESSFUL EXPERIMENTS.
A new vaccine which, there is every reason to hope, will grant immunity to human beings from infectious tuberculosis was described in the French Academy of Medicine in a paper read by Professor Calmette last week.

Professor Calmette said that he had studied the question of anti-tuberculosis vaccine for many years. By utilizing a special bacillus obtained by 230 successive cultures of an ox's spleen which has lost the property of the formation of tubercles it is possible, he said, to give to young calves such immunity that for six months after vaccination they resist the inoculation of a violent bacillus capable of causing death in eight weeks. Similar experiments have been successful with monkeys which lived in close and continuous copulation with other monkeys gravely affected with tuberculosis. Thus encouraged, Professor Calmette and his friends applied their method of procuring immunity to the young children of stricken patients.

CORRESPONDENT'S LETTER.

Boston Market Letter.
There are two factors which are going to have a lot to do with business conditions in this country during the next few years. One is the amount of goods which Europe will buy from us. The other is the purchasing power of the American farmer. It is worth while noting that developments which are taking place indicate that business is going to be helped by both factors.

Safety First

Some Old Accident Statistics.
Every day in the over two people who leave their homes in London to go to business fail to return. They are killed in street accidents. Each year sees an increase in the number of street and road accidents, so that today more people are killed in this way than by any other sort of accident.

Workmen Who Run Risks.
In English towns road accidents account for nearly one-fifth of all violent deaths. Next come burns and scalds. In this case the greater number of victims are children, but a good many women are killed in this way.

London Times

By PANTON HOUSE, for the Canadian Press.

LONDON, June 27.—This is the great Imperial Season. The Dominions have sent to the Mother Country their most distinguished representatives. On July 9 there is to be held at the Albert Hall a "Heart of Empire" Ball, in aid of the "Dockland Settlements" in the East End of London. These settlements are for the welfare of those who labor in London's great docks. In the romance of this great centre of shipping is wrapped up the foundation of the British Empire. The Ball is to be a pageant; each part of the Empire will express itself in dresses which will symbolize the proud idea of each country. The general idea of the Canadian group will be expressed in wheat, fur and gold, the organization being in the able hands of Lady Kingsmill, wife of the Director of Naval Service, Canada.

LONDON'S TRAFFIC.

No less than 11,400,000 passengers were carried by trains, buses and underground Group during the last week-end. On Saturday 6,800,000 passengers were carried, and on Sunday 4,710,000—the latter a record.

GUESTS OF ROYALTY.

Nearly 10,000 guests assembled in the grounds of Buckingham Palace for the Garden Party on June 25. The feature of the occasion was the unusual number of visitors from the Dominions. Glorious sunshine made this great function of London's social season a brilliant spectacle. The summer dresses of the women, their picture hats, and their gay sunshades, could have had no better setting than the old shady trees of the garden, with the bright music of the Military bands.

The Royal party, including the King and Queen of Denmark, had tea in the famous Indian silk tent with its bamboo poles ornamented with silver. It required mountains of strawberries and cream, tons of loaves and cake, with rivers of cooling drinks to refresh the multitude of guests.

UNIQUE CEREMONY.

A ceremony unique in the history of the London home of our royal family was celebrated at Buckingham Palace on June 24. The King, who is the Sovereign Head of the Grand Priory of the Order of the Hospital of St. John of Jerusalem in England, held an Investiture for the members of the Order. The ceremony was quaint and fascinating, being held in the white and gold ballroom.

The King and Queen, the Prince of Wales, the Duchess of York and Lord Lascelles, the Duke of Connaught, Prince Arthur, Princess "Pat," and Princesses Beatrice and Helene Victoria formed some of the royal party. The ceremony started with a procession, among whom were Field Marshal the Duke of Connaught, who is Grand Prior. After him came the Chaplain-Generals in black cloaks, the sub-priests who are Bishops, and the Archbishop of Canterbury, who is Prelate; then the sub-prior, the Earl of Shaftesbury, the Knights of Justice, Knights of Grace, Ladies of Justice and Grace, and finally Honorary Serving Brothers and Sisters. Lovely Indian ladies in gleaming gold tissue and Chinese noblemen added a touch of splendor to the scene.

ENGLISH LIVE STOCK.

The influence of the British Empire Exhibition is having a marked effect on this year's show of the Royal Agricultural Society, and the result will be of untold benefit to the industry. Farmers and breeders from all over the Empire have intimated that they will attend. It is mainly to see the stock that such a large number of visitors are coming, as Britain is recognized to be the home of farm live stock. Foreigners have already expressed amazement that the small lead of England maintains, distinct and prosperous, so many different breeds.

MAN WHO FIRST BOTTLED BEER.

On June 26 honor was given to the memory of the man who first bottled beer successfully for export to all parts of the world. The Vintners' Company, one of the most important of the Ancient Livery Companies of the City of London, gave a dinner in their historic hall to the memory of Benjamin Kenton. In solemn silence the Company drank "to the immortal memory of our late brother and benefactor Benjamin Kenton." Kenton started life as an apprentice, and became a waiter at the Crown and Maple in Aldgate. He married the daughter of the proprietor of the tavern, prospered, and in 1776 was made master of the Vintners' Company.

THE BRITISH EMPIRE'S YOUTH.

The National Union of Teachers has taken in hand the distribution of schoolchildren's tickets to see the Empire Exhibition. Already they have sold 70,000 and orders are still coming in. This is for children at home only. For the young people overseas an organization has been started, by the "National Union of Students," at the University Union, London, which represents students at every University and University College in England and Wales, for the purpose of raising funds to organize a great conference of students from every part of the Empire. The object of the conference is to "focus attention on the enormous wealth and power for good that are latent in the British Empire." The committee of the N. U. S., which contains many prominent Canadians, go on to point out:—"The future of the British Empire depends on the manner and spirit in which this power is used by the young men and women of this generation."

WOLFE AND QUEBEC.

A further section of the "Townshend Papers," is to be sold at Sotheby's on July 14th. They contain an important historical letter written by Wolfe, dealing with his operations at Quebec in 1759. The letter shows Wolfe's masterly grasp of detail and his high courage and sense of responsibility. It was written to Montcalon a few days before the fall of Quebec, and ends: "I had the honor to inform you to-day that it is my duty to attack the French army to the best of my knowledge and abilities. I have fixed upon that spot (Tacon) where we can act with most force and are most likely to succeed. If I am mistaken I am sorry for it and must be answerable to His Majesty and the public for the consequences."

LONDON STATISTICS.

Statistics just published show that on July 10, 1923, the number of vehicles that passed Hyde Park corner between 8 a.m. and 8 p.m. was 49,475, more than one a second. This year there are still more. Another figure is interesting. In 1923 only 72 cases of smallpox were notified in London, while in the five years 1876-80 there were 16,818.

Easier to Make Than to Sell.

It is easier to spend money than to earn it. Therefore it is easier to make goods than to sell them, since the maker has the spending of money. Most, but not all, concerns are learning this elementary fact after having enjoyed—or suffered from—a period of abnormal conditions, during which production was the main problem, distribution no problem at all. "One thing the trying period I have passed through has taught me," John N. Willys remarked the other day, "is to devote most of my time to developing the right kind of a selling organization. That is what I have been doing. This is harder than attending to production, for you can stay at home and direct production, but it costs a painful amount of travel to build up the most efficient distributing agencies all over the country, from Toledo to California and from Florida to Canada." There are still some executives benighted enough to imagine that, when demand slackens, the best thing to do is to curtail selling efforts, to cancel advertising and cut down sales forces. Wise executives follow exactly the opposite course; they increase their advertising and speed up their sales force. Yes, as Mr. Willys declared, "It is easier to make things than to sell them." Have you learned this fundamental business truth?—Forbes Magazine, N.Y.

England

(By an Australian on Her First Visit to the Motherland).
"I thought that when my stranger-eyes beheld this dream-of-treasure-trove with primrose-haunted memories, With proud and dauntless love, I'd laugh, and bare my head to English rains, Run singing through the green of England, And stooping by a hedge kiss the sweet earth That gave my fathers birth."

"But there's no laughter on my lips Nor yet a song, but like a bird Stumbling on beauty's soul there slips Into my mouth a sobbing word—'England! Her fields are furrowed in my heart, Her rivers are the little tears that start As to some shadow-quiet place I creep, Like a shy child, to weep.'"
—P. T. in Morning Post.

Quick Justice

Two years ago the Legislature of California established a new court, which has since been one of the busiest in the State. It is the Small Claims Court, and its object is to give justice to poor people who cannot afford the customary legal procedure. There are no lawyers, and no amount in dispute may exceed sixty pounds. The judge simply hears the arguments, gives his decision and that ends the matter. The court is largely used for collecting small debts, and less than one per cent. of its rulings have been appealed against. Over five thousand cases have already been handled.

British Taxes

The total amount of taxation in Great Britain in the fiscal year ended March 31, 1924, including both national and local taxation, at par of exchange, was $4,234,223,000. Of this amount, as reported to the Bankers' Trust Company of New York by its English Information Service, national taxes called for $3,447,931,000 and local taxes called for $786,302,000, so that national taxation called for 81.43% of the total and local taxation for 18.57%. National taxation per capita amounted to $78.60, while local taxation amounted to $18.14, making a total per capita burden of $97.74. These figures include taxation for Northern Ireland only as the returns for Southern Ireland (now Irish Free State) are no longer comprised in the financial reports.

What a Horse Can Pull

Tests made recently proved that a pair of horses, each weighing 1,600 lb., could haul a load 550 lb. greater than themselves.

On a metal track, one of these animals, it has been shown, can draw one and two-thirds times as much as on a good asphalt surface, five times as much as on cobblestone paving, and twenty times the load it can pull on an ordinary mud road.

For the usual type of farm horse, a cart carrying a weight of 1,500 lb. is considered to be a fair task. While pulling light vehicles and under saddle, records indicate that horses are equal to great feats of strength and endurance.

The Moon as Target.

Prof. R. H. Goddard, the American scientist who hopes to shoot a rocket to the moon this summer, has perfected his laboratory experiments and is confident he will succeed in hitting his lunar target, nearly a quarter of a million miles from the earth.

But the success of his project depends very largely on the behaviour of the rocket in the lower regions of the earth's atmosphere, before it enters free space, where it can make a bee-line for the moon. To obtain some idea as to how far friction with the air and air currents may cause the rocket to deviate from its trajectory, the professor intends to fire a similar rocket to an altitude of ten or a dozen miles above the earth, and determine its path through the air by telescopic observations from various points, its path being marked by successive explosions of the brilliant "flash" powder by means of which it is hoped to see the impact on the moon of the actual rocket that will subsequently be fired at our satellite.

Though the atmosphere of the earth extends probably 350 miles above the surface, the greater part of it is packed into the region between the ground and the 10-miles level, and if Prof. Goddard can get accurate data as to how his rocket will be affected by the atmosphere it passes through in the first ten miles of its upward flight, and can utilize this information to correct his aim when he fires at the moon—or rather at the point in space where the moon will be thirty-six hours after the rocket starts, as it will take that time to cover the distance—he need not worry about the rest of the journey, as the atmosphere above ten miles is so rarefied that it will

Looking After Other People's Money

The Public Trustee, a comparatively recent institution among us, evidently meets "a felt want."

If anyone has money on an estate or at his death, he can call in the Public Trustee, who, unless there be good reason to the contrary, will accept the trust. Other trusts come to him by order of the courts.

Last year he took more than a thousand new trusts, representing over 15 million pounds, on to his broad shoulders. The total amount in his charge is over 175 million, as well as a quantity of land not yet valued. Trusts for the smallest amounts will be accepted, if otherwise suitable.

Though the fees have recently been reduced, they yielded a surplus last year of nearly £30,000 over the costs.

SIDE TALKS.

By Ruth Cameron.

WE DO WHAT WE WANT MOST.

It was convention day. On my way to town I stopped in to ask my neighbor if I could do an errand for her. She came toward me, dices gazing the head phones from her radio set, her face bright with interest. "It's perfectly thrilling," she said. I've been listening in on the convention. I just dashed through my work to get ready. I listened all day yesterday. Why don't you just chuck that trip to town and listen in with me?"

Why not, indeed? Her living room was lovely and cool. Big, comfortable chairs stood invitingly by the radio. Ever since an inspired professor in public law made us feel the thrill of them, I have felt I would rather attend a political nomination convention than almost any other big gathering in the world.

And now the next best thing to that offered.

I Never Do What I Want To Do.

"But I can't," I said. "I have an appointment at the dentist and I have some things to buy that just must be bought." And then I added impatiently: "Oh, dear! It seems to me as if I never do what I want to do."

And I drove off in a very resentful mood wishing that for just a few days I might do exactly what I wanted to do.

How many times have you felt that way, Reader Friends?

Ten thousand, more or less, I suppose.

Well, here's a thought for your consolation and for mine. I was doing what I wanted to do. And so are you. If we weren't, we wouldn't do it.

"What nonsense," you may say.

Perhaps I Was Foolish.

But it isn't nonsense at all. True, a

"Stalking Big Game With a Camera."

Nearly 20 years ago a German called Schilling wrote a book on the photography of wild life in Africa, and stimulated scores of big game hunters to forsake the rifle for the camera. Even those of us who have stalked game with a camera since Schilling's day must admit that Mr. Maxwell, the latest disciple, has surpassed all others in the beauty and clearness of his hundred photographs of elephant, rhinoceros, buffalo, hippopotamus and giraffe. This success is partly due to his recognition of the fact that better forest studies of animals can be obtained at close range with fast, short focus lenses than with telephoto combinations, but is mainly the result of his fearless stalking of dangerous animals, and the fortune of having a reliable shot by his side.

Big game photography is extremely difficult. The photographer of bush-loving animals like elephant and buffalo has to contend with poor light and obstructed views, while his subjects are wary and often restless. Fearless close work with rapid lenses alone can assure success here, but Mr. Maxwell has secured it, and his 50 photographs of elephant are probably unique, while the two "close-ups" of a bull buffalo are very good.

For those animals which live partly in more open country the telephoto lens is available, which permits good pictures to be taken up to 50 yards, and the author shows such results in his studies of zebra and antelope; but he has chosen close work again for his 14 studies of the rhinoceros; used a motor car in order to obtain it in ten pictures of galloping giraffe, and stratagem in his magnificent series of 20 photographs of hippopotami. Here fortune favoured him for he found a herd of hippo deprived of their usual water retreat, and was able to make the bewildered animals pose at will and in the most comical way, amid the unusual surroundings of bush.

The reader who imagines these photographs easy of attainment because they are so clear should remember that they represent a meeting with but a dozen herds of elephants, and one or two of buffalo, hippo, and giraffe in all. Mr. Maxwell's wanderings. Probably many other photographs failed through bad light, impossible surroundings, or the difficulties of development in the bush.

Among so many good photographs, it is difficult to choose one that stands out, but the large picture of "Elephants advancing in the Loian Swamp" is almost unsurpassable, though no photograph can give an adequate idea of the majestic appearance of a herd of charging elephants which once seen can never be forgotten.

That stalking big game with a camera has its dangers is apparent from the following remarks made on

OLYMPIC SWIMMING.
PARIS, July 15.—Andrew Charlton, the Australian swimming star, won the final of the 1,500 metre swim, free style, in the Olympic competition to-day in 20m. 7 seconds, breaking the world's record.
Miss Martha Norellus, New York, won the final of the 400 metre Olympic swim for women free style. The time was 6 minutes 2 1-5 seconds.

ROCKY KANSAS OUT.
NEW YORK, July 14.—Luis Vincentini, of Chile, knocked out Rocky Kansas in the eleventh round of a 15-round match at the Queensboro Athletic Club to-night. The end came in a sensational finish, in which the Chilean rallied to the highest peak of his pugilistic career and stopped one of the most rugged lightweights in the ring.
The knockout blows, a series of rights and lefts, which staggered the Buffalo boy, and forced him to wilt to the resined floor, came at an unexpected time, as Vincentini had, in the round previous, measured his length on the canvas when one of Kansas' wild rights caught Vincentini flush on the jaw. The end came after two minutes and sixteen seconds of fighting in the eleventh round.

KELLY AND COSTELLO WIN.
Total Heat in Olympic Doubles, and Yale Defeats Canada and Holland in Eight.—Vancouver Four Win Their Trial.—Belyea Unplaced.
OLYMPIC STADIUM, July 15.

(Canadian Press)—The Vancouver Boat Club, Canada's representatives in the four-oared rowing event in the Olympic games, won their heat yesterday, leading their opponents, Switzerland, the European champions, by two lengths in the fastest time made to-day in this event. The time for the 2,000 metres was 6 min. 31 sec.

Placed at a disadvantage at the outset, the Swiss four beating the starting gun, the Canadians set out at a hot pace, rowing 44 strokes to the minute. Overhauling their opponents, the Canadians passed the half way mark two lengths in front and retained this lead to the end. The early speed set by the Vancouver four was too much for the Swiss crew and the last half was rowed in slower time, the stroke at the finish being 34 to the minute. In the finals on Thursday Canada will meet Great Britain, which defeated France yesterday.
Elton Belyea finished third in his heat and was eliminated in the heat which Schneider, of Switzerland, won in 7.15 3-5. Worbel, of France, was second. Belyea, who has been suffering from neuritis, apparently was far below his customary form.

Garrett Gilmore, the U.S. National champion, defeated Jack Beresford, of Great Britain, who captured the Diamond Sculls this year.
The Philadelphia oarsman, trailed his British rival by a quarter to a half length over the first half of the course, but overhauled Beresford soon afterward, quickly had open water between the two shells and won by two lengths.
Gilmore's victory to-day automatically placed him in the finals which will be held in all of the rowing events on Thursday, while Beresford, in order to get another crack at Gilmore, must compete in the eliminations for second place to-day, when the winner will qualify for the final. Gilmore's time was 7 minutes 3 1-5 sec.

Bull, of Australia, won his heat in 7.19, with Pietersen, Holland, second.
Kelly and Costello, Philadelphia, raced to a easy victory in the Olympic trials in the double event this afternoon, defeating the French pair by five lengths and Hungary's by nine lengths and will row in the finals Thursday.
The Yale crew won the second heat in the eight-oared race to-day defeating Canada and Holland.

Hotels Organize Dry Force.
Los Angeles, July 18. (A.P.)—Hotels and restaurants of Los Angeles have organized their own prohibition law enforcement bureau. Charles F. Galling, former agent in charge of federal prohibition enforcement for Southern California, has been retained by a group of the leading hotels and cafes of the city and nearby points to direct the work. The plan, endorsed by State Prohibition Director S. F. Butler, is to prevent employees of hotels and cafes from bootlegging.

Reduced Fares for Immigrants' Families

MONTREAL, Que., July 10.—(Canadian Press)—A scheme whereby wives and children of British immigrants resident in Canadian cities will be brought to the Dominion at reduced cost has been evolved by the British Dominion Emigration Society. It was announced by Robert Culver, secretary of the society. The scheme does not include dependents of immigrants who have settled on the land, as these are covered by the Empire Settlement Act. Only married men resident in cities will be eligible to make application to the Society for their wives and children to be brought out.

On such application being received, an agent of the Society will satisfy himself as to the ability of the husband to support his family if brought to Canada and as to the likelihood of both husband and wife becoming good Canadian citizens. The Society will pay the cost of transporting the family to Canada and will care for them from the moment of starting until their arrival at their destination, if satisfied on these points. It is not a free passage scheme, however, as the society will collect at least a portion of the passage money from the husband, on terms suitable to the latter.
The first party of wives and children to be brought out under this scheme will sail from Liverpool on August 22. They will number about 150.

Financing Methodist Enterprises
TORONTO, July 10.—(Canadian Press)—Canadian Methodists have been asked to finance their denominational enterprises in the coming year, including widespread missionary and reform activities, with an amount totalling slightly under five dollars per member.
In a statement just issued from the office of the General Superintendent, Rev. S. D. Chown, D.D., L.L.D., numerous plans for co-ordinating activities and conserving funds are announced. The total asked for all non-local purposes is $1,943,250.

Dr. Chown assures the Church that the General Board of Missions and the Woman's Missionary Society have reached "happy mutual understanding," that the prohibition campaigners are being vigorously prosecuted and that economy is the watchword of all departments. He strongly urges giving as a means to spiritual grace and financial soundness, in Methodism.

1,000 Pounds Compensation That Was Not Due.

In an action in the City of London Court by a dock laborer, it was stated that he had been paid 15s. a week compensation since 1904 by Messrs. William Cory and Son.
Recently he demanded an increase of 10s. a week, and when the matter was gone into it was found that he was passed as fit for work six weeks after the accident, which occurred on January 1, 1904. Therefore he was not entitled to the compensation paid, which amounted to nearly £1,000.
After Judge Shewell Cooper had made an order stopping further payments it was stated that but for the demand the firm would probably have gone on paying the compensation for another 20 years, as the payment had become an automatic one.

Russian Settlers in Canada

Winnipeg, Man., July 10.—Returning from settling a group of Russian White Army refugees on land west of Wetsaskwin, M. E. Thornton, superintendent of colonization for the Canadian Pacific railway, said he held high hopes for the success of the venture. The group numbered 115 and were the first so far brought over from Russia. Mr. Thornton said they were of a good type physically and mentally. Some had been wealthy farmers and business men under the Czarist regime, but had lost their possessions with the advent of the present government and had been compelled to seek safety in southern Manchuria.
Mr. Thornton intimated as a mark of their loyalty the fact that they hoisted a Union Jack over the tent he had provided for their reception, while a Russian Orthodox priest, who is one of the party, offered a prayer for the safety of King George.

"Midnight" Sugar Beet Industry in Canada

Winnipeg, Man., July 10.—Construction work on Manitoba's first beet sugar factory will be commenced in the fall, according to recent announcement made by officials interested in the project. Assurance of between 400 to 500 acres from one shipping point alone already has been received by the promoters who express confidence that the whole of the desired acreage will be fully contracted in a month's time.
The objective of the men who are actively engaged in this undertaking is from 6,000 to 8,000 acres sown to sugar beets in the Red River Valley next spring.

The proposed plant will have a capacity of producing more than 18,000 tons of beet sugar. In addition agriculturalist will tour the districts, where farmers are producing sugar beets, giving advice as to obtaining best results.
A conservative estimate of yield to be expected per acre from sugar beets sown in the Red River valley, is placed by an expert at from 10 to 15 tons. The company, which is being formed to handle this product, intends guaranteeing to the farmer a minimum price for each ton grown and a share in the profits as a bonus.
H. C. Miller, of Denver, Col., one of the leading consulting engineers of the United States, has made a careful survey of the Red River valley lands, which he declares to be ideal for the production of heavy crops of sugar beets. Mr. Miller says the conditions regarding weather and water of the district also are wonderful for producing beets and forecasts that this plant is only one of the many which will be raised to advantage in Manitoba and parts of the other prairie provinces.

From Milk Waggon To Race Track.

Regina, Sask.—A year ago plugging to supply locomotion to a Regina Beach milk waggon: to-day one of Saskatchewan's unbeaten race horses.
That, in brief, is the astounding record of Tony Silvester, the seven-year-old speeder from the Vassar and Taylor stables here, who has already hung up a brilliant record on western tracks.
Last summer, the homely Tony spent dragging the morning milk to families that had moved to the beach to escape the oppressive heat. Though he came of a racing sire, Silvester J., neither his appearance nor his gait had given any indication that he might be a money winner on the track.
This spring, however, he was given his chance and trained for six weeks. The first hopeful sign was when he waxed temperamental on a sure indication of a star, either on the track, stage or baseball diamond. His debut did not start very auspiciously, for he trailed badly behind in the first two heats of the event in which he was entered. His racing blood, however, began to lead and Tony romped home in the lead for the three final heats. He duplicated his success in his next performance and since then has continued his winning ways.
It is said that Tony is taking on all the airs of a real champion, and actually tilts his equine nose whenever a milk wagon presumes to cross his path.

Medical Gold Mines.

A Doctor on the "Plums" of the Profession.
Medical incomes range between the princely earnings of such great specialists as the late Sir Frederick Treves and the two hundred a year of many hard-worked assistants.
The first are possible only to the few whose exceptional skill, added to twenty or thirty years of largely unremunerated toil, has raised them to eminence. But of the incomes of general practitioners the British Medical Association itself confesses its inability to arrive at an accurate estimate. Only the Income Tax Commissioners know.
It would astonish many to know how heavy are the inroads made on a doctor's gross takings by overhead expenses. From thirty-three to forty-five per cent is the association's estimate and it is not an exaggerated one.
Drugs and dressings, the upkeep of a motor-car, the wages of a dispenser, are all necessities that must be paid for. Had doctors as only too numerous, for doctors are a class loath to sue for their fees.
Perhaps the most satisfactory type of practice, financially, is one in the South Wales colliery districts, where the uninsured dependents of the miners are looked after at contract rates. This amount, usually threepence in the pound, is deducted weekly from the men's wages and handed over to the doctor. By this method prompt and certain payment is assured.
I knew a doctor who was connected with such a colliery employing only 600 men, and his gross income was over £2,000 per annum.
Multiple practices, where several assistants are employed, may, of course, earn much larger sums than that, but there is the additional drain of salaries and extra cars to be taken into account.

Fifty-Third Session Proceedings Provincial G. O. Lodge, Nfld.

CATALINA WAS SCENE OF EXTRAORDINARY BRILLIANT GATHERING OF MEMBERS OF THE ASSOCIATION IN ANNUAL MEETING ASSEMBLED FOR TRANSACTION OF BUSINESS.

A large number of delegates attended the fifty-third annual session of the Provincial Grand Lodge of Newfoundland which opened in Morning Star L.O.L. No. 2, Catalina, July 12th.

The Address of Welcome presented by the Recording Secretary of above lodge to the Grand Lodge delegation was sufficient evidence of the friendly, earnestness and sincerity existing at Catalina.

The brethren of "Morning Star" Lodge are to be congratulated on their splendid hall and the manner in which it was so appropriately decorated for the occasion.

A number of telegrams were received from Primary Lodges and sister societies throughout the country extending "Fraternal Greetings."

On Sunday, the 13th inst., the Grand Lodge officers together with the delegates and visiting brethren attended Divine Service at the Methodist Church at the invitation of Morning Star Lodge. Rev. H. Coppin occupied the pulpit, and preached a forceful and stirring sermon, basing his remarks on the Book of Micah, sixth chapter and sixth verse.

The Monday morning session opened with the address of the Right Worshipful Grand Master, Hon. F. Gordon Bradley, L.L.B., M.H.A., in which he reviewed the splendid achievements of the Association for the past year, after which the reports of the other officers covering the work of their respective departments were tabled.

The Association is to be congratulated on the splendid progress made during the year, each department showing a very substantial increase. Several matters of vital importance to the Association, and country in general, were dealt with during the sessions.

The matter of a larger circulation of the official paper of the Association both in Canada and Newfoundland was taken up, and received the hearty approval of the Grand Lodge delegation, and it was earnestly desired that the Primary Lodges take a greater interest in the "Sentinel" and thereby get the benefit of the many important matters contained therein from time to time.

Loyalty and Good Will. Resolutions dealing with the observance of the Lord's Day were very carefully considered at the sessions. Early in the convention the Grand Secretary moved the following resolution of Loyalty and Good-will:

WHEREAS this P.G. Loyal Orange Lodge of Newfoundland now in annual session at Catalina and representing as it does approximately 18,000 citizens;

BE IT RESOLVED that this Grand Lodge respectfully desires Sir William Lamond Allardice, Governor and Commander-in-Chief in and over the Colony of Newfoundland, to convey to his Majesty the King expressions of Loyalty and Good-will to King George the Fifth, the Royal family and to the British institutions in the Mother Country and the Dominions beyond the seas.

Resolution of Sympathy. The P.G. Lodge deeply regretted the passing of their late Bro. Past P. G.M. Hon. Donald Morrison, and the following resolution was tendered his widow:

WHEREAS this P. G. Lodge has experienced a great loss from its ranks and membership through the death of our late and lamented Bro. Past Grand Master, Hon. Donald Morrison;

BE IT RESOLVED that this P. G. Lodge tender its profound and deepest sympathy to the deceased brother's widow, Mrs. Morrison, assuring her of the high place which he held in our esteem and the great loss that the Order has sustained through his death.

Grand Lodge Officers. The business of the session being concluded, officers were nominated which resulted in the following selections being made for the ensuing year.

Grand Master—Hon. F. G. Bradley, L.L.B., M.H.A., St. John's. Deputy G. Master—R. J. Smith, Cupid.

Wedding Bells

A pretty wedding was solemnized at the R. C. Cathedral on the 19th inst., the contracting parties being Miss Genevieve Connolly, daughter of Wm. and Theresa Connolly, formerly of Trinity, and Ernest Brake, of Marytown, P.B., but now residing in New York. The bride wore a travelling costume of fawn with hat to match and white ermine fur; she carried a bouquet of sweet peas and maiden hair fern. Her sister, Mrs. S. Sinoott acted as maid of honor and wore a costume of navy blue with gray hat, and also carried a bouquet of pink sweet peas. Mr. Arthur Connolly, brother of the bride, acted as best man. After the nuptial mass which was performed by Rev. Dr. Carter, the bridal party motored to the Stirling restaurant where breakfast was served, after which the happy couple proceeded to the Red Cross pier joining the Rosalind for their future home at Staten Island, N.Y. The groom's present to the bride was a cheque, to the bridesmaid a gold wrist watch, and to the best man a set of gold cut links. The Telegram wishes Mr. and Mrs. Brake many years of happiness.

Respect Shown. Dear Sir—Since the publication of Chairman Rendell's letter, with regard to showing respect when passing the War Memorial—that citizens, young and old, male and female are gradually falling in line with Mr. Rendell's wishes and very soon will have the desired effect, as the following information will prove interesting to many of your readers. The writer, while standing on Water St. in a position commanding a front view of the Memorial, kept tab on the number of persons who passed directly in front of it, going east and west, out of 218 persons who passed from 9 to 11 o'clock yesterday morning, 132 showed respect as follows:—60 men saluted their hats, 31 men saluted, 10 boys saluted, 10 boys saluted, 12 girls saluted. Thanking you for space Mr. Editor, and that this will serve as a gentle reminder to those when passing the Memorial, to show respect due to those in whose honor it was erected.

Justified Change of Date. This first summer session of the P. G. Lodge fully justified the change, weather conditions being ideal throughout the entire convention. The delegates thoroughly enjoyed every hour of their stay at Catalina and appreciated the many courtesies extended by the community.

Entertained by Ladies. On the evening of July 18th the ladies of St. Peter's Anglican church extended a social function in the Parish Hall.

The various sports and pastimes were enjoyed by all. Tea and refreshments were served which reflected great credit to those ladies in charge.

Special Service Squadron WILL VISIT ST. JOHN'S DURING THIRD WEEK OF SEPTEMBER. (Sydney Record, July 16.) In a letter to His Worship Mayor McConnell sent an invitation to Sir Frederick, urging him to visit Sydney, and the letter from the Vice-Admiral, written in San Francisco, on July 7th, and expressing regret that the squadron will not be able to come to this port, follows:

"I have the honor to acknowledge your letter of 17th June, in which you extend, on behalf of the citizens of Sydney, New South Wales, a most cordial invitation to visit Sydney. I can assure you that I appreciate very warmly both the invitation and the manner in which it was expressed.

"We also remember with gratitude that magnificent response made by the whole community at Sydney when the Empire was in danger and it would have given us the greatest possible pleasure to have visited your beautiful harbor, and to have met the people whose cordial invitation you have conveyed.

"The definite programme for the remainder of the cruise has already been decided by the Admiralty after most careful consideration. It has been decided that, after leaving Quebec, the squadron is to proceed to Newfoundland, where it will remain till 21st September before returning to England.

"The main reason for this decision are to give the people of Newfoundland an opportunity of seeing the ships, and in the interests of efficiency, to enable the squadron to carry out important drills and exercises which have had to be neglected during the cruise.

"I am sure that you and the citizens of Sydney will appreciate the reasons for this decision.

"It is a great disappointment to me that time will not admit of our visiting both places."

The First Atlantic Cable. William Thomson, the future Lord Kelvin, was born in Belfast on June 26th, 1824, and came of a distinguished family of Scottish descent. Three members of the family actually became professors at the same University—Glasgow. From 1832 to 1849 James Thomson, his father, was Mathematical Professor; his elder brother became Professor of Engineering; while Lord Kelvin himself rose to occupy the Professorship of Natural Philosophy.

At the age of ten years William Thomson matriculated at Glasgow University, and when only fifteen wrote a notable essay on the figure of the earth—an essay which stamped him, even at that early age, as a genius. Much of his most notable work was in connection with theory, but when he was only thirty years of age he published a solution of the problem of the transmission of telegraphic signals along a cable, and this led to his being sent on the British battleship Agamemnon in 1857 to supervise the work of laying the new Atlantic cable. The first attempt was a failure, but in the following year the work was completed.

Making Sea Trips Safer. This capable broke, but not before its worth had been proved. One of the most important messages which had been despatched through it was the cancelling of the order for two regiments of British soldiers to leave Canada to quell the Indian Mutiny. This was stated to have saved the country between forty and fifty thousand pounds, and demonstrated in a most practical manner the value of the cable. Two cables were completed a year or two later, and for his work in connection with the whole enterprise Thomson was knighted.

The holiday-maker who travels by boat owes much, though he may not know it, to the great scientist, for Lord Kelvin's researches and inventions in connection with ships have done a great deal to make for safety and comfort at sea.

to take a sounding meant the stopping of the ship; but his discovery led to the abolition of such delays, and no matter at what speed a ship was travelling it was possible to obtain the correct figures. He also perfected a method of determining the latitude and longitude of a vessel at sea.

A Pioneer of Wireless. His marine discoveries did not end even here, for he invented a tide-predicting machine by means of which tides at various ports could be predicted some time in advance.

His electrical researches have proved of incalculable service to the world especially in regard to lighting; while it was his mathematical formulae regarding oscillation which put over physicists on the track of radio-telegraphy.

A Genius Aged Fifteen!

LORD KELVIN'S WONDERFUL LIFE-WORK.

The extent to which the world is indebted to Lord Kelvin, the great scientist and inventor, the centenary of whose birth was celebrated recently, will probably never be fully realized.

If it had not been for him the telegraph cable might still have been a dream of the future; the electric-light industry, which is under an immense obligation to the great man, might still have been battling against many handicaps; while the world is indebted to him also as a pioneer in wireless telegraphy. In almost every direction in which we turn we can find something on which Lord Kelvin left the impress of his genius—transmitting cable, electric light, ships, wireless, and so on—and his reputation as one of the greatest scientists of the century was well earned.

The First Atlantic Cable. William Thomson, the future Lord Kelvin, was born in Belfast on June 26th, 1824, and came of a distinguished family of Scottish descent. Three members of the family actually became professors at the same University—Glasgow. From 1832 to 1849 James Thomson, his father, was Mathematical Professor; his elder brother became Professor of Engineering; while Lord Kelvin himself rose to occupy the Professorship of Natural Philosophy.

At the age of ten years William Thomson matriculated at Glasgow University, and when only fifteen wrote a notable essay on the figure of the earth—an essay which stamped him, even at that early age, as a genius. Much of his most notable work was in connection with theory, but when he was only thirty years of age he published a solution of the problem of the transmission of telegraphic signals along a cable, and this led to his being sent on the British battleship Agamemnon in 1857 to supervise the work of laying the new Atlantic cable. The first attempt was a failure, but in the following year the work was completed.

Making Sea Trips Safer. This capable broke, but not before its worth had been proved. One of the most important messages which had been despatched through it was the cancelling of the order for two regiments of British soldiers to leave Canada to quell the Indian Mutiny. This was stated to have saved the country between forty and fifty thousand pounds, and demonstrated in a most practical manner the value of the cable. Two cables were completed a year or two later, and for his work in connection with the whole enterprise Thomson was knighted.

The holiday-maker who travels by boat owes much, though he may not know it, to the great scientist, for Lord Kelvin's researches and inventions in connection with ships have done a great deal to make for safety and comfort at sea.

One of the most notable inventions in this connection was his ship's compass—an epoch-making machine—followed by the navigational sounding-machine. Before Lord Kelvin's time, to take a sounding meant the stopping of the ship; but his discovery led to the abolition of such delays, and no matter at what speed a ship was travelling it was possible to obtain the correct figures. He also perfected a method of determining the latitude and longitude of a vessel at sea.

A Pioneer of Wireless. His marine discoveries did not end

even here, for he invented a tide-predicting machine by means of which tides at various ports could be predicted some time in advance.

His electrical researches have proved of incalculable service to the world especially in regard to lighting; while it was his mathematical formulae regarding oscillation which put over physicists on the track of radio-telegraphy.

Queen of England

Treasures Her Hundreds of Presents

London, July 2. (A.P.)—What happens to all the mementoes and souvenirs that are presented to the queen, is a question often asked but seldom answered. The Weekly Dispatch claims to have ascertained from "some one in a responsible position" however, that these presents are not put away in a store cupboard.

This source of information added: "The queen is very proud of her collection of souvenirs, and she treasures every one of them. I do not think there is another woman in the world who takes such a keen delight in preserving her mementoes of happy and interesting occasions."

The Wembley Exhibition has swelled the queen's collection considerably, and recent additions include damask linen, cutlery, "Felix" the cat, cards, lace fans and musical instruments. The queen makes practical use of her gifts whenever possible. The damask linen presented by the Ulster Linen Trade is in constant use at Buckingham Palace.

Gas From Straw

Farmers are expecting great things from straw gas, a reform for the making of which has been devised by the American Bureau of Chemistry.

One ton of sun-dried wheat straw yields 10,000 cubic feet of gas, ten gallons of tar, and 625 lb. of carbon residue which forms an excellent fuel, and it is estimated that 300,000 cubic feet of straw gas will do all the lighting, cooking, and heating of the (average) farmhouse for a year.

Cars have been driven by the gas carried in a rubber bag, just as cars during the war by coal gas.

One car carrying 800 cubic feet of straw gas ran 15 miles with no other fuel, and the Bureau believes there are great possibilities in straw gas as a motor fuel.
