Until the Telegraph is willing to show them, he says, he will remain in the belief that they never existed.

Voters' Lists.

(Special to the "Advertiser.") WINDSOR, Ont., March 11.-There is great excitement among the Conservatives here today over the result of the convention on Saturday, and Odette's friends and supporters say they will demand that another convention be called at once. The reason given for this is the fact that Judge McHugh positively declined to allow his name to be used before the convention opened, and it is claimed that the P. P. A.s voted and worked for him so as they could bring out a candidate of their own later on. Mr. Odette, when seen by the "Advertiser" correspondent this morning, was greatly excited, and although he refused to give any information, intimated that another convention would be called. Dozens of his supporters were in his office at the time. Judge Mc-Hugh refuses to say if he will accept or not, but it is reported that one of his relatives this morning offered to bet $500 that he would not. Even if he should, his own friends say he would stand no show since the split has taken place, and they are as equally sure that Odette would stand less. The solid men of the party are thoroughly disgusted, and say that they will either stay away from the polls or vote for McGregor.

THE SCHOOL QUESTION. TORONTO, March 11.-Mayor Kennedy presided tonight at the meeting held at the pavilion to discuss the question of Manitoba school legislation. Mr. D'Alton McCarthy was the principal speaker. The hall was two-thirds full. Following is the resolution passed by the meeting: "That the subject of education is a matter of essentially local concern, and though the right of appeal to his Excellency the Governor-General in Council is by the British North America Act, and in the case of Manitoba by its constitution given in certain cases, yet it is a power so opposed to the governing principle which regulates the distribution of real authority between the Dominion and the Province, and its enforcement would be so humiliating to the Province as to which it is exercised, that it is a jurisdiction which should never be assumed, except in cases of the most flagrant abuse of provincial power.

TO BE OR NOT TO BE. Toronto World. OTTAWA, March 11.—The impression is gaining ground that any conclusion the Government may reach in the Man-itoba school appeal will not be brought before the Provincial Legislature at its present session. There is no power by which the Federal authorities can compel Premier Greenway and his colleagues to act promptly. If they decline, therefore, to ask the Legislature to formally pass on any remedial order which may be made, the question will go over for a year, as the Dominion Parliament will not have jurisdiction to act until the Provincial Legislature has put itself on record as declining to do anything. Meanwhile the current of opinion has again set strongly in favor of the holding of a session before dissolution, and there are those here who still insist that a session is within the range of possibility. Some go so far as to suggest March 28 for the meeting of the Houses. It is only a question of a few days now before the matter will be finally set at rest. THIS IS DIFFERENT.

The Quebec Morning Chronicle declares there will not be a session. It says: Our advices from Ottawa are entirely different. No preparation what-ever is being made in the several departments for a session. The Ministers are cultivating the constituencies. There is activity all along the line, where a vigorous campaign is to be conducted and Conservatives and Liberals alike are working their heads off, so to speak, to get the opportunity of placing their views before the voting public. We must insist upon it that our friends wake up and conduct themselves just as if the tocsin had sounded a blast and that Canada was without a Parliament. There is not the slightest prospect of a session taking place before election day, so far as we can see, and we say this on authority which ought to be good and reliable.

HOW THE LISTS ARE PRO-GRESSING.

Good progress is being made with printing the Dominion voters' lists. Of a total of 202 constituencies in Canada, ist for 62 are completed, 38 are out in proof form, six, viz., Toronto East, Center and West, North, East and West York, are being printed in Toronto, seven in Montreal, while the remain-der are in hand at the bureau.

CONSERVATIVE INSPIRATION UNPAID FOR. HALIFAX, N. S., March 11.—In 1893 Mr. D. F. Power, a great loyalist and old-flagger, suddenly sought life under the Stars and Stripes. Saturday a re-markable suit was begun by the executor of his estate against Messrs. Wiley Smith, A. B. Crosby and Max Grant, three very prominent Conservatives. It is for liquors furnished during the last Dominion election campaign and still unpaid for. The Tories distributed liquor in immense quantities all over constituencies, and distributed its purchase among all city dealers of the Tory persuasion, and although Power furnished it to only a few small districts the bill includes hundreds of bottles of brandy, whisky, rum and other liquors.

Mr. Sim Fax Thinks He Has Located the Sound.

Suspicious Marks of Scratching Appear on the Wall.

The Comedian's Contention Seems to be Borne Out That the Girl Produces the Noise With Her Hands-The Family Say That She Does Not.

The "Advertiser" has allowed the Ann street spook to rest quietly for some time, and it is only because of some new and startling light as to the origin of the hitherto strange sound that it is again resurrected. Many prominent men in the city have investigated the scraping since it was first heard some time ago, but it has been next to impossible to get a candid expression of opinion from any of them, because of a natural hesitancy in connecting a highly respectable family with deception, and again because of the unwritten law governing hospitality. Lately Mr. Sim Fax, known somewhat in local spiritualistic circles (!!!) has (with the consent of the family) been making a series of three investigations, which culminated in that of last evening, when two newspaper mea were present. As heretofore the family seemed perfectly willing to have the matter investigated, but it was only too noticeable that results ceased where close investigation began. Mr. Fax prepared short accounts of his two former visits, which serve to introduce that of last evening. The first was made on Feb. 26. Of this Mr. Fax

THE FIRST VISIT. "Asked the spook how many coppers were in my pocket. It said it knew, but would not tell. Asked how many bills were in my pocket. It said it knew, but would not tell. It was asked various questions by members of the family, which were answered correctly Mr. Tuson took & instances bunch of keys from his pocket. When asked how many there were the spook scraped eleven. I counted and there were twelve. The child Ada was in the bedroom partly concealed behind the door with one hand visible. I pressed my ear to the outside of the wall, which was an interior, to detect the nature of the sound produced, and ascertain if it was on the side of the wall on which I sat or on the side next the child. I concluded that it was not on my side or between the walls, unless something had been prepared on which it might scrape. The sound produced was certainly over a smooth surface, and the long strokes sounded as though a circle was described, which could not be done on a rough interior of a lathand-plaster wall, which is certainly too rough to produce an even sound. I was not suspicious of child at first. Asked permission to enter the room where the child was. Spook would answer ques-tions as long as I kept sufficiently back so that I could not see the child completely. She was partially concealed behind the door. I became suspi-cious of the child. Asked to hold visible hand. Spook still scraped, Took hold of hand concealed behind the door. Spook would not scrape. Repeated this with similar results. Felt assured the child was doing the scraping. Went to another room and SCRAPING WAS HEARD while child was visible to me. This room was darker. Moved in quietly in order to see the child without her perceiving me. Her brother noticed movement and took hold of the child and the scraping stopped. Saw slate and paper writing supposed to have been done by spook. Got child to write similar sentences. Great resemblance be-tween the two acknowledged by those present. I told the family I had formed an opinion not in support of spiritualism, but would not disclose same un-til after further investigation. Have concluded that the scraping is done by the child's hand, for when I held it from behind the door there were no responses whatever. When I held the outside hand and let the one behind the door and closest to the wall free, the responses were prompt. I thought I could detect a slight motion of the child's body in making the effort to reach the wall, which would be at arm's length. I also thought I could detect an expression of face which denoted her con-sciousness of what letter was wanted in spelling out words, as she would sometimes raise her eyes at the desired letter before the stroke would be made."

THE SECOND VISIT. This was made on March 5, and of this Mr. Fax has to say: "Spook in bad humor. Conversation very brief and unsatisfactory, and spook had no desire to make replies. (Neither had Ada.) First question asked, 'Who is here?' Answer, 'Old Sim Fax.' 'Don't you like Mr. Fax?' 'No.' 'Is he too skeptical?' 'Yes,' 'Would you like to convert him?' 'No.' 'Will you do some slate writing for us tonight?' 'No.' 'Have you any message for us?" 'Yes.' Question by Mr. Tuson: 'Shall we go over the letters for you?" Before this question was answeryou? Before this question was answered and almost before it was fully asked I suggested that the spook might have a slate message, to which Ada answered verbally, 'No.' The question occurred to my mind, 'How did Ada know the spook's desire?' And the answer in my mind was that Ada was the spook. Question again: 'Shall I go over the alphabet for you?' 'Yes.' Whereupon the letters were repeated until the spook spelt out, 'I-f F-a-x d-o-n-t g-o o-u-t I w-i-l-l k—' Here I suggested the word 'kill,' and Ada answered 'No.' The spelling continued until the words 'k-i-c-k h-i-m o-u-t' were completed. Mr. Tuson having assured me that 't' always kept its word, and would do whatever 'it' said, I promptly said I would wait to be kicked out, and would consider myself much favored. The spook then refused to comply. Mr. Tuson asked if the spook was jesting, and it said, 'Yes.' My previous suspicions were much strengthened by this night's interview. The movement of Ada was quite perceptible in making the strokes, and the position was always the same, she being partly concealed behind the door. I do not attempt to disclose what I considered a tempt to disclose what I considered a fraud on this occasion, because the spook and Ada were in such bad humor, So I concluded to make another visit."

LAST NIGHT'S SEANCE.

This Mr. Fax did it company with two newspaper men. Ada was snowballing with a girl friend when the party arrived, and she did not appear to be much placed at having her play dismuch pleased at having her play dis-turbed. A lamp was placed in the bed-room so that one-half of the child was visible. The other was behind the door which was opened far enough to enable the child to reach the wall behind the door with her concealed hand. "I see Fax is here again," was the first mes-Fax is here again," was the first message. "Is there any other medium in the city besides Ada?" asked Mr. Tuson. "No," was the reply. "Do you like Fax?" "No" (very emphatically). "Can Mr. Fax get better results after a while?" "No." These questions were not asked in close succession, and between answers Ada's concealed hand would be visible for a moment or so would be visible for a moment or so. But as soon as an answer was required (and the spook was willing) the hand would steal away and remain out of sight until after the answer was given. Mr. Fax held the outside hand and the scraping still continued. But not once could the sound be produced while the hand nearest the wall was held, or while it was requested that both should be shown. This was explained thus by Mr. Tuson: "The moment the element of doubt becomes apparent we find that results cease. "Well," replied Mr. Fax, "why should the results cease as soon as doubt is exhibited? Doubt can exist before being openly exhibited, and why should the results not cease then?"

A PECULIAR DISCOVERY. In the meantime Ada left the bed-room, and with the family's permission the bedroom was examined by the three visitors. An effort was made to produce the sound on the back of the door, but it did not sound like the "spook" at all. Then Mr. Fax moved back some clothes which were hanging from the wall, and distinct signs of repeated scratching were plainly discernable. In fact where the great bulk of the scratching had been done (just above the wainscoting) the wall paper had been worn through for a space of about six inches square. And on the wainscoting the result of the scratching was visible in white powdery dust. While examining the wall Mr. Fax made the same sound as the girl did, using his finger nail. He improved the opportunity to affix to the wall at the place where the scratching was most noticeable three threads blackened with lampblack. Two of the small children came into the room while this was in progress and were kindly asked to retire. Whether the girl became suspi-cious of the device or not, no results could be obtained after this, although repeated efforts were made both in this room and in another.

"Did you know the wall was scratched?" a reporter asked Mrs. Arscott. Mrs. Arscott replied that she noticed the wall that day, and asked, for the sake of the family, that nothing be said about it.

"I have lots of wall paper," said she, "and could easily have covered it over. But we are honest people, and have nothing to fear." It was hinted by Mr. Fax that perhaps the little girl was making the sounds. The whole family combatted this idea, and while the argument went on Ada herself BEGAN TO CRY aloud. It was not a very pleasant task to try and convince the family that their daughter was deceiving them, and motherlike, Mrs. Arscott would not hear of it. She detailed the circumstances attending the origin of the sounds, the trouble she had been put to on account

"I said to Ada after the sounds first apeared, 'Ada, remember that your reputation is at stake, and if you have any knowledge of how the sound is produced stop it."

"'Well, mother, you can be sure if I could stop it it would not be here long," answered the girl. Then Mrs. Arscott pointed out that Rev. Benj. Clement had muffled the girl's hands with a chair tidy, and she asserted that the sound had been produced with both the girl's hands in sight. She said that the family would be as pleased as anyone to know how the sounds were produced. Both Mrs. Arscott and Mr. Tuson admitted that signs of scratching were visible. But they affirmed that the scratching was of other than human agency. Again Mr. Tuson offered to take the reporters to another house where the sounds had been produced for an hour and no signs of scratching were visible. Ada was still crying and refused to let any of the party examine her left hand. She even refused to shake hands with Mr. Fax,

Then she reluctantly gave Mr. Fax her hand, and the seance was over. "I feel perfectly satisfied," said Mr. Fax afterwards, "that Ada is making the sound with her hand upon the wall. The circumstances are suspicious-the body half concealed, the scratched wall, the motions of the body in scratching, and the fact that Ada would not let me look at her fingers. I do not think that the family are aware of how the sound is produced, and I cannot say that I have seen Ada scratch, because I have not had the opportunity to investigate that far. The results cease where close investigation begins."

and was gently chided by her mother.

"SPIRIT" WRITING.

Several "spirit" messages were shown to the reporters. The spelling in some of them is bad, the construction childish and utterly devoid of punctuation or capitalization. The writing was in lead pencil and in a round school hand. One

"America March 7, 1895: My dear friend John Arscott I think your name is send this to america to all my people and they will surely reward you for your kindness if you send ada to america they will reward her well for her trouble I am quite happy the arabham Lincoln president."

Another read: "My dear husband who are those children I did so worry on earth your loving wife I must go" The next was in answer to three questions proposed by a caller the other day: "London March 10—I don't know the reason you did not see me I guess it was carelessness"

"Well I hardly thought you would be around agin but I am" "I must go now when I come next time I will write better and not so large Joseph I am happy.'

Angel's Food.

Dr. Talmage Discourses on the Subject of Seraphic Diet.

The Styles of Food Spread Out Upon the Celestial Tables.

The subject of Dr. Talmage's discourse Sunday afternoon was, "A Seraphic Diet," the text selected being Psalms, lxxviii., 25: "Man did eat an-

Somewhat risky would be the undertaking to tell just what was the manna that fell to the Israelites in the wilderness; of what it was made, how it was made and who made it. The manna was called angels' food, but why so called? Was it because it came from the place where angels live, or because angels compounded it; or because angels did eat it; or because it was good enough for angels? It must have been nutritious, for a nation lived on it for 40 years. It must have been healthful, for it is so inspiringly applauded. It must have been abundant, because it dismissed the necessity of a sutler for a great army. Each person had a ration of three quarts a day allowed to him, and so fifteen million pounds were _ecessary every week. Those were the times of which my text speaks, when That is, why did Christ exchange a be other courses of food in the heavenly menu that I am not aware of, but I know of five or six styles of food always on celestial tables when cherubim and seraphim and archangel gather for heavenly repast; the mystery of redemption; celestialized music; the heavenly picturesque; the sublime colloquoy; eternal enterprises; saintly associations; divine companionship; cele-

There is one subject that excites the curiosity and inquisitiveness of all those angels. St. Peter says: "Which thing the angels desire to look into." That is, why did Shrist exchange a palace for a barn? Why did he drop a scepter from his right hand to take a spear into his left side? Why quit the anthem of the worshiping heavens to hear the crooning of a weary mother's voice? Was a straw better than a garland? "Could it not have been done in some other way?" says angel the first. "Was the human race worth such a sacrifice?" asks angel the sec-ond. "How could heaven get along without him for 33 years?" says angel the third. "Through that assassination may sinful man rise into eternal companionship?" says angel the fourth. And then they all bend toward each other and talk about it and guess about it, and try to fathom it, and prophesy concerning it. But the subject is too big, and they only nibble at it. They only break off a piece of it. They only taste it. They just dip into it. And then one angel cries: "Worthy is the Lamb that was slain!" And another says: "Unsearchable!" And another says: "Past finding out!" And another says: "Alleluia!" And they all fill their cups of gold with the "new wine of the kingdom." Oh, that rapturous, inspiring, transporting theme of the world's ransom! That makes angels' food. Some of the crumbs of that angels' food fall around our wilderness camp today, and we feel like crying like Paul. "Oh, the depth of the riches, both of the wisdom and knowledge of God!" or with expiring Stephen, "Lord Jesus, receive my spirit!" or with many an enraptured soul, "None but Christ! None but Christ!" Pass around this angels' food. Carry it through all these mer will please send in their aisles. Take it among all the hovels, as well as among all the palaces, of the great town. Give all nations a taste of this angels' food. And now bring on another course of angels' food, which is celestialized music. You and I have seen at some concert or oratorio a whole assemblage to whom the music was a feast. Never anything that they took in at the lips of the mouth was so delightful to their taste as that which they took in at the lips of the ear. From what I read in my Bible, I think celestialized music will make up a large part of angels' food. Why do I say "celestialized music?" Because though music may have been born in heaven, it had not all its charms until it came to earth and took a baptism of tears. Since then it has had a pathos and a tenderness that it could not otherwise have possessed. It had to pass under the shadows, and over the stormy seas, and weep at sep-ulchres, and to be hummed as lullaby over the cradle of sick children before it could mount to its present altitudes of heavenly powers. No organ on earth would be complete without the stop, "Tremolo," and the stop, "Vox Humana." And no music of heaven would be complete without the "Tremolo" of earthly sorrow comforted, and the "Vox Humana" of earthly sympathies glorified. Just take up the New Testament and find it a note book of celestialized music. It says Jesus sang a hymn before he went to the Mount of Olives, and if he could sing on earth with Bethlehem humiliation close behind him, and sworn enemies close on both sides of him, and the torments of Golgtha just before him, do you not suppose that he sings in heaven? Paul and Silas sang in midnight dungeon, and do you not suppose that now they sing on the delectable summits? Alas! that some of the great artists of sweet sound have been as distinguished for profligacy as for the way they warbled the song or fingered the keyboard, or trod the organ pedal. Some who have been distinguished bassos, and sopranos, and prima donnas on earth, I fear will never sing the song of Moses and the Lamb, or put the lip to the trumpet with sounds of victory before the throne. But many of the masters who charmed us on earth will more mightily charm us in heaven. Great music hall of eternity! May you and I be there some day to acclaim when the "Halle-lujah Chorus" is wakened. But the one great theme, and the one overmastering tone that shall carry all before it, and uplift all heaven from central throne to furthest gate of pearl, and to highest capstone of amethyst, will be, "Unto him who loved us, and washed us from our sins in his own for all heaven to feed on. That will be a banquet for immortals. That will be angels' food. Another course of angel's food is Laying Out of Mighty Enterprise. The Bible lets us know positively that the angels have our world's affairs on their heart. They afford the rapid transit from world to world. Ministering spirits, escorting spirits, defending spirits, guardian spirits. Yea, they have all worlds on their thoughts. We are told they sang together at the creation and they sang together at the creation, and that implied not only the creation of our world, but of other worlds. Shall they plan only for our little planet, and be unconcerned for a planet 300 times larger? No. They have all the galaxies under their observation; mighty schemes of helpfulness to be laid out and executed; shipwrecked worlds to be towed in; planetary fires to be put out; demoniac hosts riding up to be hurled back and down. When they sit together in the heavenly places, Gabriel and Michael, the archangel; and the angel that pointed Hagar to the fountain in the desert; and the angel that swung pen the prison door of delivered Peter; to carry a few pins about her.

and the angels who are to be the reapers at the end of the world; and the angel that stood by Paul to encourage him on the foundering corn-ship of Alexandria; and the two angels that sentineled the tomb of Christ; and the four angels that St. John saw in Apocalypse at the four corners of the earth; and the twelve angels that guard the twelve swinging pearls; and the twenty thousand charioted angels that the Psalmist described; and more radiant than all of them put together, and mightier than all, and lovelier than all, "That Angel of the Covenant": the cadences of his voice, the best music that ever entranced mortal or immortal ears; His smile another noon risen on midnoon; His presence enough to make a heaven if there were no other attraction-I say, when they meet together in the council chambers close to the throne -Ah! that will be regalement infinite. That will be a repast supernal. That known people who prided themselves on never getting excited. They have cultivated the phlegmatic. You never caw them cry; you never heard them in a burst of laughter. I am afraid of a man or a woman who cannot cry; I am afraid of a man or a woman who cannot laugh. Christ says in the book of Revelation that such people are to Him nauseating, and cause regurgitation. (Revelation, iii., 16.) "Because thou art lukewarm, and neither cold nor hot. I will spue thee out of my mouth." the angels in heaven have no stolidity or unresponsiveness. There is one thing that agitates them into holy mirth, and they run into their neighbors' on the same golden street and tell the good news. When is it? It is when a man or woman down in the world who was all wrong, by the grace of God is made all right (Luke, xv., 10.) "There is joy in the presence of the angels of God over one sinner that repenteth." Why are they so happily agitated? Because they know what a tremendous thing it is to turn clear around from the wrong road and take the right road. It is because they know the difference between swine's trough, with nothing but husks, and a king's banquet with angel's food. The fact is, my hearers, there are people in heaven who would like to hear from you. Your children there are wondering when father and mother will come into the kingdom, and with more glee than they ever danced in the hall-way at your coming home at eventide they will dance on the floor of the heavenly mansion at the tidings of father and mother saved. Besides that, the old folks want to hear from you. They are standing at the head of the celes-tial stairs waiting for the news that battling, suffering, sinning, weeping. Why can not they see that Christ is the only one who can help, and comfort and save?" That is what they are saying about you. And if you will this hour in one prayer of surrender that will not take more than a second to make decide this. then, swifter than telegraphic dispatch the news would reach them, and angels of God who never fell would join your glorified kindred in celebration, and the caterers of heaven would do their best, and saints and seraphs side by side would take angel's food. Considerable Work Done in a Short Session.

A Commission to Look Into the University Troubles-Hamilton's Radial Road to Branch Out Further.

(Special to the "Advertiser." TORONTO, Ont., March 11 .- A spirit of peace and forbearance seemed today to have taken the place of the intenser emotions which filled the House last week. Mr. Whitney, the lieutenant of the leader of the Opposition, exemplified this when he moved for returns affecting the University troubles which are now attracting so much attention. In terms of studied moderation Mr. Whitney pressed his request for the information which he desired, and in terms equally pleasant Hon. Mr. Ross acknowledged his courtesy, promised that the commission which has been granted will make a thorough investigation into the trouble existing, and assented to the giving of the returns. The entire passage lent a certain amount of interest to an otherwise dull

Though quiet, more business was done today than on any private members' day in the session. Half a dozen bills-chiefly to amend the long-suffering municipal and assessment actswere given their second reading and sent on to the more searching investigation of the municipal committee. Besides this, the thirst for information of a number of members was satisfied by Ministers and some miscellaneous business transacted. The session lasted three-quarters of an hour, and it was a fairly well spent afternoon.

Among the petitions is one from the Hamilton Radial Electric Company asking for an amendment to their act of incorporation which will enable them to operate their lines to Guelph, Mount Forest and Berlin by steamer, electri-city or boat, and also to increase their bonding powers on these branches from $20,000 to $30,000 a mile. The desire to lap the G. T. R. at or near Guelph, and therefore to have a solid road bed, is the cause assigned for the request.

Rumors of a Return of Mr. Kent's Illness

Without Foundation. OTTAWA, March 12.-There is no truth in the rumor current today that Mr. George H. Kent, employed here by the British North American Bank Note Printing Company, whose recovery from Bright's disease through the medium of Dodd's Kidney Pills, has been so extensively chronicled through the press, has suffered a relapse. Mr. Kent is still in the enjoyment of the health which he has regained, and is able to attend to the somewhat trying work in which he is engaged without inconvenience, and states most emphatically that he is in no dread of a return of his dread malady, so long as he is within reach of a drug store, and is able to procure he same means for the alleviation of his sufferings.

Report of the Government Commissioner, J. B. Laing.

It States That Ex-Treasurer Nicholls Still Owes the Village $900.

The Corporation Without Funds-Will Borrow $1,000 to Meet Current Expenditures-Kicking Against Peddlers-A Bad Corner.

The almost incessant trouble over the village books, which has brewed in London West ever since the inception of the Macdonald regime last year, has at last been settled in a very satisfactory manner-to the council, at least. It will be remembered that when Mr. D. C. Macdonald and Mr. Wm. Moore took office as reeve and councilor respectively, they announced their intention of overhauling village affairs. They did. The then clerk and treasurer were dismissed, but the collector, John M. Lord, absconded. New officials were appointed, and the ex-treasurer's books were audited by County Auditor W. D. Stanley, but the council, though receiving Mr. Stanley's report, asked for an audit of the village books for ten years back. Mr. J. B. Laing was appointed to make the audit, which took sixteen days. His report was read at the regular meeting of the village council last night, and it contained one announcement which rather unexpected. It was that Mr. Wm. Nicholls, the ex-treasurer, was still indebted to the village to the extent of $904, although he had paid over some $800 which he had in hand after throwing up the reins of office.

THE REPORT. "Pursuant to instructions conveyed in your honor's commission of the 31st of January, 1895, I proceeded to London West on the 5th of February, and with the exception of the interval of a fortnight, have been engaged in the investigation since that time. The delay alluded to was caused by certain of the books of the municipality being wanted by the High Court of Justice. "It was considered advisable by the reeve and council that my audit should commence with the year 1894. I thought it best to make an abstract of the cash books from January of last year, and the same is appended herewith. scarcely necessary to say that the books have been badly kept. The only fairly kept books were the cash books, and they could not be depended upon implicitly. The ledgers cannot be considered as throwing any light on the

AN UNFORTUNATE VILLAGE. "The municipality may be considered as having been exceptionally unfortunate. In 183 a flood destroyed some twelve or fifteen lives and damaged a large amount of property. The following year a breakwater was built at $3,288 66. a cost of over $20,000, payments extending over several years. The assessment of the village in 1884 was $258,373, and the rate of taxation 16 penses. mills on the dollar; in 1894 it had reached $321,105; rate of taxation, 25 mills on the dollar.

"In 1889 John M. Lord was appointed tax collector, and in 1894 he absconded, leaving a large deficit. I append statement showing that he acknowledges a shortage of $1,533 53. Lord was tried last month by the senior county judge and discharged on suspended sentence.

"Neither has the late treasurer, Mr. W. Nicholls, been able to make his accounts balance. I inclose statement tors. showing a debit balance of $904 not accounted for.

DEBENTURE DEBT. "There is a floating debt against the municipality, but there is a debenture debt of $39,500, which is carried at an average interest of 5 per cent; $9,000 of the debentures mature in 1898, $20,000 in 1905, and $10,500 in 1923. No provision has so far been made for a sinking

"I inclose printed statement under the signature of the reeve, Mr. Mac-donald, and the treasurer, Mr. Rockett, which is correct, with the exception of the item in assets, $326 36, which should

"The separate school board state to me that they have not received that consideration at the hands of the municipality to which they are entitled. There has been no division of school property made in the assessment. To and Mr. Guest stated that they went input matters on a proper basis, the board has agreeed to accept $300, in settlement of all back claims up to Jan. 1, 1895, and after that it is understood that the separate school assessments be made as provided by law. "The accounts of Mr. Rockett, the newly appointed treasurer, from May, 1894, to Jan. 1, 1895, I have ascertained to be correct.

AMALGAMATING WITH THE CITY. "Under the management of the present reeve and council, I have no doubt the municipality will materially imunder the old regime the village has fared so badly. "I am of the opinion that with a few years careful management the position of the municipality will be such that the adjoining city of London will be glad to admit London West as an additional ward. It is to be remarked, however, that at the present time neither the city nor the village manifest any desire to throw in their lot to-

"There having been so many disputes and so much dissatisfaction about the numerous different audits in past years I would strongly recommend that in the future two experienced men be appointed, say one from the city and one from the village, and that the treasurer's accounts be audited quarterly."

The report was accompanied by a statement containing information of great interest, and which showed by the auditor's records how Mr. Nicholls, the ex-treasurer, still owed the village the $904. Here is 8 659 92 Added to this, however, Mr. Laing stated that Mr. Nicholls is indebted to the village for interest on taxes, as follows: 1889, as per statement, $61 54; 1890, estimate, $25; 1891, $63 88; 1892, $78 24; 1893, $15 42; or a total of $244 08, making the balance unaccounted for by the late treasurer as $904. Councilor Moore read the report, and stated that it would cost the village $219 50, besides the clerk's expenses. Reeve Macdonald reviewed the state-ment at length, and said that, though the breakwater was said to have cost $20,000, he did not believe that sum of money was ever put into the work. The report gave him a great deal of satisfaction, and yet sorrow-sorrow because of such defalcations on the part of officers, and satisfaction because the village had an idea where they stood. The reeve also thought it would be a wise step to petition the Legislature for a grant of $4,000 or $5,000 for assistance. Councilor Moore thought a man would have a pretty good "face" to make such a petition to make up the deficiencies of two or three men who had stolen village money. Councilor Hamilton-There is one man who has been proven dishonest, but relative to Mr. Nicholls I cannot blame him. Mr. Moore-As far as that is concerned, I do not think it would be very difficult to prove. Take Nicholls' books and you will find he has some $400 of false entries in them. What can you say but that it is a clear case of embezzlement? The entries were marked in red ink by the auditors. The only difference between the two men is that one took the money and saved it, while the other took the money and spent it. The resurrection of old "sores" was terminated by the reeve calling the council to order and Councilor Hamilton moving that the account for $904 be presented to Mr. Nicholls for immediate payment.

It is understood that Mr. Nicholls will refuse to hand over the cash.

FINANCES ARE LOW. Reeve Macdonald stated that, like the majority of people, the village was very hard up. He submitted the treasurer's report for February. At the beginning of the month there was a balance on hand of $707 49; received on 1893 taxes, $28 98; taxes for 1894, $196 94; total, $933 41. Of this $316 had been paid as interest on the county rate, $225 on the school account, and $89 06 in other sources, leaving a balance of $303 35. On Feb. 28. Of this $300 had been paid on coupons, but small amounts had come in until the village deposits in the bank amounted to about $80.

Collector Jones' statement showed on the 1894 rolls taxes to $8,679 72 were entered. The amount collected was $5,391 06, leaving unpaid "We are short of money," said Councilor Moore, "and I have not got sufficent funds to meet the current ex-A bylaw was passed authorizing the borrowing of $1,000 for three month at

He stated that owing to the action of the city council in raising peddlers' licenses the village would be overrun with these people. The loss to the gro-cers would be considerable. He asked that the council take some steps to prevent an influx of these unwelcome visi-Councilor Moore stated that the village council had no power to comply with the request. It was wholly in the hands of the county councilors, and these gentlemen will be asked to furnish a remedy for the impending evil.

Mr. Jones asked the council to take steps to have the Springbank sluice ways raised during the spring freshet. Councilor Hamilton replied that a deputation from the village had been courteously received by Mayor Little, and a promise made that the city would do all in its power to prevent any damage

WORST IN CANADA.

Mr. Thomas Guest and a large number of residents in the vicinity of Black-friars' bridge applied for an electric light at the corner of Napier and Blackfriars streets. The corner was the hangout for a crowd of most unruly boys to his barn and smoked cigarettes and damaged his property. Mr. Ludwig cor roborated Mr. Guest's statements, saying the corner was one of the worst in Canada. The light was granted. Chairman Ludwig, of the school board, inquired as to the duties of the truant officer, Constable Ward. Reeve Macdonald explained that it was the duty of the board to recommend the appointment of an officer, and the council would act thereon. The council had to pay the salary. Complaints had been made that the officer was neglecting the municipality will materially improve. It is much to be regretted that attention to the fact that Constable Ward had not yet presented a report of the last year's work. He favored put-ting the position "on the market," and receiving applications for the same. It would be open to the world. Several other matters between the council and the board are unsettled, and a joint meeting will be held in Friday night. The advisability of placing a vault in the school house basement, for the safe keeping of the village books, will also oe considered. Joseph E. Rogers, the Ontario Government detective, asked that the council pay him $35, the amount of his expeenses on a trip to Detroit after the defaulting ex-collector. Reeve Macdonald stated that the Ontario Government had agreed to bear $200 of the extradition expenses in Lord's case, and on these grounds a resolution was passed refusing to acknowledge the account.

Both Alike Injured by the Present System of Taxation.

Some Telling Facts by the Ontario Minister of Agriculture.

(Hon. John Dryden, at Whitby.) The Dominion Government say the policy of the Liberal party is going to injure the manufacturer. He claimed that the National Policy, as it is today, was doing that; that the policy of the Liberals, by giving them cheaper raw material, would do more for them than a rebate to enable them to sell machines to people who were of a darker color than they were. (Cheers.) He referred to the Massey-Harris Company as a proof that cheap raw material would be beneficial to the manufacturer. They were seeking for power to start a factory on the other side, so as to be enabled to have cheap raw material and compete with the people who, the protectionist claim, we are afraid of. (Great cheering.) He showed that the National Policy was against the interest of the workingman; that very few mechanics today were able to work full time. The shops were continually being closed down. Either the "market was glutted" or they "could not get the con-tract." But the worst things they said were: "We have saved the home market for the farmer," "The Liberals would destroy their interests," "We are the farmers' friends." Well, continued Mr. Dryden, what have they done for the farmer? They have made some of us sick with such talk. They have given us the chance to buy such a machine from the Massey-Harris Company at a dearer rate than our brethren in the antipodes. (Cheers and laughter.) Do we get more for our peas and our barey? "I see," continued Mr. Dryden, 'the farmers in the audience are smiling -they know what I mean. Let us see: In Buffalo on Jan. 13 barley was 72 cents, in Toronto 45 cents; on April 14, in Buffalo 73 cents, in Toronto 43 cents; on Sept. 9, in Buffalo 66 cents, in Toronto 40 cents; on Nov. 10, in Buffalo 64 cents, in Toronto 44 cents." With fine irony, amid the applause of the audience, Mr. Dryden asked: "Is that the kind of protection you want?" t was the same with cattle, sheep, lambs, pigs, wheat and oats. The prices were higher in the American markets than here in Canada. Some people might suppose that because they have so much grain and cattle over on the other side it would be cheaper there, but it was not so. The market is controlled in England. And then they say: "We have kept the other fellow out; you have the bages and onions? If it is, let us hear of it. The farmers have got tired of waiting for this home market. Mr. Dryden then, with some indigna-tion, for which he asked the audience to excuse him, saying he was a farmer and proud of it-(cheers)-referred to speech of Mr. Long at Collingwood in which that gentleman was reported to have said: "If the agricultural class were not doing well it was their own fault; and if the farmers were as industrious and as thrifty as they were when they were getting a dollar a bushel for their wheat, they would make as much money now, because the purchasshould they not have a piano or a buggy or any other luxury? CITY ELECTRIC RAILWAY IN SIGHT.

After less than two months' hard labor the City Council of 1895 have brought the inauguration of the electric street railway system in London within sight. The situation was not without many difficulties, but by a policy of conciliation, of give and take, on the part of the respective negotiators, a provisional agreement was last night arrived at, and now only requires the finishing touches of the city solicitor and the legal agents of the street railway company to make it ready for signature and final ratification, Citizens generally will rejoice that the work of changing the system and of more than doubling the length of the lines, as they now exist, will likely be begun at an early date, and that 't is probable that before next fall the trolley will take the place of the horses on the main lines now operated. The new works will put much money in circulation, and be beneficial to citizens generally. Hasten their inauguration, gentlemen!

-London West taxpayers will probably insist in future that every auditor appointed must really audit. Frequent examination of corporation accounts by experts is the best safeguard against wrongdoing, and competent and faithful public servants will welcome it. A "LIFE" OF SIR JOHN THOMPSON. Mr. J. Castell Hopkins, formerly an editorial writer on the Toronto Empire, has given to the public the "Life and India. Work of the Right Hon. Sir John Thompson, P.C., K.C.M.G., Q.C., Prime Minister of Canada," published by Bradley, Garretson & Co., Toronto. The book contains 479 pages, which have been written and completed since Sir John Thompson died on the 12th of December last. It is not remarkable, therefore, that even a casual reader should discover some crudities in style and not a few typographical errors, which would undoubtedly be avoided in a book written with care and deliberation. Mr. Hopkins seems to have compiled his book at express train speed, fearful lest someone else might anticipate him. He has failed to divest himself of the partisan, also. How much improved would be his work if he co have brought to bear upon it the fairness toward those politically opposed to him of a Justin McCarthy, who, in his "History of Our Own Times," has set an example of impartial treatment that might well be followed by writers of contemporary history, whether biographical or general. Sir John Thompson was undoubtedly one of the ablest men that Canada ever produced. Friend and foe admitted it. His reputation would not suffer one whit if his biographer were somewhat fairer in his dealing with the dead statesman's political opponents. The best biographer is a brief for a political side.

Little that was not already known is found in this book. Some facts that are known seem, in his haste, to have been overlooked by Mr. Hopkins. For example, referring to Sir John Thompson's departure for England, from which it was fated he should never return alive, the author says: "No one, however, supposed that Sir John was in the slightest danger, or that his illhealth was anything more than the natural and temporary result of too much work and too little exercise and recreation. His most intimate friends did not have the faintest conception that the end of that active and distinguished career was at hand." The declaration of Sir Charles Hibbert Tupper, when informed of the death of his chief, must have been overlooked by Mr. Hopkins. Sir Charles declared that the news, startling though it was to most of us, was not altogether unexpected by him. "We knew," he said, when Sir John left for England that he was a doomed man." The understanding, indeed, we have been told by one well informed, was for Sir John to get his imperial honors, and then return to hurry on the elections, so that, as has been explained, they might be held while he remained Pre-this biography. Next to the impression that it is written not only by an admirer but by a partisan of a very pronounced type, is the irresistible conclusion that is forced upon the reader that in the death of Sir John Thompson the men now in power at Ottawa lost by far their ablest man. Mr. Hopkins makes it plainer than ever that it was the influence of Sir John Thompson, aided by the elder Tupper, which alone enabled Sir John Macdonald to pull through the last general election with a majority of less than 30. The biographer emphasizes the fact that Mr. Abbott was only a stop-gap Premier-that the real power behind the throne was Sir John Thompson. He proves that by his remarkable clear-headedness and power of putting the best face even on an indifferent case-the Administration, discredited by the worst scandals that ever were proved against a Ministry in an English-speaking community, was able to retain the confidence of its usual followers with hardily an exception. The loss to the country of so talented a man was great; to the Conservative party, in its present condition, irreparable. Since Sir John Thompson's death the scene has changed.

THE BREAD AND BUTTER QUES-TION.

During 1894 Great Britain imported 181,000,000 bshels of wheat. To supply her the chief competing countries were: In the new world, Canada, the United States and the Argentine Republic; in the old world, Russia and India. At a recent gathering of distinguished Englishmen, Mr. Crawford, a Government statistician, read a paper on the subject of the sources from which in future Britain would be moved to obtain her needed wheat supplies, Basing his calculations of the cost of wheat growing in the United States on some recent returns made by the Agricultural Department, which may be as reliable as such estimates usually are, though they have been criticised by some as too low, Mr. Crawford gives the following comparison of the cost of

In England.......100 In Western States of America...... 70

India 66 Russia, if these figures are reliable, produces wheat cheaper than Dakota. Some of the older statisticians present questioned this very much, and Mr. Crawford threw himself heavily upon the statistics of Hon. J. Sterling Morton, at the head of the United States Department of Agriculture. Inquiries were made as to why Argentina was left out of the comparison. It was difficult to obtain estimates from there, as the development was of such recent date. The general opinion was that Argentina could beat the world in the wheat business. There were others present who seriously questioned whether Mr. Crawford had not put India too high. They did not believe that Russia could beat

To all of those questions the reader of the paper replied:

"The exact measure in which the lower cost of production in the great wheat exporting countries will be reflected in the value of their grain in consuming markets depends, of course, on the charges for conveying grain to its destination. These charges, as I have shown, have been materially reduced in the 25 years, 1860-93, the reduction amounting, on the whole, to not less than 50 per cent. Here, then, we have two factors of some significance, which should not be forgotten when other theories are advanced to acount for the fall in the price of wheat."

In conclusión, Mr. Crawford thus summarizes his investigation: "In concluding this brief examination of some of the circumstances connected with the changes in the price of wheat, it may be desirable that I should indicate the general results of my inquiry. One conclusion seems obvious. No single factor can be pointed to as the sole cause of these changes. They have been effected by a combination of circumstances. But it would seem to be clear that an important element in the situation since 1879-81 has been the settlement and exploitation of fertile areas of vergin soil in the United States, which can be made to produce a given quantity of wheat at a lower cost than would be incurred in raising the same quantity in the older fields of production. This development has been concurrent with, and, indeed, facilitated by extensions and improvements in the channels of communication and transport. Examples have been given of the estimated cost of production in three great countries contributing to the bread supply of the United Kingdom. not he who deems it necessary to hold It has been shown that in a group of States producing two-thirds of the wheat crop of the United States, the estimated cost of production is 3 shillings and 3 pence (78 cents) per bushel, while in Dakota wheat can be grown at an outlay of 2 shillings and 8 (64 cents) per bushel. On a belt of black soil extending across the southern half of the Russian Empire a bushel of spring wheat (this variety forms the bulk of the crop) can be produced, according to the official estimates, at an average cost of 2 shillings and 6 pence (60 cents). An official calculation puts the cost of production in India at 3 shillings and 1 penny (74 cents per bushel, converting the rupee at its exchange value in the year in which the official estimate was made, 1879-80." Here is an interesting table for Canadian readers. showing that, in spite of the low price of wheat, Russia continues to export in increasing quantities. The total export of wheat from Russia in periods of five years since 1869 has been as follows: .266,087,000 1884-88....430,712,000 1889-93....591,497,000 1874-78....321.220.000

1879-83....337,665,000 A careful examination of all these data by Mr. Robert P. Porter, a United States investigator, indicates that in spite of some advantages which India has, and which the Argentines are developing, Russia stands the best chance in the future of securing the largest share of the 181,000,000 bushels of wheat with the fact, made the point that this | Jeffrey were fined $10 was a fearful power for one country to have over another. A stroke of the pen could thus stop England's supply of food in the event of a war with Russia. Mr. Porter says Uncle Sam would case. But what does he say to the motherland drawing her supplies of wheat from this great Dominion? Here we have millions upon millions of acres of land suitable for wheat cultivation. We have but to make it easy for farmers to earn a decent living on our virgin lands to become more and more the successful rival of Russia and the Argentine Republic, and all other wheat growing lands. We make bold to say that with greater freedom to take British products in exchange for our great farm staples, British imports of Canadian wheat will enormously increase, because by this means the cost of transportation will be decreased. There will be cargoes both ways, and those who in Canada live by supplying the wants of the agricultural population will, with them, be benefited. The settlement of our Northwest-the future prosperity of Canada, indeeddepends upon the greatest possible freedom to buy from and sell to our customers, whether they are found in Great Britain or elsewhere.

GRAND TRUNK INVESTIGATION.

Mr. Barker's Report-A Technical and Lengthy Document-Advances to the Chicago and Grand Trunk.

A cable from the Montreal Star's special correspondent says: At the last half-yearly meeting of the Grand Trunk Railway a committee of dissatisfied shareholders asked for an investigation of the road's accounts. This was agreed to by the board, and Mr. Samuel Barker, formerly of the Great Western, was chosen for the work. Various reports with reference to Mr. Barker's report have been in circulation, stating that a floating indebtedness had been found, etc. The report was handed to a Star correspondent today. The report on the Grand Trunk affairs is addressed other leading Grand Trunk stockhold ers who formed the deputation that not to the board, but to Mr. Price and insisted on the examination. It is strictly an accountant's inquiry, covering fifteen closely-printed pages, and is hinghly technical. It makes no comments. The deputation complains that the board has not issued with the report a detailed statement, without which it is difficult to understand the report. The deputation therefore are also circulating an abstract of the chief statements, and inviting the proprietors of the stock to forward their names with a view to a conference of the largest security-holders. Mr. Barker's report to the committee of dissatisfied shareholders states that the authorized loan and capital are correctly stated in the board's report as bearing an annual interest not exceeding £1,374,690, of which £45,000 are unexercised. The advances made on account of Chicago and Grand Trunk are £520,850. The deputation's analysis of Mr. Barker's report shows that besides £377,614 advanced to the Chicago and Grand Trunk, included in the company's asset of accounts due, £143,236 have also been advanced, and do not appear in the Grand Trunk balance sheet as an asset or as debited to Chicago and Grand Trunk. For these advances the Grand Trunk hold coupons amounting to £697,-074, yet in the report for December, the board said the suspense ac counts had been wiped out. The delegation deduce from the report that between May, 1888, and June, 1894, the Grand Trunk Company took out of its gross earnings £37,561 to make up the deficit on the interest of the Toledo, Saginaw and Muskegon road. These advances do not appear in the Grand Trunk accounts as a deficit against the Toledo road, but the Grand Trunk holds the unpaid coupons of the road for these advances. Yet during the same period there was credited in the Grand Trunk net balance statement as interest on the Toledo bonds £38,207, nearly the whole of which had been deducted from the Grand Trunk's own gross earnings, in addition to the £13,735 shown in the Grand Trunk balance sheet as accounts due to the company. The other accounts to and obligations of the Detroit, Grand Haven and Milwaukee road amount to £219,531. Barker finds that the board cotained, to June 30, 1894, temporary loans of 390,000. The deputation says that Mr. Barker shows that it has apparently been the custom of the Grand Trunk to include in the deduction of interest on

So speaks Maxwell Johnson, 112 Ann street ,Toronto: My six-year-old daughter, Bella, was afflicted with eczema for 24 months, the principal seat of eruption being behind her ears and on her face; her head was on fire with painful, burning itching, which was made worse by constant scratching and tearing it with her hands. We spent money without stint in constant endeavor to afford the little sufferer relief, every adver-tised remedy was tried; innumerable treatments with soaps and medicines and specific treatment by physicians having high endorsements in curing such diseases were of no relief in her case. A short time ago I purchased a box of Dr. Chase's Ointment, the first application of which showed the curative effect of the ointment; only one-half of the box has been used, with the marked change of an entire disappearance of the eruptions, and I can confidently say my child is permanently cured. The Council Passes the Electric Railway Agreement.

kt Will Undoubtedly be Accepted by the Company.

The Bridges and Routes Difficulties Settled.

The Company to Cross Oxford, Dundas, Victoria, York and Clark's Bridges Streets to be Traversed-All Pending Litigation to be Dropped.

After more than three years of dickering, delay, difficulty and disappointment, the City Council last night passed an electric railway agreement. That it will be accepted by the London Street Railway Company at once there is hardly any reason to doubt.

It was a night of genuine solid work. The mayor conducted the business on the rapid transit plan, and though every one was allowed to express his opinion obstructive aldermen were made to clear the track. The city and company have hitherto been separated chiefly by the bridge clause. But the difficulty was bridged over at a preliminary meeting of the finance committee in the afternoon by a proposition of Ald. J. W. Jones. The route question has also been a rock on which the council always split in the past; but, ably piloted, they steered pretty clear of it last night. To be sure nearly every alderman thought his ward entitled to more, and squared himself with his constituents by a vigorous kick in that direction; but if he didn't secure it, he had the satisfaction of preventing other wards from getting it, so that honors were even. As the company had given its ultimatum with respect to routes, the council could do no better. The proposed new service covers eighteen miles and is a vast improvement over the present one.

When the council was called to order Ald. Jones at once launched into the agreement.

Clause one, providing for an average working day of ten hours and not more than 60 hours per week, was carried unanimously.

Clause two dealt with the bridges, and Ald. Jones presented his substitute for the previous one as follows:

(a) That the street railway company be allowed the privilege of extending the abutments of the Westminster bridge (on the north or south side of the said bridge as the city may hereafter determine), and of laying a single track upon Stanley street, with the necessary turn-out to be placed under the direction of the city engineer, said switch to be at the west, end of Stanley street and not more than 400 feet long, provided the company erect upon said extended abutments a superstructure separate and distinct from the existing passenger bridge, said superstructure to be used for the purposes of the railway company only, and to be the sole property of the company, and that the approaches thereto on each side of the river be made at the expense of the company. (b) That the company be allowed to extend the abutments of the Victoria bridge and to erect their own superstructure thereon, or to remove the present structure and replace it with a new 20-foot roadway bridge, the material in the old bridge in case of removal to belong to the company, the company have a half proprietary interest in the new superstructure.

(c) That the company be permitted to use Clark's bridge, providing they strengthen and replank same to the satisfaction of the city engineer, it be-ing understood that should the city at any time within five years deem it to be in the public interest that a separate bridge be erected across the river at this point for the company's purposes, the company will, within twelve months notice of such desire, build a separate bridge, and within the same time the company will remove its tracks from Clark's bridge. Should the city exercise the option within three years, the company to be allowed one-half the cost of the said strengthening and replanking the said bridge; the city agreeing to pay one-half the cost of such new structure, such half-cost not to exceed $4,000, and further, that in consideration of the above, all existing litigation between the London Street Railway Company and the city to be withdrawn, the company paying all the costs as between solicitor and

(d) That the company be granted the privilege in so far as the city has the power of crossing Oxford street bridge, providing the company strengthen and replank same, if necessary, to the satisfaction of the city engineer. The company to have the right in so far as the city has the power to grant it of extending the abutments of the Dundas street bridge and building a bridge for its own use at the

THE FIRST KICK.

The first kick came from Ald. Pritchard, who moved that the company be not granted power to use the York street bridge or build a bridge by the side of it, or use Stanley street at all. on account of the heavy traffic on it.
If the city did it would rue the day.
In a few years it would have to build a new bridge at a cost of $14,000 or $15,-

Ald. Weld moved that the clause be referred back and an agreement made with the company to construct a bridge at King street at the cost of the city if necessary. It would be in-human treatment to run on York

Ald. Weld's amendment was lost-13

Clause A was then carried.

ANOTHER CLAUSE. Ald. Pritchard kicked again on clause B. He moved to the effect that the B. He moved to the effect that the company be not permitted to use Victoria bridge. "It is something outrageous. Surely you don't realize what you're doing," he said in a melodramatic tone. "You won't have a single farmer come in to the city if you cut off all the approaches."

"Where will they go to trade then?" asked Ald. Armstrong. "London is the only available market."
Ald. Jones—To Komoka. (Laughter.)
Ald. Pritchard's amendment was voted down again.

Clause B passed-12 to 3. Clause C was first amended so that if a new bridge is built the company will have a half proprietary interest. Mr. Ivey announced that he was prepared to give an ultimatum on the company's behalf tonight. He wished the clause further amended so that all litigation between the city and company be dropped, and each side pay its own costs.

zens. He moved that the same conditions apply as in the case of Clark's bridge. Lost—15 to 2.

Ald. Carrothers moved that the same conditions apply to Oxford street bridge as to Dundas street. Lost, Ald. Pritchard, O'Meara, Carrothers and Garratt voting yea. Garratt voting yea.

The clause passed, the same four voting nay, with the addition of Ald.

Weld.

The next clause dealt with the routes. Each alderman had been provided with a copy.

Ald. Garratt wanted a day to consider it.

The system covered eighteen miles, Ald. Jones explained. He said that the company had endeavored to cover the area on which there was the most traffic. Everbody couldn't have the railroad at his door, but all that was possible had been secured from the com-pany. The Hamilton road line would be extended to Pine street if permission could be secured from the Government to cross the Grand Trunk tracks. The city would have an electric railway second to none on the continent the cheapest fares in the country, and real estate dealers would not have to pay for the improvements in front of their property. The company would supply the material and do the work. Ald. Garratt objected, and pressed his amendment for a day's consideration. Lost.

On Ald. Armstrong's motion the routes were taken up ward by ward.
WARD ONE. The road in ward 1 traverses Dundas street, Richmond street south to Horton, Horton to Victoria bridge, York street, from Richmond to the York street bridge; the entire length of Thames street; Bathurst, from Richmond to Clarence; Clarence, from Ba-thurst to Simcoe; Simcoe, east to Wellington, where two routes branch of into the third ward, one south on Wellington over Clark's bridge, the other east on Simcoe to the Hamilton road. The route was approved, a motion to strike out York street being lost. WARD TWO.

No. 2 ward is traversed, Richmond, from Dundas to Regent street, branching east on Oxford and Pall Mall streets into the fourth ward.

The route was approved. A motion to have the line on Central avenue was lost. The company will extend their line on Oxford street west of Richmond if London West gives them permission to cross the bridge.

WARD THREE. The proposed route in No. 3 ward is along Simcoe street (from Richmond via Bathurst, Horton and Wellington) to the Hamilton road, and down the Hamilton road as far as Rectory street. Another branch runs from Horton street south on Wellington over Clark's bridge.

Ald. Carrothers had several amendments. He wanted the road to run on Hill street to Adelaide, thence to the Hamilton road, with the option of using South street. Lost-10 to 7-and the clause carried.

WARD FOUR.

No. 4 ward lines were as follows:

Oxford street, Adelaide to Richmond; Pall Mall, Richmond to Waterloo. south on Waterloo to Central avenue, east on Central avenue to Adelaide, south on Adelaide to Dundas.

Ald. Garratt wanted a line on Colborne street. Lost. Ald. Dreaney wanted the gap filled up on Adelaide street from Oxford to Central avenue, making a belt line. Ald. Jones said the company refused to make the railway crossings. Ald. Dreaney's amendment lost and the clause carried. WARD FIVE.

No. 5 ward's share was all lines east of Adelaide, including the Adelaide street line from Central avenue to Dundas; the Dundas street line east to the city limits, and Rectory street, from Dundas to the Hamilton road, where it meets the Hamilton road line. The construction of the Rectory street line depends on whether the company secures permission to cross the Grand Trunk tracks.

Ald. Dreaney moved that the line be extended on the Hamilton road to Egerton street, with the option of crossing to Dundas street either on Egerton or Rectory. Lost.

Ald. Weld moved that it be imperative for the company to cross from the Hamilton road to Dundas street without stipulating the street. Lost. The clause carried, and the connection between Dundas street and the Hamilton road will therefore be made via Rectory street if it is made at all. It is understood the company will make every effort to secure permission from the Privy Council to cross the Grand Trunk tracks on this street. WARD SIX.

No. 6 ward's tracks will be laid on

Stanley street from the York street bridge to the Wharncliffe road, thence south on the Wharncliffe to Askin, thence east on Askin to the Wortley road, thence south on the Wortley to Elmwood avenue east, commonly known as James street), thence east on Elmwood avenue to Ridout

VICTORIEN SARDOU The Great Dramatist.

The mobile features of this great man are seen above. Sardou is the great wizard of the stage, clothing his characters in flesh and blood, and making them live. He makes, not mummies, but men and women, as witness the realistic portrayals of Bernhardt, - chiefly the master's thought. When body and brain are weary with work, anything that will drive away the blues must possess a great value, It is the ver-dict of Sardou that "Vin Mariani," the great tonic-stimulant, possesses this subtle power. This is what the great man says; if Vin Mariani' is perfect, gives health, drives away the blues, and is of such excellent quality that who ever tastes it might almost desire to be forever debilitated and depressed, thus to have a pretext to drink Celebrated men and women, the world over, have spoken similarly of the stimu-lating, nourishing effects of "Vin Mariani" upon body and brain. A preparation from pure grapes and carefully selected coca leaves, "Vin Mariani" is more tonic than quinine, and yet it never constipates. For the convalescent it is invaluable; for all enfeebled people, it has a magic restorative property. Send your name to Lawrence A. Wilson & Co., Montreal, the Canadian Agents, and you will receive an album containing the portraits of a large number of celebrated people, who have used "Vin Mariani" with wonderful results, and who speak highly of it.

street south, thence north on Ridout street south to Victoria bridge. The only other line in South London is a stub one, running two blocks south from Clark's bridge to Maryboro

The representatives of ward 6 made a vigorous kick for more railway. Ald. Parnell wanted it extended on the Wortley road to Briscoe street. It would give facilities to a thickly settled area of six blocks, which would have no facilities at all under the present pro-

Ald. O'Meara said No. 6 would have more road than any ward in the city. It had less population and paid less taxes. He moved that all lines west of Westminster bridge and the Wortley road be cut off. This seemed a joke at the expense of ward 6 and was voted

Ald. O'Meara moved that the line over Clark's bridge be cut off. Lost. Ald. Parnell's amendment for an extension to Brsicoe street was lost, and the clause carried.

CARRIED AT LAST.

Ald. Jones then moved, seconded by Ald. Powell, "That the proposal of the London Street Railway Company for electrifying and extending their system the same having been adopted by tem, the same having been adopted, be referred to the city solicitor, in connection with No. 1 Committee, to prepare a bylaw in accordance with the same for submission to this council at as early a date as possible." Ald. O'Meara moved that a public meeting be called to submit this matter to them, and that the Board of Trade and the Trades and Labor Council be invited to attend. Lost—9 to 5. Ald. Jones' motion then carried with only one dissenting vote.

Ald. Carrothers gave notice of motion to reconsider the council's action. It was now long after 11 o'clock, and the aldermen adjourned. There were present: Mayor Little and Aldermen Pritchard, John Heaman, Brener, O'Meara, Jones, Powell, Carrothers, Wm. Heaman, Armstrong, Callahan, Garratt, Dreaney, Nutkins, Parnell, Weld, Ardill and McCallum. Ald. Skinner was the only absentee,

New and Old Methods.

The rapid growth of discoveries in all branches has developed no more valuable improvements on old methods than in the manner of treating chronic troubles of the digestive system. It is be-coming generally known that the ordinarily used purgatives such as salts, senna, rhubarb, jalap, aloes, pills, etc., react and permanently injure their victims. The newest discovery for the treatment of constipated and bilious conditions is Eseljay's Liver Lozenges. They do not react and are constituted. They do not react, and are consequently a triumph of medical science. The borrowing man soon begins to wonder why everyone he knows is so

THE HENDERSHOTT TRACEDY.

THE MEDICAL TESTIMONY. St. Thomas, March 12.—The medical testimony has just commenced. Dr. Lawrence said he made a post mortem examination. He read his report and produced a human skull and pointed out to the jury the position and extent of the different wounds found on deceased's skull. The witness said that death was caused by fracture of the skull, accompanied by a shock. Very little blood was lost. He survived the first flow. The clotting of blood upon the brain occurred after death. Witness was at the scene of the killing. The pools and amount of blood lost by the dead man corresponded with that in the pools. He saw the tree and knot and it would be impossible for the wounds found upon deceased to be produced by the knot of the tree but every wound upon the head could

MADE BY THE AXE. Eleven or twelve blows, perhaps more. had been inflicted upon the head, and the wounds could not have been caused by one blow. The axe produced has a jagged edge upon one side of the back and would cause such wounds as were found.

Upon cross-examination witness admitted some of the wounds found might have been made by the boughs of a tree. Other medical experts will follow, and it is said the head of the dead man will be brought into court this afternoon. The excitement and crowds are increasing and hundreds are unable to obtain admittance.

Rev. J. W. Annis' Body Taken to Hamilton for Interment.

Public Services for the Dead at St. Andrew's Church.

Rev. J. R. Gundy. Large Crowds Attend-Visiting Clergy men From Out of Town-The Congregation Moved to Tears.

A Kindly and Touching Reference by

The funeral of the late Rev. J. W. Annis took place this morning. A private service was first held at the parsonage on Park avenue at 10 o'clock, and at 10:30 a public service was held in St. Andrew's Church. The services at the house were very brief, Rev. John Learoyd, of Sarnia, offering a prayer, and the mourners singing a hymn. Then the procession started towards St. Andrew's Church. The members of the trustee and quarterly boards, headed by Messrs. Samuel McBride and Thos. McCormick, walked in front in couples, and behind them marched the members of the Ministerial Association and a large number of the out-of-town Methodist ministers selonging to the London Conference. Then came the hearse with the pall-bearers—Rev. Principal Austin, St. Thomas; Rev. Charles Smith, city; Rev. Benjamin Clement, London West; Rev. John Learoyd, Sarnia; Rev. Thos. Cullen, South London, and Rev. Dr. Hannon, St. Thomas-walking alongside. Following the hearse were a large number of the members of the congregation, also on foot. In the mourners carriages sat the widow, Mrs. Annis, her brother, Mr. Edgar H. Watkins, Hamilton; Rev. Isaac Tovell and Mrs. Tovell, Hamilton (the latter a sister of Mrs. Annis); William Annis, Darlington, father of the deceased, and three brothers-Levi, David and Edwin. The church was crowded upstairs and down, and the first intimation of the presence of the funeral cortege was the solemn recital of the SERVICES FOR THE DEAD which fell from the lips of Principal Sheppard, of Muncey Institute, and the president of the London Conference, as he led the procession up the east aisle. The congregation was momentarily startled by the sound breaking the stillness of the sanctuary, and rose as the casket passed down to its resting-place BUFFALO, N. Y., March 11.—Eggs—The martet has still further declined and shipments of Canada received last week costing 16c to 20c the congregation a few weeks ago. Rev. J. R. Gundy, chairman of the London district, and Rev. J. G. Scott, of Galt, who occupied the Queen's Avenue Today strictly fresh sold in the market here in crates at 15c, and grocers were unable to get crates at 15c, and grocers were unable to get pulpit before Rev. Geo. Boyd, walked with Mr. Sheppard before the coffin. They passed into the pulpit, where they were joined by Rev. Dr. Sanderson and Rev. J. G. Laird. The ministers filed sented the Toronto Conference. The city Presbyterian clergymen were attending a session of the Presbytery, but were ably represented by Rev. W. J. Clark. Dean Innes wrote sending an expression of sympathy from THE ANGLICAN CLERGY, and expressing regret that a meeting of that body prevented their attendance. Mr. Gundy also announced that it had been hoped that Rev. Dr. Potts, Toronto, would preach the funeral sermon, and they had even postponed the funeral for a day, only to receive a telegram announcing that Mr. Potts was sick in bed. Among the clergy assembled were many well known to Londoners. Among them were: Rev. Joseph Philp, of Ridgetown, and Rev. Mr. Millyard, of St. Thomas, former pastors of Queen's Park (latterly the Centennial Methogational Church).

Is in that word-'Tis immortality. Here in the body pent, Absent from Him I roam, But nightly pitch my moving tent,

A day's march nearer home." Then the venerable preacher, Rev. Dr. Sanderson, prayed. And as he referred to him that was gone in a voice rembling with emotion, handkerchiefs began to be used, and tears were in almost every eye.

"As thou hast in so brief a space of time stricken down three of our fellowministers, may we learn wisdom thereby and work while the day lasts, for the day will pass and the night come. Mr. Sanderson remarked on the painful experience of the church in the loss of both their pastors, and the loss of their church by fire. THE ANTHEM. The choir rendered Shelly's beautiful anthem beginning: "There is a holy city, a happy world above; beyond the starry regions; built by the God of Love." Mr. J. W. Fetherston directed the musical services. Rev. Mr. Sheppard followed with a lesson taken from Revelations, chapter xxi., in which is described the apostolic vision of the new heaven and the new earth. The whole congregation afterward joined heartily in singing: "Jesus, lover of my soul, Let me to Thy bosom fly."

"It seems eminently proper that we should meet in this church," said Rev. J. R. Gundy, "for this memorial ser-For from this pulpit our dear brother gave his last address to his people when after the destruction of the old church the congregation met for the first time. After listening to the discourse from myself, Brother Annis gave us a very earnest and very powerful and eloquent address for a few minutes, urging upon his people faithfulness and diligence; taking a last good-bye to the old church from whence the congregation had been so ruthlessly driven, and anticipating then for himself and for them the occupation of another church which would take the place of the old building. Those of you who were here will never forget the loquence of the words which fell from his lips on that Sabbath day. To some of us it seemed as if it were not to the old church alone, but to the congregation with whom he had been ministering." Mr. Gundy here entered into a biographical sketch, the substance of which has already appeared in the "Advertiser." Continuing, he said: "His early years he spent in the bounds of the Toronto conference the last three years of his minience, the last three years of his ministry being in the town of Barrie. Then he was transferred to the London Conference, his first charge being the city of St. Thomas, where for three years he devoted himself earnestly, faithfully and diligently, and with a power rarely equalled, to the pastoral and pulpit work of that large and important con-Price's Baknomical, belonger in the strength of that manhood and vigor which he the possessed.

of God in that church, and with such grand success that the members of that church will never forget the ministry of Brother Annis. Many of them are here today. They are here from St. Thomas to shed a tear over their old pastor and friend—God bless them and give them pastors like him whom they have lost. I well remember when ne came to London, not quite two years ago. At that time it seemed almost impossible that he should assume the full responsibility of pastoral work. By the kindness of the congregation he was allowed two months to recuperate before assuming that responsibility.

HE CAME BACK

with renewed strength, and it seemed as if he had still years before him be-fore the mantle would fall from him." Mr. Gundy spoke of his devotion to the congregation when they needed a pastor's care just after the death of Mr. Boyd, of the disease that insidiously crept upon him, although the dead man would scarcely admit it, and they could not wound his heart by telling him. He reminded me of the leader of a forlorn hope who rushes into the midst of the battle and smoke; who holds up the flag of his country, and clings to it still when stricken down with death. So our beloved pastor held up the blood-stained banner to the last, and when his hand was palsied it seemed as if still his thought and his desire of purpose was to cling to that banner and hold it up still before the world." Mr. Gundy went on to speak of Mr. Annis as a deep thinker and a man of studious habits, familiar with all the latest literature of the day. His mind well stored with thoughts that found expression in burning words. He was a man who took a great interest in all the important works of the church. The educational interests engaged his attention very fully. His heart was in sympathy with the missionary movement of the church. Then he was a brotherly man, and manifested that spirit in all his intercourse with his fellows. As a devoted Christian he challenged admiration in his life of uprightness and straightforwardness, and he was A FAITHFUL CITIZEN. "The standard has fallen from his rasp. The sword has fallen by his grasp. side, and the mantle has fallen from his shoulders. May that standard be seized by other hands, and that sword be wielded by other power, and that mantle fall upon other shoulders.'

Mr. Gundy then related his last conversation with Mr. Annis just before he lapsed into unconsciousness. "Is Jesus precious to you?" he asked.

"Oh, yes," he answered; "Jesus is precious. And then fell from him these words, "Jesus only; Jesus only." "And I thought," concluded Mr. Gundy, "that that would be our watchword—the watchword of those who have been left behind. Let it be 'Jesus only.' and let the great purpose of our lives be to hold up Christ and to make him the great object of our lives and the lives of those to whom we minister.' Some kindly words of cheer to the members of the bereaved family concluded Mr. Gundy's remarks. The congregation was noticeably impressed by the earnest words and touching refer-Rev. W. J. Clark, president of the Ministerial Association, followed.

common sorrow?" asked Mr. Clark.
"We have had many inroads into the ministerial ranks of this city in the past few years. Three of our brethren in the Methodist Church HAVE BEEN TAKEN AWAY in the midst of active work, and it is but a very short time since many of you gathered here to mourn with the congregation of this church over the loss of their beloved pastor.' "As it was said of the Master himself, 'He is not here but is risen,' so say we of our friend." Mr. Clark spoke well of Mr. Annis' active work in connection with the association. Rev. J. G. Scott, Galt, a former pastor, also addressed a few words of comfort, and mentioned that Rev. D. G. Sutherland, Toronto, a former pastor, was also at death's door.

The congregation sang "Rock of Ages," and Dr. Sanderson pronounced the benediction, and the cortege reformed. The casket was laden with floral offerings, including a sickle and sheaf from the Women's Missionary Society; a broken column from the Ladies' Aid Society; a wreath, from the Ep-worth League Society; a design from the class of Chinese, and several smaller wreaths and bouquets. The procession was then formed and passed down Queen's avenue to Park avenue, passing the ruins of the old church on the way to the G. T. R. station, where the noon express carried the body to Hamilton.

"Do you want them for the dinner table?" Mrs. George asked, in a casual sort of way. Because, if you do, they won't go very far. Hadn't you better have another? And I'll throw you a few more in."

"I don't mind taking a few more," said Mrs. Warner, who nearly was in a fit at this off-hand kind of treatment. "But, really, it is very sad to see you come down to this. I am exceedingly sorry, although I feel, in a great measure, you have brought it on your-

"Three bunches for half a crown;" put in Mrs. George, in her most persuasive accents. "Do-Lady!"

"Oh, of course, if you don't feel your very distressing position," began the other, in an "I do, I do," cried Mrs. George: "But what is the good of giving way? I have to face the worst and I dare not let myself feel anything. And then, I have many very kind

"I don't think you must quite reckon on them," replied Mrs. Warner, stiffly. "Not on me, for one, at least."

She was so virtuously indignant that the very feathers in her bonnet shook and nodded like the plumes of a hearse, as if they were the plumes of the hearse which was carrying her friendship with Mrs. George to the grave—as, inded, they really were.

"Well, will you have the three for half-acrown?" said Mrs. George, once more. And then there was something like a scuffle behind them and a lovely young women rushed up to Mrs. George, and, perfectly regardless of the place, the crowd, the flowers and everything else, caught her in her arms and bissed here. and kissed her

"My dear, my dear," she cried, pitifully, what is the meaning of all this? Have you and dear old Georgie come to grief? What is it? Cannot we do something better for you than this? Oh, George ought not to have allowed it. I got your card this morning, and aimply tore up town as fast as ever I could.
You had better go back with me till things get settled a little. Harry nearly had a fit when I showed him the card. Come, let your good women here take your stockyour stock," she repeated, pitifully-"away and do come back with me.'

Mrs. George looked irresolute. "I couldn't go before 5 o'clock," she said, doubtfully. "Lady Henry, will you come back to me at 5? Then I'll tell you whether I can go down to Reddlesford with you or

"I will stay here all day with you," Lady Henry began, but Mrs. George stopped her.
"No, no," she said, under her breath; "you will only defeat my purpose. "Please go now-now."

There was no mistaking the earnestness of her tone, and with another squeeze of her hand Lady Henry Mount-Aiden left her. Mrs. George watched her go with eyes that had suddenly become dimmed. She turned round to Mrs. Verity, who was waiting her turn, and dashing away her tears asked her in a trembling voice what she would have.

"Who was that lady?" Mrs. Verity asked.
"Lady." Lady. She had caught half the magic words. "Lady Henry," and was filled with curiosity. 'Not any one you would care to know,' answered Mrs. George.

"Oh," said the other in a chill voice. "I thought—well, I'm sorry to see that you feel it so much," she added with a pointed glance at Mrs. George's streaming eyes.
"Don't you think you would feel it?" Mrs.

George asked. "No doubt. But I could not imagine my-self in any such position," the other replied haughtily. "At the same time, if such a misfortune did come upon me, I should prefer to hide my changed circumstances from my friends, not to flaunt them like this. Of course, I only speak for your own good."

By this time Mrs. George had recovered "I've had a good deal of advice this morning," she said, coolly, "and it has all been perfectly disinterested, which is the best of it. Some of my friends have come to do me a good turn, for which I am very much obliged to them. I am also rapidly learning which of them are really sorry for my misfortunes, and which are merely patronizing, and my friends no longer. Before the day is over, I shall know all that don't care enough to be either glad or sorry. Now, will you choose your flowers and let me get on with my business?"

Eventually Mrs. Verity spent a couple of shillings, and went away, not quite knowing whether to be offended or not.

"Upon my word, but she carries things with a high hand," she remarked to Mrs. Warner, as they walked away down the Everyone was talking about it and everyone they found had, like themselves, been invited to go back at 50'c ock to hear how business had prospered. "Such a cool piece of cheek," said one pert-nosed young lady, who had up to that time been assiduous in her attention to dear Mrs. George.' Shall you come back?" somebody asked.

"Oh, yes. I shall be quite curious to know how she gets on." she replied unblushingly.
So, at 5 o'clock, all those who were really curious to see the end of the day's doings went back to the corner of Apsley House, where Mrs. George, all smiles and apparent happiness, showed her empty baskets, and happiness, showed her empty baskets and declared that business had been simply splendid and that the takings had been far beyond what dared to expect.

"How much does it all come to, Mrs. Wood," she asked of her attendant. "Close on £20, mum," was the reply.

"I shall not be here to merrow," said Mrs "But Mrs. Wood here will be we'l supplied with a thoroughly good stock, and I hope that you will all buy of her, for my sake. Now, all of you-good-by."

She got into a cab with Lady Henry and was driven away, smiling and cheerful to the last.

"Without exception the most brazen exhibition I ever saw in my life," said Mrs.
Verity, with sternest disapproval.

After a few days that portion of society which had called Mrs. George friend received another communication from her. This one was very different from the last, and ran thus-

Mrs. Greville, At Home, July 25. 10 o'clock.

It was, in short, just an ordinary invita-tion card to an evening party at three days' notice. A week had gone by since the al-fresco florist had been started, but though she had been several times to see how things were getting on, and had staid for a short time to help trade, yet the al-fresco business had dwindled down to next to nothing and in a way which was simple wonderful The invitation was but a short one-a three days' notice, a very favorite length with Mrs. George, and one that hithertohad never kept her rooms empty.

On the evening of the 25th, however, but a sparse sprinkling of the old friends made their appearances, and Mrs. George eyed the scene with undisguised satisfaction. And a few days later a paragraph made its appearance simultaneously in several society journals. "Quite a romantic little episode has taken place in town, to give a topic for conversa-tion during the last days of the season. Many people will have missed the old wo-man who has sat for so many years by the railings at Hyde Park corner, and we are sure that all our readers will be sorry to hear that a few weeks ago she had the mis-fortune to fall on her way home, badly fracturing her leg. To prevent the loss of her accustomed place, a certain very wealthy lady, well-known in London, sent out a no-tification to her friends that she had set up as an al-freeze floriet at this point. as an al-fresco florist at this point, expecting that a great rush of customers would be found for the benefit of the poor old flowerwoman. Unfortunately, many of the lady's friends mistook the import of the announce ment, and imagined that she was seeking a means of livelihood for herself. The first day's takings were about £20, and a respectable person is now installed in charge of the stand, for the purpose of keeping it until its rightful possessor—by right of custom—is flit to take it again. The most curious part of the story is that the lady who thus litterally put her shoulder to the wheel for a poor sister, came, not many months ago, into an exceedingly large fortune. She may be congratulated on hav ng found such very plain proof of the value at which her friendship was held by those who had been most intimate with her. Moral; It is never safe for love to flyout of the window until one is quite sure that poverty really has stalked in at the door.

And after this little episode the entertainments at the smart little house wherein Mrs. George's many friends had had such a good time so often were greatly changed; but as Lady Henry and a few others, in speaking of the absent faces, said; "One don't seem to miss them, somehow—except to be glad that they ain't there." THE END.

Teacher-Thomas, how is it that James can say his alphabet so much better than you can? He never misses a letter. Thomas-He oughtn't to, 'cause his father's a postman.

Why will you allow a cough to lacerate your throat or lungs and run the risk of filling a consumptive's grave, when by the timely use of Bickle's Anti-Consumptive Syrup the pain can be allayed and the danger avoided? This syrup is pleasant to the taste, and unsurpassed for relieving, healing and curing all affections of the throat and lungs, coughs, colds, bronchitis, etc.

Wiggs-Who is that tall, distinguished looking man standing near the door? Waggs—Why, don't you know? That's Prof. Learned, the father of Yale's famous football player.

Piles! Piles! Itching Piles! SYMPTONS-Moisture; intense itching and stinging; mostly at night; worse by scratching. If allowed to continue tumors form, which often bleed and ulcerate, becoming very sore. Swayne's Ointment stops the itching and bleeding, heals ulceration, and in most cases removes the tumors. Teacher-Why was George Washington a great man? Tommy—Because we don't have no school on his birthday. SLEEPLESSNESS is due to nervous excitement. The delicately constituted, the financier, the business man, and those whose occupation necessitates great mental strain or worry, all suffer less or more from it. Sleep is the great restorer of a worried brain, and to get sleep cleanse the stomach from all impurities with a few doses of Parmelee's Vegetable Pills, gelatine coated, containing no mercury, and are guaranteed to give satisfaction or the money will be refunded.

Worms cause feverishness, moaning and restlessness during sleep. Mother Graves' Worm Exterminator is pleasant, sure and effectual. If your druggist has none in stock, get him to procure it for you.

BILITATING SPRING COMES ON.

CHANGING SEASON FIND SYSTEM IN HEALTH,

TAKE THE CREAT REMEDY THAT MAKES PEOPLE WELL.

A perfectly healthy body has its parts completely nourished and its nerves constantly refreshed and stored with energy from the vigorous blood that all the time bathes it. But to do this important work of conveying sufficient nutrition to the tissues, the blood must be kept rich and full of red corpuscles.

The only trouble with two-thirds of the men and women whom the coming spring will claim for its victims, is a pitiful lack of proper nerve food. What these weak, nervous people need is a more general feeding and storing of their blood and tissues with fresh, highly vitalized material. There is undoubtedly nothing that can compare with Prof. Phelps' remarkable discovery, Paine's Celery Compound, for restoring health and strength.

The great body of physicians through-out the United States, England and Canada, believe profoundly in it, and prescribe it in all cases of nervous weak-ness and debility. In preparing this greatest of all nerve tonics and blood enewers, the eminent professor of Dartmouth College, Edward E. Phelps, M.D., LL.D., had in mind the countless men and women with brains overworked and nerves unstrung by worry and lack of proper nutrition.

Clerks, their employers, lawyers, doctors, mothers of families, hard-working men and women in every county and province, and hosts of brain workers the most intellectual part of the community—are today taking Paine's Celery Compound, with the happiest results, relieve themselves of rheumatism. neuralgia, nervous exhaustion, dyspepsia, sleeplessness and low Paine's Celery Compound cures diseases of the important organs of digestion, circulation and excretion, by purifying the blood, by regulating the entire nervous system, and supplying the body with strength to combat disease. Paine's Celery Compound makes peo-ple well. It takes away all the tremor and irritation from the nerves, and gives that calm, strong feeling of assured health that invariably accompanies a perfectly well-nourished bodily sys-

The Board of Education Wants Further School Accommodation.

And Will Request the Council for Funds-London's Kindergartens Are the Best in Ontario.

A special meeting of the Board of Education was held last night—not to consider any special, but to conduct general business, which was booked for the meeting called for last Thursday night, but which was declared illegal. over-crowded condition of the schools was the leading question, and a definite stand was taken in the matter. The City Council will be asked to furnish the necessary funds for five new schools or additions to the present buildings. No. 1 committee's report (published on Friday last), on the necessity of extra accommodation, was discussed, and it was adopted as follows:

Clause 1. Four-room school on Richmond street north. Two rooms needed at present; remainder soon required. Clause 2. Four-room school near the corner of Colborne and South streets. Clause 3. Two-room addition at Wort-

The cost of the above will be about

$26,000. The recommendation to discontinue the position of kindergarten supervisor was ruled out of order. Miss Laidlaw was not granted $15 for additional ser-

Two rooms will be rented in the South Presbyterian Mission school on Waterloo street from April 1 to Easter, in order to relieve the overcrowding in Aberdeen and Simcoe street schools until new rooms can be built in the southern portion of the city.

Miss McIntyre, inspector of kinder-gartens for Ontario, reported upon the eight schools in London. She says: "As a whole, they are superior to any I have visited. They all work in harmony." Principal Woodburn, of Princess avenue school, was granted leave of absence, owing to ill-health. Mr. Griffin's motions re free text books and commercial form were referred to committee to report. The members present were: Messrs.

Blackwell (chairman), Griffin, Hunt, Greenlees, Buchner, Craig, Keenleyside, Campbell, Wilson, Turner, Jeffrey, Sanders, Wilkins, Anderson, Stevenson, Secretary McElheran, Principal Mer-chant and Inspector Carson.

Mrs. Celeste Coon, Syracuse, N. Y., writes: "For years I could not eat many kinds of food without producing a burning, excruciating pain in my stomach. Continuation of the Welter-Hendershott Trial.

Connecting the Insurance Policies With the Alleged Murder.

-Material Evidences of the Tragedy Produced in Court.

ST. THOMAS, March 11.—Continuing his evidence, W. J. Astrander stated that the prisoner, Hendershott, had received a telegram of his nephew's death, and said he had probably been killed by a falling tree while running to get his clothes or watch. Hender-shott asked the witness to say nothing about the policies. John Ketchabaw, brother-in-law of the prisoner, Hendershott, said the latter received a telegram while at the witness' house near Eden informing him of the death. Mrs. Ketchabaw, being afraid that it was her brother, Wm. Hendershott, the prisoner told her not to worry, as his clumsy nephew was working in the woods cutting trees and it was probably he, and not her brother who was killed.

Calvin Gregory testified to finding in the vicinity of the tragedy and close to where the axe was found, pools of water deeply tinged with blood on the Sunday after the dead man was found. Miss Welter, the young lady who was to be the wife of the deceased, said that she had heard the prisoner say to Hendershott that he would have to spend considerable money before he could get "it." The "it" is supposed to have referred to the insurance money. Several other witnesses were examined, but no new points were brought out up to the time of the adjournment for lunch. George Delacey, a printer in the St. Thomas Times newspaper office, also said that last fall he had a conversation with Hendershott, who was looking for J. W. Cook, an insurance agent. He said that he had two policies on the life of W. H. Hendershott. that he wanted to break a colt for him and that if he broke the colt the colt would break his neck. Hendershott also said if anything happened he would get the money.

David Hendershott, father of the dead man, was put in the witness box and told about the conversations he had with his brother John. His evidence was much the same as that given by him at the inquest. He was subjected to a long cross-examination by the defense as to his past record with a view to discrediting his testimony Nothing very damaging to his character was elicited, however,

Mrs. Bancroft, of the Penwarden House, testified as to the meeting of Welter and John Hendershott in the hotel after the killing. She said that the two men did not speak to each other for some time after they met. Axe No. 3 and a collection of leaves with blood upon them, which had been sent to Prof. Ellis, of Toronto, for analysis, were put in evidence, and the professor took the stand to tell the result of his examination. He said that while no man was able to swear positively as to human blood when compared with that of some animals, yet his tests all pointed to this being hu-

PREMIUM HORSES,

The London Free Press heads an editorial article this morning, "Canadian Horses at a Premium." In another part of the same paper we read that at a horse sale in Toronto yesterday "a neat little bay, apparently sound and in fair condition, sold for $6; a black ditto for same price; a gray gelding, somewhat larger, for $15; a bay, a trifle thin, but full of life, was withdrawn without an offer." Verily, Canadian horses are at a premium! Such animals would have netted $100 each in revenue tariff days. -Chatham Banner.
