PARIS STRIKE NOW BEGUN

The City Covered With Troops as If In a State of Siege.

Government Fully Prepared to Combat the Men's Tactics.

Not Many Left Work But the Trouble Will Spread.

Paris, May 12.-Paris to-day resem bled a city in a state of siege. During the night troops took possession of the central post and telegraph stations, and at daylight squade of infantrymen were picketed around every branch office. The streets are being patrolled by the mounted Republican guards; all exposed telegraph lines are being carefully watched and soldiers have been introduced even into the sewers of the city to prevent the cutting of wires. These precautions were taken to protect all the postal employees who are willing to work and to prevent the threatened "sabottage" or destruction of property. Furthermore, 500 military telegraph-ers and several hundred automobiles the number who have abandoned work is comparatively small. The first two deliveries of mail were effected without the aid of troops, but the distribution of the newspaper mail was not attempted. At the strikers' headquarters there are evidences of great activity, but at the same time much secrecy prevails. The leaders content themselves with Faxing that the strike has only begun.

The leaders content themselves with saying that the strike has only begun, but they are confident it will spread rapidly and eventually tie up the entire machinery of the Government.

In the Provinces the tactics adopted by the government here are being repeated. The various post-offices were encircled by cordons of troops at daylight to-day. The postmen of Lyons and Bordeaux last night voted to join their Parisian colleagues.

The press generally reproaches the Chamber of Deputies for its cowardice yesterday in postponing a vote on he postal situation, thus throwing the entire responsibility on the government. It is understood, however, that Premier Clemencean preferred non-parliamentary Clemenceau preferred non-parliamentary action for tactical reasons, first, to force the postmen to open battle, and second, to permit the government to put its measurement. liament in the position where it will be compelled to approve or abandon the government in the midst of the crisis.

Instead of trying to replace the rail-road mail clerks who have gone out, let-ters are being sorted before they are placed on the trains, in accordance with a system previously worked out. The authorities claim that methods for maintaining communications with the maintaining communications with the provinces with the aid of local commerprovinces with the aid of local commer-cial bodies have everywhere been per-fected and are ready for instant applica-tion. In some sections they are inaugur-ating an automobile service covering dis-tances of from 100 to 200 miles having been arranged. The places of the strik-ers will be filled automatically. Toward noon to-day eight strikers were arrested while trying to enter the contral hureau. while trying to enter the central bureau ancy is the first city where the telgraphers and telephone operators went

London Wants Hamilton to Take in Detroit Trip.

(Special Despatch to the Times.) London, Ont., May 12.-At a meeting of the Grocers Association it was decided unanimously to recommend the forms tion of a Provincial Association and the matter will be taken up with Toronto, Hamilton and other grocers at once. The annual picnic will be held at Detroit on June 23 and 24, and Toronto and Hamilton Asociations will be invited to go with 12,000 Londoners in special C. P. R. train. Rise in wheat prices was discussed, but it was unanimously decided not to advance flour prices.

Rev. S. H. Sarkissian was present and gave a brief account of the conditions in 1896 during the last massacres in the East. He told of the suffering endured by the widows and orphans, as most of the slain were men. Many took refuge in caves, where they died of starvation; others were sayed by the timely material help from saved by the timely material help from saved by the timely material help from America and Europe. There was a moment's pause, during awful thrill of horror running through her.

She was facing the great French window, and she heard, or fancied she heard, a sound as, if someone had turned, or tried to turn, the handle.

For a second she stod spell-bound, staring with distended eyes at the window; then to her horror she saw the curtains wave to and fro, and the doropen.

Moved by an instinct more than anything else, she blew out the candle, and darted behind the heavy curtains which

If an attack was being made upon the castle, it was her duty, it would be a delight to outwit the ruffians and save the marquis' property from the thieves. How should she do it? How could she give an alarm sufficient to rouse some one before her presence was discovered by the burglars and the alarm prevented?

Next there came the sound of a match being struck, and she knew that he was lighting a candle. The footsteps then passed her, as if they were returning to the window.

At that moment, rather than remain, Constance would have risked the chance of discovery and fled from the room. But the man stood immediately facing her place of concealment, and the slightest movement on her part would have been detected by him.

A few minutes passed—they seemed hours to her terrible suspense—and then the marguis returned.

Constance fought hard for calmness, but staggered slightly and would have fallen if he had not held her so tightly. He put his arm around her and supported her.

"You were? Where were you? Do not be alarmed," and he smiled; but it was an awful smile in Constance's eyes.

"There behind those curtains," she replied. He did not start nor express my surprise, but seemed to be grasping the situation.

"Yes, yes," mumbled the man, evidently in considerable fear himself. "I never said, never thought—you brought me here, guv-nor."

"I sought you, and brought you here, because you were hard up—"

"Starving." put in the man, humbly and earnestly.

"And I do not choose that you should starve. No man can say that I ever turned my back on one who had done a service. No man shall ever say so."

JOAN OF ARC'S ORIGIN

This munuscript contains the following entry:

"1401. Ferrane Ghisilieri fled from Bologna when Giovanni Bentivoglio became master of the city and usurped power, and to escape the anger of the tyrant he went to France, where he had two children in 1424."

Manifestly this sentence is not sufficient to prove that Joan of Arc was one of Ferranes two children, but Signor Scarlatti supplies what is lacking. He explains that Ferrane settled at Domremy with his wife Isabelle and that as in his family coat of arms there was an arch, "arco" in

Que le sang de Ghisilier
Some years ago a fresco representing a kneeling girl clad in armor, over which she wore a pilgrim's hood, and bearing a standard with the red cross of Bologna, was discovered in the Church of St. Petronius. The figure has been identified as Joan of Arc and it was painted in 1445. This discovery completes the evidence that Joan of Arc was of Italian origin.

The projected golf match between two well-known amateurs and a leading member of the London Stock Exchange well-known amateurs and a leading member of the London Stock Exchange for a stake of £500 recalls the famous foursome in which the Duke of York, afterwards James II., took a prominent part on the Leith links in the year 1682. It was really an international contest, in which the Duke, with John Patersone, a golfing shoemaker of great repute, championed Scotland against two noblemen of England, a heavy wager depending on the issue. The Duke and the cobbler had an easy victory, thanks largely to the man of the last, and John Patersone's share of the stakes was so substantial that he was able to build a goodly house in the Canongate, in a wall of which the Duke caused a stone to be placed bearing the Patersone arms with the motto, 'Far and sure,' a tribute to the cobbler's driving powers. Patersone's house, we understand, survives to-day.—From the Westminster Gazette.

INTERESTING DPFDS. Among Them a Morbid Horror of Dirt with at least an outward show of respect.

The modern method is different. The fad for making light of sickness has driven the doctors to show us that they have all the time been secretly making light of many of our cherished lils. They knew we were victims of our own imagination and they treated that imagination in their own shrewd way. We haven't had anything like the diet of drugs we thought we had.

A New York physician, writing in the Ecclesiastical Review on the general subject of scruples, tells some of the interesting classes of such cases which come under the doctor's care. There are, for example, the people who have a morbid horror of dirt. They fear especially to soil their hands or face and will wash themselves over and over again, ten, twenty, even thirty, times a day. Whenever they touch anything they wash their hands.

They frequently so rub the skin off them that they become sore aind develop various forms of artificial dermatitis because of the mechanical removal of the epidermis and the irritation of soap and water. No amount of reasoning will keep them from doing this. It may be pointed out to them that most people enjoy quite good health without any such solicitude about cleanliness, but that makes mo difference to them.

Some of the women who are afflicted with the affection would not think for a moment of touching a door knob; they make all sorts of excuses to wait for somebody else to open the door. Often they will not confess their unwillingness to touch an object that is handled by so many people. At the door of a store they will find some excuse to pause a moment until someone else opens the door.

They would not think for a moment

They sometimes put themselves to considerable discomfort and inconvenience by refusing to touch the railing of a boat or railway station or the balustrade of a porch or even a house stairway. Disposal of Old Magazines.

There are so many magazines now-adays, and they do accumulate to some such an appalling extent, that it is sometimes a problem to know what to do with them. We may save one magazine for binding. We are hardly likely to save more than one. What of the rest? There is always a good story in the current number which we had to throw away, an article on a subject about which we are collecting information.

One person known to the writer has collected quite a reference library from magazine sources. When he finds an article which pleases him, or which he considers valuable, he cuts it out and puts it away in a manila envelope, with the title, author, magazine and date of eppearance writen on the front. This is not a great of trouble if done at the time, although it is an endless task to go through whole piles of old magazines. The envelopes are all of uniform size, and are kept on the low the shelf of his bookcase, out of sight. They are big enough for the average magazine pages to lie out flat. As the pile grew, their owner began to keep them in alphabetical order, as much as possible, according to title. He has now several things of great value and interest which have gone out of print, and a great deal more accessible and more convenient than it could other-

CURE FOR BILIOUSNESS.

This is the time of year when many people complain of biliousness. This means that during the winter months most of us are on a pretty heavy diet of meats, gravies, puddings, etc., and that we have kept it up too long.

A good cure is to go to a lighter diet, with more of the fruits and vegetables and less of the meats, sweets and fats. Try this, together with plenty of outdoor air and exercise, and your case of biliousness will soon disappear.

GUELPH FAIR. City Council Decides to Finance Erection of Buildings.

(Special Despatch to the Times.) Guelph, Ont., May 12 .- After allowing he matter to hang fire until it looked as though the building would not be er as though the building would not be er-ceted this year and the fair would be lost to Guelph, the City Council, at a special meeting last night, put through the tenders for the extension to the Provincial winter fair building, and now the only thing that camping by done only thing that remains to be don the financing of the scheme. The city as put through the tax rate, without llowing for the finances and some oth er scheme will have to be devised. The er scheme will have to be devised. The tenders have been let at the conclusion of over a year dilly-dallying between the government and the city. The building originally was to cost $30,000, but the final tenders have been left at $47,000. The Government originally gave $20,000 and the city $10,000. Later the Government added $5,000, and the trouble has nent added $5,000, and the trouble has been to raise the balance. Without taking a by-law to the people, for there is not time to get the work through, the Council has decided to put the building through and to raise the money by some means, believing that the fair is worth the price to the city.

Pasteurization, if properly done, would destroy all the germ life in milk, but in most instances it is only lalf-way done, and much of the germ life is liable to remain. In such a case it only prevents the milk from curding, and so gives the consumer no warning when decomposition begins. Then pasteurization, even when properly done, often causes such ailments as scurvy.

PAYING FOR THE MUSIC.

Naturally the new British budget with its increase and readjustment of taxation to raise the additional revenue ecessary to pay old-age pensions and to carry out the large naval programme before the country, is the cause of much discussion. There are those who declare that taxation has reached a point beyond which it cannot pass without destroying the sources whence it is And, of course, those most immediately affected are most severe in their denunciation of the new imposts.

The income tax changes produce much clamor. In 1848 when Lord John Russell proposed to raise the revenue required for the greater navy then demanded by increasing the income tax such a storm of opposition that the budget was again and again revised; the naval programme was cut down and the income tax was allowed to remain at 7d, in the pound. The income tax has since that time increased to 1s, in the pound on unearned incomes and 9d. on earned. Mr. Lloyd-George now proposes to increase the tax on uncarned incomes to Is. 2d., and on earned insupertax on unearned incomes of $25,-000 or upwards, or over 8 per cent.! Looked at in that way the new burden appears large, but the Chancellor does think that to take a revenue of $15,000,000 by such a super-tax from an accumulated capital wealth estimated at between fifty and sixty billion dollars

To the grumblers against the new taxation the Chancellor replies that they should be the last to complain. The necessity for increased revenue has been one of their making. The wealthy landforce the Covernment's hand. Through their newspapers and their representatives in Parliament these classes have called loudly for a great increase in the navy-for an even greater increase than has been decided upon by the Government. But people who call for eight or ten Dreadnoughts in one year must remember that each one of these engines of destruction costs $10,000,000, and that they thus belong to the class of luxuries which cannot be had for the asking, and paying the piper.

A computation has been made of the national income, which allots it as fol-

$8,750,000,000 Large as are the British taxes on income, the very wealthy find it difficult to discover a country to which they might fly to better themselves. In Prus sia not only is there a higher rate lev jed on unearned incomes, but there is supplementary tax on landed proper ty, on mining property and on capital enerally. The same taxes in various forms are levied in most of the other German States, In Italy there is a 20 per cent. tax on incomes from capital as against 10 per cent, on incomes from commerce and industry, and 9 per cent. on incomes from labor alone. Even in Spain the principle of differentiation is applied, the taxes varying from 5 to 10 per cent, on salaries due to personal exertion, to 20 to 25 per cent. on salaries derived from property. And so on nations seem to be eagerly seeking for

The new death duties, however, may exceed the paying limit. At present When above that amount the excess is 13 per cent, on estates of $3,000,000; 14 per cent, on estates of $4,000,000, and on every $1,000,000 above that 15 per cent from the English death duties is derived from estates whose values range from $5,000 to $50,000. About 4,000 estates each year, taking a long series of years. pay the bulk of the inheritance taxes and have a net principal value of $50. class Already the death duties show It is not unlikely that the increase of the impost on moderately that will not be without show of reason

WHERE SENSE IS FLOUTED.

It is almost astonishing to note the lengths to which blind partisanship and centempt for the intelligence of its readers will carry the Toronto Telegram. The dispenser of paretic drivel is at his best in double-column black type, which seems to give him an importance quite beyond the matter or manner o his subject. He argues that, if Whitney's whims run counter to the constitution and the Dominion policy, Whitney must be deferred to. Therefore Conmee's Ontario & Michigan Power Co bill, although it deals with an international navigable stream, and could not be passed by the Provincial Legislature. is a gross violation of Provincial Rights: while Smythe's bill, similarly dealt with by the Federal Parliament, but promoted by a Tory and supported by the Tories, is a laudable measure, properly for federal jurisdiction! It "f-i-g-h-t"-relentless and unceasing fight, against federal aggression. course it must be aggression-if the promoters of the measure are not Tories!

It declares that "the Ontario Legisla ture must use its taxing power in such way as to make it impossible for a Dominion corporation to live in this pro vince." and it asserts the power of On tario to impose punitive taxation so a to "tax Mr. Conmee's company off the face of the earth." All of which is very terrible-in sound. But we have heard spanked children whine and say nasty things before; and we have seen "big stick" bills which remain to make laughing stocks of their sponsors. The Telegram will find it difficult to get such measures fathered nowadays; and if they were passed, no court would en fore them. What is the regular tipple in the Telegram sanctum now, anyway?

AN APPEAL FOR HELP.

The awful massacres re ported from that quarter have shocked the world, and the appeals sent out by the missionaries for aid have aroused wide sympathy. The sub been opened at the Bank of Commerce and contributors are assured that their donations to the fund will be wisely placed so as to do the most good.

THE PARIS REBELLION.

The French postal employees have roted to go on strike, with the purpos of coercing the Government; and their leader, a discharged employee, threatens leave Paris to-day. The postmen are counting upon the support of the General Labor Federation, a pro volutionary organization, and hope to paralyze railway traffic and hold up all electric services. The debate on the situation has been adjourned until May 13, action to minimize the evils and disstand taken by the Government may prevent the incipient rebellion from leaders in the movement threaten to put like a caddy to tote them around. the wireless system of communication if any move is made in that direction the criminal law will speedily be myok resort to violence in the carrying out of ts plans it is probable that the action of the authorities would be prompt and decisive. Clemenceau is firm in his de termination that the government of the people, and by the people, shall rule; and it is hardly to be doubted that the good sense of the nation will be found supporting him in this attitude.

He drew an amusing picture of the predicament of a certain tribe in the extreme east of Asia, who, if the meridian were strictly adhered to, would find one-half of their village in Tuesday and the other half in Wednesday, (Laughter.) "I can imagine," he continued, "a villager smoking a pipe for the whole day, with one foot in Tuesday and the other foot in Wednesday. This would happen if we adhered strictly to the meridian. We must have mathematical accuracy tempered with common sense. We must regard the people's feelings and relieve them from the intolerable daily fight as to the proper day, and-so, we took the date line and pushed it overboard into the Behring Straits, and gave them Wednesday allover the country." Continuing, Sir Robert, mentioned an Alaskan difficulty as to which day was Sunday. The question was referred to the bishops, who, after deliberation, told the people to keep both days. (Laughter.) The meridians were given to be used in conformity with time when it suited human convenience, he declared. Meridians were made for man, not man for the meridians. (Laughter.) ### CURED IN TWO MONTHS BY CUTICURA REMEDIES

"I first became affected with a dry, scaly humor which was pronounced dry eczema by three leading physicians. It commenced on my legs and arms, and finally covered the greater part of my body. I suffered for about three years. My scalp around the edges of my hair was a complete ring of scales and crusts. The disease was more disfiguring than can be imagined, and heat and perspiration caused my flesh to be as if on fire and I could not keep my hands away from it at times. I was given salves and medicine repeatedly by each physician, and advised to wash frequently in soda and water, but nothing cured me. Then I read of the wonderful Cuticura Remedies and decided I would try them, and I am glad to state openly that by constant use as directed for two months I am entirely cured. I used two cakes of Cuticura Soap, three boxes of Cuticura Soap, three boxes of Cuticura Ointment, and the same number of bottles of Cuticura Pills. "SHADOWS OF A GREAT CITY."
At the Grand Friday and Saturday the popular price melodrama "Shadows of a Great City," will again be seen. It is twenty odd years since the late Joseph Jefferson and L. R. Shewell wrote the play and produced it a McVicker's Theatre in Chicago; yet it is as strong a drawing card to-day as it was then. Four years ago the management surprised the people by introducing a river of real water in the play. It proved one of the best effects of its kind ever put on the stage. In addition to all that they are now giving a magnificent dison the stage. In addition to all that they are now giving a magnificent display of electrical effects, moving clouds, a rainstorms with real water, together with numerous other big scenes. "Shadows of a Great City" was always given at high prices previous to that time. Now it comes to us on a more elaborte scale than ever, and at popular prices.

QUESTION OF LABOR.

To the Editor of the Times:

Sir,—With your kind permission I would like to say a few words through the medium of your valuable space, so that it may be heralded throughout the length and breadth of the British territories. The reason I request your permission to do so, is because I would like to know who is who, or which is which? You, as well as every other Britisher, or one of that boasted origin? After taking a peregrination around this city, and while doing the rounds of the same, to toke a peep into the various workshops or factories, and at the same time take particular notice of the national. and while doing the rounds of the same, to toke a peep into the various workshops or factories, and at the same time take particular notice of the nationalities of the employees engaged in the several manufactures, and last, but not least, just for a joke take observations of the public works or street railway department, and satisfy yourself if those individuals who hold on to the pick and shovel speak your language. Then take a right about turn and gaze on the side-walk, and you will see hundreds, who do speak your language, huddled together, and perhaps the majority of those clamoring with hunger. For the want of employment, which is the only known remedy whereby those unfortunate old country sparrows, as they are termed out in this land of the aimighty dollar, can find the means of being able to provide themselves with the necessities of life, so as to be able to keep body and soul together. And yet they are denied the privilege of doing so. And for why? Well, there is only one definite conclusion: The boasted Britisher, or any other sensible thinking person, can arrive at, and that is, that the fighting history of Great Britain is only a dream, and her sons have been wrongfully informed. So let us for once have a little of whatsems to be the truth. I think it must read something after this fashion: Who was it that stormed the heights of Alma, captured the Redan, took part in that never-to-be-forgotten charge of Balaclava? Well, it must have been the Italiata-Armenian-Hungarian (stand aside, ye British!). Who was it that accompanied General Havelock in the relief of Ladysmith? They also stood to a man to their guns, and obeyed the order of General Sir Redvers Bufler at the relief of Ladysmith? They also stood to a man to their guns, and obeyed the order of General Wolfe on the heights of Quebec. Is it npt-true that—those-Italians, Armenians and Hungarians responded to the call of General Brock and drove the Yankees from Queenston Heights and over the Naigara River? And, again, they once more threw down thei "AN ENGLISHMAN'S HOME."

A set-tlement was made for the pair and in the ninth year of their marriage a child was born to them. Shortly af-terward the newly-made father got into trouble. He took some wheat out of his father's bins and appropriated it to his own use. Fearing the old man's wrath he ran away. His wife thought that her husband would only remain separated long enough for his father's displeasure to soften and eight days were set apart as the prob-able time for this. But the eight days, the weeks and months went by and it was eight, vears before tidings. and it was eight years before tiding

ARNAUD DU TILH, and the rest were uncertain. Most of the witnesses agreed in describing Martin Guerre as taller and darker than the accused, slenderer in body and limb, round-shouldered, with a high, divided nose, pendant lower lip and squat nose, having the trace of an ulcer on the cheek and a scar on the right eyebrow. Arnaud, the accused, was short and stout, having neither humpy shoulders nor squat nose. But all those marks referred to as belonging to Martin Guerre were present on the face of the accused! A shoemaker also deposed that the dimensions of Martin Guerre's foot exceeded by one-quarter that of the accused! It was further swords man and wrestler. The prisoner was neither. About forty persons swore that the accused actually was Martin Guerre. Among them were his four sisters, with the husbands of two of them. A great number asserted that Guerre had two teeth in the left lower jaw broken, a deep past of extravasated blood in the left eye, the nail of the left forefinger missing, and three warts on the left hand, one being on the little finger. All these marks existed in the accused! It

The value of circumstantial evidence in determining the guilt or imposence of accused persons is a topic of great interest from time to time. There can be no doubt that from time to time great injustice has been done by the taking of circumstantial evidence, and in the following stantial evidence, and in the following article two historic examples are given. Either would supply a fitting theme for the author of "Sherleck Holmes."

With regard to dissimilarity in height and stature, it was urged that there was nothing remarkable in the boy of disappearance returning in many years, a stocky man, that the matter of height was something witnesses might easily be mistaken in, and that of necessity great changes had taken place in the appearance of Guerre during his long absence. Lastly, the prisoner's apparently inexhaustible familiarity with family records seemed to show that it was ily records seemed to show that it was absurd to claim him to be an imposter. The new trial would have undoubtedly resulted in an acquittal had not a re-markable incident taken place. The veritable Martin Guerre himself suddenly came into the court room and demanded to be heard!

He proceeded to denounce the impos he proceeded to denounce the impos-ter and gave his history. Then he de-manded to be confronted by him. This being done, the accused did not appear to be in the least abashed or frightened, but began to arrogantly cross-examine the of his wife's family. And it is not so much wonder, since the traveller bore the identical marks of the person of Martin Guerre and moreover was familiar with bits of family history such that only the genuine Martin could have, apparently, known. At any rate the deserted wife accepted the newscomer with all fonders and in the course of three years presented the supposed Martin Guerre with two children.

While being led to the scaffold he sew William Katt in the crowd. Declaring his innocence, Baxwell stepped over toward Katt and said, "My friend, in one minute I shall be in eternity. I wish to die in peace with all men. Give me your hand. I pardon you freely for the terrible injury your evidence has done me."

Baxwell said this with some composure, but the effect on Katt was striking. He became pale as death, and could not conceal his agitation.

The merchant mounted the scaffold, and the last details were attended to by the executioner.

HUNTING SEA ELEPHANTS.

Sport or Business With Elements of Danger.

An occupation with few followers is the hunting of sea elephants, which are found in great but rapidly decreasing droves in the Antarctic regions, especially on or near Kerguelen Land.

"In November, the beginning of the mating season," writes Capt. Cleveland in Hampton's Magazine, "the male and female above the season."

female elephants drag themselves into the beaches, where they lie in great pods. I have seen as many as seventy-five or a hundred massed in such a bunch. This is also the shedding season, and the animals rub the hair from their thick hides in preparation for the new coat.

"The females and the young have no distinguishing trunk; and the trunk, the mark of the elephant, grows upon the male only after he has reached the age of three years. It is really scarcely a trunk; it is more like a flabby snout and is only about fifteen inches in length. It elongates when the animal gets excited.

This formidable looking, money yielding brute is often confused with the walrus, which as a matter of fact it resembles only in size. Its two rows of teeth or tusks—those of the bull—are between six and seven inches long in front, and grow shorter toward the back of the jaws. The tusks do not project like those of the walrus. The largest elephant I ever encountered was sixteen feet in length and six feet high at the shoulders.

"The sea elephant has large eyes, surmounted by huge brows. Its forward flippers, two in number, are armed with five nails each, but the aft flippers have not even rudimentary nails. The animal when on shore moves with a hobbling, rolling motion, its whole body quivering like jelly, but it navigates the water with almost the agility of an eel. It feeds on cuttlefish and mollusks, "When you stop to think that the cuttlefish of tropical waters sometimes attains a weight of two tons, you will realize the prowess of the sea elephant and the strength of its jaws.

"Having feasted for many months upon these grim delicacies of the deep, the bull elephants hobble out on to the beaches and in the mating season engage in fierce battles, 'This formidable looking, m ly; while it the male is killed first the females take helterskelter flight.

"The chief danger attending the killing of the sea elephant is in approaching too near its terrible jaws, which are capable of biting in two an iron rod the thickness of one's finger. The hunter, however, must get pretty clese, as the thick hide and blubber have rendered the animal practically impervious to attack, the only vulnerable point being a snot the size of a walnut above each eye, "Careiess hunters have at times got within reach of the brute's teeth and have escaped only by dexterously wriggling from their clothes. I had occasion once to shed my coat with great agility, one of the smaller beasts having caught me by the sleeve."

Carpets for the New Home

THERE'S NOTHING produces so much pleasure in life as the planning and careful choosing of the new furnishings for the home. Hundreds of June brides each year find this store a good place to buy their carpets. There's a reason, and it is this, that every yard of floor covering in this store was carefully chosen with respect to its choice design, suitable colorings, and above all, its excellent quality to give the satisfaction we say it will. Of course, we are not infallible, but we are persistent and experienced, and have unusual facilities and no end of energy in working to get only what is the right thing.

Axminsters

Linoleums

The aristocrats of Carpetdom. Spring stock arrivals brought us the finest range we've ever had in these beautiful Carpets, both in richness of color, effect, and artistic design. In many things one must sacrifice either beauty or long wearing quality, but not so in these Axminsters. The soft, perfectly blended colorings, the deep velvety pile, endow them with all the attributes of luxury and their splendid wearing quality makes them-at this store's price-one of the most economical Carpets possible to buy. Prices per yard-

The Great Principles of "Confidence and Integrity"

Enter into the very bone and sinew of this business, a part of the real fibre of the plan and its execution. By confidence we mean that when you enter this store we want you to feel that whatever you buy will be and do all that we claim for it and that the price you pay is the very lowest that article can be sold at. This ca nonly be accomplished by strict "integrity" on the part of those with whom you do business.

We carry, amongst others, such famous lines as Nairn's and Barry, Ostlere & hepherd's. Some of these are making Linoleum for the British Admiralty for on the warships of the navy. Surely if these factories can turn out an deum that is chosen by such authorities for such strenuous need no stronger recommendation for the people of Hamilton and neighborhood. need no stronger recommendation for the people of idamilton and neighborhood. The patterns are here in floral designs to resemble a carpet, or Dutch tiles, or regular block patterns. Prices for Inlaid Lindeum, which is made with the pattern going right through to the canvas at the back, at 75c, 85c, 81.10, and 81.35 per yard. Printed Lindeums, which are made with the pattern on the surface, in 2 yards, 3 yards and 4 yards wide, at 40, 45 and 50c per yard. Oilcloth in all widths at 25c per yard. We call your attention to the large number of patterns which resemble oak flooring, and which makes excellent and inexpensive borders for rugs. This costs no more than staining the floor, and in many cases the patterns are so correct, it is difficult to tell it from the real parquet flooring.

You See Only the Outside of What You Buy

We see both outside and inside before we buy and in many matters we watch and direct the process of making so that in the test of service to which each article ultimately comes you may find appearance not shamed by reality. It is this test of service by which all institutions are measured and by this record of good service we expect to prosper and grow. Your own experience of this sicre year after year is your own best evidence of this store's usefulness to you.

Unquestionably the richest showing in the history of this store. To the rug stock we direct you with pride and assurance, firm in the knowledge of a success well accomplished. Never were we so well supplied, nearly 200 differently patterned room-size rugs. Imagine such a variety and then that only as samples of the entire great collection. Rugs of every worthy kind with all the newness of coloring and pattern, and the prices how tempting they are. Let's go quickly through and see, noting quality as we go. Seamless Axminsters, the monarchs of all, rugs of beauty and service, from $28 to $50. Wilton rugs, an excellent grade of unusual color and pattern beauty, from $30 to $60. Brussels Rugs, woven of fine worsted, $15 to $25. Velvet Rugs, seamless and resembling the Axminsters in attractiveness and beauty, $19 to $28, and Tapestry Rugs, heavy and durable, excellent patterns, for little money, $8.50 to $15.50. Note the special prices quoted from the rug department in another column of this ad.

For inexpensive Carpets—nothing like a Tapestry—especially in this line of Balmoral quality, which is equal to the best Brussels when it is put to the of real serviceability.

HIS LAST DAY.

Murderer Blythe to be Hanged in Toronto To-morrow

He is Penitent and Reconciled to His Death.

Toronto, May 12.-Walter Blythe, the Agincourt section man, who beat his ife with a stove poker so that she died, will hang on Thursday.

The Cabinet in Council at Ottawa had the matter of a reprieve under con sideration yesterday, and despatches are to the effect that the decision was to let the law take its course

The murder took place on January 3 near Agincourt. Blythe was sentence on February 11th by Mr. Justice Riddell. The execution was fixed for Thursday next. The hour has been set at about 8 o'clock. It will take place in the room at the pail set apart for the purpose. Hangman Radeutte will officiate.

made himself well liked by his guard at the jail, where he has been confine since the death sentence was imposed. He chats with them or with Governor Chambers whenever they come to see him or to bring him his meals. He has frequent talks with Rev. Canan Farncomb and with Rev. John Bushell, who find him intelligent and ready to converse with them on spiritual matters. He speaks freely of his crime, and has persisted in saying since his sentence that he remembers everything up to a certain point, and then there is a period wherein everything seems blank. He says that he can remember distinctly starting the row, but cannot remember the actual killing.

The letters which he receives from his family in England would indicate that he is really and control to the control of the contr nce the death sentence was impose

The letters which he receives from his family in England would indicate that he is well bred. These come regularly from his mother and from his sisters and brothers. They are without bitterness, particularly those from his mother. They all regret the crime, but counsel him to be ready in case a reprieve cannot be secured.

Blythe smokes a pipe a good deal, but never since coming to the jail has he asked for liquor. He has shown no signs of breaking down under the strain of waiting, and the jail surgeon thinks

Postoffice Employees to Have Their Salaries Raised.

(Special Despatch to the Times.) Brantford, May 12.—There was joy among the staff of the Brantford post office here yesterday when the nouncement was made that the local office has now been placed on a city instead of an accounting basis as hitherto. The change makes the clerks all ivil servants, and as such they will de rive substantial increases in salary, the rive substantial increases in salary, the change was applied for many times in the past, but it remained for Mr. Lloyd Harris, M. P., to induce the Government to remove the Brantford office from the anomaly of being an accounting office instead of a city office and a large revenue producer.

HELD A DEBATE.

St. Mark's Literary Society held its last meeting of the season on Monda evening, and in spite of the inclement weather there was an excellent attend ance. The chief feature of the even-ing's entertainment was a debate: "Re-solved, that reformers have been of greater benefit to mankind than in-ventors." Allan and Charles Landing supported the affirmative side of the question, and Reginald Britton and Mrs. H. Rice the negative. Canon Sutherland, Kirwan Martin, M. A., and E. and, Kirwan Martin, M. A., and E. Vaughan Wright acted as judges. They decided in favor of the inventors, but the judges at the same time complimented charles Lancefield on the excellent way in which he had handled his subject, and expressed the assurance that in the future he would be heard in more important contests. Mr. Penny contributed to the evening's enjoyment by singing two solos in excellent style. After the conclusion of the programme refreshments were served, and a pleasant social hour was enjoyed.

Mr. Matheson then called upon Grand Sepretary J. B. King, of Toronto, to pin the jewel upon the esteemed brother's breast. Mr. King did not know of auything that gave him greater pleasure, than that of pinning the decoration upon one who was a man among men. Often such a decoration was simply a perfunctory ceremony devoid of any sentiment, but that could not be said in this instance. The Past Master's jewel was one that was worn by men worthy of 'that honor, and he could not think of a man who deserved it more than did J. B. Turner, who had had occupied all the offices in the Grand Lodge that he had been called upon to fill, with acceptance. The office was not without recompense however, and the kind words that he had received more than repaid him for the labors he had spent in the interest of the Order. The duties of the office meant a sacrifice of the leisure time of the occupant, and he referred to the aft with pride that up to his regime of 1903 and 1904 fully 30,000 members had been initiated into the Oddfellows. Mr. Turner then spoke on the objects of the order, and of the capabilities for doing good toward one's fellow man. During the year that has just passed $125,000 had been spent in looking after sick members and burying those who had passed away. Surely that was a fine record. During his term of office there passed away. Surely that was a fine record. During his term of office there had been instituted the Home at Oakville, for the older members of the order, and the wives and orphans of departed members. That was a work in which he was particularly interested, and he was more than pleased when at the last meeting of the Grand Lodge he had been appointed to the Home Board, which looked after this home.

Mr. Turner referred to his coming to this city in 1881, where he had found himself met with outstretched arms. To nimself met with outstretched arms. To the members of Crescent Lodge, Mr. Turner said that words could not ex-

Then followed a programme, in which the orehestra of Unity Lodge, I. O. O. F., played several selections; Bro. Minor sang, and a dance was given by Master Taylor; a humorous sketch was given by Martin Cleworth, Miss Marie Cleworth and Mr. W. H. Pringle, which produced with lawleter. The avening closed with

The Grand Lodge officers and some of the members of the order then adjourn-ed to the Waldorf, where a banquet was given in honor of Mr. Turner and the Grand Lodge officers. Mr. George Matheson was the toastmaster, and at the conclusion of a splendid repast the following toast list was observed: "The King."

Gongora.

I am the good shepherd; the good shepherd giveth his life for the sheep.—John x. ii.

What has the world always needed? Not the help of friends as powerless as themselves; not the frozen and uncertain precepts of philosophy; but faith that God has compassion on them, the assurance that He is pitiful and merciful, and will hear their prayer out of the dust and will help them in their sore need,—the assurance that He does not look coldiy on us from the sky, but that He looks in love; and all language is weak to express this assurance compared with the cross of Christ. The heavens might break forth into articulate voices of revelation, and they would be meaningless compared with that great sacrifice. For what is it but saying in the words of the Apostle, "He that spared not His own Son, but delivered Him up for us all, how shall He not with Him also freely give us all things?"

lawn.

If the ground is na rally wet and a little sour, an application of air-slaked lime is good to spread on at the rate of forty or fifty pounds a square rod. This should be done a few days before the torty or titty pounds a square rod. This should be done a few days before the ground is to be planted. In the planting of trees and shrubs on newly made ground it is best to dig much larger holes than are necessary for the spread of the roots, and use only black soil around the roots. This gives the plants a chance to get a good start in the best soil.

LAIL CARRIER'S DOG TEAM. Their Severe Winter Route Along the

Bank of the Soo River.

Bank of the Soo River.

One of the unique sights to a stranger at the Soo is the fine dog team used by Capt. Mathews of the local post office force in the delivery of the United States mail.

Capt. Mathews has a route covering approximately twenty miles, and with the team usually covers this distance every day. The route lies along the Soo River from the post-office in the heart of the town to a small suburb called Neaseville or more poetically, after an old Indian tribe, Algonquin. Sometimes the roads are drifted so that it is almost impossible to get through, but up to old Indian tribe, Algonquin. Sometimes the roads are drifted so that it is almost impossible to get through, but up to the present time the big dogs have proved themselves equal to any emergency. In pleasant weather and blinding snowstorms alike the team has trotted on its way for the last five winters, and seems good for many more.

The dogs are named Spike and Bounce and afe almost identical in size, shape, weight and color. They are as large as Shetland ponies and weigh over 150 pounds each. They are St. Bernard and Newfoundland. Capt. Mathews hitches them side by side to a specially constructed sleigh large enough to hold himself, another passenger and the mail. In fact it will hold many more, as observing persons have noticed when the Captain leaves for the city every morning. Then there is always a merry crowd of perhaps ten or a dozen school children crowded about the Captain in the The Amateur Gardener.

The question is often asked by persons preparing the ground for the first time around a new home: What must be done to put it in proper condition to grow grass, flowers, trees, shrubs or vegetables?

Conditions which usually exist around city homes are not very favorable for either a flower or vegetable garden, or even for a lawn. Frequently the soil is mostly clay, in which case it is necessary to secure a small amount of black loam, spread it over the surface and mix slightly with the clay. The more loam used, the better immediate results. Grass and many of the shallow rooted plants will grow well in soil that is largely clay if they have a chance to get a good start in the loam.

To enrich the mixture of loam and clay, some fertilizer should be added.

SHOOTS WIFE AND HIMSELF.

Bodies Lying Across Oae Another Found in a Bedroom.

Man Had Been on Long Drunk and Was in Ugly, Fighting Mood.

Once Ran a Place in Buffalo Married Only Short Time.

North Tonawanda, May 12.—Charles F. Dier shot and killed his wife and then blew out his own brains here this morning. When the bodies were discovered they were lying across one another on Mrs. Ida Wilson's bed, at No. 142 Oliver street. The bodies were found late, but the murder and suicide had been done between 9 and 10 o'clock this morning.

Mrs. Dier came here from Buffalo year ago. She was then Mrs. Anna E. Brooks Clarke, She had been running place at No. 51 East Genesee street, a place at No. 51 East Genesee street, Buffalo. She had been running the Oliver street place, the Kage Hotel, nearly a year, when she met and married Dieron March 23rd last.

Dier was a blacksmith. Before the marriage hed too, a had lived in Buffalo. In fonawanda he followed his trade at the Buffalo Pump Works. He had been a widower and is survived by a son, Charles Dier, of Niagara Falls, and a sister. He boarded with the woman before the marriage. Mrs. Dier is survived by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Brooks, of Chippawa, Canada. The Mrs. Wilson in whose bedroom the murder was done, had been Mrs. Dier's cook for 25 years.

During the last two weeks Dier had been drinking hard. On closing the hotel shortly before 2 o'clock this morning the man and woman had a fierce field.

hard day's work, went to Mrs. Wilson's room to sleep.

Dier arose this morning at his usual hour and immediately left the hotel. He returned at 9 o'clock, encountered Mrs. Wilson in the bar and hurled a beer glass-at her. Then he went upstairs. Nothing more was seen of him till he was found dead. The people at the hotel thought he was in his room sleeping off his drunkenness.

Mrs. Wilson went to call Mrs. Dier, and finding the room locked and obtaining no answer to her knocks, had the

Up to 10 o'clock not a body had been recovered, but it was believed a majority of them would be located during the day by the aid of grappling hooks.

While no official explanation of the accident is obtainable, the cause assigned last night that the boat was over-crowded seems to be correct. Hundreds of persons are lined up along the river bank this morning watching the efforts to find the bodies, and among them are relatives of the men, sobbing and crying. When the first body is recovered the coroner's office will begin an investiga-

Fred Mitchell got a slashing single off the blondo twirler, and Weidy got the other two, one a scorcher between third and short and the other a bounder which was deflected by Manser's glove and rolled lazily out of his reach. The three hits all figured prominently in the run-getting, but without the passes issued by Manser they would have gone to waste. Every run of the four taken by Toronto was the outcome of a walk. ## Gossip and Comment

A good deal of interest is already being shown in the appearance of Henri St. Yves at Britannia Park next Wednesday night. It means a great deal for both Tom Coley and Percy Sellen to make a shawing against the renowned French runner, and on the other hand it means just as much to the speedy Frenchman's reputation to make good against all comers, for from now on the majority of races will be at the middle distance. These are more spectacular and are not so hard on the runnition distance. The color with and on the runners. A kandsome set of cutlery in an appropriate case has been presented to Dr. W. M. Sheriff, the formidable players of the Ottawa Rugby Football Club, by the officers and players of that organization. The occasion was his recent marriage, which took place at Kingston, and the members of the club quietly took this means of testifying to the doctor's popularity. He will reside in Ottawa and will likely row in the Britannia eight this season.

Johnson has been working quietly in this city for the last week and it seems that there is sincerity behind the declaration that he wants to meet any man in the ring. He has been training with Tony Caponi and Yank Kenney, and is said to be in good condition. In the whole time I have been in contact with the big negro, I have never seen him drink to excess or do anything that indicated he was not keeping in the best of condition. So outside of the natural tendency of any large man to take on flr-sh, I do not see where he can be out of trim. No reports have come from the east to show that he was in any but.

Walker's warmest friends are the men and boys employed around his stable. His spare time is spent with them. "I do not forget that I once had to work hard," he says. After that he will take up the more serious work of preparation for his fight with Johnson, going into training on his ranch. When he actually begins work on the road and in the gymnasium, then, and then only, will the flight fans begin to think he is in earnest about fighting again. So far Jeffries has said nothing that would bind him to a match, everything hinging on whether he can get into condition or not. Theatrical exhibitions do not furnish much training for prize fighters who are over weight. It is said that Jeffries has accompanied his the attrical work with hard work in gymnasium, and that he really has succeeded in making a good start toward putting himself in condition. At any rate. DOUBT IF KETCHELL CAN BEAT JACKSON.

Says the Detroit News: The fact that stanley Ketchell, the middleweight champion, will have first chance of all the challengers to fight Jack Johnson for the heavyweight honors naturally gives rise to the question as to whether the young Michigander has the requisite qualifications for a joust with the black giant of the prize ring. According to present plans they are to meet in Colm Club on October 12 in a 20-round bout, and friends of Ketchell has only one pronounced quality, and that is aggressiveness and strength. son is afraid to take the midlewewight title holder on in an endurance contest, and hopes to win on points in a short bout.

Possibly Johnson feels that 20 rounds will be quite sufficient for him to win in, and that to lengthen the battle would be superfluous. But the white boy has the best of the argument, for he realizes that his only chance to win is by a knockout, and that the more time he has the better his prospects of success.

There is no reason to believe that Ketchell will have any more success against Johnson than Burns had. Ketchell is not so heavy as Burns and no specdier. He perhaps, hits harder, but it does not seem likely he will land with any more effect than Burns landed. The Negro is so good a hoxer and so shifty it would be a matter of luck if Ketchell got in an effective blow. The white man will Verdict of the Jury in the Hains Case.

Army Officer Who Shot Annis Faces a Prison Term.

A Motion Will be Made For a New Trial.

Flushing, N. Y., May 11.-Captain Peter C. Hains to-night faces a prison term of from one to twenty years. Despite all the testimony submitted by the defence as tending to show insanity, he was convicted late to-day of manslaughter in the first degree for killing Wm. E. Annis at the Bay-Yacht Club last August.

Quickly following the young army conviction his counsel an nounced that they would produce afnounced that they would produce af-fidavits to show that the jury had not been properly guarded during the trial, and upon this allegation will urge that a new trial be granted. These affidavits will be submitted on

These affidavits will be submitted on Monday, the time set for bassing sentence and for any motions that the defendant's counsel desires to make. The conviction of the young army officer to-day after the jury had been out less than three hours came as a general surprise. It had been expected that the jurors would deliberate much longer, and that a verdict of acquittal on the ground of insanity or a disagreement would result. No one was more surprised than District Attorney Dewitt, who had said all he could hope for was a disagreement.

Captain Hains stood up and faced the jury, squaring his shoulders in military fashion, while Foreman Sundling recited the verdict. He stood for a ling recited the verdict. He stood for a few moments motionless, staring at the jury after he heard the verdict, then one of his lawyers touched him and he quietly sat down. A few moments later, apparently little affected by the verdict, he walked from the court room with a steady stride between his two lawyers and was taken back to the Queen's country jail.

and was taken back to the Queen's county jail.

After the jury was discharged Juror Wm. Craft, of Jamaica; L. I., said four ballots were taken. On the first three ballots six voted for murder in the first degree and six for acquittal on the ground of insanity. On the fourth ballot the compromise of manslaughter in the first degree was reached. Little consideration was given to the expert testimony, Juror Craft said. They believed, he continued, that have deserved his fate, but none of them ald consider the unwritten law, and herefore the manslaughter verdict resulted.

Chartering a fine steam launch, which they aggressively labelled Dreadnoght, and putting a band on board, a party of suffragettes steamed up the river this afternoon until they reached a point opposite the Houses of Parliament, Here the boat stopped and the women attracted the attention of the members on the terraces by singing the Marseillaise.

Then suddenly there was fired from the launch a broadside of rockets. These burst above the terraces, and a regular snowstorm of hand-bills fluttered down over the watching members.

The Scotia was feeling her way in through the dense fog, when off Meagher's Beach the Allan Liner Siberian, bound to Philadelphia, lomed up out of the fog. The distance was too short for either steamer to change her course, and the result was a collision, the Scotia coming out second best, having her bow smashed and her forward bulwarks broken. The damage was all above the water line, and the Scotia had no trouble in reaching her dock. The Siberian got clear away without sustaining any damage, and proceeded on her way to Philadelphia.

Capt Reid, of the Scotia, said he was coming in very slowly, just picking out his course, when the Siberian appeared out of the fog, bearing straight across his bow. He had no time to change his course before the steamers came together.

to-day's civic inquiry. Evidence was given to show that $5,000 too much was paid for the property. The method of selling the property to the city was shown by Mr. Villeneuve, one of the leaders of the reform movement. He stated that a real estate man named Polirier had secured an option on the property, which he meant to sell to the city as a slie for the police station. Poirier was advised by Ald. Proulx to add $4,000 to the option price for their mutual profit. Part of this evidence was denied by Polirier, but the question will be further investigated when the commission meets on May 25.

The Little Green Trail.

Oh, the little green trail through the valley, Is calling me on and away,
Away from the hot, tired city,
At the close of a hard, weary day;
On and away toward the mountain,
Over the hills to a dale,

Where water from nature's own fountain Cools the moss on the little green trail.

Oh, the little green trail through the valley, Where fairies and goblins dwell, And dreamers worship in silence, To the sound of an Angelus bell; At twilight to list to the singing,

Of a soft-throated thrush in the vale,
While calm, gentle zephyrs are bring-sweet peace to the listle green trail. Oh, the little green trail through the

on, the little green trail through the valley,
That leads to the land of Forget,
Where day-dreams come true to dreamer.
And there's no such thing as regret;

MR. GRAHAM'S CROSSINGS BILL

Minister Makes a Hard Fight to Press Measure Through.

A Young Lady Startles Members by Walking Into House.

Interior Department Estimates Under Discussion.

Ottawa, May 11.-1f the Govern ment's railway crossings bill is not inscribed on the statute book this esssion the fault will not be Hon. G. P. Graham's. For five hours to-day the Minister of Railways battled valin the House of Commons for the life of the measure and the safety the life of the measure and the sate y of the public, explaining, arguing, defending amid a running fire of criticism, but the exigencies of time and other pressing business were against him, and with only one clause to be disposed of, the bill stood over. Among the amendments summitted may be noted the acceptance of the Among the amendments submitted may be noted the acceptance of the Minister of the Senate's amendment to the Lancaster bill, and the application of the act to railways meorporated outside of Canada, but owning, controlling or operating lines in the Dominion, and also to United States railways running trains to any peint in Canada. The object of the latter provision is to control the rates on the United States railways with Canadian connections, while the rates on the United States railways with Canadian connections, while the other amendment stipulates that at crossings where life has been lost or injuries caused, and where the trainway Commission has ordered protection, the consideration of the control of the Commission has ordered protection, the speed of trains shall be limited to ten miles an hour until the order of the Board has been complied with. The chief critics of the bill were Messrs. Lancaster and Lennox, who took their own legislative efforts in the same direction as their standard, and vied with cach other in the dissection of the measure. Their principal complaint was against the power given to the Commission to assess municipalities for a prosion to assess municipalities for a pro-portion of the cost of crossing protec-tion or elimination. A FAIR INTRUBER.

While the House was in Commit-tee an amusing incident occurred. Mr. Graham was on his feet, ham-mering an amendment into shape when the members were startled by the vision of a young lady marching into the chamber and down one of into the chamber and down one of the aisles to where a prominent On-tario member sat. Such an unlooked-for invasion of the sanctity of Parlia-ment so surprised the Chairman of the Committee and the Sergeant-at-Arms that they could only gaze at the fair in-truder with amazement, but—quickly the humor of the situation appealed to the members, and amidst an outburst of innocent invader turned and fled. It ap-innocent invader turned and fled. It appeared that the young lady was no suffragette, but the secretary of one of the members, whom she desired to consult on a matter of business. Knowing nothing of the rule which rigidly excludes strangers from the floor of the House while it is in session, she had ventured in where even angels fear to tread, and had not discovered her mistake until her seandalized master, in terms more emphasic than polite, bade her flee from the sactians of the seandalized than polite, bade her flee from the sactians of the seandalized master, in terms more emphasic than polite, bade her flee from the sactians of the seandalized master, in terms more emphasic than polite, bade her flee from the sactians of the seandalized master. han polite, bade her flee from the sac ed precincts. NO MORE LAND GRANTS. In Committee of Supply on the Interior Department's estimates several inquiries were made by members of the Opposition as to the possibility of further land grants to different classes.

Mr. Monk asked whether the Government had considered the claims of the arly Selkirk settlers in the west.

Hon, Mr. Oliver said there was a rowing feeling that the Government ad done all that could be reasonably whether the was a series of the control of the was a series of the control of t expected in the way of giving land grants, and his own view was that the grants made to the South Africa veter-ans should be the last.

was afraid the Minister of Finance would find that when a measure so diversified was brought down within a few days of the end of the session a few days of the end of the session it would be almost impossible to give it due consideration. Did the Minister think it wise to press the bill to a conclusion so late in the session, and was there any possibility of the Senate passing it?

Mr. Monk also thought it would be unwise to press the bill at this late stage.

Mr. Fielding said he realized that if any member felt it to be his duty to oppose the bill it would not get through. But he hoped that the House would be so well satisfied as to the eare exercised by the sub-committee of the Banking and Commerce Committee that it would be content to accept the bill. All the objections he had heard referred to one clause, and half an hour's debate should be sufficient. He hoped the Senate would accept the bill. It was desirable that the Commons at least should dispose Commons at least should dispose it this session, and it would be in-duced into the Senate next session. Then the Commons would have done its the gauge of battle and unanimously voted to atrike. There was no great enthusiasm shown, but determination and resolution to force the hands of the Government were apparent. "The Government is playing for time; we must not be caught napping," was the spirit of the meeting, as expressed by Pauron, a dismissed postman, and one of the most active organizers of the movement.

Toward the close of the meeting the Towird the close of the meeting the speakers became more and more excited in their denunciation of the Government. A caricature of M. Clemenceau was carried into the hall amid hoots and jeers, and the Premier was denounced in violent terms. "You are fighting for liberty of opinion and liberty of association," shouted M. Pauron, "and you must not resume work until you have obtained the right to unite as a syndicate,"

The railroad employees are now voting on the question of a strike. The electricians of Paris are ready at any moment to turn out every light in Paris. The bakers and the employees of the Metropolitan Railway are dissatisfied. While the situation is full of possibilities, it is believed that the strong stand the Government is new beginning to take will save it.

A permanent strike and branch committees were created and delegates were departed to the Progrates were departed to the Prograte to the Programment of the Programm committees were created and delegates were despatched to the Provinces to pursue and active propaganda to make the strike complete. The secret committee, composed of meri whose names are not made public, so that they might escape the Government's surveillance, was abolished.

Pauron assured the meeting that with the aid of M. Pataud, the electricians' leader, a way could be found to upset the wireless system. The proceedings closed with the adoption of a resolution condemning the disloyalty of the Government and binding all present to remain on strike until full satisfaction has been given.

The general opinion to-night is that the Government, with the aid of the soldiers and the co-operation of the commercial bodies, will be able to maintain crippled services. The main danger is that violence may occur and that passions may be aroused by the appearance on the scene of the General Federation of Labor.

The Paris Chamber of Commerce to-night sent out a letter to all chambers of Commerce in France with full instructions relative to a scheme for a business letter service, which is to be carried out in the event of the railroads failing, by means of automobiles. The prefects of the various departments have already arranged for these.

When "Slate" Means Slater Shoes

OBSERVE the "Sign of the Slate." On a school slate the following words -"The Slater Shoe."

That is a trade-mark worth several hundred thousands to-day.

It is widely peached upon because it is widely known as a standard of quality.

It now commands a market of a Million Dollars yearly in $4.00, $5.00, and $6.00

This is why there are so many substitutes evasively offered as "Slater Shoes"-"Shoes made by Slater"- and four other tricky ways of trading on the name and merits of "The Slater Shoe." So, -- to protect the Public we say again --No shoe is a genuine "Slater Shoe"

unless it has the trade-mark picture of a Slate stamped on it with the makers' price (this latter to prevent overcharge). Look for that Slate mark!

And, when you want a genuine 1869 Slater Shoe you can head off Smart Alecks who would trick you into something as "laters' which have never been within the Slater Shoe Factor, if you will simply look for the Slate as well as the name "Slater.

The quality of Slater Shoes is established. None but the best materials and the best methods figure in their manufacture. The Goodyear Welt system invariably used in making them insures the maximum amount of comfort and wear.

THE FIVE POLICE HEROES OF THE YEAR And How They Earned Their Gold Medals . . .

There may have been giants in the olden days, but we seem to have retained our heroes to the present. For the deeds which this year have earned our modern substitutes for the bays of ancient times include arrest in the face of firearms, rescue from drowning, stopping furious runaways at the imminent risk of death, and the pursuit of duty under no less difficulty than that of a dangerous knife stab. rous knife stab.

It is for these deeds of bravery that edals are this year awarded.

the medals are this year awarded.

The badges of courage themselves rank in different order. They are of gold, with the exception of one, the department medal, which is of iron, and is accounted the greatest meed of all. Thus, in the year 1907, no act of bravery was considered sufficient for which to award this plain iron tribute, the final prize of Finest heroism. This year a hero will present himself and get his due. After the department medal ranks the Rhinelander medal, then the Bell, after this the Meyer, and finally, but yet large lander medal, then the Bell, after this the Meyer, and finally, but yet large with honor, the Automobile Club medal. In addition to these there is yet another—that which is called the Brooklyn citizens' medal, but which has not, however, been awarded yet. Next in rank upon the official roll of courage is Policeman Edward Burke, shield No. 5, 734, one of the unmarried, who is now stationed in the seventyshield No. 5, 734, one of the unmarried, who is now stationed in the seventy-ninth precinct, but who was attached to the third sub-precinct at the time of his brave deed, the rescue of Mrs. P. Mrs. Messery was riding in a brougham, the horse attached to which took fright and collided with a hansom. The driver was thrown to the street; one of the doors was torn off. The horse, now crazy with fear, raced at a frightful speed toward Burke, who stood at the crossing of Fifty avenue and Fifty-ninth street. Burke seized one of the lines of the runaway and was dashed to the street. He was of the stuff, however, that make our policemen the greatest in the world. He held on grimly, though kicked severely several times. He was dragged a full block, but he brought that horse to a full stop. He had fractured his hip, he had ruptured his groin, but he had stopped that horse. And his gold medal now is to reward his bravery and make up for that illness of several weeks which he suffered.

It is difficult to match this sort of courage given at the call of duty alone if one instance does not that of Policeman William A. Stevens, shield No. 4,-

The condition of reading when attention is paid to these details is better spart. This was on August 31, 1908, when the Grand Republic was leaving the pier at College Point, borough of Queens, with the Timothy D. Sullivan Association on board. The boat had pushed off, when four or five men ran down the pier. She was six feet out when one of them, Edward Fisher, jumped for it. He failed and sank. Stevens, who was standing on the pier, immediately jumped, got Fisher under the arms, and, owing to the swell caused by the paddle wheels, swam with difficulty to a spile, when two others fell from the overcrowded boat.

He told both to cling to the hawser; he brought the man on the spile to the hawser. He waited till all were pulled aboard and then a fourth man was forced from the boat. He fell upon Stevens' head, foreing him beneath the water. When the brave officer appeared upon the surface he was promptly grabbed by the neck, and found it necessary to strike his man upon the face to loosen his hold. The policeman then got the late comer from behind till he was rescued. Stevens was exhausted when taken from the water, yet he reported to his station house for duty.

The final name of this ban, of the bravest as well as the finest is that of Policeman F. J. O'Grady, whose shield number is 6,227, and who belongs to traffic precinct C. It was on June 6, 1908, that a horse attached to a Brooklyn express wagon became frightened by a passing automobile while the driver was adjusting the bridle preparatory to feeding the horse in Thirty-Sixth street to Madison avenue, the driver clinging to the harness of the bridleless animal, and at the corner of Madison avenue and Twenty-Sixth street to was thrown under a wagon, the wheels of which passed over him. O'Grady started in pursuit as the runaway crossed Fifth avenue. He made an unsuccessful attempt, to catch hold of the bridleless horse, but the horse went on and tarned into Madison avenue and raced down the steep hill at whirlwind speed. It was at Thirty-First street and Madison avenue that O'Grady got his work in. He overtook the maddened horse, took lossed.

Hugh Toner Bound Over to Keep the Peace.

For threatening to murder Mrs. Mar garet Myers, Hugh Toner, 339 Went worth street north, was bound over at Police Court, to-day, to keep the peace, in the sum of $50. The complainant said that Toner, who lives next door to her, never lost an opportunity to abuse her whenever he had been drinking, which pretty often. He had intimated was pretty often. He had intimated that she was running an improper house and did not hesistate to call names significant of that at her, at such times. The statement Toner was alleged to have made, on which Mrs. Myers based her charge, was that he would put hereyes out and murder her. The defendant denied this, and said thit it was all spite work on the part of Mrs. Myers. He said that there was a fight there every night, and that they were only trying to get back at him. Miss Myers was called, and her evidence corroborated that of her mother. Charles Markle, one of Mrs. Myers' boarders, said that the language of Toner was not fit to be heard. It was so bad, he said, that he had often been tempted to take the law in his own hands, but was afraid that he would get the worst of it from the Magistrate. Truancy Officer Hunter said that for the past week Toner's boy had not been going to school, and blamed the father, who, he said, had been drinking considerably lately. Toner did not offer any defence other than saying that he had not threatened Mrs. Myers. Frances Kelly was given judgment for $8.12 wages against Miss O'Connor, 167½ King street east. Young Hazelton told the police that he ran away from his home last Saturday, and started for Buffalo, but got on the wrong freight train, and landed in Detroit. The hoy had but a few cents, and he spent all the money he had for a few buns and cakes. On Monday morning he paid out his last cent, and when he was found he was almost starved. He was given a meal, and then allowed to sleep in a cell at the police headquarters. The Hazelton boy told the police that his mother is dead and that his father is a retired man of some means. He says since his mother's death his father and he have been boarding. He had a little trouble with his father last Friday night, and concluded to run away.

This is the last time he will ever attempt to roam around the country. Hazelton says. He stated that he had had enough of that kind of a life, and will willingly go home, if his father will either come for him or send the money. The boy's father is Nicholas Hazelton. The police have notified him of the condition his son is in, and the boy will be held until the father is heard from.

Hazelton and his son lived at 223 John street south until April 1, and had since been boarding. The boy, it was stated by neighbors, had run away before, and had got as far as Texas once. I with.

HIS HIP DISLOCATED.

Norman, the five-year-old son of Har-ry Kempf, proprietor of the Germania Heldel, was injured this morning while trying to climb on a wagon. He got tangled up in the wheel and was crushed before the wagon could be stopped. It was at first feared that he was badly injured, and he was taken to the City Hospital, but an examination proved Hospital, but an examination proved that beyond a dislocated hip he had es-caped pretty well.

be sent to Alexandria, Ind., where there is reason to believe that the mysterious Marion Elliott, referred to by Florence Kinrade in her evidence, is staying. Colonel Warburton is also said to be there. Naturally the police are somewhat arnoyed at this information being made public, and apparently try to discredit it. At the same time it will be carefully investigated. As a result of the search in the south by the Pinkerton officer, who could find no trace of these people, the Crown was led to believe that they were myths—mere creatures of imagination. If they can be located it is possible that some new light in the case may be secured. It is known, too, that detectives are following another clue, which they are hopeful may bring results.

er clue, which they are hopeful may bring results.

An official of the Queen's Hotel, where the Kinrade party was registered while in Montreal, stated that the three people referred to engaged a suite of rooms there with the intention of staying some days, but suddenly decided to leave early yesterday morning. No doubt they left because of the annoyance they were subjected to by newspaper men. It is stated that their reason for going to Montreal was to avoid reporters and publicity. They had not been there long beforg one paper alone had half a dozen reporters camping on their trail.

Describing their stay in Montreal a despatch from there says:

That they succeeded in getting away without an interview with the journalists was due to the fact that the management of the Queen's Hotel made special arrangements to see that they were not disturbed.

As far as could be learned, the Kinzades activities.

cial arrangements to see that they were not disturbed.

As far as could be learned, the Kinrades retired early, Florence having spent the greater part of the evening at a piano in a private parlor of the hotel, where her mother and Wright sat with her.

They were up bright and early yesterday morning and took an early breakfast in the dining room. After the morning meal, the three went to their rooms and collected their luggage, and Mr. Wright went to the counter and paid the bill for the entire party.

The three then left by the ladies' entrance and walked across to the Bonaventure depot, each member of the party being dressed as on arrival yesterday. None of the party bought tickets, but they went directly aboard the train for the east, which might mean Portland or Quebec as their ultimate destination.

According to a despatch from Sherdestination.

According to a despatch from Sherbrooke, Que., Mrs. Kinrade, her daughter, and Mr. Wright are in Boston today, and did not go to Portland, as stated yesterday. The despatch says:

Onita a sensation was caused here to Quite a sensation was caused here to-lay by the arrival in this city of Miss Florence Kinrade, her mother and her liance, Mr. Montrose Wright. The party arrived over the G. T. R. from Montreal at 11.30 and went to the New Sherbrooke Hotel, where they had lunch. They are travelling under assumed names, and Mr. Wright registered as Norman Latchford. This was the name he used when he regis tered at the Queen's Hotel, Montreal last night. Miss Kinrade registered as Miss Latchford and Mrs. Kinrade as Mrs. Latchford. They took two rooms adjoining with a door communicating be-tween them. Mr. Wright and Miss Kin-rade went to the Union Depot this af-ternoon and made enquiries as to the first train leaving Sherbrooke. When told that the first train went west, they nquired for trains going east, and espe-ially asked about trains for the White Mountains.

The party left Sherbrooke by the B. & M. 9.15 p. m. train for Boston after spending the afternoon in the city. Mr. Wright and Miss Florence visited several places, including the Y. W. C. A. The B. & M. train was held up at Newport for one hour, but finally proceeded through to Boston, with Miss Kinrade, her mother, and Mr. Wright aboard, due to arrive in Boston at 7.30 a. m.

would not have been believed by the masses.

It was desired to impress the people with the fact that the guilty had been punished, and had the hangings not been public the people would have thought that the condemned had saved themselves by bribing officials, or that the statement of the execution was nothing more than a political lie.

Priests prayed with the condemned men shortly before they were taken to the places of execution, and commented upon the evil deeds which had resulted in their deaths. One of the condemned men spoke up and said all the priests he had talked with on the day of the so-called mutiny and the days following had approved of his action.

HANGINGS (NEEDED.)

New York, May 12.—The Rev. N. G. Papinzian, pastor of the only Armenian church in this city, who lived in Adana for fifteen years, coming from there to New York against would bring lasting peace to the region where the most serious massacres of the past few years have occurred.

The Governor of Adana should be the first to move, he said. Then some of the Armenians who have been stirring into this trouble should be executed. About a half dozen hangings would bring fifty years of peace to the tricken land. Turkey is a powder magazine and the firebrands must be put out of the way.
