The First Step Towards the Crop of 1924

(Experimental Farms Note)

It may appear to be a little too early to begin thinking of next year's honey crop but the successful beekeeper knows that the success of next year's crop depends upon the preparations made for it and the time they are made. A successful season depends to a large extent upon good wintering. Good wintering depends upon three things, namely: colonies well filled with young bees, an abundance of wholesome stores, and adequate protection from the varying outside temperatures during the winter and early spring.

The first thing then is to get colonies well filled with young bees and to get them before the winter sets in. This means that we must have the bees produced between the months of July and October and in order to do this we must have a prolific queen in the hive during the months of August and September.

The first step, therefore, in producing a crop of honey in 1924 is to see that every colony is headed with a good prolific queen during the latter part of July or the first week in August. A good second year queen will often produce the required number of bees in the fall but she is very likely to get lost during the winter or fall the following spring. A young queen reared during the latter part of June or July is the most desirable for she is not only prolific during the fall but she is comparative-ly young and prolific the next spring. The two seasons of the year when queen bees are produced are the most important ones.

Every beekeeper should examine his colonies during the latter part of July and destroy all queens that show the least signs of failing, replacing them with young queens that are prolific. Old queens that are still producing a maximum amount of brood can be left and replaced later in the season by younger queens.

A good system of requeening the colonies is one that is combined with swarm control measures, that is, introducing the young queen at the same time treatment is applied to control swarming. During the main flow from clovers, when swarming is most intense and the colonies have larvae in queen cups, remove the old queen from the hive and destroy all queen cells present. Nine days later again remove all queen cells and introduce a young laying queen. By this method the swarming is controlled and the colonies are requeened at the right time. If the old queen is prolific and increase is desired a frame or two of emerging brood may be removed with her and placed in a new hive. This nucleus can be built up into a strong colony by fall when the old queen can be replaced by a young one.

Control the Weeds

It is impossible to determine accurately the losses to an individual farmer, or to an Agricultural District, from weeds growing upon cultivated land.

As a general rule these various weeds lower the yield by robbing the soil of plant food and moisture, and crowding more useful plants. They add to the cost of production by increasing the labor in the different farm operations; finally they deprive not only the quality and value of the crops, but also the value of the land on which they grow.

Should we not therefore make a special effort to eradicate these profit-takers from our farms?

In order to control the majority of weeds growing on our farms, it is necessary to have some knowledge of the life cycle of the different weeds. Annuals can be eradicated through any method by which germination is hastened and the young plants destroyed before they produce seed; Biennials must be either plowed or cut down before they flower and produce seed. A single mowing of these plants will only induce them to end out later, branches which, if not cut, will mature many seeds; Perennials are by far the most troublesome of all weeds. Shallow rooted perennials should be slightly plowed so that the roots are exposed to the sun to dry up; deep rooted perennials can be destroyed as conveniently possible. The roots of many perennials should be brought to the surface, gathered and burned. However, most perennial weeds will succumb to continued thorough cultivation, that will prevent the growth of leaves.

HOW POPULATION IS LOST TO CANADA

Mills Close Down and Population Is Forced to Move to Other Towns.

(By Dr. Clifton D. Howe, M. F.)

The disastrous effect of a forest policy which compels the lumber industry to migrate from place to place is being found not only in the forest itself, but on the farms, but also in the larger towns. Throughout Eastern Canada there are many towns whose growth and prosperity, and now declining and discouraged because the saw mills, or other wood-using establishments, has gone out of business through the failure of forest supplies. They are in the condition which the commercial traveler so aptly designates as "dead".

The older men of my readers will once recall illustrations of what I mean, but for the benefit of the younger men let me give one example. Forty years ago the town had a population of 1,800. Then came a saw-mill, or at least the old mill was re-erected and enlarged. In ten years the town had a population of 3,000 and in another decade it had reached 5,000. From this point the output of the mill declined and about fifteen years ago the work became spasmodic and finally the mill went out of business because the river valley above had been cleared out. The population decreased with the declining fortunes of the mill until now the town has less people than it had 40 years ago. Stores and shops have been abandoned; whole streets have vacant, tumble-down houses. Discouragement and despair are written everywhere in that village—in the faces of its people as well as in the condition of its streets.

"This town, like many others, is the victim of an administrative policy on the part of the government which regards a forest only as so many trees to be cut and not as a restorable resource capable of producing crops indefinitely when properly treated. The river valley had and still has forest—enough to support three such towns as the above at the time of its best development, under intelligent use and conscious effort to keep the forest continuously productive."

HEADED FOR FREEDOM

TURKISH WOMEN IN HURRY TO ACQUIRE SOCIAL OUTLOOK

The Harem will be a thing of the past. Very few Turkish women have been leading the feminist movement in the Ottoman Land.

Kemal Pasha is the leading Turkish feminist, but it is predicted that he will have a more difficult task than any he has yet set himself before the freedom he permits and encourages in his wife becomes general among Turkish women. She has appeared in a review of crops, wearing no veil and carried in riding boots. Such a thing was probably never known in Turkey before of a woman of high caste. It is true that the veil is gradually disappearing, but it is equally true that Turkish women in Constantinople are not allowed to appear in a theatre, restaurant or public place. The writer says that he was about to enter a short time ago, he, with a Turkish friend and a cup of tea, but was hurriedly turned back and informed that the police precinct had been called on by a Turkish woman who no longer be permitted to take on in public places.

Shallow rooted perennials should be slightly plowed so that the roots are exposed to the sun to dry up; deep rooted perennials can be destroyed as conveniently possible. The roots of many perennials should be brought to the surface, gathered and burned. However, most perennial weeds will succumb to continued thorough cultivation, that will prevent the growth of leaves.

General Principles in Controlling Weeds

Upper Charlo

1. NEVER ALLOW WEEDS TO RISE SEEDS. It would be better to sacrifice the whole hay crop of the farm if necessary, rather than let weeds go to seed.
2. Cultivate frequently, particularly early in the season so as to check the growth of weed seedlings.
3. Many weed seeds can be induced to germinate in autumn by cultivating stubbles immediately after harvest. Most of these seedlings will be winter killed or can be easily destroyed by cultivating and plowing in the spring.
4. All weeds bearing mature seeds should be burned. Under no circumstances should they be plowed under.
5. Never allow new seeds to become established on the farm.
6. Follow a systematic rotation of crops, with regular seeding down to grass or clover at short intervals. Probably the best rotation to destroy weeds, is one of three years duration, including clover and timothy hay, followed by roots or corn; the land shallow plowed in fall, sown in the next spring with 10 lbs. of red clover, 2 lbs. of alfalfa and 8 to 10 lbs. of timothy per acre.
7. Pasture the weedy fields with sheep, as there are few weeds that sheep will not eat to the extent of preventing them from seeding.
8. Never purchase inferior seed, as the best is none too good.

STUDEBAKER

Studebaker Light-Six

$1395

The Studebaker Light-Six

STUDEBAKER'S vast resources are utilized to manufacture (not assemble) the Light-Six complete in the newest and most modern large automobile plants in the world.

Resources, consisting of $85,000,000 of actual net assets and $45,000,000 of plants, make it possible for Studebaker to offer a six-cylinder car, at less than $1500, that is emphatically superior in design, construction and performance to any car within hundreds of dollars of its price.

By complete manufacture, Studebaker not only guards the quality of each part, but saves the middlemen's profits, with the result that no other make of car ever built, by anyone, at any price, represents so great a dollar-for-dollar value as the Light-Six.

Evidence of its mechanical superiority is found in its practical freedom from vibration. This is accomplished by the perfect engine balance secured through machining the Light-Six crankshaft and connecting rods on all surfaces. This requires 61 precision operations. No other car in Canada selling for less than $3,500 follows this practice.

It is significant, therefore, that the sale of more than 80,000 Studebaker cars during the first six months of this year broke all records. Buyers are justified in expecting more for their money in a Studebaker than in any other car.

THE PULPWOOD ISSUE.
 A protest which the American Paper and Pulp Association sent to the United States Secretary of State against the Canadian Parliament resolution authorizing the Dominion Government to prohibit the export of pulpwood, declared should Canada impose that regulation that more than a million cords a year would be added to the annual drain on the rapidly diminishing resources of the United States. This protest is endorsed by the National Publishers and although brief it is tremendously suggestive of conditions touching the pulpwood question across the line. It is also there is a timely hint for those who have to do with the disposition of the matter. If the United States pulp and paper publishing interests want to save their own fast diminishing resources by drawing on Canada for a million cords of pulpwood annually, how must Canada look upon the export of its raw pulpwood.

The steady depletion of our own forests is now being regarded with some alarm by those most intimate with the timber industry and its value to our country. A timely hint may be taken from the American pulp. There is little to be gained and much to be lost by allowing our own manufactured lumber to be exported freely into the United States. A firm mind is needed to deal with this important issue and the wiser course for Canada to adopt is by no means obscure.

THE C. A. A. C.
 Some time ago an athletic movement was started in Campbellton. Those fostering this sport project made very gratifying progress and the active interest of a large number of influential citizens was enlisted. A Campbellton Amateur Athletic Club was eventually organized, the various officers elected and the Constitution and by laws of the organization drawn up. The chief difficulty was to secure suitable premises which could be converted into an athletic field. And this problem, which really should not be regarded as a problem is still holding up the entire project which, rationally speaking, should now be in full swing.

At the first meeting of the Club a committee, consisting of the president and the three vice-presidents of the new organization, was appointed to interview the town council and ascertain what they would be willing to do in regard to assisting in procuring a suitable field for the club, which is first and last from every point of view a town organization. So far, that committee has no definite progress to report. Mayor McKay very liberally down the river valley, and told some of our history past and the industrial present, the letter concludes: "Seeing the splendid facilities available at St. John, any Canadian could hardly fail to be impressed with the desirability of sending through this channel, when the St. Lawrence ports probably not be back for another week. This has contrived to hold matters at a stand-still. Regardless as to who

Relieved Rheumatism, Too, Says Contractor

"I couldn't do otherwise than publicly learned of Tanlac through the statements of others and have taken the treatment with such splendid results that they in turn deem it only fair to relate their experience for the benefit of suffering humanity. Such is the case with L. Desormaux, well-known Electrical Contractor, living at 1066 Berri St., Montreal, who says: "I couldn't do otherwise than publicly endorse Tanlac for I was lucky to find out about the medicine the same way myself. For nearly a year I suffered from indigestion, and also had rheumatism in my legs. About a month ago I was laid up in bed for two weeks with this rheumatism and a bad case of grippe. I lost weight about eight pounds and felt miserable. "Three bottles of the Tanlac treatment, besides greatly improving my rheumatism, has made my eating and digestion better than they ever were. I have regained my lost weight, and am feeling extremely well. Tanlac is great."

Tanlac is for sale by all good druggists. Accept no substitute. Over 67-million bottles sold.

sent will help some, but there is room for British goods of equal remedy for great missionary work in enlarging the policy of "Canadian ports for Canadian trade." Of 250,000,000 bushels of grain produced in Canada last year St. John handled only some 15,000,000 bushels, while 150,000,000 bushels helped to maintain American railroads and ports, it would immensely advantage Canadian railways and ports and through them the whole of Canada.

The idea of Canadian trade through Canadian channels finds favor with those who understand how important that trade is to Maritime Canada. The weekly newspaper writers are rendering good service in helping to bring Canadians in every section of the country to understand more fully the point of view of the people of the Maritimes and also something of our problems here. Increased trade through Eastern Canadian Ports will not only benefit St. John but the Maritime Provinces as a whole.

NOTE AND COMMENT.
 Montreal Gazette: "The former German Crown Prince is throwing out hints that he would like to visit the continent. If Wilhelm Junior is wise he will remain where he is."

LLOYD GEORGE TO COME IN OCTOBER
 Former British Premier Now Expected to Come On the Empress of Britain.
 Quebec, July 25.—Through a committee formed in Toronto arrangements are being made for a visit to Canada of the Right Hon. Lloyd George, ex-Premier of England. Information to that effect was received here yesterday by Mayor Samson from J. O. McCarthy, chairman of the Lloyd-George committee.

The present plans are that Mr. Lloyd-George would call from Liverpool on the Canadian Pacific steamer Empress of Britain on October 3rd and would land at Quebec either on the evening of October 10th or the morning of October 11th.

The ex-Premier is proposing a tour through Canada for two or three days in the United States. The committee have urged upon him that he should land in Canada and leave from Canada. It is pointed out that, while he will speak at a brotherhood congress in Toronto, his trip will be of a national character rather than under any particular auspices.

MOTHER AND DAUGHTER REJOICE IN HEALTH

Mrs. Oram and Daughter Badly Run-Down Find Lasting Relief in Dreo—Cannot Praise It Enough.

No one is more enthusiastic about Dreo than the fortunate sufferers who have found relief in its wonderful health building properties. Dreo is their gratitude, what more natural than they should recommend it to their dear ones. This is Dreo rapidly becoming a family remedy for constant protection in the home against stomach, kidney, liver, and general ailments as illustrated in the case of Mrs. Fred Oram and daughter, of 12 Elm Street, 80 John, N. B. "I was badly run down," says Mrs. Oram, "I suffered severely with stomach trouble and indigestion and everything I ate made me ill and very sick. I was very nervous. Then I heard of Dreo and decided to try it. It made a new woman of me. My daughter was also very nervous and eating hardly anything, but Dreo gave her the same splendid benefit. It gave me... We have only taken three bottles of this wonderful remedy but both of us are feeling fine and give it our heartiest praise. Do not despair of your condition. Dreo has helped thousands of men and women suffering the torture of indigestion and disordered kidneys, stomach and liver. It can help you similarly if you will but give it the chance. Dreo is being specially introduced in Campbellton by Wran's Drug Store and is sold by good druggists everywhere."

Roseberry Street West, Cranwell, Victoria, Victoria West and Sugarloaf Street north are all being repaved and smoothed out and many holes, which have been a source of much annoyance to motorists are being filled up. In addition, the base stone and waste gravel is being deposited along one side of Sugarloaf Street north where it will serve as a good foundation when a concrete sidewalk is laid there.

POTATOES GO TO $6.00 PER BBL.

Big Demand Before the New Crop Comes on the Market.

Fredericton, July 21.—Potatoes after being at the usual low price of the early summer for some weeks past took a sudden upturn today and touched a maximum figure of six dollars per barrel. The general price was four and five dollars per barrel. The demand is caused by scarcity of potatoes generally over the continent, during the time the old crop is going off the market and the new crop is coming on. New potatoes are in general use in the southern and central portion of the United States but much of those sections there is a demand for old stock.

Canada Faces the Future With Confidence

CANADIANS have always been noted for courage, optimism and faith in their country. Canada was not built up by pessimists, nor will Canada continue to develop if her people allow them selves to become croakers and grouchers. Canada is fundamentally an agricultural country. We have a soil and climate which can grow the world's finest agricultural products.

Canadian farmers who have earned the capital invested in their farms out of profits in farming are numbered in thousands. These successful farmers have paid off their mortgages, stocked their barns and stables, bought their machinery, made good living and brought up their families. It means hard work, but today they are independent.

Money in Mixed Farming.
In recent years, at different points on the prairie, oats fed to steers have brought from 70c to $1.07 as against the Fort William price of 42c per bushel, while barley used for the same purpose has brought as high as 90c as against the Farmers' marketing their coarse grains in this way lower marketing cost, have sure market and money for their grain, while at the same time they market their roughage, otherwise often wasted. The cattle embargo is now off. Steers are worth more money and certain to make good money for the Canadian farmer from now on.

Money in Pigs.
The Dominion Experimental Farms have proved by actual test that there is more money in pig raising than in the Central Farm, Ottawa, after paying for feed, labor, interest and depreciation, the net profit per pig was $4.63.

The Future.
Ten years from now the pessimists of today will have been forgotten. Britain has removed the embargo against our cattle. She wants our beef and bacon, our cheese, butter, eggs and apples, our wheat and flour. As the population of the United States increases, she will compete less and less against us on the British market. Eventually, she will herself be an importer of many other food stuffs besides wheat from this country. Canada has the man, the climate, the land, the stock and the potential markets necessary for agricultural success. Let us farm with all the industry and science we can muster. Let's get to work and save our skins. Canada's future is bright with confidence in its future. Let us keep going ahead.

We Must Cut Production Costs.
Canada is meeting with the keenest competition in the marketing of her products. To hold her own and regain her place on the world's market, she must reduce her cost of production. To hold her own and regain her place on the world's market, she must reduce her cost of production. To hold her own and regain her place on the world's market, she must reduce her cost of production.

DESCRIBES TOUR OF NORTH SHORE

Member of Newspaper Party Which Visited Inch Arran Writes Series of Articles

Dalhousie, N. B. July 24th.—A few miles up the Restigouche beyond Campbellton, is a spot famous for naval battle in 1760. A French fleet in an effort to succor Montreal, after the reduction of Quebec, sought shelter in Chaleur Bay when advised that British war ships were further up the St. Lawrence River. But it was not long before they were discovered and after they had lost a couple of ships to the British the remainder entered the Restigouche and ascended to where a land battery was located. There was no escape, however, for the British fleet, followed, destroyed both ships and battery. The importance of this battle may be gathered from the fact that it was the final blow which destroyed the power of France in Canada.
At Campbellton we were met by men of the town who drove us about the place and then to Dalhousie, a number of miles farther along the Chaleur Bay. The drive from one place to the other was beautiful and interesting. Dalhousie is delightfully situated at a point overlooking the bay, with the entrance of the Restigouche at its northern boundary gives the town an extensive water front, part river and part bay shore. The beaches at the foot of the shore cliff are noted for the facilities for bathing they afford, while the islands off the shore make pleasant objectives for boating trips. Opportunities for fishing naturally abound, either off the deep sea or inland description. While to the tourist Dalhousie's chief interest lies in the attractiveness as being one of New Brunswick's best known summer resorts—yet it has some importance as well from an industrial standpoint. The neighborhood is surrounded by forests of spruce, maple, birch, pine, and cedar and has given the town importance with the lumber industry. The output of which averages about twelve million feet yearly. The local mills also produce large quantities of shingles. In fresh and frozen fish also has a considerable manufacturing industry.
That night we were given what they called a camp dinner, but it was served in the large summer hotel. One of the main features of the dinner were beans baked out of doors by the guide I spoke of in a former article and they were baked as they do them on their camping trips. There was also lobster and salmon.
The train met us at a side track about half way between the two towns and it was really very comforting after junkering around half the night in strange places to find our faithful porter with his lantern shining as Shakespeare said, "Like a good deed in this naughty world," only I believe he spoke of candle but what's the difference among friends?
Continuing the journey next day the arrival was made at Riviere du Loup in the province of Quebec. This is a province which may well be said to possess features of interest for tourists of all sorts and conditions. In historical, in romance and in tragedy there is no geographical part of the continent more famous. For the extent and variety of its scenic effects it is wonderful, while in rivers and lakes nature has been prodigal in her gifts. Definite history of Quebec dates back to 1535 when Jacques Cartier landed at Gaspé, that glorious rugged part of the province jutting into the St. Lawrence.
Riviere du Loup was the first of the French settlements we had visited. The town is situated upon a river of the same name near where it flows through a deep gorge into the St. Lawrence and there we were shown the lovely falls which have a drop of over two hundred feet. The district abounds in magnificent scenic effects. Looking across the St. Lawrence the tourist can obtain a delightful view of the northern shore, a distance of distant, with its many varied tints and colors. For its bathing on the St. Lawrence, Riviere du Loup is famous as is evident from the large number of tourists who annually spend their vacation there. We were driven all about this resort part and felt that it would indeed be a pleasure to pass some time there. The district about this town possesses some of the best lumber and pulp wood limits in the province. Naturally, as a result several mills are to be found in the town and also factories and railroad shops.

SENSATIONAL MOVIES
A writer in the London (Eng.) News makes merry with the American movies, America, as pictured by the films, is a large country surrounded by sin and sentiment.
"It is inhabited in the east by unscrupulous but enormously successful business men, who devote their nights to squandering in cabarets their ill-gotten gains of the day before. In the west 'badmen' rob stage coaches and banks and shoot sheriffs and their partners in crime, and spend a good deal of time rolling on the ground in attempts to gouge each other's eyes out. The north is peopled by bearded scoundrels, who so their to escape from the law, to steal mining claims and to menace lonely girls snowbound in log cabins. The south is notable for cast and half-breeds. The last named have no particular vice—they are just bad."
This is a good bit of humor, combined with some truth, but the features described are not peculiar to the movies or to the United States. The sensational melodrama was popular long before movie pictures were invented. The best sellers among novels were and are, of the same kind, which brave heroes, spotless heroines, villains with no redeeming virtues, stern fathers who drive rebellious daughters out into the night, bad uncles who try to steal the property of their little nieces and nephews, and stirring fights in which good finally triumphs over evil.
The moving picture gave a new impetus to this kind of story, owing to the greater scope they afforded for portraying diabolical crimes and hair-breadth escapes. Young girls could be tied to railway tracks and rescued just as the train thundered over the rails, automobiles could race with locomotives and airplanes, well-mounted

SERIOUS FIRE NARROWLY AVERTED

Residence of Alex. McKay Badly Damaged Early Sunday Morning
Dalhousie, July 23rd.—At 4 o'clock on Sunday morning the fire alarm called for fire which had broken out near the Public School Building. It was the residence of Mr. Alex. McKay, and the occupants just escaped with their lives. The building in which the fire originated, is in close proximity to the Town Superior School Building, on the South Side, and to the Murray McKay store, on the west. The wind was blowing strongly from the west, endangering the large residence of Mr. Louis J. LeBlanc. The occupants of the house at the time of the fire were: Mr. and Mrs. Alex. McKay, their daughter, Miss Violet McKay, who was spending her holidays at home, having taught during the last school term in Albert Co. School and their son, M. Brent McKay, of the P. Q. Lumber Co. office. The latter had arrived home from Campbellton, in automobile, a short time before the fire. He had not noticed anything wrong, nor did his mother when she made a tour of the house after midnight. The four occupants escaped in their night clothes. Mr. McKay running for shelter to the house of Mr. Brent McKay gave the alarm and the fire brigade responded quickly. A large number of citizens appeared on the scene. It was a hard fight for the firemen. They succeeded in preventing the fire from spreading to other buildings, consequently saving the town from what might have been a serious conflagration. The house is badly damaged. All the furniture was a total loss. A fine piano could not be saved. The occupants lost all their clothing. Origin of the fire is unknown. Very small insurance carried and the loss is heavy, as the building had recently been completely repaired. Mr. and Mrs. McKay being to pioneer families who sympathize with them in their great loss, are glad to learn that it is their intention to replace the damaged building with a new modern one.

But the central idea is the same as ever, and if the pictures sometimes erode the moral in us, they are usually good, and it is encouraging to find that the sympathies of the spectators are usually on the right side. The immoral pictures are the result of not popular demand, but of the stupidity and vulgarity of some of those who control the business. OBITUARY PREMIER KING WELCOMES BRITISH FORESTERS Hopes for "More Excellent Way" in Trade Restrictions in Solving Problems. Ottawa, Ont., July 25.—The British Empire forestry conference attended by representatives of the United Kingdom, India, the Irish Free State and other dominions and colonies, was opened here today by Premier King. In commenting on Government policy of prohibition of export of pulpwood, the premier recognized that restrictions of trade was only a last resort and expressed hope that "a more excellent way" might be found to deal with the problem. "We recognize that in the past we have been profligate with our forest wealth, that we have wasted our heriage, that while we have been profligate in utilization we have been deficient in preservation," said the premier. "What we have talked in terms of quantity, we have lost sight often of the importance of quality, not without its cost to our trade. Some of these evils and some of the misconceptions and false impressions which have grown out of them we hope this conference will go far to remove." In greeting the visiting members of the conference the premier conveyed a "very special welcome" to Lord Lovat, as more than other individuals having had to do with originating the conference and for his special relations with Canada. In the latter connection he recalled Lord Lovat's visit to Quebec at the time of the treaty tenary as the representative of General Simon Fraser, who distinguished himself with the Scotch regiment at the siege of Quebec. He welcomed also specially the representatives of other dominions, including the Irish Free State and other colonies and protectorates. He expressed the regret of the Governor-General, Lord Byng, at his inability to be present and his Excellency's hopes that he would meet the members of the conference during their tour of the Maritime Provinces.
