CARRIED OFF CHURCH FUNDS

Prominent Galt Man Alleged to be Sanctimonious Swindler.

Was Great Church Worker and Ex-Town Councillor—He Forged Vouchers.

Buffalo, N. Y., Jan. 17.—Thomas McGivern, a church treasurer, who is alleged to have stolen $1,000 from the church, of which he was a respected and long-standing member, was arrested here to-day by detectives of the Buffalo force on request of the police of Galt, Ont. The police here have but meagre information about the alleged crime, but they say, according to the information given them by the Canadian police, McGivern absconded about the first of the year from Galt. It was then found that he was $1,000 short in his accounts as treasurer of the church. He was taken to headquarters and locked up, to await word from the Galt police.

CAUSE OF THE TROUBLE.

Galt, Ont., Jan. 17.—Thomas McGivern, who was arrested in Buffalo to-day, charged with grand larceny, and is being held by the Buffalo authorities for extradition to Canada, was until the latter part of last year a highly respected resident of Galt. He is a married man, about 55 years of age, and came from Hamilton to Galt about 25 years ago. He was for several years a member of the Town Council, and has been prominently identified with the Methodist church here as treasurer of its funds and superintendent of the Sabbath school. The discovery was made by the board of the church about three months ago that McGivern was short in his accounts. Nothing could be elicited from him as to his true position, and an investigation was held, which disclosed a very bad state of affairs, involving a shortage of several thousand dollars. Money received for the purpose of reducing mortgage indebtedness were not so applied, and the fact concealed by means of forged vouchers. This had been going on for two or three years. A number of bank checks became so numerous as to create suspicion, which led to the exposure. When the report got out everybody was astonished, but out of consideration for his family, the local press said very little, if anything, about the matter. It was, however, quietly discussed as the commonest topic of conversation for some weeks after discovery. Mr. McGivern was clerk of the third division court, and engaged in the fire insurance and real estate business. Considerable shortage in connection with insurance, real estate and money borrowed from private citizens coming to light simply amazed the townspeople. Opportunities for restitution were offered by representatives of the Methodist church, but were not taken advantage of. Where the money went is a mystery. McGivern was a man of very steady habits and didn't live extravagantly. Towards the end of December last criminal proceedings were threatened, which apparently caused him to attempt suicide, and he was found in his office in midwinter flat the result of an unconscious condition from escaping gas, the pipe having been severed. A week's medical treatment restored him. He quietly left town, and was later discovered that the shortage was then issued for his arrest at Hamilton, but he had gone on to the United States. Nothing more was heard of his whereabouts until to-day.

Duke of Manchester Settles his Breach of Promise Case
With Miss Knight.

London, Jan. 17.—The action of Miss Portia Knight, against the Duke of Manchester for breach of promise of marriage has been settled for $15,000, exclusive of $3,500 costs. Miss Knight objected to a settlement preferring revenge. Her solicitors, however, considering the Duke's bankrupt condition, persuaded her to settle the case out of court. The press is informed that the case hinged on verbal promises. The witnesses included a hotel-keeper and a doctor. The Duke met Miss Knight soon after her arrival in London, and their friendship was ripened by Miss Knight's serious illness as her Westminister flat the result of a fall in the Hotel Cecil. The Duke, protesting good intentions, insisted upon nursing her. He proved apt and assiduous. His nursing resulted in mutual affection, and the first promise of marriage was made. After her recovery Miss Knight entered a convent connected with the Brompton Oratory. The Duke followed her, and brought her out, under promise of marriage and engaged rooms for her at St. Ermin's Hotel, as his fiancée. He then went to Paris, and the next thing she heard about him was that he had married Miss Zimmermann. There is no insinuation of any misbehavior on the part of the Duke beyond his breaking his word.

HANGED HIMSELF

Melancholy end of a Respectable
Bothwell Farmer—No Reason for Deed.

Bothwell, Ontario, Jan. 17.—Clarence McRitchie, a farmer, about fifty-five years of age, who lived within the town limits, committed suicide this morning, by hanging himself in his barn. No reason can be assigned for McRitchie's act, as he was in good circumstances, and apparent good health. He leaves a wife, but no family.

GIVING TIME TO MAKE GOOD

Essex County Council Will Likely Deal Leniently
With Treasurer.

Claims his Salary was Insufficient to Cover Living Expenses.

Sandwich, Jan. 18.—The Essex county council devoted the greater part of yesterday's session to discussing the report of the auditors. The statement that Henry Morand, county treasurer, is short in his accounts was received with surprise by several members and it was thought best to settle the matter at once. During part of the discussion, the treasurer was present and admitted that he had misappropriated county funds. He asked the council to give him time in which to make restitution, promising that he will do so in the near future.

The session was held in Windsor behind closed doors, but sufficient was learned to give an idea of the opinions expressed by the councillors. Several were in favor of asking the treasurer for his resignation at once, but other counsels prevailed, and it was at last decided to give Mr. Morand until March 3 to make good the amount of his defalcation. A resolution to this effect was passed by the committee of the whole, but it is expected that some opposition will develop at the meeting this morning, when the report is presented to the council. If the resolution goes through a special session of the council will be called March 3 to deal with the matter.

A resolution instructing the municipalities in the county to refrain from paying any more county money to Treasurer Morand, but to make the vouchers payable to the Traders' bank, Windsor, was also passed. Insufficient salary to meet living expenses in the way in which Mr. Morand explains the shortage. He said that when he took charge of the office he received a yearly salary of $1,300 and, out of this amount, he paid his assistant $500. He could not keep his family on the salary and told the county council that he would have to resign or receive an increase. His salary was raised to $1,600 and he claims that he was then able to meet all expenses. However, but to make the amount to $1,400 and he has been going behind since. He says that he did not use the money in speculation, but simply to provide for his family. He thinks that the shortage will amount to $1,600. On every hand expressions of regret are heard over the news of Mr. Morand's shortage in his accounts.

EARTHQUAKES

Austria Experiences Damage—
Great Hurricanes in Denmark.

Vienna, Jan. 17.—A hurricane, the violence of which has not been equalled in many years, struck this city and district to-day, and during the last hours of the storm there were more than a hundred accidents, requiring the use of ambulances. Many persons had limbs broken, and two were fatally injured. In the outskirts, a freight train was blown over. There were earthquakes yesterday and to-day at Agram, capital Croatia and Slavonia. In Budapest there was a heavy gale, accompanied with snow. Wreckage that had been blown on the track delaying all trains from Budapest to Regar. Denmark is being storm swept. Neither the English nor German mails that were due to-day have yet arrived. The barque Arab has foundered in the North Sea, and 22 persons perished.

NOW FIGURING ON PEACE TERMS

Dutch Prime Minister Visits
London on a Private Mission.

Advised to Abandon Intervention and Inform Holland
Will Not be Intermediary.

London, Jan. 17.—Reuter's Telegram Company has received the following despatch from Amsterdam:—"According to trustworthy information, Dr. Kuyper, the Dutch Premier, recently intimated to the Boer delegates the desirability, in view of Lord Rosebery's speech at Chesterfield, of their giving some intimation to the British government of the basis upon which they would entertain peace negotiations. Dr. Kuyper pointed out the improbability of any of the great powers intervening in South Africa in the near future, and suggested that friends in London, in the hope of a semi-official response. "The Dutch Premier, accordingly met Abraham Fischer, the leader of the Boer delegates, and others at Brussels, where a long conference was held, after which Dr. Kuyper proceeded to London. The result of his visit, if any has been attained, is not yet known. It is understood that Dr. Kuyper distinctly assured the Boers that Holland, under no circumstances, would act as an intermediary. "Dr. Kuyper, the representative in Europe of the Transvaal, is expected shortly at The Hague."

DAY'S DESPATCHES

Constantinople, Jan. 17.—An irade has been promulgated approving of the final convention for the construction of the Bagdad Railroad by the German Anatolia Railroad. The line will be carried to the Persian Gulf. The concession for a line of railroad connecting the Bosphorus with the Persian Gulf is regarded as extremely important, both politically and commercially. When completed it will bring India within approximately eight days of London.

Washington, Jan. 17.—William Wallace Downey, a member of the firm building Emperor William's yacht, called at the White House to-day. It was decided that the launch shall occur at 10.30 a.m., Feb. 25. FOUND FROZEN STIFF.

Rochester, N. Y., Jan. 17.—A special from Clyde says: "The body of a well-dressed man, aged 40, black hair and mustache, was found at 7 o'clock this morning, one mile west of Clyde, on the New York Central track, frozen stiff. The right arm was cut from the shoulder and the right leg at the hip. An envelope found on his person was addressed to P. J. Tierney, George Block, Syracuse, N. Y., also a slip of paper bearing the address, 'Mrs. De La Barre, 435 S. Salina street.' The indications are that the man was struck and killed by a train. It is possible that he fell from a train on route to Syracuse."

IN JUNE

Mr. Pardo Says the Premier told him the Elections are Then to Take Place.

T. L. Pardo, M. P. P., was in the city to-day. He said that had he known that the city would not let the flag which he presented be raised in honor of Archie Campbell's election that he would have paid the livery hire for a rig to go out to his home at Cedar springs and get the flag that is there. "I purchased the flag that I have at home for the city," said Mr. Pardo, "but it was a little short, so I got another and this one myself. I'll put it up yet when I go home and give Archie a little honor on the Lake shore." Thus did Mr. Pardo console himself. Asked as to when the elections would be Mr. Pardo said he had no heard anything this year, but Premier Ross had told him last year that the elections would take place in June this year. The present session promised to be short.

IN RALEIGH

The Dreadful Stomach
Two Children at School Entertainment.

Toronto, Jan. 17.—Raleigh township, Kent county, is the latest smallpox centre. There was an entertainment in a Raleigh Sunday school on Christmas Day, attended by two violinists, who, while they fiddled, spread the disease. Dr. Bryce this morning approved of steps to close the public schools in the district, and to vaccinate the children. At French River and Byng Inlet, where there were serious outbreaks, conditions are now much improved.

HAS NOTHING TO WITHDRAW

Government Stands by Mr.
Chamberlain in his Recent Remarks.

Angered the Germans—"Col.
Lynch to be Arrested if he Lands on British Soil.

London, Jan. 17.—Right Hon. A. Balfour, the Government leader, replied in the House of Commons to-day to a question in regard to the recent speech of German Chancellor Von Bethow on the Edinburgh utterances of Chamberlain. Mr. Balfour declared that in official conversation, Lord Lansdowne had pointed out to the German ambassador that Mr. Chamberlain had made no charges of barbarity against the German or any other army. In the opinion of the government, nothing was required to be said, either in the direction of qualifying or withdrawing the remarks of Mr. Chamberlain.

Replying to another question, Mr. Balfour said "Col." Arthur Lynch, the recently elected member for Ballyway, said to have fought on the side of the Boers, would be arrested immediately after landing on British soil.

SATURDAY, JAN. 18.

A GIDEON NEEDED IN SOUTH AFRICA.

"Look here," said the Retired Farmer, on his way home from church, "what Great Britain needs in her war in South Africa is a Gideon—that's what she needs. A Gideon. I ain't much on drill, and I don't pretend to know much about war, but I'm familiar with the seventh chapter of the Book of Judges, and I begin to think there was a good deal of generalship in the way the Almighty taught Gideon to defeat the Midianites."

"How did he do it? Well, Gideon had 32,000 men with him, and a big majority of them had no taste for the job at all. Men of that kind ain't no use. They just get in the way. Acting on the Lord's advice, Gideon says to them: 'Any of you fellows what's afeared or wants your discharge, or wants to get off on furlough, or to go home for the social season or to take in the county championships, why you can go.' And 22,000 of them went."

"That left 10,000. But that was too many, and so they went to a river to drink, and 300 of them scooped up water in their hands, and drank it standing, with their eyes peeled for any of the cuts-burgers of Midia who might be sniping at them from the kopjes. Three hundred drank that way and the other 9,700 lay down on their stomachs and took it easy—and that settled it—they were told to loiter back home."

"Mind you, if you'll examine Judges vii, you'll find nothing is said about some of 'em havin' vials an' orderlies gettin' water for 'em with silver goblets. The officers lay down on their stomachs just like the men, but yet weeded out because they loved their ease, and sent home. That's the point."

"What's needed in South Africa is a Gen. Gideon. He'll call his 200,000 men up and he'll tell all of 'em that want to go to Cape Town to go—then he'll sift out from the rest the men who really mean business, and he'll make these 300 live by the sword. Then he'll tell the others: 'Now, you go way back and sit down in them chain of blockhouses and stay there. All I want of you is that you'll keep in doors and not get took by the Boers. If your golf ball gets hit out of the barbed wire enclosures, let 'em go, but don't follow 'em. We'll get 'em for you when we come back. Be sure and lock the doors at night.'"

"Then he would start out with his picked men, and these Gideons would round up De Wet like a breachy steer, and the whole thing would be over in no time. There's no use tramping around with a mighty big army that don't know what to do with itself—an army so big that it keeps Kitchener busy unfolding it and rolling it up again. I may be wrong but I ain't."

THE DANGERS OF GREAT CAPITAL.

Henry George, who lectured in Toronto recently, is not the first person who has questioned the possibility of building up enormous fortunes honestly. So long as the limit of individual wealth was a million or two there was no very great amount of complaint at the methods of the colossal money, but that has all been changed in the last few years, at least in America, and it is a common thing now to find persons, otherwise conservative in their views, who consider men like Andrew Carnegie to be nothing short of blood-suckers. When Carnegie made the offer of $11,000,000 to the Government of the United States to found a national university, one plain-spoken editor declared that it would be more to the point if he sought out the impoverished workmen who had labored in his factories and made restitution to them of the ill-gotten gains which by every privilege of right and justice belonged to them. Many others gave utterance to similar opinions and it is plain that there are a great number of persons in the United States who would repudiate with scorn any sympathy with anarchistic or even with socialistic doctrines, who yet think that a man cannot accumulate two hundred millions of dollars in his own hands without resorting to wholesale cheating and robbery.

Without going into that question, it may very well be doubted whether it would be for the good of mankind for Mr. Carnegie's example to be followed to any considerable extent, or, indeed, whether Mr. Carnegie himself, allowing him every credit for sincerity and singleness of purpose, would not have been more good to the world if he had been content with a competency and had passed it on to his heirs in the customary manner. It seems a dangerous thing for one man to have the absolute control of such enormous capital as two hundred millions of dollars and to be able to dispose of it, if the whim should seize him, to the unsettling of the best interests which it sustains. Mr. Carnegie says that it is a shameful thing to die rich, but it matters little how a man dies in comparison with how he lives, and if men like him would only rest satisfied with moderate fortunes during their lifetime and would refrain from taking advantage of the circumstances which enable them to divert to their own coffers the wealth which should be distributed among many people, there would be no danger of their living or dying disgraced, nor would there be any need for millionaires to give their money to the extension of education or to any other charity.

Wonder if West York is about to send West Elgin 'way back and sit down? We do trust that the coronation will be able to proceed in some way without the presence of the great Kaiser.

George H. Phillips, the Corp King of Chicago, is financially down, owing to a slump in rye. He is not the first who has suffered financial embarrassment through the going down of rye.

Perhaps it is just as well that we do not know Mr. Ross' thoughts on the subject of prohibition, muses the Hamilton Spectator. The chances are that they are not fit for publication in this great family journal.

Robert Mantell has been in Galt, Ontario, where he appeared in a new play, entitled Hamlet, and that enterprising journal, the Reformer, gives its readers a lengthy description of the plot of the play. It seems to be quite interesting.

We observe with considerable anxiety that that unequalled master of English, Goldwin Smith, has written, "None have a greater interest than the working class," etc. There will be trouble in store for Prof. Smith when this comes to the attention of Barrister Martin and Herr Marx.

On Wednesday Mr. Whitney asked Mr. Ross when the bill respecting the sale of intoxicating liquors would be introduced, and Mr. Ross, the statesman, replied, "As soon as we are ready." That was taken as a joke by the "Liberal" members, and there was much laughter.

Whitelaw Reid, the editor of the New York Tribune, has been appointed by President Roosevelt to represent the United States at the coronation of King Edward. The appointment ought to be satisfactory to Great Britain; but there is some disappointment in the United States that ex-President Cleveland was not chosen. Of course no objection could have been taken to him had he been chosen, but the memory of his conduct in the Venezuelan matter would probably make somebody else more acceptable.

THE SHEEPSKIN FIDDLERS.
Captain Morrison, D. S. O., in Ottawa Citizen.

The decision of the officers of the Governor-General's Foot Guards to substitute a fife and drum corps for the bugle band, so much in vogue with Canadian regiments, is possibly a "lesson of the war." Most of the British regiments have fife and drum bands, and as producers of good music, when properly trained, they are far superior to a bugle band, and equally effective for marching to. Many a comfortable bivouac on the field was cheered of an evening by the delightful music of the fife bands playing the quaint old melodies which, in some instances, date back in the service several hundred years. Some poet has sung:

To the wars without music; on a journey alone—

As typifying that which is uncongenial and distasteful to gregarious humanity, and he was not far out. The British war office cut nearly all the music out of the present war except the bagpipes and an occasional fife band, and the deprivation told severely on the spirits of the men at times. War is gloomy enough and men need the cheering influence of music at times as much as the more material comforts of bully beef, hard-tack and

Catarrh

The cause exists in the blood, in what causes inflammation of the mucous membrane.

It is therefore impossible to cure the disease by local applications. It is positively dangerous to neglect it, because it always affects the stomach and deranges the general health, and is likely to develop into consumption.

Many have been radically and permanently cured by Hood's Sarsaparilla. It cleanses the blood and has a peculiar alternative and tonic effect. M. J. McDonald, Trenton, Ont., writes: "I had catarrh, my system was weak, blood was bad, and my liver torpid and inactive. I tried many medicines without benefit until I began taking Hood's Sarsaparilla. This medicine has completely cured me and I highly recommend it to all sufferers."

baecy. When a Highland regiment was cheered a whole division with its music and many a miserable awakening at reveille was mitigated by the jaunty strains of Hey, Johnny Cope! The Canadian soldiers, at least, will always cherish a warm corner in their hearts for the "pipes" in recollection of the old veldt days. One advantage of the fife bands is that the instruments can easily be carried by the soldiers even when the duty of the hour turns bandmen into stretcher-bearers and units in the fighting line.

NOW IS THE TIME

Seasons change. We can't change them. We can't prevent the coming of cold and damp airs.

But we can prevent the sore throats, the coughs, colds and lung troubles by taking Scott's Emulsion. Nothing does more to make the tender throat tough. Nothing gives such strength to weak lungs.

Don't take risks—when it's easy to be safe. Now is the season for taking Scott's Emulsion in season.

Monotonous Tones.

If voices were cultivated toward expression in speaking as well as in singing, the variety of tone would be very agreeable to the listener. Many people find the monotonous tone used in ordinary conversation very irritating and would have with delight any method which would tend toward breaking this tiresome sameness. Even variety of tone does not save this monotony from condemnation. It is like striking one key of a musical instrument over and over again. The teaching of elocution should be of aid in this direction or the practice of reading aloud, striving to give proper expression to each sentence.

International Bible Lesson for Tomorrow—The Early Christian Church—Acts II, 37-47.

Thousands of Jews heard this sermon, under the power and direction of the Holy Spirit, and were consecrated—just as men are to-day in like circumstances. Peter's answer was on the line of his own experience. Contrast his sermon to Cornelius' and Paul's answer to the jailer. No longer the Kingdom of Heaven is at hand, but the Holy Ghost is at hand. Notice the difference between Jew and Gentile here and in Acts 19th chapter. The one receives the Spirit after baptism, the other before; but both must be sealed by the gift of the Holy Ghost. Notice that those of the early church were filled with love and were steadfast, persistent, regular, attentive to teaching, and in commemorating the Lord's death, and He added to them day by day those that were being saved. Are we filling these conditions?

ASTHMA CURE FREE!

Asthmalene Brings Instant Relief and Permanent Cure in all Cases.

SENT ABSOLUTELY FREE ON RECEIPT OF POSTAL

WRITE YOUR NAME AND ADDRESS PLAINLY.

There is nothing like Asthmalene. It brings instant relief, even in the worst cases. It cures when all else fails.

The Rev. C. F. Wells, of Villa Ridge, Ill., says: "Your trial bottle of Asthmalene received in good condition. I cannot tell you how thankful I feel for the good delivered from it. I was a slave, chained with a putrid sore throat and asthma for some ten years. I saw your advertisement for the cure of this dreadful and tormenting disease. Asthma, and thought you had overspoken yourselves, but resolved to give it a trial. To my astonishment the trial acted like a charm. Send me a full-size bottle."

REV. DR. MORRIS WECHSLER, Rabbi of the Cong. Bnai Israel, New York, Jan. 3, 1901.

Gentlemen,—Your Asthmalene is an excellent remedy for Asthma and Hay Fever, and its composition alleviates all troubles which combine with asthma. Its success is astonishing and wonderful.

After having it carefully analyzed, we can state that Asthmalene contains no opium, morphine, chloroform, or ether. Very truly yours, Rev. Dr. Morris Wechsler.

Avon Springs, N. Y., Feb. 1, 1901. Dr. Taft Bros. Medicine Co.

Gentlemen,—I write this testimonial from a sense of duty, having tested the wonderful effect of your Asthmalene, for the cure of Asthma. My wife has been afflicted with spasmodic asthma for the past 12 years.

Having exhausted my own skill as well as many others, I chanced to see your sign upon your windows on 130th street, New York, I at once obtained a bottle of Asthmalene. My wife commenced taking it about the first of November. I very soon noticed a radical improvement.

After using one bottle her Asthma disappeared and she is entirely free from all symptoms. I feel that I can consistently recommend the medicine to all who are afflicted with this distressing disease.

Yours respectfully, O. D. PHELPS, M. D.

Feb. 5, 1901. Dr. Taft Bros. Medicine Co.

Gentlemen,—I was troubled with Asthma for 22 years. I have tried numerous remedies, but they have all failed. I ran across your advertisement and started with a trial bottle.

I found relief at once. I have since purchased your full-size bottle, and I am ever grateful. I have family of four children, and for six years I was unable to work. I am now in the best of health and am doing business every day. This testimony you can make such use of as you see fit.

MINER FROZEN TO DEATH.

Vancouver, B. C., Jan. 16.—News reached here to-day from Nelson, of the sufferings of three miners and death of a fourth from exposure in the mountains 50 miles west of Nelson.

On Jan. 4th, J. P. Stevens, W. G. Thomas, S. Rockaway and M. Wall started across the mountains to a claim. Before night they became lost in drifts of soft snow, on the mountain top. They missed their way and spent three days in the extreme cold and biting wind of the worst blizzard on record in that section.

On the fourth day Stevens and Thomas managed to reach a camp and at once sent back for Rockaway, who had been left exhausted on the trail. He was found frozen to death.

Deceased was born and brought up in Harwich and was one of the best known and most highly respected residents of the Township, and his death will be deeply regretted.

MRS. STERNAMAN AGAIN.

Albany, Jan. 17.—Seward A. Simons and Wallace Thayer, of Buffalo, this afternoon argued before the Court of Appeals in the action of Olive Sternaman, first convicted and then acquitted of a charge of murdering her husband, against the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company to recover insurance on her husband's life.

In the beginning of the action Mr. Simons, who appears for the insurance company, set up the defence of murder, but when Mrs. Sternaman was acquitted the defence was changed to breach of warranty.

The decision in this case will be important, as it will determine the liability of insurance companies for the action of their agents.

It will be remembered that Mrs. Sternaman was tried at Cayuga, on the charge of poisoning her husband and was found guilty, but securing a second trial, was acquitted.

BATES AGAIN

Ridgetown Boy Made a Straight Score in the Grand Canadian Handicap.

Harold D. Bates, the young Ridgetownian, who three years ago won the Grand Canadian Handicap in this city, again performed the trick at Hamilton yesterday. Bates was also the winner of the Grand National, representing the championship of the United States, in 1900. In yesterday's event, he was the only man, out of a field of fifty-one, to make a straight score of 20 birds. He shot from the high limit, 32 yards, only one other man, Fanning, of New York, being so far back from the traps. Arthur Bates, brother of the champion, killed 16 birds in this event.

The Ridgetown shooters made the following scores in the other events: Ten live birds, Scane 10, Bates 8. Twenty targets, Bates 20, Scane 18. Twenty targets, Scane 17.

Twenty targets, Bates 14. Twenty targets, Bates 10, Scane 15. Twenty targets, Bates 17. Fifteen targets, Bates 13, Scane 11. Ten targets, Bates 9.

Tomato Trouble

As no doubt you will all remember, the tomato crop last year was very poor. Not only here but all over the country the same shortage occurred. In Baltimore (the centre of the canning industry in the United States) tomatoes are now worth $1.25. Our market here has gone up but more slowly. We think it would be wise for housekeepers to have a little stock on hand. Tomatoes may not go much higher here but at present it looks very much as if they would.

The residents of St. Clair street are complaining of the way in which the new St. Clair sewer was put down. They allege that the intake was not properly trapped and that an unbearable odor escapes. There is no allegation about the odor. It is material if invisible.

The W. C. T. U. held a very interesting and instructive session Thursday, at the residence of Mrs. John Henderson. A large number were present and two new members were added to our number. Subjects of interest were discussed. At the close of the meeting light refreshments were served by our hostess.

Mr. and Mrs. S. C. Walker have returned from Florence, where they have been attending the funeral of Mr. Walker's mother, the late William Walker. Other relatives who were present were Mr. and Mrs. Lyons, of Pentonville, Michigan, and J. C. Walker, of Brampton.

W. A. Shillington, of Red Deer, Alberta, is spending a few days with relatives in the Maple City. Mr. Shillington is an old Chatham boy, having left here about twenty years ago and took up a farm in Alberta. This is his first visit home since he left for Alberta. He is much taken up with the country where he now lives, and thinks it is one of the finest districts in the world. He reports that he finds a wonderful improvement in Chatham, but would not wish to return.

Why don't the people who write those letters sign their names to them? Now, here is somebody who goes on with a lot of fault finding, and signs himself as ratepayer, or citizen or anything else, as much as to say, "Don't tell anybody, as I don't wish to be named." Letter writers, sign your names, let your light shine, and don't be afraid to back up what you say with your names. Don't be a coward and hide behind the editor's back, for he has enough to take up his time without your rag chewing.

Today's Growler.

Thames Lodge, No. 101, Sons of England Benefit Society, held its regular weekly meeting last Monday evening, Bro. W. A. Moore, W. President, in the chair. Six committees reported. Bro. Thomas Hughes, Sr., and Bro. Harvey not so well. The officers for the ensuing year were duly installed by the district deputy, Bro. J. J. Cousins, assisted by Bro. H. Horstman. Great work is expected from the newly elected officers, but they must have the assistance of the members to make the work a success. Good inducements are offered to the Brothers bringing in new members. Don't forget the meeting every Monday night in the A. O. U. W. Hall over the Public Library.

T. C. Macnabb was in Detroit yesterday and went to the Grand Scottish concert given by the St. Andrew's Society of that place to commemorate the birthday of the great Scottish poet, Robert Burns. The concert was given in the Light Guard Armory, which has a seating capacity of 8,000, and Mr. Macnabb states that there was not a vacant seat. The special attraction of the evening was Miss Jessie MacLachlan, the great Scottish singer, who appeared in this city a short time ago. During the concert Dr. Johnston, the president of the Society, presented Miss MacLachlan with a gold badge of the Society set with diamonds, at the same time giving a very fitting reply. Mr. Macnabb said great enthusiasm prevailed, Miss MacLachlan being encored every time.

A CHATHAM MOTHER

Speaks Warmly in Favor of Baby's Own Tablets and says She Thinks They Saved Her Baby's Life.

Mrs. R. J. Latham, of this town, says: "About three weeks ago my baby was very sick. His tongue was coated, his breath offensive, and his stomach so weak that he could not retain any food whatever. He had vomiting and diarrhoea for four or five days, and grew very thin and pale. We gave him medicine but no good came of it until we got Baby's Own Tablets at Powell & Davis' drug store. When I first began to give him the Tablets he seemed to be near death's door. After giving him the first dose he began to improve, and in four or five days he began to gain flesh and was quite well again. I am more than pleased with the Tablets. I think they saved my baby's life."

Baby's Own Tablets are good for children of all ages, and are the only medicine for little ones. Sold under an absolute guarantee that in all cases, neither opiates nor other harmful drugs. These Tablets cure all the minor ills of little ones, such as indigestion, sour stomach, constipation, diarrhoea, allay the irritation accompanying the cutting of teeth, break up colds, simple fevers, etc. Crushed to a powder or dissolved in water they can be given with absolute safety to the youngest infant. Mothers will find a cure in every Tablet.

ALD. COWAN EXPLAINS.

Ald. Cowan has asked The Planet to point out that in his remarks at the city council on Monday night regarding the police and police commissioners, he had no intention of reflecting unfairly upon the members of the police force.

"The matter came up," said Ald. Cowan, in his explanation, "over the appointment of humane officer. I thought the Mayor in his capacity as one of the police commissioners should make a motion to the effect that the police be requested to look after the duties of humane officer, so as to avoid the extra appointment. I did not intend to reflect upon the police in any unfavorable way."

"What I did say concerning the commissioners I am quite willing to repeat at their meeting: 'I have received the best qualities and shall accept it. The criticism I intended to pass upon them was that they did not meet regularly and transact business, that the Mayor was only notified of one meeting during the year, and that Messrs. Houston and Bell did the business in a hole-and-corner way that would not be tolerated on any civic committee.'"

"I did not intend to convey the impression that what they did was not right, but criticised the irregular and unbusiness-like way of doing it, which was surely an alderman's right."

INTERESTING TO ATHLETES, TRAVELLERS, CYCLISTS, ETC.
Grove Villa, Bromar Road, Denmark Park, Gentlemen—

I scarcely know how to express my thanks to you for the great benefits I have derived from the use of Kelpion. Being an all round athlete, I have, of course, experienced some bad sprains and bruises, but my late mishap at football, which resulted in a partial dislocation of the knee, was certainly the most serious.

For five weeks I have tried various embrocations, but to no purpose, except peeling the skin off, and making my leg smart. A friend then advised me to give Kelpion a trial, which I did. In three days my knee was considerably improved, and at the end of two weeks it was as well as ever, and quite strong enough to permit of me resuming cycling, etc. I shall certainly rely upon Kelpion for the future.

Several of the Borough Polytechnic Harriers have also expressed to me their high opinion of the ointment, having made good use of it while training for their big race. They say that but for it several of them would have been too footsore to compete. Yours truly,

Mrs. Joseph Young, Division Street, Welland, Ont., says: "I have suffered from backache and kidney trouble for four or five years. All the old feeling of cracking and creaking in the base of the head is gone and I feel like living again. I can work now with comfort, and go up stairs fast with no trouble. I am only too glad to recommend them to everyone. I used to be afraid to turn over at night and could not sleep now I am not afraid at all, and I can sleep well."

THE COURIER OF THE CZAR

By Jules Verne

There in the midst of the crowd she had seen all. Not a cry had escaped her when the blade, white with heat, passed over the eyes of her companion. She had the strength to remain motionless and silent. A providential inspiration told her to preserve herself still free to guide the son of Maria Strogoff to the end which he had sworn to attain. Her heart for the moment ceased to beat when the old Siberian fell lifeless, but a thought soon restored all her energy.

"I will be the dog of the blind man," she said to herself.
After the departure of Ivan Ogareff Nadia had hidden in the shade. She waited until the crowds left the plateau. Michael Strogoff, abandoned as a miserable being to be feared by no one, was alone. She saw him drag himself as far as his mother, bend himself down to her, kiss her forehead, then raise himself up and grope for light.
Some moments later Michael and Nadia, hand in hand, had descended the steep hillside, and, after having followed the banks of the Tom as far as the extremity of the town, they happily passed out by a gap in the fence. The route for Irkutsk was the only one that struck eastward. They could not make a mistake. Nadia rapidly pulled along Michael Strogoff. It was possible that early next morning, after some hours of orgies, the scouts of the emir, throwing themselves again on the steppe, would cut off all communication. It was then of the utmost importance to outstrip them and to reach Krasnoyarsk before them, which was 600 versts separate from Tomsk—in one word, only to leave the highway as late as possible.

The next morning, twelve hours after their departure from Tomsk, Michael Strogoff and Nadia reached the town of Semilovskoe, after a journey of fifteen versts.

CHAPTER XIV.

MICHAEL STROGOFF and Nadia had left Semilovskoe about two hours when Michael stopped suddenly.

"Is the road deserted?" he asked.

"Without a soul on it," replied Nadia.

"Do you not hear some noise behind?"

"Truly."

"If these are the Tartars, we must hide ourselves. Look well."

"Listen, Michael!" replied Nadia, ascending the road, which diverged some paces to the right.

Michael Strogoff stopped an instant alone, stretching his ears to listen.

Nadia returned almost immediately and said:

"It is a vehicle. A young man is leading it."

"He is alone?"

"Alone."

Michael Strogoff hesitated for a moment. Ought he to hide, or ought he, on the contrary, try the chance of finding a place in his vehicle, if not for himself, at least for her? For himself, he would be content to rest his hand on it and would push when needed, for his legs were far from falling him, but he felt that Nadia, dragged on, for since the passage of the Obi—namely, for more than eight days—was at the end of her strength.

He waited. The vehicle arrived soon at the turn of the road.

It was a very dilapidated vehicle, able to hold at most three persons—what is called in that country a kibitka.

The kibitka was usually drawn by three horses, but this one was drawn only by one horse, with long hair and a long tail, but its Mongolian blood affirmed strength and courage.

A young man conducted it, having near him a dog.

Nadia at once saw that this young man was a Russian. He had a sweet and phlegmatic appearance which inspired confidence.

Moreover, he did not appear to be in the least hurry. He walked with a quiet step in order not to overdrive his horse, and to see him one could never have believed that he was following a route which the Tartars might cut off at any moment.

Nadia, holding the hand of Michael Strogoff, stood on one side.

The kibitka stopped, and the driver looked at the young girl, at the same time smiling.

"And where are you going in this fashion?" he asked her as he looked pleasantly round.

At the sound of his voice Michael Strogoff said to himself that he had heard it somewhere, and without doubt it was sufficient to cause him to recognize the driver of the kibitka, for his face at once became serene.

"Well, now, where are you going?" repeated the young man, addressing himself more directly to Michael Strogoff.

"We were going to Irkutsk," answered the latter.

"Oh, my good man, do you not know, then, that there are many, many versts between this and Irkutsk?"

"I know it."

"And you are going on foot?"

"On foot."

"As for you, it's all right, but the miss?"

"She is my sister," said Michael Strogoff.

goff, who thought it more prudent to give this name again to Nadia.

"Yes, your sister, my good man. But, believe me, she will never be able to reach Irkutsk."

"Friend," replied Michael Strogoff as he drew near, "the Tartars have robbed us, and I have not a copeck to offer thee, but if you will take my sister near you I will follow the carriage on foot. I will run if it be necessary and will not delay you one hour."

"Brother," cried Nadia, "I do not wish it! I do not wish it! Sir, my brother is blind!"

"Blind?" said the young man in a voice moved with emotion.

"The Tartars have burned out his eyes," answered Nadia, stretching out her hands as though to implore pity.

"Darned your eyes! Oh, poor, dear man! I am going to Krasnoyarsk. Well, now, why do you not mount with your sister into the kibitka? In sitting a little closer we shall hold each other up. Besides, my dog will not refuse to go on foot. Only I do not go fast in order to spare my horse."

"Friend, what do they call you?" asked Michael Strogoff.

"I am called Nicholas Pigassoff."

"It is a name that I shall never forget," answered Michael Strogoff.

"Well, then, mount, my good blind man. Your sister shall be near you at the back of the car; I in front to conduct. There are some good hunch back and some barley straw on the bottom. It's like a nest. Come, Serko, give us room."

The dog jumped off without much asking. It was an animal of the Siberian breed, with a gray hide, medium size, with a good, large and caressing head, and which appeared to be very attached to his master.

Michael Strogoff and Nadia in an instant were installed in the kibitka. Michael Strogoff had stretched out his hands as though to search those of Nicholas Pigassoff.

"Is it my hands you wish to press?" said Nicholas. "Here they are, my good man. Shake them as much as you like."

The kibitka was soon in motion. The horse, which Nicholas never struck, ambled along. If Michael Strogoff did not gain much in rapidity, at least new fatigues would be spared to Nadia.

And such was the exhaustion of the young girl that, rocked by the monotonous motion of the kibitka, she soon fell into a sleep that resembled an utter prostration. Michael Strogoff and Nicholas as well as they were able. The compassionate young man was much moved, and if a tear did not escape the eyes of Michael Strogoff in truth it was because the red-hot iron had burned them dry.

"She is pretty," said Nicholas.

"Yes," answered Michael Strogoff.

"These darlings would be strong for their age, but they are really only weak. Do you come a great distance?"

"From a great distance."

"Poor young folks! It must have hurt you much when they burned your eyes."

"Very much," said Michael Strogoff, turning as though he could see Nicholas.

"Did you not cry?"

"Yes."

"I also should have cried. To think that one can never see again those he loves! Anyhow they see you. That is perhaps some consolation."

"Yes, perhaps. Tell me, friend," demanded Michael Strogoff, "have you never seen me anywhere before today?"

"You, my good man? No, never."

"It is because the sound of your voice is not unknown to me."

"Do you see?" said Nicholas, smiling.

"He knows the sound of my voice. Perhaps you ask me this to learn whence I come. Oh, I am going to tell you. I am coming from Kalyvan."

"From Kalyvan?" said Michael Strogoff.

"Well, then it is there that I met you. You were at the telegraph office?"

"That may be," answered Nicholas.

"I lived there. I was employed as telegraph operator."

"And you remained at your post to the last moment?"

"Eh! It is especially at that moment one ought to be there."

"It was the day when an Englishman and a Frenchman, rubies in their hands, disputed the turn at your wicket, and when the Englishman telegraphed the first verses of the Bible?"

"That, my good man, is possible. I do not remember it."

"What! You do not remember 'I never read the dispatches when I transmit. My duty being to forget them, the shortest way is to be ignorant of them.'"

MISS BROWN'S FRIEND

A Hamilton Young Lady is Very Grateful for a timely Word of Advice and Persuasion.

Dyspepsia is no respecter of persons. Old and young, rich and poor, suffer alike with this dreadfully painful and distressing disease. There are few men and women to-day who do not suffer more or less from Stomach Trouble in some form, and much of the woe of children is due to the very same cause.

Miss Maggie Brown, of Hamilton, Ontario, suffered for six years with Dyspepsia, which combined with fearfulness and nervousness, made her life one of much pain and misery.

The foremost physicians treated Miss Brown but were unable to do anything to relieve or cure her. They pronounced her case one of the very worst forms of Dyspepsia and absolutely incurable. She tried many medicines but without any benefit and she was constantly getting worse and worse till she had given up all hope of ever being anything but an invalid.

A friend of hers who had used Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets with success persuaded her to try a treatment of this remedy, and to her surprise her headaches gradually disappeared and the other unpleasant dyspepsia pains as well.

In a short time she was completely restored to perfect health and strength and has not since then had any return of the headaches or other symptoms of Dyspepsia.

Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets used according to directions will do for any dyspeptic what they did for Miss Brown and her friend. They instantly relieve and permanently cure all Stomach troubles and Digestive irregularities.

Last Saturday Mr. Barclay, section foreman at Erieau, met with a very serious accident, just after leaving his home at Erieau, and was killed by a quantity of provisions, he was thrown from the jigger into a culvert. On being picked up they found his leg broken, and his body badly injured. Dr. Story was sent for and the injured man taken into Mr. O. Hardy's farm house. Later in the day he recovered sufficiently to be taken to his home at Erieau—Blenheim News.

Walkerville is about to lose an important industry. Last winter the plant was destroyed by fire and a settlement between the match company and the insurance company has not yet been effected. Some few months ago the debris of the old works was cleaned up and it was rumored that the company would rebuild immediately on the old site. Now it is given out on good authority that the company will shortly erect a factory in Essex. Inducements have, no doubt, been offered the company to move there—Tilbury Times.

On his way home from the Mayor's banquet last Friday night, one of the newly elected councillors discovered a shop door open. Thinking that robbers had entered the building, he immediately hid himself to the power house in search of the night watchman. He arrived almost breathless, so great had been his haste, and together with the night officer, immediately set out to capture the supposed burglars. Armed with clubs they entered the building and with the aid of a lantern searched in every nook and corner, but no poor burglar was found. Fortunately for the councillor, the night watchman was present to verify the facts, or some of his friends might think that he had been drawing heavily on his imagination. The duties of public office with its consequent strain, is responsible for many peculiar things.—Blenheim Tribune.

CHRISTIAN COURTESY

The Most Beautiful of All the Royal Family of Graces.

ABSTAINING FROM DEFACTION

If Others Lack Courtesy That Is No Reason Why the Christian Should Lack It—Respond to Rudeness by the Utmost Affability—What the World Needs is International Courtesy.

Entered according to Act of Parliament of Canada, in the year 1901, by William Bailey, of Toronto, at the Dept. of Agriculture, Ottawa.

Washington, Jan. 12.—In this discourse Dr. Talmage urges thoughtfulness for others and shows how such a benignant may be fostered: "I Peter II, 8, 'Be courteous.'"

In an age when bluntness has been canonized as a virtue it may be useful to extol one of the most beautiful of all the royal family of graces—courtesy. It is gracious deference to the wishes of others, good manners, affability, willingness to deny ourselves somewhat for the advantage of others, urbanity. But what is the use of my defining the grace of courtesy when all know so well what it is? The botanist might say some very interesting things about a rose, and the chemist might discuss about water or light, but without ever seeing a botanist or a chemist we know what a rose is and what water and light are. Do not take our time in telling us what courtesy is. Only show us how we may get more of it, and avoid what sits in its counterfeits.

Mark you, it cannot be put on or dramatized successfully for a long while. We may be full of bows and genuflections, and smiles and complimentary praise, and have nothing of genuine courtesy either in our makeup or in our demeanor. A backwoodsman who never saw a drawing room or a dancing master or a caterer or a fold of drapery may with his big soul and hard hand, and awkward salutation exercise the grace, while one born under foreign schools, and bothered to know which of ten garments he will take from a royal wardrobe, may be as barren of the spirit of courtesy as the great Sahara desert is of green meadows and tossing fountains.

Christian courtesy is born in the heart by the power of the Holy Ghost, who has transformed and illumined and glorified one's nature. Mark you, I am speaking of the highest kind of courtesy, which is Christian courtesy. Something like it—ordinary politeness—may grow up with us under the direction of intelligent and watchful parentage, but I am not speaking of that which is merely agreeable conversation and behavior. All that may be a matter of tutelage and fine surrounding and show itself in lifting the hat to passersby and in a graceful way, asking about your health and sending the right kind of regrets when you cannot go and understanding all the laws of preference at table and parlor door, all of which is well, I am speaking of a principle of courtesy so implanted in one's nature that his suavity of conversation and manner shall be the outburst of what he feels for the happiness and welfare of others. It is a principle that will work in the next world as well as in this and will be as appropriate in the mansions of heaven as in earthly dwelling places.

Abraham, a Bible character, was a specimen of a man of polish, outside and of rottenness inside. Beautiful, brilliant and with such wealth of hair that when it was cut in each December as a matter of pride he had it weighed, and it weighed 200 shekels. He captured all who came near him. But, oh, what a heart he had—full of treachery and unkind spirit and baseness! He was as bad as he was alluring and charming.

I like what John Wesley said to a man when their carriages met on the road. The ruffian, knowing Mr. Wesley and disliking him, did not turn out, but kept the middle of the road. Mr. Wesley cheerfully gave the man all the road, himself riding into the ditch. As they passed each other the ruffian said, "I never turn out for fools," and Mr. Wesley said, "I always do." I like the proof which a Chinaman in San Francisco gave an American. The American pushed him off the sidewalk until he fell into the mud. The Chinaman on rising began to brush off the mud and said to the American: "You Christian; me heathen. Goodbye." A stranger entered a church in one of the cities and was known to stand a long while, although there was plenty of room. No one offered a seat. The stranger after awhile said to one of the brethren. "What church is this?" The answer was, "Christ's church, sir." "Is he?" said the stranger. The officer of the church understood what was meant and gave him a seat. We want more courtesy in the churches, more courtesy in places of business, more courtesy in our homes.

But heart courtesy must precede hand and head and foot courtesy. Cultivation of it should begin in the father's house. You often notice that brothers and sisters are often gruff and snappy and say things and do things that they would not have the outside world hear. Rough things are sometimes said in households which ought never to be said at all—teasing and recrimination and fault-finding and harsh criticisms, which will have their echo thirty and forty and fifty years afterwards. In the silent driven by that east wind no sweet flowers of kindness and gentility will grow. Let children hear their parents picking at each other and those children will be found picking at each other and far down the road of life will be well of one another, and find yourself in circles disposed to stand and abuse for the time as dumb as the sphinx which, though only a few yards away from the overshadowing pyramid of Egypt, has not with its lips of stone spoken one word in thousands of years.

There are two sides to every man's character—a good side and an evil side. The good side only the good and the evil only the evil, and the probability is that a medium opinion is the right opinion. Most of the people whom I know are doing about as well as they can under the circumstances. When I see people who are worse than I am, I conclude that if I had the same bad influences around me all my life that they have had I would probably have been worse than they now are. The work of reform is the most important work, but many of the reformers are falling on one evil, see not but evil, and they get so used to anathema they forget the usefulness once in awhile of a benediction. They get so accustomed to exhorting public men and representatives that they never since John Hancock in boldest chirography signed the Declaration of Independence, never since Columbus picked up the floating land flowers that showed the new world, have there been so many noble and splendid and Christian men in high places in this country as now. You could go into the President's Cabinet, or the State Department, or the house of representatives in this city and find plenty of men capable of holding an old fashioned Methodist prayer meeting, plenty of senators and representatives who would be glad to start the tune and kneel with the penitents at the altar. In all these places there are men who could, without looking at the book, recite the sublime words, as I heard during vacation at Harward, "I believe in God, the Father Almighty, Maker of heaven and earth, and in Jesus Christ," and from the senate and house of representatives during the Presidential campaign and from the surrounding offices and committee rooms, if they could hear, would come many voices responding "Amen and amen!"

Christian courtesy is especially common to those who have subordinates. Almost every person has some one under him. How do you treat that clerk, that servant, that assistant, that employee? Do you accost him in brusque terms and roughly command him to do that which you might kindly ask him to do? The last words that the Duke of Wellington uttered were, "If you please." That conqueror in what was in some of the greatest battles of the world, in his last hours, asked by his servant if he would take some tea, replied, "If you please." His last words were an expression of courtesy. Beautiful characteristic in any class. The high priest, over Claudetown during vacation at Harward, "I believe in God, the Father Almighty, Maker of heaven and earth, and in Jesus Christ," and from the senate and house of representatives during the Presidential campaign and from the surrounding offices and committee rooms, if they could hear, would come many voices responding "Amen and amen!"

KENT CHILDREN'S AID SOCIETY.

A great work can be done for children, and incidentally for the world at large, but it can be only through an intelligent widely-diffused interest and sympathy. The right of a child to a decent home and moral training should be recognized by all as a paramount and pressing claim.

The Children's Aid Society receives a government grant, although unauthorized and encouraged by special legislation, as it was considered certain that private citizens would gladly contribute to the support of such a laudable work. Membership tickets are only 25c. Money and cast-off clothing will be thankfully received by the officers of the Society. D. S. Patterson is president; M. A. Fraser, secretary; F. Stone, treasurer; and Thos. Scullard, honorary solicitor; while Dr. R. V. Bray is at present performing the important and delicate duties of executive officer. Sixteen children have been supplied with clothing during the present week.

ALMOST A MIRACLE

WROUGHT IN THE CASE OF A CHARLOTTETOWN LADY.

Her Doctor Said She Was in Consumption and Held out No Hope of Recovery—To-day She is Well, Strong and Active.

From the Islander, Charlottetown, P. E. I.

Statistics published from time to time show the number of deaths occurring throughout this country from consumption to be as great as the number caused by all other preventable diseases combined. It is, no wonder, therefore, that the medical fraternity has at last awakened to the fact that the most urgent of measures must be taken to prevent its further spread, and to teach the public that while the disease is readily communicated from one person to another, it is not necessarily inherited, though the tendency to it may be. It is therefore, of the utmost importance that people with weak lungs should take the greatest care of themselves to prevent consumption obtaining a hold of them. Pure out-of-door air, lots of sunshine, wholesome food and a good tonic medicine to keep the blood rich, red and pure, will enable anyone to resist the inroads of the disease. As a blood forming tonic, there is no medicine the equal of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. These pills are freely and fairly used, will strengthen the weakest constitution, and have cured many cases of consumption when taken in its early stages. Proof of this is given in the case of Mrs. Abram Henry, of Charlottetown, P. E. I. To a reporter of the Islander who called upon her, Mrs. Henry said:—"A few years ago I found myself growing weak and feeble, and at last I was unable to do any of my former work. I took various medicines on the advice of friends, but none of them appeared to do me any good, and two years ago my condition became so much worse that I was obliged to take to my bed, and call in a doctor, who said that my lungs were affected, and that I was going into consumption, and he told my mother, who was then in attendance upon me, that my recovery was very doubtful. I could not sit up for five minutes; my lungs pained me; I coughed severely, lost almost all desire for food, and when I did eat I found it difficult to retain food on my stomach. I fell away in weight from 148 pounds to 100 pounds, and I do not think I began my taking one pill a day, for my stomach was very weak, but I was soon able to increase this to three pills a day, and finally as my strength was increasing under their use, I took nine pills a day. The change which came with the use of these pills was little short of miraculous, so marked and rapid that inside of two months I was able to get up, and I was able to leave my bed and move about the house, and soon after I was able to walk about in the open air and make short visits to my friends. On one of these occasions I met the doctor who had attended me, and he asked me what I had been taking that had made such an improvement. I replied that I had been taking Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and he said 'all right, continue them; they won't hurt you anyway.' Well, I continued taking them until I had used seventeen boxes, and I was well, and I never felt better than I do now—not even in my girlhood days. It is more than a year since I stopped taking the pills, and you can see for yourself that I am well. I tell you, too, that my weight was increased to 137 pounds. I am not anxious for publicity, but when I think of what the pills did for me, I feel that I am addressing my own feelings for the benefit of some other poor sufferer."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have produced such remarkable cures as the above, because they cure wholly like ordinary medicines, which only go direct to the root of the trouble, making new, rich blood, and giving increased vitality with every dose. In this way they cure consumption in its early stages, also such diseases as paralysis, rheumatism, St. Vitus' dance, heart trouble, neuralgia, dyspepsia, chronic erysipelas, and all the functional troubles that make the lives of so many women miserable. The genuine pills are sold only in boxes bearing the full name of Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

A pretty bodice of grey velvet has a tucked yoke with a blouse front. The blouse part is covered with a coarse applique. The new bishop sleeve is very tight as far as the elbow. WHACK AT IT Characteristic Comment of Member for East Kent on His New Legislation Bill.

The Toronto Star, in speaking of John Lee's bill in regard to the votes of mariners and railway men, says:—"John Lee, in a week's experience as a Parliamentarian, is showing great mobility in adapting himself to the ways of the Legislature, and has got to the stage already of giving notice of a bill which he proposes to introduce."

His bill aims at amending the Election Law. Employees of railroads ought, he thinks, be given a good show to mark their ballots, and he proposes to give them the privilege of going to a returning officer or justice of the peace any time within forty-eight hours before election day and making a declaration as to which candidate they wish to vote for, such declaration to count as a vote.

"It isn't right, you know," said the stalwart Mr. Lee this morning, between puffs of a cigar in the Parliament corridor. "I don't know whether I can stop it or not, but I am going to try a whack at it anyway."
