BIG GUNS SHELL CASABLANCA; FRENCH CRUISER BOMBARDING

Franco-Spanish Landing Party Attacked by Native Rebels, and Strong Measures Follow.

Tangier, Aug. 6.—The French cruiser Galilee was bombarding the Moorish quarter of Casablance and the neighborhood of the city, when the last steamer, which has just arrived here, left that port. The Kabyles attacked Casablance and the Moorish authorities applied to the commander of the Galilee for assistance. He thereupon landed 60 men and a Spanish cruiser landed 40. This landing party was fired on by the Kabyles, and seven Frenchmen, including an officer, were wounded. The combined Franco-Spanish force thereupon cleared the city of hostile tribesmen, guards were placed about the foreign consulates, and then the Galilee opened fire with her big guns on the rebels.

Many Tribesmen Killed.

London, Aug. 6. - A special dispatch received here from Tangler today, describing the bombardment of Casablanca, says the French cruiser Duchayla and the Spanish gunboat Don Alvaro de Bazan participated with the Galilee in the bombardment of the villages surrounding Casablanca, which were destroyed by the fire of the warships.

During the bombardment large reinforcements of tribesmen came up and many of them were killed or wounded.

Silenced a Battery.

The Casablanca battery joined in firing on the foreign warships, whereupon the guns of the French and Spanish cruisers were turned on the battery, which soon caused the Moorish commander to send a messenger to the French admiral requesting his pardon. This was refused and the admiral sent peremptory orders to the Moorish commander to surrender himself to the French consul.

Paris, Aug. 6.-Foreign Minister Pichon and the Spanish ambassador here, Senor Leon Y. Castillo, have agreed on the terms of a Franco-Spanish note, informing the powers signatory of the Algeciras convention of the Intention of France and Spain to keep within the terms of the convention. The situation, after the landing of troops at Casablanca, will largely determine the subsequent measures to be taken by France and Spain, who are charged with responsibility for the security of the Moroccan ports. No outside power is expected to co-operate with the two powers mentioned. The French Government has no confirmation of the reports that British or German warships are on their way to Morocco Continued on page nine.

along this coast. Following to .a logical conclusion the argument that all animal life depends directly or indirectly upon the vegetable kingdom, a dragnet composed of the finest sort of bolting cloth as used by millers was drawn slowly behind a steamer across a bay. An acre of salt water, it was discovered, produces about as much vegetation in a year as an acre of good meadow land. One great naturalist has computed that if one of a countless number of varying minute organisms was allowed perfect development without any conteracting destruction for one month the product would be a mass of protoplasm many times larger than the sun. One little plant manipulates itself by breaking in two about five times a day, and becomes mature in three hours. An immense number of tiny animals browse upon this rapidly-increasing herbage, and together with it constitute plankton, which is the scientific name for this prepared ration of meat and greens dealt out in amazing quantities at Nature's free lunch counter.

The herring family is provided with an automatic straining apparatus of the utmost fineness whereby as they breathe the water through their gills they unconsciously sift out their daily food. Thus they have the happiness of feeding without effort and of finding their supplies without exertion, and thus they stand at the very apex of idealistic trampdom.

To one who knows the secret of the green coloring of the ocean, the wonder is not how do its countless animals get their living, but how the amazing vegetation of the plankton can possibly be kept under, even by the multitudinous grazing things which throng those aqueous pasturages.

The collection of reports was made by C. R. Erwin, president of Lord But all this does not give one such an and Thomas, advertising agents. Engaged in a business to a great extent dependent upon prosperity, Mr. Erwin determined to investigate thor. oughly the stories of the dismal prospects, and in a manner that would leave no opportunity for doubt. -He appealed to the editors of the farmers' papers as the men closest in touch with the pulse of the farming world and with their ears trained to catch Each one is about a quarter of an the expert opinions of the farmers. Letters were sent to editors of paper; in almost all the states of the union, and replies from every one, many or them by wire, were received.

Mr. Erwin asked particularly after the wheat crop, the oat crop, and the hay crop, and not only did he learn what he wished to know regarding them, but he was told of the situation in the cotton and rice fields of the south, the tobacco fields of Kentucky, Virginia and the Carolinas, of the corn crop in every section, and of potatoes, rye, sugar beets, fruit, live stock, barley and flax.

Only Anxiety About Corn.

Only in the case of corn does there seem to have been any appreciable effect from the bad weather of March, April and May. And even the corn crop is said to be merely a backwar! one, with a tendency to be under-detransit.

Make a Good Showing.

Portland, Me., Aug. 5. - Commander Robert E. Peary left here today for New York, whence he will seek the north pole. Asked of he expected to reach the pole this time, Peary said: "A man who has had any experience in the north knows that to say he will do a certain thing up there is madness. I have learned many lessons from my other trips, especially my last one, and I shall profit by all this experience. Whether I shall find the north pole or not is a queer question, which will not be answered until I have either reached it or failed. It will not be because I am not prepared." Asked if he had ample funds for the expedition Commander Peary replied: "I will say one thing, and that is J. Bachelder, master of the National that the delays in the repairs on the boilers of the Roosevelt have been and now are worrying me a great deal more than the money with which to finance the expedition." Commander Peary appeared to be in rugged health and full of enthusiasm.

The second Baldwin-Lafontaine administration, justly called the "great of speech. ministry" because of its unsurpassed record of useful legislation, came to an end in 1851 with the retirement of the two Reform leaders. Baldwin was only 17 years of age and Lafontaine 44 when they laid down the cares of politics, but their resignation meant that their work was done. "To find a real basis of political union between French and British Canada, to substitute for the strife of unreconciled races the fellow-citizenship of two great peoples. and set up in the foremost of British colonies an ensample of self-government that should prove the lasting basis of empire—this was the completed work by which they had amply earned the rest of eventide after the day of toil."

The title of Professor Leacock's is "Baldwin, Lafontaine, Hincks." The latter was a member of the first and second Baldwin-Lafontaine ministries, and a useful ally in the fight for responsible government. The divergence in the Reform ranks. owing to the rise of the Clear Grit party, threw him finally into the Conervative camp. The narrative of events after his succession of Baldwin as the Ontario head of the ministry has been told by Sir John Bourinot in his Lord Elgin and by Mr. John Lewis in his George Brown.

White Sox Manager Doesn't Like Wet Pelting—Says It is Injuring Game.

Although "spit" ball pitchers helped im win the American League pensponsible for the White Sox winning the world's championship last fall, Manager Fielder Jones, of the champions, is in favor of doing away with against the evils of the 'spit' ball two years ago," said Jones recently. "He laughed at me and said baseball was more prosperous than ever. That may be all true, but I would be willing to wager that the crowds would be ever larger if it were not for the 'spit hall. Comiskey was on the rules committee when I begged him to have a rule inserted prohibiting a pitcher from moistening the ball, but he thought that my fears were ground-

An Injury.

"In my opinion the 'spit' ball is doing a great injury to the game. In the first place, it is not natural. In the second place, it is not cleanly. Lots of people do not like to go out to the park and watch a pitcher slobbering all over a ball. Thirdly, the use of the 'spit' ball lengthens the games, as pitchers, who depend upon the 'spit' ball consume so much time applying the moisture. Another reason is that when a 'spit' ball pitcher has good control of his 'spitter' the opposing team can consider itself lucky of it gets a hit. I do not care what some others may say, but a hit off a 'spit' ball is nothing but luck. The fans went crazy over Wednesday's game, in which all hit the ball hard, and the fielders had a chance to make some fine stops and catches. That's baseball. The rooters like to see the ball hit or a fine piece of field-

Chance Train Meeting Sets Millionaire on Romantic Search.

London, Aug. 5.-An American milifonaire is searching throughout the length and breadth of the British Isles for a beautiful young English girl, with whom he fell in love at first sight when he met her in a railway carriage between Newhaven and Lon-

The millionaire, who is connected with a flourishing commercial enterprise in Georgia, U.S.A., desires to keep his name a secret for obvious reasons, but of his earnestness in the search for a lovely face there is no doubt.

The romance is over a year old, for it was on April 16, 1906, that the millionaire, with two ladies and a gentleman, traveled from Paris to London via Dieppe and Newhaven. They left the French capital by the nine a.m. train after an extended European tour. At Newhaven, when, with the members of his party, he was taking train for London, two young ladies, evidently sisters, entered the carriage. For a time they read, but presently conversation became general, and the new-comers stated that they were returning from Malta, where they had been spending the winter.

The millionaire was greatly charmed by the grace and beauty of the younger of the two sisters, and, although he saw her for so short a time-for at Victoria the two parties bade each other good-bye, and have never met since-she has never ceased to occupy his thoughts, and his agents are now searching throughout the United Kingdom to ascertain her ad-

The search is made difficult by the fact that there are practically no clues to the lady's identity.

"I can give but a poor description of this girl who fascinated me so," says the millionaire in a letter published by the Daily Express. "That is to be accounted for by the fact that I was not aware of the fascination until we were about to part.

"At Victoria we left the girls standing near the compartment from which we alighted. A little later, while near the baggage-car identifying our baggage, they came close to us again. Here I had an opportunity to look at a violin-case 'the' young lady was carrying, and read the name 'Irene Walker,' with some address scratched out. However, I could read through the scratches the word 'Malta.' "So we left them still watching for their baggage. Miss Irene had a beautiful, bright complexion, regular features, a pretty mouth, and lovely white teeth. "And thus we met and thus we parted-my heart beating quite a tempest, and wondering what it all meant, and if we should ever meet again. Perhaps so. But will she ever again seem to me as she did on that night as the darkness of London separated us-one of the purest, sweetest, most attractive creatures that God has ever blessed this old earth with?"

The case has been placed in the one of the most expert detectives at to three months in jall. Scotland Yard.

As Miss Irene Walker was evidently a violin player, inquiries have been reached a very acute stage. What seemed a likely clue was discovered in Devonshire, where two sisters were found, one of whom was named Irls, who had been traveling on the Continent about April of last year. Her parents were diplomatically approached, when the discovery was made that Iris Walker was just about to be married. She was much interested in the story of the millionaire's fascination, but stated that she

Hot and angry words passed between them, but when the leader looked him sternly in the eye and muttered an unintelligible word, he seemed to cower before her, and during the rest of the session was strangely quiet. What influence she used has puzzled more than one Des Moines doctor.

In a room with a low ceiling, 24x30 feet, and containing three windows, these curious worshipers gather. When 200 persons are crowded in the place the heat makes it intolerable to remain. Not so with the converts. Perspiration pouring from every part of their skin, these religion-crazed men, women and children work themselves into a frenzy.

Mrs. Lila Miller, while in a trance, became the wife of George Sturges. When she recovered she ran two blocks to the river bridge nearby and back, and sank fainting on the floor, muttering: "O God, deliver me from this." Soon after she fell into a trance lasting three days. When she became herself she was able to speak the African language, and with her hus band will go to the Dark Continent to do missionary work. Miss Prudence Van Gilder, a pretty London, Aug. 5.—The remark of music teacher, lay in a trance for 30 days.

A CRITICAL PERIOD INTELLIGENT WOMEN PREPARE

critical period in a woman's existence woman's existence is the change of life, and that the anxiety felt by women as this time draws near is not without reason?

If her system is in a deranged condition, or she is predisposed to apoplexy of any organ, it is at this time likely to become active and, with a host of nervous irritations, make life a burden.

At this time, also, cancers and tumors are more liable to begin their destructive work. Such warning symptoms as a sense of suffocation, hot flashes, dizziness, headache, dread of impending evil, sounds in the ears, timidity, palpitation of the heart, sparks before the eyes, irregularities, constitution, variable appetite, weakness and inquietude are promptly heeded by intelligent women who are approaching the period of life when woman's great change may be expected.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is the world's greatest remedy for women at this trying period.

Lydia F. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound invigorates and strengthens the female organism, and builds up the weakened nervous system as no other medicine can.

Madame Louis Belleau of 17 Ramsay St., Quebec, Que., writes: Dear Mrs. Pinkham:

"Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound assisted me to pass the change of life with but very little sickness and pain, and I am pleased to give it my endorsement, for I feel that it is the medicine which every woman should take. I am the mother of three children, and when I reached the age of fifty naturally my health was none too good, and I feel sure that if I had not taken your Vegetable Compound I should not have passed the climax safely. I took it off and on for two years and now find that I am in splendid health and strength and feel younger and better than I did ten years ago. Much praise to your medicine, and may all suffering women learn of its value."

For special advice regarding this important period, women are invited to write to Mrs. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass. She is a daughter-in-law of Lydia E. Pinkham and for twenty-five years has been advising sick women free of charge. Her advice is free and always helpful to

SECOND GAME.

As star-gazers, clowns, or pingpong players, Bill Graham's misled outfit of grangers would have been a howling success yesterday afternoon As ball players, they resembled nothing so much as a bunch of warts shaved from a punk brand of pickles. With two exceptions, each one of the crew rang up for himself one or more glaring bungles, and the stand full of fans fairly groaned in genuine distress at the sorry maneuvers.

It has been set down in the book of landom fancies that one Isshy Clark's twirler is inclined to take aerial flights at inopportune moments. Be it recorded here that the aforesaid party had multitudinous opportunities, and even much reason for taking to the tall unexplored in the fracas in which the Smiths of McClaryburg figured as the premier contender, but failed skynally to make use of his chances.

The demon athletes of The Advertiser accepted the defi of the Free Press to play a ball game on Tuesday, but the latter renegged, suggesting Thursday. We spurn the offer to play that day. Do they not know that Thursday is the day of all days to our side — the Irish picnic? We will never-r-r play on that day-not for one minute! Come again. Is it cold feet or fear of the consequences? Lemon-sour for yours! Name a good day.

Much has been said anent the hoodoo which persistently follows the efforts of the Wortman & Ward team of the East End League to gain victories upon the field, but there still remains much unsaid. Mr. Charles Moorhead, the popular scorer of the league, hits the mark, when he says: "In the last two contests the foundrymen have traveled twenty innings and have lost both games. But while this is so, they have at least the satisfaction of knowing that they have given the patrons of the East End League good ball, and have taken their defeats like true sports. While still at the bottom of the ladder, they have lost the bulk of their games by a single run, which shows that hard luck plays no small part in their undertakings in a baseball way."

It is a pretty hard thing to understand the ways and mind of the average knight of the padded mitts. When Burns drove into London last winter and was interviewed by the writer, he stated positively that he would never, no, never, meet an ebony-skinned scrapper in the squared arena. "In the first place, there isn't a coon in the business who has any chance with me," declared Thomas superciliously; "and in the second place my wife won't stand for it." And yet, after this, and more-for Burns made subsequent declarations of a similar nature to the big American sheets-at the moment of writing a telegram lies on the desk stating that Burns and Jack Johnson have been matched to travel 45 rounds before Jim Coffroth's Colma (Cal.) struggle, and providing they improve club some time in September, for a purse of $25,000. Nobody, however, on this side of the border, at least, is worried over the probable outcome of the affair. "Burns in a walk" is the concensus of opinion so far obtained, and the ex-Canadian should enter the ring a pronounced favorite.

Local as well as Detroit fans are highly elated over the jump of the Tigers. It wasn't luck that put the striped ones on the top round-it was good, hard, consistent ballplaying. And, by the way, they are going into no easy task when they start off a series of seven games with the Athletics today. The Quaker outfit has been a hard proposition for the best of them at all stages of the game. Four of the bouts take place in the burg of perpetual silence and the remainder in Detroit.

Too bad that Toronto didn't cop out that second game yesterday with base. Rochester. However, Kelly's bunch is traveling right these days and should be there or thereabouts when the final ball is heaved.

Taken today and a year ago, the reversal of form exhibited by the every day, and the Wortmans' scoring Stars is remarkable. Last year at this time they were unbeatable. Now they are performing like a bunch of selling-platers at an old London horse show. Of course there have been several changes in the line-up of the aggregation, but even then the complete reversal is hard to understand. When Then, with two men out, Cochrane the Satellites first hit the chute the excuse was offered that they were merely having a few off-days. Later it was lack of practice. Now what is Stars lack practice. Nobody likes to be lectured or called down, but at the to left, scoring Cochrane and getting Buffalo same time the people who patronize the games are deserving of consideration, and it is up to the teams in the league to put forth the best that is in pire Pierce's decision was not received them. Nobody ever accused the Stars of being quitters. They are a good with lamblike meekness by the Wortgamey bunch, and are at all times dangerous, and it seems a pity that they do not think enough of themselves to keep in proper shape.

The sour grape twins, Nolan and Nelson, are at it again. Bill says that his badly-battered charge trained for his last bout on mixed ale and Turkish baths, and Bat swears by all that is great that friend William connived to bring about his defeat at the hands of Brer Britt by the frame-up route. All of which leads the average ring fan to wonder which is the biggest sore-head of the two. When Tommy Burns stopped off in London last winter he remarked that Nolan was as straight as a loose, clothes-line, and there may be an atom of truth in the scrapping one's assertion that his chief pilot is not above throwing even his best friend down for an additional green rag or two. At the same time it is quite apparent that what "fixing" was done in the last affair was pulled off by Britt himself, with the aid of a pair of five-ounce mitts.

Now that some corn salve firm is using Longboat's name as an advertising medium, it is up to the sawdust and shavings breakfast food people to jump in and procure the indorsement of the rejuvenated Rockets. Ask "Doc" Sippi about it, and he will smile and say "we did it." It is alleged, however, that they "Dunn" it. (Kindly emit vegetables.)

The boys in red took an early lead, and for a time it looked big enough to Detroit win, but then, you never can tell. Mc-Connell, the first man up in the second inning, was safe on Sheriff's error. He immediately hit the trail for second, arriving safely in a cloud of dust; took the third station when Wagner's error gave Rowe a life, scoring a moment after on Morley's out at first Rowe also negotiated the plate on Wagner's poor throw to third to catch McConnell. Two runs for one hit was going some, but it doesn't happen ended right here.

The Ramblers made violent efforts to get into the run business, but nothing was doing until the fifth session smote the first ball delivered to him, causing it to roll far and fast, the runner reaching the middle station on the and Carrigan. .442 Some American Critics Consider Him the Best Ever Seen Here.

The American sporting scribes have taken a fancy to Shrubb, the great English distance man, and are lauding him to the skies. The following is a sample of the dope being handed out: The greatest long distance runner ever, Alfred Shrubb, who holds all sorts of world's records, will run a two-mile race against Frank M. Kenely, of Boston, the American champion, at Celtic Park, New York, Sunday, Aug. 11. Arthur Duffy, who first made the record of 9 3-5 seconds for 100 yards, will act as referee. The race will be for a purse contributed by the County Cavan Men's Association, who hold their annual picnic and games in aid of their benevolent fund on that day.

Shrubb has competed all over the world, but has never before run a race in this vicinity. He came to America about three months ago with the expectation of meeting Tom Longboat, the famous Indian runner, in a match race, but the arrangements fell Shrubb is a perfect racing machine. He is always in training and runs from five to ten miles every day in the year. He doesn't smoke or drink liquor and is what is known as a flesh trainer.

CROWDS IMBIBED AN CIVIC HALIDAY

Magistrate Love Had a Big Docket to Deal With This Morning.

Because he became imbued with the notion that he wanted to shoot his wife yesterday, Levi Plank, a blacksmith in a local wire concern, found himself, along with a baker's dozen of other delinquents, up before Police Magistrate Love this morning.

According to the evidence given by his wife, Plank yesterday attempted to reduce London's liquor supply, and succeeded in fairly good fashion. About 5 o'clock in the afternon he meandered to his home in West London, and offered to blow his wife's head off upon the slightest provocation. A few mo-ments later she found a loaded 38caliber revolver in his overcoat pocket and promptly handed the weapon over to a policeman, who accompanied her

"Yes, and I'll shoot you, too!" exclaimed the husband when he caught sight of the officer. He was then arrested.

When Haywood stepped from the train, supporting his invalid wife, a great cheer went up from the crowd. A rush for the gates was made, and the police were obliged to use force before the gates could be opened. A space less than three feet wide was opened. As Haywood walked up this file hundreds of hands were stretched towards him, but his solicitude for his wife caused him to resist the desire to grasp the many hands extended. Continued cheering greeted him, and his face was all smiles. When Haywood saw his wife seated in a carriage, he stood on the rear seat of the open carriage, and waved his hand to the cheers. The crowd joined with him, and for several minutes the roar of cheers continud. Half a hundred men are: Mrs. Andrew Laurie, of Forest, started to unhitch the horses and at- Ont.; Mrs. R. E. OF NORSE BOY of a Man Missing Many Days.

London, Aug. 6. - Reports received in London of the remarkable achievements of John Floettum, the boy clairvoyant of Christiania, have aroused great interest in the case. Floettum has just discovered the body of a man who disappeared a fortnight ago, leaving no trace of his whereabouts. A photograph of the missing man was shown to the boy. He examined it very closely and then seated himself at a table. Covering his eyes, he drew a diagram of the course the man had taken into the woods. At a point indicated the man's handkerchief was found. The day afterward the boy himself was taken over the course, followed by quite plainly where the body lay. He asked that a boat be rowed to a point in the eriver and said, "Here he is." The body was found at the bottom of the river, at the exact place intimated. Floettum's powers were discovered three months ago. He is now the most talked-of person in Norway.

Frightened Horse Attached to a Buggy in Which a Londoner Was Riding.

A cow peacefully chewing its cui in the middle of the road caused an accident on Saturday night which might have resulted seriously to Miss Bend. Gwendoline Anthistle, the well-known elocutionist of this city.

Miss Anthistle, in company with two friends, was driving from St. Thomas to Port Stanley, when the horse became alarmed at the animal in the road. In backing up against the buggy the breeching strap was broken, causing the buggy to run against the animal's heels. This heightened the horse's alarm, and it set to work industriously to kick itself free. The dashboard was smashed in the engagement, as was also a suit case in the front of the buggy. The horse finally tried to climb the bank on one side of the road, upsetcupants violently to the ground. The driver, however, got to his feet in time to prevent more serious damage. Mr. John Price, J. P., happened to pass and noticing the three forlorn figures seated on the bank, was filled

After lunch had been partaken o the programme of sports was started. Many really splendid contests took place, all present entering into the spirit the games with enthusiasm. The long jump was won by Ei. Parker, but he hadn't much on W. E.

Pleadwell, who also made a great leap. The ladies' ball-throwing contest provoked much merriment, Mrs. Elgie finally winning by a throw that would make the efforts of one Tyrus Cobo look like an underhand let. There were no knockers present, yet a spirited nail driving contest took place. It was unanimously agreed that Miss Sing had won, she having hit the same nail three times out of ten attempts. Some uncharitable people state that she hit her thumb nail the other seven times, but this is probably exaggerated. Miss Mabel Addison was a close second in this contest.

The married ladies' race gave the starter considerable trouble, but th? ladies were finally got safely awa,, only one being left at the wire. Mrs. Elgie passed the judges first, with Mrs. Pleadwell well up. As the
