"August Flower"

I had been troubled five months with Dyspepsia. The doctors told me it was chronic. I had a fullness after eating and a heavy load in the pit of my stomach. I suffered frequently from a Water Brash of clear matter. Sometimes a deadly Sickness at the Stomach would overtake me. Then again I would have the terrible pains of Wind Colic. At such times I would try to belch and could not. I was working then for Thomas McHenry, Druggist, Cor.
Irwin and Western Ave., Allegheny City, Pa., in whose employ I had been for seven years. Finally I used August Flower, and after using just one bottle for two weeks, was entirely relieved of all the trouble. I can now eat things I dared not touch before. I would like to refer you to Mr. McHenry, for whom I worked, who knows all about my condition, and from whom I bought the medicine. I live with my wife and family at 30 James St., Allegheny City, Pa.

KNOWLEDGE Brings comfort and improvement and tends to the growth of the human mind. The man who lives better than others and enjoys life more, with less expenditure, by more promptly accepting the world's best products to the needs of physical being, will attest the value to health of the pure liquid laxative principles embraced in the remedy, Syrup of Figs.

Its excellence is due to its presenting in the form most acceptable and pleasant to the taste, the refreshing and truly beneficial properties of a perfect laxative; effectually cleansing the system, dispelling colds, headaches and fevers and permanently curing constipation.
It has given satisfaction to millions and met with the approval of the medical profession, because it acts on the Kidneys, Liver and Bowels without weakening them and it is perfectly free from every objectionable substance.

Syrup of Figs is for sale by all druggists factured by the California Fig Syrup

GENERAL NEWS.

—Columbian Guards now patrol Jason park, Chicago, rifles in hand, in order to prevent the firing of the World's Fair buildings.

—Because the Anti-Chinese Sunday School association wants to stop the teaching of Mongolian immigration to young girls, the Chinese threaten that if men are substituted for young women they will not attend the classes. This is not the first evidence given that Chinese pupils think more of their teachers than of the teaching they obtain at the Sunday school, and it is a justification of the new association's existence. The plucking of brands may be attended with too much risk to the rescuer.

—A resolution in favor of birching bad boys instead of sending them to prison has been sent to the British Home Secretary, signed by a number of magistrates. The proposition is to birch boys under 16 for all offenses, at the discretion of the magistrate. The judicious use of the birch, it is believed would not only have a more salutary effect, but would save the boys from acquiring the prison taint, losing their freedom of the prison and sinking deeper into crime.

George William Childs.

Mr. Childs practiced giving as though it were at once a calling and a fine art.
To every man of imagination, and to some without, it has probably occurred that it would be "nice" to go through life rectifying the apparent errors of providence, and providing those admirable things which every one agrees should be done, but which every one neglects. Mr. Childs was almost alone among rich men in filling this desire. He made no large single gifts. He had no desire to have long subscription lists, though he was a constant and liberal giver to many charities. But whenever any thing presented itself which could be done by a single definite expenditure, and which, once done, stood, so to speak, by itself, the deed possessed to Mr. Childs an invincible attraction.

He educated young men and young women by the hundred. Last summer he provided not scores, but hundreds, of scholarships to the World's Fair. He started small but troublesome debts. He pensioned for life more than one literary worker whose pen had ceased to be a means of support. He built a round dozen of monuments—to Poe, to Professor, the Prayer-Bark Cross to the first English service on our coast. He put in windows in churches at home and abroad, each with some definite commemoration. He provided Stratford with a fountain. All these were note worthy and public gifts. There were hundreds, not to say thousands, of which no one heard. He rained watches on the just and unjust. He stood clocks on hundreds of bridal mantels.
A gift seemed the joy of his inmost soul, and it came from him on the smallest provocation. His begging nail was enormous, and what was far more extraordinary than its size, he gave it patient examination, inquiry, and care.

Many began by laughing at him. All I think, came to love him.
Nature—or was it something better than nature, character?—had given him a face and figure in precise keeping with his life. His rounded figure, his slight bustle, his smile, and his kindly eye and easy speech, made him look like the man he was. His personal life was as uneventful as his public. He was married to the daughter of his early partner and his wife survives him. When the Letter, which he had so long conducted, came to write his life, the two most important events which it could record were trip abroad in 1869, and one to the West in 1892.

ALAMENTS.

The following poem was written by the late Richard Lyle, one of the brightest members of the New Orleans bar, and is the pathetic story of his own ruined life:

I have been to the funeral of all my hopes And entombed them one by one.
Not a word was said,
Not a tear was shed,
When the mournful task was done.
Slowly and sadly I turned me round And sought my silent room.
By the cold hearthstone I wooed the midnight gloom, And when the night wind's deepening shades
Lowered above my brow,
I wept o'er days
When manhood's rays
Were brighter far than now.
The dying embers on the hearth Gave out their flickering light, As I to say
This is the way
Thy life shall close in night.

I went alone in anguish sore O'er the bright prospects fair, While demons laughed
And eagerly quaffed
My tears like nectar rare.
Through hell's red hall an echo rang.
An echo loud and long.
In the bowl
I plunged my soul
In the night of madness strong.
And there within that sparkling glass I knew the cause to lie—This all men own
From zone to zone,
Yet millions drink and die.

The Memmabook Conglomerate Tested by the New Electric Chlorin-ation Process at Windsor

The test of the Memmabook Conglomerate was a most satisfactory operation to all concerned. First the working of the mill was very highly spoken of by the experts sent here by the Memmabook Mining Co. to superintend the amalgamation of their ore. They came to see the workings of this mill without any previous knowledge of its construction, and consequently its new features in grinding and treating the ore created more than the usual interest.
The grinding was watched carefully, and when the tailings were taken from the mill so fine they could be sifted through a silk handkerchief, that point was noted as a great obstacle removed in the sifting of fine gold; and also that in doing this the mill kept up easily at the rate of one-half ton per hour. The ore was fed to the mill directly from the mine, not being put through the breakers, which gave the mill the most severe test that any mill could wish for.
For some of the pieces put through were as large as paving stones. This was considered very satisfactory, for the amalgam of interest, and in this matter the solution, which is the main feature of this process, showed its efficiency in this test, for in the second amalgamation pan the amalgam that was saved was so fine that it was creamy, and in putting it through the chamois skin the gold went through with the mercury and could only be obtained by retorting the mercury.
This is seldom seen in a stamp mill, for the gold is not fine enough to go through the chamois. The amount saved from twelve tons put through the mill was $2.50 per ton, making about thirty-three per cent, saving over stamps. This was considered very satisfactory, for the amalgam could be sent ground into the pores in the iron pans. This was not taken into consideration in the above amount saved, and consequently the average in a large mill would be better.
Taking everything into account, it was the most satisfactory test ever made in Nova Scotia in low grade ores.—Hants Journal.

Police and Grateful.
From Harper's Young People.
That's what all boys should be, Whether trained in the parlor or in the barn. When Wolfgang Amadeus Mozart was six years old (in 1762), he exhibited his wonderful talent as a musician before the Emperor and Empress of Austria, at Vienna. On leaving the instrument he slipped upon the polished floor of the palace reception-room, and fell. Marie Antoinette, afterwards Queen of France, lifted him up and kissed him. "You are very kind," said the little musician, "and when I grow up I will marry you."

PETTER'S ENIGMAS of Cod Liver Oil still retains and justifies the good opinion of the best medical practitioners. Its virtues are attested by thousands of its patrons everywhere.

Miss Prude—Was that John's arm I saw around you last night when I was passing your house?
Miss Flyte—H'm! Not see what time it was?
Miss P.—Oh, you need not ask what time it was. You are very innocent, aren't you?
Miss F.—But it is important that I should know what time it was, for it might have been George's instead of John's.

The room in which a number of friends pass the evening smoking their cigars or drinking their beer, and which is a place of next morning. Let the same friends smoke only the "Myrtle Navy" and they will find quite a difference in the room next morning. It is reasonably ventilated, and with a fire-place for instance, no unpleasant smell whatever will be found. The purity and fine quality of the leaf used is the reason of this.

"It's curious about the letter 'H'."
"Well, you're not obliged to employ all the other letters of the alphabet when writing a sentence, but 'H' is always in use."
"So it is. And there is another thing I've noticed about it; the English and Americans regard it differently."
"How do you make that out?"
"Why, it is in favour in England," while in America it never is."

THE GREAT CONVENTION.
Surely the Spirit of the Lord brooded over the Convention of temperance workers which was held in Toronto, February 6th. Such unanimity of feeling, such enthusiasm, such earnestness of purpose we have never seen. The Pavilion was packed with five hundred delegates and other friends of the cause, when at the evening meeting the reply of Sir Oliver Mowat, Premier of Ontario to the deputation which had been sent in the afternoon was read.
These are the words of this important decision:

"If the decision of the Privy Council should be that the province has the jurisdiction to pass a prohibitory liquor law as respects the sale of intoxicating liquors I will introduce such a bill in the following session if I am then at the head of the Government. If the decision of the Privy Council is that the province has jurisdiction to pass only a partial prohibitory liquor law I will introduce such a prohibitory bill as the decision will warrant, unless the partial prohibitory power is so limited as to be ineffective from a temperance standpoint."

Needless to say the greatest enthusiasm prevailed. One warm-hearted Methodist sister turned to us and said, "How can you sit so quiet and serene as Presbyterians after while I am almost crying for joy." But we were very of all the same, because the "chief end of man" was not forgotten.

Grand addresses were given throughout the meeting by some of Canada's grandest men, but do you blame us for thinking that the best of all was given by the earnest faithful little woman who had been the new President of Ontario W. C. T. U., May R. Thornley, who voiced the sentiments of the hundreds of women over whom she holds sway, as she touched with sacred fire also gladly for God and Home and Native Land. The cause of woman was also advanced as shown in the utterance of many of the speakers and the way made clear for full enfranchisement which shall usher in a better and brighter day.
[Woman's Journal.]

AYER'S Sarsaparilla will remove that tired feeling, and give new life and energy.
—Piston, N. S. is to have an extensive pork packing factory established by an upper province firm.
Every mother also must keep Ayer's Cherry Pectoral in case of croup and sudden colds.
This taxing incomes ain't the thing to do to make the country rich," said Uncle Silas. "They'd ought tax expenditures. People'd spend less if they save more then."

"So you have named the lady 'Obadiah T.' What does the 'T.' stand for?"
"Oh, that means Temperance—until he gets his Uncle Obadi'ah's money, you know."

FAHM AND TURF.

—Rose culture is increasing in Bulgaria to such an extent that many of the peasants have abandoned grain culture to raise roses. This is brought about by the increase in the price of the perfume otto of rose, a syndicate in Turkey having bought up the bulk of all there was in market and then raised the price.

—A strange mortality is reported as prevalent in New Zealand. If the skin of a sheep is cut in shearing, in certain wool-sheds, the sheep invariably dies, and the same mortality attends the docking of lambs in the same sheds.
Some toxic germs are supposed to be contained in the refuse of the shearing sheds.

—A French scientist has been experimenting with bisulphide of carbon for clearing hives of vermin. He ties a few, uncooked, small bottles containing the insecticide on the rooves, and in a very short time the vermin is destroyed with which it comes in contact.
Great care is necessary to avoid bringing a lamp or other flame in contact with the highly inflammable vapor.

Insurance and Gambling.

(Rev. T. A. Hendrick in Donahoe's for March.) CERTAIN forms of wagers are approved at the present day universally, by statute law. It is most familiar forms are fire and life insurance. It is perhaps the most to note here that these forms of wagers, now so common and so universally approved, came into popular use, against a strong current of disapproval, upon the ground that they were immoral. As late as 1863 in the state of Pennsylvania, life insurance policies in which the assured had no interest were held to be void.

There is no form of contract which comes nearer to the essential features of a wager than fire insurance. What does a person buy for the premium which he pays? No certain return, only that in the remotely possible event that the building insured shall be burned, then the insurer agrees to return the loss, up to the amount of the policy. The amount of premium being the same ratio to the sum guaranteed as the chance of burning does to the chance of not burning.

LITERARY NOTES
Every number of Donahoe's demonstrates that this very unique magazine is won for itself a distinctive place in high-class periodical literature. Its readers expect every month something new, striking and original, something new, and full of flesh and blood. In the current number a Catholic cleric, a Jesuit, Murphy, the famous base-ball writer, tells graphically of the five greatest players who have ever seen. Maurice Francis Egan gives some of his literary experiences that will be an eye opener for ambitious young writers. The original illustrations of the number by Louis Meynell and James Kennedy are excellent in their workmanship.

Who are the most famous writers and artists of both continents? THE CANADIAN MAGAZINE is endeavoring to answer this inquiry by printing a list from month to month of its contents pages. This magazine claims that not only its literary contributions, but its illustrations, are of the highest quality, and in proof of this
