Last Year's Frocks Made New.

Some very practical advice is given by Vogue to the girl who must manage economically in order to dress well. 'The fashion press says: "The attractive fashion of the tucked net or chiffon sleeve has made possible the remodeling of last year's frocks that otherwise could not have been attempted and in many cases the half-sleeved and so lengthened to have pretty and more becoming than when the waist was new. To make these sleeves in tucks three times the length from shoulder to wrist must be allowed, unless the needle-woman is an adept at pleating, and then she must choose a stock net for this part, the joining under, for the width of chiffon or net is so great that three pairs of sleeves of medium size (for 30 inches) must be cut from a single yard of material, and the tucks all the same size. A pretty new way of tucking, much used in the imported models, is to graduate the widths, the widest tuck at sleeve top, the narrowest at wrist. When the tucked piece is put in from the half-sleeve, the tucks are all of the same width.

It is also comparatively easy to convert a last year's skirt into a directoire effect, especially if the skirt was voluminous; the only requisite is for the material to make the deep hem, that will allow the skirt to be pulled up to a high waist line, and the good pattern required for this part. The plaited skirts many gored were used against the four or five a directoire skirt needs, so by a little ingenuity in the trimming of the seams in the hem put on to lengthen, the remaining breadths can be cut up to the best advantage for this part. The plaited breadths can be cut up to the best advantage for this part. The plaited breadths can be cut up to the best advantage for this part.

One or two clever young women have given the question of last year's coats a solution for this year, by attaching the skirt to the coat (cutting it over into tails) and getting a frock of some soft material, a light-appearing dress with whatever pieces could be conjured from the leftover part of the skirt. The making of many of the directoire coats with panel tails from below a slightly high-waisted Eton or bolero upper part renders this a very easy and with a slight change in the trimming, such as braiding in the neck, tucks, seams and using soutache disc buttons, in place of the metal, the altered coat will hardly be recognized, and the accompanying gown will be made quite elaborately from the ordinary.

In choosing a model for the frock, one of the princess order, not too tightly fitted, is safest, for an extreme of any kind, especially one that the wearer will be confident of remaining "in style" for some time to come. To return to the skirt, the directoire is a great saving of time results from having the net or chiffon alid plaited with a space between each plait. This made up, a slight difference in cutting (or of net) will have the appearance of tucking, and is not apt to pull out of shape. The same holds true if the skirt is made of a material that is not tucked into place. A row of tiny buttons, covered with the material or satin, down the outside of the skirt, are very ornamental as well. Many of the yokes, and also the wrist and sleeve edges, are made of a soft material, and are a slight frill of lace in either part, even if it appears as a row of tiny buttons, or by boring a row of small holes in the material, and rowing some of these holes in the same way as in the material, and are a slight frill of lace in either part, even if it appears as a row of tiny buttons, or by boring a row of small holes in the material, and rowing some of these holes in the same way as in the material.

Little touches of handwork, so easy for a clever-fingered girl to do, add a great deal to the attractiveness of the garment, and give it a personal touch. A row of tiny buttons, covered with the material or satin, down the outside of the skirt, are very ornamental as well. Many of the yokes, and also the wrist and sleeve edges, are made of a soft material, and are a slight frill of lace in either part, even if it appears as a row of tiny buttons, or by boring a row of small holes in the material, and rowing some of these holes in the same way as in the material.

Several candidates during last year's campaign spoke favorably of the cause, but whether they are willing to ventilate their views in the frigid atmosphere of the legislature or the common is another matter. A meeting will be held this week at which the matter will be considered, and the candidates will be invited to time understood to be under consideration by the executive of the suffrage association.

An advanced organization representing the sex militant, known as the Women's Political Club, and presided over by Miss Helen Cunningham, will not confine itself to the mild methods regarded as constitutional, but will adopt any means by which the tyrant man can be reduced to equality or even subordination. The petition to be presented in Queen's Park reads: To the honorable the legislative assembly of the Province of Ontario in Parliament assembled: That whereas the undersigned of the Canadian Suffrage Association humbly sheweth: That whereas all just government derives its power from the consent of the governed; And whereas woman is subject to all the laws of the land, being punished for crime, paying taxes on property, and taking her part in the commercial and economic social structure; Therefore we petition that woman should have the full franchise extended to her on the same basis as that of man. Wherefore your petitioners humbly pray that your honorable house may be pleased to pass an act fully enfranchising all women, whether married, widowed, or separated, and that the terms of such act be as in duty bound your petitioners will ever pray.

More Suicides Last Year Than Ever Before. CHICAGO, Jan. 10.—According to Prof. W. D. McClinton of the University of Chicago there were more suicides in Japan last year than in any twelve months in the nation's history. The professor attributes the increase in self-destruction among the mikado's subjects to hard times, the pessimistic spirit of the people and the breaking down of the old religion among the upper and lower classes. "The cost of living in Japan," said Prof. McClinton in a talk before the George Howland Club, "is very high and the people are complaining of the huge war debt Japan, like many other countries, is face to face with the labor problem."

The game was a hard one, and the visitors did not have the speed they had the staying power and gave the Ottawa a stiff battle. There was a crowd of about 4000 people in attendance and everyone expected the visitors to make the Ottawa go the limit to win. Quebec gave a better combination than in their previous games, and the Ottawa made good chances to score. Taylor and Lake were the stars of the Ottawa team, and they were responsible for the greater part of the scoring.

Faddy Moran, in the flags for Quebec, made some sensational stops, as did also LeSueur.

The score at half time was 4 to 2, in favor of the Ottawa, who up to this period were the aggressors, doing nearly all the attacking. They kept Moran, LeSueur and Joe Power decidedly busy on the defence.

The Quebec forward line did not get back to help out their defence after and made the Ottawa many good chances to shoot on goal. The visitors did not appear to be in the best of condition.

Things looked decidedly interesting when, after about two minutes of the second half, Chazy rushed down the ice and scored for Quebec, which left the Ottawa leading only by a single goal.

Jordan was hurt and had to retire for a few minutes, but returned after five minutes, when the Ottawa added two in quick succession.

The play resumed, with the score 6 to 3, the Quebec boys made a determined attack and scored 4 in 15 seconds. Scotty Taylor, who had been pulled forward ahead when Taylor rushed down the ice and scored, and passed to Lake, who scored. Ottawa 7, Quebec 4.

Both teams were playing very clean hockey.

Some Play.

Jordan gave Quebec a ruffin tally and the visitors attacked in fine style and LeSueur was called upon to make some great stops to save. The crowd were now keenly excited. Day sent in a long shot, which fooled Jordan and gave Ottawa their eighth tally.

Play in the last few minutes was the finest of the match. Bruce Stuart, who had made 3 to 5 for Ottawa, trying a long shot from the side, which hit Moran's stick and rolled in.

Walsh added another about one minute later and in 15 seconds after the game was over for the home team. Day then made it 12 to 0 on a pass from Taylor.

There was a regular procession now and Quebec were really outclassed.

Stuart scored a thirteenth tally for Ottawa, and the members of the Ottawa team were the best professionals in the game.

Referee, Desse Brown; judge of play, Howard of Montreal.

A WORLD'S RECORD MADE BY THE EEL

Travels Dufferin Track in 2.14 1/2, or 1-2 Second Below the Record—The Results.

The inaugural ice meeting of the York Racing and Driving Club was concluded Saturday afternoon at Dufferin track, the feature being the world's record over a half-mile track, hung up by the Greyhound, commonly called The Eel. Dan McEwen warmed up The Eel several times before the first trial, reduced the record, which was 2:15, made by Creesus, at Ottawa, and Miss Syracuse at Plattsville, last year, to 2:14, and then he was not extended to the limit. Even when the work was held in his hand, allowed The Eel to slow down near the wire.

The last heat of the local race was finished in the stand, and when the world's record was made, the judges called off the race. The judges declared all bets off on this horse, and afterwards changed it to the race. Results:

HANDS OFF THE INTERCOLONIAL

The men of a lot of the men and some of the papers of the maritime provinces, who have already exploited the Intercolonial, perhaps also some perfectly honest citizens down that way, have joined in a campaign to turn over the Intercolonial Railway to either the Canadian Northern or the Canadian Pacific. Where the real inspiration comes from the public can guess. And the argument given is (1) That the country is losing money on the road and will continue to do so; (2) That under private ownership the road will do more for the development of the maritime provinces than it does at present.

We have just two things to say to these exploiters—and they are exploiters for themselves pure and simple: First, the Intercolonial is owned by the people of Canada at large, not by the people of the maritime provinces as such; that they've put their good eighty millions of dollars in it, both because they engaged to build it as a part of the pact of confederation and because they see that it is or can certainly be made a substantial check on the other roads and, in an emergency, of the supreme importance to Canada as a state and as a part of the British Empire.

This country has been pretty well raided up to date, but this is the boldest piece of raiding that has been yet attempted. There are people in Nova Scotia, there are people in New Brunswick, in Quebec, in Ontario, even in Manitoba, who will not stand for it. The new parliament will not stand for it. Mr. Emmerson of New Brunswick is coming to Ottawa to fight the proposal, if it is attempted, and he'll have some pretty influential men from Ontario and Manitoba and the west to help in the fight if a fight has to be made. The government of the day will have to make the proposal and as yet none of the promoters of the proposition have ventured to state that they have received any official encouragement of the raid they propose.

What the Intercolonial wants is to be given something it never has had yet, a fair show; to be taken out of politics, turned over to a high-class railway man to run, or to a commission; to be freed from the burden of carrying unnecessary employees and frills and the purchase of unnecessary supplies; to be run strictly as a business proposition; and the men on the road to be appointed on proper examination and promoted on merit—when this is done, and the people of Canada will insist on this being done, the Intercolonial will pay its way and, what it ought to be, the best asset the country has.

What would the men who are seeking to get it do with it if they got it? Issue fifty millions of bonds on it for their own special benefit the next day. That's where all the boys would come in.

AN HISTORICAL RETROSPECT AND A QUESTION.

Within a few days the new city council will have organized and the temperance people expect them to pass a bylaw giving effect to the plebiscite taken on New Year's Day in favor of license reduction.

The council has a majority admittedly Liberal and one that is claimed to be in favor of passing this bylaw.

But behind the campaign in favor of license reduction were the members of the Ontario Alliance Executive, who, having engineered the organization and work of the Citizens' Reduction Committee now seek credit for the "glorious victory."

Needless to say the make-up of the alliance executive has for years been preponderantly Grit, not to say Liberal, with only a sprinkling on it of "workable" Conservatives and, up to the time when it was forced by circumstances to issue a mild manifesto against the Ross government it has scolded, in spite of facts to the contrary, spread the idea that temperance legislation was only to be looked for from a Liberal administration and made its appeals to friends of the "cause."

So that, with a majority of only 846 in favor of reduction, out of a polled vote of 37,830, the question arises whether the Liberal supporters in the new city council can vote for the bylaw and at the same time be consistent with the past practices and policy of the alliance executive?

1894, carried on a total vote of 288,209, by a majority for prohibition of 81,000; Sir Oliver Mowat admitting the vote to be decisive, stated at first that "no government would be justified in disregarding it" and that it "removed all difficulty about it being demanded by the people." But by February 6th, he hedged, saying he "would appeal to the privy council to ascertain his powers," and at the same time making his "famous pledge." Instead of pressing that the will of the people so decisively expressed should be immediately obeyed and given the force of law, lo! the alliance executive acquiesced, "fell down" and worshipped him, while Sir Oliver, making his pledge a plank in the Liberal platform, used it, with the assistance of the alliance, to ensure his return to office, notwithstanding that Sir Wm. Meredith, the then leader of the opposition, took precisely similar grounds.

Next came the federal plebiscite of September, 1898, carried on a total vote of 18,887. The majority in Ontario was 3214. But when Sir Wilfrid Laurier intimated that he could not give effect to the vote, far from insisting that the will of the people should be obeyed, the alliance executive again "fell down," protesting as usual in order to divert attention from a recalcitrant government, then side-stepping to make its pitiable appeal to the "representatives of the people in the house of commons," and to issue a circular calling upon the friends of prohibition to support "our friends in parliament" in favor of a plan for prohibition by provinces!

But the climax in gymnastics came with the history and aftermath of the Ross referendum. Two years had passed without any endeavor being made to give effect to the will of the people as expressed in the Mowat plebiscite. Somehow it took a long while to prepare the case for the privy council and the alliance executive was satisfied to wait. In May, 1896, however, judgment came and in the following July Sir Oliver "got out" to be succeeded in the premiership by Hon. A. S. Hardy, whose government "could not see that they were empowered to act by the decision."

Notwithstanding the opportunity a general election afforded to make themselves heard and the government sit up and take notice, the alliance executive gave it a "lift" back to office and very kindly kept on waiting for "their friends" to give effect to the will of the people—a long six years of patient and kindly abstention from agitation, during which, as stated by The Liberator, the alliance had become a buffer between the temperance forces and the Liberal government.

Now, however, appeared a new premier, the Hon. G. W. Ross, one of the vice-presidents of the alliance, and on Feb. 13, 1901, its executive waited on him to urge the enactment of legislation similar to that which had already been passed in Manitoba and Prince Edward Island, "having beforehand sent out petition forms to be signed by electors and thereafter presented to the legislature, asking for legislation along the same line. What was the premier's reply? Why, that "inasmuch as the constitution of the Manitoba Act was being considered in the courts, the government deemed it wise for Ontario to delay until the question was definitely settled," when "the government would be prepared to go as far in prohibitory legislation as its ascertained powers would allow," and "legislation should meantime be confined to the improvement of the present law."

An awful drop, wasn't it? Still it would never do to embarrass a Liberal government. Public attention must somehow be diverted from a government again side-stepping its pledge to obey the will of the people. So "the petitions which were already signed were not presented to the legislature," while "it was earnestly hoped, in view of the probability of a provincial election, that a legislature will be returned in practical sympathy with the government's declaration," and the recommendation was made that "to that effect the government be instructed in the different elector ridings."

But horror of horrors! With Nov. 19, 1901, came the decision of the privy council pronouncing the Manitoba Act constitutional, and the situation had again to be faced. A referendum was the device adopted, the loaded referendum accepted by the alliance executive and taken on Dec. 4. Its result showed a majority of 96,000 in favor of the "Liquor Act," on a total vote of 202,790, a proportion short of the sixty per cent. incubus.

What then? Did the alliance executive insist on the expressed will of the people being obeyed? Bless you, no! Ahead of a tottering government were five by-elections, success in which was necessary to its salvation and to keep the government out of the "hole" it had dugged for itself. On the ensuing Dec. 16, at an irregular meeting, the alliance executive receded from the demand of the people at the polls, "threw down" the Liquor Act of 1902, thus enabling the government to plead that temperance people did not want it, and again side-stepped to ask in the terms of the resolution now so familiar to church courts, for something else. This something else The Globe and the organ of the alliance endeavored to interpret as meaning government control, but the Liberal convention held in Marsey Hall, Nov. 30, 1902, interpreted it as meaning such a flag-end as local option. In fact, every time that Ontario, at the polls, has come within sight of temperance or victory, the alliance executive has turned it down for something else and something less, and owing to its political prejudices and partiality, the province has yet to see obeyed the original mandate of the people. Believing as it does in the rule of the people, The World has no use for either cabinet caucus or cabal rule, but with these illustrious examples of "How to thwart the rule of the people," it is difficult to see how, with only 846 Liberal supporters in the new city council can do anything but vote for something else and something less. Say the cutting off of ten licenses, and those in wards five and six, which, thru the work of the Citizens' League, potted the majority—you, Controller Harrison; you, Ald. Bengough, Vaughan, Graham and Adams, who are long used to following the lead of the alliance executive, and you, Mayor Oliver, who the other evening was present at a jollification over local option victories. What do you say to this historical retrospect?

GOING TO CHINA

Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Brownlee were for Foreign Mission Field.

Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Brownlee, the latest of Toronto's young people to join the ranks of missionaries in foreign fields, left for Vancouver on the 10.15 train on Saturday night, where they will embark on the Mountague for Auckland, China.

Mr. Brownlee is a Canadian, having been born in the Ottawa Valley. He is a graduate of McMaster, and won his arts degree there in 1901, and his divinity degree in 1903. He has held two charges since, having been stationed at Walkerton for three and a half years and at Midland for two years.

Mrs. Brownlee, who is also a Canadian, graduated from Moulton Ladies' College in 1903.

Both are appointees of the China inland mission, under whose auspices they are going to China.

They expect to remain at Auking for two or three months, after which they will probably be sent to a permanent station.

The party is composed of Miss Cora Pike of South New Berlin, N. Y., who is returning to China after a year's furlough, having already spent ten years there; Mr. and Mrs. Brownlee and boy, and Dr. Roberts, a dentist of Midland, and an old friend of Mr. Brownlee who will accompany them as far as Edmonton.

A number of old school friends and Mr. Brownlee's mother and father, were down to see them away.

THE CURLERS FOR SCOTLAND.

Hearty Send-Off.

The Canadian team of curlers going to Scotland had a hearty send-off from Windsor Station, Montreal, as anyone could wish.

A very striking feature of the team will be the uniforms in which all the players will be attired. Their costume—the result of no small amount of thought—consists of very smart black and grey Norfolk suits, made to order for each individual member of the team. Canadians are assured that their team will present an imposing and fine appearance to their Scottish confederates—quite in keeping with the dignity of the ancient game. It is pleasing to note that the costumes were designed and tailored by the well-known firm of more than local celebrity, viz., Fashion Craft, Ltd. The work they have been turning out for the last few years eminently justified such a choice.

The curlers will not only be able to show the "Old Country" folk a thing or two about curling, but the smartness, good fit, and perfect taste of their costumes should excite something more than envy.

"God speed" the team to victory, and such a firm of high-class tailors to success.

Sunday Free Breakfast.

The number of hungry men is still on the increase, judging from the large number who enjoyed the free breakfast provided for them yesterday morning at the Yonge-street mission. There were 276 men present, and everyone went away satisfied. Bright singing by the choir was followed by an address from Rev. John McNicol of the Toronto Bible Training School. An appeal is here made to the people of Toronto for men, women and children's clothing. There is a special demand for boots, shoes and underclothing. A postcard to the superintendent, Mr. J. C. Davis, or a phone message, Main 3546, will receive prompt attention.

UNIVERSITY SERMON

Faith was the subject of a sermon in convocation hall yesterday morning, when Rev. Dr. Douglas Mackenzie, principal of the Theological College, Harvard, Conn., preached the university sermon.

The text was from the 11th and 12th chapters of the epistle to the Hebrews, the opening verses of the chapter, "The Hebrews to whom it was addressed were reluctant to turn from their dignified ceremonial to an entirely new order of things, and, wholly internal and impalpable in its nature."

The law which instructed them how to act in every predicament they had to exchange dependence upon the principles of Jesus and the Spirit of God and trust their moral career to this guidance.

It was an exchange of the outward and imposing for the inward and dim, the definite and controlling for the indefinite, and that which, eluding the purposes of law, cast them back on principles.

In the modern world people have come to feel in the same way about the life of faith. Men dealing with concrete affairs of the world seem to think that faith requires them to deal with uncertainties. What is faith? They ask, when it is set over in command with the world, with its inevitableness and definiteness.

Another view of faith regards it as a very poor sort of knowledge, contrasted with the clear statements of science, and to those absorbed in intellectual pursuits.

The definition of faith as "the assurance of things hoped for, the proving of things not seen," has, on the surface of it, no reference to religion. In this lies its pit and strength, and its modern significance. Men who are dealing with the future in any relation are living by faith. One of the essential characteristics of human experience is that it lives on the future and the invisible, always picturing what is to be, planning for it, living for it.

Who, that dreamed of a social system, or who set himself to realize an ideal, or who brought the wealth and power of the state, and who, in the end, dropped into the unbottomed depths did not live by faith?

Illustrations of faith from the past of the Hebrews brought them into the realm of religion. What difference was there between Abraham and all the other nomad chieftains? It was his faith in the future, and directing all his present by it.

The boy, aware of the kindness between him and those in bondage to the Egyptians, enjoying the wealth and power of the station in which he had been raised, in making his choice to unite himself with his people in bondage, must have come to see the pressure of another will. So Moses, when he made his exchange, must have lived by faith.

The substance of the history of the Hebrews, the reason of their presence in the world, the undying and commendable fact about them was their faith.

Commenting on the cost of faith, the vast majority of those who are

Where a mind arose in history that conceived the utmost possible that could be done for humanity, and when the utmost possible that could be paid for doing it was paid, then faith had reached its perfection.

MASSEY-HARRIS COMPANY WILL INCREASE CAPITAL

Addition of $2,000,000 for Development of Business is Announced.

An increase in the capitalization of the Massey-Harris Co., Ltd., of $2,000,000 will be made about Feb. 1, making the capitalization of this great farm implement manufacturing concern $10,000,000.

The public will not be interested, as there will be no issue of stock to the public," said Hon. J. H. McMillan, president and general manager, to The World. "The Massey-Harris Co. is, as you know, a close corporation. But the natural growth of the company's business has reached a point where we require the additional capital. We have asked for an addition to our charter that will enable us to get it. This has been contemplated for the past year or so."

"Yes, we have a full staff of men busy not only in the Toronto works, but at Brantford and Woodstock. The business outlook is very satisfactory to us."

Chester D. Massey is honorary president of the company; J. Kerr Osborne vice-president; Thomas Findlay assistant general manager; J. H. McMillan secretary, and J. N. Shenstone treasurer. It is understood that the annual dividend to those holding the stock is in the neighborhood of 25 per cent.

Water Thorogood Arrested on Complaint of Father-in-Law. Upon complaint of Wm. Flaville of Owen Sound, Detectives Murray and Moffat yesterday arrested Walter Thorogood, 30 years, of 35 Belmont-street, charged with bigamy. He will be taken to Owen Sound today.

Mr. Flaville is the father of wife number two, a girl of 19 years. Thorogood came to Toronto from Owen Sound about a week ago and was with wife number one at the corner of Bathurst and Arthur-street when arrested.

Over a year ago he left this city when his wife swore out a warrant for non-support against him. Since then she has been supporting her 10-months child.

Arrested on Theft Charge. Noticing a ring on his hand, answering the description of one that was stolen from Mrs. L. Beckstrom, 146 West Richmond-street, P. C. Miller arrested Arthur H. Snelgrove on Bathurst-street Saturday night. When tackled, Snelgrove put up the lame excuse that he had bought the ring on the street from a stranger.

The prisoner is a bearded man and lives on 225 McEwen-street. He delivered some vegetables at Mrs. Beckstrom's house three weeks ago. She left him in the kitchen for about 10 minutes while she was in the cellar, and after he had gone she missed a gold ring from her dresser, and reported to the police.

Prayers for the King. Prayers were offered in St. James' Square Presbyterian Church yesterday for the complete recovery of His Majesty King Edward.

SUES WEALTHY WOMAN FOR BREACH OF PROMISE

Doctor Asks $150,000 for Disappointment Over Loss of Rich Mrs. Chapman.

CHICAGO, Jan. 10.—A suit for $150,000 damage for breach of promise was begun in the superior court yesterday against Mrs. Jeannette Deere Chapman, sister of Charles Deere, president of the Moline Flour Co. of Moline, Ill. The suit was filed by Dr. Kirke Stanley, a physician in New York.

Efforts to find Mrs. Chapman to-day proved unavailing. Her home in Moline was locked up and her relatives were unable to say what she was doing. She lives in a handsome mansion and the Deere family has been prominent in Moline for years.

Dr. Stanley is said to have taken Mrs. Chapman as a lover in New York. She is a leader in her circle of friends and other cities where she spends part of each year.

According to the plaintiff all the arrangements had been made for the wedding, which was to take place in New York in 1909. Even the marriage license had been obtained. Dr. Stanley and Mrs. Chapman are said to have had a pleasure trip to Chicago, during which they were at the Auditorium Annex. The opposition shown, especially by the daughter, Mrs. Chapman, is said to have been responsible for the marriage being abandoned. The wedding ceremony was to have been performed at the Waldorf-Astoria in New York.

Recognized Leader. Besides possessing more than $2,000,000 in her own name, Mrs. Chapman is one of the few heirs to the Deere estate, said to be worth about $5,000,000. She has long been recognized in the circles of the leaders in American society circles in Paris, where she has passed much time. She has also maintained a handsome country home near Pasadena, Cal.

Dr. Stanley gave up his practice, according to Attorney Henry Roth, the request of Mrs. Chapman, and the trip around the world was planned to follow the marriage. When the announcement of the proposed marriage of Mrs. Chapman, is said to have expressed disapproval. It was principally through the intervention of Mrs. Chapman that the engagement was declared off by Mrs. Chapman.

The trip around the world was abandoned, says the lawyer. The first proceeding was the filing of a bill of complaint in the superior court of Cook county, Ill. The suit was served on Mrs. Chapman in her home in Moline and Dr. Stanley at his home in New York.

Dr. Stanley, who is a prominent figure in the world of a philanthropist. Charles succeeded his father in control of the great enterprise. He is worth about $10,000,000 and is one of the leading Republican politicians of the state.

According to the information contained in the bill filed by Attorney Roth, Mrs. Chapman, who is 53 years old, met Dr. Stanley in New York. He is a prominent figure in the world of a philanthropist and his clients were exclusively among the wealthy people of New York and other cities.

The friendship between the two, it is said, ripened into love, and Dr. Stanley and Mrs. Chapman passed much of their time together. The plaintiff is a widower and has a daughter 16 years old who is attending a private school.

The suit speaks for itself," said Attorney Roth. "The papers were filed several weeks ago and we made every effort to have the matter settled in some manner, however, it became public. I have not talked to Mrs. Chapman about this case, but she tells me that each was very fond of the other and that a daughter of Mrs. Chapman was responsible for the marriage not taking place."

FOR QUAKE SUFFERERS

Umberto Primo Society Makes Grant of Two Hundred Dollars. At a meeting of the Umberto Primo Italian Benevolent Society it was decided to send $200 to the relief of the sufferers by the earthquake in Italy. This action was taken on the recommendation of the executive.

The recommendation was also adopted that the society take part in the benefit concert at the Prince of Wales Theatre on Thursday afternoon next. All the members are requested to meet at the armories at 10 o'clock.

A letter of condolence will be sent to the family of the late Mrs. Giolonna. An address was delivered at the meeting by Lieut. Simone A. Simoni of the 52nd Regiment Infantry of Perugia.

Before the session closed votes of thanks were passed to the mayor, city council, Ontario and Dominion Governments for contributions sent to suffering countrymen in Italy, and a message of sympathy was sent to the manager of the Princess Theatre.

The following officers were installed: President, Donato A. G. Giolonna; vice-president, Umberto Corsi; treasurer, Rocco V. MONARCHY IN JEOPARDY

IF KING MANUEL DIES Uncle of Portuguese Ruler Says Nothing Could Induce Him to Assume Crown.

LISBON, Jan. 10.—In order to displace the rumors current here that his recent illness had entailed long trouble, King Manuel, attired in the uniform of a field marshal, yesterday visited the principal streets of the city followed by a brilliant staff.

The King was very pale and he sat on his horse with difficulty. After the royal yacht Amelia. His physicians are insisting that the King make frequent trips to strengthen his constitution.

It is said the Duke of Oporto, the King's uncle and heir apparent to the Portuguese throne, has declared that in the event of Manuel's death nothing could induce him to assume the crown. In a similar manner, the royal family in direct line of succession, the monarchial form of government in Portugal would be seriously jeopardized.

CAUGHT AFTER THREE YEARS

Kenneth MacCrae Sought for Hitting Policeman With Bottle. Detective Dave McKinney arrested MacCrae yesterday morning when he was after for over three years.

On October 6, 1906, at 7 p.m. McKinney was on duty on Elm-street to seize some liquor belonging to Fred Harrington, who was turning a place, all of whom gave their right names except Kenneth MacCrae, who said he was "McGinnis."

MacCrae refused to stand aside and await the arrival of the patrol wagon for the beer, while the others were above the beer, while the others were above the beer, while the others were above the beer.

MacCrae was caught up in an ale bottle and shattered it upon the police-officer's head, inflicting serious injury. The blow rendered the officer unconscious. MacCrae was taken to hospital and was not seen in his mother's home, 221 Sackville-street, and said his name was Jones. He is 28 years old.

WORK, PEACE, PROGRESS MANY GIFTS TO POPE ON HIS ANNIVERSARY

Emperors, Kings and Republics Send Priceless Presents to Pontiff.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 10.—"Work, peace and progress." That is the motto of the new Turkey, according to the message which Hussein Kiam Bey, first Turkish ambassador to the United States and first envoy of a constitutional Ottoman Empire to this country, brings to America.

The new ambassador, who arrived in Washington, will endeavor to convince America that his nation has entered into a new era that will be permanent and make of his land one of the most prosperous on the face of the earth. One of the happiest persons in the world today is in his imperial majesty, Abdul Hamid Khan II.

Surrounded by the ambassador, surrounded by the ambassador, surrounded by the ambassador, surrounded by the ambassador, surrounded by the ambassador.

The gifts of the Holy Sepulchre gave the Pope a number of portable altars, each complete with the proper vessels. A unique gift was that of the Knights of the Holy Sepulchre, which was brought to Rome by the aged Cardinal Litta.

BEATEN AND BURNED.

Woman's Death Leads to Arrest of Her Two Daughters. ASBURY PARK, N.J., Jan. 10.—Four arrests were made to-day in connection with the death of Mrs. Sarah Custerlin, the wife of a prominent citizen, who died at her home at Neptune City to-day.

The burns were not sufficient to have caused a speedy death, it was said to have shown that the dead woman's two daughters, Rose V. Layton, 25 years old, and Marie Custerlin, 27 years old, were present at the time of the fire.

THRICE BURNED OUT

Firebug Busy at Dunkirk, N. Y.—Four Firemen Injured. DUNKIRK, N.Y., Jan. 10.—Property valued at $100,000 has been destroyed in the last few months by fires of incendiary origin.

The early to-day the large Desmond fish market building was burned to the ground. This makes the third time within a year that the building has been on fire. It is believed that there was evidence that it had been the work of an incendiary.

MUST ENFORCE LAW.

Savannah Authorities to Make Good on Prohibition. ATLANTA, Ga., Jan. 10.—Alarmed by the threat of Gov. Holt's Sanitary prohibition law in Savannah, the authorities of that city have promised to do what they can to check the rebellion which has been in progress in that city since the passage of the state-wide measure.

The promise of the Savannah authorities was made yesterday after a long conference between Gov. Smith and State Attorney Harlan. It is understood Gov. Smith hopes that the Georgia authorities will enforce the law of the state, and that Harlan promised that efforts would be made to prevent the open illegal sale of whisky.

HANDED OUT "HOT DOGS."

Great Day for Hungry Children—Mingling Man's Kindness. Distributing warmers to newsboys and hungry children of the city was the novel way a prominent mining man had of doing a little charitable work yesterday afternoon.

To supply the demand of the crowd of children that had gathered the philanthropist sent about 150 hot dogs, which were distributed by the "hot dogs" man, who was accompanied by a private secretary, at the corner of Richmond and Bay-streets, between 4 and 5 o'clock and again at 7 o'clock.

So great was the crowd of children that had gathered that five policemen were detailed to preserve order. This mining man has been known to do various kinds of charitable work in an unusual way and is admittedly a good fellow.

Water 51 Per Barrel.

YANCOUVER, B.C., Jan. 10.—(Special)—Prince Rupert has been without water for a week on account of the freezing up of pipes in the cold snap, in which the mercury stands about zero. The only available water is from a small creek, which is peddled around town at a dollar per barrel. The freezing of the water mains has resulted in the suspension of railway construction within the town limits.

CHILDREN OF TORONTO PROFANE, SAUCY, TOLE

Rev. W. B. Findlay Speaks Biting Words on Habits of Younger Generation.

That there is a terrible prevalence of profanity in Canada, especially among the younger generation, was stated yesterday by Rev. W. B. Findlay in his sermon at St. Enoch's Presbyterian Church last night.

Rev. Mr. Findlay said that the children of his age, Edinburgh and Oxford men, had told him that he had never before heard such profanity as in towns of the Canadian west.

The speaker said it was impossible to travel by train or steamboat, or to walk the streets without hearing blasphemous expressions. It was common wherever there were groups of men or boys at work, playing games or standing on the street corners.

"You will find children of tender years using the most profane language," asserted Rev. Mr. Findlay. "It appears to have a wonderful hold upon the young men, who appear to think that when they begin to swear they are giving up the old law and showing their freedom to think and do as they please."

He deplored the extent of the increase of perjury. The testimony of lawyers and magistrates was that this crime was tremendously on the increase. To commit perjury was to heap contempt on God's name, and to give a living defiance to the judgment seat.

Profanity was found in all grades of society. It was perhaps of all sins the most useless, gratifying as it did no passion, and was a waste of energy which was prone to treat all things majestic with sneers and contempt. Blasphemy had its increase in reverence against God's name was largely due to faults of early training.

"There is an enormous lack in the day schools in the practical matter of teaching the boys they must not swear," he said. "Every teacher should be against swearing a week, impress this upon the children." Rev. Mr. Findlay contrasted the "filippic" of children of Ontario with those of Quebec, where the children of courtesy foreign to the youths of Ontario.

"If you ask a common civil question of a group of children here you will usually get an answer a million miles removed from civility," he declared.

CIVIC INAUGURAL TO-DAY

Ceremonials at 11 a.m.—Will Introduce Five Entirely New Initiatives. The civic inaugural at 11 a.m. to-day will be the usual pleasant function, in which the mayor, council, judges, and the families and friends of the victors in the municipal contests will grace the occasion.

Not for many years have so many new faces been seen at the inaugural. Of the seven new men, five are entirely new to the city, G. R. Gregory and John Dunn being the only ones returning to seats around the board.

Mayor Oliver's address will be in the main a review of the municipal year of 1908. Also he may announce one or two plans in the 1909 platform, and may hint at steps towards reorganization of city works department.

The only chairmanship vacancy is on the fire and light committee. It looks as if Ald. McArthur will get it. He is a well known figure on the committee and would make a capable chairman. Ald. Foster would like to try it.

Enough notices of motions will be given to keep civic officials working on reports for the next few weeks.

Drunkness a Disease

Sanitarium at Oakville, Ont. edict. Use Shall Give to His Mother as Christmas Presents. LONDON, Jan. 10.—King Edward, who in his earlier days knew not the value of money, is learning to economize. His Majesty's Christmas presents are the trait of thriftiness which he inherited from his revered mother, Queen Victoria. This year the King's presents are much less than those of 49, who made more friends each year, so probably the expense to him in making Christmas presents is larger annually. The King resolved to retrench this Christmas by utilizing the India shawls which are no number, and which they fill two crates in Buckingham Palace. East India shawls and other potentates gave hundreds of these shawls to the late queen, which were as valuable as fine as cowboys. Some of voluminous width can be drawn thru a finger ring. But their colorings are so vivid that no English woman can wear them—in England at least. They were useless to the women to whom Queen Victoria used to give them as bridal or Christmas presents.

To the great relief of the women of the intimate royal circle the very existence of the shawls seemed to have been forgotten for eight years. Try to judge then of the dismay of the King's women friends when the royal squery, who is His Majesty's deputy Santa Claus, distributed at some thirty London residence boxes, each containing one of the India shawls, now more impossible than ever, because antiquated.

Besides, such a gift is far from flattering to recipients of a certain age. Even women of 80 do not wear shawls nowadays—much less those of 40, who have a proper yearning to appear only 30. Heretofore those who received the King's Christmas presents were proud to display them to their friends, but the shawls are either hidden or shown only an apologetic smile, which says plainly: "Of course, my dear, I cannot wear it, but it was not delightful of His Majesty to think of me."

OLD STOCK DEAL IN COURT.

Essex Farmer Brings Test Case to Recover From Agents of Defunct Co. WINDSOR, Jan. 10.—O. E. Fleming, a Windsor lawyer, James Straith, a Windsor merchant, and Robert Finch, a Windsor farmer, are named as defendants in a writ issued by J. W. Hanna of Windsor for Robert Waters, an Essex County farmer, to recover $250, allegedly having been secured thru misrepresentation by the three men in one of their transactions for the defunct Consumers' Tobacco Co., of Essex County.

The new suit is a sequel to litigation which came before Judge McHugh some time ago in connection with the affairs of the Consumers' Tobacco Co., in which a large number of farmers were interested. About a score of farmers are named as defendants in a writ issued by J. W. Hanna of Windsor for Robert Waters, an Essex County farmer, to recover $250, allegedly having been secured thru misrepresentation by the three men in one of their transactions for the defunct Consumers' Tobacco Co., of Essex County.

Some time ago an unsuccessful attempt was made by the Traders' Bank to recover the value of notes given by a royal visit of this character, the King and the German emperor.

But the visit is held in official quarters so attempt will be made to press it on the King. It is felt that the whole question of visit or no visit is one to be settled entirely between the King and the German emperor.

Inevitable Break Has Occurred At the Opportune Moment

Wall Street Situation is Shaping to Provide Further Profits for Market Manipulators.

World Office, Saturday Evening, Jan. 9.

The decision in the New York Gas suit provided a basis for a timely and welcome reaction in New York stocks early in the week. The stock of the concern interested broke over 40 points in two days, and served, if nothing else, to show an almost complete absence of a short interest in the market. It was mentioned last Saturday that the market presented a somewhat tired appearance and that the inevitable reaction was not far off. Losses of five to seven points were quite common in the market as a whole, and no doubt led to thousands of stop loss orders, the holders of which will naturally replace stocks again at a higher price.

The recovery subsequent to the gas decision showed how little Wall Street really relies upon facts for the market prices. The decision handed out by the supreme court was not put into effect until the market had advanced to a point where it was not possible to get out of the market without a loss. The recovery was not due to the fact that the market was not overdone, but to the fact that the market was not overdone. The recovery was not due to the fact that the market was not overdone, but to the fact that the market was not overdone.

With the large distributions of dividends the last few days, it is not probable that the market reaction was adopted as a subterfuge so that much of this money could be enticed into the market. The market is not overdone, and the reaction was not due to the fact that the market was not overdone, but to the fact that the market was not overdone.

As for matters aside the exchange there is very little change to be noted. The controlling influence in the bidding up of stock prices, viz., a plentiful supply of money, has been steadily increasing. The stock of England in its first statement of the year has recovered much of the ground it lost last week, and the money market is little changed. Commencing with Feb. 1 under the new reserve law, the trust companies will have to carry a 15 per cent. reserve. It is estimated that this will require a withdrawal from the banks of from $40,000,000 to $50,000,000. A temporary squeeze may be brought about by this and the numerous flotations now being put out and a later dip in stock prices will account for this. The market is not overdone, and the reaction was not due to the fact that the market was not overdone, but to the fact that the market was not overdone.

The first signs of any real revival in the Toronto stock market have developed during the last few days. Evidence of a larger outside speculative interest is plainly visible, and at the close of the week there is every indication that a broader and more widespread interest will be taken in this market from now on. One of the factors which has led to this is the large amount of free money which now exists in the Dominion. This is not only a matter of knowledge in Canada, but is even recognized at the leading financial centres in the States. With call loans here at the lowest for several months, there is every opportunity open to bring some of the better investment issues up to a higher price.

It is a consideration of these factors which has made itself felt in the Montreal market, and brought about larger transactions and a more active market on that exchange. At the Toronto market special interest is converging on the traction stocks, not so much, however, to those foreign securities which have already undergone extreme advances, but to issues like Toronto Railway and Toronto City, which are considered low in price on their present dividend returns. The advance in the rate of dividend on Mexican Light & Power stock has been noted, and may have something to do with the contest going on between that company and the Metropolitan Traction Company. The old rumor in regard to an extra dividend payment by Twin City has not been revived on this occasion, as it is felt that all that the company can be called upon to do, and that it appears it can do with comparative ease, is to pay the present 5 per cent. dividend on the basis of this payment it is figured out by those who operate in the market that the share could readily sell at 110 without violating prudent speculation under current conditions.

The statements of the Metropolitan and Traction companies were both given out this week, showing just the same condition of things as the other banks, whose statements have preceded them, and each of these institutions is well provided with reserves, the Metropolitan particularly so. The earnings of both institutions were slightly below those of last year, were highly favorable, when the difficulties of the financial period for which the statements are made are considered.

Perhaps the strongest investment stocks in the market are the bank shares. Just now, these bank investments are selling considerably below the clearing house banks to-day was 37.08.

The statement of banks and trust companies of Greater New York, not reporting to the clearing house, shows that these institutions have aggregate deposits of $1,144,499,800, total cash on hand $112,901,100, and loans amounting to $1,056,598,700.
